MRS. DUGAN IS HANGED EARLY TODAY House, Inactive, Seeks to Round Up Missing Members

20 ABSENTEES ARE SOUGHT FOR QUORUM

Form of Process to Return Absentees Adopted

AUSTIN, Feb. 21.—With doors closed to prevent the withdrawal of any of the 78 members of the legislature who were here this morning, the Texas house of representatives waited inactive in the hope that 20 absentees might arrive during the day to make a quorum.

Two members had left within five minutes after the first roll call was taken. Doors then were closed and the sergeant-at-arms instructed to round up any absentees. As members arrived they were greeted with ill-favored shouts. Formal excuses were authorized for Representative Henry Turner of Madisonville and C. D. Sveek of Abilene, because of unusual conditions.

A message from the sheriff's office at San Antonio, according to Speaker W. S. Barron, announced that 18 of those who were here yesterday were missing today. Some who were away yesterday had arrived today. Notices to attend were sent to 38. The messages reached 23. Of these three declined to return, four reported illness, and two were excused.

Speaker W. S. Barron declared frankly that he believed it will be impossible to resume business because of the 20 absentees.

A Closeup of the Real George Washington Nation's Founder Had Faults as Well as Virtues and for All His Heroic Appearance in History Was Very Much Like Other Men

Everybody knows that George Washington, whose birthday anniversary is observed on Feb. 22, was the nation's first president. And most folks know, too, that the story about young George chopping down the cherry tree is pure fiction—just a figment of the imagination of Parson Weems who acquired the habit of turning all of Washington's actions into virtues.

The bridges are all being reconstructed of standard T. P. treated material.

P. T. A. WILL PRESENT PLAY HERE MARCH 7

Rehearsals are being held afternoon and night for the comedy drama "West of Broadway" to be given March 7 in the high school auditorium under the auspices of the P. T. A. of west ward school. Miss Ciele M. Oliver of the National Producing company of Kansas City, Mo., is in charge and report unusual interest and cooperation.

But just what sort of a man was the "Father of His Country" whose memory is honored by millions? Historians burrowing for new information on General Washington in this inquisitive age have revealed that he was only human, that he had his faults as well as his virtues. After all, this heroic figure in the nation's history was very much like other men.

MAY FREE 3 COUNTIES OF RESTRICTIONS

By POLITICAL ANALYST. AUSTIN, Feb. 21. — Whether it was the exceptional cold weather, or some other cause, the Texas pink bollworm commission thinks three counties, Howard, Martin and Dawson, ought to be taken completely from under the limited quarantine, and has so recommended to federal authorities.

It may be a little premature, but this is the nomination of C. N. Avery of Austin for district governor of Louisiana. The state lions convention will be held here in the spring. Mr. Avery, former state highway commissioner, is now deputy district governor.

A disappointed man was Representative A. P. Johnson of Carrizo Springs, who had his suitcase packed and was eager to start for home, when the new session crept upon the legislature.

NO TROUBLE AT ALL NOW

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Has Benefited This Woman

Millions today are eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation.

The cause of constipation is the lack of roughage in food. Add sufficient roughage and constipation disappears. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is nearly all roughage.

Here is a letter from Mrs. H. Gilbert, 107 E. Knight Ave., Collingswood, N. J., which will be interesting to many sufferers.

"I had a very serious operation in October and when I came from the hospital my main trouble was constipation. One day I said to the doctor, 'I am going to eat ALL-BRAN, and since I started I have no trouble whatever. So you see I can't eat it enough and am always telling my friends about it.'"

You will enjoy the nut-like flavor of this delicious, ready-to-eat cereal. It is rich in iron, and when eaten with milk or fruit juices, adds important vitamins to the diet.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is an essential in any reducing diet. It means every-day health to people all over the world. Your grocer has it in the red-and-green package. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Rash Romance

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Judith Cameron, New York typist, marries Arthur Knight, executive of the publishing house where she works. Knight is a dandy over with a daughter, Tony, 18, and son, Junior, 16. Tony announces Judith as a gold digger. Her father makes her apologize. When Junior comes home for Christmas holidays he is equally unfriendly.

Andy Craig, a young man Knight has aided, takes a position with the publishing house. He is in love with Tony and calls on her frequently. Tony tries to convince her father that Judith and Andy are carrying on an affair.

Andy is carrying on a flirtation with Mickey Mortimer, wealthy and married. This is revealed when they are arrested at 3 a. m. for reckless driving. Tony and her father quarrel over this but finally the girl is forgiven. Knight contracts pneumonia and is dangerously ill. Junior comes home and before he leaves admits to Judith he has misjudged her. Arthur Knight's recuperation is slow and Judith is resentful because he seems to prefer Tony's company to hers.

A letter for Judith arrives and Tony takes it. Later she follows Judith on a trip into the city and sees her meet a young man. Next day Tony threatens to tell her father the story unless Judith goes away for two weeks. Believing Tony knows more than she does, Judith departs, leaving a note for Arthur. Several hours pass before he finds the message. Next day his office secretary reports that Andy Craig is missing.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLII
With a jolt and groan of grinding brakes the train pulled into the station.

"All out!" shouted a guard. "Pennsylvania Station! All out!" Judith arose and joined the others, pushing toward the door of the car. In one hand she clutched the small black traveling bag. Someone behind brushed bodily past her, crowding Judith against the row of seats, knocking her hat and tipping it at a grotesque angle.

"Excuse me, ma'am!"
A young man wearing a light overcoat had spoken. He was awkwardly trying to untangle a button of his coat from the fur of Judith's cuff in which it was caught. "Oh—of course," she murmured.

The tangle was undone. The young man hurried forward and the girl followed. All of the others seemed in such a rush to get out of the car. Judith was at the end of the procession, almost the last to leave.

She stepped out on the long cement passageway and looked about her uncertainly.

Red caps were moving back and forth, some carrying luggage, others looking for patrons. "Carry your bag, lady!" Judith shook her head at the body who had approached. She turned and followed the throng up the stairway.

In the vast upstairs waiting room other red caps came to her assistance. The girl refused their services. Her pale, bewildered expression was what attracted them.

Where to now?
Judith had no plans. It had all seemed quite simple while she was at home, packing and thurs was not even permitted to leave the house. And there was no way for him to trace her whereabouts if he could come.

One thing was clear in Judith's mind. She was not going to leave the metropolis. If two weeks must be spent in loneliness, she would spend them here.

She was aware, of course, that there is nowhere in the world a hiding place so secure and safe as the crowded, teeming island of Manhattan.

Again she came back to the problem—where to next?
Judith thought of the rooming house in which she had lived before her marriage. No, she did not want to return there. She did not want to meet anyone who had ever known her before.

She considered other sections of the city, sections which were vaguely familiar and which she thought she could afford. This last clause set restrictions.

Judith Knight had less than $50 in her purse. It was Arthur's money. She had not wanted to take even that much, but of course she must live. It would be ample for two weeks of the frugal existence she knew well.

Suddenly the name of a hotel north of Columbus Circle came to mind. Judith did not recall who had told her of it. It might have been long ago during those weeks of business school. No—she remembered now. It was a place Andy Craig had mentioned.

Andy had said the hotel was clean and cheap.
Judith drained the teapot. Then she picked up her luggage and paid her check.

Ten minutes later she boarded an uptown subway express.

The rush hour was on. Judith clutched a swaying strap, pinioned between men and women who had ended a day's work and now, worn and tired-eyed, were going home. The stale air was nauseating. The thunderous roar tormented her eardrums and the jolting, rickety course pitched passengers against one another. They jostled and some of them swore.

"I used to do this every day," Judith thought. "How did I ever stand it?"

It was a blessing to reach her station and climb up the stairs to fresh air again. Somehow she had managed to maintain possession of her purse, her gloves and her traveling bag.

She was not sure of the location of the hotel which she sought. She was not even entirely sure of the name. Instead of making inquiries Judith set out walking north.

She was on Broadway. Beside her, and occasionally impeding progress, was the flowing stream of vehicles. Multi-colored taxicabs, sedate town cars, heavy trucks and small, smart delivery cars darted past. They added to the confused whirl in Judith's mind.

Surely the place should be around here somewhere!
Judith paused at the intersection of two streets and looked about.

There were dazzling electric movie signs, farther in the distance theater signs, but nowhere a building resembling the hotel.

Judith decided to inquire of a policeman. There was one standing in the center of the street directing traffic.

She waited until the stop signal had flashed and the officer had blown his whistle. Then she ventured out toward the safety zone.

The tall, blue-coated man could scarcely hear her question. He bent his head, frowning asked her to speak louder.

"What hotel? Oh, yes. Yes, he knew the place. Two blocks south and one to the left again."
Judith thanked him. She hurried back to the sidewalk and retraced her steps. Odd that she should have walked past the place.

It was after six o'clock. The sun was lost behind clouds, and down the street electric lights flashed. The big "White Way" display signs gleamed far to the southward and robbed the gloaming of its charm. There is no twilight on Broadway. Day jumps directly to night.

Judith Knight turned a corner and saw ahead of her the hotel she had been searching for. She hurried toward it.

The place was respectable looking. She went up the steps and entered a lobby with some pretense of past elegance in its worn carpet of floor and dull red rug. Leather chairs were arranged in groups and against the walls. Here and there a potted palm tree stood.

A bell boy in maroon uniform approached and took Judith's traveling bag. He led her toward the registration desk at the rear of the room.

"Can you give me a room for the night?"

The clerk behind the counter had a youthful face but his blond hair was thinned to a bald spot.

"Yes, madam. I can give you a room with bath on the sixth floor."
"What is the price?"
"Three dollars and a half."
"Have you—anything for less?"
He nodded.

"Room on the court," he told her. "Fourth floor. I can let you have that at $2.50."
"I'll take it."
The clerk dipped a pen in ink, handed it to Judith and whirled the revolving registration book toward her.

She took the pen shakily, hesitated and then wrote: "Judith Cameron, Fulton St."
"Front!" called the bald young man to the bell boy. "Show this lady to 419."

The boy picked up the traveling bag and Judith followed. There was a single elevator shaft at the right, and they waited there for the car to reach the ground floor.

red-checked Brunet.
The elevator car descended from above and the door opened with a clicking noise. Judith entered.

"Four!" the bell boy told the operator.
The car wheezed slowly aloft. At the fourth floor it settled again and the door opened.

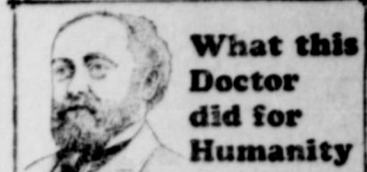

There were lights on either side of a mirror facing the elevator shaft. Beyond these the hall ahead looked dark. The bell boy took the corridor to the left and Judith followed.

The boy paused before a door, entered and snapped an electric light switch.
Judith stood in the doorway. She saw a tiny room with brilliant flowered wall paper. There was a bed, a dressing table and one chair.

The boy was raising the room's only window.

"Anything else, ma'am?" he asked, lingering.
Judith opened her purse and handed him a quarter.
"That's all I believe. Thank you."
The door shut behind the youth. Judith drew her hat off and ran her fingers through her hair. For the last hour her head had been throbbing, and she was very tired. Judith sank into a chair and closed her eyes.
The telephone at her side buzzed sharply.

O. W. Hardin Declares Orgatone Has Proven to Be Correct Treatment.

"I have used one bottle of Orgatone and it has convinced me of the fact that it is the right medicine for troubles like I had, and I am more than glad to let other people know of the benefits I have derived from it." This statement was made by O. W. Hardin of 712 Jefferson, Waco, Texas, who is a well known salesman for the Maytag Washing Machine Co.

"For five years," continued Mr. Hardin, "I suffered from stomach trouble and a general run-down condition. I had no appetite at all and never enjoyed anything I ate. Food soured on my stomach, until I would be miserable for hours afterward. I lost in weight and strength and just seemed to get worse day in and day out. I suffered from constipation all the time, was extremely nervous and got so little rest at night that in the mornings I would wake up feeling all tired out and couldn't throw off my weak debilitated feeling.
"I felt that something had to be done and finally resorted to Orgatone and just let me say I have found the proper thing for my case. It started my troubles on the retreat in just a few days and now I am able to eat anything and enjoy it. I have overcome that tired, weak condition and my nerves are as strong as anybody's and my vitality is splendid. I sleep fine every night and get up in the mornings feeling rested and fit for my duties. I feel stronger and have more vim and energy than I have had in years. I have gained in weight and strength and actually feel 100 per cent better than I did. I have tried lots of medicines and treatments but Orgatone is the only medicine that has given me the relief I wanted and I am glad to recommend it.
Genuine Orgatone may be bought in Cisco, at the Dean Drug Store. Adv.

4,000-Foot Test to Be Drilled at Moran

MORAN, Feb. 21 — A 4,000 foot deep test will begin within 40 days in the Brooks settlement two miles south of Moran, giving that territory a test for the deeper oil and gas sands. We have been unable to learn the names of the drillers, but have the information of the well from a reliable source.

Recent wells in the Moran field and the excellent market afforded for gas has stimulated drilling in the Moran field, and it is expected that several tests will be made during the spring and summer.

Eagle Pass — Total of 7,889 cars-loads handled here during past year by railroad.

SEDALIA MAN FINDS HEALTH IN NEW KONJOLA

Stomach and Kidney Ills of Long Standing No Problem for New Medicine.

MR. I. H. GIBSON
"I eat, sleep and feel like a different man since taking this great medicine, Konjola," said Mr. I. H. Gibson, 206 South Ohio street, Sedalia. "I suffered for years with stomach and kidney trouble every meal. This gas pressure made me short of breath and nauseated. My kidneys were weak and bladder actions were frequent. Splitting headaches often lasted for days."
"My kidneys were first to respond to the action of Konjola. My bladder now functions properly and I suffer no back pains and headaches. I have not enjoyed my meals in years as I do today. I never bloat after meals and my appetite is excellent. My entire system has been aided by this great medicine and I am in excellent health for the first time in many years. I enthusiastically recommend Konjola to all men and women who suffer as I did."
Konjola is sold in Cisco at Moore Drug Co., and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

MATHEWS ADDS ROBCAT AND WOLF TO LIST

F. B. Mathews, government trapper for this section, yesterday morning brought in a large red wolf and a bobcat which he had caught on the J. M. Ray ranch. The wolf measured 57 inches from tip to tip and stood 30 inches high. The bobcat weighed 40 pounds.

The wolf, and old one, had been preying upon the small livestock and poultry in that section for several years and during its life had no doubt destroyed many hundreds of dollars worth of turkeys and so forth. Mr. Davis, who lives in that community asserted that wolves had practically destroyed all his turkeys.

Farmers and ranchmen in the area are well pleased with the success of the drive to rid their premises of the predatory animals. Their losses to wolves and bobcats have been heavy.

COOKING SCHOOL

Interest in better foods and better methods of preparing them. It always has been the theory of this company and of Miss Spence that plain, nourishing foods, served on a balanced menu are most appreciated in the average home.

All of the foods and ingredients she will use in the daily cooking school, may be purchased at practically any grocery store in Cisco. All will be standard brand foods of standard prices.

Airy Fairy flour, KC baking powder, well-known brands of standard canned foods, Folger's coffee and others just as well known will be used in the various sessions of the school.

Miss Spence is a university graduate in home economics and has taught the subject for several years before taking up cooking school work. During the cooking school she will pass on to the women of Cisco the results of her experimentation in her model kitchen in Kansas City. The Daily News is sponsoring the school here to give its women readers an opportunity to freshen their menus and to lighten their kitchen work through added knowledge of methods and modern practices.

The school promises to be a social and neighborly event as well as a profitable one. Every woman in Cisco is invited. It is free.

Among the local concerns who will participate are: The Lee Diversified Farms will furnish the infertile eggs for the school and will give a prize each day consisting of some of their products—probably milk fed fryers from their hatcheries and poultry farms.

The Ford-Green Music Co. will have a General Electric refrigerator in the kitchen with the West Texas Utilities Co.'s Frigidaire refrigerator. They will also display their pianos, Victrolas and Majestic radios.

The J. C. Penney Co. will provide the table linen and will also have other items on display. These items will be mentioned in detail later.

Furniture Displays
The Cisco Furniture Co. will have a furniture display and have volunteered to furnish whatever items in their line that might be needed in the school not furnished by other furniture concerns in the city. It is likely that all furniture stores will enter as soon as they can be seen.

Mr. H. Garner's department store will have a display of Atwater-Kent radios and will divide time with Ford-Green Music Co. in furnishing entertaining programs before and after the cooking school sessions.

The Farling Studio will cooperate with the school and will have a display of their work.

The Southwestern Motor Co. will participate and will give a free car wash each day.

The cleaners and dyers of the city will likely have displays and cooperate in the advertising campaign as well will the laundry.

Tullos Bros., dyers, cleaners and pleaters, will have a display of pleating and a booth in the building.

Silverware
Hardware stores and jewelers will be able to advertise their lines of dishes and silverware to great advantage to the hundreds of ladies who will be in attendance daily; and special effort will be expected to draw them by means of cooking lore and the large number of prizes and awards given each day by Miss Spence.

Hyatt & Woods will cooperate and furnish prizes each day.

The M System will donate prizes each day and furnish food from their store for cooking demonstrations each day.

Skiles Grocery & Market will have a booth and will furnish all meats needed for cooking demonstrations during the school. Mr. Skiles assures the Daily News that only the choicest of meats will be used. He will also furnish free gifts each day of the school.

W. K. Johnston Grocery will erect a booth and will furnish prizes for the ladies who attend each session of the school. He will cooperate in every way possible to make the school a success for Cisco, he assures us.

Clarence Saunders Grocery will cooperate and Mr. Jenkins will offer prizes each day for ladies attending its sessions.

Piggy Wiggly will cooperate with the school and will give away 12-pound sacks of Airy Fairy flour and one-pound cans of Folger's coffee to ladies in attendance of sessions of the cooking school.

DeLuxe Cleaners will cooperate with the school and will donate prizes during the school. Mr. Donohoe will likely have a booth and display during the evening sessions.

Nabors Furniture will cooperate with the Daily News in its school and will furnish a rug for the kitchen used by Miss Spence.

The Acorn Stores will cooperate with the cooking school, will give merchandise each day and will have a booth display at the evening informal reception.

The Cisco Lumber & Supply Co. will cooperate in the advertising feature of the school, will give away Col-O-Var Home Resulfiter each day and will have a booth display at the evening informal reception.

J. J. Collins Hardware will participate in the campaign and will likely have a booth. He will give away each day a can of Duco and a brush.

Rupperts Bakery will furnish bread and cakes for the school and will otherwise participate in the campaign.

Cisco Furniture company will furnish a Sellen's kitchen cabinet for the use of Miss Spence's model kitchen.

Herron's will participate in the school and will have a booth. This firm will give a prize each day.

The Nu-Way Beauty Shop will take part in the advertising campaign and will give a free shampoo and wave set each day as one of the prizes offered. They will have a booth for the informal receptions given each evening.

The Bankhead Feed Mill will give free a choice of any of their brands of flour; a 12 pound sack to one lady each day.

Boon and Swindle will participate in the advertising campaign and will have their Purina chix-on-feed on display at their booth each evening. They will donate on Wednesday, a package of bulk flower seeds, consisting of Sweet Peas, Asturians, and Zenias. On Thursday, they give a variety of bulk garden seeds; on Friday they will give an assortment of field seeds.

The Moore Drug company will participate in the advertising campaign and will have a booth display each evening.

The Simpson Beauty Shoppe will participate in the advertising campaign and will give prizes each day to ladies attending the school.

Ladies will participate in the advertising campaign and will have a booth where their merchandise will be displayed during the evening informal receptions. Wednesday they will give away a Spring Corset; on Thursday, ladies silk underwear, and on Friday a ladies house frock, size to fit the lucky lady.

Powell's Cleaning Plant will cooperate in the advertising campaign and will have a booth displaying his Macy's Tailoring System. They will Clean and Press a ladies dress or coat free as a prize each day.

The West Texas Produce company will cooperate in the advertising campaign, furnish the necessary fresh vegetables or fruits needed for Miss Spence's cooking, and will give a basket of produce each day as one of the prizes.

The Cisco Steam Laundry will cooperate with the school and will give free each day to some lady attending the school, "Rough Dry" wash bundle not to exceed 15 lbs.

The Wilkinson Lumber company will furnish the material to build the stage for Miss Spence's model kitchen.

Bryant's Art Studio & Gift Shop will cooperate in the advertising campaign and will give a free prize each day of the school. They will have a booth displaying their art work and gift items.

HEALTHY LOT OF CHILDREN

Every Member of the Family Took Black-Draught When Out of Sorts.

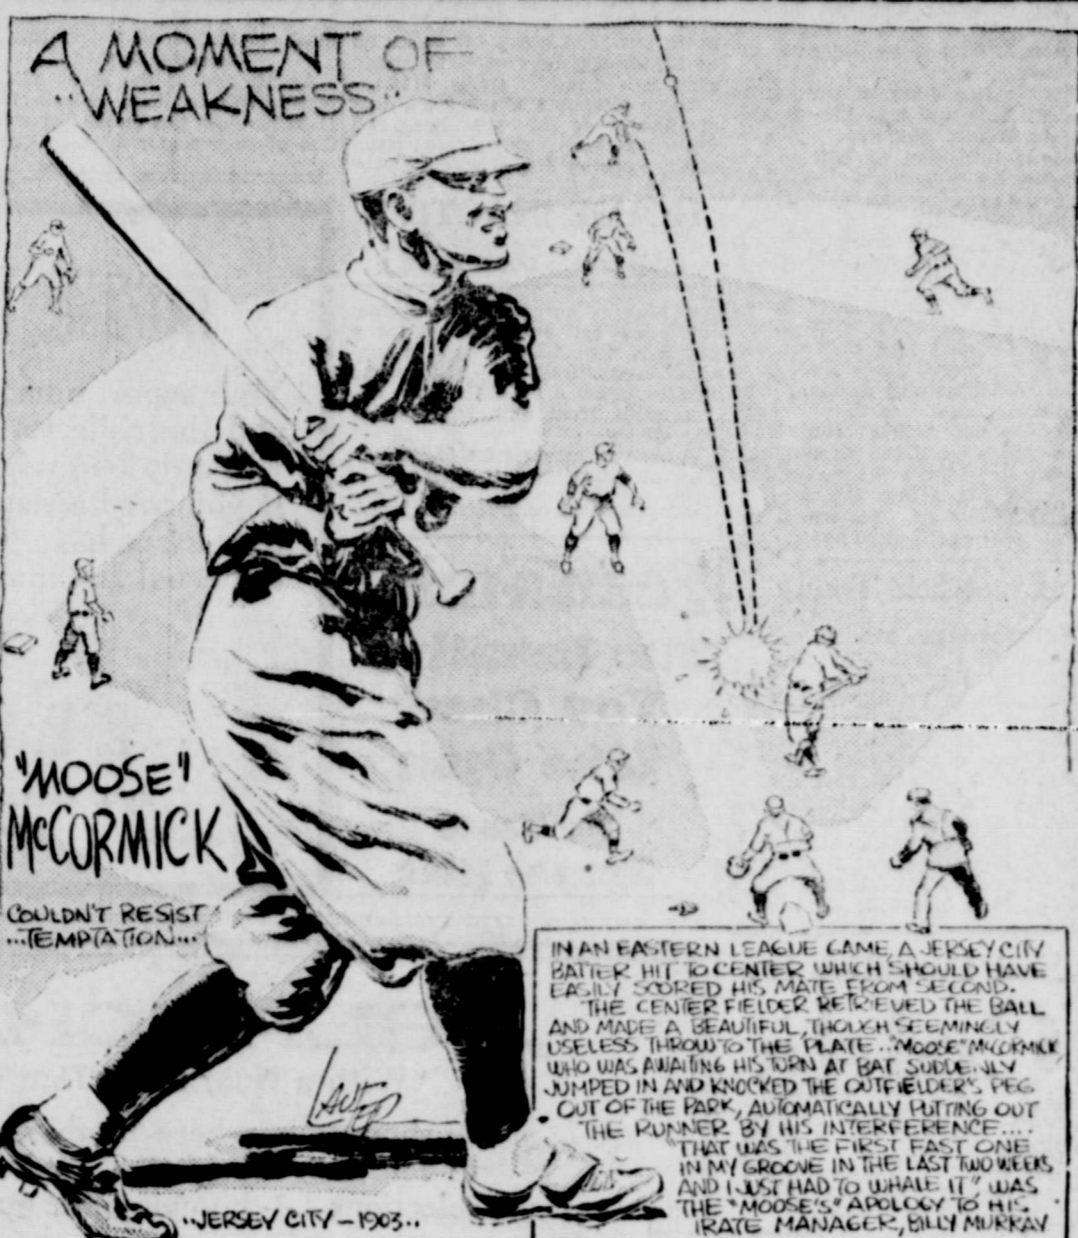

Walnut Ridge, Ark.—"Until I was a grown girl, I did not know there was any other purgative but Theford's Black-Draught," writes Mrs. J. C. Hathorne, of this place. "My father gave it to every member of his family."

"Whenever we got out of sorts, he got down the Black-Draught box, made a tea of Black-Draught, and gave it to us this way for indigestion and constipation."

"There were eight of us children in our family. We were a healthy lot. Black-Draught was about our only medicine."

"I have continued to use it off and on in my home as I have needed it since I have been married. I give it a good recommendation, for I know from my own use Black-Draught is a good medicine."

Theford's Black-Draught is a purely vegetable cathartic or laxative medicine, composed of selected medicinal herbs and roots. Black-Draught is finely powdered, which enables the juices of the stomach to extract the medicinal properties in a natural way.

CHARLIE WHITE WILL BEGIN TONIGHT HIS ATTEMPT TO PROVE THAT HE CAN COME BACK

CHICAGO, Feb. 21 — Old Charlie White tonight will begin his attempt to prove that "the guy who said they never come back" was all wrong.

For the first time since that last eight years ago when he hung up his gloves after knocking out Bobby Barrett, White will get inside the squared circle and attempt to prove that he still is good enough to cope with the best of the present day lightweights.

The opponent will be Henry Perlock, one of the fighting twins, who was swinging in his cradle when Charlie was a top-notch boxer some twenty years ago. Despite his age

WRITES OF NEW YORK PARIS — After many months investigating all phases of New York life, Paul Morand, noted French author, has come back and written a book on the city as seen through the eyes of a Freshman. "New York thrills many people. It also kills many" is the author's pithiest summing up of the city about which it is claimed he knows more than very many Americans.

2 of Nation's Best Here Saturday Night

The only two teams that have defeated the Schepps Aces, national champions of last year, in 523 games played by the Aces, will meet Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the high school gym. These teams are the Randolph college Kittens, of this city, and the Golden Cyclones, of Dallas.

Last year the Kittens defeated both the Aces and the Cyclones to win the southern A. A. U. championship. This year they have lost one game to the Cyclones by a narrow margin. That game was played early in the season at Dallas.

This will be the first time that the Cyclones have come west and their visit to Cisco places before them an opportunity to see two of the best girls basketball teams in the nation play.

The Kittens' lineup for the evening will be: Fulford (captain), forward; Darnell, forward; Greenlee, center; Patterson, M. Russell and E. Russell, guards.

The game will be played on a

MANY RADICAL CHANGES IN BRAVES LINEUP

By GEORGE KIRKEY United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK, Feb. 21 — Many radical changes will be made in the lineup of the Boston Braves under their new manager, Bill McKechnie, but there is no indication that there will be any vast improvement over the club, which finished in the cellar last season.

Fourteen new players have been added to the Brave's roster of 30 players. The newcomers include six players purchased from the minors, three drafted players, three free agents and two recalled players.

Little effort has been made to bolster the weak pitching staff as ten of the new players are infielders and outfielders.

There are four outstanding recruits who stand a good chance of winning regular berths. They are first baseman Johnny Neun, third baseman Russell Rollings, outfielder Walter Berger, and outfielder Randolph Moore.

BRUINS WINS GREENVILLE, Feb. 21 — The Burlington college Bruins took Junior college cage honors of their half of the state here last night by defeating the Wesley college team, 33 to 22. Weatherford shares the joint title with Burlington, having emerged victorious over their sectional rivals.

two-division court instead of the ordinary three-division court used in girls basketball contests. So far only one-half a game has been played on a two-division court here. That style of play offers faster action and more thrills than the three-division style, since wider latitude in the matter of position is given the players.

Del Rio Man Is Golf Luminary

HOUSTON, Feb. 21 — Bud McKinney of Del Rio was today the outstanding luminary of the Houston country club invitation golf tournament.

Leading with one great gesture out of his former obscurity, the youngster surprised doers by defeating Ruben Albaugh of Rice Institute 2 up and 1 to play in the feature event of the meet yesterday.

He was due to give his underdog opponent little more than a warm-up.

Jack Dold of Houston, last year's many champion, also furnished an upset by trimming Jack Speer.

Cleveland Girl Is Outstanding Sprinter

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 21 — Stella Walsh's decisive victory in the 60-metre sprint at the Canadian national indoor track championship last night convinced even the most skeptical of Canadians that the Cleveland girl is the outstanding woman sprinter of recent years.

The tall, bobbed-haired photographer ran the 60-metre in 19.75, leading her Canadian rival, Marie Cook of Montreal, by two feet.

To repeat her performance at the Millrose games in New York, which she chalked up a world's record in defeating the same two rivals in the 5.9-yard sprint.

WASHINGTON—

way from $70,000 to $1,000,000.

As a planter, he practiced crop rotation, diversified his products and experimented in breeding horses and cattle. His horse was saddled and at his door at dawn ready for the daily trip about his plantation.

Honest himself and contemptuous of dishonesty in others he stood upon his rights and took court action against those who attempted to defraud him.

As a real estate dealer and business man at Alexandria, Va., he was known as a "hail fellow, well met" and a good companion. He belonged to Alexandria's first volunteer fire company, "Friendship Hose."

Washington played a prominent role in social life of Virginia. House parties were frequent at Mount Vernon. He mentions many expenditures for arack wine and punch; he liked afternoon tea served in the summer on the veranda; he was fond of picnics, barbecues, clam bakes, and still danced at the age of 64.

He went regularly to the Williamsburg races. He frequently lost various sums at cards, the largest on record now being 9 pounds 14 shillings. He missed few opportunities to see stage plays, though there were few theaters in his time.

His diaries indicate that his book knowledge was meager, and that he had difficulty with spelling and grammar all his life. When it was suggested that he write his memoirs he said: "A consciousness of defective education and a certainty of the lack of time unfit me for such an undertaking."

Disliking slavery on economic and social rather than moral grounds, he made the best of it, carefully clothed and fed his servants and employed a doctor for the sick.

Washington had a temper, that is certain. When he discovered the treachery, or cowardliness, of General Charles Lee at the Battle of Monmouth, it is recorded that Washington "kissed him out" with some good round oaths.

But it hasn't been reported what he said when two naughty girls stole his clothes — and watch and money — when he was bathing in the Rappahannock river. At least, he failed to appreciate the joke and the girls were sentenced to six months in jail.

Sincerely skeptical of his ability to fill the requirements as commander-in-chief of the army and later as president, Washington preferred a much lower station in the affairs of his country.

But when duty called, he accepted cheerfully and, despite many obstacles, rose to the front rank as patriot, soldier, statesman — and man.

"WINNIE" HERE IN ONE OF 8 BEST FILMS

Winnie Lightner's first featured picture will have its Texas premier at the Palace theater Saturday evening at 10:30. The title of the picture, "She Couldn't Say No," gives some inkling of the splendid entertainment that this picture, the vehicle for one of the most attractive screen personalities of the day, affords Miss Lightner as a comedienne in unexcelled, any who saw her performance in "Gold Diggers of Broadway" will admit.

Incidentally "She Couldn't Say No" is the third picture in as many weeks to have its Texas premier (first showings) at the Palace theater here.

That "She Couldn't Say No" is a splendid picture is evidenced by the fact that the Photoplay Magazine selected it as one of the eight best of current films this month.

It is always hopeless when a girl lavishes all her love on one man and receives none in return? Custom decrees that a woman shall be the pursued one. In view of this should she retire and suffer in silence or fight with all her feminine wiles for the possession of the one she feels to be her man?

This situation forms the basis of the story of "She Couldn't Say No."

No." the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone production starring Winnie Lightner and Chester Morris, which is coming to the Palace theatre tomorrow night.

The famous Winnie is shown as an entertainer in a night club, desperately in love with Jerry, the former racketeer who has become her manager. But Jerry (played by Chester Morris) is decidedly not interested.

Winnie tells Jerry of her great love for him and begs him to give up the society girl who, Winnie feels is interested in him merely because he is entirely different from the men she has been accustomed to meeting.

He insists upon proclaiming his love for the other girl, and Winnie after a futile fight, leaves the city brokenhearted. Months later Jerry's eyes are opened but it is too late.

"She Couldn't Say No" is not just a song and dance film. It is filled with absorbing drama. The supporting cast includes Sally Eilers, Johnny Arthur and Tully Marshall. Lloyd Bacon directed and the screen play was written by Robert Lord and Arthur Caesar. It is an adaptation of Benjamin M. Kaye's play of the same name.
