Moody Refuses to Call Session to Limit Cotton Lands

SAYS FARMERS COULD OPPOSE LIMITATION

Session, if Called, Will Be For Relief Purely, Says

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—Governor Dan Moody today declined to call a special session of the Texas legislature to enact a bill requiring cotton acreage reduction. The possibility of submitting a cotton acreage reduction bill in case a session is called for drought relief also vetoed by Governor Moody. If a drought relief session is called it will be for that purpose alone, Governor Moody told the committee, which asked for a cotton session. He will ask the members of the legislature to serve without pay for such session if it is held.

The committee calling on the governor included J. E. McDonald, Waxahatchie, democratic nominee state agricultural commissioner and author of a cotton acreage reduction law which did not pass the legislature. Representative Ray Holder of Lancaster was also on the committee which represented proposals advanced by the Ellis county agricultural club.

Moody Oppose It
Governor Moody told the committee that while he would not say at most of the farmers of Texas now opposed to a state law requiring acreage reduction that if it passed such a law and other ten states did not, Texas farmers would be opposed to it. He asked the committee that the most advisable course is to call the federal farm board to take lead in recommending concerted action upon the cotton states. If the federal farm board enacts such a bill and the U. S. attorney general and the Texas attorney general approve it, will you call a session to pass it? Asked C. Bullard, general attorney for the Peck Cotton association, "I will not commit myself to a special session," said Governor Moody's reply.

McDonald declared that appeal the farm board will not avail because the farm board has declared it will not dictate what action states all take. Texas as the leading cotton state, McDonald said, is the governor Moody call upon other states to follow. He attributed his victory in the democratic primary to advocacy of a cotton acreage reduction law.

MOODY FAVOR SPECIAL SESSION.
AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—Overwhelming sentiment of members of the legislature in favor of a special session to enact cotton acreage reduction legislation and provide drought relief is reported by members of a committee here today to confer with Governor Dan Moody on the topic.

Ray Holder of Lancaster, member of the committee, has replied from members of the legislature to a questionnaire on a special session, saying that the majority in favor of such a session is from three to four to one.

J. E. McDonald, democratic nominee for state agricultural commissioner, and author of the cotton acreage reduction law effected at the session of the legislature, is elsewhere.

A conference with the governor will not be held until near the end of the legislative session, according to the legislative committee investigating University of Texas endowments.

Salute! Mussolini Approaches

Benito Mussolini usually wears the military Fascist uniform when he appears in public—but here he is in gleaming white, with a yachtman's cap. He is shown as he inspected Camp Mussolini, a Fascist training camp for young Italians near Rome. Notice the upraised hands, the Fascist salute.

AGED MAN IS HELD IN HIS SON'S DEATH

Indictment Returned by Grand Jury at Eastland

C. H. Burrow, aged Erath county man, is being held on an Eastland county grand jury indictment charging him with murder in connection with the death of his son, W. H. Burrow, 35, near Desdemona on Sept. 14. Burrow lives just over the Erath-Eastland county line in Erath county.

W. H. Burrow, according to the officers, was shot in the left leg when he went to the home of his father and mother for the purpose of settling some trouble between the parents. Burrow was advised by his physician to have the wounded leg amputated, but declined. A few days later he decided it would have to be amputated and returned to the hospital at Gorman where the operation was performed on September 12. Burrows died two days later.

According to the officers Burrow's wife was leaving his home and had placed some feather pillows in the car in which she was to leave. Burrows objected to her taking the pillows and took them out of the car. The son picked them up and replaced them in the car. Burrows then went into the house and returned with a shotgun and the shooting followed.

The shooting, it is stated, occurred just 400 yards over the Erath-Eastland county line in Erath county. Under the law the case may be investigated by the first grand jury to get to it in this case Burrow was indicted by the 88th district grand jury at Eastland.

Burrow, it is stated, is being held at Stephenville.

$800,000 in Road Work to Be Let

Lipton Proud of His Cup

CHEROBOUG, France, Oct. 3.—Sir Thomas told visitors on the America's cup, said today that he would "treasure the Will Rogers cup more than the America's cup because it will be filled to overflowing with America's heart."

A fund to buy a loving cup for Sir Thomas has been collected in New York after being suggested by Will Rogers, the humorist.
"But I want another mug, too," Sir Thomas Lipton returned levitating en route to England. "I thought about it all the way across the Atlantic and decided to challenge again as soon as the rules allow meeting the Americans at their own game with Ultra-Modern Gadgets."

UNITIZATION PROPOSED AS OIL REMEDY

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 3.—Unitization as a third proposed remedy for the ailing domestic oil industry was sounded today as the keynote of the seventh International Petroleum Exposition and Congress which opens here Saturday.

The 13 million dollar stage for this annual spectacle of the oil industry was set today as oil men from all parts of the world arrived here for the sessions which end October 11.

Pronouncement of unit operation of oil pools as perhaps the effective method to stabilize the oil industry, said to be suffering from aniquated field development methods, was made by leaders attending opening sessions of petroleum division of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical engineers.

With proration of production, having failed in part to give satisfaction and with alleged breaches of curtailment of importation of foreign crude, the engineers advocated unitization as an integral part of industry control.

Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce, will open the exposition tomorrow with presentation of his views on the petroleum industries economic position.

Another Large Wolf Taken by Trapper

Government Trapper F. B. Mathews captured another large male wolf this morning. The animal was taken on the Lawrence ranch about 6 miles northwest of Cisco.

Mr. Mathews reports that wolves are getting scarce and that there is little complaint from poultry and stock raisers about depredations of the animals. However, he says, there are several wolves yet to be caught. Most of these survivors are trap shy and it takes some hard work and subtle thinking to catch them.

Varnell President of West Texas Ass'n

E. H. Varnell, vocational instructor in the Cisco high school, was elected president of the West Texas Vocational Teachers association organized last week at Abilene. The association has twenty members and is professional in purpose. Meetings will be held bi-monthly or six times a year. Problems confronting vocational instructors in their work and the discussion of new ideas will occupy the program at these meetings.

Nye Says Kelley Charges Due Probe

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Charges by Ralph Kelley of favoritism in the award of the title to oil shale lands are entitled to thorough investigation, Chairman Gerald P. Nye of the senate public lands committee said today after a conference with the suspended head of the field division of the general land office in Denver.

Kelley's charges do not involve Secretary of Interior Wilbur Nye said, but do relate to the administration under Wilbur. The senator said Kelley and Nye would not submit his charges to the department of justice because he believed Seth W. Richardson, assistant attorney general, assigned to make the department's investigation had prejudged the case.

SECOND AIR RAID MADE UPON MINES

MADISONVILLE, Ky., Oct. 3.—The second air raid upon coal mines of western Kentucky within two months brought to a practical standstill all operations in the Ross company fields near Madisonville today.

Miners feared to go to work, they said, because of an attack yesterday when an aviator swooped over the field, dropping flaming torches which endangered the company property.

The raid was attributed to labor troubles.

The second raid was different from one upon mine property at Providence two months ago only in that torches were dropped instead of bombs.

Six men, including Aviator James Malone of Murphysboro, Illinois, were indicted in connection with the Providence attack.

BOY SCOUTS TO PRESENT CIRCUS HERE

At a meeting held in E. P. Crawford's office Thursday evening final plans were made to present the Boy Scout circus in Cisco Friday night, October 10. Judge Eugene Lanford was selected publicity chairman. Hugh S. White was named ticket sales chairman, to be assisted by J. D. Lauderdale and others that he may select.

The circus will be staged at the high school auditorium. Over 100 scouts and Scout officials will participate in the program, from Ranger, Eastland, Breckenridge, Rising Star and Cisco. It is educational as well as entertaining.

Have Not Learned Woman's Identity

PORT WORTH, Oct. 3.—Police have not yet learned identity of the woman with T. H. Hutson when he was robbed by a negro, then bound and gagged Wednesday night.

Hutson told officers he picked up a woman, whose name he does not know, a few minutes before the robbery.

The woman was in the auto when the negro drove off in it after the hold up, according to police reports. Hutson's auto was found Thursday on the ten mile bridge road.

Three Dead in Colorado Storm

FWLER, Colo., Oct. 3.—A tornado that swept across a rural section of Colorado left in its wake today three dead, two injured and much damaged property, including a flattened farmhouse 14 miles north of here.

G. W. Lackey, Collier Nobles and Mrs. J. B. Downing were injured fatally when the flimsy structure in which they had sought refuge collapsed under the force of the wind. Henry Hushaw and Mrs. J. P. Downing, daughter-in-law of the Mrs. Downing who was killed, were injured, the woman seriously. A four-months' old baby of the younger Mrs. Downing was not hurt.

TO BE USED TO BUY SEED FOR FARMERS

Disposition Will Be Made Through Relief Committee

J. E. Spencer, of Cisco, county Red Cross chairman, announced today that the sum of $1,500 has been allotted Eastland county for distribution among needy farmers to be used in the purchase of seed for new crops. Distribution of this relief will be made through Mr. Spencer as chairman of the county chapter, County Agent J. C. Patterson, and County Judge Clyde I. Garrett.

One request for aid has already been received by Mr. Spencer he said today. These requests are investigated and if meritorious, an order is issued which is taken by the farmer to his merchant where he is given the seed asked for. The bill is then sent to the Red Cross headquarters for this district at Wichita Falls where payment is made.

Comment Aid
Bankers and others with whom this relief has been discussed have expressed the opinion that it will be of great value to needy farmers this year and do much toward placing them in a better position for making another crop. The cost of seed is such that $1,500 will go a long way toward supplying growers with this necessity.

The cost of seed for planting an acre and one-fourth of an acre is estimated by the committee as follows:

Wheat, one acre, .....	$1.00
Barley, one acre, .....	1.25
Rye, one acre, .....	1.00
Oats, one acre, .....	1.20
Rape, one acre, .....	1.00
Turnips, 1-4 acre, .....	.25
Spinach 1-4 acre, .....	.40
Radish, 1-4 acre, .....	.10
Total .....	$6.20

HITTSOON WELL SUCCESSFULLY FINISHED NOW

The Warner-Quinlan Hittsoon No. 1 gas well, in the Maggie Gray area 8 miles north of Cisco, has at length been completed and closed into the lines. The well tested 30,400,000 cubic feet of gas with between 1,400 and 1500 pounds rock pressure at the time of production.

Great difficulty was encountered in completing this well after it came in unexpectedly several weeks ago. Gas broke out around the seating of the eight-inch casing and had to be mudd off. Considerable open hole below the six-inch had to be underreamed so that the pipe could be lowered and this caused off.

It was necessary to kill off the gas with a hole full of mud before this could be done and then during the underreaming process the gas broke out again.

The difficulties have been successfully overcome, however, and the well is now in good condition.

  2. The elder women as mothers; the younger as sisters, with all purity.

THE EFFECT OF "THE FIX"

If you ever wonder why it is that such a city as Chicago continues to be overrun with gunmen who have their complete freedom despite the fact that any school child can enumerate their crimes by the dozen, it might pay you to consider a recent article in The Nation by Lawrence Howe.

Mr. Howe was a detective sergeant in Chicago for two decades, and consequently speaks with the authority of long experience. Pointing out that Chicago has 100 times as many robberies annually as London, and 12 times as many as all of Canada, he proceeds to answer the question, "How come?"

To begin with, he points out that Chicago's geographical location, her pre-eminence as a railroad center, her proximity to state boundaries and the nearness of half a dozen state prisons condemn her, inevitably, to more than her share of crooks. But that isn't all of it. He goes on to repeat what he once told a candidate for mayor, who had asked him if it would be possible to rid Chicago of criminals.

"I assured him," he writes, "that if I were permitted to pick 25 detectives, trustworthy and competent officers who knew the underworld, and had charge of their activities, I would undertake to rid Chicago of all professional crooks in 60 days, provided the mayor would carry out his part of the program. His part would be to see that when we made an arrest and presented sufficient, reliable, conclusive evidence to prove the man guilty, there would be no fixing of the case. A conviction must follow.

"The judges, state's attorneys, court clerks and politicians must not be allowed to be bought by the accused in an effort to thwart justice. They must be invulnerable to all approaches, whether of bribery, politics or friendship. The candidate for the mayoralty recognized the futility of attempting such a drastic reform."

It is that final sentence that sticks in one's memory. "The candidate for the mayoralty recognized the futility of attempting such a drastic reform." Why? Simply because the "fix"—the use of extra-legal methods to gain special favors—is such an integral part of American municipal government that trying to root it out is accepted, by men familiar with such matters, as an utterly hopeless task.

This, in turn, obviously means that the country's war on its criminal class is, just at present, decidedly a losing struggle. Favoritism is too deeply entrenched. Scoundrels have too many influential friends.

If this were Chicago's hard luck alone it would not be so bad. But it isn't. Chicago is not very unlike other American cities. It is just bigger. Other cities duplicate its faults. Mr. Howe's remarks apply for all of us.

$500,000,000 FOR TRAVEL.

The close of the tourist season brings the estimate that American travelers this summer spent no less than $500,000,000 to visit Europe. That is a rather big piece of change; one wonders just what the American tourist got for his money.

In some cases, probably, he got nothing at all. The man who goes to Paris only to infest the American bar and exchange home-town reminiscences with some other compatriot might just as well be staying at home. But for the most part, very likely, the tourists got their money's worth. In crossing the ocean they got a glimpse of a civilization that is quite unlike their own.

Even granting the contention that many tourists remain quite impervious to the effects of this exposure of old-world culture, it is obvious that the effect on America as a whole must be considerable. Provincialism cannot live where people go traveling on such a scale.

OKLAHOMA UNIVERSITY HITS HIGH MARK.

Oklahoma had a drought but the drought isn't keeping the Oklahoma youth from college or university. Indeed the university, at Norman, opened with an approximate increase of 400 students over last fall. President W. B. Bizzell predicts the actual residence enrollment this year will reach 7800 and the school of petroleum engineering, largest in the world, already has a 10 per cent increase. Why speak of the drought? Jupiter Pluvius favored the dry sections with copious floods of his liquid fluid and then hope returned to the bosom of man. "Only the game fish swim up the stream." And the game fish are swimming in Oklahoma.

ANOTHER CABINET CREATION ADVISED

Rep. Ruth Bryan Owen of Florida has drafted a bill for the creation of a department of home and child in the president's cabinet to coordinate education and child welfare activities. This Owen creation would be headed by a woman cabinet member. It would be authorized to conduct experiment and surveys in health, hygiene, in infancy and prenatal care, education and training, neglect, dependency, delinquency, child labor, family housing and home economics.

Mrs. Owen is the daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan. He classified himself a Jeffersonian democrat. His daughter may not know it but she has been indoctrinated with the gospel taught by Alexander Hamilton. Jefferson was the champion of states rights. It is a long call from the Bryanian creed to the ancient gospel of the founder of the democratic party. "Let the federal government do it" is the slogan of many modern democrats. "Let the state do it" was the slogan of the democrats who followed the flags of Jefferson and Jackson and Grover Cleveland.

A paternalistic government appears to be on the way.

PRaise FOR THE JEWS.

"The Jewish race has made numberless contributions to the progress of humanity but none so precious as their contribution to the spiritual life of mankind," was the message from President Hoover to American Jews on the eve of the celebration of the Jewish new year. Similar messages were received from Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Lieutenant Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York.

All this is a reminder that in the long ago Roger Williams whispered this message in the ears of New England Puritans: "My gospel is religious freedom for all mankind." Then he made a wild plunge into the wild forest to the camp of the nearest Indian tribe.

Henry Ford is reminded that all history is "not bunk."

SPLendid PUBLICITY FOR A CIRCUS.

Rangers were ordered to Shamrock to prevent the holding of a circus on Sunday. The circus manager bowed to the law and public opinion. He had received the meatest volume of advertising in the southwest that his "greatest on earth" had been given since the initial performance in early springtime. Every circus crowd has a golden lining. Publicity is the thing. Advertising sells the goods too on the counter. Printer's ink is a world beater.

OTHER OPINIONS

ROME AND CHICAGO

The gangsters organized in Rome, although we can't imagine why, for Italy has no 18th amendment to make criminals, but anyway they organized and started in with vim to run the Eternal City. There isn't any gangsters there now. Mussolini had 336 of them shot one morning last week. Rome now has no gangster problem.

Here is the way Chicago handles the gangster problem. The attorney general of Illinois has just finished an investigation of the personnel of the men who held the last election in Chicago and he finds that 831 of them had a police record, that 136 of them had served a term in the penitentiary and that 902 had been convicted of some infraction of the law. No wonder Big Bill Thompson can be elected mayor on a platform of opposition to King George.

The statement of the attorney general has staggered the good citizens of Chicago, not one in fifty of whom would likely undergo the inconvenience of helping hold an election.

THE LIPTON CUP

For some days we have been saying that most Americans wanted Sir Thomas Lipton to win the cup; the response to Will Rogers' suggestion that he be given a cup all for himself indicates that we were not far wrong. Indeed, Rogers seems to have hit upon something that was in the mind of everybody, for on the afternoon that the last race was sailed we received a number of telephone calls from people who wanted to know if there was not something that could be done that would express the country's affection for the aging sportsman.

Well, Rogers made a fine suggestion, and the Evening World has been glad to take it up with a campaign to raise the money. No contributions will be accepted of more than $1; this was decided on partly because $1 lies within the means of everybody, and partly because $1 bills are the same color as the Shamrock's hull. We hereby call on all patriotic citizens to peel one of these beautiful green bills from the outside of their bankrolls, put it in an envelope and mail it to the Lipton Cup Fund, the Evening World, New York.

The cup, when it is finally presented, ought to go a long way toward solving a defeat that must be a great disappointment after all these years of trying. At any rate, it will let Sir Thomas know what this country thinks of him.

—N. Y. Evening World.

IT IS the "just right" combination that makes for style in the gown — and good taste in a cigarette.

Nothing can take the place of the right use of the right tobaccos. Chesterfield's long-tested methods of mellowing and blending the choicest cigarette tobaccos have no counterpart. Thus Chesterfield stands out for—

WRITES FINIS TO RED STORY

By ROBERT N. BLUM
Press Staff Correspondent
SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Calif., Oct. 3.—A white carnation today finishes to the crimson story of the prison Northcott.

Northcott, Los Angeles evangelist who befriended and advised Northcott until the very moment the gallows were raised, brought a letter to the mother of the dead Mrs. Sara Louise Northcott, who is serving a life sentence here, in serving a life sentence here, Northcott's past request, containing a letter to his father and dated only a few hours before his execution, was "please, I want white carnations on my coffin."

The quiet funeral services in the little bay town of Richmond, Calif., opposite Point San Quentin, the grim prison stands, there were no white roses to be found, so carnations were substituted. Only one but Newgent, who officiated, Cyrus Northcott, the father, two morticians was in attendance as the last rites were read. The father, whom his son had befriended in his confession just before the gallows, was on his way back to Riverside in company with deputy sheriffs today, although not under arrest. Two women who traveled weary from southern California to see if they could wrest those same carnations from Gordon Northcott also were planning their return today in their quest unfulfilled.

They were Mrs. Christine Collins, Mrs. Walter Winslow, whose husband Walter Collins and Lewis and son Winslow, were supposed to have been Northcott's victims. Northcott refused to admit knowledge of the fate of the boys to the men. The conflicting stories he made it evident the women had to go to the prison on a wild goose chase.

Yesterday was the hanging. Today is a new day, and the sticks of the gallows that Northcott's cover was ascent to the gallows and the jerking drop had long since been taken down and been forgotten. But Mrs. Northcott holds her carnation to her breast and gazes wistfully into the distance from a grilled window. She will not forget.

Dallas Gasoline Dealers Incorporate

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—Dallas Independent Gasoline Dealers have incorporated for their fight with the company filling stations. Under the name of Dallas Independent Gasoline Dealers they have chartered a $5,000 company here. Indications that the Dallas gasoline fight may become statewide is seen in the admission of Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt that complaints have come to his department from various parts of the state similar to that made by Dallas independent dealers. The Dallas dealers are formally requesting an investigation to see if state anti-trust laws are being violated. Attorney General Bobbitt declined to commit himself on whether a state wide investigation is on at this time.

Georgia Lady Tells of Buying Her First Package of This Medicine in 1876.

Gainesville, Ga.—Theodore's Black-Draught has been in use for the relief of constipation, indigestion and biliousness, for nearly one hundred years, and many people tell of having taken it, when needed, all their lives.

Mrs. M. C. Barron, of 64 West Myrtle Street, this city, recalls her first use of Black-Draught, fifty-three years ago.

"When I lived in Forsyth, Ga., in 1876," says Mrs. Barron, "I bought my first Black-Draught at Mr. Jim Jay's store. He was selling it, and some one in the store recommended it to me for biliousness, and as I was having trouble and needed a purgative, I bought it. If I get constipated, I have headaches and feel so tired and sluggish, and such a bad taste in my mouth. But after I take a few doses of Black-Draught I get all right."

"In all these years, I have never found a better medicine of the kind. I am satisfied, so why change? I recommend it to old and young."

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Leonard Shadow and Laton Fisher, negroes, were electrocuted at the Cook county jail today for the murder on January 18, 1929, of Martin French, 70 year old negro bank guard.

The executions brought to an end a series of desperate legal battles which had been waged for 18 months and which recently elicited a vigorous protest from the Cook County Bankers' association because of the delay.

Another negro, Leon Brown, is scheduled to die October 11 for the same crime unless the supreme court reverses a decision declaring him sane.

Now say Mr. Man, don't you think it would be very nice to give your wife a rest Sunday by taking her and the family to the CABLES HOUSE for dinner? They have such good veal roast with all the trimmings, nice cream gravy, and such delicious vegetables. Can't you just smell the aroma now? It's just 50 cents and your wife would enjoy the meal — somebody's cooking other than her own. You'll see so many of your friends there too.

that honey atmosphere to the dormitory room and harmonize perfectly with the rose and green or any combination of color schemes. Pictures — colorful pictures — that will brighten the rooms and break the drab bareness of the walls. They are only 49c and will add so much not only to a dormitory room but to a home or an apartment.

And when they have been given a finishing touch by a good shine, they will look like new and what's more — they will feel much better. Instead of detracting from your appearance, they will add to it. Notice too while you are there, the selection of Wear-U-Way shoes for women, men and children, which the Hospital is offering for only $3.00.

A hat, a handbag, and a pair of hose—now, who do you suppose will be the lucky girls to receive these prizes offered by BLANCHE'S for the best ad telling of their complete line in women's and children's ready-to-wear. Sit down right now—it can just as well be you. But first stop in Blanche's for a "look-see" and you'll go home with a dozen different ideas. Then your only problem is to confine it to a 2 column by 3 inch space and head it with an interest-arousing lead. October 15 is the last day so write it now and send it to Blanche's.

Of course you can't carry your old bag with your new suit. You must have one of those beautiful costume bags that JNO. H. GARNER'S are showing in silk, or in soft downy antelope, or dull kid. If your ensemble is black, then you should have that antelope bag lined with red moire—it is gorgeous! Then gloves — the eight-button length in suede or kid and in black and all shades of brown complemented by the new colored glass bracelets to be worn over the glove or sleeve. A pair of tricky shoes, such as Garner's are showing in reptile and dull kids — and your fall outfit is complete.

Let Mary Lou give you a tip as to where you can purchase the newest "new" in sport clothes. As if you couldn't guess — at THE SPORT SHCPEP And there, surrounded by tweed suits, knit suits, and silk suits in 3 piece or 2 with chic bolero jackets, straight lined coats or fitted coats, you will have a hard task in deciding on just one. Besides these, they have those fascinating new Russian tunic frocks with great wide sleeves — sleeves are doing such tricky things this season. One, a brown combination of velvet and crepe is beautiful. And I must mention the wine crepe with pony jacket and the — but you see for yourself. Written descriptions don't do them justice.

They are adorable — the tunic, bolero, drapes, pleats, and flares of the Claudia Dell frocks which are being shown at KLEIMAN'S. And the unbelievable thing — prepare for a shock — they are priced at only $12.85 — some being as low as $8, $9, and $10. The quality of the smart crepes in which they are fashioned is equal to that found in much more expensive dresses, and the colors range through all the fall colors, blue, black, brown, green, and wine tones. To see them is to want them. At Kleiman's, remember.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Celia Mitchell, 17, faces a new life when she leaves the home in Baltimore where she has lived with her estranged mother, Margaret Rogers, to join her father, John Mitchell, and her grandmother in a stately New York dwelling.

The girl had not even known her father was living until the day he came to the Baltimore apartment. Celia had supposed Bob Rogers, her mother's second husband, to be her father. Mitchell offers the girl a life of wealth and immediately everything changes. She leaves her mother, unaware that Mrs. Rogers is seriously ill, and she leaves Barney Shields, a young newspaper photographer, who swears that some day he and Celia will be married.

The girl is lonely and ill at ease in her new home. Mitchell finds her in tears and is worried. He calls on Mrs. Evelyn Parsons, a beautiful widow whose husband was Mitchell's close friend. Mrs. Parsons agrees to introduce Celia to the right set of young people. It is obvious she is interested in the girl as a means to gain Mitchell's affections. To this end she invites Celia to spend a week-end at her Long Island home. Just as they are leaving a servant presses something into Celia's hand.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVII

The motor car turned into a wooded lane and ahead, set well back from the road, Celia saw a large white house. Mrs. Parsons waved a hand toward it.

"That's the place," she said. Then glancing at a wrist watch she added, "we've made good time driving."

"It looks lovely!" Celia murmured.

"I'm fond of it. This is where all my happiest hours have been spent," Evelyn Parsons' voice seemed so sincere, so sweetly brave that sympathy welled in the girl's heart. She had been told that Mrs. Parsons was a recent widow. And she had no idea that practically every visitor to Larchwood had heard the same speech about Evelyn's "happiest hours."

"The house was named for this double row of trees," Mrs. Parsons explained. "It was built by Dwight's father years ago."

Celia, feeling she was in the presence of grief, remained silent.

The car swung into the driveway. Close-cut rolling lawns stretched to either side and beyond, shading the rambling colonial house, were more of the larch trees. There were hollyhocks, larkspurs and other old-fashioned flowers at each side of the entrance. Green and white striped awnings covered the windows. Larchwood appeared delightfully hospitable.

"What a beautiful home!" Celia Mitchell exclaimed. She was contrasting it mentally with the Mitchell's dignified town house.

Mrs. Parsons smiled. The chauffeur was holding the door of the car back for the two to descend. Mrs. Parsons gave him instructions about the baggage and then led the way to the house.

A maid in becoming green uniform opened the door.

"Good morning, Milda. Have there been any telephone messages this morning?"

"No, ma'am."

"Good! Celia, Milda will show you to your room and whenever you're ready, my dear, we'll have luncheon. There are one or two housekeeping tasks I must attend to. Shall we say luncheon at 1:30?"

"Oh, yes—any time. You mustn't bother about me—"

"Not the slightest bother! Take Miss Mitchell upstairs, Milda."

Celia followed the maid. She was conducted to a cool and airy bedroom on the second floor. The room was brightly furnished in early American style with an old-fashioned four-posted bed, small, colorful rugs, chairs and a high chest of walnut. There were ruffled white tie-back curtains at the windows and a blue pottery bowl of daisies and snap dragons stood on a small table.

Milda departed and Celia made sure that the door had closed, securely behind her. Now that she was alone the girl seemed excited. For an instant she listened at the door.

MOTHER LEAVES CHILDREN AND FACES DEATH

Says Farewell Hard, But Recovery Easy Due to Crazy Water

In May, 1929, I was critically ill with Rheumatism; in fact, I was an invalid and had to be helped around. My husband decided to bring me to Mineral Wells as it looked as if there was no hope for me if I remained at home. But I had no confidence in Mineral Wells; in fact, I did not believe that anything or any place would relieve my suffering. You can imagine how I felt when I told my children "Good-Bye" when I did not expect to see them again.

I arrived in Mineral Wells on May 10th, last year, and in one week of the Crazy Water Treatment, I was able to walk and thirty days from the time I arrived I was well again, only a little weak.

I heartily recommend to everyone suffering from diseases caused by faulty elimination that they spend a few days rest at the Crazy Water Hotel in Mineral Wells, Texas, the home of Crazy water.

Mrs. F. M. Hilliard, Adv. Tulla, Texas.

door, then swung herself on the bed, drawing from her jacket a crumpled object. It was a letter.

"Miss Celia Mitchell, East 21st street, New York," the address read. The handwriting appeared to be familiar. Celia surveyed it a moment. Then she pressed the envelope to her heart. She flung her head back, smiling ecstatically.

Quickly Celia ripped the envelope open and drew forth the folded sheet. The smile vanished. Celia read feverishly:

"Dear Celia: It was certainly a tough break that was handed to me Saturday. Do you know where I was when your train pulled out? Half way to Glen Burnie chasing Joe Park, the guy who escaped from the penitentiary last week. No, we didn't get him, but it was an exciting afternoon."

"You see, I had everything lined up so I could finish early Saturday. Bradford was supposed to take my assignments after three o'clock. I was just about ready to beat it when the tip came in. Morgan yelled at me and said, 'You take this, Shields.' Well, of course there wasn't any use arguing. I didn't even have time to bluff."

"Casey went with me. It was a private tip to the city editor that Park could be found a house out there where a girl lives he used to be seen with before he was sent up. All the papers in town have been playing the Park story all week. It seemed like a hot lead, and we sure burned up the road. Well—that's about all there is to tell. It's just about time we went out there wasn't any such house number, and after two hours we decided there wasn't any such girl either. Finally when we called the office Morgan decided the whole thing was phoney. There was my afternoon gone—and you gone, too!"

"I called up your mother that evening, but I guess she didn't get my message. Anyhow, I wasn't able to see her until last night, and that's why I couldn't write before. She gave me the address. I hope you've been having a fine time in New York, and that your new relatives improve on acquaintance. I haven't got the raise yet. If it isn't on this week's pay check guess I'll have to have another session with the M. E."

"There isn't anything else to tell you except that it seems about a million years since you were here. It isn't any fun driving alone evenings. Looks like a long summer ahead. I certainly was sorry not to be able to say goodbye at the station. Hope you'll write soon and tell me you haven't forgotten a certain evening I have in mind. Believe me, I haven't. It's awfully lonely here, Honey."

Lots of love,
BARNEY."

There was a rustle of motion in the hallway. Celia Mitchell, intent on the letter, did not hear it.

The sound was repeated; then there came a knock at the door.

The glow faded from Celia's cheeks. She stood up, backing away from the door and jamming the pages into her pocket.

"Who's there?" she demanded. "Your luggage, ma'am."

She recognized the chauffeur's voice. Celia breathed a sigh of relief and then said: "Bring the bags in."

The interruption reminded the girl that downstairs Mrs. Parsons would be waiting. Already it was a quarter after one. She could not resist, however, reading the last two paragraphs of Barney's letter again before she folded it and hid it away in her purse. Then with a hasty pat at her hair and a dab of powder on her nose she was ready for luncheon.

She and Mrs. Parsons were the only two who were present for the meal. The other guests, Mrs. Parsons said, would arrive that afternoon and evening.

The house seemed even larger, viewed from the interior, than outside. Off the entrance hall there was a huge living room with a fireplace, bookcases and a great many comfortable over-stuffed chairs. The dining room, on the other side of the house, had broad windows looking out over the garden. Celia glimpsed other rooms opening from there. She was particularly pleased by the wide porch reached by French windows in the living room. Surely if the house had been built long ago Evelyn Parsons had done much to modernize it.

"You must do just whatever you like this afternoon," Evelyn said as dessert was being served. "Kate and Lisi Duncan are driving over with Walter Carr. They'll be here any time. Eve and Courtney Brooks promised to come by tea time. They're not really much older than the rest of the crowd, though they've been married three years. Eve used to be Eve Parpenter. Courtney dabbles at being an artist, and they spend as much time abroad as they do here. By the way, I understand you and your grandmother are going to France in September."

"Yes," Celia said, "I can hardly believe it, though."

"How I'd love to be the one to show you Paris!"

"Oh, Mrs. Parsons—that would be wonderful!"

The older woman smiled. "I'm glad you think so. We ARE going to be friends, aren't we, Celia dear? Good friends!"

Celia felt she should proclaim loudly that this was true. The situation called for it. And yet infrequently—but at this particular moment—Celia Mitchell was aware of a sharp, uneasy distrust of Evelyn Parsons. It was almost as though the lovely widow was too sweet, too eager to befriend her. After such moods passed Celia was always ashamed of them.

"I appreciate everything you have done for me," she answered now. "I want to be friends, Mrs. Parsons."

Evelyn Parsons patted the girl's hand.

"Sweet child!" she said. "Isn't it fine your father is going to be able to come down tomorrow? He's such a slave to his work, poor man! I suppose that's the price of brilliance."

Again Celia felt that twinge of doubt. She gazed up at her hostess and encountered severely blue eyes, smiling lips surely incapable of deceit. Celia banished her fears and branded them evil.

But though Mrs. Parsons had intended just before dinner.

The Duncan girls and Walter Carr came late. It developed they had stopped to see some tennis matches. Eve and Courtney Brooks drove up at four o'clock in a handsome car of foreign make. Jimmy Webster, who joked a great deal about his career as a young bond salesman, did not arrive unless the girl should choose her Mitchell.

Her own entertainment, she kept her young guest beside her through the afternoon. There was no opportunity for Celia to slip away and write the letter she was so eager to send. Instead she inspected the garden with Mrs. Parsons, drove to the village with Mrs. Parsons and finally welcomed the guests with Mrs. Parsons. A good share of this time (though Celia did not notice it) was devoted to conversation concerning John Mitchell.

There was one other guest. Celia noticed his dark hair and erect shoulders the minute he appeared. She was sitting at the far side of the living room. She saw Evelyn go forward to meet him with outstretched hand, but she could not hear Evelyn's words.

The tall youth with the dark hair beat his hand. He had understood perfectly.

"Which one is she?" he asked. (To Be Continued)

Pecans Scarce This Year Says Danie

George Daniels, owner of Daniels hotel, displayed some pecans on the street Thursday. He said they came from the farm just south of town on the Rising Star highway. Mr. Daniels said that while they were in quality and of an unusual large size, considering the year, they were very scarce. He is very likely, he said, that scarcity would lead to fair prices in the markets.

Brownwood Coming to Cisco for Clash This Evening

AME OPENS AT 8 O'CLOCK UNDER LIGHTS

ons Drill Hard to Stop Cisco's Deceptive Plays

For so long that the memory of a runneth not to the contrary Brownwood Lions have fallen to the Cisco Lobos. Tonight the fans who go to Chesley

Coach Chapman is not over-optimistic regarding the Lobos game with Brownwood this night. He points out that the Lions' 12 to 0 victory over Brady was achieved on a muddy field which interfered seriously with the Brownwood attack. "I expect the Lions to give us a much better game than we generally anticipated," he said.

Tickets for the game are on sale at the Corner, Moore and Latham drug stores.

at 8 o'clock are going with the expectation that the Lobos will keep this record clear. To predict that they will not would be the height of temerity for a sports writer.

Nevertheless there is an outside chance that things will not be as they seem. Brownwood says the Brownwood Bulletin has been pulling hard upon a defense against Cisco's ultra-deceptive style play. There is a chance, too, that the speedy rabbit backs of the Lions will scamper some defenses themselves. The Lions are in good condition and will be able to put their full strength against the Lobos tonight.

Since the game is to be played at night it is possible for a large showing of Brownwood fans to attend the contest.

BIG DAM CHATTER

The Cisco Lobos and the Brownwood Lions offer Cisco fans the home class A engagement under November 11 this evening at 8 o'clock. Those who have been debating about securing tickets will remember this. The next chance to see a conference contest at Chesley turf will occur November 11 when the Ranger Bulldogs come grimly into this port armed with a traditional fight and a jinx that has spelt disaster for the Lobos for the past two years.

Brownwood, while a second rate team, has always given Cisco a scrap and the team that comes tonight will be equipped with a fair line and a light fast backfield that can carry the mail with effectiveness. One never can predict what the outcome of a football game will be and if the lions score on the Ciscoans tonight it will not be surprising.

In high school circles in the oil belt there is not much to look forward to this week. Over at Breckenridge the Buckies are opening their conference season against Mineral Wells. The Mountaineers have fallen before a conference foe once this season, dropping their contest with Big Spring a margin of one touchdown. They are coming to Breckenridge with a revamped team, however, and are spoiling for a scrap. Perhaps we shall gain some idea of what the Buckaroo will be in a position to offer after today.

Incidentally the Buckaroos have been strengthened considerably over the past few days. Boyce Magness, all-state quarter of last year, is back in uniform after a ton-tillits operation, and will start against the Mountaineers this afternoon. Griffin, who hurt an elbow in the game with Anson, will be back at his center post, and Carey, nursing a bad boulder, is in uniform again but is playing and Big Spin, 260-pound tackle is off his crutch and is rapidly getting into shape for active work.

The Breckenridge American yesterday carried statistics on the Buckaroo squad. On the basis of eight and experience the statistics do not look promising but here are other things to be considered. The average weight of the team starting the game this afternoon is shown to be 161 pounds and the backfield 156. This about the weight of the championship eleven of last year. But about the weight of the championship squad over during the engagement with Comanche several weeks ago we are inclined to the opinion that the statistician erred on the side of modesty.

Tomorrow afternoon the annual all belt collegiate classic will take place at Breckenridge when the Simmons Cowboys and the T. C. Horned Frogs meet at Buckaroo field. The game is attracting great interest in the oil belt and

ATHLETICS TRAVEL TO ST. LOUIS BENT ON CLEAN SWEEP

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor
EN ROUTE TO ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3.—Having won the first two games of the 1930 world series with as fine an economy of hitting as any October classic ever has known, the Philadelphia Athletics were traveling to St. Louis, bent upon polishing off the Cardinals in short orders.

The St. Louis club, smarting under two straight defeats, also was headed westward, but with far different intentions.

Winning yesterday's game six to one behind the brilliant fast ball pitching of George Earnshaw, the Macken took a lead over their National League rivals which virtually assured them of their fifth world's championship.

Once more, it was extra base hitting which won for Philadelphia. Dykes, Cochrane, Simmons and Fox driving out the telling blows in the early innings of the far from baffling delivery of Flint Rheim.

Thus far in the 1930 series the Athletics have made but 12 hits, and have made them count for 11 runs. This is just the kind of economy to delight the hearts of the Shibe brothers who own the Philadelphia ball club.

In the opening game, which they won 5 to 2 the Athletics made each hit count for a run. Yesterday, they appeared to be slipping and scored only six on seven safeties off Rheim.

The Athletics have established new world series records for extra base hitting in the first two games. Their twelve hits have been for 29 bases.

Just the Punch
Leaving aside entirely the question of records, this sort of hitting has given the Macken just the punch they needed to bring down the Red Birds on the wing. One smashing wallop, one run, tighten up the defense and away to victory has been the highly successful system of the American League representatives this October.

Both teams put on a ragged exhibition in the third inning of the second game, but with this difference, that while the ball was being tossed about by everyone concerned, the Athletics scored twice in their half and the Cardinals couldn't get a man past third base. George Earnshaw did some fine flinging on his own behalf in this rather muddled session, when his mates seemed bent upon tossing away a run or two. He struck out Jim Patton and Chick Hafey after both these heavy hitters had been given life by Philadelphia misplays.

When the 1930 series finally is analyzed, it will appear that Earnshaw, on his performance yesterday, must be given a prominent niche in any post season hall of fame, for the big right hander hurled a magnificent game, he struck out eight men, allowed six hits, and was always there in a pinch.

Hitting Hero
Mickey Cochrane bids fair to be the hitting hero of the series. His home run yesterday in the first inning was his second in two successful times at bat, since he had clouted the ball out of the park on his last trip to the plate on Wednesday.

George Watkins, who plays for St. Louis when a righthander is working for the opposition, drove out a home run to score St. Louis' lone run yesterday in the second inning.

Frankie Frisch's double in the first was his 43rd hit in world series games, setting a new record. Eddie Collins, now assisting Mack to run the Athletics, made 42 hits during his world series experience.

In the forthcoming games at Sportman's park, Connie Mack may try Rube Walberg in the third game, or he may shoot right back with "Lefty" Grove and follow with Earnshaw in an effort to end the series in four games. In any event another rout of the National League representatives seems in order.

ARKANSAS TO HELP DEDICATE FROG STADIUM

FORT WORTH, Oct. 3. — Texas Christian university's new stadium will be formally dedicated when the champion Frogs meet the Arkansas Razorbacks on the new field on October 11. The stadium will be officially dedicated to the Southwest Conference champions of 1929.

"The section now completed will seat approximately 20,000 persons," says L. C. Wright, T. C. U. athletic director. "When the complete stadium is built it will seat 60,000. The structure to date has cost about $350,000, and when completed will represent an investment of a little more than $1,000,000."

The stadium has been erected without one cent of cost to T. C. U. Fort Worth friends of the institution last fall formed the T. C. U. Stadium Association and sold a sufficient number of bonds to cover the cost of building the stadium. The bonds will be retired from profits on the games played in the stadium.

The west stand, as completed at the present time, has 61 rows of seats, while the east stand has 25 rows. The entire structure is modern throughout. Ideas gathered from the largest and most modern stadiums in the United States were embodied in its construction.

Squad dressing rooms and offices of the T. C. U. coaching staff will be housed in the west stand. The press box is one of the largest and most modern in the southwest. It can be made sound-proof, and contains two radio broadcasting rooms.

A new automobile road is being built to the stadium gates, and no cars will be allowed to park inside the fence surrounding the stadium. Ample free parking space is provided adjacent to the structure, however.

It has been arranged for the T. C. U. students to have seats in the center sections on the east side of the playing field. Visiting student bodies will be seated in the south half of the west stands, while the remaining seats will be put on sale to the general public.

Constant watering and care have produced a playing field in the new bowl that is already the equal of most Southwest fields. Since it is yet two weeks before the field will be used, it can be said definitely that the new stadium will present a first-class sod and a fast playing field.

Five games, including three conference contests, will be played in the new bowl this season. The dedication game with Arkansas on October 11 will be the first, followed by Texas Tech., Oct. 25; Abilene Christian, Nov. 1; University of Texas, Nov. 15; and Baylor university, Nov. 22.

at Fort Worth and a big crowd is expected to attend.

"BIG TIME" FOOTBALL TO MAKE DEBUT

Interest Centers on S. M. U.-Notre Dame Engagement

By DIXON STEWART
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—"Big Time" football will make its 1930 debut in the middle west tomorrow with the opening of the Big Ten conference season and the playing of 4 important intersectional games. The featured games include:

- Indiana vs. Ohio State, at Columbus, Ohio.
- Southern Methodist University vs. Notre Dame, at South Bend, Indiana.
- Tulane vs. Northwestern at Evanston, Illinois.
- Vanderbilt vs. Minnesota at Minneapolis, Minn.
- Baylor vs. Purdue at Lafayette, Indiana.

Chief interest is centered in the meeting of Notre Dame, 1929 national champion, and Southern Methodist. Neither team has been defeated since 1928 and both will be primed for victory.

Micks Favored
Notre Dame enters the game as favorite, chiefly because of Knute Rockne's coaching wizardry, but a S. M. U. victory would not be particularly surprising. Coach Ray Morrison boasts a formidable bag of tricks of his own and memory of S. M. U.'s success in passing the Army dizzo in 1928 has inspired Notre Dame with a wholesome respect of the Texas' pass offensive.

While the Ohio State-Indiana

tills marks the start of Big Ten competition, the game is overshadowed by the "practice" games which other conference schools will play against intersectional rivals. Ohio State is regarded as the "dark horse" of the conference and speculation on Saturday's game is concerned chiefly with the size of the score the Buckeyes will make.

Baylor lacks the national reputation of the other two southern teams but may present an equally serious problem for Purdue. Baylor is cognizant of its lack of national reputation and is counting on a victory over the 1929 Big Ten champions to remedy the defect.

STRAIGHT FOOTBALL ROCKNE PLAN
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 3.—Notre Dame's football team was ready today for tomorrow's game with Southern Methodist which will open the new $700,000 Notre Dame stadium. Although the Texans are regarded as a dangerous opponent, Coach Rockne plans to confine his team to straight football to foil scouts from nine other foes who will see the game.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 3.—Five members of the Purdue varsity squad will be confined to the sidelines with injuries when the 1929 Big Ten champions meet Baylor university of Texas in the opening game Saturday.

KNOTTY PROBLEM
LAMAR, Colo.—Justice of the Peace Earl Garving had a knotty problem to decide here over the ownership of a hive of bees. A complaint was made that Al Dowland stole a bee hive. It seems Justice Garving could not decide whether the bees went to Dowland's place on their own accord or were led.

FRESH PRESIDENT
AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—James Timmins of Brownwood has been elected president of the freshman class of the University of Texas.

Cowboys to Meet Wildcats Today

SPORT SHOTS

TARLETON, Oct. 3.—The Plowboys of John Tarleton college will meet the A. C. C. gridsters here Friday in their annual grid clash. A. C. C. having defeated McMurray last week, has one victory to her credit this season, while the Plowboys suffered defeat in a hard night tussle with Simmons University last Friday.

Coach Wisdom was well pleased with the showing the Plowboys made against the big Simmons squad. The line proved its strength by holding the husky Cowboy veterans, and the back field showed flash in making long gains through and around the Cowboy line.

The Plowboy squad was strengthened this week by the appearance of Bill Bennett of Mason, quarter, who in 1928 placed 17 out of 19 attempted passes in the Tarleton-Randolph game. He will go in against the Christians Friday.

Taft — Drainage district to hold $30,000 bond election October 15.

Chero — Improvement work at courthouse rushed.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 3. — Twenty-five members of the Horned Frog football team were to leave at noon today for Breckenridge, where Coach Schmidt's men will meet the Cowboys of Simmons Saturday afternoon. When the battle clears between Breckenridge and Mineral Wells this afternoon on Buckaroo field, the Frogs will take a final light workout.

With a veteran aggregation, the west Texas Baptists are out to give the season's dope bucket its first big dent Saturday. Sanders, triple-threat man, is one of the best backs in the Texas conference, in Davenport and Marshall the Cowboys have two of the hardest hitting backs in Texas.

HOUSTON, Oct. 3. — Coach Jack Meagher today put the finishing touches on the aerial defense of the 1930 Owl machine, as his charges took a light workout before the referee's whistle Saturday afternoon lets loose a charging squad of Saints. With the Bearcat title behind him, Coach Meagher's biggest problem is tuning his machine for their first important southwest conference battle against the Texas Longhorns, Oct. 25.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 3.—The Razrbacks of the University of Arkansas left here this morning by bus for Tulsa where the Thomsen men will assist in dedicating the Oklahomans' new stadium Saturday. Twenty-five men made the trip. A new line-up was due to start against the Tulsons.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 3. — Harold Frahm backfield man, will captain the Nebraska Cornhuskers in their tilt with the Texas Aggies Saturday. Coach Biele put his charges through only a light drill yesterday, and they were to get a rest today.

Miles — Four local gins yielded 440 bales of cotton up to recent time.

DEEP WELL AT RISING STAR IN PROSPECT

RISING STAR, Oct. 3.—Work is now being finished up in securing a block of 1,500 acres of land a few miles southwest of town on which is to be put down a 3,000 foot oil test by California interests who have been represented here the past ten days by Hugh Henry and Bryan McClure of Los Angeles, Cal. The land is being blocked in the vicinity of the W. H. Hughes farm, but the location for the well has not yet been made. W. E. Tyler, who is assisting in securing the leases and proving up titles, said this week that should the well be put down and a deep oil pay sand struck it would mean the opening up of this entire territory for new drilling and would no doubt be the biggest thing in the way of oil development ever attempted in Eastland county. Local operators, who are familiar with oil formations here and over the state express themselves as believing that deep oil is not at all unlikely and point to other fields which had been abandoned and had been brought back stronger than ever with deep drilling.

Citizens Still Show Faith in Cisco

The attention of the Daily News has been called to some improvements in Cisco that are well worthy of mention during this time when lack of faith is rife over the country. We are indebted to O. S. Carroll, of Carroll's Auto Supply company, who mentioned the matter, thinking that citizens who were enterprising enough to show this faith by spending money on property were public benefactors and should be pointed out to their fellow citizens.
