JOHN COOLIDGE TO WED THIS P. M.

CEREMONY TO TAKE PLACE AT 4 O'CLOCK

Simple Ring Service to Be Used in Church Nuptials

By BOYD LEWIS
United Press Staff Correspondent
PLAINVILLE, Conn., Sept. 23.—At 4 p. m. today Florence Trumbull becomes Mrs. John Coolidge, promising to "love, comfort and honor" her husband but not to obey him.

Shortly after sunrise people began flying, walking, riding trains and motoring along the roads to Plainville to see the son and daughter of two of New England's most distinguished families united in marriage.

The couple will promise to love, comfort and honor and keep each other. Florence will not vow to obey her husband.

John will present Florence with a platinum wedding ring encrusted with thirteen diamonds.

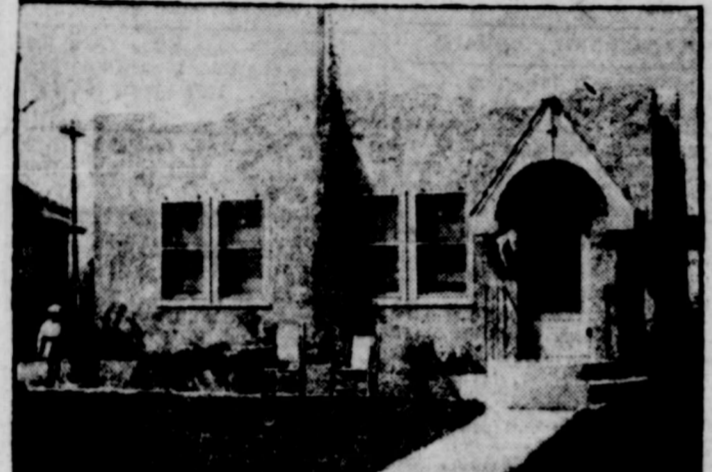

Of the hundreds who gathered here, about 82 received permission to file into the First Congregational church for the ceremony. It is such a wedding as Miss Trumbull chose, for she could have been married in the White House.

The service will be simple and conventional; once more a bride will pace the aisles to the Lohengrin wedding march and before it is over the orchestra will play "Oh, Promise Me."

Three detectives paced the halls of the Trumbull mansion today for there are $10,000 worth of wedding presents there, filling two rooms and spilling into another one.

Young Coolidge fidgeted today, nervously seeking the aid and comfort of Stephen Drown of Northampton, Mass., who was his roommate at Amherst, and who is his best man.

IN TEXAS MYSTERY MURDER

Texas Rangers are investigating the mysterious murder of District Attorney John A. Helms, 43, of Borger, Tex., who was shot from ambush as he stood in the doorway of his garage. The victim's home is shown above. The driveway, where assassins hid behind a clump of bushes, is at the left. Below are District Attorney Helms and his widow. Mrs. Helms reached her husband's side just as he died.

W. K. JOHNSTON CONGRESSMAN BOOSTS IDEA OF DOLLAR DAY ON OCTOBER 8

W. K. Johnston, Cisco groceryman and chairman of the trade extension committee of the chamber of commerce, makes the suggestion that Cisco merchants should inaugurate a weekly dollar day as a trade booster for the fall season.

Other cities Mr. Johnston says have found the dollar day idea to be especially beneficial to their businesses during the fall season, and Cisco could profit to the same extent. If it is thought advisable the offers on Saturday could be made to extend over Monday.

Next Thursday and Friday week, October 3 and 4, in the high school auditorium, the Wednesday Study club is going to stage the great collegiate comedy, "Aunt Lucia."

Would Test Validity of Pension Law

AUGLIN, Sept. 23.—A court test of the validity of the new pension law was suggested today by R. B. Walthall, chairman of the state board of control. Walthall expressed the opinion that the law is unconstitutional in creating different classes of pensioners.

PARAMARIBO TO BE GOAL OF TODAY'S JUMP

Weather Is Clear for Flight to South America

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Sept. 23.—(By Pan-American radio to Miami, Fla.)—Col. Chas. A. Lindbergh took off at 7:14 a. m. today for a flight of approximately 550 miles to Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, on the South American coast.

It will complete the southward journey of his flight from Miami to Paramaribo, inaugurating air mail and passenger service along that route.

A second plane carrying J. L. Trippie, president of Pan-American Airways, followed immediately behind Lindbergh.

Both planes circled the city and then headed southward to follow the mainland to Guiana. The weather here was clear.

RADIO RECEIVED FROM LINDBERGH

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 23.—The following radio message from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was received at the Pan-American International airport station today:

"8:15 a. m.—Crossing north of mouth of the Orinoco river, Lindbergh."

ABOARD LINDBERGH PLANE, Sept. 23.—(By Pan-American radio via Miami, Fla.)—We are en route to Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, with Georgetown, British Guiana, our first scheduled mail stop.

The air distance from Port of Spain to Georgetown is about 350 miles. After brief ceremonies attending the departure of the first air mail between Trinidad and South American cities in Guiana, Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh boarded the plane at 6:30 a. m. to get an early start.

Because of the unexpectedly heavy air mail load awaiting here, Col. Lindbergh was anxious to eliminate all possible excess weight. Even our cats were sent ashore and we are traveling light.

Lindbergh made his usual perfect takeoff, skimming over the water of the quiet Roadstead and circling the city before heading south. A second plane, with officials and special mail and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Trippie as passengers, followed immediately in our wake.

The weather was good, although slightly cloudy, with light winds. This route offers striking contrast both in people and terrain.

At 8:15 a. m. we are cruising along just off the mainland of Venezuela. Now passing the delta of the Orinoco river, 50 miles wide and filled with little islands. The water is high, this being the rainy season.

Shearer Paid More than $25,000 as "an Observer" and Not as a "Propagandist" Committee Is Told WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The story of American ship builders that they paid William B. Shearer, marine expert, more than $25,000 as "an observer" not a "propagandist" at the Geneva disarmament conference was retold to the senate investigating committee today by Samuel W. Wakeman, Quincy, Mass., vice president of the Bethlehem Ship Building company.

Wakeman echoed the previous statement of Clinton Bardo, president of the New York Ship Building company, who also advanced funds for Shearer's Geneva expedition.

The contract for Shearer's services was verbal and not written, he said.

"You are a business man, do you often make oral contracts," asked Chairman Shortridge.

"Not often," Wakeman replied. "but it is not unusual."

The records of this office would not reveal any transactions with Shearer, it was thought. Wakeman's part of the Shearer salary was paid in cash through Henry Hunter, attorney for the Atlantic Coast Shipbuilders association. The check for the cash was drawn in Hunter's name.

Wakeman also revealed Shearer had been employed in December, 1926, before the Geneva conference, "to help the United States shipping board in reference to merchant marine matters."

"This help," he explained, was to "write statements for the press, make speeches and supplement the work of the shipping board." For this Shearer received $7,500, he said, of which Wakeman paid $2,500. This payment also was sent to Hunter.

Mr. and Mrs. Boney left Dallas August 19 by automobile via Shreveport, Alexandria, and Baton Rouge, La. Bay St. Louis, Gulfport, and Biloxi, Mississippi; Mobile, Ala.; Pensacola, Marianna, Tallahassee, and Jacksonville, Fla.; Brunswick, and Savannah, Ga.; Charleston, and Florence, S. C.; Wilmington, Goldsboro, Durham, Winston-Salem, and Mt. Airy, N. C.; to Bristol, Va.-Tenn., where after a visit of 12 days with Mrs. Boney's brother, Rev. Walter K. Keys, the homeward trip with Su Carolyn began Wednesday, Sept. 18th, and terminated Sunday 22.

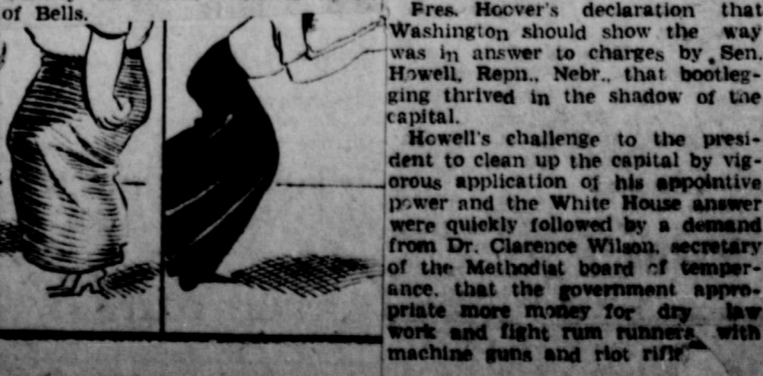

The return trip was made via Rogersville, Knoxville, Nashville, Jackson, and Memphis, Tenn. Little Rock, Texarkana, Greenville, Dallas, and Fort Worth. Excellent roads were encountered in all the trip except through Arkansas, where the going was so rough that the trip extended a day longer than was planned. Mr. Boney expects to occupy his pulpit Sunday, September 28.

3 Die in Crossing Crash Whitewright

WHITEWRIGHT, Sept. 23.—A speeding Missouri-Kansas and Texas railroad train crashed into an automobile carrying four persons at the edge of town here Sunday, killing three or them and seriously injuring the fourth.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. Henry McCalley and their 6-year old son, Tony. Barley Reynolds, the fourth member of the party was so badly injured that he is not expected to recover.

The three adults were deaf mutes. The accident occurred while the party was returning to their homes at Trenton after a Sunday visit with relatives north of Bells.

John and His Bride Expect to Spend Their Honeymoon at Lake in North Woods

By HAZEL REVIER
United Press Special Correspondent
PLAINVILLE, Conn., Sept. 23.—The honeymoon trip of John Coolidge and his bride, the former Florence Trumbull, may be a "midnight ride" with one of the last direct descendants of Paul Revere.

The hurried train and airplane trip here of Irving G. Stevens, Maine woodsman, assumed new significance when it was learned John and Florence might spend their honeymoon at Moosehead Lake, Me., where Governor Trumbull has hunted and fished with Stevens for 25 years.

Stevens, a polly, white-haired man of 55, has known Florence since she was a child. It was he who taught her the names of the birds and the trees, how to paddle a canoe and other woodlore.

Stevens probably will be the most picturesque of the guests at this afternoon's wedding. He traces his ancestry in a straight line to the famed "midnight rider."

Travels by Plane.
"He arrived at Brainerd Field, Hartford, this morning and was expected to fly after lunch to the governor's private field here. The trip was made in the state airplane, piloted by Captain Harry Generous, deputy commissioner of aviation."

It was believed the bride and groom might leave after the reception with Stevens for Moosehead Lake. They probably would travel in Florence's sport roadster. The governor has a hunting lodge at Spencer Narrows, near Stevens' hunting camps. The huntsman has always been regarded by Florence as an "adopted uncle."

From the point of view of seclusion, the governor's camp would be ideal. It is difficult to reach and is two miles from a telephone. It is equipped, nevertheless, with electric lights. Florence would have to prepare John's meals on an oil stove or a wood range. The likelihood of this being the honeymoon plan of the couple was enhanced by their wish to avoid the attention they would attract in more public stopping places.

Latin American States Seek Union

GENEVA, Sept. 23.—Following the lines laid down by Premier Aristide Briand in his proposal for a "United States of Europe," the Latin American countries already have taken steps to accomplish an economic union of a similar nature for their own part.

It was quite certain today that when Briand submits his final project to the assembly in 1931, the Latin-American states will already have completed their organization. During two meetings recently held here, 15 Latin-American states participating in the present league of nations assembly laid the basis of a Latin-American bloc within the league that would be founded on a communion of economic interests.

WILL OCCUR ON OCTOBER 11TH AND 12TH

Change Made to Accommodate Dublin-Lubbock Breeders

In order to accommodate a number of dairy cattle breeders at Dublin and Lubbock who have indicated that they wish to place animals with the County Dairy show here next month the dates for the event have been changed from October 4 and 5 to Friday and Saturday, October 11 and 12.

The change was made by the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce and announced by E. H. Varnell, who will superintend the event.

By this change in dates approximately 20 of the finest dairy cattle in this section of the state will be added to the list here. The change gives the show an advantage of occurring in the week just preceding the opening of the dairy show at the state fair at Dallas so that dairy men may stop over the way to Dallas.

Large numbers of entries will make the forthcoming county show a decided success according to present indications. A splendid location for the show has been secured downtown where it will be easily available to spectators. The show will take place in the Williams building on East Sixth street.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE Shawnee, Oklahoma.

Sir Henry W. Thornton, chairman and president of the Canadian National railways, says: That the human element is by far the most important element in a railroad, as it is in any great industry.

The value of man power has not always been realized in industry. But if anyone asked me what I considered to be the reason for the success of the Canadian National railways, I should say that it was paying attention to the human element, the general public and to the man power of the system itself.

In 1922 Canada had 22,000 miles of railway which physically as well as financially were running into the red figures. The war had left Canada low. It was a young country and it had suffered grievously. It was sound economically, but it was burdened and it was depressed.

The first task was not only to reorganize units at variance with one another into a great railway system, but, in a spirit of good humor and faith, to preact confidence.

The chief task was to excite a spirit of confidence and pride in the enterprise amongst men and women. They saw! They heard! They were delighted! They laughed! They cried! You Will Do the Same!

DUNCAN WINS COUNTRY CLUB GOLF TOURNEY

Jeff Duncan won the golf championship of the Cisco Country club for the second consecutive time Sunday afternoon when he defeated J. R. Almond three and one in 36 holes.

Duncan went to the finals by defeating R. B. Spann by default in the first match and W. T. Graham in the second match.

Almond climbed to the final by defeating J. W. Love and Don Sivalls. The match with Sivalls was close and hard fought. He squared with his opponent on the 18th hole and a 19th hole was necessary to determine the winner.

strides up and down the room,
Bob had started to question her.
She found herself telling him precisely how the accident happened —except that she could not explain what mental disturbance had affected her driving.
As her answers came, drawn from her almost against her will, she began to see herself through her inquisitor's eyes.
Reckless driving? He did not say it, but the charge was in the sternness of his expression, in his gestures, in his manner.
And Helen could not deny, even to herself, that she was guilty.
"You devil-may-care girls are a menace!" Bob broke out at last.
Helen gasped.
"You raise hell with everything," the young man went on, growing a bit furious. "Here's Eva, poor kid, been slaying all her life to be a violinist and now . . .
now maybe you've crippled her hands!"
"Oh, no," Helen cried out.
"Well, it isn't your fault that you haven't. Her luck held, that was all. But you might have ruined her life. Why? Just because you've a speed mania and money to satisfy it with a fast car. And nothing to do but tear around the country looking for thrills."
Helen was slightly gaping now, but she did notice that he made a remarkably striking picture in his anger.
She forgot that he was merely scolding a girl for her irresponsibility, and that she was that girl.
Her mind had become a sensitive plate upon which his personality was etching itself for all time to come. His personality and his appearance.
Commonplace, perhaps, in the brownness of his hair, the blue-ness of his eyes, but lifted into a class of exceptional distinction by the fine cut of his features and the verile quality of his mind that revealed itself in his flashing expressions and vibrant voice.
It was still trading against modern youth while Helen sat speechless, when someone came in to tell him he could go to his sister's room.
"I'll wait to take your mother back," Helen said to him.
"Don't bother," he replied curtly.
"We'll take a taxi."
Helen bit her underlip until it ished wood and willed her trembling to cease.

It didn't cease but she drove credibly, and though white-hot points seemed to break through to the surface of her entire body she yielded not one outward sign of nervousness.
But when she slid the car to a stop before the Ennis home the strain had become unbearable. A sigh of relief rose from the bottom of her heart. She barely managed to suppress it.
"You will stay for a cup of tea?" Mrs. Ennis invited as Bob got out of the car and turned to assist her.
Helen shook her head. "My gra—my family is waiting for me at home," she explained.
Mrs. Ennis did not repeat the invitation. She knew that Helen did not belong to the modest social world in which she and her children moved. Helen's lavish provision for Eva's comfort was sufficient proof to her that Helen belonged to a wealthy family. She had been uneasy about offering her humble hospitality. Helen's refusal lifted a burden from her mind.
"But you will go to see Eva?"
she urged. "She wants to thank you for your kindness."
Again Helen heard a faintly contemptuous sound from Bob.

Her face flushed hotly. With a quickly movement she prepared to drive off but his voice stopped her. What he said came as a most unexpected surprise.

GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XVI
Helen felt like a prisoner at her. The brother knew, she certain, that she would not be unless she had had something with the accident.
He turned a little cold and her trembled in spite of her ef-to remain calm and return case of this she raised her with a touch of defiance.

"I struck her with my car," said feebly.
The brother reached out and at her arm. Helen winced.
"Forgive me," he apologized,
"I'm sorry." "Eva's
dear to me."
Helen's hardness vanished.
"I say I'm sorry," she asked.
"How badly is she hurt?"
"She'll be all right soon," Helen him. "Dr. Parkley pronouner in no danger, but she is in." Her voice broke a trifle she got out her handkerchief wipe her eyes.

"You devil-may-care girls are a menace!" Bob broke out at last.

Bob forbore to question her further.
"Will you drive my car back to the hospital?" Helen asked him.
"I haven't had a great deal of driving experience," he told her.
"It's a standard shift," Helen said. "I wish you would."
"Perhaps Mom would feel safer," he answered, without meaning to wound.
Helen flushed. "She doesn't know," she said. "Perhaps don't tell her until she has seen your sister."
Mrs. Ennis came in just then and Bob nodded in silent answer to Helen's request.
Without comment other than: "Shall I drive for you?" he took the wheel when they got to her car.
Mrs. Ennis remembered then to introduce them. "Miss Brent, this is my son, Robert."
They smiled at each other faintly and Helen looked away.
On the way to the hospital Mrs. Ennis pressed her for information about the accident and at last Helen sent an appealing glance to Bob.
He wasn't looking at her and Helen could not tell what moved him to help her. "You will get yourself excited, mother," he said. "Wait until you've seen Eva and then Miss Brent will tell us all about it."
Mrs. Ennis choked back her questions. "I guess I'd better keep calm for Eva's sake," she said. "My poor girl, my poor little girl!"
"Now, now, mother," Bob soothed her; "they won't let you near her if you can't control yourself."

WORTH LIVING NOW, HE DECLARES
City Hall Custodian Gains on Orgatone and Strength and Energy Returns
He gained in weight and strength on Orgatone and feel better than I have in forty five years," said J. J. Lamb, the well-known custodian and janitor of City Hall, Chico, Texas, a few days ago, in conversation with the representative.

was bothered almost constantly with my kidneys for forty years," Mr. Lamb continued. "I would have terrible pains across my back almost all the time. Sometimes I could hardly stand up. I suffered so much even when I would lie down. I felt dull and listless and without any strength or energy. I was so racked by the pains that I kept falling off in sleeping. My nerves started going to pieces so that I could sleep hardly any. Then on top of all these things I suffered from indigestion, which just made life miserable for me and no matter what I did or what treatments I took, nothing seemed to do me any good. But I just kept going down and getting worse from day to day. I read a lot of statements in a paper about Orgatone from so many people that I knew or heard of and some of them described their trouble just like mine, so on the recommendation of Mr. Dean, the druggist here, I decided to try the medicine, too. Well, sir, it did me a lot more good than I ever hoped it would. After the first few doses my stomach acted all right and I could eat without suffering afterwards and I began feeling better every day. The pains stopped and my nerves didn't seem to be on edge, like they had been, and I could sleep in peace more. I have taken four bottles in all and I can truthfully say that I am now entirely well. I have gained several pounds in weight and my strength and energy has come back and I feel like life is worth living again. Those pains in my back, which have been trying to get rid of for years, are gone and my kidneys seem all right now. It didn't seem long for me to see that Orgatone was the right medicine. It was just the thing I had been looking for all these years. I am always ready to pass the good word on and let others know what Orgatone will do." Orgatone may be bought at the Dean Drug Store—

IN THE MIDDLE DRAWER OF THE CABINET!

WHERE IN TOGET IS MY FRESH COLLARS?
I HAVE NO IDEA—WHERE DID YOU HAVE THEM LAST!

GOSH! YOU NEVER KNOW WHERE ANYTHING IS ROUND HERE!

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS.
YOU CAN SAY ALL YOU WANT TO, OSCAR, BUT I'M GOING TO WRITE A BOOK ON MY EXPERIENCES JUST THE SAME—WHY, IT'D BE A SWELL BOOK!!
Mebbe it would—mebbe it would!

I'D TELL HOW OUR AIRSHIP CAME DOWN ON THE PACIFIC OCEAN AND HOW WE FLEW OVER VOLCANOES—WHY, I'M TELLIN' YOU IT'D BE SOME BOOK!
WILL IT HAVE ANY PICTURES IN IT, FRECKLES?

SURE—FULL OF THEM!! YOU KNOW, A BOOK LIKE THAT OUGHTA GO LIKE HOT CAKES—JUST TAKE RIGHT HERE IN THIS TOWN—THEY'D SELL SCADS OF 'EM—WHY, THERES YOU AN' ALEK AN' WILLIE AN' SLIM AN' RAY AN' JAY—YOU'D ALL WANT ONE, WOULDN'T YOU?

OH, SURE! WE COULD ALL CHIP TOGETHER AN' BUY ONE!!

DO YOU KNOW WHY --- All This Is Foolish But Nearly True?
WHEN YOU VISIT YOUR WIFE'S RELATIVES YOU'RE MERELY "MARY'S HUSBAND" — HELLO, COUSIN SUE.
FRED, THIS IS MARY'S HUSBAND.
SO THIS IS HER HUSBAND? EH.
IS THAT MARY'S HUSBAND?
IS THAT JOHN'S WIFE?
FANNY, HERE IS JOHN'S WIFE.
WELL, IF IT ISN'T JOHN'S WIFE.
HELLO, FOLKS.

AND WHEN SHE VISITS YOUR RELATIVES SHE IS SIMPLY "JOHN'S WIFE"

MOM'N POP.

NO MORE RUMPLED SHIRT COLLARS

You know how it usually is when your shirt comes from the laundry. The shirt is all nicely laundered but the collar is rumpled from the wrapping in a bundle.

This is ended now. We insert an Elco Soft Shirt Collar Protector in your shirt and the collar has a perfect shape when it reaches you. And the service is free to you with no extra cost.

Try us with some of your nice shirts and then tell your neighbor how well you are pleased with this collar protection.
