County's Over-65 Citizens Show Increase In Number, Power

Callahan County's over-65 population is growing in numbers, economically and politically. The latest figures show that the group has been one of the fastest growing and that its influence at the polls and in the legislature has been increasing proportionately. About 1 out of every 5 persons, locally, are 65 or older. In 1970, there were 22 million men and women in that age bracket. They represent 21.0 per cent of the population. In Callahan County, they represent 21.0 per cent of the population.

Pete Fore of Pioneer, vice-president, presided over the gathering in absence of the retiring president, Bill Hester of Tennessee Colony, Texas. Following the invocation by R. H. Marshall of Abilene, minutes of the 1974 meeting were read by Mrs. Brandon and approved. Three former teachers of the schools represented were recognized. They were Willie McDowell of Coleman, Mrs. Brandon of Sabanno and Mrs. Ethel Brown of Pioneer.

Case Of Screwworms Found Near Eula

A case of screwworms has been confirmed in Callahan County located southeast of Eula on Claude Rock's place. Screwworm cases are being found in various places and it should be a repeat performance of past outbreaks such as occurred in 1963 and 1972 if precautions are not taken, says Greg Gerngross, county agent, of Baird.

All larvae found in livestock wounds of any nature should be submitted to the Mission Screwworm Control Center for identification. Vials for submitting larvae specimens are available from the County Extension Office in Baird, plus most agriculture businesses in the county.

Brush Control Exhibit At Putnam Tuesday

A mechanical brush control field day will be held Tuesday, Aug. 19, at 9:30 a.m. four miles south of Putnam on the Farris Bennett place located on Farm Road 880. The field day is being held to show producers the low energy grubber developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Throckmorton. The main advantage of the low energy grubber is the relatively low cost of operation, according to Greg Gerngross, county agent, at Baird. Demonstration in the upper rolling plains region indicate costs at $2.00 to $5.00 per acre depending upon density of trees. Tree density on these sites varied from 20 trees per acre to 100 trees per acre. Everyone is invited to attend the field day and see this low energy grubber at work. More information on the field day can be obtained from the County Extension Office in Baird or by calling 854-1518.

School Tax Rate Remains Same; Local Costs Up

Tax structure of Cross Plains Independent School District will remain at the present level in spite of local fund assignment being doubled by the newly enacted public school finance bill. Property owners will be assessed for the 1975-76 school year at the rate of $1.80 per $100 valuation, the same rate that was assessed for the 1974-75 year. Superintendent Frank Rundell opined that valuations will be made roughly on the basis of 20 to 25 per cent of fair market. Taxes will be increased only if valuation of property has been raised by improvements or personal property added.

It was pointed out by Rundell that the local fund assignment has doubled due to the new finance method. It increased to $82,000 for the coming school year. It was also explained that the school operated in the black last year, and that surplus will be applied to this year's budget. Rundell stated, "The budget will be met and we will offer quality education". Rundell noted that Cross Plains is allowed 25 professional units, for instructors, and he explained that some positions are rated at more than one unit per position.

The best part of the new school finance bill for Cross Plains is that it is classed as a sparsely settled area, thereby allowing Cross Plains additional professional units over the number allowed under the old system," Rundell pointed out. He also explained that the ministrators, Title I, special education and vocational teachers numbers 34. Cross Plains schools will be conducted on the new quarter system, that is the school year will be broken into Fall, Winter and Spring quarters instead of the old two-semester set up. Superintendent Frank E. Rundell noted that reports to parents on student's grades will still be made every six weeks. The quarter system also requires course alteration. Some courses will run three quarters some two and others one. "The quarter system will enable the students to have a more flexible schedule and courses can be

Dogs Believed Being Poisoned In Town

Cross Plains lawmen are cautioning local pet owners about possible poison being distributed within the city. At least five dogs in the central and east part of the city were discovered during the week end and Monday, believed to be victims of poisoning. Local peace officers noted that it was unlawful to distribute poison discriminately, and if charged violators will be prosecuted. Parents with small children are being urged to be especially watchful of their children when outside. Pet owners were also being advised to take necessary steps to protect their animals.

Pioneer Cemetery received $465 to help maintain the burial ground last Saturday during the reunion of Pioneer and four other schools held at Pioneer. Mrs. Ethel Brown, secretary-treasurer of the cemetery association, explained that the total amount received was designated for two funds, and came in donations and sale of quilts and pillows. Donations to the Pioneer Historical Association, a fund set up to provide permanent care for the Pioneer Cemetery, totaled $50. Donors and respective amounts were reported as follows: C. A. Minton $20, Mrs. Henry McCoy $10, Mrs. C. E. (Alva) Lilly $10 and C. A. Minton, Jr. $10. Contributions to the regular offered which the old set up did not allow," Rundell said. Rundell said that Cross Plains will offer quality education this year. He added, "I am real enthusiastic about the coming school meeting needs of all our students." Several new courses have been added, it was pointed out, as well as all basic and required subjects. The vocational programs have also been retained with the exception of the projects in homemaking and vocational agriculture where students worked outside of school in local businesses and on area farms. Those two programs were necessarily cut because the students who would be involved in them could not be counted in average daily attendance records on which number of teachers a school is allowed is based.

Burkett Neighborhood News Topics

By Mrs. Joe C. Golsen

I asked the public in last week's article, if anyone knew anything about the trip that five Burkett men made to Galveston, and I got that story at once. I hadn't anymore turned around than Raymond DeBusk and his wife, Veda, walked in the store with a tape recorder, plus the tape of that trip, and several more old-time stories.

Oh, you wonderful folks, you make my job so much easier, and the public loves to read your stories. Yes, they are your stories. I write them down as you tell them to me. Some I fill in according to the times, but a lot of them are told to me just like they are printed. Then some well-trained person at the news office proof reads them and sets them for type.

Anyway on with the story. As I am typing this I am hearing Mr. Raymond DeBusk's voice on the tape and he is saying: "This story was told to me by the late Hugh McDermott. I have also read an account of this trip in the Burkett newspaper. 'The Burkett Search Light' published in April 1900.

"On the morning of March 20, 1900, there were five men of the Burkett community, Grancille and George Keller, Arthur Young, Will Spencer and Dan McCalister, in Brownwood waiting for the excursion train to Galveston, to see the Battleship Texas.

"This was their first trip on a train, and they were a little excited and upset about it. They boarded the train and sat very quiet for several minutes as no one had anything to say as yet, and each not wanting the other to know just how dubious he was.

"The train was out of town about five miles and was picking up speed. George Keller couldn't stand it any longer and he jumped up and yelled 'better hang on tight boys for this son-of-a-gun is liable to jump a four wire fence any minute.'

"George Keller and Dan McCalister put in a good bit of their time keeping an eye on the track up ahead and watching and wondering how on earth anything moving so fast could keep on the track. They both agreed that if it should jump a fence they would all be killed. It was all they could do to keep from asking the engineer to slow her down or they would just have her to stop and let them off.

"The group was well fixed as they had a plenty to drink and eat with them and they were on their way to see this big country they lived in, sights that not many people in Burkett would ever see in that day and time.

"They arrived in Galveston after dark that night and they were anxious to see the happenings of such a city.

"There were hacks for them to ride in which would take them to any part of the city they wished to go, but they didn't know where to head out for first. They struck a hackman and he told them he knew where they could stay for the night, but he was a big fat man and George and Dan were afraid that with the driver being so fat that the six of them in that little old thing might break it down and they might have to pay for the hack. You know these city folk might not be as honest as we from the country.

"Anyway they did the town that night and saw things they would never see in Burkett. "The next morning they took a street car to the beach and seeing the high waves George decided they had better get away from there as she was rising like the dickens. They lit out for a tug boat, boarded her and headed for the tour on the Battleship Texas.

"She was a great ship, and they went over her from deck to hold and made ready to leave her that evening."

"This bunch of Callahan County men had one night more to spend in Galveston before they headed home to Burkett, and I just have to think that they did the town up good and proper before they left. Mr. DeBusk didn't say so, but wouldn't you just have to think they did.

"On with the story: "After spending another night in Galveston, all were ready to come home. Everyone was pleased with the trip. George was so keen on leaving that he couldn't eat breakfast. He told the boys that he would stand guard to keep the train from leaving while they ate. When they returned from breakfast George was still at his post and all boarded the train for home.

"When they reached the bridge across the bay, Dan looked out and saw the water on each side of the train and told the conductor to hurry up or the high water would cut them off, because after all didn't George say yesterday evening that the water was rising?"

"The men were more settled in their seats on the trip home. That train had gotten them to Galveston safely it would surely get them back to Brownwood just as safe.

"After reaching the Brown County Seat, there was the long trip by wagon back to Burkett and all their family and friends. What a story they had to tell and I'm sure some they wouldn't tell. All agreed it was one of the most remarkable trips made at the beginning of the 20th Century."

Hey, ever been to a soft ball game played by grown men or ladies? I haven't, and they say we have missed something. Who told me? Why none other than the men's softball team from Gandy's Dairies in San Angelo. You see they won the slow pitch tournament that was held in Cross Plains on Sunday the week end of August 1-2-3, and on their way home, with the store on the San Angelo Cross Plains Highway 206, they stopped by to cool off a bit and tell us about their victory. You know when you win a big one you just have to tell someone about it and let them join in with the joy you feel. We did just that, even went as far as to get them to show us the trophy. The last game was played Sunday evening and Gandy's had beaten the team of Gooch Packing of Abilene 13 to 3.

Freeda Burkett left Friday for Grand Rapids, Mich., where she is attending a national meeting of Postmasters. She will be home Saturday, and while she is in Michigan, Lovert Strickland will be in charge of the post office.

"Dad Bludworth stopped by the store Saturday afternoon on his way to Coleman Park. The Seamore family of Santa Anna was having a family reunion and "Dad" was one of the musicians asked to pick a little music for the gathering. "Dad" sure can play, but I still would like to see if he can sing. He says sometime he will, but I think he is just pulling our leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Adkins of Sweetwater and their children, Bobby, Andria and Shann, visited with the Joe Golsens in Burkett Saturday. The Adkinses are a breed of racherites who moved to Sweetwater about the same time we did. They bought an old pump and supply business right before the oil shortage and re-named it Sweetwater Pump and Supply. Business boomed and they added three more companies to their list of ownership and told me Saturday they had just recently bought the Chevrolet dealership in Sweetwater. Penny, Bob's wife, and I have a lot in common as she is an ole' gal off the farm, and she is trying to like living in town.

O. W. Mayfield called me on the phone the other day and yelled, "Hope, how big does a fish have to be before you will put it's weight in the paper?" I said, "Otis, an inch long if you like." Well, he says, "I caught one a little longer than that, it's weight is 12 pounds and it is a bass." Do you know that he couldn't keep it, saying it would be like killing a herd bull. So he put it back.

Mel Walker and Eugene Flowers were in the store visiting the other evening and Mel found out that the families had lived as neighbors out near Echo years ago. This was the first time they had seen each other since they were much younger. Somewhere in the conversation I lost them so I did not find out if it was when they were young boys or young men with families of their own. Which was it, boys? Anyway when I got back into the store they were talking about washing machines. Mel was telling Eugene that he was baling hay with a group when this salesman drove up and tried to sell him a brand-spanken new washing machine. Well sir says Mel I told that man that I had the best washing machine money could buy and it only cost me $1.75, and that salesman lit out for the car. I caught on right quick, Mel, I said, was that what a marriag license cost in those days? Yelp sure was he said and laughed, as Gladys was the washing machine he was talking about. No one could afford no washer he said as we only made enough to feed ourselves at $1.50 a day. We were using an old black wash pot at the time and a tub and rub-board. Later on we bought a thing that looked like a plunger with four ears, you would push it up and down in the water and the ears would let the soapy water come up through a shaft back out into the pot. Got the clothes nice and clean. Then I got Gladys a new one like the old Maytag, but didn't have a ring-er or motor on them at this time but stood on legs and had a lid. You filled it with hot water and put your clothes in it, then cranked it by hand to turn the agitator. It was kinda like making ice cream only there was nothing to eat when you got finished and you were sure tired. Mel, I said, I think the rub board would have been easier. Maybe the clothes were not as clean and you wore them out sooner but was less tiring. Yelp, he said that's right.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Adams and Arch Harris drove to Fredericksburg to meet A. B. Harris Jr., (Arch's son), A. B. and Arch went on to San Antonio to the A. B. Harris home for Arch to visit a spell. Walter and Virgie spent the night in Fredericksburg and then took the tour of the Johnson National Park, then returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Mayfield visited their son and family, the Wendal Mayfields in Corsicana this past week and returned with their grandchildren.

TEXAS TALK

By Glenn Winfrey

Protein potency is one of the terms being used to describe the positive aspects of beef promoters arguments supporting the favorable factors of beef protein versus plant protein. The beef backer with one of the most impressive data accumulations to support the meat producers position is Dr. Bruce Taylor, an animal nutritionist at Arizona University. Dr. Taylor says one of the most important aspects of judging protein is an evaluation of the amount of protein actually utilized by the body compared to the amount of intake. Using a scale with egg protein rated at 100, Dr. Taylor says beef would rate at 80 and corn and milo at 56. Citing statistics based on feeding out a 650-pound steer with a ton of grain, Dr. Taylor says the human body would actually utilize exactly the same weight of protein whether consuming the 160 pounds of protein in the feed or the 112 pounds in the finished steer. His final conclusion... a choice between corn and milo or beef.

Reddy's helpful tips for your Room Air-Conditioners

Your air-conditioner will operate inefficiently if filters are not cleaned regularly. Dirt and lint, collected on the filters, restricts air flow to the coils. Clean filters every two weeks.

Let nature help you save energy by shading your home with trees and shrubs to help cut down on summer cooling costs. Draw draperies against afternoon sun.

Remember to keep outside doors, windows, and fireplace dampers closed. If you have window units, close the heating vents near the floor, as cool air falls and can escape through vents.

You purchased fine home comfort when you bought your air conditioning unit. Properly maintained, it will offer you years of efficient service. A once-a-year check-up by your dealer pays dividends in savings on operating and breakdown costs.

Without advertising, you can wave goodbye to the comic strips, the sports page, and the front page of your newspaper.

And maybe your own job.

Think about it. Advertising pays for the features and the news that your newspaper brings to you so economically. Companies that want to tell you about their products, their sales, and their unique services pay for the space to advertise and that pays for most of the newspaper.

If these companies were suddenly deprived of their right to advertise — to communicate with their customers — you can be sure sales would drop. If sales drop, production slows and ultimately people lose jobs. And if certain Texas companies could possibly be ordered not to advertise, who would be next? Maybe your company?

The next time you think about advertising, think about free speech and the right of one person to communicate with another. It's all the same thing. Write Governor Dolph Briscoe, State Capitol, Austin, Texas 78711 and your legislators to tell them how you feel. Then sit back and enjoy your newspaper.

Advertising is everybody's business.

This ad appears as a public service of this newspaper.

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

New Optimism

Marking a sudden turn around, for the first time in 18 months the nation's independent business people are more optimistic about obtaining financing.

This is shown in the current quarterly economic report released to the National Federation of Independent Business by Joseph H. Fee, president of Faculty Associates, Inc., an independent research firm retained by NFIB.

During January, working with a selected sample, a team headed by Dr. Richard Bailey of the University of California at Berkeley and Dr. William Dunkelberg of Stanford found 3.6 per cent of the respondents anticipate that it will be easier in the next three months to obtain needed financing.

While perhaps this percentage of 3.6 appears small, it shows an almost 400 per cent increase in optimism on this score than prevailed all last year when only one per cent anticipated easier access to capital with the exception of January, 1954 when three per cent thought they might get money more readily.

It is difficult to determine which vocations are the most optimistic over increased prospects for easier financing in the construction industry 6.1 per cent now expect easier financing as compared to one per cent who felt that way last October. But on the other hand, last October less than one-half of one per cent of the wholesalers looked for easier credit compared to the five per cent who now feel there will be an easing of credit sources.

The only industry which does not reflect enthusiasm over the prospects for easier money is the independent financial sector. In October six per cent in this industry expected greater availability of money as compared to the 6.6 per cent who now hold this feeling.

The surveys by Faculty Associates do not probe into the reasons for this sudden increase in confidence that there will be more financing funds available. It is surmised that with the new Congress displaying stronger populist trends, plus pressures by some in the Congress on the Federal Reserve Bank to increase the money supply, independent business feels something will happen.

But on the reverse side of the coin, when asked what is the single most important problem facing their businesses today, 36.5 per cent of the respondents name inflation, which is only a slight drop from 40 per cent who named inflation the number one problem in October.
