Boy For Many Years—

Carlton's Most Faithful Citizen Retires Friday

WALTERS TURNER (Special Correspondent)
 The town of Carlton was founded by Thompson on January 1, 1936. Two months previous to his parents baked him in a pie for three days and three and he emerged alive, but not. This is Jesse J. Cole's personality by Ray Upham. Hob's birthday in 1974, he was born on the same day as his sister, Mrs. Thompson of Abilene. "Hob dear, you were so long in the oven. Your mother said, 'That's your only one. Love, Allie.'" Hob's letter served to confirm the story. Hob's letter served to confirm Ray's confirmation of Jesse's story. Hob's letter served to confirm Ray's confirmation of Jesse's story. Hob's letter served to confirm Ray's confirmation of Jesse's story.

able chairs and coffee on tap for that purpose alone. And when new owners, Robert and Janet Burke, take over the store on February 1, they intend to preserve the atmosphere of welcome and friendliness for which Thompson's has been known since it first opened in 1936 by Hob and his wife, Nona. "We could never fill their shoes," say the Burkes, a young couple whose five children attend school in Hico. "But we hope to fill our own with the same sense of dedication to the people of Carlton that they've shown through all the years."

Thompson's was a going concern when it wasn't the only store in town. It thrived amid competition when Carlton's streets were lined with businesses—two banks, a lumberyard, a hotel, three gins, several mercantile and grocery stores. Five medical doctors had offices in Carlton and a dentist visited there one day each week. The blacksmith shop stayed busy when other stores began closing. Service stations remained, and the town still has its own post office plus at least one new creative industry.

"It's more than a super-market. Thompson's is a Super-Duper Market," comments one regular customer who insists you can get almost anything you need at the store, from condensed soup to nuts and bolts. But the real reason behind the success of the store lies in the personalities of its owners. Since they opened the store in 1936, Hob and Nona have operated it continuously except for the years between 1948 and 1953. They sold the store to her father, H. L. Turney, who was owner-operator when the store caught fire on Christmas Eve, 1948. Destroyed by the fire, the grocery was re-opened in another building down the street, and moved back to the same corner site when the building was restored in 1950. The fire was thought to have been started by a dog, a casualty of the event, but when Hob bought the store back in 1953 he had another pet.

A scraggly canine without any teeth, Shorty missed out completely on beauty and brains. He was faithful to his master, until one day he fell in love with a customer. "I could take that dog home with me," said Lucille Upham, the object of Shorty's affections. "Ar-rite," said Hob. "I'll give him to you."

Lucille managed a graceful non-acceptance of the gift, but thereafter, when she visited the store, she always greeted the owner with the question: "How's my dog?" Hob says the familiar expression, "Ar-rite," isn't original with him, but it's so much a part of him now it was memorialized in big red letters on the back of a T-shirt his wife gave him for Christmas. "Years ago, when I'd go to the bank in Dublin to borrow money, Mr. Ed Harris would sit there, looking straight ahead, spinning his tobacco sack. On a good day, he'd spin it clockwise and say, 'Ar-rite.' But on a bad day, that sack would spin counter-clockwise, as fast as it would go, and after awhile he'd say, 'Hell no.'"

Credit was never hard to come by at Thompson's, where you could charge if you could spell your name, and delivery service was free, if you ordered no more than a loaf of bread and a box of snuff. Through the years Hob cashed checks for many of his customers, making daily trips to the First National Bank in Hico to provide this service. He delivered messages for almost everyone in town and all over the country as well.

He was awakened with a hospital call one morning at 2:00 o'clock. "Yes," he told the caller, "I'll deliver the message immediately."

He dressed hastily, went out into the cold night, climbed in his pickup and drove several miles into the country. He stopped in the driveway and blew his horn. "This is Hob Thompson," he yelled into the dark. "I'm here to bring you a message."

He got no answer. He got out of his pickup and started toward the house, stating the purpose of his call in a loud voice as he went.

He was stopped short with the cold, steel barrel of a shotgun in his back. He was ordered to leave. "I'm not going until I give you the message I was told to bring," he said.

But an overwhelming majority of people have only gratitude for Hob's extra services. Mrs. Rosie Birdsong was profuse in her thanks when he offered to drive her home one winter day, after she'd trudged through the snow to do her shopping. The ice-covered streets were slick as glass, but Hob maneuvered the pickup safely toward Rosie's house until they reached the tabernacle, a wide open area, topped with ice and untrodden snow. He had a sudden inspiration to steer the pickup into a spin. "We'll just cut through here," he told Rosie, turning into the parking lot and veering left, executing an exhilarating spin. He pulled it out, slid forward a second or two, then went into a right hand spin. "Rosie prayed. 'Oh God,' she prayed. 'If he's lost his mind, give it back to him. I don't want to die here.'"

Tad McKinney, the waterworks man at Carlton, says it's best not to take Hob's tales too seriously. "Don't believe a word he says," Tad says, but believe it or not, Hob was a bad boy until the day Mrs. Smith kept him in after school. She'd tried whipping, pinching, standing him in the corner with his face to the wall. Nothing worked. So she kept him in after school. (Continued on Page 8)

(RETIRING—New owners will take over Thompson's Grocery and Market in Carlton Friday when Hob and Nona Thompson (pictured) step down from the business they've operated since 1936. The general store serves as a meeting place in Carlton and new owners, Robert and Janet Burke, plan to keep it that way. The five Burke children attend school in Hico.

Tiger Cagers Score Two Upsets During Past Week's Action

Hico's boy cagers scored two mild upsets during the past week, downing Dublin 53-51 for the second time this year, and coming back with a 41-37 win over Glen Rose Tuesday night.

Prior to the Tuesday game, Glen Rose had been tied with Valley Mills for the loop lead.

On the other hand, Hico's girls lost both of their games, to Dublin 61-36 and Glen Rose 62-42.

In the Friday Dublin game, Danny Polk was leading scorer with 20 points, followed by Buddy Mayfield with 17. Tony Mayfield meshed six, Jim Turner five, Joe Harris three, and Eddie Needham two.

For the girls Debby Haynes scored 14 points, Sue Ashby nine, Ruth Vosburg eight, and Debra Autrey five.

In the Tuesday contest against Glen Rose, Hico played a tremendous defensive game, as attested by the low score. Jim Turner and Tony Mayfield were leading scorers, hitting ten points each. Buddy Mayfield and Danny Polk each scored eight, and Eddie Needham contributed five.

In the girls game against Glen Rose, Ruth Vosburg was high with 12 points, Debby Haynes and Sue Ashby contributed 11 points each, Dianna Park and Cynthia Gray netted three, and Deborah Autrey two.

Only two games remain, with Hico hosting Goldthwaite Friday night, and going to China Spring Tuesday night.

Candidate Filing Deadline is Monday

With a Monday, February 4 filing deadline fast approaching, politics in Hamilton County were at a virtual standstill this week, with little interest being generated.

Only one candidate had filed for the County Judgeship, which will be vacated by Herman Standifer. James Soules, who made two unsuccessful bids for the post, was the lone candidate.

In the only contested race affecting Hico voters, that of County-District Clerk, three names were on record. Genevieve Clark is seeking re-election to that position, and is being contested by Clarence Schneider and Mrs. Betty Harris.

The tax assessor-collector post was uncontested, with only Elvin Mears in the race for the two-year unexpired term.

Two County Commissioner posts are contested, but neither affect Hico voters.

Statewide, Jerry Donaldson of Gatesville has said he would be a candidate for re-election to the District 34 House seat. The district is composed of Hamilton, Bosque, Coryell and Hill counties.

Senator Grant Jones of Abilene has also indicated that he would be a candidate for re-election.

U.S. Congressman W. R. Bob Poage of Waco is asking for another term of office in Washington, and he was unopposed at mid-week.

Candidates have until 6 p.m. Monday to file for a place on the ballot.

Serving with the new directors will be Paul Verduzco and Floyd Clifton, who have two years remaining, and Glenn Ross and Dr. W. F. Hafer with one year remaining on their present term.

Pork tends to develop "off" flavors easily, and is more perishable than other red meats.

Keep pork cold at all times.

Don't leave it in a parked car. Even on cool days, the sun warms a closed car to temperatures dangerous for food.

Once home, open the package of pork, or punch a few holes in the wrapping so air can circulate around the meat. Otherwise, the tight, store wrappings hold in moisture, and with excessive moisture and no air, bacteria growth is encouraged.

Bacteria, in turn, gives meat an "off" flavor.

When freezing pork or any other meat, wrap it so it's air-tight.

Many meat markets will wrap meat for customers on request, using freezer-type paper.

Or the consumer can wrap it at home, using a plastic-laminated freezer paper.

For best quality, meat should freeze solid within eight hours. Hold it less than zero degrees throughout the storage period.

Keep children's nonflammable sleepwear effective by giving it proper care. Read and follow instructions provided on the garment's label.

By law, care labels must be permanently attached to all garments. Nevertheless, consumers often ignore, misinterpret or misunderstand these instructions. Improper laundering and maintenance frequently reduces or destroys a fabric's flame retardancy.

Treated cotton fabrics keep their flame retardant characteristic longer if laundered with a high-phosphate detergent. These detergents keep minerals and soil curds suspended until they're rinsed away.

However, many areas restrict the use of high-phosphate detergents over high-phosphate ones.

Never use soap with flame retardant garments. It reacts with minerals in water to form curds which stick to fibers, reducing their flame retardancy.

For consumers preferring low-phosphate detergents, use a low sudsing product and double the normal amount. The increased amount does a better job of holding mineral and soil particles in suspension so they can be rinsed away, instead of collecting on fabrics.

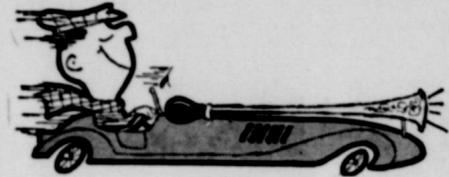

Don't bleach a nonflammable item. The bleach chemically attacks its finish. Strong chemicals often used by commercial laundries also can attack such finishes.

In addition, hard water reduces a finish's effectiveness. Although mechanical-exchange equipment for softening water effectively reduces hardness, simply adding water softeners to the laundry may not remove particles.

Certain flame retardant fibers are machine washable using warm water and any detergent.

However, since these fibers have a low melting point, they shouldn't be ironed. They can be tumbled dry at a low setting.

It's up to the homemaker to provide nonflammable fabrics proper care to maintain in their retardancy.

In America, the land of plenty, many, many people suffer from malnutrition. Our tables groan under the load of food, but very often our menus are heavily weighted toward sweets and starches. It is so easy (and cheap) to cook what our families like to eat—spaghetti, macaroni, bread and butter, corn, cake, cookies. It is so difficult to curb our family's appetite for Fritos, potato chips, french fries, and Cokes. Some nutritionists have gone so far as to call these foods poison. A good guide to follow is that if a person eats something that is not nourishing, he will most likely eat it in a place of something that is nourishing. For example, a Coke will replace milk. French fries will replace squash. There is another consideration. Many American wives and mothers work for remuneration outside the home. Time is a scarce commodity. What foods are the quickest to prepare? The most expensive and the least nourishing foods.

By BECKY FARRAR
1st Vice President

Every housewife knows that the greatest part of her day is devoted to food preparation. She has a budget within which she must purchase her groceries. The wise homemaker considers nutrition first. Her family's immediate and future health are based largely on the good eating habits that are established now. Nutritionists have now simplified a "rule of thumb" for us. Every meal should contain selections from the Basic Four Food Groups: meat or meat products, green and yellow vegetables, milk or milk products, and bread or cereals. There are clear-cut guidelines regarding how many servings are to come from each group. Balance is the key. If one group of foods dominates the meal, other groups are neglected or omitted. Good nutrition is evidenced immediately in energy, sparkling eyes and hair, and a feeling of well-being. Poor nutrition will affect the rate and quality of growth, resistance to disease, and the healing ability of the body. A child who does not eat properly will not be as alert or as able in the classroom as a child who is well-nourished.

In America, the land of plenty, many, many people suffer from malnutrition. Our tables groan under the load of food, but very often our menus are heavily weighted toward sweets and starches. It is so easy (and cheap) to cook what our families like to eat—spaghetti, macaroni, bread and butter, corn, cake, cookies. It is so difficult to curb our family's appetite for Fritos, potato chips, french fries, and Cokes. Some nutritionists have gone so far as to call these foods poison. A good guide to follow is that if a person eats something that is not nourishing, he will most likely eat it in a place of something that is nourishing. For example, a Coke will replace milk. French fries will replace squash. There is another consideration. Many American wives and mothers work for remuneration outside the home. Time is a scarce commodity. What foods are the quickest to prepare? The most expensive and the least nourishing foods.

With these things in mind, consider cooking every day, not just for your family, but for 260 school children. The thought is frightening, yet every weekday, come what may, there are three faithful ladies who prepare school lunches for our children. Before eight o'clock, Mrs. Alvin Hicks, Mrs. Vernon Hyles and Mrs. Bobby Needham are busy in the cafeteria rolling out pastry, cutting up cabbage, mixing cornbread, and, all the while, receiving supplies, keeping records, planning the next day's meal.

The day the Tiger visited the lunchroom, 22 pounds of pinto beans were cooking, along with 50 pounds of cabbage, four pans of cornbread, four pans of pineapple cobbler, and mountains of tater tots. The ladies were assisted in serving by Brenda Needham, HECE student, by Melody Hicks, sixth grader, and by four boys who helped with the clean-up.

Mrs. Hicks said that she tries to serve a meat or meat substitute, a green or yellow vegetable, a serving of bread and a dessert each day. She added that she tries to keep the cost as low as possible. Monthly shipments of commodity foods are supplied by the government. These are usually canned goods and staples, but occasionally there are shipments of chicken or turkey. These foods must be used promptly, so Mrs. Hicks plans her menus accordingly.

Mrs. Hicks said that a dishwasher is at the top of her "want" list. Parents interviewed said they consider steam tables to be necessary items. Teachers' top priority was a request for fresh salads every day. The children would like for hamburgers to be on the menu daily.

The number of students eating in the school cafeteria varies from 250 to 290, largely depending on the menu. Hamburgers are the most popular item. The grade school takes a room count each morning, so the lunchroom knows how many to prepare food for. The high school takes no count. Very often, they will enter the cafeteria and check the menu; if it's not to their liking, they leave. There is a school policy that students must eat either in the school cafeteria, or at home, but not at a public restaurant or grocery store. Mrs. Hicks thinks she could do a better job of serving more for the money if she knew how many to prepare for, and if more students ate at the cafeteria regularly. She emphasized, however, that extra food is not wasted; it is frozen or refrigerated and served at a later date. One day this week only 32 out of 134 high school students ate in the school cafeteria. They claim the lunchroom meals are too starchy and fattening. They too requested fresh salads that they could eat when they are dieting.

When asked about the soybean meat substitutes, some of the cooks, some of the teachers, and some of the children were not aware they were eating such a product. Some said it was way too greasy; others called it "fake steak."

Comments on the lunchroom are as varied as the people eating the lunches. "The meals are good. I enjoy eating here every day." High school boys chorused, "I don't eat when they serve Gravy Train."

Luncheon-Bridge is Courtesy in Home of Mrs. B. C. Ochojski

Mrs. Charles Ochojski was hostess last Wednesday for members of the Luncheon-Bridge Club.

Present were Mrs. L. F. Bonner, Mrs. W. C. Howard, Mrs. W. F. Hafer, Mrs. H. V. Hedges, Mrs. Harry Hudson, Mrs. Odis Petsick, Mrs. Morse Ross and Mrs. Ellis Randals.

Following the morning of bridge play Mrs. Bonner held high score and Mrs. Howard held second high score.

Mrs. Ochojski served a luncheon plate to her guests.

Kindergartners said, "It's all good. I don't like anything special." But most kindergartners just barely picked at their meals. "Just a bowl of soup is hardly a balanced diet." "I wish they'd cook soup more often. They really know how to make it good." "How about a peanut butter or cheese sandwich when they have soup?" "We like jello, but I can't remember the last time we had it." "The rolls and cobbles are delicious." "Soybean patties are too greasy."

Many of those eating said they didn't feel free to go back for "seconds." However, Mrs. Hyles said that everyone is welcome to come for seconds, if they have finished eating everything on their plate. As the last of the high schoolers finished eating, the ladies began to clean up. Meat for tomorrow's tacos was simmering on the stove. Disappointed sounds were made when so much cabbage was found in the garbage. Mrs. Hicks commented, "We'll have a big crowd to feed Friday. That's hamburger day."

We're thankful for the loyal lunchroom ladies who prepare and cook food and clean up for our children each day. They must be philosophical and realize that you can't please all of the people all of the time, but you can please some of the people some of the time.

Don't forget P-TA Monday night, 7:30.

Math Club Takes Interesting Field Trip Recently

The Hico Math Club met Jan. 21 in the Math Room for their monthly meeting.

Eight members were present, as follows, James Horton, president, Ron Lowery, vice president, Ralph Williams, treasurer, Newt Farrar, reporter, Brian Dayton and Clarice Huggins.

After the meeting was opened members went to the office of Mr. Bill McKain. Mr. McKain gave an interesting talk on "The Evolution of a Wildcat Drilling Prospect in the Illinois Oil Basin, Using Sub-surface Geological Methods." He gave main topics such as "Basic Subsurface Data." This topic would contain such things as electric logs which test resistivity in rocks. Mr. McKain explained about Key Marker Beds which can be identified by an electric log as an indication of oil deposits. Marker Beds such as the St. Genevieve formation and the base of the Barlow Limestone stretch for miles in the subsurface.

A base map is drawn by plating the data, and contouring or interpreting the structural configuration. Mr. McKain emphasized that there can be errors in data and that interpretations often will be wrong.

After the prospect is selected, and the "go" decision is made, "Remember," Mr. McKain said, "that only about one out of 10 or 12 wildcats will be successful; financially most are complete failures. The decision to go or no go often makes the life of a geologist a lonely one; his neck is always out about four feet."

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. McKain served delicious brownies and hot chocolate, and Mr. McKain presented the club a very useful and informative book called "The Handbook of Mathematical Functions with Formulas, Graphs, and Mathematical Tables." The club extends their gratitude for this fine meeting. Reporter.

A Look at the Past

38 YEARS AGO

Rev. W. P. Cunningham, former pastor of the Hico Methodist Church, now of Meridian, and Mrs. Cunningham were found unconscious in their car near Dallas last week due to breathing monoxide gas fumes. The couple, who were enroute to visit a daughter, were taken to a Dallas hospital and were soon improved.

Officers elected at a recent meeting of the Hico Fire Department were: Will Leeth, Chief; Herman Muxnerlyn and Roy French, Assistant Chiefs; M. W. Whigham, secretary; J. R. McMillan, treasurer, and Warren Hefner, Ollie Davis and Joe Runyan, trustees. A new hat was presented Elmer Horton for being the best all-around member during 1935.

A new Hoffman press of the latest model was installed this week at the City Cleaners, owned by Bill Hill and Dick Adams.

Ray Cheek and Carroll Smith have returned home from Independence, Kansas, where they accompanied Billy Hays, who entered K.C.A.C., a junior college there.

25 YEARS AGO

"Business is good here, and so is fishing," reports Rufus R. Alexander, former Hicoan who strayed off down to Lampasas 15 years ago, but returns to Hico pretty often for a visit with friends.

Moody Ross, salesman for Armour and Co. visited a short time in Hico Thursday with his mother, Mrs. Watt Ross, enroute to Corpus Christi.

Hico has been in the grip of the worst cold spell in years. Utilities over the local area kept service lines as open as possible, when even Mrs. Hester East, efficient office clerk, was seen riding around town in service vehicles trying to locate trouble.

10 YEARS AGO

Hico merchants all but closed up shop Thursday after a record-breaking snow fell during Wednesday night, paralyzing the area. Mrs. D. E. Bulloch, Chairman of the Mother's March of Dimes held Friday evening, reported a total of $96.50 received during the one-hour period.

Bobby Needham was elected as Chief of Hico Fire Department for the year 1964, succeeding Alvin Casey.

Fairy Community News

By Mrs. Eunice Dantz

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Edwards, who have resided on the former Jim Blakley place for the past 29 years, have moved to the former Latham place which they purchased several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Priest of near Fairy moved the first of the week to the home vacated by the Edwards. The Priests had resided at the Coy Parks farm home.

The former A. J. Miller place looks real nice since a lot of repair, new roof, windows replaced and quite a bit of inside work including a new bath room. We understand the interior has been re-finished and an outside paint job. We have always admired the place and are glad the building was restored.

Mr. and Mrs. Frazier Crow of Hico visited in the Jake Trantham home recently. Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Trantham of Hico were luncheon guests in the home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Grisham of Lanham and the writer attended singing Saturday night at Clairette. A good crowd was present including singers and musicians from Dublin, Stephenville, Hico and other points. All enjoyed a good song service.

The writer visited awhile Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Justin Bullard and Vickie of Agee. Her mother-in-law, Mrs. Willie Bullard of the Hico Nursing Home, fell last week and broke her other hip. She was just getting to where she could walk some since breaking of the other hip some time ago. She had been walking with a walker and started to sit down in her wheel chair, thinking it was locked but it wasn't and it rolled back and let her fall. She is a patient in the Hico Hospital. She is said to be bearing her misfortune with patience.

Mr. and Mrs. Truett Turner of Fort Worth and Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Parks and Becky of Grand Prairie spent the weekend with their father, T. R. Parks, and the Weldon Parks also visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Streater of Lanham.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Overton and Bobby of Fort Worth visited during the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Goyme.

Visiting Sunday in the Goyme home was his sister, Mrs. O. E. Whitson of Hico.

Bro. Estell Moser of Stephenville filled his regular appointment at the Church of Christ Sunday. A very good crowd was present including some visitors. Appreciated having them.

Rev. Bob Ray of Fort Worth filled his regular appointment at the Baptist Church Sunday, and he and family were luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Gleason.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Turner, Rhonda and Curtis of Killeen spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Turner.

Marvin Porterfield received word last week that his niece, daughter of Charles White of Houston, had passed away. Due to the change of driving regulations they didn't have time to get there in time for her funeral. Charles is the son of the late Maude Simons White. She was reared around Fairy. Charles is a half-brother of Marvin. Our sympathy to those bereaved in her passing. Charles also resided around Fairy when a teenager.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Lam and two children of Gatesville visited Saturday in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Blakley.

Mrs. Bob Frederick of Venus spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Ruth Cunningham. They spent Sunday in Waco visiting in the home of their niece and cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Baugh.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Richardson and Tommy of Hico visited Sunday afternoon with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Richardson.

We would appreciate your news items. If you have any please call 796-4381 or leave in drop box at my yard.

There were 32 present for the Senior Citizens meeting in Hico Friday. The social group played games while the craft ladies worked on a quilt. Next meeting will be Friday, Feb. 1. All have a cordial invitation to attend.

AIMING FOR ECONOMY WITH A SMALL CAR?

THE DODGE BOYS ARE RIGHT ON TARGET

1974 Dodge Dart Swinger 2-door hardtop.

1974 Dodge Dart Custom 4-door sedan.

WITH A FREE AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION.

Right now, when you buy either a Dart Swinger hardtop or Dart Custom four-door sedan optionally equipped with power steering, vinyl roof, AM radio, light package, whitewall tires, deluxe wheel covers, left remote-control mirror, deluxe bumper guards, three-speed wipers with electric washers, day/night inside mirror, deluxe insulation package, and special exterior mouldings, your Dodge Dealer can offer you the automatic transmission free (because Dodge doesn't charge him for it). See the new '74 Dart Automatic Specials at the Dodge Boys' right away.

SEE THE GREAT SMALL CARS THAT MAKE UP THE "DART DOZEN."

They're all "right on" with:

• ECONOMY!
Did you know that a Dodge Dart Sport can go farther on a gallon of gas than a Nova?
Gas mileage figures based on October 1973 Popular Science magazine. Tests performed by Popular Science for its report were conducted on '73 vehicles with figures adjusted by Popular Science for 1974 model changes and the results of E.P.A. tests.

• INCREASING TRADE-IN VALUE.
Just check around, wherever used Dodge Darts are sold. You'll see how our little cars hold their value.

• ROOM FOR 5 OR 6.
Our Swinger hardtops and Dart sedans have room for six. There's room for five in our Dart Sport coupe. (Yet, Dart Sport has more total hip-room than Maverick, more trunk space than three Pintos!)

• ELECTRONIC IGNITION.
This advanced system is standard on every 1974 Dodge Dart. It eliminates points and condenser (that can wear out or get wet). In addition, factory-recommended spark plug maintenance is up to 18,000 miles under normal driving conditions. (Another nice saving for you when you choose a new Dart.)

• SMALL-CAR MANEUVERABILITY.
If you've been driving a big car for years—you may be pleasantly surprised to find how many "more" parking spaces there are for a Dodge Dart at parking lots.

DODGE DART . . . THE SMALL CAR WITH THE BIG FOLLOWING.

Protect property and personnel with leased directed flood lighting

Leaving your business unguarded each night gives prowlers an opportunity to vandalize, steal and possibly cause injuries to people. It is recommended that no decorative lighting be used in order to save electricity. However, lighting that provides security and safety should be used. And for just pennies a night, mercury vapor flood lighting can efficiently guard your property because the light can be directed only where you need it. Call Community Public Service Company soon for more information on the leased flood lighting service.

his bowed head, his eyes closed. He's been a good boy ever since.

Mr. Bell, the Midwest Fruit Company driver, didn't think all the mischief had been prayed out of him on the day Hob donned his red wig and hit him up for a ride.

The red wig is a disguise Hob keeps on hand for interludes when his alter ego threatens to surface. Under its supportive camouflage he climbed into the fruit truck over Mr. Bell's protests.

"You can't get in here," wailed Mr. Bell. "Don't you see that sign on the windshield? It says, 'No Riders.'"

With that, Hob pulled a .22 target on his host, whining in his red wig voice, "I'll ride, or I'll shoot hell out of you."

The frightened Mr. Bell ran back in the store and straight up to Nona.

"Have you got an idiot running loose around here?" he screamed. "Aw, that's just Hobdy," explained Nona, keeping her cool.

"If it is, I'll kill him," the fruit driver sighed.

A pet lover, Hob settled for snakes when he ran out of dogs and cats. When his wife and a store employee killed his first pet snake he mourned, but not for long. He got another one.

The Masonic Lodge owns the corner building and holds its meetings on the upper floor. When snake number two developed the habit of coming upstairs and participating in the ceremonies, the Masons decided something had to be done. The harmless reptile met his demise at the hands of Ray Upham, but Hob never learned what happened to his pet. He thought it ran away.

Except for the snakes, Nona accepts Hob's pranks with a sense of humor that matches his. She's worked side by side with him in the store through the years, gone with him to deliver messages from young people of the town, when they were stranded by car trouble or other emergencies, and helped him open the store at night or on Sunday, when people forgot to come in during business hours. As organist and pianist for Carlton Baptist Church, she's always at her post on Sundays. She continues this job after 35 years, though Hob only lasted 15 as choir director and now holds the assistant's job.

The Thompsons enjoy frequent visits from their son and daughter, Don and Shirley, who is Mrs. Lee McKnight, and their nine grandchildren, from Waco; and Nona's mother, Mrs. Bertha Turney, a widow, lives in their home. They look forward to retirement as a time to catch up on many things, such as fishing, and have no intention of "retiring" from their active life in Carlton.

Robert and Janet Burke say they hope to keep things as they are when they take over the store on February 1. Although country life is new to the Burkes, they've made many friends in Carlton and now they consider it home. Bob was born in Big Spring, and Janet in Battle Creek, Michigan, where they met. But Bobby Jr., the twins, Andy and Randy, Danny and Cindy Lee are right at home in Hico school and the four boys find football an important extra-curricular activity.

The children are as excited as the parents about the new family business. The Burkes live north of Carlton, toward Alexander, near enough to work and school, but when Bob was driving for Morgan Mobile, he didn't get home as often as he felt he was needed for coaching sessions with the boys. He and Janet plan to work together to keep the store what it's always been, a service to the people.
