

GEN. SHAFTER FORGOTTEN BY COUNTRY

There is often much squall made concerning the large place filled by military reputations in the pages of history and the memories of citizens.

Thirty and odd years ago the United States engaged in its first formal war with a continental European power. That war was brief and more or less glorious. Its result was that Spain ceased to be a European power and the United States became a world power.

The Spanish-American war contained three campaigns on land and two on the sea. The most important land campaign was that directed against Santiago de Cuba. At the beginning of the war there were 195,820 Spanish soldiers in Cuba, of whom 36,582 were in the Province of Santiago. An American army of 17,000 men in twenty-four days landed in Cuba, won three battles and captured Santiago and 22,700 men.

It does not appear from the record that the Americans were any braver than the Spaniards. It does not appear that they were better soldiers. The triumph was due entirely to superior generalship. Yet the superior general is forgotten by his countrymen.

At least I have never seen any monument in any public square to Gen. William K. Shafter. I have found no streets or parks named for him. I do not find his name in the list of officers thanked by Congress or presented with a sword, or even a medal, by that body. I do not find that there was ever a fort, camp or barracks of the army named for him—and nearly all of the important officers in all army history have been so honored.

Swimmer Makes Double Rescue

LYLE Wish, Sept. 18.—Having saved two lives when he thought he was rescuing only one, H. M. LaBertue, agent for the Spokane, Portland and Seattle railway here, is tending his trains and business affairs as usual and does not put much stock in this business of being a hero.

But Sammy James, 10 and Frances Lore, 14, are awfully glad he came along when he did.

LaBertue heard screams for help while he and his family were picnicking on the banks of the Columbia river near here. Running to the spot where the sound came from, he saw a slender arm disappearing beneath the tugging current of the river.

Swimming powerfully towards it he grabbed the arm and started pulling ashore. As he dragged it onto the beach, LaBertue found he had held of Frances and that she in turn had a firm grip on little Sammy.

The boy had been frightened in deep water, Frances said, and when she tried to rescue him, he clutched at her and dragged the frail girl under.

WOMEN'S HAIR GETS THIN AND BAD FROM CONSTANT CURLING

TOUCHING UP GRAY DISAPPOINTING TOO

If one's hair has become thin, streaked, gray or dull from frequent treatments or the gray hair has turned ugly shades of red, brown or black, and you are tired of dyeing and trying to get it to grow again, give the scalp hair roots, and color glands a good vigorous daily massage with finger tips dipped in the stimulating, beneficial Lea's Hair Tonic.

Right away the scalp takes on a healthier tone—and if any vanishes and between the massaging and the Lea's the hair grows out thicker and stronger as it may appear the Lea's Hair Tonic causes the gray hairs to begin turning from gray back to youthful shade—nature seems to get back on the job of putting pigment and color into the off-colored locks, dull faded patches and even locks that have been gray for years. Dyed hair as it grows out instead of coming out gray at the roots comes out nicely. It isn't a shocking change to astonish friends. Experts cannot detect the use of Lea's. Of course patience and the nightly use of Lea's is necessary for quite a while, but once the hair is back to its youthful, luxuriant and lustrous shade the result is worth a hundred times the cost. From then on an occasional massaging with Lea's keeps the hair year after year just as you would wish it—it seems to keep nature up on her toes indefinitely. Then wave, curl, marcel or get a permanent, and you too will say wonderful as thousands have in the past. To test apply to hidden spot the size of silver dollar a couple weeks and watch results. If reader desires to try Lea's Hair Tonic on guarantee of complete satisfaction they should get bottle at drug store or pin dollar bill to this advertisement and send to Lea's Tonic Co., Brentwood, Md., for regular bottle, full directions and postage paid. ### BEAUTY AND PROGRESS AT BROWNSVILLE

By Staff Correspondent
 BROWNSVILLE, Sept. 19.—It would be difficult to find within the borders of the United States a more picturesque yet progressive town than Brownsville on the southern tip of this nation, within that area known as the Magic Valley and within proximity to the Gulf of Mexico whose cooling breeze fans the brow throughout summer.

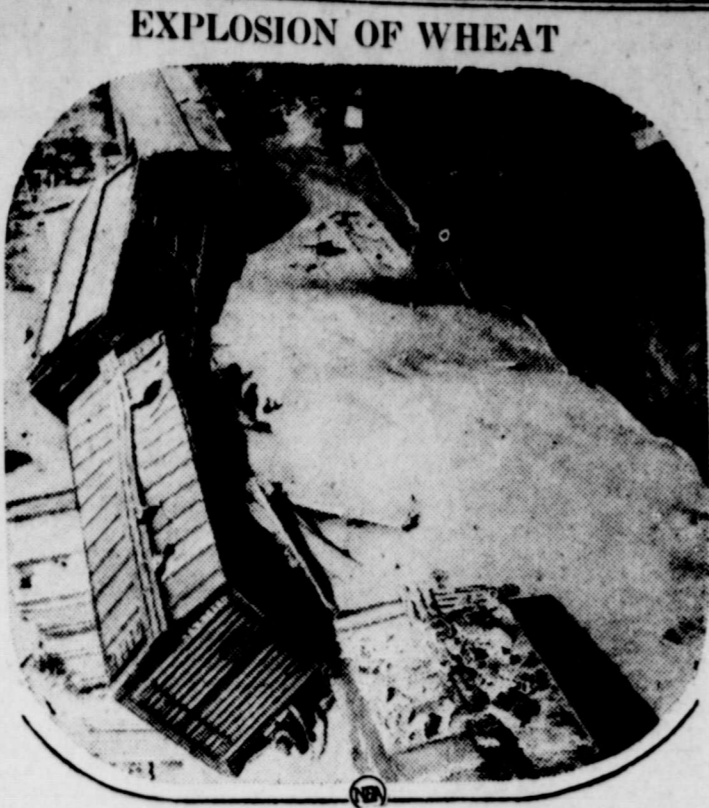

The old and the new, the past and the present rub shoulders here. Here else could you find a trolley made half a century ago that is used in Mexico and looking like a dead-ringer for the Tooters brought to Texas in 1863 and said to be the oldest engine in the State—while in this same city the most magnificent international airport of the Western hemisphere where Colonel Lindbergh, Captain Hawks, Amelia Earhart and Captain Eaker have been at work since?

Here you will find beautiful homes and modern business edifices while a few blocks away are the ruins of Brown, one of the oldest army posts in this half of the nation. The house where Robert E. Lee and U. S. Grant attended a conference. You can see, still standing, a building that was the headquarters of Gen. Zachary Taylor during the War with Mexico; they can find out to you a battlefield, and other historic place is the house where Porfirio Diaz lived while he made his plans to seize the reins of power in Mexico—an undertaking in which he was successful and for many years ruled the Silver Republic.

Reverting to Brownsville's airport: It covers 640 acres and this square of smooth, level terrain represents an expenditure of $100,000 by the city. It has been leased for a nominal amount and the company has agreed to spend $10 million dollars for improvements in the next 10 years and other half million dollars in the following 10 years. At the end of that time, the field goes back to the city.

The aviation payroll in Brownsville is around $500,000 a year. There are lines to Tampico, Mexico City, Central and South America; to Monterrey, Torreon, Durango and Mazatlan; and the T.A.T. Fort Worth and Dallas, connecting to the North and East. The government is installing beacon lights every 10 miles and arranging emergency landing fields not further than 50 miles apart along the Brownsville-Dallas route.

Great Palm Grove
 At the airport headquarters.

This picture shows what happened when an elevator containing one million bushels of wheat exploded at Des Moines, Ia. A half-million bushels spilled out of the elevator when a dust explosion blew out the side walls of eight of the 10 bins. Two freight cars were literally lifted up and hurled aside.

There are immigration, customs and agricultural representatives of the United States and Mexico, American and Mexican postoffices and a United States weather bureau.

In one of the big hangars at the time of our visit there were three tri-motored Ford planes as well as a number of smaller ships. How aviation has almost blotted out distances may be realized when one learns that Mexico City to the south of the sluggish Rio Grande, is only five hours from Brownsville. The airplane is playing a great part in Mexico due to that nation's great distances, high mountains and deep canyons. A passenger by plane can go from Durango to Mazatlan in two hours. The rail journey requires five days.

Not far from Brownsville is the largest natural palm grove in the United States. As the visitor approaches he sees ebony trees and native huts covered with palm leaves—a la the South Sea islands. Countless palm trees tower to a great height. A narrow road has been hacked through the jungle. So tangled are the tropical vines that at high noon the sun's rays penetrate but dimly. Chattering apes with coconuts in their paws are the only element lacking to convince one he is in Africa.

On the opposite bank of the Rio Grande from Brownsville is Matamoros, a progressive Mexican city of 10,000. This writer saw the Matamoros Rotary club in session, with the same comradeship present that one finds at a Texas Rotary club. The plaza with its band concerts, the curio shops, bars,

MEASURES TO AVERT BURIAL ALIVE ASKED

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Relating blood-curdling stories of persons being buried alive, the Society for Prevention of Premature Burial has started an active campaign in Great Britain for the construction of a mortuary chapel where bodies can be placed until there is no further doubt of their being lifeless.

Maxwell Johnson, secretary of the S. P. P. B., said there was such a mortuary in Munich. Attached to each body under suspicion is an electric switch which rings a bell at the slightest movement of the body. Attendants are on duty day and night to listen for the life-ringing bell.

"Amazing precautions," Johnson said, "are sometimes taken by people to make sure that they will not be buried alive they have ordered that a stiletto shall be thrust through them, a vein severed, or they shall be decapitated and their bodies buried at sea."

"A Russian nobleman invented an electric cord for coffins. If this was touched by the corpse it lighted a red lamp, rang a bell, and waved a flag in the cemetery above."

This recalls the story of a domestic servant named Annie Green who was hanged in 1850. Fourteen hours later she revived, was pardoned, later married and had three children.

The society points out that cremation is becoming popular among those who fear that they might be buried alive.

Willacy County Irrigation district No. 1 is building at a cost of $1,000,000 one of the biggest irrigation plants in the southwest, capable of irrigating 129,000 acres of land. The system will include 325 miles of concrete-lined canals and laterals, with the main canal 130 feet wide at the top, 90 feet at the bottom, and 14 feet deep, carrying 250 acre-feet of water an hour.

Nebraska City Has Two-Headed Snake

McCook, Neb., Sept. 19.—One can go to almost any county fair and see a two-headed calf or a two-headed colt but McCook has a two-headed snake.

The reptile is about eight inches long, perfectly normal in its actions and to the casual onlooker, just twice as dangerous as an ordinary snake. The heads are about an inch long. When the snake decides to move across a room, it rests one head on the other and wriggles along in snappy style.

Both of the heads are apparently normal in their functioning. Forked tongues protrude from both, both have eyes and both dart around with lightning-like rapidity.

In 1927-28 the Texas Valley shipped 1,528 cars of citrus fruit. In the 1928-29 season the shipments totaled 2,316 cars, according to the Donna News. The gain was more than 50 per cent.

Your new car will be worth more a year from now if it's an EIGHT!

Every month it becomes more obvious — motorists want the sweep of power, the smoothness, the thrilling acceleration — and the distinction — of the Eight. Admittedly America's finest cars are Eights.

In eight key states new car registrations for the first six months of this year showed a 90 per cent increase in Eights above $1000—while Sixes above $1000 decreased 16 per cent.

Studebaker offers three great lines of Eights that hold more American stock car records for speed and stamina than all other makes combined, including the greatest record in transportation — 30,000 miles in 26,326 consecutive minutes.

Eights of brilliant performance — economical as the thriftiest Sixes. So supremely ahead of the times that public response already has made Studebaker the largest maker of Eights in the world.

No extra gear shifting can give a six-cylinder car the silken smoothness and flexibility of an Eight.

Why not get an Eight—a smart new Studebaker Eight? Enjoy it today and have a car that will be worth more a year from now—because Eights will then be at a premium in a used car market glutted with Sixes.

Studebaker's new low One-Price prices have swept aside all barriers to Eight ownership. See the cars. Make comparisons. Convince yourself.

HELEN PAGE feels unhappy

Brent represents all that she hates of home and family and refuses to clear up the mystery of her birth until after her gradu-

However, a chance meeting with dying beggar causes Brent to change all his plans regarding Helen's future. Before the man Brent learns that his name

has hidden a daughter from a pathy grandfather, CYRIL K.
CUNNINGHAM, of Yonkers, Pos-sing as a newspaper man searching for story material, Brent secures additional facts and evidence which aid his plans.
On graduating, Helen reminds Brent of his promise to clear up her parents, and is amazed when he informs her that he has promised her dying father to take her to her grandfather when she is 18. He takes her to interview Cyril Cunningham and tells her story to the old man who is skeptical until he sees a locket which he had secured from the dying Nellin. This locket contained a picture of
VANGELINE CUNNINGHAM
ELLIN, which the old man recognized. Then he asks Brent and Helen to return later to meet his wife.

her of your household?" the lawyer questioned.
"Yes. We will keep her here
on probation."
"Not a bad idea," the lawyer returned, "if she will agree to it."
A few minutes later, when he repeated Mr. Cunningham's request to Helen, he was not prepared to have his doubt of her consent so emphatically realized.
She declined to accept Mr. Cunningham's proposal. Declined in the simple words of sincerity.

Brent came over and put an arm on her shoulders. "Helen dear," he said gently, "I'm afraid that you don't realize our position.
I believe," he paused and looked at Mr. Groves, "that we are under suspicion."
Mr. Groves barely refrained from nodding assent.
"I should never forgive myself
if I let you do anything rash—anything you might ever regret," Brent went on, smiling tenderly down at Helen.
"Oh, you wish me to stay?" she cried in dismay.
"Yes," he said, "I do. Because there must be an end to ruthlessness somewhere. It may be your duty to think of your grandfather. And I do not want you to make a hasty decision. I want you to be sure of what you do.
It may be only for a short time.
Their investigation may not satisfy them."
"I hope it doesn't," Helen declared, the tears of defeat springing to her eyes.
"H'm," Mr. Groves said to himself. "H'm, h'm."
"Then you will stay—until you are sure of yourself?"
"I'll stay," Helen promised;
"but as for being sure of myself,
Leonard, you can't people over believe that even kids have minds of their own!"
Brent smiled. And turned to Mr. Groves.
When Helen's answer was carried to Mr. Cunningham he did a strange thing. "Thank God," he said. It had been a long time since those words had passed his lips.
Helen's first night under the roof that she believed had sheltered her mother was spent in tears.
She felt like a prisoner and remembered that her mother had actually been imprisoned there. For a moment she hated her grandfather with a white-hot hatred.

Then the memory of his goodness
to her came to her mind afresh
and she buried her face in her pillow, feeling like a traitor.
He had put out his hands and said to her, in a voice of infinite pity: "My dear, I hope you are my granddaughter, for you are very sweet, and I need you to help me forget my mistakes. They weigh heavily upon a man as near his Maker as I am."
Helen wished she could forget
how much her mother had suffered.

And in the days that followed her wish slowly became at least a partial reality. Mr. Cunningham was very kind to her. Whatever doubt he still retained about the genuineness of their blood relationship was hidden from Helen and she saw only the yearning in his eyes to have her love.
He kept her in rather constant attendance upon him at first, until he saw that she was looking nude and tired. He sought to draw her out one day about herself, but Helen evaded him.
She was grieving for Brent and
the imminent death of her hopes.
For she had no doubt that she would be the heiress and would eventually be accepted as such.
And while she waited her boats were sailing, distant places were calling. Leonard was alone in New York. They might have been together, dining, dancing, riding in Central Park, planning their future.

But of her disappointment she said no word to him when he came to Bramblewood.
Brent was far too astute to appear often, and he knew without speaking to her about it, that Helen would not reveal her heart
to her grandfather.
In Mr. Cunningham's presence
she was discreet to the point of wounding Helen, who believed that that he was beginning to be glad he was relieved of his responsibility toward her.
Mr. Cunningham set her quietness down to solitude and looked about for a way to make life more pleasant for her.

One day when she came to him,

tremulous and on the verge of tears after an unsuccessful attempt to coax Brent to stay to dinner, he asked her if she was lonely.
"Isn't there someone you would like to invite here?" he said when she had looked away without answering his question. "Some of your school friends, perhaps?"
"No," Helen burst out, "no."
But I don't see why I should stay here! You haven't accepted me as your granddaughter. Can't I

HOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII
Brent and Helen lunched in Yonkers, in a cheerful little tea-room where an experiential-minded proprietor was trying out an idea of a ripsy atmosphere.
Heived through the medium of "palm-reading fortune teller-fee was included with the price of the meal.
Helen was at first too excited to take an interest in the woman whose name she carried in her name, but later, after Brent had talked to her and the man came back Helen submitted to having her "fortune" told.
She smiled at Brent over her stretched hand, thinking more of his remarkable power
over her than of the woman who sent a grimy finger tracing lines of her palm.
A moment ago, little more than an intuitive afraid of her future—afraid that her grandfather, once convinced of her relation to him, would demand that she give up Brent's guardianship of herself and accept her share in the world as the Cunningham heiress.
Brent had swept aside her fear, reassuring that Mr. Cunningham was of too suspicious and crabby disposition ever to accept the truth. "But even if he did," he said cunningly, "I can't see why
I should be unhappy about it, Helen dear. I know you aren't interested in his fortune but if he sees you. . . ." He had led his girl off with effective sug-gestiveness, planting the first seed
of sacrifice in Helen's mind.
Before either of them spoke
and the gypsy woman returned, Helen tore her thoughts away from Brent to listen to what was said to her.
She smiled over the woman's promise of lots of money and a happy marriage, with a warning to wear of an older man.

Brent smiled too. It was, of course, a stereotyped fortune, but amused him. The law of averages had worked to make the advice good on this occasion, he told Helen.
After lunch they drove up the road and Helen tried to talk of the future—where they would live

what they would do—but Brent was strangely silent.
Helen too fell silent and when they returned to Bramblewood
she was conscious that Brent had accepted the change in their plans
as being inevitable.
It had a depressing effect upon her and when they again entered Mr. Cunningham's room she experienced a sense of futility.
Whatever these two men decided for her would be her fate. She knew it, because she knew she had not the will to stand against Brent. She could not force herself upon him. For in spite of what he had said about his own secret dreams there was his past that she could not weigh. This would keep her from trying to settle the issue herself.
She said nothing beyond a polite greeting to Mr. Groves
when he was introduced to her.
The lawyer's keen eyes swept her face in one searching glance and he satisfied himself in an instant that whatever she might be
she was no common crook.
Of Brent he formed a similar opinion. The man aroused an intense interest in him. For Brent was as poised and unemotional as the sphinx.
He answered the questions put
to him calmly and unhesitatingly.
Mr. Groves was puzzled and at the end of the interview, when Brent and Helen had gone downstairs to wait in the library, he told Mr. Cunningham that he could not give an opinion on the matter, except to advise a thorough investigation of Brent's story.
Mr. Cunningham nodded in

"I don't see why I should stay here! You haven't accepted me as your granddaughter. Can't I go back to New York and wait?"

agreement. He had already decided that such an investigation
should be made.
"Attend to it at once," he ordered, rather, rather preemptorily.
"And in the meantime," Mr.
Groves said, "we must keep these two under observation."
"Quite right, quite right," Mr.
Cunningham rapped out impatiently. "Ask Miss . . . er . . ." Brent, to remain here. Either she really does not care to do so, or she is a consummate actress."
"You mean remain as a mem-

"Yes sir, I'm sure Orgatone is a

OIL NEWS OF SOUTHWEST

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 19.—Continuing to flow more than 300 barrels an hour, Oklahoma City field's latest producer, Hall Briscoe's No. 1-Childs has to shut down in obedience to the corporation commission thirty day shut-down order.

The well averaged about 10,000-15,000 feet of gas with the oil Friday.

The drilling in this well and successful production carries with it a bit of romance and daring. Eight months ago the two flying wildcatters from Chickasha, Florida Hall and Powell Briscoe, flew to the field, purchased the site of the Childs well and boasted they would get a gusher. They expected it in eight weeks.

Many things happened during the intervening period, including the shut-down of the well because they struck salt water. But Friday the thirteenth was their lucky day.

The first unit of its gasoline plant on the Stamper lease of the Sinclair Oil company in the Oklahoma City field was started in operation. The gas is to be used by drillers in the field.

The Empire Oil and Crowell-Franklin Oil companies have purchased land in the new Ramsey area east of the Oklahoma City field.

Three new wells located in the southwest part of the Asher townsite area will begin drilling in Wednesday. The wells are being bored because of protests from business houses close to the well who do not want their stores smeared with oil.

The No. 1-Childs well was shut down Saturday before the full 24 hour gauge had been taken because of lack of tankage. The well was flowing 325 barrels an hour when shut down.

HOUSTON, Sept. 19.—The Yount-Lee Oil company's No. 6-Lattrell at Evangelina, the deepest producing well in the Gulf coast area, is proving a most consistent producer. It was completed early last June with an initial flow of 2,500 barrels at a depth of 7,300 feet and is still flowing at the rate of 1,200 barrels daily. Their No. 99-C and M in the same field has a fishing job at 7,655 feet.

Earlsboro district is attracting considerable attention again with Independent Oil & Gas company moving in material on a new location and the Minnehoma Oil No. 1-Nice, a recent addition, flowing 8,218 barrels, a peak in its production.

Little River area was competing with Earlsboro for honors today with new locations being made and several good wells appearing.

HOUSTON, Sept. 19.—The Mission Drilling company's (subsidiary of the United Gas) No. 1-Eskridge-Heard at Refugio was completed Friday at 3,659 feet, flowing 400 barrels pipe line oil on quarter inch choker. It had a rock pressure of 250 pounds. This well extends the producing area of the Refugio field a distance of 2,500 feet to the southeast.

The production of crude oil in the state of Texas for the second quarter of the year broke all quarterly records, according to the report of the state comptroller's office, Austin, which shows a total production of 71,671,617 barrels, valued at $75,562,224, which compares with 69,541,534 barrels, valued at $63,320,489, the previous quarter which formerly held the record of being the largest.

During the first quarter of the year, the average per barrel price was the lowest in the history of the state since it became a large factor in the production of oil. The average per barrel price during the first quarter was 91c and in the second quarter 81.03c. The report shows that 36,372,945 barrels out of the total for the second quarter was produced by ten leading companies with the Gulf Production company holding the lead.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 19.—While the Oklahoma City field operators saw the 17th producer come in for a flow of 250 barrels an hour, William N. Davis, president of the Mid-Continent Oil & Gas company was commending them for the conservation measure taken by the 30-day shut-down. He suggested the step be followed by operators in Earlsboro, the largest producing pool in the Seminole area. The well continued flowing at its rapid pace Tuesday.

The Ido Foster No. 1-Trosper which blew in late Monday will be shut down after it has flown 24 hours in accordance with the rules of the shut-down order. The well showed about 2,000,000 feet of gas. Total depth is 6,546 feet in line. With a number of new locations and a few new wells showing Earlsboro pool is continuing to rank highest in the Seminole area.

HOUSTON, Sept. 19.—Pure's wildcat No. 1-Jarman near Grand Saline in Van Zandt county was given the Edward test Monday at 2,210 feet and showed good for 110 barrels. This well proves up another inland dome being the second so far found in the coastal area.

NIGHT RAGES OVER REMOVAL OF KATY SHOPS

AUSTIN, Sept. 19. — Counter charges of bad faith, scandal and pertinence were hurled at the opening of a hearing today before the state railroad commission on application of the Katy road to move superintendent of maintenance forces from Smithville to Waco. Permission to make engine repairs and do overhauling at Waco also is sought. Former Governor Pat M. Neff appeared for the Waco chamber of commerce. He asked permission to observe the proceedings with a right to take an active part. Developments made it advisable, Judge Luther Nickels, former member of the commission of appeals of the state supreme court, appeared for Smithville with Messrs. Jack Blalock and attorney general. Railroad neighborhoods were represented by officials and attorneys. Judge Nickels asserted that the road is in effect asking the road commission to overrule decisions of the 53rd district court, the third court of civil appeals, the state supreme court and the U. S. supreme court in permitting the removal. He charged that the road is bound both by acceptance of unreturned grants of valuable property at Smithville and agreement for settlement of anti-trust suit to maintain its present status at Smithville. Katy attorneys asked that Smithville's pleadings be stricken from records. The charge was made that they are full of scandal, pertinence, slurs, insults, ungranted charges and absurdities which threaten the dignity of the commission to consider. The right of Smithville as a municipality to appear in the hearing was also tested. The commission overruled the motion to strike out Smithville's pleadings. H. E. McGee, vice president and general manager of the railroad was the first witness. He took testimony in expected to occupy several days.

ODNEAL TRIAL CONTINUED ON STATE MOTION

FORT WORTH, Sept. 19.—The trial attempt to trial Cecil Odneal for the murder of Audie Attriss came to an abrupt end today in criminal district court. The trial was continued on motion of District Attorney R. A. Hart on account of the critical illness of Stuart's brother, Walter Hart of Weatherford. Illness of Miss Bobbie Jordan, one of the state's main witnesses, also was given a reason for continuance. Miss Jordan is at her home under care of a physician and is reported to have contracted tuberculosis. Miss Jordan was in the auto at Sunset Park with Odneal a few minutes before Fenwick was shot to death on the night of July 5. The state had relied largely on her corroborate testimony of Francis Benedict, star state witness. The continuance means that Milo Hooper will be tried first for the murder. Judge George Casey said Thursday that it was very uncertain when Odneal could be brought to trial again, as his pocket is full until the middle of November.

TWO UNION MEN, SOUGHT BY MOB, SAFE

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 18.—Two organizers of the national textile workers' union, sought by a mob of anti-unionists at Blacksburg, S. C., last night, arrived today after a wild all night ride.

Organizers Cortel and Pfifer who were to address a strikers' rally in Blacksburg said they eluded a mob in automobiles by speeding over lonely side roads. Chief of Police A. J. Bryant of Blacksburg told the United Press that approximately 50 automobiles loaded with Gastonia, N. C., citizens were following the speakers. The mobmen, cheated of their two victims, are reported to have returned to Besemer City and terrorized that small community until daybreak. The incident occurred two days after the dramatic funeral of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins, young widow and textile striker, who was shot to death while enroute to a workers' rally in South Gastonia. Meantime a feeling of anxiety concerning the next move in the campaign of terrorism that has existed in the Piedmont section was felt by union officials and workers here today.

Forest Fires Do $10,000,000 Damage

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—As the smoke cleared away from the forest fire situation on the Pacific coast today a survey of the damage caused by innumerable outbreaks in the three states, was possible. Conservative estimates placed the damage at more than $10,000,000 and the territory blackened by the fires at nearly 150,000 acres.

A miniature cloudburst has put an end to the trail of destruction, caused by disastrous forest fires in Ventura and San Diego counties of Southern California. More than 65,000 acres were burned over, causing approximately $5,000,000 damage in the worst fires in 10 years of the counties' experience.

Vote to Hasten Action on Tariff

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Senate Republicans moved today to hasten action on the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill in the hope of passing it before congress reconvenes in regular session next December.

At a conference attended by 31 of the 55 Republicans in the senate it was decided to start daily sessions next week at 11 a. m., rather than noon, the present meeting hour. Although the conference had been expected to canvass the strength of those favoring the tariff bill in its present form, nothing was said about divisions within the party which are worrying administration leaders.

NEW NOTE IN POLITICS.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 19.—A new note entered Mexican politics today with the request by Provisional President Portes Gil that in the future military men refrain from political activities and devote themselves entirely to their army duties.

Miss Amy Kilton of Chicago was sent to prison for biting a policeman who arrested her for drunkenness. No other major league games were played.

THEY 'TOTE' AMBITIONS OF MR. LITTLEFIELD'S LONGHORNS

Here are five mainstays of the 1937 football team with which Coach Clyde Littlefield hopes to win another championship this year.

Steers Grind for Another Chance at Conference Flag

Flesh and bones pounded against flesh and bones on the Memorial stadium field at Texas University a week ago today as Clyde Littlefield drove his 60 young men through their first light scrimmage of the year.

Now Mr. Littlefield is wasting no time in whipping his braves into shape for the first game of the season with St. Edward's university Sept. 28. Scrimmage three days after the first practice bells ring is most unusual, because most coaches are leary of injuries. And besides that, it was on the eve of Friday, 13th.

Now the experts have Texas figured out of the race. Not so with Mr. Littlefield and his fellow coaches, Bill James, Bill Ford, Herbert Tigmer, Curtis Alderson and Marry Karrow. They are optimistic with their prospects, they should be.

In the backfield are five veterans—Nona Rees of San Antonio, Claude Meadows of Waco, Dexter Shelley of Austin, Milton Perkins of Bastrop, Ed Beular of Beaumont. Two others, William (Bull) Ekins of San Antonio and Jim Beard of Jacksonville, Fla., will be in there much of the time. There is no need of pessimism with a backfield like that, especially if there is a good line in front.

Two ends will be developed from Alfred (Big Un) Rose of Dallas, Frank Cheatham of San Antonio, Rutledge Vining of Pine Bluff, Ark., all huskies and all experienced. All American Capt. Gordy Brown of Dallas and Ox Emerson of Orange are capable tackles. Curtis Beatty of San Antonio and Nick Gatours of Austin are tough guards, Mac Burnett of Austin is about the best center in the conference.

But customers, here's the catch—the reserve strength is weak and an unknown quantity. The freshman team last year yielded surprisingly few good prospects for this year's varsity. If the reserves come round, watch out for Texas.

Morgan Yacht to Cost 2 Million

BATH, Me., Sept. 10.—In a Jap- yard on the Kennebec river, the world's largest and most expensive pleasure craft is under construction for J. Pierpont Morgan, New York millionaire.

The keel of the mammoth vessel was laid several weeks ago and work is being pushed so that the craft can be launched early next spring.

Costing approximately $2,000,000, the craft when completed will be 343 feet long from stem to stern—more than 33 feet longer than any American pleasure boat and the largest in the world.

The yacht will be christened the Corsair, the same name as that of Morgan's present yacht, which will be supplanted by the new craft.

Unlike several recently completed large yachts, the Corsair will not use Diesel engines for power, but will use steam and will be propelled by electro-turbine drive. The craft will be rated at more than 6000 horsepower.

Every modern convenience will be fitted for the Corsair including elevators for the guests. A crew of more than 100 will be needed to sail the yacht.

Baylor Golden Bears Facing Bright Hopes

WACO, Sept. 19.—With a team which wrought havoc with the championship hopes of at least two South-west conference schools after it had been eliminated in the 1925 race, practically intact, and a wealth of material acquired from freshmen ranks, Baylor university's Golden Bears are facing the brightest grid prospects in many years.

Coach Morley Jennings' paramount problem is to uncover the best combinations from a galaxy of pre-season stars. Bruin followers are freely predicting that the 1926 conference banner will wave over Carroll field.

Jake Wilson, field general of the daring, flashy type, is being groomed for the quarterback post. His trusty toe booted the S. M. U. Ponies out of the cage last year and he has won renown as the fastest punter and the most promising triple threat man Baylor has had in years.

Competing with Wilson will be Raymond Alford, Beaumont; Tommie Glover, all-state Waco; diminutive Abilene passing ace, Vergil Gilliland, Itasca, who won all-conference mention last year, is slated for a half-back berth. The tall, rangy lad is the best ball-carrier on the team. Ernest McElreath, steady, dependable, dopes out as the other half.

Doyle Smith, Dallas, and Maurice Pierce of Waco seem to be the best of the fullback candidates. Handicapped by injuries last year, Louis Paradaux of Sherman was all-conference mention at center. The Bruin prior post will be well handled by his 195 pounds or brown.

The pride of line Coach Jim Crew are his guards, Botchey Koch, Temple, and S. L. Witche, Gatesville, are mentioned as the best in the conference on last year's reputation, and they promise to be better in 1926. Ralph Winton, Waco, and Woody Zacary, Temple, both all-state high school men, are understudies of the duo.

PERSTITION HELPED TEAM HIT THE BALL

By HAL TOTTEN

Buckner, Sage of the White clubhouse, like to hark back her days. He tells this one ring the superstitions of ball game.

Back in 1909," says Buck, "I was managing the club and we were what was known as the 'hitless wonders,' and, hence, we lived up to that name. I remember once when Gray of Washington pitched the game against us and we lost. Big Ed Walsh was the pitcher in those days.

Give Him Lead

"I'd get a one-run lead and I'd bell, first sucker and I'd say of the club, would run to the mound and clap Ed a hand on the back.

"You got a good lead now, man," he'd say. "Go ahead and strut your stuff," and Ed would say to me, 'Why, when we get a one-run lead, the opposing manager would consider the game gone and he'd give up.' I'd say to him, 'Well, one time we weren't hit even for hitless wonders. It was serious. Well, there's a superstition, you know, that if a ball player sees a load of barrels he just knows he's going to get a flock of base hits. We were playing in Cleveland and the Indians were going like a hot fire. The town was all hot and Jones called me up to his house. Here's some money, Buck,' he said. 'Go find a cooper shop and get me a load of barrels for our bus on the way to the game and I'll bet somebody's son is going to get killed—or damn it. And don't breathe a word of this to anybody.'

Gets Wagon, Barrels

Well, I got the wagon and the barrels and the driver. I took them to the ball park and told him to wait there at 1:30 driving the same route we would be driving. We rode out to the field in a tallho coach then, with a dog and a man with a noisy horn.

Well, we started out to the game. There were 22,000 people there and the 'old out' sign was sure enough the wagon met. Every one of our players solved removed his cap. Fielder said at me.

Well, that day our hitless wonders looked just like the Athletics today. They just couldn't get it. All those 22,000 people were looking at a big brass cow bell. After the game the groundkeeper, who is there, sold a junk man $18 worth of unused cow bells. He had four or five left.

That's what superstition did to hitless wonders that day."

Richard Akers, other boys may know the big league baseball stars, but he knows those in the heavens.

STARS HAVE NO SECRETS FOR THIS YOUTH

LAKESIDE, O. — The stars hold no mysteries for Richard Akers, 9, whose study of astronomy and ability to converse on the subject has amazed many scientists.

At an age when other little boys are reciting "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star," Richard has conquered these other worlds. Not physically, of course, but intellectually. He knows a lot about those fiery diamonds in the sky and their clock-like movements.

Richard will address the legislature of Kentucky this fall in response to a personal invitation of the governor of that state, who has learned of the youth's unusual ability.

Since he was six years old, Richard has scoured such things as toy trains and Erector sets that he might study the heavens and the mysteries of the celestial universe.

He has pursued this hobby so relentlessly that the astronomy class at Ashbury college in Wilmore, Ky., marveled when members attempted to confuse him in technical discussion of planets and stars.

He has pursued this hobby so relentlessly that the astronomy class at Ashbury college in Wilmore, Ky., marveled when members attempted to confuse him in technical discussion of planets and stars.

He has amazed the college faculty with his ability to discuss the astronomical aspects of Einstein's latest theory. The boys astronomer has addressed high school and grade schools in Wilmore, Ky., the June graduation exercises at Ashbury college, and numerous civic organizations.

His father, Dr. L. H. Akers, is president of Ashbury college and has assisted the child in his astronomical studies.

Ex-Convict Okays Prison Life in Al Jolson Film

There was one man on the staff of the technical crew that made "Say It With Songs" Warner Bros. latest all-talking, singing Vitaphone picture, starring Al Jolson, who broke all existing records for camera shyness.

That was a prison atmosphere expert brought to the lot direct from his third exit from the penitentiary after serving thirty odd years for forgery.

This man knows prison life and lingo as few do. He was exceedingly useful to Jolson and Director Lloyd Bacon in making the prison sequences but before a camera he was more timid than any withered wall flower ever was.

He admitted he had been photographed before, on entering and leaving prison three or more times, but he never considered the results good nor the pictures desirable.

So no publicity pictures of the making of the new Jolson opus show the face of the actor. The authenticity of the prison scenes owe much to his ability but his face does not figure in any of the scenes.

"Say It With Songs" is showing now at the Palace theatre.
