Probe Sites Set In Pecos, Winkler Area

Exploratory tests have been staked in Winkler and Pecos counties.

Monsanto Co. has staked No. 1 Wilson, a 20,500-foot search for gas, in southwest Winkler, 4 1/2 miles northwest of the Apollo (Fusselman) gas field.

Drill site is 1,318 feet from south and 2,300 feet from east lines of section 40, block 27, PSL survey, eight miles northwest of Wink.

Pecos Deepening L. R. French Jr., operating from Midland, has filed application to re-enter and deepen to 22,000 feet as a venture for Ellenburger gas, at No. 1 Alamo, a former Leonard oil discovery and deep failure, one mile southeast of the depleted one-well Shepherd (Simpson) gas field.

Originally drilled to 19,028 feet, it was plugged back to 7,070 feet.

Location is 1,989 feet from south and 1,988 feet from east lines of section 148, block 3, T&P survey, 11 miles south of Fort Stockton.

It also is one mile northwest of French's No. 1 Shepherd, an active deep probe, which is testing, no gauges, through Ellenburger perforations at 20,882-21,664 feet.

CITGO Still Tests In Two Horizons

Cities Service Oil Co. No. 1-T Government, Eddy County, N.M., Wolfcamp gas prospect, and 1/2-mile north offset to the firm's No. 1-R Government, recent Morrow gas discovery, continued production tests from both zones.

It flowed four hours through Morrow perforations at 11,106-11,366 feet, making gas at the minimum daily rate of 2.1 million cubic feet on a 10-64-inch choke, and increasing on 13-64- and 17-64-inch chokes, to a maximum of 5 million cubic feet per day on a 21-64-inch choke. It flowed 15 barrels of 55.4-gravity distillate, no water, along with the gas, in four hours.

From the Wolfcamp, it flowed four hours through perforations at 9,206-9,231 feet, making gas at the rate of 1 million cubic feet daily on a 7-64-inch choke, and increasing on 10-64- and 12-64-inch chokes to a maximum of 2.49 million cubic feet per day on a 14-64-inch choke. Distillate recovery during the four-hour test was 29 barrels of 51.8-gravity fluid.

The project presently is awaiting pipeline connection. Location is 810 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 14-20-20e, 12 miles northeast of Carlsbad and 2 1/2 miles south of recently opened Wolfcamp gas production in the Winchester field.

Dawson, Lamb Get Prospector Sites

Ventures have been planned for Lamb and Dawson counties. Warren American Oil Co. of Midland staked No. 1 Ray, an 8,300-foot test in Dawson, 4 1/2 miles southwest of Lamesa.

Drill site is 1,900 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 29, block 36, T-S-N, T&P survey, 1/2 mile (Continued On Page 4B)

New Gas Allocation Ordered

Senate Sustains Nixon's Veto Of Energy Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon vetoed an oil price rollback Wednesday, praised Senate acceptance of the veto, and then predicted energy prices would stop rising and maybe start falling later this year.

The steep rise of food prices also should slow down, Nixon told a news conference, promising once more to avoid an economic recession this year.

By sustaining his veto of emergency energy legislation including the oil price rollback, Nixon said, the Senate "vetoed longer gas lines and vetoed nationwide rationing." The White House has argued that a price rollback would discourage oil production and make fuel shortages worse.

But the rollback immediately popped up again as the House added a modified version to a bill for establishing a Federal Energy Administration. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., author of the vetoed energy bill, said he would try again to roll back oil prices, but said he would work with the administration toward a stripped-down emergency bill authorizing gasoline rationing and other fuel-saving measures.

Nixon declined, in his news conference, to speculate on a (See SENATE Page 4A)

Amount Based On 85 Per Cent Of '72 Figures

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal energy chief William E. Simon announced today he is ordering gasoline distribution to insure that all states receive at least 85 per cent as much gasoline this month as they had two years ago.

Simon said, however, that states with better than normal supplies would not have their supplies reduced toward the 85 per cent average this month.

Chance Of Rain In City

A very slight possibility of thunderstorms exists for the Midland area this afternoon and tonight, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal.

Chance of rain is 20 per cent this afternoon and tonight. Should it rain, it will be the first precipitation for the area in March. Total rainfall for the year is a below normal .82 inch.

Otherwise, there will be considerable cloudiness and mild temperatures through Friday, with highs both days in the low 80s. Overnight low is expected to be in the low 50s.

Winds will be southwesterly 15 to 25 m.p.h. and occasionally gusty, diminishing tonight.

One final blast of winter may move into the state this weekend, according to The Associated Press. West Texas will have readings in the 30s by Saturday morning and into the 30s and 20s the next two days.

The rest of the state should have temperatures in the 30s by Monday. Temperatures Wednesday afternoon climbed to 91 in Cotulla, the warmest spot in the nation. Galveston's high mark was a comparatively cool 73.

Early today, the temperature spread was from 41 at Dalhart to 73 at Corpus Christi.

Any additional supplies required for some states will be drawn from gasoline inventories, Simon said.

Simon added, however, that beginning in April he would start equalizing the distribution, aiming for a spread of no more than 5 per cent above or below the national average in any individual state supply.

Simon also announced that he is considering eliminating the practice of closing gasoline stations on Sundays, which is still a voluntary measure requested by the Federal Energy Office.

He said the Sunday sales might be encouraged once more in recognition of the needs of the recreation and vacation industry as spring and summer approach.

And Simon offered the nation's governors a choice between assuming authority to allocate gasoline supplies within their states or leaving it up to the federal government.

Simon said Alaska, Kansas, Louisiana, Minnesota, North Carolina, Texas and Wyoming all will receive 100 per cent or more of their March 1972, gasoline supply levels this month.

"We will be carefully assessing the supply situation in such states," Simon warned. "In April no state will have an allocation fraction above a maximum of 95 per cent."

Simon said that before the adjustments which he is ordering for March, initial estimates showed wide differences in (See SIMON Page 4A)

Wholesale Prices Jump Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices took another big leap forward in February but the increase fell short of soaring rates of previous months, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said that wholesale prices jumped by a seasonally adjusted 1.2 per cent last month, the smallest advance in four months but a highly inflationary rate nevertheless.

The increase pushed wholesale prices 20.3 per cent higher than a year earlier, an extraordinarily sharp rise for an 12-month period but still below record levels.

The February increase lifted the Wholesale Price Index to 152.7 of the 1967 average, meaning that it cost $152.70 to buy the same volume of wholesale goods that $100 purchased in 1967. The increase means that consumers will be seeing many of the rises at the retail level in the weeks ahead.

About 70 per cent of the February increase was traced to price increases for fuel, primarily gasoline and residual fuels; metals, farm products and processed foods and feeds.

In January, wholesale prices rose by 3.1 per cent, the second highest monthly increase on record.

If wholesale prices went up at February's rate for an entire year, it would mean a sharp 14.4 per cent inflation rate at this key level.

The bureau said that price increases of industrial commodities, regarded as one of the most sensitive gauges of inflation in the economy, rose by a seasonally adjusted 1.3 per cent, with prices of metals and fuel leading the way. Wholesale prices of farm products rose seven-tenths of one per cent compared with a steep 5.1 per cent in January. Actual decline on a seasonally adjusted basis, as prices of livestock products, processed foods and eggs, and plant and animal fibers fell.

DISCUSSING GASOLINE DISTRIBUTION — William E. Simon, left, administrator of the Federal Energy Office, listens to Oregon Gov. Tom McCall prior to the start of today's meeting of the National Governors Conference in Washington. In a speech to the governors, Simon announced he is ordering gasoline distribution to insure all states receive at least 85 per cent as much gasoline this month as they had two years ago. Officials Believe Basin Will Get More Gasoline

By ROBERT C. BORDEN Following a 45-minute meeting Wednesday in Washington, D.C., with John C. Sawhill, deputy director of the Federal Energy Office, Permian Basin officials believe the area will receive a greater gasoline allocation.

Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo said at a 10 a.m. press conference in City Hall today, "We believe that we can reasonably hope for some relief in the form of an area reallocation within the next week or 10 days."

Sawhill was unable to say how much gasoline would be provided the area, but he said the additional fuel will come from either the state's or the region's existing allocation.

The Permian Basin delegation, which included Angelo, City

Councilmen Jim Kent and Frank K. Cahoon, City Attorney Joe Nuesse, Odessa Mayor Jim Reese, Odessa councilmen, and Ernie Crawford and Jack Martin of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, had asked for 100 per cent of 1973 usage.

Sawhill indicated the area would not receive that much fuel. Currently, the allotment is based on approximately 77.5 per cent of 1972 usage.

The group met in the office of U.S. Sen. John G. Tower, who attended the meeting briefly before returning to the Senate floor to lead the forces against overriding the President's veto of the energy bill, which included a rollback in crude oil prices. The motion to override the veto fell eight votes short of the necessary two-thirds majority. Since energy production and agriculture are priority users of fuel, they get 100 per cent of their current needs. This has left Permian Basin automobile drivers facing empty gas pumps.

Kent noted the average shortfall for the nation is 15 per cent, while in the Permian Basin, the shortfall has been running 75 to 80 per cent.

Service stations in Midland and Odessa were running dry by the middle of February, with 70 per cent of the stations closed by the last week of the month. An 800,000 gallon emergency allotment was sent to the area by the State Energy Office last week but the gas was only enough for a day and half.

Permian Basin officials met in Austin last week with representatives of the State Energy Office and the governor's staff. Mayor Angelo said Sawhill was pleased the group went through the state office first.

The state office said help could possibly be provided on an emergency basis from the (See GASOLINE Page 4A)

Grand Jury Indicts Six In Psychiatrist's Office Break-In

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury today indicted former White House aides John D. Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson on a charge of violating the civil rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. Also indicted on the same charge were Watergate conspirators G. Gordon Liddy, Bernard L. Barker, Eugenio R. Martinez and Felipe De Diego.

The indictment charged that the defendants broke into the Beverly Hills office of Dr.

Liddy was sentenced to serve a maximum of 20 years for his role in the June 17, 1972 break-in at Democratic National Committee Headquarters.

Ehrlichman also was charged with one count of lying to FBI agents and three counts of lying to a grand jury about the activities of the White House special investigative unit known as the "plumbers."

The indictment alleged that on July 27, 1971 Egil Krogh Jr. and David R. Young Jr. sent a memorandum to Ehrlichman which discussed a request to prepare a psychiatric study on Ellsberg.

Krogh has pleaded guilty to a single charge of violating Fielding's civil rights and is serving a six-month sentence at a federal penitentiary. (See GRAND JURY Page 4A)

House Panel Appears To Be Preparing Oil Depletion Allowance For Grave

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation taxing away some of the petroleum industry's windfall profits during the energy crisis may also be killing the industry's oil depletion allowance.

As the House Ways and Means Committee headed toward its initial decision today on chief features of an energy tax reform package, it appeared the oil industry's 22 per cent depletion allowance was being prepared for the grave.

A drive to eventually wipe out the oil depletion allowance gained speed in the committee Wednesday. Rep. Herman T. Schneebeli, R-Pa., the committee's senior GOP member, said the major remaining issue to be settled concerning a phase out of this provision involves the actual time schedule for doing it.

This allowance provides that 22 per cent of gross income from petroleum property can be deducted from taxable income up to half the taxable income net income. Industry spokesmen term it "a valid and valuable investment incentive." Critics in Congress call it a tax subsidy that "has failed in its purpose—to increase domestic resources."

The percentage depletion concept was adopted in 1926 when prior allowances proved tough to administer. It was kept through the years as an incentive for exploration for new reserves. In 1969, the percentage depletion rate for both foreign and domestic oil and gas wells was cut from 27 1/2 per cent to 22 per cent. (See DEPLETION Page 4A)

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee voted unanimously today to ask Judge John J. Sirica to give it the secret grand jury testimony he is holding that is believed to relate to President Nixon and the Watergate coverup.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's new labor government scrapped the three-day work week today following the settlement of a miners' strike that cut off coal supplies to industry. Energy Secretary Eric Varley said factories would return to full-time working from midnight Friday.

Watergate Inquiries Dominate President's News Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has offered to give sworn testimony, in writing or in a White House interview, to speed the House impeachment inquiry. But some congressional Republicans questioned whether he would be open enough.

Nixon told a television-radio news conference Wednesday night he will surrender to the House Judiciary Committee all tapes and documents made available earlier to Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, besides making himself available for questions.

offer as "very forthcoming," he hedged at promising to provide other evidence the panel might seek. And he said it would be improper for him to submit to cross-examination.

Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona, the House Republican leader, said it appears Nixon "has opted for disclosure and cooperation." But he said "every relevant fact and piece of evidence simply must be furnished to the Judiciary Committee if we are to have any hope of resolving this matter."

Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., wouldn't comment. But Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., said of a formal letter from Nixon lawyer James D. St. Clair, responding shortly before the news conference to a committee request for data: "I don't think it's satisfactory. It doesn't appear to be responsive."

When Nixon outlined at the news conference his offer of at least limited cooperation, he declared, "I believe that it will serve the purpose." He expressed strong opposition to letting the committee go to the White House and "paw through it on a fishing expedition."

Continuing Watergate inquiries dominated the 39-minute session with newsmen, Nixon's (See WATERGATE Page 4A)

Women Ask 'Lib' In Pants Suits

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — How can I get rid of the smell of moth crystals in coats and jackets that have been stored and cannot be washed? Airing does little good. I find the odor of protective moth sprays linger even when I do not use as much as recommended. — ANNA.

DEAR POLLY — Now that women wear pants so much my Pet Peeve is with the makers of pants suits selling from $40 to $100 with unuffed pants that cannot be lengthened. Women come in different sizes and heights just as men do. Still they are expected to buy pants all the same length. Some pants do come proportioned but they are hard to find. Thanks for listening. — MRS. P.F.Y.

POLLY'S NOTE: This is only one of many complaints we have received about the sizes and lengths of pants suits.

DEAR POLLY — I am answering Elva who wanted to know how to make fitted sheets for a three-quarter bed. She cannot find them to buy. Of course, start with a flat sheet, spread it on top of the mattress on the bed, pin and then sew mitered corners all around for the bottom sheet but only the two bottom ones for a top sheet. Cut away excess material at corners or around each end three or four inches beyond the corners. Cut elastic shorter than sheet so it holds taut. Tack elastic at both ends. — LUCILLE.

DEAR POLLY — To do a really good cleaning job wait until you are really angry or in a throw-away mood or both. It is a sure thing that you will burn up that energy scrubbing, sorting and sponging. If throw rugs have become limp after many washings,

Sorority Chapter Holds Ceremony

The Mu Psi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met recently in the home of Mrs. Leonard Goodenough, 703 Sinclair St., for a ritual of jewels ceremony and business session. Mrs. Harold Semple was co-hostess.

The ceremony was held for Mrs. Don Philtzer, Mrs. Marty Hearne, Mrs. Deward Martin and Mrs. Curtis Smith. Officiating was Mrs. Goodenough, president.

Mrs. Martin led a discussion on the chapter's spring service project, the multiple sclerosis drive.

Mrs. Rick Etheredge announced a box supper auction will be held as a ways and means project at the next chapter social.

A review of the duties of recording secretary was given by Mrs. Jim Campbell from the sorority's handbook.

A program on drama was given by Mrs. Ping, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Bill Hartzo.

Mrs. Ping announced the next meeting will be Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Etheredge.

Winner of the hostess gift was Mrs. Smith.

Dear Abby

Pregnant Teen Has Nowhere To Turn

—By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I hope to God you can help me. I am 16 years old and pregnant. I really can't understand how this happened. My boyfriend promised he would be real careful.

I have got to find a place to go real quick, because there are four girls in our family, and my mom said if any of us ever got that way we may as well pack up and leave home.

My boyfriend is joining the Navy and says he will come back and marry me if I wait until May, but I can't wait that long.

What I want you to tell me is where I can go to have my child? I'd like to keep it if possible and come back and finish school. I don't have five cents to my name, but I am willing to work like a horse as long as I can. Please help me.

ALL MESSED UP

DEAR ALL: There is a Booth Memorial Home near you. It's run by the Salvation Army, and a more kind and generous group of people would be hard to find. Tell them Abby sent you. May God bless you.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter was a young bride when her husband went overseas in the service. She wrote to him every day. She was lucky if she got a letter from him once every three weeks, and when he did write he said things like, "I am leaving my wedding ring in the drawer and am having myself a good time." She used to cry herself to sleep every night.

I said to her, "Don't be a fool. Don't write to him for three weeks. Then write that you decided to leave your wedding ring in the drawer, too, and you are also now having a good time. In the next letter, write and tell him you met a lovely man who is making you forget your loneliness."

Abby, it worked like a charm. Her husband started to write every day, asking her questions, and telling her how much he loved her.

Everything worked out just like I thought it would. By the time he got home, they were madly in love. I believe in fighting fire with fire.

MAMMA KNOWS BEST

DEAR MAMMA: Not all sick marriages respond to the same treatment. In your daughter's case, it worked. But usually when people fight fire with fire, they end up with ashes.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell the reading public that millions of otherwise perfectly normal people have a hearing loss and all they expect from their friends and relatives is a little consideration. Example: I have had people (on discovering that I wear a hearing aid) speak to me as though I am mentally deficient and unable to comprehend normal language.

Couple Returns From Honeymoon

Mr. and Mrs. Gary W. Hopkins, she is the former JoAnn Michelle Farris, are making their home in Midland at 3202 Sentinel St., following their marriage and a wedding trip to Salt Lake City, Utah.

The bridegroom, manager of Rodeway Inn, recently moved to Midland from Dallas. His bride is employed by Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co.

The wedding ceremony, performed by Dr. Burgin Watkins in St. Luke's United Methodist Church, was followed by a reception at Rodeway Inn. James Gambino, violinist, played for the reception.

Pink and Burgandy roses and pink candles enhanced the bridal scene. Allen Johnson and Mark Dunn lighted the candles.

Edd Potter presented his sister in marriage, and Mrs. Potter served as matron of honor. Tom Thompson of Dallas was the best man.

The rings were carried by Diann and Steve Farris. Annie Usinger was the flower girl.

Musical selections were offered by Frankie Rowsewell, organist, and Debbie Pope, soloist. Daniel Macklen, David Howard and Neil Webb ushered.

Male Homecoming Queen Loses Second Bid At Camellia Bowl Crown

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—blonde Sheridan Tumler was named Camellia Bowl queen. The 20-year-old UCD junior kissed Miss Tumler four times and announced he was retiring from the queen contest circuit.

"I think I made my point," Mosher said. "Queen contests exploit women. This was better than the Davis contest. I didn't enjoy the way they ran it at Davis — they based it all on looks."

"This one based it on personality and poise and about 60 per cent on looks. The girls weren't angry I am against them. I've been nice to them, but not all of them agree with my reasons for running."

New York Miss Proud Of Her Police Uniform

By JON HALVORSEN Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Regina Robbins bristled when a reporter broached the subject of women's liberation.

"I'm doing what I want to do. Just leave it at that," snapped Miss Robbins, 23, proudly wearing the gray uniform of the New York State Police. "I'm not out to prove anything."

"You look very cute in that hat," her brother, Alan, 27, interjected with a straight face.

Miss Robbins and three other women became the first women troopers in the 57-year history of the State Police in ceremonies in early January held with all due publicity at a movie theater here.

But Miss Robbins stood out. A cum laude graduate of Syracuse University from Binghamton, N.Y., she topped her class academically at the State Police Academy, outscoring 120 men. The feat came as no surprise to her family.

"She can shoot the pants off me at the rifle range. I'll tell you that," said her father, George.

Her brother believes the 5-foot-6, 114-pound trooper can handle any situation. "I fought with her years ago and I'd say she can do anything a man can do. She gets mad," Alan said.

State Police Supt. William Kirwan vowed that the women's duties would be "exactly the same as that of a male trooper." He acknowledged, however, that they would not be assigned to handle prison riots or long searches in rugged terrain where stamina is essential.

"If it comes to a real donnybrook situation where we need people, we can use the women as support even under those circumstances," he added.

Miss Robbins and the three other women — a fifth dropped out during training — graduated with the man who had tried to stop their appointment. Thomas Button, an Albion, N.Y., village patrolman, had filed a suit contending he was the victim of sex discrimination, saying all except Miss Robbins scored lower than he did on competitive examinations.

Miss Robbins admitted the publicity "made things more difficult, it really did. But now I think the novelty will wear off."

The other women troopers are Carol Johnson, 24, Maureen P. Gordnier, 21, and Carol Desell, 23, all from New York state.

Life Memberships Given By PTA

Mrs. William Milner, president, conducted the business for a meeting Tuesday of the Parent-Teacher Association of Rusk Elementary School at the school.

A nominating committee was appointed and Mrs. B. G. Scott gave a projects report.

A PTA life membership was presented to Mrs. Ed Bryan Jr., and one was mailed to Mrs. Joe Killian, past president, who has moved to Houston, it was announced by Mrs. Milner.

Students served as hosts and hostesses for open house and room visitation in observance of Public Schools Week following the PTA business meeting.

Simon Announces New Fuel Quotas

state supplies expected for this month. He said figures on previously expected state supplies for March ranged from as low as 81.7 per cent of the 1972 level to as high as 110.7 per cent, and the national average was 84.3 per cent of March 1972 levels.

By raising the low-supply states to at least 85 per cent Simon increased the national average to 89.6 per cent of March 1972 levels.

These percentages, however, do not show the actual extent of gasoline shortages since they are measured against 1972.

During the past two years gasoline demand has increased and Simon did not provide figures showing how far short of potential demand the March supplies would fall.

A listing issued at the National Governors Conference, where Simon made his announcement, showed that 30 states would have been below the minimum 85 per cent supply level without the additional supplies which Simon ordered for them.

New Hampshire would have been in the worst shape in March, initially anticipating only 61.7 per cent of its March 1972 gasoline supplies.

Simon modified New Hampshire's allocation to bring it up to 85 per cent, just as he increased the allocations of the other states with low supplies.

Among those most in need of additional allocations were West Virginia, originally estimated at 66.8 per cent of 1972 levels; Nebraska at 65.9 per cent; Connecticut at 71.1 per cent; Missouri at 71.4 per cent; and Montana at 70.2 per cent.

All of these states and others below the 85 per cent mark were assigned additional allocations to reach or surpass 85 per cent.

All states received increased supplies in March over their February supplies, ranging from some 300,000 gallons for Minnesota to an increase of 99.5 million gallons for California and 119.7 million gallons for Texas.

lifting of the Arab oil embargo against the United States, but said the chances were improved by diplomatic progress toward disengagement of Arab and Israeli forces in the Middle East.

An administration energy official told newsmen earlier, however, that the present federal allocation of wholesale gasoline probably must continue through the summer even if

Texas Solons Agree, Vote Alike Twice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both U.S. senators from Texas—John Tower, the Republican, and Lloyd Bentsen Jr., the Democrat—voted Wednesday to uphold President Nixon's veto of the Energy Bill.

The Senate vote to override was 58-40. A two-thirds majority is necessary to override a veto. Tower and Bentsen also voted together—with the majority—as the Senate adopted an amendment killing a pay raise for members of Congress, federal judges and government executives. The Senate vote was 69-28.

The two senators from Texas split their vote as the Senate invoked cloture and shut off debate on the pay raise bill.

Bentsen voted for cloture. Tower voted against shutting off debate.

Three Texans Back New Rollback Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is roll call vote of the Texas delegation Wednesday on 218 to 175 House approval of a modified rollback on crude oil prices (X designates not voting):

Three Designs Selected For Centennial Coinage

WASHINGTON (AP) — A colonial drummer boy, Independence Hall and a Liberty Bell-Moon combination were announced today as choices for designs for the nation's 176th centennial coins.

The coins — the dollar, half dollar and quarter — are scheduled to be ready for circulation early next year. They will carry the double date 1776-1976 to mark the United States' 200th anniversary of independence.

The new designs will be on the reverse sides of the coins. The fronts will remain the same as now, except for the change in date.

Cash awards of $5,000 each are being made to the persons submitting the winning designs. They are:

—Jack L. Ahr of Arlington Heights, Ill., who designed the colonial drummer boy that will appear on the back of the quarter.

—Seth G. Huntington of Minneapolis, who designed the outline of Independence Hall that second in nine days. But the seemingly relaxed President dealt with these other major topics:

—It would "not serve a useful purpose at this time" to discuss prospects for a lifting of the Arab oil embargo.

—In upholding his veto of emergency energy legislation Wednesday, the Senate "voted longer gas lines and vetoed nationwide rationing."

—Speaking perhaps a bit less positively than in the recent past, he said, "The best advice I can get is that there will not be a recession in 1974."

—Nixon opposes public financing of federal election campaigns, an idea with strong congressional support, because he regards individual giving as a healthy thing and because use of tax dollars to finance one party or the other would mean "taxation without representation" for citizens of opposing views.

The President appeared to break some new ground in discussing his taped March 21, 1973, meeting with ousted counsel John W. Dean III and former staff chief H. R. Haldeman.

Dean has testified that Nixon was informed then that it might take $1 million to ensure silence by those originally convicted of participation in the Watergate break-in, and that Nixon said raising the money would be no problem.

In subsequent testimony, for which his last week was indicted on a perjury charge, Haldeman reported that Nixon said the money could be raised but that it would be wrong. At an August news conference, Nixon supported Haldeman's recollection.

Asked to explain Haldeman's perjury indictment in light of the taped record available to the grand jury, Nixon said he told Dean payment of hush money would have to be linked to a grant of executive clemency and that extending clemency would be wrong.

"I meant that the whole transaction was wrong," Nixon said, acknowledging that others hearing the tape "may reach different interpretations." He added:

"I know what I meant, and I know also what I did."

Denying he ever authorized clemency or payment of hush money, Nixon said that as soon as Dean told him that day of the Watergate cover-up, "the policy was one of full disclosure."

Saying he wants the impeachment inquiry concluded as rapidly as possible, he declared: "I have said there can be no cloud over the White House. I want that cloud removed."

To a question about losses of normal Republican House seats in Michigan and Ohio in recent special elections, Nixon acknowledged Watergate may well have been a factor.

Depletion Allowance Now Under New House Assault

to the present 22 per cent. Wednesday Schneebell, and Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., advanced a concept that would phase a gradual wipe out by slicing away at the rate of 2 or 3 per cent each year so that the percentage depletion provision eventually would vanish after seven or eight years.

Rep. James C. Coman, D-Calif., said he favors a five-year phase out. The Schneebell-Gibbons approach represents a simplification of a major proposal presented by staff tax experts on the joint congressional taxation committee.

The experts recommended hiking petroleum industry taxes by calling for phased elimination of the depletion allowance as prices of oil rise above a specific base figure.

The Nixon administration has urged repeal of this allowance on production abroad—a step the committee is expected to approve. But the administration's top tax officials have argued against getting rid of the allowance for operations in the United States.

Schneebell argued that major oil companies need a better idea of what to expect in the coming five to seven years, and he said that what the country wants is an end to the depletion feature.

"The marketplace will take care of the price as we go along," he added.

Grand Jury Indicts Six In Psychiatrist Break-In

eral prison at Allenwood, Pa. Krogh agreed to cooperate with the prosecutors.

The indictment also alleged that on July 28, 1971, E. Howard Hunt Jr. sent Colson a memo which discussed a proposal to "obtain Ellsberg's files from his psychiatric analyst."

The indictment alleged that on Aug. 31, 1971, Colson arranged to obtain $5,000 to finance the break-in.

Baker, De Diego and Martinez allegedly entered and searched Fielding's office.

Both Barker and Martinez served about a year in prison for their part in the Watergate break-in.

Martinez, 49, was released on parole this morning from the Eglin Air Force Base federal prison facility in Florida. Barker, 55, was released on Jan. 4 pending appeal after serving one year and 19 days.

The latest development in the Watergate cases came after President Nixon had moved dramatically on Wednesday to blunt the impact of the cover-up indictment.

Last Friday, a federal grand jury indicted seven former administration and campaign aides on charges they conspired to block the investigation of the Watergate break-in. It also gave the judge a secret report, which sources later said dealt with Nixon's role in Watergate.

Robbery Suspects Should've Carried Own Highway Map

ODESSA — Three Lovington, N.M., residents were arrested for robbery early today after they stopped two policemen to ask directions to Midland.

They have been identified as Ted Allen Isbell and Marcelo Moreno, both 18, and a 16-year-old boy.

Bonds of $10,000 were set by Municipal Court Judge Otis Moore for each of the adults and the juvenile is being held in the juvenile detention home.

The robbery occurred about 12:45 a.m. at a 7-Eleven Store at 809 Harless St.

The clerk told officers that a man walked in with something by his side. She greeted him and he pulled up a rifle and told her he was robbing the place.

She put $40 into a paper sack and he left on foot, officers reported. Then she called police.

Shortly after the description of the robber had been put out on the police radio, three men in a car hailed Patrolmen T. C. Ahrendt and F. O. Roberson and asked for directions to Midland.

One of the men in the car fit the description of the robber and, after questioning the men, they were arrested.

Forty dollars and a rifle were recovered.

Filing Deadline Past For School, College Elections

No one filed for Midland Independent School District board of trustees or Midland College board of trustees Wednesday, last day of filing in the two elections to be held jointly April 6.

Joe H. Dominey is running unopposed for re-election to Place 2 on the school board. Mrs. B. David Butman and James Ramsoure are seeking Mrs. Margaret Cowden's Place 1 seat. Mrs. Cowden is not seeking re-election.

Three incumbents are unopposed in the Midland College election. They are Reagan Legg, Place 1; the Rev. H. F. Doyle, Place 2; and Fred S. Wright, Place 3.

Legg is board chairman.

Downtown Rotary Club Picks Young As New President

John W. Young was elected president of the Midland Downtown Rotary Club for 1974-75 at its annual officer election meeting held today noon in the American Legion Hall. He will succeed John Tyler in the office.

Other officers named are E. Dave Dorchester, vice president; R. O. Smith, secretary; Parker M. Humes, treasurer, and Marvin McCree, sergeant-at-arms.

Directors elected include: Robert Donnell, Merwin Haag, Richard Jones, James W. Mims, Carroll Thomas and John Thomas.

The slate of officers and directors was submitted by James Zimmerman, immediate past president and chairman of the nominating committee.

The program at today's meeting was highlighted by a review of the operation, activities, achievements, overall program and personnel of the High Sky Girls Ranch. The speaker was Rotarian Jack Daniels, director of the ranch.

An updated slide presentation of the ranch illustrated Daniels' discussion.

Gilbert C. Tompson is the club's program chairman for March.

Gambling Case Motions Hearing Continuing Today

The motions hearing in a federal gambling case pending here resumed at 9:30 a.m. today and it appeared it would continue through Friday.

Discussion since Tuesday has centered around wiretaps FBI agents made on the telephones of the seven defendants.

Defense attorneys are seeking to have them declared inadmissible as evidence.

In that connection, the defense also is asking that evidence seized as a result of the overheard telephone conversations be declared inadmissible.

The defendants were indicted here last year and it is expected that the case will be tried while court is in session this month and part of April.

They are accused of conducting and conspiracy to conduct illegal gambling operations.

Defendants are Charlie Hendrix, Harold Gene Madison, Harry Krist and Lonnie L. Jones of Midland; Clarence A. Johnson and Paul Hynes Harvey of Odessa, and Lyle Clifton Saunders of Monahans.

Gasoline Allocation To Area Expected To Be Raised Soon

state's three per cent monthly set aside, as in February, but not on a long-term basis.

Kent said there is no indication when additional allocations should arrive even if they are approved in Washington.

"There is a logistics problem of getting the gasoline to the area," Kent noted, adding it takes time to make the necessary adjustments.

Should the increased allotment not arrive before April, Kent said March will be worse than February for gas users. He also said the area should be brought up to the nation's average 15 per cent shortfall.

The group presented an 80-page fully documented report to Sawhill, listing the reasons the additional allotment is necessary.

Also meeting with the group were Duke Ligon and John Weber of the Federal Energy Office, U.S. Rep. George Mahon, U.S. Rep. Richard White, and representatives of U.S. Sen.

Lloyd Bentsen and U.S. Rep. O. C. Fisher.

Mayor Angelo said, "There was no question but that Mr. Sawhill will make every effort to assure that there will be no shutdowns of the oil and gas industry throughout the Permian Basin Region. We were convinced that he understands the situation."

The second part of the area group's request, allowing crude oil produced by area independents to be refined and kept in the area, was taken under study by Sawhill, who gave no indication whether the request will eventually be approved.

Mayor Angelo and Kent both noted Sawhill is strongly opposed to gas rationing.

"I think it is premature to say our problem is solved," Mayor Angelo stated, but added the situation looks better.

The Permian Basin produces approximately 25 per cent of the nation's crude oil. Oil workers are having problems getting to and from the fields, thus hampering the production.

Sawhill said, "We've got to do something about this."

Following the meeting, the Permian Basin group watched the motion to override the President's veto of the energy bill be defeated on the Senate floor.

Streaking Produces First Texas Campus Violence

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A streaking interlude ended in violence early today at Lamar University in Beaumont, and police hauled 20 college students off to jail.

Officials said none of the arrested students took part in the streaking—all were spectators.

Springlike weather exposed more naked demonstrators in much milder incidents at other Texas schools Wednesday, and the fad spread into daylight hours and to at least one high school hallway.

Authorities estimated 1,000 students gathered on the Lamar campus to watch a series of nude dashes, but the crowd had dwindled to about 300 before trouble developed around 12:30 a.m. They reported security guards called for help from city police and sheriff's deputies as several auto windshields were smashed and bottles were hurled at officers.

Witnesses said the heads of some students were bloodied by club-swinging policemen during the melee after they had ordered the crowd to disperse.

Police said they expected to charge those taken into custody with disorderly conduct. Calm was restored after the arrests.

A mid-morning streaking fiesta at The University of Texas-El Paso produced some 20 male and female streakers and a crowd of 2,000 spectators.

Two men started the "fiesta" on the UTEP campus and during the next two hours some 20 persons disrobed and took turns streaking through the crowd.

A less energetic group of men and women streakers at the El Paso campus climbed into a pickup truck for their run before the crowd.

Two boys at Roosevelt High School in San Antonio found their happiness trotting through the hallways. But police were at the end of the course for the pair.

The arrests touched off a 30-minute protest demonstration by about 1,000 other pupils and officers hauled away two fully clothed youths from that demonstration.

A petition circulated at the San Antonio courthouse called for a streaking extravaganza to be staged on April 1. It would end at the county jail.

Nude males dashed across other Texas campuses during the day, including Amarillo Junior College, The University of Texas-Arlington, Central Texas College at Killeen, Odessa College and Texas Southwest College in Brownsville.

Others dashed through the Student Union Building at Lamar University in Beaumont and through a cafeteria at Stephen F. Austin in Nacogdoches.

At Austin, Capitol guards nervously eyed exits after rumors spread through the nearby University of Texas that the ultimate streak would be down an aisle of the Texas Constitutional Convention now in progress.

At Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, student representatives voted 24-18 to sanction a March 18 "streaking contest" on campus.

And two hooded male streakers proved Tuesday night they don't always want to wear the pants by dashing across stage at a Texas-Arlington lecture by feminist Florence Howe on "Sex Role Stereotypes."

However, official warnings at some colleges that students caught in the buff would receive firm disciplinary action seemed to calm the mass streaking of the night before.

At dusk, reports of streaks lessened and most schools appeared calm during the evening.

About 50 streakers zoomed across the Sul Ross campus at Alpine Wednesday night and a few others made it to a pizza parlor in downtown Alpine.

St. Mary's University in San Antonio reported 50 streakers, including five women.

Early Thursday, two men and two women appeared in the buff at the studios of radio station KVIC in Victoria and chatted with newsmen before jogging away.

At Beaumont, persons claiming membership in the "American Streaking Association" announced formation of a new organization called the "Strollers."

It's for elderly people who want to parade in the nude but don't have the energy to run at full-streak pace.

Wise 'Shelving' Action

The Committee on Rules of the House of Representatives acted wisely in shelving the land use planning bill reported by a majority of the House Interior Committee.

This was one of the more encouraging actions occurring in Congress recently.

But the Washington Post, liberal all the way, was quick to lambaste the committee for its action. This, of course, was to be expected of The Post and of the liberal northern and eastern press in general.

"The House Rules Committee reverted to its old, obstructionist ways in voting unexpectedly to shelve the land use planning bill," The Post said editorially.

The editorial accused the nine members of the Rules Committee of denying the other 426 members of the House a chance to debate and vote on the measure.

Well, there are a whole lot of Americans who undoubtedly think the Rules Committee action was both excellent and timely. It is most encouraging to opponents of the measure. It might well be considered a partial victory. The only thing better would have been outright rejection, which, hopefully, will come the next time around.

And there is no doubt the legislation, or similar legislation, will be before the committee again. This is the way the proponents operate, hoping eventually to wear down the opposition.

"This arbitrary move by six Democrats and three Republicans is doubly wrong-headed because it seems to have been based largely on a lack of understanding of the land use bill and a susceptibility to the distortions and alarms peddled by the opponents of effective planning," The Post editorial said.

But on the other hand, perhaps it was a better understanding of the bill and its numerous hazardous points which prompted the Rules Committee to take the action which it did. The Post didn't recognize this.

The Post also lashed out at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce for leading the opposition forces.

"These forces have been raising a great cloud of complaints that the legislation is anti-growth, that it would inject the federal government into every detail of local zoning, and that it would trample the rights of landowners and destroy property values."

This is exactly why the U.S. Chamber, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and many other organizations have done and will continue to do everything possible to defeat the land use planning bill as proposed and any legislation similar to it which may come in the future. These fears ARE grounded in fact, despite what The Post says.

It is hoped, for the good of the nation, that the bill will remain shelved from here on out!

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson Says: American Legion probed for White House ties.
WASHINGTON—The Watergate prosecutors have been investigating, of all groups, the American Legion on suspicion that the White House used legionnaires to stand up to left-wing demonstrators.

To the bewilderment of National Adjutant William Hauck, who has been a friend of presidents since 1952, he was called in for interrogation by the prosecutors.

Hauck duly appeared before a stern, young lawyer named Nick Ackerman who, ironically, won the American Legion "Voice of Democracy" award at high school in 1965. Ackerman wanted to know whether the White House had tried to get the legion to bus in members for the funeral of J. Edgar Hoover.

The prosecutors apparently thought the White House tried to recruit legionnaires to square off with left-wing demonstrators at the funeral, thereby stirring up sentiment against President Nixon's enemies on the left. It's known that the Cuban Watergate burglary team was sent to squabble with the demonstrators.

The long-suffering Hauck also was interrogated about the legion's history and its stand on the Pentagon Papers case. He was even questioned, astonishingly, about the White House tapes.

Hauck confided to us that he was "dumbfounded" at the questioning. Nevertheless, he patiently denied that the White House had contacted the legion about the Hoover funeral or meddled in legion policies.

He also checked with other top legionnaires and wrote a private letter to Ackerman, stating they also had received no call "urging the influx of busloads of American Legionnaires to attend Mr. Hoover's funeral."

At the Watergate Special Prosecutor's office, a spokesman said it was "absolutely wrong" to say the legion was under investigation.

"We have asked many patriotic Americans to cooperate with us and regret very much that anyone would assume this meant we were investigating them," said the spokesman.

The spokesman's definition of investigation differs with the dictionary definition and the impression left on the legion.

BATTLE FOR BURMA: Tough Chinese Communist guerrillas are attacking settlements in remote mountains of neutralist Burma.

As described by intelligence reports from the battle zone, the Chinese are led by officers in close touch with Peking.

Their thrusts into the hills and towns of northern Burma threaten not only Burma but Thailand, which has close military ties with the United States. There are no reports, however, that American special forces in Thailand have intervened in the spreading conflict.

The transcript of an unusual Morse radio transmission from the northern Shan states of Burma tells of powerful Communist action against Shan chairman of the House International Narcotics subcommittee, has established contacts with the Shan army to keep abreast of the opium trade. He has learned that the Chinese military moves may jeopardize his efforts to free two Russian doctors, who were kidnapped by Shan rebels from a Soviet mercy mission to Burma.

The Russians secretly have asked Wolff's help in getting the doctors back. To Wolff's astonishment, he was called from a sick bed to meet with a Soviet diplomat on the matter. Wolff promised to do what he could.

The congressman has used his contacts to seek the doctors' relief. The intermediaries, as a gesture, tried to smuggle two bottles of vodka to them via caravan routes into northern Burma. The vodka, Wolff has learned, was intercepted. But he has received unconfirmed reports that one of the doctors now has been sent southward in a jade caravan to freedom.

The other, as far as can be determined, remains in Shan rebel hands without his vodka. He is being held hostage as part of a bizarre scheme to get talks going on Shan independence from Burma.

BRUCE BLOSSAT The President Of U.S. Versus The Presidency

WASHINGTON (NEA)—One of President Nixon's strangest exercises in the entire Watergate period is his persistent habit of seeming to defend his office rather than himself.

Again and again, he has spoken of the need to protect and preserve "the presidency" in both the present and the future. He makes it sound as if his individual fate as President were almost a secondary matter.

This stance reached a new extreme in his Feb. 25 press conference (only his 36th in some five years), when Mr. Nixon said:

"... it is vitally important in this nation that the presidency of the United States not be hostage to what happens to the popularity of a President at one time or another."

He was responding to a question whether he would reconsider his determination not to resign if it became increasingly apparent that the Republican party might suffer disastrous defeat in the 1974 elections.

Carried to this limit, there is something surrealistic about the President's argument.

Of course a certain surface air of nobility of purpose may surround his suggestion that any president should plow ahead toward his objectives without regard to the ups and downs of his status in the opinion polls.

But in fact neither Richard Nixon nor any other president can ignore these gauges on his popularity. They are obviously a measure of how his performance in office is regarded, though naturally not the sole measure. And he cannot act in isolation from the effect of that judgment, much as he might wish to.

Consider the case of President Harry Truman, whose 23 per cent popularity rating in 1952 is celebrated as the all-time low since polls began. Would anyone like to argue that he was not handicapped in performance by that fact?

The setting was the Korean war. It was the consensus in the United Nations military command that the slowly advancing U.N. (largely U.S.) troops could make a true most effective if they could establish a demarcation line at North Korea's narrow waist—a good deal north of the now-existing line. But to achieve that goal, meant more troops, perhaps a daring sea maneuver, more material, more money and more money more taxes. The decision: "Politically unsalvageable."

Had that defensible Korean "waist" been reached, we might not have had to keep 50,000 American troops on tenuous duty for two decades, nor would the South Koreans have had to maintain on line a force nearly 10 times as great.

The fact is that the presidency is always, in key ways, "hostage" to the popularity of a particular president at a particular time. Far from performing in insulation from popular judgments, a president's performance is deeply affected by those gauges.

It is so with Mr. Nixon, even as he bespeaks his view that he should not, in the interests of the "office," allow himself to be made captive.

In the whole critical area of the economy and the attendant energy crisis, neither the President nor his high agents can perform with confidence and effectiveness because, aside from the matter of competence, Richard Nixon is neither trusted nor respected by a majority of Americans.

Popularity ratings are life sustenance to a president. This one knows it. To say otherwise is to utter deceptive nonsense.

So these same great minds have been hard at work and have had considerable success in their efforts to change this situation.

The working man still is supporting some idle rich, such as overpaid politicians, but now has a much bigger burden on his aching back, supporting millions of idle poor also.

DON OAKLEY From Unbelievable To Commonplace, Quickly

NEW YORK (NEA)—A little more than 16 years after the headlines announced the amazing fact that a man-made satellite circled the earth, the return of the astronauts of Skylab 3 from a record 84 days in orbit was not deemed newsworthy enough to pre-empt scheduled afternoon soap operas.

In less than two decades of space exploration, the unbelievable has become the commonplace—a tribute both to human ingenuity and to our ability to weave the most incredible changes into the ordinary fabric of our lives.

In 1972, for example, the Mariner 9 space probe photomapped the entire planet of Mars (something that has not yet been done for earth), enabling scientists to construct the first photomosaic globe of another planet using pictures beamed back over millions of miles of space.

A similar globe for Venus appears unlikely. Photographs taken by another probe, Mariner 10, as it swept by that planet a few weeks ago revealed no break in its solid cloud cover, though patterns that showed up in the photographs will tell much about the dynamic of earth's nearest planetary neighbor.

Beyond Solar System
Even as Mariner 10 sped inward toward the sun, Pioneer 10 crossed the orbit of Jupiter, experiencing a close call in that planet's enormously strong magnetic field, on its journey beyond the solar system itself.

Next planet to undergo the electronic scrutiny of men will be Mercury, when Mariner 10 flies by on March 29 to take the first close-up photographs of this planet that is closest to the sun.

Radar observations of Mercury made by astronomers at Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory suggest that it is dotted with hills and valleys, plus some large craters, among a number of "intriguing" shapes and features. Mariner 10 may tell us what they are, and possibly how they came to be.

Whether or not Richard M. Nixon serves out the remainder of his second presidential term, the effects of his first term will be felt by American society for perhaps a generation.

Five years ago the U.S. Supreme Court generally was viewed as the champion of blacks and criminal defendants and antiwar dissidents and every other minority, today libertarians are deliberately NOT appealing adverse lower court decisions, even those they believe violate past Supreme Court decisions.

The reason is fear that the "Burger court," on which sit four Nixon appointees, will use the cases as an opportunity to reverse precedents set by the "Warren court."

Landmark decisions that already have been modified include the Miranda ruling on self-incrimination and the Mapp ruling on illegally seized evidence.

This is something new under the American sun—people avoiding the nation's highest court, the judicial guardian of its liberties, out of fear that what they will get will be less, not more, liberty.

Dear Editor:
A few years back it often was said by self-anointed social engineers that the working man was deprived because he had to support the idle rich.

So these same great minds have been hard at work and have had considerable success in their efforts to change this situation.

The working man still is supporting some idle rich, such as overpaid politicians, but now has a much bigger burden on his aching back, supporting millions of idle poor also.

Sir Dinadan, the worst player among the knights of the Round but what was an over-trick to a man who could take on nine knights at the same time. Lancelot wanted to defeat the contract and played his nine of hearts.

South won the trick and led his seven of diamonds. If he had guessed to lead a club he would have made five notrump, but he guessed wrong and led a diamond.

Dinadan went right up with his ace. Then he dutifully led a second heart to establish the rest of the hearts for his partner.

Now the best South could do was to cash the good spades and diamonds and concede, the last four tricks to Lancelot.

Thus, he slapped his five of hearts on the table as soon as the bidding ended. The 10 was played from dummy.

Lancelot, the peerless knight and bridge player, was sitting East. He saw that he could knock out dummy's ace, but there would be no way for him to score tricks with any low hearts. Thus the contract would surely make if he played his king.

Permian Basin Sectors Draw Sites For 93 New Oil, Gas Projects

Applications for oil and gas projects in the Permian Basin last week totaled 93. Twenty-six were filed as wildcats, and 67 as field wells. Compared to the count two weeks ago, when 18 wildcats and 75 field wells were planned, the over-all total has not changed.

Texas Railroad Commission District 8-A, with offices in Lubbock, recorded eight exploratory tests, followed by RRC District 8, with seven, and six were filed in RRC District 7-C. Toppling the list in projected pool development was District 8, with 25 scheduled.

Southeast New Mexico received applications for five wildcats and 10 field wells.

Arabs May Review Oil Policies At Meeting In Cairo

CAIRO (AP) — Arab oil ministers are scheduled to meet in Cairo on Sunday to review their policies, an Egyptian Oil Ministry spokesman said. The lifting of their oil embargo against the United States is expected to be the main topic.

"The meeting was scheduled to convene in Tripoli but due to accommodation difficulties it has been switched to Cairo," the spokesman said. An industrial fair in Tripoli made the hotel situation difficult, he explained.

Egypt invited ministers to meet "to review oil policies. Our policy is based on adapting ourselves to changing circumstances," the spokesman said. He would not elaborate.

Egypt was expected to propose the embargo be lifted as a way of thanking the United States for helping to disengage Egyptian and Israeli troops along the Suez Canal front. Saudi Arabia and several Persian Gulf states were reported to have endorsed the Egyptian view. But it was not clear if the radical states such as Libya and Iraq would follow Cairo's recommendation.

President Nixon said Wednesday night United States diplomacy in the Middle East would inevitably influence the Arabs to end the embargo, which was imposed after the October war because of the heavy U.S. commitment to Israel.

Earlier, the Saudi Arabian oil minister, Ahmed Zaki Yamani, was quoted as saying the embargo had served its purpose and should be lifted.

Wedding Gifts Taken By Thieves

Someone broke into the home of Donald Leon Willingham, 1204 N. Marlenfeld St., and took $190 in goods, mostly wedding gifts, Patrolman J. D. Stuard reported.

Willingham told police that he and his wife moved their things into the house Tuesday and left about 5:30 p.m. that day.

They spent the night elsewhere and returned to their new home about noon Wednesday. That was when they discovered the house had been broken into.

Stuard said the burglar had removed a kitchen window so he could get inside and it appeared that he had worn gloves.

Missing items include a tape player, several kitchen counter-top appliances, linens, two sets of dinner utensils, a sack of groceries, a jewelry box and several items of jewelry.

Patrolman J. D. Stuard reported.

Burglar Makes Himself At Home

Whoever broke into Theima Conally's home at 1403 E. Parker St. Wednesday made himself right at home.

He made a baloney and cheese sandwich and took an $85 watch with him, Patrolman Ron Rice reported.

The thief seemed to know just how to get into the house: he took the key from the mailbox and unlocked the front door.

AT CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION— Delegates Debate Ex-Convicts' Rights

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislators argued voting rights of ex-convicts at length today as the Texas Constitutional Convention moved slowly into the Rights and Suffrage Article.

Sparking the long series of for and against speeches was a proposed amendment by Sen. A. R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, that would allow convicted felons to vote once they had completed their sentences, paroles or probation.

"The right to vote is a privilege awarded a citizen of Texas who has earned that right," argued Rep. John Hoestenbach, D-Odessa, in opposition. "Why should we regard a criminal who has broken the laws of our society?"

"Criminals know when they break the law they will lose the right to vote," said Mrs. Betty Andujar, Fort Worth senator.

"Let's move into the 20th century and remove the shadow on these people," said Rep. Matt Garcia, D-San Antonio.

Rep. Ronald Earle, D-Austin, said restoration of the right to vote is a major aid in rehabilitating ex-convicts. "It is a major function in re-integrating a man into our society," he said.

Rep. Billy Williamson, D-Tyler, made a last stand against the article, urging that voters be given the alternative of a simple, three-sentence substitute that would have left details of the education system to the legislature.

He failed, 87-81.

"We are locking in things that should not be in the constitution. . . . Let's let the people decide which one of these articles they want. I am perfectly willing to abide by their feelings and their will," he said.

Rep. Joe Pentony, D-Houston, who had tried unsuccessfully to spread the Permanent University Fund to other schools, said the article made him "almost feel sick."

But Rep. DeWitt Hale, D-Corpus Christi, frequent sponsor of education bills, called it "a gigantic step which the people of Texas will applaud."

Schwartz heads the Rights and Suffrage Committee, which sent to the convention floor a voting rights article denying ex-convicts the right to vote, unless the legislature decrees otherwise.

Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Dallas, failed, 135-26, to remove from the Schwartz amendment a requirement that a probationer complete his probation before regaining the right to vote.

Mattox claimed this goes beyond existing law and warned that young people, such as marijuana probationers, might try to change the law "by other means, . . . marching in the streets, throwing bombs and shooting people" if denied suffrage.

Rep. John Hoestenbach, D-Odessa, objected that Mattox' amendment "would let convicted murderers, dope pushers and dope users who got probation to vote and run for office."

He referred to reports that students are active politically in Austin — "if you read the Daily Bolshevik that they put out at The University of Texas." The reference apparently was to the UT-Austin student newspaper, The Daily Texan.

Before taking up the voting rights article of a new constitution, the delegates approved, 98-71, the education article which had taken 2½ weeks of their time.

The nine-part article, which is 1,900 words long compared with 4,700 words in the existing constitution, does these things:

—Guarantees "equal educational opportunity" below the college level and requires the legislature to provide "equitable support and maintenance" for the public school system.

—Continues the Permanent School Fund, a billion dollar endowment for the public schools which started with the dedication of millions of acres of public land to finance education.

—Alleviates fears of uniformity in public schools by specifically allowing local school districts to "enrich" their programs.

—Preserves the $682 million Permanent University Fund exclusively for The University of Texas and Texas A&M systems.

—Requires a $31 million annual appropriation from general taxes for the 23 colleges outside the UT and A&M systems.

742 Cambodian Rebels Defect

KAMBOL, Cambodia (AP) — A group of 742 former insurgents swore loyalty to President Lon Nol's government today in the largest defection of anti-government forces since the Cambodian war began in April 1970.

Lon Nol's representatives said it took seven months of negotiations to bring the nationalist Khmer Rumdo troops over to the government side. National assemblyman Thach Chen, one official working to bring in ralliers, said at a ceremony 15 miles west of Phnom Penh that 10,000 more rebel soldiers might come over in the next few months.

The Khmer Rumdos, who said they had become disenchanted with fighting alongside the Communist-led Khmer Rouge and North Vietnamese, were disappointed that Lon Nol did not attend the ceremony.

One jungle fighter who commands more than 4,000 Khmer Rumdos and is known as Comrade Grand Father did not attend the ceremony because of the president's absence. Aides said he went back into the provinces to bring in more defectors.

"The North Vietnamese trained us and indoctrinated us in Communist ideology but we were always placed in the front line of combat," one of the ralliers said.

"We learned the North Vietnamese have cheated us and their only aim is to weaken our society in order to abolish the Khmer nation."

The ralliers said they want to live in an area adjacent to Highway 4 about 90 miles west of Phnom Penh. They say they hope to set up their own community with government support and fight North Vietnamese and Khmer Rouge units in the region, but some of Lon Nol's generals doubt their loyalty and believe they should be split up.

Meanwhile, insurgent forces shelled Phnom Penh today for the first time in three weeks, killing one person and wounding another. Military sources said one 122mm rocket and six 75mm shells were fired from the southeast.

In Saigon, the South Vietnamese government reported that a clearly marked Joint Military Commission helicopter was hit by gunfire today and one South Vietnamese crewman was killed. A spokesman said the chopper was returning from Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon, where it had taken Viet Cong prisoners to be released. But the spokesman said the prisoner exchange would continue.

A Viet Cong spokesman said he knew nothing of the incident.

In Vientiane, the Laotian government said it would protest to the Pathet Lao over recent Communist cease-fire violations. Spokesman Ouday Souvannavong said the military situation was "tense" following eight Pathet Lao attacks in the past two weeks.

Permian Basin Sectors Draw Sites For 93 New Oil, Gas Projects

Applications for oil and gas projects in the Permian Basin last week totaled 93. Twenty-six were filed as wildcats, and 67 as field wells. Compared to the count two weeks ago, when 18 wildcats and 75 field wells were planned, the over-all total has not changed.

Texas Railroad Commission District 8-A, with offices in Lubbock, recorded eight exploratory tests, followed by RRC District 9, with seven, and six were filed in RRC District 7-C. Topping the list in projected pool development was District 8, with 25 scheduled.

Southeast New Mexico received applications for five wildcats and 10 field wells.

MITCHELL-STANS CONSPIRACY TRIAL—
Sears Weaves Story Of $200,000 Campaign Gift By Fugitive Vesco

By JOHN MORGANTHALER
NEW YORK (AP) — Financial Robert L. Vesco has been pictured as yearning for a diplomatic passport, and hoping a secret $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's reelection campaign would earn it for him.

The government says he was shooting for far higher stakes.

In return for the contribution, an indictment says that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans impeded a Securities and Exchange Commission fraud investigation into Vesco's multimillion-dollar financial empire.

Harry L. Sears, one-time Republican bigwig in New Jersey, returned to the witness stand today for a third straight day of questioning as a key government witness in the trial of Mitchell and Stans. He is expected to detail the actual payment of the $200,000 to Stans on April 10, 1972.

Reputed Kingpin In Narcotics Ring Assessed 15 Years

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Reputed drug ring leader Daniel Jaramillo, 36, drew a 15-year prison sentence in federal court Wednesday after pleading guilty to a narcotics charge.

The prison term is to be followed by a 20-year special parole.

U.S. District Court Judge John K. Regan also sentenced seven other persons arrested last November with Jaramillo. A ninth person arrested the same night is free pending a new trial. His case ended in a mistrial.

Jaramillo pleaded guilty to possessing eight pounds of heroin at North San Antonio motel with intent to distribute it.

Federal records show Jaramillo to be the top lieutenant of reputed South Texas drug kingpin Fred G. Carrasco last year when he accused two policemen of killing two alleged underworld associates.

The officers, both involved in the arrest of Carrasco, later were cleared.

MHS French Club Slates Garage Sale

The Midland High School French Club will hold a garage sale from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The sale, to be held at 2609 W. Storey St., will raise funds to pay for the club's trip to a foreign language symposium at San Antonio March 22-23.

make any difference. We can put it over until Monday." Mr. Stans and he had said April 10 would be okay.

In its opening statement, the defense had suggested Stans was according to Vesco's wishes in keeping the contribution secret. But Sears quoted Vesco as testified, "since it was after April 7, I recall telling Vesco I had discussed the matter with check."

"He specifically indicated at the time that he wanted to be a big enough contributor to be recognized. He wanted to get a diplomatic passport. That was something he desperately wanted to have. It was a status symbol he very badly wanted."

The final sentence was ordered struck by U.S. District Court Judge Lee P. Gagliardi as opinion, and the jury was told to disregard it.

Stans' Name Introduced

Stans was brought into Sears' testimony for the first time when the witness said original plans called for delivery of the $200,000 Vesco contribution no later than April 7, 1972. That was the date a new law took effect, requiring all campaign contributions over $100 to be publicly reported through the General Accounting Office.

However, Sears testified that a hitch developed April 6 in the assembling of the $200,000 in cash. He said he told Stans it probably would be available the next day, but that the former cabinet member replied that he had a scheduling problem that day, a Friday, and told him: "Well, it probably doesn't

Arabs May Review Oil Policies At Meeting In Cairo

CAIRO (AP) — Arab oil ministers are scheduled to meet in Cairo on Sunday to review their policies, an Egyptian Oil Ministry spokesman said. The lifting of their oil embargo against the United States is expected to be the main topic.

"The meeting was scheduled to convene in Tripoli but 'due to accommodation difficulties it has been switched to Cairo,'" the spokesman said. An industrial fair in Tripoli made the hotel situation difficult, he explained.

Egypt invited ministers to meet "to review oil policies. Our policy is based on adapting ourselves to changing circumstances," the spokesman said. He would not elaborate.

Egypt was expected to propose the embargo be lifted as a way of thanking the United States for helping to disengage Egyptian and Israeli troops along the Suez Canal front.

Saudi Arabia and several Persian Gulf states were reported to have endorsed the Egyptian view. But it was not clear if the radical states such as Libya and Iraq would follow Cairo's recommendation.

President Nixon said Wednesday night United States diplomacy in the Middle East would inevitably influence the Arabs to end the embargo, which was imposed after the October war because of the heavy U.S. commitment to Israel.

Earlier, the Saudi Arabian oil minister, Ahmed Zaki Yamani, was quoted as saying the embargo had served its purpose and should be lifted.

Wedding Gifts Taken By Thieves

Someone broke into the home of Donald Leon Willingham, 1204 N. Marienfeld St., and took $190 in goods, mostly wedding gifts, Patrolman J. D. Stuard reported.

Willingham told police that he and his wife moved their things into the house Tuesday and left about 5:30 p.m. that day.

"They spent the night elsewhere and returned to their new home about noon Wednesday. That was when they discovered the house had been broken into.

Stuard said the burglar had removed a kitchen window so he could get inside and it appeared that he had worn gloves.

Missing items include a tape player, several kitchen counter-top appliances, linens, two sets of dinner utensils, a sack of groceries, a jewelry box and several items of jewelry.

Burglar Makes Himself At Home

Whoever broke into Thelma Conally's home at 1403 E. Parker St. Wednesday made himself right at home.

He made a balcony and cheese sandwich and took an $85 watch with him, Patrolman Ron Rice reported.

The thief seemed to know just how to get into the house: he took the key from the mailbox and unlocked the front door.

AT CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION— Delegates Debate Ex-Convicts' Rights

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislators argued voting rights of ex-convicts at length today as the Texas Constitutional Convention moved slowly into the Rights and Suffrage Article.

Sparking the long series of for and against speeches was a proposed amendment by Sen. A. R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, that would allow convicted felons to vote once they had completed their sentences, paroles or probation.

"The right to vote is a privilege awarded a citizen of Texas who has earned that right," argued Rep. John Hoestenbach, D-Odessa, in opposition. "Why should we regard a criminal who has broken the laws of our society?"

"Criminals know when they break the law they will lose the right to vote," said Mrs. Betty Andujar, Fort Worth senator.

"Let's move into the 20th century and remove the shadow on these people," said Rep. Matt Garcia, D-San Antonio.

Rep. Ronald Earle, D-Austin, said restoration of the right to vote is a major aid in rehabilitating ex-convicts. "It is a major function in re-integrating a man into our society," he said.

Rep. Billy Williamson, D-Tyler, made a last stand against the article, urging that voters be given the alternative of a simple, three-sentence substitute that would have left details of the education system to the legislature.

He failed, 87-81.

"We are locking in things that should not be in the constitution... Let's let the people decide which one of these articles they want. I am perfectly willing to abide by their feelings and their will," he said.

Rep. Joe Penney, D-Houston, who had tried unsuccessfully to spread the Permanent University Fund to other schools, said the article made him "almost feel sick."

But Rep. DeWitt Hale, D-Corpus Christi, frequent sponsor of education bills, called it "a gigantic step which the people of Texas will applaud."

Schwartz heads the Rights and Suffrage Committee, which sent to the convention floor a voting rights article denying ex-convicts the right to vote, unless the legislature decrees otherwise.

Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Dallas, failed, 135-26, to remove from the Schwartz amendment a requirement that a probationer complete his probation before regaining the right to vote.

Mattox claimed this goes beyond existing law and warned that young people, such as marijuana probationers, might try to change the law "by other means, ... marching in the streets, throwing bombs and shooting people" if denied suffrage.

Rep. John Hoestenbach, D-Odessa, objected that Mattox' amendment "would let convicted murderers, dope pushers and dope users who got probation to vote and run for office."

He referred to reports that students are active politically in Austin — "if you read the Daily Boishiek that they put out at The University of Texas."

The reference apparently was to the UT-Austin student newspaper, The Daily Texan.

Before taking up the voting rights article of a new constitution, the delegates approved, 98-71, the education article which had taken 2 1/2 weeks of their time.

The nine-part article, which is 1,900 words long compared with 4,700 words in the existing constitution, does these things:

- Guarantees "equal educational opportunity" below the college level and requires the legislature to provide "equitable support and maintenance" for the public school system.
- Continues the Permanent School Fund, a billion dollar endowment for the public schools which started with the dedication of millions of acres of public land to finance education.
- Alleviates fears of uniformity in public schools by specifically allowing local school districts to "enrich" their programs.
- Preserves the $692 million Permanent University Fund exclusively for The University of Texas and Texas A&M systems.
- Requires a $31 million annual appropriation from general taxes for the 22 colleges outside the UT and A&M systems.

742 Cambodian Rebels Defect

KAMBOL, Cambodia (AP) — A group of 742 former insurgents swore loyalty to President Lon Nol's government today in the largest defection of anti-government forces since the Cambodian war began in April 1970.

Lon Nol's representatives said it took seven months of negotiations to bring the nationalist Khmer Rumdo troops over to the government side. National assemblyman Thach Chen, one official working to bring in ralliers, said at a ceremony 15 miles west of Phnom Penh that 10,000 more rebel soldiers might come over in the next few months.

The Khmer Rumdos, who said they had become disenchanted with fighting alongside the Communist-led Khmer Rouge and North Vietnamese, were disappointed that Lon Nol did not attend the ceremony.

One jungle fighter who commands more than 4,000 Khmer Rumdos and is known as Comrade Grand Father did not attend the ceremony because of the president's absence. Aides said he went back into the provinces to bring in more defectors.

"The North Vietnamese trained us and indoctrinated us in Communist ideology but we were always placed in the front line of combat," one of the ralliers said.

"We learned the North Vietnamese have cheated us and their only aim is to weaken our society in order to abolish the Khmer nation."

The ralliers said they want to live in an area adjacent to Highway 4 about 90 miles west of Phnom Penh. They say they hope to set up their own community with government support and fight North Vietnamese and Khmer Rouge units in the region, but some of Lon Nol's generals doubt their loyalty and believe they should be split up.

Meanwhile, insurgent forces shelled Phnom Penh today for the first time in three weeks, killing one person and wounding another. Military sources said one 122mm rocket and six 75mm shells were fired from the southeast.

In Saigon, the South Vietnamese government reported that a clearly marked Joint Military Commission helicopter was hit by gunfire today and one South Vietnamese crewman was killed. A spokesman said the chopper was returning from Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon, where it had taken Viet Cong prisoners to be released. But the spokesman said the prisoner exchange would continue.

A Viet Cong spokesman said he knew nothing of the incident. In Vientiane, the Laotian government said it would protest to the Pathet Lao over recent Communist cease-fire violations. Spokesman Ouday Souvannavong said the military situation was "tense" following eight Pathet Lao attacks in the past two weeks.

"On Target," a joint project of The Reporter-Telegram, Action Line-Fish and the Human Relations Council, solves problems, gets answers, cuts red tape and investigates complaints. Write "On Target," The Midland Reporter-Telegram, Box 1680, Midland, Tex. 79701.

Is it the policy of the Midland Police Department to have officers go into privately owned bars and arrest persons for drunkenness, even though no one has made a complaint?—F. G. R.

Midland Police Chief Harold Wallace said that policemen here regularly check places which have state licenses to sell alcoholic beverages, especially those which are trouble spots.

The law on drunkenness prohibits a person's being drunk in public and "public" means anywhere but the person's home.

Therefore, he said, if a person is found drunk in a bar, he is arrested even if no complaint has been made, because it is illegal.

Does the city have plans to replace one-hour parking meters with two-hour meters to be consistent with two-hour free parking in the downtown area? Parking continues to be a problem in the downtown area and often patrons have appointments which extend beyond the one-hour limit.

George Wolf, director of planning and traffic for the city, said there are no plans to increase metered parking time in the downtown area. Worn out meters are being replaced with meters of similar time capacity. Some meters in the downtown area are good for two hours, stated City Mgr. James W. Brown.

Could you please inquire and print who took Jerome Snyder's position as personnel director of the Midland Independent School District?

Snyder, the long-time assistant superintendent for personnel retired Feb. 1, and the position has not been filled.

The school district is in the process of re-evaluating the organization of the central administration and until a new system is designed no one will be appointed to succeed Snyder.

Leslie R. Hinds, director of personnel services, is in charge of recruitment and teacher assignments.

Governors Urge Nixon's Ouster

By DON McLEOD
WASHINGTON (AP) — Governors of both parties say the country would be better off if President Nixon is impeached or resigns because his personal problems are creating a crisis for the rest of the country.

Several of those attending the winter meeting of the National Governors' Conference called outright Wednesday for Nixon's removal by one means or another, including for the first time a major figure in Nixon's own party.

Others said their problems of long gasoline lines, unemployment and angry voters are not going to be solved until the question of Nixon's future is settled.

Even Nixon's friends among the governors talked in the corridors of the convention hotel of a Watergate cloud over Washington that is making it difficult to face mushrooming emergencies.

Gov. Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts, a prominent Republican, led off the surprising barrage against Nixon by saying everything would be better if Nixon left and Vice President Gerald R. Ford took over.

"The necessity of going forward with impeachment is paramount and it should go forward," Sargent said. "The only way to solve the malaise and skepticism in this country is for this to be resolved."

"I don't think impeachment would upset the country," Sargent told newsmen at the conference. "And I don't agree with the suggestions that Vice President Ford wouldn't be up to the job."

Asked if this meant he thought the country would be better off with Ford as president, Sargent said, "Reluctantly, I would say yes."

Massachusetts was the only state in the nation which Nixon failed to carry in the 1972 election.

Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, although a Democrat, recognized that Nixon carried 70 per cent of the votes in his state in 1972 but said he still was for Nixon's ouster by any means possible.

"I'm for impeachment if there is not a quicker way," Carter said in an interview. "However, impeachment would bring out the facts while resignation would not."

"I have great respect for the office of the presidency," Carter said. "That's why I'm so disgusted with the way Nixon has disgraced it."

Republicans Daniel J. Evans of Washington and William G. Milliken of Michigan both said impeachment procedures should move forward so the country can learn the whole story of Nixon's possible involvement in the Watergate scandals and clear it up once and for all.

Evans, national chairman of the governors, and Milliken said it would be a mistake for Nixon to resign.

"Some feel it would be more comfortable and a little easier if he were to resign," Evans told a news conference. But he said this would "solve very little" and leave many doubts.

"I think it's important that we have the facts," Milliken said. "If the President resigns, we're never going to know."

Researcher Says Motorists Keeping More Gas In Tanks

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The average motorist now keeps twice as much gasoline in his tank as he did before the fuel shortage, an industry researcher says.

Since January, motorists have been carrying an average of 9.5 gallons of gasoline in their tanks, up from 4.6 gallons before the shortage, the researcher says.

"When you figure there are 81 million passenger vehicles in use, that means an additional half billion gallons of gasoline has been taken out of service station tanks," said Dan Lundberg of Lundberg Survey Inc.

The Federal Energy Office has blamed part of the gasoline shortage on panic buying by motorists who constantly top off their tanks out of concern they won't be able to get more.

This, in effect, puts more gas-line than normal into storage, the FEO says.

Lundberg runs a statistical service and publishes a $400-a-year newsletter which is sold primarily to the oil industry. Oil firms say his figures are usually accurate.

In an interview, Lundberg said the average car holds about 17.1 gallons of gasoline and that his firm has noted 86 out of every 100 sales are fill-ups. Two years ago it was 71 of every 100. At the same time, the average sale in 1974 has been only 4.1 gallons, against seven gallons two years ago.

"That means there's hardly any room in the gas tank when people ask for a fill-up," he said.

A post office was first established between Vienna and Brussels in 1816.

Senate Kills Raises

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has killed pay raises for Congress and high government officials, and a new look is going to be taken at the law under which they were proposed.

"The Senate has just screwed up the system," Republican leader Hugh Scott said after it became apparent the higher salaries budgeted by President Nixon were doomed.

He was referring to a 1967 law that established procedures under which pay adjustments were to be recommended every four years by a Commission on Executive, Legislative and Judicial Salaries.

The President then submits his own proposals after reviewing the Commission's recommendations, and they take effect automatically unless disapproved within 90 days by the Senate or the House.

Nixon budgeted pay raises of 7.5 per cent this year and for each of the next two years, a scaling down and a spreading out of the immediate 25 per cent increase recommended by the salary commission.

But the Senate killed the raises Tuesday, not only for Congress but also for federal judges and top executive branch officials.

A resolution of disapproval was adopted by a 69-28 vote after the Senate earlier had voted 67-31, one more than the required two-thirds majority, for a debate cutoff that forced a showdown.

Present congressional salaries of $42,500 a year, last raised in 1969, would have gone up to $45,700 this year, $49,100 next year and $52,000 under the President's budget.

Federal judges and top executive officials would have received comparable increases except that Supreme Court justices and Cabinet members would have received a single $4,500 raise next year in their $60,000 salaries.

Immediately after the debate cutoff vote, Chairman Gale McGee, D-Wyo., said his Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee, which handles pay legislation, would take a new look this spring at the 1967 law to decide whether it should be revised or scrapped.

Rail Conductor Millionaire After Winning Lottery

LODI, N.J. (AP) — A railroad conductor won the $3rd millionaire drawing of the New Jersey State Lottery and said, "I'm going to spread the Gospel of Jesus Christ."

The new millionaire is Lamar Crammer, 32, of Bridgeton, a conductor on the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Crammer, a Baptist fundamentalist, looked unusually calm Wednesday as he was announced the top ticket holder.

His wife Christine, however, appeared dumbstruck. "The good fortune is 'God's will,'" she said. They are parents of three boys, 3 to 12.

The $100,000 winner was Vivian L. Goodman of Hadonfield.

A group of 10 Sayreville school teachers won the $50,000 prize. Seven of the 10 were present. They said the group buys more than 20 lottery tickets a week and the prize will be divided. Their ticket was in the name of Margaret De Poalo of South Amboy.

The $18,000 winners were Miguel Contreras Jr. of Baytown, Tex.; Terrance R. Julien, 25, of Teaneck; Patrick O'Malley of Kearny; Maria Parowczanka, 41, of Wayne; Robert Ventrella of North Haledon; James B. Welch of Westfield and Henry T. Zajac of Sewaren.

Spain To Cancel Vatican Concordat

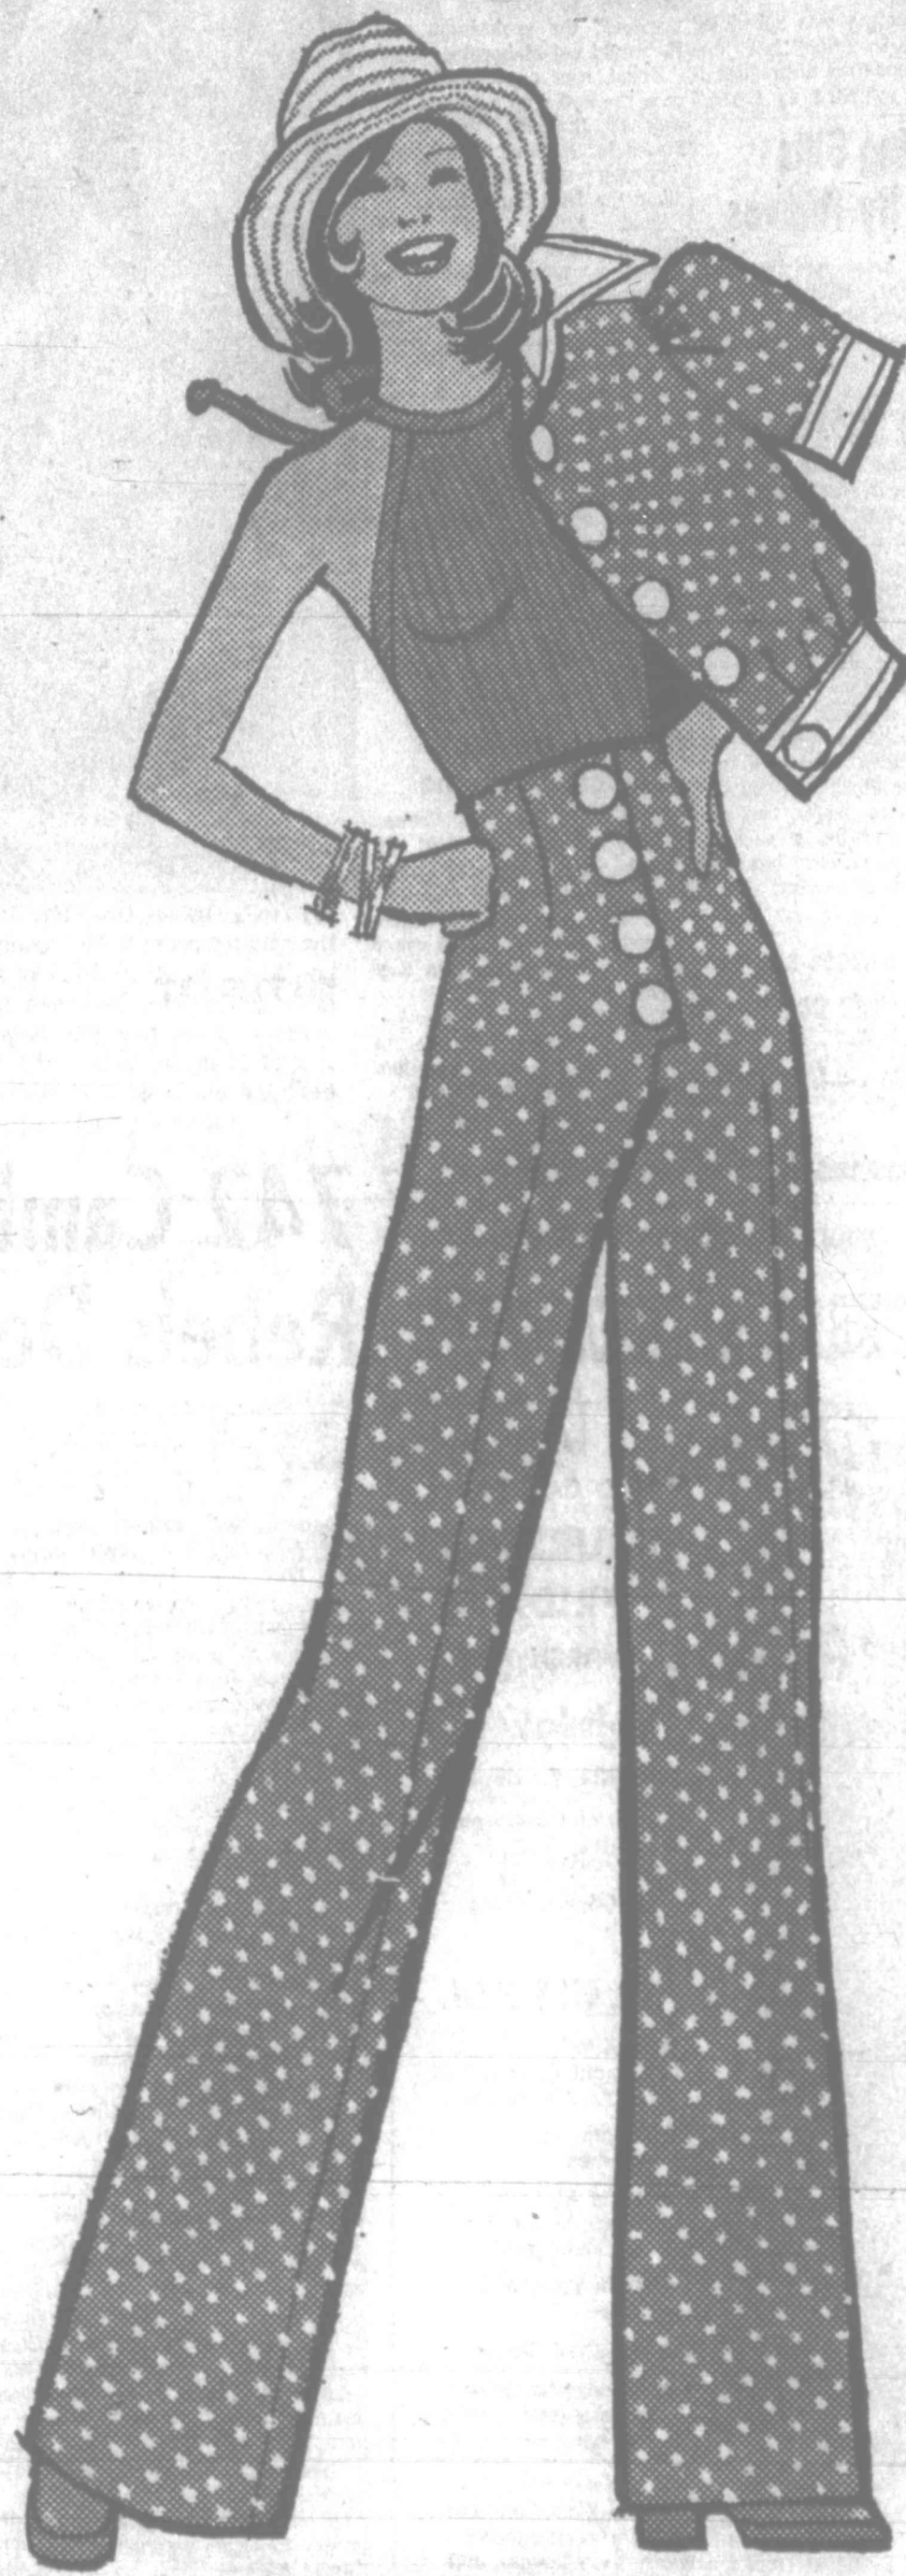

MADRID (AP) — The government has informed the Vatican it is ready to terminate the 1953 church-state concordat over the case of dissident Spanish Bishop Antonio Anoveros, authoritative sources said today. The bishop is under fire for a sermon urging more freedom for the Basques.

The government has threatened the 64-year-old prelate with indictment or expulsion from the country. Either action, without the approval of the Vatican, would violate the concordat, the treaty regulating relations between Church and state.

U.S. In Recession?

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The United States is already in a recession that will continue through the first six months of this year, says the prestigious Wharton School.

A team of professors at Wharton — the University of Pennsylvania's college of finance — released a quarterly forecast Wednesday saying that fuel shortages have helped turn "an economic slowdown" into "an outright recession."

Despite President Nixon's assurances to the contrary Wednesday night, the Wharton report said several indicators clearly show the nation is in a recession. The President referred to the Wharton report in his televised news conference, but said he did not agree the nation was in a recession, nor was it headed for one.

"We feel strongly that we are in a recession, and I think most economists would agree with that," said Dr. George R. Green, head of the Wharton team, following the President's comments.

The report included four gloomy forecasts:

- A decline of about three per cent in the real gross national product (the GNP in non-inflated dollars) in the first half of 1974.
- Increasing unemployment to nearly six per cent by mid-1974.
- Reduced corporate profit levels.
- A decline in the rate of the use of industrial capacity.

"The definition of a recession involves several facets," Green said. "A decline of three per cent in the real GNP for two or more quarters would certainly qualify, as would any decline that is sustained for six months."

He said an economic situation could also be considered a recession when there is "an increase in the unemployment rate to over six per cent, or if there is a decline in corporate profits."

"Any fall in corporate profits is a pretty good indication that things are not going too well — and we expect a five per cent drop for 1974," Green said.

The Wharton report says "inflationary forces have mounted to levels far higher than anything we have seen in the past 25 years."

An inflation rate of nearly nine per cent for total production is expected for the first two quarters of 1974, while overall consumer prices will rise at an annual rate of 12 per cent, says the report.

Ethiopian Strike Spreads

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Hundreds of students chanting antigovernment slogans marched through Addis Ababa today as a general strike spread across the country.

Helmeted police carrying rifles and tear gas forced the students to return to Haile Selassie University after an hour of demonstrations. There was no violence.

"Land for the tillers! Work for the workers! Down with the prime minister!" the demonstrators shouted. Thousands of other students looked on quietly.

The Confederation of Ethiopian Labor Unions claimed near 100 per cent effectiveness for the strike, planned to continue until the government meets demands for pay increases and labor reforms. But shops were open and taxis were operating in both Addis Ababa and Asmara, Ethiopia's second largest city. Buses were running in Asmara.

Banks were closed, along with factories. A partial schedule of international flights was maintained at Addis Ababa airport, but domestic flights were canceled.

Prime Minister Endalkachew Makonnen began bargaining with the unions Wednesday, but the strikers rejected his last-minute appeal to stay on the job.

The walkout was seen as a crucial challenge to Endalkachew's shaky new government, which still lacks five of 19 cabinet members.

The unions are demanding a $1.50 daily minimum wage. Laborers now earn about 50 cents a day and middle-level civil servants about $250 month.

Shotgun Charge Wounds Officers

GARLAND, Tex. (AP) — A shotgun charge wounded two policemen in this Dallas suburb Wednesday as they tried to induce a man, 35, to surrender the weapon, fellow officers said.

Sgt. R. A. McCraw related these details:

Patrolmen Gene F. Simpson, 32, and Patrick M. Martinkus, 26, heard a shot fired inside a house as they arrived in response to a call about an attempted suicide. They summoned two other officers.

All four entered the house and they asked a man, 35, to surrender. He told them he was weak and would give up, but he pulled the shotgun's trigger as Simpson and Martinkus stepped into view.

Other policemen subdued the man after he tried to use a chair as a weapon against them. He was held without immediate charge.

Martinkus, hit in the eye by shotgun pellets, and Simpson, struck in the face, were reported in good condition after undergoing surgery.

Neighbors told police the man had been in considerable pain after a back operation.

Douglas Urges Involvement To Cut Government Secrecy

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas says people would not sleep well if they knew what is developing under what he called the government's cloak of secrecy.

He urged involvement in government to break down the secrecy and solve the nation's problems.

Associate Justice Douglas made the remarks Wednesday night at Texas Tech University in Lubbock, after earlier not delivering his speech in Austin where television and radio crews were present.

Douglas cited behind the scenes observations of operations of the CIA and the development of nuclear power as examples of secrecy working against the country.

The Pentagon Papers should have been released long before they were, he said. "There wasn't a bloody thing in those documents I didn't know."

"And I'm not a spy," he added.

Man 'Just Doing Favor For Brother' In Hiring Man To Murder Solon

HOUSTON (AP) — An East Texas horse trainer who said he was just doing a favor for his brother has testified how he hired a police undercover agent to kill Port Arthur state Rep. Terry Doyle.

The statement of Gerald Wayne Castleman, 33, came as testimony in the trial of Jerry W. Hanks, 40, opened Wednesday. Castleman is expected to face cross examination by defense lawyers today.

Granted immunity

He and his brother, Harvey Doyle Castleman, 41, were originally charged along with Hanks with conspiring to kill Doyle. However Gerald Castleman was granted immunity Monday in exchange for his testimony against Hanks. Harvey Castleman is not on trial at this time and his lawyers say he plans to enter a guilty plea in the case.

whose nickname is "Chubby," told me that in some prior election Jerry was running in, the night before the election, Mr. Doyle and his associate put something out to the news that he had no way of explaining away the next day.

"He (Hanks) had asked Chubby not to do it but to locate somebody to kill Doyle," Gerald Castleman said.

Gerald Castleman said he agreed to find a killer. "I was just doing a favor for my brother," he said.

But an Austin television station (KVEU) challenged the contract and obtained a temporary restraining order claiming the contract violated constitutional rights of freedom of the press guaranteed by the federal and state constitutions.

At The University of Texas speech, Douglas said if he had not lost his speech notes, he would have talked in Austin on the "downward spiral of our society and some of the things the younger generation might do to rectify the situation."

Wednesday Gerald Castleman testified of hiring a hitman at his brother's request, only to find out later the man was a Houston police officer.

Complicated Tale

Castleman told a complicated tale of trying vainly to have Doyle killed all through the summer and fall of 1972, then finally contacting an alleged hired killer, showing him Doyle's home in Port Arthur, being convinced that the killing took place, then finding out through a radio broadcast that he had been dealing with a police officer and was under indictment on charges of conspiracy to murder.

Lead-Off Witness

Doyle was the lead-off witness Wednesday. He told the seven-woman jury that he and Hanks were political opponents for the state legislature in 1970. In 1972, he said, Hanks ran again for the state legislature and that time Doyle said he supported the eventual winner of the race, Beaumont attorney Pike Powers.

Doyle said that in both races, allegations about Hanks' financial dealings were circulated late in the campaigns. Doyle denied that he had anything to do with them.

Castleman testified that in the summer of 1972 his brother,

Students Streaking: Cheap Thrill Or Message To Education Leaders?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Duval, a member of the University of Southern California psychology department. "It would seem that streakers are violating a fairly strong set of norms for sure, and that can always be exciting if you get away with it. As far as I can see it's harmless," he said.

Dr. Zev Wanderer, a 41-year-old psychologist who directs the Center for Behavior Therapy in Beverly Hills, Calif., says part of the reason for the success of streaking is that it is self-assertive activity. "In a generation where the way to be impactful is to be either a music star or very talented or a thief, an alternative for the student is to run around naked," he said. "It's a relatively easy way to gain fame and notoriety."

But Wanderer says educators should not just laugh it off. "I think it's significant that this is taking place in colleges because by the time our kids reach that level they've had it with very regimented, conformist school systems," Wanderer said.

"It's a message to the schools that these kids ought to be in alternative open schools where kids can be themselves without having to run around naked."

Robert Ardrey, an evolutionary behaviorist from Rome, explains the 'fad as a fulfillment of one of man's basic needs. "In today's affluent society,

British Miners Due Back In Pits Monday

LONDON (AP) — Britain's 280,000 coal miners are due back at work Monday following a wage settlement to end their month-long strike. But industry that has been snarled by the walkout is expected to take some time to get back into full production.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson was expected to order a speedy end to the three-day work week on which his Conservative predecessor put much of Britain's industry to conserve coal-supplied electric power. But much of industry

Robertson County Now Eyeing Check Involving Poage

HEARNE, Tex. (AP) — Robertson County officials are investigating a $12,000 check drawn on city funds made out to a non-existent engineering company.

The check apparently fattened the campaign fund of U.S. Rep. W.R. "Bob" Poage, Hearne city bookkeeper Mrs. Mae Beth Bishop said Wednesday.

Mrs. Bishop said she wrote the check under Mayor Jack Abrams' order on June 26, 1971, made out to the T. C. Engineering Co.

Mayor Abrams and city manager E. Z. Suggs signed the check. Councilman Tommy Mayfield took the check to a bank in nearby Bryan for deposit in the T. C. Engineering account, Mrs. Bishop said.

However, state records show there was no such company at that time and Mrs. Bishop said Abrams later told her the check went to Poage.

Mayfield refused comment except to say the city was "clearing up this matter" and the question of the check would be brought up at the next council meeting.

Abrams refused to discuss the check or talk to reporters. His wife said council meetings are scheduled each Monday, but that there has been no meeting for three weeks.

Most Of Nation Is Damp, Mild

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Unseasonably warm weather clung to much of the nation today—under rain and fog in the North and clear skies in the South.

Thunderstorms, fog, drizzle and rain were scattered from northern California to Virginia. Another inch of snow sifted into Montana during the night.

Springlike mildness held overnight temperatures in the 50s from the central Plains to the Appalachians.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 75 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to -3 at Cut Bank, Mont.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The poster twins of the National Association for Retarded Children have made their first public appearance in the 1974 campaign in the company of First Lady Pat Nixon.

Mrs. Nixon posed for photographs with 5-year-old Mark and Mike Hembd of Cypress, Calif., at the White House Wednesday. The youngsters' parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Hembd, and a 7-year-old brother, Scott, were on hand.

It is the first time in the 24-year history of the association that twins were selected for the annual promotion campaign.

Ocean Science Laboratory Planned At Corpus Christi

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Southwest Research Institute, a nonprofit applied-research organization headquartered in San Antonio, has unveiled plans for construction of an ocean science and engineering laboratory in Corpus Christi.

The building will provide expanded laboratory and office space for the ocean science activities of the SWRI department of structural research and ocean engineering which now has quarters in downtown Corpus Christi.

The ocean science and engineering lab will be in Rinceon Industrial Park on Corpus Christi Beach and will provide mooring facilities for the 60-foot vessel Researcher I, the 25-foot Researcher II and a fleet of auxiliary vessels.

Records Hint Dallas Bail Bond Fraud

DALLAS (AP) — Records indicate a bail bondsman licensed by Dallas officials put up 136.3 acres of land against future forfeiture debts but had clear title to less than one-third acre, the Dallas Times Herald says.

In a copyrighted story Wednesday, reporter Bob Dudeney said almost all the lands put up as collateral cannot be seized and sold to pay any future debts.

The paper said records of three Texas counties revealed one-third acre of Dallas County land described in bondsman Robert Brian Hunsaker's January application for a bail bond license had no mortgage or other indebtedness against those counties. The paper said part of the lands are tied up in joint-venture agreements between Hunsaker and other persons.

Hunsaker, son of Dallas trucking executive R. B. "Bob" Hunsaker, is a former assistant district attorney under Henry Wade had a former sheriff's deputy under Clarence Jones.

The board was created last year to screen applicants and certify land holdings.

The paper said Jones and Sterrett claimed they were not aware of the status of Hunsaker's land holdings at the time they licensed him to post bonds in Dallas County.

PLAY BEGINS AT SAN ANGELO FRIDAY—

Wide Open 5-4A Golf Race Seen

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
One can't blame Lee Coach Dale Biggs or Midland Coach Robert Young for looking under every District 5-4A golf bush for trouble this year. It appears that just about every loop golf team is a threat for the district title this year, and both coaches feel that consistency is the key.

The loop's run for roses begins its five week march at the San Angelo Country Club at 9 a.m. Friday with Midland, Lee, San Angelo, Permian and Cooper all figuring to have a shot at the crown.

Young and Biggs both feel that Permian might have the edge at this stage of the season due to the Panthers' consistent play thus far, but there will be plenty of competition in the field and any one of five teams appears to be capable of taking up the slack when another falters.

Midland's Bulldogs have been improving in each outing this year, and won first place honors at Del Rio last week. The Pack started with a fourth place finish at San Angelo in first week play, finished sixth at San Antonio before claiming second place honors in the Tall City Meet.

The main problem for the Midland team in the district opener, however, is the absence of Kelley Sewell, who is out with mono, but senior Chip Lutke, who had a good meet at Del Rio, is expected to fill the gap.

The Midland Reporter-Telegram SPORTS

1C—THURSDAY, MARCH 7, 1974

"This district is always tough in golf," Coach Young said this week. "It took a 1,572 to get to regional last year and we had a 1,579 and were only fifth. We will have to be real consistent to win this year."

Seniors Price Courter and Doug Hughton have been Young's mainstays on the links this season, and both figure to make a strong run at the medalist title. Courter was medalist in Del Rio while Hughton managed second medalist honors at San Antonio. Both will get help from Lutke, senior Matt Green and sophomore Kirk Brannum. Green has been out a week with sickness, but appears ready for district play.

The Bulldogs' second unit will be comprised of senior Neil Howard, juniors John Kennedy and Darrell Roan and sophomores Cris Green and Greg Lutke.

Biggs' improving Rebels won consolation honors at San Antonio, finished fifth at Midland, ninth at Andrews and seventh in Austin last week. Biggs is pleased with the weekly improvement of his young squad, and feels that they can compete.

"We are coming along," Biggs said. "I just hope we can hang in there until we start playing a little better."

These kids want to win and they have been working hard."

Senior Kent Williams, who has scored over 90 only once this year, has been the most consistent Rebel linkster, and he is probably Lee's best hope at medalist honors.

Williams will be joined by senior Paul Pesek, junior Pat Shaunessy and sophomores Chris Brown and Montie Watson on the first unit.

Juniors Robert Campbell, Lee Koonce and Ronnie Farish will make up the second unit along with sophomores Jay Martin and Ken Habert.

Farish will be making his first appearance since joining the team from Lee's district champion basketball squad.

OOPS-A-DAISY—Oregon's Ron Lee, 30, slips to floor while trying to make a quick turn against UCLA as Bruins' Dave Meyers pursues. Oregon handed UCLA one of its three defeats this season and Bruins must beat USC Saturday night to get a crack at defending their NCAA championships. A loss to USC would give the Trojans the Pac-8 basketball title. (AP Wirephoto.)

Kansas Streaks To No. 1

Battle Scene

By Ted Battles

No. 1 Doesn't Look Right

Maybe we're just hard-headed and maybe UCLA no longer deserves the No. 1 ranking in college basketball, but after witnessing what the Bruins did to them on national tv, somehow North Carolina State and Notre Dame look out of place above Wooden's Westwood Wanderers.

Still, who does belong on top? Maybe it would be best to declare the No. 1 position vacant until after the NCAA tournament.

If anyone was going to put money on it, UCLA probably would be the favorite to win the tournament again. Yet, it won't even get out of its own conference if it doesn't beat USC Saturday night.

That would be three conference defeats . . . and to think we laughed earlier in the year when UCLA Coach John Wooden said the Pac-8 was tough because it was a "basketball conference."

While out in Scottsdale, Ariz., over the weekend, Midland Cub General Manager John Cox said former Midland outfielder Chris Ward was suffering from a jaw infection that was keeping him out of action.

Chris is battling another former Midland Cub, Pete LaCock and Gene Hiser, for one outfield berth with the parent Cubs. Since all three bat left-handed only one will stick. Meanwhile, the chances of another ex-Midland Cub, Matt Alexander, are enhanced not only by the fact that he hit .309 at Wichita last year but his versatility. He plays infield, outfield and is a switch-hitter.

Incidentally, our Cubs begin workouts Sunday. . . .

When South Oak Cliff knocked off Corsicana in the Region III Tournament last Saturday, it not only bumped the Tigers out of the state playoffs, but severed a 34-game streak. That leaves Kashmere-of Houston with the longest AAAA winning streak at 30 and SOC may get a shot at that one too.

SA Jeff Makes State Meet

One of the state finalists is San Antonio Jefferson, which beat Midland High by two and then lost to Midland Lee in the finals of the Tall City Tournament back in November. Jeff advanced by beating Corpus Christi Miller, 67-57. Miller reached the regional by defeating McAllen, which suffered only two losses all year, both to Miller.

Amarillo writer Pat Powell observes, "The University of Oklahoma football press book shows that Darrell Royal holds the record for the longest touchdown punt return. It was 95 yards against Kansas State in 1946. The book doesn't show that Royal holds more coaching victories over the Sooners than any other rival coach." Royal's Steers have beaten OU 12 times.

Houston writer John Wilson notes, "Blacks now play a prominent part in SWC basketball. The caliber of play is definitely on the upturn, say those who are closest to it. You have to study the records and scores awfully close to see it, however. Frankly, I wouldn't know it, if somebody hadn't told me."

Is John inferring that Texas basketball, black or white, isn't up to the brand played elsewhere?

The Oklahoma City Central League hockey Blazers of fered hot dogs and beer for 10 cents. Some 7,635 hungry fans showed up for the game and consumed 18,463 cups of beer and 12,966 hot dogs.

Eskimos Freeze Aeros

HOUSTON (AP) — Edmonton's Ron Clime didn't hesitate to take advantage of the Houston Aeros' frustration Wednesday night when he scored his 34th goal in a 4-2 victory against the World Hockey Association's Western Division leaders. Jayhawks Whip Rival K-State For Big Eight

By ROBERT MOORE
LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — A sign in the overflow crowd of 17,200 read: "KU No. 1 in: Streaking, basketball fans."

The University of Kansas may or may not be No. 1 in streaking — the new college fad of running here, there and anywhere naked — but there was no doubt today that the Jayhawks were No. 1 in Big Eight Conference basketball.

No. 15 Kansas penetrated Kansas State's awesome zone defense and streaked past the Wildcats 60-55 Wednesday to clinch the Big Eight championship.

The ringleader was Rick Suttle, a super sub who picked the Jayhawks up by the bootstraps and, along with Dale Greenlee, shot them to the title and into the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships later this month at Tulsa, Okla.

KU is 12-1 in the conference and 20-5 over-all, actually won the game by coming out of a 2-1-2 zone defense and by inserting the intimidating Suttle for Danny Knight at the pivot post.

K-State, 11-3 and 19-7, pulled to within four points three times during the second half, the last with 12:20 to go, but Suttle and Greenlee were too much. Together, they made 20 of the Jayhawks' 28 second half points.

Another factor in the victory was Tom Kivisto, who held Lon Kruger, K-State's brilliant guard, to a mere 10 points. Suttle finished with 17 points and Greenlee 16. Larry Williams made 21 for K-State.

U. Mass Wins
In other major college games, Massachusetts defeated New Hampshire 83-58. Oklahoma defeated Iowa State 88-70, and St. Francis of Pennsylvania defeated Georgetown 78-62.

Massachusetts, bound for the National Invitation Tournament, got 22 points from Peter Trow to wind up its Yankee Conference season in first place with an 11-1 record, 21-4 over-all.

Alvan Adams scored 28 points, and the Sooners shot a sizzling 64 per cent from the field in their Big Eight Conference victory over Iowa State.

NAIA Playoffs
In NAIA playoffs, District 3, Azusa Pacific beat Whittier 75-70; District 6, Erskine defeated Newberry 64-61; District 10, Edmonton's final goal into an open net.

The Aeros, whose lead was cut to seven points in the WHA West, played the game without star winger Gordie Howe, who has a bruised foot.

The third period showdown was set up by goals in the first period by Edmonton's Len Lunde at 1:35 and Houston's Hughes at 10:01.

Washburn beat Marymount 61-56 in overtime; District 12, Huron, S.D., edged Western Montana 76-71; District 13, St. Thomas, Minn., beat Winona, Minn., 63-53; District 14, Wisconsin Eau Claire beat Wisconsin Whitewater 70-63; District 15, Wartburg drubbed William Penn 79-61; District 16, Missouri Western defeated S.W. Fuss Over Aaron Is Ridiculous

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Hank Greenberg, who once chased Babe Ruth's record himself, says it's ridiculous that so much fuss is being made over the decision to keep Hank Aaron out of action until the Braves play in Atlanta.

"What's the big commotion?" the former slugger for the Detroit Tigers said today. "What about the 40 games Aaron didn't play last season? Why wasn't something said about that?"

Baseball has found itself another broiling controversy because of the Braves' desire to capitalize on home runs No. 714 and 715 which Aaron needs to smash Ruth's career mark.

A militant New York press has yelled "foul," charging that such an action would be equivalent to throwing games in a pennant race.

William Bartholomay, president of the Braves, insists on the right to maneuver his talent to the best interests of his Atlanta fans — and his pocketbook. Critics say the integrity of the sport is involved. They have called upon Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for stern action.

The commissioner is playing it close to the vest. Aaron is backing up his bosses. "I think I owe it to the Atlanta fans," he says.

"I agree with Aaron," says Greenberg, who in an impressive career spanning 18 seasons hit 331 homers and slammed 58 — two short of Ruth's then-existing season mark — in 1938. "I think any club has a right to use its players as it sees fit and just because Aaron is on the verge of a great record shouldn't make that much difference.

"He's going to break the record, anyhow, and to talk in terms of three games is making a mountain out of a molehill. I think the commissioner should come right out and say he has no control over how a club uses its men. You are on dangerous ground if you start letting the commissioner interfere with internal operations."

YMCA Hosts Meet

The Midland YMCA will host a YMCA West Texas Swim League Meet Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m.

Participating in the meet in addition to Midland will be Y's from Odessa, Big Spring, Lubbock, Abilene and Amarillo. Last year's winner was Abilene YMCA and Midland was second.

Benitez Seeks To Keep Title

FORT WORTH (AP) — Two time welterweight champion Eloy Benitez of Amarillo heads a field of 120 amateur boxers who will begin the state Golden Gloves tournament tonight.

Benitez is one of three defending champions in the field of the 38th annual tournament.

The others are light middleweight Ray Phillips and light-heavyweight Ronnie Walters, both of Fort Worth.

Two other 1973 champions who were to weigh in this morning are light middleweight Johnny Johnson of Wichita Falls and featherweight James Cleveland of Odessa. Both have lost weight since last year, Johnson stepping down from the middleweight division and Cleveland dropping two notches to the featherweight class.

Fort Worth won the team championship last year. The tournament will end Monday.

Top Netters Vie IN MHS Tourney

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
A large field of netters is expected to invade the Tall City Friday and Saturday for Midland High's annual Invitational Tennis Tournament, and many of the top West Texas tennis stars will be on hand for the three division meet at the MHS courts. The first round action begins at 8:30 a.m. Friday in all divisions and the finals will be held Saturday morning.

The A Division will consist of AAAA competitors while Division B will be made up of AAA schools and AAAA B squads. C Division will have the smaller schools as well as any junior high players who might wish to compete.

In the important A Division competition, host Coach Ronnie Houdek feels that Abilene Cooper, Wichita Falls and El Paso Irvin will have the best shot at the team crown.

Top seed among the boys will be Cooper sophomore Rick Meyers while defending state AAAA champ Susie Smith of Odessa High is expected to win the girls singles.

Eastern LLers To Meet Friday

Eastern Little League will meet at Austin Freshman School 7:30 p.m. Friday. Officers will be elected and plans made for the 1974 season. Anyone interested in participating is invited to the meeting. Among jobs to be filled are coaches, umpires, concession workers, scorekeepers and ground keepers.

Caroline Kemper and Chris Eve Gholston will carry the Midland High banner in the girls B singles while Lee will have Charla Seale, Susan Posey, Jan White and Tina Ashford. Lee's Susie Williams will miss the meet due to sickness.

OC Soph Receives White Scholarship

ODESSA — F. M. White Memorial Fund scholarship has been established by the Odessa College Press Club in honor of the late Odessa American sports editor. The first recipient of $100 scholarship is Pat Ray, Odessa College sophomore journalism major. He is the son of Marcell Ray, 1210-A E. 23rd.

The scholarship will be awarded each semester to a journalism student especially interested in sports writing. Funds will come from donations, sale of advertising in student publications, and from the photography contest.

Goodrich Team Sets High Mark

Bill Milner, secretary of the Oil Stars League at the Super Bowl, reports that a team from the Goodrich Service Center rolled the highest team scratch game in Midland bowling history Wednesday night with a 1,152.

Scores of the five team members are D. D. Woodberry, 199; Bill Baker, 215; Jim Campbell, 255; John Burns, 258; and Jerry Molone, 225.

"As far as we can tell, that is the highest scratch game in Midland's history," Milner said. "We can't find a better record than that on the books."

Posedel Has Hopes For Padres' Hurler

The sudden closing of Midland Lanes as a result of financial difficulties left Super Bowl with a jam-packed schedule.

"We were able to work in all but four leagues on our schedule," said Helen Dunagan of Super Bowl.

The closing of Midland Lanes leaves the Tall City with just one bowling emporium for the first time in a decade.

Corkins Wasting Hill Talent

By ANDY LIPPMAN
AP Sports Writer
San Diego pitcher Mike Corkins will be pitching for high stakes in the Padres' pre-season opener Friday.

Not only will his opponents be the world champion Oakland A's, but the 27-year-old right-hander also faces a stern test of his major league future.

"He's had five years with this club and he's only won 12 games," said Padres pitching coach Bill Posedel. "With the arm he has, he ought to be embarrassed not to do better than that. He should be able to turn things around."

Corkins knows time is running short for him to prove his potential.

With the high school baseball season less than a week old, Coach Ernie Johnson's Midland Lee Rebels are the only unbeaten team left in District 5-4A pre-season skirmishing.

The Rebels are 5-0 and boast some startling batting averages to go with their unblemished state.

If it keeps up, rival pitchers will begin developing sore arms or sick grandmothers at the sight of such intimidating averages as catcher Blain Murray's .545, Larry Tidwell's .444, Bobby Stevens' .438, David Clingman's .429 and Steve Hankinson's .500.

Tidwell already has hit three homers, two triples and knocked in 10 runs.

The tendency might be to dismiss the figures as the result of three larks against Kermit, but the Rebels proved it was no fluke by defeating respected Pecos and perennial state power Lubbock Monterey.

Odessa High's 3-1 mark is second to Lee's and Midland and Abilene are each 2-2.

Coach Arlen Dickson's Bulldogs have a game at 4 p.m. today with Odessa Ector, which handed the Bronchos their lone loss 3-2 Tuesday, and then play at Pecos 4:15 p.m. Friday and in a doubleheader at Midland Saturday.

Lee travels to Monterey Friday and catches Andrews in a pair here Saturday.

Midland doesn't have the overall averages that Lee sports, but the Bulldogs have five players batting .300 or better and first baseman pitcher Alan Buonasera has an .800 mark. Steve Widner, holdover all-district outfielder from last year's state champs, is batting .400, followed by Bruce Smith, .333, Terry Copeland, .308, and Brandon Battles, .300.

Keith Bishop leads the Lee mound staff with a 2-0 record and 15 strikeouts while Buonasera is 1-0 for Midland and Charles Northington has a 1-1 mark.

After this weekend's games, there will be another week of non-district play before the league race begins March 19.

Players Critical Of Brinker Heat, Silent Crowds

DALLAS (AP) — The Maureen Connolly Brinker Ladies Tennis Championship moved into the second round today with several of the top players critical of the heat and the lack of enthusiastic crowds.

Defending champion Virginia Wade of Britain dispatched Kristy Pidgeon of Danville, Calif., Wednesday and admitted, "I'm not quite used to the heat down here. It seemed to affect me at the beginning of the match when I was a little nervous."

Miss Wade, the No. 3 seed, said "It takes awhile to see the ball and get adjusted to the lights here."

Fourth-seeded Rosemary Casals drubbed Columbia Isabel Fernandez 6-3, 6-1 and complained "Everybody in there—the crowd, linesmen and ball girls—seemed to be in sort of a hushed daze. There was just nothing happening. It was not really an inspiring atmosphere."

Top-seeded Chris Evert returns to action Thursday night against Laura DuPont of Charlotte, N.C., and was expected to draw a top crowd at the Brookhaven Country Club indoor court.

Some 300 spectators viewed Wednesday's matches.

L. Ray Sutton rolled a 242

In the Oil Stars League, which is the strongest league in the city reporting scores, Clint Benefield rolled a 236 and Jack Pallick a 235.

Sutton's 622 series was the league's high while Pallick had a 613 and Bill Baker's 603 was his first 600 of this season.

Seaver Will Earn His $170,000

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Tom Seaver will be making about $170,000 this year—and he'll have to earn every cent. It won't be easy pitching for the New York Mets this year.

The defending National League champions have perhaps the strongest pitching staff in the East Division, but batters that won't break down too many fences.

"Any team with a Jerry Grote batting sixth can't be all good," was the wisecrack most heard at last year's World Series, which the Mets lost in seven games to the Oakland A's.

The Mets failed to come up with a big home run hitter in the off-season and therefore must again content themselves with playing a flock of low-run and one-run ballgames in 1974.

Seaver, of course, is king of the hill.

Often called baseball's premier pitcher, Seaver was certainly the most consistent for New York last season. He was voted the NL's Cy Young Award pitcher after winning 19 games and leading the league in earned run average with a 2.08 mark.

Jon Matlack, a power-throwing left-hander who won 14 games and carved out a 3.20

Pitching For Mets Will Be No Picnic

earned run average last season, combined with the formidable Seaver to give New York one of the best righty-lefty combinations in baseball.

Jerry Kosman, whose 2.84 ERA placed him in the top 10 last year along with Seaver, and George Stone, a 12-game winner in 1973, are the third and fourth starters—and give the Mets two more southpaws.

Rookie right-hander Craig

Swann, veteran Ray Sadecki and Buzz Capra add more depth to the pitching-rich New Yorkers and give them good spot-starting or relief strength.

Tug McGraw, the highest paid and possibly the best relief pitcher in the National League, anchors a strong bullpen crew that also includes Harry Parker, Bob Miller and Bob Apodaca.

Rusty Staub, the Mets' right fielder, must stay healthy if the team is to have any offensive kick at all this year. The best all-around hitter on the team, Staub missed 100 games in 1973 because of an operation on his right hand and missed several in 1973 because of an assortment of injuries.

In fact, not very many of the Mets were healthy last year. Every regular but third baseman Wayne Garrett was lost for some period or other in 1973 because of injuries. If the hitting is bad, the defense is not bad. Shortstop Bud Harrelson and second baseman Felix Millan give the Mets a smooth double play combination and Grote is a fine defensive catcher even if not the best hitter.

John Milner, the best home run hitter in the line-up with 23 in '73, is the first baseman, Cleon Jones, a left fielder last season, will be tried in center this year and the left field job is up for grabs among former center fielder Don Hahn, Dave Schneck, George Theodore and possibly Ken Boswell.

GAG BECOMES BANNER YARN—

Anatomy Of A Non-Story

By MURRAY OLDERMAN SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (NEA) — Wait until Clifford Irving gets a load of this one.

In mid-February, the sports green of the San Francisco Chronicle, the biggest circulation newspaper in northern California, headlined a story which had Ken Holtzman, who won 21 games for the world champion Oakland Athletics, blasting owner Charley Finley as a "cheap SOB."

Marvin Miller (director of the Players Association) as a "big phony" and asking to be traded. A terrific newsmaker, right? Wrong.

Kenny Holtzman never said any of those things. Wells Twombly, the sesquipedalian columnist of the rival San Francisco Examiner, did.

And how his remarks got into the Chronicle as bizarre and would be hilarious, except that the whole thing made a couple of veteran sports writers look sick, a couple of sports editors embarrassed, the perpetrator smug and smirky and Holtzman hollering legally. "My wife and I have suffered mental anguish."

As a sports and journalistic flub, it transcends a local story. As a comedy of errors, it beats the Three Stooges.

On a Tuesday night, working against deadline, the Chronicle's sports desk processed a routine account by Bob Stevens, its longtime baseball writer, on baseball arbitration proceedings that day. Stevens finished his stint and went home. Since Holtzman, the star southpaw of the world champs, was a key figure in the initial arbitration, sports editor Art Rosenbaum asked Jack Fiske, normally a hockey and boxing writer, to call the pitcher for some quotes.

Fiske was directed to the mail pigeon hole of Jack Smith, another Chronicle writer, and found a scrap of paper with a phone number. He dialed and, according to Fiske, the voice on the other end answered, "Kenny Holtzman here, 21-game winner for the Oakland A's."

Then Fiske said he identified himself as a Chronicle writer and asked some questions. The "Holtzman" diatribe followed. Fiske went back to Rosenbaum and reported the quotes. "That sounds like a great story," said Art. "But it doesn't sound like Ken Holtzman. Was he drunk?"

Fiske shook his head. "Was he coherent?"

"Yeah," nodded Fiske, who had never before communicated with Holtzman. "He was really ticked off," added Jack.

So Rosenbaum played the story as a sports page banner, picking up the quotes by Fiske, still leaving the Stevens' by-line on it. "It sounded credible," shrugged Art later, "for another Oakland player to complain after what we've heard in the past from Reggie Jackson and Vida Blue. And the answers were so germane in terms of baseball.

But the voice on the other end of the telephone belonged to Wells Twombly, who squirts words like a seltzer bottle at a drunken brawl. It seems Smith of the Chronicle was supposed to dine at the Twomblys and the phone number had been left for him.

Twombly has a habit of answering calls with strange names. "It would be the coincidence of all time," said Rosenbaum, "if Twombly opened his conversation as Holtzman."

Twombly claims he thought it was a crank. But since Twombly has an unlisted phone because of such calls, how would a crank get the number?

Anyhow, he carried out the masquerade as Holtzman right to the end of the phone interview, and Fiske never caught on. Nor did Twombly ever tip off the gag.

Ten minutes later, when thought bolts began to sprout, Twombly called his own newspaper and advised the sports desk that if a story on Holtzman appeared in the Chronicle to disregard it. No attempt to warn the morning paper.

The story ran all right, headlined: "Holtzman Blasts 'Cheap SOB' — and the next morning there were furious denials by the pitcher. Even Howard Cosell got on the horn to get Holtzman's denial. The Chronicle ran a retraction a day later. Fiske was sallow. "I got egg on my face," said Rosenbaum. Poor reporting, said Twombly jauntingly. Clifford Irving, just out of jail, would laugh like hell.

Green ... he's an excellent prospect."

Tyler JC Coach Billy Wayne Andrews told the AP in February that Green had scholastic problems.

"I was told that even if he made straight A's his last term, he wouldn't be eligible for a senior college," Andrews said.

Andrews thought Green was going to Oklahoma at the time. Andrews said he didn't think Green could play for Oklahoma because "if everything is done legally, he'll have to go to a junior college."

David Smith, a highly sought lineman from Beaumont Charlton Pollard who had signed with SMU and Oklahoma, decided to go to North Texas State. Coach Hayden Fry also signed Ken Washington of Port Arthur Lincoln, the brother of Oklahoma running back Joe Washington.

Ron Burns, a 6-foot-3, 192-pound blue chip defensive back from Arlington Sam Houston High School, went to Coach Grant Teaff's Baylor Bears, spurning the hard-court Sooner.

Kim Tallfero, a schoolboy All-America center from Clovis, N.M., signed with Texas Tech. He was chosen the outstanding lineman in "New Mexico last year.

Asked if he thought he could start as a freshman, he said "If I get out there and do my thing, I think I can play."

Arkansas also signed quarterback Jim Fryrear of Nevada, Mo., an all-state selection.

Tv Carries Big Stick

By FRANK BROWN AP Sports Writer

All evidence points toward the fact that television is the largest single influence in sports today.

National Basketball Association Commissioner Walter Kennedy recalls, "When I was first interviewed for this job in 1963, the first question the owners asked — before they even wanted to know how much salary I wanted — was 'Do you think you can get us back on national television?'"

The answer, of course, was yes. "I immediately turned my attention to national television, and in the next three or four months put us back on the ABC network," Kennedy said.

The contract called for 16 games to be telecast during the 1964-65 season at a fee of $600,000—equivalent now to the cost of three commercial minutes on the Super Bowl. Last summer the Columbia Broadcasting System purchased the NBA rights for three years at $8 million per year.

Things were no different in hockey, baseball and football, where television made its most staggering impression by bringing the American Football League from the brink of oblivion to a merger with the established NFL.

"There's nobody, I think, who could quarrel with the fact that the National Broadcasting Company's investment in the AFL put them in business, made them a competitive factor, and forced the merger," says Carl Lindeman, Jr., a vice president of NBC Sports.

"The commitment was $42 million. It was for five years, but it was lots more than twice what the AFL had been getting from ABC at that point.

"But quite apart from the money," Lindeman continued, "we gave them network exposure, committed ourselves to doing all the games—carrying them back to the home markets when teams were on the road in order to build fan interest. That fact, along with the solid five years at big money, encouraged men like (then New York Jets owner) Sonny Werblin to buy Joe Namath," he said.

In 1965, Namath cost Werblin $427,000—which reportedly included a $200,000 bonus, a $7,000 automobile, $120,000 in scouting jobs for four relatives, and $100,000 in salary over four years.

The fact that Werblin, of the young American Football League, had outbid the NFL St. Louis Cardinals for Namath's services might well have been an omen of the money that would be easy to come by for the athlete in ensuing years.

Forty-five years earlier, the Green Bay Packers had carried home $16.75 each—the winner's share for the first National Football League championship.

With the influx of television money and the millions of fans paying top dollar for entertainment came a new breed of athlete with a new sophistication.

To this group, a college career was used not only as a stepping stone to a professional contract but as a catapult into the business world. And this new genre created a business in itself: the player's agent and sports attorney.

Now, with owners hurling six-figure contracts at number one draft choices, the newly graduated sports hero learns more and more on the man who negotiates his salary, pays his bills, sets up his trust funds and schedules his appearances.

"The athlete of today is like the movie star of the past," says sports attorney Bob Woolf, who represents 300 top athletes all over the world. "He's the one doing the commercials, appearing on the television shows, writing his autobiography. He's even the one making the movies now."

The name of the game is money. That fact is substantiated by the ever-mounting outcry that television is in far too much control of sports today.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles have some problems, but unless all of them prove simultaneously unsolvable, a fifth American League division title in six years is a distinct possibility during the 1974 baseball season.

"If we have a weakness, I guess it's a lack of power," Manager Earl Weaver said, although the Orioles won in 1973 while hitting only 114 home runs.

Other possible problems include the comeback capabilities of first baseman Boog Powell, the status of the catching corps and veteran pitchers Dave McNally and Mike Cuellar, and the strength of the reserves in the lineup are injured. But there still are plenty of reasons why the Orioles figure to again be a dominant factor in the Eastern Division.

Jim Palmer, who won the league's Cy Young award after his fourth straight 20-victory season, heads a pitching staff that could be spectacular if McNally recovers from arm miseries and Cuellar again can defy old age.

McNally, after four consecutive 20-victory seasons, slumped to 17-17 last season, while Cuellar won 18. The Birds went to the National League for help, obtaining pitcher Ross Grimsley from the Cincinnati Reds in exchange for outfielder Merv Rettenmund.

Outfielders Al Bumbry and Rick Coggins hit over 300 as rookies last year, while short on power. Another young outfielder, Don Baylor, finished strong and could become a power hitter. Grich also has possibilities along that line.

Powell, Baltimore's erstwhile slugger, slumped to a meager 11 home runs and 54 runs batted in last season, while being hampered much of the time with a sore right shoulder.

The 32-year-old took a hefty pay cut, worked hard during the winter and reported to camp at 248 pounds, 10 less than last year. "Boog will be the first baseman to start out," Weaver said. "If he hits with any authority, then he'll stay there."

Catcher Earl Williams, who doesn't like to catch, could be shifted to first base. But that might leave a gaping hole behind the plate.

A week after training camp opened, the two catchers expected to play behind Williams hadn't even reported.

Veteran Andy Etchebarren maintained he was going to retire rather than sit on the bench, and Sergio Robles wanted assurance he'd be sold to a team in Mexico if he did not stay with the Orioles.

As a backup, the Orioles invited veteran Elie Hendricks to camp off the Rochester roster. Hendricks hit only .178 last season, and wound up with a severe ankle injury. But he did well in Puerto Rico during the winter.

Nickel-Chrysler Takes 6th In Row

ODESSA — Nickel-Chrysler of Midland ran its Odessa Industrial Basketball League record to 6-0 by handing Casa DeSopapilla its first loss of the season, 78-48, in the opening of second-half action.

David Shearod scored 37 while Jim Finley had 19 and Terry Mill 12.

Spring Music Festival Saturday

A spring music festival for piano and voice students of Midland music teachers will take place here Saturday.

More than 150 students, members of the seven junior music clubs in the city affiliated with the Texas Federation of Music Clubs (in turn affiliated with the National Federation of Music Clubs) will participate in the festival, according to Mrs. Hans Rowck, festival chairman for District 13 of the TFMA.

Events are scheduled in the studios of Mrs. H. D. Williams, Mrs. Marian Ailes and Mrs. Rowck between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

Judges for this year's festival have been announced. They are Harlen Thornton and Mary Skalicky, both of Big Spring, and Sammie Whitten of Odessa.

Participating junior music clubs are Sibelius, sponsored by Mrs. W. H. Maitland; Bach, sponsored by Mrs. H. D. Williams; Harmony, sponsored by Mrs. Marian Ailes; Chopin, sponsored by Mrs. Rowck; Grandstaff, sponsored by Mrs. Benton Howell; Cadenzas, sponsored by Miss Rebecca Stiles, and Weddie, sponsored by Mrs. Carl Leonard.

According to Mrs. Rowck, students will not be competing against each other in the festival; instead, each is judged and graded on his or her own merit, on such points as natural talent, potential, musicianship, technique, poise and intonation. Festival participants range from primary level students to those at senior level.

Two of the judges for the Saturday festival, Mrs. Skalicky and Thornton, are associated with Howard College at Big Spring; the third, Miss Whitten, is a private teacher of piano in Odessa and a part-time keyboard instructor at the University of Texas at the Permian Basin.

Mrs. Skalicky is chairman of the Howard College Fine Arts Department, where she has been a faculty member the past six years. A native of Dallas, she is a graduate of SMU in both piano and organ, and holds a master's degree from the University of Michigan. She has done advanced study in organ and harpsichord in Europe at the Amsterdam Conservatory.

An accomplished cellist, Mrs. Skalicky attended the Netherlands Carillon School in Amerfoort, Holland, and later

FDA Announces Cortisone Recall

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is recalling 230,000 cortisone tablets which it says may pose a "serious health hazard" because of being mixed in with a weaker medicine.

Announcing the recall Wednesday, the FDA advised consumers who take cortisone to check with their pharmacist to determine whether their medicine is involved.

was the first woman to be invited to play the world's largest carillon, at the Riverside Church in New York City. As a pianist she has concertized widely, and has held church organist positions in Ohio, Connecticut and Dallas. Currently she is organist at First United Methodist Church of Big Spring.

Thornton is staff accompanist and part-time instructor in the Howard College Fine Arts Department. A native of Big Spring, he is a graduate of The University of Texas, where he studied piano and foreign languages, and later did graduate work there. From 1963 to 1967, he taught Russian and French at Howard College while continuing his study of piano privately. From 1968 to 1972 he taught French at Ricker College, Houlton, Maine, and during those years also presented numerous keyboard recitals and played for summer stock theaters.

Returning to Big Spring in 1972, Thornton opened a private piano studio and again became associated with Howard College. He has presented two-piano recitals with Mrs. Skalicky, and has been accompanist for numerous Howard College musical productions, including "The Beggar's Opera," "Trial By Jury" and "Celebration."

Miss Whitten has been a private teacher of piano the last five years, and recently joined the faculty of UTPB as part-time instructor of piano. She also serves as director of music for Odessa's First Presbyterian Church. She holds a bachelor's degree in applied piano from North Texas State University, and a master's in piano from the University of Illinois.

Sorrell also captures the pen of three Columbia lamb class and the four-to-six tooth ram class.

A four-year-old mare, A Girl Named Susie, was named grand champion mare of the show. The mare is owned by Glenn Cantrell of Diamond, Okla. She was shown by Maticock Rose.

Mr. Bar Pat Star, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kuffman of Buffalo, Wyo., was named grand champion stallion.

Pawnee Mingo, owned by Gail Ross of Barrington, Ill., was named grand champion gelding, and Attaboy, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hamilton of Paradise Valley, Ariz., took reserve champion honors.

Crystal Overton showed her animal to fifth place in the ewe lamb class, Candy Kay Overton took sixth and Wesley Overton showed the seventh and eighth place ewe lambs.

Billy Dan Sorrell of Eden showed the champion Columbia ewe, Sheena Tongate and Dickie Tongate showed the champion in the Suffolk sheep division and the Tongates showed the champion and reserve champion in the Hampshire division.

'I Vespri Sicilliani' Airs On Saturday

NEW YORK — "I Vespri Sicilliani" or "The Sicilian Vespers" will be the next offering on the Texaco-Metropolitan Opera Network.

The presentation is scheduled to begin Saturday at 1 p.m. CDT, and will be aired over Station KCRS, Midland.

To be heard in principal roles in this seldom-performed work by Giuseppe Verdi will be soprano Montserrat Caballe as the Duchess Elena, tenor Nicolas Gedda as Arrigo, baritone Sherrill Milnes as Guido di Montforte, and bass Justino Diaz as Giovanni da Procida. James Levine will conduct the performance.

"I Vespri Sicilliani" was commissioned by the Paris Opera and first performed there in 1855. The work was composed by Verdi in between the time he wrote his famous "early" operas, "La Traviata," "Rigoletto" and "Il Trovatore," and the period of his so-called "late" operas, including "Aida," "Falstaff" and "Otello."

Sonatina-Sonata-Concerto Contest Winners Announced

Winners in the annual sonatina-sonata-concerto contest held here recently have been announced by the Midland Music Teachers Association, sponsor of the event.

First place winners in the competition were presented in two keyboard recitals in Midland Woman's Club. They were as follows:

Terrie Sue Sanchez, Lori Shults, Christy Langford, Amber Anthony, Stacy Gillean, John Heard, Lori Brewer, Teresa Brown, Holly Blevins, James Fox, Ellen Christensen, Paige Gannaway, Joy Gail Young, Morgan Brown, Cecilia Hobbs, Donna Hewitt, Dabney Tompkins, David Vaughn.

Mark Hoover, Alan Adams, Janelle Strobel, Lori Wells, Paula Harvard, Melody Stewart, Julie Jones, Kerl Shults, Barbara Ragus, Robert Noble, Carrie Byrom, Jalene Brown, Lance Bingham, Kimberly Culvahouse, Kald Warren, Diane Dot, Patty McBride, Robbie Nesbitt, Janan Glier and Susan Beck.

Participating in the contest were keyboard students of 22 Midland piano teachers, as well as students of teachers from Monahans, Brownfield, Snyder, Pecos and Lubbock. Mrs. Donald K. Thompson was chairman of this year's event.

Four Held As Suspects In Art Thefts

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Two women in Texas and two men in California have been arrested in connection with the theft of Mexican art treasures, the FBI in San Antonio has reported.

Two women arrested here were identified Wednesday by FBI agents as Patty Lorrain McClain, 38, of Houston and Ebeleigh Roselle Simpson, 41, of San Antonio.

Arrested at the same time in Los Angeles, agents said, were William Simpson, 43, of San Antonio and Michael Bradshaw of Toledo, Ohio.

The four were charged with conspiring to sell the Mexican art treasures described as figures of human beings and animals.

Agents said they confiscated figures in San Antonio valued at more than $15,000 and that artifacts taken in Los Angeles were estimated to be worth even more.

All four of the accused were held in lieu of bonds of $100,000 each. Agents said a fifth person was expected to be arrested.

The FBI did not say where or when in Mexico the pre-Columbian artifacts were procured.

Alamo YMCA To Present Family Of Year Award

Jerry Payne, president of the Alamo YMCA Board of Managers announced today that the Alamo YMCA Family of the Year award will be presented at 7 p.m. Saturday at the YMCA Family Carnival to be held at Alamo Junior High School.

The special award is presented annually to a YMCA family who has contributed outstanding leadership and service to the Alamo, YMCA, Payne noted.

The Family Carnival — sponsored by the YMCA — will be presented in conjunction with a talent and variety show by the Westside Lions Club at the Alamo. Special talent and variety acts by Midland young people have been selected through auditions held last week. J. E. Barrington, Westside Lions president, said this would be the best community service program offered by the Westside Lions Club this year.

Payne said a special attraction will be a tethered hot air balloon flight by the Permian Basin Aeronaut Hot Air Balloon Club.

COURTROOM ADVERSARIES—W. L. Sibley, left, and Hilary Iglehart will be seen as Henry Drummond and Matthew Harrison Brady respectively in the Permian Playhouse production of "Inherit the Wind." The dramatic retelling of the famed Scopes "monkey trial" in Tennessee in 1925 will open on the Playhouse stage Friday night, with six additional performances scheduled there through March 23. Sibley and Iglehart both have numerous past PPH roles to their credit.

'Inherit The Wind' Opens Friday

ODESSA — "Inherit the Wind," a dramatic retelling of the famous Scopes trial of the 1920s, opens Friday night on the stage of Odessa's Permian Playhouse.

The stirring drama by playwrights Jerome Lawrence and Robert Edwin Lee, creators of "Jabberwock" and "The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail," will have Permian Playhouse actors Hilary Iglehart and W. L. Sibley in the pivotal roles of Matthew H. Brady and Henry Drummond. The two are stage prototypes of two real-life personalities, William Jennings Bryan, the "silver-tongued orator" and Bible authority, and famed defense attorney Clarence Darrow.

The occasion was the celebrated "monkey trial" of teacher John Scopes, accused of going against a Tennessee law which forbade the teaching of evolution in the schools. The ensuing dramatic trial is the thread from which "Inherit the Wind" is woven.

Protagonists in the 1925 trial in Dayton, Tenn., were Bryan, three-time Presidential candidate, former Secretary of State and Bible-quoting orator who had thundered against sinners and atheists all across the nation, and Clarence Darrow, self-proclaimed agnostic, brilliant criminal lawyer, defender of the famed "thrill-killers" Leopold and Loeb, and champion of rioters and radicals.

In its way, it was the battle of the century, and Lawrence and Lee's dramatic treatment of the confrontation of these two giants in the sweating Tennessee courtroom makes for outstanding entertainment. The play is one of tremendous vitality and strength as the personal magnetism of the legendary Brady (Bryan) is worn down by the relentless pursuit of Drummond (Darrow) until finally he is reduced to physical shambles and mortally stricken.

The show had its first production by the late Margo Jones at her theater in Dallas in 1965, and made its bow on Broadway a few months later. Paul Muni and Ed Begley were in the pivotal roles. A later movie version had Spencer Tracy and Frederic March as the famous adversaries.

In addition to Iglehart and Sibley, the PPH version will feature Keith Pearson as the school teacher Scopes, Richard Callaway as the cynical young journalist covering the trial, and Dr. Marvin Weiss as the Rev. Jeremiah Brown, Fundamentalist spiritual leader of the Tennessee town. The featured performers are supported by a large cast of PPH actors in secondary roles. Enid Holm has directed the production.

Friday's performance at 8:30 will be followed by the traditional opening-night reception for audience and cast in the theater lobby.

Gasoline Shortage Alters Schedule Of Lions Camp

KERRVILLE — The gasoline shortage has altered the schedule of the Texas Lions Camp at Kerrville.

For more than two decades, the unique camp has provided two weeks of summer fun — free — for blind, crippled, deaf and mute youngsters between the ages of seven and 16.

Since it opened in the summer of 1953, the camp has served almost 15,000 handicapped children. Lions of Texas have provided, without charge, transportation to and from the camp.

In the past, youngsters have checked in on Sundays and checked out two weeks later on Saturdays.

But the specter of gasless weekends has caused the camp to change its routine.

This summer, beginning Monday, June 3, the camp will start accepting youngsters on Mondays and checking them out on the second Friday.

Applications now are being sought by Lions across the state for campers to attend one of the five summer sessions.

SAN ANGELO — Three members of the Glasscock County 4-H Club, all in the same family, scored high Wednesday in the lamb judging of the annual San Angelo Stock Show and Rodeo which ends here Saturday.

Crystal Overton showed her animal to fifth place in the ewe lamb class, Candy Kay Overton took sixth and Wesley Overton showed the seventh and eighth place ewe lambs.

Billy Dan Sorrell of Eden showed the champion Columbia ewe, Sheena Tongate and Dickie Tongate showed the champion in the Suffolk sheep division and the Tongates showed the champion and reserve champion in the Hampshire division.

'I Vespri Sicilliani' Airs On Saturday

NEW YORK — "I Vespri Sicilliani" or "The Sicilian Vespers" will be the next offering on the Texaco-Metropolitan Opera Network.

The presentation is scheduled to begin Saturday at 1 p.m. CDT, and will be aired over Station KCRS, Midland.

To be heard in principal roles in this seldom-performed work by Giuseppe Verdi will be soprano Montserrat Caballe as the Duchess Elena, tenor Nicolas Gedda as Arrigo, baritone Sherrill Milnes as Guido di Montforte, and bass Justino Diaz as Giovanni da Procida. James Levine will conduct the performance.

"I Vespri Sicilliani" was commissioned by the Paris Opera and first performed there in 1855. The work was composed by Verdi in between the time he wrote his famous "early" operas, "La Traviata," "Rigoletto" and "Il Trovatore," and the period of his so-called "late" operas, including "Aida," "Falstaff" and "Otello."

Sonatina-Sonata-Concerto Contest Winners Announced

Winners in the annual sonatina-sonata-concerto contest held here recently have been announced by the Midland Music Teachers Association, sponsor of the event.

First place winners in the competition were presented in two keyboard recitals in Midland Woman's Club. They were as follows:

Terrie Sue Sanchez, Lori Shults, Christy Langford, Amber Anthony, Stacy Gillean, John Heard, Lori Brewer, Teresa Brown, Holly Blevins, James Fox, Ellen Christensen, Paige Gannaway, Joy Gail Young, Morgan Brown, Cecilia Hobbs, Donna Hewitt, Dabney Tompkins, David Vaughn.

Mark Hoover, Alan Adams, Janelle Strobel, Lori Wells, Paula Harvard, Melody Stewart, Julie Jones, Kerl Shults, Barbara Ragus, Robert Noble, Carrie Byrom, Jalene Brown, Lance Bingham, Kimberly Culvahouse, Kald Warren, Diane Dot, Patty McBride, Robbie Nesbitt, Janan Glier and Susan Beck.

Participating in the contest were keyboard students of 22 Midland piano teachers, as well as students of teachers from Monahans, Brownfield, Snyder, Pecos and Lubbock. Mrs. Donald K. Thompson was chairman of this year's event.

Alamo YMCA To Present Family Of Year Award

Jerry Payne, president of the Alamo YMCA Board of Managers announced today that the Alamo YMCA Family of the Year award will be presented at 7 p.m. Saturday at the YMCA Family Carnival to be held at Alamo Junior High School.

The special award is presented annually to a YMCA family who has contributed outstanding leadership and service to the Alamo, YMCA, Payne noted.

The Family Carnival — sponsored by the YMCA — will be presented in conjunction with a talent and variety show by the Westside Lions Club at the Alamo. Special talent and variety acts by Midland young people have been selected through auditions held last week. J. E. Barrington, Westside Lions president, said this would be the best community service program offered by the Westside Lions Club this year.

Payne said a special attraction will be a tethered hot air balloon flight by the Permian Basin Aeronaut Hot Air Balloon Club.

Redd Foxx Says He Quit Show Because Pay Raise Rejected

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Comedian Redd Foxx says reports that illness forced him to drop out of television's "Sanford and Son" show were "a lie."

Foxx said Tuesday in a taping for the Mike Douglas Show that he wanted a better salary, was disenchanted with working conditions and didn't want to revert to what he called "Amos 'n' Andy."

The Douglas show will be aired March 26. The 51-year-old entertainer has missed four segments and is expected to be out the remainder of the season.

Foxx spent five days in a hospital last week and his attorney and manager said the entertainer was suffering from a nervous condition.

In Los Angeles, executive producer Bud Yorkin said Wednesday that Foxx's complaints were unjustified. He said Foxx was one of the highest-paid men in television. He declined to name the salary.

"He's a talented and funny man and I hope he will be back with us next year," Yorkin said.

Hickman Appearing At Hayloft Dinner Theater

LUBBOCK — Dwayne Hickman enjoys laughter — for himself and for others — he has been making people laugh for years. He says he has loved every minute of it!

The 36-year-old Hickman, probably best-remembered as Dobie Gillis on the long-lived television comedy series of the same title, is the headliner in the Hayloft Dinner Theater's current production, "Sunday in New York." The show currently is having a series of special preview nights, and will begin its regular run Friday night. The Hayloft is located on the southwest outskirts of Lubbock, just off the Brownfield Highway.

Hickman started in show business at the age of 11, mainly at the insistence of a brother who had been an actor from the age of six. Dwayne appeared in "The Secret Heart," "The Happy Years," and "The Boy with Green Hair," among others, but, by the time he was 18 had decided he wasn't going to be an actor after all. He was majoring in economics at Loyola University in Los Angeles, and planned to join his father in the family insurance business in Los Angeles.

Then fate, in the form of Robert Cummings, stepped in again. Cummings was filming the pilot for a show built around a bachelor, and he was in need of a young man to play a nephew role. Dwayne had a job with a utilities company that summer which would have brought him several hundred dollars, but he chose to risk the pilot show. The pilot of course became "The Bob Cummings Show," and it ran for five years with Dwayne in the role of Chuck.

From the Cummings show, Max Shulman hired Dwayne to be "Dobie Gillis" and within six short episodes, it became one of the most popular shows in the air, remaining so for four years. When "Dobie" went into re-runs, Dwayne kept busy in tv and movies. He first starred for American International in four consecutive films, among them "Ski Party," and "Sergeant Deadhead," then for Columbia Pictures, where he was the not-quite-so-honest preacher in the hit western, "Cat Ballou." His next motion picture was "Doctor, You've Got to Be Kidding," in which he starred with Sandra Dee and George Hamilton.

In tv he has stayed busy with such shows as "My Friend Tony," "Love, American Style," and Disney's two-part, "My Dog, The Thief." He also starred in Universal's two-hour tv movie, "Don't Push, I'll Charge When I'm Ready." More recently he had a stint in an executive position with the Howard Hughes hotels in Las Vegas, serving as director of advertising and promotion at the Landmark, where he spent two years. Finally, he decided he'd rather be back in show business and that's where he is now.

Hickman's co-stars in the Hayloft production are Paula Key and John Perryman, both experienced actors from California, and Phil Weyland, Richard Maggi and Anne L. Geary, all familiar to Hayloft Theater audiences.

Art Festival Continues

The Student Art Festival, a popular annual event in Midland, will continue through the month at the Museum of the Southwest here. The exhibition of art works by students in the city's private and public schools, is sponsored each year by the museum, the Junior League of Midland Inc., the City Council of the Parents-Teacher Association, and the Midland Independent School District. Works by students in the elementary grades in public and private schools in the city make up the current exhibition, which continues through March 15. Beginning March 17, works by junior high and senior high students will be shown.

Running concurrently with the art festival is a special exhibit, "Children in Bondage," on loan from the Smithsonian Institution's Traveling Exhibition Service. The exhibit consists of photographic studies of the exploitation of children as laborers in the early years of the 20th Century, before stringent laws were passed to prevent such exploitation.

The Museum of the Southwest's Turner Memorial Gallery, 1705 W. Missouri St., is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each weekday, and from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sundays. Admission is free at all times.

'Salome' Set This Weekend

FORT WORTH — Performances of the Fort Worth Opera's next production of the current season are scheduled Friday night and Sunday afternoon in the Tarrant County Convention Center theater here.

The opera is "Salome," Richard Strauss' dramatic one-act work based on Oscar Wilde's equally dramatic poem, and will star Austrian soprano Maria Kouba in the title role, with Robert Nagy and Jean Kraft, both of the Metropolitan Opera, to be heard as Herod and Herodias respectively. David Clatworthy will sing the prophet John the Baptist, or Iokanaan, and David Sundquist will be in the role of Narraboth. Carol Mayor will sing the page.

The performances here will be sung in the original German. The production is staged by Bliss Hebert of the Metropolitan and New York City operas. Rudolf Kruger, Fort Worth Opera general director, will conduct the two presentations. Tickets are on sale at the Central Ticket Agency in downtown Fort Worth, and will be for sale at the theater before each performance.

OC Art Chairman To Speak Sunday At Lancaster House

Midland Arts Association is making plans for another of its special art lecture-demonstrations.

The popular programs, open to the public, are held at intervals in the Museum of the Southwest's Lancaster House, 1705 W. Indiana St.

The upcoming program, scheduled at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, will have Barry Phillips of Odessa as the featured speaker. Phillips is the chairman of the art department of Odessa College. Formerly he was a member of the art faculty of Howard Payne College, Brownwood.

The Sunday afternoon event also will launch the Midland Arts Association's third monthly exhibition of art works by MAA members. The March exhibition on the second floor of Lancaster House will feature paintings in various media by Margaret Grace.

Midland YC Chatter

By KATHY ALLDAY, LISA BROCK and MOLLY UPCHURCH

Well, we're finally MARCHING into the STREAK of this school year! All of our Bulldog teams have been BLOWING full blast and SWEEPING in those awards.

Players making All-District Basketball from Midland High are Doug Mitchell and Michael Cobb, with Willie McCoy receiving honorable mention. We surely are proud of our mighty basketball team for having had such a great season! Especially, we congratulate Coach Cagle for his outstanding coaching and recent award, Coach of the North All-Stars.

Our PISCES swim team splashed to regionals last weekend and came out great! We won championships in both girls and boys divisions and many Bulldogs qualified for the state competition coming up. Tommy Hart, Danny Cerf, Russell Gunn, Hugh White, Kirk Smith and Sean O'Neill led the boys to victory, while the girls were paced by Mary Dowdle, Susan Wemple and Sandra Spears. With A Bang!

Our baseball team started its season with a BANG by defeating Lubbock Coronado last Friday! Saturday, the Bulldogs played a double-header against Lubbock High, winning the first game and losing the second. Tuesday the team traveled to Snyder. Today at 4 p.m., there is a game against Ector High of Odessa at the Midland Memorial Stadium. Friday, the MHS team plays Pecos there. Saturday, the team returns for a double-header against Pecos here at 1 and 3 p.m. Come out and STIR UP SOME MORE DUST by yelling them on to VICTORY!!

Girls Golf Team
We also would like to wish the girls golf team members GOOD LUCK! They will be traveling to Amarillo for a tournament today through Saturday. The girls volleyball team played Lee High for district in our gym Tuesday night. They will be playing in Big Spring this weekend. Spike it to 'em! The MHS tennis team came out victorious in the Odessa tournament last weekend! Chuck Fraser won the Boys 'B' singles, with Jim Hodge finishing second. Sophomores Caroline Kemper and Chris Eve Gholston reached the semi-finals in the girls 'B' singles. Betsy Allday and Susan Tighe also reached the semi-finals in 'B' doubles. This weekend, the netters host a tournament here. Lots of luck to everyone!

Bulldog Band
Our mighty Bulldog Band members sure were blowing their horns last weekend in Odessa. They received many high rankings in the UIL solo and ensemble contest. Congratulations for a great performance!!

The Junior Rotarians this week are Martha Stump and Tip Kirwan. Ben Davis is the Junior Lion. We're proud of ya! The CATOICO coronation will be at 8 p.m. March 16 in the MHS Auditorium. Tickets are $1 per person. A dance will be held afterwards in the Youth Center. Admission will be $4 per couple. The dress is semi-formal. "Shadetree" will be playing. We're looking forward to a great time, so everyone plan to attend!

The MHS Bat-girls wish to thank all the mothers who contributed to the garage sale. It was a huge success and we made approximately $185. We're really looking forward to another fantastic year of cheering the team on to a successful season!

Happy Birthday!
Those LIONS and LAMBS celebrating birthdays this week are Belinda Berry, Danny Clader, Vickie Ellis, Barbara Graves, Curtis Moreland, Raymond Aestas, Wanda Adams, Debbie Drost, Yolanda Garcia, Cecil Ham, Celeste Smith, Greg Smith, Daria Stamper, Von Stribling, Martha Stump, Dennis Walker, Jake Wells, Daniel Deleon, Betsy Allday, Eric Bechner, William Busbee, Larry Finley, Mike Floyd, Bennie Harris, Phillip Huber, Olen Key, Freddy Martinez, Georgann Mayes, Sandra Garcia, James Nelson, Tommy Nutt, Donna Padgett, Bruce Paul, Becky Scribner, Ronny Tucker and Dana Cowell. HAPPY BIRTHDAY!!

President Shifting Tactics On Watergate

By WALTER B. MEARS
(An AP News Analysis)
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, whose Watergate defenses have ranged from stern lectures to Operation Candor, appears to be shifting tactics again as he seeks to put the scandal behind him.

House the other night to watch the movie "Friendly Persuasion." That title may prove apt for the new strategy. He has held two news conferences in nine days, and hinted that there may be another next week. He has offered House impeachment investigators all material supplied to the Watergate grand jury, plus his own written or interview testimony. Nixon said that was "a very forthcoming offer," although there were indications the House Judiciary Committee might not be satisfied with his terms. His lawyer, James D. St. Clair, said Wednesday the President will be speaking out more frequently. "There is not a change in policy or attitude," St. Clair said. "There is a change in circumstances. The grand jury has spoken. . . . The change is from a secret investigation by the grand jury to a House investigation." The grand jury spoke with the indictment Friday of seven men who had been official or political aides to Nixon. The President spoke at his news conference Wednesday night, saying it would be improper for him to discuss the indictment, and declaring that he had never authorized clemency or payoffs in the Watergate cover-up.

News Media May Lose Shield On Libel Suits By Public Figures

WASHINGTON (AP) — On President Nixon's orders, the Justice Department is trying to draft legislation intended to strip away one of the news media's principal shields against libel suits by public officials or public figures.

As outlined by these officials in interviews, the White House plan is to present a proposed law intended to overcome a landmark 1964 Supreme Court decision granting newspapers virtual immunity against libel suits by public officials. While some Justice Department lawyers and other libel attorneys question whether such legislation can overturn a Supreme Court decision, the move appears certain to kindle new controversy in Nixon's relations with the media. And it could lead eventually to a historic legal confrontation on the Constitution's freedom of the press clause.

The President himself volunteered fleeting mention of his proposal in his Wednesday night news conference, but he didn't divulge his instructions to the Justice Department. Aides said he planned to make that disclosure Friday when he sends Congress his campaign reform package. At the news conference, while responding to a question about his plan to regulate campaign financing, he added, "We believe candidates should have a right to defend themselves against false charges that are made during the campaign, whether by their opponents or by the press." According to White House officials familiar with Nixon's views on the issue, the President believes the Supreme Court has gone too far in interpreting the Constitution to protect the media against libel suits by public officials and public figures.

Mrs. Meir Emerges Triumphant From Two Months Of Crisis

JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier Golda Meir emerged triumphant from two months of political crisis today as the National Religious party indicated it would join her government and give her a majority in parliament.

Labor party, the independent Liberals and three Arab legislators affiliated with Labor. That lineup commands only 58 of the 120 seats in the Knesset, Israel's parliament. But she told newsmen the leaders of the Religious party, Labor's traditional coalition partner, had agreed in principle to join the government before she submits the cabinet to the Knesset Sunday for a vote of confidence.

The Religious party's 10 seats would give Mrs. Meir 68 votes in the Knesset, or a healthy majority of eight. The Religious party's executive committee voted 30-17 to retract its previous refusal to join the new government after government sources circulated reports of a Syrian military buildup on the Golan Heights. The party's central committee was expected to approve participation in the government today. The party stayed out of the cabinet earlier because Mrs. Meir refused its demand that religious requirements for Israeli citizenship be tightened.

Radio Israel reported tension was higher on the Syrian front than at any time since the October war. Dayan after a tour of the Golan Heights said in a television interview that more than 1,000 Syrian tanks were deployed along the 40-mile front, several hundred more than were reported there before the last war.

Dayan walked out because he was blamed for the government's failure to anticipate the Arab attack in October. On Sunday Mrs. Meir also vowed to quit because Dayan and his supporters opposed the minority government she had put together. But on Tuesday the Labor party's executive committee gave her a rousing vote of support, and Dayan reversed himself, citing a "new security situation" on the northern front with Syria.

Houston Council Votes To Probe Fire Department

HOUSTON (AP) — The city council, with Mayor Fred Hofheinz and Mayor Pro Tem Johnny Goyen absent, has voted to investigate the Houston fire department.

Councilman Frank Mann said he has lost confidence in the mayor. Hofheinz told newsmen later Wednesday the investigation would help everyone understand why he nominated W. O. Hunter as fire chief. Referring to the investigation, Hofheinz said, "I would have voted for that. I think it is a good idea."

Goyen emerged as a dissenter. FDR Admired Teddy

Teddy Roosevelt was not only FDR's cousin but he was also his hero. He admired Teddy so much he cast his first vote for him and patterned his own career along the same lines as Teddy's.

Austin Contractor Testifies Against 'Duke Of Duval'

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Testimony concerning an alleged payment of $60,000 by an Austin contractor was expected today in the income tax evasion trial of long-time Duval County political boss George B. Parr. Parr, who turned 73 today, is being tried on an eight-count indictment accusing him of evading more than $129,000 in federal income tax between 1966 and 1969. The indictment also accuses the bald-headed, salty-talking South Texan of understating his income for the same period by more than $287,000.

Carl M. Stautz, the semi-retired owner of Triangle Construction Co. at Austin, had just started his testimony Wednesday when a defense objection over some diaries kept by Stautz caused U.S. Dist. Court Judge Owen D. Cox to send the sequestered jury to their motel for the night. Stautz testified that his construction firm had projects valued around $3.9 million under way in Duval County in 1966 at a time when he said he met with Parr on two occasions. In his opening statement

Tuesday, Asst. U.S. Atty. Ed McDonough of Houston said he would prove that a building contractor who was doing some remodeling work on Duval County schools paid Parr $60,000. Stautz, a slightly built man with a hearing problem, is the only building contractor listed among about 25 prosecution witnesses. The witness testified Wednesday about the construction projects his firm had in Duval County. He said Triangle Construction

Co. built a community center at San Diego, the county seat and Parr's home town. He also said he did renovation work at Archule Parr Elementary School, a school named for the "Duke of Duval."

In addition to the gymnasium, a cafeteria building and the cosmetology department building at San Diego. Parr is a member of the San Diego school board and is considered by local observers to have the strongest voice on the board.

Farah Workers Vote Tonight On Contract Agreement

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Farah Manufacturing Co. employees here and in San Antonio vote tonight on a contract agreement announced Wednesday by negotiators for the company and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America (ACWA). The ACWA led a national boycott of Farah products during the past two years in a bitter battle over the union's right to represent Farah workers. Employees at San Antonio lost their jobs several months ago when Farah closed its plant there because of a reduction in sales caused by the boycott. Several religious and private groups supported the boycott.

However, Farah announced two weeks ago that the company would reopen the San Antonio plants following the lifting of the boycott against the men's and boys' apparel made by Farah. Farah agreed to recognize the ACWA as the bargaining agent for its employees when the boycott settlement was made. Then negotiations on the contract began. A union spokesman said contract negotiations proceeded continuously during the past week. El Paso workers are to meet at 4:30 p.m. today at one of the West Texas plants while San Antonio workers planned to gather at the Sacred Heart Center in San Antonio. Almost 2,000 workers precipitated the labor struggle in May 1972 when they walked off their jobs in protest of the dismissal of a group of workers allegedly for engaging in pro-union activities.

ACWA officials have been trying to organize Farah employees since 1970, when it won an election in the cutting room of a Farah plant here. Farah appealed those election results, calling for a plant-wide election in its place. Willie Farah, company president, argued his workers were satisfied and his company offered fringe benefits not offered by similar businesses. Farah acknowledged two weeks ago, when the agreement to begin contract negotiations was announced, that the ACWA had enough pledge cards to be the official workers' representative. Farah said then that his company would begin immediate contributions to a union fund for compensation to former Farah employees who walked out. Farah also pledged to try to rehire all employees who walked out and are now receiving union help.
