McCarty Drug Store Installs Frigid Air

A. V. McCarty Jr. owner of the McCarty Drug Store, had a complete frigid air system installed in his fountain Tuesday of this week.

Kinney & Oberthier, of Hereford and Plainview, made the installation and now the Drug store is one of the most complete and up-to-now stores in this part of the state.

They do not use any ice, in their drinks, for they are kept at the proper temperature at all times. The people of Muleshoe are proud of this wonderful Drug store.

Texas Utilities Gang Move To Farwell

George D. Wilburn, high line foreman for the Texas Utilities Company has moved his gang to Farwell, to complete the gap between here and the Twin city.

Muleshoe now has one of the keenest electrical plants on the Plains and we are receiving twenty-four hours of wonderful service. The streets are well lighted and we have plenty of juice for all power driven machinery.

Halsells Will Drill Oil Test on Ranch

Mr. O. D. Halsell received a letter the past week from Mr. W. E. Halsell in which he instructed the former to arrange for drilling a test oil well on the ranch land between Amherst and the headquarters near Earth.

This movement has been under consideration by the Halsells for some time and it is gratifying to learn that it is to be carried into operation.

It is believed that there are several good structural locations between Amherst and Earth as well as closer to the Ranch headquarters and west of there.

With the immense oil and gas fields north, east, west and south of us, there is no reason there should not be oil and gas found in Lamb county.

The writer has never lived in any section but what gas and oil have been found—and we have lived in several. We may be a Jonah in some respects, but as an oil and gas mascot, we are a howling success—so pass around the hat.—Amherst Argus.

Base Ball Season Opens Saturday

The Muleshoe base ball management announces the first game of the season Saturday. This will be a free game and all ball players and fans are especially invited.

Dan Winn is the manager and L. C. Jones is Secy-Treas. They have asked us to inform the public that no bill will be paid unless it is signed by the above men. Don't forget the game Saturday afternoon.

Big Land Owners Here Looking At Country

J. C. Belsley and W. A. Pfeiffer, of Illinois, were here the latter part of last week looking over the country, and investigating their holdings. The above gentlemen own interests in the Jennings ranch. This large body of land will soon be placed on the market, to settlers. They are well pleased with the country and were surprised at the big development going on.

Circleback Announcing

The Circleback school was out suddenly last Friday. The pupils did not have time to prepare a program, so after the pupils had received their surprises and disappointments on their report cards they were quietly dismissed.

J. I. Sieber Of Crosbyton Here

J. I. Sieber and another gentleman, (we did not get his name) were here last Friday enroute home from Clovis, N. M., where they had been to secure eggs and roosters for his chicken ranch at Crosbyton.

Mr. Sieber is running a mammoth incubator at the above city, and reports a wonderful business this season. He produces his White Leghorn eggs on his own farms, but has to purchase eggs from the other breeds.

We are well acquainted with Mr. Sieber, and remember when he entered the chicken business a few years ago. He is making good in his hatchery.

We do not see why some one does not install a mammoth hatchery here and lets produce our own baby chicks. Thousands of chicks were shipped in here this season. Many more will come next year. Some one is overlooking a good bet.

The Masonic Lodge Completes Organization Monday Nite

Judge Woodlee, of Dimmitt, District Grand Master of the Masonic Lodge was over Monday night to complete the organization of the Muleshoe Masonic Lodge. They have nineteen charter members and about that many more to come in. After the business was transacted a bountiful feast was spread.

The local Lodge has a wonderful hall over the McCarty Drug Store that would be a credit to a town many times the size of Muleshoe.

WOMAN COULD NOT SLEEP

Her Mother-in-Law Knew A Remedy

Mrs. Belle Thompson was in a very weak and run-down condition for four years. She had great difficulty in getting to sleep at night and even then did not sleep soundly. She would wake up again and again. Besides this her appetite was poor. "My mother-in-law told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash," she writes. "I took six bottles of the Vegetable Compound and I was not the same woman at all. I could sleep and would get up in the morning singing and feeling fine. I am the mother of three children and always after the babies came I had to take treatments, but I can truly say that this last time I have only used the Sanative Wash. It does me more good than the treatments. It keeps me on my feet to care for my children and I do most of my work. I feel it my duty to let you know how both of the medicines have helped me."

CANNIBAL MOUNDS WILL BE EXPLORED

Seek New Facts on American Man-Eating Indians.

Washington.—With the departure for the Louisiana coast of Henry B. Collins, Jr., ethnologist, the Smithsonian Institution initiates an exploration of an almost forgotten area of prehistoric life on this continent. The region, which extends westward from New Orleans, was the camping ground of the Attacapa and Chitimacha Indians. It has been overlooked by archeologists and nothing has ever been written about it.

Mr. Collins, who is assistant curator of ethnology in the National museum and whose expedition the bureau of ethnology is financing, will investigate the mounds in the area with a view of determining whether they are true mounds or mere shell heaps, and to collect bones, artifacts and pottery. So far all the pottery found along the Gulf from Florida to Louisiana has been similar, indicating a cultural relationship among the peoples and suggesting a migration route.

Cannibal Tribe. The Attacapa Indians were one of the few known cannibal tribes of the American continent. Whether they engaged in the practice for ceremonial purposes or for the love of it is not known. Other cannibal tribes were found in Cuba, Jamaica, Venezuela, Colombia and Brazil. The Chitimacha possessed a much higher culture and seem to have been related to the Natchez. They had the same caste system—division of the tribe into nobles and proletariat—and their language is similar. It is interesting to note that caste was transmitted through the mother, so that a high-caste mother could bear high-caste children to a low-caste father, while the children of a low-caste mother must remain low caste no matter who was their father. Incidentally, one method of climbing the social ladder and entering a higher caste was to sacrifice one's relatives at the death of a noble.

Explore Choctaw Mounds. From Louisiana Mr. Collins will proceed to Mississippi to continue excavations begun last year of Choctaw mounds. The old belief that these mounds were the work of some fanciful ancient race, entirely distinct from the American Indian, has long been exploded. It is now known definitely that they are the work of the ancestors of the Choctaw or related peoples, who built them as burial mounds or more commonly as platforms for the erection of their temples and the homes of their leaders.

The largest of these mounds is 100 feet high and covers an area of about 16 acres. When it is realized that the builders had nothing but crude sticks and stone implements with which to dig, and reed baskets in which to transport the dirt, the intensity of the religious feeling which could produce such a monument may be understood.

Built 5,900 Miles of New Roads in 1925

New York.—Motorists will have about 5,900 more miles of concrete road to travel over during 1926 than they had in 1925. Added to the 31,700 miles built in previous years, there are now approximately 37,600 miles of concrete on the highways in the United States outside limits of incorporated cities and villages.

The building of 5,900 miles of concrete highway in a single year establishes a new record and along with the improvement of many other miles of gravel and grading was no small job for the road builders. It involved the use of tremendous quantities of materials and the employment of a great army of workers.

A feature of the last year's highway construction activities was the efforts of the road builders to inconvenience the motorists as little as possible. In every way the policies of the state highway departments were to serve the highway user. More attention was paid to detours around construction jobs. They were kept in good condition and were carefully marked so that the motorist could reach his destination with the least inconvenience.

Oysters Catch Cold; 600,000 Pearls Lost

Tokyo.—Because oysters, like humans, are subject to bad colds, a loss of more than 600,000 embryonic cultured pearls is estimated to have been suffered by pearl raisers of Ago bay near Nagoya.

Ago bay is the center of Japan's cultured pearl industry. Here tiny seeds implanted in oysters grow into rich necklaces. The season's drought is said to have caused the water of the bay to become extremely cold and the change in temperature, experts said, resulted in the parent oysters' catching cold and dying.

STUDY PUEBLO PAGAN ANNALS

Seek Light on Early Franciscan Martyrs.

Santa Fe, N. M.—Brothers of the Franciscan order of the Roman Catholic church in the Southwest are preserving the traditions of their organization which arose from the martyrdom of priests who passed centuries in the conversion of the Pueblo Indians from their pagan beliefs to Christianity.

Much research work is being done by scholars to bring to light the facts of the spiritual conquest of the Pueblos, which they believe to be one of the most colorful pages of the history of the Americas.

Father Theodocus Meyer, after considerable study in the archives of the mission at Santa Barbara, Cal., has compiled a list of 51 members of the order who gave their lives in the period from 1542 to 1636.

The result of this search contrasts the religious brothers with the proud conquistador, the one for the prize of mystical gold and gems, the other for the prize of human souls.

The history of the Christianization of the Indians showed that there were waves of persecution of the priests at intervals of 40 or 50 years throughout nearly two centuries.

They reached their climax in 1680, when the Pueblo Indians rose in rebellion against the tyranny of the Spanish rule, and killed nearly every white man in New Mexico. By pre-arranged plot, 31 missionaries in a score of pueblos, many of them 100 or more miles apart, were killed on one day.

Nebraska U Arranges Exchange With Mexico

City of Mexico.—Negotiations looking toward an exchange between the United States and Mexico of scientific and research knowledge have been conducted along successful lines in the last two months between the University of Nebraska and the institute of geology of the Mexican government.

Prof. E. F. Schramm, chief of the department of geology and paleontology of the University of Nebraska, is the chief power behind the movement to bring about an exchange between the countries of fossils, minerals and meteoric stones. John Zozaya, secretary of Judge E. B. Perry, American commissioner at the meetings of the special claims commissions, was commissioned to initiate the move to strengthen the scientific collections now existing in both countries with such specimens as each country is able to supply, which the other has not got.

It is pointed out that there exist many fossils and other objects of scientific value in Mexico which are not to be found in museums in the United States and vice versa.

Six Million Criminals in U. S., Records Show

Washington.—Statistics, disclosing that about 6,000,000 Americans at some time in their lives have indulged in criminal careers, were obtained at the Department of Justice.

About 3,000,000 have been accused in the courts. The other half, although at some time guilty of offenses for which they might have served terms in prison, have escaped the vigilance of the police.

The estimate of the criminally inclined population was made by department experts on the basis of the fact that finger-print records of 1,013,000 criminals are on file in the bureau of identification.

He's Cautious

Richmond, Va.—One Virginian is going to be a bachelor, for a while at least, because of his caution. The ceremony was called off and the license returned to the county clerk's office.

ALASKA HOTEL OWNED BY 'MOTHER OF NORTH'

Got Her Start Cooking for Gold Seekers.

Skagway, Alaska.—Many tourists from the States know Mrs. Harriet Pullen of the famous Pullen house, which is 1,500 miles as a plane flies from Ketchikan, at the southeastern tip of Alaska to Nome, out to the northwest on Bering sea.

All over the world, wherever linger those madmen and others who came rushing to Alaska and the Klondike—to the eastward, in Canada—for gold in 1898 and 1899, Mrs. Pullen is loved.

A handful of women became famous because they were able to stand beside the sprinkling of men in the uncounted myriad of goldrushers who were hard enough to conquer the North—and of all that bright company the men of the golden North count Mrs. Pullen the brightest.

Young, comely, strong, Harriet Pullen was daughter of a rancher on Puget sound in Washington state. She came to Alaska in 1898 with her four children to go with her husband over the Chilkoot trail or the equally terrible White pass trail into the Klondike for gold.

Had $7 and Four Children.

She lost her husband. Camped on the beach here she had $7—and four little children. The rush was never so mad that men did not eat, and the mother with the four children and $7 went to cooking. She cooked so well and withal was so kind and helpful that those thousands passing through here and up the White pass trail or through Dyea, four miles from Skagway, and up the Chilkoot trail, called her the Mother of the North. She prospered and bought out old Cap Moore's boarding house in Skagway.

The boarding house she developed into Pullen house, a 20-room modern hotel, standing in a landscape garden of several acres, split by a mountain stream with an island and rustic bridges. Canadians opening up their country came with a railroad over White pass—the White Horse & Yukon.

The railroad still runs, and Mrs. Pullen still prospers because the whitehanded children of the outside come, taking this fast route to see the sights of the North. Pullen house is reputed to have entertained more distinguished guests than any other hotel in the North.

Sent to West Point.

Mrs. Pullen's oldest son was Dan. He attended the University of Washington, which then had a preparatory school, five years. President Roosevelt gave him the first appointment from Alaska to West Point. He became all-American tackle, and graduated among the first five cadets in his class.

Into the World war he went as a colonel of engineers. He was pressed into service as a tank commander. With his squadron of tanks he took a German position, but infantry following him, failed to consolidate. To hold the position, Pullen hastened back afoot, reformed the infantry, led them back and retook the position. He died of sleeping sickness, attributed to war service, two years ago.

Royal Pullen graduated from the University of Washington, playing guard, and was an officer in the World war. Both brothers were cited for gallantry, and General Pershing once exclaimed: "I wish I had a regiment of Pullens."

Mildred Pullen graduated at a nurses' school in New York city. Chester Pullen, a student at the University of Washington, was drowned at Ketchikan on his way back to the States after a summer at home.

Note in Bottle Tells of Gold in Canada

Norway, Maine.—Do the bones of two human skeletons stand as the gruesome monument to a great gold field?

Woodbury Russell revolves this question in his mind as he plans trips in search of the yellow metal. He has abandoned interest in the search and gives all the information he possesses to the public.

His information is contained in a note found floating in a tightly-corked bottle below the falls at Clark City, on the St. Margaret river, in Canada. The note reads: "Whoever finds this bottle, there is gold and in plenty 25 miles above the falls. My chum, Jack, is dead, and I am freezing to death." Russell, a contractor and builder, went with his brother and several other men to do construction work at Clark City, Canada. Here they found the bottle, and made their first unsuccessful trip in search of the mentioned gold.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Constipation! How to Keep Bowels Regular

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated men, women, children, and particularly old folks, had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils. While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all headaches, biliousness, indigestion and stomach misery, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary. In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it. Lesson for May 16

ABRAHAM AND THE STRANGERS

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 18:1-19.
 GOLDEN TEXT—All nations of the earth shall be blessed indeed.—Gen. 12:3.
 PRIMARY TOPIC—Abraham Is Kind to Strangers
 JUNIOR TOPIC—Abraham Welcomes Three Strangers.
 INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Abraham's Hospitality.
 YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Why God Chose Abraham.

I. The Lord Appeared to Abraham (vv. 1-8).
 While Abraham sat in his tent door, he lifted up his eyes and lo, three men stood by him. His reception of these three men is a beautiful picture of oriental hospitality. These beings, while called men are also called angels (see 19:1). When the men arose to depart, Abraham according to custom, accompanied his guests some distance on the way. One of the men was the angel of Jehovah, or Jehovah manifest in human form. The Jehovah angel remained behind to commune with Abraham. This is clear from the fact that three started out—one talked with Abraham and only two entered Sodom (see 18:22 and 19:1).

II. God's Promise to Abraham Re-affirmed (vv. 9-15).
 The Lord communed with him about his personal interests, showing how Sarah should have a son in her old age, according to the covenant promise. This conversation being overheard by Sarah from her place in the tent only provoked laughter on her part. Although she thus expressed unbelief, it doubtless was a great comfort to Abraham who had been awaiting the fulfillment of the promise for years. "Is anything too hard for the Lord?" is a striking rebuke to Sarah's unbelief, and shows that the Lord is able to discern even our inmost thoughts.

III. The Doom of Sodom and Gomorrah Revealed to Abraham (vv. 16-21).
 The Lord now communed with Abraham about Sodom and Gomorrah. Though Abraham had no personal interest in Sodom, the Lord revealed unto him His secret purpose concerning it. He did not hunt up Lot to make known unto him his purpose concerning Sodom. He never goes to the persons who are entangled with the things of the world. The only way to know God's thought touching the age in which we live is to remain separate from it. "The secret of the Lord is with them that fear Him." (Ps. 25:15). The reason for this disclosure may be stated as follows:

1. Because he was his friend (Jas. 5:23; John 15:15). Friends confide in each other. The master reveals his purposes to his friends, not to his servants.
 2. Because he was to be the head of a great nation (v. 18).
 As such he was to be the medium of blessings to them. The interests of humanity were at stake in the destruction of Sodom. It was good that Abraham should know that he might be able to instruct coming generations.

3. Because of the responsibility of instructing his own family (v. 19). God is always careful that His judgments have a rational explanation, serving to deter others from the same sin. The Lord declared that His purpose was to go down and see whether the Sodomites had done according to the cry which had come up from it (v. 21).
 IV. Abraham's Intercession for Sodom and Gomorrah (vv. 22-23).
 The two men departed for Sodom, leaving Abraham alone in the presence of the Lord. He stood there as an intercessor. In this unselfish act Abraham represents our High Priest (Heb. 7:23-28; Rom. 8:34; 1 John 2:1). Jesus possesses the divine right to stand before the Father. Abraham made his plea on the ground of justice to the righteous who might be in the city. Because of the infinite sacrifice which Christ made by His blood for our sins, He can plead our cause before God on the ground of strict justice. He ventured his plea six times, each time diminishing the number. We should learn from this that petitions granted give encouragement to ask for others. Abraham's power as an intercessor was limited. He was afraid of overdraining his account with the Lord. This is not the case with our High Priest. His credit and influence with the Father are infinite. He is able to save unto the uttermost those who come unto God by Him, seeing He ever liveth to make intercession for them (Heb. 7:25).

Great Personages of the Bible
 By REV. LEONARD A. BARRETT

Vashti
 THE book of Esther introduces us to an environment intensely Persian in character. In the midst of all its gorgeous splendor, Ahasuerus, known as Xerxes the Great, ruled as king.

In a magnificent palace garden Ahasuerus entertained his friends with marked and extravagant hospitality characteristic of the East. When the revelry had reached its height, Ahasuerus commanded that Vashti be brought unveiled before the assembled guests. The rule of the East was that no woman was permitted to appear unveiled in a public place, and her consent to comply with the king's wishes would have at once involved her high sense of propriety and honor. Should she disobey, Vashti would be compelled to pay the price of her refusal. That night, facing a future dark and unknown, a regal conscience left that Persian palace, for the soul of Vashti had fought and conquered in the struggle for her ideal of what was right. Here was a character true to all that is implied in that noble word woman. Vashti was every inch a woman, and rather than sacrifice her conscience she was willing to abandon wealth, a life of luxurious ease, and all the prerogatives which belonged to her as queen of the Persian palace.

In the veins of Vashti there must have flowed the inherited blood of a true aristocracy of character. How did Vashti become the recipient of such a high conception of womanhood? We know that she acquired it through no influence of the Persian palace. She brought to Ahasuerus a high conception of womanliness which was instilled into her life in the far earlier years of her development. Back of all the gifts which crowned Vashti queen, we can see the molding influence of a mother. Vashti had a mother. Back of every woman adorned with those queenly gifts of womanhood, is a mother. Ah! Vashti, something stood strong within your heart in the hour of that crisis, and there is something that must stand strong in every woman's heart and life, as she holds in her hands that power which determines the future of American citizenship.

In the career of every child there come times of doubt and perplexity, when the music of the Ave Marie is a very real experience. Where shall a child go in such hours, save to a mother? It is the mother that speaks, and it is the mother who stands up and answers the all-perplexing questions and solves the intricate problems in the life of her child. Before we can ever bring to the present social and economic problems a sure and a permanent solving power, American motherhood must have absorbed early in its infancy those high and noble ideals, those commanding and all-illuminating motives, those exalted and queenly conceptions of character, which we discover in the mother of Vashti. Let Christian motherhood rise to this proclamation, that every child has the right to be well born. It is a fearful thing to send a young soul voyaging to eternity, but it is a perilous thing to send a child on that voyage with the poison of ancestral blood flowing in his veins.

Many solutions are offered for the evils of our age. To the task of solving our social and economic problems, every person should contribute his share of service and money, but even then have we solved the problem? There is a cause for crime more far-reaching in its influence than poverty and the social conditions, out of which much evil arises. The cause for crime harks back to the problem of heredity, which argues again—every child has the right to be born. It harks back to the earlier days when into the development of child life there must be infused those ideals and motives for which true American motherhood stands. This idea is magnificently expressed in a Mother's day proclamation recently handed down to the people of Michigan by the governor of the state. "Never did the word mother have a broader and deeper meaning than it has today. The welfare of the world is related to motherhood. Would that the mothers of our sons and daughters fully realized the power they wield. Through the double standard of virtue established by man long ages ago mothers have unconsciously granted their son's license to disregard the sanctity of womanhood. When mothers shall insist upon as clean men for husbands of their daughters as they now insist upon clean daughters for wives of their sons a new era will have dawned in which the social evil and the white-slave traffic will have largely disappeared from our fair land. The highest type of woman is the mother. The word mother thrills the heart with joy and gratitude and gives to memory priceless treasures."

Ahasuerus' feast is a thing of the past, but the queenly spirit of Vashti who sacrificed position rather than conscience, who remained true to her sublime ideals of womanhood, the spirit of all this will forever abide. And, as we tell this story to our children we look up from the pages containing the Biblical narrative and, resting our eyes upon a picture which hangs upon the wall of our home, we behold in the Madonna (a mother with her child) the challenge as well as the hope of our future Christian civilization.

 A widespread, hopeful disposition is your only true umbrella in this vale of tears.
 Do the work you have to do With a purpose strong and true, Every day.
GOOD THINGS TO EAT

The simplest foods well cooked and served are the most satisfying to the majority of people for every day.
Claridge Beef Heart.—Wash and remove the arteries from the heart, wipe dry and fill with a good stuffing, tie up securely and roast in a moderate oven for three hours. Remove the strings before serving, and also pour a hot gravy around the heart.

Stuffing: Chop one ounce of suet fine, add two cupfuls of bread crumbs, one chopped onion, season with parsley, thyme, pepper, salt, and a grating of nutmeg. Mix well and add one beaten egg to bind it.
Spring Salad.—Grate or put through the fine knife of the food chopper enough carrots to make a cupful, add a little minced celery, a seasoning of onion and enough good salad dressing to season well. Serve on lettuce, dotted with spoonfuls of the dressing.
 Rhubarb and raisins make a good combination for a pie.

Plain Custard Pie.—It would seem that any cook might make a most acceptable custard pie, but the proof of the pudding being in the eating, we know they can't. Line a pie tin with a good rich crust having the rim stand up well above the edge of the tin. Fill with a custard mixture, using for an ordinary pie two eggs, one-third of a cupful of sugar, a pinch of salt, and two cupfuls of milk, adding a generous grating of nutmeg or cinnamon if preferred. Set into a hot oven to bake the crust quickly—this avoids soaking it—then lower the heat to bake the custard, as that should not be cooked at a high temperature. Too hot an oven will make the custard whey, and become coarse grained. A perfect pie should be well baked on the bottom and have a filling of rich, creamy consistency. A custard is well baked when a knife thrust into the center comes out clean.

Tapoca well cooked and mixed with any bits of canned or fresh fruit, topped with whipped cream, makes a most delightful dessert.
Dumplings.—Delicious fluffy dumplings may be prepared as follows: Take one beaten egg, one cupful of buttermilk, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt; sift in flour enough to make a drop batter. Drop from a teaspoon into a kettle of hot meat with plenty of bones to hold up the dumplings, cover tightly and cook eight minutes. Do not uncover during the cooking.

Everyday Good Things.
 If one desires a large quantity of sandwich filling for company, the following recipe will be a good one to follow. For small amounts it may be divided.
Cheese Sandwich Filling.—Mix together one cupful of sour cream, three eggs, one tablespoonful each of butter and sugar, a few grains of cayenne, one teaspoonful of mustard, and one teaspoonful of salt. Beat all together until the eggs are broken, set over hot water and stir until it begins to thicken, then add three tablespoonfuls of vinegar (hot) to the cream mixture. Cook until it coats the spoon, add one and one-half pounds of finely cut cheese, two green peppers put through the meat chopper and two red peppers also chopped. Add the peppers after the mixture is slightly cool. Use on slices of buttered bread. The cheese and peppers may be used, adding enough dressing to make the right consistency; in this way the amount may be varied to suit the need.

Carrot, Pineapple and Nut Salad.—Put a carrot or two through the meat chopper; to one cupful of the carrot add a slice of finely minced pineapple and a tablespoonful of chopped nuts. Mix with a good salad dressing and serve on lettuce.
Curry of Mutton.—Fry one large onion, chopped fine, in two tablespoonfuls of butter. Mix one tablespoonful of curry powder, one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of flour, and stir into the onion and butter. Pour over slowly one and one-half cupfuls of stock. Cut two pounds of lean mutton into small pieces and brown them in hot fat; add them to the sauce and simmer until tender. Place the meat on a hot dish and arrange a border of hot cooked rice around it.
Liver Patties.—Scald a pound of liver and grind it with one-fourth of a pound of bacon and an onion through the meat chopper. Season well, form into small cakes and cook in a little hot bacon fat, browning on both sides.
Medley Sandwich.—Take two-thirds of a cupful of minced chicken, one-third of a cupful of minced ham and tongue; add cayenne and enough mayonnaise to make a smooth mixture to spread and spread on buttered brown and white bread made into ribbon sandwiches.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT

What is Community Spirit? It is that condition of heart and mind which makes for loyalty to the community in which one lives.

Community spirit allows free and full expression of individual opinions, yet requires a full measure of co-operation from all of its citizenship in making a successful happy contented community.

Community spirit is successful, happy and contented when its citizenship co-operates with the builders of any community, in that they buy their goods from the home merchant. They contribute to all civic efforts which has to do with making a bigger and better community to live in.

Community spirit is successful, happy and contented when its citizenship sell its, common products through its home agencies who in turn branch out and provide a larger out let for the products produced in any community. Which in turn enables the producer to enlarge on his efforts and create a larger supply of any commodity it is able and capable of producing.

Community spirit in order to thrive must have loyalty in all matters which have to do with the community good. Jealousy, greed and hate are the basis cause of all failures in any community.

Community spirit rejoices in the success of any member of any community, in that the reflection acts for the good to some other member of that community. Community spirit is most successful, happy and contented when all of its citizenship are successful, happy and contented. One failure in any community reflects on that community in that it spreads and divides loss equally over the community in which it may happen regardless of the opinion to the contrary.

The business of this community is farming and distribution of farm products, with supplies coming in to assist in producing the farm products which are so necessary to a successful happy contented community.

Mr. Business man step out meet your brother business man pledge co-operation with Mr. Farmer man. Mr. Farmer man step out and meet Mr. Business man, you two boys can do more for this community than any other two men in it. In fact if you don't step out and do this job it won't be done.

Co-operation is the life of community spirit, try it just once for a definite time and watch the results.

I am, Community Spirit.

"No! Tie him up and put him in the shack and get our stuff to the canoe! I'll get rid of the girl!"

The die was cast. Every minute at the post spelled danger. But Steele now had an excuse for refusing to take Rose Lafamme to the railroad.

"You understand, David? Keep your knife out of him. Your turn will come on the snow. Now get the canoe!"

David carried Lafamme into the shack, and went for the canoe.

Returning to the girl, trembling in the dark, Steele said: "It was he, David knocked him out, but he's not hurt. We must get away at once."

With an impulsive movement, Rose Lafamme found Steele's neck with her arms and kissed him wildly.

"But," explained the harassed American, "we've got to travel fast; they'll follow us—we can't take you!"

"You mean you'll not take me now?" gasped the girl in her despair.

"We'll have to run the portages, break our backs to beat the Indians he'll send after us. If you go, they'll get us!" protested Steele.

"Take me, take me with you!" she moaned. "Am I not beautiful, beeg American? Don't leave me here!"

Then Brent Steele gumbled: "What was Pierre doing down river?"

"I weel tell you in the canoe," she parried, and he crunched his teeth in his chagrin. "When we are in the canoe I will tell you things—things you nevaire dream of," she urged. "I know all."

She would exchange her information at a price—her freedom; and that price Steele would not pay. But it was necessary to get her back to the house.

"All right," he said, "go and get some heavy clothes, and be at the log tanding in an hour. Don't make any noise. We don't want them to find Lafamme until morning. Now be careful!"

With a low cry, she again circled Steele's neck with her arms, kissed him and disappeared. In an hour he and David would be far down the lake on their way to Nepigon house. She had intended making a cat-spa of him to escape from Ogoke and Steele wasted no sympathy on her. He wondered whether, on finding herself tricked, she would arouse the post or take to her bed, feigning ignorance of the whole business.

And he also wondered whether if Denise St. Onge ever learned of this night's work at Ogoke, she would believe that every act and word of his had been in her service.

Through the night, the churn-swish, churn-swish of the paddles of David and Steele ceaselessly marked off the miles, for with the sun might come a head wind, which meant fighting for every foot while their pursuers gained on them with a four or six-man crew. Time and again through the long hours, the keen eyes of David alone had sensed through the murk in which they traveled, the menace of a rocky point or the threat of bowiders, awash, square in their course.

"How far have we come?" asked Steele, laying his paddle on the gunwale to stretch his stiffened arms.

"Wal, dees point ees ver' far up de lak'. Eeen two hour we hit de inlet."

"Good! If that is so, we're thirty miles ahead of them."

The Ojibway shook his head. "We tak' no chance—we travel lak' h—!"

On shore the ten-pall was soon boiling, while David and Steele overhauled their scant supplies. There were barely beans, bacon and flour to do a week, and Nepigon lake was two weeks' hard travel. It meant shooting their way out, unless the fish would bite, for they had given their net to Michel.

"Let's have a look at the old Mann-licher," said Steele as David watched the bacon sputtering in the pan. "We may need her before we get out of this mess. I was a fool to stop there. I might have—" He had thrown the bolt-handle up and back, when his face sobered. The startled eyes which met the inquiring gaze of the man at the fire drew a quiek: "W'at you see—ghost?"

Making no reply, Steele sprang to the canoe, tore the lashings from a bag and fumbled with its contents—then emptied the bag on the beach. Taking David's rifle from the canoe, he opened the breach.

"Both guns empty!" he said in dismay. "They've got our shells—two boxes in the bag! Not a shot left—cleaned out!"

The white man looked long into the immobile face of the Indian.

"If they catch us—we're done! If they don't, we can't even shoot our way home. It's fish—or starve!"

The Ojibway squatted on his heels and resumed his frying. "Wal, boss," he said stolidly, "we have beeg feed dis mornin'—den paddle lak' h—!"

For two hours the canoe was driven as only seasoned men can push maple paddles. Then, leaving the lake, they faced forty miles of the swift Rouge before they turned off on the portage to the Jackfish. Once on the Jackfish they could travel as fast as their pursuers, for from there it was all down stream to Nepigon. But the thought which added pounds to the thrust of pole and lunge of paddle through the travel and sweat of that October day was the chance of being headed by Indians sent overland to the Jackfish portage. With no shells for their rifles, they were at the mercy of the last half-breed to come up with them.

So, without stopping at noon, the fleeing canoe pushed on up the Rouge, and not until dusk settled on the valley, was it turned to the shore.

There, unloading the weary crew carried boat and outfit back into the "bush" against the possible chance of their camp smoke being seen at daylight by those at their heels.

Dawn found them at their galley slavery with another back-breaking day to live through before the clearing of the Jackfish portage would open up ahead. Unless they were run down shortly, that night the fleeing canoe would ride the Jackfish, and they had won.

They were rounding a bend below a backwater when the man in the bow lifted his hand and pointed. In the shallows, not fifty yards away, stood a yearling moose.

"Meat to take us to Nepigon!" growled Steele.

David slapped the water with the flat of his paddle. "Marche, you!" he cried, "or de cutt'roat behin' us weel get you."

"One shell would have got him!" said Steele, ruefully, as the moose slowly turned and disappeared.

"Wal, I not wast' de last shot on moose," and the Indian held up a shining cartridge for the inspection of his friend.

"Where in the devil did you get that?" cried the amazed and delighted stern man.

"I fin' eet een de grub bag."

"And you never told me! Is that fair, David?"

"Wal, eef I tell you, you fire eet at de moose."

"Why not? We would have red meat then, to Nepigon."

The Ojibway shook his head soberly: "Daveed save eet for one of Lafamme's men."

To Steele, who felt now that sun-down would find them at the Jackfish portage; that their pursuers were far in the rear; the words of David sounded unduly ominous. It was possible that some of the Indians on their trail could travel the forty miles of broken, bush-grown river shore in a night and a day, but he doubted it. So he laughed loudly at the square back of his friend when, an hour before sunset, they landed at Jackfish portage.

"Well, we did it, old boy!" cried Steele, slapping the knotted shoulder of the grinning David. "Now we'll take her all over in one trip or throw this museum stuff away. Can we do it?"

David nodded. "De carry to de lak' ees short. I tak' the canoe an' de Injun stuff. You tak' de rest."

"Man alive! It will go four hundred—with the boat."

But David was busy slinging his tump-line to the largest of the bags and made no answer.

So, after further protest, which the Indian brushed aside, Steele packed the three hundred pounds of bags on the Ojibway's wide back, and on top balanced the canoe, and the thick bowlegs of the red son of Anak moved steadily up the trail.

With the dusk, the canoe was in the Jackfish and the two men gripped hands in mutual congratulation. They had set Lafamme's gang a pace over a hundred miles of lake and river which they would not soon forget. Dropping downstream they camped in the thick spruce, back from the river, and for the first time in two days, baked cornbread for their beans and bacon, and feasted.

Beside a fire which the scrub masked at fifty feet, two men, at ease with the world, pulled on after-supper pipes. With a little luck in the pike lakes of the lower Jackfish, they could eke out their scanty food supply; and if, as seemed certain, they had left their pursuers hopelessly behind, the shell in David's rifle might bring them meat.

"Boss," said the Ojibway, after a period of silence which was characteristic, "I nevaire tell you w'y I hunt dis Lafamme."

From a reverie in which Denise St. Onge again played to him on her Hill of Dreams, far in the north, Steele turned with interest to the speaker.

"No, I should like to hear."

"Eet was manee year back—ten, twelve. Dis Lafamme trade wid de Jibway up Los' lak' way. My brodder work for heem. He sen' my brodder an' 'noder man to mak' cache on de Pellican riviere. One day, beeg spruce log, she fall and hit heem in de back. De 'noder feller try carry heem ovaire de portage but eet pain my brodder too much. He say, 'I stay here w'ile you broeng men from Los' lak'. Dey tak' me ovaire de long portage on de spruce pole!'"

For a long space David sat with head on hands, staring into the fire. Steele smoked in silence, waiting for the mood of his friend to change, when the rest would be told.

At length, David straightened and turned to the other, black eyes glittering, as he hearsely demanded: "W'at you tink dat Lafamme say w'em de feller reach Los' lak'? Dees ees w'at he say: 'Dat man ovaire on de Pellican ees dead by now. I got no men to sen'. You not go back; I got work for you wid beeg canoe down in Wabi-noon.'"

Again David paused, his face black with his thoughts.

"So Lafamme left your brother to die alone—to starve?"

David nodded.

"Dat feller had fear of Lafamme, but he go back to de Pellican t'on he get chance."

"What did he fin'?" asked Steele.

"Nodia."

"What?"

"My brodder craw' to de riviere an' drown heesel—before he starve."

"David," said the man across the fire, "I want to apologize for keeping you off that snake. He was helpless and I thought if I allowed you to go back that night, and we were afterward overhauled, it would mean our finish; but now I wish you had throttled him."

"I had hard fight not to keel heem—but you're de boss," added the loyal Ojibway.

"You'll have your opportunity this winter—never fear."

"Mebbe; but dey may wait for us tomorrow at de Frying Pan."

"You still think that some of them may have been sent overland to cut us off?"

"Wal," said the cool half-breed, "eef I hunt canoe traveling dis way from Ogoke, dat ees w'ere I sen' dem."

"But they won't have had time to get there."

"Mebbe not. Tomorrow we see." And the red stole rolled himself in his blanket.

The stars still hung above the Jackfish, although there was a hint of dawn in the graying east, when a canoe slid swiftly through the shadows on the way to the Frying Pan rapids. Once over the carry around this roaring cauldron of white-water, into the spray of whose flumes and cross currents no man, red or white, had ridden a canoe and come through, and the two friends could snap their fingers at Lafamme's pursuing pack of wolves, for thirty miles of hard-running river, from which they would not lift their flying canoe, then lay before them.

As they paddled toward the carry above the thundering Frying Pan, Steele asked the Indian whose eyes ceaselessly searched the shore below them: "Have these rapids ever been run?"

"No! Dey are ver' had een some place," muttered David.

"Could we run them?"

The Indian shook his head.

"Then why did you insist on our having our setting poles handy?"

David did not answer.

"You're wasting your time watching that portage," laughed Steele.

Still the Ojibway ignored the man in the stern. Then the scifer suddenly wondered why the bowman was edging the nose of the boat, as they drifted, away from the carry.

A rift shot through him. Had David seen something suspicious?

The boat was fast approaching easy rifle range. With his paddle buried, the Indian, simulating a surety action, and followed by Steele, was rapidly adding to the distance between the canoe and the shore. But to the straining eyes of the American the scrub told nothing.

"What is it? I can't make anything out," demanded Steele.

Back from the low came: "Keep on paddle; oey are dere!"

The words froze Steele where he kneeled.

On drifted the craft, ever edging farther and farther from the ambush.

Stiff as stone knelt the man in the bow, outthrust arms rigid, eyes anchored to the beach, wrists alone in motion. Hunched in the stern, fingers fiercely gripping his paddle, Steele, marvelling at the Ojibway's nerve, waited for his order. A hundred yards more and the suck of the first chute would draw them into the Frying Pan. The boat was now passing the portage, yet the rifles on the shore were silent. Then Steele understood. The plan was to drown them.

ARRAYED FOR JUNE WEDDING; TROUSSEAU AFTERNOON FROCKS

IN THE imagination of girlhood, throughout its brief, bright years, vague pictures of brides and bridal floats. Occasionally in them, each maiden sees herself the center of interest as a bride; but there are so many interests and distractions in this complex age, that even Prince Charming, before his actual arrival, occupies only a small space on the

Much is expected of afternoon frocks in the trousseau—it goes without saying that they should be beautiful and it is not difficult to find plenty of them that fill this requirement. But every bride desires that hers should be unusual, as well as beautiful, also more or less dignified and, above all, suited to her personality. Afternoon gowns are the observed of horizon of youth. Then, almost before she knows it, along comes this particular June and finds many a fair girl (fully as many as usual) face to face with her wedding.

Most important of all is the matter of the bride's wedding gown. She has a wide choice of beautiful and graceful styles at her disposal—all of them dignified. She may be simple and ingenious, splendid or picturesque and her maid never had better opportunities to look like pictures. What with sheer fabrics, lovely colors, floating lines and fluttering draperies a bevy of June bridesmaids look more like personified flowers than anything else. But here comes a little procession of wedding gowns, for the inspection of the bride, each created by a great name in the world of stylists. The first is a gown of white crepe satin with long molded bodice, very long, close-fitting sleeves, reaching to the knuckles; round neck, skirt widening into ripples with a scalloped hemline all observers and if they prove the envy of many, they have played their part perfectly.

Beginning with informal afternoon frocks of taffeta or georgette in plain colors and simple decorations, afternoon frocks progress along the path of more elaboration until the dinner gown is reached. It includes combinations of taffeta and lace, plain georgette and lace, figured georgette or chiffon over plain slips, and the reverse of this. There are many pretty soft taffeta frocks in navy blue or black with collars and sleeve trimmings of ecru lace, and sometimes handings or ecru lace, that are dignified and very useful. Navy or black in georgette, brightened with colored embroidery in silk, and posed over a slip to match the embroidery, or over self color, affords a choice of many conservative gowns which may be varied by slips in different colors worn under them. Scalloped hem lines, tulle flounces and cascading draperies, with and no vestige of trimming. But the back portion is lengthened into a wide train and over all is a veil of tulle.

Finally comes in the last word in wedding gowns, for the bride whose taste runs to the picturesque and whose style will allow her to indulge it. This is the robe-de-style and an example of it is pictured here. It is to be recommended for the bride who will have only one attendant or none. This is a very youthful mode and may be developed in georgette or in taffeta and lace.

ripples, godets and plaits, help to vary them. Plain, light colors in georgette, made up with lace dyed to match, are very effective, especially in the tan and gray tones. The procession of flowered chiffons and combinations of plain and figured fabrics is endless and lands us in the realm of lovely dinner gowns where we shall come across superb examples of embroidery used as the decorative feature. In this class are short-sleeved models.

The local newspaper in the United States is each year getting on a firmer foundation and becoming more and more useful to its home community. It is the home newspaper which boosts the town, year in and year out, which takes the lead in every enterprise which has for its purpose the upbuilding of the community. We frequently hear it said that the old time independent spirit of the newspaper is gone, that its editorial policy is now subservient to the business office. Yet this is not true. There is more unselfish idealism in the average local newspaper than in any other business enterprise. It frequently speaks out in the way which it believes will be for the good of the nation and of the community, regardless of what the consequences may be from a business standpoint. The local newspaper is the principal booster for the community, and it does its boosting often without hope of material reward. Unfortunately is the community which neither appreciates nor supports its local newspaper.—Wisconsin State Journal.

In this issue of the Journal we are starting a column that we are turning over to the readers of the Journal. It will be known as the People's Forum. Any subject you care to discuss will go into this column. Subjects will be confined to community improvements. Writer must sign his name to the article, but it will not be published. We hope the people will use this column for we believe it will make a good feature.

Antique Story Of Cabinetmaker

From an old day book of the late W. F. Bramel, expert cabinetmaker, who flourished over 80 years ago, and a tattered copy of "The Maysville Tri-Weekly Herald, Sprigg Chambers, editor," dated Fed. 28th, 1848, handed into us by Mr. W. L. Tolle, of Mt. Gilead; and is the property of Mrs. W. F. Joly, who is a granddaughter of the departed cabinetmaker, we have unearthed a rare historic find and two very interesting relics filled with unique lore of the old by-gone days.

The old day book of Mr. Bramel is pretty well worn out, but the list of his customer's accounts are still distinct and legible, and give us an accurate idea of the vast amount of antique furniture he turned out in his country shop; hundreds of these articles are in use today, having been purchased for a song, and rebuilt and rebrnished by our modern workers at three times the price which Mr. Bramel charged for turning out "bureaus, bedsteads, stands, tables and so forth," over three quarters of a century ago.

Many of the same old pieces of furniture are now eagerly in demand as souvenirs; the prices therefore sometimes tripling what "old man Bramel" got.

Mr. Bramel believed in advertising his wares, and the yellow and torn old copy of "The Maysville Herald," carried his advertisement as follows:

CABINET WARE & C. W. F. BRAMEL

Living near the Maysville and Fleming Turnpike and adjoining the Farm of A. Hord, Esq., takes this method of informing his neighbors of the counties of Mason and Fleming, that he keeps on hand or makes to order ALL DESCRIPTIONS OF CABINET FURNITURE of the most Fashionable Styles and of the best Workmanship. Having no rent to pay, and raising his own food he flatters himself that his prices, conforming to this state of fact, will give general satisfaction.

He has, further at a good deal of expense and trouble, provided himself with an excellent for the accommodation of the neighborhood, and will, at short notice, furnish the friends of deceased persons with coffins of any description, which he will deliver in the hearse, and when required perform all the duties of an undertaker, at a moderate price. He solicits the patronage of the community—and will endeavor to merit it.

The Bramel day book, among scores of other accounts, listed the following charges; the following one of Allen C. Dickey, a relative of the Tolle's down in the book, dated April 5, 1845, to wit:

- Allen C. Dickey, Dr.
- To one Sewing Stand.....$3.00
- To Clothes pins and turpentine .25
- To Post trundle bedstead.....5.00
- To Sugar chest.....$12.00
- To 1 pair Sled runners......50
- To 2 Bedsteads at $8 each $16.00
- To 1 Bureau, secretary form 25.00
- To 1 Bureau.....16.00
- To 1 Dining table.....8.00
- To 1 Candle Stand.....4.00
- To Coffin and case for same 20.00

Isaac Mellvain, Dr., to one Lounge, $10.
1841—Southern Bramel, Dr., to coffin for son, $5.

A score of these old accounts are scheduled and from the total of the entire list, Mr. Bramel must have made the principal portion of furniture for this section.—Contributed by Mrs. C. L. Hanegan.

E. E. Robertson and family, of Plainview, were in Muleshoe last Sunday visiting with friends.

The Longview Sunday school literature has arrived after some delay and the Sunday school is growing bigger and better weekly. Everybody is invited to attend at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning also singing in evening at 8:30. We sing from the book of "Heavenly Praises," so you know what good songs they are. The singing class is looking forward to the time, in the near future, when Mr. Sterling will teach them some more about singing.

We are glad to report Mrs. J. V. Young is recovering from the flu.

Most of the farmers are busy planting and some breaking sod, all are very much elated over the good season in the ground.

A party was given at Mr. Clifford Wallace's Saturday night every one there had an awfully nice time playing "Mr. and Mrs. Brown," as that is a new game in this vicinity.

Some of the men have indulged in wolf hunting during the wet weather. They say they were successful as they caught four.

Mrs. Neal Warren was a business visitor at Muleshoe, Friday.

Mrs. Leahman Carpenter and mother, Mrs. Blaylock, visited Mrs. J. E. Stephens last Monday.

We are wondering how some ball players like car trouble on a Sunday afternoon???

Quite a few felt that life was worth while after eating dinner at Mr. Longs Sunday.

Many a dear Mother's heart was throbbing with joy Sunday when she received the many loving tokens from her children off or better still when the children gathered with her, we are sure, very sure.

We would all like to know what's the matter with Charlie, he doesn't come to singing also several others? We're glad to see the people of this community take an interest for that is essential to a good Sunday school, singing, church or school.

Hoping everyone will tell their reporter lots of news, so this will be newsy news next time, we are Longview Lovers.

STAR PARASITE REMOVER
A GREAT POULTRY REMEDY
Given fowls in drinking water or mixed in food thoroughly rid them of all blood-sucking lice, all mites, fleas and blue bugs, destroys in them all intestinal worms and parasites. Its formula is superior and other ingredients known remedies for improving the appetite, purifying the blood, toning the system and preventing disease. Better prevent than try to cure. Contains no alcohol or poison. Can be given to all species of chicks, old fowls and turkeys, any kind of weather with good results.
The cost is very small—a one dollar bottle will last 100 fowls more than 120 days. The manufacturers are anxious for all poultry raisers to try it 60 days at their risk on the following conditions: After using 60 days if your flock has not improved in health, produced more eggs—eggs that hatch stronger and thrifter poussy, that hatch sooner back to your dealer—he is authorized to refund your money.
