DAILY BIBLE READING

Psalm 122:1-4

- 1. I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord. 2. Our feet shall stand within thy gates O Jerusalem. 3. Jerusalem is builded as a city that is compact together: 4. Whither the tribes go up, the tribes of the Lord, unto the testimony of Israel, to give thanks unto the name of the Lord.

DANGER AHEAD.

A dangerous note is sounded in Germany by Adolph Hitler, leader of the German fascist party, in a book, "My Fight," which outlines the party's aims.

Fascist Germany's foreign policy would aim at the conquest of Russia, a vast territory demoralized by bolshevism, as he puts it.

Hitler is very plain in stating Germany's selfish aims in the proposed conquest. Germany must expand her borders. God did not give her the lands she now has; she fought for them. That is Herr Hitler talking.

The German fascist are stirring their country, though as yet they remain in the minority. Under such an ambitious leader as Hitler, they could do their own nation and the world inestimable damage if they ever were given control of the government.

Germany has a problem on her hands. And the world must keep watch, lest another catastrophe such as swept Europe but a few years ago is not repeated. Evidently, the costly lesson taught them has not stuck very well in some minds.

Italy's fascisti are making an aggressive military government out of that peninsula country. Germany's fascists will do the same for Germany. But in Germany, held tight within boundaries which the German people know are too confining, the thunder means more than just a military government. . . . it means war and international bloodshed if it prevails.

The world is keeping an eye on Adolph Hitler and his party, fearfully . . . hoping the ambitions by this radical may be suppressed by good sense on the part of the German people.

INTERESTED IN SIR THOMAS.

The cup races between the yachts Enterprise and Shamrock drew a great deal of attention in the newspapers; but it is interesting to reflect that fully 98 per cent of this interest came because of the presence of genial Sir Thomas Lipton. As a boxing promoter would say, Sir Thomas was "the gate."

Yachting on this scale is, after all, a sport for multi-millionaires. Except for an ardent yachtsman, the spectacle is not particularly thrilling or interesting, especially in view of the maze of technicalities through which the contestants must struggle. If it had not been for Sir Thomas the American public would not have cared whether the yachts raced at all.

AVIATION'S DEBT TO COPPER.

Aviation has lost a parent in the death of Daniel Guggenheim. The Daniel Guggenheim foundation for the promotion of aviation was built upon a $2,500,000 donation.

Mr. Guggenheim founded one aviation school, gave nearly a million dollars to universities to promote the study of aviation.

Good will trips of Col. Charles Lindbergh and Comdr. Richard E. Byrd were sponsored by him. And all this in addition to a score of other philanthropies. . . . all made possible by the wealth he accumulated in the copper industry.

A millionaire who does not put his money to work for causes which will benefit mankind does not deserve the success he has made.

No man who has millions can spend his riches on himself. There must be an outlet, and a millionaire's greatness is judged largely by the uses to which he puts his millions.

Daniel Guggenheim's name will go down in the pages of aviation history. His money was spent to make commercial aviation safer. The enterprises he founded and promoted were utilized to that end.

This new industry we call aviation has advanced as far as it has largely because of the philanthropies of this man copper made rich.

LETTER OF THE LAW.

The 18th amendment and laws passed thereunder forbid possession of spirituous liquors, as well as their manufacture, sale, or transportation. Now Amos Woodcock, national prohibition enforcement head, has decreed that no warrants shall be issued for liquor possession if neither sale, manufacture, nor transportation is involved.

This is the way the law has been enforced in Texas for years, save in sporadic cases. Yet the Texas law, the Deagle law, is ever so much more strict than the Jones law, or other enforcement statutes.

HAB YOU A COLB?

Several of us are suffering from the sniffles these days, and it is all our fault. So the doctors tell us, and they will tell you, too, if you ask. And then they will prescribe—ah, me, no, not that—prescribe something to be pumped up into your head that will burn as if it were kerosene. If you survive that, they will give you castor oil, put you on an orange diet, and order you to walk five miles in the sun. At least, some of them will.

Better than killing colds, of course, is avoiding them. The medical profession has been striving on this problem, year in and out, and some Washington statistician has been calculating the billions lost to industry each year through common colds. All very comforting; but it does not make a cold comfortable.

THE SITUATION IN A "NUT" SHELL!

But as Dr. Edens kindly advised us, take a middle course in what you do—wear middle weight clothing, eat middling-heavy food, sleep a middling amount, and probably you won't get a cold. But there are some of us who just will show off our new fall clothes, no matter how hot the day, and we are those who take colds. And no one is more miserable, unless he has hayfever.

OTHER OPINIONS

BOBBY JONES MONOPOLIST

To the rank outsider it would seem as if those golfers who aspired to win a British or United States amateur or open golf championship title this year might have just cause to go to the United States courts and invoke the aid of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act in helping them obtain one or more of the four major titles which now rest securely in the possession of that greatest of all golfers, Robert Tyre Jones Jr. of Atlanta, Ga.

In capturing the British amateur and open and then the United States open and amateur in the space of about six months, it must be admitted that he has established a monopoly in golf that is about as complete as one could imagine. Nothing like it has ever been known in the history of the game. In past years one golfer has succeeded in gaining the United States amateur and open the same year, and it had also been done once in Great Britain before Jones did it this year; but never before has a golfer succeeded in winning any three of them the same year, much less all four. But, speaking seriously, this feat of Jones' tops off a golfing career that is little short of unbelievable. When, as a boy, he made his first appearance in championship play, close students of the game asserted that he would some day be a champion; but none would have dared predict that in the short space of fourteen years he would not only win thirteen major United States and British golf titles, but also would cap the climax by taking all four of them the same year. With this done, it would seem as if there were no more golfing worlds for Bobby Jones to conquer. In fact, he appears to realize this himself, for he may not again take part in championship play.

Although it is virtually certain that he could go on winning championship titles for a number of years to come, it is easy to understand why he may not care to enter the championships of the future. There is really nothing left for him to win that can in any way add to his glory and, while his retirement would deprive these championships of much of their past attractiveness, it would mean a wider distribution of titles and prizes among the amateur and professional golfers of the world. Moreover it would leave the question as to the ultimate winners more in doubt than has been the case when Bobby Jones and his other clubs with such devastating effect. —Christian Science Monitor.

RICE CROP SHORT

STUTTGART, Ark. — Arkansas' rice crop will be at least 1,250,000 bushels less than the normal yield on a basis of the acreage planted. It was learned from estimates by experienced rice men. The excessive drought, causing inadequate water supply for irrigation of the state's 18,000 acres of rice, is assigned as the primary factor in the decreased yield.

PAYROLL BUILDERS of CISCO INTIMATE GLIMPSES OF THE CITY'S LEADING INDUSTRIES JOHNSTON'S GROCERY & MARKET W. K. Johnston, Proprietor. Small matters have seemingly shaped the destinies of nations as well as that of men. In the case of this business concern, a vacant building at a good location and the necessity for getting some kind of a job, decided W. K. Johnston to go into the grocery business back in 1922. Of course Mr. Johnston knew something of the business as well as having had experience as a cattleman in the west, and in the smelter business in Utah and Arizona. At any rate Mr. Johnston has been successful and his business has grown to be one of the large ones of his line in Cisco, and today he is housed in a handsome new brick on Broadway, owned by himself. His trade has been increased because of his service, perhaps more than any other one thing. "Courteous Service" has been his motto and he and his clerks have kept that in mind in all dealings with customers. Of course, having the goods and a grade of highest quality, has had much to do with retaining the same old customers year after year. This store carries a full line of staple and fancy groceries, fresh vegetables and fruits the year round, while his market of fresh meats and luncheon meats are second to none in the city. His charge service and good delivery service have also been drawing features through the years. It is a feature with this store that it is seldom that an old customer is lost—they seem to be satisfied. The owner and all employees are home people—they spend their money with home merchants and are strong supporters of every community enterprise. Mr. Johnston is a member of the Lion's club, chamber of commerce and the athletic association—never a knocker but always a booster for better payrolls for Cisco.

Cisco Runs Up Record Total to Beat Lions Friday

BROWNWOOD SWAMPED BY 77 TO NAUGHT

Cisco Team Shows to Impressive Form Against Visitors

The golden-clad warriors of Coach W. B. Chapman swept like a west Texas windstorm up and down the white-barked gridiron. Chesley field Friday night to run up the most impressive total of scores in the history of conference contests in the oil belt district. The light but game Brownwood eleven frittered away like a handful of dry leaves in an autumn gust before the sweeping offensive of the Cisco team. Twelve touchdowns were scored and five points after touchdowns kicked to amass the towering total of the champions. The onslaught to their foes of the toughest district in Texas Interscholastic league football.

From the very first kickoff of the game when Connell crashed through the massed Brownwood defense to race 55 yards down the center of the field to a touchdown in 15 seconds of play the overwhelming power of the Cisco team was the spectacular feature of a game that promised no thrills. At passing runs or line plays the Lobes were equally effective. The team that were the colors of Lobodom Friday night needed no punter but the punting ability was there when needed.

Like a Machine

The Lobesteam worked more like a machine than any team Chapman has ever placed on the field and it has today the eminent respect of every rival who watched its challenge from the sidelines or listened afterward to vivid accounts of its power.

Much can be said for the Brownwood spirit and the unrelenting fight which the visitors put up in the face of overwhelming odds. The visitors were much lighter than the Lobes, much lighter and most of them were one-year men. But they charged and fought and tackled with a splendid courage in their efforts to stem the onrush of golden-jerseyed lads and they left the field with the respect of the stands following them.

The Most Exciting Moment of the Game

The most exciting moment of the game occurred in the first minute of play when an oil belt precedent was narrowly averted by R. Blackburn. Cisco half Cisco received the first kickoff and Connell burst through the massed players to midline in 15 seconds. Brownwood took the next kick and while the stands held their breath in tense excitement Harrison, swift Lion right half, sidestepped half a dozen driving Lobo tacklers and swept around the right side of the field to clear himself of every Cisco player save Blackburn. The diminutive Lobo would not be blocked out and brought the Brownwood runner down on Cisco's 40-yard line saving his team the score that would have been inevitable and preventing, incidentally two opposing touchdowns from kick-offs at the very start of the contest, a thing that would have been a precedent in this district.

Lions Stopped

After this thrilling opener Brownwood was unable to gain and kicked, Blackburn returning 20 yards to Cisco 33-yard line. Turknett was stopped by Lawrence in a 19-yard sweep around right and Connell picked up six yards around left. Blackburn was good for three yards but the Lobes drew a penalty. Turknett collected 20 yards in a sprint around right and Blackburn spun for nine making it first down out of bounds on the next play.

Turknett, Connell and Blackburn

added another first down and after a couple of stabs at the line Turknett raced around right for the second touchdown and kicked goal to make the score 13 to 0.

Whitehead returned Cole's kick 22 yards to Brownwood's 32 yard mark. Van Horn threw Harrison for eight yards loss. Harrison and Whitehead collected eight yards between them to make up the loss but the Lions were forced to kick. Harrison's punt going out of bounds on Cisco 22-yard line.

Turknett and Connell

alternated ho gallops around ends to bring the ball past mid-field where the Lobes lost 16 yards when no one was on the spot to receive a snap-back from center. Blackburn pointed out on the 17-yard line.

Van Horn dropped Harrison after a five yards gain and after Evans had failed Whitehead plowed for a first down. Wagon stopped Harrison. Whitehead made a couple of yards and Cisco drew five yards penalty for offside. O. C. Ray stopped Harrison for a loss on a try for the few feet that meant a first down for the Lobes.

Second Quarter

Brownwood resorted to an aerial game but was forced to punt. A kick that was partially blocked and taken by Blackburn on Cisco's 27 yard line. Turknett made three

HOOKS AND SLIDES

Henry L. Farrell

"Good Spring Hitter"

ONE of the reasons why the St. Louis Cardinals are champions of their league is Andy High. According to recent batting averages Andy High was batting only .282. But in the closing days of the season, he won game after game with timely hits in the pinches. It was High's bat that beat the Cubs and beat the Dodgers when the issue of the game depended upon a hit.

At Brantton in the spring, I asked Gabby Street if High would play regularly.

"At the start, yes," replied Street. "He's a good spring hitter."

It seems that Andy saved a couple of his good spring hits and made them count in the fall when the counting counted most.

McKechnie's Choice

ANDY HIGH is a member of the Cardinals because Lester Bell was spike-busy. Figure that one out if you can. It happened like this:

In the spring of 1928, when the Cards were training at Avon Park, Fla., the Senators came one day to engage them in a practice tilt. During the game, Siler went sliding into third on a close play, spikes flying, and Bell sidestepped. It was that side-step that sent Bell to the Braves from where he was to go later to the Cubs.

Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cards saw the side-step, and decided to trade Bell. He didn't want players who side-stepped. Negotiations were begun with several teams.

"Best He Could Get"

AND it was because Andy High of the Braves was "the best he could get" in a trade for Bell. After several other bidders had been queried, that McKechnie decided to make the transfer.

I wonder what Uncle Robbie said when Andy High made the hit that beat the Dodgers in that hectic series that just about decided the National League pennant. For it was your Uncle Robbie, who after two years of experimenting with the kid from Ava, Ill., sent him down the river to the Braves for the waiver price, back in 1925. High has been knocking around in the big leagues for eight years, coming up from Memphis in 1922.

missed his kick and the score stood 33 to 0.

Cisco tried an inside kick after Brownwood had been penalized 15 yards and C. T. Thomas returned the ball to his 37-yard mark. Van Horn dropped Herman for a loss and after two passes were incomplete Brownwood kicked. Cisco drew 25 yards for clipping, placing the ball on their 35-yard mark.

Cisco swept the ball down the field in short order, however, and scored when Connell took Turknett's pass for 17 yards and a touchdown. Van Horn made a beautiful kick for the extra point making the score 59 to 0.

Shortly after the next kick-off Cisco obtained the ball on the 49-yard line from which point the Lobes scored when Connell repeated his previous performance by taking a pass from Turknett, this time for 49 yards on the first play. Bryan missed the kick and the score was 55 to 0.

(B. Bennie for Van Horn at end, and Yeager for Connell in the backfield, Cisco).

Fourth Quarter

Wagon stopped Evans for no gain after the Lion back had reversed on an attempted lateral pass-around right and brought the ball back to the line of scrimmage on the left. Brownwood was forced to kick (R. Blackburn went in for Turknett, Aycock for Black, Little for Jeter, Messingale for F. Blackburn and McCall for Steen).

Cisco drew 15 yards penalty for a substitute talking but Little took the ball on the next play and swept 55 yards around right end for a touchdown. Yeager missed the kick, for point when the ball was fumbled. The score was 71 to 0. (Sheppard for O. C. Ray and McMahon for Wagon, Cisco).

Yeager scored the final touchdown immediately after the kick-off when he intercepted a pass and ran 35 yards. Blackburn's try for point was blocked. The score stood 77 to 0. (Wilkins for Bryan, Cisco).

Galloway took C. T. Thomas' pass after the kick-off for 30 yards, being stopped by Little out of bounds. Brownwood was ineffective on two plays. (G. Blackburn for Messingale).

Cisco completed another pass for 14 yards and a first down on the play after kick-off, but Yeager broke up the attack when he intercepted the second toss. The half ended shortly afterward with no further scoring. Preston went in for O. C. Ray at center just before the period ended.

Half

Cisco's starting lineup opened the second half except that Bryan had Blackburn's place in the backfield and F. Blackburn was at end instead of Messingale.

Jeter scored the first touchdown in this period after the Lobes had taken the ball on their 40-yard line when a Brownwood pass hit an ineligible man. Jeter scored when he took a pass behind the line and ran 10 yards. Turknett's kick was good and score stood 39 to 0. The Ciscoans added another touchdown in short order after Connell had intercepted a Brownwood pass and was "brow" out of bounds on the Lions 53-yard line. Turknett carried the ball over and kicked the point making the score 46 to 0.

Brownwood came back fighting harder than ever but after Bryan had dropped a Lion runner for 14 yards loss and a pass had failed C. T. Thomas for Brownwood, kicked poorly out of bounds on his 17-yard line. Connell dropped a pass right in his arms. Turknett gained four through center, but Jeter lost on a fumble. Van Horn converted when he took Turknett's pass over the line for the score. Turknett

SPUR COMING HERE WITH STRONG TEAM

Lobes to Meet Powerful Class B Eleven Next Saturday

The Cisco Lobes are due for a real test here next Saturday night—something they have been denied in their engagements so far this season. Coach W. B. Chapman announced Saturday that he has secured a game with the Spur team on Chesley field at 8 o'clock next Saturday.

Spur is the class B team, you remember which held the mighty Pampa Harvesters to a 19 to 14 victory a short while ago. Pampa later trounced the Lubbock Westerners in a conference engagement and the football fans of this section know pretty well what Lubbock has to offer.

Spur has a team that has fortunately grown up together into big healthy experienced men. Last year the team was runner-up in the class B district in which it is located and it has the same material of that year for the team of this. The team is heavy and fast, with a line that will stack up with the Lobes and a backfield containing two 10-second men and another who tips the beam at 190 pounds. The team is coached by Gene Taylor, T. C. U. product, who was in Cisco last night and scouted the game.

A large delegation of Spur fans are coming to Cisco for the contest and the team itself is determined upon a victory over the Lobes. Spur is the former home of Supt. R. N. Cluck, of the public schools here and nothing would please those former townsmen of the superintendent's better than to bring an eleven here that will lick his new proteges.

LAST SHRED

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 4.—Twelfth street, at one time a tip-raring, high flyin' avenue lined with cabarets and saloons, lost the last shred of its former reputation last night when a taxicab driver found a half grown bunny rabbit hippety-hopping along the sidewalk in front of the Mercer hotel.

"This New Home Comfort Rate Makes Electric Refrigeration Even Cheaper"

"You've more than likely wanted one of the modern Electric Refrigerators but have hesitated because of operating costs. Let me explain how cheaply you can use electric refrigeration under the schedule of the new Home Comfort rate.

"The average five-room house without an electric refrigerator, electric range, or water heater uses most of the service included on the initial and second rates, so you would simply connect the electric refrigerator on the lighting circuit, use the one meter, and practically all of the additional service for refrigerator or other use would be recorded on the new low rate of 4c per kilowatt-hour—3c where service is also used for heating or cooking. This means that you could use an electric refrigerator at about one-third the initial rate.

"Many other appliances will be just as economical to operate. I'm going to explain some more for you next week."

And Remember—You Can Make Your Own Average Rate

Initial rate 11c
2nd rate 7c
Low rate 4c, 3c

OIL NEWS OF SOUTHWEST

As operations were resumed by the crew this morning, drillers were confident the well will make a good tubing producer.

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 4.—With an estimated daily production of 1-200 barrels, the Tarver and Lanier Newton No. 1, Sabine Parish was flowing today from a depth of 60 feet in the Zwolle chalk. Five-slugs inch casing was set at 2,325 feet.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 4.—Bexar county today looked forward to a new oil producing area as the result of a showing reported in the No. 1 Cooksey of the Penn Oil company, located on the Cooksey 30 acre lease in eastern Bexar county, four miles from the Wilson county line. The oil showing was of Tav-or Marl formation, and convinced drillers they were justified in setting casing for a test.

CARROLL AUTO SUPPLY CO.

O. S. Carroll --- Mickey Carroll

"Largest and Most Convenient Service Station in Cisco"

The Carroll Auto Supply Company was designed to carry out the above slogan because the Carroll's had already had many years experience in this kind of business. They knew the public demand in this kind of business.

People want a place big enough to supply all their demands in that line—they want it to be convenient—people are in a hurry for their service, even though it may be free—and then they want the highest quality of service in a station of this kind.

The Carroll's came to Cisco during the oil boom days—they bought property here and have added to their holdings since then—they have cast their lot with Cisco and all community interests that affect the citizens of Cisco, affect them—If business is good and money circulates freely, they will prosper just as will every other citizen in Cisco's commercial circle.

The wisdom of their ideas and way of conducting a service station is still one of the most popular places in the city—their service grows better and is appreciated by their customers, who continue with them and tell others.

They are distributors for U. S. Tires and Tubes; they handle Texaco Products exclusively, and have a sales and service for the Hupmobile line Automobiles. They also have a storage room for cars.

They are Cisco people—they spend their money in Cisco and are public spirited, lending their aid to every worthwhile community enterprise—in short, this concern is one of the dependable concerns that will help keep Cisco going through the depression and will be an able booster when times revive.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

By Ahern

100 XMAS PRESENT FOR SOME TEXAN

GORDON K. SHEARER, Press Staff Correspondent, Oct. 4.—A $25,000 Christmas present awaits some Texan to be delivered by Gov. Dan Moody, but he steadfastly declines who will get it.

It is a membership on the board of control. It has the disposal of the governor's office last January, when R. H. Hall completed six years on the board.

Moody has announced he will name Walthall's successor under the state budget on which he is now at work, is coming. This will not be until after the election. By that time the board will have five years to go on a $3,000 a year.

Pool of El Paso, commonly mentioned as Moody's likely recipient of this important post. But Pool is a nominee for re-election as a member of the state legislature from El Paso. If he is elected, he will be ineligible to take the place of Walthall. It is a possibility which the governor must be confirmed by the senate.

The state constitution provides a member of the house or senate shall be eligible for appointment to an office in the executive branch of which either has a part.

Prominently Named

Wallace Teague, also mentioned as a possible recipient of the place, comes under the handicap. As chairman of the last house appropriations committee, he was especially trained in the budget work of the executive branch. He has been under the microscope in the direction of Alfred Petsch of Fredericksburg, in case of defeat by the present candidate in his district might be tendered the post, which would not likely abandon a large law practice to accept the post.

Hall, former deputy clerk at Georgetown and recently secretary to the governor, also mentioned as a possible appointee. Hall has been doing work for the board for the last year, leaving Moody's to take up that duty. Hall tends to make law his business, and would not likely wish to leave it to go to the state capitol.

Wiginton or Pat Daugherty, who are at present secretaries to Moody, may get the job.

Avery of Austin, formerly state highway commissioner, other man mentioned as a possibility.

It is also a possibility that Hall could be re-appointed, if Moody had that in mind, but probably not wait for completion.

Kansas Rivals

No matter how the coming election results, a past departmental commander of the American Legion will win the governorship in Kansas. Both Frank Hauke, (top), the republican nominee, and Harry Woodring (below), the democratic nominee, have commanded the Kansas legion. Each is a banker and a bachelor. They declared a truce in their campaign to attend the national legion convention in Boston together.

G.O.P. CAMPAIGN CIRCLES ARE DISAPPOINTED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—President Hoover's decision to shun politics in his swift swing around the little eastern circuit—Cleveland, Boston and Kings Mountain, South Carolina—has created disappointment in republican congressional campaign circles.

The republican nominees who are up for election next month are known to have made some private appeals to the White House for aid.

Some have asked for letters of endorsement and others have sought to get the president to appear in their home states, in their behalf.

While these appeals have all been turned down, with a single exception (that of Rep. Carroll Reece, republican, Tenn.) it was thought the executive would at least lend some aid to the republican senatorial candidates in Ohio and Massachusetts during his visits there.

His refusal to do so was carried to such an extent during his recent Cleveland trip that he failed to pose for a picture or appear in public with Senator Roscoe McCulloch, republican incumbent. McCulloch boarded the presidential train before it arrived in Cleveland, but did not ride with Mr. Hoover in the parade or appear with him when he delivered his speech.

The president will leave here late Sunday night for Boston, to deliver his speeches to the American Legion and American Federation of Labor conventions there Monday and then will leave immediately for Kings Mountain, where he speaks Tuesday.

five carloads of building plaster together with tons of other material, went into the construction work.

The battle scenes were made on a reproduction of the western front covering 946 acres on the Irving ranch, close to the Pacific Ocean, 60 miles southeast of Los Angeles, a "location" without parallel in pictures.

The trenches—German and French—were dug with machines. Two gravelled roads, both a mile in length, were built for the operation of Universal's huge camera crane from which most of the spectacular battle scenes were photographed.

Five hundred and thirty-five trees were transplanted for the picture. The trees were purchased by Universal at various places near Los Angeles—trees that had been condemned by the Forestry Department—care being taken to see that they were trees of the kind that grew in France—and hauled to the different locations. Two hundred and forty of these trees were blown to splinters in one scene showing the German troops advancing through a shell torn forest. Ten miles of barbed wire was strung on the battlefield.

The quarter of a million represents the cost of specially constructed buildings, whole villages of them, blown to fragments and dust with explosives to depict the devastating wrought by furious, unceasing bombardments.

The first to be destroyed was a French village, a perfect replica of a northern France hamlet caught in the cross-fire of battle. The village covered ten acres of ground, extending back from a railroad on which ran specially built German Red Cross trains of the 1914 period.

Thirty-five different settings were built for the picture at a cost of $498,500. Five hundred and thirty-five thousand feet of lumber and

When Leon Maner finished his course at the Texas State University, he chose pharmacy as his business in life, and the destiny that seems to some times shape men's lives regardless of how they try to hew them otherwise, evidently took Leon Maner in charge and brought him straight to Cisco.

When a partner of the City Drug Company wanted to sell out, Mr. Maner took over his interest—later Mr. Maner took over the entire store and became sole owner.

This store has always commanded a high class trade. Whether it is because of its location, its management or its appearance that attracted this class of customers, would be hard to say, although all kinds of classes of customers have always been made as welcome as the extreme courtesy of this establishment could make them.

Mr. Maner always keeps from one to two graduate pharmacists besides himself to preside over their growing prescription department. Purest of ingredients are compounded into every prescription, because Mr. Maner's ideal has always been in every department of the store, to keep quality paramount.

They manufacture certain remedies which have a wide distribution, even going to foreign countries. They also have a large mail order business on certain supplies, etc.

The store carries a full line of family medicines and drug sundries. The toilet preparations, perfumes, etc., form a high standard department that is so recognized by his customers and their patronage shows their appreciation of such.

The quality and service rendered by the fountain drinks department, has always been the especial pride of this store, and the long continued patronage of this line is proof of the appreciation of that quality.

Mr. Maner, himself, is a Rotarian while the store carries a Lion membership. All employees are loyal to Cisco and her community interests. They are town boosters and their money helps to swell the payrolls of Cisco.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Celia Mitchell, 17, faces a new life when she leaves the home in Baltimore where she has lived with her widowed mother, Margaret Rogers, to join her father, John Mitchell, and her grandmother in a stately New York dwelling.

The girl had not even known her father was living until the day he came to the Baltimore apartment. Celia had supposed Bob Rogers, her mother's second husband, to be her father. Mitchell offers the girl a life of wealth and immediately everything changes. She leaves her mother, unaware that Mrs. Rogers is seriously ill, and she leaves Barney Shields, ambitious young newspaper photographer, who swears that some day he and Celia will be married.

The girl is lonely and ill at ease in her new home. Mitchell finds her in tears one evening and is worried. He appeals to Mrs. Evelyn Parsons, beautiful widow whose husband had been Mitchell's close friend. Mrs. Parsons agrees to introduce Celia to the right set of young people though it is obvious she regards the girl as a means to gain Mitchell's affections.

To this end she invites Celia to spend a week-end at her Long Island home and makes every effort to seem charming. Among the other guests is a young man who attracts Celia's interest.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVIII

It was characteristic of Evelyn Parsons that she should seek to win her way by pleasant means first. This failing, she was quick to change her tactics. Evelyn was engaged in such "pleasant" plotting when she invited Tod Jordan to join her week-end house party. Jordan was exactly the type to fascinate an unsophisticated girl like Celia.

They stood near the doorway, Evelyn stunning in a gown of sea-green stuff which contrasted brilliantly with her hair, and the young man bending toward her attentively.

"Must you always be more interested in other women?" she chided archly.

Jordan's quick answer deepened Mrs. Jordan's smile. She had always been sensitive to flattery.

"The girl you're to be particularly nice to is the little one in pink," she went on.

Celia was designated. Without apparently shifting his gaze Jordan made a hasty appraisal, missing few details of Celia's appearance. One eyebrow rose the merest trifle. Otherwise he offered no comment.

"Who else is there you don't know?" Evelyn asked.

"There's only one I have met—Eve Brooks."

"Come! I'll introduce you."

Celia Mitchell, who had been watching this tableau from the divan across the room, turned her head and began talking to Lisi Duncan. She was curious about the newcomer. Who was he? Evelyn had mentioned the names of all her other guests. And this man looked like someone important. She tried to conceal her interest.

"Celia," Evelyn Parsons was saying, "this is Tod Jordan. One of my shipmates on the boat this last trip. He's violently prejudiced about brown eyes, so I brought him to you."

"How do you do?" Celia said.

She looked up to encounter Tod Jordan's cool, quizzical smile. Jordan was just under six feet in height. He was slender, but well built, with a touch of militarism in the way he carried his shoulders. His face was bronzed, not ruddily sunburned, as were the other men. He had dark hair and eyes which seemed faintly challenging.

Perhaps Jordan was 25. Perhaps he was 30. There was a hard, polished surface to his manner which impressed Celia. She labeled it "sophistication."

The man bowed formally.

"I am delighted," he said, taking her hand. "May I sit here?"

"Of course."

There was plenty of room on the divan, but Celia moved a little to one side. Lisi Duncan, who sat at Celia's left, evidently felt slighted and turned her back. Mrs. Parsons had joined another group.

"Our hostess is very brave," Jordan remarked casually.

"Oh, I think Mrs. Parsons is wonderful," Celia told him.

"Beautiful," the young man corrected her, "and very brave."

"I don't believe I understand."

"No? But it's so obvious. When a woman of Evelyn's age dares to invite into her home such competition—!" A meaningful wave of the hand completed the sentence.

Celia blushed. She was embarrassed and yet pleased. While Jordan was speaking there was not a trace of emotion in his face, but his voice had exciting quality. She knew too that the pink net party dress was becoming.

Lisi Duncan turned, evidently to make a demand on Jordan's attention. She wanted to know if he had seen a certain night club entertainer. Lisi was an amusing girl, not at all like her sister Kate who was beautiful and dignified. Lisi was boyish, awkward, and wore her red hair cropped short. Her little freckled face (sunburned, too) would have looked more at home on a tennis court than at a dinner party, but she appeared to go everywhere and know everyone. She had a way of drawing original slang which was highly humorous.

Now she launched into extravagant praise of the new saxophone player. Celia felt that she liked Lisi better than the others.

Young Mrs. Brooks, whom no one called anything but "Eve," was blond and pretty in a more fragile way than Evelyn Parsons. Eve wore a gown of lemon yellow and looked like a slender daffodil. There was a young man on either side of her, but Celia noticed Mrs. Brooks darting frequent looks at Tod Jordan.

Courtney Brooks was explaining something to Kate Duncan and Mrs. Parsons. Kate's gown was glittering white with trailing skirts and a bodice which had shocked Celia. The dress was undoubtedly becoming to its brunet wearer. Almost anything, Celia thought, would look handsome on Kate Duncan, but her bored manner was a little frightening.

Dinner was announced. Celia thrilled secretly when she found she was to sit between Tod Jordan and Jimmie Webster. Eve Brooks was at the other side of Webster and promptly monopolized him. That left Jordan to Celia.

Mrs. Parsons, at the head of the table, took note of this. The smile which she turned toward her right-hand guest was not in the least forced.

Evelyn had felt confident about Tod Jordan. That is, she was confident that he would serve her purpose. Of Jordan's actual history she was as much at a loss as four-fifths of his acquaintances.

She had said truthfully that she had met Jordan on the ocean liner. She had chatted with him in a deck chair, strolled occasionally in the moonlight and watched him invariably winning at cards. Being observant Evelyn had noticed Jordan was usually to be seen with young women who had large bank accounts, and with men he met in the card room.

His working hours, she decided, were those he spent at cards. Was his name really Jordan? Evelyn doubted this, but of course there was no proof. He seemed to know the right people, and he was tremendously effective on a romantic deck at night.

The widow's reasoning was simple. At present Celia Mitchell was useful to her, but that usefulness would end when Jordan was exactly the aide she needed. Evelyn Parsons was playing her cards well.

The dinner that evening was very gay. The table was its flowers and silver and crystal was more festive than anything Celia had ever seen. The colors of the women's gowns added glamour to the scene. No one in the room realized that this was the first party Celia Mitchell had ever attended.

Jordan talked of the races, polo, and a recent aerial trip he had made which ended in excitement.

"But you haven't told me anything about yourself!" he reminded her.

"There's nothing to tell."

"That is quite impossible."

Again Celia's cheeks colored. Without a smile, without the least change of inflection, Tod Jordan managed to convey implications. His dark eyes watched the girl.

"But there really is nothing to tell," she laughed. "You see, New York and everything here is new to me. I've been in school until a month ago. I've never seen anything or been anywhere! That's why it's so wonderful to come to this party."

Again Jordan's eyebrow did the little trick of raising and then lowering itself ever so slightly.

"Are you a relative of Mrs. Parsons?" he asked.

"No, no! Only she and my father are old friends. Father's coming down tomorrow."

"Really?"

Celia would have been astounded to know that Tod Jordan could quote her father's financial rating precisely. He had considerably more information about John Mitchell than had Mitchell's daughter.

"But all this time you've been in school you must have been doing something," the man persisted. "How do you amuse yourself? Tennis? Like to swim? Dance?"

"I'm no good at tennis," Celia said, "but I love swimming and dancing."

"Then I'm glad I came. I insist on the first dance."

He turned his head to reply to Kate Duncan. Celia for several moments was neglected.

There was a haze of smoke across the table, dimming the candle light. Jimmie Webster was recounting polo anecdotes in a loud voice. Soprano laughter and ringing bass interrupted. Celia thought Webster was growing a trifle rosy.

She noticed that Eve Brooks was flirting openly both with Jimmie and Walter Carr. Nobody seemed surprised or even interested in this. Eve's husband had been devoting the evening to Kate Duncan.

"I want to talk to you," Jordan was saying softly. "Can't we get away from this?"

Celia's pulse quickened, but she shook her head. It was near the end of the desert course. Suddenly, Eve Brooks pushed back her chair and stood up.

"Who's going to dance with me?" she called out, her eyes directly on Walter Carr. "Who's going to dance with me right now?" She and Carr departed. A few moments later a radio fox trot burst on the air.

The others were rising. Jordan caught Celia's arm and led her through the living room to the porch. There was a soft breeze, and the lawn was drenched with moonlight. The radio orchestra was playing a waltz now. Jordan sang the words:

"Stars and steel guitars
And luscious lips as red as wine—"

They danced in perfect rhythm. Celia was conscious of Jordan's close embrace, and that her heart was pounding.

"I left her and threw away
The key-ee to Paradise—"

It was an orchestra leader in a night club who was singing the ballad. The tune beat in the girl's ears.

The music ended. The dancers hesitated. There was no one else in sight. For a trembling moment Celia's eyes met Jordan's.

The following citation from the Christian Science textbook, 'Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures,' by Mary Baker Eddy will always be read: 'We must form perfect models in thought and look at them continually, or we shall never carve them out in grand and noble lives. ASSAILANT OF GAS STATION MAN SOUGHT

DEL RIO, Oct. 4.—Officers of Terrell and surrounding counties were scattered throughout this section of the state today on a man hunt, after Lape Espanilla, 30, employe of Deputy Sheriff Joe Nanace's filling station at Sanderson was shot in the back in an attempted holdup early this morning.

The robber accompanied by a woman and a baby, drove into the garage in a Ford sedan and asked for the service. As the attendant secured his tools the motorist pulled a gun and demanded cash instead.

Espanilla is believed to have turned to run for help, when the motorist fired and fled. Espanilla was brought to a hospital here, where attending physicians accord him a good chance to live. A suspect is held at Marathon.

International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for October 5. What Makes a Home Really Christian? Luke 1:5, 6, 57-66, 76-80. By WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Director of the Congregationalist.

In this lesson we enter upon the second half of a six months' course of study of representative men and women of the Bible. For a portion of the course we turn to the Old Testament and while the subject matter of this lesson comes from the Old Testament it relates to that of events between the Old Testament and the beginnings of Christianity.

When we think of Christian homes, we should think of the Christian as large and comprehensive and inclusive, and not technical and narrow. What distinguishes a Christian home is its openness and the quality of its relationships.

CISCO SINGERS TO COMPETE IN RADIO CONTEST

DALLAS, Oct. 5.—One gala night for northern Texas music lovers is scheduled for October by Station WFAA, of Dallas. On Saturday evening, October 11, at 10:15 p. m., the voices of northern Texas participants in the National Radio Audition will be broadcast to a state-wide audience. Because of the distances to be covered in going to and from state auditions, as well as because of the number of ambitious young singers in the state, Texas was divided into three "states" for National Radio Audition purposes, northern, southeastern and southwestern. Contestants from northern Texas, who have won in local auditions, will be put on the air in this audition. The young men and young women scoring highest honors will represent this division of the state at the district audition which is also to be held in Dallas next month.

Listeners from northern Texas will assist in the selection of the winners, since votes of the radio audience and the opinions of a jury of musical authorities will be combined in reaching the final decision. All the contestants are between 18 and 25 years of age and have never been heard professionally as singers.

During the stay of the local audition winners in Dallas, the young people will receive many courtesies arranged for them by Mrs. Wylie and Mr. Poole. Those who have so far qualified to compete include:

- Vernon—Milla Arlean Eggleston, lyric soprano, Vernon.
- Denton—Kathryn Ford, soprano, Denton; and Paul Waples Ashburn Jr., tenor, Denton.
- Greenville—Ruth McSpadden, lyric soprano, Greenville; and Frank William McMahan, tenor, Greenville.
- Hillsboro—Cressie McCoy, soprano, Hillsboro; and James Albert Jeffers, tenor, Waco.
- Cleburne—Willy Del Goldsmith, soprano, Cleburne; and Lowry Walker, bass, Cleburne.
- Bozoe—Lucille Anderson, contralto, Bozoe.

CONFERENCE TO IRON OUT DIFFICULTIES

AUSTIN, Oct. 4.—At an early date the state railroad commission will call a conference, probably at Austin, to be attended by representatives of purchasing pipe line companies to iron out difficulties that have arisen under the common purchaser act.

Complaints have been made to the oil and gas division of the railroad commission that some of the pipe lines are showing discrimination in taking oil.

An effort will be made to hold the conference within two weeks, it was announced here today.

PROBATION INJUNCTION

AUSTIN, Oct. 4.—The state road commission today was served with an injunction against enforcement of all probation in Young county. The injunction was issued by Judge George Colhoun of 53rd district court on application of Young Brothers and Alexander Inc. The application alleges that the probation order recently issued by the commission is unconstitutional and void.

The suit is the second one attacking the oil probation orders issued recently by the commission. Danziger Oil & Refining company has attacked the probation orders issued for Gray, Hutchinson and Carson counties.

Clara's Rubber Checks and the "It" Girl Who Bounced 'Em

In this picture we have two extremely interesting exhibits—the famous "It" girl, Clara Bow, registering dismay and disillusionment, and the sport of "rubber" checks which she handed to the proprietor of an elite gambling resort at Calhoun, near Reno, Nevada. The checks, which total $12,900 and which are signed with dummy Clara's signature, did the gambling house no good, as the "payment stopped" stamp can be seen on them. Clara says she thought the chips used at the game represented a lot less money than they really did, and insists she handed the gambling house proprietor blank checks, signed, and trusted to him as a gentleman that they would be filled in properly.

12 Human Skeletons Found

DALLAS, Oct. 4.—Twelve human skeletons excavated from a gravel pit 15 miles northwest of here were turned over to the medical school of Baylor university here today.

Archaeologists and members of the medical profession will study them in an attempt to unravel the mystery of the mass deaths.

The theory was advanced that the bones were those of a frontier family massacred by Indians approximately a century ago.

The skeletons of adults, children and infants were in three heaps on a hillside in a gravel formation nine feet beneath the surface. They were brown and crumbling, and hardened when exposed to the sunlight.

Workmen found the bones yesterday. Undertakers said it was highly improbable that an ancient cemetery had been tapped.

Andree Deaths

In that region at this season of the year violent wind storms charged with wet drifting snows are common. The only escape is to get under shelter in the lee of rocks, where snow drifts soon pile up. Arctic explorers dig caves into these drifts for shelter. It seems reasonable that Andree and his men did this to protect themselves. If so, here was the beginning of the end.

Perhaps we can best illustrate the potential utility in this kind of camp by a study of the ventilating principles of the Eskimo snow house. So simple is this construction that white men try to imitate, but they seldom are quite successful. Built without Eskimo supervision these domes of snow can become death traps because of an unexpected source of danger.

Quickly Used
Even if a ventilating hole is opened at the top the oxygen in the air will be quickly used in breathing. As the breath of the men rises into the confined atmosphere the carbon dioxide exhaled from the lungs quickly sinks as a heavy gas that accumulates on the floor and will not mix with the upper air, maintaining a lower stratum without sufficient oxygen to support life. Men sleeping on the floor would promptly die.

The Eskimo understands this and leaves a hole at floor level in order that the heavy carbon dioxide gas may escape.

Andree and his companions, having had no earlier experience with this phase of arctic camping, probably put up a quick shelter or dug into the snow and were later covered by drifts. They perhaps set up a "primus" stove, which was in use at that time by all explorers and which operated on kerosene converted into a gas fuel under pressure. As the oxygen of the air became insufficient the imperfect combustion of the stove gave off poisonous carbon monoxide gas. This reduced the men to semi-consciousness. They sank to the floor of their snow encased shelter and there probably slowly died from lack of oxygen in the carbon dioxide gas that lay over them.
