SIX MORE MONTHS FOR OIL BARON Automobile Accident Fatal to Eastland Man Sunday LEGISLATURE OPENS THIRD SESSION

NEW MEMBERS RE ABSENT AS WORK IS BEGUN

Legislature Purposes to Begin 30-Day Session of Session.

June 3. — The third session of the Texas legislature opened at noon.

Conditions in a large hall were comfortable.

Session which is to last eight days called for eight purposes: State appropriation and revenue, public education, educational matters, health, safety, population, water, court reforms, a stronger blue sky law on sales of stocks.

Other matters will be submitted by Governor Moody later. Penitentiary legislation will be among them if he decides, as now seems likely, to veto the prison location bill which was passed at the recent special session.

While many other bills already have been sent to the clerks to file there is no prospect of the session reaching the record of either the regular session or the first special session in number of bills. At the regular session 1,368 bills were offered of which 353 were passed. At the first special session 373 bills were offered and 123 passed.

There is a $10,000,000 difference in the appropriations between the regular session and the special session.

Chairman John F. Wallace of the house committee said the appropriations recommended by the committee will total $46,083,000. Chairman Tomas Pollard of the senate finance committee said his committee would recommend $56,000,000. Wallace says a 35 cent tax rate will just produce the $46,083,000 from tax sources. Thirty-five cents is the maximum tax possible under the constitution.

When finally revised by committees ready for presentation to the legislature the senate and house appropriation bills had increased their difference to more than $11,000,000.

Senate	House
Judiciary .. $ 4,788,818	$ 5,016,375
Rural school 6,000,000	5,000,000
Departmental 12,793,895	11,746,244
Elementary 13,311,590	10,039,506
Educational .. $20,846,909	15,978,434

Total state income with a 35 cent tax rate on present sources of income is $49,250,000. That available for appropriation is reduced $3,600,000 by a penitentiary appropriation made at the first called session to be paid from the coming revenue, outstanding claims and accounts totaling $3,000,000 by a penitentiary appropriation outstanding claims and accounts totaling $1,000,000 and an estimated treasury deficiency of $1,000,000 that will exist September 1.

CAR LEAVES HIGHWAY AND HITS BRIDGE

Accident Takes Place Few Miles East of Strawn.

J. S. (Jake) Garrison, 48, Eastland automobile salesman and painter, died in the Payne-Carter hospital at Eastland Sunday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock from injuries sustained earlier in the day when his car quit the road and struck a banister of a bridge on the Bankhead highway a few miles east of Strawn.

Garrison's right hip was broken and he was injured internally. His wife, daughter-in-law and seven-months-old granddaughter, with him in the car, were not injured. The car was badly damaged.

Garrison and his party were returning to Eastland from Mineral Wells about 11 o'clock Sunday morning where they had been to visit Bob Bozell, Garrison's brother-in-law, who is lying at the point of death. A passing car traveling in the same direction of the Garrison car, which was being driven by the young Mrs. Garrison, is said to have caught the front wheel of the Garrison car with the rear bumper. The passing car was driven by Mrs. Ann Lemon of San Angelo, according to information at the sheriff's office in Eastland where Mrs. Lemon stopped. Mrs. Lemon stopped at the time of the accident and then came to the hospital in Eastland.

Mr. Garrison was born in Palo Pinto county and made his home there until about three years ago when he moved to Eastland. He was married to Annie Swearngen at Mineral Wells on June 5, 1899. They have eight children as follows: Mrs. Florence Francis and Mrs. E. A. Carr, Eastland; Mrs. D. F. Ledbetter, Amarillo; Miss Laura, and John, "Pete," Seaman, and Jake, Jr., of Eastland.

Mr. Garrison is also survived by four brothers: H. R., W. F., R. H. and H. O.; and two sisters: Mrs. Bogue and Mrs. Morrow, all of Palo Pinto county.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon, conducted by a Mineral Wells minister. Complete arrangements for the funeral, however, had not been announced this morning.

CHARITIES TO REQUIRE $1,500 FOR OPERATION

The Cisco General Charities association, maintained under municipal supervision, is in need of $1,500 to take care of the increasing demands being made upon it, Mayor J. M. Williamson said today.

Several families are being taken care of by the association now and the organization has gone on as long as it can go without securing funds for the work.

Generally a campaign is made about Thanksgiving. The association is kept up by a few citizens who contribute regularly but at this time general contributions will have to be asked.

There will be a great many people whom it will not be possible to see and these are asked to leave their donations at the city hall, either of the banks or the Daily News.

It is hoped to secure enough money to maintain the association for the balance of the year so that no second appeal will have to be made.

1,000 ATTEND FUNERAL OF DEAD BANKER

A crowd of between 1,000 and 1,500 people gathered yesterday at Belle Plains to pay last respects to the remains of George B. Scott, Cross Plains banker who was drowned Thursday evening in the Phil-De-Co Country club lake near Cross Plains. A brief service was held at 1 o'clock at the family home in Cross Plains after which the corpse moved to Belle Plains for the principal services, conducted by Rev. R. A. Stanton, of Waco, and burial with the ritual of the Masonic lodge of which Mr. Scott was a member.

Seventh Annual Club Encampment

The seventh annual encampment of Eastland county boys and girls clubs will be held at Eastland at the city park Friday and Saturday of this week. From 250 to 300 boys and girls and many of their parents are expected.

County Agent J. C. Patterson and Home Demonstration Agent Miss Ruth Ramey are working on a program to be presented at the encampment but this is not yet completed and will be announced later.

Samples of New Size Currency to Go Into Circulation on July 10 Are Being Shown at Local Banks

"Samples" of the new United States currency which will go into circulation next month are on display in the lobbies of the two Cisco banks, the First National bank and the Cisco Banking company. The new money is fully one-third smaller in size than the old money which it resembles in appearance. The smaller size while making it convenient for handling by the public also enables the government to save many millions of dollars annually in paper costs. The paper on which the notes are printed is very expensive.

MIDDLE WEST SWEEP BY HIGH WIND AND RAIN

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 3. — A mile-a-minute gale driving a deluge of rain and hail before it, swept parts of four states, causing thousands of dollars in damage, and sending already swollen streams out of their banks.

Wichita, Kan., suffered the heaviest damage when a gale, estimated at 60 miles an hour, struck the municipal airport and tore airplanes valued at $200,000, to shreds. Included in the airplane loss at Wichita was the giant bi-motored Fokker of the Western Air Express, which landed at the airport only five minutes before the storm broke. The plane was a total loss.

A new Stearman speed mail plane, which was to have been delivered today to the Robertson airlines at St. Louis, was demolished. More than a dozen other planes were badly damaged but no loss of life was reported.

Wheat in the vicinity of Wichita was said to be a total loss when the heavy wind and rain laid hundreds of acres of the ripening grain flat to the ground.

The storm extended over two south central Kansas towns whipped structures from their foundations at Kiowa and Hardinger, and doing considerable damage at Medicine Lodge.

A dozen buildings were damaged at Hardinger and a half score at Kiowa. Wheat in the vicinity of the two towns was said by farmers to have been a virtual loss in several instances.

Virtually all traffic in greater Kansas City was tied up for more than an hour while a fierce rain, hail and windstorm whipped pedestrians and motorists and put hundreds of telephones out of commission over the two Kansas cities.

Nearly an inch of rain and hail fell in less than 20 minutes and flooded hundreds of basements as sewers overflowed in the South Country Club district, exclusive residential section.

Streams in Nebraska and northern Oklahoma were reported on a rampage this morning, the situation threatening to become critical at Falls City, Nebraska, where passenger and auto traffic has been at a standstill, with the exception of a few hours, since Friday morning.

Conditions at Houston, Texas, were improving as Buffalo Bayou receded. Business was expected to return to normal today.

Receding waters of Buffalo Bayou gave up the body of Arturo Avedano, Mexican telegraph messenger boy, the city's first flood victim.

C. of C. Directors to Meet Tomorrow

The regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce will take place tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the chamber of commerce offices. Every director is expected to be present for this session.

SENTENCE IS AFFIRMED BY HIGH COURT

Oil Man Now Serving Three Months for Contempt.

By HERBERT LITTLE
United Press Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, June 3.—Henry F. Sinclair must serve a six months jail sentence imposed on him for jury shadowing, the the supreme court decided today. Sentences of the oil multimillionaire's associates in the jury shadowing episode were also upheld.

Sinclair now is serving a three months jail sentence for contempt of the senate.

Sentence of William J. Burns, noted detective, who was given 15 days in jail for alleged complicity in the jury shadowing episode was reversed, the court holding there was no evidence showing him guilty of an overt act.

The sentences of his son, W. Sherman Burns, to pay a $1,000 fine, was upheld as was the four-months jail sentence of Henry Mason Day, a Sinclair oil official who was charged with having directed the jury shadowing.

EDINBURGH HAS TROUBLE WITH SCHOOL SYSTEM

EDINBURGH, June 3. — Edinburg citizens today were probing into the background of their school situation here, a step toward calming troubled waters made public when 54 of a staff of 85 teachers resigned.

Reasons for the resignations and dismissals, numbering almost two-thirds of the entire staff, were given by resigning teachers as reduction in salary and political disloyalty in the November elections.

School heads claim the reductions and dismissals were a part of a retrenchment policy. Among those dismissed for this reason was S. D. Hendrix, principal of the junior high school, whose place will be taken by H. V. Miles, former dean of the institution.

A total of almost $3,000,000 in bonds have been voted in the Edinburg district for its school system within the last few years, making one of the most complete systems in the state with a group of buildings rivaling many colleges.

Included among the dismissals and resignations are a number of instructors in the junior college.

Two Shriners Are Killed in Crash

LONG BEACH, Cal., June 3.—Two members of a visiting Shriner party were killed at midnight in an automobile collision on the outskirts of the city. Twelve others were injured, several so seriously they may die.

Both automobiles were reported to have been going at a terrific speed and each overturned several times after the collision.

The dead were: Mrs. Howard Ellsworth, Bismark, N. D., wife of a visiting Shriner and Harry Christen, Fargo, N. D.

Col. Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, AUSTIN

Where the Oil Shoe Pinches Rep. E. E. Howard of Oklahoma, spokesman for the independent oil producers of that state declined an invitation to attend the conference called by Pres. Hoover to meet at Colorado Springs on June 10. He issued a statement attacking the proposed compact on the ground that it was a nationalization of the producing end of the oil business without a like nationalization of prices.

Woodrow Wilson permitted foreign crude to go on the free list. Foreign crude on the free list cost the democrats the state of Oklahoma in 1920. It landed in the republican column. Warren G. Harding, apostle of protection, retained foreign crude on the free list. Calvin Coolidge, another pillar of the protective tariff system, shut his eyes and let it go at that.

Selling Texas to Texans An organization known as South Texas Incorporated is to sell South Texas to South Texans. It is the mission of the organization to advertise South Texas nationally. Fred Herndon of San Antonio is the publicity director. All South Texas counties are to be gathered in.

It is to be regretted that it is necessary to sell South Texas, or any part of Texas, to Texans, only because the necessity exists. South Texas is one of the wonder sections of the commonwealth. It is to be advertised nationally. In 1940 the population of South Texas with its Gulf coast and its Rio Grande border, may go beyond the 3,000,000 mark.

Funds for the Law Enforcement Commission Pres. Hoover's law enforcement commissioners have a fund of $250,000 to supply the sinews of war. This sum was appropriated by congress at the last session for "an inquiry into prohibition enforcement." There is no fund for the salaries of the commissioners. They must serve without pay until an appropriation is made. It is uneconomic to vote $500,000,000 as a fund to stabilize the prices of wheat and cotton for the farmers but it is patriotic to appropriate a quarter of a million dollars to defray the expenses of ten gentlemen and one lady making a study of a noble experiment and to devise methods to make it a noble experiment. A statesman is a wonderful achievement of the Almighty.

RIVAL WIVES by Anne Austin Author of The Black Pigeon

THIS HAS HAPPENED

When NAN CARROLL, private secretary to ATTORNEY JOHN CURTIS MORGAN, discovers an affair in love with Morgan, she determines to resign. She temporarily postpones her resignation, however, because she believes Morgan is going to need her more than ever in the coming defense of BERT CRAWFORD, a supposed friend, who is indicted for embezzlement.

Nan distrusts Crawford and IRIS MORGAN, beautiful wife of the lawyer. Crawford and ROY BLAND, treasurer, are accused of stealing funds derived from a whirlwind stock-selling scheme intended to finance a backing plan. Morgan has implicit faith in Crawford, but Nan is suspicious, and by means of a listening-in device manages to hear a conversation between Crawford and his switch-board operator, ALICE BELTON, which takes place in Morgan's private office. Crawford bribes the girl to forget that he talked with the cashier of the bank approving the check young Bland cashed just before his disappearance.

Nan transcribes the notes she took while listening in, secrets two copies in her desk, and tucks one folded copy into the pocket of her skirt. Then Morgan arrives. Nan accompanies him into the private office, where Crawford, Alice and Morgan go over Alice's testimony. Morgan is delighted that Crawford has such a splendid witness. Alice unwittingly tells that Bland's fiancée, GLADYS PAYNE, secretary in Crawford's office, told her Crawford had sent Bland to South America. Crawford insists this is another evidence of Bland's clever planning. Nan asks to see Crawford alone. She confronts him with the transcription of his conversation with Alice. "I'll promise not to show this to Morgan on one condition," she tells the shrinking Crawford.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

"The condition," Nan Carroll began slowly, "is that you give Iris Morgan up!" "Iris Morgan?" Crawford repeated the name violently, but in his violence there was relief as well as anger. "Do you mean to insult me?" "I'm not insulting," Nan corrected him implacably. "I have an incontestable proof of your relations with Mrs. Morgan as your wife's witness-fixing. And the only price for my silence in both instances is that that illicit relationship shall be terminated this moment."

"If you know so damned much, why haven't you tattled to Morgan?" Crawford snarled. "Because I am his friend, and have his happiness at heart," Nan answered evenly. "He loves his wife. Knowing what I know about you and Iris Morgan would wreck his life."

"That being the case," Crawford caught her up triumphantly, "you aren't in a position to make me keep any promise I might make you."

"You interrupted before I had finished," Nan told him sharply. "If you go on with Iris, the two of you will wreck his life anyway. If you don't give me your promise now to have nothing more to do with Iris Morgan, I'll place all evidence I have against you, both in connection with this case and as regards his wife, in Mr. Morgan's hands tonight. He will throw your case out of this office, and when he does so you will stand convicted in the opinion of the public, which includes the jury, you know, for everyone knows that John Curtis Morgan refuses to defend anyone of whose innocence he is not thoroughly convinced."

"God!" he choked, flinging up an arm to hide his convulsed face. "Well—and if I promise?"

"If you promise to leave Iris Morgan alone, AND KEEP YOUR WORD, I'll perform my duties as Mr. Morgan's secretary to the best of my ability," Nan said grimly. "Of course," she added, "you will not be so foolish as to try to 'fix' another witness."

"Why should I?" Crawford blustered, color coming slowly back into his cheeks. "I'm innocent, I tell you."

"You needn't bother," Nan interrupted coldly. "I'm waiting for your promise, and that promise is that you will not again make love to Iris Morgan, that you will have no more clandestine meetings with her, that you will not communicate with her by letter or telephone."

"Hold on!" Crawford growled. "How am I going to let her know it's all off between us, if I am not to telephone or write her?"

"I was going to say: with the exception one telephone call in which to make it quite clear to her that you find it expedient to drop the affair, you can tell her—and truthfully—that someone 'knows all' and that it would be fatal to your chances of being acquitted to go on with the relationship. Make the call from a pay station and be sure that you are not overheard."

"You think of every little thing, don't you?" Crawford sneered. "But what has me stumped is why you're going to all this trouble to save Morgan's wife for him, when you're in love with him yourself."

"Nan's steady brown eyes did not flicker, but her lips were white as she said, still in that deadly quiet voice: 'I haven't received your promise yet, Mr. Crawford.'"

"Of course I promise!" Crawford flung at her bitterly. "What else have you left me to do? Give me a Bible and I'll swear on it, if you like!"

"I'll have ways of knowing if you fall to keep your promise," Nan said, ignoring his last words. "Goodnight, Mr. Crawford."

"Listen, Nan," Crawford begged, suddenly humble. "I know Morgan sets a lot of store on your opinion and help in working up his case. You won't work against me with him, will you?"

"Nan, busy with papers at Christmas time, Morgan had bought, and presented her gift personally, and now that she knew she loved him, her hungry heart had fed upon the certainty of receiving another proof that he held her dear as a friend, studied her tastes and wishes to give her pleasure. And now—probably Iris had bought her a bottle of toilet water or perfume, and she never used the stuff!"

During the next few days, however, she had little time to think of Christmas, for the Crawford trial was hurtling on toward a climax. Thanks to the revelations of Alice Belton and his own thorough investigations, Morgan, as defense counsel, had suffered few shocks of surprise as District Attorney Brainerd presented his case to the judge and jury.

It was unquestionably a weak case, depending largely upon the unsupported testimony of Gladys Payne, who claimed that Crawford had instigated and financed Roy Bland's sudden departure for South America, and that Bland had told her that he had drawn the large checks against the bank account of the Mid-West Packing Company at Crawford's order and had turned the cash over to Crawford.

On cross-examination Morgan had so nullified Cashier Wolfe's testimony concerning his alleged telephone conversation with Crawford, in which Crawford was supposed to have given his O. K. to the last check for $100,000, that reporters and feature writers were freely predicting a quick vindication for the defendant.

obviously so much in love with a man she could not have. "We're sisters under the skin, in that respect at least," Nan admitted with bitter humor.

When at last, on Monday, December 19th, the case was formally opened in Judge Haswell's court, Iris Morgan sat in a reserved seat in the first row, immediately behind those chairs that were traditionally sacred to reporters and feature writers. She had wanted to sit at the counsel table, beside the defendant, but Crawford himself had cautioned her that it would not be wise, and Morgan had gratefully seconded him.

"I believe I'll attend the trial every day, Nan," she said, moving restlessly about the outer office while her husband was engaged in a confidential telephone call in his private office. "I really think I should know more about Jack's work, and this is such a good time to begin on a case in which I have a friendly, personal interest, you know—just some horrid, bloody murder trial. It was really quite interesting. The judge is an old dear. He had the press photographers snap us together—said he wanted to be sure HIS picture would get in the papers! Of course he was joking. And, by the way, an artist for the Morning Sun sketched me. I begged him not to, but he insisted—"

"Isn't attending the trial going to interfere with your Christmas shopping?" Nan suggested, going on with her typewriting.

"Oh, I finished that ages ago," Iris assured her. "My packages are all wrapped and addressed. I do hope you'll like your gift. Jack left the selecting of it to me this year, because of the trial. I do think they ought to have put the case over until after New Year's, so poor Bert could have had a nice Christmas before."

"IT CERTAINLY HAS PROVEN A BLESSING"

Cisco House Wife Gives Orgatone Highest Praise—"I Am Grateful for What It Has Done for Me," She Says.

Among the many Cisco, Texas people who have recently expressed their hearty and sincere approval of Orgatone after putting the medicine to a practical test and deriving convincing results from it, none are more genuinely enthusiastic than Mrs. B. E. Davis, 201 E. 15th Street, Cisco, Texas.

"I certainly give Orgatone credit for my great improvement," said Mrs. Davis, "for it has helped me over a nervous, run-down condition that has honestly been with me for the last year and for the last few months I had been going from bad to worse until I simply felt that I had no life left in me at all."

"My stomach seemed to go back on me entirely, for almost everything I tried to eat would ferment and form sour gas and give me such a puffed up, miserable feeling that sometimes I felt like I couldn't get another breath to save my life. The headaches which usually followed these attacks would frighten me and make me so weak and nervous I could hardly stand it."

"I couldn't sleep at all well at night and I became so badly run-down I was simply not equal to anything and for a long time it looked like it was almost impossible for me to do my own housework. If I hadn't heard about this Orgatone and given it a trial I don't know what would have become of me."

"I have taken three bottles of this splendid medicine and I can say positively and candidly that I have never felt better or stronger in many months. I have gained in strength and my stomach trouble have left me as completely as if I had never suffered with them a day in my life."

"My food agrees with me perfectly now and I am not bothered with gas or nervousness in the least. I sleep just fine and if there's any reason to believe I'm not in perfect health I don't know what it is. I want to recommend Orgatone to my friends for it surely has proven a blessing to me."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy and is sold in Cisco exclusively by Pisan Drug Store who are direct factory agents.—Adv.

LEGAL NOTICE

CITATION BY PUBLICATION.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Eastland County—Greeting: You are hereby commanded to summon Bernice Coffin, and the unknown heirs of said Bernice Coffin, by making publication of this citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, and the 88th judicial district to appear at the regular term of the 88th district court of Eastland county, Texas, to be held at the court house thereof, in Eastland, on the first Monday in July, A. D. 1929, the same being the first day of July, A. D. 1929, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 22nd day of May, A. D. 1929, in a suit numbered on the docket of said court, No. 13950, wherein Ella W. Coffin, is plaintiff, and R. L. Blaffer, James Anderson, and E. E. Townes, trustees; Humble Oil & Refining Company, Humble Pipe Line Company, Bernice Coffin, and unknown heirs of Bernice Coffin, are defendants, and the cause of action being alleged as follows:

That July 28, 1926, plaintiff's husband, Coburn A. Coffin, alias Burnie Coffin, died from injuries received in Brown county, Texas, while in discharge of his duties as employee of Humble Oil & Refining Company, herein designated Oil Company, at which time he was a participant in a fund for purchase of shares said Oil Company, under Employees' Stock Purchase Plans established by said Oil Company and Humble Pipe Line Company, and administered by defendants, trustees; that there was purchased and apportioned to plaintiff's husband, under such plan, 22 such shares and $176.74 cash, calculated to December 31, 1928; that when plaintiff's husband died, he and she owned 58 other shares of said Oil Company in the name of her husband; that plaintiff's husband died intestate, left no child or descendant of any child surviving him, all his debts are paid and there is no necessity for, nor has there been an administration of his estate; that said shares and funds were community property of plaintiff and her husband, and at his death plaintiff became and is now sole owner thereof; that defendants Oil Company, Humble Pipe Line Company, and said trustees have refused to recognize plaintiff's said ownership, except to account for one-third dividends from said 58 shares.

That about June 11, 1912, plaintiff's husband married Grace Gardner; that before said marriage Grace Gardner bore a child claimed by her to have been begotten by plaintiff's husband; that about August, 1912, plaintiff's husband instituted suit Number 59079 in the District Court of Harris county, Texas, against said Grace Gardner, as Grace Coffin, defendant, alleging said marriage was performed under duress and said child was not

Well Folks—

It looks like times are going to pick up. We have had lots of rain—a fine season in fact. Now we are having lots of sunshine. So there is no excuse for the fellow who might want to talk bad crop prospects. Then the recent rise in price of oil, with a prospect for a further rise soon makes this business a lot more encouraging. When these two industries are prosperous we may reasonably expect good times—Farm crops and oil prices good makes good times for Cisco.

So let's come on folks and begin to trade with each other — circulate our money around and forget hard times.
