HINTS FOR ADVERTISERS

When you next call The Review, 725-3571, to place a classified ad, remember that words are your business. Words properly put together in an ad mean more phone calls and more sales for you. Follow the rules below and get more and faster results.

1. Put in the address

Many out-of-town readers will write you, but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. Put in the phone number

Many readers will call you but will not find it convenient to come to your home or business.

3. Avoid use of blind boxes Avoid them if possible. They are difficult to answer and people prefer to deal directly.

4. Put in the price, by all means Surveys show that many people will not answer an ad unless the price is given.

5. Keep the readers from guessing On important details it is better to include them if they are relevant to a sale.

If you advertise your phone and address, be sure you are not absent when the ad appears so as to accommodate the reader.

Words are your tools in advertising. Competent sales help is available to assist you in writing the proper ad.

Approriations Precede Spending

By Rep. Joe C. Hanna Something new is going on in the legislature this year: a tax bill is to be passed first, before appropriations.

In the past, the tax bill has been one of the last to be presented in the sessions. It was decided it might save the state some money if the tax bill came first, and then let the appropriations committee decide which agency gets what from the money produced from that tax bill, or what ever is avail-

We believe it is better to spend within some framework, than not to have any guide when deciding on new and additional services and functions for the state to perform.

Friday, the 12th, was the close of the 60-day period for true introduction of bills.

Two observations are paramont of the legislative systems: (1) That almost without exception, bills introduced are never exactly what one would like to vote on. Each contains parts that are not to the best interest of the particular member's district. We must make the decision: "does the proposed law contain more good than bad?" With 150 men voting, this is understandable, for each would prepare a different approach to any given subject.

(2) That committees in studying the bills referred to them are thorough and conscietious. Most of these committees have 21 members and when a subject is presented before them, they can ask all the questions needed to understand the intent of the bill and who it will help or hurt. The person or persons presenting the proposal feels that he is on the witness stand being questioned by not one, but 20 district attorneys. This committee work does more to keep unwanted legislation, by amending objectionable parts of bills, than any other part of the process of making laws.

The Appollo 11 space craft was viewed by over 200,000 people. Many waited as much as three hours standing in line moon rocks. This shows the interest by the public in the space program. I was able to greet a number of people of our area who brought their interesting and educational ex-
