ROME ASTIR TO WELCOME U.S. FLIERS

CROWDS WAIT AT AIRPORT FOR GREETING

Pathfinder Leaves Spain Early This Morning for Italy

LATE BULLETIN — The Pathfinder has landed at Rome.

ROME, July 10. — Preparations were completed early today at Littorio airport for the reception of the American monoplane Pathfinder and its fliers, Roger Q. Williams and Capt. Lewis A. Yancey. The aeronautical ministry was expecting the Pathfinder's arrival at about 7 p. m. (1 p. m. EST.) calculating the flying speed of the plane at about 110 miles an hour, inasmuch as reports indicated fair weather all along their Mediterranean route.

Large groups of Romans gathered at the airport to greet the Pathfinder's trans-Atlantic flight, in eastern standard time, follows:

- 7:48 a. m. (Monday)—Took off from Old Orchard Beach, Maine.
- 8:30 a. m.—Disappeared eastward into fog; weather 75 miles off Portland lightship.
- 2:47 p. m. (Tuesday)—Sighted near coast of Spain.
- 2:55 p. m.—Passed over Comillas, Spain, where French monoplane, Yellow Bird landed last month.
- 3:30 p. m.—Landed at Albericia emergency field, five miles from Santander, Spain, because of fuel shortage.
- 5:18 a. m.—E. S. Wednesday—Took off from Albericia emergency field, Santander, for its final hop of approximately 1,000 miles to Rome.

ed with newspapermen, photographers, motion picture operators, and officials at the air field. The officials pronounced everything in readiness to greet the fliers.

Officials were confident Williams and Yancey would land at Littorio inasmuch as it is in direct line of the fliers.

They had been forced down near here late yesterday when their fuel running short and thus cheated of what they had hoped would be a nonstop flight from Old Orchard Beach, Maine, to Rome, Italy.

They were at 8:30 a. m. today and went by auto to Albericia field, five miles away, where to

Time to Act!

The time has come to act! It is mighty hot weather to be thinking about anything that requires exertion but opportunity is something that waits on no man. For the past two years Cisco has been talking "milk plant." During those two years some things of value have been accomplished. But these things are only steps toward an ultimate goal. It is essential that if the full benefit of what has been done over that period be obtained for Cisco and the Cisco Country we must "get out and under." We must take the bull by the horns, grab the wildcat by the tail. In other words Cisco must make a determined decision and then carry the job to completion. Cisco must have a milk plant or a cheese plant. The dairy industry, said K. M. Renner, dairy marketing expert of Texas Tech, at the meeting last night, offers the farmer the largest margin of clear profit of all agricultural industries. That being true, and we grant Mr. Renner should know what he is talking about, our dairy industry is a boon to Eastland county. This county is a feed raising county. Plenty of feed is the prime requisite for successful dairy farming. So much for that. It has been proven. The Cisco Country has the cows. The survey last year showed that to be true. The farmers and dairymen are willing to buy more cows if they can find a market for their milk. That has also been proven. These farmers want a market. They are eager for anything that will help them to more prosperity. And their prosperity is the prosperity of the townsmen. If the Marshall plant can release $1,000,000 of new money in Harrison county in one year why cannot a cheese or milk plant in Eastland county do so well? The whole thing has simmered down to this. Cisco can have a plant if it wants one. It can have a plant if Cisco people are willing to put forth the effort that is required. Some money must be raised, of course, and there must be a measure of personal sacrifice to raise that money. But there never was anything worthwhile accomplished under heaven unless it was worked for. The value of an insatiable is measured in terms of energy. A city is only as large as the minds and willpower of its people.

District Governor Bernard Bryant to Be in Cisco Next Thursday for His Official Visit to Rotary Club

The meeting of the Cisco Rotary club tomorrow noon will devote itself principally to the installation of the new official family of the club, headed by Bruce C. Boney, incoming president, and an outline of the program of work and the organization for that program during the next 12 months.

Every member of the club should be on hand for this meeting. The meeting Thursday, July 18, will entertain District Governor Bernard Bryant, of Stamford, who will be here on his official visit to the club. This session will be given up to Mr. Bryant entirely. The district governor will visit all of the clubs in the oil belt district during that week, meeting with the Eastland club Monday, the Breckenridge club Tuesday, the Ranger club Wednesday and the Cisco club Thursday.

Mr. Bryant is also asking a meeting of the Rotary council for the day, this meeting to take place at 10 o'clock in the morning. The board of directors and the chairman of all committees and sub-committees compose this council. Rotarians B. C. Boney and Dudley Lee Monday and Tuesday of this week attended the meeting of the presidents and secretaries of the clubs in the 41st district at Sweetwater. This meeting was led by District Gov. Bryant. Among those who took prominent parts on the program were: Past Governors W. C. (Bill) Edwards, of Dallas, and Ellis Boyd, of Fort Worth; Louis Fox, secretary of the Fort Worth club for eight years, and Dr. P. W. Horn, president of Texas Tech, who spoke on "Rotary Around the World."

Temple was selected as the next meeting place for the 41st district conference.

Heroic Teacher Is Mourned by Town

MAGNOLIA, Minn., July 10. — The little community of Magnolia mourned today for its superintendent of schools, G. A. Magnuson, 35, who gave his life in saving the lives of two of his young charges. Magnuson, scoutmaster of the village Boy Scout troop, drowned after he had rescued two of his pupils in Indian Lake. He sank just after he had placed them in a boat and started them for shore.

JAILER'S WIFE AWAKENED BY DISTURBANCE

Togo Ray and Thomas Davis Involved in Attempt

An attempted jail break, in which the principals were the well known Togo Ray, Thomas Davis, and five other prisoners, was frustrated at the county jail at Eastland this morning shortly after 3 o'clock.

Four sets of bars were cut, three sets from three cells, and the fourth at a west window on the second floor. When the window screen was smashed, the noise awoke Mrs. Kilborn, wife of the jailer, and she awoke Jailer Kilborn, who rushed out with a gun and held the prisoners inside the jail until other officers arrived. A rope had been swung from the window to the ground.

The junior choir of the Cisco A. M. E. church will appear in a program at the First Methodist church Sunday evening, July 14, from 8:15 to 8:45. The program will be conducted by Mrs. Blanche Thomas, of the Pleasant Chapel A. M. E. church. T. W. Thomas is pastor of the A. M. E. church.

Marriage of Allis Carter, recorded as 15 years old, to John T. Desdazo, 79-year-old Civil war veteran, at Mena, Ark., has aroused residents of that city. Neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carter, parents of the girl, are quoted as saying that the girl is only 15 year old. The parents signed a legal permit for the issuance of a marriage license to the couple, shown above.

County Attorney Joe Jones Slays Huge Rattlesnake

EASTLAND, July 10. — When County Attorney Joe Jones arrived home about 11 o'clock at night with his family, after an automobile drive, he was alarmed at the rattling of a snake in some shrubbery at the rear of his residence, 411 Pershing.

The family rushed into the house, and Mr. Jones turned his car so that the headlights would play upon the shrubbery. Then he secured his shotgun and blazed away upon a big 4-foot rattler, coiled and ready to strike, killing the snake instantly.

ANGELENO IS ADDING HOURS TO NEW RECORD

CULVER CITY, Calif., July 10.—The air speed Angeleno, piloted by two "hard boiled hombres," continued in flight here today adding hourly to the world's endurance record for all kinds of aircraft.

And though they were hard boiled, Loren Mendell and "Pete" Reinhardt kept their ship always within calling distance of the Culver City airport where they must land to make official the new record.

Flying low and with its motor apparently working perfectly, the Angeleno started its ninth day in the air at 7:29:30 a. m. At that time it had been in consecutive flight for 192 hours, some 18 hours beyond the previous record.

Says He Is Victim of Circumstances

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July 10.—Considering himself a victim of circumstances, W. W. Thompson, federal prohibition agent who led a raiding party which shot down two Pottawatomie county farmers, continued to joke with his three assistants in the county jail here today.

What happened to me is just what may happen to any man who goes out to enforce the law," Thompson said. "I've been lucky, because in my 30 years as an officer I've never killed a man and I didn't kill Oscar Lowery or James Harris," he added.

New Orleans Walks to Work Again Today

Company officials announced today no effort would be made to resume service for a day or two pending repair of tracks and company property destroyed by rioting and pillage that cost the lives of two strikers, injury to a hundred others, and property damage close to $100,000.

Identical Names Cause Confusion in Death Report

SWEETWATER, July 10.—If Buster Mitchell, former Sweetwater and Cisco high school and college football star, is dead, he is not aware of the fact, he said today when informed that he had "died" in a Cisco hospital yesterday from injuries received in a fourth of July auto wreck near that city.

Friends of Mitchell today called his attention to a story in a Dallas newspaper, telling of his death.

For the past few months the former college football star has been at his home here after attending Davis-Ekins college in West Virginia last year where he starred in the grid game.

Mitchell formerly played football with the Sweetwater Mustangs, the Cisco Lobos and at Randolph College in Cisco.

As far as can be ascertained no other "Buster Mitchell" ever attended either Cisco high school or Randolph College.

Here is a case not of mistaken identity but of mistaken application. A young man by the name of Buster Mitchell, of Albany, formerly of Cisco, died in a local sanitarium here last Sunday. He had been injured in an automobile accident on the Moran highway on the evening of July 4.

The Daily News account of the story stated plainly that the victim of the accident was not the Buster Mitchell known to Cisco people as a star on the Cisco Lobo football team and the Randolph college Badgers.

A case of identical names, is all.

Abandons Hope for Men in Sunken Sub

LONDON, July 10.—The British submarine L-69, sister ship of the L-12, which yesterday sent the British submarine H-47 to the bottom of the Irish Sea with a crew aboard, divered continuously today in mountainous seas attempting to communicate by sound telegraphy with the sunken craft. A bell was used with the Morse code, but no reply was forthcoming from the depths. The preliminary report of Rear Admiral H. E. Trace, in command of all British submarines was most pessimistic today regarding the likelihood of rescue of the 21 reported aboard. "I am convinced," the report stated, "that there is no possibility that any of the crew of the H-47 remained alive more than a very few minutes. The weather momentarily is against successful efforts to locate the sunken vessel."

NOW AT POINT WHERE ACTION IS NECESSARY

Meeting at Laguna Demonstrates Local Interest

If the meeting on the roof garden of the Laguna hotel sponsored by the chamber of commerce last night developed anything of value it clearly demonstrated that Cisco and the Cisco territory is ripe and ready for investment in some stable milk market. Whether the market will take the form of a powdered milk plant or a cheese factory is a matter yet to be determined. Either of them, it was shown, will fill the bill.

Approximately 100 interested people attended the meeting. They were farmers, dairymen, bankers, merchants and other leading citizens from 11 or more communities. Without exception they proved themselves eager for some action that would provide the milk producer a market and that, consequently would contribute to a higher standard of living over the section generally.

Men known as experts in lines that concern or are associated closely with the dairy industry were heard in a series of speeches.

Marketing Expert Talks

K. M. Renner, dairy marketing expert of the Texas Technological Institute at Lubbock, who came to the Cisco meeting by direction of Dr. P. W. Horn, president of Texas Tech, discussed the market for milk, evaluating each in its relation to intensive dairy development. Roughly divided there are three outlets, he said. First, market milk, which is the product produced at home and distributed at home for drinking or cooking purposes, a market which consumes practically 40 per cent of the total output and offers no opportunity for disposal of the product obtained by intensive development measures, because it is already at the point of capacity.

Second: Butter production. Third: Cheese. Fourth: Powdered milk. Fifth: Ice cream. Sixth: Condensed milk.

Each of these market outlets, he discussed as to its present status and possibilities. Powdered milk is the newest of the lot, progress for this having been developed within the past 10 years.

"No matter what you do there will always be those who wish to do something else. There will be the farmer who will want to sell sweet cream, the man who will want to sell sour cream and the man who will want to sell whole milk. It is well to bear these points in mind when choosing a plant."

Cheese Development

C. A. Voltz, Wisconsin cheese specialist, told of the development of the industry in Wisconsin, touching upon similar development elsewhere. He asserted that the idea that good cheese cannot be made in Texas as readily as elsewhere is a fallacy.

"Develop volume first," he said. "After you have the volume you do not have to solicit the 'big fellows.' They will beg to come here. Produce quality products and there will always be a market."

He pointed out the large financial difference between a cheese plant and a powdered milk plant, the former costing but a fraction of the money necessary to install a powdered milk concern.

NEW EDISON STAMP Commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of Edison's invention of the incandescent electric light, a special 2-cent postage stamp will be issued to honor the great inventor. The issue of this stamp is an incident of Light's Golden Jubilee, which is being celebrated in a five months series of events which will culminate in a great testimonial to Edison in a great festival to be held in Dearborn, Michigan, next October.

When one observes the almost universal use of the incandescent light and other electric appliances which Edison's genius has given to the world, it is difficult to realize that all these modern miracles have been wrought within 50 years, and that the man who made them possible is still living to receive the proud titles of his fellow citizens who enjoy these priceless gifts.

BETTER HELP IN HOMES. Housewives are to a great extent solving the help problem by the employment of electrical servants that are never late on the job, never ask for holidays nor demand the use of the family car.

The amazing increase of electrical equipment in American homes is disclosed by the household research bureau of the makers of ABE electric washers, which finds that at the end of 1928 this equipment included 17,700,000 electric irons, 7,200,000 vacuum cleaners, 1,223,000 electric refrigerators and 5,735,000 electric washers.

There are nearly twenty million wired homes in the United States, where the field of usefulness of electrical energy is being more rapidly developed than in any other country.

American women have discovered that the employment of labor-saving devices in the home is a means of conserving their energy, health and beauty, besides making for them true economy. These devices are banishing much of the quagmire which was formerly inseparable from housekeeping.

WHO WOULD BELIEVE IT? According to Dr. M. L. Condon of Chicago, a person may be wrongfully accused of alcoholic indulgence if only the evidence apparently disclosed by the breath is taken at full value.

Stomach Nerves Are Cause of Queer Elevator "Feeling"

HOUSTON, July 10. - "Gosh what a feeling," is the conventional expression when one rides on an elevator for the first time and often the expression of some who have ridden on them for some time. Doctors say the feeling is temporary anaemia in the sympathetic nerves of the stomach that gives one that all-gone feeling. But an elevator isn't fast. The average speed is from 600 to 900 feet a minute and they don't make them that go more than nine miles an hour. A speedy drop of 10 to 20 floors has made women faint. But it doesn't bother the elevator girls here in Houston. But this business of dropping about 20 floors leaves everybody a bit scrambled as to stomach and weak as to knees. Flappers forget their chewing gum, youngsters swing onto their mothers' hands. People are funny that way. An elevator offers one of the few free rides in the world, but it is seldom anyone takes this sort of a ride for pleasure.

Brady Garden Club Has Flower Show

BRADY, July 11. - "Make Brady rare with flowers," said the slogan of the Brady Garden Club, which was brought nearer absolute reality here during the fourth annual July Jubilee than is ordinarily imagined. During the celebration the Garden club held its first annual flower show, which attracted more attention than any other event during the three days celebration. There were some 14 different natural scenes in as many show windows of the plaza, and each display was a lesson in artistic arrangement with the proper setting. The show included displays of pot flowers, hanging baskets, miniature gardens, wild flowers, rock gardens, flowering shrubs, desert gardens and many others. In one window a large collection of cacti valued at $5,000 was displayed. The display included more than two score species of cacti. City of Rule buys new equipment for street work.

"I FEEL LIKE WEATHER"

come wretched. I was so nervous I couldn't sleep and the slightest noise would upset me. I had rheumatic pains in my legs and suffered agony from this trouble. During the day I would almost go blind with sick headaches and you can imagine what this added to my other troubles did for me. "I tried most every kind of medicine and did everything I knew how to do trying to get relief, but I kept getting worse and finally I got so weak and sick and nervous I had to spend part of my time in bed, and I thought nothing would ever relieve my condition. "Orgatone has completely changed life around for me and I just can't find words to express my gratitude for it. I have been relieved of all my nervousness and my sleep is sound and restful. My appetite is splendid now and I can eat as much as I ever could and I relish my meals. The dreadful rheumatic pains are gone from my legs and I haven't a headache since I took my first bottle of Orgatone. I'm entirely relieved of every trouble and feel better and enjoy life more than I have in years." Genuine Orgatone is not a scaled patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile treatment so in Cisco exclusively by the De Drug Co., under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.

Boy Scouts Have Great Time at Camp Near Mason

EVERY DAY IS CRAMMED WITH ACTION

Encampment Is Well Supervised by Officials

Eastland county Boy Scouts are having the time of their lives at Camp Martin, according to the Eagle Call, the daily bulletin published by the boys at the camp, which the News has just received a few copies. The camp opened on the Fourth of July with scouts attending from Cisco, Eastland, Hanger, Coleman, Rising Star, and Pioneer. The boys, about 75 of them, in charge of Scout Executive Guy N. Quill and his corps of scoutmasters and assistants, live in tents and eat in a central mess hall where food is provided for them by two expert chefs.

The leaders and camp officials for the camp this year are:

G. N. Quill—Camp Director.
Ernest Lennon—Swimming.
Milton Connally—Swimming.
Mr. Doyle and Mr. Thomason—Cooks.

Bill Stafford—Indian Lore.
H. D. Chisholm—Archery.
J. C. Patterson—Nature Study.

Mr. Peacock—Leader.

Every day, to judge from the reports in the "Eagle Call" is crammed with supervised activity for the youngsters.

JONES SINKS HIS PUTT ON NO. 18 AND ADDS UP THE SCORE—IT'S A 69!

Clicking off birdies and eagles and pars with all the regularity of a mechanical man, Bobby Jones, the Atlanta lawyer, made a good start toward his third open championship at Manassas, N. Y., the other day when he shot a 69 in the opening round. Above, Jones is shown sinking his putt on No. 18, and to the right adding it up. Below, left, is an action shot of Walter Hagen as he breezed along in the opening round. In the center is Al Espinosa, whose 70 in the first round helped put him in the playoff with Jones—but, oh, how Bobby treated him!

Rattlesnakes Are Excitement Enough

WICHITA FALLS, July 10.—Care-takers of any kind of property usually have a dull life, but the life of Dan Johnson, who is taking care of an oil lease for Fain & McSaha near Rock Crossing has had plenty of action recently and is looking for more.

Rattlesnakes are the bane of his existence. He found one the other day inside a rabbit pen, two others on his doorstep and the fourth in the seat of his car as he started to get into it one day. "It's a good thing they warn a fellow first," is his comment.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
IRIS MORGAN, wife of JOHN CURTIS MORGAN, successful lawyer, elopes with BERT CRAWFORD, for whom Morgan has recently won an acquittal. Morgan does not suspect Crawford.

NAN CARROLL, Morgan's secretary, is in love with him. To save him from utter despair, she cleverly forces him into his work. For six months she acts as long-suffering housekeeper for him, winning the love of his child, little six-year-old CURTIS. Morgan tells her he is divorcing Iris and asks her to marry him, stressing his and the boy's need for her. She consents.

Their farcical marriage has continued three months when Nan decides the can stand it no longer. The next morning, Iris, cast off by Crawford, returns. Feigning illness, she tries to bring Morgan to his knees. Nan is heartbroken, crushed, but she determines to fight and asks DR. BLACK to remove Iris to a hospital. Morgan tells Nan he wants to provide a monthly allowance for Iris and Nan agrees. Curtis goes to see his mother daily. She stuffs him with sweets and he becomes ill. Christmas morning he awakens with a fever and Dr. Black tells Nan it is appendicitis and his diet must be closely watched. He warns Nan against Iris, tells her she is an unscrupulous woman, and urges Nan to fight.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I know," Nan nodded, her eyes hot with anger and humiliation.

"Well," the doctor chuckled, "I told her a thing or two. But I'll warn you, child—she's a cruel, vicious woman and she'll step at nothing to punish you. Know what I think? She doesn't give a tinker's damn about poor John; just sort of drifted home, because there wasn't anything else to do and she'd found the best of it as a husband until she could find another man more to her liking. But finding you installed in her place and making a success of the job she'd always fallen down on and finally checked—well, she's simply gone berserk, my girl, and God only knows what she'll do to you."

"I'll get him back and put that girl in her place if it's the last thing I do on earth." And she meant it, Nan.

"But—" Nan felt that she was strangling. "But, Dr. Black, what can she do? If John—"

"Whatever she does, fight her till you lick her, girl! My money's on you, Nan!"

CHAPTER XIII

"Look what I found, wandering the streets disconsolately and looking as if he'd lost his best friend!" John Curtis Morgan greeted his wife at five minutes to six.

His voice was so natural, so joyous, with just enough of an undercurrent of anxiety as to what she would think of his bringing an unexpected guest for Christmas dinner, that Nan sprang from the living room couch and ran toward him.

"Willis Todd!" she cried joyously, incredulously, as the embarrassed young man who had once hoped to marry her guiltily followed his host into the room. "You don't know how glad I am to see you, Willis! I've been intending for ages to be a very indiscreet wife and beg you to have luncheon with me."

"And now," Willis laughed, "your husband heaps coal of fire on your head by treating me as a family friend."

As soon as he had said it, Willis Todd realized that he had committed a FAUX PAS. For his unconsidered words reminded Nan that he knew and that she knew of another "family friend" who had grievously betrayed John Curtis Morgan's hospitality. And so both he and Nan were blushing hotly as they shook hands, a fact which Morgan noted and puzzled over.

Then he must have remembered how he, blind to her love for himself, had once asked Nan when she was going to marry her faithful suitor. To cover his confusion, he immediately became very voluble and jovial—manners which set oddly upon his natural austerity. He was a dry, twinkling-eyed, downward-quirking-lip sort of humor, not the loud laughing, boisterous kind which he now called to his aid.

"Yes, Nan, my defeated rival here was wandering along Washington street, looking as disconsolate as if he'd just found out there wasn't any Santa Claus! So I brought him here to prove there is. Look at that Christmas tree, Todd! If it doesn't prove there IS a Santa Claus—"

"Here's Estelle, John," Nan interrupted, "sharpening with news about Christmas dinner. Just five minutes, Estelle, please. John, will you take Willis upstairs to wash his hands?"

"Sorry I'm not dressed, Nan," the young man apologized. "Mr. Morgan wouldn't give me time to go to my rooms."

"I'm glad he didn't; I'd have had a fearful cook on my hands if he'd delayed the dinner," Nan laughed.

She waited until her husband and guest had disappeared up the stairs, then followed them fleetly, stopping at her own door near the head of the stairs. Since Willis Todd was to be present at the after-dinner opening of Christmas gifts, he should not be left out in the cold. There was a cravat she had bought for her husband and which she had decided to return, since, upon daylight inspection, its colors had seemed too vivid for his dark austerity. But it was exactly right for Willis Todd.

"Let John think I bought it for Willis in the first place," Nan grinned to herself. "I do believe he was a little jealous when he caught us both blushing. Let him be jealous! Do him good!"

She wrapped the boxed toy with lightning speed, affixed "Merry Christmas" seals, tagged it with a card which read: "For auld lang syne, From Nan to Willis."

She found the two men waiting for her in the drawing room, and obviously relieved when she joined them.

"I looked in on Curtis," Morgan told Nan, as they proceeded to the dining room, which Estelle had decorated as lavishly as if she had been expecting a big party. "He seems better, doesn't he? I promised to bring his hot milk toast when we've finished dinner and stay with him while he eats it. Poor little tyke! He's bragged for weeks of his turkey-and-dressing capacity and now he has to be content with milk toast. You couldn't relent a mite, I suppose, Nan?"

"Nan!" Nan looked very much the firm young mother. "Dr. Black has given orders and I'm going to carry them out religiously. But please don't let your sympathy for Curtis spoil your own appetite, dear. I hope you're both hungry. Wouldn't it be a joke on us if poor Willis was in the same fix as O. Henry's Thanksgiving martyr found himself?—fore to eat a second holiday feast, while still in the agonies of indigestion from the first?"

"No, really!" Willis Todd denied quickly. "I was exactly the sad young man that Mr. Morgan described. In fact, I was trying to decide whether to eat my lonely Christmas dinner at a drug store fountain and be wholly miserable, or to pay three dollars for a hotel dining room table d'hote and acquire an attack of indigestion as tormenting as my regular Christmas blues."

"I like that!" Nan protested. "I suppose you've forgotten what you said last Christmas?—that it was the happiest Christmas you had spent since you were a child. Remember how greedy we were and how nice the funny old waiter was, especially after you'd given him a five-dollar tip?"

"I remember," Willis Todd agreed, his mouth and eyes tightening with pain. "I'm being beastly," Nan reproached herself. "I'm making John remember his last Christmas when Iris sat where I'm sitting now. And I'm hurting Willis, too. I didn't realize he still cared—so much."

But there was an unworthy consolation in the evidences of his pain and in the occasional puzzled glances of her husband's eyes.

Although the three of them had talked emphatically of how hungry they were, Maudie O'Brien in the kitchen plucked resentfully at the returning dishes. There was little reward in cooking for lovelorn people who pecked at their food, with no more appetite than canaries, as she grumbled to Estelle.

"Reminds me of last Christmas, when that Crawford man sat there and made eyes at the creature who was Mrs. Morgan then," Estelle whispered. "This Todd man is nuts over Miss Nan, and the poor dear mister looks like he's wondering if he's going to lose this missus, too."

That was an exaggeration, but certainly John Curtis Morgan did not look like a happy man, between his odd bursts of forced volubility. Nan, with an impishness she had not suspected herself capable of, flirted openly with Willis Todd, and the burden of her conversation was, "And, oh, Willis, do you remember when—"

Immediately after dinner Morgan called for Curtis' tray and trudged heavily upstairs with it. The sound of those slow, heavy footsteps—almost like those of an old man—echoed in Nan's heart and brought tears into her eyes.

"What's the matter, Nan?" Willis asked anxiously, as he dropped down to the couch beside her and laid a trembling hand over hers. "Is it—pretty bad, honey?"

Nan made no pretense of not understanding. She nodded miserably, then dashed an angry hand at the pressure hurt. But it was a sweet gain. Stumblingly, interrupting herself at times to choke back a sob, Nan told him the incredible story of Iris' return and of its devastating effect upon John Curtis Morgan. She concluded by rapidly repeating Dr. Black's warning that Iris intended to fight her successor with every weapon she could lay hands on.

"Then you'll need a weapon, too," Willis Todd said grimly. "And I've got a dandy I can place in your hands right now."

Nan's tear-dimmed eyes stared incredulously into his steady gray ones.

A WARM WELCOME THAT HAS NEVER WORN OUT

MAY 3 1924

The nation-wide acclaim with which the Chrysler is heralded is due to the quick appreciation of a motor-wise public that here at last is a car which is a marked departure from all earlier practice and performance. In distinctive appearance, in performance ability, in economy of operation, in fine standards of manufacturing, in roadability, in driving convenience, in supreme quality, motor car experts give the Chrysler a place apart. For the Chrysler is more than a great engineering feat—it is, literally, the culmination of all past engineering experience.

TRUE FIVE YEARS AGO AND STILL TRUE

Daring to go back five years when the first Chrysler appeared, Chrysler can read without apology every promise made then, for every promise has been fulfilled.

In 1924 Chrysler was new. Its claims for performance, economy and stamina had not been proved valid by the hundreds of thousands of cars and millions of miles of driving that support today's leadership.

True, the automotive industry was started by Chrysler innovations. The public trend was to Chrysler if only because Chrysler instantly out-moded other cars. Comprehensive tests had convinced Chrysler engineers that they had built a superior product. Chrysler owners before long discovered that the car upheld every promise made for it, and their eagerness to testify to its speed, its power and its strength resulted in the prevailing worldwide acceptance of Chrysler.

Now, in 1929, the public's confidence in Chrysler is still unwavering. You, too, will discover the reasons for this increasing acceptance of Chrysler leadership in quality and value if you will test the car yourself.

TEXAS CROPS IS ESTIMATED AT $1,000,000,000

ALLAS, July 10. — With corn, sorghum and sorghum crops yet to be harvested, agricultural experts estimate that Texas will produce a net dollar worth of agricultural products in 1929.

Corn totaling 12,000,000 bushels and bringing almost that many dollars, is the largest crop of the year. The 1929 output will be between 35,000,000 and 40,000,000 bushels, the largest in the history of the state. Barley also yielded a record crop, forecasts Oats, while not as good as in previous years, are reported in condition.

Some farmers of the Rio Grande counties, now replanting land to other crops, already tucked away the proceeds of biggest onion and tomato outputs in years. Fruit, held back by late spring, promises to be an average with former years.

This Section Is Ripe and Ready for a Milk Plant

C. M. Evans, agricultural agent for the Texas and Pacific railroad, told of the development of the powdered milk industry at Marshall and surrounding territory.

Harrison county, a survey showed, had an average income per farmer of $400 annually. Seventy per cent of its farmers were of the tenant type while 65 per cent were negroes. Something had to be done to raise the farmer income and after a period of hard work and discouragements a milk plant was established. That milk plant this year hopes to release $1,000,000 of new money in Harrison county. The cow population has increased enormously and as a consequence, the milk production has increased to a position where a large and steady supply is assured. That the investors in the plant are satisfied is demonstrated by the fact that they have purchased half the stock of the Tyler plant and are organizing plants at Mount Pleasant and Paris.

Net Profit of $3,700.

The Marshall plant in April made a net profit of $3,700, he said.

Community leadership and organization are essential to the success of any dairying program of the character, said Mr. Evans. It takes hard work and plenty of it to carry out such a project.

R. Reese, agricultural agent for the Missouri-Kansas and Texas lines, told of the location of the big Borden Milk condenser at Waco. "This plant is an instance in which the 'big fellows' have turned to Texas. There were those, said Mr. Reese, who maintained that the project could not be put over, that Waco did not receive enough milk to supply the local demand much less supply a milk plant costing $800,000 to install. But that contention has been proven entirely at fault during the first few weeks of the operation of the plant.

Arthur E. Gilman, industrial commissioner for the Missouri-Kansas and Texas railroad, made a stirring appeal to the business men and farmers to fall in line with the rapid development that is going forward over the southwest by seizing the opportunities that are presenting themselves here. He said that there is a season for the movement of industry to the southwest and quoted some statistics to show that the growth of the southwest is far more rapid than the growth of the United States as a whole.

Others Talk.

At the conclusion of these addresses President E. P. Crawford, of the chamber of commerce, who presided, called upon representatives of various communities to give in a few words the attitude of their communities upon the matter.

T. E. Powell, of Baird; L. C. G. Buchanan, of Banger; J. F. Robertson, of Rising Star; Porter J. Davis, of Cross Plains; O. P. Weiser, of Cisco; and others expressed their faith in and desire for a milk plant of some character as a step toward the larger development of the dairying industry in this section. The consensus of their opinions was that a milk plant is absolutely necessary if anything is to be accomplished in the dairy business that will be really worth while. The section is ready for it and if Cisco does not take the necessary steps some other community will, they indicated.

J. E. T. Peters, introduced the visiting speakers during the part of the program which they occupied.

New Exhibit Hall for West Texas Fair

ABILENE, July 10.—Construction has been started on a new exhibit hall for the West Texas Fair in this city, which when completed will be worth over $200,000. The new structure will be called the Fine Arts building and will be of fireproof material.

Ground space of 60 by 120 feet will be covered by the new building. It will house the women's departments, the art and textile displays and other fair features and will be finished and ready for use during the annual fall exposition to be held here during the week of September 23 to 28.

Height of the new structure will be equal to that of an ordinary two story building. It will have a mezzanine floor 20 feet wide on all four sides. The walls will be of brick and the floor and roof of concrete slabs. All window and door frames will be of steel as will be the roof joists.

Officials of the fair association say the new building will be one of the most imposing and substantial exhibit halls in the southwest. It will be erected under direction of a committee composed of W. J. Fulwiler, W. A. Miner,

The aviators said they would fly across Spain toward Marselles and from there to Rome. While Williams was preparing the ship, Yancey was busy checking the time with his six watches.

Yancey, before departing, told the United Press that they saw the lights of a ship at 3 a. m. Tuesday. Yancey said Williams was asleep at the time. "I made a fast dive toward the ship, so when so that it awakened Williams, who cried 'For God's sake don't do that again! I told him I did it because I was anxious for the world to know we were flying, since there was no other way for our communicating the fact."

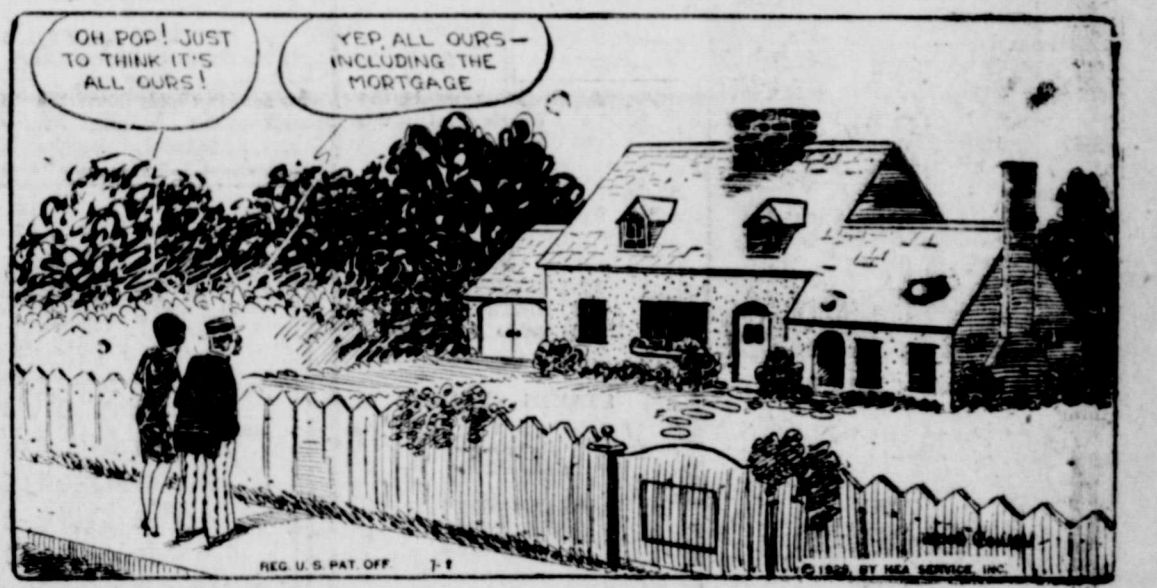

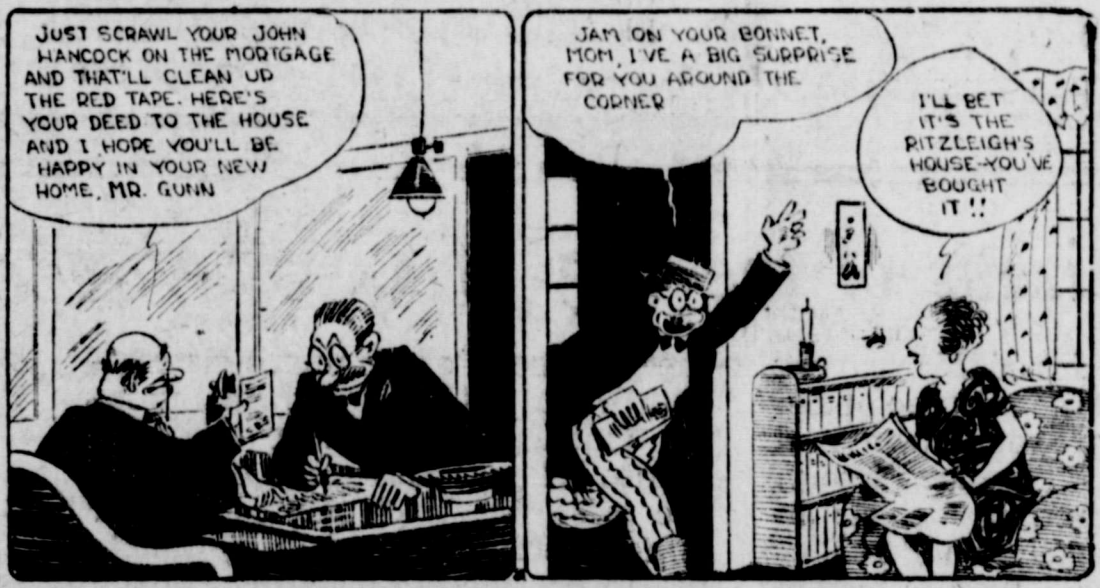

Texas is sixth in winter wheat production this year, according to Department of Agriculture estimates, which place the Texas crop at 31,913,000 bushels out of an expected total of 622,148,000 bushels, based on June 1 condition report of 724. The five-year average is 549,257,000 bushels.

Bible Stained With Blood Is Relic of Bunker Hill Battle

MIDLAND, July 10.—A blood-stained Bible, a relic of the Battle of Bunker Hill, on which is inscribed the name of the soldier who had carried it and whom it is believed was mortally wounded in the fray, is in the possession of the Rev. J. T. Barr here.

The book was owned until about a year ago by a woman at Lamesa, Texas, who during a long illness was visited frequently by the Reverend and Mrs. Barr. After her death the Bible was presented to Reverend Barr by the woman's husband in pursuance of a wish expressed shortly before she died. It had been a family heirloom, passed down from generation to generation.

The Bible was originally found on the 110-foot hill in the Charlestown district of Boston by a soldier who was engaged in the battle. The blood-written inscription is "James Rusk, June." The battle was fought in June, 1775.

A post card mailed in California 16 years ago was recently delivered to W. V. Acheson in Melbourne, Australia.
