AIRPORT CONDITIONING IS COMPLETED Robison Placed on Stand to Answer Charges Personally TWO M'KENZIE JURORS ARE LACKING

ADDITIONAL VENIREMEN ARE CALLED

Evidence Is Expected to Be Started Wednesday

SAN ANTONIO, June 25.—Only two jurors remained to be selected Tuesday noon to hear the sanity plea of John M. (Pete) McKenzie, attempting to escape the electric chair for the murder of Chief of Detectives Sam Street here in 1927 by being declared insane.

Twenty-seven of the necessary veniremen had qualified for service when court adjourned Monday, and from that list the state used eight of its challenges and the defense nine, leaving 10 jurors that will hear the case.

Court adjourned this morning to allow the summoning of 15 additional veniremen from which the remaining jurors were to be selected. Both sides were confident the jury could be filled from this number and that evidence could begin Wednesday. Both sides have announced ready.

McKenzie spent last night in the San Antonio state hospital where he was under observation of attendants and specialists retained by the state. Defense attorneys made their observation of McKenzie immediately after he arrived here from the penitentiary Sunday.

ATTEMPT TO LIMIT COTTON LAND FAILS

AUSTIN, June 25.—An attempt to limit the percentage of farmer's land that he may plant in cotton was practically defeated in the house of representatives today when it was "indefinitely postponed" by vote of 71 to 41. The bill was offered by Rep. J. E. McDonald of Waxahatchie and 39 others. It provided for a farm commission which would determine the percentage.

Opponents referred to it as socialistic. Its supporters asserted that it is valuable in combating cotton root rot by requiring crop rotation.

The house passed the senate bill placing building and loan companies under supervision of the state banking department.

A virtual agreement on a prison location bill was reached at a meeting of a conference committee of house and senate members. They were to meet again this afternoon when a draft of the agreed bill was to be presented.

HAWKS TAKE OFF

EAST ST. LOUIS III, June 25.—Captain Frank Hawks took off from Parks airport here at 9:17 a. m. for New York where he will make final preparations for a one-stop round trip flight from New York to Los Angeles and return.

PRETTY PIANIST TOURS EUROPE

She looks like a gypsy as you see her here—and it's true she's a roaming musician. But Margaret Shotwell, above, as a fair-to-gaze-upon pianist from Omaha, Neb., and this is just one of the costumes she wears on a concert tour of Europe. She, hailed as one of America's foremost young musicians, is appearing in a series of recitals at the recently opened exposition in Barcelona, Spain. And you'd know she plays a pretty tune.

Road to Lake Cisco Will Be Oiled to Prevent Dust During the Heavy Traffic Expected on July Fourth

The road to Lake Cisco will be thoroughly oiled in preparation for the Fourth of July celebration, it was announced today by Street Commissioner Crigler Paschall and J. A. Bearman, general chairman of the committee on arrangements for the pageant. This work is being started today. Street machinery will be used to place the road in condition and the oil, which has been secured by Mr. Bearman, will be sprinkled on the highway.

This work is vital to the success of the pageant, Mr. Bearman declared. Considerable complaint regarding dust has been received from people who have used the road in times of heavy traffic and the elimination of this disagreeable condition will mean no end of comfort to the crowds who will attend the pageant.

MEAGER CLUES IN SLAYING OF RACKETEER

NEW YORK, June 25.—Meager clues to the killing of Frank Marlow, night club owner and prize fight manager, today set police on the trail of a mysterious girl who spoke 12 words over a telephone and disappeared shortly before Marlow was found bleeding to death in a clump of bushes in Flushing.

The first thing that detectives learned was that a friend of Marlow called him on the telephone at the Hotel Victoria last evening to discuss business. The friend, whose name police refused to divulge, said a girl answered the phone and told him: "Frank is not here, but he ought to be here any minute."

When police entered the hotel room, they found it vacated and there was no indication how long the girl had been there.

Marlow never regained consciousness after he was found by two motorists last night. Police knew Marlow was a racketeer, beer runner, gambler—an intimate friend of Rothstein—and more recently as an owner of night clubs.

NEGRO SENTENCED

LIBERTY, June 25.—Jesse Charles, negro, convicted during the term of court of the murder of Winnifred Knapp, white, last August at Dever, Tex., was sentenced by District Judge Thomas E. Coe to die on August 23. The negro's only hope now rests in the hands of Governor Moody.

TESTIMONY IS DEFERRED TO AFTERNOON

Fort Worth Attorney Only Other Witness Today

AUSTIN, June 25.—State Land Commissioner J. T. Robison took the stand today to answer personally the charges that have been filed against him in the house of representatives looking to articles of impeachment.

As only a short time remained until noon recess, members suggested that his testimony be deferred until afternoon, so that it might proceed without interruption. No objection was made and that procedure was ordered.

Attorney Lloyd Price of Fort Worth was the only other witness of the day. His cross examination by house attorneys resulted in repeated tilts of counsel.

House attorneys asserted that Price's responses to questions were not responsive but argumentative. Attorneys for Commissioner Robison said that the nature of the questions invited the answers given and that the answers were responsive.

Price personally took a hand in the discussion. "That's a veiled question," he said when one question was asked. "To answer it categorically would place my attitude incorrectly before the house."

Prior to Price's testimony a letter was introduced over protest of house attorneys. This letter which was signed with the name of Wallace Pratt, director of the lease department of Humble Oil and Refining Co. was addressed to Land Commissioner J. T. Robison. After making inquiry about lands being advertised for lease the letter said the oil industry could ill afford to develop or carry those leases and that the University could ill afford to bring more oil on the market because it would receive less than if it were kept off the market a few more years. It sold then, the letter said, tracts would fall into the hands of speculators at nominal prices.

Ex-Bandit and Old Sweetheart Are United Now

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 25.—After a separation of forty years, the romance of an Oklahoma girl and the leader of one of the most famous outlaw gangs of the early 90's was today to be brought to a climax here today.

"Cattle Annie," who brought aid and comfort to Jack Dalton and his gang while posing as a school teacher, and the bold outlaw of the Oklahoma-Kansas border, arrived here today to become the bride of the bandit chieftain.

After Dalton had served a penitentiary sentence, he turned reformer and lecturer. "Cattle Annie" drifted from his life. He never heard from the girl until two years ago. Today they meet before the altar.

Dalton was an uncle of the four Dalton brothers who raided Coffeyville, Kans., at the expense of the lives of three of them. He was also one of the 76 prisoners in the famed Guthrie jail delivery in 1895.

VICTIMS OF AUTO WRECK IDENTIFIED

TULSA, Okla., June 25.—Two soldiers and a youth and a girl, killed east of here late yesterday when their auto overturned, had been positively identified here today. They were Mae Caldwell, 22; Tulsa; Leo Letsgo, 22; Fort Sill; Martin Preston, 17; Miami; Leivin Hodges, Fort Sill.

Preston and Miss Caldwell were coming to Tulsa before leaving on a vacation trip to the East. It was presumed they had given the two soldiers a ride. Both Hodges and Letsgo were army uniforms and had furlough papers from Fort Sill in their pockets.

Coloring Can Be Taken From Gas

AUSTIN, June 25.—Purple gasoline can be de-colored the senate committee on state affairs was shown today by F. D. Hall, chemist for the Texas company. The proposed four-cent gasoline tax law provides that to exempt gas shall be colored purple. Hall showed the senators how the coloring could be taken out by use of Fuller's earth.

Feeding Fishes Is Tantalizing Sight

"Feeding the fishes" is literally true at the Cisco fish hatchery with none of the tragic connotation that the phrase possesses in startling years. On the contrary it is a sight to tantalize the fisherman instinct in the most confirmed urbane. One may never have experienced the thrill of battle with a fighting black bass on the distant end of a slender line but one has a vicarious experience of that in watching Superintendent S. B. Wright feed his charges of a late afternoon.

He who says a bass is hopelessly dumb doesn't know his bass. These denizens of the lake have a good eye for values. Like the good speculator, they will buy any likely thing once but after that they are not to be fooled again.

Mr. Wright picked up a piece of bark and tossed it into the pool. There was a flash of a silver and black body, a holl of water and when the ripple had gone away the piece of bark was idly floating on the surface. After that he could have tossed a bushel of chips into the pool and aroused not a flip of a fin.

But these bass knew it was feeding time. They knew where the feed was coming from and there they lay, a beautiful school of them from six or seven inches in length to 12 and 14, eyes pointed to the shore where Mr. Wright stood, expectant. They stare about casually at times, investigating some object, each apparently alert that some individual would get no prize surreptitiously.

Wright might have moved to another portion of the shore but as surely as he did the whole school of 100 would have followed him. They knew who he was and what was to be expected of him.

Presently a man came down to the edge of the pool with a bucket of beef heart cut into small pieces. He threw in a handful and the surface of the water boiled with streaking silver bodies. Hardly had the food touched the water until it was gobbled up with a gusto that suggested the terrific strain one of those creatures could put upon a line. Here and there they rushed on a mass, the law of the survival of the fittest instinctively recognized, following the shower of food with unerring accuracy.

Beef heart is considered the best food for fish. It puts bone and muscle in them. But like a child with cod liver oil they have to be taught to eat it, says Mr. Wright. He starts the teaching process by tossing in live minnows. Occasionally he includes a few pieces of beef heart. As time progresses the quantity of beef heart is increased as the amount of minnows is lessened. Finally they come to nothing but beef heart and like it.

The fish at the hatchery are fed three times a week. The monthly feed bill for the lot amounts to about $40, Mr. Wright said.

$3,000,000 MUST BE CUT FROM FISCAL BILLS

AUSTIN, June 25.—Three million dollars must be chipped off of the $2,000,000 appropriations tentatively made by the present session of the Texas legislature or a third called session will be under way next week.

This is in effect the ultimatum given individual members of the legislature who have conferred with Governor Moody.

Estimated income of the state for general purposes for two years is $49,750,000. Tentative appropriations are $32,000,000. Governor Moody has no power to scale down appropriations. He must either approve or veto.

"He will veto the appropriations and call us right back to reduce them if they run over the expected income," said Representative J. B. Snelgrove of Henderson after a conference with the governor. Rep. HARRY N. Graves of Georgetown also announced that the governor insists on keeping appropriations within the revenue.

Senator Tomas Pollard, finance chairman of the senate, claims the appropriations are within the revenue even at $32,000,000. He said that in estimating revenues no prison income had been figured.

Yacht and Rum Cargo Seized

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Coast guard headquarters made public today a report of the seizure of the North Carolina coast. Sunday of the American yacht Eolis with a cargo of rum aboard by patrol boat 232 which towed the craft into Morehead City, N. C.

According to the American register of shipping, the yacht, a 44-foot vessel, is owned by John McQuade, of Coconut Grove, Fla., but coast guard headquarters was without word on what action was taken regarding the craft's crew.

T.A.T. GROUP DUE TO LOOK OVER FIELD

Resumption of Sched- ules Expected With- in Short While

Officials of the T. A. T. were due in Cisco today or within the next day or so to inspect the municipal field. These officials will be asked to furnish the city and the airport committee of the chamber of commerce an outline of the system of marking that is desired on a field and this system will be carried out in the perfection of the port.

Grading and surface work on Cisco municipal air field has been practically completed after about two months of work upon the site, it was announced today. All hazards appearing upon the field itself have been eliminated and the additional land has been attached and cleared. The long ravine and small tank appearing in the center of the field have been eliminated, the level of this section raised to that of the surrounding area so that the entire tract presents a smooth, unbroken area upon which planes may land and take off with ease.

Additional Land.
The additional land is that contained in what is known as the Boggs pasture which has been leased for a long term. By means of this the runways are lengthened to such an extent that there is plenty of space for the largest planes. Elimination of the tank in the middle of the field was accomplished by dragging the earth from the higher contours and leveling it off. Street machinery under the direction of Street Commissioner Crigler Paschall was used for this work while city work camp labor was also employed upon the project.

The field is now in such condition that a person may shut his eyes and drive a car over it without danger, according to Mr. Paschall.

The preparation of the report here so that it will furnish adequate accommodations for the T. A. T. planes and planes of other concerns has been going forward steadily and quietly under the supervision of Mayor J. M. Williamson, Guy Dabney and P. P. Shepard. Mr. Shepard is chairman of the aviation committee of the chamber of commerce. As first prepared the field drew criticism from flyers because of the depression in the center and because of the shortness of some of the principal runways. Other hazards were also complained of.

By agreement between city and chamber of commerce officials and officials of the T. A. T. it was decided that the plans of the latter would cease to land on the port until a program of reconstruction could be carried out. This is now practically completed and with the T. A. T. O. K. on the site the resumption of stops on the Dallas to El Paso air line is expected to take place at once.

Two Pro Agents Given Prison Terms Two pro agents in Kentucky given prison terms by juries. They appealed the case to Federal Judge Charles L. Dawson. That is, they presented a motion for a new trial. Frank Sears was the victim of the pro agents. Federal Judge Dawson overruled the motion. He declared that Sears was not under arrest when he was shot; that he was not charged with a felony, that he was shot nine times in the back, according to the evidence. In Old Kentucky it appears to be unsafe to shoot a man in the back—shoot him nine times when he is not charged with a felony.

An Arkansas Mother An Arkansas woman, the mother of 16 children, sneezed a plea of guilty to a liquor selling charge. Mr. Joe Post is a farmer; Mrs. Joe Post is the wife. Mr. Post is said to have conducted a retail liquor selling business on his farm. Mrs. Post accepted full responsibility for the sale and then entered a plea of guilty to a charge of liquor selling.

This in a federal court. She drew a year and six months in federal prison and $100 fine. There are 12 living children. Farmer Post remains on the outside of the federal prison in order that he may care for his large family.

In Arkansas the woman appears to pay—in the Post case willingly and without regret or remorse.

POT SHOTS —AT— POLITICS —BY— Col. Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald. AUSTIN

Mrs. Hoover's Tea Party Mrs. Herbert Hoover gave a tea party. It was staged at the White House. In the limited list of guests was the negro wife of a negro congressman from Illinois. Thus for the first time a White House tradition was shattered and the Old South was given the greatest shock it has known since the close of the war between the states.

"Terrible, terrible, terrible," was the comment of the governor of Texas. Deep regret was voiced by the senior senator from Texas, the father of the 18th amendment and one of the authors of the 19th amendment. Sweeping condemnation was given along the line under southern skies huge wrenches are being thrown into the political machinery of these commonwealths.

It is a long call from Washington to Hoover. In the beginning, this was a white man's government established by white men. It is safe to predict that the faith of the fathers and the tradition of the fathers will be upheld by the voters under southern skies who believe that the government made by white men shall be maintained for white men by white men throughout the ages to come. Political equality may come some Financial Aid for the Farmer An appropriation of $150,000,000 has been made by the congress as recommended by the president to place life in the farm relief act. Will it be the old story of relief for those who do not need it and hush for those who do need it? Watch and wait.

That the business concerns who study the preferences and demands of their community and who advertise consistently in local papers are the concerns who have an ever increasing volume of business. Quality, up-to-date goods and newspaper advertising are the prime requisites of success.

Women like to read the advertisements. In fact, they usually read the ads before they shop in order to know where the best bargains are to be found.

With men, time seems to count more. When it comes to shopping they are always in a hurry. They know what they want. Look over the ads, find who has what they want, go right there, buy it, and then on their usual business.

People today are busier than ever, accomplishing more and having more fun doing it, and appreciating more and more what the service of newspaper advertising is doing for them.

Newspaper advertising offers every citizen an opportunity to save money as everything worth having is advertised.

Leading business concerns know that newspaper advertising is essential to success.

Fortune has smiled on those concerns who have been continuous advertisers. They have shown an amazing progress as a result of advertising.

Fighting Fires Costly Luxury BRACKLEY, Eng. June 25. — Fire fighting is a hobby, and an expensive one, in this tiny village.

The Brackley fire brigade is purely an honorific and independent band of fire fighters, for the town council has never given it any money.

Thirty-two years ago they bought their present fire engine but it is about to fall apart. The brigade, despite the council's refusal of money for a new engine, is going to buy one itself.

The fire fighters have saved $2,000 from charity fetes, and each of the members is donating approximately $200 out of his own pocket, for the purchase of the new engine. Although this will not pay the entire price of the engine, three of the fire fighters are underwriting the remainder. The fire brigade drills three times a week and receives no pay.

Palace Sunday

Scene from 'Noah's Ark' starring Dolores Costello with George O'Brien & Warner Bros. Production

"NOAH'S ARK" STUPENDOUS PRODUCTION

Manager Greer of the Palace Theatre announces next Sunday as the date set for the premiere of the world's greatest talking picture "Noah's Ark". This epic of the screen took more than three years in the making, and includes over ten thousand extra characters in the cast, beside the stars who play the principal parts. Dolores Costello is starred with George O'Brien. Others are Noah Berry, Louise Fazenda, Gunn Williams, Paul McAllister, Nigel de Bruiler.

The sets for "Noah's Ark" covered more than a square mile, and the buildings necessary ranged from modern sequences, portraying Paris and scenes in the war zone and the French countryside, to staggering creations such as the Tower of Babel, temples devoted to the worship of heathen gods, marvelous scenes of the Flood, and the Ark itself—made after the proportions mentioned in Genesis.

The story is tremendously moving, spanning as it does the rainbow of fifty centuries—through which the hearts of humankind have remained unchanged. "Noah's Ark" is Vitaphone's most tremendous vindication.

"Noah's Ark" made to top any picture ever made, comes to the Palace Theatre Sunday next for a run of three days. This stupendous spectacle, which includes more than ten thousand in the cast, was over three years in the making. Vitaphone is used for sympathetic accompaniment, for sounds and for the voices of players—the grandeur of the effect can be imagined from the fact that the play covers the most dramatic moments in the span of fifty centuries—the modern story having to do with the period of the World War and the ancient sequences portraying scenes of the

FARMER'S WIFE AT ABILENE GAINS DAILY

Was Greatly Worried Over Her Condition Until Orgatone Ended Troubles.

"My wife has gained in health and strength by taking Orgatone and has improved so much she really looks like a different woman," said W. D. Mitchell, residing on rural route 5, Abilene, Texas. Mr. Mitchell is another well known farmer in this section of Texas who is an Orgatone booster for what the medicine has done for his wife.

"My wife had been a sufferer for eight years from stomach trouble," she continued, "and got so bad he could hardly eat enough to keep her alive. She had no appetite and what little she did eat seemed to do her more harm than good. Her food would not digest and after eating gas formed in her stomach and kept her in misery for hours. She was all the time complaining of sick dizziness spells and her nerves shattered so she could hardly sleep at all, and she would worry all the time over her condition. She kept getting weaker and thinner all the time. Nothing she would take in the way of medicine or treatment did her any good and she kept on complaining and seemed to be getting worse instead of better.

"We had heard so much comment about the Orgatone treatment we decided she had better try it, and I am sure glad she did for it seems it has gotten rid of all her troubles. She eats anything she wants now and it don't hurt her at all. She sleeps like a healthy child and get up in the morning feeling hearty and strong and actually able to do all her own house work. She has been entirely relieved of all pains by Orgatone and says she is better in every way that she has been in years."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific bile preparation and is sold in Cisco, exclusively by Dean Drug Co., under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.

PAIN IN HIS SIDE RARELY LEFT HIM Sometimes a Thumping Sensation Made Him Nervous, and His Head Ached.

Crystal, W. Va.—"For several years I suffered with indigestion," says Mr. W. M. Barger, of this place. "I had a pain in my right side, which rarely ever left me. When I woke up in the morning, it was always with a bad taste in my mouth, and I frequently was troubled with sour stomach."

"Sometimes a thumping would start in my side, which made me very nervous. I was all out of sorts. At times, I would have headache so bad, I would have to leave my work."

"Black-Draught was recommended to me by a friend, and so I began taking it. I started by taking a small pinch after each meal, and before very long I was feeling much better. I kept up the medicine for some time, and my improvement was so great, I felt better than I had felt in years."

"The pain in my side left me, and the sour stomach quit altogether. I have found Black-Draught an effective preventive for sick headache and constipation and those troubles which come from constipation."

CHAPTER XXX

With the sometimes deadly innocence of childhood, it was Little Curtis Morgan who unwittingly completed the destruction of what hope had been left to Nan that happiness would come to her before the close of her wedding day.

The first unfortunate episode occurred at the dinner table. Although Nan had looked with desperate intensity to be alone with her husband over their first meal together as man and wife, her love for the child had made it impossible for her to exclude Curtis from what he evidently regarded as a family celebration. He was almost hysterically excited—his liquid black eyes dazzlingly bright, his cheeks scarlet. He had told the splendid news to Little Pat, who had obligingly given the younger child a number of pointers as to just what his father's and Nan's marriage meant.

Estelle had outdone herself, so that the table at least was as festive as a bride could have desired. Nan, however, could not but remember that the exquisite china, crystal, silver and Italian linen had been accumulated by her predecessor. Iris again! The centerpiece of delicate, lovely little sweetheart buds had been bought and paid for by Estelle, however, as a wedding gift to the girl who had been long-distance housekeeper for months and was now mistress of the Morran house.

Maude O'Brien, the cook, had flavored every dish of the wedding feast with her love for the bride and groom. But, Nan, at the head of the table, scarcely tasted the delicious foods that were placed before her by Estelle. Opposite her, John Curtis Morgan seemed to have as little appetite, but Curtis, seated between them, ate of everything with frequent, loud expressions of approval.

Whenever the father was engaged in conversation with the boy, Nan stole glances at him, dropping her eyes swiftly when he looked her way. How distinguished, how handsome he was in his new dinner clothes! A perfect white gardenia in his buttonhole. She had been surprised and deeply touched when he had come home from the office with a huge florist's box under his arm. Atop the mass of long-stemmed yellow roses she had found the lone gardenia, had adjusted it later in the buttonhole of his dinner coat with trembling fingers, while he smiled down upon her—his eyes almost as shy as her own. Oh, he was trying to "play up," trying so hard to make her feel like other brides.

Well, she was playing up, too. Estelle and Mrs. O'Brien had gone into raptures over her new evening dress of ivory taffeta, the long "period costume" skirt embroidered with a deep border of golden poppies. On the left shoulder of the snugly fitting, very-low-in-the-neck little bodice she wore a cluster of three of the golden-yellow roses that her husband had brought her. Under the lights, her swirl-waved, short brown hair gleamed like a cap of burnished, beaten copper. Did Morgan really think she was pretty? He had told her so, as she adjusted his gardenia.

But what was Curtis saying? Nan gave the child sudden, startled attention.

... and Little Pat says Nan's my mother now. Is she, Father? I got a mother. Can a kid have two mothers, Father?

Nan did not dare look at John Curtis Morgan's face. She would not have recognized the hoarse, strained voice that answered, "Yes, Curtis. Just 'Yes,' with no explanation, no attempt at justification. But what else could he say?

"Gee, that's swell!" Curtis astonished Nan by exclaiming happily. "The kids at school will stop teasing me now. I guess! All time saying, 'Curt Morgan's mother run off and left him'; 'Curt Morgan ain't got no mother'! Betcha they'll wish they was me, when I tell 'em I got TWO mothers! Won't they, Father? Won't they, Nan?"

Fortunately, Curtis seldom waited for an answer. He rushed on now; "Won't my other mother be surprised when she comes home? I'll have two mothers at home, and you'll have two wives, won't you, Father?"

During the four years she had known and loved John Curtis Morgan there had been many times when Nan's heart had ached sickeningly with pity for the hurt which Iris Morgan had inflicted upon him. But the pain that stabbed her heart now made every other pain she had ever felt seem trivial. And as always, she suffered because he suffered, would have died to spare him.

The door from the butler's pantry swung open. With a gasp of relief, Nan realized that the father would be spared the necessity of answering an unanswerable question.

Gosh! What a cake! Curtis shouted, beating his hands together in a frenzy of delight. "What kind of cake is that, Estelle? I never saw such a funny, pretty cake—"

Estelle laughed, as she set the tall, white cake, surmounted by a tiny bride and groom, before her new mistress. "That's a wedding cake, Curtis. Maude made it herself, Miss—I mean ma'am."

"Oh—that was dear of her," Nan faltered. "You've both been so kind—"

"Can I have the man and lady dolls, Nan? Can I?" Curtis clamored, and her husband, at the foot of the table, seized the excuse to laugh. The tension was broken. Nan laughed, too, and the magnificent cake was cut. So that Maude might not have her feelings hurt, Nan forced herself to eat all of the thin slice she had taken upon her own plate, but Maude might have flavored it with quinine instead of almond; the bride would not have known the difference.

The second incident occurred immediately after dinner. Nan Carroll Morgan was destined that night to be spared nothing. It in- nocent, blundering little Curtis had been a graduate of the In- quisition, he could not have de- vised more exquisite tortures for the girl who had, in all humility, agreed to become a mother to him.

Quite as a matter of course John Curtis Morgan led the way into the drawing room, Curtis dragging at his hand and chattering blithely. Nan forced her reluctant feet to follow them into the room dominated by Iris Mor- gan's beautiful, almost life-size portrait. She had not long to wonder what revenge Iris would exact of the interloper.

Her husband paused at a table to fill his pipe, but Curtis impatiently and automatically dragged him to the center of the room, so that they faced the fireplace and the portrait.

"Listen, Father! Listen!" Curtis commanded shrilly, pointing to the portrait of his mother. "Do you think Nan is as pretty as my other mother? Do you, Father? I think she ALMOST is, don't you, Father?"

Nan's heart stood still for a second, then lunged sickeningly. She was glad she stood behind them, that she could not see Mor- gan's face. Glad, too, that he could not see hers.

Before her husband had time to answer, Nan's clear, friendly lit- tle laugh rang out. "I know what I think, young Curtis, my lad!" she cried, her voice convincingly gay and firm. "I think it's time for you to go to bed, or you'll get a black mark on your health chart tomorrow!"

That was a potent threat. The child released his father's hand and came toward his new mother, obediently, if reluctantly. "You'll come upstairs with me for just a teeny while, won't you, Nan? Good night, Father."

When Nan returned to the drawing room 10 minutes later, the feel of Curtis' kisses still upon her lips, she found her husband half-sitting, half-lying in his own particular armchair beside the fireplace, his head thrown back, his narrowed eyes fixed upon the portrait of the wife who had de- serted him.

Nan was about to turn and flee unable to endure more, when her husband caught the faint rustle of her taffeta skirt. He was instan- tly upon his feet, a smile of wel- come routing the brooding melan- choly from his distinguished, austere face.

"If he says, 'Alone—at last!' I'll scream," Nan said to herself as she waited for him to reach her. "For we aren't alone! We'll never be alone as long as SHE sits there, mocking us, smiling, gloating because she knows he'll always be hers—"

"Well, Nan?" Morgan put an arm about the girl's bare shoulders and pressed her close against his side. For a breathless moment Nan thought he was going to kiss her. But he drew her gently along with him to a small Empire sofa, so placed that Iris' portrait was not visible from it. Was that why he chose it? Nan wondered, but was grateful.

When they were seated, Nan taking exaggerated pains with the arranging of her long, poppy- splashed skirt, Morgan again put his right arm about her shoulders and with his left hand gathered up both her cold little hands, lifted them, brushed his lips against the rosy finger-tips.

"Glad you're—here, Nan?" he asked at last, huskily.

"Yes." She could not manage more just then, with her whole body trembling to his touch.

His arm tightened about her shoulders. "I'm—happier than I've been for a long time, Nan dear. It hasn't been a very orthodox wed- ding day, has it?" he added re- gretfully. "But—the worst is over, I think. Curtis. . . Of course you know he adores you," he blun- dered on, his voice thick with em- barrassment. "We can't expect him to understand—can we?"

"No," Nan said simply, but her voice sounded cold, odd. Oh, why didn't he kiss her? She had wait- ed so long. Nothing would matter nothing could hurt very deeply, if he loved her, even a little. "I—it's rotten luck that we had to postpone our—trip," her husband went on, haltingly. "Poor little Nan? Precious little Nan!" And he laid his cheek against her shining brown hair, his arm crush- ing her shoulders with sudden vehemence.

Nan waited, holding her breath, her heart beating so loudly that she was afraid he would hear its clamorous, despairing message. "I love you! I love you! Don't you love me at all!" Surely NOW he would kiss her. But he lifted his head, began to speak again, in that halting, embarrassed way which was agony to her!

Think of the blessed convenience of a table salt that never lumps, cakes or hardens . . . that pours as freely in humid or rainy weather as in dry! Morton's Iodized Salt does this because it's made with cube-shaped crystals which tumble off one another instead of sticking together like the flake crystals of inferior salts.

State Tax Rate Will Be Raised From 64 Cents to 77 Cents, the Maximum, in July, Treasurer Says

By RAYMOND BROOKS
Daily News Austin Correspondent.

AUSTIN, June 25.—The state tax rate will be raised from 64 to 77 cents, the maximum, in July.

This has been stated by members of the legislature and confirmed by Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher, member of the automatic tax board which will make the increase.

This means there will be $7,000,000 more property tax collected in the next two years than in the past two years.

Appropriations now being made are based on the maximum tax rate of 35 cents for support of the state government, instead of the 22 cent rate that applies this year. Members of the appropriations and finance committees have conceded that the maximum rate will be required to meet the lowest of the two sets of appropriations bills.

and the total appropriations into consideration and compute a rate to bring in the required money, limited by the 35-cent maximum tax rate fixed in the constitution.

ROCKET TO MOON IS NO LONGER FANCY

PARIS, June 25. — A rocket to the moon no longer is a fantasy and one may be fired from the earth before another 12 months have rolled around, according to members of the Societe Astronomique of France.

German, American, Austrian, and French scientists have been collaborating with such effectiveness that voyages by rocket to the moon to Mars, and to Venus are considered theoretically practical. But the astronomers have not yet reached the point where they consider the advisability of inserting a passenger into the rocket—even if they found such a willing person.

The entire question of interplanetary navigation which has been the preoccupation of central American scientists for many years reached a climax at a meeting of the societe astronomique, when the Hirsch prize of 5,000 francs was awarded to Prof. Herman Oberth for his research in this field.

Professor Oberth, who is a German and only 35 years old, has developed what are considered entirely feasible methods of escaping terrestrial attraction or gravity. The problem up to the present has been how to escape this attraction and yet not make the experiment prohibitive by excess of fuel.

Professor Oberth has solved this problem by constructing a double-rocket, emitting hydrogen and oxygen gases at a speed of 2,500 feet a second. This speed of emission of these gases and the effect of the gases upon the surrounding atmosphere are calculated to neutralize the pull of gravity and to permit the rocket to get clear of the earth.

In view of the importance of this contribution Andre Hirsch and Robert Esnault-Pelterie, themselves pioneers in interplanetary navigation and donors of the

LITTLE LEFT TO BRING BACK OLDEN DAYS

By RALPH HEINZEN, United Press Staff Correspondent.

CHAUMONT, France.—This old city, once capital of the A. E. F., has wrapped itself again in the calm of the provincial city of France but will never forget its glorious days when General Pershing made the headquarters of his army in an old French military barracks and brought here most of the grand figures of that day—Clemenceau, Wilson, King Albert of the Belgians, Haig and many others.

Chaumont lives in the past, but the tourist coming here would have to search hard for any trace of the American occupation. There is a little marble plaque on the town hall walls, but you have to be really curious to decipher the script which informs you that General Pershing was received there in September, 1917.

Of the many hastily built structures which housed the brains of the A. E. F. and the staff offices where the American battle plans were drawn up in all their careful detail, but little remains. Only one of the many temporary barracks is in place and it is used as an office by the roads superintendent. When General Pershing came to take over Chaumont for the American army, he resided in a painted house, "La Gloriette," which faced on the great open square, the Champ de Mars. That place is now a home for aged, and no trace can be found of General Pershing's occupation.

The Rouvre Chateau. Later he moved to a beautiful chateau on the Langres road and it was there that he received many notable visitors, President Wilson and Mrs. Wilson spent several nights there. It was given rent-free to the Americans by its owner, M. Rouvre, who still lives there.

The bookkeepers of the A. E. F., the general staff itself and all its branches lived in the army barracks Danremont which were rather unattractive before the American occupation. Army electricians, painters and carpenters went to work and within a week a complete metamorphosis took place.

The troops of the French army now barracked in Chaumont have the most agreeable lodgings of the whole army. They live amid the comfort that the Americans put there for themselves. The barracks are lighted by electricity; there are bath-rooms and shower-baths, a movie theatre, library and real mess tables to sit down to. All these were gifts of the Americans when they left.

The municipality sought to venerate the memory of the A. E. F. and changed the name of one of the principal thoroughfares to the avenue des Etats-Unis (avenue of the United States), but the name is rather long to pronounce, so many of the older citizens call it by its previous name, rue du Pont.

General Pershing has come back to Chaumont several times, and he is still the greatest figure of the war in the eyes of the population. Elsewhere in France, the glory of the A. E. F. may have been dimmed by time and victories belittled, but not in Chaumont.

Keeps Up Correspondence. Every family keeps its memory of some American boy, and many of these French people keep up an intermittent correspondence with the boys they billeted 10 years ago.

Some of the proudest citizens in town are those who called upon General Pershing just before his departure 10 years ago to offer him as the town's gift, gloves for himself and his son, Warren, and a golf knife with the coat of arms of Chaumont finely etched.

In keeping with a French tradition, General Pershing gave each of the visiting delegation a 25-cent piece of American money. Tradition has it that you must not accept as a gift a cutting instrument, and General Pershing knew this, so he "paid" for his gift with quarters. These quarters are cherished family heirlooms now and happy is the merchant or doctor who can pull a Pershing quarter from his pocket.

At the town hall, the town clerk will voluntarily show you the municipal documents which created Pershing an honorary citizen in July, 1918, and it was in that capacity that the general later distributed the prizes to school children at graduation time.

A sort of reverence surrounds the person of old Marthe, now a toothless old woman but who, 10 years ago, baked the croissants which General Pershing took with his coffee every morning. Pershing pronounced her croissants the finest he had ever tasted, and Marthe rose in the esteem of the town while her bakery attracted such crowds to taste her croissants that she could not bake them fast enough, obliging her to sell out for a small fortune.

Killing panthers or bears is a common occurrence for a Port Davis rancher, for since 1900 he has slain 130 bears and a few days ago, shot his 100th panther.

200 YOUNG PEOPLE ATTEND FIRST SERVICE

Two hundred members of the Sunday school of the First Baptist church were on hand for the opening service of the meeting last night. The young people's department had the greatest percentage of their number present, there being 45 of the 99 enrolled present.

Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church of Wichita Falls, came in at noon yesterday and spoke last night. His theme was "The Blessed Life." He said in introducing his subject, "It is significant that Jesus took the word 'blessed' as the keynote of his great and first sermon. The word means happy. Jesus is saying here that the religion he came to bring is a happy and joyful one. The speaker dwelt at length on this phase of his subject then turned to the statements of Jesus, "Ye are the salt of the earth," and "Ye are the light of the world." It was a message filled with practical and piercing truths and made plain by many apt illustrations. This evening is special young people's night. A reserved section of pews will be set aside for the young people of the entire community. There will be delegations of young people from Rising Star, Eastland, and the East Cisco Baptist church. A special invitation is urged to all the young people of Cisco. This group will sing a special hymn, and give a special number.
