Loucks, are shown here in the foreground as they went to trial at Hillsboro, Ore., charged with murder for the death by stabbing of Bowles' wife, Mrs. Leone Bowles, last November. The prosecution claims Mrs. Bowles was killed when she called at Miss Louck's apartment to remonstrate with her about her infatuation for Bowles. The defendants contend that Mrs. Bowles committed suicide.

ALASKAN IS AGAINST SALE OF U. S. WIRES

SEATTLE, March 13.—Sale of the government-owned and operated Washington-Alaska Military Cable and Telegraph to a private concern would retard the commercial progress of Alaska, in the opinion of Judge James Wickersham, the territory's new delegate to congress.

Discontinuance of stations in isolated points, and increased costs for messages would result from the transaction, and Alaska's only means of rapid communication with the outside world would be impaired, Wickersham believes. The United States army has already started construction of wireless stations to supplement the cable and telegraph system, and bills authorizing the Secretary of War to sell the old system have been introduced in the house and senate.

"On the government-operated system" Wickersham said, "we receive good service at very reasonable rates, and many isolated points that would ordinarily have no means of communication are served by wire. A private company would discontinue these non-profit making stations."
"Since the system as a whole is operating at a profit, it would be the utmost folly to place it in private hands, with resultant increased rates and fewer stations," Wickersham went to Washington to fight for government retention of the cable system, and against proposed rate increases on the Alaska railroad, government-operated transportation system connecting Fairbanks and the interior with Seward, a seaport.

FRENCH BANKER EXPLAINS BIG GOLD RESERVE

By RALPH HEINZEN
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS, March 13.—In his first formal declaration concerning the gold policy of the Bank of France, M. Clement Meret, governor of the institution, declared that the bank has never sought to attract gold, nor would it put any barriers in the way of gold leaving its vaults for foreign banks as a natural result of economic conditions.

With the accumulation of more than $3,000,000,000 in gold, France has come into the position of second greatest money lender of the world and M. Meret feels that France will soon have to play the role of banker and assume her former policy of exporting capital to needy nations.

The gold rush toward France, M. Meret believes, is due largely to the feeling of security which affords world investors. The stability of the franc offered greater security for gold storage in France than in other countries harder hit by the world economic crisis.

Encouraged Exportation
"Far from seeking to attract gold to itself or even to keep it in its vaults, the bank has tried by raising its discount rate, other means to slow down the rhythm of gold entries, or to encourage its exportation," M. Meret said.

The attraction for floating capital which France exercised during 1930 was really the consequence, above all, of the decline in money rates in the foreign markets and of the guarantees behind the French currency.

"The development of the universal economic crisis during 1930 considerably reduced the needs for credit in foreign centers. In New York and London, the field offered for short term investments remained at exceptionally low levels throughout the whole year. The French banks which last year invested in these great markets a portion of their available funds were unable to renew their loans on conditions as remunerative as in the past."

The 1930 Slump
Explaining the 1930 slump of the European Stock Market in Paris, M. Meret said that in the course of the last few years a general upward movement carried the majority of issues of variable yield to levels which largely over-anticipated the future disregarding the possibilities of consumption.

"As a result of having too long cherished these illusions," he said, "speculators who obstinately persisted in maintaining quotations of their groups of issues at their highest levels, were overcome by events, and drew with them in their ruin intermediaries whose resources were suddenly revealed to be insufficient. One of the oldest provincial banks, thus thrown into difficulties, was obliged to suspend payment."

COATED TONGUE, DULL HEADACHE

"Time To Take Black-Draught And I Do It," Says This Texas Lady.

Temple, Texas—"My mother used Theford's Black-Draught in her home as a family medicine for many years," writes Mrs. J. W. Crenshaw, 106 North Thirteenth Street, this city. "My mother thought Black-Draught was the best medicine for a general family use she had ever tried. She gave it to her children for all minor ailments, such as colds and constipation.

"Of recent years I have taken Black-Draught whenever I needed a medicine for constipation. Sometimes I suffer from spells of biliousness and indigestion. When I get up in the morning I am dizzy, have a dull headache, my tongue is coated and I have a bad taste in my mouth. When I feel like this, I know it is time for me to take a course of Black-Draught, and I do it. It is astonishing how much better I feel afterwards. I have more energy and feel more like doing my work.

"Black-Draught is a great medicine to keep a person in trim. I recommend it to others because I found it so good.

AUTOMOBILE LARGEST USER OF SEVEN AMERICAN INDUSTRIES

"Today's automobile is almost entirely an achievement of our natural resources or products. With the exception of rubber which is grown in Africa, India or South America but manufactured in this country, all the basic materials that go to make an automobile are produced in our midst. Steel, mohair, plate glass, nickel and lead are not only American products, but are, together with rubber, used to a greater extent in making cars than for any other purpose.

Practically every state in the Union contributes to these materials, either in their raw state or in their manufacture. For example, our youngest and fastest growing livestock industry, that of angora goats, provides the mohair which is used in making mohair velvet for automobile upholstery. Some idea of the demand for this durable fabric, otherwise known as velmo, is gained from the fact that one hundred million yards, it has been estimated, are now in service in cars on the nation's highways.

13 Years of Propaganda Have Produced Rare Mental Uniformity in Russians

By EUGENE LYONS
United Press Staff Correspondent
MOSCOW, March 13.—If the quality of life under the Soviets will ever be conveyed to readers outside it will be done not by economists or journalists, but by artists. The things which give that life its special flavor, its deep tang are not alone in the concrete facts. They are in conceptions, in new attitudes and in new prejudices, not easily caught in words.

Not even the United States, with its reputation for standardized thinking and well-advertised catchwords, is as thoroughgoing in these respects as the Soviet Union. Thirty seven years of undisguised propaganda for a set of ideas have produced a mental uniformity rarely matched in history. Germany or France in the midst of their death grapple scarcely developed such uniform opinion as has the land of Soviets.

Path of Safety
For that active fraction of the population which takes the trouble to have a well-defined viewpoint, all stock phrases too often take the place of thought. "Slogans" they are called here. Because of the exceptional strain and sacrifices imposed on the nation by the present policies, there is a room left for independent views. The prime political virtue is orthodox. Personal journalism, for instance, has been practically eliminated. Whether in "stories" or editorials the Soviet writer sticks to texts, stereotyped phrases, the path of safety.

Like the orthodoxes of older religions, Communist orthodox finds expression in unthinking and irrational taboos. Some things are "unclean," infidel, untouchable. One can understand these taboos. The times are too strenuous for anything but a materialistic, hard-boiled and utilitarian. It might clog the machinery. Anything which smacks of "bourgeois comfort"—even too many cushions on the divan in the living room—is per se shameful. More and more these attitudes are becoming fixed and unreasoned, a Communist ritual.

Not that these slogans and taboos are necessarily wrong; in the main, from the Soviet viewpoint, they are even right. The objection is that they have become routine, depriving the revolution of the resilience which characterized its early years.

Principal Taboo
The principal taboo, of course, is against the non-Communist foreigner. The foreign correspondents, the invited engineers and specialists are as nearly isolated as they can be spared of actual imprisonment in their rooms. The Russians who see them outside of official duty do so with a deep sense of tasting forbidden fruit and flirting with danger.

The foreigners are given special privileges in the matter of food, money and a hundred things. But they are denied—not by law but by the force of custom—any real contact with Russians, especially with pro-Soviet Russians. Communists and the wary generally avoid contracts with foreigners as though "bourgeois ideas" were contagious. This fear of contamination speaks ill for the ideological health of these people; personally I believe it is robust enough to withstand the contagion.

Already a fact when I arrived three years ago, the isolation of the foreigner has become increasingly stringent in the last 18 months. The occasional exceptions to the general taboo do not disprove it. The insistence of officials that any Russian may make friends with any foreigner is a useless falsehood. The simple fact is that the 100 per cent Communist shrinks from the bourgeois representative through real distaste for contact with anything "unclean." The rest, especially in the larger centers, steel shy out of ordinary fear.

It may be legal, they figure, but it is not safe. It is an open secret that all foreigners are under constant surveillance and few Russians, however clear their consciences, care to step into the circle of observation. Nor does the social isolation apply only to "unfriendly" foreigners. It touches even persons more than a peep at the show. I have watched them shrink in confusion further and further into the camp of frank opponents of the Soviet regime. It is almost too much to expect that a man who is treated like an enemy should behave like a friend.

It is one of the things which the foreign observer in the Soviet Union must know and guard against. The processes at work here, for all their error and waste and stupidity with which they are unavoidably encumbered, are far more significant and vital than the comfort of any individuals. A thoroughly objective approach is the first prerequisite for understanding the Russian scene.

EASTLAND IS LOOMING AS GRID POWER

Officials see little diminution so far this year in the demand for Uncle Sam's travel-cards.

Officials see little diminution so far this year in the demand for Uncle Sam's travel-cards. Last year 209,211 Americans received passports, as compared with 193,372 in 1929. In both years our citizens manifested a wider urge to travel than in 1928 when prosperity was moving along under full steam. And more than ten times as many Americans wander abroad now than in the last post-war year, 1914, according to statistics.

How much do Americans spend when on a foreign jaunter? In 1929, the Commerce Department estimates they scattered $317,000,000 about the globe, and in 1928, $54,000,000. The 1930 figure is not complete, but officials expect it to rival that of 1929.

STOCKS SLUMP FAILS TO CUT TRAVEL CRAZE

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, March 13.—Stock markets may collapse, jobs may dwindle, but the eager American tourist, it appeared today, still spends money inspecting queer corners of the earth.

Down in the state department passport office they are planning to increase their force of clerks. Spring is just around the corner, and soon scores of tourist-laden ships will sail for strange harbors. Passport statistics show more American travelers abroad in 1930, despite the depression, than in 1929.

MAD MARRIAGE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
McBride, 19-year-old typist... Laura Lou Brookman Author of HEART HUNTING, etc.

OUT OUR WAY
A GUN BATTLE BETWEEN A DETECTIVE AND A TOUGH GANGSTER, HUH? WELL, WHAT'D YA CALL THAT, A SILENCER? I HEAR YOU MAKIN' YOUR BANGS IN WHISPERS.

Why, I thought I'd better mention it. You're a great little kid, Gypsy, and I like you! Great kid. Pretty, too. Got a lot of new beaux I'll bet. Marry a such one some day and forget all about the struggling young artist you used to know.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS.
AS MUCH AS I'M NOT USED TO MAKIN' SPEECHES, I GOTTA MAKE ONE NOW, 'CAUSE US FELLAS WANT TO PAY OUR PART OF THE MONEY IT COST TO HAVE LINDY FIXED UP!

Well, I'll have to be running along now. The look of panic in the girl's face must have made him repent. The young man glanced across the table. It was one of the few times during the interview that their eyes had met. Crosby looked uncomfortable. He leaned forward.

LINDY!
HURRAH FOR LINDY!!! THREE CHEERS FOR HIM!!

Oh, I'm so glad! It was a sigh. Crosby toyed with the handle of his coffee cup. A moment later looked up and said briskly.

MOM'N POP.
WHAT KIND OF A BABY IS YOUR UNCLE MIKE, GLADYS? DOES HE LIKE THE RADIO?

DOES HE READ THE PAPERS MUCH? OH YES, BUT HE NEVER SCATTERS THEM ALL OVER THE FLOOR! IS THERE ANYTHING ELSE YOU WANT TO KNOW ABOUT HIM? NOPE! I KNOW PLENTY!!

RUSSIAN OIL WILL DECEDE 1931 PRICES
By VIRGIL PINKLEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON, March 13. - Oil expert told the United Press today that Russian petroleum activities will be the deciding factor in average 1931 prices.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
Sealed bids will be received by W. B. Statham, City Secretary until four p. m. March 15, 1931 for grass lease on 20 acres of land adjoining Mexico addition.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
Sealed bids will be received by W. B. Statham, City Secretary until four p. m. March 15, 1931 for certain repairs on city hall building; plans and specifications are on file at the office of J. G. Reagor, City engineer. Each bid must be accompanied by a cashier's or certified check for $50 (Fifty Dollars) payable without recourse to the order of J. M. Williamson, mayor as a guarantee that he will enter into a contract and execute bond within 5 (five) days of notice of award to him.

Consumption in Great Britain of gasoline last year increased 12 per cent. Another eight to ten per cent is expected this year. Constant expansion of world consumption and curtailment of production in the United States are other reasons, except for the Russian phantom, given for a hopeful 1931 price outlook.

Sealed bids will be received by W. B. Statham, City Secretary until four p. m. March 15, 1931 for grass lease on 20 acres of land adjoining Mexico addition.

Russian exports are received principally by Great Britain, France and Germany. In most cases, Russian prices are just under those of other exporting nations. Last year the average price per gallon, exported by Russia to the Continent and Great Britain, was from one to three cents lower than other gasolines.

Crazy Crystals Are as Good or Better Than Recommended
Says Alabama Man

I have tried one package of Crazy Crystals and find it to be as good or better than you recommend it to be. I wanted it especially for my mother who has suffered from high blood pressure and persistent constipation for several years. She has not had a dose of any kind of medicine since she drank the first glass of water made from the Crystals and is very much improved.

The new, million dollar, Crazy Water Hotel at Mineral Wells, Texas, covers an entire block of ground. It is modern, fire proof and complete in every detail. It is natural to think it would be expensive to stop at this magnificent hotel; yet you can enjoy its genuine hospitality, pleasing service and receive the benefits of the Crazy Mineral Water Treatment at very reasonable rates. If you have rheumatism, stomach trouble, diabetes, colitis, kidney trouble or any chronic ailment brought on by faulty elimination, we urge you a dose of any kind of medicine since she drank the first glass of water made from the Crystals and is very much improved.

right, walked out into the street. Instead of turning toward the rooming house she took the opposite direction.

She walked until she was cold, until she found herself in a neighborhood where she had never been before. A policeman gave her directions and she took the subway home.

She crept up to her room silently, afraid someone would stop her in the hall. Luke was with her and she reached the little fourth floor room without interruption.

Gypsy undressed and got into bed but the sky was graying with dawn before she finally slept. When she opened her eyes at 7:30 she stirred sleepily, sat up in bed—and all last night's memories returned.

Alan was gone. Everything was over.

Getting dressed and getting to work was an ordeal. Somehow Gypsy did both. She had never realized how much she hated the MacNamara Co. office, how much she hated pounding a typewriter.

At 11 o'clock Elizabeth Tuttle came bustling up to Gypsy's desk.

"Miss McBride," she said, "I'm afraid you were careless with those letters yesterday. Mr. Reynolds was disappointed. He held out two typed pages with glowing blue pencilled circles. 'You surely cannot expect me to promote you on such work!'"

"No, Miss Tuttle," she said, "I don't expect it; I'm resigning—today!"

"But, my dear young woman, you can't!"

Gypsy was half-way to the door. "No!" she asked, turning. "Who's going to stop me?"

And then the door shut with a bang.

"The Redeemed" to Be Sunday Subject

"The Redeemed of the Lord" will be the inspirational study of the Rev. B. C. Boney at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning. It is an expository study of the passage made famous by its quotation when Christians have been called home to God. Revelation 7: 9-17. It interested in its interpretation, that hereforth you may know what its symbolism really says when you hear it quoted, you are invited to the church Sunday morning. The minister says, Miss Marian Chambless will be heard in a vocal solo, and there will be inspirational pipe organ music furnished by Dr. G. C. Morris.

FRENCH OPPOSE PROPOSED AUTO GAS TAX BILL

PARIS, March 13.—Motorists in France have been greatly aroused by the introduction of a private member's bill to the Chamber, in which it is proposed to replace the existing tax on motorcars by a surtax on gasoline amounting to 60 cents per hectolitre, or nearly a gallon.

The author of the bill, M. Malinre, argues that the present system of taxing the car itself is unfair to the ordinary user, who is called on to pay as much in taxation as owners who average double and even ten times the mileage. His proposal is based on the principle that the tax on motorcars should be in direct ratio to the use made of the roads.

M. Malinre further stated that, under the present system, the owner of a ten horsepower car pays a direct tax of $32.40 a year. Such a rate of taxation if the impost were based on gasoline consumption at the rate of 68 cents a gallon and assuming that the car used 11 litres for every 100 kilometers, would give an ordinary ten horsepower car a mileage of 14,375 a year, or approximately a little over 275 miles a week. This is far above the average motor-car owner's record.

Critics who are adversely inclined to the proposal insist that, although the average automobile owner would apparently benefit from the change the proposal would prove unworkable in practice, and would result in serious hardships to owners of commercial vehicles.

In 1929 these comprised nearly one-third of the total motor vehicles registered in France, while even seventy per cent of the so-called "touring cars" are primarily used for business purposes by traders, commercial travelers, agriculturists and others.
