T. P. Says Discontinuance of Trains Is Alternative

CENT FARE IS SOUGHT AT HEARING

Free Trains Must Be Removed Otherwise Say Officials

(Special to Daily News) ST. LOUIS, Oct. 13.—Failure to secure authority for reduced fares for the Texas & Pacific road to the choice of discontinuing at least three trains daily between Big Spring and Fort Worth, traffic officials testified before the Railroad commission Monday in proposing a two-cent per fare, between those points. Two-cent fare is approximately 50 per cent under bus fares. It was filed by the competing company.

Too Absorbed to Notice

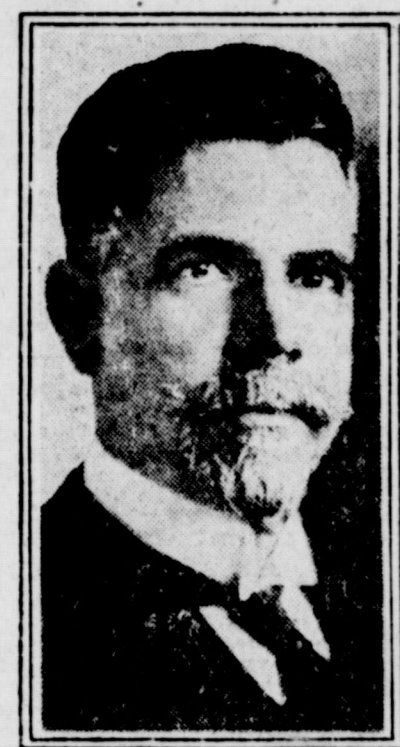

HASTINGS, Ok., Oct. 13.—"Did that kid ever get through reading the newspaper?" asked R. L. Parks, 26, of Vernon, Tex., today. Parks and Roy Anderson, Hobbs, N. M., were held in the Waurika jail today after a posse had captured them in the Red River bottoms where they sought refuge after robbing the Oklahoma State bank of Hastings late Saturday. Parks said he noticed Sammy Stephens, 8-year-old son of C. C. Stephens bank president, sitting in the front office of the bank when the bandits entered the bank, brandishing pistols and shouting. "He was so absorbed in reading the funny papers we paid no more attention to him," Parks said. They did not see him hide under the desk several minutes later when they left after locking the boy's father and four other men in the vault. "Boy, they sure had big feet," Sammy said.

AT STORM CENTER OF THE BRAZILIAN REVOLT

17,090 DRY LAW ARRESTS MADE IN 4 MONTHS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Arrests on charges of violating the federal prohibition law during the first quarter of this fiscal year averaged about 133 a day, for a total of 17,070, and fines of three quarters of a million dollars were collected. It was revealed today in the Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock's monthly progress report. If this rate of arrests is maintained for the remainder of the year, about 68,000 persons will have been arrested by the federal dry forces. In 1929 about 66,000 were arrested. As a result either of jury trials or guilty pleas, the government won convictions in 7,101 of cases tried in the quarter while acquittals resulted in only 1,116. Unfinished dry law cases on the court dockets numbered 24,533 at the end of the quarter. Fines collected in the quarter from those convicted totaled $775,485, while 758,880 were meted out in sentences to prohibition law offenders. Seizures of automobiles numbered 1,978 in the quarter—July August and September—while 5,515 stills were taken in raids. Summarizing outstanding cases of September, the report told of the surrender in New York of 10 defendants charged with selling a fluid extract of ginger similar to a poisonous beverage widely sold in the south which afflicted hundreds with paralysis.

HOYT WELL DRILLING AHEAD AFTER LANDING PIPE SUNDAY

This $5 Bill Is Still Going

The five-dollar bill started out by W. D. Breechen last Friday was still going Monday morning. John H. Garner's reported having received it after it had passed through numerous hands. It was started out again immediately. We should like to hear from that bill again tomorrow morning. The Anna Belle Oil company's Hoyt No. 1, in the northern outskirts of Cisco, landed five-inch casing at 3,475 about dark yesterday afternoon and was drilling ahead this morning according to reports from the well. Production was not expected for some distance. The well ran into a strong showing of gas in a stray sand at 3,390 feet early last week, the second-such showing that it has encountered. Neither were found in the Paschall well on the eastern fringe of the city.

CHRISTOVAL AND BRADY THREATENED

Brady Creek, Concho and Colorado Have Sudden Rises

Torrential downpours early this morning menaced homes and business property in Christoval, Ballinger, Eden and Brady, according to a report from the West Texas Utilities company dispatcher. At Christoval families were forced from their homes. Ten inches of rain was reported at Eden and Brady where water was high in the streets, flooding many homes. A big rise in Brady creek is expected hourly. General rains varying from one-half to three inches were reported from each of the 45 counties served by the company. Rain was reported from the Panhandle on the north to the Pecos on the south. From Saturday to Monday one and one-half inches of rain fell in Cisco according to the gauge at the city hall. A drizzle continued all day after a hard rain Sunday night and Monday morning. During the past two weeks five and one-half inches have fallen here.

Depression Only Temporary—Insull

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Samuel Insull, chief executive of public utilities which operate in 30 states with market value securities of over $3,000,000, believes that the present business depression is only temporary. Upon the eve of the assembling of industrial leaders invited by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson to attend a conference on unemployment, Insull last night issued one of the year's most optimistic statements by outstanding figures in the world of finance. Among the outstanding facts that Insull revealed were that his companies, in all 30 states, have not reduced employment during the depression that the aggregate revenue of all companies has increased 7 per cent this year, that the companies are keeping their promise to President Hoover to expend approximately $200,000,000 for expansion in 1930 and that an equally large expansion program will be undertaken in 1931.

Short, 30, of Big Spring, was instantly killed when an eastbound Texas & Pacific fact express crashed, the engine and four of seven cars leaving the rails, at twilight Sunday near the Eagle Ford stop. Engineer T. B. Petty, 32, of Fort Worth, sustained severe bruises and deep lacerations, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Crockett of Irving received abrasions when their car was struck by a portion of the railroad engine as it swung sideways from the track. All three of the injured were brought to hospitals here. The crew was unable to explain why the train left the rails. Theories of rail spread and curvature of the tracks were offered. The engine and tender turned over. Four cars were dragged after them, and the three rear cars in which a score of passengers were riding stayed on the rails. The train left Abilene at 11:15 a. m. and was due here at 3 p. m. The crash occurred at 5:07 p. m.

He arrived yesterday after an automobile trip which he declared was practically a swim. "I never saw so much rain in my life," he said. "The country about Wichita Falls was flooded, and through the streets of that city the water often came up to the carburetor of my car. For 25 miles out of Wichita Falls the water was up to the running board and the road submerged so that people had to drive by the fence-posts on either side." Mr. Blanken said that he and his family are doing very well. Elizabeth, Mrs. Blanken's wife, has a delicatessen store in that city.

TRUCKS OF MICHIGAN CHARGED

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 13.—Contention of attorneys that the Missouri railway is seeking to deny bus competition in asking a cent a mile rate on certain routes was placed before the state road commission today while the rate is asked to test out other people can be attracted to railroad, using it rather than rate automobiles. Authority has been asked to put two-cent a mile rate in effect on three trains between Fort Worth and Big Spring. Governor Lang of San Antonio, representing Southland-Greyhound, said that the bus fare over same route is 2.75 cents a mile. He said the rate is the more profitable as going on to El Paso. Lang said that it would be unfair to the railway charge the low rate only on certain trains and over part of their line while buses have the same fare on all lines and over all the line. Frank Jensen, passenger agent of the railway is trying to find if the private automobile traffic can be attracted and for that reason asked a rate low enough to test it accurately. He denied that bus lines were in mind when rate was asked. The rains which the rate is sought end run at Big Spring, he said, and asked if they would sell a rough ticket from Fort Worth to Midland, applying the two-cent rate from Big Spring and 3.6 cents to Big Spring to Midland.

DAILY BIBLE READING

Luke 2:25-32

- 25. And, behold, there was a man in Jerusalem, whose name was Simeon; and the same man was just and devout, waiting for the consolation of Israel; and the Holy Ghost was upon him. 26. And it was revealed unto him by the Holy Ghost, that he should not see death, before he had seen the Lord's Christ. 27. And he came by the Spirit into the temple; and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him after the custom of the law, 28. Then took he him up in his arms, and blessed God, and said, 29. Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word. 30. For mine eyes have seen thy salvation, 31. Which thou hast prepared before the face of all people; 32. A light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel.

NO ORGANIZATION.

"It is said that less is known about county government in the United States than about the government of any of the other political subdivisions," says The Manufacturer.

"Yet these county governments are responsible for a very important part of the total tax bill. If they are inefficient and wasteful, we must all pay for it. On the contrary, if they are economical and efficient we all benefit."

"County government has been called the dark continent of American politics. Until we pay greater attention to it, there can be no appreciable reduction in local taxation."

To county governments in this sense may be added the multitude of municipal governments. There are very few of these governments that are really qualified, as students of economics and taxation, to assess levies. With most of them it is a mere routine of determining what the expenses of government will probably be and fixing a traditional tax calculated to provide the revenue. The effect of that tax, its equities or inequities, the possibility of a better and more economical form of levy does not enter their minds. They give little thought to progressive measures.

The average county and municipal official is a business or professional man who has given little attention to political science and whose sole reliance upon entering the public service is that he shall be honest and fair-minded in the administration of public matters after time-honored customs. The dissatisfactions and failures that have gone before he blandly ascribes to the inefficiencies of preceding administrations. That the imperfections of the political system might be largely to blame he rarely considers.

One serious fault of our present scheme of taxation is its lack of organization. We have numerous levying powers which are but loosely related. City, schools, county, district, state and federal governments all have tax-fixing agencies which are independent. Under such a condition equitable adjustment is next to impossible.

SHE'S COMING BACK.

When it rains, it pours. A trait of west Texas is that it goes into whatever it undertakes with a whole-heartedness that sometimes carries it to the extreme. Even the weather seems to have adopted that characteristic. Since Saturday morning an inch and one-half of rain has fallen in Cisco. Last week-end more than three inches fell and the preceding week-end an inch fell. That makes five and one-half inches of moisture over a period of little more than two weeks.

Fall crops in this section have no lack of water now. Stock tanks and other reservoirs have been replenished. Business and the general spirit of the people has been revived. "One thing you can say for west Texas," said a Cisco banker Saturday. "She always comes back strong." It looks now just that way.

TIME TO BUILD.

There never was a better time than now to do that bit of building or repair work that has been contemplated for so long but postponed because of a fear of depression. If money is needed it can be easily obtained. Building and loan associations stand ready to supply it at fair rates. Labor is cheaper now than it has been or is likely to be once conditions readjust themselves.

Speaking of credits, a member of the Retail Merchants Association recently said that he is carrying the accounts of numbers of people who are amply able to pay but who are neglecting their bills to pile up cash reserves against hard times. There is no better way to precipitate hard times than that. Keeping money out of circulation is the primary cause of the depression of which we have been complaining. The stock market panic of 1929 with its attendant losses of millions turned the spending and buying public from one extreme to another. They adopted a hoarding attitude, stunned with the quickness with which their money was swallowed up in the fluctuations of stocks, determined to keep it under their thumbs. The trouble was that they mistook speculation for investment. The odds are always against the gambler. They are on the side of the investor. Values are supported from beneath. They may be temporarily fixed on the exchange but they must have a groundwork of production and honest service to endure.

OTHER OPINIONS

THE IDEALISM OF YOUTH. The hope of the future is mentioned freely, and all hands are told that they will do great things when they pop out into the world. The other day, however, the Rev. Lemore M. McKee, chaplain of Yale University, sounded off for Yale undergraduates by declaring bluntly that today's youth has no idealism, clings to outworn conventions and shows no desire to lead its generation to any but the conventional career of Main Street's glittering materialism. Mr. McKee followed this by advising his hearers to cultivate the old-fashioned virtue of humility and begged them to develop at least one thing they could show us the virtuosity of our sophistication. All in all, this is strange and refreshing doctrine for college students. Humility and Yale are not often mentioned in one breath and a reference to the vulgarity of occupational sounds strange when it comes from the glittering New Haven campus. One can only wish that the speech might be repeated on every campus in the land, and that the rising generation would think about it a little. The world is a much more trustful and confident place that it is often realized; and year after year it goes on looking to its young college graduates for some one to give guidance that will be a bit clearer and higher than the sort it ordinarily produces for itself. But that sort of guidance proceeds only from high ideals, and high ideals, as Mr. McKee points out, are not popular these days. And youth, or with age. — San Angelo Times.

CITY DRUG CO.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, N.E.A. Service Writer. WASHINGTON—Politicians are politicians and that is why the Republican state convention in New York by a three to one vote, declared for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the return of the liquor problem to the individual states.

A month before the convention. It was commonly believed among those most conversant with state politics in New York that the Republicans would adopt a straddling plank on prohibition in an attempt to keep the upstate dries happy as well as the New York City wets. But politicians are politicians and it is not much fun being a politician unless you can win an election once in a while and get your party into office.

The New York Republicans are tired of losing state elections. For years now they have had a Democratic governor and two United States senators. Their weakness in the state enabled New York Democrats to produce a strong presidential candidate in 1928 and the chances are that another New York Democratic governor will be the strongest candidate for the Democratic nomination in 1932.

G. O. P. at Disadvantage. About all the attention the Republican party in New York has attracted through the country has been in connection with prohibition scandals in New York City and the uninspiring efforts of Republican state legislators to thwart Governor Al Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt. It has never been questioned by anyone that, insofar as any state can be tagged as wet or dry, New York is the party that took the plunge.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Adventure enters the life of Celia Mitchell, 17, when she learns the father she has supposed dead is alive and wealthy. She leaves her unpretentious home in Baltimore for a home in New York with her father, John Mitchell, and her aristocratic grandmother.

Margaret Rogers, her mother, divorced Mitchell and remarried and is now a widow. Barney Shields, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl and before leaving Baltimore Celia promised to be loyal to his love. She is lonely in her new home.

Mitchell asks Evelyn Parsons, a beautiful widow, to introduce the girl to young people. Mrs. Parsons considers Celia a means to win Mitchell's affections and agrees. She invites the girl to her Long Island home for a week-end.

Tod Jordan, fascinating but with a dubious reputation, is attentive to Celia and Mrs. Parsons encourages the match. When the other guests leave Celia continues her visit.

Lisi Duncan, socially prominent, invites her to attend a swimming party. Celia narrowly escapes drowning and is rescued by Jordan. Her father hears of the affair and insists she must return home. The same evening Jordan calls and in a romantic scene tells Celia he loves her. She returns to New York next day and receives a telephone call.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXV

"Who is it?" Celia demanded eagerly. She held the French telephone close to her ear.

"The gentleman" at the other end of the line was a butler explaining that Miss Lisi Duncan wished to speak to Miss Mitchell. A moment later Celia heard Lisi's gay voice.

"That you, Celia?" she asked. "Evelyn told me you'd gone home. I telephoned her a few minutes ago. Listen, how're you feeling today?"

"Oh, I'm all right!" Surely, Celia thought, she must have said that a thousand times in the last 24 hours.

"Fine! Honey, I want you to have lunch with me tomorrow. I'm going to drive in and I'll pick you up about 1:30. That O. K.?"

Celia thought it would be. She cheered her immensely. To think Lisi wanted to be friendly. She promised to be ready.

"That's settled then. By-by, honey!"

After Celia put down the telephone she considered in her grandmother could object. It would be horrible to have to call off the engagement. She decided to wait until her father arrived home before mentioning the luncheon party.

He came shortly after four, asking immediately for his daughter. The girl was ruminating.

"Home again?" Mitchell called as he entered the library. "Well, Celia, let's hear all about this casualty of yours."

"Oh, father, I can't understand how it happened. One minute I was swimming alone in the next the wave came over me and I thought I was sinking."

Mitchell sat down beside her, asked questions. He wanted to know the name of the young man who had saved her. Celia, with trembling eagerness, explained she had met Jordan at Evelyn Parsons'.

"Oh, yes? Well, I wouldn't stand on a little point of etiquette if I were drowning!" he said drily.

Celia laughed. She explained she wasn't referring to social proprieties, but thought Mitchell might remember seeing Jordan.

Her father shook his head. "Can't say I do," he said. Then he wrote down the name. "Well, I'll look after this young man."

"But I'm sure he wouldn't mean I mean I wouldn't accept money or anything like that," she protested.

Mitchell put the memorandum book back into his pocket.

want you to have plenty of young friends. I'll speak to your grandmother."

She thanked him and went out of the room.

There was a letter from Celia's mother that morning. It was the first the girl had received from Mrs. Rogers since arriving in New York, but coming at this particular time, its effect was profound. Celia was at her dressing table lazily polishing her nails when the knock on the door and gave her the letter.

The girl greeted the familiar handwriting with delight. Then she ran to the chaise longue, sank down and tore open the envelope.

"My darling child," was the salutation. Celia read on quickly. There was little news. Mrs. Rogers wrote that she was feeling well and very busy. It was the vacation season and two of the filters at Margot's were away. Of course it was the slack season, but still she and Tillis Dennison had their hands full. It had been very warm, but today they were having a cool spell.

Margaret Rogers said that Barney had come to see her. He was working hard. The people next door in the apartment had a new radio. There was nothing of importance in the letter, but Celia read it all eagerly. This was news from home.

"I hope you are very happy with your new friends," the last paragraph read, "but remember, above all else, to take care of yourself. Write soon. Oh, my darling, how I love you. Your Mother."

After the girl had finished reading it she sat for a long time looking down at the letter. There was something so much else to do. Her precious mother! Celia thought of her mother going to work, bending over her sewing through hot days. Was she really well? A wave of revulsion swept over the girl as she thought of Margaret Rogers' long toil and privations and the luxury with which she herself was surrounded.

Finally she folded the letter and put it under a pile of lingerie in a drawer of the dressing table.

Lisi was late. It was nearly two o'clock when she drove up to the Mitchell home and sounded the French horn of her coupe. Celia hurried out of the house to stop the uproar before it reached her grandmother's ears.

"Hullo!" Lisi greeted her brightly. "Am I late? It's the precious traffic. Red lights all the way! I swear, crossing the bridge."

She habbed on as Celia stepped into the car. Then they circled the square and headed up-town.

Lisi was looking particularly well in a green and white printed frock and small green hat that seemed to minimize her freckles.

"Honey, my hat!" she demanded. "It's Kate's, and she'd have it. I got it on right?"

Celia said the hat looked very well.

"We're going to —" the other girl said, naming a small, fashionable restaurant. "Dicky's, to meet us there. It's all right. He knows I'm always late."

"Who's Dicky?" Celia asked.

Lisi grinned. "The plot thickens," she said. "Haven't had time to explain why I really called you yesterday. Dicky's my Big Thrill. He's an actor — ah, a good one, too! Going to open in a wonderful show next month. But you see I can't have him out at the house or meet him at the club because of Kate. Every time a man I like sees Kate they forget me like that!" Lisi's fingers snapped.

"She goes after them on purpose. Kate's mean as the dickens if you want to learn all. I fished up this excuse of luncheon with you so I could get into town without a row. Anyhow, I didn't think you'd mind."

It was impossible to hold resentment against Lisi. Celia was a little uncomfortable about luncheon with this strange man but her companion waved aside her scruples.

"Dicky's a love," she declared. "Wait till you see him." The man who rose when they entered the foyer of the restaurant was not, to Celia's way of thinking, "a love." He was too blond, too conscious of his regular features and too eager to talk about himself.

A waiter led them to a corner table which had been reserved. Lisi fell into eager conversation about how rehearsals were going and getting his part enlarged.

He had not but he was going to talk to the director that afternoon.

glamorous person than Richard Brandon Caruthers. At 3:30 they left the restaurant. Dicky was to report at the theater at four. They all climbed into the coupe and Lisi drove toward Broadway. Celia dared not admit it was her first view of that famous thoroughfare. Her father and grandmother apparently had little interest in the theater.

In the afternoon sun she thought the great electric signs looked hideous and the street had a cheap, dismal air. It was very hot. Curious looking men and women passed. Caruthers left them in front of a theater which to Celia was one of the ugliest.

All the way to Grammarly Park Lisi chattered of the young man's attractions.

"Can you?" she said impulsively. "I like you, Celia. I knew I could depend on you. You're on the level!"

The next day was dreary but on Saturday Mrs. Mitchell and Celia drove to Westchester to attend a society fair for the benefit of charity. It was one of the charities of which Mrs. Mitchell served as a board member.

Celia was not interested until she visited the fortune teller's tent. Her grandmother, by an odd quirk of character, had the greatest faith in seers.

"Ask her to read your future!" Mrs. Mitchell urged and the girl went into the brightly festooned bower.

She offered her palm to the aged gypsy.

"Can you see anything there?" Celia asked as she sat down.

The old woman studied the hand several moments.

"Sweetheart!" she muttered. "Two of them. One handsome! I see."

The gypsy's sharp eyes darted upward and her voice rose "I see — Danger!"

"HONK" GIVEN FULLBACK POST ON 'HURRICANE'

"Honk" Irvin, giant tackle on the Cisco Lobo football teams of 1924 and 1925, has been given the fullback post on Davis and Elkins "Scarlet Hurricanes" of which he is captain this season, according to a news article from Elkins, West Virginia.

Says the article: Irvin, picked by many sports writers as all-American lumber last year and also the season before, has been a star tackle for the Senator eleven for the past three years. Now Henderson proposes to switch the big youth to a fullback. In the practices this week Irvin has been looking splendid at this post. He is a powerful ball carrier and is certain to be hard to stop once he gets underway.

Coach Henderson has always leaned heavily toward husky fullbacks. During the career of Mac Berke's fame saw a Senator fullback weighing around 225 pounds, and then came Neil Rengle, weighing over 192 pounds. Both those players have been graduated with a small squad of 26 men working out and no rugged fullbacks in uniform. Coach Henderson ever the magician in being able to shift his gristers about from one position to another, decides that Irvin can fill the berth. In spring sessions during April he had the big boy performing a bit at full back—and he may have reached a final decision then that when the present campaign opened that Irvin would be made into a fullback, leaving his old post at tackle, where he made a record for himself which gained him national recognition.

ROSS STERLING REVISES THE POLITICAL PICTURE IN TEXAS

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN, Oct. 13.—The sudden reversal of intention shown by Ross S. Sterling, when he decided to resign from the state highway commission, has started political tongues wagging at Austin. Two points in his statement of resignation have focused attention. One was his specific reference to preparing his affairs for a year-over-time. This is taken as an indication that Sterling will not seek re-election but will content with a single term. The other point is his announcement that he will leave the state for a time to rest. This is taken to mean that there will be little consideration given appointments for some time.

The chief political plum of his administration is already bestowed by the appointment of D. D. Martin to the state highway commission. Martin's appointment was at the request of Sterling, Governor Moody said. Therefore it means that Sterling expects to re-appoint him in January when he becomes governor.

Governor Moody's last remaining appointment is the place on the board of control which R. B. Wainhall has held a year over-time. If J. D. Hall should be selected for the place, as some think he will, it would put two Williamson county men on the board. This may prevent Hall being chosen.

There was recent rumor, however, that Sterling would ask Claude Teer, the present Williamson county member of the board of control, to become his secretary. If Governor Moody was assured this is to be done and that Teer would accept, the way for Hall's appointment on the board of control would be made easier.

Paul Wakefield of Houston, who was closely associated with the Sterling campaign, also is mentioned as a likely secretary to the new governor.

There is no secret of the political enmity between Sterling and Roy Tennant of the board of control. While Sterling was chairman of the highway commission, that body and the board of control frequently clashed. Tennant was the principal witness against the highway commission when it was subjected to legislative inquiry.

Personally there is also cause for disagreement. Tennant has a suit for $100,000 pending against Sterling's newspaper for alleged libelous statements about him. Tennant, appointed by Governor Miriam Ferguson, was an outspoken advocate of the election of former Governor James E. Ferguson in the recent campaign.

Under these conditions, Sterling is counted upon politically to keep Teer, his own close friend and supporter, on the board. Moreover, Teer is chairman.

Having announced that he made the highway appointment at the request of the incoming governor, Governor Dan Moody is expected to be consistent and also appoint the new member of the board of control in accordance with Sterling's wishes. In the event Sterling would have two friends on the board of three members.

This board has great political power if it seeks to exert its influence on the heads of the state state eleemosynary institutions who in turn name the large number of employees of these institutions.

As a supporter of Sterling, Labor Commissioner Chas. Kenney is reasonably expected to be continued in that post. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state, was also a Sterling appointee, as was State Bank Commissioner James Shaw.

The appointment of D. K. Martin on the highway board Sterling's suggestion is taken to indicate an intention to push his state bond issue proposal. Martin urged the citizens committee to urge this bond issue.

John T. Smith of Austin, editor of the Texas Tax Journal, an outspoken opponent of the plan, sent out a questionnaire the democratic nominees for legislature. Of 37 replies, he 38 reported they would vote for submitting a bond issue; 22 they would vote to submit, gave qualifying answers and were non-committal.

Cotton Conference Opens at N. Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 13.—Government officials and businessmen from over the south are in New Orleans today for a conference which is hoped would up the price of the southern commodity.

There were rumors of impending conflict between shippers and a farm board members in that the shippers believed that functions were being usurped by the board. D. E. McCuen of Greenville, S. C., president of the American Cotton Shippers' association, hoped to preserve amity.

Among those scheduled to attend were Secretary of Commerce R. P. Lamont, chairman of the League of the Federal Farm and Home Owners, and a number of that board. A similar meeting in 1926 was followed by 100 per cent increase in the price of cotton.

The report, one of eleven presented, will be made by M. Addinsell, of New York. The federal government will discuss the wisdom of investments in the light of current events. It was reported.

A note of optimism was that the bankers gathered here the weekend. President Frontz Calloway predicted better business conditions, minimizing the effect of "vague fears that have prevalent."

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

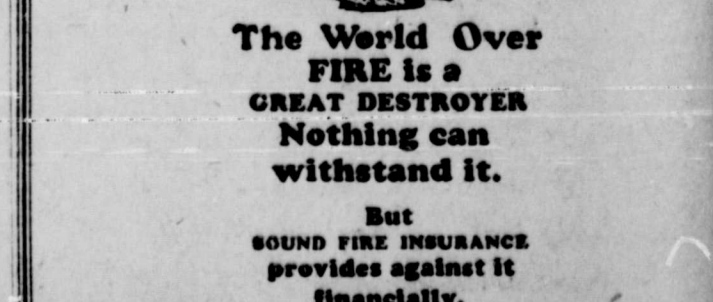

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified croscote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs croscote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to croscote, other healing elements which soothe and heal inflamed membranes and stop the irritation. The croscote goes to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germ.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is especially for building up the system after flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (add)

BANKS SAVE EMPLOYEES OF STATE MONEY

AUSTIN, Oct. 13.—But for the appropriation of Austin banks this week and of banks in other cities during the next 60 days, state employees and those doing business in the state would have been expected to lose $250,000.

The estimate of Treasurer W. Greer Hatcher, state general revenue was down last year more than $100,000 when the legislature turned to the banks to advance the government money state off a deficiency.

By reason of the banks' advance money, the state is kept on a financially cash basis. Where there is a deficiency, payment on warrants is stopped by the treasurer.

When all outstanding warrants are listed and are paid in numerical order of issuance. If a single warrant is held back, that blocks a time payment of others issued later.

Once on deficiency all whom the state owes, including every capital and official from the governor down, must take their money and the chance to get out borrowing money is then wiped away.

Technically, the banks get a little interest on these voluntary advances to the state; but the action is prompted principally by patriotism and rewarded by the readiness of a highly benefited class of those who would otherwise be an actual injustice—but not the bankers' hands.

The bankers are entitled to offset credits against any balances deposits of the state fund they may have on hand. Obviously, when the fund is practically exhausted, there can be little reserve deposits on which to base the operating credits of interest on daily basis.

It is no new thing for state employees to hawk their warrants and discount them five to eight per cent.

But during the past five years, the deficiency status has been avoided through co-operation of perhaps as many as 25 of the banks in the larger cities of the state.

The state's system of collecting taxes has been declared just about as good as it possibly could have been made, had the makers set to do the worst job their industry could devise.

The federal government collects taxes quarterly. Counties, cities and districts levy their taxes for collection at the same time the taxes are paid. Motor registration fees hit a heavy wallop at the same time. The Christmas season precedes the period for payment of taxes. Thus a peak load laid upon the taxpayers just at the time they are least able to pay.

As a result, the state accumulates a surplus of around $11,000,000 in February, March and April. From this reserve steadily runs down under present practice, until about October 1, when it is exhausted and then the state is in a scramble for extraordinary financing, or must pay its debts at the rate of interest.

Quarterly payments would ease the burden upon those who pay the cost of government. It would give the money in the payers' hands until needed by the state, and would put it in the treasury at intervals through the year when it is needed, to avoid the present situation and the condition that recurs every winter.

New Movement to Harness Texas Waters in Scheme of Commerce Taking Shape

By THOMAS C. CLUCK
United Press Staff Correspondent
DALLAS, Oct. 13.—Water has ever been the salvation of Texas.

Early settlers found it their chief concern, and laid the foundation for the state's development along the streams, by the water holes, on prospective harbor sites and around the windmills.

Today a new movement is brewing and assuming form—a movement to harness water sources and channels, and to incorporate them into the state's scheme of commerce.

Of such a scope is the composite undertaking that it is not readily grasped. Hundreds of men are planning and executing, with a facile and inclusive system of inland waterways as the objective.

The projects fall in three major divisions: navigation of the Trinity river from Fort Worth and Dallas to the Gulf; construction of the intracoastal canal through Louisiana and Texas; and damming Red river near Denison.

In the larger sense, all are a part of the great Mississippi river system, now nearing completion and in some sections in actual use. Approximately 14,000 miles of waterways will be available when this work is completed.

Navigation through interior Texas is no new idea. For close on a century men with vision and aggressiveness have toyed with the possibilities, experimented, scouted and planned.

New life has been put into the schemes, and at present concrete evidence augurs for progress by leaps and bounds.

Thirty-five or more business men met at Fort Worth on August 23 and as the board of directors of the Trinity River Canal association put new and virile blood into the navigation project. John W. Carpenter of Dallas was elected, John M. Fouts of Dallas has been named general manager, and offices are maintained in Fort Worth.

Ten dredges are moving dirt night and day over a stretch of 115 miles in Louisiana, with a short section of 32 miles remaining to be contracted for the intracoastal canal. Preliminary work has started on the section from the Sabine district to Galveston and right-of-way surveys on the coast from Galveston to Corpus Christi are under way. The Intracoastal association of Louisiana and Texas is now devoting its efforts to obtaining the approval and authorization of an extension to the Rio Grande valley.

Within the month a chamber of commerce meeting at Denison was turned into a river promotion rally, with its slogan: "Harness the Red river and make it a servant instead of a menace."

The inland waterways movement is spreading, advancing, gaining momentum as it goes.

Man Shot Down in Waco Hotel
WACO, Oct. 13.—J. M. (Jack) Pruitt, Dallas, was shot four times, twice through the chest, once through the abdomen and once in the hip, as he stood at the counter of the Raleigh hotel here shortly before noon today paying his bill. H. S. Cunningham of Dallas surrendered to police.

Pruitt registered at the hotel yesterday, and alongside his name on the registry was "Mrs. Pruitt." A woman whom Cunningham said was his wife was with Pruitt as the latter was paying his bill.

Witnesses said Cunningham walked into the hotel with his 19-year old daughter and started shooting with a small calibre revolver. Pruitt fell. The woman crouched over Pruitt as if to protect him, spectators said, and Cunningham pulled her away.

His condition was reported slightly improved, but he still was unable or unwilling to answer questions. So just before noon police led Marlon Roberts, a titian-haired Ziegfeld showgirl, into a private room at police headquarters and sought to learn from her how and why Diamond was shot yesterday as he sat in his red pajamas on a bed at the Hotel Monticello, sipping orange juice.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The vitality that has carried Jack (Legs) Diamond through the hazardous life of the underworld came to his aid today as he lay near death in Polyclinic hospital with four gangster bullets in his body.

His condition was reported slightly improved, but he still was unable or unwilling to answer questions. So just before noon police led Marlon Roberts, a titian-haired Ziegfeld showgirl, into a private room at police headquarters and sought to learn from her how and why Diamond was shot yesterday as he sat in his red pajamas on a bed at the Hotel Monticello, sipping orange juice.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Jack "Legs" Diamond of the New York underworld, lay near death today from bullet wounds inflicted by the enemies from which he tried futilely to escape six weeks ago.

Caught without his bodyguard in a room at the Monticello hotel Sunday morning, he was shot four times by two unknown gunmen he had admitted unsuspectingly to his room. The assailants escaped.

"Any one of a hundred reasons"—to quote Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney—might have been the motive for the attempt to kill Diamond, who recently was escorted back from Germany after seeking refuge abroad from the many enemies he had made in his career as a powerful Broadway racketeer.

A phone call, received as he sat eating a late breakfast in the room of 20-year-old Marian Roberts, red-haired Ziegfeld beauty, lured him into the trap that had been set for him many months ago.

She heard him pleading for his life just before the burst of shots, she said. She dressed quickly and fled. Later she was found hiding under some clothes in a closet in the apartment of Agnes O'Laughlin, another showgirl, who recently sued Rudy Vallee charging breach of promise.

Conflicted
The story the showgirl told Mulrooney today conflicted in several details with previous statements attributed to her.

One placed suspicion on New Jersey liquor racketeers whose attempts to supply thirsty Brooklynites had met with severe repulses from Diamond and his gang.

A second was that he was shot in revenge for the Hotsy-Totsy night club murders. Police conducted a wide search for "Legs" after two men had been riddled with bullets in the Harlem night club, but he did not turn up until eight months later, after his co-defendant had been acquitted and three state witnesses had been "taken for a ride". Lacking the necessary witnesses, authorities dismissed the indictment.

A third theory was that the shooting was connected with the disappearance of Harry Western, upstate roadhouse proprietor, who disappeared shortly before Diamond sailed for Europe on a trip that resulted in his being returned to this country as an undesirable alien.

A fourth theory mentioned Searcher Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, who was reported recently to be preparing to "muscle in" on the slot machine racket here.

TEXAS AIMS BLOW AT AUTO TRAFFIC TOLL

HOUSTON, Oct. 13.—Following the lead of progressive states in the east, a movement is under way in Texas to secure the adoption of a uniform motor vehicle license law. The safety department of the Houston chamber of commerce has taken the lead in the movement which is being sponsored by other civic bodies over the entire state.

The bill proposed, written by Representative Rolland Bradley, Houston, provides that a driver's license shall not be issued to any person under the age of 16. Chauffeur's licenses would not be issued to persons under 18 nor to any individual who is a habitual drunkard or addicted to the use of narcotics.

A boy or girl over 12 years of age and under 16 may secure permission to drive a car only by this means: If two practicing physicians certify the child is physically and mentally competent to drive an automobile, an application for a permit may be granted to the applicant, who is allowed under the law to drive an automobile until a full license is issued.

Among the grounds on which licenses are to be revoked are: negligent homicide resulting from driving, driving a vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, perjury in applying for a license, commission of any felony in which a motor vehicle is used, and conviction for failure to stop and disclose identity in any accident resulting in death to another party.

DIAMOND NEAR DEATH FROM GANG'S GUNS
NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The vitality that has carried Jack (Legs) Diamond through the hazardous life of the underworld came to his aid today as he lay near death in Polyclinic hospital with four gangster bullets in his body.

His condition was reported slightly improved, but he still was unable or unwilling to answer questions. So just before noon police led Marlon Roberts, a titian-haired Ziegfeld showgirl, into a private room at police headquarters and sought to learn from her how and why Diamond was shot yesterday as he sat in his red pajamas on a bed at the Hotel Monticello, sipping orange juice.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Jack "Legs" Diamond of the New York underworld, lay near death today from bullet wounds inflicted by the enemies from which he tried futilely to escape six weeks ago.

Caught without his bodyguard in a room at the Monticello hotel Sunday morning, he was shot four times by two unknown gunmen he had admitted unsuspectingly to his room. The assailants escaped.

"Any one of a hundred reasons"—to quote Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney—might have been the motive for the attempt to kill Diamond, who recently was escorted back from Germany after seeking refuge abroad from the many enemies he had made in his career as a powerful Broadway racketeer.

A phone call, received as he sat eating a late breakfast in the room of 20-year-old Marian Roberts, red-haired Ziegfeld beauty, lured him into the trap that had been set for him many months ago.

She heard him pleading for his life just before the burst of shots, she said. She dressed quickly and fled. Later she was found hiding under some clothes in a closet in the apartment of Agnes O'Laughlin, another showgirl, who recently sued Rudy Vallee charging breach of promise.

Arizona Permitted to File Dam Suit
WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Arizona today was granted permission to file its suit in the supreme court to restrain its neighboring states and Interior Secretary Ray Lyman Wilbur from proceeding with the Boulder dam work.

The court directed the issuance of service returnable January 5, 1931. Arizona asks a permanent injunction preventing further activity on the power and irrigation project. It charges state sovereignty was being invaded and that it was being invaded and that it was being robbed of its natural resources.

The complaint attacked both the Santa Fe compact entered into by sister states which provided for the apportionment of the waters on the Colorado river and the Swing-Johnson bill which authorized the work. The former is unjust in its distribution of water in the lower basin, in which Arizona lies and in withdrawing unappropriated water then select one of the three. Early discussion showed divided opinion among board members and an executive session was ordered to thrash out the matter. Indications now are that the book contract awards will not be made before tomorrow.

New fuel was added to the west Texas complaint against geographers now in use in public school readers being submitted this year have statements considered inimical to west Texas. Members of the committee were endeavoring to get a view of these books today.

Withdrawal of the objectionable geographies until they have been revised, will be asked by the committee, Max Bentley said. This will take about a year. Should the withdrawal be refused the committee is authorized to resort to mandamus. The objection does not extend to all the geographies. Of one, it is complained that a child may answer all its questions without once mentioning Texas.

5 Textbooks Sought for Each Course
AUSTIN, Oct. 13.—An effort to have at least five books in each course, instead of three, submitted to the state board of education was made when the board met here today to award contracts on free school text books estimated to be worth $1,250,000. The text book committee had intended to report on the teachability of three books in each course; letting the board then select one of the three. Early discussion showed divided opinion among board members and an executive session was ordered to thrash out the matter. Indications now are that the book contract awards will not be made before tomorrow.
