JURY PONDERING SANITY OF ALLEN Hearing on Terrell Impeachment Postponed to Monday

TERRELL IS HAVING AUDIT OF OWN MADE

Work Is Expected to Be Completed by Saturday

AUSTIN, Feb. 13.—A hearing on the charges initiating impeachment proceedings in the house of representatives against State Comptroller S. H. Terrell was postponed today until Monday at 10 a. m. Announcement was made for Comptroller Terrell that public accountants whom he has employed to make an audit of his department expect to complete that audit Saturday.

A copy of this audit when completed, it was announced, will be furnished the house attorneys. Already, Terrell's attorneys claimed some of the matters charged had been "cleared up."

With former Attorney General W. A. Keeling and former State Senator T. H. McGregor, who will represent him, Comptroller Terrell awaited in the house of representatives while the speaker's desk was cleared of other matters. This impeachment resolutions were not reached until after 10 o'clock. Two loud speakers have been installed so that questions and answers may proceed and be audible all over the house of representatives.

Forty-one witnesses have been called. They were directed to confer with attorneys today and be back Monday.

The report of State Auditor Moore Lynn, used as a basis for preferring charges against Comptroller Terrell also found fault with the operation of the state treasury. The "charges initiating impeachment" do not include, State Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher. The house before taking up the impeachment, instructed its state affairs committee to investigate as regards the treasury and make a report.

Tuesday is the day the present session of the legislature expires. Doubt of the presence of a quorum being here Monday was expressed in the house. Speaker W. S. Barrow held that the committee of a whole into which the house resolves itself to consider impeachment charges cannot operate without a quorum.

The procedure in that case would be to go back into session as the house proper. Then orders could be sent out to bring in absentees and create a quorum.

Lawyer McGregor prefaced the suggestion for a delay in the hearing by pointing out that the

JAP POSITION ON NAVIES IS MADE PUBLIC

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Reduction of the tonnage of battleships and a replacement holiday until 1936 were advocated today in a memorandum issued by the Japanese delegation to the naval conference.

The memorandum, outlining the Japanese position for the first time, proposed reduction of the size of battleships from 35,000 tons, as provided by the Washington treaty, to 25,000 tons.

It also advocated reduction of guns to 14-inch calibre and extension of the age of battleships to 20 years.

A maximum individual tonnage for 6-inch gun cruisers was advocated between 7,000 and 7,500 tons.

Japan proposes to maintain its existing force of submarines and advocate an age-limit for submarines of 13 years, the memorandum said. Japan now has 64 submarines and is building 7.

An age limit of 20 years for small cruisers was advocated by the memorandum, and of 16 years for destroyers.

Japan advocates that provisions for the limitation of aircraft carriers should be extended to carriers of less than 10,000 tons.

The memorandum reiterated Japan's opposition to the abolition of submarines, but expressed a disposition to cooperate in restricting submarine activities against merchant ships.

LOBO FEED POSTPONED TO TUESDAY

Conflict With Other Affairs Cause of Change in Plans

Due to a conflict with social affairs holding a prior claim upon Friday evening the annual Lobo football banquet has been postponed to next Tuesday, it was announced today by the steering committee.

Tickets purchased for Friday evening will, of course, be good for Tuesday when the event is held. Preparations to entertain 200 business men, members of the Lobo football squad and others are going forward under the direction of the committee which promises an evening of unique character as banquets go. The past year of Lobo participation in the Texas interscholastic league football will be reviewed, appreciation of the efforts of the boys expressed, plans for the future discussed and "hot air" of varying degree and intensity spouted generally about.

The Loboes will elect a captain. That, in addition to filling their skins with roast chicken and other delectables, is about all they will do.

A few of the business men will extend oratorically, Jake Leach having been selected under the impression that he can apply the ax with firmness and justice in the event that the oratory becomes oppressive.

An orchestra will play and there will be other things to add to the pleasure of the evening. Tickets for the banquet are now on sale and a ticketing committee will shortly begin patrolling the streets to garner loose dollars. The committee, according to J. T. Elliott, has admitted that while it wants every man in Cisco at this banquet it is more interested in cash to pay the chef. On the other hand a top-notch menu will be provided.

PARLIAMENTARY RULES STUDIED BY ROTARIANS

A parliamentary drill, led by Leon Mauer, club parliamentarian, occupied the major part of the business session of the Cisco Rotary club at its luncheon today. This drill was preceded by a flag talk on Austria. C. P. Cole made this talk, reading a letter from a prominent member of the Vienna club and exhibiting a miniature flag of the country sent him by the same member.

Established rules of parliamentary procedure were first reviewed by Mr. Mauer through the medium of asking various members of the club specific questions.

When this had been carried out with some dispatch, notwithstanding the innumerable interpretations of each rule advanced by Philip Pettit, E. P. Crawford, F. D. Wright, B. C. Boney and several others, an effort was made to originate a motion and carry it through the proper procedure by way of practice.

One visitor was present, Coach Chaney of the Howard Payne college at Brownwood. It was announced that the night meeting of the club, planned originally for this evening, had been postponed for two weeks.

30 Pupils Hurt in Bomb Blast

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—More than 2,000 children, many of them bleeding from cuts, marched calmly out of public school No. 83 in Brooklyn today after an explosion in a house across the street rocked the school building. A police check-up showed that about 30 pupils were injured, 13 of them seriously enough to be taken to hospitals. Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy's preliminary investigation revealed that an accumulation of gas in the building across the street from the school caused the explosion.

20 Haitian Rioters Are Held in Jail

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Feb. 13.—Twenty alleged rioters were held in jail today to face charges of inciting an anti-government demonstration here yesterday.

The incident grew out of a memorial service for the Haitians who lost their lives in the Aux Cayes "battle" last December, when a band of natives marched against an American Marine post. Twenty natives, according to impartial estimates, were killed, although yesterday's demonstrators claimed 52 lost their lives.

ABILENE JURY CONVICTS HAM THIS MORNING

Found Guilty of Murder and Assessed 25 Years

ABILENE, Feb. 13.—W. S. Ham was today convicted by a jury for the murder of N. V. Nixon of El Paso and sentenced to 25 years imprisonment. The jury retired with the case at 4:40 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and reached its verdict upon resuming deliberations this morning.

This was perhaps the shortest murder trial in the history of local courts. Opening Wednesday morning the first 12 veniremen examined were accepted for jury service.

Not a single witness testified. Transcript of testimony on the trial of Percy Howard, under death penalty for the murder of Nixon, was read and constituted the only evidence.

Governor Moody recently retrieved Howard for the fifth time to await outcome of Ham's trial. Nixon, a taxi driver, was found beaten to death near El Paso in 1920.

COUPLE SHOT TO DEATH BY FOUR GUNMEN

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Four self-appointed executioners who worked with the calm efficiency of a hangman shattered the silence of the Bronx early today with nine pistol shots that left a luxuriously dressed woman and her male companion dying on the sidewalk.

The man and the woman—identified as Germaine Barrell and May Smith, a dance hall hostess from Wilkesbarre, Pa.—died before the four men could get back into the automobile from which they had alighted to do their killing.

There apparently were only two eye witnesses to one of the most methodical murders committed here in recent years. One was the fifth member of the band that did the killing.

The other was Leroy Barrett, a negro garage attendant, who told how he stood at the window of the Sherman garage, and watched the killing.

So far as is known, no word was spoken. Two of the men, according to Barrett, went after Barrell and began firing point blank into his face. Barrell reeled and fell dead. Meanwhile, the other two gunmen deliberately aimed at Miss Smith as she ran screaming across the street. Two bullets struck her.

Opposition Grows Against Hughes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The opposition to Charles Evans Hughes' nomination as chief justice continued to gather strength in the senate today in such a fashion that for the first time since debate began three days ago there was some doubt that he would ultimately be confirmed.

While the opposition has not yet attained a majority and Republican Floor Leader Watson, again expressed confidence that he could keep his votes, the United Press learned that Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Dem., Mont.), one of the outstanding constitutional lawyers of the senate, has decided to join the opposition. Walsh voted for Hughes in committee.

Walsh said privately that Hughes once had changed his mind about an important proposition and that he thought he, too, would do so. Because of his legal standing, Walsh was expected by the opposition leaders to carry several votes with him. If he does, the strength of the opposition will be such as to put the outcome of the contest in doubt.

Senator Nye questioned Hughes' legal ethics. Nye pointed out that President Taft refused to take up law practice after he left the white house because he had as president appointed so many judges.

SULPHUR TAX VOTED DOWN BY COMMITTEE

AUSTIN, Feb. 13.—A proposed tax of one dollar per pound on sulphur received a tactical victory in the house of representatives today after having been reported unfavorably by the house committee on taxation, 9 to 6.

Representative Phil Sanders of Nacogoches moved that the bill be reported on minority report. The house supported his motion by a vote of 92 to 11.

The action keeps the measure alive. The overwhelming vote by which the motion carried indicates that it has much support.

AUSTIN, Feb. 13.—A proposed tax of a dollar a ton on sulphur was voted down in the house of representatives tax committee 9 to 6 after a session begun last night and ended this morning.

The bill was offered by Rep. P. C. Sanders of Nacogoches. He said it was tendered at Governor Moody's suggestion that the state find new sources of revenue.

A bill putting a tax on all natural resources is now to be offered by Rep. Leonard Tillotson. A tax conference into which business leaders shall be invited before writing a new tax bill was the suggestion of Representative W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales and J. C. Duval of Fort Worth. Submission of such a topic in the last few days of a session was criticized by Hopkins, T. N. Mauritz, author of the new tax bills of the regular session, opposed the sulphur tax bill as offered. Any new tax bill, he asserted, should automatically provide for reduction in the present ad valorem tax.

Texas produces practically all the American sulphur. The deposits are principally in Wharton, Brazoria and Matagorda counties. Last night's discussion revealed that P. H. Watkins of Abilene is endeavoring to start a sulphur industry on state land in Culberson county.

Chain store taxes are to be heard by the committee tonight. IS IMPROVING. Mrs. A. L. Mathew is reported to be improving after having been confined to her home a week as the result of a knee injury sustained in a fall.

12 MEN GET CASE SHORTLY AFTER NOON

Insane Asylum or Chair Question to Be Decided

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the jury in the sanity trial of E. V. Allen at Eastland, was still deliberating upon its verdict.

Whether E. V. Allen, condemned to die for the robbery of the First State bank of Carbon, will be confined in the insane asylum or go to the electric chair on March 14, is the question which twelve Eastland county jurors are now pondering. Allen's hearing on a sanity plea, which was begun at Eastland Monday morning before Judge Elzo Been of the 88th district court, closed just after noon today with the argument of Maury Hughes, defense attorney.

Frank Judkins and Ghent Sanderford, both of Eastland, also spoke for the defense. Joe H. Jones, county attorney, and Judge J. R. Stubblefield spoke for the state. Judkins, Sanderford and Stubblefield spoke last night.

Hughes in opening his speech to the jury this morning paid a high tribute to Judge Been: "In behalf of this defendant and his kinpeople, I wish to thank you for your fairness and impartiality in the trial of this case, and I want to commend the citizens of Eastland county for having a man of your high character, intelligence and fairness on the bench." Mr. Hughes said.

Closed Last Night. The testimony in the case closed at a night session last night when Mrs. Mattie Yowe, mother of the defendant, testified for the defense. She stated that for the past 20 years her family had resided in Ok-

LIGGETT READY TO PROVE HIS DRY CHARGES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Walter Liggett, who started the house prohibition hearing yesterday, with sensational charges of wholesale dry law violations, is ready to go to Kansas "with proof" of charges regarding alleged enforcement laxities in that state.

Informed that Attorney General Smith of Kansas had branded him a "damned liar," Liggett challenged both Smith and Governor Reed of Kansas, to call him before a grand jury in that state to "see if I can prove my charges."

He claimed he actually understood the case before the house judiciary committee.

Favorable House Action on Love Bill, Which Has Passed Senate, Is Predicted

AUSTIN, Feb. 13.—Favorable house action on the bill which permits Tom Love to carry his demand for a place on the Democratic primary ballot direct to the state supreme court, was predicted for this afternoon. It already had passed the senate. If it passes the house it will be up to Gov. Moody to sign or veto.

The house recessed with proposed amendments under debate. Purl offered to risk all on passing the bill without amendment. If you do it will be killed floor

JUDGE MINOR SOUNDLY SPANKED The law is as good as gold and it is constitutional clear through, declared Presiding Judge W. S. Fly of the fourth court of civil appeals in setting aside the injunction granted by Judge R. B. Minor of Bexar county restraining the state from distributing the $5,000,000 rural school aid fund.

That is the minor injunction was dissolved, the Fly opinion was the unanimous verdict of the civil appeals court and the rural schools will continue their terms uninterrupted unless the supreme court issues an emergency writ restoring the injunction against paying out any other funds.

Said Fly to Minor, "the law is as good as gold and it is constitutional clear through." Said Minor to Fly, after the spanking, "No comment."

Farmer Jim Ferguson invented the saw said law. He didn't copy-right it. A district judge hit the act with his bamboo walking stick, a court of appeals judge hit the Minor injunction with a battle axe.

LEGGE NEVER SIDESTEPS. Alexander W. Legge is chairman of the federal farm board. He was born on a farm. When old enough he moved to town. In time he became the $100,000 a year president of a vast corporation turning out farm machinery and tools for the farm. He was drafted for the place he holds. He gave up the $100,000 job for a $12,000 job, promising to serve a year.

He finds arrayed against him Julius Barnes an important spokesman of the national chamber of commerce and the big voice of grain corporations and grain exchanges.

Barnes is close to Hoover. At one time they were joint owners in a Washington newspaper. They were buddies in the work of distributing American bread to the Belgian children.

Barnes demands the scalp of Legge. All the big grain exchange men are against Legge. All the big elevator men are against Legge. All the big cotton buyers are against Legge.

Legge knows it. He doesn't mind it. His latest is that salvation for the American farmer lies in a collective attitude towards cooperative organizations to stabilize prices.

Moreover he says the weakness of the cooperative today is that it has not gone far enough.

Contracts with the terminal markets must be made for the reason that every well organized industry adjust its production to the demand is the argument of the farm-born president of the federal relief board.

As for the farmer, according to Legge, he does not adjust production to the demand. He falls and when prices are low, he raises more in order to tide him over until he can make more money.

Then what happens? Why low prices commodity has an increased production and down goes the price again.

Alexander W. Legge is opposed to large scale farming, through the plan of placing several thousands of acres under one management. These are his words:

"I think it is a mistake to strike at the individual farm. This great American institution is the bulwark of the nation."

But back to Julius Barnes and the powerful individuals and organizations behind him. In the coming month of June or July Alexander W. Legge will have served his term of one year.

Will President Hoover re-draft him or will Julius Barnes get the scalp of the farm boy who became the $100,000 a year president of the corporation that supplies the farmer with machinery and tools?

Did You Ever Stop to Think? By EDSON R. WAITE Shawnee, Oklahoma.

C. F. Skirvin, editor of the Santa Ana (California) Times, says: "That your 'thinking' is the motive power of progress. Without it we would have stagnation. Man would have remained primitive. It's the restless, provocative instinct in us that creates a dissatisfaction. Not man, rich or poor, is satisfied. He no sooner scores a victory over one problem than he seeks another."

It's our thinking that improves conditions, overcomes impediments, tests our mentality, defeats resistance, and contributes to the welfare of mankind.

Evidently the author of this newspaper feature visualized this condition when he asked the question: "Did You Ever Stop to Think?" It is the thinker big business is seeking. And the thinker usually gets the job.

It's easy to drift down the stream of life. But the objective that is worth while is always against the current.

lahoma, moving there from Louisiana, where E. V. Allen was born. Allen, she said, was 29 years of age.

Herself, a brother, three sons (including Allen) and a first cousin had suffered at different times from mental derangements, the witness said. She admitted under cross examination none of these mentioned ever had been confined in an insane asylum.

E. V. Allen, his mother testified suffered an attack of fever when he was 9 years of age; that it developed into a form of poisoning and that for two or three days he bled almost continuously at the mouth. She said he never had completely recovered either mentally or physically from this attack. She said she believed Allen is insane.

Mrs. Yowe became hysterical on the stand and had to be assisted out of her seat and out of the room. Several doctors, some of them specialists in brain and nervous diseases, testified for the state late yesterday afternoon. They had made three examinations of Allen since the beginning of the sanity hearing and had observed him in the courtroom at the trial.

Dr. Bass of the Abilene State Hospital of Abilene, testified that he was of the opinion that Allen is sane.

Dr. Geo. Powell of the State Insane Asylum at Terrell, testified that he was not recalled as to whether Allen was sane or insane.

Dr. Castner of the Wichita Falls state hospital, Wichita Falls, said Allen's experience might have affected his mind.

Dr. Thomas of Rusk testified that he was puzzled over the condition of Allen's mind.

Austin Witness. Dr. C. H. Sandler of Austin testified that the group examination of the doctors made of Allen disclosed that the vision of his right eye was gone and that he was undernourished. He said he was unable to state if Allen knew right from wrong and didn't know if he was sane. He said he found no evidence of Allen's mind having been impaired from the effects of fever. Doctors for the defense had testified that fever, suffered in his youth, had impaired Allen's mentality.

Dr. C. C. Carrico, prison physician at Huntsville, who didn't qualify as a specialist on brain and nervous cases, said in his opinion Allen was sane. On cross examination he said that he had observed Allen numerous times in Huntsville prison; that Allen frequently complained of pains in his head.

Dr. L. K. Ory of the Abilene state hospital, a specialist in mental diseases, testified that he found Allen to be undernourished; that he had a slight temperature and was suffering some from an irritated throat. It was his opinion that Allen is sane.

MUCH INTEREST SHOWN IN FARM NIGHT SCHOOLS

TOPICS ARE SELECTED BY COMMUNITIES

First of Series Are Held During Last Week

A very gratifying interest is being aroused in the four-week series of night schools that are being conducted in three communities of Eastland county through the efforts of E. H. Varnell, Cisco vocational agriculturalist. The schools are being held at Dan Horn, Nimrod and Pleasant Hill. A session each Wednesday evening for four consecutive weeks is being held at Dan Horn; one each Thursday evening at Nimrod and one each Friday evening at Pleasant Hill.

Each community selects topics for discussions of outstanding interest and upon these problems the citizens of that community meet and pool experience and opinion for their mutual benefit.

The first of the series in each community, held last week was devoted to developing interest in the 1930-acre pecan club which is being fostered by County Agent J. C. Patterson, Mr. Varnell and other vocational teachers over the county.

For the remainder of the series each community selected topics as follows:

Dan Horn — "Development of Year-Round Pastures"; "Boll Weevil Control" and "Feeding Livestock."

Pleasant Hill—The same.

Nimrod—The same with the exception that "Setting and Care of a Home Orchard" was substituted for boll weevil control.

At the Nimrod meeting a census of the cotton acreage planted by the 35 farmers who were present revealed that only 295 acres of the fiber crop were represented at the gathering. This acreage produced a little better than 30 bales, an average production of one bale to each 8.4 acres.

The night school sessions are merely get-together meetings, designed to enable farmers of the communities to discuss among themselves matters of importance to them. No lecture courses are given.

Those present at each meeting last week were:

Dan Horn: Oscar Penn, N. J. Taylor, R. Y. Douglas, J. M. Moss, L. G. Stuteville, T. Horn, Sam Hill, Ernest Weed, Ray O'Brien.

Pleasant Hill: Chas. Wendt and wife, W. J. Poe, B. W. Lasater, W. A. Hale, H. G. Hines, G. C. Hastings, R. H. Benton, E. M. Tucker, Wayne Thurman, J. C. Thurman, Henry Stroebel, Bobby Thurman, Almus Hastings, W. T. McFalls.

HANDLESS, BUT IT'S NO HANDICAP

Charles McGonegal, above, California veteran, lost both his hands in the World war, but that handicap doesn't prevent him from being an airplane pilot, with 26 hours of instruction and 65 hours of solo flying to his credit. Just now he's trying to get a private pilot's license from the department of commerce. McGonegal is also an applicant for the postmastership in his home town, Bell, Calif., near Los Angeles. Steel hooks have replaced his lost hands, but with these he is able to fly a plane, drive an auto, write with a fountain pen and do almost everything else.

Light Should Give Light

"These lights just cost me five dollars and cost," said a driver, bringing his car to a stop on the service floor of the battery service station.

"This is just one of the many examples of how carelessness can run into money unnecessarily," said Mr. J. L. Brown, local Willard Battery dealer.

"The man in this case had been parked and came back to his car to find a policeman writing him a little bill-dox. 'No lights,' said the officer and continued his writing. 'But the lights are on, officer, take a look at the switch,' said the exasperated automobilist. 'Can't see any — tell it to the judge,' replied the laconic cop.

"Of course most people don't let their batteries get so low that the lights are practically out. But we have many cases every day of costly repairs and rental charges because the owners were too busy to take a few moments every two weeks or so to have their batteries inspected," states Mr. J. L. Brown.

"Willard Five-Point Service is preventive service. It gives the car owner the maximum life and performance from his battery, and forestalls a lot of cussing, loss of time and money."

FUNERAL FOR EDUCATOR
AUSTIN, Feb. 13 — Funeral services will be held here for John Garland James, 86, former president of Texas Agriculture and Mechanical college, James, who died in Dallas yesterday after a long illness, was the last living founder of Alpha Tau Omega, national social college fraternity. His body was brought to Austin last night.

MAY USE FEES TO HIRE HELP SAY SOLONS

AUSTIN, Feb. 13 — County officers elected by the people will have their pay limited by the much heralded fee bills before the Texas Legislature, but there is nothing to prevent spending what is thus saved in hiring extra help. House members admitted this today.

All the commissioners have to do is get the commissioner's court to let him hire more deputies and assistants. To do so he need only show that the fees earned by the office will pay for the help.

The same power to hire help exists now but the possibility of retaining his fees keeps the official from hiring to much help. If he will not get the fees anyhow, its good politics, at least, to hire all the assistants the fees will pay.

Four classes of fee counties are provided in the bill favored by the house yesterday. Maximum group consists of 22 counties with 37,500 population or less. Maximum pay in them will be $3,650. The next group takes in 26 bigger counties all under 100,000 population. The limit for them is $4,700.

In Single Class
Jefferson and El Paso counties are in a class by themselves with a limit on over whether their maximum shall be $7,000 or $10,000. The "big four" Bexar, Harris, Dallas and Tarrant, form the other group with a $10,000 to $12,500 maximum yet to be decided. The 1930 census is to govern and the act takes effect in 1931.

Twelve new topics were sent to the legislature late yesterday by Governor Moody. With them was the explanation that he feared there was time for few of them to pass. Most were local bills. Denton gets a chance to pass a bill for dormitories at C. I. A. Harris and Galveston counties get a chance to pass a stock law.

Limitation on importation of Florida citrus stock, state supervision of weighing at cotton compresses, improvements in the cooperative marketing law and opportunity to draw revenue from oil lands of eleemosynary institutions are among the late topics.

S. M. U. BUILDING BURNS
DALLAS, Feb. 13 — Fire starting from gas or chemical combustion razed a frame building housing laboratory equipment on south Methodist university campus early today and did damage estimated at $30,000. Firemen battled the blaze for an hour before bringing it under control. No injuries were reported.

Hughes Expected to Be as Conservative on Supreme Bench as Predecessor

By HERBERT LITTLE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—Apparently Charles Evans Hughes will be as conservative a chief justice as his predecessor, William Howard Taft. Apparently the appointment preserved unchanged the six-to-three division of the supreme court, with the conservatives in the saddle.

The "apparently" is the most important word in the foregoing sentences. Although most liberals see no hint of liberalism in Hughes, men after being appointed to the supreme court often have followed courses of action which were at variance with the wishes of those who appointed them. Political party ties mean nothing to a justice.

Critics point out that Hughes in the last five years has represented scores of large corporations, before the supreme court, including General Electric company, Swift and company, Beech-Nut Packing company, the Trenton Pottery company, Actna Insurance company, Anacostia Copper Mining company, and Interborough Rapid Transit company. Therefore, they fear he may lean to the interest of utility and other corporate concerns rather than to the interests of the consumers.

A "Reformer."
But further back in history Hughes was a pioneer in public regulation of utilities. As governor of New York, from 1911 to 1919, he was a "reformer," before he became governor, he conducted two far-reaching investigations and drafted laws which curbed the insurance and gas companies in New York. As governor, he cleaned up horse-race betting. Legislation for direct primaries and for the first New York state public service commission were passed during his administration.

From 1921 to 1923, when he was secretary of state, one of his principal jobs was to protect American property rights, particularly in Mexico and Russia. His efforts here satisfied the most conservative property holders.

But the real index to what Hughes will be as chief justice probably will be found in the record of his six years, 1910-1916, as associate justice of the supreme court. As might be expected, Associate Justice Hughes was not the reforming liberal that his New York friends might have expected; neither was he the "reactionary" big-business defender that those with radical beliefs now hold him to be on the basis of his big business connections.

Wrote 150 Opinions.
It is not likely that Hughes will join often with the "liberal bloc"—Holmes, Brandeis, and Stone—in their views on utilities and state's rights to pass extreme reform legislation. Yet it would not be surprising to find him with them in some important cases.

In his six years on the court Hughes wrote 150 opinions. He dissented from the majority in 30 cases. In only six did he write dissenting opinions. He participated in more than 1,000 cases during this time. Opinions written by Hughes were dissented to by Holmes in only two cases.

Hughes' most famous and most important decision was that given in the Minnesota rate cases. He began rendering this opinion one day after the stock market closed, and the court remained in session until about 7 p. m. for the conclusion of the momentous decision, which settled the Paramount and exclusive power of the federal government to regulate interstate commerce.

Hughes wrote an opinion rejecting an injunction suit brought by five Oklahoma negroes to prevent railroads from operating cars exclusively for whites and others for negroes. He stated, however, that the railroad must provide equal accommodations for each race. In an Alabama case he held unconstitutional state law under which a defaulting debtor, a negro in this case, could be jailed.

One of his dissents was in a public utility case from Memphis. He protested because the court refused to review a lower court decision which held a city ordinance invalid. The courts' action was based on procedure, but Hughes contended it should have reviewed the record to correct the procedural error.

One of Justice Hughes' statements that may prove encouraging to liberals was made in 1916 to the New York Bar association in a speech. "I like to think of the courts as in the truest sense the expert agents of Democracy," he said. "It is undoubtedly the duty of the courts to construe legislation according to the intent of the legislature."

MANY PROJECTS CARRIED OUT BY F.F.T. BOYS

Three groups of F. F. T. club boys of Cisco engaged in projects of special interest last week. One team, consisting of Aubrey Holt and Albert Shoor, ran terracing lines on 30 acres of land on the Will Stroebel farm Saturday afternoon. The county grading machinery is now at work on this farm building terraces on the lines laid out by the boys.

Another team, consisting of Ceburon Yeager and Ben Camp, Saturday afternoon trimmed six trees budded one year and two years ago on the Dr. F. E. Clark farm near Putnam. These trees had been budded, part of them a year ago last August and the remainder last August, by the Cisco F. F. T. club.

Another team of four boys, Eldon Birt, Cleo Ray, Forrest Ray and James Mathews, went to Abilene to participate in a practice dairy judging contest Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Everett and family moved to Abilene on Monday of this week. Putnam regrets, exceedingly, to lose this most estimable family from our midst, but we recommend them to Abilene as splendid citizens, good neighbors and church workers.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Peek and family, of Clyde, are moving back to Putnam this week. We welcome them back most cordially, as they lived here for many years before going to Clyde and have always been found to be loyal citizens, valuable church workers and ready to go out of their way, if necessary, to assist in any worthy enterprise.

"I have Suffered for Years With Stomach and Liver Trouble But Taking Orgatone I Feel Simply Fine," Says Mrs. Rice.

"Yes, I am feeling simply fine now, since taking Orgatone. It has helped me so much. I am telling all my friends about it," said Mrs. Zeida Rice, of Ranger, Texas, living on rural route 1, while talking with the Orgatone representative recently.

"For several years I have suffered from stomach and liver trouble. My appetite was very poor, and I got to where I couldn't eat hardly anything, and was gradually growing worse," she continued. "Right after eating, I would have a dizzy, bilious sensation, and suffered from gas on my stomach. I was troubled with constipation, and had to take laxatives most of the time. I had a dull throbbing pain in the back of my head, most all the time, and this seemed to get worse at night, and I was very nervous and didn't get the proper amount of sleep. I was in a very run down condition and felt tired and worn out all the time, and didn't have any energy or ambition. I often had a pain in my back and side, often caused from the improper functioning of my liver. Orgatone had helped so many people here, and so many people had talked about it, so I began taking it. I have only taken one bottle, of Orgatone, and you should just see me now. My appetite is just fine, and I can't get enough to eat, and my food agrees with me, and I feel better in every way."

Genuine Orgatone may be bought in Cisco at the Dean Drug Store.

Our mill grinds your own feed products that you raise right in your own county and the money stays at home instead of being sent away to foreign mills and feed houses. This money circulates around Cisco and returns to you perhaps many times during the year. Our feed is always fresh—Ground feed goes further, having more feed value per pound, because it is more easily assimilated in that condition. The season for proper feeding of laying hens is here and a balanced ration will make them pay much better returns. The Food That Fights Fat It's a gland food, now used to correct the known cause of so much excess fat. Doctors now employ it in the world over. And now, without starvation, multitudes are gaining new youth and beauty, vim and vigor. You see the results wherever you look. Fat is the exception now. Marmola prescription tablets embody this modern method. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Some of your own friends, doubtless, can show you what they do. Let them bring you what they have brought to so many. The results will delight and amaze you. A book in the box explains the effects. Go now and ask your druggist for a $1 box of Marmola. You owe that to yourself.

YES... the COLDEST Weather in 30 Years!

No one needed a thermometer to tell him that it was COLD—bitterly cold—during most of January! But it is interesting to check up after it is all over and see just how cold it was. This chart, based on temperature readings at a representative point in Lone Star territory, tells the story. Note the wide difference between January, 1930, and January, 1929. Twenty-three days this January were colder than the same days the preceding January. The average mean temperature was 33 degrees (just one degree above freezing) this year against an average mean of 45 degrees last year.

Remember, we have been referring to "mean" temperature—AVERAGE temperatures for each day. The minimum or low-point readings as shown on the chart give the LOWEST TEMPERATURES registered each day in January, 1930. Two successive days registered BELOW ZERO—January 17th, 1 degree below zero, January 18th, 3 degrees below zero. The first subzero weather in 30 years—the coldest weather since 1899! Gas heating demands SHOT UP to unprecedented heights! From a temperature standpoint, fuel requirements in January, 1930, were increased 88% over December, 1929!

14 Days Showed Mean Temperature of 32 Degrees (Freezing) or Below in January, 1930, Against Only 2 Such Days in January, 1929

Here's just another point, in passing. While, according to past experience, we'll probably not have such cold weather again for many years, yet the Lone Star Gas System must maintain capacity facilities through cold and warm weather, in winter and in summer. Millions of dollars in pipe lines and compressor stations, an army of trained, experienced men and women, must be kept functioning practically at peak capacity regardless of rapidly fluctuating gas demands. It is a duty as well as a privilege to maintain the Lone Star Gas System always at the highest point of efficiency in order that the more than a million people who depend on our lines for gas may have it regardless of weather.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Judith Cameron, New York typist, marries Arthur Knight, executive of the publishing house in which she is employed. Knight is a widower with a daughter, Tony, 18, in Paris, and a son, Junior, 16, at school. When Tony arrives home she announces Judith as a gold digger.

Tony is secretly continuing a flirtation with Mickey Mortimer, wealthy and married. When Junior comes home for the Christmas holidays he also treats Judith coldly.

Andy Craig, whom Knight has helped through college, takes a position with the publishing firm. He has been in love with Tony for a long while. In a fit of anger Tony tries to convince her father that Andy and Judith are carrying on an affair. Knight denies this but Tony tricks the pair into a compromising situation.

Knight becomes seriously ill with pneumonia. Two nurses are stationed in the household and a doctor is summoned. Before Junior returns to school he admits to Judith that he has misjudged her. Knight's recuperation is slow and Judith is resentful because he seems to prefer Tony's company to hers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXV

It was after six o'clock when Judith Knight arrived home that evening. She came hurrying, almost running up the stairs, and pushed open the front door. There was no one in sight in the hallway and Judith closed the door softly behind her. Then she turned toward the staircase.

"Well—you must have had quite an afternoon?"

Tony stood at the head of the stairs, gazing down at her. She was wearing a frock of deep bronze net, one of the new ones bought for the trip to Florida. Slippers, gleaming bracelets and other accessories indicated that Tony had made plans for a festive evening. The girl smiled, but there was earnestness and sarcasm in the smile.

"Yes. It got late before I realized it."

Judith had been startled by the other girl's appearance. She looked disturbed and a trifle confused as her eyes met Tony's and then dropped. Probably she would have moved on quickly but the younger girl stood directly in her path.

Then Tony came down the stairs. Leaning casually against the banister and studying her stemmother coolly she asked:

"Did you meet friends?"

Judith raised her head.

"Oh, no," she said. "Just—the usual thing. Some shopping and tea and—I don't know, the time seemed to fly! By the way, they promised to send your watch out Wednesday."

"Thanks," Tony drawled.

Judith passed her. She had gone but a few steps when she turned.

"Going out for the evening?" she asked.

"Having dinner with Andy. I hope you don't mind?"

Judith's cheeks crimsoned.

"Hardly!" she said. "Would you mind telling Harriet you're not to be here?"

The younger girl said she would speak to the maid. Judith hurried upstairs to pull off her hat and eat, put her hair into place and dust her face with powder.

Then she crossed the hall and rapped at the door of Arthur's room.

Miss Mallory's cheerful face appeared.

"Oh, Mrs. Knight! Your husband's been waiting for you and he's had such a good afternoon!"

Judith entered the room and looked toward Arthur. There was no sign that he had missed her. Arthur Knight looked quite comfortable, and he was smiling.

"Hello," she said. "I'm so sorry to be late—"

"Oh, is it late?" the nurse asked. She glanced at her wrist watch.

"Well it is! Nearly 6:30. I'd better be seeing about a certain gentleman's dinner."

Miss Mallory left the room. Judith moved nearer to the bed and sat down by her husband.

"Did you and Tony have a nice afternoon?"

"Splendid," he nodded. "Enjoy your trip in town?"

She said that she did, then turned the conversation. Just how Judith Knight had spent that afternoon in the city none of the members of the household were to learn.

Dinner was served a little later. Tony and Andy had left the house so Judith ate the meal in solitude. Later she sat with Arthur and Miss Mallory until it was time for the patient to go to sleep. An early bedtime was part of the strict program which Dr. Shephard had laid down for the sick man.

Days followed in which Judith found herself continually shut away from Arthur Knight. Each afternoon Tony sat with her father while the nurse took her airing. If Judith lingered it was only too obvious that her presence made Knight restless.

She made repeated trips into the city, almost always by train instead of taking the car. Her comings and goings seemed to make little difference in the suburban home.

Gradually Arthur Knight's health was returning. He was permitted to get out of bed and sit for an hour one morning, propped up with pillows in his big chair and well wrapped in blankets. Next day he was permitted an hour thus in the morning and another in the afternoon.

"The only thing holding him back," Miss Mallory told Judith privately, "is the way he worries about business affairs. I wish there was something we could do to make him stop."

Judith did not know what to do. She broached the subject to the doctor.

"What's the matter with his business?" he asked gruffly. "Hunter Brothers are still printing books, aren't they?"

"Yes, of course. I know it's silly but, you see, for years Arthur has let business come to mean almost everything to him. I was wondering if—perhaps—we might take a trip somewhere—"

The physician shook his head.

"Later," he said. "Foolish to risk traveling now. Isn't well enough. He thought for a minute. Then he said, 'Who's your husband's assistant?'"

"He hasn't any assistant—exactly. There are four or five men who each have a good many responsibilities. Of course he has a secretary, who's been with him for years."

"Man?" Doctor Shephard asked.

"No—Miss Tupper is her name. She's been sending the personal letters out and telephoning every day. She's very capable."

"I'll tell you what you do now," the doctor said decisively. "Get this Miss What's-her-name to come out here for an hour or two, bring his letters along, let him dictate, make him think he's getting back into the game. Will you do this?"

"Miss Tupper—here?" Judith asked in dismay.

"Certainly. Right here. That'll give your husband something to think about. I've been thinking this melancholy that's developing and I don't like it. My plan may not help any but I've an idea it will. Anyhow we'll try it."

A little later Judith had a telephone conversation with R. G. Hunter's assistant and it was arranged that Kathryn Tupper should come to the Knight home next afternoon.

Arthur Knight seemed pleased with the news. He was allowed to sit up for two hours consecutively now. From two until three o'clock he sat and chafed and worried because the time dragged. At three o'clock Miss Tupper was to arrive.

Judith would have given a good deal to be spared meeting this woman who disliked her so, but making excuses seemed cowardly. Therefore it was Judith herself who greeted Miss Tupper after Harriet had answered the doorbell.

She came forward, her hand out in friendly greeting.

"How do you do, Miss Tupper? It's awfully nice of you to come out. Mr. Knight will be so glad to see you!"

"How do you do?"

Kathryn Tupper did not take the outstretched hand. In her drab coat and unbecoming hat the woman's unattractiveness was increased. To be sure the coat and hat had cost enough. Kathryn Tupper's salary was quite comfortable, and she had made a particular effort to look well on this occasion.

Results served to prove the point that good taste in dress must either be instinctive or laboriously acquired.

Unbecoming as was the woman's costume, her manner was more forbidding. The mere sight of Judith seemed to draw Miss Tupper's beady little eyes into gullets. In speaking to the young Mrs. Knight the private secretary assumed the same tone she had used months and months before to assign Judith unpleasant tasks in the office.

Facing this cool and hostile visitor was disconcerting.

"Harriet will take your things," Judith said, and the maid stepped forward to take Miss Tupper's coat and hat.

"Now will you come upstairs?" Kathryn Tupper had been in her employer's home once or twice before but not since Judith had had it redecorated. She snatched a quick glance into the living room, then followed Judith up the stairs, making swift mental notes as she went.

In one hand she carried a small leather brief case.

At the door of Arthur's room Judith stepped back. She knocked and the nurse admitted them.

"Miss Tupper—how do you do?" "How do you do, Mr. Knight?" Like a flash the secretary's cold, forbidding manner disappeared. She hurried toward her employer, took his hand and pressed it gently.

"Oh, it's so good to see you," she went on quickly. "We—we miss you at the office, Mr. Knight. We want you to hurry and get well enough to come back."

Kathryn Tupper was almost maternal in the way she fluttered and hovered about the man. Probably Arthur Knight was 10 years older than his secretary. But he was ill now, weakened, and the greatest exertion permitted him was to sit in his chair.

Conditions were reversed. In his office Knight was the dominant figure and the secretary took instructions. Today Kathryn Tupper took command immediately. She raised the flap of the brief case.

"I've gone through all the correspondence," she said. "There wasn't anything important this morning but there are a few letters I've been holding which I thought you'd like to see personally."

The shrewd, absorbed expression Arthur Knight wore when he was deeply concerned in a business interview crossed his face. Miss Tupper began to read from the letter in her hand.

Judith and Miss Mallory both left the room. After Kathryn Tupper had finished reading, Knight dictated some notes which she wrote on the letter's margin. There were other documents to be gone through and the time passed swiftly.

At four o'clock the nurse returned.

"That's enough work for today now, Mr. Knight," she said, smiling in her good-humored way.

Miss Tupper sat back, looked a bit offended, then began to pack the papers back into her brief case.

"An I to come tomorrow again?" she asked Knight.

He told her he would like to see her at the same hour next afternoon. That evening, though Arthur Knight admitted he was tired, he looked contented.

"It'll be good to get back into the harness again," he told Judith with a deep sigh.

"You'll be there before long," she assured him. "Is Miss Tupper coming tomorrow again?"

"Yes, I asked her to."

The secretary continued to visit the Knight's home. Dr. Shephard declared the tonic was having its desired effect. At the end of the fifth week of Arthur Knight's illness he was able to move about the house. Except for periods of rest after meals the invalid was allowed to make his own schedule. The nurse was assigned to another case and departed. Life in the Knight household became almost what it had been two months before. One of the exceptions was that each afternoon from two until five o'clock Arthur sat discussing matters of business and giving dictation to Miss Tupper. The downstairs room, which had been known as Knight's "office" merely because it was a sort of private den, became a place of business indeed.

It was all very well for Knight to get on with affairs of the publishing company, but Kathryn Tupper's presence undoubtedly increased the breach which was widening between Arthur and Judith.

Tony, on the other hand, welcomed the secretary with surprising friendliness. Judith, coming through the living room one afternoon, found the pair together in eager discussion.

TEXAS FIRE LOSS FOR 1929 IS $20,000,000

Total loss by fire in the state of Texas for 1929 is estimated at $20,000,000 by State Fire Insurance Commissioner J. W. Deweese.

The following is Mr. Deweese report of losses:

Table with 3 columns: Number, Causes, Amounts. Lists various fire causes like Defective chimneys, Electricity, Stoves, etc., with corresponding amounts.

6468 Total $13,406,174.00

There are 410 Texas cities and towns that have fire marshals and each of them make a report of every fire that occurs in his town and the amount of insurance carried to the state fire insurance department.

How long will the business men and women and our officials of Texas continue to observe our tremendous annual fire loss each year without giving consideration to the question of "Who is paying this loss and how can it be stopped?"

The Texas fire insurance department has one aim for the year 1930 in promoting fire prevention, and that is this: "Get each city and town in Texas to have it taught as a regular course of study in the public schools, and to establish a permanent fire prevention committee in each city and town to work with the local fire marshal in bringing about a correction of all fire hazards that are found to be so numerous and cause careless fires."

Fifth Called Session to Dispose of Tax Legislation Is Inevitable With Late Submission of Topic

BY THE POLITICAL ANALYST

AUSTIN, Feb. 13.—The subject of the session of the legislature so late that it is impossible to get any of the measures enacted before it ends.

The session runs through next Tuesday, but to all practical purposes, it is over Saturday night.

If a fifth called session were not already inevitable, the submission of this broad subject, giving the legislature authority to explore the whole broad field of taxation, except alone for the income levy, made it so, nearly any member of the legislature will readily say.

Coupled with the opening of this field for a flood of proposed legislation, Governor Moody served notice that he would withhold the authority or making general appropriations until the money is provided by taxes.

Every major tax bill will be fought vigorously. This will mean legislative committees must hold public hearings, must work over and reshape and review the various bills, and will hear insistent requests for time in which representatives of industries affected may prepare to answer the proposals.

Not only will parliamentary rules take hold after Saturday's adjournment to restrict further legislation, the impeachment hearing in the house of Comptroller S. H. Terrell likely will absorb most of the remaining days after Wednesday.

Tuesday morning the legislature found 50 bills awaiting action in the house and 67 in the senate.

The proposed tax on natural gas production will bring on a mighty stiff fight, according to Senator Clint C. Small of Wellington, out where the gas flows freest.

The pending sulphur tax bill also the subject for legislative action. Most of the bills that Speaker Barron ruled out later were instigated by the governor's messages listing topics for action under which they were validated.

The old army blues, sometimes known as homesickness, seemed to be getting a considerable hold on large numbers of the lawmaking fraternity, until the impeachment proceedings revived a keener interest—in the business of legislating.

And, what with the fifth month's steady diet of prison reforming that so far produced one healthy dogfall and nothing else, there was some reason for weariness, both from those who were saving the convicts and those who were staunchly defending the gates of the treasury.

This impeachment proceeding will cause the legislature to untie a tie one way or another. In the past few years there have been two each. In one case the legislature removed James E. Ferguson from office. In the other it refused to vote charges before a senate impeachment court against

Rep. T. N. Mauritz of Ganado found his favorite campaign plank nipped in the bud, so to speak, when Governor Moody served notice that a veto awaits any income tax bill that may be sent him.

One of those little things which means so often the difference between writing a new statute on the books or failing to, developed between Speaker W. S. Barron and Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller early this week.

Barron sustained points of order that threw out nearly 50 bills, at least for the time being, that the matters contained in them had not been submitted.

Lieut. Gov. Miller said at the same time that regardless of the house action he was going to "be consistent" and leave the question for Governor Moody himself to decide by the use of the blue pencil of veto.

It has been held as a matter of law that if a bill is passed and the governor approves it, the approval constitutes "submission" of Land Commissioner J. T. Robinson, Mr. Ferguson came back and elected his wife governor. He is hale and hearty. Mr. Robinson went off and died of a broken spirit as his reward for 33 years of public service.

Condition of Noah Beery Is Grave

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13.—Condition of Noah Beery, screen actor, was considered grave here today after an operation for appendicitis.

Physicians at the Hollywood hospital where Beery was taken last night, said neglect over a period of months had allowed a gangrenous condition to set in making the operation doubly dangerous.

Beery became ill at his home shortly after breakfast yesterday. By the time physicians had arrived to diagnose the case as appendicitis, he was in great pain. He was taken to the hospital where the operation was performed as soon as preparations could be made.

How Ford Methods Cut Cost of Distribution

Lower profits in selling save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in manufacturing

TWENTY-SEVEN years ago the Ford Motor Company was formed to provide reliable, economical transportation for all the people. That original purpose has never changed. The constant effort in every activity is to find ways to give you greater and greater value without extra cost—frequently at lowered cost. This applies to distribution and similar important factors, as well as manufacture.

For the Ford Motor Company believes that its full duty is not only to make a good automobile at the lowest possible price, but to see that there is no waste, extravagance, or undue profit in any transaction from the time the car leaves the factory until it is delivered to your home. It is obvious that hard-won savings in production will be of little value if they are sacrificed later through excessive selling costs.

EVERY purchaser of a motor car has the right to know how much of the money he pays is for the car itself and how much is taken up by dealer charges. If these charges are too high, one of two things must happen. Either the price of the car must be raised or the quality lowered. There is no other way. The money must come from somewhere.

In the case of the Ford, the low charges for distribution, selling, financing and accessories mean a direct saving of at least $50 to $75 to every purchaser in addition to the still greater savings made possible by economies in manufacturing. Ford charges are not marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

The profit margin on the Ford car has always been fair to both the dealer and the public. Within the past three months, it has been possible to effect still further economies. Today, the discount or commission of the Ford dealer is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

THE business of the Ford dealer is good because he makes a small profit on a large number of sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales. He knows, too, that the extra dollar-for-dollar value of the car makes it easier to sell and more certain to give satisfactory service after purchase.

Consider also that the Ford car is delivered to the purchaser equipped with a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, an extra steel-spoke wheel, and bright, enduring Rustless Steel for many exterior metal parts, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes.

If for any reason you wish to buy certain small accessories, you will find that these, too, are sold at the usual Ford low prices. Replacement parts are also available at low prices through Ford dealers in every section of the country.

THESE are important points to remember in considering the purchase of a motor car. They show why it is possible to put so much extra quality into the new Ford and still maintain the low price. They are also the reasons why more than 35% of all cars sold today are Model A Fords.

LEE MAKES HIS ANNOUNCEMENT FOR CONGRESS

CANDIDATE

H. Q. Lee

In this issue of the Cisco Daily News and American will be found my announcement for reelection to congress from the 17th congressional district of Texas for a second term, subject to the action of the democratic primary, July 26, 1930.

About two years ago the then member of congress from our district having announced that he would not be a candidate for reelection, I announced for the democratic nomination for that position and was nominated and elected.

For that nomination and election I have a feeling of the deepest gratitude to the people of the 17th district and I have tried to demonstrate that gratitude by rendering with the best service of which I am capable to all the people of my district and to the country at large.

There are two sorts of members here, one who does sensational things to attract outside notice, and newspaper publicity, the other sort who, by solid devotion to his duty, and straightforward dealings with his colleagues, wins their confidence and respect and inspires in them a kindly regard for his people, and for their interest.

Useful Service
To be the latter sort of congressman has been my ambition and toward that objective I have worked, not only because it is in line with my disposition, but as I see, it is in line with useful service. I have been in office now less than eleven months. If you will inquire you will find that I have the confidence of my colleagues here and you will find that I have been diligent to take care of the duties of my office from the matter of smallest concern to the individual citizen to the largest matter of national interest.

I am a candidate for my second term. I had hoped I might have that without opposition. It is impossible to go into the campaign now without a neglect of important duties. Under these circumstances, the fact that I can not be in the district, I feel that I have a right to appeal, and I do appeal, to democrats who believe in the time honored principle of our party to give a man a second term unless he has done something to forfeit their confidence, and who appreciate the handicap which a new man here labors under during his first term, to give me the fair and the usual chance which it is a democratic principle to give, and I hope it is not asking too much to ask that you take care of my interest until I can get home and have an opportunity to give to you in detail an account of my stewardship.

As soon as I can do so without neglecting the business to which you have employed me to attend, I will return to the district and make as vigorous a campaign as I can for my second term.

Having lived in the 17th congressional district for nearly 40 years, and being a close student of the needs and development of West Texas, I feel that I can serve my district in a creditable way. On the basis of faithful service, I most earnestly solicit your vote and influence in the July democratic primary.

H. Q. Lee, member of congress, 17th District Texas.

HEARING ON—

charges had been presented to the house only upon Tuesday.

Asks for Audit

Rep. Alfred Petch of the house attorneys asked that the portions of the private audit be furnished the house attorneys without waiting for the complete audit. This was refused. Attorney Keeling declared that while the state auditor was making his investigation, the comptroller had asked for similar partial reports and was told he couldn't have anything until the whole audit was filed.

Rep. Coke Stevenson of the house attorneys differed with Petch taking the position that the house attorneys would not be helped by a fragmentary report.

The partial private audit, McGregor said showed that an account in the Texas Bank and Trust company which was included in the charges had been closed in due order and receipted for by the proper officials, the fact that a number of items had been run out in it and explained, he said, justified the conclusion that all will be similarly accounted for. Critics "urged perhaps by the partial audit of the state auditor, McGregor said, would be completely answered by the full audit.

Arguments Begun in Liquor Cases

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Feb. 13 — A youthful and fiery assistant United States district attorney today made an impassioned plea before a federal court jury to send the remaining twelve defendants in the Pottawatomie county liquor con-

The jurors who had heard the mass of testimony introduced for over two weeks heard Hyde describe an alleged liquor ring that sent a flow of liquor into the Pottawatomie county oil field.

"Too Much Traveling," "Pop" Explains Kittens' Defeats

THREE GAMES IN ROW LOST BY CISCOANS

Three More Tilts on Schedule in Arkansas

Cisco's Randolph Kittens, 1929, Southern A. A. U. basketball champions, are not doing so well on their present rapid fire tour of Arkansas. In fact the girls have not won a single game.

"Too much traveling" is Coach H. R. (Pop) Garrett's laconic explanation in a message to the Cisco Daily News today.

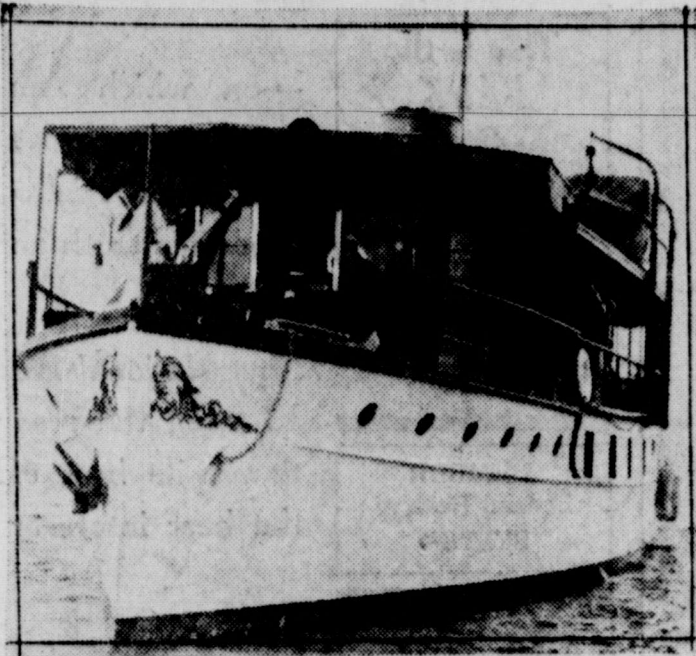

Playing the Hartman, Arkansas, Monday evening after a jump by bus from Cisco to that point Saturday and Sunday the Cisco girls lost by four points. The score was 37 to 33. A second game Tuesday evening with the same team—which by the way went far in the national tournament last season, resulted in a loss of 25 to 19.

From Hartman the team went to Monticello where they met the Arkansas A. and M. team and succumbed 37 to 23.

Tonight the Kittens meet the Little Rock Independents. They will play the same team Friday night and Saturday they will go to Sparkman for a contest with that team.

The team will return to Cisco Monday.

TO TAKE HOOVER FISHING

This trim craft probably will be converted into a sea-going white house to carry President and Mrs. Hoover southward on a brief fishing expedition off Long Key, Fla. It's the houseboat Saunterer, owned by Jeremiah Mabank, treasurer of the eastern branch of the republican national committee, and the Hoovers plan to spend most of their time aboard while the rest of their party is quartered in a fishing camp. Physicians have advised President Hoover that a brief vacation would be "advantageous to his health."

U. S. HAS NEW WOMAN SPRINT CHAMP TODAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 — The United States has a new women's sprint champion today, one who has stepped out unheralded and established new world's records in her first two appearances in the east.

Tall, bobbed-haired Stella Walsh of Cleveland, a stenographer stamped herself last night as the foremost woman sprinter of all time by setting a new mark for the 220-yard dash, indoors, in the Meadowbrook games at Philadelphia.

Two entire seconds Stella stamped off the previous record, in winning the event by some 20 yards from a high class field. Last Saturday, at the Millrose games in Madison Square Garden, Miss Walsh set a new record for the 50-yard dash, sprinting the distance in 6 seconds.

Speeding around the Philadelphia track in 23 4-5 seconds for the 220-yard dash, the strapping young sprinter defeated Dallas Creamer, the Canadian champion.

In two starts on Eastern tracks, Stella has left records far behind. She set her new record in the 50-yard dash for women in the first heat of the 30-yard dash at Madison Square Garden Saturday, later winning the final heat in 6 1-5 seconds.

Last night, the bobbed haired wonder from Cleveland was left flat-footed by the gun which cracked for the final heat of the 45-yard dash for women, yet she sprinted to victory in 5 and 4-5 seconds to establish what amounts to a new record for women. There had been no previously established record for this event.

In the 220-yard dash Stella was looking over her shoulder and might have easily bettered her mark if she had been pushed.

High Scoring Too Much for Referee

Bill Smith, former Lobo football and basketball star and now a student of Randolph college, whose services as a referee of basketball games are coming to be much in demand over this territory, lays claim to having officiated in the highest scoring game on record. The game was played last night between the Albany high school girls and the Moran high school girls and the score was 115 to 9 Albany won.

Bill asserts that he worked harder than the girls and that for once he was entirely run down. In fact if the number of times that he ran between the center of the court and the Albany goal multiplied by the distance between those points the result would be about 20 miles, all of which he ran in 40 minutes.

"If I hadn't given out about the middle of the third quarter" he declared, "the score would have been about 200 to 9, but it is humanly impossible for a referee to call a game of that figure."

Opportunity Knocks at Hudkins' Door

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 — Ace Hudkins, Nebraska wildcat who has been on the New York commission's "black list" for the past year because he was "too rough" in his bout with Rene De Vos, will have an opportunity to advance to the top rank of the light heavyweight class by defeating Maxie Rosenbloom of New York in their 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden Friday.

Rosenbloom has generally regarded as uncrowned king of the 175-pounders and the winner of the fight has been promised a title bout with Jimmy Slattery, the New York commission's light-heavy champion.

CHALLENGES FIREMEN. VINCENNES, Ind., Feb. 13 — The Vincennes board of works has cancelled all fire insurance policies on fire department buildings. If the fire department can't keep its own buildings from burning over its head, it ought to get out in the street, Mayor Joseph W. Kimmell said, in announcing the move.

PROBATION CONTINUED. PAMPA, Feb. 13 — The present

probation of flush oil fields in Gray county will be continued until March 6, 125 oil operators and royalty men decided here. Every operator in Gray county with the exception of the Gulf Production company, the Sunray Oil company, and the Magnolia Oil company, voted for the continuance of probation.

CARNERA ON PROGRAM. HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 13 — Primo Carnera, giant Italian heavyweight fighter, has agreed to appear on the fight program opening the Detroit Outdoor season, promoter Fitzsimmons announced here late yesterday after a conference with Billy Duffey, Carnera's manager.

MEXIA — Mexia has signed for a berth in the projected Lone Star league, class baseball circuit. Jesse W. McLendon represented local supporters of the move in fixing papers with Joe Mathes, president of the junior loop.

A deposit of $500 was made with the contract, and $2,500 must be paid by March 1.

Mexia was the first to enter definite agreement with Mathes.

DALLAS — Sunset high school boys, already conceded the city series basketball title with eight victories in as many starts, received a rude jolt when Oak Cliff's quintet handed them a sensational defeat in an overtime period yesterday.

Cadenhead, Cliff guard, sunk a goal from the middle of the court to give his team the game.

Sunset has a lone remaining game to play. It can win the title by taking that game, but should it be lost, Cliff can at least tie for the title by taking two remaining contests.

"SHALL SHAPE AND SHADOW OVERFLOW"

(John Greenleaf Whittier, 1807-1892)

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence

Men who would keep that trim, proper figure, women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid excess weight in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, youthful figure.
