DAILY BIBLE READING

Proverbs 31:26-29

- 26. She openeth her mouth with wisdom; and in her tongue is the law of kindness. 27. She looketh well to the ways of her household, and catcheth not the bread of idleness. 28. Her children rise up, and call her blessed; her husband also and he praiseth her. 29. Many daughters have done virtuously, but thou excellest them all.

LOWER RATES.

Texas railroads, forced to the limit of competitive enterprise in their fight to attract the patronage being received by bus lines and private automobiles traveling on highways that parallel their tracks, have resorted to a new move.

The road would reduce the fare to two cents per mile instead of the approximately 3.5 cents per mile now in effect. The move is one to attract volume and is purely experimental.

The railroad points out that the success of the experiment will mean the continued operation of local train service and the lessened use of now over-burdened highways.

It is interesting to watch the adjustment of the developing functions of our fast-moving civilization.

AN OLD SAW.

You've heard that old saw, "Strike while the iron is hot" so much that repeating it is like mumbling over some rote ritual.

There was no better opportunity for the home owner to do that bit of improvement he has been contemplating, to make those repairs that have been needed for so long and which have been put off from time to time because of a fear of the depression.

There is no need to point out the mutual benefits resulting from this action.

REAL DROUGHT RELIEF.

The action of the Red Cross in allotting $1,500 to Eastland county for the purchase of seed for farmers who are not financially able to do so, is a major drought relief move.

Relief, as the Red Cross and other successful charitable agencies provide it, contemplates that the recipient aid himself. In fact the primary purpose of charity is to place the nee in a position to aid himself.

Of course it is to be expected that some of this relief will fall into improvident hands. There are those who will apply for the seed because they see an opportunity to secure a few mouthfuls of feed for starving stock.

But the great majority of those to whom this relief will be distributed are earnest, conscientious citizens who are willing to do their share and are appreciative of the purpose of the distribution.

Eastland county has been allotted $1,500 and to date about $400 of the seed has been distributed. The distribution period ends October 15. That date is determined to be the latest upon which fall crops should be planted.

One advantage which the free seed distribution will bring is a demonstration of the great value of fall cover and forage crops in this section.

The drought and the attendant hard times may be providential in many respects in spite of their rigors.

OTHER OPINIONS

A VOICE FROM THE PULPIT

A great many laymen and a few preachers have been convinced for the preaching and hearing of the

some time that the average modern church is overorganized top-heavy with activities extraneous to the preaching and hearing of the Word, and in need of a house-cleaning in the direction of simplification and retrenchment.

It has remained for Dr. E. D. Salkeld, minister of the First Christian church of Abilene, to frame these thoughts into words and sift his action to his conversation.

He has withdrawn from all secular activities, after a quarter of a century or more of intense activity in every form of civic enterprise, from making political speeches to helping run luncheon clubs.

Normally there is but one situation in which it makes much difference who is president pro tempore.

In the absence of Lieut. Gov. Edgar Witt, the senate of the state sometimes has the duty of appointing conference committees to compromise on legislation with the house.

Dr. J. W. E. H. Beck of DeKalb, Beale county, will go with his colleagues on the final inspection of state eleemosynary institutions in November.

A leader in the prison reform fight of the past two years, he is still unconvinced that the prison system ought to operate in the coastal lowlands.

A surprisingly large percentage of church members, we believe, will agree with Dr. Salkeld that a return to the pulpit on the part of the preachers will result in a higher order of preaching and not have any adverse effect whatever on our politics.

Heart Hungry

LAURA LOU BROOKMAN
AUTHOR OF "GIRL KISS" INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Adventure enters the life of Celia Mitchell 17, when she learns father she has supposed dead and healthy. She leaves her home in Baltimore for a home in New York with her father, John Mitchell, and her maternal grandmother.

Margaret Rogers, her mother, and Celia Mitchell, and her mother, is now a young newspaper photographer in love with the girl, and leaving Baltimore Celia is to be loyal to his love.

She is lonely in her new home. Well asks Evelyn Parsons, a widow, to introduce her to young people. Mrs. Parsons sends her affection and agrees to invite the girl to her Long home for a week-end.

ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIII
The bright orange cap bobbed above the water for an instant, then was splashed over it. The second splash was more feeble than the first.

Protesting, Celia was led to the waiting roadster. She knew she was weak. That terrible, terrible moment when she had found herself helpless still rose up before her—frightful and unforgettable.

Lisi waved farewell as they pulled away down the drive. Celia, dry, warm and comfortable, smiled at the man beside her.

"I've ruined your afternoon," she said.

"I wouldn't say that."

There was a pause and then Celia spoke slowly:

"I'm sorry that I was rude when I met you today."

"You mean you wouldn't want to run away from me now?"

"Of course not. Why, I feel I owe you everything."

Jordan took one hand from the wheel long enough to pat her arm.

"Don't say any more about that little adventure," he told her. "If it's made you change your opinion of me I can't even regret that you were frightened."

Something in his voice made Celia Mitchell blush deeply. Her eyes met his. She quickly looked away.

"I don't really understand how it happened," she said, changing the subject. "I've known how to swim all my life. It's the one sport I was ever any good at. Mother taught me when I was five or six years old. And this afternoon I was swimming along not the least bit tired or anything. Before I realized anything was wrong the water was over my head. I couldn't manage my arms or get my breath."

"You were out a long way," Jordan said. "Probably didn't realize how far you'd gone, and those waves are tricky. It might have been an undertow. Did I feel as though something was pulling you down?"

Celia shook her head.

"I can't say how it felt. It was terrible! All I remember is trying to fight and going down and having water all over me and—oh, please let me talk about it!"

The girl shivered.

"That's right," Jordan agreed. "Try to forget it happened. You'll be home in 10 minutes now. How much longer are you staying at Mrs. Parsons'?"

He managed to divert her attention until the car turned into the drive at Larchwood, Jordan helped Celia from the car and a maid opened the door for them.

Evelyn appeared on the stairway.

"Why, Celia," she exclaimed, "I wasn't expecting you home so soon!" She hurried down to meet them.

Jordan explained what had happened. At once Mrs. Parsons bustled the girl to her room. With the maid's assistance she quickly had Celia tucked into bed and the shades of the room lowered to create a restful atmosphere. Hilda brought a glass of hot milk with instructions for Celia to drink it.

It was pleasant to be shown so much attention. Celia had really been terrified, and the shock remained. Reaction now caused her to sink into a deep sleep.

She awoke refreshed. It was nearly six o'clock. Celia bathed and dressed for dinner. She found Mrs. Parsons in the living room.

"My dear child—did you have a good nap?"

Celia laughed. "Oh, yes, I'm entirely myself now. Mrs. Parsons, don't you think it was wonderful of Ted Jordan to risk his life to save me?"

"Indeed I do!"

They heard a telephone ring. In a moment Hilda appeared.

"Mr. Mitchell is calling, ma'am," the maid said.

"Mr. Mitchell?" Evelyn Parsons rose. "I'll take the call in the library, Hilda."

When the connection had been made, Evelyn's soft voice answered:

"Yes, John. What is it?"

The man's voice was agitated:

"What's this about Celia nearly drowning at the boat club this afternoon?" Newspaper have been calling me. Where's Celia now?"

"Celia's here," Mrs. Parsons assured him. "She—wait, I'll have her speak to you." She turned and called: "Your father wants to speak to you, Celia."

The girl took the telephone.

"Hello, father! Yes, of course I'm all right. No—nothing happened. It was a swimming party and I got out too deep. I'm terribly ashamed! One of the men—Ted Jordan—swam out and got me, and then the lifeguard brought us in a boat. What? Oh, I realize after I got home, and that's all there is to tell. Come home? Oh—do I have to?"

She turned, dismayed, to the older woman. Mrs. Parsons took the telephone and talked for several minutes. There was no dispirited John Mitchell. He said firmly that Celia was to return the next morning. Thompson, the chauffeur, would arrive for her at 10 o'clock. Mitchell said that of course he did not blame Evelyn for what had happened, but he wanted his daughter home. He had first learned of the accident by newspapers calling for Celia's photograph. That incident still seemed to distress him.

The dinner that followed was a quiet meal. Evelyn Parsons was busy with her thoughts, and Celia mournful at the prospect of returning to the city. After the arduous from the table Celia wandered out on the porch. Tonight the moon was veiled behind clouds, but the stars were bright.

She turned as she heard a man's voice.

PLAN REVIVED FOR RAILROAD TO ARGENTINE

By HARRY W. FRANTZ
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The Pan American railway project to link New York and Buenos Aires by 10,000 miles of steel, will be given a new lease of life at the fourth Pan American commercial conference, scheduled here October 5-12, 1931.

Friends of the project have secured its inclusion in a revised conference program approved by a committee consisting of Minister Aliario of Panama, Minister Sacasa of Nicaragua, and Charde d'Alfaires Jose T. Baron of Cuba, soon to be submitted to the interested governments.

During the last decade political attention to the great continental railway was subordinated because of the transcending interest in the Pan American highway and also because the chief friends of the railway differed as to the relative merits of the Andean and the East-of-the-Andes routes.

The force of these objections has been minimized, however, because of the evident fact that a New York-to-Buenos Aires railway is already more than two-thirds constructed, and local economic considerations along the proposed route make certain the construction of a large part of the remaining miles. The Pan American railway, by the Andean route, from New York to Buenos Aires would be approximately 10,116 miles long, of this total, 7,126 miles actually has been constructed.

League to Vote on Percentage Rule

LONGVIEW, Oct. 10.—Representatives from 7 towns will attend a meeting of the district six executive committee of the interscholastic league here Saturday, when a final vote will be taken on the proposed percentage basis rule.

Under the suggested ruling, the school with six conference games on its calendar would have an advantage over schools with five scheduled games. Tyler, Lufkin and Palestine have six games, scheduled, while Marshall, Athens, Texarkana, and Nacogdoches have but five. Each town will be represented at the executive meeting.

A recent vote by mail which approved the percentage rule, was declared illegal following a protest from E. C. Deering, superintendent of the Marshall public schools.

In 1927 the value was $67,013,573.

MOTHER LEAVES CHILDREN AND FACES DEATH

Says Farewell Hard, But Recovery Easy Due to Crazy Water

In May, 1929, I was critically ill with Rheumatism; in fact, I was an invalid and had to be helped around. My husband decided to bring me to Mineral Wells, as it looked as if there was no hope for me as I remained at home. But I had no confidence in Mineral Wells; in fact, I did not believe that anything or any place would relieve my suffering. You can imagine how I felt when I told my children "Good-Bye," when I did not expect to see them again.

I arrived in Mineral Wells on May 10th, last year, and in the week of the Crazy Water Treatment, I was able to walk and thirty days from the time I arrived I was well again, only a little weak.

I heartily recommend to everyone suffering from diseases caused by faulty elimination that they spend a few days rest at the Crazy Water Hotel in Mineral Wells, Texas, the home of Crazy water.

Rising Star Man Hurt in Crash

RISING STAR, Oct. 10. — M. E. Crossley, assistant manager of the Montgomery Motor Co. was badly hurt and "Dad" Houser, who was riding with him in a light coupe, suffered a broken rib and was badly bruised and battered when their car turned turtle near Sweetwater late Tuesday evening as the two were returning from a business trip in west Texas.

According to reports the bumper of their car caught in a wire netting guard railing in passing another car, throwing it over the side of the road and turning over two or three times. Crossley was badly cut across the face and bruised about the head and other parts of his body and was unconscious when picked up by passersby and carried back to a Sweetwater hospital where 27 stitches were required to close the wound across his face. He was identified by papers in his brief case and when notified Carl Joyce and Mrs. Crossley went to Sweetwater to be with him. Houser, who was badly stunned, got into a car going to Abilene and was able to return home next day.

PROSPECT FOR CATTLEMEN IS CHEERING

AUSTIN, Oct. 10. — A cheering prospect is held out for Texas cattle raisers in the report of cattle and range conditions issued here today by Statisticians Carl H. Robinson and F. E. Finely of the U. S. department of agriculture.

"The prolonged drouth in Texas has been effectively broken," they say. "Conditions prior to October 1 were becoming critical and preparations for moving livestock from drouthy areas was becoming general. A general season is in the ground now, and tanks are full. If frost holds off until late, winter weeds and grasses will get a good start and make considerable feed. Cattle have held up well considering the dry summer. Some are fat but shipments to market have been light except in extremely dry localities."

Improvement is reported in cattle condition in the eastern part of the state but the state as a whole nets a decline of three points in condition for the month.

FOURTH MARRIAGE.
HEBDEN, Yorkshire, Eng.—The Rev. Thomas Francis Hammond has married for the fourth time at the age of 85.

In EVERY WALK of life you meet the "Drowsy Bills"... men and women who are losing out because they are always tired. They try hard enough... but most often the poisons from constipation sap energy and strength—and bring illness, defeat and old age prematurely.

What a pity, when eating a delicious cereal could prevent it all! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation! Two teaspoons daily—at every meal, in severe cases.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings relief in a natural, healthful way, by sweeping the intestines of all poisonous wastes.

Eaten regularly, it helps keep the system healthfully clean.

Isn't this far better than taking pills and drugs that are often habit-forming and may become ineffective?

ALL-BRAN also adds iron to the blood. It is a delicious cereal with milk or cream. Use it in cooking too. Recipes on the package. At your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Loboes Due for Real Test by Spur Team Here Saturday

GAME WILL BE STARTED AT 8 O'CLOCK

Visitors Base Hopes on Powerful Offense Behind Big Line

Glancing over the probable lineups on this page gives one the impression that the Loboes are not going to go into this contest with anything to be gained from a weight advantage. The Spur team, on the basis of that lineup, will hold this advantage as a team. We are not an authority for the figures on the Spur boys. They were supplied by the coach of the visiting team and we have his tabulation right at our elbow as we write.

Nor does the Spur team appear to be made up of left alone. The backfield, basing our observations upon what we have heard directly and indirectly of it, is composed of as fine a class of high school gridiron material as a coach could wish for. There is Puckett, a four-year man and captain of the team, tipping the beam at 190 pounds and who is reputed to carry that bulk about the field at the rate of slightly under 100 yards in 10 seconds. No slowness there. And they say he is a line-bender that would make the touted Chuck Bird of the Ranger Bulldogs look like a rank novice.

Probable Lineup for Cisco-Spur Game

The probable lineups for the Cisco-Spur game tomorrow night, together with the weights and numbers of the players are:

Cisco	Wt.	No.	Position	Spur	Wt.	No.
Massengale	175	28	le	Barrett	180	25
Cole	175	15	le	Emmert	190	35
Steen	200	47	lg	B. Morgan	150	31
O. C. Ray	183	20	c	McCormick	170	27
Black	175	25	rg	Stephens	165	1
Wagon	185	16	rt	Ragsdale	180	36
Van Horn	165	11	re	Dodge	170	33
Turknett	129	19	qtr	Rickles	150	32
R. Blackburn	135	23	lh	Joe Hahn	170	26

Connell	168	45	full	Puckett	190	34
Little	155	21	half

BIG DAM CHATTER

Well, the Loboes take on some real competition Saturday night, if we are permitted to believe reports of the Spur Bulldogs. Eleven, and it is our opinion that whatever ever-confidence that the local boys possess will be knocked several leagues out of their hides.

Come to think of it that name "Bulldog" doesn't sound so pleasant anyway. Isn't that the name of the Ranger crew? It is, for a fact.

Spur is the town from which R. N. Chick came to head the Cisco public school system. Spur doesn't love their ex-superintendent any too well for having chosen Cisco.

Nothing would suit those people better than to plaster a licking on the Loboes, and nothing would disagree with the constitution of the estimable Cisco school head any worse. He has been telling the boys about it, too, and our opinion is that if Spur whips us tomorrow evening our superintendent will attach second "ex" to the front of his name and annex himself to the first train travelling east.

Counting over the excellent defensive work of Paul Cole and O. C. Ray in past games, we are wondering if these boys can stop this 150-pound Puckett when he comes through the Cisco line? He will very probably try that sort of game at least part of the time. Chuck Van Horn and Massengale on ends are going to get an opportunity to show their stuff too, unless we are mistaken, not to speak of Steen and Black and Wagon and the rest of the boys who play in the forward wall.

O, well time will tell.

Rumors of Changes in Cards Denied

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10.—Rumors that six Cardinal players will be traded or sold to other baseball clubs were denied by both Manager "Gabby" Street and President Sam Beardson of the Cardinal club.

The six who were slated to find new berths in other clubs, according to rumors, were Jim Boylston, Jess Haines, Chick Hafey, Flint Rhem, Ernie Orsatti and possibly Taylor Douthitt.

But Sam Beardson said it's all imagination. Street said he has been too busy with baseball playing to think about trades.

PONIES FIRST TEAM TO OPEN AUSTIN TILT

DALLAS, Oct. 10.—First string Mustangs were due to open the grid battle today between S. M. U. and a strong aggregation from Austin college coached by Cecil Griggs, former star in Southwest conference skis and a flash on pro grids. Despite the conference game with the golden Bears of Baylor that hangs in the offing, Coach Ray Morrison promises to take no chances against the Griggsmen. With the exception of Mason and Powell, Morrison's indicated line-up is the same that faced Knute Rockne's Ramblers on foreign turf last week.

Other teams in the Southwest conference were mobilizing today on new battle fronts. The 1936 conference contest begins Saturday afternoon on the heavy Bermuda sward of the new T. C. U. bowl in Fort Worth where the Horned Frogs will clash with Coach Fred Thomsen's Razorbacks from Arkansas.

Tarleton Goes to Hillsboro Saturday

TARLETON STATION, Oct. 10.—Two John Tarleton teams will see action on the gridiron this week. The scrubs will entertain the Gorman high school eleven on the Tarleton field Friday and the Varsity will journey to Hillsboro to meet the Hillsboro Junior college squad in a conference tilt.

The Piewboys have earned some good experience this season in clashes with the Simmons Cowboys and the Wildcats of Abilene Christian, and they are ready now to try their strength in their own conference and let the T. I. A. A. alone for a while.

The Hillsboro squad boasts of maintaining a battling average of exactly 1,000 in three tilts with junior college gridsters this season.

Although the Tarleton boys have two defeats to mark their season's standing, the losses were to squads out of their class. The tilt Saturday promises to be a hard fight, neither team being chosen as a favorite before the clash.

Hillsboro and the adventurous Tarleton boys battled to a 6-6 tie last fall.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—A new injury to Captain Errett Van Nice, which may prevent him from starting against Wisconsin today lessened Chicago's hopes of victory in Saturday's Big Ten opener.

ternook of the 11th. The Rice Owls are determined to continue their flight upward by taking on the gridsters from Arizona university. "Getting out my heaters too early?"

You wouldn't think so if you'd had a party spoiled as I did last fall!

"YOU HAVEN'T heard about my famous 'Alaskan' bridge party? I thought everyone knew about it by now. It happened about this time last fall. The weather seemed ideal. I worked like a Trojan and resolved never to attempt such a large party again. Along about ten o'clock that morning I thought it was getting chilly but I was so busy that I didn't notice it much. At two o'clock I began to worry because it was decidedly cooler, and by four it was so cold everyone was playing in their wraps. I was simply frantic . . . every heater I had was stored away . . . anyhow, it was too late to get them out. You can't imagine how embarrassed I was, because practically every friend I have was there. It cured me though . . . the weather will never trick me again!

Now is the time to get out your gas heaters to avoid any uncomfortable periods and perhaps embarrassing situations. Weather statistics show that during the fall in this section of the country we always have unexpected cold snaps blow up with but a moment's notice. Drop in at your local gas company or gas appliances dealer and inspect the latest model heaters they have on display. There is a gas heater, especially designed, for every room of your home. You will enjoy their new beauty and be glad to learn of their increased efficiency.

PUBLIC SHOWS MORE INTEREST IN ASTRONOMY

By GENE GILLETTE DESMOINES, Oct. 10.—If you are one of the many Americans whose ideas of astronomy are nearly as vague as far-off Venus on a misty night then prepare for knowledge—it is headed your way. Dr. D. W. Morehouse, whose name is a by-word wherever men gather round the base of a long telescope to gaze at the heavens, told the United Press today he believed recent publicity given developments in the world of astronomy together with establishment of planetariums in the United States has had a tendency to popularize the science.

A Good Sign This, in the opinion of the educator, is a good sign. "Too many people," he said, "still believe that stars fall; that many are lost to the heavens every night and that new ones sprout in the blue like blossoms on a cherry tree." The writer hesitatingly admitted he had been deceived for years by falling "stars" and had sent many a shout of "money, money, money" after the flash of light from the heavens in furtherance of a childish superstition. Dr. Morehouse chuckled and explained these were meteors and that stars themselves remain fixed.

Cowboys of Southern Brazil Change Their Costumes to Those of Soldiers in Revolt

(Editor's note: A. W. Folger, of the United Press bureau in Buenos Aires, is the first American newspaper man to establish contact with revolutionary forces in Brazil. Folger's first dispatch from Sant' Ana Livramento, state of Rio Grande do Sul, follows. The revolution started in Rio Grande do Sul, and Folger will follow its developments there and in other parts of southern Brazil.) By A. W. FOLGER United Press Staff Correspondent. (Copyright, 1930, by United Press.) SANT' ANA DO LIVRAMENTO, Brazil, Oct. 10.—The "Gauchos" of southern Brazil, hard riding and fighting men of a great cattle country, have changed their picturesque costumes for soldiers' khaki. They have left the ranges for the battle front, and hundreds of them are boarding troop trains here, bound for action which the revolutionists hope will lead them to Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro. Accompanied by General Miguel Luis da Cunha chief of the rebel frontier forces, I watched several cavalry troops entrain for the state of Parana. The majority were volunteers, ranging between the ages of 18 and 25. They were well equipped, carrying mousers, rifles, sabers, and blankets. Some of them retained their brilliant saddle blankets of dyed sheep skin, and many wore red handkerchiefs around their necks, symbol of the "Alinha Libertador," the alliance of the liberator.

"Papa" Joffre Breaks Ten Year Rule; Talks About Events in World War

By STEWART BRQWN United Press Staff Correspondent PARIS, Oct. 10.—The soothing ministrations of his favorite barber recently caused Marshal "Papa" Joffre to break his rule of ten years standing and talk about the World War. Every Tuesday and Friday the aged marshal comes into Paris from his estate at Louveciennes, near Saint-Germain-en-Paye, a Parisian suburb to his barber. On this particular day a United Press correspondent was in the shop when the famous war hero arrived. He entered, dressed as usual, simply and wearing only one military ribbon, the one signifying his possession of the Military Medal. "Good morning everyone," said "Papa" Joffre genially. "How are you this morning?" asked his barber. "If it wasn't for the rheumatism ten thought of the Battle of the Marne. "Yes," he replied. "I think about it often. If I had listened to Gallieni I would have given the order to attack much too soon. But I wished to wait. I knew when to choose the hour, the remainder was done by my soldiers. French soldiers are admirable. They and the Germans are the best fighters in the world." Someone asked what about the English and American soldier. "They are wonderful," replied Joffre, adding that he did not believe that a new war was threatening.

Cannon Expects to Remain Silent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Bishop James Cannon Jr., expects to remain silent upon charges filed against him by four members of his denomination, but to deny the complaints whenever a properly constituted committee meets to investigate them. In a statement issued last night, his first since his return to Washington last week from a honeymoon trip, Bishop Cannon said that he had been acquainted with the nature of the charges since his arrival. He asked "suspension of judgment until these complaints have been properly adjudicated in accordance with the procedure prescribed by the church." The charges against Cannon, while not yet made public, are understood to concern his political and stock market activities. Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, also of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, has conferred with Cannon here and is expected to appoint the investigating committee.

RUSSIAN CROPS AFFECT WORLD GRAIN MARTS

By EUGENE LYONS United Press Staff Correspondent MOSCOW, Oct. 10.—With some 6 million peasant farms already merged into collectives and at least that many more likely to join the next year, the world must take cognizance of a new form of agrarian production which undoubtedly will affect agriculture in other countries. It is due to the collectives that the Soviet Union is able to export a considerable amount of grain this year. The extent of those exports is still a state secret, although figures as high as 2,500,000 tons have been mentioned. But it has been sufficient in any event to produce repercussions in the international grain market. With the collectivized area doubled this country seems certain to play an even more important role in the world grain business next year.

BROWN TELLS REASONS FOR HIS SUCCESS

Laugh and the world laughs with you; cry and you cry alone. But laugh at random, and the world laughs at you; you laugh alone. The secret of humor is not so much not knowing how to be funny, according to Joe E. Brown, star of "Top Speed," current at the Palace theatre, coming Sunday and Monday, but knowing when to be funny. He credits whatever success he has had as a comedian—which is considerable, judging by critical comments and box-office receipts of "Hold Everything"—to a formula of fun-making he created when he first embarked on his career as a stage comedian twenty-six years ago. It is simply this: Underplay everything. Restraint is the element responsible for the success of anything involving suspense, which is, in the main, the foundation of a laugh. You hear a joke, you find it funny, you giggle; but to the professional comedian these elemental steps have no value. His interpretation of a joke is something else. He tells you a number of incidents, these create a certain continuity and suspense, preferably a ridiculous or outlandish one, and then he springs the joke-line, the single remark that links together what he has said in such fashion as to be funny. Now, the briefer and more subtle that last joke-line can be the funnier the joke strikes the audience. Everyone knows the fool who distorts a really good joke by elaborating and explaining it to such length that the punia is spread over so large an area it doesn't meet with any favorable reception. Brown believes in seeking a middle ground, with just a shading, perhaps, in favor of under-telling a joke. "Always give the audience credit for more intelligence than you think it has," is his motto, "and you'll find yourself nearer its funny bone."

When report cards arrive, as they will be doing real soon, with perhaps a few C's and D's, don't punish Jimmie too quickly. Think first—does he have a good place to study? A table with a good lamp? Caesar's experiences are bad enough but pondered over beneath a dim light, they're terrible! One's eyes smart, one's head hurts, and pretty soon one doesn't care what becomes of Caesar and his legions. THE WEST TEXAS UTILITIES has lamps of every color, size, and shape—just the types for a boy's room, dainty models for dressing tables, and beautiful styles for the living room. Lamps give such a cozy appearance to a home. See these at the West Texas Utilities Co.

Something new in lamps—radio lamps, they are called, are to be seen at THE RED FRONT DRUG STORE. So unusual, you can't imagine what a stir they would cause if given a high prize at your club. They resemble plaques of Abraham Lincoln's face, the white house, the Loran cathedral, a fireside scene—any number of different ones, and the light, placed at the back, glows through the windows of the houses or in the fire place in the family scene. They are adorable, and the prices are just $2, $2.25, $2.50 and $2.75. Get one for your club prize next week, the winner will be delighted.
