C. L. Hannegan Has Ideal Country Home

The Editor and wife enjoyed the afternoon Sunday, at the country home of C. L. Hannegan. Mr. and Mrs. Hannegan live on the K. K. Smith farm, one of the best improved places in this part of West Texas. This farm consists of 320 acres of the wonderful shallow water land, 160 acres is under irrigation and has one of the finest fields of oats in the country. On this field were grazing, something like 200 hogs this was a very pleasing sight.

Mr. Hannegan has one of the finest pump plants in the valley and a wonderful well of water. The farm house is absolutely modern beautiful trees and a fine orchard. You will find many such farms around Muleshoe.

Mistakes At Different Values In Trades

When the plumber makes a mistake he charges for it. When a lawyer makes a mistake it is just what he wanted, because he has a chance to try the case all over again. When a carpenter makes a mistake it's just what he expected. When a doctor makes a mistake he buries it. When a judge makes a mistake it becomes the law of the land. When a preacher makes a mistake nobody knows the difference. But when a printer makes a mistake—Good night!—Inland Printer.

James Johnson and wife, E. J. Vance and wife, left Sunday for Red Land, N. M., to inspect land from there they go to El Paso for a few days and will return to Muleshoe the last of this week.

The Roubinek Orchestra played with the Clovis Orchestra last week for the Wichita Booster Ball at Clovis. The Roubinek boys are talented musicians and very popular in this part of the state.

Chamber Will Hold Called Meet Tuesday

The Chamber of Commerce will meet Tuesday night in a called meeting to consider some important matters. A full attendance is expected and especially the board of directors. All committees are urged to come with completed reports.

At Tuesday's meeting of the directors and a good number of members, reports were heard from various committees and much new business was lined up. The Chamber has some fine work going on, which will be given to the public in a short time.

The future of our city is truly looking bright at this time. Some of the boys have suggested a slogan for the city, "Be a Booster or Beat It."

Every one is welcome at these meetings and the members are urged to be present.

Muleshoe Wins By Big Score From Sudan

On Sunday afternoon, May 3, the city of Muleshoe was shouting victory when the Junior boys of Sudan came over and played a hard fought base ball game with our fast Junior team and lost to the Muleshoe boys by a score of 29 to 7. Muleshoe's notorious Junior pitcher, Fred Moore and hard batting "Skinny" the catcher played the battery wonderfully with some excellent backing from all of the other players and there was very few errors made by these base ball fans compared to the size of all of the Muleshoe players. Fred Moore pitched the entire nine endings while Sudan used four different pitchers. The Sudan Junior boys kept up good spirits and fought hard to the last proving themselves real sports and a hard fighting nine, but the Muleshoe Junior nine were too much for them from every standpoint.

The game was set for 2:00 o'clock but owing to the fact that the Sudan team had some car trouble the game was not started until about four. There were many spectators there to witness the big game and enjoyed by all, because both teams showed genuine sportsmanship and the Muleshoe boys played some real base ball who will be real material some day and Muleshoe will be proud of these Stars. The boys have a game matched for today (Friday) at Sudan and we are expecting to see the boys "bring home the bacon."

Special chicken dinner Sunday May 10th, at Hotel James.

Fats and Leans Fight Hard Battle

Last Friday afternoon the fat and lean men of the city played game of base ball at the ball park for the benefit of the Methodist and Baptist churches. $37.69 was cleared for each of the churches. The score was 22 to 21 in favor of the fats. A. B. Crane of Farwell, came down and umpired the game. There was one of the largest crowds that has ever attended a game this season. And the spirit of co-operation could be seen all over the crowd.

Mrs. L. S. Barron Entertains Civic Club

The Civic League met with Mrs. L. S. Barron in regular session May 4, with the President and fourteen members present. The organization voted to raise the pay of the man removing the trash of the "clean-up" campaign from $6 to $10, in as much as that he had worked six days and not through. It was also unanimously voted to give a ball game to replenish the funds of the League. Mr. Winn and D. O. Smith were appointed as coaches of the game and Mesdames Daniel, Winn and Hart to make all other arrangements necessary. The game is to be played May 16, by the ladies of the Civic League.

Mrs. Arthur Milligan made a very interesting talk on federating the club after which it was voted that the Civic League take steps to become an affiliated organization.

Mrs. Milligan was appointed to make talks in communities of the county on club work in an effort to induce others to organize clubs and become affiliated also.

The next meeting is to be held with Mrs. A. V. McCarty Jr., on May 11, when some offices now vacant, are to be filled. The president requests that all members be present on this occasion.

Tuesday night about nine o'clock the good old sky juice began to fall and continued off and on thru the night. The weather man measured up Wednesday morning early and found we had one inch of rain. This is not as much as we would like to have, but it was enough to put a broad smile on the face of every man, woman and child in this part of the state.

The moisture came just at planting time. Most of the farmers that have old land are ready to plant. People wanting to break sod are going to work early and late to take advantage of the moisture. Thousands of acres of new land will be put in.

Before we go to press we would not be surprised to see it pour down again as the sky is a solid mass of clouds.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale
BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

COCKLES OF THE HEART

The old clock, standing so tall in the wide hall, struck.

"You'd Better Go Up"

- One.
- Two.
- Three.
- Four.
- Five.
- Six.
- Seven.
- Eight.
- Nine.
- Ten.
- Eleven.
- Twelve.

It was midnight. Everything in the house was very quiet. Tip, tip, tip-toe, very very quietly along went the Cockles of the Heart and settled themselves before the warm ashes and a few remaining bright coals in the old fireplace.

They sat all around the fireplace, every one of them, and there were many of them.

"Shall we call her?" they said to each other.

"Yes, we might as well," they said. "No one has ever really known about us," said some of them.

"Well, we won't tell the way we began," the rest of them added.

"Yes, let us call her," they agreed.

"You'd better go up and fetch her down here. It will be cold in her room. She has the window open. Good and healthful for sleeping but a bit chilly for sitting by quite so early in the summer."

It was a very big Cockle who spoke to a very little Cockle.

The little Cockle stood up and started to go upstairs. The Cockles were dressed in little shell suits which made them look like little sea mollusks or mussels or shellfish as far as their costumes of shell were concerned. Their happy little faces were wrinkled up into funny little smiles and they all looked so dear and funny and jolly and lovable that if you had seen them you couldn't have helped but love them.

The little Cockles seemed to know the room. Opening the door gently, spoke:

"Maggie," he whispered, "come on stairs to the fire."

Maggie, as you know, is not spending too much time in bed. And she loves an open fire, so the very moment the little Cockle spoke Maggie was up and ready. She is too, you know, rather a light sleeper.

The Cockle took her by the hand and led her downstairs where she sat in the center of the circle of Cockles.

"We've heard that you wondered about the Cockles of the Heart," they said. "We belong to that family. We can't tell you how we began and when first we were spoken about or anything about our origin for that is a great secret and no one has ever been able to discover the answer."

"But we are going to introduce you to some of the family. We warm the innermost parts of people's hearts. We sit by fires late at night and we store up lots of warmth of the fire and we also carry away little packages of pleasant, loving family thoughts and speeches which have been left by members of a family before they have gone to bed."

"These we take about and give them to others to scatter. When people do kind things and say kind things that they really and truly mean and when those who have heard them, say:

"Ah, what they said and what they did has warmed the cockles of my heart," they have received some of our warmth. We only scatter our warm, loving, kindly, happy sincere gifts to those who want to really touch the innermost parts of their loved ones' hearts.

"We wear our suits of hard shell for those who don't mean what they say can't receive anything from us—they cannot have our real warmth."

"You love to speak of the cockles of your heart so we came to see you. Your mother warms the cockles of your heart by the beautiful, unselfish, thoughtful loving things she does. You warm the cockles of the hearts of your family by the sweet love you show them."

"That's why we came to call on you. But we must be off now. We're busy, we're thankful to say."

And as Maggie started up to her room the Cockles all walked straight up the chimney, forming the shape of a huge heart and waving to her as they, each, disappeared.

What Moses Did

"Now, Charles," said the Sunday school teacher, "can you tell me one of the remarkable things Moses did?"
"Yes, ma'am," replied the bright youth. "He broke all the Commandments at the same time."

Of all sports, that of flying to the North pole has the shortest season.

The brush fire season has opened; watch the bonfires and step on the stubs.

We trust that national economy does not involve a cheaper grade of officials.

We always suspect that the person who jeers at cross-word puzzles tried and failed.

Even longer days are none too long for persons who keep busy and have work to do.

It takes about eight months of the good old winter time to make a person appreciate the good old summer time.

Paris has gone in now for skirts above the knees. The age is showing no compassion on the bowlegged girls.

There is an opinion here and there that the report that the country was to be flooded with silver dollars wasn't true.

"What does a modern girl really want?" is a question propounded. Most everything, we should say off-hand.

Slays Wounded Brother After He Shot Himself

Leicester, England.—An extraordinary tragedy, reviving the question of justification in the taking of life under special circumstances, occurred in the vicarage of Hungerton, Leicestershire.

The vicar, Rev. William Bettison, after celebrating communion, returned to his study, from which shortly came the sound of a shot. The vicar's sister, Miss Bettison, who, with her brother and a housekeeper were the only occupants of the vicarage, went to the study and found her brother lying on the floor. A sporting rifle was beside him, and there was a wound in his head.

Miss Bettison went to the post office and telephoned a doctor who lived four miles distant. She then returned to the vicarage and re-entered the study, refusing to permit anyone else to come in.

A little later another shot was heard inside the study and Miss Bettison came out. "I asked him if he would live, and he did not reply," she said. "I saw he was dying in agony, so I shot him to put him out of his pain."

Miss Bettison was arrested. Later, after an examination, she was declared insane and taken to an asylum.

GIRL FOUND DEAD BESIDE HER VIOLIN

Charms With Music Before Tragedy Ends Life.

New York.—While Helen Quinlin played the violin in her furnished room on the top floor at No. 122 West Seventy-eighth street, other lodgers gathered in the hall and listened. They agreed that Helen, who was twenty-two, possessed great talent. It was unfortunate that she should have to work for a living as stenographer in the offices of a biscuit company. Still, she had been in the city only four months, and perhaps her opportunity would come in time.

Helen's playing ceased. The hallway audience waited a while and dispersed after agreeing there was a great future in store for her.

Next morning Allie Crutcher, the maid, was almost overcome by gas when she opened the door of Miss Quinlin's room. The maid called Mrs. Mary Hickey, proprietress, who summoned others. They found Helen dead on her bed, her violin at her side. Gas was pouring from a tube disconnected from a small stove. How it became disconnected is not known.

Fete Reformed Criminal on Return to Home

Minneapolis.—A man who, as a confessed criminal and an undesirable, left Minneapolis 32 years ago by order of the police, recently returned, a convert to Christianity and a leader in welfare and criminal rehabilitation work. He is John Callahan, superintendent of Hadley Rescue hall, New York, and chaplain of the Tombs prison.

Driven from this city in its infant days as a convict, "too crooked to tend bar" and as a confessed thief, Callahan, on his return, found Minneapolis paying homage to him in almost unprecedented manner. He passed one week here, and was swamped with visits and messages from Minneapolis' leading men and women.

Callahan spoke before many of the leading local civic, business and church clubs in addition to innumerable other gatherings.

"Faith in the Bible," Callahan told his audience, "made me good and kept me good."

He still carries the same little copy of the New Testament given him the night of his conversion.

Old Man, Angered by Argument, Drowns Baby

Vienna.—After an argument over a sum equivalent to $7, Carl Ziedler, a pensioner, aged seventy-three, took his landlord's eighteen-months-old daughter to a bridge over the Danube, flung the baby to her death in the river and then gave himself up to the police. Investigation of Ziedler's record showed that he had once been condemned to death, the sentence being commuted to 25 year's imprisonment, which he served. On another occasion he was given a short sentence for manslaughter.

Asleep; Pulls Tooth

Gravesend, Cal.—F. N. Jackson, auctioneer, had a dream recently in the course of which he played dentist. During the night he imagined that a nut was caught between his upper and lower jaws while he was cracking it. After a strenuous pull he managed to remove it. When he awoke he discovered he had pulled out a large molar which had been aching.

Truck Runs Wild

Boston.—Ladderman Walter Glynn was seriously injured when fire ladder truck No. 1 became unmanageable, demolished a parked automobile and crashed through the plate glass window of a lunchroom. The rear steering gear of the motor truck snapped, causing the big fire apparatus to run wild.

THINKS HIS BRIDE IS POOR BARGAIN SO HE DROPS OUT

Thomas Didn't Like Her Cooking, Her Kisses or Her Conversation.

Chicago.—"My husband's leaving me. He says he thinks I'm a poor bargain. He doesn't like my cooking. He doesn't like my kisses. He doesn't like my conversation. In fact, he says he doesn't like anything about me."

Mrs. Nellie Thomas, who gave an address in Canal street, bride of one week, stood before Judge Morgan of the Court of Domestic Relations and wept bitter tears. She was pretty; her voice was sweet, and she didn't look incapable.

"I'm really quite nice," the little bride said. "I didn't take domestic science in school, but I can cook ordinary things, and—well—before we were married—the two weeks I knew him—he seemed to think my kisses and conversation were all right. I don't see why a husband should go off and leave me."

"You Must Arrest Him."

Couldn't Help Her.

"You look like a nice little lady," Judge Morgan said. "But I can't issue a warrant for your husband. He's only been away from home a couple of days, and he has paid all your bills."

"But, judge, you must arrest him. I've got two policemen holding him down at one of the banks where he went to draw out his money," the bride pleaded. "I've just married him, and I like him, and I don't want him to go away. Maybe he'd like me better in another week if I could make him come back."

"The only thing I can issue a warrant for is non-support," the judge said, "and as yet your husband isn't guilty of that. But I'll tell you what to do. Go down to the bank and try and persuade your husband to come up and talk it over with me. I'll see if I can get him to go back to you."

The bride said she'd try, and left for the bank, where two policemen were holding her husband pending issuance of the warrant—that could not, under the law, be issued.

Magyar Pianist Claims

Descent From Columbus

Nutra, Hungary.—Rudolf Columbus, a piano player employed at a local restaurant bar, claims to be a direct descendant of Christopher Columbus.

Rudolf's father in 1910 read in a Vienna paper that the heirs of the great explorer were called upon by the Spanish government to make known any claims upon certain estates left by Christopher.

Convinced from the traditions of his family that he was a direct lineal descendant, he began to trace the family tree. This required much money, however, and searching of official records in Portugal, Spain and Austria-Hungary, and he died without accomplishing his purpose.

Rudolf has now announced that he will continue where his father left off, and will lay claim to the fortunes of the house of Columbus-Veragua in Spain.

First Aid for Lovers

Hutchinson, Kan.—Dr. H. L. Gleckler, pastor of the First Methodist church, has established a sort of first aid station for the young folks of his church.

Each young man has been asked to file, in confidence, a questionnaire giving the description of the kind of girl he would like to marry. Each young woman files a similar questionnaire. Young folks answering the descriptions are listed.

As Floyd Collins

Baineshoro, Pa.—Thirteen-year-old Frank Grankowsky lost his life while playing "Collins-in-the-cave." The boy was caught under a heavy fall of rock and dirt in an abandoned mine to which he had led some companions on an "exploration" trip. The companions escaped and summoned aid. Rescuers dug for several hours before the crushed body was recovered.

Boy Carries Three From Flaming House

Conneaut, Ohio.—Leroy Crandall, nine, of East Conneaut, was hailed as a hero.

When his mother, Mrs. B. H. Crandall, came to the city, she left Leroy in charge of the home and of his sister, Viola, six, and his twin brothers, Lloyd and Floyd, three.

Upon reaching here, Mrs. Crandall telephoned Leroy and was told the children are "having lots of fun." Next Mrs. Crandall heard a scream.

"The whole kitchen is on fire," came next as the receiver dropped from Leroy's hand.

Rushing to her home in an automobile, Mrs. Crandall found that Leroy had carried the younger children to safety, pulled down and trampled clothing which caught fire behind a kitchen stove and was throwing water on the blazing wood box.

"I was scared but I wanted to help all I could," the boy said.

YOUTH FLYING KITE IS KILLED BY WIRE

Burned to Death When It Crosses Electric Line.

Tampa, Fla.—His efforts to produce a kite superior to that of any of his playmates cost the life of Benjamin Guy Little, eleven years old.

Benny appeared before his playmates one morning with a kite which he told them was the "last word" in kite making. To his kite, Benny had attached a copper wire.

As Benny's kite mounted toward the clouds about noon a strong puff of wind carried the kite over some wires. The wire on Benny's kite touched a high-tension electric wire. One flash, and Benny's clothing was ablaze, the grass around him was burning and Benny's mates were fleeing. His body was badly burned. He was rushed to a hospital, but efforts to save his life were futile.

Dies of Starvation as Father Seeks Work

New York.—Firmo Cellegrino, a blacksmith out of work since Christmas, visited the Fifth street police station recently on an unusual errand. He asked the desk sergeant if the city would not provide free burial for George, one of the Cellegrino twins, three days old. George died at Bellevue, where physicians said death was due to the mother having been undernourished.

Cellegrino was perplexed. It was the other twin, Tello, who had been ill. The twins were born prematurely. When Tello was ailing they took both babies to the hospital. The father went to inquire for Tello and was informed that he was still ailing and that George had died.

What makes the case still more difficult for Cellegrino is that there is another baby, Giuseppe, nine months old, at home and nothing in the cupboard. Mrs. Georgiana Cellegrino, the mother, is in bed, suffering from lack of food and grief over the death of little George.

Meanwhile there is the burial to attend to. Tello may die any moment. Giuseppe hasn't any food. Cellegrino is a willing worker, and if there is a job available says he would appreciate the opportunity to earn enough for those surviving and to bury George.

Mad Tiger Kills Trainer; Killed in Audience Leap

Manila.—Crashing through the steel bars that separated it from the girl performer who was putting the animal through its tricks, a circus tiger at a Manila carnival show instantly killed the young woman.

A quick-minded Filipino detective in the audience shot and killed the blood-maddened jungle beast, just as it was leaping from the stage on which it had ended the girl's life into the midst of the crowded seats encircling the ring-side.

So quickly did the killing occur that circus employees had no opportunity to come to the girl's rescue.

The shot felled the tiger as it hurtled through the air toward the audience and quelled the panic which had started.

Grabs Rope in Midair
After Fall Out of Window

Lawton, Okla.—B. F. Moore, a carpenter working on the new hospital building at Fort Sill, Okla., qualified as a movie stunt performer. While he was working on the second story of the building he lost his balance and fell backward out of a window. As he fell he grasped a rope which ran through a pulley at the top of the building. The other end of the rope struck him in the face as he descended. He was also successful in grabbing the loose rope, retarding his rapid descent, stopping just as his feet reached the ground. Aside from minor injuries to his face he was unhurt.

Lost With Barge

 Of all the calamities that has ever happened the worst one that has ever been heard of occurred Tuesday morning as Therman Glasscock was rushing to school with a truck load of pupils. Hearing something like a casing going down, Therman stopped and looked to see if what he thought he heard was true. To his disappointment one of the back casings was as flat he said as his head.

 The Methodist Epworth League gave a very interesting program last Sunday night. Each of the four delegates who went to Ralls gave a very interesting talk about the trip. Mr. Barfield gave a talk entitled, "The Trip," Miss Helen Carles on "How We Measure Up To the Standard With Other Leagues," Jessie West on "The Social Part of the Trip," and Miss Huke on "Down the River." Let's have some more peppy talks for they evidently had their intended effect because we had five new members added to our roll.
 Some Explosion
 Rufus: Say kid, did you hear about the explosion at the Post Office yesterday?
 Agnes: Explosion!
 Rufus: Yea, a letter went off, Miss O'Carpen: Sherman where is the North pole?

 Agnes: Oh! he had company. (Fred making an unusually good grade in history.)
 Teacher: Fred did you do this?
 Fred: (Vero proudly) "yes."
 Teacher: Now Fred I know your ability and I know you did not do all of it, now didn't your brother write part of it?
 Fred: No Mam, he wrote it all.
 Sherman: Mother I was the only one who made an A in history today and the teacher gave me an apple as a prize.
 Mother: Well, I suppose you said Thank you?
 Sherman: No mother, we aren't allowed to talk back to the teacher.

The Santa Fe Creed

President Storey says that teamwork, courtesy, and co-operation form the Santa Fe creed. Regional Advisory Boards are an example of co-operation. Every one benefits when the transportation machine works smoothly.

Community of interest of the railroads, their patrons, and the public is generally recognized without argument.
 A fine spirit of co-operation has resulted and has become an invaluable aid in rendering transportation service.
 One outstanding example of co-operation is the Shippers' Regional Advisory Boards, eleven in number. They are voluntary organizations of shippers, representing production, distribution, consumption, and credit as related to transportation.
 Each board has separate commodity committees dealing with each important commodity.
 Railroads are not represented on these boards, but do have separate committees of their own which co-operate with the commodity committees.
 These boards consider, analyze, and solve many transportation problems. Through them railroads learn shippers' needs in advance and are enabled to distribute cars to care best for such needs.
 Shippers learn the necessity of prompt loading, unloading, cleaning, and release of cars, and the importance of giving advance notice of their requirements.
 Friendly conferences around the table have been very helpful. All parties have profited thereby.
 Car loadings in 1923 and 1924 broke all records, yet the railroads moved the traffic offered without car shortage or delay.
 There was no magic or mystery about this record-breaking performance. Available facilities were used to the best advantage by railroads and shippers. Plain common sense was applied in a co-operative spirit to solving a difficult problem.
 Such co-operation made it possible to have the products of forests, mines, manufactures, and agriculture delivered without delay at reasonable cost.
 Everyone benefits when the transportation machine functions smoothly and without friction.

AILMENTS OF YOUNG GIRLS

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound School Teacher's Experience

Evanston, Wyoming.—"A few years ago I had troubles every month such as girls often have, and would suffer awfully every time. I was teaching school and it made it hard for me as I had to go to bed for two or three days. One day my mother suggested that I take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it did wonders for me.

In the course of a year I married and after my first baby was born I got up too soon and it caused a displacement. This troubled me so that I could hardly walk or do my housework. I knew what the Vegetable Compound did for me before so I took it again. It strengthened me and now I have five little kiddies. The eldest is six, the baby is five months old and I have twin boys three years old and a boy of five years. I do all my own housework, washing and ironing, and I never felt better in my life. I owe my health to your wonderful medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."—Mrs. VERBENA CARPENTER, 127 2nd Avenue, Evanston, Wyoming.

SOAP AND WATER NEEDED FOR CLEANING

Pipe Rigged Up in Kitchen of Virginia Farm Home Insures Abundant Supply of Hot Water.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Plenty of soap and water are of course taken for granted in connection with any cleaning work. At the same time it is true that in rural homes there is not always an adequate water system; either from a failure to realize the importance of an abundant supply of water piped through the house, and a good drainage system for carrying away waste—or because of an idea that a water system would cost too much, a very large number of farm housewives do not have this essential convenience. There are a number of simple, inexpensive water systems possible to the farm home, and anyone interested can get information about them by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture.

Hot water helps to loosen dirt and is a great satisfaction for many household purposes, but for cleaning it is more likely to injure finishes and fabrics than lukewarm or cold water.

STOVE MOP USEFUL IN CLEANING STOVE

Device Is Quite Convenient and Saves Hands.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The outside of all stoves should be wiped frequently with a cloth, soft paper, or cotton waste. Grease may be washed off with soap and water. Rubbing the stove with a soft, thick cloth moistened with a few drops of kerosene or light lubricating oil will keep it in good condition, though not polished. For cookstoves especially, many housekeepers consider this sufficient and prefer it to blacking, because substances spilled can be more easily washed off, and flatirons and the bottoms of kettles are cleaner than if stove polish is carelessly used. The stove mop illustrated is very convenient and saves the housekeeper's hands.

Stove Mop Makes Cleaning Easy.

It was made from an old butter paddle and a small piece of sheepskin by a woman in Wythe county, Virginia, as one of the many ingenious improvements in her kitchen, entered in the county "better-kitchen" contest. The photograph was taken by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Nickel trimmings on stoves should be cleaned like other nickel by washing them frequently with hot soapy water and drying them with soft cloth or paper which will usually keep them in good condition. Whiting or some other fine scourer may sometimes be used to brighten nickel that has become dull.

Water should not be allowed to stand on floors or woodwork nor to get into cracks or seams; it should be used very sparingly and in most cases wiped off at once.

Soap solutions are useful for making suds quickly. They clean more evenly and safely than cake soap. A quantity may be made at a time, and bits of soap may be used in this way. The proportion is one pound of soap to three quarts of water, heated slowly until the soap is dissolved. Flaked and chipped soaps dissolve more quickly than cake soap. Hard cake soap may be chipped at home by being rubbed over a grater.

Soap may be made at home from lye and waste fat, and the directions given on the lye container will generally be found satisfactory. Homemade soaps, however, are likely to contain free alkali, and should be used with caution, especially on delicate and colored fabrics, and on paint, varnish or other finishes.

Coal and wood stoves should be cleaned inside frequently and thoroughly, in order to save heat and fuel. Ashes should be removed every day, and once a week the soot should be brushed from the bottom of the flues. All flues should be cleaned regularly, especially those under and on top of the oven, through which hot air must circulate to heat it.

When the burners on gas stoves become clogged, they should be taken out, brushed, placed in a large pan, and boiled in water to which washing soda has been added in the proportion of one-half pound to one gallon, rinsed and brushed, wiped with paper or cotton waste, fitted back in the stove, and dried thoroughly by lighting the gas. The tray under the burners should be removed and washed frequently.

The burners and chimneys on oil or other liquid-fuel stoves should be kept in order in the same way as kerosene lamps. In most makes the burners are detachable, and when they become clogged may be cleaned like those on gas stoves.

The heating elements on electric stoves may be cleaned with water and a soft brush. Any particles burned to char may be brushed out.

Cleaning Materials Are Most Needed in Spring

Even for housecleaning on a small scale several kinds of cleaning materials are needed to put things in ship-shape. Farmers' Bulletin 1180 of the United States Department of Agriculture describes them all in detail, but the following are the most important:

Neutral soap, that is, one with no free alkali, and plenty of hot water are the most useful of all dirt chasers, or detergents. In this connection it is well to remember that a soap solution makes suds more quickly and cleans more evenly and safely than soap in cake. It especially pays to use up small pieces of soap in this way.

A stronger detergent such as ammonia, borax, or sal-soda (washing soda), is generally needed for loosening the dirt that soap and water will not remove. These alkalis, however, are likely to be injurious to colors and finishes and must be applied with caution.

A scourer, or abrasive, is also indispensable in housecleaning. For rubbing up silver, nickel, and other soft polished metals, fine whiting (paris white) or rouge should be provided, while for zinc, iron, steel, and aluminum, a harsher material, such as bath brick or steel wool, is more satisfactory.

A bleaching agent of some sort is generally needed for taking iron rust stains from the white-enameled bathtub and lavatory or from some wood surfaces. Oxalic acid is good for this purpose.

A furniture polish for restoring the luster to furniture and woodwork is also necessary. A simple kind that gives satisfactory results can be made at home by mixing 1 part raw linseed oil with 2 parts turpentine and adding a little melted beeswax, if desired.

CHARMING SPORTS SWEATER; WIDE BRIMS ARE POPULAR

WITH the scene all set of green fields, clear running streams, inviting equestrian paths, apple blossoms and sunshine overhead, violets and crocus beneath, springtime keeps calling "Come out into the great outdoors," adding a precautionary word, "but do not forget your sweater." Not that the true sportswoman need be reminded of the importance of her sweater. It enters as essentially into the planning of her fresh air campaign as does tennis racket, golf ball and fishing rod.

In regard to the ideal sports sweater fashion says "it must denote smartdour blue. Gray is also written boldly on fashion's ledger.

Rumor becomes fact as far as the larger hat is concerned. No longer is the little chapeau to hold undisputed sway in the realm of fashion. The wide brim has arrived and claims right to share in the millinery honors of the day.

The popular broad brim at the moment is wider at the sides than the front and back, sometimes the back having no brim at all. These almost give the impression of a bonnet, wide of brim and tall of crown. As summer advances big picturesque shapes ness"; commonsense cautions "it must be practical"—and that exactly describes the regulation sports sweater model for spring and summer 1925 as illustrated in the picture herewith. Note how perfectly this little fisher-maid is appareled in snugly tailored sweater knitted of alpaca, with knickers and woolen hose fashioned correctly even to the minutest detail. Printer's ink falls short of conveying the charming sunset brown called "Iariat" in styledom's dictionary, which is the color of sweater and hose, for, nowadays, to be in fashion, stockings must match the knitted jacket. Well might the four roomy pockets of which this sweater boasts excite the envy of of every type will be worn with chiffon and lace frocks. These will be in exquisite pastel shades. The favorite for immediate wear is the bangkok shape.

An item of very special interest is that they are trimming these bangkok shapes with velvet, either yardage-cut or velvet ribbon; also bright-colored facings are in use. One notes many of the wider straw or bangkok brims are velvet bound.

Fuchsia and magenta are leading millinery shades. Many of the large roses which trim the big pokes now so fashionable indicate this color trend. Silken roses of this shade, with decorative stems and foliage, beautify the average small boy who knows how necessary are pockets to one's convenience when en route on a day's or week-end's outing.

Having acquired a proper regulation sports sweater, such as described, one's fancy lightly turns to sweaters of more fanciful mood, for 'tis the manner of our modern knitted outerwear designers to tempt the woman of fashion with "a sweater for every occasion."

The newest type among sweaters is the jabot sillon. This consists of an exquisitely knit sweater either of silk or light wool with a cascade or jabot of self construction draped from neck to hem at one side of the front.

Art silk jumpers embroidered in contrasting color or self shade present themselves in alluring new colors, chief among which is madonna, and poppa-

The new large poke effect is defined in that youthful model above to the left in this picture. The crushed sash about the crown is of wide silver ribbon.

The short-back of present favor is defined in the chapeau above to the right. An ostrich fancy trims it effectively.

When summer comes, the picturesque lacy tuscan straw body hat which concludes this group of "wide brims" will be in its glory, for it registers as the type of millinery forecast to accompany sheer dainty frocks.

Considerable interest centers in beige hair hats for ensuing months.

FEEDING LAMBS ON SILAGE-HAY RATION

That silage can be used advantageously in the feeding of lambs, when it is not depended on entirely, has been shown by the animal husbandry department of the college in the feeding of a carload of lambs that topped the Kansas City market. Silage also decreases the cost of gains. The lambs sold for $17.25 per hundred.

These lambs were divided into six lots, according to Prof. H. E. Reed of the animal husbandry department of the Kansas State Agricultural college, who had the feeding under supervision. The first lot was fed on alfalfa and shelled corn with one-sixth pound of cottonseed meal. The second lot was fed on silage in place of alfalfa, shelled corn, and one-third pound of cottonseed meal. A third lot was fed on silage, three-fourths pound of alfalfa, corn, and one-sixth pound of cottonseed meal.

Another lot was fed for 20 days the same as lot two and for 40 days the ration given lot three. One lot was fed as lot two for 30 days and as lot three for 30 days. The last lot was fed the lot two ration for 40 days and for 20 days the lot three ration.

The aim of the experiment was to determine some substitute for alfalfa and also to find out just how completely the substitute could replace alfalfa in the ration. Almost any leguminous hay can be substituted, but such hay cannot always be raised. The experiment indicated, according to Professor Reed, that silage can be used very advantageously but where it is used to the total exclusion of alfalfa or any other hay it is difficult to keep the lambs on feed.

Pushing Lambs for May Market Is Proper Plan

Marketing lambs early not only gets them out of the way ahead of the dry, hot weather, scarce pasture and stomach worms, but also brings the seller a big market price.

Kansas lambs put on the market should be fat and in prime condition. If they are underfed and in poor killing condition they are likely to sell for one half or less than the fat ones will bring. Kansas farmers have no business trying to sell lambs in feeder lamb condition. It is seldom that the same man tries that more than once.

In order that spring lambs may be in good killing condition and weighing 65 to 75 pounds as soon after the middle of May as possible it is necessary that they get a good start. For the first week or ten days it is up to the ewe to feed the lambs. The suckling ewe is a heavy milk producer and needs to be abundantly fed of the right kind of feeds just as does the heavy milk-producing cow.

Ensilage is a good roughage. This succulent feed is very beneficial in late winter or early spring when other roughage is dry. Alfalfa, clover, or soy-bean hay makes an excellent combination with ensilage. The dry roughage feeds are economically utilized in combination with a succulent feed and a legume. Even though the grain feeds are high-priced now, they are not too high-priced to feed to the suckling ewe and lambs. With lambs quoted around the $17 price, it is doubtful if a more profitable method can be found of disposing of these gains than by feeding it to the suckling ewe or to the lambs direct in a creep. Corn, oats and barley are all good feeds and may be considered as the basis for all practical rations.

Nursing Large Litters

Very large litters can often be successfully nursed by nursing them in two shifts alternately an hour apart for the first two days, two hours apart thereafter for about five days, and three hours apart after that until about six or seven weeks old, when the strongest pigs can be weaned and the remainder left with the sow two to four weeks longer. This would only pay with a litter of valuable pigs or possibly in "ton litter" production.

Live Stock Notes

Emphasize the use of pure bred sires. Provide lambing pens four feet by five feet for ewes at lambing time. Push lambs with a little extra feed, and take advantage of the high markets.

A chilled lamb may often be revived by immersing its body in a pail of water as warm as the hand can be kept in comfortably.

A small quantity of rutabagas will do no harm to the pigs, but they will be more valuable for the cows.

A wood lot is often the most valuable acre on the farm; and the farm garden can beat all outdoors for gross yield and net profit if it is managed with skill.

Better breeding and better feeding would soon bring about more prosperous conditions on those farms that adopt the slogan, "Pure bred live stock on our farm."

DAIRY

DAIRY FEEDS MUST BE DIGESTIBLE

It is not what a cow eats, but what she digests that counts. You might feed a cow wood, as chemical analysis shows that wood has a high percentage of carbohydrates, but this does not do the cow any good because she cannot digest it. Protein is found abundantly in tankage, feathers and other substances, but these substances are not fitted to the cow's digestive system and are, therefore, useless as a dairy ration, points out B. E. Goodale, associate professor of dairying, at Clemson College.

Take corn for example, a cow will digest 75 pounds out of every 100 pounds of corn, but only 33 pounds out of 100 pounds of cottonseed hulls. That means that 67 per cent of the cottonseed hulls fed to a cow is wasted. These figures also vary according to the different nutrients. Of the protein in oat hulls, only 50 per cent is digestible, while in linseed meal, cottonseed meal, and gluten feed, 85 to 80 per cent of the protein will be digested by the cow.

This all goes to show, says Mr. Goodale, that the crude analysis that you will find printed on the tags attached to feed bags may be misleading. A cow can't read a tag and she is the one that has to digest the feed. It is, therefore, up to you to supply her with the right kind of materials to keep her machine working at maximum efficiency.

It stands to reason that the more a cow digests, the more she can produce in the way of milk, so it is up to us to find out how we can help the cow digest her feed and what kind of feed provide the materials needed for milk.

Nearly everyone knows that a ration should be bulky so that it is sure to go into the first stomach and be re-chewed as cud.

Then a feed must be palatable. You wouldn't eat a very big meal if you sat down to a pot of cold, boiled potatoes, without salt or butter, but if you sat down to a nice juicy steak with appetizing gravy, sauces, vegetables, and desserts, you would eat a hearty meal.

It is just the same with a cow. She digests a palatable feed much better than one she doesn't relish. This is an important point, because the milk flow depends largely upon the quantity of feed eaten. The average cow needs about sixteen pounds of digestible nutrients a day, to maintain her body and produce three and one-half gallons of milk. Half of this sixteen pounds goes for body maintenance and half for milk.

If a cow doesn't like her feed, she will consume less and the digestive juices are held back. Palatability is a big aid to digestion.

Heifer on Thin Pasture Needs Supply of Grain

Herds of cattle, some handled in the right way and some handled in the wrong way, have been noticed by L. V. Wilson of the division of dairy husbandry at University farm, St. Paul, Minn., in visiting farms in the vicinity of the twin cities recently.

The young cattle in some of these herds, says Mr. Wilson, are turned out on the theory that they will pick up on pasture and look pretty good in a few weeks. Their owners fail to realize that while they are "picking up" their growth is really being retarded.

The young cattle in other herds, however, show that the breeders have realized that young heifers must be given the best possible chance during the winter and that they must continue their gains in weight every day when first turned out to pasture. Such gains are assured by adding a little additional grain in the early pasturing days. In this way the inevitable shrinkage which comes to animals when only access to grass is given is avoided.

Dairy Notes

As each cow's milking is weighed, a glance up the columns will tell how she compares with the rest.

It is impossible to fatten calves for butchers on silage without some kind of supplementary feed such as cottonseed cake or corn.

Ground oats are considered especially valuable for bulls. Cottonseed meal is not usually regarded with favor, especially when fed in large amounts. Some breeders think it causes impotency.

Cows are better natured and better producers when furnished a variety of feed.

The government reports state that there are only about 86 per cent as many cattle on feed in the eleven corn-belt states as there were last year at this time.

Potato growers who have dairy cows and who make a practice of feeding small and otherwise unmarketable tubers, have found cull potatoes a valuable addition to the dairy ration.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says: "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and inclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.
