J. T. Robison, Dean of Texas State Officials, Dies at Home of Son in Connecticut; Body Sent to Austin

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 7.—The body of James Thomas Robison, 68, state land commissioner of Texas, who died at the home of his son, Dr. J. T. Robison, Jr., last night, was sent for Austin, Tex., late today.

Death was due to pneumonia, the son said. The official had been ill for several weeks. His wife was at his bedside. Two other sons are in Texas.

According to tentative plans made today, the body will be laid to rest in the family plot at Oakwood cemetery here, where the commissioner's only daughter and a son are buried. The funeral will probably be held Tuesday.

Flags on both the state capitol and the land office building were flown at half mast today.

Land Commissioner J. T. Robison, 68, died at the home of his son, Dr. J. T. Robison, Jr., in New London, Conn., at 11:10 p. m. yesterday, the land office here learned today. The death of the venerable commissioner did not come as a surprise as he had been sinking slowly for the past two days.

Commissioner Robison went to New London soon after the state legislature adjourned in July in an attempt to recuperate his failing health. A combination of stomach trouble and pneumonia confined the commissioner to his bed some time ago and since that time he has gradually failed in strength.

No Arrangements. No funeral arrangements have been made as yet, according to Acting Land Commissioner J. H. Walker. It is believed, however, that the body will be brought back to the state which the commissioner served so faithfully during more than half his lifetime.

WRECKED SHIP FOUND ON SIDE OF MOUNTAIN

Aviator Flies to Scene and Confirms Report

WINSLOW, Ariz., Sept. 7.—The Transcontinental Air liner, City of San Francisco, missing since Tuesday has been found. The Transcontinental announced at 1:45 p. m. (MST) today that the lost ship had been located on the south slope of Mount Taylor, New Mexico.

George Rice, Western Air Transport pilot, flew from here to the place where the wrecked plane was reported to have been seen and confirmed the report.

The missing ship, Rice said, had crashed on the mountain side and burned there. Eight persons, five passengers and three members of the crew, were aboard the plane when it met disaster.

DEFINITE IDENTIFICATION ESTABLISHED. LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7.—Definite identification of wreckage of a plane seen on the south slope of Mount Taylor as that of the "City of San Francisco" came in a radio message today from George Rice, western air express pilot.

The message follows: "T. A. T. plane found burned on south slope of Mount Taylor, N. M., sixty miles west of Albuquerque. If T. A. T. hasn't planes available will use Western Air Express plane to tow ground forces to the wreck."

The radio message from Rice came with no qualifications, and Western Air Express officials here accepted it as positively ending the search for the missing plane and its eight occupants which was consumed the past five days.

Rice is a veteran pilot for Western Air Express.

The course of the Western Air between here and Kansas City parallels that followed by the T. A. T. planes. The concern is in competition for transcontinental air travel.

Mount Taylor, on the south slope of which Rice reported sighting the plane, is half way between Albuquerque and Gallup.

REPORT MISSING PLANE FOUND.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 7.—Transcontinental Air Transport officials here said today the missing plane City of San Francisco was found by a Western Airways flier on a mesa near Mount Taylor, 80 miles northeast of Albuquerque.

The T. A. T. plane City of Wichita, has been dispatched to the scene. The City of Wichita carries a radio, the announcement said.

Did You Ever Stop to Think? BY EDSON R. WAITE Shawnee, Oklahoma.

Edson White, president of Armour & Company, says: "That the average man organizes himself into a rut, which seriously hinders his progress. Of course, he doesn't realize it, and he won't admit it, but he really standardizes himself and his job to a point where he will not consider new ideas."

He rises at the same hour every morning, shaves and dresses in the least possible time, eats the same sort of breakfast that he eats every other morning, departs for the office on schedule, follows the same identical route month in and month out, does his work according to long established routine, gets home at the same hour every evening, eats supper and grouches if the wife or daughter draws him away from the newspaper or radio in order to take in a movie or play night.

The average man always sees the same things and always talks to the same people on the same old subjects. No wonder he gets into a rut. The trouble is he has organized himself too well. He does things by habit or routine instead of by thought and reason. He has had all of his problems settled for years and he makes decisions without having to think whether they are right or wrong.

The man who is worthwhile in the business world is the one who organizes his habits or his thinking. He keeps his mind open to suggestion; he is willing to try new ideas. He seeks facts, weighs them, and makes decisions, accordingly. He is imbued with the idea that improvement is always possible, and that there is a better way to do most anything.

Who refuses to follow the rut sometimes gets into the mire, but frequently he finds a better and smoother road on which to progress.

A Texan is on record as asking a judge to send him to jail to permit his quitting the habit of drinking, and the judge complied. Now the man is spending 30 days where his liquor is plain water.

WHY WE TALK ABOUT THE WEATHER By Mehran K. Thompson, Ph. D., Author of "The Springs of Human Action"

"Nice day," you say to a stranger, and he agrees with you. What else is there for him to do? Anyone can see that it is a nice day. You have picked out a self-evident fact which needs no further proof.

We talk about the weather because it is the safest topic of conversation. If you approach a stranger with the jubilant declaration: "Isn't it fortunate that I have a republican president?" you may make a hit; you may get hit. You will have no better by opening up on a religious topic or any other where there is the slightest chance of a difference of opinion.

The weather is a safe bet because you are not responsible for it. The person whom you greet with "Nice day," may not want it. Nice on this particular occasion, perhaps he predicted bad weather and placed a bet on his calculations. But he can't be offended at you because he knows you are in no way responsible.

The weather is a handy topic among friends as well as among strangers. If the meeting is brief, the weather is about as good as any for a greeting which he can't straightway forget and not have to brood over your meaning and hidden motives.

The weather also serves as a legitimate topic of conversation in its own right. To greet another person with "Fine day," and have him reply, "Yes, very fine," adds something to your enjoyment, especially if it is the first good day in many bad ones. We enjoy sharing a good thing with another when it costs us nothing and we have more of it by giving part away. Similarly, it releases some of the emotional depression we share a bad day. Whether the day is fair or foul, there is an emotional release in talking about it.

The weather is a very useful topic in the emotional and social give-and-take of daily life. It is a shock absorber. We have the pleasure of conversation without the risk of being contradicted.

We talk about the weather because we can talk without saying anything.

Both Cross and Sword Are Weapons Used by Indiana Pastor-General

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 7.—Preaching the message of the Prince of Peace on Sunday and managing the affairs of Mars on the six other days of the week is the new task of the Rev. William Graham Everson, for 30 years a Baptist minister.

The preacher, already a general in command of an infantry brigade, is assuming the duties of adjutant-general of Indiana, heading the state's military forces.

He has been assured by Governor Harry G. Leslie that he can take over the command of the military affairs of the Hoosiers and still retain his position as pastor of the First Baptist church of Muncie, Ind.

Soldier and Preacher Soldiering and preaching are far from incompatible so far as Pastor Everson is concerned. He has been at both for more than a quarter of a century and in each profession attained distinction.

His appointment as adjutant-general makes him the only minister holding such a post at present and perhaps in the history of the United States. Pacifist clergymen, many of whom are in his own denomination since the war, may scoff at the idea of linking the profession of Christ and arms, but all Everson asks is their prayers.

"Let pacifists pray for me" "Let the pacifists pray that efficient war machine capable of handling the youth of the state in an emergency with the least possible loss of life."

Should the soldier's service in a big way and if war should come, which we all hope it will not, I'm sure my pacifist friends will agree with my ideas.

"Nothing save slaughter and sacrifice like properly trained and officered troops, I hope to make the Hoosier soldier the frame-work for such an organization. To do this I will try and bring home to the citizens the idea that the guard is of interest to every family in the state with males between the ages of 15 and 45."

Just now the pastor-general feels that he will be able to do this and retain his pulpit in the new $346,000 church, which was erected through his efforts.

my Christianity because of my patriotism. The new adjutant general will retain command of the 70th infantry brigade, Indiana National Guard to which he was appointed following the World War. The appointment came as a result of his war record, which was not that of a chaplain, but as an infantry colonel commanding 6,000 troops in five foreign countries.

His war service included command of the only American sector on the Italian front and placed him in charge of all troops crossing the Adriatic sea. It took him to France, Italy, Austria, Dalmatia, Serbia and Montenegro.

During the hectic post-armistice days he conducted the American investigations into the Irving situation at Fiume. Holds Many Decorations So when he dons his general's uniform there are citations and decorations from England, France, Italy, Serbia and the United States, including three battle clasps.

The preacher-soldier is a huge fellow, with a golden crown of hair, brown sparkling eyes flash the fire of the military commander.

To our huge new church under his guidance is to take everything on the double-quick. When it is over the most casual observer is apt to comment that here is a man that will be able to handle both the cross and the sword.

That's Indiana's "fighting pastor."

FOR R

INDUSTRY CALLED

Sept. 7.—The closing days of old timers who have, through no fault of their own, come to the end of their resources.

These are the plans of the Exposition which lie closest to the heart of the president, William G. Skelly, and the directors. The committee working out the arrangements to assist the men who have spent the best of their days in the industry and who are now in need, is made up of Barney E. Horrigan, chairman, independent oil operator; William G. Skelly, president of the Skelly Oil company; Victor Barnett, editor of the Tulsa Daily Tribune; J. P. Flanagan, independent oil operator; J. H. Markham, Jr., independent oil operator; F. O. Larson, Tulsa Daily World; James Amm, New York City capitalist; Waite Phillips, chairman of the board of the Independent Oil & Gas company; Glenn Condon, Skelly Oil company; Andrew J. Rowley, managing editor of the Oil & Gas Journal; Lawrence E. Smith, National Petroleum news; Omer K. Benedict, vice-president of the First National bank; Harry H. Rogers, vice-president of the Exchange National bank.

Will Build Home

One of the projects of this committee is to build a home for the faithful workers who have come upon bad days. Here they will be surrounded by friends among whom they may recount the brighter days' wonders before they pass on to the greater locations beyond. The men of the great corporations which make the Exposition what it is will not permit their industry's pioneers to lie in the potters' field. Scores of old timers have attended the programs of past expositions. During the past two years, the presence of these veterans has been featured. That the veterans might think of the oil show, bronze medals were awarded. An organization of old timers of the oil industry was proposed and Joseph Evans, president of the Devonian Oil company, was elected president. Evans' election was a happy choice, because in his 62 years experience in the industry he learned to understand and sympathize with the much less successful men of the oil fraternity. It would be difficult to find an old timer who does not know "Uncle Joe" Evans. This year it is planned to incorporate the old timers association. The replica of the Drake well on the exposition grounds is

Killed to Save Her

"I killed dad to save my mother's life," declared 16-year-old Milton Moran, arrested in Elkton, Md., for the ax murder of James W. Moran. The boy is pictured here, after the slaying, with the mother whose life he said was endangered by her husband's abuse.

Senate the pension laws have been disrupted and amended in such a manner as to leave veterans and widows of veterans under 75, many of whom have been drawing pensions heretofore, without the benefit of these laws.

"I think it is a burning shame and disgrace that the great state of Texas is slighting and neglecting these old patriots, whether veteran or widow, who contributed their lives in the Lost Cause. There should be no "third class" among those who served, whether on the battle front behind the guns, weaving cloth for the soldiers and their families, or gathering food and keeping the home intact. And I earnestly predict that the next session will wipe away the preferred class idea and give these noble men and women at least a competence to cheer and support them in their old age."

Famous British War Ace Dies in Crash

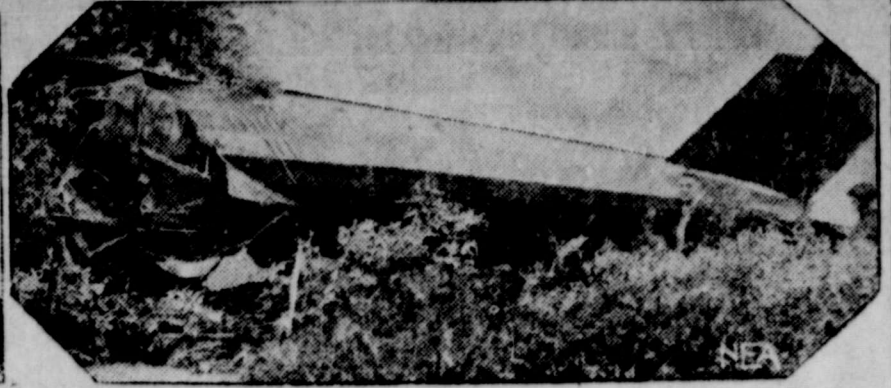

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Capt. A. C. Woodbridge, British world war hero, and the fiercer world in June, 1917, shot down the most celebrated German aerial ace, Baron von Richtofen, was killed at Jask, Persia, when the London-to-India plane which he was piloting crashed after catching fire. It was announced today by the Imperial Airways company.

Two other persons were killed in the crash. One of them, a passenger, was V. G. Bell, a member of the Indian forestry commission. The other was a member of the Imperial Airways staff, J. Court. Two others were seriously injured.

When Woodbridge brought the German ace down in 1917, Richtofen was merely wounded and fell behind the lines. Richtofen was killed later in an air battle with Royal Brown, Canadian.

The grave of David G. Burnett, first president of the Texas republic, is in Lakeview cemetery, Galveston. He was born April 4, 1779, and died Dec. 4, 1870.

PILOT FALLS ASLEEP AFTER SETTING ENDURANCE MARK

This shows the fatal ending of the record-making solo endurance flight over the Cleveland airport by Pilot Thomas G. (Jack) Reid of Downey, Calif. Although he set a new record of 37 hours 56 minutes and 36 seconds, it cost Reid his life when his Emsco plane crashed apparently heading into the base of the tree. The constant drone of the motor is believed to have caused Reid, shown in the inset, to have fallen asleep and this caused the accident.

SUMMER IS BALMY IN RIO GRANDE VALLEY

HARLINGEN, Texas, Sept. 7.—Ask the average Texan, who has never been in the Lower Rio Grande valley, about visiting that section in summer and he probably will exclaim: "If you don't want to burn up, stay out of there at this time of year." He will then point to the map to prove that the Valley is as far south as you can go and still be in the United States. Then he will clinch the argument by citing the fact that oranges, lemons, grapefruit, bananas, dates and limes are grown there, proving that it is in the tropics—and, therefore, hot.

If you told your informant that, so far from being torrid, the Valley actually is a splendid place to spend a summer vacation because of its agreeable climate, he would make a seething rejoinder. Yet such is so.

The reason for the cool atmosphere in the Valley is the nearness of the Gulf with its breezes.

Here in Harlingen, Myron Ward secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has a beautiful office but you will look in vain for an electric fan. There is none. It is not needed.

On down at Brownsville, G. C. Richardson, the secretary, will pull out official papers to prove that Fort Brown is the most healthful army post in the United States.

Ward, in his enthusiasm, not only declared that citizens who moved to that magic region were finding the wealth which they sought but health as well and told a newspaper man that there was a well-authenticated case of Valley sunshine bringing forth a second crop of hair upon a bald head. (The newspaper man was likewise bald.) The secretary received the chilling information however that the scribe preferred baldness as the hair never blew in his eyes when he was driving.

The secretary waved at blocks of fine buildings "Covered by me—quite when I was here back in 1922," he said.

Having only 30 minutes of daylight left when our group arrived, Ward whisked us over 33 miles of paved streets, pointing out apartments, schools, churches and residences of leading citizens with one hand while guiding the car around corners with the other hand. The population of Harlingen has increased 600 per cent since 1920—a growth that is characteristic of the marvelous development of the Valley. Harlingen is the home of one of the outstanding fairs of Texas and has a municipal auditorium with a seating capacity of 2,200. Mmes. Schumann-Heink has sung here and Will Rogers has twirled his rope and delivered his humorous observations.

It is the boast of Harlingen that it is the wholesale center of the Valley. There is an office building, nine stories high, with a radio station on the roof and the city has splendid hotels—which is true of all Valley cities.

And, with all these features, Harlingen has no city indebtedness.

One of Harlingen's chief claims to fame is that Bill Williams ended his 10-mile peanut-pushing jaunt here, Rio Hondo being the starting place.

OIL NEWS OF SOUTHWEST

WICHITA, Kas., Sept. 7.—No. 1-Johndro, John Rogers and associates, in the Greenwich townsite in northeast Sedgewick county, has been placed on the swab. Oil men estimate it as good as a 1,000 barrel producer. Wilcox sand was struck at 3,029 feet; Thursday and 20 minutes later oil filled the hole, and within four hours it was flowing.

A show of oil through a hole of water was encountered by Tidal Oil company in the No. 1-McCutcheon in the Padset field, seven miles west of Arkansas City. Operators are drilling in the sand and expect to hit pay soon.

No. 1 Cury, Plains Oil, Bradley & Lassen wildcat two and a half miles west of Wichita, got a good showing of oil from the Kansas City lime at 2,590 feet. The Curry is the only rank wildcat in this part of the state to drill on a 10-acre lease.

Selby Oil & Gas company is drilling deeper in the Chase county test, after having a ten barrel show of oil Thursday in Bartlesville sand from 2,242 to 2,272 feet.

Man Imprisoned in Well Is Rescued

OTTUMWA, Ill., Sept. 7.—Wilkins Priest, 55-year old well digger who was imprisoned in a well here Thursday by quicksand, was rescued at 6:07 o'clock this morning.

Priest was conscious, and his first request was for water. Dr. Leo Rater, who had remained at the scene since Thursday night administered an opiate and ordered him rushed to St. Joseph's hospital.

Dr. Rater did not make a close examination of Priest at the well, but it was feared the man had suffered serious injury to his legs and that internal complications might result from the crushing and sucking of the quicksand.

Ziegfeld, Glorifier of American Girl, Taboos Slat-Like Figure for Season's Productions

Gladys Glad—1930 Follies type.

Florenz Ziegfeld, monarch of musical comedy, has decreed that this season's model girl must possess a full quota of normal feminine curves. When the curtain rises this winter on the dancing, singing line of beauties that make up the Follies and other famous Ziegfeld productions, there will be no slat-like figures in their ranks.

For, according to Mr. Ziegfeld, skeleton figures result from harmful reducing diets are not wanted by the American theatergoer.

Other producers have discovered that it is the thin, half-starved girl who fails to stand up under the rigors of a hard winter of matinees and evening performances and for that reason the official thumb has been turned down on her.

Mr. Ziegfeld further has a word of advice for the thousands of young women who would trip the boards on Broadway. Pep, harm, and beauty he says, are not brought about by elimination of sugar, sweets and other foods that fill nature's storehouse of energy.

"Bounded lines, well proportioned, with a certain amount of grace and dignity are my ideals," Mr. Ziegfeld said. "From the days when Dolores reigned to the present, exemplified by Florenz Ziegfeld who has turned thumbs down on the undernourished type of chorus girl. Above—a line of typical Ziegfeld beauties.

Gladys Glad, the beauties of our shows have been carefully selected with an eye to beauty of form as well as face. The extreme, slender form possesses no beauty, nor does it find favor in my eyes or the eyes of a discriminating public.

Reducing Fads Taboo.

"I have never approved of the wild fads for reducing that often seize the American miss and matron. The girl or woman who eliminates the needed elements of food from her diet, who starves herself by eating only those foods wanted to be non-fattening and who turns aside from good old-fashioned meals, banishing even dessert from her menu, must pay nature's toll in impaired health.

"Only the girl with abundant spirits and personal magnetism finds a place in the scheme of things today. The undernourished, underweight girl cannot hope to possess these attributes which make for success.

"Sunshine, fresh air exercise and an abundance of body building and energizing foods are the open secrets of beauty and no one can hope to remain beautiful who does not take deep draughts of all of these."

Mr. Ziegfeld has selected Gladys Glad as the ideal type of chorus girl whose curves would make any tired business man forget the butter and egg business for a few hours.

PLAN EXHIBIT FOR COUNTY AT DALLAS FAIR

Plans for the Eastland county exhibit at the State fair in Dallas were made Tuesday night at the Ranger Chamber of Commerce. Preceding the business session, an outing and picnic supper were enjoyed at the Willows by Chamber of Commerce secretaries, vocational agriculturists and their families.

Then while the fair exhibit was under discussion by the civic leaders, the ladies attended the Arcadia. It was decided to "major" three products—peanuts and sweet potatoes being chosen as two and the third will be grain sorghums, apples or pears. Twenty-two other products will be displayed, including corn, cotton, wheat, oats, barley, field peas, sudan grass, alfalfa, sweet clover, broom corn, vegetables and fruits.

Each and promised to be on the lookout for especially good specimens of these various products. The series of community fairs should prove helpful in the search for the best specimens.

The background of the display will be similar to the exhibit at the Fort Worth Fat Stock show where the county won a high place. The exhibit in Dallas will be self-financed, it was stated, as there is a premium, previously won, available and the exhibit is assured of winning sufficient prize money at the State fair to provide the remainder of the cost of the display.

While lack of rain has made the task more difficult to provide the county with an outstanding exhibit, those at the meeting felt that it was well worth while to keep unbroken the county's record of being represented each year at the State fair.

The social features of the evening took place at the Willows where the visitors were guests of the management and enjoyed the pool. Then an excellent supper, consisting of sandwiches, salad, pickles, potato flakes, ice tea, ice cream and cake, was served. The Arcadia management was host to the members of the group who did not attend the conference.

Cross Plains Has New Fire Alarm

CROSS PLAINS, Sept. 7.—The city has installed an emergency fire alarm system on the front of the First State bank building. This alarm is to be turned in by anyone in case of fire only, and when immediate connection cannot be obtained through the system at the local telephone office. The emergency alarm is increased with a trail glass front and when its use is necessary the night watchman or any other citizen is instructed to break the glass and turn the switch which makes direct connection with the fire alarm.

Oh, What a Blast!

WHAT have you to say now, you great wonderful expert? A "Reader" has written to us. And he enclosed a newspaper clipping of the selections this great wonderful expert made before the baseball season opened. The selections were:

- National League
- 1-New York Giants.
 - 2-Chicago Cubs.
 - 3-St. Louis Cardinals.
 - 4-Pittsburgh Pirates.
 - 5-Cincinnati Reds.
 - 6-Brooklyn Robins.

 - 3-Detroit Tigers.
 - 4-Philadelphia Athletics.
 - 5-Cleveland Indians.
 - 6-Washington Senators.
 - 7-Chicago White Sox.
 - 8-Boston Red Sox.

Thanks to the Red Sox THE answer to the question, "What have you to say now?" could be easily made by saying, "Nawthin'." But we have an ace in the hole.

Here's an Alibi BUT we beg to remind that we weren't so wrong in the estimation of the Chicago Cubs in the National League. We said we were tempted to pick the Cubs to win the National League pennant. We didn't pick them because they had such a bad reputation as a road club last year.

FAMOUS POLO PLAYER HERE SHORT WHILE

Larry Waterbury, Sr., Attends Wedding of His Son

One of the men who made polo history for the United States in its international contests was a visitor to Cisco Friday and Saturday. He is Larry Waterbury, Sr., the father of Larry Waterbury, whose marriage to Miss Irene White, of this city, was solemnized Friday evening, and the purpose of his visit to Cisco was to attend the wedding.

The elder Waterbury was a member of that noted polo combination which wrested the international cup from British hands in 1908. With him on that celebrated team were Harry Payne Whitney and Monty Waterbury, a brother.

Incidentally Mr. Coyle has been selling polo ponies since 1902 and continues to prosecute a successful business of this character. Mr. Waterbury, Mr. Whitney and their associates of the early years of polo playing in America were members of the exclusive Meadowbrook polo club, of Long Island, New York, the organization dominated by Mr. Whitney and productive of some of the greatest polo combinations in the world.

obedient to the law. The officer turned to Brent. "Looks like rain," he commented good-naturedly.

Brent nodded. The officer moved on, turned the corner. Brent faced about, to look in the opposite direction for a cab. He saw, a few buildings down the street, the beggar slinger, right himself, go on a step or two and then collapse into a convenient doorway.

Brent hesitated. A nuisance to bother with it. But the rain was coming down heavier. Might as well take a look at the old bum while he sought shelter.

He moved, hurried a bit by the fall of raindrops, down to where the old man lay inert in his dirty rags. Brent would not touch him. With his cane he pushed away the hat that half obscured the gray-white face.

Another guest for the morgue, he thought. Well, somebody else could discover him and bother with it. He turned to go. A faint sound checked him. When he looked back the old fellow had stirred. And he was meaning weakly.

Brent stooped over him. "Come out of it," he snapped unfeelingly. The morning ceased and Brent straightened up, having decided to be on his way.

The prostrate man stirred again, moved his arm, and Brent saw that something had fallen out of his tattered shirt, something that gleamed dully in the fading light.

On an instinct that he did not stop to analyze, he stooped to pick it up. There was a string attached to it that led around the old man's neck.

Brent gave a jerk but the string held. And the vagrant opened his eyes. They were dull and unseeing.

But Brent realized suddenly that he was doing a hazardous and absurd thing. Robbing an old beggar. It wasn't robbery really—just curiosity to see why the creature had in his possession an old-fashioned locket with a good-sized diamond on it. But undoubtedly it would look like robbery to anyone seeing him take it. And he was likely to be seen at any moment. That officer might be back.

Brent smiled to think what a lucky officer he would be if he could catch him, Brent, in a crime. It had never been done.

But he wanted that locket. Not to keep it but to satisfy his curiosity by finding out what it contained. He gave another and viciously cruel jerk to the string. It parted this time. And as it did so Brent became aware of the words that were issuing from the blue lips.

They caught his interest. He leaned closer, but he did not forget to thrust the locket out of sight in his pocket. He heard the word "disinherited" repeated over and over, and the name "Evangeline."

What he understood of the matter, pieced together, implied that someone by the name, Evangeline, had been disinherited.

The thought flashed through Brent's mind that people are not disinherited except where there is wealth—disowned perhaps, but not disinherited. And there was wealth there was a hunting ground.

He was no longer loath to touch the poor soul at his feet, though he exercised fastidious care in his next move.

We Could Hardly Afford to Do Otherwise With Used Cars

Every Ford dealer has a reputation to maintain. Our name for fair-dealing in selling new cars, and in servicing those cars, means far more than "quick profit regardless of consequences."

Likewise, our good name must also be upheld when we sell used cars, accepted in trade for the Model A. We could hardly afford to have it otherwise, for we realize that the person who buys a used car from us is a prospect for a new car later on—or at least another used car.

You will find here many bargains in unused transportation, sold for what they are actually worth. There is no inflation of used-car prices to care for excessive trade-in allowances—for the low price and high value of the Model A allows no margin for unreasonable trade-in concessions. When we sell a used Model T Ford, it has been thoroughly reconditioned, and we guarantee it. Other makes of cars are priced according to the service you may expect from them. Stop in today.
