San Domingo Is Captured by Revolutionary Forces

CASUALTIES REPORTED TO BE VERY FEW

Understanding Between Rebels and Troops Seen

By HARRY W. FRANTZ

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Feb. 26.—Revolutionary forces entered Santo Domingo at dawn today and occupied the city.

They made no effort to take the fort upon their entrance. Heavy rifle firing in the Central Plaza at 6 a. m. signaled the attack on the city, but casualties are believed to be few. The insurrectionist force is estimated at about 2,000. They were armed with rifles, but were not uniformed. Thirty gunners who were part of

HELD IN OHIO KIDNAPING MYSTERY

Love Permitted to File Application

AUSTIN, Feb. 26.—The state supreme court today granted the application of Thomas B. Love for permission to file mandamus proceedings against State Democratic Chairman D. W. Wilcox and others to force the placing of Love's name on the Democratic primary ballot.

The action merely gives the case a place upon the court docket. No announcement of setting for a hearing was made from the bench. Love's application was filed under the provision of the act passed by the recent called session of the legislature. It permits direct application to the supreme court in election matters in order that they may be decided before the elections are held.

HOUSE ORDERS AN AUDIT OF PRISON SYSTEM

AUSTIN, Feb. 26.—An audit of the state penitentiary system and efficiency recommendations for it were ordered in a resolution passed by the Texas house of representatives today. The resolution was offered by Mrs. Helen Moore of Texas City. She said it was not intended as a reflection on the prison management but because the present plan for reorganization makes it advisable.

Claims that the operation of prison farms has caused $8,000,000 loss since 1919 have been made by Governor Dan Moody in his radio address urging new prison location. Opponents of removal have claimed that the operation of farms has made $3,000,000 in the past ten years. Governor Moody claims cotton farming the past year resulted in terrible loss. Rep. Harry N. Graves claims that cotton farming made $14 an acre for the prisons this year despite overflows.

The senate also passed the resolution for a penitentiary audit when it was sent to that body by the house. By vote of 14 to 12 the senate also adopted a resolution for the members to declare what employment they hold. The resolution is similar to one passed by the house yesterday.

The house before its luncheon recess finally passed a bill providing for a prison board of three members in place of the present nine man board. The bill will likely reach the senate tomorrow.

NINE MEN CONVICTED
DALLAS, Feb. 26.—Verdict of guilty on numerous counts in charges of violation of the national prohibition act was returned against nine men by a federal court jury here late yesterday. Five of the nine had previous convictions on similar charges.

BUTLER TERMS PROHIBITION AN 'INVASION'

Sentiment Conveyed to Committee in a Letter

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The 18th amendment is "an impertinent invasion of the constitution and in no sense an amendment to it," Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, told the house judiciary committee today in a letter.

Butler, an outspoken opponent of prohibition, demanded repeal before the government starts to deal with the liquor problem. The document from Butler was read as the wets opened the final two days of presentation of their case at the committee's hearing on proposals to modify or repeal the dry law.

It came as Dr. Francis J. Gorty, head of the Chicago pureitopathic hospital, testified that alcoholic cases in his hospital were on the increase. Explaining that his position would be the same if the subject were wheat, corn or meat products, Butler told the committee: "There is no difficulty in dealing with the social problems which arise from the sale and the liquor traffic, if one really wishes to deal with them intelligently."

Back to Constitution.
The Scandinavian people and those of the province of Quebec have shown how this can be done to the aid and promotion of the cause of temperance and the true protection of civil and political liberty.

"We must get back to the constitution of the United States first, by taking the so-called 18th amendment out of it. Then we can deal with the liquor problem as we were helped and hopefully dealing with it when this blow struck 10 years ago."

Gorty's figures showed that deaths from alcoholism coming to his attention had dropped from 160 in 1917, to twenty in 1929. But that the figure increased to 208 in 1929. Wet and dry members of the committee decided before the hearing to bar all petitions for the present. The ban fell upon a resolution of the Texas W. C. T. C., forwarded to the committee by Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, author of the 18th amendment.

The committee action also prevented initiation of a newspaper article offered by Chairman Graham showing one 13-year-old and three 16-year-old boys of a Kansas City hotel had set up a speakeasy with stolen liquor.

Had Enlarged.
Dr. Gorty said he understood the Keeley Institute at Dwight, Ill., where alcoholics are treated, had recently built a new building and enlarged its hospital.

In speaking of the increased number of such cases, Gorty said, "I'm inclined to think it is the kind of alcohol they are drinking."

Cleverness Gets Jail Sentence

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Most everyone was sympathetic when William Thomas fell as he approached the cashier in the Lukkas restaurant and writhed convulsively while Froth appeared on his lips. Police Sergeant Arthur Wachholz was not. He reached in Thomas' pocket and pulled out a piece of soap.

"He's been eating in restaurants for 20 years without paying by taking those fits," said the officer as he took away his prisoner. Thomas got a 25-day jail sentence for his cleverness.

LIONS MAKE SMALL PROFIT OFF MEETING

In the absence of President C. L. Orr, L. A. Tullos presided at the meeting of the Cisco Lions today at noon. The club had no formal program for the day but made up for it by the introduction of visitors and the process of disciplining a number of members for infraction of rules. Charges and countercharges were hurled with bewildering rapidity but when the storm had dwindled and peace had finally settled upon the members only three fines were collected and one of these, by a trick of fate, called for the offending member, C. C. Yates—who merely wear his hat during the session.

Among the three visitors introduced was Miss Clara Alden Spence, home economist who is conducting the Daily News Cooking school in the building formerly occupied by the Spanish Chevrolet company. Miss Spence when called upon for a few words, spoke briefly, expressing pleasure at being a guest of the club for the meeting. She came as the guest of W. H. LaRoque, manager of the Cisco Daily News.

Another visitor was Willard Chambers, guest of C. O. Pass, who recently acquired the franchise of the City Chevrolet company in Cisco.

B. A. Butler was the third visitor. P. B. Glenn, appeared to be the official announcer for the meeting. Among other things he announced that the Lions basketball team will play the Albany team at the high school gymnasium next Monday evening and urged the members of the club to come out and spend their money in order that the gymnasium fund fostered by the club, might prosper.

FRANCE TURNS TO TARDIEU FOR RELIEF

By RALPH HEINZEN
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS, Feb. 26.—France turned again to Andre Tardieu today as the most immediately available savior of the tangled political situation which has brought the five-power naval conference in London to a complete standstill.

Tardieu visited the presidential palace this afternoon and accepted the invitation to head a new cabinet, after having refused to do so in the morning.

Tardieu, with the powerful backing of Raymond Poincare, France's master statesman, may be able to form a temporarily workable government in place of the abortive one of Camille Chautemery, which was defeated yesterday in the chamber of deputies.

APPEAL COURT AFFIRMS TWO DEATH CASES

Portion of State Anti-Mask Law Is Upheld Also

AUSTIN, Feb. 26.—Decisions were handed down in 42 cases this morning by the court of criminal appeals. Two death verdict cases were affirmed: One life sentence; a 25 year and a 20 year sentence in slaying cases. A portion of the state anti-mask law was upheld in another 25 year sentence case.

The death penalties affirmed were in the cases of Lee Davis from Brazoria county and Jordan Scott from McLennan county. Davis was a convict under 99 year robbery sentence at Retrieve prison farm. He was convicted of killing Sidney Symms, a guard on Sept. 29, 1928.

Scott was convicted of killing George R. Pedigo on March 7, 1929. A twenty year sentence against Thomas F. Whiteside, Jr., Houston attorney was affirmed. Whiteside was charged with murder of his wife Rosa, who jumped from a second story window at their home. In a dying statement she said he had terrified her into jumping. He was first found guilty of "homicide" by a jury. The court of criminal appeals held there is no such offense. He was retried and convicted of murder. The contention that was made that the former conviction constituted former jeopardy. The court held the former verdict was a nullity and did not prevent retrial.

Life Sentence Affirmed.
A life sentence was affirmed against Guadalupe Hernandez, convicted of killing W. C. Paddock, store keeper at Patrol, Reeves county, Jan. 4, 1926. The 25 year sentence affirmed was against Daniel Jay convicted of killing Vera Young in Taylor county, April 13, 1929.

A five-year sentence against M. A. Wright charged with killing Don Swank in Harris county, Jan. 30, 1929, was affirmed. Two 25 year sentences on charge

DOUBT THAT WALLACE CAN ACCEPT POST

AUSTIN, Feb. 26.—Doubt that Representative John Wallace of Teague can accept Governor Dan Moody's appointment as state comptroller was expressed here today. Wallace was reported to have gone to Teague without announcing his decision. The reported bar to his serving is a constitutional provision that no member of either the house or senate shall be eligible during the term for which he was elected to any office requiring confirmation by the senate.

Although considerably off form, due, perhaps, to a let-down after the rigors of the tournament at Roby last week, the Lobo Queens had little difficulty last night in defeating the Frankell sextet 36 to 16 at the high school.

Dorothy Price at jump center; Bessie Penn, at running center; Gladys Purvis and Wynna Bates at forwards; and Ola Purdue and Mary Powell at guards composed the Queens lineup.

The team is very eager to make the trip to Celeste to the state A. U. meets, Miss Blanche Shear, coach, said this morning. Lack of funds is all that prevents the trip, so far, although the girls, by their work in winning the West Texas meet at Roby, are strong favorites to win the state meet.

Suicide Verdict in Farmer's Death

SWEETWATER, Feb. 26.—Death from gunshot wounds self-inflicted was the verdict returned here today by a coroner's jury which had investigated the death of H. E. Inkman, 48, Nolan county farmer, found dead at Homer near here. One bullet from a .45 caliber pistol had pierced his skull.

Injuries received at work are said to have caused deep Inkman despondency.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS ENJOYS MERRY AFFAIR

A spirit of frivolity and fun mixed with the more serious aspect of class promotion pervaded the banquet of the Victory class of the First Baptist Sunday school celebrating last night the success of a program instituted by the class two months ago. The meeting took place in the banquet room of the church and was attended by about 70 persons, including members of the class, their friends and women friends. Rev. Ross A. Smith, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Breckenridge, was the principal speaker. His address, witty but full of pertinent truth, was based upon the word "Victory" the name of the class. It was in the form of an acrostic, each letter of the word being taken up in order as standing for some particular ideal.

The fun of the evening originated from the form of the banquet, the losing side of the class in its attendance contest, entertaining the winning side. The losers were introduced to turnip greens and kindred articles of diet while the winning side feasted upon chicken, et cetera. To further distinguish the two groups the tables about which gathered the losing side were trimmed with flourishing bouquets of turning greens while those of the victors had adorned the tables of the blessed. As though the distinction was not yet carried far enough greeters at the door pinned upon the bosoms of the elect chicken feathers, marking the losers with leaves of turnip tops.

Baldwin Presides
Guy Baldwin presided ably as toastmaster. Music for the evening was supplied by Mrs. G. M. Stephenson, at the piano, and Harry Schaefer with the violin, the two singing in duet. Mrs. W. H. Hayes was presented in a negro sermon reading.

There were talks by Asa Skiles, teacher of the class; Rev. Acker C. Miller, pastor of the church; W. H. LaRoque, superintendent of the school department of the Sunday school; and L. E. Waite, educational director of the church.

The banquet marked the end of a two months successful campaign to average an attendance of 30 members of the class during the period. So successful was the campaign that the class set its goal 100 per cent higher, bidding for an average attendance of 60 members during the next two months and dividing the roster into six teams to achieve the goal. Captains of the teams are: W. H. Hayes, E. J. Kinard, J. L. Thornton, S. Benefield, F. A. Herndon and E. H. Varnell.

Those present last night were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Emdy; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tucker; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Poe; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hayes; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Block; Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Benefield; Parks Poe; E. J. Kinard; Mr. and Mrs. Asa Skiles; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stark; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pippen; Mr. and Mrs. Guy Baldwin; Rev. and Mrs. Acker C. Miller; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. THREE-DAY EVENT BEGINS AT 2 O'CLOCK

Building Is Packed as Miss Spence Demonstrates

Almost every available foot of space in the building was occupied when the first session of the Daily News Free Cooking school, under the direction of Miss Clara Alden Spence opened this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the former Spynn Chevrolet building. Not only were the women there by the hundreds, pads and pencils everywhere in evidence as Miss Spence lectured and demonstrated, but the intense interest of the man in the quality of food that he absorbs from day to day was clearly demonstrated in the presence of large numbers of his sex.

From the very outset it was plain that the school, the first that the Daily News has sponsored, is an outstanding success, thanks to the liberal cooperation of Cisco business men who have generously aided the Daily News in its efforts to offer a new and valuable service to the people of Cisco and the surrounding territory.

Following the several days of planning, nailing, decorating etc., the building has assumed the appearance of gayly decorated fair. Every available space is filled by booths, brilliant with rainbow streamers of crepe paper and filled with the choicest of merchandise offered by Cisco merchants.

Every Type
From pickles to pictures, radios to rabbits chickens to general electric ice machines—every type of merchandise is displayed. The model kitchen which holds the center of the stage is furnished with two Hot Point electric ranges and a Frigidaire from the West Texas Utilities; two tables and a cabinet from Cisco Furniture company; a General Electric refrigerator from Ford-Green Music company, and groceries from different food stores in the town.

This afternoon Miss Spence demonstrated the preparation of ham casserole, caramel nut rolls, lemon pie, ice box cookies, and several different salads, giving lectures on preparing and serving also.

The school will remain open at night for display purposes although lectures and demonstrations will be given only in the afternoons. Arrangement of way in the booths shows remarkable planning and forethought by proprietors in placing their articles to the best advantage. The compartment decorated by the Bryant Art shop and Gift shop is a riot of colors—pictures, plaques, pillows, what-nots, tapestries, vases etc. The black and white color scheme employed by the West Texas Utilities in display of their electric stoves, Frigidaires, and washing machines is very effective. A model living room is exhibited by the Cisco Furniture company and includes a Majestic radio furnished by the Ford Green Music company which divides time with the Atwater Kent radios, displayed in another booth by Jno.

THE MAIN CHANCE TODAY'S

The main chance is today's chance. The wrecks along life's highway testify to that simple truth. It is right and good to look ahead, but the man who sees farthest is the man who keeps his eyes on his job. It is splendid to have the urge to climb high. But the man who gets there is he who never takes his gaze from the finger holds in the sheer rock wall of his hard ascent.

Pitiful is it to see the broken bulk of a man lying at the base of life's mountain side and to know that he fell from high when success had turned his head.

Every day, in every field, we see these wrecks. And they point a moral that no man dare disregard. Life's work is, indeed, a climb and not any far between are the plateau lands upon which the breath-spent toiler may seek refreshment.

How many are the men, in private business or public concerns, who, flushed with the zeal for great attainment, despise the smaller tasks which led them to the goal. How often a man who uses a public office to gain a higher honor, awakes to the rude actuality that he has been weighed and found wanting in his simple trust.

The key to great opportunity lies in proving true in the obscure, humble tasks of the present moment. The man who keeps ever in mind that his present job is his main job, that the present chance is the main chance, builds slowly, but surely, to broader trusts and greater achievements.

The builder knows that the higher he would rear his structure toward the heavens, the deeper and broader and stronger must be his foundation. The digging may be dull and tedious business, but without it there can be no lofty tower to challenge the eternal stars.

THE HOUSE-GUEST.

Of recent years the term house-guest has come into popular usage and has almost reached the point where it can be written as one word. It may seem superfluous to speak of a guest being a house-guest, for where else would a guest be entertained? But, in view of the complications involved, there is justification for a particular name being applied to a visitor who remains for one or more nights. In fact, the entertainment of an ordinary guest differs from the entertainment of a house-guest as a feat of skill differs from an endurance test.

House-guests usually realize that their position is a bit awkward and endeavor to make amends by bringing candy to the children and demanding to be treated just as one of the family. The object of the host is to give the guest the impression that the treatment received is the sort the members of the family are accustomed to, and that there really were no elaborate preparations made for the visit. Of course the house-guest is not told that members of the family are doubling up, in the beds and that many drawers in the guest room had to be emptied into remote closets.

Many are the misgivings of the host to a house-guest. Will the children become incorrigible and shame their parents, knowing how loath parents are to inflict punishment in the presence of company? Will the house-guest discover that

The Increasing Tax Burden

HOW LONG are the people of Texas going to submit to the constantly increasing cost of government?

It rises and rises like the ocean's tide. Year by year the State reaches deeper and deeper into the pockets of the people. State candidates go about preaching economy but as soon as they get into office, they begin to devise ways to raise taxes and ways to spend more money.

Look at some of the measures that have been introduced or are in contemplation down at Austin now and the amounts they are expected to produce:

- A sulphur tax, $2,000,000. A tax on natural gas, $8,000,000. A theater tax, $750,000. A tobacco tax, $2,500,000. A light and water company tax, $750,000. Increase in the oil production tax, $2,500,000. A cotton weighing bill, $75,000. An automobile drivers' license, $312,000.

LET US consider a few of these. Take the tax on natural gas. It is declared that much of the gas sells at two or three cents a thousand and cubic feet at the well. The proposed tax is one cent. This would mean that hundreds of wells would not be worth operating.

Farmers on whose lands the wells are located would suffer. Regions that are largely dependent on gas resources—as are Breckenridge, Ranger, Eastland, and Cisco—would be struck a terrific blow.

THEN there is the allied measure—the increase in the oil production tax. It is not enough that oil is paying more than any other product toward maintaining the government of Texas—it is not enough that the price of crude oil was slashed only a few days ago. This industry must be dealt another wallop.

TAKE THE cotton weighing tax. We don't know what this is. But if it is a tax pertaining to cotton, it won't help that already depressed commodity. With the farmers clamoring for relief, another tax is proposed.

Alpine—Both Alpine Oil & Development company No. 2 well and Holland and Anderson well prove to be producers.

AND THERE'S the tobacco tax. They're going to tax cigars and cigarettes. Why? And what about snuff? Here's one tax we hope they adopt—the tobacco tax. And we'll tell you why. We don't use tobacco. But the main reason is that when they increase the price of cigars and cigarettes, there's going to be a howl that can be heard from the Red River to the Rio Grande and a lot of folks who never have taken any interest in politics are going to help defeat some officials.

CONSIDER the auto drivers' license next. The most taxed man under the blue sky of Texas is the individual who owns an automobile. He pays an ad valorem tax. He pays a license tax. He pays a headlight testing fee. He pays four cents every time he buys a gallon of gasoline. And now it is proposed to put on another tax. They can't think of anything else to tax about the car. So they are going to tax the driver. A man, after having paid out a duke's ransom in taxes on his car, still won't have the right to drive it until he has paid another tax to use his own machine. We are unalterably opposed to any new taxes being levied on autos or auto owners. On the contrary, the car license ought to be reduced to a nominal amount—enough to pay for the license plates and for the registration of the car; and the gasoline tax ought to be reduced to three cents a gallon. And the headlight testing ought to be abolished. It is about $300,000 a year that the car owners of Texas pay out and then when they go out on the highways, they are blinded by headlights that meet. The theory is all right but it must be that right after the headlights are tested, the driver goes ahead and changes them back the way he wants them.

GRAIN BATTLE RESUMES IN CHICAGO PIT

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—The Chicago wheat pit, maelstrom where millions have been won and lost, where a rechaired figure means financial triumph or ruin, where the toil of hundreds of thousands of farmers is translated into terms of automobiles and radios, or of mortgages, held another battle of the grain giants today.

The rout of the pit was caught up on the echo of yesterday's close, which came on the crest of a buying wave that paralleled the wildest moment of war days in the grain market.

Buyers stampeding in the last minutes yesterday forced the price of wheat back to $1.04, within a fraction of Monday's close. It had plunged to 98 cents during the day.

What happens in the Chicago pit, located in the largest grain market in the world, governs the tempo of trading in the other wheat centers.

This battle, where a cent advance is a victory and a fractional drop is a bitter defeat for the farmers and their wives and children out in the Dakotas, or the Kansas plains, or the Texas prairie, is different than any of the historic ones of the past.

Many individuals and combines have fought to "corner" the wheat market. This struggle sees a new antagonist in the fray, the federal farm board. Through its stabilization corporation, the board was said to have bought wheat freely yesterday. It was reported to have taken between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 bushels on the Chicago market in the last minute buying rush.

How many bushels of grain changed hands yesterday in the greatest avalanche of selling in months had not been announced but veteran traders estimated the total at between 150,000,000 and 300,000,000. It was estimated that the fall in price of recent months climaxed by the debacle yesterday had reduced the value of world grain by $2,400,000,000 and that the value of American grain was $480,000,000 under the peak of last fall.

OMAHA, Feb. 26.—Roars of protest from farm organizations, elevator men and independent farmers excluded by Alexander Legge's ultimatum that government prices would be paid only to farmers belonging to Farmers National Grain Corporation Cooperatives associations were ascending from Nebraska today.

Legge's announcement means that only two Nebraska organizations will receive benefits from the government's wheat price stabilization efforts, grain men said.

First F. F. T. Father and Son Banquet Held Last Night

45 BOYS AND MEN ATTEND THE SESSION

Ben Camp Is Awarded Cisco Banking Company Trophy

The first attempt of the Future Farmers of Texas club, of Cisco, an organization composed of boys of the vocational classes of the high school taught by E. H. Varnell, to conduct a "Father and Son" banquet was quite successful at the Methodist church last night. Forty-six boys and men attended the event which was arranged and conducted by the boys in a very creditable fashion. Dinner was served by the ladies of the First Methodist church.

Clifford Turknett presided as toastmaster handling his assignment excellently, and bringing the formalities and the fun to a close promptly on time, indeed, a few minutes before the closing time of 9:30, since dismissal took place at 9:20.

Principal Speech
The principal speech of the evening was made by Rev. F. E. Singleton, pastor of the First Methodist church, on the subject "A Boy and His Dad". Mr. Singleton pointed out that the boys present were in the age of "independence" when, as they approach manhood, they begin to veer off from parental guidance into individuality, sometimes to the great distress of the father. He appealed to them to keep a close grasp upon the teachings of their dads and to set their ideals high.

Ben Camp, one of the outstanding members of the club, was awarded the Cisco Banking company's annual trophy for the best project carried out during the year. The trophy, a beautiful silver loving cup, engraved with his name, was presented by E. H. Varnell as the final event of the banquet, on the basis of Ben's work with a cotton fertilization project. The award was not made upon the score of profit realized from the project but upon the basis of Ben's painstaking conduct of it and his resourcefulness in planning and carrying it out.

Ben also made the address of welcome to the gathering, an address responded to by J. J. Youngblood superintendent of the Cisco public schools in a stirring speech.

ALMA RUBENS TO "COME BACK"

Back to the stage—to stage a "come back" via vaudeville—Alma Rubens, motion picture actress, is shown above as she arrived in New York from Hollywood and was greeted by her husband, Ricardo Cortez, screen star. She was reported to have completely recovered from the illness which threatened to end her career and which kept her from the screen for many months.

Mr. Youngblood pointed to the industry which the boys are studying as the basic one of the world, an industry so honorable and so vital to civilization as to command the ultimate of respect and the maximum of application and effort. He commended the boys for their splendid work and assured them that no group in the public schools of Cisco is contributing more to the good of Cisco and the surrounding territory than they.

The program was varied between serious discussions of the work that the club is doing and humorous entertainment. Of the latter variety were tries by J. B. Hanks, Hoyt Slatten and Hansel McCord; a "cowboy song" by Avery Holt and two harmonica numbers by Guy McCannies. These numbers drew great applause.

Other talks were made by Guy McCannies, who told of the judging contests in which the club had participated; Cebron Yeager who discussed the program of the F. F. T. last year, pointing out that only three of the outlined projects had not been completed, and then told of the program which is being carried out this season; and James Matthews, who explained his hog project, revealing the close check which he is keeping upon the feeding and growth and the careful computation of cost that he maintains.

Draws Comment
The evident ability of the boys to conduct their work in a business-like way and their grasp of fundamental conditions affecting their projects, revealed through the medium of their talks and their explanation of projects, drew commendatory comment from both E. P. Crawford, president of the chamber of commerce, and Dr. C. C. Jones, who made brief addresses at the invitation of Clifford Turknett, toastmaster, near the last of the session. Mr. Crawford pointed to the progress that has been made in vocational education during his lifetime and Dr. Jones, called particular attention to the value of the education that the club is receiving in analyzing conditions and applying business methods to farming.

Mr. Varnell was the last speaker on the program and after a few brief comments relative to the club in which he praised the club for its earnest work, devoted the remainder of his talk to an explanation of the Ben Camp cotton fertilizer project and the presentation of the Cisco Banking company trophy to young Camp. Ben spoke briefly in thanking the bank for the trophy and the

IT'S WONDERFUL TO FEEL LIKE I DO, HE SAYS

"I Owe My Present Health to Orgatone After Suffering 20 Years," Says Brownwood Contractor.

For more than 20 years before I began taking Orgatone, I was in a very bad condition and got to where my work was nearly a dread to me," said Harry Alderson of 501 Victoria, Brownwood, Texas. Mr. Alderson is a well known citizen of this section and is a gravel contractor.

"When I began taking Orgatone," Mr. Alderson continued, "my system seemed to be all run-down. I had no appetite and couldn't eat much of anything and was getting weaker and losing strength every day. I would have a puffed up, bloated feeling, and gas would bother me so bad at times I could hardly get my breath. My nerves were simply shattered to pieces and I had awful headaches and was almost a complete physical wreck. I felt tired and worn out all the time, and never had any energy. My liver was in a very bad condition and this caused pains in my back and sides. I had a bad case of constipation and had to take something most all the time.

"A relative of mine recommended Orgatone to me, and I have been taking it ever since. I feel much better than I have in years and have more energy and life about me. I enjoy what I eat and do not have that full, bloated feeling and the gas has quit forming in my stomach. I am entirely relieved of my constipation and, in fact, I just feel relieved and all rejuvenated all over. Orgatone is such a good medicine I take great pleasure in recommending it to anyone for I owe my present good health to it."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained from Dean Drug Store.—Adv.

CLEVELAND COPS BATTLE RIOTERS

These pictures were taken at the height of rioting as 3000 unemployed men and women, led by Communist organizers, stormed Cleveland's city hall to demand that the city supply them with jobs. Above, police are shown leading a rioter to a patrol wagon. Below, a policeman battling with another rioter whom he has knocked down on the city hall steps. Fifty policemen used their clubs freely to disperse the crowds.

"Hole in Wall" Operating Again

EL PASO, Feb. 26—The "Hole in the Wall," most notorious of border saloons, was operating under protest again today.

The saloon, internationally known because of killings, shootings, gambling and vice, was reopened this week by permission of Mexican authorities.

The "Hole in the Wall" is situated just across the imaginary boundary line that separates El Paso from Juarez, Mexico. It has been a haven for thirsty Americans.

Mayer R. E. Thompson of El Paso filed formal protest with Mexican authorities against the reopening and it is understood that Mexican custom agents have been ordered to "shoot to kill" if necessary to keep Americans from crossing the line and patronizing the "Hole."

OLD CRADLE DONATED

LINCOLN, Neb. — One of the most recent contributions to the state historical society collections is a hand-made walnut cradle, presented by Mrs. C. C. Enberg, wife of the late Dr. C. C. Enberg, former dean of student affairs at the University of Nebraska. The cradle was made by John Devalon, at Wheelwright, O., in 1843. It was brought to Exeter, Neb., a few years later by covered wagon. The cradle rockers have been worn away by years of use.

Saws Sent to Prisoner Discovered

AMARILLO, Feb. 26 — An attempt to smuggle two small saw blades to a prisoner in the Potter county jail in two cans of tobacco was frustrated Tuesday by Sheriff Bill Thompson, the intercepted tobacco cans with their seals unbroken were found to have false bottoms through which the steel saws had been inserted. The tobacco had been mailed to the prisoner at Borger.

Santa Fe Will Not Build New Line

AMARILLO, Feb. 26 — R. J. Hitchcock, general manager of the Santa Fe, announced here Tuesday that his railroad would not build a proposed 46 mile line from Senagra, Texas to Lovington, New Mexico, although authority for the road was recently given by the interstate commerce commission. "Since the interstate commerce commission gave us permission to construct only a part of the line asked for preventing us from reaching the oil fields of southeastern New Mexico," Hitchcock said. "The proposed line would traverse an agricultural territory which has not yet developed sufficiently to justify construction of a railroad to handle farm products only. Hitchcock believes. The Santa Fe had asked authority to build a line south from Lovington to Henry but this was refused by the commission.

REDUCE COSTS, SELL FOR LESS FRANKLIN PLEA

What has been called the most remarkable individual step in merchandising progress toward mass production and distribution of any multiple line of products is being celebrated here and throughout 34 states of the Union today, and in Canada, too. It is Founder's Week, commemorating the first conception of the chain store idea which was born in the brain of George Huntington Hartford in 1859. The idea, greatly amplified by its originator and his successors since then, was the bedrock foundation of all similar chain systems that such essential and integral parts of all business, financial and domestic life today. And back of this idea of mass gathering and distribution, particularly of foodstuffs, was that of thrift as preached by Benjamin Franklin. One of the innate precepts of that mellow philosopher's life was, in effect, as lovers of Franklin know, "Keep down costs and sell for less."

It was with that principle always uppermost in his mind that the founder of the great A & P grocery store chain built the organization from a single shop in Vesey Street into a close-knit but far-flung organization that today comprises 15,000 stores in 34 states and in the Canadian provinces of Ontario and Quebec, and whose customers number more than 5,000,000 daily.

Founder's Week has been annually celebrated by the A & P organization for some time. It has a particularly significant phase this year in view of the recent announcement by John A. Hartford, that the latest of chain store systems has decided to open twelve units next month on the Pacific Coast at Los Angeles, thus bringing to realization the dream of its founder of a chain of stores whose links actually stretch from the shores of the Atlantic to the shores of the Pacific. The dozen stores to be opened at Los Angeles eventually will be followed by other units to be established all up and down the west coast of the continent.

Behind the scenes of a chain store system, particularly a food chain, there is a world of romance that is particularly interesting to the public. This was aptly emphasized today by O. Henson head of the local A&P stores. He pointed out that transportation of the veritable mountains of foodstuffs to the store from point of production or gathering, is one of the greatest single items in the matter of price to Mr. and Mrs. Ultimate Consumer.

GANG VICTIM

Racketeers are sought throughout the east as the slayers of May Smith, above, pretty dance hall hostess, and Carmine Barilli, a gambler, suppose victims of a gang feud in New York. They were shot to death by four men who approached them in an automobile as they walked down the street together. Shotguns, a quantity of ammunition and burglars' tools were found in the apartment where the slain girl and Barilli lived.

since the latter must pay the cost of transportation. All of the vast purchases of food that are uniformly displayed in 15,000 A&P stores go as direct from field or factory to store counter as human ingenuity can make possible. There is nothing lost in mileage or time between these two points. This matter of routing goods is of prime importance for extra mileage and extra hours in transportation mean added costs. So these routings are worked out in the most minute detail to save that extra few cents per pound it might cost for smaller food cargoes that must therefore be routed less directly with the inevitable addition to original cost.

From Youth to Age

There are three trying periods in a woman's life: when the girl matures to womanhood, when a woman gives birth to her first child, when a woman reaches middle age. At these times Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps to restore normal health and vigor.

Greatest Speed

Because of carload and even shipload lot purchases the chain store organization can command not only the most direct routes and the greatest speed in transport, but the lowest cost per mile, it was explained.

It is also obvious, Mr. Henson added, that this direct routing from production point to sales counter eliminates the frequent handling to which goods otherwise routed are subjected. This elimination of frequent handling naturally results in lower prices to the ultimate consumer. Proof of such saving is given in the fact that chain food distributors today sell forty percent of all foodstuffs consumed in the United States.

A graphic picture of this mass gathering and distributing with every possible "middle cost" eliminated is seen in the volume of business done by the A&P stores alone.

For instance, this concern operates more than thirty offices in South America for the single purpose of buying coffee literally by the ton. It sells one-seventh of all the tea sold here, which, translated, means American housewives and hostesses last year poured about two billion cups of tea bought at A&P stores. And imagine what minute figuring it takes to get the minimum of transportation costs on a million and a half leaves of bread, a half million pounds of butter and 3,000,000 eggs which are the average daily sales of those commodities in A&P stores. This remarkable picture of buying foods at the source and distributing them by the most direct route and at the lowest possible cost can be visualized if one looks about on the shelves and counters of the chain store where only the immediate supplies for that unit are stocked, and then multiplies the picture by 15,000!

Greatest Advertiser

It is most interesting to note that the A&P organization is perhaps the greatest single advertiser of foods in the world. Approximately $6,000,000 annually is spent to inform housewives on food prices. Again the chain organization keeps costs down in this service of furnishing important information to housewives, the actual cost per customer per day being the infinitesimal figure of less than one half a cent daily. By far the greater portion of this is spent in newspaper advertisements, and officials of the company attribute much of their tremendous growth to this newspaper advertising, which is really an important listing of food-stuff prices to householders just as the daily market reports on stocks, bonds, crops, and all commodities tell the business man, merchant and farmer what are fair prices and what actual conditions are. These messages appear almost daily in more than 1,300 newspapers throughout this country and Canada.

JUAREZ TIRED OF BEING GOOD FOR 4 YEARS

By TOM MAHONEY
(Written for United Press)

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Chih., Feb. 26.—With a new figure in the presidential palace at Mexico City and changes in the Chihuahua state government, this picturesque border city nurses hopes of regaining its ancient prestige as a Mecca for the nabobs of sport.

Juarez is tired of being good. It has been four years since thoroughbred treds the great race track here. It has been 12 months since a roulette wheel whirled in the Tivoli, once regarded as the greatest gambling hall in America. Delegations of Juarez officials and business men are now in Mexico by urging that President Ortiz remedy the situation by granting new concessions.

Many things have combined to force wicked Juarez into paths of rectitude. Because profits of the Tivoli served as a war chest for the Escobar revolutionists in the spring of 1929, the federal government has refused to allow the games to reopen. Many Juarez cafe and saloon men urged the government to allow the Tivoli to be used as a war chest for the Escobar revolutionists in the spring of 1929, the federal government has refused to allow the games to reopen. Many Juarez cafe and saloon men urged the government to allow the Tivoli to be used as a war chest for the Escobar revolutionists in the spring of 1929, the federal government has refused to allow the games to reopen.

Demands of state and national authorities have kept the race track idle. Government officials seized the entire gate receipts the last day of Wm. P. Kyne's meet in December, 1928, and no promoter has dared a program here since. The 600 stables are falling into ruin and the great hole in the grandstand roof, made by a U. S. army shell fired at Pancho Villa in 1919, never has been repaired.

Even the habitues in the cabaret district south of the city have felt ill winds. In January of this year the Juarez city government passed an ordinance requiring that all of the entertainers be Mexican citizens. This eliminated several scores of French and American entertainers.

Fate has left Juarez its liquor, however, and since May, 1929, the U. S. treasury department has provided a midnight international bridge. Sixteenth of September street in Juarez boasts more saloons than any other street in the world. All of the saloons ousted from El Paso by prohibition moved to Juarez, and there is a bar every 20 feet for six blocks. Some of the more notable Juarez bars are: Central, Mint, Big Kid's, Lobby, Tivoli, Tultec, Rio Grande, O'Brien's, St. Louis, Turf, Owl, Emporium, Keno, Annex and Oasis. There is even a "Lindbergh" bar. It was established and christened at the time of the flyer's first visit to El Paso.

Prices are reasonable, the liquor is of good quality and most of the bartenders are Americans. Hundreds of tourists juggle beer glasses with one hand while they write postcards to the folks in the United States, a quarter of a mile distant, with the other. Food at the Juarez cafes is excellent and unusual. Venison and duck are on the menu nearly the whole year due to the generous Mexican game laws. Some of the cafe owners, Harry Mitchell for example, have become famous throughout the country for their manner of entertaining.

Juarez also is a port of call for prominent Americans desiring rapid marriage or quick and secret divorce. Since the Texas law wedding law requiring three days notice of intentions to marry went into effect last year, Juarez weddings have tripled. No residence at all is required for a divorce in Juarez. The plaintiff simply sup-

"STAR-SPANGLED BANNER" ON TRIAL

Members of the house judiciary committee had to stand up and take notice when Mrs. Elsie Joss-Reilly, Washington soprano, pictured above, center, sang before them the other day—for the song was "The Star-Spangled Banner" and it was being given a voice test to answer critics who say it is pitched too high for popular use. Five million petitions received by Representative L. C. Dyer of Missouri, left, committee chairman, urge that the famous song be adopted as the national anthem, and Representative Linticum of Maryland, right, has introduced a bill to make it such.

Expedition on Way to Explore Carlsbad Caverns With Use of Racing Balloon

LUBBOCK, Feb. 26.—Dr. Frank Ernest Nicholson, former Texan and noted explorer and writer, together with ten other adventurers of note passed through Lubbock February 19th on one of the most unique expeditions that has ever passed over the Staked Plains.

In past years adventurers and explorers have passed over the Staked Plains in search for new countries and new territories. Airplanes have soared above these Staked Plains exploring the clouds.

The Nicholson expedition passed through on its way to explore the Carlsbad Caverns, national monument in New Mexico, far beneath the ground. Search for a river, which presumably helps in purifying the air, and other objects were announced by the party that is being sponsored by the New York Times and associated newspapers.

tempted with a racing balloon which will make an ascension in the huge chamber 750 feet above the surface. The chamber was characterized here by Nicholson as a space where three of New York's skyscrapers would almost be lost. Captain Mount Robb, war ace who will be in charge of the balloon ascension will make close range observations of the stalactites, 500 to 750 feet above the floor or base of the cavern from an observation post on top of the balloon.

A portable short wave radio set will be set up within the inside of the cave by Eric Palmer, Jr., young radio expert who will keep the party in constant touch with the business manager of the party in New York, who will in turn keep the New York informed as to the progress of the party.

Food and other supplies necessary to sustain the expedition for three weeks or more will be taken into the cave, and numerous devices, including special telephone equipment, will be employed to give the caves a thorough exploration.

A book and numbers of articles will be written about the expedition. Photographs of the caverns, to be used in the New York Times and other papers.

Governor R. C. Dillon of New Mexico will welcome the party at the caves when they arrive and also March 15th, when a special celebration, to be participated in by all the school children of the Pecos Valley will be held in honor of the expedition.

Rash Romance

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Judith Cameron, New York typist, marries Arthur Knight, executive of the publishing house in which she is employed. Knight is widower with a daughter, Tony, 8, and son, Junior, 16. Tony renounces Judith as a gold digger. When Junior comes home for the Christmas holidays he is equally unfriendly.

Andy Craig, a young man Knight has added, takes a position with the publishing firm. He is in love with Tony and calls on her frequently. Tony tries to convince her father that Judith and Andy are carrying on an affair. When this fails she tricks the pair into a compromising situation.

Tony is carrying on a flirtation with Mickey Mortimer, wealthy and married. Tony and her father quarrel over this but the girl is finally forgiven. Knight becomes dangerously ill with pneumonia. Junior comes home and stays until his father begins to recuperate. Before leaving the boy admits to Judith he has misjudged her.

Tony intercepts a letter intended for Judith and later follows her into the city where she sees her meet a young man. With this information Tony faces her father and leaves the house for two weeks. Judith goes into New York, and finds a room in an inconspicuous hotel. After days of misery she decides to return and tell Arthur the truth. She arrives at the house. Arthur asks coldly why she has come. He refuses to listen to explanations and says their marriage was a mistake. Judith rushes from the house and goes to a young man named Dan. She tells him she has come to stay.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLVI

The man's arms tightened about the girl.

"Don't, Judy," he begged. "Please don't cry!" He stroked her hair gently.

Judith clung to him. "Oh," she murmured between sobs, "it's all been so—dreadful, Dan. I had to come to you. I couldn't stand it any longer!"

"Here—let's sit down. Everything's going to be all right again. You mustn't cry this way, Honey. Please—"

There was a dubious-looking, faded divan across the room. Dan led her toward this, seated himself beside the girl and slipped an arm around her. All the while he was comforting her with soft, endearing phrases.

The strain had snapped and with it had gone Judith's reserve strength. For several minutes she surged on hysteria. Gradually she became quieter. She lay still in Dan's arms and her sobs ceased. Finally she raised her head and looked at the young man.

"Dan—you're so good to me!"

He procured a large white handkerchief and handed it to the girl. Judith wiped away the fear-drops which still stained her cheeks.

"Now then—cold water and you'll feel better."

Dan disappeared behind a screen at the end of the room where there was a lavatory. He came back with a cloth moistened in cold water. Judith held this to her eyes.

"I'll be all right now," she murmured. "Please don't bother—"

Then she stood up and let him help her off with her coat. The felt hat she tossed aside on the divan.

"It's all over!" she told him brokenly. "I'm never going back again. Arthur said—he said our marriage was a failure!"

"Listen, Judy, don't try to tell me about it now. Wait until you feel better. Had anything to eat?" Judith shook her head.

"But I'm not hungry," she added quickly. "I couldn't eat. Really I couldn't."

"Well—you're going to just the same! Listen, you plaster some powder on your nose and put your hat back on and out we go to Louie's."

"No, Dan—really I couldn't possibly—"

He clapped a hand on her shoulder. "Sweetest, you're a woman, who do you think is boss here?"

"Well, I can go, but I won't eat anything."

Judith very nearly kept her word. When they had reached the restaurant and were seated at a table she tried to choke down food because, the tiger Dan pointed her to. It was a painful effort.

"Louie's" was one of the innumerable Italian eating places where the bill of fare lists spaghetti dishes as well as steaks and chops and a half a dozen varieties of American desserts.

They sat at a table for two and the young man addressed the waiter as though their acquaintance was of long standing. There was a haze of smoke in the room. The lights were beginning to thin away from the tables. Not half of the places were filled.

Judith tried to eat the soup. She tasted it, took another mouthful, then put down the spoon.

"Dan," she said, trying to keep her voice firm. "I don't know what I'm going to do. I tried—oh, I tried so hard!"

"Listen, Kid, you know how I feel about this. Well—leave the worrying to me. Besides, you're in no condition to talk now."

Most casual observers would have said the young man across the table was good-looking. His hair and eyes were dark brown. The cast of his face was slender, something like Judith's. The mustache he wore added age to a distinctly youthful face. He had a strong nose, broad lips which suggested humor, but his eyes were serious.

"You're not eating anything," he complained.

"I'm trying to eat."

"How about coffee? Wouldn't you like some coffee now?" Judith agreed. She must bolster up her strength somehow. Perhaps coffee would help.

The young man ate heartily. He told Judith it was fortunate she had come just when she did.

"Ten minutes more and I'd have brought you in the evening newspapers. Dan had read the story and related how several unnamed social celebrities were believed to be operating with underhandedly priced jewels into this country.

The girl tried to listen. Her relief her nerves. She barely tasted the dessert. When she saw that Dan had finished she said:

"Can't we go now?"

"Yes, of course!" Dan arose and helped her with her coat. Ten minutes later they were back at the rooming house.

There was a faintly glimmering electric bulb to light the dark hallway. Dan led the way up the stairs and Judith followed.

When they were in the young man's room again he closed the door carefully.

"Make yourself at home," he told Judith.

The room was not large but there was the high ceiling to be found in all the old-fashioned fronts," degenerated nowadays into everything from laundries and rooming houses to professional offices.

The furniture was an inconspicuous assortment which had seen better days. The landlady's taste apparently ran to color. Black and white cretonne, vividly splashed with red roses, curtained the windows. The cot which apparently served as Dan's bed was covered with the same fabric.

Judith tossed off her hat and coat and sank into a chair.

"Well," she said drearily. "Arthur's going to get a divorce!"

The man eyed her without making a reply. Moments passed. Then he said huskily, "Judith—can't you forget about him?"

She had turned her head so that he could not see her eyes. Suddenly she faced about and flung her arms about the young man.

"Of course I can," she cried. "I have forgotten about him. Dan! Dan! Let's begin over again. Will you let me stay here?"

"You know I want you to."

Again in Dan's arms she found comfort.

Tony Knight had been mistress of her father's home for 10 days. She held complete sway and no one disputed her authority. Not even Knight, for he spent his mornings at the office and Tony seldom saw him before late afternoon.

Nevertheless, Tony Knight, on this particular April afternoon, looked anything but contented. It was nearly three o'clock and Tony was in her own room. She had just jammed the French telephone

YOUNGSTERS PREDOMINATE SOX ROSTER

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Feb. 26. — Youngsters predominate on the Boston Red Sox roster for the coming season. Twelve out of the Red Sox 37 players are 21 or under, while the majority are less than 20.

Two veterans, Ken Williams, 38, and Wally Geber, 32, have been dropped, leaving Milton Gaston, 32, and Bill Payne, 31, as the two oldest players.

Eighteen newcomers, one less than half the entire squad, have been acquired for trial by Heinie Wagner who has replaced Bill Carrigan as manager. Half the new group come from the Pittsfield Eastern league club.

The Pittsfield group includes catchers Ed Connolly and Bob Ashburn; pitchers Pat Simmons, Ed Durham, Horace Lisenbee, Frank Milroyney, and Frank Bushey; and Outfielder Joe Cicero.

The best of this bunch appears to be Cicero, 19, who batted 340 last season.

Among the other recruits there are five of exceptional promise — First Baseman Bill Swercy, second baseman Otis Miller, third baseman Ernie Holman and outfielders John Winsett and Tom Oliver.

down upon its stand and sat tapping one foot angrily on the floor. She reached for the instrument, seemed about to pick it up again but left it. Tony's drawn lips and flashing eyes were ominous.

With a bound she was out of the chair and across the room.

"Oh! she cried, "if I really believed it! If I could be sure—"

She stood perfectly still as though an idea had come to her. A crafty look entered the girl's eyes.

"Why not?" said Tony, addressing himself because there was no one else to hear. "Why not do it?"

The answer was a sudden scramble toward the closet which held her gowns. Off came the rose brocade negligee, hurled over her head to land upon a chair. Mules were next. Tony pulled at a row of tracks, selected one of them and donned it. She jammed her feet into pumps, searched for a hat and perched one on her head at an outlandish angle. With one arm in her coat sleeve and the rest of the garment trailing, she rushed from the room.

By this time she reached the downstairs hall she had the coat properly about her. Mumbling incoherently, Tony pulled open the front hall door and ran from the house to the garage.

"I want my car!" she demanded. "Get it out right away. I'm in a hurry."

"Right away, Miss," Bert answered and disappeared.

The seconds which passed before the roadster stood in the driveway irritated the girl. As soon as the chauffeur stepped down she was in the seat, her hands on the wheel.

Bert Callahan, the chauffeur, watched the roadster plunge into the street and disappear. He gave a long, low whistle, then resumed his work.

It was a good 30-minute run from Arthur Knight's suburban home to the section of Manhattan Tony was headed for. Thirty minutes was a minimum, allowing for luck with the traffic signals. That afternoon Tony made the distance in 26 minutes. She was cautious where experience prompted caution. The rest of the trip she let the roadster out. Wind blew her hair and her cheeks were flushed when she finally slowed the car's speed through the city streets.

No place to park! The expressions that ripped glibly from Tony's tongue certainly have no place in the books of etiquette. A seaman would have listened and probably grinned.

At last she brought the roadster to the curb, baited and jumped out on the sidewalk. Tony faced about and walked rapidly down the block.

A stolid-eyed doorman glanced at her as she turned to enter an impressive gray stone apartment. She ignored him, hurried through the doors and across the lobby. At the end of a long corridor she stepped into an elevator.

"Fifteen," she told the uniformed operator.

She emerged into a carpeted hallway. Now Tony seemed to hesitate. She advanced, then paused. Impulsively she moved toward the corridor and stopped before a doorway. After an instant she rang the bell.

There was no answer.

Tony rang a second time and waited. A small youth with Oriental features opened the door a few inches and looked at her doubtfully.

"I want to see Mr. Mortimer."

The boy shook his head.

"Not here this afternoon."

"But I must see him!"

"Mr. Mortimer not here," the boy repeated.

The flash in Tony Knight's eyes should have warned him. All at once the girl rushed past the servant and through into a room beyond the first.

"Oh!" he cried shrilly, halting on the threshold, "this is your business engagement, is it? I thought so! This is why you can't keep appointments with me. How dare you be like that? You—"

It was Mickey Mortimer who interrupted. The blond young woman on the davenport coolly, "What do you think you can do about it?" He laughed ever so casually.

"WONDERFUL IS KONJOLA," SAYS SEDALIA MAN

Suffered Twelve Years Found First and Only Relief In New Medicine.

MR. GEORGE H. ROBESON

"Wonderful is Konjola," said Mr. George H. Robeson, 714 East Ninth street, Sedalia. I suffered for twelve years with illness of the stomach, liver and kidneys. I bloated, I frightfully after meals and became short of breath, and dizzy. Migraine attacks frequently left me with headaches that lasted for days at a time. Frequently bladder acens and severe back pains made sleep impossible for any length of time. I was badly run down generally.

"Imagine my surprise and delight when, after taking a few bottles of this great medicine, I began to improve rapidly. Today I never suffer from stomach disorder and catarrh. My liver functions properly and I am no longer subject to bilious attacks or leadaches. My kidneys responded to this treatment, and bladder actions are normal and the back pains have gone. I sleep well at night, my appetite is good and I am gaining in strength and weight."

Konjola is sold in Cisco at Moore Drug Co., and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

THE PURCHASE OF AN AUTOMOBILE INVOLVES A CONSIDERABLE AMOUNT OF MONEY AND IT SHOULD BE CAREFULLY CONSIDERED FROM ALL ANGLES BEFORE A FINAL DECISION IS MADE.

The value of the car to you depends on the value built into it at the factory, how much extra you pay the dealer for distribution, selling, financing and accessories and what it will cost to operate and maintain the car after purchase. Each of these factors, as it relates to the Ford car, is frankly explained below.

Economy in production

THE FORD CAR is made economically because of the efficiency of Ford production methods. The money saved through this efficiency is put back into the car in improved quality of material and in greater care and accuracy in manufacturing. The constant effort is to eliminate waste and find ways to make each part better and better without increasing cost—frequently at lowered cost.

Because of Ford economies in large production and because the Ford organization operates on a low-profit margin, the price you pay for the car is much less than it would be under any other conditions. Yet it brings you many unusual features of construction and performance.

At least $75 extra value is represented alone by the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, the Rustless Steel, the four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, and the five steel-spoke wheels. The unusually large number of ball and roller bearings and the extensive use of fine steel forgings instead of castings or stampings are additional features that reflect the high quality built into every part of the car. Throughout, it is a value far above the price you pay.

Low dealer charges

THE SAME PRINCIPLES of efficiency and economy that characterize the manufacture of the Ford car are applied also to distribution. Obviously it would do the public little good to save in production if these savings were sacrificed later in excessive costs of selling, financing and accessories.

The Ford dealer, therefore, operates on the same low-profit margin as the Ford Motor Company, his discount or commission being the lowest of any automobile dealer. He does a good business because he makes a small profit on many sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales.

Low charges for time payments through the Universal Credit Company

THREE IMPORTANT FACTORS

ENTER INTO THE COST OF YOUR AUTOMOBILE

1. How much it costs to make the car
2. How much extra you pay the dealer
3. How much it costs for operation and up-keep

The lower cost of selling, combined with the low charges for financing and accessories, means a direct saving of at least $50 to $75 to every purchaser of a Ford, in addition to the savings made possible by economies in manufacturing. The money you pay for a Ford goes into value in the car. It is not wasted in high dealer charges.

Low up-keep costs

IT IS IMPORTANT to remember that the cost of your automobile is not the first cost only, but the total cost after months and years of service. Here again there is a decided saving when you buy a Ford.

The cost of operation and up-keep is lower because of simplicity of design, the high quality of material, and the reduction of friction and wear through unusual accuracy in manufacturing and assembling. The reliability and longer life of the car contribute to its low depreciation per year of use.

The intelligent, painstaking service rendered by Ford dealers is under close factory supervision and is a factor in the low up-keep cost of the Ford. All labor is billed at a flat rate and replacement parts are always available at low prices through Ford dealers in every section of the United States.

In two, three or five years, depending on how much you drive, the saving in operating and maintaining a new Ford will amount to even more than the saving on the first cost of the car.

He was indicted on a charge of participating in a 10 store robbery. The higher court held that he had not had opportunity to present testimony.

The state anti-mask law was ruled upon in the case of Bert Dellinger, appealed from Dallam county, where he was given 25 years. It was charged he took a Mexican from his home, whipped him and sent him into New Mexico. The court of criminal appeals in the case of Cain Anderson from Marshall had held that a section of the law making it an offense to be disguised so as to make identification difficult was too vague to be valid. Dellinger was tried under another section merely charging that the assault was while masked and in disguise. This section was held valid.

SNOOK STILL CONFIDENT OF NEW HEARING

OHIO STATE PENITENTIARY, Columbus, O., Feb. 25.—Still ignorant of the fact that the United States supreme court has denied his appeal, Dr. James Howard Snook, who is to die in the electric chair Friday for the murder of Theresa Hix, his exed sweetheart, went about his usual prison routine today firm in the belief that he would be granted a new trial.

Unless the governor and the board of clemency intervene and this seems improbable—the professor of veterinary medicine will die between 6:30 and 7 p. m. M. C. T. Friday, eight months after the mutilated body of Miss Hix was found in the New York Central rifle range here.

Three reprieves have saved the condemned man and yesterday as his wife, Helen, paid him one of her final visits, the supreme court announced its decision. Informed as she left the prison, that the husband's last legal hope had been swept away, Mrs. Snook burst into tears, re-entered the penitentiary and sought sanctuary in the warden's office.

10,000 Hungarian War Prisoners Are Still in Russia Unable to Leave

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—"Believe me or not, 10,000 Hungarian prisoners of war are still living in Russia, 16 years after the outbreak of the war and 12 years after the armistice. They would like to return to their homes, but cannot do so chiefly because they have not enough money to pay for the long journey from Russia to Hungary."

This surprising statement was made to the United States by Dr. Bela Fabian, member of the Hungarian Chamber of Deputies and one of the leaders of the Democratic party, during a recent visit to Berlin. He has undertaken to bring the 10,000 Hungarians home from Siberia.

Dr. Fabian has made several fiery speeches in the Hungarian parliament on the subject, urging the government and the public to act immediately in the matter. He has also written a book, "The Hungarians in the Asiatic Camps," which is being distributed to the prisoners. The book is entitled "Forty Men or Six Horses," the stereotyped inscription appearing on the freight cars used for military transportation and that carried those 10,000 and many others to the front during the war. It is an extraordinary human document.

"These ten thousand people," Fabian told the United Press, prisoners did not penetrate the territory between Krasnojarsk and Vladivostok because there were no concentration camps between these two cities.

"The assumption, however, that all Hungarian prisoners of war were confined in the camps was erroneous. Many of them worked outside the camps in remote regions. These prisoners may never have heard about the presence of Hungarian committees in Russia, or, at any rate, they did not have enough money to join them.

"The Soviet government has declared that it does not regard these people as prisoners of war, but simply as aliens living in Russia, and it consequently refuses to assume the obligation to send them home. The ten thousand therefore must remain in Russia, unless they can raise enough money to pay the passage. Another obstacle is the fact that in each case the Soviets demand a valid Hungarian passport which can only be obtained from Hungary with considerable delay and expense."

Georgetown.—Sewer bonds approved, plans now being prepared.

THREE YOUNG MEN KILLED IN COLLISION

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 26 — Three young men were killed early today when the automobile in which they were riding crashed head-on into a street car. The machine turned over as it struck the street car, hurling the passengers into the street. The dead are: William H. Weingand, 33, Pittsburgh, driver of the automobile. H. M. Oylor, 32, Pittsburgh. Edgar Graham, 21, Pittsburgh.

Rearin' at Fort Worth

Here's Bob Askin of Ismay, Montana, world's champion bronco rider, and one of the 110 outlaw horses which will be seen at the world's champion rodeo opening Friday night, March 7, at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show in Fort Worth, Texas.

FORT WORTH, Feb. 26 — With special railroad rates having been offered, the largest shipment of "outlaw" horses ever sent to one show having been unloaded and a new high mark having been established for livestock entries. Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show is expected to break past attendance records when the 1930 event is held here. The show opens Friday night, March 7, and will continue through Sunday, March 16. This will be the first time the show has operated on two Sundays.

There has been a heavy advance sale of rodeo tickets. Manager John B. Davis has announced. Tickets can be procured by addressing the Exposition at Fort Worth.

Livestock entries passed 5,000, more than 1,000 more than was shown here last year. There will be many baby beeves which will be sold after the judging. The ribbon winners are expected to bring attractive prices as there will be many buyers at the sales pavilion for the auction.

Already poultry entries have surpassed those of last year. The poultry show will be housed in one of the new fireproof exhibit halls which with other buildings have been erected during the past few months under the $300,000 expansion program.

Railroads report many inquiries received regarding the special rates. They are prepared to operate special cars to take care of the abnormal traffic during the exposition days.

The 110 broncos for bronco riding and bareback riding contests are now being fed in the exposition feedlots, having been received in special cars direct from Chugwater, Wyoming.

The exposition auto show and agricultural show will be enlarged this year, the building for the former having been made larger and the latter having been provided with a new exhibit hall.

Olton — Considerable building underway in this place.
