BORN WITHOUT ARMS, THIS 6-YEAR-OLD OKLAHOMA TOT FINDS IT NO HANDICAP

Joan Whisnant, six, shows here how she uses her extraordinarily developed toes in lieu of fingers.

BY NEA Service. SAND SPRINGS, Ok., June 18.—Nature put a terrible handicap on little Joan Whisnant. But it also gave Joan a sturdy, determined soul. The result is that Joan, overcoming long odds, has found a way to an active, almost normal existence in spite of an affliction that might have seemed too great to be borne.

Joan, who is just 6 years old, was born without hands or arms. Apparently she was doomed from the cradle to be a helpless cripple. But her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Whisnant, were determined that she should escape that fate as far as was humanly possible and they have taught her to do with her feet what other children do with their hands. As a result—Joan, can write legibly, can eat from her own plate with her own knife and fork, can drink from her own cup or glass, can turn the pages of her own books, can cut out paper dolls, play with her toys, wash dishes, comb her hair and embroider very nicely with a needle and thread.

kicked and played with a rubber ball, hung over her cradle by a string. At the age of 4 she was making marks with a pencil held between her toes. Now she is going to school, and aside from the fact that she has a special desk she is treated there as a normal child.

At home she insists on helping her mother with the housework. Her parents have declined all offers to have the girl go into vaudeville, and insist she never will.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN TEXAS WOOL.

A San Angelo correspondent writes that approximately 35,000,000 pounds of the 12-months wool clip have been sold within the past year at around 26 to 28 cents. In other words, nearly $9,500,000 in cash sales; that 4,000,000 pounds remain to be sold; that 5,000,000 pounds of the eight-months clip are to be sold in 10 days at an estimated price of 25 cents or another $1,250,000; that 6,000,000 pounds of mohair are in process of marketing this year through the cooperative on which advances of from 35 to 45 cents per pound have been made, or roughly $1,500,000, so that the San Angelo wool market means at the lowest figure better than $10,000,000 this year. There should be plenty of ready cash in the Concho river country. It goes without saying there is money in wool and there is money in mohair.

JUDGE ESTES PASSES.

Federal Judge William L. Estes has passed. He was 60. He was appointed to the federal bench ten years ago. He was widely known the country over. His last big case was the Creager libel suit against Colliers Weekly, and five days before death called him he had been recommended for promotion to President Hoover by Senator Morris Sheppard.

He was in the prime of life, he enjoyed an enviable reputation as lawyer and jurist and citizen, and his demise makes it possible for the president to name two Texans as wearers of the federal ermine, the first to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Estes, and the second a judge for the district created by act of congress in the closing days of the session.

PROBLEMS FOR WAGE WORKERS.

Germany is a republic. Germany lost the war. Germans are recouping their losses at a rapid rate, but a wage reduction has come to the iron workers and coal miners in President Hindenburg's republic. A vast group dominates the German iron and steel industry; the wage reduction was ordered as a first step toward bringing down the prices of public commodities, and it was expected that a general revival of the industry would result from this policy, both at home and abroad.

Organized labor is face to face with many problems the world over. In the textile districts of the South, where the hours are long and the wage is small, the revolt on the part of the workers has been on for some time. For the first time in southern history, these toilers for wage in the cotton mill districts are organizing their forces and are demanding shorter hours and a wage that will advance their standards of living.

It was bound to come. Now it is here. Senator Simmons was perhaps the first victim of the political-economic revolt of the industrial wage workers of his state. For the first time in history the Australian ballot system is in vogue in North Carolina. Registration was large this year, and the primary vote was very heavy.

What happened to the senior senator is ancient history, and when it did happen, Josephus Daniels smiled. Senator Simmons was ever the political enemy of the Raleigh editor and publisher, and it was the influence of William Jennings Bryan that made Josephus Daniels secretary of the navy in the cabinet of Woodrow Wilson.

Josephus Daniels was a poor boy in a little North Carolina village. He became a printer and later along publisher of a weekly newspaper. Step by step he advanced the rungs of the ladder and became one of the two influential political leaders of the old Tarheel state.

Simmons never extended a helping hand Daniels fought his own battles. He spoke for the masses of the people, Simmons for the classes. Well, the masses had their day. They retired F. N. Simmons to private life, the biggest political surprise that North Carolina has known since the year 1880.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

That now is the time to go after business harder than ever. The important question is now best to secure it.

The best way to get business is to buy well assorted stocks and then advertise to bring in the buyers.

Well written advertisements are that tell the story of what you have for sale—will create desire.

Advertising is one of the greatest factors in building business.

Newspapers are the greatest friends of better business. They always render worth while service to those who cooperate with them.

It is always best to try for a quick turnover of stock at a reasonable profit, rather than a slow turnover at a large profit.

If you will review in your mind the business failures you have seen, you will realize that most of them would not have failed if they had been consistent and persistent advertisers.

Good advertising does much to build prestige for a business. It creates a demand for goods that protects the life of the business.

Schall Continues to Hold 3-2 Lead

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 18.—Victory for Senator Thomas D. Schall by a margin of 100,000 votes in the race for the Minnesota republican senatorial nomination was predicted by the bling senator's supporters today as final returns from Tuesday's primary election were tabulated.

Schall maintained his 3 to 2 ratio over Governor Theodore Christ-ianson, even as counting of the approximately 400,000 ballots cast progressed in rural districts, where Christianson was believed to be strongest. The third candidate, John F. Seib, who ran on a "wet" ticket, was far behind.

Governor Christianson declined to comment on newspaper reports that his campaign backers plan to file false statement charges against Schall, under the Minnesota corrupt practices act.

Jones Makes 70 in First Round

HOYLAKE, Eng., June 18.—Bobby Jones led the field today in the first round of the British open golf championship.

The Atlantian, with a sparkling 70, equalling the course record, was out in front and strongly favored to add the title to his long list of golfing honors.

Young Henry Cotton, a British professional, came along late in the day to share the lead with Jones. Cotton, who was second among the qualifiers, went out in 84, and came home in 36, for a first round score of 70.

Five birdies enabled Bobby to shave two strokes from par for the royal Liverpool course, over which 112 pro and amateur set out today in quest of the championship.

Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., pro, was two strokes back of Jones with a 72. Fred Robson, British professional, had 71.

MacDonald Smith, who went out in 33, three strokes under par, threatened to take the lead from Jones late in the day.

F. C. Stevens Jr., of Hollywood, California, was out in 35, one under par, but back in 45, nine over par, for a total of 80.

MORROW IS LEADING IN SENATE RACE

NEWARK, N. J., June 18.—The plurality of Dwight W. Morrow over Franklin W. Fort, his nearest opponent for the republican nomination for the United States senate from New Jersey, grew to nearly a quarter of a million votes today.

With only 381 precincts unheeded from out of 3328 in the state, the count of ballots cast in yesterday's primary stood:

Morrow 238,818; Franklin W. Fort 95,974; Joseph S. Frelinghuysen 41,233; Morrow's plurality 240,744.

NEWARK, N. J., June 18.—Dwight W. Morrow today was leading Franklin W. Fort for the republican nomination for Senator from New Jersey by a plurality that has passed 200,000 with less than 700 of New Jersey's 3328 precincts still to be heard from.

Early today the count stood: 2651 precincts out of 3328 gave Morrow 306,798; Fort 86,409; Frelinghuysen 34,262.

Before the first 500 of the 3328 precincts in the state had been heard from first Fort and then Frelinghuysen conceded defeat and sent telegrams to Morrow congratulating him.

Morrow received the word of his victory at his home in Englewood, where with his family, including his son-in-law, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, he had watched the progress of the early count and then settled down for an hour of reading. When pressed for a statement he finally strolled out to see newspapermen, and gave out texts of telegrams he sent to Frelinghuysen and Fort thanking them for their good wishes. He made no other comment.

Alexander Simpson, prosecutor of the noted Hall-Mills murder case, won the democratic nomination without a contest and will oppose the republican choice in the general election.

In addition to winning the nomination for the full term in the senate, Morrow also was a heavy winner over John Kelly for the nomination to fill the unexpired term of former Senator Walter E. Edge, who resigned to become ambassador to France. The democrats nominated Thelma Parkinson of Vineland to oppose Morrow for the short term.

Wets hailed the victory of Morrow, who is ambassador to Mexico, as a triumph for their cause. Drys found in it "only another wet from New Jersey" and insisted it did not alter the pro-

Drug Stores May Offer Rewards

HOUSTON, June 18.—Dead drug store bandits will be worth $2,000 apiece if a resolution presented before the Texas Pharmaceutical association is passed by the convention here today.

The resolution, offered by Secretary Walter Adams of Forney, and heartily endorsed by President Harry Hein of San Antonio, was greeted with applause and sent to a committee for action.

Aside from the $2,000 reward that would be given killers of drug store bandits, $200 would be offered for capture and conviction of live robbers.

Success of the State Bankers association $5,000 dead bandit rewards was cited by Hein in favoring the measure.

Hoover Support Pledged Morrow

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The support of the Hoover administration for Dwight W. Morrow, republican senatorial nominee in New Jersey, in his campaign for election this fall, was pledged today in a formal white house statement.

President Hoover thus singled out the New Jersey nominee, mentioned in some quarters as a possible contender for the Republican presidential nomination in 1932, in the first formal statement of support issued thus far in the senatorial nominating campaign.

The statement: "The white house will give every possible support to the republican nominee in New Jersey and the president and the administration have every confidence that Mr. Hoover will be the next United States senator from New Jersey."

HOLDS PLURALITY.

PORTLAND, Me., June 18.—Congressman Wallace H. White, Jr., had a plurality of 7123 over former Governor Ralph O. Brewster today on the basis of virtually complete returns from Monday's primary election. Brewster conceded defeat yesterday. Governor William Tudor Cabdiner, republican, was re-nominated by a majority of 19,023 over former Mayor John Wilson of Bangor.

U. S. Sailor Tells How to Avoid Baldness -- Dandruff -- Gray Hairs

Simple Tonic Applied Yourself About Twice a Week Prevents Itching, Dandruff and Falling Hair

GRAY HAIRS VANISHED ALMOST LIKE MAGIC

"A friend of mine with the U. S. Shipping Board was getting so gray it worried him. His hair was falling out and getting thin, too, but to day he hasn't a gray hair and looks splendid and I'll tell you how he did it," declares John W. Haynes, a U. S. Seaman, Unit 23, Lee Hall, Va.

"We sent away and got a couple bottles of Lea's Hair Tonic which the women use so much for gray hair and scalp troubles. I wanted it because of falling hair, dandruff and itching scalp, while my friend wanted to put those gray hairs back to their oldtime color. We used it per directions and results were so doggone good we sent for more and still more and today, as I said before, my friend is no longer gray or losing his hair and in my case all dandruff has vanished and I'm relieved of the awful itching. My hair stopped falling out and has thickened up and looks full of life and color, so we both keep a bottle on hand for use once a week and, believe me, everyone with gray hair or scalp trouble should try Lea's Hair Tonic."

Thousands of prominent men and women, despising the awful effect of dyes and such stuff, yet turning gray or bald, have found Lea's Hair Tonic just the very thing. It enhances the beauty of the hair a hundred per cent. Not even experts detect its use and many use it year after year with results always the same. Anyone may prove it easily by applying to a hidden spot a couple weeks and watch results.

If reader wishes to try this harmless, modern scalp treatment on satisfaction guarantee or money back, just buy a bottle at drug store or send dollar bill or stamps to Lea Tonic Co., Brentwood, Md., for a regular bottle, prepared to your door. You can wait and pay the postman if desired (12 cents extra C. O. D. charges). Money back without quibble or question if it fails to delight you.—Adv.

After the First Twenty-five Thousand Miles

THE VALUE of sound design, good materials and careful craftsmanship is especially apparent in the new Ford after the first twenty-five thousand miles. Long, continuous service emphasizes its mechanical reliability and economy of operation and up-keep.

As you drive the Ford through many months and years you will develop an increasing pride in its appearance and a growing respect for the substantial worth that has been built into it. From every standpoint—in everything that goes to make a good automobile—you will know that you have made a far-seeing, satisfactory purchase.

Wherever you go, you hear enthusiastic praise of the car and this significant, oft-repeated phrase—"I'm glad I bought a Ford."

A FORD owner in New York tells of a 13,000-mile trip across the United States and back in sixty days and says "the car was extremely economical to operate, comfortable and speedy."

A grateful father tells how the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield saved his wife and children from serious injury in an automobile collision.

To test tires, a large company drove a new Ford day and night, for an average of 500 miles every twenty-four hours. It was still giving satisfactory service after 105,000 miles.

A Ford car that had fallen into Fernan Lake was submerged for twelve days before being raised. After a new battery and carburetor bowl were installed, it was driven back to Spokane under its own power.

Many police departments have written of the special advantages of the Ford in crowded traffic because of its alert speed, acceleration and ease of control. An increasing number of fleet owners are also purchasing the Ford because their cost figures have given conclusive proof of its economy of operation and up-keep.

In addition to important triumphs in Germany, France and Italy, the Ford won six out of seven leading places in a contest in Finland, first and second in the Rafaela races in Argentina, first and second in the run from Copenhagen-to-Paris-to-Copenhagen, three gold medals in England, first ranking in the durability test over the tortuous Amancaes road in Peru, and first place in the 1930 reliability run conducted by the Royal Automobile Club of Sweden.

This contest was an exceptionally severe test of endurance and sturdy construction because it was held in the dead of winter and covered 600 miles of steady running over snow-covered country roads and mountainous hills.

CAMPAIGN OF MAURITZ BASED ON TAX ISSUE

AUSTIN, June 18.—T. N. Mauritz of Gansado, Jackson county farmer, is the only candidate in the race for governor born outside the United States.

In 1870 his parents applied for passports permitting them to come to America from Sweden. His father first came along. Settling in Iowa, he wrote six months later for the family to join him.

They settled on the Iowa farm and purchased a Nebraska farm two years later.

There Mauritz worked on the farm until he was 15. He went to country school three months a year, tramping the three miles to the school house. Later he attended an academy for a term and a half. A bookkeeping and stenography course taken at Lincoln, Nebraska, equipped him to take employment in a bank there.

Thirty-six years ago the family came to Texas, attracted by its rich black soil. They settled in Jackson county.

Looking back upon the hardships through which he was raised on the farm led Mauritz, now a country banker of considerable wealth to study how to overcome farm burdens. Taxation, he concluded, was one of his ills. A state income tax, he decided, is the method to equalize the tax burden. With this as his object he entered the state legislature. Repeatedly he tried to secure passage of the income tax. In one session he had Governor Dan Moody's backing and active urging of the measure, but it never got out of the legislative committee.

It is for the purpose of carrying the income tax plan before the people that Mauritz is making the race. Many concede that future years will see such a tax in Texas.

As proposed by Mauritz, the citizen would merely file duplicates of the reports he files with the federal government. His income tax would be computed from these reports going away with the nuisance of preparing additional reports.

He proposes also an adjustment between other taxes and the income tax. To prevent the income tax becoming merely a source of additional state revenue without reducing the tax burden, Mauritz would provide that the amount the state raises from income taxes must be deducted before computing the automatic property tax rate.

Dread Neuritis Is Banished By Modern Konjola

Splendid Tribute Is Paid to New Medicine That Ended Four Years' Suffering.

"I suffered dreadfully from neuritis for four years," said Mr. Chas. W. Morgan, 1219 South Millwood street, Wichita. "I tried many medicines, but none of them gave me the relief that I so much desired until I took Konjola. I had attacks of severe, sharp pains through my shoulders and arms that at times ran down through my chest muscles. I was in misery so much of the time that my nerves became affected, and I felt sick, and weak in every way. A friend advised me to try Konjola, and as I noticed how he was being benefited by this medicine, I acted upon his advice. In a short time the pains began to cease. The attacks became less frequent. Today there is hardly a trace of the old aches and pains, and the soreness has left the affected parts. I feel better in many respects; my nerves are calm, and I sleep well at night. I hope other sufferers will profit by my experiences." Konjola uses no time in getting to work; many are amazed at the quick results, but it is best to take a full treatment of from six to eight bottles for best results. Konjola is sold in Cisco, Texas, at Moore Drug Co., drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

OUT OUR WAY

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS.

MOM'N POP.

"Couldn't you come alone?" his voice was a little more eager. "It's my birthday."

my was very hot, and said she wanted to sleep. She felt feverish herself. Her heart beat very fast and loud. It was the first time she had ever known that she had a heart. Her conscience was troublesome, too. She knew that she wanted to go to dinner and a show with Alan Steyne more than she had ever wanted to do anything in all her life and she was glad that Chummy had a cold!

It was all instinctive. Judy was easily excited, and that strange flutter in her breast was a new sensation. Judy had only one dress suitable for such an occasion. It had belonged to Max Dickbread's sister. He had painted Judy in it, and had told her to keep it. It was golden, with a gorgeous sash of flame and emerald. The neck was cut round, and it had tiny sleeves of gold lace. Above each ear Judy fastened a flame-colored velvet poppy.

Over her dress she threw a black-velvet cloak of rather tawdry material, but made in a fashionable shape. Her only pair of white gloves were soiled, so she carried them in her hands.

She went in to be admired by Chummy. Steyne ran up the stairs, punctual to the moment. He greeted Chummy, and they went off immediately.

They dined at a smart restaurant where Judy had never been before. It was a real gala night. There were violets on the table, and they drank champagne. The lights were shaded with some blue stuff that looked like the sky. The women wore wonderful clothes. At the table next to them a white-haired woman with black eyes and a rose-petal skin, was wearing some pearls that made Judy's big eyes nearly start out of her head.

At first the girl's thoughts were all with the absent Chummy; but gradually, under the influence of the food and the wine and the soft music, Chummy's image faded, and the luxurious surroundings all seemed to merge into the handsome face and the laughing eyes on the other side of the small table. She had little consciousness of what they talked about. She knew that it was delightful talk—rather silly, probably, but it made a glow round her heart.

Then it was time to go on to the opera house. Steyne gathered up the violets on the table and gave them to her. As they passed out of the restaurant he said, with a touch of shyness in his low voice:

"You are looking most awfully well tonight!"

As she put on her cloak, Judy looked at herself in a mirror. Her own face looked strange to her. She certainly needed neither paint nor powder, and there was a stony shine in her eyes that had never been there before. She was no longer gaudy, like a dyed narcissus.

In the lobby, as they were waiting for a cab, a big man stared hard at Judy. Then he bowed, smiled, and fixed his small, pale eyes admiringly on her. Something in his look made her flush, and she gave him a curt nod of recognition.

"Who's that fellow?" Steyne asked with unconcealed disgust. "What a hideous brute!"

"I've forgotten his name," the girl answered; "but he's some rich man. He came to the cafe one night with Vincent Stornaway, the artist. It was awfully funny—Chummy told him he was an ugly man, and said he was like Punch. He was a sport about it, though—didn't seem to mind a bit."

The music passed like a dream. Judy, sitting in one of the best boxes, felt like a queen. Steyne sat a little behind her. They talked and laughed like children.

Judy gave a great sigh when it was all over. They drove back in a cab. She had a key to open the big door with. Alan used it, and they stepped into the house. He had dismissed the cab, saying that he would walk home.

"Oh, I've had such a lovely time!" Judy said with a catch in her voice. "It is good of you. I don't know when I've enjoyed myself so much."

There was one gas jet burning low to illuminate the cavernous-looking stone staircase. At the foot of it she turned and held out her hand. "I don't know when I've enjoyed myself so much."

thing almost inarticulate, and turned away; but the next moment he was back. Judy was crushed in his arms, and he was kissing her eyes, her hair, her lips, which met his with an irresistible response.

"Judy, little Judy!" he whispered triumphantly "I love you—I love you! And you love me!" She tore herself away. She was as white as death.

"You mustn't!" she gasped. "You mustn't! Oh, how could I let you? You can't love me—you mustn't love me! You belong to Chummy. Do you think I'd steal you from his pal?"

And just then, while the two stood facing each other, trembling with the reaction from that moment of irresistible passion, there came quick footsteps flying down the stairs, and the voice of Clara Jenks cried breathlessly:

"Is that you, Judy? What a relief! Such a dreadful thing has happened—Chummy's been taken frightfully ill! Doctor O'Shane is up there now. He doesn't think she'll live through the night."

Judy forgot all about Alan Steyne. She forgot all about everything. She was up the stairs like a streak of lightning. She never answered Clara. She could only take in that Chummy was ill—desperately ill. And she had been out enjoying herself! She had been having that wonderful time, lost in her dream of unreal delight!

She felt like a traitor. The feeling was so violent that her skin tingled with it.

Doctor O'Shane was on their landing, and Clara Jenks came upstairs again. The doctor's fiery face was grave.

"It's pneumonia," he said. "I hope we'll pull her through. I've a nurse on the way. No, Miss Judy, you'd never be able to do it. She must have skilled attention. She'll get a bit of sleep—I've seen to that; and I'll be in early in the morning."

Judy pulled his sleeve, and as she did so Alan Steyne's violets fell from her hands, a poor, withered bunch. She did not notice them, although a few minutes ago the young man's arms had crushed them against her breast in that embrace which now was to her such a monstrous sin.

"Don't say she'll die!" she pleaded hoarsely. "I couldn't bear it!"

The doctor looked at her with the Irishman's quick response to emotion.

"We'll do all we can, Miss Judy," he said. "You must be hoping all the time."

He had to hurry away. Judy went into Chummy's room, and looked distractedly at the restless figure with the changed face and the burning eyes of high fever. She felt utterly hopeless, and went out again to the landing to wait for the nurse.

"I never had such a fright in my life," Clara Jenks informed her. "What do you think? I'd given her her supper and gone to my room for a minute or two, and when I came back she was gone!"

"Gone?" exclaimed Judy. "Yes," said Clara. "She must have been light-headed all the time. Luckily I thought of the cafe, and followed her; and there she was, drinking vermouth and smoking. Bastien Dumont brought her back to me, and in an hour I saw there was something wrong; so I sent Bastien for O'Shane, which met his with an irresistible response.

Judy gave a groan. Chummy out, all alone, on a cold night like that!

The nurse arrived and went into the patient's room. Clara returned to her own quarters. Judy was just going to hers, to get into a dressing gown, when she heard a man's voice calling softly up the staircase:

"Judy—Miss Grant—may I come up?"

She stood irresolute for a moment, and then ran down. She met Alan Steyne on the third landing.

"Haven't you gone?" she asked. "No. How could I—without knowing? How is she?"

"Judy was just on the point of hysteria. 'She may die tonight!' she whispered in passionate self-accusation. 'I dare say she will, and it'll be my fault for leaving her—and your fault! I hate you—I never want to see you again! Chummy's dying—and we've been having a good time!'"

Choking with sobs, she ran up the dark stairs again, leaving Alan to make his way out of the house.

INDIANS WILL TAKE PART IN COWBOY EVENT

STAMFORD, June 18.—With arrangements completed for a group of 50 Comanche Indians from the government reservation in Oklahoma to put on a two hour show each evening during the Texas Cowboy Reunion in this city, June 26, 27 and 28, a well-balanced program has been provided for the thousands who will attend the affair.

During each afternoon, a western cowboy rodeo in which approximately 100 actual working ranch hands will compete for liberal cash prizes, will be staged, and after the Indian show in the evening, an old-fashioned ranch dance with real pioneer music will be held in the open pavilion on the reunion grounds.

Special efforts are being made to have all men who were engaged in working cattle on the ranges prior to 1895 attend the reunion.

However, everybody whether an old-timer or a newcomer to this area, is invited, and will find many things of interest and much to entertain and amuse during the three days.

The opening feature of the celebration will be a monster street parade at 10 o'clock on the morning of June 26. In the aggregation will be the 50 Indians, the cowboy rodeo contestants, the pioneer cattlemen and many other interesting divisions, along with about a dozen ranch, chuck wagons. These wagons will be on display on the reunion grounds all during the affair and the ranch cooks will be with them.

The Indian show each evening will be highly interesting. Tribal war dances with the redskins in full native regalia and the big booming drums that require four men to handle them, will be among the thrilling items offered on the program each night.

REBELS CITE U.S. INTRUSION FOR UPRISING

BUENOS AIRES, June 18. — Displeasure over alleged intrusions into Bolivian affairs by United States officials and capitalists was given by a group of Bolivian rebels today as the reason for their uprising. The revolution, headed by Roberto Hinojosa formerly of the Bolivian diplomatic service, was reported to be on a small scale. Only southern Bolivia, near the Argentine border, was believed affected.

The rebels' grievances were outlined in a "declaration" attacking the activities of American in Bolivia, advices from the border said today. Hinojosa and his followers captured Villazon, directly across the Argentine border from La Quiaca, after overpowering the garrison of 20 soldiers, newspaper accounts said. They looted the town and held the chief of police a prisoner. Four men were wounded when they resisted the revolutionists' attack.

Argentine police and troops were guarding the La Quiaca banks and customs house to prevent a possible attack. A small group of revolutionists was arrested at La Quiaca when they attempted to cross into Bolivia. Forty-six rifles, 20,000 rounds of ammunition, and a trunk filled with communistic propaganda were seized. The propaganda appealed to the Bolivian army to begin a social revolution.

A censorship, which the Bolivian government imposed when Villazon was captured, prevented the free flow of news from that country. WASHINGTON, June 18.—Official denials of reports that curious disturbances have taken place at La Quiaca were made by the Bolivian legation last night on instructions from its home government.

"Conditions of the entire country cannot be more peaceful than now," said a telegram from Bolivia to the legation. AREQUIPA, Peru, June 18.—Wholly unconfirmed reports received here today said serious political disturbances had occurred in La Paz, capital of Bolivia, since last Thursday. The situation at La Paz was observed by censorship of outgoing cables, the reports said.

In a hostess it's Gracious in a cigarette it's

THE SUCCESS OF A HOSTESS depends upon her ability to make others feel at home; that of a cigarette, upon better taste.

HOW ELSE EXPLAIN Chesterfield's constant gains, its ever-mounting popularity with smokers everywhere?

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE for the delicate mildness and rich aroma that belong to Chesterfield, nor for Chesterfield's unique blend and cross-blend. "In a cigarette it's TASTE!" Yes, and in a Chesterfield, it's... "TASTE above everything".
