Sterling Quits Highway Commission; Martin Appointed

Y IS NEW CHAIRMAN OF ROAD BODY

W. R. Ely's Term Is Lengthened by a Transfer

AUSTIN, Oct. 6.—Governor Dan Moody this afternoon accepted the resignation of Ross Sterling from the state highway commission. D. J. Martin of San Antonio will be the new member. W. R. Ely of Abilene becomes chairman of the commission. The terms of the highway commissioners are rearranged by a transfer which Governor Moody also announced. Gov. John Tyler, whose term would have expired next January, is named successor to Sterling, this reassignment on the commission until 1933. Ely of Abilene retains his term and Martin succeeds to Sterling's term. This is taken to mean that Sterling, if he is elected governor, plans to reappoint Moody for six years, as the appointment made by Governor Moody only conferring with Sterling. Sterling was appointed to the highway commission shortly after Governor Dan Moody began his first term. He recently became democratic nominee for governor.

K. Martin, a San Antonio insurance man, served on the state highway commission before as an aide of Governor Pat Neff. He also headed Governor Dan Moody's citizen committee of 31 members, which successfully asked the legislature to submit a state road bond issue to popular vote.

BRAZIL STRIFE CAUSES WORRY IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Civil unrest in Brazil is accompanied by established attitude of non-interference on the part of the United States government, but this attitude is being questioned by the political situation sweeping over a part of the southern continent. It has evidently caused deep concern in some official quarters. Officials thus far have refrained from comment and have not published the intensive dispatches of a sensitive character, received from Rio de Janeiro, but among American diplomats the news of disturbances in southern Brazil is creating a feeling of anxious apprehension. The Brazilian revolt came immediately after the Cuban crisis became acute, and the two nations jointly have eliminated former hopes that the American political storm tide would subside after recognition of new governments in Argentina, and Bolivia.

Accident Girl Heads Freshman Class

Miss Catherine Neal, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. T. Edgar Neal of Cisco, who entered T. W. C. at Worth this fall, has been elected secretary of the freshman class. Miss Neal, a talented violinist, also has been chosen a member of college orchestra and of the club.

WEATHER

By United Press
East Texas: Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; cooler tonight and Tuesday.
West Texas: Cloudy, showers in west and east portions except north coast tonight. Wednesday, cloudy, showers north and west portions.
Living Weather Forecast: Cloudy with light to moderate easterly to light winds at surface; strong northerly winds with gales in south; light to moderate winds north portion up to 5,000 feet, probably strong shifting at higher altitudes.

Jesse James' Granddaughter

Ethel Rose James, 22-year-old granddaughter of Jesse James, the noted outlaw, has gone into the highway business herself—but she's not a highwayman, just the proprietor of a roadside cafe that she and her sister have opened near Culver City, California. The establishment has a display of a number of Jesse James' personal effects, including the bandit's spurs and a Winchester rifle that he carried for eight years, with which Miss James is shown above.

TWO BANKS AT EASTLAND ARE MERGED TODAY

EASTLAND, Oct. 6.—A deal has been consummated by the terms of which Eastland's two banking institutions have merged into one, the Texas State bank having taken over the Exchange National bank. The business will be continued as the Texas State bank with the same personnel of officers and employees. There will be no increase in the capital stock, which is $100,000. Some of the stockholders of the Exchange National will become stockholders in the Texas State. The consolidation became effective today.

Athletic Ass'n to Meet This Evening

The Citizens Athletic association will meet tonight at 7:30 at the high school auditorium. Volley ball, basketball, calisthenics and other forms of exercise will be on the program.

FALLS ON KNIFE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 6.—While playing with a pocket knife given him as a reward for taking medicine, Donald Knowles, 3, stumbled and fell upon the open blade which pierced his heart. He died within a few minutes.

Texas New Marriage Law Cuts Down Number of Nuptials Over 17 Per Cent

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United States Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Oct. 6.—When the Texas legislature enacted the law requiring three days notice of marriage intentions, they didn't realize how helpful Texas swains are. Results show that they cut down the marriage more than 17 per cent. How many evaded the publication by going into other states, is not revealed but official figures issued by the U. S. department of commerce disclose that the weddings performed in Texas dropped off 13,167 during 1929, compared with 1928. The law requiring three days' notice became effective June 12, 1929, so the decrease represents little more than half a year. Despite the law there were 63,173 marriages. Required publicity for divorces might be tried in an effort to reduce them. For while marriages were decreasing under the publicity law, divorces rose. There were 18,386 granted in 1929 compared with 18,073 the preceding year. The rapid gain of divorce in proportion to marriage is shown by comparison with 1916. In that year there were 54,103 marriages and only 8,504 divorces. Disproportionate Viewed on the basis of comparative population the marriage record still shows a disproportionate decrease. Only 11 persons out of each thousand married in 1929. In the preceding year the figure was 13.6 per thousand. Divorces retained an almost equal proportion to population. In 1928 it was 3.21 per thousand and in 1929 it was 3.20. Harris county led in marriages with 4,291 and Dallas county led in divorces with 3,064. Tarrant county showed a remarkable falling off in weddings dropping to 1,786 from 2,583 the preceding year. Its divorces dropped from 1,163 to 1,104. Borden county had but one marriage in the year. It also had one divorce.

ONLY 6 ASK RED CROSS TO SUPPLY SEED

County Chapter Expects More Requests After Rain

To date only six requests for aid have been received from farmers by the county chapter of the Red Cross, J. E. Spencer, county chairman said today. The Red Cross recently allotted the county $1,500 to be used in the purchase of seed for needy farmers. The good rains which have fallen during the past few days are expected to stimulate these requests, however, although the local Red Cross had expected the application to be much more numerous than so far. It may be taken to indicate that conditions among the farmers in this county are not as serious as first understood, although there are many cases where extreme poverty and want exist. Applications for aid are made to the relief committee headed by J. E. Spencer, of Cisco. Orders for seed are issued in deserving cases and the applicants take these orders to their merchants where they are filled and the bill sent to the Red Cross headquarters for payment.

47-YEAR-OLD MURDER CASE NOW ON TRIAL

GUNTERVILLE, Ala., Oct. 6.—Gunterville took a page out of history and another out of near-fiction today to write a modern court drama involving a 74-year-old man who eluded prosecution on a murder charge for nearly a half century. It seemed almost like bringing the dead back to life to bring James F. Neely, aged resident of Gunterville, before Circuit Judge Alfred E. Hawkins of Marshall county for the "first fight" death of Hiram Cooley on November 3, 1883.

A "slurring remark" about the reputation of a girl, whose brother, James Hilburne, was summoned by the defense as a witness, was the cause of the fight, Neely said when he pleaded last week. The state's chief witness will be Jim Cooley, brother of the victim and a participant in the fight. Neely was captured at Tyler, Texas, a month ago after wandering through Tennessee, Ohio and the southwest for 47 years. He and a brother, Tom Neely, who also participated in the fight, fled Gunterville when they heard that Hiram Cooley, knocked unconscious during the primitive clash, had succumbed to his injuries. Died 31 Years Ago Tom Neely died 31 years ago, and James, named in the now musty indictment with him, made his way to Ohio, where he reared a family of five, the oldest of whom now is 39 years of age. There James lived until recent months when domestic troubles drove him away from home to the home of a brother in Tyler. On arriving at Tyler, the aged fugitive found a situation paralleling fiction. C. A. Cooley, 54-year-old son of the victim of the all but forgotten fight, had married the daughter of Neely's brother. The younger Cooley immediately communicated with authorities and forced the old man's arrest.

LABOR COUNCIL DEMANDS 2.75 PER CENT BEER

By FRANK MURPHY
United Press Staff Correspondent
BOSTON, Oct. 6.—The powerful executive council of the American Federation of Labor again today demanded beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content. The report, handed in at the opening session of the Federation's annual convention, reaffirmed a stand taken seven years ago by labor. The report said: "The developments of the last year, as shown in the evil social conditions which had followed failure of the enforcement of the Volstead act, have confirmed the position heretofore taken by the American Federation of Labor in favor of the modification of this act so as to provide for the manufacture, sale, and distribution of beer containing 2.75 per cent alcohol by weight."

CABINET QUILTS

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Oct. 6.—The cabinet headed by Premier Julius Maniu, resigned today.

Mexicans Seeking Condemned Convict

BROWNVILLE, Oct. 6.—Mexican officials were engaged in a man-hunt today, seeking to apprehend a convict sentenced to die before a firing squad for his confessed slaying of Samuel Shong, Chinese banker. Nicholas Moran sealed the high wall surrounding the Matamoros, Mexico, prison and escaped Saturday. Manuel A. Saldana, U. S. border patrolman, said Moran crept through the barbed wire surrounding the prison and was gone nearly an hour before guards knew he was missing. Jose Ramos, condemned to die for the same crime did not attempt to escape.

BRAZIL FACES BITTER CIVIL WAR TODAY

By United Press
MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Oct. 6.—Revolutionary forces from the Brazilian state of Rio Grande do Sul were reported entering the state of Santa Catharina today to lead a northward march into Parana state, en route to Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro. Strong federal troops were sent against them and a federal attack by cruisers from Rio de Janeiro was anticipated. Rebel preparations were rushed at Porto Alegre, capital of Rio Grande do Sul.

RESPECT FOR LAW

"We need the teaching that the foundation of government is respect for law," he said. "A quickened interest on the part of the community can insist upon proper enforcement of law, can arouse public opinion while any condition of lawlessness remains unchecked in that community." The first high purpose you express, he said, "is to uphold and defend the constitution and to maintain law and order in the United States. Happily your ideal is my first and most sacred duty." As president of the United States I am sworn by the whole people to maintain the constitution and to enforce the laws. No man should dare call himself a faithful American and suggest otherwise. "You have recognized that the upholding of the constitution and the enforcement of the laws must, however, rest upon government officials alone. It must rise from the stern demand and the loyal cooperation of good citizenship and action."

EMPLOYMENT STABILITY IS NEEDED - HOOVER

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 6.—The greatest economic problem of this nation today is to provide stability in employment, President Hoover told the American Federation of Labor in a speech before its fiftieth annual convention here today. The president revealed he now is cooperating with President Green of the Federation and representatives of employers' associations in an effort to find a solution of the most difficult phase of the question—unemployment caused by introduction of machines. Success of these labor saving devices has been proved so far as the employer, worker and consumer is concerned, he said, contending that the answer to the unemployment question does not lie in any direction which would interfere with that system.

President Delivers Two Speeches at Boston

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 6.—A plea for law observance was delivered to the American Legion convention here today by President Hoover. Throughout his speech to the World War veterans he stressed the necessity of good citizenship not only by respect for the law but by using the ballot to preserve American institutions and ideals, driving out unworthy public officials. Without mentioning prohibition by name he told the legionnaires no man dares to call himself a faithful American and suggest any disrespect for law. Assuring them that the peace of the nation was never more secure and that the government is providing a $900,000,000 annual outlay for all veterans, the chief executive told them that his sworn duty to enforce laws is also their obligation. He urged them as citizens to go back home and preach respect for law by word and action.

TO HEAD ORDER

PROSPECT FOR GOOD SEASON IS GOOD NOW

CISCOANS generally were recalling the fall of 1923 today after 60 hours of continuous rain had fallen here since Friday midnight. Not since that year has rain fallen continuously over so long a period here. By noon today the precipitation for the 60 hours was slightly in excess of 3 inches. The total fall since Sunday a week ago has been four inches. The rain has fallen slowly, soaking into the ground and doing the maximum amount of good. It will require time for the moisture to penetrate deeply into the soil which has been depleted through a long dry spell, farmers say, but they are generally hopeful that a good season will be afforded them for crops next year. Fall crops are assured of excellent growth. Wheat, rye, barley and other cover forage grains which have been planted are in excellent shape now. Disappointed for two seasons most farmers risked only about half the grain they would normally have planted but in spite of this a heavy acreage has been devoted to small grains on the hope that a providential rain would bring the crops up. With the rain of the past three days much more will be planted, since it is just about the right time for this. Stock tanks were replenished to some extent while Lake Cisco has received a small run-off. A hard rain is needed for this purpose, though.

BREAK BLAMED IN CRASH OF BIG DIRIGIBLE

BEAUVAIS, France, Oct. 6.—The British air ministry insists that only 34 persons were aboard the dirigible R-101 when it crashed. Air Commander Felton Vesey Holt of the air ministry announced today at the joint French and British inquiry into the disaster, over which he presided. Holt explained that the French police believe 48 bodies had been recovered, instead of 47, as checked by the British, which would make 95 aboard, as there were seven survivors.

SHILL FALLING

In Abilene Brownsville, Palestine, McKinney, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Dallas, and Shreveport rain was still falling this morning. Soakings were continuing over west Texas as generally with the official gauge at Abilene showing more than two and one-half inches since Saturday. Steady showers which have totaled 10 and one-fourth inches for the past 36 hours at Del Rio showed no signs of abatement this morning. In that section of the state swollen streams had made bridges on four highways into Del Rio impassable, while dirt highways near the Rio Grande were but streams of boggy mud. The Rio Grande itself was an expanse of rolling dirty water, five inches beyond its normal level of last week. Cloudy skies hung promisingly over Brownsville, El Paso, Amarillo, Houston, Galveston, Corpus Christi, and other widely scattered points today.

HEARING OCTOBER 13

AUSTIN, Oct. 6.—The estate railroad commission today set down for hearing on Oct. 13 at Austin, the application of the Texas and Pacific railway for authority to put on a two cent a mile passenger fare between Fort Worth and Big Spring.

COUNTRY CLUB BASKET LUNCH IS POSTPONED

The basket lunch planned at the Cisco Country club this evening has been postponed until 6:30 Friday evening on account of the inclement weather. It was announced by Jeff Duncan, captain of the golf team. Similarly the qualifying period in the annual club championship tournament has been extended to Friday evening. All those who have not qualified are urged to do so as soon as the weather is favorable.

Mrs. Bessie B. Garth of Temple, according to the custom of the organization, will be advanced from the station of Associate Grand Matron to that of Grand Matron of the Order of the Eastern Star in Texas, during the 48th annual session of the Grand Chapter of Texas to be held at San Angelo October 28, 29, and 30. Mrs. Garth will succeed Mrs. Beulah Rawlings of Johnson City as Grand Matron of Texas, which is the highest honor within the gift of the Grand Chapter.

LONG RAINY SPELL

DALLAS, Oct. 6.—Texans settled down today to what appeared a long rainy spell. Weather forecasts promised continued showers generally throughout east and west Texas, while the showers which fell over the week end gave new hopes to sheep and goat ranchers in south and southwest Texas were still falling in many sections this morning.

AMERICAN LEGION TO NAME OFFICERS

Election of officers will be the main item of business on the program of the John William Butts post of the American Legion when the post meets Thursday evening at 7:30 in regular session at the Hut. Every member of the post is urged to be present for this session. Officers were nominated at a meeting held a few weeks ago.

DAILY BIBLE READING

St. Luke 2:16-19

16. And they came with haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.
17. And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.
18. And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.
19. But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.

FRIENDS OF THE PARTY.

Representative Garner's list of contributors to the republican campaign chest who have received tax refunds from the federal treasury reads like a "Who's Who" of finance and industry.

The republicans may reply that a democrat is again "misrepresenting" the pious republican party which never stoops to any wrong—in Nebraska, or anywhere else. But politics being what it is, defenders of the republican party will find some difficulty in showing that there is nothing more than a co-incidence in the fact that large contributors to republican campaign funds are treated with great solicitude in the matter of taxes.

Mr. Garner thinks it "significant" that every one of 17 contributors of $10,000 or more to the republican party has been granted tax refunds, credits or abatements by the treasury. Mr. Garner might have used a stronger word, but was content to let the record speak for itself.

The coalition between the republican party and "big business" is a very old and well established one. It is a pleasant arrangement for both sides. The republican party is always assured of all the money it needs to conduct its campaigns, and the heavy contributors receive favors in return from the government.

These favors may be in the form of tariff rates, tax refunds, legislation passed by congress and work done by other departments of the federal government for the benefit of a little group of American citizens who virtually rule the country. It was not an oversight that former Ambassador Gerard excluded Pres. Hoover from his list of men whom he regards as the actual rulers of this nation.

What is to be done about it? Nothing, so long as more Americans vote the republican ticket than the democratic ticket. Reform could be brought about if the influence of the two major parties were more evenly balanced. But with the republican party in power, the privileged interests will continue to get what they want in Washington.

A BUSINESS TRAGEDY

It has been a long time since the world of business has had a tragedy as dark as the one that came to a climax in that eastern railroad president's office the other day, where a railway vice president shot and killed the president of his road and then took his own life.

Investigation following the shooting indicated that the trouble really began when the president, 10 years younger than the other man, was promoted over the other man's head. Years of brooding, years of thinly-veiled antagonism, years of sharply clashing wills—and then the explosion. It is not pleasant to think about.

Yet the same set of circumstances exists, probably, in almost any business organization you would care to name. Older men are constantly being forced to see their juniors go above them, and are constantly having to swallow their pride and beat down their resentment. This does not, ordinarily, lead to a violent outbreak; but it is a safe bet that there are a good many business executives in this country who can at least understand how the murderer in this case felt.

LIMITING LOADS ON THE HIGHWAYS.

The politicians are pot-shooting the state highway patrol because 50 men cannot regulate the size of loads all trucks running on the highways are carrying. This forecasts more pot-shooting when the legislature meets in January, and the patrol officials ask that its personnel be increased to 250.

The fact that some trucks are running overloaded argues for the increase in the force. But right now, meeting a truck with too many bales piled high and wide on its bed is a bit uncomfortable.

OTHER OPINIONS

"WHITE COLLAR" MEN

One result of every period of inflation is that it renders so many young men discontented when the inevitable slump comes and they are no longer able to get large money for small work.

Among the unemployed are tens of thousands of "white-collar" men who never took their jobs seriously. They could always get another, so they thought; meantime, they tried to emulate the rich and spent their incomes faster than they received them.

Those men placed a false value upon themselves and their services. And many of them have not yet been disillusioned. They still think they are worth the fat salaries they used to draw, and most of them will never be happy again, remembering always the days of easy money.

The really intelligent office workers are the ones who have made themselves so useful to their employers that they are the last to be laid off when times are dull. They have sense enough to realize that the way to get ahead is to spend less than they earn, to plug away steadily at the day's work and be "content with that." They are the ones who have stored up happiness to tide them over the dull times.

FALL GUYS!

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

The Daily Chronicle of Georgetown, British Guiana, reports a peculiar situation arising at a funeral in that city, as follows:

The appearance of two sets of hearses, coffins, mourners and ministers' carriages and the other trappings, from rival undertakers, at the funeral of Richard Boston, a butcher, at 196 Upper Charlotte street, Bourda, was an unusual scene in the city yesterday afternoon.

It is stated that Boston, who died at the Public Hospital yesterday was a member of the Sons of Consolidation society but instead of permitting the funeral arrangements to be made by the society as usual, his relatives engaged the General Undertaking department to supply the turn out. In the meanwhile, the secretary of the society made arrangements with the Queenstown Stables, with the result that the two sets of hearses, etc., turned up at the deceased's residence as mentioned above.

A large crowd including a number of robbed members of the society assembled on the scene and a somewhat noisy dispute arose between the rival undertakers, relatives of the deceased and members of the society as to who should carry out the arrangements. After a considerable while it was decided that the society's claims to make the arrangements should be respected and consequently the corpse, which was already put away, was removed from the coffin furnished by the General Undertaking department to the one furnished by the Queenstown Stables at the request of the secretary of the society. The Queenstown Stables also carried out the Runge — 9,842 bales of cotton other necessary arrangements. ginned in this city up to late date.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Celia Mitchell, 17, faces a new world when she leaves the home in which she has lived with her widowed mother, Margaret, to join her father, John, and her grandmother in a new New York dwelling. The girl had not even known her father was living until the day she came to the Baltimore suburb. Celia had supposed both her mother's second husband, who swears that some day she will be married, and the girl is lonely and ill at ease in her new home. Mitchell finds in tears and is worried. He calls to Mrs. Evelyn Parsons, a young newspaper photographer, who agrees to introduce her to the right set of young people though it is obvious she reads the girl as a means to gain Celia's affections.

To this end she invites Celia to a week-end at her Long Island home. Among the guests is Ted Jordan, a handsome, fascinating young man who offers himself to Celia.

W GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIX

Jordan drew the girl quickly to him. In that swift instant Celia was conscious only of the hypnotic gaze that held her. She had thought of resisting as Jordan's pressed closer. He bent his head to her, and she felt that very moment, as though by a stage director, the chimes were thrown back to a figure appeared, silhouetted against a flood of light. Eye Brooks' faint laughter pealed out on the air.

"Look at what I've found!" she said. "Romeo—and if it isn't Juliet out here rehearsing the scene! Come on, everybody, this is a better place to be than inside."

The others crowded after Eye Brooks, and Jordan was in a quandary. He had drawn away from Jordan in embarrassment. The young man, entirely undisturbed, remained where he was coolly smiling. Eye Brooks approached him, eyes mocking.

"You're turn next," Jordan said, and as the radio orchestra again began its tempestuous harmonies, the pair moved in a fox trot.

"Want to dance?" Jimmie Webster asked Celia.

"I don't want to," she said. "What Celia wanted was to slip away where no one could see how her cheeks were burning and ask herself how in the world she had come so near to getting herself, forgetting Barney Shields, forgetting everything! Jordan had been about his business. She had not even tried to stop him! The swift reaction of shame and burning remorse. Nevertheless she let Webster lead her away to the rhythm of the trot. Dancing with Webster she chattered and turned and bobbing, but at least everyone was not looking at her.

Gradually Celia was able to control her confusion. She danced with Walter Carr and again with Mrs. Parsons had disappeared. Jordan and Courtney Brooks were sitting in the shadows at the end of the porch. Lisi was trying to perform a sailor's hornpipe, coaching from the sidelines. "Try this one with me?"

The orchestra had begun another waltz. Celia did not turn her head. She knew Ted Jordan came up behind her even before she spoke, and she had made her mind not to dance again with Jordan.

"No, thanks," she said. "I—I'm a little tired."

He stood in front of her then so she could not avoid his eyes. Her straight-forward gaze. One might have thought they were just met.

"Then let's sit over here," he said, nodding toward a rat-trap seat in the shadows. "I prefer the moonlight."

"In that case so do I!"

The porch rail was wide enough to make a comfortable seat. Celia seated herself and was leaning against the corner pillar. She had no idea how becoming the pose was. Jordan looked down at her for a few moments, then dropped to the rail and sat facing her. He studied her face before he spoke.

"Eye Brooks thinks I like you too well," he said in that slow, oddly stirring tone.

"The girl eyed him inquiringly. "Surely, you understand that little scene of Eye's," he went on. "I hope you didn't let it disturb you! No one else would—that is, no one who knows Eye Brooks."

"Oh, no—I didn't mind."

Celia spoke quite as casually as the man.

"That's right," Jordan said. "You see Eye, poor thing, is something of a cat. It's just as well to know that if you're going to be around her much. She's got the idea now that I'm interested in her."

There was a pause, timed romantically, then Jordan admitted softly, "There's someone else not very far away I wish I could persuade to believe the same thing."

Celia was on her feet.

"Excuse me, please," she said. "I almost forgot! There's something I want to speak to Lisi about."

Then, with her heart pounding, she hurried away. Celia could not risk coming under Ted Jordan's spell again. His presence made her feel guilty.

She avoided him the rest of the evening. This, she was a bit surprised to learn, was not difficult. Jordan did not even ask her to dance again.

Celia joined Lisi and Walter Carr, who was describing his experiences as an amateur airplane pilot. Lisi declared she too was going to enter a flying school. Already she had a fund of technical information and asked Carr a great many questions.

The radio program switched from dance music to a monologue, and someone in disgust turned it off. Jordan had been dancing with Kate Duncan. Now they joined the group.

"Listen," Lisi looked up impulsively. "The party's getting stale. I know what let's do—let's go swimming!"

"But Lisi!" remonstrated her sister, "it's midnight."

"Why of it? It's only two miles to the club. And there won't be a crowd around. I want a swim! Who else is going?"

Courtney Brooks and Webster were enthusiastic over this idea. There was some discussion and then the two men were off to get their things. Jordan, who had been listening in alarm, looked about for Mrs. Parsons. She was chatting with Jordan, apparently content to see her guests take entertainment into their own hands.

Celia edged away. When the opportunity came, before Mrs. Parsons had arrived, she touched Mrs. Parsons' arm.

"I think I'll slip upstairs," she said. "It will be all right if I don't go with the others, won't it? I'm really sleepy."

"Then I'll say good night now," Celia disappeared. A little later from her upstairs room she heard shouts of laughter and then the sound of the cars going down the driveway.

So this was a fashionable house party! The evening had been nothing at all as Celia had imagined it beforehand. She stood by the window a moment looking out at the bright moonlight. Then she went to the dressing table, slipped her lovely pink frock from her shoulders, and presently was ready for bed.

With her chignon negligee about her Celia perched on the foot of the bed, feet curled beneath her. She took Barney's letter from her purse and spread out the pages. Then she re-read the whole letter carefully.

"Barney," she whispered softly when she had finished. "Oh, Barney!"

For a long time Celia sat looking at the letter, the simple envelope. Finally she folded the pages, tucked them away and put the letter again in her purse. After that she turned the light out and slipped into bed.

She lay with her eyes open, staring up at the black ceiling. There was so much in this new world that Celia Mitchell did not understand.

She went to sleep at last, but it was not Barney Shields the girl was thinking of as she dropped off to slumber. It was Ted Jordan and that unforgettable moment in the moonlight.

When Celia came downstairs next morning, wearing the little white tennis frock Mrs. Parsons had bought for her, there was no one in sight.

Hilda, the maid she had seen the day before, told her that breakfast was ready. Celia went into the dining room and Hilda brought her fruit, toast and coffee.

After that Celia wandered out on the big porch. It was after nine o'clock, but she saw no one. The garden was beautiful in the sunlight. Celia followed the cobblestone path, pausing to watch the goldfish in their pool, and then sitting on among the flowers. It was an informal garden, perfectly suited to the rambling house and broad grounds.

The day would be warm, no doubt, but the morning breeze made it perfect. There was a path Celia had not inspected the day before. Now she followed it.

She heard a shout and looked about quickly. Over the shrubbery ahead she caught sight of a flashing bit of motion.

Tennis! Of course. These must be the tennis courts she had heard Jimmie Webster talking about last night.

Now she saw them. A man and a girl on either side of the net in frantic pursuit of the tiny, spinning ball. It was Lisi and Webster. The players were too intent on their game to note the spectator. Lisi served smashingly, and Webster's racket sent the ball spinning back into an impossible corner. Lisi returned it. Over and back again. Over and back. Celia watched, spellbound. She had never seen such skillful tennis playing. At last when the game was finished she waved and came forward.

Lisi paused a moment to call a cheerful greeting, and then the set was resumed. Celia sat on a bench at the side of the court and watched.

"Hello."

She looked up. Ted Jordan, looking more bronzed than ever in his white clothes, dropped to the bench beside the girl.

"Good morning."

"I saw you heading this way, and so I followed," he said. "I hope you don't mind."

"Why of course not?"

"Why? I, er, rather gathered last night that you didn't care to be friendly."

Celia continued to watch the flying ball.

"I'm sorry you thought that."

"Then isn't it true? I mean, you think you might possibly come to like me?"

"I might."

"Enough to turn around right now and smile?"

There was no use. She couldn't pretend to quarrel. Celia didn't want to quarrel with Jordan anyway. She wanted to go on talking, saying little things in a way which meant so much.

The resolves of last night were forgotten. When the tennis players were exhausted and they all walked back to the house together, Celia was addressing Jordan as "Ted."

Mrs. Parsons met them on the porch.

"Celia," she said, "I have news for you."

POWER OUTPUT IS FAVORABLE 1930 SHOWING

ABILENE, Oct. 6.—The output of electric energy throughout the nation during 1930 indicates favorable business conditions and the outlook for an upward trend is excellent, according to a recent investigation conducted by the National Electric Light association and made available from the general office of the West Texas Utilities company here.

Figures on electric output are generally considered to be an excellent barometer of business conditions, as electric consumption reflects immediately the industrial operations of the country.

According to the survey, output for the nation as a whole has in no week since the readjustment started fallen under 4 per cent for the corresponding weeks of the high levels of 1929. In most weeks these levels have been exceeded.

Total sales of electric power to all classes of customers for the first seven months showed an increase of 14 over 1929 and an increase of 144 per cent over the same period in 1928.

Industrial use of power showed a slight decrease for the first seven months of 1930 under 1929. This decrease was 24, but the 1930 industrial use was still 99 per cent over the first seven months of 1929.

According to West Texas Utility company executives, the national figures reflect practically the same picture of general conditions as do the figures for the West Texas Utilities company. It was pointed out that "These comparisons indicate that fundamentally the industry of the United States has not been seriously affected by the recent period of readjustment, and would seem to show that the nation can expect an early return to normal. The outlook is decidedly encouraging."

Pile Sufferers

You can only get quick and permanent relief by removing the cause—congestion of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Nothing but an internal medicine can do this—that's why cutting and salves fail. Dr. J. S. Lehard discovered a real internal Pile remedy. After prescribing it for 1000 patients with success in 900 cases, he named it HEM-ROID. Druggists everywhere now sell it, and Dean Drug Co. guarantees money-back if HEM-ROID does not cure Piles in any form.

Food Inspectors Are Liable to Drop in on Grocers and Others Any Minute

AUSTIN, Oct. 6.—Just as bank inspectors drop in unannounced to check up on a bank's standing, state pure food inspectors are going around calling unexpectedly on grocers, butchers, milk dealers, druggists and others manufacturing or selling food and drugs.

In the past three months 3,915 institutions received such unannounced visits from the state inspectors. They looked for spoiled foods and material for uncleanliness in premises or workers and for misbranding.

Generally the operators accept suggestions for cleaning up or changing the labelling. Conferences resulted this summer in changed labels on much syrup, soft drinks and patent medicines.

If bad food is found it is destroyed. This happened to 414,487 pounds in June, July and August. Then the food is put under seal for court condemnation.

At Brownwood there is a large supply of canned goods held in storage under seal awaiting a court decision. Department inspectors say their condemnation of it is proven justified by the bursting of cans. The result is a messy storehouse that can not be cleaned up until the court acts.

If the faults found are minor ones, E. G. LeMay, director of the division, said, correction is ordered. This order is succeeded by follow-up letters to inspectors to see that the corrections have actually been made. Obstreperous cases are met with prompt complaints and prosecution.

Convictions have been fewer for the last summer. Dr. LeMay, frankly attributes the falling off to state election year. It has been hard to get local attorneys to act, he said.

During the summer $25 fines were imposed on a bakeries at Greenville Coleman and Ballinger for operating in an insanitary way. A McKinney dealer was fined for selling ice cream deficient in butter fat; one at Corpus Christi for selling frozen custard deficient in butter fat. Two markets in Amarillo and one in Abilene were fined for offering spoiled meat for sale.

Short weight sales also come under the supervision of the food inspector. One bakery was fined for selling short weight bread. Use of preservatives in meat brought a $25 fine for an Abilene defendant and it cost a Dallas firm $25 to violate the poison law. These are but sample cases.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritation. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

LOBOES LOOM AS LEADING TITLE THREAT

By BOYCE HOUSE
The 77-0 victory of the Cisco Loboes over the Brownwood Lions was the feature of the oil belt race the past week. It was the greatest score piled up in a conference game in this loop in many seasons and proclaims the fact that the Chapman clan are the outstanding claimants for the district crown. The offensive of the Big Dam team has ever seen—double and triple reverses, spins, laterals and passes behind the line.

The Abilene Eagles, by winning two games in one week, a severe undertaking for any team, prove that they must be reckoned with. They won Monday from Big Spring 33 to 0 and on Saturday from Sweetwater 19 to 0.

In their first conference game of the season, the Breckenridge Buckaroos, Texas co-champions last year, did not look as formidable as expected, defeating Mineral Wells 26 to 0. The Mountaineers deserve much credit for their showing as it was the unanimous opinion over the circuit that the score would be nearly double that total.

Big Spring, playing two games in one week, broke even. After losing to Abilene, the Steers defeated Eastland 6 to 0, Saturday. The Mavericks had the misfortune to lose Clark, flashy quarterback, in the opening game the week before with Cisco. Big Spring has played more games than any other team—three, two of them in the win column.

The feature game of the week will be played Saturday when two undefeated clubs, each with championship hopes, clash. The San Angelo Bobcats will invade Ranger. The probable occupant of the cellar will be determined when Mineral Wells goes to Brownwood Friday with the Mountaineers likely to win the game. Two teams of whom bright hopes had been entertained when the curtain rose will meet Saturday at Eastland, with Sweetwater as the invader. Either team, by a victory, can start a comeback that could lead to a successful season. Breckenridge will go to Big Spring Saturday. This will be more of a test for the Buckaroos than many fans over the circuit may think. Big Spring has a better club than it is generally credited with. However it has only a fighting chance against Breckenridge.

Conference Standing	W.	L.	Pct.
Cisco	2	0	1.000
Ranger	1	0	1.000
Breckenridge	1	0	1.000
Abilene	2	0	1.000
San Angelo	1	0	1.000
Big Spring	2	1	.667
Sweetwater	0	2	.000
Eastland	0	2	.000
Mineral Wells	0	2	.000

BIG DAM CHATTER

The spectacular score which the Cisco Loboes ran up against the Brownwood Lions last Friday evening has turned the attention of the state upon the local eleven as likely district winner and serious threat in the state race. Most critics aver that the Loboes have the title in a bag but Cisco isn't taking a victory with any certainty. There are four hard games ahead of the Loboes and in any one of them the Loboes stand a serious chance to be eliminated.

The Brownwood team was woefully inexperienced and light. The team was little better than the average class B eleven, only two of its members having more than one year's experience. The system used by the Loboes is the same as that used by Brownsville last year and the terrific scores run up by the Valley team are still remembered. Many believed that the Brownsville boys would capture the state championship in a walk. But look what they did when they went up against Port Arthur, a team that was excellently coached and knew how to defend itself against the deceptive style of play employed by the Eagles.

The defense so far used against the Loboes' formations is little better than no defense at all. When the boys hit Abilene, Breckenridge, Ranger and San Angelo there will be different stories to tell. Mentors of these teams know their onions and they have been analyzing the Cisco team's plays at every game. Not that we expect the Loboes to be beaten. We don't. But we won't see any 77 to 0 scores against the other leading class A teams in this district.

Considering the situation frankly it is no time to get chesty before we've had even a respectable game.

The Spur eleven that comes to Cisco Saturday evening is touted highly in its section. The team is made up of veterans, is big, fast and willing. Early in the season it held the mighty Pampa Harvesters to a 19 to 14 score and that is something to boast about. The coach of the team was here last night to look the Loboes over and reports have it that the visitors will give the Ciscoans one dickens of a scrap.

Hotel Men to Hold Conclave

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 6.—The first national hotel men's convention ever held in the south will open here on October 8. E. L. Sanders, secretary of the Texas Hotel Association, is in charge of arrangements.

It will be preceded by the 25th annual convention of the state organization on October 7. The national conclave will bring leading hotel operators and managers of the United States and Canada here. An extensive program of business has been scheduled as has an elaborate entertainment program, which includes an excursion to Nuevo Laredo, Mexico.

A post-convention feature will be a trip to Dallas where delegates will have an opportunity of viewing the state fair in its second day October 12.

Thomas D. Green of New York, president and executive director of the American Hotel Association, has reported that an extensive program of addresses by prominent speakers has been arranged for the meeting here.

The state association will be represented by the following delegates: Charles A. Mansford, Dallas; W. N. Robinson, Fort Worth; J. E. Daley, Houston; T. B. Baker, San Antonio; Harry H. Hussman, El Paso; Alternates: Otto Schaefer, Dallas; Jack White, Dallas; Bruce Carter, Houston; Franklin Canaday, Galveston. Delegate at large: Paul Harvey, El Paso.

IRISH, OHIO, NORTHWESTERN HOLD RANKING

By DIXON STEWART
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Brilliant performances in the initial tests of the 1930 season enabled Notre Dame, Northwestern and Ohio State to hold their pre-season ranking as the middle-western leading contenders for football honors.

Other major teams, with the single exception of Illinois, failed to show expected ability and made necessary a revision of estimates on 1930 prospects. The new groupings classified the teams as follows:

Powerful—Notre Dame, Northwestern, Ohio State.
Good—Purdue, Illinois.
Fair—Minnesota, Michigan, Poo-Iowa, Indiana.
Chicago and Wisconsin opened their season in doubleheaders against "set ups" opponents and no accurate rating on the Maroons and Badgers will be possible until after their meeting at Madison Saturday.

Notre Dame's thrilling 20 to 14 victory over Southern Methodist University stamped the Irish as a dangerous contender for a second consecutive national championship. The Methodists are one of the greatest passing teams ever seen in these parts and in defeating them, Notre Dame's team appeared the equal of any squad Rockne has had at South Bend in recent years.

Optimism Justified
Northwestern's clear-cut 14 to 0 victory over the veteran Tulane team, 1929 Southern conference champion, indicated that the Purdue optimism on the Big Ten race is justified. The Wildcats outplayed Tulane throughout the game.

Ohio State romped to a 23 to 0 victory over Indiana and retained its position as the "dark horse" of the Big Ten race. The Buckeye team boasts a powerful offensive and should finish well up among the season's leaders.

Purdue was far below its 1929 form in defeating Baylor, 20 to 7, but the Boiler-makers displayed some attributes of real champions. When their running attack was stopped they took to the air and had the power necessary to shove over three touchdowns.

Minnesota and Michigan, highly regarded in pre-season estimates, were eliminated from titular consideration. Minnesota dropped a 33 to 7 decision to Vanderbilt and appears destined for a tough time in Saturday's inter-sectional classic with Stanford. Michigan displayed lack of offensive strength in Saturday's scoreless tie with Michigan State and has little hope of defeating Purdue this week.

Illinois' inexperienced team fought its way to a 7 to 0 victory over a strong Iowa State eleven and gave Illinois fans hopes that Coach Zuppke will develop another powerful aggregation.

Iowa dropped a 6 to 0 decision to Oklahoma A. & M. and Indiana lost to Ohio State, 23 to 0, after holding the Buckeyes to 3 points during the first three quarters. This week Iowa entertains Centenary, while Indiana tries its luck against Oklahoma A. & M.

individual responsibility to the community."

As in his Cleveland speech last week, the president pledged himself to the ideal of abolishing poverty. He pointed that "nearly half of the globe is in a state of great unrest or a state of revolution."

Hails Peace Plan
Democrats built up from the war in which these legionnaires fought are tottering or toppling, he suggested. Ours can remain secure only if citizens employ the opportunities of good citizenship, he said.

Hailing the Kellogg peace pact and the London naval agreement as "two momentous victories on the path of peace," he declared more is necessary.

"Real peace in the world requires something more than documents, which we sign to terminate wars," he said. "Peace requires unremitting, courageous campaigns laid with strategy and carried on successfully on a hundred fronts and sustained in the spirit and from the hearts of every individual in every town and village in our country."

Reminiscent of his successful fight with congress, against the original war veterans disability bill at the last session, the president spoke of what the government is now doing under substitute legislation he endorsed for the veterans. Care of 700,000 World War veterans is being provided, he said. But the veterans should have care that the demands upon the government should not exceed the measure that justice requires and self-help can provide."

MENUS FOR THE ENTIRE FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer
CHILDREN usually look forward to dessert at the end of luncheon or dinner with much eagerness. Much food value can be embodied in a simple pudding and if other foods are properly eaten, there is no reason to deny small persons the pleasure of a sweet.

In planning menus the dessert should be considered as a definite part of the meal and not merely an addition or after-dish that will be sweet. For instance, if a child has been given an egg or a lamb chop or meat of any sort, the dessert for this meal should not be a custard. Stewed or fresh fruit and a cookie, an eggless rice pudding, junket, cornstarch or tapioca puddings are suitable desserts to follow meat.

An easily digested pudding that is suitable for children surely cannot hurt the adult members of a family and need not be distasteful to them. Mild puddings of agreeable texture can be made in varied forms to be acceptable to almost everyone. Rich steamed puddings and rich pastries are difficult to digest and have no place in a child's diet. When the family dessert is of this type, a plain dessert of fruit can be substituted with little extra work on the mother's part.

Nourishment in Puddings
Eggs, cornstarch, rice, tapioca, bread crumbs, gelatine, junket and sea moss can be used with milk singly or in combinations with fruits. Such puddings offer much nourishment for growing bodies and are not difficult to digest.

Whenever cornstarch or tapioca is used, long cooking is imperative. This means that they must be pre-cooked before combining with eggs, for all egg dishes must be cooked at a low temperature.

O'Neal Takes Over Floral Business

H. E. O'Neal, who has been connected with the Cisco Floral company for the past several years, has now leased the business and has moved to 400 East Sixteenth street, where he will conduct it from now on. Mr. O'Neal is well qualified to satisfy every need of the public for merchandise in his line, since his flowers are unusual in quality just at this time. He will advertise his stock from time to time so that readers of the Daily News may know just what he has to offer.

Arizona Seeks to Stop Boulder Dam

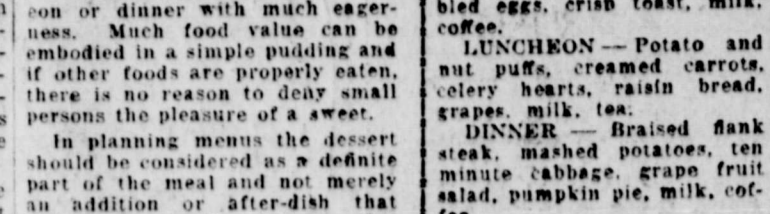

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The state of Arizona asked the supreme court today to enjoin construction work on the Boulder canyon dam, the southwest's irrigation and power project in the Colorado river.

A suit asking the permission necessary for one state to begin action against another was handed up soon after court convened for the fall session by Attorney General K. Berry Peterson of Phoenix. Accompanying the request was a copy of the complaint.

Defendants in the action are the states of California, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming and Interior Secretary Ray Lyman Wilbur who is also described as "a citizen of California."

GOVT. TRIES TO HALT BIG OIL COMBINE

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 6.—The U. S. government resumed its efforts in federal circuit court here today to prevent the billion dollar merger of the Vacuum Oil company and the Standard Oil company of New York.

John Lord O'Brien, assistant to the U. S. attorney general, declared in opening arguments that the merger would open the doors for formation of a large trust which might place a strange hold on the petroleum industry of the country.

The government contended the proposed merger would violate the 1911 decree which divided the Standard companies.

The defense denied this and contended the Vacuum and Standard of New York are not real or potential competitors under terms of the 1911 decree.

O'Brien of the government counsel admitted the Vacuum operated for years chiefly as a distributor of lubricants, which the defense offered as proof of no competition but declined there now existed real competition between the two companies in the state of New York.

Oakie Not to Be Queried in Suit
TOLEDO, O., Oct. 6.—Jack screen comedian was free today the possibility of questioning connection with the suicide of Marion Lowry in her apartment Thursday morning after returning from a party at which the star was a guest.
Coroner Frank G. Krefz told United Press last night he would not request Oakie to return to explain his acquaintance with the 30-year-old woman, who was convinced Oakie was only casual acquaintance and could throw any light upon the case.
