POT SHOTS AT POLITICS By Col. Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald. AUSTIN

Col. Brisbane as An Economist Col. Arthur Brisbane is wildly excited these early June days. He calls upon Pres. Hoover to chastise the members of the federal reserve board.

Col. Brisbane is telling the president that the federal reserve board of bankers caused the price of wheat to drop to the lowest level in years, that they have demoralized the stability of the cotton market as well as the price of cotton and unless sagacious men of sound financial acumen and vast experience are picked for head membership prosperity will go sky high and the country will go to the devil.

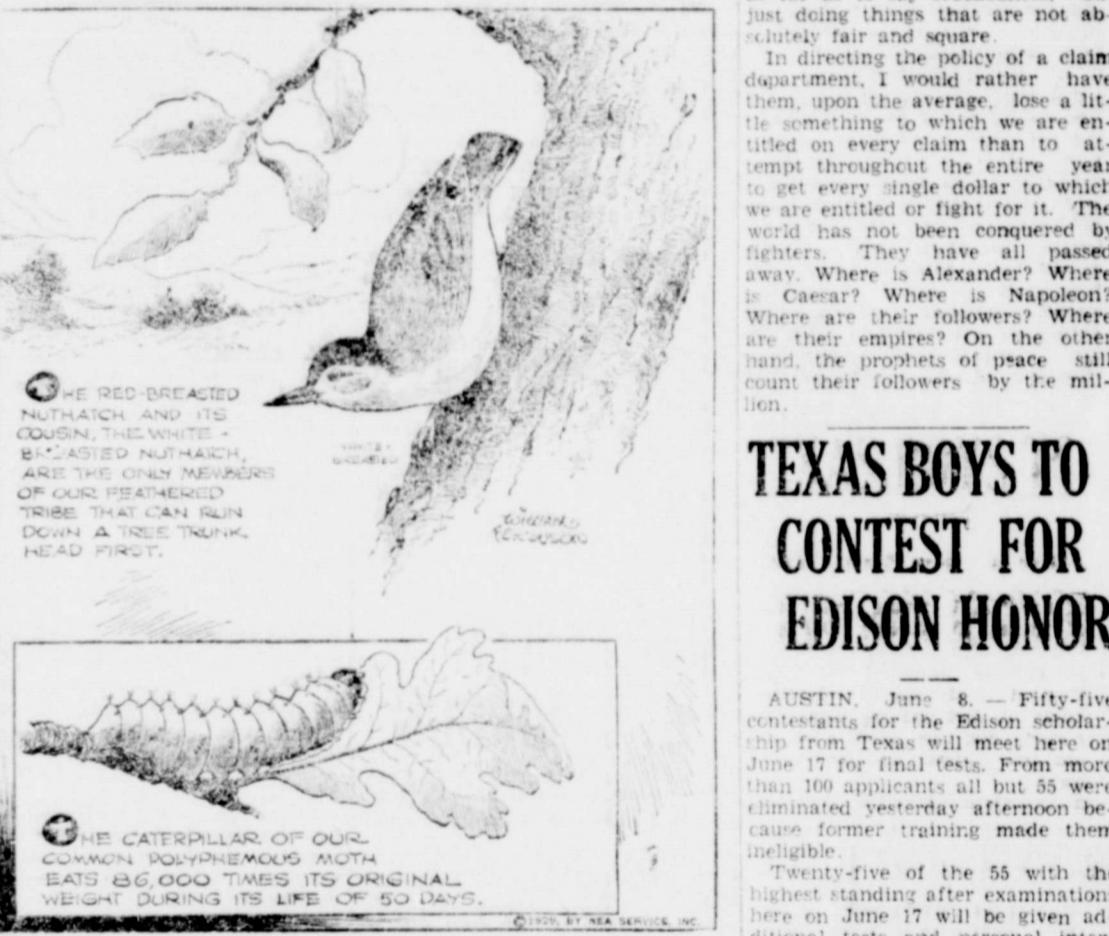

Did You Ever Stop to Think? By EDSON R. WAITE Shawnee, Oklahoma.

Edwainers Norvell, president of the Remington Arms company, Inc. says: "That after 40 years in business, and studying the things that happen in business, I am absolutely convinced that the only policy upon which a business should be conducted is that of absolute honesty, integrity and fairness."

OUT OUR WAY

MOTHER NATURE'S CURIO SHOP

When that satisfaction is once broken, then all satisfactory business contact comes to an end. This is true not only between a house and its customers, but it is true between the heads of a house and its employees. It is true between employees in conducting the business. Suppose the head of a house does something that is unfair. Suppose he is crooked, even in a small matter. Naturally, the employees nearest to him know what has been done. Naturally they lose confidence, and this loss of confidence spreads in an organization like a prairie fire.

American Doughboy, Officially Reported Killed in Action, Plies Trade as Butcher

By BRUCE CATTON
SEA Service Writer.

WOODRUFF AND HIS GRAVE IN FRANCE

10-D BUFFALO, N. Y., June 7.— George W. Woodruff, sometime in the 312th infantry division, plies his trade as a butcher in a combination meat market and grocery store at 3001 Bailey avenue here and spends no more of his time than necessary in thinking about things that happened to him during the war.

Nevertheless, Woodruff has plenty to think about if he cares to. He is a man whose name got down, somehow, in the books of death—and in the far-away American cemetery at Meun-sur-Yvre, in France, there stands a white cross with his name on it.

According to the United States government, Woodruff was killed in action; so Memorial Day, this year, like every other Memorial Day, had a special significance for him.

Can Decorate Own Grave Still living, he has his own grave to decorate—that is he has it if he could get to it. Still living, he possesses an engraved certificate signed by the distinguished hand of John J. Pershing, bearing his name with a sober flourish and resting this gratifying statement:

"He bravely laid down his life for the cause of his country. His name will ever remain in the hearts of his comrades and comrades-in-arms. His honorable service will be preserved in the records of the American Expeditionary Forces."

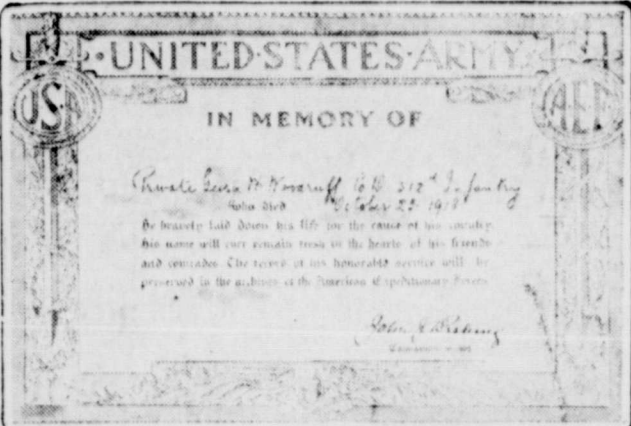

The certificate George Woodruff spread down on the counter for the perusal of the interviewer. He grinned. "Any, isn't it?" he asked, the grocer, across the street called from the telephone.

Miss Blain wants a pound of lamb chops—she says give her some real ones. Woodruff fixed the lamb and came back.

How He Enlisted "I don't think much of anybody that dares war when started," he said. "You got married in the spring and I just had my own started—that was in Buffalo, N. Y., then. So I got much attention to it.

"I was a bit of a smart-aleck at a lot of guys began to get married and I didn't want to get down to the draft board and get moved into the eligible class, and on May 1, 1918, I went to Camp Dix. Six days later I got a letter saying my wife had had a baby—a boy.

"We went overseas May 19, and after landing at Liverpool and crossing to France by way of Dover and Calais we went into the Arras sector in northern France for six weeks' training. Then we were in reserve behind the British lines for a couple of weeks, and then we went down to the St. Mihiel sector—that was on Sept. 12—to follow up the big drive there. And about a month later we went into Meuse-Argonne."

"I'm still alive, despite what the War Department says," declares George W. Woodruff as he fails at his butcher shop in Buffalo. At the right is the official "death notice" his wife received and a picture of the grave that bears his name in France.

Wasn't Even Wounded "I suppose," remarked the interviewer, "that you saw considerable action then?" Woodruff's face changed expression slightly, and the light-hearted grin that had been in his eyes ever since he began his story suddenly died.

"Yeah," he said. "We saw considerable." He was silent for a minute. "Funny," he went on, after a pause, "how they happened to report me killed. I wasn't even wounded—never was away from my company until after the armistice, when I got me a leave and went traveling. Say, I saw some nice places—went down to Nice, and had a swell time.

"But anyhow, about the first of November my wife, back home, gets a telegram from the war department telling her I'd been killed in action on October 23. She hadn't heard from me for several weeks, and naturally she had a pretty bad time of it for a while. "Then, a month later, she got a letter from me, dated after the date when I was supposed to have been killed. So she wrote me right off, asking how come. Gee, I didn't know anything about it, but I knew I was alive, all right, so I wrote her right away. She felt a lot better then.

"I got back home that winter, and we had quite a reunion. I saw my kid for the first time. Funny thing—for a while she hadn't ever figured he'd ever see his old man.

Gets a Picture of Grave "Well, about six months later my wife gets a letter from the Graves Registration Service. There was a picture of my grave in it, and a lot of blank forms to fill out, and a letter telling her that if she'd fill out these forms and return them they'd ship my body back to this country." Woodruff handed a worn little photograph across the counter. It showed a white cross, amid a multitude of other white crosses bearing his name, with "Died, October 23, 1918," beneath it. "I wrote 'em, right away, telling 'em I was alive, but nothing ever came of it," he added. "I guess they still figure I'm dead. I don't know."

He produced the letter from the Graves Registration Service; a much-folded, somewhat

CAMPAIGN TO CUT NUMBER OF DROWNINGS

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The death rate from drowning is due to decrease this year. When the trek to the "old swimming hole" starts this season many thousands of persons should be better equipped to deal with the emergencies of accidents.

An intensive campaign of first aid and life-saving instruction for athletic coaches, camp counselors and playground directors is being planned by the Red Cross. Eleven institutes will be established to instruct classes of from 75 to 150 men and women. These students in turn will go forth to spread their knowledge among thousands of others.

Four institutes, lasting from June 15 to 29 inclusive, will be maintained in the eastern section of the country. They will be located at Camp Sherman, Brimfield, Mass.; Camp Mohawk, Kanohwahke Lakes, near Tuxedo, N. Y.; Camp Pawatinika, near Annapolis, Md.; and Lake Junaluska, near Asheville, N. C. The mid-west institutes will last from June 13 to 22 inclusive at Oak Point Camp, Square Lake, Minn.; Lake Lawn, Lake Delavan, Wis.; Rockaway Beach, Lake Taneycomo, Mo.; and Camp Wabun, Anning, Kerrville, Tex. The Pacific coast holds its first institute at Capitola, near San Francisco, from June 20 to 30. Two others will be held from July 8 to 18 at Coronado Tent City, San Diego and at Hicks Lake, Lacey, Wash.

Red Cross standard and advanced courses will be given, including the theory and practice of swimming and diving, methods of rescuing drowning persons, artificial resuscitation, use of rowboats and canoes and the ways of dealing with accidents and upsets.

Officer Gets Six Stills in One Place

Six stills—all at the same place—were captured by Cy Bradford, veteran peace officer of Strawn, in a recent raid in the country out from Thurber. Officers declare that it is almost an unheard of thing for as many as two stills to be found together and the capture of six at one time is unparalleled, so far as known, in this section of Texas.

Two of the stills were in operation, Constable Bradford said.

The stills were at a house, some of them being in the house and the others were outside. A Mexican was arrested.

Eighteen gallons of peach brandy and eight barrels of peach mash also were confiscated.

OIL NEWS OF SOUTHWEST

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., June 8.—While with a fifth gusher, the success of the Asher, Oklahoma oil area is assured, oil geologists cannot promise much until they determine whether the producing horizon is a lime or a sand. Flush production is all that may be expected if the horizon is lime while sand would promise long time good production.

The largest well encountered so far is No. 1 Walker of Tom Shick and Amerada Petroleum Company. With casing set at 3,614 feet and production from 3,654 feet, the well flowed 1,995 barrels the first seven hours.

Production reached a peak Thursday with the five wells producing 9,465 barrels.

SEMINOLE, Ok., June 8.—A loss of 2,449 barrels was registered in the greater Seminole oil area Thursday with total production of 375,373 barrels from 1,933 wells. Two wells were completed in the Little River and Carr City pool. One well was abandoned in the Earlsboro pool. The St. Louis pool produced 87,837 barrels from 359 wells. Production by pools Thursday: Little River 77,369 barrels; Bowlegs 35,449; Earlsboro 59,211; Seminole City 35,359; Seagriff 12,994; Carr City 14,652; Maud 12,538; Mission 29,964.

SHREVEPORT, La., June 8.—Blowing in from a depth of 2,400 feet, Gulf Refining Co.'s Olden No. 1 in Caddo parish, was flowing at the rate of 4,000 barrels Friday. It is the largest well completed in this territory for many months and is the third new extension south-east of the Pine Island field.

New Well to Be Drilled at Gorman

GORMAN, June 8.—A rig is being moved out to the Clement tract near Lone Star school on which the Kokomo Petroleum Co. is to drill their next well. It was received the first of the week and will be erected as soon as it is put on the ground. It will be an offset to the well recently secured by this same company on the Collins. They have several paying wells in that section and the hope of all is that they secure one on this effort.

The rig is up on the Echols well of the T. & P. Coal and Oil company south of Gorman five miles. It will be started soon and will be another in their chain of development of that section. They recently completed a nice well on the Kirk tract in that section.

LONE STAR STARTS WORK ON PIPE LINE

GORMAN, June 8. — The Lone Star Gas company is this week unloading and storing material in Gorman for the pipe line they are to build from Desdemona to Sipe Springs. The rear of the Davis Motor company building has been rented by them for storage and they have it about filled with welding material. The actual work will be started within a short time. In fact from all reports the right-of-way gang is now in the field and they are clearing ground for the work. The ditching machines will be unloaded at Desdemona and the work started at that end of the work. They will use mostly local labor picking up their crews out of Gorman and Desdemona as far as possible. A large crew of men will be used and it will take about 90 days to do the work. Eleven miles of the pipe used in the construction is to be unloaded in Gorman and hauled out of here. Part of it will be unloaded at Desdemona and the remainder at Sipe Springs. It will be a 16-inch line. They have secured all the right-of-way except one tract which they have not yet been able to get title to. They are now working on that part of the right-of-way and will likely have it shortly.

What We're Doing for M-O-T-H-E-R-S

WE are devoting a large measure of our time and efforts to the Mothers of this great empire of West Texas, always endeavoring to find ways and means of making their lives more pleasant and the duties which they find necessary to perform much easier.

—When we brought electricity into their homes, these Mothers were immediately relieved of oil lamps . . . one task less! It was made possible for them to enjoy the use of the Electric Refrigerator—the Electric Range and the Iron . . . all labor-savers for Mothers.

—There are numerous other electrical servants, all of which are skilled helpers on every household task; those tasks when done in the OLD way were genuine hardships; now they can be done easily and quickly, leaving much time for pleasure and recreation.

—Better lighting for homes . . . comfort appliances such as the heater and fan . . . floor lamps, bridge and table lamps and convenience outlets, too, are great conveniences . . . and there are personal appliances that keep Mothers well groomed. . . All of these we offer to the Mothers of West Texas, those who we are proud indeed to serve.

Charge Mail Order Wife Is a Borgia

Husband Dies After Drinking Coffee at a Dance

By NEA Service. SONORA, Cal., June 8. — A modern Borgia, using matrimonial agencies to get victims for their insurance—as Steve Rablen says. Or, just an unfortunate wife, caught in the toils of a family row, deluded by her "in-laws," and accused of murder through a horrible, accidental bereavement—as Eva Rablen says.

Not since the days of the roaring gold camps, when Mark Twain and Bret Hart found their literary starts here, has this historic old California section been so vehemently divided over a question—the question of just how Carroll B. Rablen died in agony in his car beside the dance hall at Tuttle-town, old-time mining town, while his father's Old-Time orchestra was playing within.

Stays Outside Rablen, a war veteran, suffered from a head ailment that had made him almost deaf, and also somewhat morose, declined to accompany his wife into the dance hall. Instead, he remained in the auto. Coffee, sandwiches and cake were served the dancers. And Mrs. Rablen took coffee and a sandwich to her spouse in his parked car. Half an hour later, Rablen was writhing in agony. He died in a few minutes.

Near the car, later, a poison bottle was found. A druggist at another village identified Mrs. Rablen as the purchaser of the poison. Mrs. Rablen was charged with murder.

Mrs. Eva Rablen, "mail order wife," above, is held as the slayer of her husband, Carroll B. Rablen, below, who died after drinking coffee.

Claims Alibi She made complete denial of the charge; denied buying poison. She and her twin sister declared they could prove another woman bought the

Will Vacation in Europe This Summer

Miss Ora Bess Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Moore, 612 West Seventh street, and her uncle, C. W. Lowery, will leave Monday for New York City where they will spend several days before sailing June 14 for Cherbourg, France. Their European tour which will be made with the Armstrong party from Baylor university, includes six countries: France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, Belgium and England. They will leave England for the United States with the party August 3 on the S. S. Cronin.

Dirt Being Placed on School Grounds

Dirt removed from the site of the new telephone building at E avenue and Seventh street is being placed upon the grounds of the East Ward and West Ward school buildings. The great amount of earth that is being excavated from this place will enable the schools to materially improve their grounds which stand in need of being raised and leveled. The excavation of the site is progressing rapidly by means of a large gasoline drag-line shovel. The contract on the structure is held by the R. F. Hall Construction company, of Fort Worth. Two weeks will be required to dig the site to an average depth of 14 feet to accommodate the basement and foundations of the building.

District Highway Engineer Looks Over Conditions on Highway 23; to Make Recommendations to State

Accompanied by W. W. Wallace, chairman of the highway committee of the Cisco chamber of commerce, Birt Britain, county commissioner for Precinct No. 4, J. D. Wright, a member of the board of directors of the Cisco chamber of commerce, and J. E. T. Peters, secretary of that organization, Mr. Van London, district highway engineer for the state highway department, Friday afternoon made a trip of inspection over a portion of highway 23 as now maintained by the state and the dump from Cisco across the dam and a corner of Callahan county.

The party went to Dothan and then north to Moran over the present state maintained highway and returned by way of Lake Cisco.

Mr. Van London was here to find out for himself the present condition of the highway. It was his first visit over the route. He will make a recommendation to the state highway department but what the recommendation is will not be known until it has been passed upon by the department.

The dump that is being maintained for the route north of Cisco to the Callahan county line was found to be in good condition, the worst portion existing between Cisco and the lake. The stretch of four miles cutting across a corner of Callahan was found in bad condition.

The state does not maintain this stretch and Callahan county cannot be expected to.

put your Telephone on Half-pay during Vacation

You'll save money . . . and spare yourself inconvenience when you return.

The Rumseys are going vacationing. The milk's been stopped, the ice man has been called off, and the Man Who Delivers the Newspaper has been instructed to bring no more until further notice.

But the telephone will be left at home, drawing full pay in an empty house!

Something should be done about this!

Vacation rates for idle telephones

One solution (provided you're planning a vacation of 30 days or more) is to place your telephone on vacation half-rates while you are away.

It's a convenient way to save money. And—this to folks who sometimes have their telephones taken out—it spares you inconvenience on your return.

That's because:

1. You pay just half the regular rate.
2. Service is reconnected quickly after you return—usually within 24 hours after you notify us.
3. You keep your present telephone number. (You'd lose it if you had your telephone removed!)
4. Your name remains in the telephone book.

If you wish, while you are away we will refer your calls to another telephone—that of relatives, for instance.

Vacation rates are available for periods of more than 30 days, but not over four months.

"Something should be done about this."

To obtain them, mail the coupon or telephone the business office.

U. S. WOMEN IN PARIS TIRED OF IDLENESS

By PRINCESS ALI FAZIL
United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, June 8. — Tired of leisure, idleness and high society, many American women in France have found and antidote in work.

In almost every downtown business street there is a business owned or financed by one of the prominent figures of American society here, frequently by a woman who was married into a titled family.

Countess Vallambrosa, Florence Walton, Yvonne Davidson, Ganna Walska, Helena Rubinstein and Lina Cavalieri are among the better known.

With a practical sense of business, they all employ French women already experienced in the trade they choose, but all the society-business women are actually engaged in the business themselves.

Countess Vallambrosa, widow of the painter, Goldbeck, is one of the Paris favorites in society, but she also is a dress maker of proved worth. When she looked for an outlet for her energies, her personal taste in art and in dressmaking naturally led her into the dress-making business.

Her place, a few yards from the Champ Elysees, bears the name of Igne Dana, who is in real life a Russian baroness.

"The Queen of Denmark, Princess Martha and many other of the European nobilities have elected her to make their dresses.

"I take more pleasure in my shop than in any tea party to which I have to go," the countess said.

It is her theory that slowness is the basis of supreme beauty. The long slim lines of her dressmaking illustrate the idea.

Mrs. Yvonne Davidson, wife of the sculptor, Jo Davidson, is counted among the successful business women of France. She has a dressmaking establishment and is no novice at the business.

"I have seen more smart women on one street in New York than in whole countries over here," she said recently.

Says Slocum Is 'Holding up Head'

MEXIA, June 8. — Slocum, east Texas town destroyed by cyclone, "is holding up its head, rebuilding, and shows an excellent spirit," Dr. G. O. McMillan, president of Westminster college, said on return from delivering the commencement sermon of the Slocum high school. He said school was held under arbors and tents following the cyclone. His talk was delivered under a canvass spread over an improvised room.

BABY 16, SAVES MOTHER.
COLUMBIA, Mo., June 8. — "I can't go to jail, your honor, I have to take care of my baby," sobbed Mrs. Zennie Allen in police court after Judge Shaw had fined her $200 and sentenced her to 30 days in jail for possession of liquor.

The court became instantly sympathetic.

"How old is your baby?" the judge asked.

"He is 16," responded Mrs. Allen. She was given a year's stay of execution.

ROMAN VILLA EXCAVATED.
LONDON, June 8. — Work of excavating the Roman villa in Ashstead Woods, which was discovered four years ago when a rabbit burrowed out pieces of ancient pottery, has once again started. The wall foundations have been laid bare but much yet remains to be done.

JUDGE GIVES SOME ADVICE TO HER SEX

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8. — Judge Genevieve R. Cline, the only woman federal jurist in the United States, recently tendered a little advice. It was:

"Never make women appear ridiculous."

The advice, according to Judge Cline, expresses the definite policy she has "formulated" after a rather extensive experience among men.

"Dignity and respect of discriminating persons are the most important assets of a woman in public life," she said.

"A desire to be different, to substitute her own way for masculine tradition, to express opinions on any subject, no matter how irrelevant to her own work—all these may bring notoriety but never influence.

"Women in high office should remember that their actions either pave or obstruct the way of women who follow them."

Judge Cline, who came here to try some 1,200 cases, said that the upward progress of her sex was a matter of concern to her.

"There is a familiar disparagement," she said, "used by men. It is 'just like a woman.' I hate to hear that."

Many hours of searching at Quanaah failed to locate a 6-year-old Quanaah boy who had gone hunting for prairie dogs but as night fell, with searchers still out, he got hungry and came home for supper.

10-DAY CAMP TO BE HELD AT MASON, TEXAS

Encampment This Year Larger and Better Than Ever

The "ole swimmin' hole" will be a hit for the Boy Scouts of the Old Belt council when they go their 10-day encampment July to Camp Martin in Llano county. Last year the encampment was a joy to the boys and a success every way, and this year a great round of worthwhile pleasure promised with a larger party of leaders.

Camp Martin is nine miles south of Mason, in March county, on the Llano river. A good road leads from the main highway to camp, with gates to open. A telephone a short distance from camp furnishes water for swimming and fishing. Plenty of good spring water. A beautiful view of the hills.

M. S. will meet at 8 o'clock Tuesday at the Fourth street circle. At 10 o'clock with Mrs. E. P. Crawford, 606 West Fifth street. Tuesday at 4 o'clock with Mrs. C. H. Van Eman, Eighty street. ANNOUNCEMENT PARTY.

Misses Wilma Mason and Mary Grace Price entertained with an informal party at the home of Mrs. G. P. Rainbolt Friday night announcing the marriage of Miss Ara Ravenscraft and Mr. Suttle Purcell on June 27. The house was attractive with a profusion of pink and white roses. After games of bridge and buncio, the hostesses served individual ice cream in pink roses and angel food cake. The favor on each plate was a small scroll bearing the announcement: "Hear Ye! Hear Ye! His Royal Highness, Cupid, King of all Lovelands, to our Loyal Subjects, throughout all our vast Domain, does cause to be put in writing our Royal Proclamation enjoining all to take notice thereof: Know Ye, that Suttle, of the House of Purcell, and Ara, of the House of Ravenscraft, having come to years of understanding and discretion, seek admission into our State of Matrimony. Therefore, I, Cupid, Ruler of said State, do hereby declare to such State on or after the 27th day of June, A. D. 1929. In witness whereof we herunto set our Royal Hand and Seal, this 7th day of June, 1929. Signed: Dan Cupid. While the announcements were being read, a large wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom perched on the top was placed before Miss Ravenscraft. The cutting of the cake and receiving of the symbols caused much merriment. Miss Ravenscraft is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Ravenscraft of this city. She is a graduate of Cisco high school, Randolph college and West Texas State Teachers college of Canyon. The past year she taught Spanish in the high school at Dumas, Texas. Mr. Purcell is an architect and contractor at Shamrock, Texas, where they will make their home. Those present at the party were: Misses Leta Deel Surles, Louise Karkalits, Hazel Preston, Olivia Mayer, Pearl Bryant, Lema V. Rainbolt, Letha Eager, Wilma Mason, Mary Grace Price, and the honoree, Miss Ravenscraft, and Mesdames Juan Mason, Clarence Hickman and G. P. Rainbolt.

"GOD'S FLOWER GARDEN" TITLE OF PROGRAM

Marquette is a new six, produced and distributed by the Buick Motor company. This car, which is the ninth in the General Motors line, and which will sell in the medium price field, is offered in six models—a two-door sedan, four-door sedan, business coupe, sport coupe, a roadster and a touring car.

The Marquette is an exceptionally large car for its price class, having a wheel base of 114 inches. Prices on the car range from $965 to $1675.

The six cylinder I-head motor and the crank case are cast in one integral unit. The engine has a bore and stroke of 3 1/8 by 4 5/8" and develops 67.5 maximum brake horsepower. Buick officials say the Marquette has a remarkably quick acceleration and a maximum speed up in the seventies.

All models are designed along low swung rakish lines. The bodies are built by Fisher and finished in Duco color combination that follow the present fashion trends. The radiator which is covered with a metal grille is set with a narrow chromium plating that balances with the chromium plated hub caps. The wheels are sturdy and carry large tires.

Attractive Cisco Homes

Home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. 1001 West Seventh is a pretty home that is making a name for itself in the southwest part of the city.

A natural walk encircling a cement bird-bath leads to the tiny entrance covered by a rose trellis and almost filled with immense ferns and geraniums.

The gravel drive, bordered with violets and shaded by large oaks, winds through the yard to approach the side entrance through an arch in the low native rock wall.

The back yard is devoted almost entirely to flowers—zinnias, larkspur, petunias and hollyhocks, with a lily pond of native rock in the center.

In keeping with the Spanish style is the small open patio at the rear furnished with wicker furniture and a profusion of ferns about an artistic water fountain.

In decided contrast of structure though of equal attractiveness, is the English style home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Anderson, 1205 West Ninth street.

The small open side porch is lined with flower boxes harboring petunias, verbenas and ivy. Neat beds of arbor vitae, salvia and caryophyllus shrubs are laid off along the front of the house with althea, amouira privet, and humille jasmine on the east side. Here beneath several large oak trees a cool and inviting place has been made by the provision of a rustic bench and several chairs.

A trellis for scarlet roses leads to the back yard on the west side. A rose garden with shasta daisies, violets and a huge bed of various flowers—phlox, gladiolas and nasturtiums surround a brick walk.

Besides the large oak trees, silver maple have been planted along the parking and Italian and Arizona cypress on the lawn.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
JOHN CURTIS MORGAN, lawyer, stakes his professional honor on the innocence of his friend, BERT CRAWFORD, who is indicted for embezzlement.

NAN CARROLL, secretary to Morgan, discovers she is in love with him and, being honorable, determines to resign. Her resignation is postponed when she learns Morgan is defending Crawford. She distrusts the man and believes Morgan will have need of her during the trial.

By means of a listening device, Nan overhears a conversation between Crawford and his switchboard operator in which he "fixes" the operator's evidence and admits his interest in IRIS MORGAN, beautiful wife of the lawyer. Nan confronts Crawford with what she has heard and tells him the price of her silence is that he give up Iris immediately.

On the last day of the trial Nan finds convincing proof of Crawford's guilt in a note which little CURTIS MORGAN, has evidently stolen from his mother's handbag. Nan arrives in the courtroom just as the jury returns with a "not guilty" verdict and is spared the necessity of giving Morgan the shameless evidence of his adored wife's faithfulness and the perfidy of his friend.

A few days later Crawford calls and presents Morgan with a check for $20,000 as his fee, and when Morgan refuses it, he cleverly suggests that Morgan give it to Iris. Crawford announces he is leaving town. When Iris Morgan leaves for a pleasure trip to New York several days later, Morgan is unsuspecting. Five days pass and then Nan learns the agony of suspense for Morgan has been justified.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

At last she forced herself to concentrate on the Lois Downs case, which had opened that day in Judge Trimble's court. It promised to be one of the hardest fights that John Curtis Morgan had ever waged for the life of an accused murderer.

Nan knew that District Attorney Brainerd was as convinced of the guilt of the pretty young nurse as Morgan was sure of her innocence. The crime of which Lois Downs was accused had been committed in July—six months ago. Mrs. Andrew Ward, 54 years old, a wheel-chair invalid who had not walked for three years, had died at two o'clock in the morning of strychnine poisoning, and her nurse, Lois Downs, had been immediately arrested on a charge of murder. Mrs. Ward, a multi-millionaire in her own right, had married, at the age of 49, a handsome young man of 26.

Living in the home of the ill-matched couple were two spinsters, daughters of Mrs. Ward's of a previous marriage. Three years before her death, Mrs. Ward declared that she was paralyzed from the waist down, and settled herself luxuriously in a wheel-chair, invalidly requiring the constant care of a doctor, a day nurse, night nurse and her young husband.

After her death by strychnine poisoning, Mrs. Ward's daughters told the district attorney and police detectives that their mother had been insanely jealous of young Andrew Ward's attentions to the pretty night nurse, Lois Downs, telling them that she believed Ward wished her dead so that he could marry the girl.

Because Ward had a perfect alibi, and because Lois Downs had been the only person with the invalid the night of her death, the nurse's arrest and indictment for murder had followed.

Morgan had listened to the girl's story, had believed her innocent and had, with Nan's enthusiastic help, worked up the defense which Nan was reviewing the afternoon of Iris' departure for New York.

Becoming absorbed, she worked steadily until six o'clock, then went out for dinner at a restaurant in the neighborhood. But her anxiety for Morgan made it impossible for her to eat. She left a tip beside her plate of almost untouched food, paid her check and ran through the cold, windy business street to the office building. She could stand it no longer; she must know something.

The telephone was ringing with shrill insistence when she reached her office. Her suddenly seized hand-fumbled interminably with the key and lock, but at last she was at the instrument, panting.

"Hello! Hello! Oh! Yes, Mr. Morgan! . . . Yes." She was almost sobbing with relief. She left a tip beside her plate of almost untouched food, paid her check and ran through the cold, windy business street to the office building. She could stand it no longer; she must know something.

"I'm coming down, too," Morgan's deep, pleasant voice was saying. "It's rather lonesome at home, with Iris gone. But I promise not to keep you late. There are one or two points. . . ."

Nan hardly heard him, her heart was pounding so. Iris hadn't left a farewell letter. Did that mean that she was really going to New York only on an innocent pleasure trip, that she and Crawford had broken off their illicit relationship? Oh—did it mean that Iris had protected herself from pursuit by waiting until she was safely at a distance before breaking the news to her husband that she was not coming back?

For five days those questions hammered at Nan Carroll's brain. And then, when she was beginning to believe that all of her agony of suspense for Morgan had been wasted and foolish, and that Iris would come back to the security and honor of being John Curtis Morgan's wife, those questions were answered as she had known in her heart that they would be.

and quarreled over his attentions. Lois, just the day before the old lady was poisoned.

CHAPTER XVI

"What are you doing here, Nan Carroll?" John Curtis Morgan demanded with mock severity, as he entered his office at eight o'clock that Friday night. "I thought I told you to take a night off, for a change. You'll be getting me into trouble with the labor commission, if you don't watch out—"

Nan, who had risen at her employer's entrance, flushed and laughed, then whirled before him on the tip of a smart, flat-headed little brown Oxford, plunging her hands into the pockets of her brown velveteen suit. "Now dress! Size 13, junior department," she grinned. "Like it?"

"Oh, all right, all right!" Morgan pretended to capitulate resignedly. "Get your notebook and pen and your woman's intuition and come along. It's YOUR health! I suppose you can be permitted to ruin it if you insist."

"Premeditated!" There was that humorous, downward quirk of one corner of his mouth that Nan loved and delighted to call forth.

When they were seated at Morgan's desk, with the leaf for her notebook drawn out between them, Nan wished that a magic circle could be drawn about them, beyond which evil and change and even time itself could not pass.

"You look like a naughty but very pretty small boy in skirts," Morgan teased her. "No," he decided, regarding her with frank friendly eyes, "I'm sorry to disillusion you, if you're congratulating yourself on looking boyish, but I'm afraid you're incurably feminine. Nan. Not only in looks but in temperament. It's your feminine curiosity that's keeping you in this sweatshop when you ought to be out with your best boy friend, dancing holes in a pair of three-dollar chiffon stockings."

"No black mark yet," Morgan assured her, his deep-set black eyes twinkling. "He behaved pretty much as you predicted he would. Brainerd was wild by the time court adjourned, for he'd turned Ward over to me at half-past four and within five minutes he was making a better witness for the defense than he had for the prosecution."

"Curiosity?" Nan flushed with pretended indignation, to hide her consternation. Was it possible he suspected that she was watching over him, almost unable to let him one of her slightest blots fall when she was not there to comfort him? But that was silly, of course. How could he suspect? "Curiosity," she repeated more indignantly. "Well, I like that! Here I say to myself, says I, 'Poor Mr. Morgan will be working at the office till all hours on that Lois Downs case, and the least you can do, as a private secretary who's just got a fat raise, is to sit by with notebook and pencil—'"

"Yeah?" Morgan grinned. "You are just dying to know all about Andrew Ward's testimony. Could not wait till the morning papers?"

Becoming absorbed, she worked steadily until six o'clock, then went out for dinner at a restaurant in the neighborhood. But her anxiety for Morgan made it impossible for her to eat. She left a tip beside her plate of almost untouched food, paid her check and ran through the cold, windy business street to the office building. She could stand it no longer; she must know something.

"No black mark yet," Morgan assured her, his deep-set black eyes twinkling. "He behaved pretty much as you predicted he would. Brainerd was wild by the time court adjourned, for he'd turned Ward over to me at half-past four and within five minutes he was making a better witness for the defense than he had for the prosecution."

In this case, then had to turn Ward over to me. I thought the boy was going to rise up out of the witness chair and embrace me, he looked so glad of a chance to be cross-examined. Brainerd had undoubtedly warned Ward that he could easily get himself indicted as an accessory, if he tried very hard to help Lois from the witness stand, but he evidently cares more for the girl than—"

"Or believes her innocent, as we do," Nan interrupted eagerly. "If Lois is acquitted, there'll be no basis for an action against Ward as an accessory before the fact, but he may find himself indicted for the murder itself. SOMEBODY killed the old lady! But go on! Sorry!"

"Ward admitted, with the utmost willingness, on cross examination, that Lois had never encouraged his love-making; that she told him she had a sweetheart already; that he had defended the girl to his wife, taking all the blame upon himself. The old lady had seen him trying to kiss the nurse, you know—"

"And what I can't see," Nan interrupted, "is why Mrs. Ward didn't fire the girl then and there, since she was apparently so crazy about her husband that she didn't want to kick him out. Lois insists that she had no quarrel with Mrs. Ward, but that when Andrew told her his wife was insane, jealous of her she wanted to quit and told Mrs. Ward so, the very night the old lady died."

"Yes," Morgan frowned. "Her daughters have admitted as much on cross examination. They say the old lady was going to change nurses the next day, but asked Lois to stay until she had someone else. Of course Brainerd will contend that Lois, knowing she would be there just one more night, took advantage of her opportunity and slipped the strychnine into the old lady's medicine—"

"Which Lois says she never gave her," Nan interrupted. "Well, it's obvious that SOMEBODY gave it to her. I tell you, Mr. Morgan, our only bet is those fingerprints on the medicine bottles and on the bathroom cabinet. I've been hoping that something would point toward Ward as the guilty party, since he had the strongest possible motive, but as long as that's out, we'll have to trust to those fingerprints to create a reasonable doubt in the minds of the jury."

"Funny there were no fingerprints at all on the glass. It looks as if the murderer would have thought of fingerprints in the cabinet and on the bottles if he remembered to wipe them off the glass on the bedside table—"

"Hold on!" Morgan admonished her. "You're forgetting that those mysterious prints were made by a woman's fingers. It's 'she,' not 'he.' Well, we must be thankful for what we have. Those fingerprints prove that some woman—we know they weren't made by Lois Downs, either of the two daughters, or by any woman servant that had access to the apartment—SOME woman was in that bathroom handling poison bottles and touching the cabinet. But how in heaven's name she got there without being seen or heard, mixed a lethal dose for the old

"Ole Swimmin' Hole" Lures Scouts on Fourth of July

10-DAY CAMP TO BE HELD AT MASON, TEXAS

Encampment This Year Larger and Better Than Ever

The "ole swimmin' hole" will be a lure for the Boy Scouts of the Oil Belt council when they go on their 10-day encampment July 4 to Camp Martin in Llano county.

Last year the encampment was a joy to the boys and a success in every way, and this year a greater amount of wholesome pleasure is promised with a larger personnel of leaders.

Camp Martin is nine miles south of Mason, in Mason county, on the Llano river. A good road leads from the main highway to camp, with gates to open. A telephone is a short distance from camp, water for swimming and drinking. Plenty of good spring water. A beautiful picnic furnish plenty of shade about the day. The camp is equipped with a permanent mess and kitchen, all screened. The camp leaders will be quartered.

There are no mosquitoes in the area. The reason is said to be the fact that bats which eat numbers from a nearby swamp on the insect.

Eat—and How! Wholesome food, prepared by a professional cook, will be the Camp Martin. Plenty of lemonade, as well as ice all hours, will refresh the campers.

Swimming hole, with running water. A raft and wading gear will be provided for campers. There will be a troop of boys to bring the campers to the swimming hole. The "buddy" system will be used at all swimming holes. Competent instructors, mess, treasure hunts, sham trials, horse shoe pitch, various other games will be provided.

There will be a canteen at the camp with pure candies, fruit, camp supplies, archery materials, etc., stamps, etc. Each scout will be permitted to spend 10 cents a day for sweets. No limit on other purchases.

There will be a camp bank in which each boy will deposit his money upon entering the camp. He will be given a card by which to make his purchases. All money not spent will be refunded to the scout at the end of the encampment.

A fee of $9.50 will be charged each scout for the ten days of encampment, from July 4 to 14. All applications and fees must be in the scout office by June 29. There will be no refund if a scout leaves camp after entering. The scout code and law will be the rules of the camp.

Two Hole Out in One Stroke

WARREN, O., June 8.—Dr. E. D. Hoover, playing in a foursome at the Trumbull Country club, teed up on the third hole and socked. His ball sped the 195 yards to the green and rolled in the cup.

When the cheers and jeers for this hole-in-one had died down George Jones, another member of the foursome, stepped up to do his stuff.

"Now, boys," said Jones. "Here's another of the same."

And, believe it or not, it was.

TOKYO COPS GUARD MORALS OF THE PUBLIC

TOKYO, June 8.—That the rentie burglar is able with comparative immunity to carry on his nefarious pursuit at the expense of the citizens of Tokyo is not surprising when one considers the many absorbing interests which occupy the minds of the police of the capital.

In almost every issue of the local foreign newspaper there are references to the activities of the police in their role of guardians of morals and thoughts.

Dance halls, where modern youths and maidens disport themselves, cause the police a tremendous amount of worry. They are sure that dancing, in the so-called western style, is immoral, and besides the framing of innumerable regulations, exhaustive statistics are compiled where they work out to five or more points of decimas the minutest details as the girls employed as dancing partners and their masculine guests.

Cafes, too, of which so many have sprung up in recent years, call for the same supervision, regulations and statistics.

Just now a questionnaire is being issued to 10,000 cinema halls, with the object of determining the influence on the minds of young people and juveniles exerted by the movies.

Officials are required to state the number of minors who attend the cinema halls and the report as to the probable impression which these young people gather from the films shown.

A great amount of time is spent by the police in chasing "dangerous thoughts" and the activities of socialists and communists are continually under observation.

The police of Tokyo have really no time to catch burglars, much less to prevent house-breaking, and perhaps it is in recognition of this that the judiciary are considering whether a householder may be allowed to assault a burglar without incurring the penalties of the law.

Hitherto it has generally been considered that it was unlawful to resist a burglar. However that may be, a burglar very seldom met with any opposition whatever from his victims.

MARQUETTE NOW BEING SHOWN HERE

Auto dealers throughout the country today are displaying the Marquette, a new six, produced and distributed by the Buick Motor company. This car, which is the ninth in the General Motors line, and which will sell in the medium price field, is offered in six models—a two-door sedan, four-door sedan, business coupe, sport coupe, a roadster and a touring car.

The Marquette is an exceptionally large car for its price class, having a wheel base of 114 inches. Prices on the car range from $265 to $3105.

The six cylinder L-head motor and the crank case are cast in one integral unit. The engine has a bore and stroke of 3 1/8 by 4 3/8 and develops 67.5 maximum brake horsepower. Buick officials say the Marquette has remarkably quick acceleration and a maximum speed up in the seventies.

All models are designed along low swing radius lines. The bodies are built by Fisher and finished in Duco color combinations that follow the present fashion trends. The radiator which is covered with a metal grille is deep with a narrow chromium plated rim that balances with the chromium plated hub caps. The wheels are sturdy and carry large 28x3.25 balloon tires.

The Marquette has a new non-whirl Fisher VV type windshield which sets at an angle of seven degrees from the perpendicular and reflects all glare, whether from rear, front or sides, below the driver's line of vision.

Other features embodied in the Marquette include large internal expanding Duo-Servo four wheel

HOW TO WIN-

Weak men miss opportunities, strong men seize them, but the ablest make them. One never gets out of life more than he puts into it—and the basis of all success, the beginning of all opportunity lies in thrift. Self-denial and saving make opportunities to win.

A scene in the struggle waged by southern districts to keep "Old Man River" within his daries is graphically portrayed here. Workmen are trying to save the levee at Mounds Lake, a miles north of Greenville, Miss., where the 1927 levee break flooded Greenville. Above, the sledge system of levee building is shown in its first test. Sand, earth and silt is pumped from the bed to build the levee. Many skeptics have held that such a levee would never hold, but it has held so far. The battle to save the levee will be decided within the next two weeks.
