PLAN NO DRY PROPAGANDA IN SCHOOLS

INTENTION IS DISAVOWED BY U. S. TREASURY

Pamphlets Prepared for Those Who Wish Them

By CECIL OWEN
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Protests which followed publication of the prohibition bureau's extensive plans for an educational campaign in schools of the nation caused treasury officials today to disavow any intention of disseminating propaganda in the public school systems.

Publication of excerpts from the pamphlet brought to the attention of high treasury officials for the first time the full extent of the bureau's educational activities. Under Secretary Ogden L. Mills, after conferring with Secretary Mellon called a conference at which the explanatory statement was issued. Assistant Secretary Seymour Lewman and Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran were present.

"The treasury department is not expecting to carry on a system of propaganda in the public schools in connection with its work," the statement said. "Many states have laws requiring that the effects of alcohol and narcotics on the human system be taught in the public schools."

Pamphlets Proposed
"The bureau of prohibition has prepared a limited number of pamphlets which contain accurate information on these subjects as well as the economic phases of prohibition and they are available, should they be desired."

"The federal government is not going to supply any teachers or lecturers for this work, but upon request from the regular constituted school authorities the bureau will furnish such pamphlets and information as it has available."

Reports that Washington schools were to be selected for a test of the prohibition courses suggested by the pamphlet, aroused a storm of dissenting comment from school officials. Several members of the school board protested they would never permit prohibition or any other propaganda to be taught in class rooms here.

Meanwhile, the prohibition bureau was proceeding with plans for $50,000 educational campaign authorized by congress at the last regular session. Miss Anna B. Suttler, who is in charge of the effort, will place details of the educational work before the national education association's annual convention in Atlanta, Ga., this week.

Cisco Century Plant Blooms for First Time in 17 Years

Here is a picture of the first century plant to bloom in Cisco since when nobody knows, so far as the Daily News is able to find out. The picture shows the long flower stem which shot up from the plant proper to a height of about 12 feet. The plant itself is not visible.

The plant was in bloom about two weeks and drew large numbers of spectators. The flowers are the first which it put forth since it was set out by Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Rinehart in their yard here 17 years ago. Seventeen years without blooming is a long time but the Century plant is noted for the rarity of its blossoms, a fact which gives it the name. Century means a 100 years but the plant in reality blooms oftener than that, its periods of blossoming being irregular, according to botanists.

The character of the flowers may be judged from the picture. The blossoms were very beautiful and rich in color.

PRESIDENT IS CHAIRMAN AT LIONS MEET

Lion President Orn was chairman at the noon luncheon of the Lions club today. Lion L. A. Tullios led the Lions roar with Lion Acker C. Miller leading the singing.

Rev. O. L. Powers of Wichita Falls, who is helping Rev. A. C. Miller, pastor of the First Baptist church in a revival service, gave the feature address of the program. His subject was, "The Worth of a Man," and his handling of the subject was exceptionally good.

Program committee for next Wednesday is Jack Anderson and Bob Heron.
Lion Dr. M. C. Carlisle was appointed to secure a bathing model to represent the Lions club at the revival July 4.

SMALL BOY IS DEAD AFTER AN OPERATION

EASTLAND, June 26.—Hune Hornsby Wilkins, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wilkins of Eastland, died Monday afternoon at the Payne-Carter hospital, after an operation for acute appendicitis had been performed Sunday.

Hune is survived by his mother and father and two brothers, Cordie, 14, and Guy, Jr., 8.
Funeral services were conducted at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from the Eastland Baptist church, after which the body was interred in the Cross Roads cemetery. The Rev. W. T. Turner conducted the funeral services.
The pall bearers were: J. R. Carlisle, E. C. Satterwhite, Green Hazel and Mr. Selbert. Honorary pall bearers were the boys of Hune's Sunday school class.

Woman Bitten by Copperhead Which Invaded Her Home

When Mrs. W. B. Wroten, living in the Mancill addition in Cisco, got out of her bed at 3 o'clock yesterday morning she felt a sharp jab of pain as something struck her foot. She got a flashlight immediately and discovered a copperhead snake coiled in one corner of the room near which she had passed.

It had bitten her in the heel. She called to her husband who seized a broom and killed the reptile. The snake had apparently entered the home through a door which had been left ajar during the night. The Wrotenes have cultivated flowers profusely about their home and it is thought that the snake had been lying in a bed of these during the day.

Medical aid for Mrs. Wroten was summoned immediately. She is recovering.

NEW OFFICERS FOR MASONS ARE INSTALLED

Witten, worshipful master; Fred Steffey, senior warden; Charles D. Arnold, junior warden; E. J. Poe, treasurer; John F. Patterson, secretary; Vance Littleton, senior deacon; Joe Carrothers, junior deacon; L. D. Wilson, senior steward; Lee Brown, junior steward; Leon Tullis, tiler.

Officers of the Chapter are: I. Nicholson, high priest; Jake Bowman, king; L. D. Wilson, scribe; D. K. Scott, captain of the host; L. E. Cotulla, principal sojourner; J. W. Ridgeway, Royal Arch captain; B. W. Patterson, treasurer; John F. Patterson, secretary; Charles F. Mayhew, master of the third veil; Joe Britain, master of the second veil; Dan D. Mitchell, master of the first veil; Charles D. Arnold, guard.

KATY WISHES TO ELIMINATE TWO TRAINS

The state railroad commission on July 9 will consider the application of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad to discontinue the operation of passenger trains 35 and 36 between Waco and Rotan, it is announced in a bulletin recently issued from Austin. The application of the railroad is based upon the statement that the cost of operating the trains is in excess of the earnings of the two.

The trains involved pass through Cisco at night. From May 1, 1928, to April 30, 1929, inclusive, the trains showed earnings of 31 cents per train mile and 32 cents per train mile, respectively, according to the petition of the road. "Out of the pocket" cost of operation, not including wear and tear on track and equipment, interest on money, liability, and other items, is declared to be 70 cents per mile.

People nowadays are not riding local passenger trains nor using them to any extent for express, says the application, but are using the buses or their own automobiles.

Mr. and Mrs. John Patterson Return

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Patterson returned Monday from a trip of more than three weeks into Tennessee and North Carolina where they visited relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson spent a week with Dr. S. R. Miller, half-brother of Mr. Patterson, at Knoxville, Tenn., and then continued their trip into North Carolina where they visited Mrs. O. C. Britton, a daughter, for two weeks. Both staid the trip well and found the vacation a very enjoyable one.

NON-STOP FLIGHT.

MOTION FILM MEN TO HELP STAGE EVENT

Picture Will Be Made by Calcium Lights at Night

Participation in the Fort Worth Bathing Revue on July 28, with expenses paid, is the prize at stake in the Cisco Beauty Pageant which will be presented here next week as the main feature in the Fourth of July celebration at Lake Cisco. The winner of the Fort Worth show will be given a trip to the Beauty Pageant at Havana, Cuba, as a prize.

Representatives of the Paramount and Pathe news reels will be present to assist in staging the revue and to make pictures of the contestants. Calcium floodlights will be installed for this purpose and some exceptionally attractive motion picture effects are certain to be made of the scenes. The conduct of the revue will be placed upon the highest plane. A committee of outstanding Cisco women will chaperon the event.

At Nine o'Clock.

The revue itself will take place at 9 o'clock. After the judging is over the Country club will entertain the girls, their escorts and sponsors at a ball opening at 10:30 at the Country club's club house. Admission to this affair will be by card. At the same time the lake pavilion will be the scene of a dance for the public.

The Ford-Green Music company is purchasing a public address amplifying system which will be installed at the lake so that the various events of the revue will be clearly audible to all parts of the area over which the crowd will gather for the pageant. Special lighting effects are being designed and installed by the West Texas Utilities company of this city.

So far three bands, in addition to the Lobo band, have definitely promised to be on hand to take part. These bands are Eastland, Ranger and Olden. Plenty of string quartets and other items will be provided for the evening.

Preceding the revue the big outdoor swimming pool over which the stage for the pageant will be erected, will be the scene of a water carnival including swimming and individual exhibitions, aquatic stunts and contest, and so forth. Numerous entries for these events are being received. The pool will also be open to bathers during the evening.

Fireworks Display.

A gigantic fireworks display situated against the background of night sky and mountains across the lake from the pavilion will be another and beautiful feature of the event.

Business firms of Cisco will be permitted to enter girls in the revue. No business firms of other cities, however, will be allowed to compete, each such city being allowed to send one girl to represent the entire town.

In the afternoon a regatta, including three or four racing contests will take place on the lake. Contesting boats from several other large lakes in the state are due to be on hand to participate in this regatta. A silver loving cup is the grand prize in the events while other prizes will be offered.

BILL LIMIT PAY DEFEATED.

AUSTIN, June 26.—A proposed limit of $15,000 in the amount of any official can draw in salary and fees, was defeated in the Texas senate this morning. Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller broke a tie vote that had been cast on the bill.

"Yankee Lady" Given Credit for Legal Help Being Given to E. V. Allen in Fight to Escape Chair

DALLAS, June 26.—A "Yankee Lady" was given credit today for the legal help being given E. V. Allen, condemned bank robber, in his fight to escape the electric chair.

"Seems like a little piece in a newspaper up in New England, telling about me getting the 'chair' for robbery attracted the lady's attention," Allen told a newspaper reporter today.

"The lady lives in Brookline, Mass.," Allen said. "She wrote me a letter and I answered it. One day she sent me a check for $10 telling me to buy some cigarettes and other things."

"Now, I'm not going to tell you her name but she's a Yankee lady and a fine one, too. No matter whether I escape the chair or no, she's sure been good to me and I'll always remember her."

Allen said that through her influence the American Civil Liberties Union, of New York, took a hand in his case and hired two lawyers to fight for his freedom in the court of criminal appeals.

He was convicted 18 months ago of robbery of the bank at Carbon, Eastland county, Texas.

REPORTS ARE HEARD BY C. OF C. BOARD

Reports by W. H. LaRoque and Secretary J. E. T. Peters on their trip to Tyler for the opening of the new milk plant in that city and reports on the preparations for the Fourth of July celebration here and other projects occupied the attention of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce at their meeting last night. The board also considered the selection of a business manager for Randolph college. This selection will be made under an agreement by which the board of the college will select a business manager acceptable to the chamber of commerce following the campaign here by which $50,000 is raised for the school.

Mr. LaRoque told of his impressions of the agricultural revival about Tyler and the potentialities of that section as reviewed during the celebration incident upon the opening of the milk plant there. His report took the form of an article appearing in today's issue of the Daily News.

Report was made by J. A. Bearman on the plans for the opening of the road to Lake Cisco for the July Fourth celebration. Work on this project was due to begin today.

B. S. Huey, a member of the board of directors of the West Texas chamber of commerce, gave the board some inside information on the session of the WTCC body at Abilene at which A. M. Bourland, temporary manager of the WTCC was named temporary manager to succeed Homer D. Wade, resigned.

Commissioners in Equalization Meet

The commissioners court of Eastland county convened Monday on a board of equalization to equalize the value of all taxable property in the county with the view to determining what the tax rate for the county shall be.

Several days will be required for the completion of the work, according to County Judge Clyde L. Garrett.

The commissioners sitting as a board of equalization are: V. V. Cooper, precinct No. 1; T. G. Gray, precinct No. 2; J. T. Poe, precinct No. 3; and B. Britain, precinct No. 4.

IDENTIFIED AS BANDIT.

TEXARKANA, June 26.—Paul Smith, 23, was held here today after being identified as one of the four bandits who held up the Miller County Bank and Trust company here May 22 and escaped with $30,000. Miss Lucille Dennis, who identified Smith, claimed she watched the bandits from an adjoining building.

CONVERSATION WITH MOODY IS REVEALED

"Law or No Law" Statement Is Attributed to Gov.

AUSTIN, June 26.—Testimony that Governor Moody and R. L. Batts, a regent of the University of Texas, told him to withdraw university land from lease until the legislature met, "law or no law," was given by State Land Commissioner J. T. Robison today in the house of representatives' hearing of charges against the land commissioner.

Commissioner Robison also testified that Attorney General Claude Pollard after saying he had doubts about the law said "But I would do it anyhow because the governor and regents want you to do it."

"Claude, I don't know how to run the land office that way," Commissioner Robison testified he replied.

Commissioner Robison testified that the "law or no law" statement was made after Governor Moody had read the supreme court opinion in the land-lease case at Robison's request and said Judge Batts also had doubts.

Sent to Printer.
Robison said lists advertising the leases on the land were first sent to the printer Nov. 10. Before the proofs came back he had gotten Attorney Lloyd Price, representing Abilene applications, to reduce the amount of acreage sought in the first sale. When the proofs came back he checked over them omitting all from the Jan. 2 list but approximately 100,000 acres.

This he said comprised lands specifically asked for by Price and odd tracts that were left in to prevent cutting up blocks.

Robison testified that informal protests against the sales had begun in November. He named R. L. Batts of Austin and Robert Holliday of El Paso, regents of the university, Jacob Walters, attorney for the Texas company, and Governor Moody as protesters. He said there was also letter protest from President Nazro of the Gulf Production Co. and from Geologist of the Humble company.

Detailing the conference at Dilley between him and the governor, Robison insisted that he never said that only 2 sections or 12,000 acres would be offered Jan. 2 but that he said he could not fix the amount. Talking sections, he said, was used only as a basis for discussion.

Yielded Everything.
"I yielded everything," Robison said, "except that for which I had a specific demand."
His action in insisting on placing land on the market for which there was a specific demand, he testified would have been the same no matter who made the demand, as the law required him to do so according to his understanding of it.

When he refused to withdraw from his position at Dilley, Commissioner Robison said the governor told him that if he did not withdraw the lands, he would call a special session of the legislature at great expense and throw the responsibility on Robison.

"Governor, you had better proceed. You haven't much time now," Robison said he answered.

LODGE MEETING.

There will be a regular meeting of the Cisco Lodge A. F. & A. M. tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Masonic hall.

Annual Need of Highways The state highway commission has let it be known that if the program of highway development is to be speeded up to meet the general demand, "the annual income of the state highway department from state sources ought under no circumstances to be less than $30,000,000."

In addition to this the highway commissioners said the people of this commonwealth have an investment of not less than $1,000,000,000 in motor vehicles and that these are of value to their owners in proportion to the condition of the highways or roads over which they are operated.

These commissioners of highways take the position that material reduction in the motor vehicle license fee will seriously cripple the work of the department "and that a 50 per cent cut would be ruinous."

They advanced the argument that the people are not clamoring for a large reduction in license registration fees, but are seeking good roads and properly maintained highways. There is another side of the picture, according to the lawyers.

They say that the owners of motor vehicles are demanding a sweeping reduction.

They say that the highway department has expended $86,000,000 in two years and five months and instead of a fund shortage they have approximately $15,000,000 in the treasury strong-box subject to check.

It is said the figures were prepared, by request of course, by State Areas, Gregory Hatcher, Texas is an empire state. In area, it is as large as New England and New York and a slice of Pennsylvania thrown in for good measure.

C. O. Moser, president-general manager of the American Cotton Growers Exchange, Dallas, says: "President Hoover says that the farm problem is the greatest of our domestic economic problems. The public has heard and learned much about it during the past three or three years. However, there is yet in the minds of the public an inadequacy of understanding concerning the problem from both the standpoint of the farmer as such, and his relations with other essential groups. An industry which directly employs more than 25 per cent of the population of the country and supplies raw material for other industries employing more than half of our industrial workers, whose finished products make up more than half of our commerce and exports, in addition to supplying food for all of our people, deserves to be not only intelligently understood, but regarded and dealt with accordingly to its tremendous importance.

During the past hundred years, when the so-called agricultural problem was in the process of development, one of the chief causes of man has been that of organizing into strong economic groups, through which they have struggled with one another for favorable positions in the exchange of the products of their endeavor with others. As a matter of fact, all commerce, in the final analysis, is simply the exchange of labor and services. The fact that the farmer has shared badly in these exchange relations is largely his own fault, for the reason that he has not evidenced a willingness to employ the recognized and proven methods of putting his industry in a position of equal opportunity for making equitable exchange.

The first step in this direction is effective organization, and not until the farmer recognizes the indispensability of group action with his fellow farmers is there any reasonable expectation for the solution of the farm problem. The elimination of waste in distribution, effective financing of production and marketing, acquisition of necessary facilities for processing and preparation for marketing, and equality of opportunity through legislation are simply the products of organization necessary to the solution of the farm problem. Farmers are making splendid progress along these lines. Approximately one-third of all the products of agriculture are now marketed through their own cooperative organizations.

Farmers ask no favors, which have not already been granted either groups; they approach the problem only in a constructive way. They recognize the necessity for prosperity in other groups and only ask that they be permitted to share in a fair portion of the national prosperity. We sincerely believe that a prosperous agriculture will reflect still further and more permanent prosperity, happiness and security to the nation as a whole.

Oh Well! Better Late Than Never!

E. H. Whitehead, Publicity Manager of W. T. C. C. Resigns to Become Assistant Manager of S. T. C. C.

STAMFORD, June 26.—E. H. Whitehead, who has served as publicity manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce for the past four years, has resigned his position with the regional organization, to become assistant manager of the South Texas chamber of commerce with headquarters at Corpus Christi, according to an announcement made by officials here Thursday. Whitehead's resignation is to become effective July 10.

Reason given by Whitehead for his action in quitting the West Texas chamber of commerce was that he desired to gain a statewide viewpoint of chamber of commerce work. The West Texas publicity man will have charge of an extensive advertising campaign on South Texas and the lower Rio Grande valley. He will also be in charge of organization work of the South Texas regional chamber of commerce, being associated with Ray Leeman, general manager of that body, who was formerly assistant manager of the West Texas organization.

Whitehead has had the change in position under advisement for several weeks, but due to the resignation of Homer D. Wade as manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce the publicity manager's resignation was not submitted to A. M. Bourland, president, until the selection of a new head with according to his tremendous importance.

FRANCE JAILS MANY BANKER MILLIONAIRES

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN, United Press Staff Correspondent. PARIS, June 26.—The United States may have its Sinclair case but France has been busily occupied during the past few months in jailing many of her millionaires.

The affair started in the ranks of bankers. There was an epidemic of suspicious failures in business and investigations led to many interesting disclosures regarding transactions of many notable men in the world of finance and likewise led to prison for the individuals concerned.

The latest recruit among the moneyed jail-birds is painted as a much more sinister figure than any of the others, however, since his financial transactions are alleged to have involved the violent deaths of at least two people.

This man, declared to be the most remarkable character to have appeared in a French criminal trial since the days of Landru, is 32-year-old Charles Barataud, being tried at the Assizes at Limoges, in southwestern France. Every day when he is conveyed from jail to the court house he is surrounded by a squad of cavalry to beat back the angry mob, clamoring for the head of the youthful millionaire.

Enraged Mob. The trial had to be postponed one day because the general commanding the local garrison wrote to the judge stating that he could not supply a force of troops sufficient to ensure the safety of the prisoner against the enraged mob in the streets.

Barataud is accused of having murdered the driver of a taxi-cab for the sake of his money and to have later shot to death a youthful friend who knew Barataud's secret. It is alleged also that he planned the murder of two other persons who, however, suspected his intentions and were able to overcome him when they kept the rendezvous he had made with them in the woods near Limoges.

The weak point in the prosecution's case is to show cause why Barataud, the son of a millionaire and himself ranking as having a like amount of wealth, should kill a taxi-cab driver, unless he had been overcome by mania.

Two Suicide Attempts. All kinds of legends have been woven around Barataud by the local people. He was credited with the declaration that he would never be brought to trial. Twice he was found in his cell with knife wounds and nearly died both times. Another time a warden found a 50 dollar bill carefully rolled inside a packet of cigarettes which had been brought him.

The trial is likely to go on for weeks yet. Meanwhile, fresh forces of infantry and cavalry have been requested from neighboring garrison towns.

The town is well placarded with bills denouncing the partiality of the court towards the prisoner, since it is contended that his money is in his favor. This case recalls that of another millionaire and aristocrat, the Comte de Rojac, who a few months ago received sentence of seven years imprisonment for the murder of his son born to the family servant girl. There was an outcry then because it was claimed that the family's money had saved the noble youth's head from the guillotine.

An El Paso man was so delighted when a jury freed him on a charge of conducting a wholesale fish business without a license that he presented each juror with a big fish for supper.

After putting parties were warned to quit parking on highways around Port Arthur, an officer was surprised to find that several couples had selected a local cemetery as the next best place.

OIL NEWS OF SOUTHWEST

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 26.—Independent oil struck first oil at 3,793 feet in No. 1 Gardner in the Asher pool. The well flowed 266 barrels in 24 hours Monday. It has a small show of sulphur water.

HOUSTON, June 26.—The Yount-Lee Oil company again has shattered the deep drilling record in the coastal area by drilling to around 7,400 feet in their No. 4 Crowley, some 1,700 feet north of the present production at Jennings, La. Not alone is it the deepest test ever drilled in this section, but promises to be the deepest producer as it is showing for a well.

The former deep drilling record and deepest producer was the Yount-Lee No. 6 Latrielle in the same field, completed three weeks ago with an initial flow of 2,500 barrels of 33 gravity oil. It still is flowing at the rate from a depth of 7,300 feet.

These interests have made a location for No. 4 Latrielle, 500 feet to the north of No. 6, and have also made a location for No. 5 Crowley.

TULSA, Okla., June 26.—An increase of 46,943 barrels in daily average crude oil production was registered last week in all parts of the nation, the Oil & Gas Journal reported.

The national total daily average was 2,706,129 barrels, with an increase of 45,415 barrels of light oil.

Mid-Continent field production, mounted to a total daily average of 1,523,095 barrels.

Oklahoma increased from 674,355 to 679,155 barrels, while West Texas declined from 370,106 to 369,297 barrels. The Texas Panhandle was up 4,693 barrels to 91,010 barrels.

Kansas continued its steady increase going from 120,710 to 121,210 barrels. The Gulf Coast was up 1,687 barrels to 151,165 barrels.

California fields registered an increase of 37,000 barrels, due largely to an increase of 30,500 barrels in the Santa Fe Springs area. California's daily average was 874,500 barrels.

The Eds had it in the Electra chamber of commerce and agriculture, for Ed Schlawke, who was president, resigned, and was succeeded by Ed Moreland, first vice president, and Ed Klein is second vice president.

Smith County Learning to Apply Brains to Farming

CISCO COULD PROFIT FROM EXPERIENCE

Business Men Must Push Movement for Better Farms

Editor's Note: At spasmodic intervals there has been discussion in Cisco about a movement for a milk plant of some character. So far the interest generated by these discussions has gone in the direction of providing a supply while the market is left to take care of itself. Right at present there is a revival of the topic in process with a meeting to be held here on July 9 to talk cheese plant. What the outcome will be is to depend entirely on the determination with which Cisco merchants and other business men tackle the proposition. Talking hard times and supinely wishing for good times is not going to do it. Pessimism is not only energy wasted. Like chronic poisoning it gets fatal if allowed to go on. The only way to stop it is to turn the wasted energy to something productive. Complaint, after all, is nothing more than the admission of inferiority. The following article by W. H. LaRogue, suggests a recent trip to Tyler for the opening of the big milk plant there, contains some splendid suggestions for the employment of this energy.

The opening of the powdered milk plant at Tyler, Texas, on June 22, at which Gov. Dan Moody, prominent railroad presidents, bankers and many citizens from widely scattered sections of Texas, were drawn together for a common purpose of learning more about now to secure a plant for themselves or to learn the extent of their value to the state or community, was productive of much good to Texas.

The casual observer looking at much of the worn-out red hills and pale sandy soils of that section would think that Smith county certainly does need to turn to some other form of farm industry if it is to hold its place in the list of prosperous counties of the state. Now to a certain extent this is true. It is true that in the history of the dairying development over the country that necessity has been the great factor in making a community turn to dairying for success. Whenever a section has allowed the fertility of its soil to deteriorate through leaching, or through a one crop system, the idea of dairying appeals to them strongly because it will give them an immediate return in a money crop and the manure, if used wisely, will help to restore the soil fertility. It will also allow for a systematic rotation of crops that will of itself in time restore this lost vigor.

30 Years Too Long. Smith county waited 30 years too long to begin terracing. Hill-sides have been leached by the abundant rainfall of the section until great gullies have scarred on their surfaces. Once fertile slopes have been planted in a one system crop until available humus and plant food has been almost entirely depleted. Now it will be necessary to terrace all sloping land first so that any added fertility will not be lost. Then to apply a small amount of the proper kind of fertilizer, as determined by a chemical analysis of that particular soil. A continued rotation of crops and cowpeas or other legumes will gradually restore original fertility. This will be hastened by the manure from dairy barns and by the grazing of cows on certain parts of the farm, planted to temporary pasture. The same thing that is true of Smith county applies to Eastland and many other counties of Texas. The remedy is the same.

Fruit Trees Die. For 30 years Smith county has been known as a great fruit section, yet thousands of acres of trees have been allowed to die through lack of proper pruning and spraying. People here in the west are learning that a tree must have its trunk protected from the hot sun, else it will crack open and insects will enter and begin to bore into its heart, ending in death to the tree. Depredations from insects are more deadly now than in years past because of their increasing numbers. This on account of diminishing number of birds. The writer noticed that most trees now alive had been pruned until they had only a little top like an umbrella.

Yet in spite of these decaying influences Smith county still has rich resources as shown by a pageant of girls during the ceremonies celebrating the formal opening of their milk plant June 22. These girls were dressed to represent 15 great resources of the county and the following information was brought out:

Five cars of cabbage was shipped last year; asparagus to the value of $20,000; watermelons, $25,000; strawberries, $100,000; pepper, 18 cars; peaches, $75,000; not counting that carried by 4-H club girls; pecans, $250,000 mostly from a 1,200 acre farm; sweet potatoes, $50,000; blackberries, 4 cars valued at $150,000; roses, 200 cars valued at $250,000; tomatoes, 1,000 cars valued at $1,000,000; corn, $800,000; one farm producing 122 bushels per acre; cotton, 47,000 bales, valued at $4,230,000; ornamental shrubbery, $75,000.

What Will Result? Now if a county that has allowed its natural resources to run down and most of its fruit trees die can do this what will it show when the dairying business gets in full swing and the process of restoration of natural resources gets going?

The next industry that Smith county will develop is that of poultry. It is strange that this should have been neglected, but it has. As mentioned before, people have to be driven to projects that require mental effort and special habits of industry. A poultryman or a dairyman must be on the job 365 days a year, while other crops require only spasmodic attention.

The cotton farmer has his work laid out for him without any special mental thought. It is the same itching up process each day with just driving up and down the row. No salesmanship is required like selling produce. The cotton or wheat farmer just drives in to market once a year and says, "What is it worth?" The buyer fixes the price.

The produce man says, "my strawberries are worth 60c per gallon." If his produce is extra fancy or nicely wrapped he can obtain a premium over his competitors. That's salesmanship. So that is why a rich and productive county like Smith or other counties, wait so long before they are literally driven to apply brains to their farming operations.

One of the things that helped in the promotion of Tyler's milk plant was the fact that business men bought a car of dairy heifers and financed the sale of them to boys and girls through the agency of one bank. Then they bought another car of registered stuff and financed it through another Tyler bank. Thus the boys and girls were brought into the agitation and their interest will be the means of perpetuating this industry.

The Lions and Rotary clubs of Cisco are composed of the livestock men of Cisco. They are the men who do things and who are constantly trying to develop Cisco. Why not each member adopt a boy or girl out in the country who will raise a heifer calf into a cow. Cisco banks have always cooperated in any reasonable undertaking that is sound. They will cooperate in this, because like every other business man, they are sold on the idea that money for our clients means money for us. Our interests are mutual and inseparable.

"NOAH'S ARK" OVER 3 YEARS IN THE MAKING

"Noah's Ark" the talking picture which Warner Bros. herald as "made to top any picture ever made," has its premiere at the Palace Theater next Sunday, when it comes for a 3 days run.

Stupendous in conception, the production was more than three years in the making and includes in the cast over ten thousand extra characters. The story, which was written by Darryl Francis Scene from 'Noah's Ark' starring Dolores Costello with George O'Brien & Warner Bros. Production.

Zanuck, touches these moments of cataclysmic power between which lie fifty centuries. The characters play their parts in the soul-trying moments at the beginning of the twentieth century and are walled back to the days of Noah—to vast scenes of heathen debauchery—to the building of the Ark—the dark terror of rising waters—which destroyed all but the family of the patriarch. Sets covering more than a square mile were necessary to the production which was directed by Michael Curtiz, internationally famed as the director of great spectacles. The cast includes Dolores Costello, who is starred with George O'Brien, Noah Berry.

"Noah's Ark," the long heralded epic of the Flood, with sequences both modern and ancient, and a cast of over ten thousand.

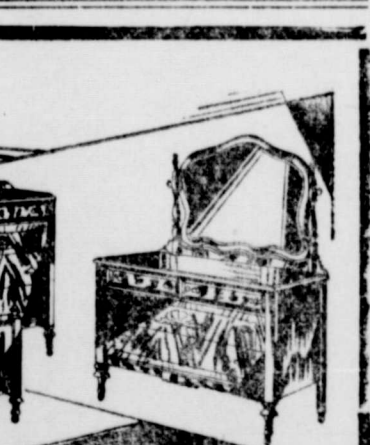

Vitaphone gloriously triumphs in voices of players—in sounds—and in symphonic accompaniment. See and hear the world's greatest picture. Vitaphone plays a magnificent role—in registration of sounds of flood and turmoil and in the lighter sounds of music and merriment.

"RACE HORSE" SERMON FOR MEN'S MEETING

Dr. O. L. Powers of Wichita Falls, who is doing the preaching in the meeting now in progress at the First Baptist Church has announced that he calls his race horse sermon, or "Going the Second Mile" for the special men's night service this evening. A large section of pews has been reserved for the men of the other churches and of the city who wish to attend. The men will sing a special hymn and a special musical number will be dedicated to them.

The special young people's service last night was met with a great response on the part of the young people of the town. Delegation from Rising Star and Eastland were recognized and given a good hand by the large congregation. The young people filled their section besides furnishing about 50 per cent of the choir. Their special number was a violin solo, "The Old Refrain," played by Ralph O. Johnson. They sang together the young people's hymn, "Loyalty to Christ."

Dr. Powers used the story of Jesus in Peter's boat as the basis of his very pointed and brilliantly suggestive sermon. "Jesus came upon the disciples here cleaning their nets," the speaker began. "They had toiled all night, and caught nothing and were ready to put up and quit. But they had been fishing around in the shallows. Jesus told them to launch out in the deep. Too many of us Christians play around in the shallows. But the big fish are out in the deep. And the hungry ones are out there. And there is freedom from all kinds of hindrances out there." And after drawing many practical lessons from the command to "launch out in the deep," the speaker warned his hearers of adhering too closely to the voice of experience as revealed in Peter's answer, "Master, we have tried that before," and challenged them to take up and heed the voice of faith in the words, "Nevertheless, at thy word we will let down the nets."

Dr. Powers is well known as a pulpit orator of brilliant ability and his practical lessons enforced by many illustrations delight the large congregations who are hearing him each service.

At a San Angelo sanity trial, one negro gave it as his opinion that another must be crazy, as he had refused to accept a dollar bill a woman had offered to give him.

WHAT IS CHRYSLER ENGINEERING?

It is a matter of opinion as to who did most in creating the automobile, but it is a matter of fact that Chrysler has done most in modernizing it.

Chrysler engineering, analyzed in simple terms, is a combination of far-sighted vision and resourceful genius that succeeds in accomplishing inspired improvements. In one word, Chrysler engineering is... Progress.

This is not a vainglorious gesture—it is a statement of plain, hard-shell fact fully borne out by the following partial list of advancements which Chrysler has pioneered, developed or popularized:

- Hydraulic Four-Wheel Brakes
- Rubber Shock Insulators
- "Silver-Dome" and "Red Head" High-compression Engines
- High Turbulence Offset Combustion Chamber
- Fully Counter-weighted 7-Bearing Crankshaft
- Non-wearing Chilled Cast-Iron Face Tappets
- ISO-therm Invar Strut Pistons with Tungsten Rings
- Rubber Engine Mountings
- Modern Plain Tube Carburetion—with Positive Pressure Pump Acceleration and Semi-Automatic Choke Valve
- Indirect Lighting of Instrument Panel
- Small Diameter Road Wheels
- Modern Roadster Body Type
- Beaded Belt Moulding and Modern Body Color Treatment

The Chrysler you buy today is the direct beneficiary of all the progress that Chrysler engineering has made in the five years of its brilliant history. Let us give you a demonstration.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
NAN CARROLL is in love with her employer, JOHN CURTIS MORGAN, lawyer. He, however, loves his wife, IRIS, who is beautiful but indifferent. Nan decides to resign, but lingers when she hears Morgan is to defend a supposed friend, BERT CRAWFORD.

NAN distrusts him and Iris. After Crawford's acquittal, he leaves town, closely followed by Iris. She writes Morgan she will never return, but cleverly omits mention of Crawford, whom Morgan does not suspect.

Nan saves Morgan from despair by diplomatically forcing him into his work. She acts as long-distance housekeeper for him for six months, winning the love of little Curtis, his son, and bringing comfort to a man who ironically thinks only of another. Returning from the capital where she took bar exams, Nan is informed by Morgan that he is divorcing Iris. She stutters a proposal. They are quietly married a few months later. They stop by the office on the way to the train, where Morgan shows her his wedding present to her—a new office and partnership with him in business. They are prevented from going on their honeymoon by the arrival of DAVID BLACKHULL, accused of murdering his wealthy father. Nan insists that Morgan take the case, leaving orders for dinner and instructing the maid to remove Iris' picture. When she arrives she revokes the order, however. At dinner little Curtis innocently strikes misery in her heart by asking his father if he thinks Nan as beautiful as Iris. A telephone call from NINA BLACKHULL, David's young step-mother, interrupts them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"Of course you're to do whatever you like with the house. Throw out anything or everything, do it over to suit yourself, dear Nan—"

"He means the portrait, but he can't bring himself to say so in so many words," Nan interpreted dreamily. "I shan't take it down. It's up to him—"

But he was going on, doggedly. "I want you to have exactly the kind of home you like. If you don't like this house—"

"Oh, but I do!" Nan interrupted, her heart pounding instantly to the pain which dragged at his voice. He loved the house. She would suffer anything rather than uproot him.

"I thought perhaps . . . But I'll not pretend that I'm not glad and relieved that you like it," her husband confessed, his voice almost normal. "Don't hesitate to make any changes, though. I want it to be YOUR home. . . . You can forget about me when you make your plans. I'll like anything you do. About my room—?" He hesitated and Nan's heart plunged. "I'm afraid I've grown rather fond of the little guest room, as we still call it. If you'll permit me to share your bath—you're taking me—I'll promise always to leave it spick and span for you—"

Above the roaring of blood in her ears Nan heard Estelle's voice, as if from a great distance:

"A telephone call for you, Mr. Morgan. A lady. She says her name is Mrs. Nina Blackhull—"

"Good Lord! Nina Blackhull!" John Curtis Morgan exclaimed incredulously. "I wonder if this means that she's on her step-mother's side. Will you excuse me, Nan?"

CHAPTER XXXI
Nan sat motionless on the little sofa, waiting. She had the curious feeling that she had at last touched bottom, after plunging through countless fathoms of the sea of despair. She thought she had lost all power to feel pain or love or hope. It was good to have touched bottom. Better to KNOW than to hope and to go on being hurt and hurt and hurt.

She did not know she was crying until a tear splashed upon the crisp ivory taffeta of her evening dress. Such a dear dress. Although she had been married that morning in a jaunty little tailored suit, she had thought of this as her wedding dress. Apathetically she watched the spot of moisture spread and spread. What a big tear! Another fell! The dress would be ruined. But what did it matter? Her wedding day was ruined. It was only fitting that the dress should be, too.

There was a step. Her hand jerked up, dabbed fiercely at her eyes with the tiny point lace handkerchief. The handkerchief her mother had carried on her wedding day. Had her mother wept into it, too?

Nan forced herself to show an eagerly interested face when her husband rejoined her. "There seems to be a conspiracy against our being together today," he grinned at her wryly. "The young widow of the murdered man is very mysterious, but she promises to talk fast enough if I'll come to see her this evening. I refused, of course—"

Nan had not put work ahead of love for four years for nothing. She was not pretending when she stammered excitedly: "Refused? But, John! What she has to tell may be of vital importance to David Blackhull. You should know what it is before the preliminary hearing tomorrow. I felt sure his stepmother was far more involved than David would admit today. Wait! I'll get his statement. Of course you're going!"

She ran into the library, jerked open her new briefcase, extracted her typed copy of David Blackhull's story and flashed back into the drawing room with it. "Listen!" she commanded, the old Nan again for the moment, a Nan sure of her worth and of her ground. No lovesick, despairing bride, this Nan. "I had a hunch when he was telling history this morning that he and his father quarreled over Nina Blackhull. Didn't you notice how he blushed and stammered when he mentioned her name?"

Morgan had undergone a change, too. Gone was the embarrassed, harassed bridegroom torn between an old love and a new loyalty. This was the man Nan had known and served for four years—the keen lawyer, meeting her eyes unflinchingly, with admiration and respect.

"Yes. Go on. Thank God for Nan's womanly intuition," he grinned, a corner of his mouth quirked down in the way Nan loved.

"Well, I can guess why Nina Blackhull wants to see you. She's frantic to know how much David told. I'll bet anything she vamped the youngster until he lost his head. Probably the old man saw or heard something that gave them away, and—why, that's the reason she'd left for Chicago in such a hurry!" Nan concluded triumphantly.

"But the will, which old Blackhull made AFTER she left, and AFTER he knew whatever it was that made him quarrel with his son, leaves everything but $10,000 to Nina," Morgan pointed out. "That's so," Nan admitted. She propped her round little chin on her right fist and scowled as fiercely as her husband. Then his face clearing, her eyes shining

"How's this? Sounds wild, grant, but I've got a hunch it's pretty near correct! As I said before, Nina Blackhull vamps young David until he's mad about her. He forgets for a minute she's his father's wife and makes love to her. Probably only a kiss or two. But enough for Nina's purpose. Very much the scandalized, virtuous wife, she goes to her dotting old husband, tells him that his son has taken terrible advantage of her motherly interest—has, in short, made love to her, and she can't live under the same roof with him another day. The boy was away the day she left and did not return till the next afternoon late, you know—the night of the murder—"

"Which Nina could hardly have committed, if she was in Chicago," Morgan interposed.

"Of course she couldn't! Do you think she'd risk doing it herself?" Nan was blithely scornful. "She knows, because the old man has told her—she made sure of

THAT, of course—that he is making a new will, cutting off his villainous young son and leaving everything to his loyal and loving wife, so grossly insulted by that villainous young son. See? . . . She goes, with all arrangements made for the murder to take place after the will has been safely made and witnessed and after the quarrel which will throw suspicion upon the boy. See?"

"I grant that of the two, the woman had the stronger motive," Morgan agreed thoughtfully. "Getting rid of an old husband and acquiring a fortune at one blow. But—what about an accomplice?"

"Ah! Though you'd catch me, didn't you?" Nan laughed. "But to tell you the truth, I had a hunch about the actual murderer before I became suspicious of the lovely Nina. I read all the stories in the paper before I knew the case was coming to us, you know. And two or three ago there was an obscure paragraph about the Blackhull chauffeur. Remember? He'd been questioned by the police, along with the other servants the day after the murder, and had nothing of interest to tell. Then suddenly the police woke up to the fact that he was missing. But Nina Blackhull explained it by saying she'd discharged the man—Bassett, his name was, I believe—for impertinence to her."

Morgan's face seemed to catch the glow from hers. "All part of her scheme, you think? She has a scene with the chauffeur, carefully staged so that it will be overheard, discharges him, so that he can have an excuse for leaving?"

"Attahoy!" Nan applauded gleefully. "The row and the dismissal were clever, weren't they? If anybody's interested a year or two from now, it might be enlightening to look up Mr. and Mrs. Bassett. The only way to explain it all is on the assumption that the chauffeur and Nina were lovers and plotted together to kill the old man for his money and her freedom."

"Now that THAT'S settled," Morgan laughed, "suppose the firm of Morgan & Morgan goes to call on the fair murderers." Nan was sorely tempted, but she shook her head. "No, John. You go alone. If Nina's the siren I think she is, she'd resent having me tag along. She wants to vamp some information out of you, and a—a—" she was about to say "wife" but could not utter the sacred word so casually yet—"a female lawyer would cramp her style dreadfully. No, you run along. I—I'm tired, anyway."

"I must say you're anxious to get rid of me!" Morgan protested indignantly. "I'm not going to leave you—you meretricious little slave driver!" And he put his arm about her shoulders and hugged her close.

Polo Game to Be Feature of July Fourth Celebration

COLEMAN AND WINTERS WILL BE MATCHED

Game Called at Chesley Park at 10:30 in the Morning

Arrangements for the polo game will be a part of the program for the Fourth of July celebration here next week have been completed. Coleman and Winters will be the opposing teams for this game. The contest will take place at the Chesley baseball field in west Cisco and the entire gate receipts will be turned over to the team.

Coleman and Winters are each champion in their respective districts and the contest here will assume the proportions of a struggle for the West Texas polo championship.

Although comparatively new to a section of the state in the fact that the best ones in the world come from Texas, has proven a game in Cisco. A recent between the Woodson team West Texas Utilities company of Abilene drew thousands of excitement for the game.

An engagement between two well matched teams of the class that will play here July 4 is the promise of thrills aplenty.

The game will take place at 10:30 in the morning.

BIDS ON 76 MILES OF ROAD ARE RECEIVED

AUSTIN, June 26.—The state highway commission received bids today on 76 miles of work on state highways and five bridge building and repair contracts. One of the latter is for work on the bridge over Blanco river on highway 46 in Blanco county which was damaged in the recent floods. Repairs to a damaged bridge over Yeager Creek in Blanco county is also included in today's contracts.

Other work on which bids were received is by counties:

- Dallas 6 1-2 miles of concrete paving between Coit road and Red Bud Road on highway 114.
- Dallas and Ellis, grading and drainage of seven miles on highway 6 beginning 2,200 feet from the dividing county line and extending toward Waxahachie.
- Dewitt, bridge over Smith creek on highway 119.
- Falls, bridge over Big Creek on highway 6.
- Crayson, 24 miles of concrete paving on highway 6.
- Medina, four miles of grading and drainage from D'Hanis west.
- San Patricio, grading and drainage of highway 123 from Sinton to Aransas river.
- Tarrant, paving from Kuteaman to Fort Worth city limits on highway 1 and concrete paving Grapevine to 12 miles east of Fort Worth on highway 121.
- Valde, paving of 17 1-2 miles of highway 3 from near Uvalde to the Gray county line.
- Wharton, bridge across Colorado river at Wharton on highway 12.

Illusion Crashes; Flea Circus Fake

HOUSTON, June 26.—Scientific experiments conducted with fleas have proved to Dr. M. A. Stewart, Rice Institute professor, that fleas are dumb and that flea circuses are fakes.

Dr. Stewart is conducting experiments to discover actions of fleas with bubonic bacilli. His explanation of the flea circus hoax came by accident.

The so-called flea trainers provide the intelligence they claim fleas have," said Dr. Stewart.

"They have platinum wires so thin about the fleas' necks that it takes microscopes to see them. The trainers attach the free ends of these wires to their fingers. Then they can make them go through their tricks on the stage.

"To make them 'waltz' they tie two fleas together. It's the most natural thing in the world for the insects, in trying to get away from each other, to skip around the table. That's the waltz.

"Making a flea play a miniature musical instrument is more difficult. They glue the flea to the table on its back and make a noise. With a piece of paper glued to its legs, the flea kicks about trying to right itself. That's when it plays the instrument."

In his experiments, Dr. Stewart uses the same kind of platinum wire to prevent the fleas from escaping.

FIGHT FANS SPECULATE ON BATTLE

Can Schmeling "Take It?" Is Question in Sport World

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, June 26.—What will happen when Max Schmeling's mighty right fist connects with Paulino Uzcudun's iron chin in the Yankee Stadium tomorrow night? The question gripped the attention of boxing fans throughout the world today.

Reaching the highest level of interest manifested in any boxing contest since the second Dempsey-Tunney bout at Chicago in 1927, a crowd of more than 60,000 and gate receipts of $600,000 was expected.

If Schmeling can't take it, this match is almost certain to prove that fact. Paulino is more of a mauler than a knocker-out, but if Schmeling can stand up under the constant, never wavering attack the basque has shown in his matches against Tom Heeney, Jack Delaney, Harry Hills, Johnny Risko, Otto Von Porat, W. O. Christner, Jack Renault, Knute Hansen and others there will be few who will question the German's ability to take it.

Betting odds today were 6 to 5, and pick your pick.

Opinion is pretty well divided over the outcome. Tommy Loughran, who is noted as an expert picker of winners, selects Paulino. Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, favors Schmeling. Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, thinks Paulino is too strong and powerful.

HOCSICK FALLS, N. Y., June 26.—Paulino Uzcudun rested today after completing his training for tomorrow night's bout with Max Schmeling. He weighed 169½ yesterday but expects to pick up a pound or two before he weighs in on the afternoon of the fight. Paulino will motor to Albany tomorrow morning and fly the rest of the way to New York.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., June 26.—Pronounced in the finest condition of his career by his handlers, Max Schmeling took it easy today after more than a month's hard training here. He weighed 182 yesterday, half a pound more than he expects to weigh for the fight. He will motor to New York tomorrow morning.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

By United Press.

Yesterday's hero, Val Picinich, Brooklyn catcher, whose home run with one on base tied the score and gave the Robins a chance to beat the Giants five straight. The score this time was 12 to 10.

The Boston Braves handed the Phillies their ninth successive defeat, 5 to 4, only to toss away the second game of a double header, 2 to 0.

The Philadelphia Athletics won twice from the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 1, and 3 to 2, increasing the Mackmen's lead in the American league pennant race to 10 full games.

New York's scheduled game with Washington was rained out.

Walter Stewart of the St. Louis Browns blanked the Cleveland Indians, 8 to 0, after the Indians had won the opener, 10 to 7.

It keeps your food safe — the temperature is well below 50...always!

For family health... for appealing meals... this is vital.

In the General Electric Refrigerator the temperature is kept several degrees below fifty... always! Fifty degrees is accepted by scientists as the "danger point" in the preservation of food. When the temperature rises even a degree or two above that, bacteria multiply, foods become unsafe to eat.

Perhaps you think your own refrigerator is always "cold enough." You cannot be sure unless you actually take your refrigerator's temperature. It is constant cold which is needed.

Countless superiorities give the General Electric Refrigerator its outstanding position... an hermetically sealed, dust-proof mechanism, mounted on top... an accessible temperature control... a new standard of quiet operation... no oiling... no troublesome machines... simplified installation... no extra interference... an unqualified two-year service guarantee.

The new all-steel cabinets and the hermetically sealed mechanism combine to produce what we believe is the finest refrigerator ever made. More than a quarter of a million homes are enjoying the convenience, economy and health-guarding services of the General Electric Refrigerator. And not one of these owners has ever paid a dollar for repair or service! This is a record in the industry.

The new all-steel General Electric Refrigerators are priced as low as $215 at the factory. A small payment down places one in your home. Visit our display rooms—see the new models—you'll agree that they offer the greatest values of all.

'T. B. CURES' RARE AFTER U. S. ACTION

Drug cures for tuberculosis have become a rarity in the interstate commerce of medicinal preparations, according to officials of the food, drug and insecticide administration. United States department of agriculture, who are charged with the enforcement of the federal food and drug act.

Records of the administration show that 181 so-called "cures," "remedies," and "treatments" for tuberculosis have been proceeded against in court since the food and drug act was made effective in 1907. Notice of judgment, numbering 358, have been issued against the 181 "cures." So effective has been the work of the administration in removing this class of drug products from the market that today there are but few medicinal preparations for which their makers make claim of curing tuberculosis, or even mention tuberculosis in the labeling.

Several consignments of an "external tuberculosis remedy" were seized recently and court action is now pending against them. The makers of this product claim to cure tuberculosis by applying the mixture three times daily to throat, chest, back and sides.

"Tu-Ber-Ku," "Tuberculoids," "Tuberculoid," "Lung Healer," "Lung Healer and Body Builder" are the names of only a few of the alleged tuberculosis cures which have been removed from the channels of interstate drug trade by the food, drug and insecticide administration.

Tuberculosis is almost universally present in adults as a latent infection. To keep this tuberculosis infection inactive, medical authorities advise a proper amount of work, recreation and rest, a proper amount and quality of food and fresh air. Any drugs, or combination of drugs, bearing curative claims for tuberculosis, are in violation of the federal food and drug act, say the officials of the administration. As such, they will be seized and legal action taken to prohibit their sale.

SCHOOL MA'AM GETS FLOOD OF PROPOSALS

EUGENE, Ore., June 25.—Alone in one of the most uncivilized districts in the United States—Egon Valley, Coos county, Oregon—Miss Henrietta Hansen, school teacher, probably has spent more romantic hours than any other person of her profession.

A newspaperman pierced the uncivilized territory, photographed Miss Hansen and syndicated a story about her. As a result she received "mash" mail, proposals and what not, by gay sheiks who sympathize with the fair teacher.

A spiritualist in Indiana, after seeing her picture, wrote her saying: "I can see that you are very sweet, pure, good and spiritual. You are very evocative and mediumistic. Watch your dream luncheons and follow them out." A letter for a free reading if Miss Hansen ever should go to Indiana, was enclosed.

One of the numerous proposals of marriage came from a wealthy land owner in Illinois. The letter which was written in an almost illegible hand and with pencil, read: "I am looking for a good, honest, single girl. I have a farm with all black soil. I never see a fall year. I don't touch on strong drinks and never was no tobacco youser. no card player, swearing and bad bad language. If you write to me I sent a post stamp. I got car with heater rear seat and front."

Nearly all of the letters were of this nature, according to Miss Hansen. Many professed a strong interest in the west, and sympathized with the young teacher in her lonely life. Many revealed that they believed Oregon and the west still to be overrun with bears, cougars and wild savages.
