ROCK POSSE KILLS NEGRO Plans for Absentee Voting July 26 Announced

Cisco Youth, Graduate of West Point, Tells of Life at Famous U. S. School

A city—a woman-less city—where men move with clock-like precision, marching to work, from work, to meals, from meals, where accomplishment is a necessary attainment and not a goal that only the lucky reach, where every man is ranked by no other criterion than his mental capacity, where the wheels of government turn on axes of honor and where ideals of loyalty and patriotism are taught in the most rigorous and thorough manner—that is a vague description of West Point, United States military academy, situated on the banks of the Hudson river, some 50 miles north of New York City.

John Chesley Kilborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kilborn of 207 East Seventeenth, who completed his fourth year at West Point and received his diploma and commission in the United States army at the commencement exercises June 12, has given in the following article, a brief description of the activities in this school.

Entered in July
He entered in July, to spend the summer months in preparatory military training, and to take up academic work in September. The curriculum for the four years' work is a prescribed course with no electives or no specialized branches. It includes for the freshman year: English, French, Spanish, college algebra, trigonometry, surveying, plane and solid geometry; sophomore year: English, French, history, plane and differential geometry, integral and descriptive geometry, integral and differential geometry, philosophy, mechanics, electricity and heat; and senior year: civil engineering, mechanical engineering, automotive engineering, fortification, army engineering, ordnance and gunnery, economics, government, and law.

At graduation, the men are ranked according to the grades they have made, and choice of the preferred branches which they will enter, as aviation, field artillery, etc., is given first to those with the highest academic standing and so on down the line. Courses offered during the first three years are accredited recognition by all colleges and universities, should a student change schools, but the fourth year's work is more militaristic in character.

WORK PUSHED ON OVERPASS NEAR CISCO

Concrete Spans on the West Side Are Almost Complete

Concrete for the fifth span of the Harrell crossing overpass on the north side of the railroad was being poured Saturday while work was begun upon the forms for the spans on the south side of the track.

Five spans of steel and concrete will be located on each side of the Texas and Pacific track, over which the highway will be carried in a diagonal line. When these spans are completed a concrete and steel bridge will be constructed on the ground, lifted by derricks and fitted into place over the tracks.

Monday Kingsford-Smith and party will spend in Washington, D. C.

MOB REPELLED FROM BEAUMONT JAIL

BEAUMONT, June 28.—Repelled in two furious attempts to take vengeance on Rainey Williams, negro, the mob from Port Arthur that stormed the Beaumont jail shortly after midnight today was entirely dispersed, and law and order prevailed.

In the early hours of the morning Sheriff Covington stood before the county jail building and read the negro's confession before the grand jury to the mob, and promised them that a speedy trial would be held. The sheriff and his deputies, and police re-inforcements were well prepared, however, to defend the jail against an assault.

WHEAT FARMERS ARE FACING THREAT OF BANKRUPTCY

KANSAS CITY, June 28.—Worried wheat farmers labored to complete the harvest today, and wondered if the returns would pay off last year's debts and sow a new crop.

Many could look out over mortgaged farms and see the result of a year's effort piled upon the ground. Others went into town to placate bankers while their wheat lay in storage elevators awaiting a rise in prices.

Throughout the grain belt, the only farmers to sell their wheat were those financially unable to hold the crop until they could sell at a profit. For the most part farmers refused to accept 65 or 70 cents for the grain which cost them more than a dollar a bushel to raise.

Only in Texas, where the wagon price had increased to 70 cents a bushel, were farmers selling their grain as harvested.

Worse in Kansas
Perhaps the worst conditions existed in Kansas, where farmers were faced with a short crop in addition to low prices. Grain men estimated the Kansas crop would run approximately 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 bushels less than the 1929 production of 137,000,000. The average wagon price over Kansas today was 65 cents a bushel. On that basis, the state's crop this year will be worth slightly more than $80,000,000 compared with approximately $137,000,000 last year. Reports from some counties were that farmers were piling their wheat on the ground because of lack of storage facilities, while others planned to feed the grain to livestock.

At 12:30 p. m., E. D. T. according to radio advice, the Kickapoo got a line aboard the steamer and was ready to tow her to Eastport, Me.

PRAYING JURY RECOMMENDS DEATH DECREE

DUNCAN, Okla., June 28.—A jury that prayed for "divine guidance" found E. S. "Choc" Hembree Grady county farmer and pardoned murderer, guilty of a charge of criminal assault today and recommended the extreme penalty.

Hembree showed no emotion when the jury recommended he die in the electric chair. Judge M. W. Pugh set Wednesday as date of formal sentence. At that time chief Defense Counsel James Mathews said he would file a motion for reversal on grounds of insufficient evidence.

Hembree has been on trial all week on a charge of attacking and shooting Leota Bosley, of Gainesville, Texas who was teaching the Loco school.

The case was given the jury at 8:30 o'clock last night. The jurors retired after two hours of deliberation. Entering the courtroom at 9 a. m. today, the jury asked permission to pray for divine guidance.

The silence of 20 minutes was broken by announcement of the foreman of "we the jury, find E. S. Hembree guilty as charged and recommend the supreme penalty—death in the electric chair."

DANCING JUDITH

BY CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN
COPYRIGHT 1930 BY CHELSEA HOUSE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Judith Grant, beautiful artist's model, shares her Greenwich Village apartment with Chummy Morley, a lovely girl whose mind has been a blank ever since Alan Steyne, her lover, left her seven years ago. Steyne suddenly returns to her, but Chummy fails to recognize him. Meanwhile, he and Judith fall in love with each other, and he tells Judith that he never loved Chummy and never realized that Chummy loved him. Then Chummy's memory returns to her and she recognizes Steyne. Steyne, feeling obligated because of her years of suffering, asks her to marry him. Judith, meanwhile, has aroused the admiration of Bruce Gideon, rich financier, who offers to send her to a professional dancing instructor and then star her in a musical show. She refuses, at first; then, angered by criticisms which Bastien Dumont, an artist who loves her, makes of her association with Gideon, she writes Gideon to tell him that she will accept his offer. He asks her to meet him for lunch the next day.

Three men were killed and six hurt when this steel bridge over the Monocacy river on the Washington highway near Frederick, Maryland, collapsed and hurled workmen and truck 20 feet into the swollen waters. The men were repairing the structure when a heavy truck drove onto the bridge causing the collapse.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV

Judy was there a quarter of an hour before the time. She had a purpose, and, in her dramatic way, she dressed for it. She put on her oldest clothes. She paid no attention to her face, which was, as usual, violently made up, like a caricature.

She was wrought up to such a pitch of excitement that when she was shown into Gideon's great salon she did not recognize it as perhaps the most beautiful room in New York.

It did the millionaire credit that she showed not the slightest surprise at her appearance. He asked her to sit down, and she did so, on an old English day bed, with cushions of dull gold. She was pulling off her gloves and then putting them on again. She was frightfully nervous as she looked into his pale, heavy face.

"I wanted to see you first, Mr. Gideon," she said hurriedly. "I am willing to take this same up, but only if you'll let me keep myself while I'm learning to dance. I can manage that all right. I can't really really think; I am good, he'll be willing to wait for his fees until I'm ready; so that wouldn't cost anything. I can't take anything from you while I'm learning. I'd rather give the idea up altogether."

"Why, of course, Miss Judy," Gideon answered suavely. "I've been thinking that over myself. I quite understand. You are a most independent young lady; but if you go on with your work, won't you be too tired?"

"Lord, no! I can do anything. I'm as strong as a horse."

"As to Guarvenius, I'm sure he will jump at you. He is an artist, and would not think of money, anyhow. Believe me, I admire your independence. Leave me out of it altogether. Fix it up with Guarvenius yourself; but allow me the privilege when you are ready of helping you in whatever way I can."

Judy was delighted. She was beginning to warm to the idea. There was adventure in it. This man, who knew so much of the world, was ready to allow her to succeed on her own merits. He did not want to lay her under any obligations. How ridiculous Bastien had been! It was a perfectly genuine business proposition. He knew she was a dancer, and she knew it, too.

Guarvenius arrived. He was a small, dapper man, with a delicate, artistic face, slightly feminine and yet strong. He had gray hair, growing back in a shock from his broad forehead, a small, high-bridged nose, deep-set, luminous, gray eyes, and a really beautiful mouth, spoiled by a set of discolored teeth, accounted for, no doubt, by the never-absent cigarette.

He did not see it. Somehow she seemed to see a picture of a place among gray-green mountains, which she felt sure must be Alan Steyne's little house in Maine. There were fir trees and there was rushing water, and it was all very bleak and wild. A pale sun was shining through a mist. Looking back into the room, the yellow-washed walls, hung with grayish-green tapestries, made her think of that sun.

The door opened, and a tall young man, a foreigner, came in. He bowed very punctiliously. He was dark and thin and quiet-looking.

"I have come to play for you, mademoiselle," he said in broken English. "Is there anything you would like—any ballet, suite you are especially fond of?"

Judy shook her head helplessly. Her voice was panic-stricken. "I don't know anything about music. I know I'm going to be a failure. I don't think I can dance, after all."

"Oh, but, mademoiselle, of course you can dance!" said the young man. "You must not be nervous. M. Guarvenius is so kind. Perhaps you would rather improvise? Some dancers prefer to follow you better. Will you tell me the theme—shall it be Spanish, Egyptian, Greek, Russian, or—"

"Could you do something Scotch?" Judy asked, trembling with excitement. And then she laughed, because it sounded like whisky. "All gray and green, like this room."

She swept her arm around. She hardly knew herself. "Ah, that is cold and bleak and dark," he exclaimed. "I was playing in Glasgow recently, and I went for a tour in the Highlands. Wait!"

He went to the piano and struck out a tune, note by note. It was a Highland fling. After that he suggested the skirl of the bagpipes in a few simple notes, and then broke into a lament.

"That will be lovely," said Judy, all a tremble. "And could you put some water in, please?" He nodded. His long, thin hands, hovering a moment over the keys, descended, and there burst upon her strained ears music which, had she been less wretched, she would have known to be drawn from a master hand and played by a master hand.

seated. She felt him trembling a little. The two other men rose from their seats at the same time. Guarvenius' sad voice sounded in her ears. "Some northern country—Scotland, I think—and a girl of the hills waiting for her lover and dancing the time away. Mountains and water and fir trees—and at last the sound of the pipes coming over the hills tells her that he is near. Was that it, Miss Judy?"

Judy was transfixed with amazement. Had she really conveyed all that Gideon was severely noncommittal as he turned to the great man.

"I think you are not displeased," he said. "Miss Grant has talent, has she not?" Guarvenius was not a man to express more than a quarter of what he felt.

"Miss Grant certainly has talent," he said. "She ought to do well in the picturesque school."

"I could see everything you said just now," Gideon went on. "Yes, she conveyed exactly the same thing to me, though I couldn't have put it into words. Have you ever been in Scotland, Miss Judy?"

Judy shook her head. She was still dazed. Guarvenius took her hand and patted it kindly. "My dear," he said, "if you work hard, you will be a dancer."

She did not know that this was the highest praise he had ever given in his life. "The music!" she whispered. "It was the music that did it!" "Oh, no, mademoiselle!" smiled the young musician. She felt a little chilled. She feared that she had failed, after all. They were very subdued, these two men.

But when Gideon and the musician had gone out of the room and left her alone with Guarvenius, she found that she had not failed. (To Be Continued)

Kansas Governor Not Clemency - Minded

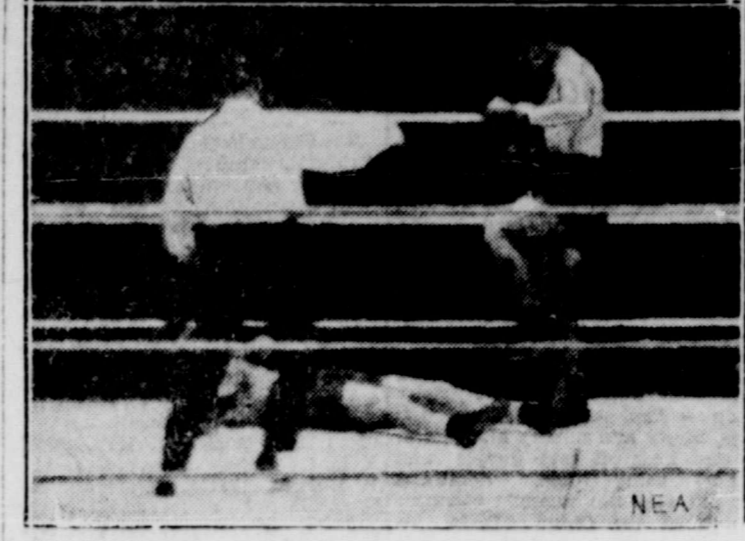

TOPEKA, Kansas, June 28.—If Jake Peagle is caught or surrenders in Kansas and Colorado will promise to hang him, I'll sign extradition papers the moment they are brought before me. This was Governor Reed's reply to an approach made to him that the alleged leaders of the Lamar, Colorado, bank robber gang would like to give himself up in Kansas if assured he would not be hanged. In taking this stand Governor Reed continues to maintain the same attitude which caused him to disagree with W. A. Smith, attorney general, over the fate of Ralph Peagle. In that case Reed announced that he was glad to grant extradition papers to allow Ralph to be taken to Colorado if Colorado would hang him, which Kansas could not do.

The Kansas attorney general, however, declared he had promised Ralph that he would not be hanged if he would make a confession. Released, confessed and the court sentenced him to hang. Smith went to Colorado to prevent the enforcement of the death sentence law in that state. He appeared as a witness for the condemned man. This week Smith again made a trip to Colorado to intercede with Governor Adams to prevent the execution.

FILES APPEAL

AUSTIN, June 28.—Joe Obriet, who was given a seven year sentence in Bexar county, in connection with the killing of federal prohibition officer Charles Stevens, has filed an appeal in the court of criminal appeals here.

How About Stribling, Maxie?

The sore left hand that figured prominently in Chicago's battle of postponements between William L. (Young) Stribling, the Georgia Cracker, and Otto Von Porat, tall Norwegian, has every reason to be sore now. The Georgian flicked that left in Von Porat's face for a couple of minutes and then looked it savagely to the Norwegian chin. The result can be seen in the picture above: Referee Ed Purdy counted off 10 seconds with Von Porat flat on his back. Young Stribling (in black trunks) once more looks as a dangerous foe for Champion Max Schmeling, or anyone else, for that matter.

Eleven-Year-Old Boy Leaps to Literary Fame With Biography of President

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 28.—The latest author to rise out of obscurity and attain prominence with his first book is William J. Marsh Jr., sometime printer, philosopher and political economist, who has just rounded his eleventh year of life.

His volume is a biography entitled "our president, Herbert Hoover," and not only did Mr. Marsh write the book, but he also printed it on a press that was purchased for 50 cents.

Now, among the factors that must be considered in the amazing ascension of Mr. Marsh to literary heights is the rather common-place fact that he suffered, at one time, from water on the knee. That he explained, gave him respite from his school work and provided the leisure in which literary masterpieces have their conception.

The style of this 11-year-old scrivener is a marvel of compression. His book is slender and to the point. But spread through the chronicle of Herbert Hoover's life there are pointed dissertations on such widely-varied subjects as business technique, prohibition, senatorial courtesy and sex appeal. In the preface, Mr. Marsh gives readers an insight into his own life. "I first opened up a job printing business," he writes. "I hired a boy and gave him 25 cents a week, but I did not keep him long. I fired him and hired a good boy who would work for 15 cents a week and five cents extra for every dollar's worth of business he got me. This worked well and I did a real good business. I was then ten years old; I am now 11."

The first chapter is devoted to a history of the American flag and the story of Mr. Hoover's boyhood. In commenting favorably on the influence of the President's mother, the author writes: "A good mother doesn't spend her time at dances and parties, she spends her time teaching her boys to be good, she helps them with their school work and makes their home a happy one."

In a stirring peroration, Mr. Marsh launches his defense of Mr. Hoover's policies: "I suppose you all read the slump in the stock market. I just want to explain to you right now that it is not Mr. Hoover's fault. Now that senator who put out that propaganda in the newspapers ought to be very much ashamed of himself. I think it is awful to talk about our President. Now if that senator would read bringing up father in the funny papers and write on it, he would be keeping his name before the public, for I think that is what he wants. If my printing press would talk I am sure it would say: William Marsh, I am glad to be able to print the life of Herbert Hoover."

Mr. Marsh's book is illustrated with wood cuts, many of them depicting what the author considers the horrors of alcohol.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Oscar De Priest, Illinois' negro congressman, will not address a convention of Mosaic Templars in Birmingham, Ala., on July 17, it was learned at his office today. De Priest recently defied organizations which warned to stay out of Alabama.

FLIER TALKS TO MOTHER OVER RADIO-PHONE

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 28.—A mother's worry for a son's welfare made the chief topic of conversation when Major Charles E. Kingsford-Smith talked by radio with his mother in Australia today.

"Hello mother," the flier said into the small microphone over WGY. "I hope you won't fly any more oceans," his mother said. "I can't. There aren't any more to fly, but I guess I'll have to give it up anyway," the flying major—who this week completed the first flight from Europe to the United States—replied, laughingly.

His mother added that he certainly would have to give up flying and the major more replied that "Mary will have something to say about that." Mary referred to his Miss Powell, the major's fiancée. "Are you well?" she asked. "Oh, Lord, yes," the flier replied. "Your baby boy is alive and kicking. I suppose you're worried back you'll get me with a good and give me a good spanking where it hurts most."

Kingsford-Smith said his mother with giving a good Miss Powell and assured his family that he hoped to be home by the middle of August.

The shooting culminated a long standing quarrel between Ross and his three victims. He opposed his wife's attendance at mission services. Wood had just completed his evening sermon with the passage, "In the midst of life, we are in death," when he was killed.

Ross later surrendered.

Dry Enforcement to Be Concentrated in Sympathetic Areas, Says Mitchell

By CECIL OWEN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, June 28.—Prohibition enforcement under Attorney General Mitchell after July 1 will be concentrated more than ever before in those areas where public opinion is sympathetic with the dry law, it was strongly indicated today as the justice department prepared to assume command.

In the wet states where little or no co-operation is forthcoming from state authorities the government's prohibition enforcement efforts will be little more severe than now, it was intimated.

Where local authorities co-operate however, intensive campaigns will be conducted by the federal dry army.

Clear indications that this will be the government's new policy was offered by Mitchell's statement announcing plans for the transfer of prohibition from the treasury to the justice department, which said:

"In those states which have repealed enforcement statutes and whose authorities do not perform a proper share of the work, there have been, and will continue to be, grave deficiencies in enforcement. Where such conditions exist they are matters of choice with the states."

Mitchell said the justice department will seek conferences with state authorities relative to the part the states are to play in prohibition enforcement and will seek to obtain "that degree of law observance and enforcement which can only come through the united efforts of the state and federal governments."

The new policy under Mitchell indicates that such wet states as New York, will receive just that degree of enforcement that they want possibly however, the federal government will modify this policy to the extent of searching for large bootleggers even in the extremely wet areas.

CRACKS IN THE DOME

By POLITICAL ANALYST

AUSTIN, June 28.—What they're saying at Austin: Four weeks Saturday till primary election. Probably fewer of the voters definitely committed to candidates than ever before at the same stage. And more candidates.

Around 275 candidates are seeking legislative offices; with 150 house members and 15 senators to be elected. There are approximately 50 candidates for other offices. Each ballot will bear an average of 30 county and district candidates' names. That sums up to 7,765 people now busy running for office in Texas.

Negligible support for Thomas B. Love in west Texas confirms other reports of the rapid decline in his prospects as soon as his profession of desire to be on the democratic, rather than to lead an independent movement, put him on.

Wichita Falls is cited as a typical example. Wichita has something over 43,700 inhabitants. Mr. Love had 150 hearers in a scheduled campaign address there. If one-third of his audience were made up of the curious, those hostile to him and those who will vote in the republican primary, and if all the rest of his audience were for him that would indicate about two-tenths of one per cent of the people of Wichita Falls sufficient interested in helping his cause to attend his meeting. Based on an estimated 12,000 poll tax receipts in the city his showing does not promise him better than one per cent of the city vote July 26.

The political campaign can have little effect on the new state tax rate, to be set between July 15 and election day. The rate can have little effect on the campaign, since Gov. Dan Moody, chairman of the board to fix it, is not a candidate.

Appropriations already have been made which the new rate is to meet. With over $21,000,000 due from gasoline sales taxes alone next year, one-fourth going to the public school fund and with $2,500,000 appropriated from the general revenue for rural school aid, it seems entirely possible that the 31-cent education tax rate may be cut still lower. It was reduced last year from 35 cents.

As to the ad valorem tax for support of the government, it may now be said this will not be increased above the present 30 cents and may possibly be cut somewhere between 30 and 25 cents. The Confederate pension tax will remain at the constitutional limit of seven cents.

Thus the present total 68-cent rate may be trimmed to 65 and possibly to 60 cents. Since each cent of reduction means saving over $350,000 in taxes, the potential reduction is of importance, both in the aggregate and to the individual payer.

Cisco Youth

call for reveille at 5:30 and formation or ranks at 6 o'clock. They return to their rooms to make beds, sweep, and shave and to assemble in ranks again at the call for breakfast at 6:25. After breakfast, they prepare their rooms (three boys are assigned to each room) for inspection. In sections, a group of from 10 to 15 into which they are placed according to their academic grades, they march to the first class at 7:55. Classes last one hour and twenty minutes, and most of them meet six days a week. Students receive and are graded daily, and at the close of every two weeks, the grades are posted and the sections rearranged to provide for the improvement or lack of improvement shown by different students.

On the intervening week, the instructors, all of whom with the exception of language instructors, are regular army officers, and the majority of these, West Point graduates, rotate; thus, each student is taught by several teachers. The system of grading is on the basis of 30, the maximum, and 20, the minimum, which is equivalent to 66 and two-thirds, and which, at least, must be attained in every subject. One failure causes dismissal from college. Grades are averaged at the close of each semester, in June and December, when about 20 written reviews in each subject are given. Successful passing of these tests exempts one from the final examination. The close of the first term usually sees about 70 students dropped, with fewer for each succeeding year.

Tactics Drill Classes are over at 3 o'clock, (on Saturday, at noon), and tactics or drill is held until 5:15, with the remainder of time until 6 o'clock given over to the students as free. This is during the winter; in spring and fall parades, drills, or inter-mural athletics are held until 5 o'clock. Dinner is at 6:25, and call to quarters at 7. From 7 until 10 o'clock, students are confined to their rooms for study; they are permitted to go to bed at 9:30—lights out at 10. On Saturday afternoons, inspection of clothing and equipment is held and the rest of the afternoon is considered free. Athletic games are sometimes scheduled for these afternoons and there is always a hop and movie that night, besides during the summer, two hops during the week. (West Pointers are required to qualify in dancing and swimming). Visitors are allowed over the weekend, and the remainder of Sunday following church attendance in the morning which is compulsory. A week is devoted to tactics in the different branches, and in the spring and fall, two hours to infantry drill. In the summer camp, work is confined to the mornings with most of the afternoons free.

The second year, students are allowed a 10-day Christmas leave, and during the summer, a 10-week furlough. The third year, they are given a 10-day Christmas leave, and during the summer, they visit Langley Field, Virginia for a week's instruction in flying, Fort Eustis, Virginia for instruction in field artillery, Fort Monroe, Virginia for a week's instruction in coast artillery, Camp Meade, Maryland, where they attend tank school for three days and then return to summer camp at West Point. On May 4, of the last year, the students visit Aberdeen proving ground for observation of the experimental station where the newest military devices are tested.

Honor Council Strict as the rules governing the school are, there is no sort of student government outside of an honor council composed of senior students. The honor system, which pledges students to observe certain regulations and principles and to report other students seen in disobedience of them, is employed. This is one of the very few instances where this system, experimented with in institutions all over the country, has been found to operate effectively. Disregard of the honor code is punishable by dismissal or forced resignation.

Demerits are given for minor offenses—nine are allowed each month—and for every additional demerit, one hour of marching, gun on shoulder, during the time otherwise designated as free, or confinement to room is imposed. Demerits also shorten the Christmas leaves and in the case of a great number occasion dismissal for misconduct. Should a cadet marry he is considered to have automatically resigned. $90 per month is placed to the credit of each cadet by the government, and from this is taken his board which amounts to about $32.50, all articles which he buys, and his uniforms. Uniforms consist of dress gray worn to classes, gray trousers and full dress coat to be worn on parade during the summer, and all white uniforms. Five dollars in coupons redeemable at the post stores is allowed them each month also. Chesley plans to take up training in air service and will report in September either to March Field, Riverside, Calif., or Brook Field, San Antonio.

Discarded Player Leads in Hitting

NEW YORK, June 23.—George Fisher, St. Louis outfielder who was discarded by the New York Giants as incapable of coping with major league pitching, and Al Simmons, ace of the Philadelphia Athletics sluggers, are leading the major leagues in hitting. United Press averages showed today. The averages include games of Thursday, June 26.

New World's Record in Backstroke Swim

THERE'S A REASON CHARLESTON, S. C.—What if Charleston's population did decrease more than 5,000 persons since 1930? Schmeling Lays Blame for Fouls at Door of New York Boxing Comm'n

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, June 23.—Before sailing for Germany last night aboard the S. S. Bremen, Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, laid responsibility for the current epidemic of fights which end in fouls squarely at the door of the New York State Athletic commission.

"When a commission protects a fighter as Jack Sharkey was protected, when it fails to punish him in any way after he has hit foul, when it makes it possible for him to fight again for the world championship within three months, is it any wonder there are so many fouls?" asked Schmeling.

Schmeling said he was planning to return to meet Sharkey in a return bout in September. He said it with a touch of bitterness.

"If I had the misfortune to foul Sharkey, although I never fouled a man in my life, where would I be?" demanded Max "Would they have called me, as Commissioner Muldon called Sharkey, 'the most unhappy man in the world?' Would they have insisted that Sharkey defend the title against me in the fall?"

Schmeling proposed drastic punishment for the fighter commit-

Rival Governors War for Office

EL PASO, June 23.—A "battle of the governors" was on today in Chihuahua City, Mexico.
Latest reports received here said that Governor Francisco C. Almada and Jesus Manuel Estrada, who was proclaimed governor after a coup Wednesday by the Chihuahua chamber of deputies, were established in the governmental palace.

Estrada, a political supporter of Manuel Prieto, candidate for governor of the state in the coming election of July 20, was reported to have set up offices in a legislative chamber of the palace, with Almada occupying his regular suite.

Political observers in Juarez today predicted the central government likely would ignore the claims of both Almada and Estrada and appoint a third man to lead the state administration until after the election.

Hoover Wins Point in Vets Measure

WASHINGTON, June 28.—President Hoover won another point in his contest with congress over World War veterans legislation today when the senate finance committee reported the house compromise pension bill to the senate without a major charge.

The bill will not be taken up by the senate until Monday.

The decision of the committee was unanimous after the more liberal Walsh-Conally bill had been defeated on a roll call, 11 to 8. Advocates of the more liberal measure announced they intend to make another fight against the so-called Hoover bill when it is brought to the floor of the senate Monday for debate.

TWO THEORIES
ADVANCED IN LINGLE CASE

CHICAGO, June 28.—Two sensational theories were advanced today to explain the gang murder of Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, an assassination whose ramifications have extended into public officialdom and into the underworld. One of the theories was that Lingle was sacrificed by the Moran-Aiello north side gang of gamblers and liquor racketeers in order that the ensuing indignation would result in the capture of Police Commissioner William F. Russell and Chief of Detectives John Stege, who had been "pushing the gang around."

The other theory was that Lingle failed to "fix" dog racing for "Scarface" Al Capone and paid for the failure with his life.

Neither theory had the indorsement of the "clearing house" setup by combined law enforcement agencies to investigate the gang murder that has stirred Chicago more than any other of the 100 or so in the last year. In the investigation of Lingle's financial dealings with both public officials and gangsters, it became known that the $65-a-week reporter never has filed an income tax return.

That angle was revealed by Mrs. Myrtle Blackledge Tanner, collector of internal revenue. She did not indicate any action was contemplated in the matter.

Clamped Lid. In working out the first theory, investigators pointed out that the police department had clamped a lid on gambling and liquor, the two chief sources of revenue for George "Boss" Moran and Joe Aiello, the notorious gang leader.

By murdering him in a public place, the gangsters believed the resulting indignation would cause the ouster of Russell and Stege, according to the theory.

The other theory — that Lingle failed to "fix" the dog tracks for Capone — was almost opposite to the first. "Scarface" Al enemy of Moran and Aiello, had about $1,000,000 invested in dog tracks that furnished much revenue to his gang. Through a long series of court actions they were forbidden to operate and the decision upheld in the state supreme court, which decided that pari-mutuel betting applied only to horse racing.

According to the theory it was Lingle's job to see that they ran.

Drive on Kansas
Bootleggers Starts

PITTSBURGH, Kan., June 28.—Federal prohibition agents moved to wipe out bootlegging nests in the abandoned mine districts of southeastern Kansas today. Thirty-five agents, working under direction of Col. George Wark, new federal prohibition director for the ninth district, began a series of raids in an effort to halt an extensive illicit liquor industry reported to be thriving in abandoned mines of Crawford county.

In the first haul brought in eight stills, 700 gallons of whiskey and 12 alleged liquor law violators. It was said the officers had warrants for the arrest of 105 persons and for the search of thirteen establishments.

Liquor in this section, made from sugar and retailed as low as $3.50 a gallon, was reported being shipped in all directions, including a big market in Kansas City.

Since mining operations slumped in this section many unemployed men were reported to have turned to whiskey making in underground breweries in an effort to support families.

Posse Kills Negro

Confession Read. The negro admitted in the confession read aloud that he had beaten the eight couples, but denied harming the woman otherwise. Three charges have been filed against him.

Marries Girl Near Death After Shot

OSWEGO, Kas., June 28.—Edward Remington sat at the bedside of his 17-year-old wife today, and watched with downcast eyes the efforts of physicians to save her life.

Remington and Leona Bruchlow were married only yesterday. Leona was so weak that witnesses could barely hear her answers to the minister's questions.

Remington came to the hospital when physicians announced that Leona had very little chance to recover from self-inflicted gunshot wounds. Edward said he wanted to marry Leona. She smiled weakly and acquiesced.

She shot herself Thursday night following a quarrel with Edward.

COMMUNISTS REPULSED FROM CONSULATE

NEW YORK, June 28.—A group of 500 persons — including many who claimed to be communists — demonstrated in front of the British consulate today and police clubbed several of them.

The group, officers said, had been warned against appearing at the building.

When the crowd appeared and started ascending the stairway the 30 uniformed patrolmen and a few plain clothesmen started using their night sticks to disperse the crowd.

The party first gathered in the vicinity of Union Square, where they carried placards urging against British rule in India. They carried placards urging against present Indian difficulties, calling for independence of American colonies and also urging people to join the communist party.

Police warned them against marching on the consulate and there were several short stiffs. Police instead of arresting at this early stage led the demonstrators to a subway station and urged them to leave the district.

One large group was finally surrounded by police. First reports said several were bleeding about the head. The group was passive for a period until several hundred more arrived and they started forcing their way towards the consulate.

Police gave way slowly and finally a small group broke away, creeling the block and started ascending the consulate steps. It was then that the police started actual night club tactics to disperse the crowd.

Bigamy Case Is Reversed on Appeal

AUSTIN, June 28.—Riley Hops, whom it was seriously doubted had a wife living in Texas, met Louise Allison in Wichita Falls, courted her, proposed marriage, was accepted and going with her to Davidson, Oklahoma, took out a marriage license and went through a marriage ceremony before a Baptist minister there. Returning to Wichita Falls they lived together.

Hops was charged with bigamy convicted and given two years' sentence in Wichita county. At his trial he asked the court to instruct the jury for an acquittal. The court of criminal appeals yesterday decided he was right.

If there was an offense it was in Oklahoma and punishable there, not in Texas, the majority of the court held.

Justice O. S. Lattimore dissented, upholding the construction of the trial court that the Oklahoma marriage was void and that Hops and his second wife were living in common law marriage in Texas.

"Having married under ceremony in Oklahoma, it seems inconsistent to stamp their conduct in Texas as common law marriage," said the majority of the appellate court.

Trading Volume on Exchange Falls Off

NEW YORK, June 28.—Trading volume on the stock exchange fell off to the pace of mid 1928 with prices moving irregularly in a narrow range.

A firmer tendency was noted just before the close with U. S. Steel leading the advance.

General Electric featured the list, rising 2 points in fair sized turnover. Westinghouse also was up 2 points and gains ranging from fractions to a point were noted in such issues as Radio Corporation, Vanadium, American Can, J. I. Case, National Power and Light and consolidated Gas, Houston Oil and Standard Oil of N. J.

Bals went to lower ground in the early trading with Southern Railway making a new low since 1925 at 89 1/8, off 3 3/8. Southern Railway regained a bit of the loss before the close as did other carriers.

POSSE BATTLES
THREE ALLEGED BLACKMAILERS

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., June 28.—A sheriff's posse of thirty men engaged today in a gun battle on a highway north of here with three alleged blackmailers.

Although several rounds of shots were fired, no one was believed injured. Sheriff Jack M. Snyder and his posse pursued the trio as they fled into a wooded section.

The three men, whose names are not known to police, were trapped when they met two Cape Girardeau business men, George Meyer and Clay Henderberger, to receive $5,000 they had demanded.

Meyer and Henderberger had been told by the three men to bring $2,500 each to a place on highway 81 north of here early today, or "you and your families will be killed."

Sheriff Snyder was notified of the plot and he and his men lay in ambush just off the roadway. Henderberger and Meyer delivered two packages of counterfeit bills.

The posse continued the search in Madison and St. Francois counties, but early this afternoon had found no trace of the men.

ROTARY ENDS
AT CHICAGO

By WOLFE LARSON United Press Staff Correspondent. CHICAGO, June 28.—Inspirational messages pointing the way to world peace were started around the globe today by home-returning Rotarians, whose silver jubilee convention ended yesterday.

As the final plenary session came to a close, Almon E. Roth, business manager of Stanford university of Palo Alto, Cal., was announced as the new president of Rotary International. He was elected in Thursday's balloting by a vote of 2,216, defeating Raymond J. Knappell, New York corporation lawyer, who received 1,119.

On Knappell's motion Roth was declared unanimously named for the office.

United States delegates elected as their five representatives on the board of directors Clinton P. Anderson, Albuquerque, N. M.; Claybrook Cottle, Pineville, La.; Richard C. Hedke, Detroit; Howard W. Selby, West Palm Beach, Fla., and Will Taylor, Springfield, Ill.

Admiral Mark Kerr, of London, addressed the concluding session on "The Interdependence of Nations" and urged the United States to assume responsibility for international peace through a warning against war to all nations.

He praised the Monroe doctrine for the part it had played in maintaining peace in the western hemisphere and suggested that it be used for a model in issuing the warning.

The United States as "arbiter of the world with regard to peace," should declare that any nation engaging in war without first seeking arbitration of its disputes, should be condemned by this country as doing an act "dangerous to our peace and safety and a manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States," he said.

Convinced Bomb Aimed at Husband

AMARILLO, June 28.—Investigators were convinced today that the nitro-glycerine bomb which killed Mrs. A. D. Layne was meant to cause the death of her husband, an attorney who recently withdrew as a candidate for district judge.

A motive was lacking, however, for the blast wrecked the car which Mrs. Payne was driving soon after the lawyer and his small daughter had gotten out yesterday.

The bomb had been wired to the under side of the automobile. The force of the explosion hurled the car through the front of a store building. Mrs. Payne was killed instantly and a son seriously injured.

The attorney was at loss for a motive to explain the plot to kill him.

High Temperatures Shift to the East

DALLAS, June 28.—Texas' high temperature belt had shifted to the eastern part of the state, with record-breaking marks highly possible. The mercury stood at 97 here at noon, five degrees hotter than it has been at that hour at any time this week.

No change in temperature over the state is contained in the government forecast. Temple and Corsicana were the hottest spots in Texas yesterday, registering 108.

Eastland, Graham, Lufkin, Quanah and Port Arthur, representing several parts of the state, each reported 102.

On the plains, where the highest temperatures usually prevail, the Friday level ranged from 92 to 94, far below the average temperatures in east Texas.
