Merchants Enthusiastic Over Plans for Trade Revival

SPECIALIST TO BE HIRED IN CAMPAIGN

Leading merchants of Cisco today enthusiastically undertook plans for a trade revival campaign based upon a new idea of organization. The meeting held at the Palace theater, presided over by W. J. Leach adopted unanimously a plan to employ a promotional expert and underwrite a fund sufficient, in cooperation with the chamber of commerce whose aid will be sought, to pay his salary and provide a working fund. Every business firm represented subscribed to the fund and declared its determination to join in a movement described by Mr. Leach in his appeal for cooperation as "a case of do or quit."

A committee of five was elected to secure the proper man for the promotional job, to serve with him as an advisory committee and to carry the appeal for cooperation to the chamber of commerce. Henry Drumwright was chosen chairman of this group. Serving with him will be W. K. Johnston, W. H. LaRogue, Nick Miller, Jack Leach.

This committee was directed to get plans to functioning at once. It was urged that a meeting of the chamber of commerce directors be sought immediately so that final assurance for carrying forward the organizational plans could be had.

In its broad details the trade revival plan contemplates entertainments on the streets of Cisco each week, climaxed each month by a "master" program. Experiences of other towns in this section with mass day movements has shown that these entertainments draw great crowds of people, and it was the spirit of the merchants this morning that since Cisco has started late the forthcoming campaign should be put over in extra large fashion. Details of the campaign will be left to the committee and the man to be secured for full-time work. The immediate problem is to secure the proper man and the committee was directed to get busy with this question at once.

Fully eighty per cent of all merchants called to attend the meeting this morning were present and on time at 10 o'clock, Mr. Leach said. He declared that this was an evidence of the interest that was being taken. He told the merchants that Cisco must get busy now. Unless the merchants and the chamber of commerce do so there is no use trying anything else, he said. The cooperation that is given the present movement and its success will determine whether or not Cisco business men have the energy and will to make up for the loss of time and extend their trade territory to its rightful limits, he declared. "It's a case of do or sit down," he said.

Determined Spirit
The spirit of the assembled merchants and their determination to do the most evident feature of the meeting. Many suggestions were presented during the discussion of the campaign, but there was a unity of purpose that clearly assured that the business men were in earnest and determined for once to do something in behalf of the commercial prosperity of the city.

It was pointed out that there would be those who would refuse to cooperate and others who would require "prodding" but the paramount idea was clearly put across "prodding" and that difficulties should be expected. With the proper man working from Monday morning to Saturday evening these difficulties can be overcome and the fundamental idea of the campaign clearly established. That idea, or purpose, the merchants were made to understand, is not immediate individual profits, but the raising of the general level of trade activity, the bringing of large crowds of visitors from the rural sections at regular intervals, and the recovery of natural trade territory that has been slipping away through the trade extension activities of other cities.

WEATHER

West Texas — Today continued clear and warmer. Cloudy tonight.
East Texas — Today continued warmer. Scattered showers.

In Wake of Forest Fires

DR. H. SEALE WILL SUCCEED DR. CARLISLE

Dr. M. C. Carlisle, Cisco physician who is leaving shortly to undertake advanced courses in treatment of diseases of infants and children at the Harvard post-graduate medical school at Boston, Mass., will be succeeded in his practice here by Dr. Hubert Seale, of Floydada, Texas, a classmate of Dr. Carlisle at Baylor medical college, Dallas.

After graduating from the Baylor school, Dr. Seale spent three years in the U S army medical corps, graduating from the army medical school at Washington, D. C. He was an interne at the Fitzsimons general hospital, Denver, Colo., and followed this experience with a year of resident work in Denver.

Marx was charged with having made false entries in the books of a member bank of the Federal Reserve system and having embezzled $780.

2,000 ATTEND LABOR DAY CELEBRATION

BRECKENRIDGE, Sept. 10. — More than 2,000 persons from Breckenridge, Albany, Caddo and surrounding towns attended the Labor Day celebration sponsored by the Breckenridge chamber of commerce, held at Lake DeLafose Monday afternoon.

A water carnival featured the afternoon's entertainment. Chamber of commerce officials were enthusiastic over the success of the program. Plans will be made next year for a similar Labor Day attraction. John Z. Martin, secretary, announced.

Jack Farleigh, professional water clown of Cisco, donated his services during the afternoon. His diving and swimming antics kept the huge crowd amused during the entire program.

The high school band, under the direction of J. C. Burkett, presented two concerts during the afternoon.

The boat race was won by Theryle Knox, of Breckenridge. He was awarded a year's dues in the DeLafose club.

In the terrapin race "997," entered by employees of the Humble Oil and Refining company, placed first. An exhibition of horseshoe pitching was given by a delegation of players from Breckenridge, winner of the present state champion and runner-up.

Probably the greatest interest of the crowd was centered on the swimming events of the day. The division of the program was the 200 yard race, won by Billy Webb, Breckenridge, was high point man with 20. Prizes to first place winners were given by local department stores.

Seven swimming events featured the day's program. In the junior boys' division, Billy Webb, Breckenridge, was high point man with 20, winning the 30 yard free style and the 30 yard back stroke.

MASS MEET FOR COLLEGE EMPHASIZED

Business and professional men of Cisco today added their appeals to the people of Cisco to demonstrate their interest in Randolph college by attending the mass meeting to be held at 8 o'clock at the high school auditorium this evening in behalf of the institution. Dr. Lee Clark, new president of the school, and Dr. John W. Tyndall, head of the Bible college, operated in connection with the school, will be the principal speakers on the program.

The meeting will not discuss finances. No pledges will be asked and no collection taken. Speakers will devote themselves to explaining the plans for the school next year, its program and its goal in order to familiarize the public with the school.

Dr. Clark and Dr. Tyndall, both educators of renown, are speakers of great ability and their addresses will be full of interest on a subject that is of great importance to Cisco and to everyone who is concerned with the future of the college.

Collins Asks Support
J. J. Collins, president of the chamber of commerce, issued a statement this morning in which he declared that the interest which the people of Cisco show in the school will determine whether or not Randolph shall be able to thrive. Only by the sanction of a united Cisco, he said, can Dr. Clark and his associates, accomplish the success that is expected of them. He urged the citizens to express this interest by their attendance at the mass meeting this evening.

The following statements were made by other business men:

In common with other business men, I wish to urge the citizens of Cisco to attend in large numbers, the meeting at the Cisco high school auditorium tonight, and by our presence, prove to Randolph college, our loyalty to that institution.

Sincerely hope that Randolph college can be put on a going basis by which much good can be accomplished for the youth of this and other communities.

We with many other people of this community who are interested in seeing Randolph college succeed, believe that a wise decision was made by selecting Dr. Lee Clark as president, whom we know is a man of unquestionable character and a Christian gentleman together with the assistance of the present faculty we believe they will succeed.

A live and enthusiastic crowd at the meeting tonight to greet the new president will be one of the best things Cisco can do to assure a good year at Randolph next year. United effort means much at this time.

I think the securing of Dr. Lee Clark to head Randolph is the greatest move the college ever made. He has the confidence of all parties, which assures the united support of the people of Cisco. Everybody be out for a rousing pep meeting tonight.

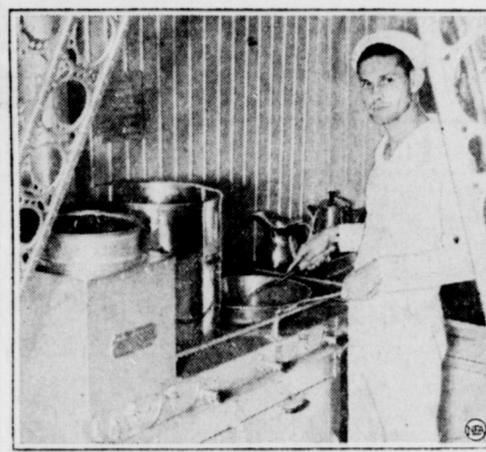

It is my opinion that Randolph has a promising future, and it is up to the citizens of Cisco to put things over by 100 percent support of the institution.

I feel like every business man and his wife ought to attend this meeting tonight to inspire confidence in the reorganization program for Randolph college.

Cisco now has an opportunity to build a junior college that will mean much to the community, and all citizens should join hands to make a go of things. A rousing pep meeting will give things a good start.

NATIONS ARE RETICENT ON AVIATION DATA

GENEVA, Sept. 10. — Publicity of all information relative to commercial aviation promises to be one of the hardest problems of the 1932 general disarmament conference.

In spite of all of the efforts, both of the League's preparatory disarmament commission and of the League itself, it has been impossible to find any basis of agreement on this point.

Even the United States, which took the initiative in making public the present status of all its armaments is known to be opposed to opening all of the secrets of its commercial aviation.

The question is considered a particularly grave one in Europe owing to the vulnerability to aerial attack of virtually every nation.

In the case of the Central Powers, that are not allowed a military aviation under the peace treaties, there is nothing to prevent them from building up a commercial aviation along the most extensive scale.

This, it is declared, could be converted overnight into a military aviation that would entirely upset the supposition that these powers are unarmed and incapable of attack.

As it is generally conceded that aviation will probably be the most important armament in "the next war" League members recognize that a disarmament convention that does not take into account the status of commercial aviation would create an entirely false idea of reduction of armaments.

In order to advance the question as far as possible before the disarmament conference, the Secretariat has just requested all nations to notify it on what basis each prefers to have the question handled.

It is conceded that all that can be demanded is that each nation submit to the fullest information relative to its commercial and private aviation.

COTTON FIGHT NARROWS TO TWO MEASURES

AUSTIN, Sept. 10. — Prospective cotton legislation in the Texas legislature narrowed today to a sharp fight between proponents of the Huey P. Long plan for planting no cotton next year and a compromise senate bill limiting planting to a third of the tilled soil.

The compromise bill was sponsored by Sen. Walter Woodward, of Coleman, Sen. Oliver Cunningham, of Abilene, and Sen. Clint Small of Wellington. Woodward and Cunningham have had rival bills.

A proposal to report out the compromise bill brought Long forces in to quick action. Mrs. Margie Neal, the senate's only woman member, at once called for a recommendation that the senate sit as a committee of the whole and hear from the people.

Sen. W. E. Thomason, of Nacogdoches, another Long plan supporter, wanted to know who wrote the new bill. Woodward explained he did assisted by Cunningham and Small.

Meanwhile a graduated tax on cotton to bolster and acreage reduction law was urged today by former Gov. James E. Ferguson. Such a tax would support a bill restricting the 1932 crop to a third of this year's cultivated land, Ferguson declared in the Ferguson Forum.

He urged a levy of 10 cents a bale on the first five, a dollar a bale on the next five, two dollars each on the next 10 and $10 a bale on all over 20 bales.

TEXAS CROP THIRD OF WHOLE
AUSTIN, Sept. 10.—Texas' part of the 1931 cotton crop is nearly a third, federal estimators reported here today. They placed the Texas crop at 5,094,000 bales and the nation's crop at 15,685,000 bales.

Last year Texas' crop was more than a million bales less, being 4,038,000 bales.

The condition of the Texas' crop was estimated to be 67 per cent of normal, with a yield of 154 pounds to the acre indicated. Abandonment since July was set at only 1.7 per cent of the 15,852,999 acres planted in cotton this year.

Miss Allred Free To Support Appeal

DALLAS, Sept. 10. — Miss Beulah Allred, woman's Christian Temperance union worker who was once jailed for her anti-liquor activity at Fampa, arrived here today on furlough from the state insane asylum at Wichita Falls.

She has been released to prepare for a hearing October 12 at Texas in the court of civil appeals on her appeal from the ruling of the Raines county court holding her insane.

"It looks like any one who tries to fight bootleggers is really insane, so they are right about that much of it," she said. "That's my only plea of guilty."

PAIR ASSAULT GIRL; ESCORT IS WOUNDED

WICHITA FALLS, Sept. 9.—J. F. King, 43, manager of a Continental Oil company filling station here, dropped dead today while searching for two negroes who assaulted his wife. Smith, a stenographer and shot her escort, Ed Nodurft, of Fort Worth, here last night.

Physicians said Nodurft, a Continental company employe will die.

SCOUR COUNTRYSIDE FOR ATTACKERS

WICHITA FALLS, Sept. 10.—Available city and police forces are scouring the countryside today for two negroes who late last night attacked Mrs. Vera Smith, 23, Wichita Falls young woman, after shooting her fiancé, Ed Nodurft, 28, of Fort Worth, through the neck.

The couple were surprised by the negroes as they were sitting in a car on a quiet street in the residential part of the city, when the negroes approached from the rear one of them covering the couple with a gun. Nodurft attempted to start the car and the black fired striking Nodurft in the neck, shattering a vertebrae. The negroes then held the gun on the girl, taking her some distance from the car, where she was assaulted. They took an engagement ring from her which was given her last Saturday night by her fiancé.

After being freed by her assailants the girl rejoined Nodurft in his automobile and drove him to a hospital where she collapsed. Attendants stated he cannot recover.

REVISION OF CREDIT BUREAU PROGRESSES

Organization of the Cisco credit bureau upon a new ideal of credit control is progressing satisfactory under the direction of J. C. Lacey, of the state association.

The new credit ideal, as Mr. Lacey has explained and which is being exemplified in the new methods of bureau organization here, contemplated a mutual benefit between the creditor and the purchaser whereby the credit field may be worked to its fullest extent and at the same time intelligently. Under the new system, Mr. Lacey points out, the consumer will be able to budget his purchases and keep within his means. His credit record, instead of being based upon a "black-listing" idea, will be based upon the ideal of service so that the writer with his record transferred to any other town where he expects to locate because it will mean advantage to him in obtaining necessary credits immediately.

Telegrams from Temple, Waco, Fort Worth and other cities have been received congratulating the Cisco bureau upon the steps it has been taking for reorganization, Mr. Lacey said.

The benefit the merchant derives is in being able not only to prevent "over-selling" a prospect but in helping him to buy at advantage through the use of credit and thereby to stimulate business where it has been neglected.

Fuller explanation of the workings of the new system will appear in the Daily News, Mr. Lacey announced.

ROTARY HEARS NEW PRESIDENT OF RANDOLPH

Dr. Lee Clark, president of Randolph college at his first meal as a citizen of Cisco with the Rotary club when he appeared before that club today noon as its principal speaker. He is not a stranger to Rotary, he said, having been associated with the movement for 12 years.

Introduced by E. P. Crawford, he spoke of the significance of Randolph as a college of the character which is coming to be recognized as the only solution for the problem of over-crowded universities and larger schools, and besought the support of Cisco in doing his part toward making the school an asset rather than a liability as quickly as possible. He said that he had gladly come to Cisco in the confidence that the city was united in a desire for his services and declared that he came with the prime purpose of trying to give the people of Cisco and the supporters of Randolph college just the type of service they desire.

Frank Reynolds, senior, delighted the club with two vocal numbers to which he was forced to add an encore. He was accompanied by Miss Mattie Lea Kunkel, club pianist.

Mr. Crawford, with the consent of President Henry Drumwright named Edward Lee, O. J. Russell, R. L. Pensler and B. A. Butler as a committee from the club to work with other civic committees in promoting the Boy Scout budget drive. To take care of past indebtedness and provide for next year's budget Cisco will be asked to raise $1,000 as its share of the Oil Bel. Council budget, he said. He pointed out that the Rotary club should be vitally interested in the Boy Scout movement because of the club's insistence on boys' work as a prime object of its activities.

The mass meeting at the high school tonight in the interest of Randolph college was advertised as a matter of great concern to Cisco people by J. J. Collins and F. D. Wright. Full attendance of Rotary club membership was besought.

Miss Gould Arrives Safely, Airgram Says

In an airgram message to her mother, Mrs. Ida Kennon, Miss Helen Gould tells of her arrival safely at Chicago from Kansas City by airplane. The message, which was written aboard plane, at an altitude of 6,000 feet, states that the plane was sailing at a speed of two miles a minute, but one could scarcely tell they were in motion. Continuing Miss Gould states: "Lunch was just served consisting of cheese and chicken sandwiches, pickles, olives, coffee, cake and a fruit dessert. At one o'clock, p. m., each of the passengers were furnished a copy of the Kansas City Star of today."

The airgram enables passengers to write to friends while en route and aboard plane.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

LOVE DESTROYS FEAR:—There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear; because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love.—1 John 4: 18.

A NEGLECTED ALLY.

Cisco consumers are not only taking their cash business out of Cisco and to rival trading centers but their credit business, as well, according to reports from the local Retail Merchants Association, which says that it receives numerous requests each month from firms in Eastland, Ranger, Breckenridge, Abilene, Fort Worth and other cities, for credit reports on Cisco people. As long as what we are pleased to term this depression has brought us face to face with the necessity of auditing our economic resources and accounts, we might as well face the facts squarely and ask ourselves what is the matter.

Frankly there are two ways of looking at the question. The natural attitude is to adopt the explanation of the buyer-out-of-town and blame our merchants for failure to have what the home customer wants. If such is the case it represents a severe indictment of our home merchants and their policies and abilities. People are going to have what they want and they are going to spend their money where they can get what they want. There is no way of getting around that question and they can't be blamed for the attitude. It is common to all of us. It will do no good to censure. If the merchant doesn't have the goods he might as well try to keep water in a sieve as to keep home wages in home enterprises.

The News, however, does not believe that is the cause. There is another and a psychological reason for the drift of buying power out of Cisco. There is a curiously nomadic instinct planted in the human race. It exemplifies itself in the desire of the buyer to forage abroad in search of bargains. It seldom occurs to the forager that the gas and oil he or she consumes in chasing the few-penny margin of saving will in reality make the reduced article cost much more than for what the same could have been purchased at home. Much less does it occur that by taking purchasing power away from home they are undermining home and job security, pecking away at the substance that supports them.

If we look very closely into this problem we are sure to find the woman in the case. God bless her. Women, where detail is concerned, are sharper than men. Behind the hand that rocks the cradle is a keen mind, constantly alert for advantages in making the allowance go further so that her home, her husband and her babies may enjoy to the fullest extent the social and economic comforts which the particular level of her husband's income will allow. Men do not have the energy to search constantly and afield for savings on purchases. No matter how diligent for economy he may be in his business, when it comes to the buying of clothing, food and accessories for everyday home consumption the man is mentally and physically lazy. He buys what first comes under his nose and if he has injured his pocketbook he has saved his energy. But his wife does have the energy and, unfortunately, it sometimes leads her to neglect the fundamentally important fact that by spending the money her husband earns at home out of home she is contributing just that much to the insecurity of his employment.

Because our merchants have not taken this fact into account and sought to provide a remedy for it, they are to blame for the flow of purchasing power from the home-town reservoir. In past campaigns that have been aimed at keeping home money at home the News feels that the most important asset of all has been neglected. That asset is the civic spirit of the women of the city. They, and they alone, can make home-buying popular. The zeal with which they undertake and prosecute civic and social-uplift programs through clubs and similar associations is exemplary. The women's clubs of Cisco have contributed as much to Cisco's social, spiritual and cultural environment as associations of men have contributed in other ways. The excellence of our schools is fundamentally due to the interest of our women; the spires of our churches would be mere, dwindling match sticks but for the magic of the woman's touch, her inspiration and the constant vigor of her search for the finest and the best.

The same enthusiasm, the same consummate interest and zeal is available for the economic problems that confront us. The News feels confident that the women's organizations of Cisco would enlist eagerly in any honorable campaign that is aimed at fortifying Cisco business and commercial institutions. The crusading spirit that they apply to whatever causes they espouse is the most valuable of all potential allies of the chamber of commerce, the commercial clubs and the various organizations dedicated to the upbuilding of Cisco.

This influence should not be neglected.

TEXAS STONE FOR TEXAS STRUCTURE

The postoffice department, upon representation of Cong. Buchanan, has ordered the use of Texas limestone on the construction of the new postoffice building in Ft. Worth, dispatches from Washington advise. It is manifestly an error, from both the economic and community standpoints, to haul such materials as building stone across half the continent when materials equally as good can be obtained within a short distance of the building project. Limestone quarried in Williamson and Travis counties is as suitable for construction purposes, from the cold technical standpoint, as any similar stone quarried anywhere in the United States. It is more suitable for Texas projects, since it is near at hand and its use serves the purpose of local development which is involved in building projects of the kind, even though they are carried forward by the Federal government. Cong. Buchanan is to be congratulated upon the success of his activity in behalf of the quarry interests of his own district. Fort Worth people will be better satisfied with their magnificent new postoffice building because of the Texas materials used in its construction. — Fort Worth Star Telegram.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON E. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

That a city that has natural advantages in great abundance must have cooperation on the part of its citizens and make a presentation of these advantages to those seeking industrial locations or a place to live.

A city needs advertising the same as any business. Success comes by doing things; failure comes by sleeping at the post.

The better a city is advertised, the better it will be known.

As a city is known by the way it is advertised, it should always strive to get its advantages before the world in an attractive way.

Telling the right things in the right way will attract the right attention.

The right attention will bring the right people and the right industries. No city should count on others to

DO YOU

Answer your physician and your dentist . . . as promptly and cheerfully as he answers you.

The practice of medicine and dentistry are two noble professions. Regardless of weather conditions, time, or distance the physician rushes to the bedside of his patient.

He does not think about his own convenience or his own pleasure—everyone has heard the call for Dr. So-and-So, at the club, the dinner, the theater, the ball game or other public places.

Does it seem reasonable for the small fee that he gets (and often does not get) that he wants to be disturbed just when he is enjoying a much needed rest, an interesting show, or dinner with friends?

Do you think a small fee looks attractive to him when he is called from his warm bed to drive through the snow or mud on a cold night? No. Still your physician never fails you when you need him.

The Dentist, also, is often disturbed from his rest and pleasures by the victim of an aching tooth—And the same unselfish, willingness to serve that is found in your physician, is typical in your dentist. For our benefit, both the physician and the dentist spend years of preparation and thousands of dollars to enter either of these noble professions—And constantly engage in research and post graduate work to keep informed on the new and scientific findings that may enable them to enlarge their scope of usefulness.

Yet—in spite of their hardships, sacrifices and splendid services to mankind, the physician and dentist, as a rule, do not send out statements for their services as regularly as other professional men or merchants. Perhaps that is why their bills for service are often regarded with indifference by many who receive them.

IT is said, that the cause of many individual bankrupt cases can be traced to the hospital, physician and dentist account, because the individual had forgotten about these bills, and contracted accounts beyond his ability to pay and when the total of all his indebtedness was learned he became discouraged. It is a startling fact, the last few years that hundreds of thousands of dollars are lost to a community by individuals taking bankruptcy—each of these cases represents frozen assets on the books of the professional man and the merchant. Frozen assets is the cause of 95 per cent of mercantile bankruptcies.

The modern credit bureau is not a place where the merchant and professional man can protect themselves from a few bad debts—it stands for the elimination of waste—keeps records that are facts, on "us all." So the merchants will not over sell—it is a "community credit policy" that creates community credit conscience—that helps all to maintain self respect.

Your Physician and Dentist stand for elimination of waste, self respect and progress.

The experience of the Doctor, furnished the Credit Bureau must, of course, be different than that of the merchant—and the chart listed opposite was prepared for your physician and your dentist. You can take this chart and know just how he must check.

If necessary to call your medical men today—how would your past record look with him?

If necessary to call a new physician or dentist—how will he find your record, as filed by his brother doctor?

How will it look when the experience of all the merchants and professional men are compiled together?

It will be your record. You make it—The Bureau keeps it.

REMARKS:

WHEN PRECIOUS HEALTH IS CONCERNED

There is no time for uncertainty—no room for chances. Your first thought, your one thought is always for the speed and efficiency, the ability and care that an experienced and conscientious pharmacist can give you. Then—and always—his reliability and willingness proves a friend in need—his service brings relief and confidence.

The Druggists of Cisco, whose names are listed below, in order to help brother merchants and professional men and women stabilize credit control and economic conditions, and serve those in need of accommodations, and to enable those worthy of the convenience of a weekly, semi-monthly or monthly account, will in the future fill out the chart listed opposite, and inquire on each new applicant for an account.

FORDHAM TO HAVE STRONG GRID TEAM

By DIXON STEWART
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Although the great line of 1929 and 1930 has been shattered by graduation, Major W. Cavanaugh has bright hopes of turning out another strong team at Fordham this fall.

Cavanaugh has been coaching at Fordham for four years, during which time the New York school has advanced from a second rate team to a rank among the leading teams of the East. Fordham teams, under Cavanaugh, have been famous chiefly as defensive aggregations and during the last two years boasted one of the strongest lines in the nation and won 17 consecutive games without defeat.

The "Iron Major" has an unusually brilliant crop of backfield men this season and may discard his previous system of scoring and then protecting the narrow margin by defensive power, in favor of a hard-running attack.

Chief losses in the Fordham line were Captain Tony Siano, selected by many critics as all-America and "Pistol Pete" Wlodewski, an all-eastern guard, and Frank Foley, plant tackle who has returned in the role of assistant coach. Except for fullback Piculewicz there were no important losses in the backfield.

The 1931 squad, now at work under Coach Cavanaugh, includes eight letter men — Capt. Jim Murphy, halfback; John Conroy, tackle; John Conroy, fullback; John Janis, halfback; Neil Murphy, tackle; Frank Davis, center; Tip Tobin, end, and John Fisher, quarterback. In addition Cavanaugh has several experienced reserves and the 1930 freshman team which defeated N. Y. U. 26 to 0 in a post-season charity game. McDermost, quarterback; Pavlovic, halfback; Prans, guard, and Danowski fullback, are the best of the new players.

Camath Jim Murphy is the leading candidate for a halfback job with John Janis, Joe Zapostas and Edward Pavlovic fighting for the other halfback berth. At quarterback Cavanaugh has Johnny Fisher, who directed the 1930 team, and Frank McDermost of Charleston, Miss. John Conroy, 1930 reserve and the sophomore Danowski are favored to win the fullback post.

Fordham again has an attractive inter-sectional schedule, but will play all except one of its games in New York. The schedule:

Sept. 26 — Thiel at Fordham.
Oct. 3 — West Virginia at Polo Grounds.
Oct. 12 — Boston College at Boston.
Oct. 17 — Holy Cross at Polo Grounds.
Oct. 24 — Drake at Polo Grounds.
Oct. 31 — West Liberty at Fordham.
Nov. 7 — Detroit at Polo Grounds.
Nov. 14 — New York University at Yankee Stadium.
Nov. 21 — Bucknell at Polo Grounds.

ders. "How did you get it, darling?"

Mark kissed her casually, squared back and said in an off-hand tone, "Oh, I hit Stone for a loan. Ran across him on the street and he gave me his check. It's good all right—no need to worry about that. Stone's a pretty good fellow even if he does seem a trifle stiff some times."

The bright flush faded slowly from Norma's cheeks. She drew away and one hand unconsciously rose to her throat.

"Stone?" she asked a little weakly. "You mean — Hollis Stone?"

"Sure. Why not? He knows he'll get his dough back all right. Besides he's a sort of relative. Why shouldn't I borrow from him?"

"Why—why there's no reason of course—"

"What's the matter, Norma? You act as though I'd done something wrong! I thought you'd be glad to hear we can get out of this dump. You're acting damned funny about this, it seems to me!"

Desperately she tried to cover her embarrassment. "Oh, no—I didn't mean — of course it's all right! I'm glad you got the money. Mark, I'm awfully glad. If we're starting in the morning I ought to start packing right away."

She turned and began fumbling through bureau drawers.

"Wait a minute!" Mark was beside her, putting an arm about her waist. "See her, sweetheart, I was a bear tonight at dinner, I'm sorry. Honestly, I am. I didn't mean to be cross or hurt your feelings. Say you forgive me—please, Norma!"

His tenderness was a thousand times dearer because an hour earlier she had been so tormented, so haunted by fears she would not even name to herself.

"It's all right, Mark. Of course! There isn't anything to forgive. Oh, my darling — oh, I do love you!"

They were happier that night than they had been for a long while.

At 10 o'clock next morning Mark and Norma boarded "The Sentinel," fast train that would transport them to Marlboro in 21 hours.

There was no private compartment on this trip. They rode in an ordinary Pullman. The car was only half filled and no one sat across the aisle. Norma's hand dug its way into Mark's protecting fingers. The slight pressure in response was a momentous secret.

Above the droning of the train wheels Norma's heart was singing. "I'm glad we're going back, Mark."

"Guess I am too, kid. Had fun at the Springs though, didn't we?"

"Oh, yes. It was wonderful!"

She would have agreed to anything Mark said that morning. Norma was radiant. Such plans for the future. Such confidence those plans would succeed. Mark was going to find a job. She would work hard too, keeping their tiny apartment. Cooking and cleaning. Economizing. They would pay back their debts and begin saying. They had talked for hours planning all this.

Nothing could come between them now. Mark was her husband. He would stand squarely on his own feet and she would help him. It was as though they were making a fresh start and this time they would start in the right way.

No one was looking toward them. For an instant the girl's cheek brushed Mark's.

"I'm so happy!" she whispered. Norma had failed to take into account obstacles the strength of which she did not even dream.

Mystery Bars Worry French

JUAN-LES-PINS, French Riviera, Sept. 10.—Mystery bars, like American speakeasies, are puzzling French revenue officers along the Riviera.

The new bars are usually established in private houses. The proprietor acts as bartender, but this position is often filled by the most skillful mixer among the guests.

As the bars are not run for profit they have been strongly criticized by proprietors of drink emporiums who have seen their profits decline during an already bad season.

The worries of the professional bar proprietors are shared by revenue officials, who realize they will lose heavily if private drinking becomes too fashionable.

Like most fads on the Riviera, this one is said to have come from Hollywood.

ITALY PLANS CANAL TO SEA FOR MILAN

ROME, Sept. 10.—A continuous waterway from Milan to Venice, linking Italy's chief industrial center with Adriatic shipping lanes has been initiated by the Fascist government.

The council of ministers, presided over by Premier Benito Mussolini, has appropriated an initial sum of 46 million lire to begin the work of building the necessary canals and dams to control the waterflow the Po river.

The waterway from Milan to Venice will stretch for nearly 200 miles and will cost more than 270 million lire. The appropriations will be spread over a number of annual budgets. The work planned for this fall and winter will use several thousand workmen for a total of more than 1,200,000 working days, thus assisting in reducing Italy's unemployment total.

The project includes the construction of a canal from Milan to the Po river, near Mount Adda, a distance of about 35 miles. From the mouth of the canal, the Po river will be regulated in such a manner that an even flow of water will be maintained through the year. This will necessitate the construction of many dams to store surplus water during the rainy seasons and to release it during dry periods.

This regulation of the Po's flow will be done over 110 miles, from Mt. Adda to Concella. The dams and dikes will be so constructed that the river's flow will always give a depth of approximately 12 feet. The canals and river, when this work is done, will be able to handle ships up to 600 tons.

From Concella to Venice lie on a series of artificial canals about 35 miles long will be built. The water route ends in Venice, from which the shipping can be transferred to large vessels for all parts of the world.

Great importance is attached to the project, as it will give Milan and its adjoining factories an excellent and cheap outlet to the sea.

CHURCH PLANS DISCUSSION OF MARRIAGE LAW

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 10.—One of the major problems to be discussed at the 30th General convocation of the Episcopal church, starting here Sept. 16, is whether the church in the United States shall abandon its historic position against the remarriage of divorced persons.

The law of the church as it now stands provides that no priest or deacon can marry a divorced person, except in a case where divorce has been granted on the grounds of adultery. Then the innocent person may be remarried.

In 1925 the General convention of the church, meeting in New Orleans, appointed a joint commission of Bishops and Deputies to make a study of the divorce problem.

Report Postponed

In 1928 the commission presented the results of its three-year study, but made no recommendations. The commission was continued and asked to report in 1931.

The commission has announced that it will go before the convention with an amendment to Canon 43 of the church law, approved by a majority of the commission, and which if approved by the convention will permit the remarriage of those who have been divorced, without consideration of grounds.

The proposed revision of the marriage law provides for the organization in the various dioceses of the church of Ecclesiastical Marital Courts, which shall, in each instance pass upon the right of divorced persons to remarry within the church.

Section 7 of the proposed new Canon reads:

"Any person whose marriage has been dissolved for any cause by a civil court, after the expiration of one year from the granting of the divorce, may apply to the Bishop or to the Ecclesiastical Marital Court of his diocese for permission to marry another person. The Bishop or Court shall thereupon inquire into the characters and personalities of the parties to the previous and proposed marriage and determine whether the spiritual welfare of the parties thereof will be served by the proposed marriage. If the court permits the proposed marriage, a minister of the church may solemnize the marriage; provided that it shall be within the discretion of any minister to decline to solemnize any marriage."

Other Provisions

While there are other provisions in the proposed revision of Canon 43, which relate to instruction in Christian marriage by priests of the church before the ceremony is performed and which define the grounds upon which a marriage may be annulled, Section 7 is the point upon which the greatest controversy is expected.

Further complication is lent by the fact that a serious of the commission which does not oppose the remarriage of divorced persons, has prepared an amendment under which even if the Ecclesiastical Marital Court permits the proposed remarriage of divorced persons, "the marriage may not be performed by a minister of this church, but if the parties are married by civil authority no impediment shall exist to their membership in the church, and a minister of the church may in his discretion, bless the union."

There also is a minority of the whole commission which disapproves any plan to change the church's historical attitude toward divorce.

The chairman of the commission is the Rt. Rev. Herman Page, D. D., Bishop of Michigan.

GUM-DIPPED CORDS

Every cord in Firestone tires is Gum-Dipped. This patented extra process penetrates every cord—coats every fiber with pure liquid rubber. Gum-Dipping increases the flexing life of the cords—minimizes internal friction and heat—increases the strength of the tire body—and gives longer life. Only Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires give this Extra Value.

TWO EXTRA CORD PLYS UNDER THE TREAD

This patented construction of Two Extra Cord Plys under the Tread in Firestone Tires insures a stronger bond between Tread and Cord Body and greater protection against punctures and blowouts. This new, improved "all cord" construction antiquates the old-fashioned cross-woven fabric construction used by others.

6 CORD PLYS UNDER THE TREAD

MOTORISTS are finding the Greatest Values in Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

Ever since Firestone and Firestone Dealers began advertising the true facts about tire quality and construction and actually demonstrating the Extra Values in Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, distributors of special-brand mail-order tires have grown bolder and bolder with misleading claims and comparisons in the desperate effort to interest car-owners.

Car owners bought more Firestone Tires in May, June and July, than in any like period in history. This clearly shows that car owners are interested in Firestone Extra Values and are not interested in comparisons based on an almost obsolete tire size—confusing laboratory analyses—meaningless definitions—impractical challenges with unfair claims of twenty-five per cent savings—and deceiving price comparisons.

Why risk a tire of unknown manufacture when you can get the Extra Quality, Extra Strength, and Extra Safety of the special patented construction features of Firestone Tires—Gum-Dipping, and Two Extra Cord Plys under the Tread?

You get these Extra Values—plus our Service and the DOUBLE GUARANTEE of Firestone and ourselves—at no more cost!

Drive in today.—We have sections cut from Firestone Tires, special-brand mail-order tires and others.—See the evidence.—Take nothing for granted.—Judge for Yourself.

 Saunders, with whom Norma
 lives in an apartment, and Bradley
 Lee, Chris' employer, are witnesses
 at the wedding. Before this she refused to marry Bob Jones, a young lawyer of whom she had been a friend.
 Mark sells his expensive roadster
 to get money for the honeymoon.
 He and Norma go to fashionable Blue Springs, where the young man takes delight in surrounding his bride with expensive pleasures. He introduces her to Hol-stone, an old friend, and it is clear from the girl's discomfort that she has known Stone before. For some reason she also knows him. She tries to confide in him but loses courage. One night
 she has a card game and does not return until 3 a. m. He admits
 he has lost all his money. The couple have only what is in Norma's purse. Next day they face
 the problem of getting enough
 money together to pay their hotel
 bill and return to Marlboro. Mark sees his mother and waits impatiently for a reply. Just before the following evening a bell
 hands him a message.

telegram!" she exclaimed. "It's—
 it's come!"
 A crumpled bit of paper showed
 in Mark's clenched hand. So angry his face looked that he seemed scarcely to comprehend her words.
 "The old skinflint!" Mark was muttering. "The damned, miserly old cockroach! I'll get even for this—I'll show him if it's the last thing I do! He'll be sorry for this!"
 "Tell me what's happened,
 Mark."
 For the first time the young man seemed aware of what she was saying.
 "You shouldn't be out here,
 Norma," he told her. "It's cold.
 Look — you're shivering. You shouldn't have come out here without a wrap."
 "But I didn't know where you were. What is it, Mark? Is the telegram — I mean didn't the
 money come?"
 Swiftly, in half a dozen quick
 motions, Mark had torn the sheet
 of paper into bits. He flung them to the breeze. There were hard, ugly lines about his lips as he said,
 "So much for F. M. Travers and his lousy millions! I wish I knew how to get hold of that telegram
 I sent to Mother—!"
 His expression told the story.
 All arbitrary refusal of a loan from his father. Probably insulting references to the last meeting
 between Travers and his son. Blatantly "I told you so." No wonder Mark's countenance was stormy.
 Norma sought his arm. Fearfully, sympathetically she raised her eyes to his.
 "It doesn't matter," the girl
 said softly. "We'll find some other way, darling. We—we've each other—!"
 He was not listening. A sharp
 wind caught the fragile drapery
 of her bodice, barring her arm.
 "Here," Mark said roughly,
 "you can't stay outside any longer.
 You've got to get indoors!"
 He half-led, half-pulled her up
 the steps and through the entrance
 of the Inn. A mirror showed how tangled and disarranged her hair had become. The girl caught the reflection and drew back.
 "I can't go into the dining room," she told him, "looking like this! I'll have to go upstairs and fix my hair. Will you wait here?
 It won't take five minutes."
 Instead Mark said he would come with her. They crossed the lobby, and ascended to their rooms. Once there Mark slumped
 to a chair and sat staring at the floor. Norma glanced at him, decided against interrupting his mood, and went to the mirror to repair her coiffure.
 A few moments later she told
 him, "I'm ready now."
 "You'd better go down and eat.
 I don't want anything."
 "Oh, Mark—you can't go without eating. You'll be ill! Come on.
 We can talk things over in the dining room. We'll find some other way to get the money!"
 Her words set him off on a new tirade. He was like a small boy, petulant and willful. He would not
 eat. He broke into violent denunciations of his father. He got to his feet and stormed about the room like a caged animal. What business did his father have intercepting a telegram addressed to his mother? Someone was to blame
 for that and Mark would just like
 to get his hands on the guilty one.
 One of the servants, doubtless, set out to watch and pry! What he wouldn't do if he could find out
 who had done it!
 It required half an hour's coaxing before Norma could persuade
 him to go to the dining room.
 Throughout the meal Mark sulked
 blackly. The girl had never seen him in such a mood.
 Every attempt failed to cheer
 him and presently Norma gave up
 her efforts.
 As they left the dining room
 Mark stopped at the check stand
 for his hat, announcing he was going out for a time. There was no
 invitation for Norma to accompany him. Just the announcement.
 "But Mark—?"
 "Oh, don't stand here and start arguing! Ah! I said that I'm going out. Nothing wrong about that, is there? There are plenty of people around you can talk to.
 Why don't you go in and dance?
 I won't be gone long."
 Pride kept her lips from trembling. She left him immediately
 but she did not go to the ball room on the mezzanine where the dancing was in progress. Instead she returned to their rooms, took off
 the chifon dinner gown and hung
 it away. She got into the old blue negligee, curled up in her favorite chair and rested her head in her arms.
 A dozen times she rehearsed the arguments, and decided wrong about them. He would be back in a few minutes now, apologetic and with
 kisses to make up for every moment of unhappiness. Mark loved her and with that love nothing in the world could make any difference.
 It was all to happen very nearly as she had anticipated. Less than an hour after he had left her
 the door opened and Mark strode
 in.
 "Well, I got it!" he announced
 dramatically. Mark was not angry
 now. There was triumph in his voice.
 Norma sprang to her feet.
 "You've got—what?"
 "Five hundred berries! Enough
 to pay our bills and get back to Marlboro. Told you I'd get it,
 Marlboro. Told you I'd get it, didn't I? Well, it's here—right in
 the good old wallet!" He patted
 the left-hand pocket of his vest.
 "Five hundred berries!" he repeat-
 ed. "We're pulling out of her first thing in the morning!"
 "Oh, I'm so glad!"
 "I know, everything
 would come out all right,

CHAPTER XIX

Norma stepped from the elevator
 and searched the lobby with a glance. Cliff Halloran, in a blue suit, a bag of clubs slung
 over his shoulder, came toward
 her.
 "Good evening, Mrs. Travers,
 if my luck lasts I'm going to get up that husband of yours—"
 The girl interrupted. "Have you seen Mark? I've been looking for him."
 Halloran shook his head. "Just now, he told her, 'Haven't seen him. There's a gang outside but don't notice Mark among 'em, there anything I can do for you?'
 Norma thanked him, said there was nothing. It wasn't important,
 she said she was ready for dining and Mark had come down ahead. Probably she'd find him on the mezzanine.
 Halloran nodded and moved
 toward the right which led to the dining lounge. Several strange men were writing but Mark was not in sight. She spoke to an attendant, returned downstairs.
 Where could Mark be? She had decided to join him in 15 minutes. Of course he was worried
 because the telegram had not come. It was this that made her nervous.
 The orchestra was playing a Cuban fox trot. Strains of the music, seductive harmony led into the lobby. A group of women in pastel frocks and men
 in dinner clothes was entering the dining room. Norma looked up at the wall clock and saw the minute hand on the dial shift from eight to eight minutes until seven past now.
 She turned her back on the dining room and stepped through the
 doors leading to the street.
 A crowd Halloran had spoken of disappeared. Norma wore no wrap and a chill breeze swept the chifon back from her shiver.
 There was no one on the broad sidewalk which ran the width of the street. Norma walked to the end of the block and saw a dark figure standing along the path.
 "Mark!" she called. "Oh, Mark!"
 The figure stopped. It was too
 dark for her to see his features
 but she knew that walk anywhere. He hesitated, then came toward her.

FAT MEN

don't care how fat you are or how much you hate to get out and walk a couple of miles. If you will use one half teaspoon of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning for 4 weeks and cut out sweets, sugar and fatty meats—
 you will feel so good — so energetic and the urge of activity will be so great that you will immensely
 enjoy a daily walk of several miles.
 Lose fat.
 While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy — in endurance and ambition. You will grow taller and your eyes will sparkle in the good health that Kruschen brings.
 Just try one 85c bottle of Kruschen-
 Salts; it will last you 4 weeks.
 If you have taken one bottle the first chair won't hold you any longer — you'll want to be up and doing — you'll enjoy work — you'll sleep
 a top and probably live years longer. Get Kruschen at Moore & Co., or any live druggist in the city with the understanding that you must be joyfully satisfied
 before you pay.
 R. Daniels of Richmond Hill, N. Y., writes: "After 2 bottles of Kruschen, I've removed 3 inches from my belt, feel 25 per cent more energetic. Am 46 years old and feel 20 years younger. I get up 100 per cent. Kruschen sure works!"

Colony Draws Many Farmers. ROME, Sept. 10—Italy is colonizing her North African possessions by means of offering concessions of land to farmers from the home country on terms calculated to attract them.

The policy has been fairly successful, though much remains to be done in Tripolitania. Progress in this colony is revealed from the figures just issued.

At the end of 1932, there were only 3,612 hectares of land in Tripolitania under cultivation by concessionaires, while at the end of 1930 the figure was 122,031 hectares.

The concessionaires at present number 744 families, composed of 2,814 persons. The colonists in Tripolitania own 744 buildings, apart from cattle-sheds, barns, etc. These houses contain 3,182 rooms.

Tripolitania has 6,796 head of cattle, 825 water wells, capable of supplying 5,033 cubic meters of water per hour.

There also are nearly a million olive trees, 11,000,000 vines, over half a million almond trees, and 232,000 mulberry trees.

Merchants Enthusiastic Over Plans for Trade Revival

Leading merchants of Cisco today enthusiastically undertook plans for a trade revival campaign based upon a new idea of organization. The meeting held at the Palace theater, presided over by W. J. Leach adopted unanimously a plan to employ a promotional expert and underwrite a fund sufficient, in cooperation with the chamber of commerce whose aid will be sought, to pay his salary and provide a working fund. Every business firm represented subscribed to the fund and declared its determination to join hands with other merchants of the city in a movement described by Mr. Leach in his appeal for cooperation as "a case of do or quit."

A committee of five was elected to secure the proper man for the promotional job, to serve with him as an advisory committee and to carry the appeal for cooperation to the chamber of commerce. Henry Drumwright was chosen chairman of this group. Serving with him will be W. K. Johnston, W. H. LaRoque, Nick Miller, Jack Leach.

This committee was directed to get plans to functioning at once. It was urged that a meeting of the chamber of commerce directors be sought immediately so that final assurance for carrying forward the organizational plans could be had.

Plan Outline

In its broad details the trade revival plan contemplates entertainments on the streets of Cisco each week, climaxed each month by a "master" program. Experiences of other towns in this section with trade day movements has shown that these entertainments draw great crowds of people, and it was the spirit of the merchants this morning that since Cisco has started late the forthcoming campaign should be put over in extra large fashion. Details of the campaign will be left to the committee and the plan to be secured for full-time work. The immediate problem is to secure the proper man and the committee was directed to get busy with this question at once.

Fully eighty per cent of all merchants called to attend the meeting this morning were present and on time at 10 o'clock. Mr. Leach said. He declared that this was an evidence of the interest that was being taken. He told the merchants that Cisco must get busy now. Unless the merchants and the chamber of commerce do so there is no use trying anything else, he said. The cooperation that is given the present movement and its success will determine whether or not Cisco business men have the energy and will to make up for the loss of time and extend their trade territory to its rightful limits, he declared. "It's a case of do or sit down," he said.

The spirit of the assembled merchants and their determination to act was the most evident feature of the meeting. Many suggestions were presented during the discussion of the campaign, but there was a unity of purpose that clearly assured that the business men were in earnest and determined for once to do something in behalf of the commercial prosperity of the city.

It was pointed out that there would be those who would refuse to cooperate and others who would require "prodding" but the paramount idea was clearly put across "prodding" and that difficulties should be expected. With the proper man working from Monday morning to Saturday evening these difficulties can be overcome and the fundamental idea of the campaign clearly established. That idea, or purpose, the merchants were made to understand, is not immediate individual profits, but the raising of the general level of trade activity, the bringing of large crowds of visitors from the rural sections at regular intervals, and the recovery of natural trade territory that has been slipping away through the trade extension activities of other cities.

Dr. M. C. Carlisle, Cisco physician who is leaving shortly to undertake advanced courses in treatment of diseases of infants and children at the Harvard post-graduate medical school at Boston, Mass., will be succeeded in his practice here by Dr. Hubert Seale, of Floydada, Texas, a classmate of Dr. Carlisle at Baylor medical college, Dallas.

After graduating from the Baylor school, Dr. Seale spent three years in the U. S. Army medical corps, graduating from the army medical school at Washington, D. C. He was an interne at the Fitzsimons general hospital, Denver, Colo., and followed this experience with a year of resident work in Denver.

He and his wife and boy, two, will occupy Dr. Carlisle's home and he will office in Dr. Carlisle's offices in the Dean building.

Dr. Carlisle will leave Saturday morning with his family. Coming here in 1927 from Scott and White sanitarium at Temple, Dr. Carlisle has enjoyed a wide practice and has established himself high in the esteem of Cisco people, all of whom regret that his plans for the future remove him from their association.

MASS MEET FOR COLLEGE EMPHASIZED

Business and professional men of Cisco today added their appeals to the people of Cisco to demonstrate their interest in Randolph college by attending the mass meeting to be held at 8 o'clock at the high school auditorium this evening in behalf of the school. Dr. Lee Clark, new president of the institution, and Dr. John W. Tyndall, head of the Bible college, operated in connection with the school will be the principal speakers on the program.

The meeting will not discuss finances. No pledges will be asked and no collection taken. Speakers will devote themselves to explaining the plans for the school next year, its program and its goal in order to familiarize the public with the school.

Dr. Clark and Dr. Tyndall, both educators of renown, are speakers of great ability and their addresses will be of great importance to Cisco and to everyone who is concerned with the future of the college.

Collins Asks Support

J. J. Collins, president of the chamber of commerce, issued a statement this morning in which he declared that the interest which the people of Cisco show in the school will determine whether or not Randolph shall be able to thrive. Only by the sanction of a united Cisco, he said, can Dr. Clark and his associates in the direction of the college, accomplish the success that is expected of them. He urged the citizens to express this interest by their attendance at the mass meeting this evening.

The following statements were made by other business men:

In common with other business men, I wish to urge the citizens of Cisco to attend in large numbers, the meeting at the Cisco high school auditorium tonight and by our presence, prove to Randolph college, our loyalty to that institution.

P. P. SHEPARD

Sincerely hope that Randolph college can be put on a going basis by which much good can be accomplished for the youth of this and other communities.

A. SPEARS

We with many other people of this community who are interested in seeing Randolph college succeed, believe that a wise decision was made by selecting Dr. Lee Clark as president, whom we know is a man of unquestionable character and a Christian gentleman, together with the assistance of the present faculty we believe they will succeed.

EUGENE FORD

A live and enthusiastic crowd at the meeting tonight to greet the new president will be one of the best things Cisco can do to assure a good year at Randolph next year. United effort means much at this time.

E. P. CRAWFORD

I think the securing of Dr. Lee Clark to head Randolph is the greatest move the college ever made. He has the confidence of all parties, which assures the united support of the people of Cisco. Everybody here for a rousing pep meeting tonight.

H. S. DRUMWRIGHT

LEON MANER

I feel like every business man and his wife ought to attend this meeting tonight to inspire confidence in the reorganization program for Randolph college.

W. K. JOHNSTON

Cisco now has an opportunity to build a Junior college that will mean much to the community, and all citizens should join hands to make a go of things. A rousing pep meeting will give things a good start.

NATIONS ARE RETICENT ON AVIATION DATA

GENEVA, Sept. 10. — Publicity of all information relative to commercial aviation promises to be one of the hardest problems of the 1932 general disarmament conference. In spite of all of the efforts, both of the League's preparatory disarmament commission and of the League itself, it has been impossible to find any basis of agreement on this point.

Even the United States, which took the initiative in making public the present status of all its armaments is known to be opposed to opening all of the secrets of its commercial aviation.

The question is considered a particularly grave one in Europe owing to the vulnerability to aerial attack of virtually every nation.

Central Powers

In the case of the Central Powers, that are not allowed a military aviation under the peace treaties, there is nothing to prevent them from building up a commercial aviation along the most extensive scale.

This, it is declared, could be converted overnight into a military aviation that would entirely upset the supposition that these powers are unarmed and incapable of attack.

As it is generally conceded that aviation will probably be the most important armament in "the next war" League members recognize that a disarmament convention that does not take into account the status of commercial aviation would create an entirely false idea of reduction of armaments.

Seek Information

In order to advance the question as far as possible before the disarmament conference meets, the Secretariat has just requested all nations to notify it on what basis each prefers to have the question handled.

It is conceded that all that can be demanded is that each nation submit to the fullest information relative to its commercial and private aviation.

This it is pointed out could be done in three different ways: first, in the disarmament convention itself; second, in an international convention entirely outside of the disarmament convention; third, by bilateral treaties.

Miss Gould Arrives Safely, Airgram Says

In an airgram message to her mother, Mrs. Ida Keenan, Miss Helen Gould tells of her arrival safely at Chicago from Kansas City by airplane. The message, which was written aboard plane, at an altitude of 6,000 feet, states that the plane was sailing at a speed of two miles a minute, but one could scarcely tell they were in motion. Continuing Miss Gould states: "Lunch was just served, consisting of cheese and chicken sandwiches, pickles, olives, coffee, cake and a fruit dessert. At one o'clock, p. m., each of the passengers were furnished a copy of the Kansas City Star of today."

The airgram enables passengers to write to friends while en route and aboard plane.

She has been released to prepare for a hearing October 12 at Texarkana in the court of civil appeals on her appeal from the ruling of the Raines county court holding her insane.

"It looks like any one who tries to fight bootleggers is really insane, so they are right about that much of it," she said. "That's my only plea of guilty."

PAIR ASSAULT GIRL; ESCORT IS WOUNDED

WICHITA FALLS, Sept. 9. — J. F. King, 43, manager of a Continental Oil company filling station here dropped dead today while searching for two negroes who assaulted Miss Vera Smith, a stenographer and flight bookkeeper, here last night. The negroes, here last night, shot her escort, Ed Nodurft, 28, a Fort Worth, through the neck.

The couple were surprised by the negroes as they were sitting in a car on a quiet street in the residential part of the city, when the negroes approached from the rear one of them covering the couple with a gun. Nodurft attempted to start the car and the black fired striking Nodurft in the neck, shattering a vertebrae. The negroes then held the gun on the girl, taking her some distance from the car where she was assaulted. They took an engagement ring from her which was given her last Saturday night by her fiancé.

After being freed by her assailants, the girl rejoined Nodurft in his automobile and drove him to a hospital where she collapsed. Attendants stated he cannot recover.

RIFT BETWEEN PRESIDENT AND FARM BOARD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. — A widening rift is developing between President Hoover and the federal farm board.

So noticeable is the feeling that Hoover is acting independently in an effort to find some solution for the wheat and cotton problems. From the warring conflicting remedies there developed today under the president's security a program of expanding markets and credits to absorb the depressing surplus.

This new program was being shaped by Chairman Eugene Meyer of the federal reserve board, while still tentative it contemplates banking help to enable cotton growers to get through the period of low prices by selling cotton on long term credits in the export fields.

Senators, representatives, bankers, brokers and government officials have visited the white house the past three days to aid Hoover's study of the situation but not one farm board member has been summoned or has put in an appearance voluntarily.

The president has been concentrating on the cotton situation since his return from Camp Rapidian Tuesday.

COTTON FIGHT NARROWS TO TWO MEASURES

AUSTIN, Sept. 10. — Prospective cotton legislation in the Texas legislature narrowed today to a sharp fight between proponents of the Huey P. Long plan for planting no cotton next year and a compromise senate bill limiting planting to a third of the tilled soil.

The compromise bill was sponsored by Sen. Walter Woodward of Coleman. Sen. Oliver Cunningham, of Abilene, and Sen. Clint Small of Wellington, Woodward and Cunningham have had rival bills.

A proposal to report out the compromise bill brought Long forces into quick action. Mr. Margie Neal, the senate's only woman member, at once called for a recommendation that the senate sit as a committee of the whole and hear from the people.

Sen. W. E. Thomason, of Nacogdoches, another Long plan supporter, wanted to know who wrote the new bill. Woodward explained he did not know. Cunningham and Small, meanwhile a graduated tax on cotton to bolster and acreage reduction law was urged today by former Gov. James E. Ferguson. Such a tax would support a bill restricting the 1932 crop to a third of this year's cultivated land. Ferguson declared in the Ferguson Forum.

He urged a levy of 10 cents a bale on the first five, a dollar a bale on the next five, two dollars each on the next 10 and $10 a bale on all over 20 bales.

TEXAS CROP THIRD OF WHOLE

AUSTIN, Sept. 10. — Texas' part of the 1931 cotton crop is nearly a third, federal estimators reported here today. They placed the Texas crop at 3,094,000 bales and the nation's crop at 15,685,000 bales.

Last year Texas' crop was more than a million bales less, being 4,038,000 bales.

The condition of the Texas' crop was estimated to be 67 per cent of normal, with a yield of 154 pounds to the acre indicated. Abandonment since July was set at only 1.7 per cent of the 15,852,999 acres planted in cotton this year.

ROTARY HEARS NEW PRESIDENT OF RANDOLPH

Dr. Lee Clark, president of Randolph college ate his first meal as a citizen of Cisco with the Rotary club when he appeared before that club today noon as its principal speaker. He is not a stranger to Rotary, he said, having been associated with the movement for 12 years.

Introduced by E. P. Crawford, he spoke of the significance of Randolph as a college of the character which is coming to be recognized as the only solution for the problem of over-crowded universities and larger schools, and besought the support of Cisco in doing his part toward making the school an asset rather than a liability as quickly as possible. He said that he had gladly come to Cisco in the confidence that the city was united in a desire for his services and declared that he came with the prime purpose of trying to give the people of Cisco and the supporters of Randolph college just the type of service they desire.

Frank Reynolds, tenor, delighted the club with two vocal numbers to which he was forced to add an encore. He was accompanied by Miss Mattie Lea Kunkel, club pianist.

Mr. Crawford, with the consent of President Henry Drumwright named Edward Lee, O. J. Russell, R. L. Pensler and B. A. Butler as a committee from the club to work with other civic committees in promoting the Boy Scout budget drive. To take care of past indebtedness and provide for next year's budget Cisco will be asked to raise $1,100 as its share of the Oil Belt Council budget, he said. He pointed out that the Rotary club should be vitally interested in the Boy Scout movement because of the club's existence on boys' work as a prime object of its activities.

The mass meeting of the high school tonight in the interest of Randolph college was advertised as a matter of great concern to Cisco people by J. J. Collins and F. D. Wright. Full attendance of Rotary club membership was besought.

No Large Pores With New Powder

If you have large pores use a face powder that will not clog them. A new French process called MELLO-GLO makes the skin look young. It stays on longer, furnishes a youthful bloom, does not irritate the skin or make it look pasty or flaky. It spreads smoothly. Try this new wonderful Face Powder MELLO-GLO.—Moore Drug Co.—Adv.

Car Dealers, Car Accessories Dealers and Garage Men MAKE STATEMENT OF CREDIT POLICY

The opinion seems to be that our "Credit Record" is determined by what we are worth. That was the old fashioned way, when merchandise and service was sold on a margin of profit and permitted adding the collection costs. Today the merchant's business record is filed with the wholesalers Credit Association and his personal record is filed along with that of all other individuals in the local Retail Credit Bureau. Our personal record is "made by living within our means" and "paying as agreed." We are not "rated." We make our own record. The Bureau keeps it.

The undersigned have agreed in the future to fill out the information blank (listed opposite) on each customer—and to inquire about the condition of each new applicant.

Each customer may take this chart and see just where it will be necessary for us to make the check.

In order to help other merchants and professional men stabilize Credit control—and help you from getting into a financial rut. WE must, of course, list with the Bureau the amount you owe, that is past due—so it can be filed with what you owe other merchants and your contract accounts. In this way we will not over-sell you, and can help you keep a good record.

Before listing the indebtedness ample time will be given each customer to make arrangements to pay. We hope some can pay on account and that others can pay all.

If you cannot pay—make some arrangement—At the end of a reasonable period we will inform the Bureau of your action—and your record will be written by the way you pay, or have agreed to pay—the old account and the way you pay your future open accounts.

We assure all our prompt paying customers that our experience will be listed with the Bureau in accordance with the Chart listed opposite. For those that have had sickness or financial reverses and could not pay as they intended, but have made arrangements to pay, we will, of course, check (X) "Paying as Agreed."

This will enable you to secure accommodations when necessary, and you can take pride in your own record. When giving references say our record is filed with the Credit Bureau.

We realize that some of our customers have had sickness and reverses on account of unemployment or crop conditions. Most of these customers have already come in and made some agreeable arrangements. We hope that those who have not—will do so—that we may be in a position to help you. Those that are heavily indebted, come in and tell us your troubles and we will arrange to have a representative of the Credit Bureau help centralize or pre-rate your payments to all your creditors. It is YOUR record that we want to help you with—You make it—The Bureau keeps it.

REMARKS:

Now You Can Have STAINLESS Vicks VapoRub

Your Same Vicks...Only Color Removed...Same Formula Same Price

HERE'S real news! Science has found a way to remove the color from the world's famous treatment for colds—without altering the time-tested formula an iota! It's your same Vicks—just all chance of stain gone!

Why 26 Million Jars Are Used Yearly—For twenty-five years Vicks VapoRub has been the mothers' reliance—the family standby for cold troubles. Like nothing else Vicks acts externally—without the risks of "dosing"—direct to the affected area—by stimulation and inhalation—2 ways at once.

In Golden Amber or Stainless White—Now your druggist has Vicks in the original amber or the new stainless white form—as you prefer it. It's the same dependable Vicks... same time-tested ingredients, compounded in the same exclusive Vick way—as the same price.

Vicks Now In Two Forms---as you prefer it

For a generation an especially selected amber petroleum has been used as the base of Vicks, because we found no white or "stainless" base of satisfactory melting point and viscosity that would permit the gradual, long-continued vaporizing action that is distinctive of Vicks.

Through the perfecting of a process which removes the natural color, without otherwise affecting its properties, Vicks Chemists have at last made Vicks VapoRub possible in white, stainless form, for those who prefer it.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

LOVE DESTROYS FEAR:—There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear; because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love.—I John 4: 18.

A NEGLECTED ALLY.

Cisco consumers are not only taking their cash business out of Cisco and to rival trading centers but their credit business, as well, according to reports from the local Retail Merchants association, which says that it receives numerous requests each month from firms in Eastland, Ranger, Breckenridge, Abilene, Fort Worth and other cities, for credit reports on Cisco people. As long as what we are pleased to term this depression has brought us face to face with the necessity of auditing our economic resources and accounts, we might as well face the facts squarely and ask ourselves what is the matter.

Frankly there are two ways of looking at the question. The natural attitude is to adopt the explanation of the buyer-out-of-town and blame our merchants for failure to have what the home customer wants. If such is the case it represents a severe indictment of our home merchants and their policies and abilities. People are going to have what they want and they are going to spend their money where they can get what they want. There is no way of getting around that question and they can't be blamed for the attitude. It is common to all of us. It will do no good to censure. If the merchant doesn't have the goods he might as well try to keep water in a sieve as to keep home wages in home enterprises.

The News, however, does not believe that is the cause. There is another and a psychological reason for the drift of buying power out of Cisco. There is a curiously nomadic instinct planted in the human race. It exemplifies itself in the desire of the buyer to forage abroad in search of bargains. It seldom occurs to the forager that the gas and oil he or she consumes in chasing the few-penny margin of saving will in reality make the reduced article cost much more than for what the same could have been purchased at home. Much less does it occur that by taking purchasing power away from home they are undermining home and job security, pecking away at the substance that supports them.

If we look very closely into this problem we are sure to find the woman in the case. God bless her. Women, where detail is concerned, are sharper than men. Behind the hand that rocks the cradle is a keen mind, constantly alert for advantages in making the allowance go further so that her home, her husband and her babies may enjoy to the fullest extent the social and economic comforts which the particular level of her husband's income will allow. Men do not have the energy to search constantly and afire for savings on purchases. No matter how diligent for economy he may be in his business, when it comes to the buying of clothing, food and accessories for everyday home consumption the man is mentally and physically lazy. He buys what first comes under his nose and if he has injured his pocketbook he has saved his energy. But his wife does have the energy and, unfortunately, it sometimes leads her to neglect the fundamentally important fact that by spending the money her husband earns at home out of home she is contributing just that much to the insecurity of his employment.

Because our merchants have not taken this fact into account and sought to provide a remedy for it, they are to blame for the flow of purchasing power from the home-town reservoir. In past campaigns that have been aimed at keeping home money at home the News feels that the most important asset of all has been neglected. That asset is the civic spirit of the women of the city. They, and they alone, can make home-buying popular. The zeal with which they undertake and prosecute civic and social-uplift programs through clubs and similar associations is exemplary. The women's clubs of Cisco have contributed as much to Cisco's social, spiritual and cultural environment as associations of men have contributed in other ways. The excellence of our schools is fundamentally due to the interest of our women; the spires of our churches would be mere, dwindling match sticks but for the magic of the woman's touch, her inspiration and the constant vigor of her search for the finest and the best.

The same enthusiasm, the same consummate interest and zeal is available for the economic problems that confront us. The News feels confident that the women's organizations of Cisco would enlist eagerly in any honorable campaign that is aimed at fortifying Cisco business and commercial institutions. The crusading spirit that they apply to whatever causes they espouse is the most valuable of all potential allies of the chamber of commerce, the commercial clubs and the various organizations dedicated to the upbuilding of Cisco.

This influence should not be neglected.

OTHER OPINIONS

TEXAS STONE FOR TEXAS STRUCTURE

The postoffice department, upon representation of Cong. Buchanan, has ordered the use of Texas limestone on the construction of the new postoffice building in Ft. Worth. It is manifestly an error, from both the economic and community standpoints, to haul such materials as building stone across half the continent when materials equally as good can be obtained within a short distance of the building project. Limestone quarried in Williamson and Travis counties is as suitable for construction purposes, from the cold technical standpoint, as any similar stone quarried anywhere in the United States. It is more suitable for Texas projects, since it is near at hand and its use serves the purpose of local development which is involved in building projects of the kind, even though they are carried forward by the Federal government. Cong. Buchanan is to be congratulated upon the success of his activity in behalf of the quarry interests of his own district. Fort Worth people will be better satisfied with their magnificent new postoffice building because of the Texas materials used in its construction. — Fort Worth Star Telegram.

That a city that has natural advantages in great abundance must have cooperation on the part of its citizens and make a presentation of these advantages to those seeking industrial locations or a place to live.

A city needs advertising the same as any business. Success comes by doing things; failure comes by sleeping at the post.

The better a city is advertised, the better it will be known.

As a city is known by the way it is advertised, it should always strive to get its advantages before the world in an attractive way.

Telling the right things in the right way will attract the right attention.

The right attention will bring the right people and the right industries. No city should count on others to

DO YOU

Answer your physician and your dentist as promptly and cheerfully as he answers you.

The practice of medicine and dentistry are two noble professions. Regardless of weather conditions, time, or distance the physician rushes to the bedside of his patient.

He does not think about his own convenience or his own pleasure—everyone has heard the call for Dr. So-and-So, at the club, the dinner, the theater, the ball game or other public places.

Does it seem reasonable for the small fee that he gets (and often does not get) that he wants to be disturbed just when he is enjoying a much needed rest, an interesting show, or dinner with friends?

Do you think a small fee looks attractive to him when he is called from his warm bed to drive through the snow or mud on a cold night? No. Still your physician never fails you when you need him.

The Dentist, also, is often disturbed from his rest and pleasures by the victim of an aching tooth—And the same unselfish, willingness to serve that is found in your physician, is typical in your dentist. For our benefit, both the physician and the dentist spend years of preparation and thousands of dollars to enter either of these noble professions—And constantly engage in research and post graduate work to keep informed on the new and scientific findings that may enable them to enlarge their scope of usefulness.

Yet—in spite of their hardships, sacrifices and splendid services to mankind, the physician and dentist, as a rule, do not send out statements for their services as regularly as other professional men or merchants. Perhaps that is why their bills for service are often regarded with indifference by many who receive them.

IT is said, that the cause of many individual bankrupt cases can be traced to the hospital, physician and dentist account, because the individual had forgotten about these bills, and contracted accounts beyond his ability to pay and when the total of all his indebtedness was learned he became discouraged. It is a startling fact, the last few years that hundreds of thousands of dollars are lost to a community by individuals taking bankruptcy—each of these cases represents frozen assets on the books of the professional man and the merchant. Frozen assets is the cause of 95 per cent of mercantile bankruptcies.

The modern credit bureau is not a place where the merchants and professional man can protect themselves from a few bad debts—It stands for the elimination of waste—keeps records that are facts, on "us all." So the merchants will not over sell—It is a "community credit policy" that creates community credit conscience—that helps all to maintain self respect.

Your Physician and Dentist stand for elimination of waste, self respect and progress.

The experience of the Doctor, furnished the Credit Bureau must, of course, be different than that of the merchant—and the chart listed opposite was prepared for your physician and your dentist. You can take this chart and know just how he must check.

If necessary to call your medical men today—how would your past record look with him?

If necessary to call a new physician or dentist—how will he find your record, as filed by his brother doctor?

How will it look when the experience of all the merchants and professional men are compiled together?

It will be your record. You make it—The Bureau keeps it.

This space sponsored by Business and Professional Men in the interest of Better Credit.

WHEN PRECIOUS HEALTH IS CONCERNED

There is no time for uncertainty—no room for chances. Your first thought, your one thought is always for the speed and efficiency, the ability and care that an experienced and conscientious pharmacist can give you. Then—and always—his reliability and willingness proves a friend in need—his service brings relief and confidence.

It may be necessary for you to ask for an accommodation from your druggist.—How is your past record with him?

It also may be necessary to ask the druggist to cash your check. How will he find your record, as checked by other druggists, merchants and professional men?

The Druggists of Cisco, whose names are listed below, in order to help brother merchants and professional men and women stabilize credit control and economic conditions, and serve those in need of accommodations, and to enable those worthy of the convenience of a weekly, semi-monthly or monthly account, will in the future fill out the chart listed opposite, and inquire on each new applicant for an account.

FORDHAM TO HAVE STRONG GRID TEAM

By DIXON STEWART
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Although his great-grandfather was a member of the team that won the national championship in 1929 and 1930 has been mastered by graduation, Major Frank W. Cavanaugh has bright hopes of turning out another strong team at Fordham this fall.

Cavanaugh has been coaching at Fordham for four years, during which time the New York school has advanced from a second rate team to rank among the leading teams of the East. Fordham teams, under Cavanaugh, have been famous chiefly as defensive aggregations and during the last two years boasted one of the strongest lines in the nation and went 17 consecutive games without defeat.

The "Iron Major" has an unusual brilliant crop of backfield men this season and may discard his previous system of scoring and then protecting the narrow margin by defensive power, in favor of a hard-running attack.

Chief losses in the Fordham line are Captain Tony Slano, selected in many circles as all-American center, "Pistol Pete" Wlenciewski, an all-American guard, and Frank Foley, tackle who has returned in the role of assistant coach. Except for fullback Piciewicz there were no important losses in the backfield.

The 1931 squad, now at work under Coach Cavanaugh, includes eight letter men—Capt. Jim Murphy, halfback; John Conroy, tackle; John Conway, fullback; John Janis, halfback; Neil Murphy, tackle; Frank Davis, center; Tip Tobin, end, and John Fisher, quarterback. In addition Cavanaugh has several experienced reserves and the 1930 freshman team which defeated N. Y. U. 28 to 0 in a post-season charity game. McDermond, quarterback; Pavlicovic, halfback; Prans, guard and Demowski fullback, are the best of the new players.

Captain Jim Murphy is the leading candidate for a halfback job with John Janis, Joe Zupustas and Edward Pavlicovic fighting for the other halfback berth. At quarterback Cavanaugh has Johnny Fisher, who directed the 1930 team, and Frank McDermond of Charleston, Mass. John Conway, 1930 reserve and the sophomore Demowski are favored to win the fullback post.

Fordham again has an attractive inter-sectional schedule, but will play all except one of its games in New York. The schedule:

Sept. 26—Thiel at Fordham.
Oct. 3—West Virginia at Polo Grounds.
Oct. 12—Boston College at Boston.
Oct. 17—Holy Cross at Polo Grounds.
Oct. 24—Drake at Polo Grounds.
Oct. 31—West Liberty at Fordham.
Nov. 7—Detroit at Polo Grounds.
Nov. 14—New York university at Yankee Stadium.
Nov. 21—Bucknell at Polo Grounds.

10 Children Survive A. L. Huntington

L. A. Huntington, staunch old settler of Eastland county who died two weeks ago at his home at Bluff Branch, west of Cisco, was 70 years of age at death, the Daily News and American were informed. His age had been reported in the News as 65.

Mr. Huntington, whom his business associates and other acquaintances described as a man "whose word was his bond," came to Texas as a boy from Indiana where he was born. He first settled in Lamar county. Fifty-six years before his death he moved to Eastland county and made his trading headquarters at Cisco from the time the city was established.

He was twice married, his first wife dying about 40 years before his own death. One child by his first wife survives. She is Mrs. Ester Carmichael, of Cross Plains. Nine by his second wife, who also survives, are living. They are: Mrs. Ethel Davenport, of Commerce; Mrs. Luella Simpkins, Cisco; Mrs. Alberta Burkett, of Olden; Mrs. Audie Lem, of Russellville, Arkansas; Mrs. Verdie Gossett, of Cisco; Otis Huntington, Bluff Branch; Notre, Loretta, Nadine.

ITALY PLANS CANAL TO SEA FOR MILAN

ROME, Sept. 10.—A continuous waterway from Milan to Venice, linking Italy's chief industrial center with Adriatic shipping lanes, has been initiated by the Fascist government.

The council of ministers, presided over by Premier Benito Mussolini, has appropriated an initial sum of 46 million lire to begin the work of building the necessary canals and dams to control the waterflow to the Po river.

The waterway from Milan to Venice will stretch for nearly 200 miles and will cost more than 270 million lire. The appropriations will be spread over a number of annual budgets. The work planned for this fall and winter will use several thousand workmen for a total of more than 1,200,000 working days, thus assisting in reducing Italy's unemployment total.

The project includes the construction of a canal from Milan to the Po river, near Mount Adda, a distance of about 35 miles. From the mouth of the canal, the Po river will be regulated in such a manner that an even flow of water will be maintained through the year. This will necessitate the construction of many dams to store surplus water during the rainy seasons and to release it during dry periods.

This regulation of the Po's flow will be done over 110 miles, from Mt. Adda to Cononella. The dams and dikes will be so constructed that the river's flow will always give a depth of approximately 12 feet. The canals and river, when this work is done, will be able to handle ships up to 600 tons.

From Cavanella to Venice a series of artificial canals about 35 miles long will be built. The water route ends in Venice, from which the shipping can be transferred to large vessels for all parts of the world.

Great importance is attached to the project, as it will give Milan and its adjoining factories an excellent and cheap outlet to the sea.

"How did you get it, darling?"

Mark kissed her casually, squared back and said in an off-hand tone, "Oh, I hit Stone for a loan. Ran across him on the street and he gave me his check. It's good all right—no need to worry about that. Stone's a pretty good fellow even if he does seem a trifle stiff some times."

The bright flush faded slowly from Norma's cheeks. She drew away and one hand unconsciously rose to her throat.

"Stone?" she asked a little weakly. "You mean—Hollis Stone?"

"Sure. Why not? He knows he'll get his dough back all right. Besides he's a sort of relative. Why shouldn't I borrow from him?"

"Why—why there's no reason of course—"

"What's the matter, Norma? You act as though I'd done something wrong! I thought you'd be glad to hear we can get out of this dump. You're acting darned funny about this, it seems to me!"

Desperately she tried to cover her embarrassment. "Oh, no—I didn't mean—of course it's all right! I'm glad you got the money, Mark. I'm awfully glad. If we're starting in the morning I ought to start packing right away."

She turned and began fumbling through bureau drawers.

"Wait a minute!" Mark was beside her, springing an arm about her waist. "See her, sweetheart, I was a bear tonight at dinner. I'm sorry. Honestly, I am. I didn't mean to be cross or hurt your feelings. Say you forgive me—please, Norma!"

His tenderness was a thousand times dearer because an hour earlier she had been so tormented, so haunted by fears she would not even name to herself.

"It's all right, Mark. Of course! There isn't anything to forgive. Oh, my darling—oh, I do love you!"

They were happier that night than they had been for a long while.

At 10 o'clock next morning Mark and Norma boarded "The Sentinel," fast train that would transport them to Marlboro in 24 hours.

There was no private compartment on this trip. They rode in an ordinary Pullman. The car was only half filled and no one sat across the aisle. Norma's hand dug its way into Mark's protecting fingers. The slight pressure in response was a momentous secret.

Above the droning of the train wheels Norma's heart was singing. "I'm glad we're going back, Mark."

"Guess I am too, kid. Had fun at the Springs though, didn't we?"

"Oh, yes. It was wonderful!"

She would have agreed to anything Mark said that morning. Norma was radiant. Such plans for the future. Such confidence those plans would succeed. Mark was going to find a job. She would work hard too, keeping their tiny apartment. Cooking and cleaning. Economizing. They would pay back their debts and

Mystery Bars Worry French

JUAN-LES-PINS, French Riviera, Sept. 10.—Mystery bars, like American speakeasies, are puzzling French revenue officers along the Riviera.

The new bars are usually established in private houses. The proprietor acts as bartender, but this position is often filled by the most skilful mixer among the guests.

As the bars are not run for profit they have been strongly criticized by proprietors of drink emporiums who have seen their profits decline during an already bad season.

The worries of the professional bar proprietors are shared by revenue officials, who realize they will lose heavily if private drinking becomes too fashionable.

Like most fads on the Riviera, this one is said to have come from Hollywood.

CHURCH PLANS DISCUSSION OF MARRIAGE LAW

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 10.—One of the major problems to be discussed at the 90th General convention of the Episcopal church, starting here Sept. 16, is whether the church in the United States shall abandon its historic position against the remarriage of divorced persons.

The law of the church as it now stands provides that no priest of the church can marry a divorced person except in a case where divorce has been granted on the grounds of adultery. Then the innocent party may be remarried.

In 1928 the General convention of the church, meeting in New Orleans, appointed a joint commission of Bishops and Deputies to make a study of the divorce problem.

Report Postponed

In 1928 the commission presented the results of its three-year study, but made no recommendations. The commission was continued and asked to report in 1931.

The commission has announced that it will go before the convention with an amendment to Canon 43 of the church law, approved by a majority of the commission, and which if approved by the convention will permit the remarriage of those who have been divorced, without consideration of grounds.

The proposed revision of the marriage law provides for the organization in the various dioceses of the church of Ecclesiastical Marital Courts, which shall, in each instance pass upon the right of divorced persons to marry within the church.

Section 7 of the proposed new Canon reads:

"Any person whose marriage has been dissolved for any cause by a civil court after the expiration of one year from the granting of the divorce may apply to the Bishop or to the Ecclesiastical Marital Court of his diocese for permission to marry another person. The Bishop or Court shall thereupon inquire into the characters and personalities of the parties to the previous and proposed marriage and determine whether the spiritual welfare of the parties thereto will be served by the proposed marriage. If the court permits the proposed marriage, a minister of the church may solemnize the marriage; provided that it shall be within the discretion of any minister to decline to solemnize any marriage."

Other Provisions

While there are other provisions in the proposed revision of Canon 43 which relate to marriage, in Christian marriage by priests of the church before the ceremony is performed and which define the grounds upon which a marriage may be annulled, Section 7 is the point upon which the greatest controversy is expected.

Further complication is lent by the fact that a section of the commission which does not oppose the remarriage of divorced persons has prepared an amendment under which even if the Ecclesiastical Marital Court permits the proposed remarriage of divorced persons, "the marriage may not be performed by a minister of this church, but if the parties are married by civil authority no impediment shall exist to their membership in the church, and a minister of the church may in his discretion, bless the union."

There also is a minority of the whole commission which "disapproves any plan to change the church's historical attitude toward divorce.

The chairman of the commission is the Rt. Rev. Herman Page, D. D., Bishop of Michigan.

CAR OWNERS DEMAND VALUES —not Claims!

GUM-DIPPED CORDS

Every cord in Firestone tires is Gum-Dipped. This patented extra process penetrates every cord—coats every fiber with pure liquid rubber. Gum-Dipping increases the flexing life of the cords—minimizes internal friction and heat—increases the strength of the tire body—and gives longer tire life. Only Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires give this Extra Value.

TWO EXTRA CORD PLYS UNDER THE TREAD

This patented construction of two Extra Cord Plys under the Tread in Firestone Tires insures a stronger bond between Tread and Cord Body and greater protection against Punctures and Blowouts. This new, improved "roll cord" construction out-qualifies the old-fashioned cross-woven fabric construction used by others.

6 CORD PLYS UNDER THE TREAD

MOTORISTS are finding the Greatest Values in Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. Ever since Firestone and Firestone Dealers began advertising the true facts about tire quality and construction and actually demonstrating the Extra Values in Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, distributors of special-brand mail-order tires have grown bolder and bolder with misleading claims and comparisons in the desperate effort to interest car-owners.

Car owners bought more Firestone Tires in May, June and July, than in any like period in history. This clearly shows that car owners are interested in Firestone Extra Values and are not interested in comparisons based on an almost obsolete tire size—confusing laboratory analyses—meaningless definitions—impractical challenges with unfair claims of twenty-five per-cent savings—and deceiving price comparisons.

Why risk a tire of unknown manufacture when you can get the Extra Quality, Extra Strength, and Extra Safety of the special patented construction features of Firestone Tires—Gum-Dipping, and Two Extra Cord Plys under the Tread?

You get these Extra Values—plus our Service and the DOUBLE GUARANTEE of Firestone and ourselves—at no more cost!

Drive in today.—We have sections cut from Firestone Tires, special-brand mail-order tires and others.—See the evidence.—Take nothing for granted.—Judge for Yourself.

LAURA LOU BROOKMAN Author of "MAD MARRIAGE"

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 Pretty Norma Kent, 20-year-old secretary in a law office, marries Mark Travers, son of F. M. Travers, millionaire real estate dealer.
 The father has sworn to cut off without a penny if the marriage takes place. Norma has known Mark only a few weeks,
 not know during the courtship
 that he was a millionaire's son.
 The story opens in Marlboro,
 a western metropolis. Chris Saunders, with whom Norma
 lives in an apartment, and Bradley
 Chris' employer, are witnesses
 at the wedding. Before this she has refused to marry Bob Bell, young lawyer of whom she had a friend.
 Mark sells his expensive roadster to get money for the honeymoon. He and Norma go to famous Blue Springs, where the young man takes delight in surrounding his bride with expensive gifts. He introduces her to Hol-Stone, an old friend, and it is here that the girl's discovery that she has known Stone for some reason she also likes him. She tries to confide in him but loses courage. One night
 he joins a card game and does not return until 3 a. m. He admits
 he has lost all his money. The young couple have only what is in Norma's purse. Next day they face
 the problem of getting enough
 money together to pay their hotel
 and return to Marlboro. Mark tells his mother and waits impatiently for a reply. Just before
 the following evening a bell
 hands him a message.

GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XIX
 Norma stepped from the elevator
 and searched the lobby with a glance. Cliff Halloran, in a suit, a bag of clubs slung
 over his shoulder, came toward
 her.
 "Good evening, Mrs. Travers.
 If my luck lasts I'm going to
 get up that husband of yours."
 The girl interrupted. "Have you seen Mark? I've been looking for him."
 Halloran shook his head. "Just seen. Haven't seen. There's a gang outside but I don't notice Mark among 'em.
 Where anything I can do for
 you?"
 Norma thanked him, said there
 was nothing. It wasn't important,
 she said. She was ready for dinner and Mark had come downstairs. Probably she'd find him
 on the mezzanine.
 Halloran nodded and moved
 toward the right which led to the main lounge. Several strangers were there writing but Mark was not in sight. She spoke to an attendant, returned downstairs.

Where could Mark be? She had supposed to join him in 15 minutes. Of course he was worried
 because the telegram had not come. It was this that made her nervous.
 The orchestra was playing a Cuban fox trot. Strains of the Cuban, seductive harmony led out into the lobby. A group
 of women in pastel frocks and men
 in dinner clothes was entering the dining room. Norma looked up at
 the wall clock and saw the minutes hand on the dial shift from eight to eight minutes until seven and back now.

She turned her back on the dining room and stepped through the
 doors leading to the street.
 A crowd Halloran had spoken of
 disappeared. Norma wore no evening wrap and a chill breeze blew the chiffon back from her shoulders.
 There was no one on the broad sidewalk which ran the width of the block. Norma walked to the end of the block and saw a dark figure looking down and saw a dark figure looking along the path.

"Mark!" she called. "Oh, Mark!"
 The figure stopped. It was too
 dark for her to see his features
 but of course it was Mark. She had known that walk anywhere. He hesitated, then came toward her.

Norma ran down the steps and into his arms. "I've been wondering what had become of you," she began. Then she met his eyes and the words broke off.
 He before he spoke the girl
 asked what had happened. "The telegram!" she exclaimed. "It's—

 it's come!"
 A crumpled bit of paper showed
 in Mark's clenched hand. So angry his face looked that he seemed scarcely to comprehend her
 words.
 "The old skinflint!" Mark was
 muttering. "The damned, miserly old cackroach! I'll get even for this—I'll show him if it's the last thing I do! He'll be sorry for this!"
 "Tell me what's happened,
 Mark."
 For the first time the young man
 seemed aware of what she was saying.

"You shouldn't be out here,
 Norma," he told her. It's cold.
 Look—you're shivering. You
 shouldn't have come out here with-
 out a wrap."
 "But I didn't know where you
 were. What is it, Mark? Is the telegram—I mean didn't the
 money come?"
 Swiftly, in half a dozen quick
 motions, Mark had torn the sheet
 of paper into bits. He flung them to the breeze. There was a hard, ugly line about his lips as he said,
 "So much for F. M. Travers and
 his lousy millions! I wish I knew how he got hold of that telegram
 I sent to Mother!"

His expression told the story.
 All arbitrary refusal of a loan
 from his father. Probably meaning references to the last meeting
 between Travers and his son. Blattant "I told you so." No wonder Mark's countenance was stormy.
 Norma sought his arm. Fearful-
 ly, sympathetically she raised her
 eyes to his.

"It doesn't matter," the girl
 said softly. "We'll find some other way, darling. We—we've each other."
 He was not listening. A sharp
 wind caught the fragile drapery
 of her bodice, barring her arm.
 "Here," Mark said roughly,
 "you can't stay outside any longer.
 You've got to get indoors!"

He half-led, half-pulled her up
 the steps and through the entrance
 of the Inn. A mirror showed how tangled and disheveled her hair
 had become. The girl caught the reflection and drew back.
 "I can't go into the dining
 room," she told him, "looking like
 this! I'll have to go upstairs and fix my hair. Will you wait here?
 It won't take five minutes."

Instead Mark said he would
 come with her. They crossed the
 lobby, and ascended to their rooms. Once there Mark slumped
 to a chair and sat staring at the floor. Norma glanced at him, decided against interrupting his
 mood and went to the mirror to
 repair her coiffure.

A few moments later she told
 him, "I'm ready now!"
 "You'd better go down and eat.
 I don't want anything."
 "Oh, Mark—you can't go without eating. You'll be ill! Come on.
 We can talk things over in the dining room. We'll find some other
 way to get the money."
 Her words set him off on a new
 tirade. He was like a small boy,
 petulant and willful. He would not
 eat. He broke into violent denunciations of his father. He got to his feet and stormed about the room
 like a caged animal. What business did his father have intercepting a telegram addressed to his mother? Someone was to blame
 for that and Mark would just like
 to get his hands on the guilty one.
 One of the servants, doubtless, set to watch and pry! What he wouldn't do if he could find out
 who had done it!

It required half an hour's coax-
 ing before Norma could persuade
 him to go to the dining room.
 Throughout the meal Mark sulked
 blackly. The girl had never seen him in such a mood. Instead she
 every attempt failed to cheer
 him and presently Norma gave up
 her efforts.

 Mark stopped at the check stand
 for his hat, announcing he was going out for a time. There was no
 invitation for Norma to accompany him. Just the announcement.
 "But Mark—?"
 "Oh, don't stand here and start arguing! All I said was that I'm going out. Nothing wrong about
 that, is there? There are plenty of
 people around you can talk to.
 Why don't you go in and dance?
 I won't be gone long."
 Pride kept her lips from trembling. She left him immediately
 but she did not go to the ball room on the mezzanine where the dancing was in progress. Instead she returned to their rooms, took off
 the chiffon dinner gown and hung
 it away. She got into the old blue
 negligee, curled up in her favorite
 chair and rested her head in her
 arms.

A dozen times she rehearsed the arguments. Mark didn't mean to be cross. She mustn't blame him.
 He would be back in a few minutes now, apologetic and with
 kisses to make up for every moment of unhappiness. Mark loved
 her and with that love nothing in
 the world could make any difference.
 It was all to happen very nearly as she had anticipated. Less
 than an hour after he had left her
 the door opened and Mark strode
 in.
 "Well, I got it!" he announced
 dramatically. Mark was not angry
 now. There was triumph in his voice.
 Norma sprang to her feet.
 "You've got—what?"
 "Five hundred berries! Enough
 to pay our bills and get back to Marlboro. Told you I'd get it.
 Didn't I? Well, it's here—right in
 the good old wallet!" He patted
 the left-hand pocket of his vest.
 "Five hundred berries!" he repeat-
 ed. "We're pulling out of her first
 thing in the morning!"
 "Oh, I'm so glad! I knew everything would come out all right,
 I threw her arms about his shoulders."

ACCOMMODATED

CLEVELAND, Sept. 9. — Earl Averill, crack centerfielder for the Cleveland Indians, is an accommodated fellow—especially to honey-moons. When advised that two young newlyweds in the grandstand were particularly anxious to see him blast out a home run, Averill walked to the plate and sent one soaring over the Lexington Avenue fence.

STONE INJURIES HER

ENDICOTT, N. Y., Sept. 9. — A small stone which fell from a truck caused severe injuries to Mrs. Elizabeth L. Miller, 65, of Washington, D. C. The stone bounded when it struck the pavement and crashed through the windshield of an automobile in which Mrs. Miller was riding. She suffered from several deep cuts.

CONSCIENCE WORRIED HIM

CANBY, Oct. 9. — Seven years is long enough to endure a troubled conscience. "A Friend" explained in a letter accompanying a silver watch he returned to a local furniture dealer. The writer explained he had taken the watch in 1924.
 He asked only forgiveness.

Colony Draws Many Farmers

ROME, Sept. 10.—Italy is colonizing her North African possessions by means of offering concessions of land to farmers from the home country on terms calculated to attract them.

The policy has been fairly successful, though much remains to be done in Tripolitania. Progress in this colony is revealed from the figures just issued.

At the end of 1932, there were only 3,612 hectares of land in Tripolitania under cultivation by concessionaires, while at the end of 1930 the figure was 122,031 hectares.

The concessionaires at present number 744 families, composed of 2,114 persons. The colonists in Tripolitania own 744 buildings apart from cattle-sheds, barns, etc. These houses contain 3,182 rooms.

Tripolitania has 6,796 head of cattle, 825 water wells, capable of supplying 5,033 cubic meters of water per hour.

There also are nearly a million olive trees, 11,000,000 vines, over half a million almond trees, and 232,000 mulberry trees.
