Credo Finals Clearfork Gas Zone Opener

Credo Oil & Gas, Inc. of Midland completed No. 1 Oil, a Pecos County Clearfork gas discovery, 1/4 mile northwest of the one-well Kathryn (Tubb) oil field and 1 1/4 mile north of the Grandma Benoit (Clearfork) oil field.

Calculated, absolute open flow was for 4 million cubic feet of gas per day, with gas-condensate ratio of 70,174-1. Gravity of the condensate was 46.0 degrees.

Production was from open hole at 3,532 feet, where 5 1/2-inch casing is seated, and 3,532 feet, total depth. Amount of treatment was not reported.

Location is 1,800 feet from northeast and 1,787 feet from southeast lines of section 20, block 2, H&TC survey, 11 miles northwest of Girvin.

Eddy Prospector Gauges Gas Flow

Monsanto Co. No. 1 Pecos, Eddy County, N.M., scheduled prospector, 1 1/4 mile northwest of Morrow production and 3 1/2 miles northeast of Strawn production in the Cudlow Draw field, flowed gas at the maximum daily volume of 7.38 million cubic feet on a drillstem test in the Morrow.

Tool was open three hours and 20 minutes on the test taken from 10,663-10,875 feet. It flowed gas initially on a 32-64-inch choke at the rate of 3.12 million cubic feet daily, increasing at the end of the test to 7.38 million cubic feet per day. Recovery was 700 feet of drilling fluid and 180 feet of gas-cut water.

Operator was preparing to take a straddle-packer drillstem test in the Strawn.

Location is 3,300 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 5-315-266, 2 1/2 miles northeast of Strawn production in the proposed Carlsbad, North field.

8,000-Foot Probe Staked In Mitchell

Berron Kidd of Dallas intends to drill a 3,000-foot exploratory project in Mitchell County, 18 miles south of Colorado City. It is No. 1-32 Spade Ranch.

Drill site is 1,330 feet from northeast and northwest lines of section 23, block 18, SPRR survey, abstract 937, five miles northeast of the Ellwood (Yates) gas field.

Confirmer Finals In Borden Sector

James P. Dunigan, Inc., operating out of Abilene, has completed No. 1-586 Miller, as the second producer and 2 1/2-mile northeast extension to production in the recently reopened Hood (Pennsylvanian) field of Borden County.

On 24-hour potential test, it pumped 84 barrels of 36.9-gravity oil, no water. Gas-oil ratio measured 406-1.

Production was through a 20-66-inch choke and perforations at 8,016-8,018 feet, which had been acidized with 500 gallons.

Sawhill Still Stressing Conservation Of Energy

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP) — The new chief of the Federal Energy Office says there is vital need for continued emphasis on energy conservation despite the end of the Arab embargo.

John C. Sawhill said Tuesday he plans to start this week a series of conferences designed to encourage industry to formulate efficient conservation programs.

“Industry consumes 41 per cent of our energy and we must start conservation with them,” he said.

Starting with the automotive industry, Sawhill plans summer conferences with such industries as aluminum, steel, and paper, and, later, take up the discussions with the residential construction industry.

Sawhill outlined his plans during a news conference while in Houston to speak at the annual meeting of the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association.

Egypt First Stop In Tour Of Mideast

CAIRO (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of Egyptians gave President Nixon a wildly enthusiastic welcome on his arrival here today to start a tour of the Middle East.

He is the first American president to visit the country since Franklin D. Roosevelt came in 1943 for wartime conferences.

Nixon arrived from Austria in 90-degree heat at the Cairo airport and was greeted warmly there by President Anwar Sadat, his host for the next two days.

The two presidents then went by motorcade to the city, standing side by side in Sadat's open limousine.

The motorcade passed large crowds lining the roads chanting, “Nixon! Nixon! Sadat! Sadat!”

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen later that Egyptian security officials estimated the crowd at at least two million.

However, U.S. officials said the figure was in the hundreds of thousands in their estimation.

Zoning Hearing Slated For Two Tracts Of Land

By GEORGE MASSEY
A rumored third petition failed to show Tuesday as the Midland City Council approved on first reading two requests for annexation of land for proposed regional shopping centers.

In other business Tuesday, the council scheduled a special meeting for noon Thursday for study and discussion of the city's revenue sharing fund plans.

Councilmen also passed a motion to appeal the requirement for security fencing around Midland Air Terminal operational areas, and noted, “It's high time we challenged the government on a concept of this nature.”

The proposed security fencing, a requirement of the Federal Aviation Association's San Antonio based security office, was listed as a $109,000 endeavor with the city's share of the bill amounting to $30,000.

Councilmen pointed to the impracticality of the fencing which would use several radio-controlled gates to major access

Approved were requests by Midland developer Lawrence H. Hahn for 78.6 acres located on the northwest corner of Garfield Street and FM 868, and by Odessa Louis Rochester for a 155-acre tract on the southwest corner of Midkiff Road and FM 868.

The council stressed that the approval was for annexation only and scheduled public hearings on zoning for the properties beginning at 2 p.m. Tuesday, July 23. Two more readings are required for final approval of annexation, but zoning consideration may be started after the first reading, city officials said.

Public hearings on annexation of the two land tracts revealed that opposition is not directed at annexation but to zoning needed by the developers to construct shopping centers.

Indications were that the July 23 hearings again will bring out a number of residents opposed to shopping centers, particularly at the Garfield Street site.

Girl, 5, Rescued, Father Found Dead As Gunman Captured

NEW YORK (AP) — A 5-year-old girl held hostage at a Queens housing project apartment was rescued today with a lollipop. The girl's father was found dead inside, police said.

Wearing bullet-proof vests and carrying rifles, police marksmen raced into the apartment and told the gunman, identified as a former convict and mental patient, to drop his weapon. He gave up without a struggle and was taken to a police station.

The girl's mother had pushed a dish of bacon and eggs into the apartment foyer, then a police officer tempted the girl into the hallway with a lollipop.

The officer seized her and the police moved in on the gunman. Several hundred neighbors cheered as the thumb-sucking girl was carried to an ambulance at the end of a tense drama that began Monday night.

Steele, paroled last year after serving a prison term for manslaughter in the death of a girlfriend, had been a lodger for the past six weeks with Fred and Peggy Kinsler.

Police said he pulled a gun on the Kinslers and the girl, Avril, after an argument. Mrs. Kinsler, 32, later escaped by knotting bedsheets into a rope, but injured her hip when she jumped 15 feet from the bottom of the rope.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Veterans Administrator Donald Johnson announced today that the V.A. will help finance construction of hospitals at universities in Texas and four other states. The Texas grant is for a hospital to be built in connection with Texas A&M and Baylor universities.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon told former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell in March 1973 to “stonewall it, plead the Fifth Amendment” in testifying on the Watergate cover-up, according to a House Judiciary Committee transcript of a White House tape.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge says he will issue an order designed to force President Nixon to permit Dr. D. Ehrlichman full access to White House files for his defense in the plumbers case.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell has said he is willing to move under federal contempt statutes.

One lawyer said Gesell might call a hearing at which White House lawyers would have to demonstrate why Nixon should not be held in contempt of Gesell's court.

The girl's father, 34-year-old Fred Kinsler, apparently had been dead since Tuesday. Police had seen his motionless form on the floor since then.

Storm Brings Rain, Winds To Midland

Squall lines packing often heavy rains paraded through parts of Texas during the night and hung on furiously in some areas this morning.

Midland received its first significant rainfall of the month when storm clouds packing sand-laden high winds moved into the area just before dusk Tuesday.

The National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal recorded .41 inch of rain during the storm, but points inside the city generally received less.

Gauges downtown caught about 3 inch while some residential areas reported as much as 3 inch. Even so, these amounts were more than most area cities received.

Station had a “heavy shower” about 9:30 p.m. and Andrews reported (See RAIN Page 12A)

Lightning struck an oil tank 10 miles northeast of Stanton about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday. Martin County volunteer firemen couldn't get to the fire. A 29-year-old former prisoner of war and a lawyer who called for President Nixon's impeachment won Democratic congressional nominations in primary elections in Maine and Virginia.

Mark Gartley, a prisoner in North Vietnam for four years, won handily over state Rep. Steward Smith of Exeter in Maine's 2nd District election Tuesday. The vote was 22,615 to 11,800.

On leave as a flight officer with Eastern Airlines, Gartley, of Greenville, faces incumbent Republican Rep. William S. Cohen in the Nov. 5 general election.

Cohen, who ran unopposed, sits on the House Judiciary Committee considering Nixon's impeachment.

Herbert Harris, a liberal Fairfax County supervisor who called repeatedly for Nixon's impeachment during his primary campaign, won nearly double the votes of his nearest opponent in Virginia's 8th district. The total gave Harris 7,576 votes to 3,816 for state Rep. Frank Mann of Alexandria.

In November, Harris faces freshman Republican Rep. Stanford E. Parris, whom Harris criticized during the campaign for his consistent support of the President.

Vet Languishing In Antigua Hospital; Can't Come Home

Editor's Note: Gary Martin is scheduled to be hospitalized on foreign soil and can't come home. His story will appear in the next issue of the Reporter-Telegram. A special effort is being made to get the story to the readers of the Reporter-Telegram.

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) —

Gary Martin, a 24-year-old decorated Vietnam veteran, can't come home again.

A mortar shell ripped apart his mind five years ago. Now he has been ruled insane.

And because of that insanity, the young ex-Army man has been found guilty of murder on foreign soil by a foreign government.

That government refuses to allow Martin to leave. He shot four of their own, killing one.

All this came out recently in extended interviews with his family, government officials and others.

The United States apparently isn't trying to bring back Martin, although he is one of thousands of young Americans who volunteered to fight.

Veterans Administration doctors at one time released Martin because they said he was well. His parents objected.

Now, if he comes home, the VA won't hospitalize him. He's considered too dangerous for their mental wards.

About a year after graduation from a private military academy, the sandy-blond, home-oriented teen-ager was sworn into the Army by his father, at that time a lieutenant colonel.

The "B" average student went into Vietnam's front lines.

For 13 months the forward artillery observer moved with the infantry.

Two Bronze Stars for valor and a Purple Heart were here, but then, most of his hearing and some of his eyesight were suddenly taken from him by a mortar shell.

With no prior history of mental disorder, Martin was medically retired in 1969 with a 70 per cent disability rating because of schizophrenic paranoia.

Shortly after release from a VA hospital, Martin withdrew into a cocoon.

One evening he didn't use his key to enter his parents' home in the Fort Worth area. He broke through a patio door, then waited for his father with a gun.

"He shot me twice. I don't think he really wanted to kill me. He was too good of a shot to have missed me," the elder Martin said.

Later that evening, while his parents and police were seeking him outdoors, Martin slipped into the kitchen and put a TV dinner in the oven, his mother recalled.

Doctors said Martin was not a drug user. He took pain pills for his headaches.

And, he began making bombs from bottles and powder out of shotgun shells.

While under observation at a Fort Worth hospital, Martin attacked his father with a plastic knife.

Ordered To Hospital
A jury ordered him to the VA Hospital in Waco for 90 days.

Before that period expired, the same doctor who was to later testify about Martin's insanity authorized his discharge.

His parents' objections were overruled, and their son went off to a VA-suggested computer school in Minneapolis.

A short time later, Martin disappeared. On Father's Day 1972 he arrived by commercial airline on Antigua, a small island in the West Indies.

The next day the veteran shot and killed an Antigua taxicab driver and wounded three off-duty policemen. The elder Martin believes his son thought the men, dressed in civilian clothes, were attacking him.

A riot resulted, and the Antiguan, thinking Martin was stationed with the U.S. Navy base there, set fires and otherwise damaged U.S. property.

"The first we learned of it was a $13 collect telegram from the American Embassy in the Barbados to the State Department to us," the veteran's father said.

Arriving in Antigua, the parents learned their son had been clubbed almost to death.

A month after the shooting, Martin "still had blood in his hair and under his fingernails," his mother said.

For a month, the young man was in a coma. Upon his partial recovery, he was jailed.

In January 1973, three top psychiatrists testified in an Antigua court.

Dr. W. L. Ford, a VA psychiatrist from Waco, testified Martin's condition was much more severe than in 1971.

Martin was living in a fantasy world, Dr. Ford said. He stuffed cotton in his ears to drown out imaginary voices.

Another psychiatrist, superintendent of an Antigua hospital, said Martin was immobile with his eyes slightly shut.

But then for an unknown reason in August 1972, he went to jail, the doctor said.

A third doctor, then president of the world Federation of Mental Health, testified Martin did not believe his imprisonment was real.

A hung jury resulted. In June 1973, a second jury reached a "guilty, but insane" verdict.

Almost a year later, his parents received a degree from Oregon College.

PORTLAND, Ore. — Kenneth M. Taylor of Midland, Tex., was one of 568 candidates recently awarded degrees from Lewis and Clark College.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal A. Taylor, 1610 N. J., and earned his bachelor of arts degree in biology. During his four years at the college, Taylor was a consistent member of the Dean's Honor List and served for two years as a resident dorm counselor.

They aren't any closer to their goal of bringing their son home from an Antigua hospital.

They doubt that his mental condition is improving, and they can't visit him.

Letters to the White House have failed.

"I have been in contact with the State Department many times and they have not given me a satisfactory answer to date," the father said.

Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., instrumental in getting Dr. Ford to Antigua to examine Martin, said his office has been told by the State Department and the American Embassy that perhaps Martin will be allowed to return after the next election. But that election is not scheduled until 1976.

James Clement, an Irving attorney, argues that the United States set a precedent for Martin's return several years ago when it allowed an Antiguan who had committed a crime to return to Antigua for hospitalization.

The Antiguan government also is reportedly suggesting that $25,000 in compensation to the wounded policemen's families may produce Martin's return.

"I really don't know where we can get that money. Of course, we would if we could," the father said.

"The Martin family stands alone in its battle against insurmountable odds," Clement said.

"It's the government's responsibility to intervene here," Clement said.

What To Do In Case Of Burns

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in a Report series designed to make it a safer summer. Summer is a time of fun and outdoor danger for kids. The articles offer sound advice on how to avoid danger — and what to do if accidents happen.

By DAVID HENDRIN
NEA Science Editor

Health and safety officials say there are more than 3 million serious burns and injuries in Canada and the United States every year. Many of these occur among children. In 1970 alone, more than 1,500 children were killed by fires and burns.

Never underestimate the severity of a burn. They are usually larger and more severe than you think.

In the case of burns from fire, here is what to do:

1. Get the child out of the burning area. If clothes are on fire don't let the child run. This will fan and encourage the flames. Put the fire out by wrapping the child in a blanket, rug or other heavy material at hand.
2. If the burn is minor, immerse it in clean ice water, or apply ice packs to the area. Keep it cold for 10 to 15 minutes. Cover the burn with a clean gauze of cloth dressing, or a thin, no-stick plastic kitchen wrap works well. Consult a physician.
3. If the burn is more serious: Keep the child lying down. Try to keep the head and chest slightly lower than the rest of the body. Keep the child warm.
4. If the child is conscious and can swallow give him nonalcoholic liquids to drink.
5. Watch for shock and treat if necessary.
6. Take the child to a doctor or hospital immediately.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Do not use butter, grease, ointments or powders on burns. These increase the danger of infection and make later treatment more difficult.

Caution Signal Flashed

The Washington-based Council of State Chambers of Commerce, of which the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is a member, Monday cautioned the administration and Congress about proposals for national health insurance.

The caution sign was flashed in view of sharp increases in federal spending for social welfare programs in recent years.

"It is to be hoped," the Council's message said, "that in taking final action on proposals for national health insurance the Congress and the President will look not only to its desirability from the viewpoint of proponent groups, but also to the relative priority of such insurance among other national needs, to the question of costs, and to the effect on the national economy of financing such costs. These questions deserve a hard look. And not to be overlooked is the probable impact of a national health insurance program on the already rapidly rising costs of health care."

In other words, don't vote in a national health insurance program which the nation cannot afford.

The warning was contained in an analysis of social welfare expenditures prepared by Eugene F. Rinta, executive director of the Council.

Social welfare expenditures financed by general Treasury revenues totaled $1.3 billion in 1950, which was 3.3 per cent of general revenue expenditures that year. In 1960, those welfare expenditures amounted to $2.7 billion, or 3.6 per cent of general revenue expenditures. By 1970 their total had reached $12.5 billion, or eight per cent of the general revenue expenditures. Budget estimates for 1975 indicate that these welfare expenditures will total $29.1 billion, or 13.2 per cent of the $220.6 billion general revenue expenditures budgeted for 1975.

Now you get the idea why there is such concern about new spending programs.

The costliest national health insurance proposal, which is supported by the AFL-CIO, would be tax financed and virtually would eliminate private health insurance and direct payments for medical care, but at a net additional federal budget cost estimated by the administration up to $75 billion.

Even the administration's proposal which would be financed through the private insurance system, is estimated to add $6 billion to federal budget costs the first year of operation. Other proposals are no more inviting, from the financing standpoint.

So, the only practical thing to do right now is to call off the whole business of national health insurance. Let your congressman know how you stand.

... And Hurting All The While

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson Says: Agnew's Commerce Department contact does favor for him.

WASHINGTON—In his fall from power, Spiro Agnew left behind a valuable contact who now is helping him find business deals.

The former vice president during his glory days arranged a job for one of his supporters, Tilton H. Dobbin, as assistant Commerce secretary in charge of domestic and international business. This has put Dobbin in touch with some of the world's most powerful businessmen. Inside sources say he has used his position to open doors for the deposed Agnew.

A forlorn figure, Agnew has lost his political career. He has been disbarred from practicing law. The Internal Revenue Service is squeezing him for back taxes. The Justice Department is considering a suit to recover the bribe money allegedly paid him while he was a government official. Some firebrands at Justice even went to sue to recover his vice-presidential salary.

Agnew tried to raise money by writing a novel. But after the reviews appeared, this no longer seemed a promising career. Almost in desperation, he turned to wheeling and dealing.

He has just returned from a swing through the Middle East in search of deals. He visited his Greek homeland, Amman and Beirut, and then hit the petroleum capitals, Tehran and Kuwait.

The former vice president still had enough political glamor to gain audiences with the crown prince in Jordan and the shah in Iran. But Agnew's main stop, in Saudi Arabia, had to be cancelled because his wife became ill.

On the business side, according to our sources, Dobbin helped pave the way. He admitted to us that he does financial favors for his former mentor. Agnew has called on him, Dobbin said, to "get a rundown on a person or a company... or to do a bank or credit check."

But Dobbin denied that he arranged business contacts for Agnew on his latest odyssey. "I didn't even know he was going until I read about it."

CUTTING CORNERS: Under pressure from House Speaker Carl Albert, Small Business Administrator Tom Kleppe violated regulations to bail out an electronics firm from Albert's home state of Oklahoma.

The struggling company, Oklahoma Aerotronics, didn't qualify for a minority-business government contract. The firm also had money problems, not the least of which was a negative worth of $900,000.

"To place contracts with Oklahoma Aerotronics under existing conditions," Kleppe notified the speaker on Aug. 17, 1971, "we would have to violate federal regulations and our national directive."

Nevertheless, Albert called Kleppe up to Capitol Hill for a personal meeting and repeated his hope that Kleppe "could find some way" to provide the electronics firm with minority-business help.

found that the Pentagon generates fewer jobs per billion dollars than any other form of private or government spending with the single exception of the space program.

Translating these statistics into jobs, the researchers discovered there is a net loss in employment when money is spent for military purposes, as compared with civilian spending or spending by state and local governments.

The average Pentagon budget of $80 billion, the study alleges, results in the loss of at least 1,000,000 jobs each year across the nation.

The logical conclusion, therefore, is that the economy would benefit from a slash in the military budget. "It would make no difference," the study states, "whether the cut was all in defense contracts going to civilian industry or military personnel going to state and local governments, the trade-off would still mean a net increase of jobs for the economy."

Footnote: A Pentagon economist acknowledged that the "arithmetic" used by the research group was good but argued that the statistics didn't support the conclusions. "About the only thing you can conclude from these figures," he said, "is that employees of state and local governments and in the civilian economy earn smaller salaries than do defense workers."

The figures don't "realistically reflect" what would happen, he said, if highly skilled defense workers were let off as a result of the budget slash.

RAY CROMLEY Defense No Area To Play Second Fiddle

WASHINGTON (NEA)—There's a gap in our military intelligence on Russia large enough to drive a truck through.

The problem is crucial. The gap lies in just those unknown areas—whatever they might be—where Soviet military scientists may achieve major unexpected breakthroughs. By definition, we don't know what those areas are precisely, or what those breakthroughs might be. We are not using the resources we have available to find out.

The gap is large because of neglect. Methods exist by which the problem could be solved, or at least whittled down to size. Expense would not be exorbitant. What's needed principally is a relatively small diversion percentage-wise of intelligence resources and research funds.

No one knows, of course, just where Soviet scientists will stumble on major new techniques in achieving greater missile accuracy, relative missile invulnerability, reliable detection nuclear submarines at sea, or in discovering some new missile, warship, electronic device or other weapons system or component.

But science now is moving at such a fast pace it is highly likely that at some point or other, the Soviets will make spectacular breakthroughs in areas we least expect and for which we are unprepared. One such discovery could be important enough to upset the military balance seriously enough to endanger the security of this country.

As noted above, there is a way to solve this intelligence problem. It depends on a most interesting Russian bureaucratic habit.

Soviet scientists regularly publish their studies in great detail on a wide variety of subjects, even in areas related to military problems — up to a point. When the studies advance to a certain level of military significance, all new work in the field involved disappears from Russian scientific literature. This then is the tipoff.

This Russian habit is known here. Committees are set up from time to time to study the problem. They meet, look at the matter awhile then all too frequently let the matter sit.

There is normally no organized, intensive continuous research into what the Soviet scientists are on to when these gaps appear. The reason is simple: Intelligence personnel and intelligence agencies get rated, as elsewhere, on the number and quality of solutions they come up with. Quantity is frequently more important than quality. The problems we are discussing here are so abstruse they get shunted aside in the press of daily work or get assigned low priorities. Yet for the reasons outlined above, these mysteries should be regularly and continually on the front burner.

Intelligence today, unfortunately, is all but overwhelmed by the amount of detailed routine data brought in by spy satellites, by scanning books, magazines, newspapers, documents and reports on "this and that" by U.S. and allied officials from data gathered by a fist-full of other techniques.

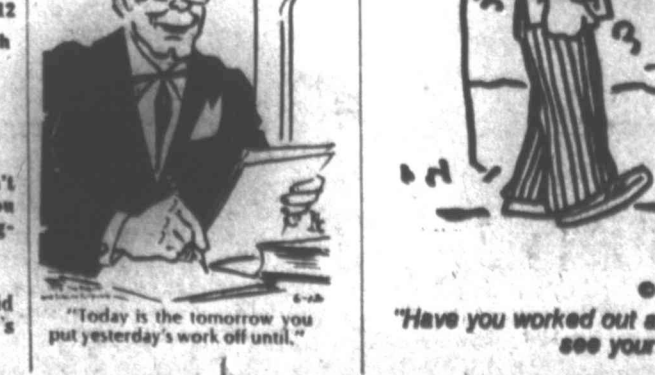

The Russians cannot build a silo in secret, fire a test missile without us knowing most of its essential characteristics or put a new submarine to sea without us having a report almost immediately.

When we know what we are looking for, such as a new defense installation, we normally succeed and quickly. The problem, however, and a most prickly problem indeed, is discovering those things we

The Country Parson

Dear Editor:
I see where some men sojourning in one of our big state penitentiaries are dissatisfied with the accommodations and the cultural climate of the place.

But they should enjoy while they can the motherly environment and the association with unpretentious crooks, thieves and murderers.

Prisons really will be lousy places for ethical felons to live in if we ever start putting into them all of the crooked politicians who belong there.

DON OAKLEY Ireland: Taking The Hard Way To The Inevitable?

NEW YORK (NEA)—There are all manner of solutions to "the troubles" in Northern Ireland: The Protestants could forget their protestantism and the Catholics their Catholicism and all try to get along together like decent Christians.

The Protestant majority could grant true and workable political and economic equality to the Catholic minority. The Protestants could agree to the unification of Northern Ireland with the Republic of Ireland, with guarantees of religious freedom for themselves in that overwhelmingly Catholic nation.

The Catholics could reconcile themselves to an inferior position and a return to the status quo ante 1968, when the current "troubles" began.

The Catholics could all move south into the Republic of Ireland. The Protestants, who came to Ireland as colonists in the 17th century, could emigrate elsewhere in the British Isles. The British could wash their hands of the whole mess and leave the Irish to settle the matter among themselves, probably by means of a very bloody and bitter civil war.

The solutions are roughly ranked in decreasing order of rationality and in increasing order of probability.

For example, it would make more sense for the dominant Protestants to grant civil rights to Catholics in Northern Ireland than it would be for either of their populations to leave, but the greater probability is that common sense will not prevail.

Nothing could be more rational than that intelligent human beings not make a hell on earth for themselves and their children merely because of different beliefs concerning the governance of heaven. Yet much of history is the story of how men have done just that.

(The Catholics and Protestants in Northern Ireland are not, of course, arguing over religious differences per se. But religion is the one and only badge of distinction between them. To argue that Northern Ireland's problems are economic and political and have nothing to do with religion is like saying that the problems of blacks in this country are economic and political and have nothing to do with skin color.)

At the other extreme, nothing could be more irrational than for the Irish to plunge into a civil war. Yet the tragic eventuality becomes ever more likely.

After 800 years of attempting to control the destiny of Ireland,

City Councilmen Approve Leasing Of Ambulance

City councilmen Tuesday approved funds amounting to $250 per month for the leasing of a stand-by emergency ambulance that will be operated by Midland's Central Fire Department personnel.

According to Fire Chief Melvin Little, the ambulance will be picked up and partly equipped in Dallas Thursday and arrive back here on Friday. The fire chief said that no operational date is yet available for the use of the ambulance because it is not known how much equipment will be needed to outfit the emergency unit.

He noted that the ambulance was only a stand-by unit to be used if Thomas Ambulance Service is occupied by other situations.

The new unit was obtained from the Superior Southwest Leasing Co. in Dallas.

The council also appropriated funds for the city's portion of water line construction on North A Street, and approved on first reading an ordinance closing, vacating and abandoning the east-west alley in block two of Lindsay Acres, authorizing its conveyance to the abutting property owners.

In the purchasing business portion of the meeting, councilmen approved the awarding of bids for signal lights and mast arm poles for the Missouri and Garfield Street intersection. A bid was also awarded for new uniforms for Fire Department personnel while the bid for labor and materials to install a gas line at Alamo Park Pool was let for a figure of $1,025.

Advertisement for bids on the estimated annual supply of vitrified clay pipe and fittings for warehouse stock was also approved by the council.

Under miscellaneous business, the council approved the request of Las Manos of the Museum of the Southwest in connection with their annual Septemberfest. That approval was subject to the schedule of the Parks and Recreation Department.

Council members gave their approval of an ordinance amending chapter two of the Parks and Recreation Commission portion of the City Code to increase the number of members of the Parks and Recreation Commission from nine to 11.

A motion to put the Winkler County T-Bar Ranch property out for bids was given approval by the council after hearing discussion on the current 15 cents per acre lease agreement the city holds with Jack Lineberry. It was noted by a council study that much ranch land is now going for at least 30 cents or more per acre. The T-Bar property includes about 20,229 acres.

James Mims represented the Midland Independent Insurance Agents before the council and outlined the workmen's compensation carrier tender consideration. The council passed the proposed plan which carries a one-year $90,000 premium.

PASTORS IN LUBBOCK— Southern Baptist President To Stress Mission, Evangelism, Local Churches

DALLAS (AP) — Jaroy Weber, new president of the Southern Baptist Convention (SBC), said today he will stress mission work and evangelism and the importance of local churches during his tenure.

Weber, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Lubbock, was elected president of the SBC Tuesday night, succeeding Owen Cooper, a layman of Vazoo City, Miss.

At a news conference today Weber said his goal as president of the 12.3 million member organization will be to "make us walk in the spirit of Christ, a spirit of union and oneness."

In answer to a question, Weber referred to the recently released presidential transcripts and said, "Every believer in Christ is shocked by the language."

He added that worse than the language used by President Nixon was "the misuse of human beings, his disregard for their value."

On the role of women in the churches, a topic of debate during the convention here, Weber said women have played a very important role in the church, but said he is not in favor of ordination of women.

"I think ordination is a matter for the local churches," he said. "Personally, I don't believe that at this time I would be willing and ready to ordain a woman in Lubbock because her influence in the church will be very little."

Weber will assume his duties as president when the convention ends Thursday.

In Lubbock since November 1973, Weber was pastor of the Dauphin Way Baptist Church in Mobile, Ala., for nine years.

Prior to that, he served as pastor for five years at the First Baptist Church in Beaumont, Tex.

He has been a member of the SBC executive committee.

The 15,000 delegates to the convention received a report Tuesday from the Christian Life Commission, the social concerns agency of the SBC, that called for more active participation of women in church affairs and urged Southern Baptists to become more involved in the country's political life.

The commission's recommendations, even if approved during the conference, are not binding on all churches.

The commission submitted a recommendation on "Freedom for Women" which asked delegates to "develop greater sensitivity to both overt and covert discrimination, against women and to endeavor through religious, political, social, business and educational structures to eliminate such discrimination. "Encouraging women to achieve their God-intended potential need not be detrimental to the stability of the family and the spiritual health of the church," the commission said in the statement accompanying the resolution.

The commission's report also dealt with race relations, calling for cooperation "between those who differ racially, ethnically and culturally."

School Board Planning No Boundary Changes This Fall

By BRUCE CAMPBELL — Midland school trustees discussed possible future boundary changes Tuesday but nixed any serious plans for student relocations this fall.

Several board members expressed concern that equality between the two high schools could be threatened because Lee's enrollment would continue to be higher than Midland High's. Projections for 1974-75 put Lee's enrollment at 3,348 and the MHS figure at 1,797.

Board member Ted Kerr said population inequality had not been a problem before this year because both high schools were beyond capacity but that numbers were important now in maintaining equality.

"I want to maintain equality in the important things and I can't convince myself it's (student population) unimportant," Kerr said. "One, it will cost more for one program at one school than the other. Two, the number of candidates for different courses make a difference in the number of courses offered; and three, any school activity will be affected by the number of students in school."

Board vice president James Winget disagreed, noting that since Midland High's enrollment is 1,700, "you can't justify saying it can't offer anything that can't be offered anywhere else in the state."

Member Roger Robles said he "failed to understand" Winget's reasoning.

"The more students you have, the more programs you have to choose from, so it does make a difference," Robles said. "There will be a time when we have an intolerable difference in enrollment."

Trustee Gilbert C. Tompon said the population differences could have a mental effect on the public concerning the standards of the schools.

"It comes back to the image of the school," Tompon said. "Here in West Texas, the bigger the band is the more prestigious the school is. If we let the differences get too great, people might think one school is better than the other."

"If we're to keep the two schools equal, we have to keep them equal in the eyes of the community."

Not mentioning inequality, board president C. Wallace Craig opened the discussion by suggesting the board shoot for enrollments of 80 per cent of capacity at each school.

Noting this was a difficult problem, Craig proposed three solutions to the population question.

—Changing boundaries but permitting students who would be affected to finish at the high school they were attending.

—Selecting certain zones which would change as the school enrollment changes. "That way when a fairly move in, they would know that area is subject to be changed," he said.

—To take a part of the city that is not yet developed and place it in the MHS district.

Craig said he had "no answer" to the problem unless boundaries were changed or existing expansion areas were gerrymandered.

Trustee Joe Dominey agreed with the capacity concept.

"When the population difference gets to a certain percentage, we should change boundaries," he said. "A difference of 500 students is something like 12 per cent—which is tolerable—but could we tolerate 15 per cent ratios?"

"A year from today it could be 15-18 per cent, if we don't do it (change boundaries) in the near future, it might be a big mistake on our part," Dominey and other members discounted any boundary changes for next fall.

"It's very upsetting to change boundaries any time but to do it this summer would be especially upsetting," Dominey said.

"Any policy change should be implemented a year from this time," Winget said. "We're not going to change any boundaries yet."

Craig said, "Nothing has to be done today or two weeks from today. The thing I'm fearful of is finally coming to grips with it, if a year from now we would put it off for another year."

Winget said projections for the next ten years note about the same population differences for the same two schools. He added he hopes the board wasn't trying to accomplish "some mathematical concept."

"We're just about to achieve a racial balance," Winget said. "Now we might jeopardize this balance."

The board agreed to discuss the matter further at its next meeting on June 25.

"No, Lady Marjorie, Emmy is not the new parlor maid."

Not by any stretch of the imagination. Someone please explain that Emmy is the award for excellence given by the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

And that an Emmy has just been awarded to Upstairs, Downstairs as "best dramatic series" of the year. The one that takes us into the home of Lady Marjorie, the rest of the elegant Bellamy clan, and their staff of eight servants.

This chronicle of a stiff-upper-lipped Edwardian Era family also received an award given by Princess Anne for Britain's best television drama. With such accolades, no wonder that Masterpiece Theatre is scheduling 13 new episodes of Upstairs, Downstairs over the Public Broadcasting Service next fall.

Masterpiece Theatre dramas and actors have previously won six Emmys, including those given to Glenda Jackson in Elizabeth R, Keith Michell in The Six Wives of Henry VIII, and Susan Hampshire in The First Churchills and Vanity Fair. In fact, after only four years, awards are becoming a Masterpiece Theatre tradition.

Waiting in the wings is a different sort of viewing pleasure. It is The Ascent of Man, a spectacular 13-part dramatization of the history of science, written by Jacob Bronowski. Mobil and the Arthur Vining Davis Foundations will jointly support this series on public television in the coming season. It has already received the Royal Television Society Silver Medal and an award from the British Writers Guild for "the best British television documentary script."

We believe the Bronowski epic attains, as a documentary, the standard of excellence television audiences have come to expect of the dramatic fare made possible by Mobil on public television.

POLLY'S POINTERS Paint On Screens Detracts From House

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — I would like to know how to remove latex paint from my new window screens. They look so bad that they make the windows look dirty and even the newly painted house does not look fresh.

I particularly like the pointers on safety for senior citizens who live alone. One of mine is to place small plants along the top of a lower window pane. I think this would make a burglar hesitate about entering or he might make enough noise that one might have time to get help. — MRS. G. M. H.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those people who walk fast when holding a child's hand. The child often has to almost run to keep up. These same people then wonder why children cry. Please, parents and others, for the child's sake do not walk so fast — think how much shorter their steps are than yours. — MRS. G. Z.

Exchange Student Sparks Movement

OREGON, Ohio (AP)—A German exchange student has sparked an equal rights movement for girls in athletics at Clay High School here.

Hannelore Schmidt, whose home is near Cologne, Germany, did it by becoming the first girl at Clay ever to win a varsity athletic letter. She competed in cross country as the only girl among 40 boys.

"The girls said I took a great step for them, but I didn't even know what I did," Miss Schmidt said. "They could have done it before, but were afraid."

Town Informed Of Birthdays

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—When Mr. and Mrs. Clark Hampton both turned 40 recently, their friends made sure the whole town knew about it.

First off, Hampton was given a bright red T-shirt with letters, "I'm Clark. I'm 40." Bumper stickers boldly advertising the Hamptons' ages appeared everywhere. Newspaper ads greeted the couple, along with a barrage of signs on their house and in the neighborhood.

One side of the Hampton home facing a street became the background for a large sign requesting motorists to "Honk for the Hamptons' 40th birthdays."

The Hamptons took all this in good grace. "When police cars came past and beeped their sirens instead of honking, that really broke us up," said Mrs. Hampton.

Inflation Is Hurting Charities

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Rising costs and reluctant contributors have put charitable organizations in the middle of the inflation squeeze. It's tougher to raise money these days and the dollars don't go as far as they used to.

Most of the charities contacted in an Associated Press spot check said they are meeting or topping their goals. But it isn't easy.

"We think the 1974 goal can be met whatever it is," said Ted Seigenthaler, a spokesman for United Way in the Little Rock, Ark., area. "But it will take more work and better organization. Inflation is eating up consumer dollars."

John Ewing of the American Cancer Society said the group's main trouble is in getting volunteers. He said people seem reluctant to serve because of general apathy over political and economic conditions.

Another spokesman for the national society said contributions for the current fiscal year were running above last year. But the percentage increase was lower than the year before.

Overall contributions—from fund drives and legacies—were $93 million for the last fiscal year, compared with $79 million in 1973.

The higher dollar total doesn't mean more money for research and other activities. Increased job costs, bigger salaries and other rising expenditures eat up the difference.

The director of the Oklahoma division of the American Cancer Society, Paul McDaniell, said he has noticed a drop in door-to-door contributions—down from $9 per household to $7.50. He also said many of the larger donations—from $50 to $100—are down about 25 per cent.

In contrast, the district director of the muscular dystrophy campaign in Oklahoma, Barbara Miller, said, "So far, inflation hasn't affected us and we're surprised."

A spokesman for the United Fund of Philadelphia said the group missed its 1973 goal of $20 million by about $150,000.

Gordon Berg, executive director of the United Community Services program in Charlotte, N.C., said the group topped its $3 million goal by 5 per cent last year. "Givers ... knew that inflation would hit the people we serve even harder than most people. I think this especially was true of the more sophisticated givers, such as corporations."

Berg added, however, that the money collected "got eaten up ..."

A spokesman for the United Fund of Greater New York, which serves 625 charitable agencies, said, "It's going to be tough for us." He said contributions were increasing—but at a lower rate than before.

Different charities in the same area occasionally had conflicting reports.

George E. Boyd, director of the United Fund in Austin, Tex., said, "We've increased every year. We plan on doing it again this year ..."

At the same time, Jack Knight, a Scott executive with the Capital Area Council in Texas, said he didn't think the group would reach its goal this year. "People are just tighter with their money," he said.

$104,000 TAKEN FROM BANK— Two Suspects Captured In Robbery

ARCADIA, La. (AP) — Two bank robbery suspects were captured Tuesday night after they were cornered in rough country six miles from the spot where Bonnie and Clyde were gunned down in the '30s.

Police said Michael O'Dell Davis, 26, of Houston, Tex., was taken into custody at dusk not far from where the search began.

A second man, Wilbert Mayfield Jr., 37, also of Houston, was captured several hours later, officers said.

Officers said they found Mayfield after a truck driver told them he almost struck Mayfield as he crossed a highway.

Davis was booked in Bienville Parish on attempted murder charges in the shooting of a deputy, police said. Bond was set at $40,000.

All but $300 of the $104,000 taken in the holdup was recovered, officers said.

About 100 officers surrounded a wooded section between here and Gibsland after the men abandoned their car and fled on foot—losing a pillowcase stuffed with $90,000 along the way.

The cash was taken from the First National Bank near the campus of Grambling University, about 20 miles east of here.

Lincoln Parish Deputy Sheriff John Rinehart said in Grambling one gunman robbed the bank and drove off in an employee's car, switching to get-away auto with driver about a mile away.

A radio alarm was broadcast, with a description of the car and the men.

In adjoining Bienville Parish, Chief Deputy Sheriff Harold J. McCarthy spotted the auto and tried to stop it, touching off a brief gunfight in which he suffered a minor leg wound.

"They took off again and a truck driver happened to see them when they shot the deputy and he continued after them in the truck and run them off the road, made them wreck their car," said Sheriff A. E. Whitman of Bienville Parish. "Pretty smart."

Another truck driver, Bobby Newsome of Marion, La., saw the wrecked car but had no idea what was involved. He stopped to help.

"I hollered, 'Is anybody hurt?' and they said a baby was hurt but when they got close they pulled a gun on me,"

Newsome said. "One of them got in the truck but he didn't have the keys. I ran around the back of the truck and kept the truck between us."

Newsome said the men then ran for the woods and the area was soon swarmed with officers.

Advertise Or Be Forgotten!

"DO YOU LOVE CHRIST?"

You may think the question in our heading to be somewhat astute, but I personally feel that such warrants some consideration. I doubt that many of our readers would answer in the negative, especially those who are "church going folks." In fact, I have serious doubts that we would find anyone of religious inclinations who would be the least bit adverse to answering with an outright affirmative. Suffice it to say, however, that just because we might take an affirmative stand on the proposition does not necessarily make it so.

Jesus said, "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." (Mt. 7:21) He has declared in language, plain enough to understand, that the test of loving Him is the DOING of His will — the keeping of His commandments. (Jn. 14:21, 23, 24)

When I come face to face with the age old question — "WHAT MUST I DO TO BE SAVED?" — I am put to the test. Will I, or will I not, obey the gospel? If I do, I can surely affirm that I love the Lord. On the other hand, if I turn a deaf ear to the gospel of Jesus Christ, I must answer in the negative and be willing to suffer the consequences.

Comes now the test! Jesus said, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, and he that believeth not shall be damned." (Mk. 16:16) Before I act on that command, one way or another, I must decide whether I love Him or not. Remember, the test of loving Christ is one's willingness to obey Him.

My dear friend, there is no reason for us to be in a quandary over His plan for saving sinful man. Preachers and priests cannot explain away the force of that language. It is in the Book of God to stay, and will be there when we all have passed on into the other period of time. When God gave that law of pardon He did so in a perceptible manner, therefore, we are without excuse.

Meet with us, even tonight at 7:30, and let us assist you in becoming a Christian.

PLAYING IMPEACHMENT POLITICS CHARGED— House Refuses To Take Up Land Use Planning Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid charges that the White House was playing impeachment politics, the House has refused to take up land use planning legislation.

Tuesday's all-day vote apparently kills the legislation for the session.

Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., sponsor of one land use bill, said the vote "shows the shabby hypocrisy of the White House. They said they were for land use legislation but they did not send a word ... no lobbyists."

House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., said "they pulled the rug from under us. They helped construct the legislation—and then 136 Republicans voted against the rule."

Udall said President Nixon played impeachment politics on the bill, deliberately withdrawing support for the measure his Interior secretary helped write to court conservatives to stay with him on impeachment.

The Sierra Club agreed, and said that by Tuesday's vote of Congress "has mortgaged America's future to haphazard and chaotic development."

The sponsors of a weaker bill, House Minority Leader John Rhodes and Rep. Sam Steiger, both R-Ariz., voted against allowing the House to debate any land use bill.

Steiger denied Udall's charge of impeachment politics, saying he had made no trade-offs with the White House on the issue.

He said he had been advised by a White House lobbyist not to oppose a full House debate on the land use bill but he did anyway, telling the House that to consider it would mean wrangling through dozens of amendments.

The bill would have provided $800 million to help states and local governments devise means for planning the wisest use of their land and other resources.

President Nixon had called land use legislation his top environmental priority four years ago in a message to Congress. His Interior Secretary, Rogers C. B. Morton, worked closely with the Interior committee in shaping the legislation most of last year.

Steiger took credit for Nixon's reversal in February, made known only when the House Rules Committee blocked the bill from coming to the House floor. Steiger said then Morton had misled the President into thinking the bill would be good for the country.

By last week, Morton had switched positions himself, supporting only the Steiger-Rhodes bill rather than the one he helped draft.

How They Voted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following is the vote by which the House refused 211 to 204 to consider legislation for national land use planning.

X—Designates not voting.

Texas—Archer, R, no; Brooks, D, no; Burlison, D, no; Casey, D, no; Collins, R, no; De la Garza, D, no; Eckhardt, D, yes; Fisher, D, no; Gonzales, D, yes; Jordan, D, yes; Kazen, D, no; Mahon, D, no; Milford, D, no; Patman, D, no; Pickle, D, no; Poage, D, no; Price, R, no; Roberts, D, no; Steelman, R, yes; Teague, D, no; White, D, no; Wilson, D, no; Wright, D, no; Young, D, no.

Congressman's Son Appeals Conviction

Opelika, Ala. (AP) — Michael Dickinson, the 18-year-old son of Rep. William L. Dickinson, R-Ala., has appealed a conviction of possession of barbiturates and was released on $15,000 bond.

The young Dickinson, an Auburn University student, received a 15-year prison sentence from Circuit Judge L.J. Tyrer, who released him Monday after he served notice of appeal.

Executive's Death Can't Be Declared As Homicide

DALLAS (AP) — Paul Edward Johnson was still in jail under $100,000 bond today in connection with the death of LTV Corp. executive Dan Burney, but his future status was in doubt after an announcement that the death cannot be declared a homicide.

Dallas County Medical Examiner Dr. Charles Petty said Tuesday he was unable to establish a cause of death of Burney because the body was too decomposed.

The announcement appeared to rule out the filing of murder charges in connection with Burney's death. Dist. Atty. Henry Wade said such charges could not be filed without an autopsy report verifying a homicide.

Johnson, 28, is charged with robbery in connection with the theft of Burney's car.

Burney, 47, disappeared May 21 after leaving LTV offices late at night. A widespread hunt with a $30,000 reward was launched.

Johnson was arrested after he was seen driving Burney's car. Burney's body was found last Friday after a dog dragged a human skull to an apartment near where Johnson was arrested.

Dr. Petty said close examination showed there was no fracture of any bones, no gunshot wounds, no knife cuttings or any sign of injury whatever. He said almost all the bones in Burney's body were found although a few small bones in the hands, feet and neck were missing.

Wade said the cause of death is not so important as whether the death was a homicide or by natural causes.

He said the investigation in the case is continuing.

In a related development, Mrs. Mary Alice Darrrough collected a $20,000 reward Monday for the discovery of Burney's body.

Her son Richard led police to the executive's body after the dog was seen carrying a skull.

Mrs. Darrrough said the prospect of getting the reward caused nothing but trouble for her family.

"My family has been harassed ever since Richard found the skull," Mrs. Darrrough said. "Phone calls, people knocking on the door."

It got so bad that a police squad car was at the house until Tuesday evening.

Cronkite Rated 'Most Trusted'

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Cronkite of CBS was rated the most trusted and objective newscaster on television in a national public opinion survey.

NBC's John Chancellor rated second in the Phillips-Sindlinger Survey, and ABC's Howard K. Smith was third.

A year ago, Smith was first, Chancellor second, Harry Reasoner of ABC third and Cronkite fourth. "Largely as a result of the Watergate scandals, Cronkite has vaulted into first place," Phillips-Sindlinger said on the basis of 1,679 nationwide telephone interviews.

Late Spring Chill Drops Mercury

By The Associated Press
A record late spring chill dropped temperatures into the 40s today from the central Plains to the Great Lakes.

The mercury dipped to 46 degrees before daybreak at Omaha, Neb., to tie a 100-year-old record for June 12. Readings ranged down to the low 30s as far south as the Ohio Valley and the middle Mississippi Valley.

Part of the same cold air system triggered thundershowers to a band from Tennessee to Southwest Texas. A few thundershowers also sprinkled Lower Michigan, southern Florida and southeastern Colorado.

A thundershower with accompanying high winds struck the Arkansas community of Bitterville shortly after midnight. A house trailer was overturned, causing minor injuries.

Most of the rest of the nation enjoyed fair skies, but there were exceptions. Showers extended from West Virginia through eastern Ohio, into western Pennsylvania and western New York.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 39 at Sawyer Air Force Base near Marquette, Mich., to 92 at Needles, Calif.

AFTER FAA'S ANNUAL INSPECTION—

Terminal Termed In 'Very Good General Condition'

By GEORGE MASSEY
Midland Regional Air Terminal underwent its annual inspection by the Federal Aviation Administration on May 6-8, and received an overall certification report of being in "very good general condition."

However, the airport was notified that a 30-day compliance period would be required for the investigation of corrective alterations concerning nine general discrepancies, noted by the FAA inspection team, in the physical operation of the airport.

According to Wilson H. Banks, director of aviation, "the nine problem areas were already known to us, and some of them are in the process of being corrected now while others will be corrected upon completion of the airport paving due to get under way in August or September of this year."

The FAA team was headed by Allan Hautanen, airport certification inspector for the Southwest Region of the FAA. Hautanen's team report said the findings in the inspection affected safety provisions necessary to the physical operation of the airport.

It was noted, however, that no follow-up inspection was considered necessary because of the airport efforts being applied toward correction of the discrepancies.

Hautanen reported, "There is a genuine willingness to comply with the FAA regulations and to insure the highest standards of safety in the airport operation."

Noted in the report as needing correction action were various runway markings used at Terminal which have been outdated by the FAA. Director Banks said that these would be taken care of shortly after the major paving work is completed, because to change the markings prior to the paving would make it necessary to do the job twice.

Taxiway lines at the airport also were reported to be in need of repainting. These too will be corrected upon completion of the paving project.

The FAA report also noted that some of the runway lights will be below the lip or edge of the runways after the paving, and that these lights will need to be raised above the runway level on completion of the paving. Some of the lighting on runway thresholds was listed as being the wrong color (blue) and must be changed to red and green.

Several editorial changes were recommended to update the airport operations manual, and the addition of a recorded crash-fire-rescue training program was suggested. According to Banks, the airport has had a crash-fire-rescue training program for a long time, but has not recorded the specific events which took place in that program. Banks said that several of his firemen were from Webb Air Force Base where their military background consisted of aircraft fire and crash handling techniques.

One major item listed by the FAA inspection report cited the need of a new mobile firefighting unit with a minimum of 1,500-gallon water capacity to be added to the firefighting equipment at Terminal. The new unit would replace the old 1963 model on hand at the airport which is outdated. Banks said that a new unit would completely update the emergency force, since one other new 1,500-gallon unit was obtained not long ago.

Concerning the paving of runways at the airport, Banks stated that an overlay of six inches already has been applied to runway 10-28, and that runway 16-34 would undergo a complete repaving later this year. He said the project scheduled for either August or September would include the building of a 12-inch thick layer on the landing strip. This is necessary because of the impact of the 727 jets landing at touchdown speeds between 90 and 110 knots. According to Banks the present runway is becoming cracked and damaged due to extreme landing impacts of large aircraft.

Several taxiways at the air facility also will be resurfaced. Projected cost of the paving program includes federal assistance in the amount of $663,596 for runway 10-28's first overlay while the city of Midland expended $165,899 on the project. Runway paving for 16-34 will hit a total of $7,470,180 with the federal share amounting to $5,602,635 and the city's share reaching $1,867,545. The latter project also includes the resurfacing of 10-28 a second time and several taxiways.

Other areas of airport facility improvements cited by Banks included the addition of 30 seats to the security area of the on-boarding passenger waiting section, and a planned expansion of the airport parking lot.

Banks said that a general plan for a total improvement to the Terminal buildings was presently in the design stage and might be started next year. He noted that airport revenue was keeping pace with the

Officials Probing Toxic Gas Fumes

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Authorities investigated today the emission of a highly toxic gas which sent 23 Atlanta firemen to the hospital Tuesday during a fire at an abandoned cooking oil refinery.

One of the firemen, Frank L. Byers, was in critical condition. The others were in good condition, hospital officials said.

Deputy Fire Chief Claude Lemke Jr. said the state crime laboratory identified the gas in its preliminary report as hydrogen sulfide, which he said is a "very dangerous and deadly gas" in high concentrations.

Congress Okays 12 F111s Pentagon Didn't Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second straight year, Congress has voted to build additional multimillion dollar war planes the Pentagon did not request.

Ironically, the plane is the F111, which was the target for nearly 10 years of some of the most severe congressional attacks ever made against a military aircraft. Opponents used to say it was too costly and technically unsound.

In both the House and Senate, the armed service committees gave authority to build another 12 F111s at about $17 million each in the coming fiscal year in a defense procurement bill.

When the bills reached House and Senate floors, no move to drop the F111 provision was made by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., or any other defense spending critics.

Asked why Proxmire, who called the swing-wing F111 a "deathtrap" about 19 months ago, did not make such a move, an aide said the Wisconsin senator had four amendments on other issues and that it was "a matter of priority."

An Aspin aide said amendments aimed at cutting specific

Italians' Reaction Is Varied To Collapse Of Government

ROME (AP) — A movie opening of the World Cup soccer tournament in Frankfurt Thursday, Italy is a favorite.

The last act of the Rumor government before it resigned Monday raised more of a public outcry than the fall of the government. It ordered closing the relay stations that were bringing color television programs from neighboring countries into Italy. Dealers reported a surge in sales of color sets to soccer fans. But Post Office Minister Mario Togni said Italian stations wouldn't start broadcasting in color until the economic crisis was over, and color tv from abroad was a "minority privilege" that could be dispensed with to save money.

Solon: Kissinger Ordered Wiretaps

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman says he has seen proof that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, despite his sworn denial, ordered national security wiretaps.

Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., a member of the House Judiciary Committee, said Tuesday, "Materials have been supplied to us which constitute positive proof that Kissinger did institute those taps."

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee decided earlier Tuesday to take another look at Kissinger's testimony concerning wiretaps last September during his confirmation hearings.

Kissinger, at a news conference at Salzburg, Austria, threatened to resign if controversy over his role in the wiretapping is not cleared up. He asked for the committee's review and denied that he lied to the panel.

At issue is the extent of Kissinger's involvement in the wiretapping of 13 government officials and four newsmen between May 1969 and February 1971.

Last September Kissinger testified that he never recommended the wiretapping, but supplied names of persons who had access to sensitive documents leaked to the news media.

However, recent press reports have described a larger Kissinger role in the wiretapping. And today there were new reports, including one in The Washington Post quoting FBI documents which sharply contradict Kissinger's version.

The Boston Globe said two top secret memos from late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to former Atty. Gen John N. Mitchell on May 12, 1970, apparently contradict Kissinger.

The Globe said the memos, now in the possession of the House Judiciary Committee, name two persons whose residences were to be tapped to determine if they had leaked information to the press. The paper quoted the memos as saying that the wiretaps were "requested" by Kissinger.

Eilberg, in a telephone interview, told The Associated Press, "I can say categorically there is a direct conflict between what we have and what he said to the Foreign Relations Committee."

In a television interview Tuesday, Eilberg, asked whether he was saying that Kissinger did not tell the truth, replied, "I'm saying that."

However, he told The AP, "There's a clear conflict as it appears to me. I wouldn't say he lied."

He said the information he has seen shows Kissinger received more than 50 logs of wiretapped conversations. "It was quite clear that he instituted those wiretaps," Eilberg said.

Another committee member, Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., disagreed. "I cannot share my colleague's certainty as to the evidence," Wiggins said on the same television interview.

A third committee member, Rep. John F. Seiberling Jr., D-Ohio, said the only direct evidence is from a memo by Hoover.

The Washington Post today quoted from an FBI document that said: "It appears that the project of placing electronic surveillance at the request of the White House had its beginning in a telephone call to Mr. J. Edgar Hoover (the late FBI director) on May 9, 1969, from Dr. Henry A. Kissinger."

The document was an internal FBI memo, prepared by the FBI May 13, 1973.

The Post also quoted a Hoover memorandum of May 9, 1969, which reported that Kissinger called him to complain of "an extraordinarily damaging" news leak—believed to be the New York Times account of the secret bombing of Cambodia—and asked Hoover to put "whatever resources I need to find out who did this."

Top-secret memoranda from Hoover to then-Attorney General Mitchell list Kissinger as the initiator of requests for three wiretaps—two of close aides to Kissinger and one on a newsmen suspected of having received classified material, The Post reported.

The records also indicate that on at least two occasions President Nixon himself ordered taps on a television correspondent and a White House aide, the newspaper said.

Meanwhile, The New York Times quoted an FBI summary as saying, "The original requests were from either Dr. Henry Kissinger or Gen. Alexander Haig for wiretap coverage on knowledgeable NSC personnel and certain newsmen who had particular news interest in the SALT talks."

Resignation Threat Dark Cloud On Trip

SALZBURG, Austria (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger's threat to resign injected something of a crisis atmosphere into President Nixon's quiet rest stop amid the towering snow-capped Austrian Alps.

Grim-faced and emotional, the secretary of state summoned the traveling White House press corps and defended his personal honor from assaults stemming from the Nixon administration's wiretaps.

President Nixon did not know in advance his secretary of state would threaten resignation. Two hours passed before his press secretary Ronald L.

Ziegler distributed a statement declaring the President would be reluctant to accept Kissinger's resignation on such grounds.

"Those in the world who seek peace and are familiar with Secretary Kissinger's contributions to international trust and understanding share his view that the secretary's honor needs no defense," Ziegler read.

He added: "I am confident the matter will work itself out."

Kissinger's startling statement was triggered by press reports that he lied to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last September about his part in wiretaps the White House had put on some government officials and newsmen.

One aide said Kissinger decided to deliver his blast to get the matter out of the way before Nixon went on to the Middle East today.

Another committee member, Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., disagreed. "I cannot share my colleague's certainty as to the evidence," Wiggins said on the same television interview.

A third committee member, Rep. John F. Seiberling Jr., D-Ohio, said the only direct evidence is from a memo by Hoover.

The Washington Post today quoted from an FBI document that said: "It appears that the project of placing electronic surveillance at the request of the White House had its beginning in a telephone call to Mr. J. Edgar Hoover (the late FBI areas. It was noted by the council that with the use of only 30 hand-carried electronic gate opening devices, to be issued to selected personnel, there would result an increasingly difficult access situation to the private pilots coming in and out of the operational areas of the airport.

The fencing plan, presented by Director of Aviation Wilson Banks and presently approved by the FAA, is designed to be of the eight-foot chain type and run from the warehouse abutting the operational area on the south, down the street in front of the airport buildings, and encircling the parking lot, back along the western outside boundary of Rich Air Co. operations and northwest to include all industrial areas abutting the runway section of the airport.

Councilmen said, "This fence would only stop a Sunday driver," and that anyone wishing to hijack a private or commercial aircraft could easily get through the security fencing.

In other operations business, the council approved final payment for improvements to runway 10-28 in the amount of $147,648.29. Payment of engineering costs was also included at a total of $5,193.76.

After hearing Banks outline a need for the expansion to the parking lot at Air Terminal, the council approved a resolution for the company of Parkhill, Smith & Cooper to complete the design for enlarging the present 396-space facility.

The council postponed action on the proposed tie-down parking at Midland Airpark after hearing bid ranges of $20,000 and $23,000 for the construction, and also postponed action on the hangars after hearing argument from Banks that the city is running a liability risk because of the condition of the wood frame-sheet metal hangars.

Banks also told the council that the 17 hangars were at present completely filled with planes, and that no salvage value could be gained from tearing them down.

REJECTED ONCE—

Delegates Turn Again To Judiciary Article

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Constitutional Convention has finished the last article in its new document and returns today to the only article it rejected.

A compromise to be offered on the twice-defeated judiciary article would in effect make both county courts and new circuit courts (today's county courts at law) permissive rather than mandatory.

The compromise also would grant the state the right to appeal a trial court's finding that a criminal statute is unconstitutional or an appeals court decision if the Texas Supreme Court agrees to review it.

Once the judiciary article is accepted, the convention's attention will turn to the work of the Style and Drafting Committee and the Submission and Transition Committee.

Tuesday, delegates adopted a new environment section and again rejected, this time overwhelmingly, an anti-busing proposal.

Rep. Larry Vick, R-Houston, to the accompaniment of much hissing, again offered an anti-busing amendment, which the delegates turned down, 61-60, during a tumultuous session Saturday.

The amendment was tabled 105-50, and a meaningless substitute was offered, which granted equal protection of the laws to students. That substitute then was defeated, 143-12, with even Vick joining in.

The new environment section was offered by Rep. Ray Hutchison, R-Dallas, to replace the controversial section he got the delegates to accept last week.

The old provision was interpreted by many to prevent the legislature from authorizing citizens to sue polluters.

Many environmentalists, including representatives of the Sierra Club, said they preferred to leave the constitution silent on the issue.

But Hutchison said it would be better to make sure the legislature retains control of the environment. His new proposal, which was adopted, 90-72, says in its entirety, "The quality of the environment of the state of Texas is to be protected. The legislature by law shall implement and enforce this policy."

OPRY STAR'S SON HURT IN ACCIDENT

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The 16-year-old son of Grand Ole Opry star Charlie Louvin was listed in critical condition today after open heart surgery following a motorcycle accident.

A motorcycle ridden by Kenneth Louvin collided with a pickup truck in nearby Hendersonville, police said.

Mrs. Betty Louvin, his mother, quoted doctors as saying the youth was doing well and there were no complications from the surgery.

RODINO REBUFS ST. CLAIR ON BRIEF

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House lawyer James St. Clair has been rebuffed by Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr. in an effort for an early start in presenting President Nixon's impeachment defense to the House Judiciary Committee.

Rodino, D-N.J., told St. Clair it was "entirely inappropriate" for him to offer a 10,000-word defense brief before the committee has received all the evidence in its impeachment inquiry.

St. Clair brought the brief to the hearing Tuesday, intending to give each member a copy. But Rodino refused to accept it.

U.S. Steel Raises Prices 8 Per Cent

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp. has raised prices an average of 8 per cent on a variety of products used in the auto and heavy construction industry.

The nation's largest steel-maker announced the increases on Tuesday.

The company said the boosts would result in an increase of less than 3 per cent in overall revenue.

Tisdale Arraigned On Robbery Charge

GARDEN CITY — Tommy Tisdale, one of five persons charged with robbery and murder in the 1970 death of Glasscock County rancher Steve Currie, was arraigned here this week in the robbery case.

Judge Ralph Caton of Big Spring set bond at $25,000 and severed Tisdale from the other defendants, so that he will be tried separately.

A hearing on a motion for change of venue in the robbery case was scheduled but the matter was not acted upon.

In October 1971 the murder case against him was moved to San Angelo and is pending there. No trial date has been set but it is believed that the murder trial will precede the robbery trial.

Tisdale is the only one of the defendants yet to be tried for murder and none of them has been tried on the robbery counts.

New Grade Report Procedures Okayed

By BRUCE CAMPBELL

The Midland Independent School District Board of Trustees adopted new procedures for grade reports at its bi-monthly meeting Tuesday.

The board also approved a student accident insurance program, approved bids for bakery and dairy products, changed a bus route, hired an assistant principal, made a commitment for data processing services and approved requests for the use of two school buildings by two church groups.

The insurance policies are similar to the 1973-74 policies, except junior high football will be covered along with the other non-football sports in the student policy.

Two policies were approved—one for high school football players and one for other students.

The regular policy will cost $9 for elementary and $12 for secondary students for school-time coverage and $23 and $26, respectively, for full-time coverage.

Senior football players will pay $50, and sophomores and juniors will pay $62.50 if they plan to participate in spring practice. Junior high footballers won't have to pay the extra $12.50 unless they take part in the senior spring drills.

In the elementary grades, three report card changes were approved.

They were:

—1. A pupil's progress will be reported to parents six times each year following each six weeks period.

—2. No report card will be distributed to first grade pupils at the first reporting period. It was recommended that a letter be sent to parents.

—3. The meaning of "I" in grades 1-3 report cards was changed from "Improving but not yet satisfactory" to "Improvement needed."

In the secondary grades it was decided that:

—1. A computerized grade report be issued to each student at the conclusion of each 12-week quarter.

—2. An old-fashioned report card be sent home at the end of the first six weeks of each quarter.

A progress report on kindergarten and first grade report card revisions was presented by Lois Rogge, chairwoman of the committee. She recommended parent-teacher conferences with written reports twice a year.

She said principals had suggested that definitions of terms used in reporting be included on the grade card and that parents who cannot participate in a conference by the end of the second reporting period be sent a written report.

Contracts were awarded to Rainco Baking Co. of Lubbock for $23,366.78.

Bordens Inc. of Midland was awarded a $169,058.35 contract for dairy products.

Bus route 8 was switched to Alamo Junior High from Goddard Junior High. Ten students will be involved in the switch but only three will change schools.

Conrad Mac Hobbs, mathematics department chairman at San Jacinto Junior High was named assistant principal at Edison Freshman School.

A $30,000 commitment was made to the West Texas Education Center for data processing services. The services would include the maintenance of student master files, student scheduling, grade reporting and payroll and financial accounting.

The board approved the New Jerusalem Baptist Church's request to use Austin Freshman school on June 15 to present a spiritual concert. Northside Baptist Church was given permission to use Lee for worship services by former New Christi Minister Barry McGulley.

The board also approved a price hike for the use of school vehicles for extracurricular activities.

For all short trips on school buses, the charge was increased to 40 cents per mile. On station wagons and vans the charge was hiked to 12 cents per mile.

Long Teacher Strike Tears Small Wisconsin Town Apart

By TIMOTHY HARPER
HORTONVILLE, Wis. (AP) — Along Hortonville's mile-long Main Street, from the gravel pit to the animal hospital, the big issues are dimmed by small outrages.

Those who have participated in the bitter confrontation remember specific incidents, not great philosophies. At McHugh's Tap and Parker's Hardware Store they talk not of the right of teachers to strike for better pay, but of the good hunting dog found hanged by its own chain from a porch railing.

Kevin Quinn, owner of the beagle, and others admit that the dog may have hanged itself, but it doesn't matter to them.

"Those striking teachers did it," they agree.

Long after the stirring rhetoric about labor and management and quality education is forgotten, the people of Hortonville remember merchandise missing from their store shelves, slashes in their truck tires, paint splashed on their homes and the teachers who called them "dumb farmers."

For Hortonville, nestled in east central Wisconsin's lush rolling dairyland, is the site of a bitter teacher strike, one of the longest in the history of U.S. education.

From an innocuous birth during the 1972-73 school year when the teachers asked that the starting pay for those with a master's degree be raised from $7,850 to $8,100 and the board would go no higher than $7,900, the dispute mushroomed into a statewide tempest after 84 of the 88 teachers went on strike March 18 and were fired.

Friends now walk out of their way to avoid meeting, and acquaintances mutter curses instead of cheery greetings.

The teachers angrily chose to work that year without a contract, banking on community support for their 1973-74 demands.

But the support never materialized, and the teachers began talking about what they said was Hortonville's backward attitude toward labor and education, about how their union was the only collective-bargaining unit in town and how hardly any of the few Hortonville graduates who went to college ever returned to live in the area.

This didn't sit well with Hortonville's 1,500 residents, who are outnumbered by the 1,500 students of the sprawling one-story red-brick district school on the edge of town.

Nor did it sit well with other Outagamie County residents. They are the dirt and dairy farmers, the paper mill workers and farm implement salesmen whose children spend an hour each day in a school bus bouncing along U.S. 45 before it becomes Hortonville's Main Street.

Most of the residents of the far-flung district attended the Hortonville school, which runs from kindergarten through senior high. Many had no other education before they married and settled down in large clean farm homes or ramshackle houses in the shadow of paper mills and canneries.

In January, when the teachers staged a "mini-strike," refused overtime and counseled students to make trouble for substitutes in case there was a strike, parents became irate.

"This one teacher told me I could do anything I wanted if they went on strike and we had a substitute," said Rick Greisbach, 18, a high school senior. "He said that anything that happened while he was on strike didn't matter because he was coming back."

Ms. Behringer said she is also attacking the problem of human dignity by writing for children.

"Sex stereotyping is crippling too many talented women who are ignored by industry," she said, adding that it is important for youngsters to see the woman they read about in interesting roles.

In her book "When I Grow Up," men and women swap jobs so youthful readers will not associate one occupation with one sex or the other.

"We must make parents aware that the sex stereotypes exist in textbooks so that school districts will not purchase sexist materials. The image of reality for a child comes from parents, friends, school, tv and books," she said.

we are upholding the principles of management," declared Board President Wisling, waving a stack of congratulatory letters from Midwestern businessmen. "The people are the bosses, not the teachers. We represent the people."

Rallying to the student protests of the Wisconsin Education Association, 500 teachers and public employees from across the state came to Hortonville to join the picket lines during the traditional Easter recess in April.

More than 300 law officers from surrounding communities followed them to back up Hortonville's lone policeman. Seventy-five arrests were made on charges of obstructing police as demonstrators tried to block streets, sidewalks and school doorways.

Six of those arrested were parents, but that was the only visible show of support for the strikers from the community. About two dozen parents pulled 42 children out of the school and demanded an immediate end to the furor. But they took neither side.

Quite a few area residents, however, found in the Easter recess new reasons to hate school teachers.

"I want to buy a new site," said farmer Dave Becker, class of '68, "but I won't be able to if the teachers get what they want and taxes go up again."

"I don't care if they never come in here again," said a distraught merchant after a group of teachers stood around in his store for several minutes. "I probably only made $10 from teachers last year. They only come around here to take our tax money."

A group of about 30 men, most of them post-1960 Hortonville graduates, dubbed themselves the Hortonville Vigilantes. They followed groups of teachers on foot and in cars, including a pickup with "Vigilantes" painted across the side. They said they were making sure that replacement teachers got to work and back and that merchants weren't harassed.

A group of black teachers from out of town moved door to door, asking for support for the strikers.

Women's Lib For Men, Connecticut Editor Claims

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (AP) — Editor, writer, and mother of four children Harriette Rhawn Behringer wants it known that the women's movement is not for women only.

"It is not a movement for women, but one for freedom and human dignity," said the editor of Alert, a 22,000 circulation women's legislative review published here monthly.

"Husbands and friends of women in the movement are ardent supporters of our work.

We look upon men as friends, and we must destroy the myth that women in the movement are hostile to men," she said.

Ms. Behringer, a title she prefers, has edited Alert during a year's leave of absence from Xerox Corp. as part of the company's social service program.

"We don't just represent militant feminists, but a broad spectrum of women from every geographic area of the state," she said in an interview.

Alert concentrates most of its efforts on politics because "women have learned where the decision makers live and that's politics," she said.

"With strength of numbers, women in Connecticut can establish power — a word foreign to women."

Ms. Behringer said Alert's efforts during the 1973 General Assembly session helped create a state Commission on the Status of Women, helped change laws penalizing pregnant working women and helped ratify the federal equal rights amendment after it was defeated by the assembly in 1972.

"We have a long way to go, but it indicates the strength of dedicated feminists in the state," she said.

Ms. Behringer said she is also attacking the problem of human dignity by writing for children.

Engineers Design 'Pedestrian Catcher'

LONDON (AP) — British Leyland safety engineers have designed a "pedestrian catcher" aimed at cutting down road casualties.

Main elements of the system, still highly experimental, are a low modified front fender, a wedge-shaped bonnet (hood) and a retaining bar which scoops up the victim.

The effect of the low fender — between 12 and 13 inches from the ground — is to tip the pedestrian out of the path of the car and on to the engine hood, which is contoured to reduce injury.

Almost instantaneously the retaining bar — actuated by a sensor on the fender — is triggered to prevent the pedestrian from sliding off the hood.

The device has been tested satisfactorily with dummies at speeds up to 15 miles per hour.

In Britain accident statistics show that 40 per cent of all road deaths involve pedestrians.

These deaths and serious injuries are most often caused when pedestrians are thrown forward in front of the car.

The system, developed by British Leyland, is aimed at controlling and cushioning the pedestrian and reducing injuries and deaths in low-speed accidents.

Jack Daniels, chief engineer in charge of the project, says that the biggest drawback for the pedestrian catcher is the United States' regulation, now almost generally accepted, that fenders should be 20 inches from the ground.

"We have no doubt from our research, and the statistics prove it, that fenders should go down — not up," says Daniels.

Alexandria Aces Squeeze M-Cubs, 4-3, In Wet 10th Arkansas Here For Twinbill Tonight

BY TED BATTLES
Centerfielder Jerry Turner hit a couple of solo homers and then scored on a squeeze bunt in the 10th inning to give Alexandria's Aces a 4-3 victory over the Midland Cubs in a Texas League game at Cubs Stadium Tuesday night.

Midland, which twice let one run lead slip away in this storm-spiced affair, loaded the bases with two out in the last of the 10th, but couldn't score. Play was delayed 20 minutes after the ninth inning because of rain. The teams played in a steady drizzle from the sixth through the ninth inning as lightning picked the ball park. After play was resumed, Alexandria got through its 10th without any more rain, but play was not halted when rain began again in the last of the 10th.

After Steve Haug's single, Bill Huisman's double and an infield out tied it at 1-1 in the third, Bill Bright put Midland ahead in the seventh with a lead off homer off starter Dave Wehrmeister in the seventh.

The Aces tied it as Turner rifled a shot over the right field barrier; his second homer off Midland starter Gary Junge to again knotted the score in the eighth. Midland again forged ahead in the home eighth when Ken Szotkiewicz singled, moved to second on Brock Davis' sacrifice and scored on Bill Droegge's single into the left field corner. Left-hander Budd Schultz, who had relieved Junge in the eighth, Heffner to start the 10th. Heffner was just one out away from victory when Marc Rhea, who beat Don Schroeder 3-1 Sunday, hit a triple to left-center, scoring Duane Larson, who had reached first when shortstop Ken Szotkiewicz' throw pulled first baseman Jerry Tabb off the bag.

Paul Zahn relieved Schultz at this point and was tagged with the loss when play resumed in the 10th. Turner singled to center, advanced on a sacrifice. Mike Ivie, who would up 14-for-26 in the series, was passed intentionally. Mike Dupree then loaded the bases on an infield hit and Duane Larson's squeeze bunt down the first base line got in the winning run. Wehrmeister, 1-3 and with an astronomical 7.63 ERA, looked like Gaylor Perry to the Cubs before being relieved by Mike Heffner to start the 10th. Heffner retired the first two batters, but was relieved by Cliff Butcher after walking Wayne Tyrone and yielding a whistling single through the box to Tabb. Butcher then walked Droegge and retired Bright on a pop to second.

Droegge wound up with three hits while Tabb and Szotkiewicz had two each for the Cubs. However, Turner was the game's star with his ninth and tenth homers. His opening inning blast cleared the centerfield fence. He later hit a

The gopher ball seems to haunt Junge against Alexandria. He lost to the Aces 2-0 at Alexandria with both runs coming on homers, one by Turner, a cub infielder Joel Green lost an $800 IRS refund check.

The Aces win Tuesday gave Alexandria the season's series between the teams, 7-5, although Midland won four of the seven at Cubs Stadium.

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Pitching usually is the big factor in a short series, and Texas and Southern Illinois proved that baseball adage Tuesday night.

Richard Jones Would Change Talent Approach
OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Southern Illinois Coach Richard "Itchy" Jones says two radical ideas could foster more professional interest in collegiate baseball talent.

One would allow college players to participate in an organized summer league where they would receive a set salary from professional baseball. The other would permit college coaches to manage and coach in the minors.

"Some junior college coaches now work in the minor league systems," Jones said, "but the series," he reminded Southern Illinois Coach Richard "Itchy" Jones, "is an NCAA rule against major college coaches managing in the summer."

Jones said allowing college coaches in the minors would bridge any problems between the two factions of baseball.

Many college players with eligibility remaining gain valuable experience in professionally-sponsored summer leagues like the Cape Cod and Central Illinois Collegiate.

"Players are now provided with a summer job, so why not go further and provide them with 'X' amount of money for playing," Jones said. "It would gadgetry 'snapped' Cesar Cedeno's sort of an on-the-job training deno's batting slump, but from thing. It's done in other professions, why not baseball."

"The players would get a good background in pro ball, and the professional organization would get a good look at the players."

Both ideas would require a lot of giving on both parts—for professional baseball and the NCAA," he says.

Texas used a route-going performance by Rick Burley to topple Oklahoma 10-4 while Southern Illinois stayed alive in the 28th College World Series with a 5-3 victory featuring a stellar relief performance by freshman Dewey Robinson.

The double-elimination tournament's only unbeaten—Miami, 50-0, and four-time defending champion Southern California, 47-19 see action tonight.

Thursday night's pairings find Southern Illinois against Miami and Texas and Southern California in a rematch. Southern Cal won in the first round, 9-2.

"I said when we came here our depth would be the key in the series," he reminded Southern Illinois Coach Richard "Itchy" Jones, "but the series," he reminded Southern Illinois Coach Richard "Itchy" Jones, "is an NCAA rule against major college coaches managing in the summer."

Jones called on Robinson, a right-hander who had worked only seven innings during the regular season, and he responded with 8 2-3 innings of three-hit relief.

"Robinson and our running won the ball game for us," said Jones, whose team pushed its record to 49-11. "We stole six bases tonight—and four figured in the scoring."

Southern Illinois broke a 2-2 tie with a two-run fifth in which it didn't hit the ball out of the infield but stole four bases, including a delayed double steal that tested a run.

Northern Colorado, 32-13, took a 1-0 lead in the first on a single and three walks that chased Salukis' starter Rod Klass.

Robinson allowed single runs in the third and fifth innings, but with the help of a double play retired 16 in a row after the final Northern Colorado hit in the fifth inning.

Texas spotted Oklahoma a 3-0 second-inning lead but bounced back with 12 hits for an easy victory.

Doug Duncan and Odessa Bobby Clark each knocked in three runs, and Burley allowed just three hits after the second.

In running his record to 13-0, Burley struck out 13, and Texas kept alive its bid for its first title since 1950. The Longhorns are making a record 17th appearance in the tournament.

"Burley pitched very effective except for the one inning," said Texas Coach Cliff Gustafson. "I was close to taking him out several times."

It marked the third straight time Big Eight Conference champion Oklahoma finished fifth in the tournament—and was eliminated by Texas.

Toros Regain Eastern Lead

By The Associated Press
Victoria regained first place in the Texas League East division by sweeping a double-header from El Paso Tuesday night.

The Victoria Toros took the first game 2-0 as Nina Espinosa hurled a three-hitter at the Diablos. They won the nightcap, 3-2, on an RBI single by Jay Kleven in the ninth inning.

Elsewhere around the league, Alexandria defeated Midland 4-3, San Antonio blanked Shreveport 6-0 and Amarillo split a twin bill with Arkansas, winning the opener 3-2 and bowing to the Travelers 9-3 in the second game.

San Antonio jumped to a five-run lead over Shreveport in the first inning as the Captains committed a record-tying five errors in one frame. Eric Raich

STREET FIGHTERS—Joe Frazier is shown sparring with George Johnson, Tuesday, as former heavyweight champion Joe Louis referees in a ring set up in Duffy Square in the heart of Manhattan's Times Square area. Frazier will meet Jerry Quarry Monday night in a heavyweight bout. (AP Wirephoto.)

Quarry Places All On Line

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Frazier and Jerry Quarry took to the streets Tuesday to promote their Monday night fight—the one that each thinks will bring him a step closer to the world heavyweight championship.

"When I win this fight, I'll be in line for the championship," said Frazier, who lost the title to George Foreman in January of 1973. "This time I think I'll beat Foreman."

"I am deadly serious now," said Quarry. "I'm giving boxing the one shot I should have given it earlier. I'm giving it everything I've got now, and if I don't win the title I'll know it's just because I don't have the ability, no other reason."

Frazier and Quarry, scheduled to go 12 rounds Monday night at Madison Square Garden, went three rounds apiece with sparring partners Tuesday afternoon before about 900 onlookers in Duffy Square in the heart of Manhattan's Times Square area. The sky was clear and the temperature was in the low 80s.

The exhibition featured an assortment of Playboy bunnies, free hot dogs, balloons and a steel band. Traffic slowed to a halt as the crowd spilled onto Broadway and the portable ring shook slightly everytime the Broadway local roared by underground.

Both said they enjoyed it. Quarry, watching Frazier's workout from the second story window of an apartment, was impressed.

"It's the same old Joe Frazier," said Quarry. "He wants to come out and fight, as usual."

Joe Louis, the legendary Brown Bomber, got the biggest hand of the afternoon when he stepped into the ring to referee a couple of rounds. Garden boxing head Teddy Brenner says Louis, who turned 60 last month, will referee the Monday night bout.

Frazier stopped Quarry in the seventh round of their first meeting five years ago, but Quarry says this time will be different because he's hungrier than Frazier is.

Frazier insists he hasn't lost his competitive edge.

MONTGOMERY NAMED TO POST—Midland College Inks Swim Coach

Midland College announced the appointment today of Steve Montgomery, assistant swim coach at Texas A&M, as MC swimming coach.

Concurrently, the Board of Directors of the City of Midland Swim Team appointed Montgomery as assistant COM coach.

Midland College Athletic Director Chester Story and Charles Koch, president of the COM Board of Directors, made the announcement at Alamo Pool this morning.

Montgomery was working with the COM swimmers in the place of George French who was in California.

The former Aggie signed Susan Bateman, Midland Lee swimmer, to a swimming scholarship Tuesday night. "Susan is a dandy and finished third in the recent state swimming meet in Austin in the 100-freestyle race and is a three-time All-American swimmer. We are most pleased to get her," said Montgomery.

Story pointed out that Midland College's swim team will lease the Mabee Pool, home of the COM team until the facilities on the MC campus are completed.

Montgomery, a native of Trinity, Tex., coached state high school championship teams in both swimming and water polo before joining the staff at A&M in 1972. Texas A&M finished third in the Southwest Conference this year. His College Station AAU swimmers won the state swimming crown in 1972 and 73 while his water polo team took the state championship the same years. He has coached High School All-American swimmers, AAU National qualifiers and Olympic Trials qualifiers.

The 36-year-old coach holds a bachelors and masters degree from Sam Houston State in Huntsville and has completed his work towards his doctorate in Physical Education.

He is married to the former Georgia Bayless. Their son Bill, is a junior at A&M.

"We are happy about coming to Midland and are excited about coaching here and making new friends in West Texas," commented Montgomery.

The new MC coach has coaching experience at Deer Park and Pasadena High Schools along with A&M.

Montgomery is the vice president of the Texas Swimming Association; national chairman, pool design and construction, of the American Swim Coaches Association and secretary of the Texas Interscholastic Swim Coaches Association.

"We may sign a top swimmer out of Venezuela. We have an interpreter ready to help on the long distance phone call," quipped Montgomery.

Montgomery is highly optimistic and predicts that MC will compete on the national level, especially in the men's sports in the very near future. "It all boils down to if we can recruit the athletes we want, he added.

Rich Museum Finds More Treasure In Basement

By PAUL ANASTASIADES
ATHENS (AP) — Greece's National Archeological Museum, the world's richest in ancient Greek and Roman art, has discovered further treasures under its very nose — in fact, in its huge basement. In a lecture given by Nicholas Yalouris, the museum's director, it was revealed that "wondrous archeological pieces of art, almost priceless, have been discovered in the basement of our museum."

Yalouris explained that, following quiet excavations over the past 25 years in the museum basement stock rooms, he decided to reveal that a rich collection of antiquities was discovered, ranging from pre-historic to post-Roman times and including stone, metal and clay works.

He said they were found "in layers stacked on top of each other," some crates with antiquities still unopened since being taken from their excavation sites in the 19th and earlier 20th centuries.

Paintings, charts or serial numbers explaining the origins of the antiquities had been destroyed by insects and rats, or faded by time. In many cases the museum had the original antiquity on exhibit, but with a part of it broken off and missing — the head of a warrior, for example. The missing parts, which when added sharply increase the over-all value of the work, were often found among "the pieces left down stairs."

Many of the antiquities unearthed from the museum basement were from the Mycenaean period, including an elephant ivory model of a war galley and a warrior's helmet. There was also armored plating for a warrior's heel found in a Mycenaean tomb, a revelation which added further credit to the "Achilles heel" concept and the belief that a warrior was completely paralyzed when wounded in the heel. The heel shielding in the museum cell is the oldest in the world yet to be discovered, Yalouris said. An ornately engraved ivory comb and a compass further revealed the Mycenaean finer tastes in life.

Amidst the immeasurable treasures found — copper and stone seals and vases of the 15th century B.C. depicting Greek gods and legends, jewelry, house ornaments, weapons — one item stood out above all else.

WHEELED CATERPILLAR—One of the longest and heaviest loads to roll over Texas highways is shown here during a stopover in Demson recently. The vessel is 116 feet long, weighs 240,000 pounds gross, has 16 axles, and was manufactured in Tulsa, Okla. It was shipped overseas from Houston. It is one of six that will be transported by special routing supplied by the Texas Highway Department. (AP Wirephoto.)

By CINDY ROSE
THE EVERGLADES, Fla. (AP) — It's sundown. Jim Sistrunk is in his pickup truck, lights on, driving along narrow, bumpy levee roads on the lookout for poachers.

Setting in the swamp, even in the blackness with fire-light catching movements of otter-tailed raccoons, frogs singing in silky voices and the lights of Jollytown 18 miles away.

It's the beauty belts danger for wildlife officer Sistrunk. "It's hazardous work," Sistrunk says. "We get into a lot of hassles. People are more likely to use those guns now than they ever have before."

Earle Frye, director of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, says just in the past three years there has been a rash of violence involving wildlife officers.

"It's the same in all areas of the country, more men are killed and hurt," he says. "It's hard to understand the taking of life over a misdemeanor like deer-poaching."

Dan Crowder was killed May 3 in north Florida when he tried to stop a deer hunter. Usually Campbell was shot five times near Fort Lauderdale by deer-poachers. He lived. Leon Walker died in an auto accident in Columbia County during a high-speed chase.

Five officers were hung in agony after arresting a ring of organized deer killers bagging an estimated $30,000 yearly.

"If somebody decides they want to hurt a wildlife officer, they've got the advantage," Sistrunk says. "They can do it, there's no way that man can stop them. They've got guns to hunt. They can just shoot first. The officer can pull his gun and get a shot off but he'll be hurt."

In Florida, there are only 150 state wildlife officers to protect millions of acres. Sgt. Sistrunk and his seven officers are responsible for protecting the animals in 700,000 acres of Everglades.

"It's a lot of land but if a poacher does it regularly, we've got a 50-50 chance to catch him," Sistrunk says. "The good hunters tip us off."

Most poachers in Florida are after deer, weighing about 100 pounds and selling at $35 a head. Deer meat often is chopped up and disguised with hamburger for illegal sale.

Alligator-poaching has declined since strict federal laws in 1972 which forbid interstate transport of the skins. Gators taken now are usually caught for the edible tails.

Sistrunk says he's been shot at once. He wasn't hit. But there have been other tough ones. "I could have drowned fighting one guy to get the skins he threw into a canal. We were both big and it took me a while to subdue him."

Apartment House Numbers Should Be Put On Addresses

Postmaster David E. Holster today urged all Midland apartment house residents to use their apartment numbers in return addresses to assure faster, more efficient deliveries.

"Inadequately addressed mail is costly to apartment residents, the large mass media and the Postal Service," Holster said.

"Failure to include apartment numbers often means slower service, especially when substitute carriers may have to use directories to find apartments of those with common first and last names."

Apartment numbers should also be used to direct-reply advertising, Holster said.

With the construction of more large apartment house complexes with common street addresses, the delivery of mail will depend more and more on the addresses being complete with the apartment number.

Dean Martin's Son Will Be Sentenced

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dino Martin, son of entertainer Dean Martin, is scheduled to be sentenced July 1 after entering a surprise guilty plea to violating federal firearms laws.

As his trial in U.S. District Court was about to begin Tuesday, Martin, 22, pleaded guilty to illegal possession of seven machine guns and a 14-foot-long antitank gun, a crime which carries a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine. He previously had pleaded innocent, telling reporters he collected the guns as a hobby.

Constable Finds Deputy Convicted In Assault Case

HOUSTON (AP)—A constable said Tuesday he plans to check out prospective employees a little better after it was revealed one of his reserve deputies was convicted of assault in murder.

"We will process everything through the Federal Bureau of Investigation files," said Constable Raul Martinez. "I plan much closer screening."

Martinez said Tuesday he had learned that Phillip Rawlins, 50, was convicted in 1969 of assault to murder after the shooting death of a man in 1967 in a tavern brawl.

Rawlins' appeal of the conviction was denied last month by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals and Rawlins was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

He had been working part-time as a reserve deputy in Martinez' office for about two months before his arrest and was authorized to carry a pistol.

"This was a boo-boo all right," Martinez said. "I will take steps to see that it doesn't happen again."

Grand Jury Seeks Evidence From Two Distilleries

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A federal grand jury believed to be engaged in a wholesale liquor antitrust probe has called for evidence from two distilleries in other states.

American Distilling Co. of New York City has been asked to name its Texas managers and regional managers since 1960. It produces primarily bourbon.

Samuel Wineburg, vice president and marketing director for J. T. S. Distillery of Cincinnati, Ohio, has been ordered to appear in person.

The grand jury previously ordered the records of 17 individuals and 21 wholesale distributors throughout the nation.

Documents on file here show the antitrust division of the Justice Department in Los Angeles is assisting the grand jury in its investigation.

Presiding Bishop

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Rt. Rev. John Maury Allin has been named the 23rd presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church.

Sealed envelope addressed to the Mayor and City Council of the City of Midland, Texas, will be opened in the office of the City Secretary, City Hall, on the 15th day of June, 1974, and will be publicly opened and read aloud at 10 a.m. on the same day for construction purposes.

Failure of Prime Rate Cut To Spread Dampens Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to back off today while investors took a second look at prospects for an easing of tight-money pressures.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 5.56 at 846.53, and losers outstripped gainers by 7-to-2 in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the failure of a prime rate cut by the First National City Bank last Friday to spread to other big New York banks so far had chilled the enthusiasm that swept the market to a strong gain in the first six trading days of June.

Western Bancorp, the NYSE's most-active stock, lost 1/4 to 20 in a 99.90-share block trade.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was down 1.30 at 84.95.

Odessa Hospital Board Increases Room Rates $15

ODESSA — Medical Center Hospital's board of managers voted unanimously Monday night to increase room rates by $15 starting June 15.

The board also said they would take an additional look at the room rate situation at the first of next year. Rates may go up another $10 at that time.

The approved rate increase will boost significantly the hospital's financial status. Hospital Administrator Gordon Epperson projected that the hospital's costs, which are presently running $205,000 in the red, will be coming out $184,000 ahead over a year's time.

The decision on the rate increase came after Epperson proposed a $10 increase June 15, followed by another $5 increase on Sept. 1.

Joe Rutledge, a member of the board, made the motion to increase the room rates the full $15 now. He said the increase would be better in one step than in two.

The rate change will increase private room rates from $51 to $67 per day; semi-private rooms, $45.50 to $60.50; and wards $41.50 to $56.50.

Failure of Prime Rate Cut To Spread Dampens Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to back off today while investors took a second look at prospects for an easing of tight-money pressures.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 5.56 at 846.53, and losers outstripped gainers by 7-to-2 in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the failure of a prime rate cut by the First National City Bank last Friday to spread to other big New York banks so far had chilled the enthusiasm that swept the market to a strong gain in the first six trading days of June.

Western Bancorp, the NYSE's most-active stock, lost 1/4 to 20 in a 99.90-share block trade.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was down 1.30 at 84.95.

State Of Illinois Joins Fight To Help Woman Save Home

CHICAGO (AP) — The state of Illinois has joined a suburban woman who has been fighting for two years against losing her $25,000 house because she failed to pay $59.81 in taxes and penalties.

The Evanston home of Mrs. Lillian Ware, a 59-year-old practical nurse with a history of heart trouble, was bought by two Chicago real estate brokers who specialize in the purchase of tax delinquent property.

"My life savings are in that home," Mrs. Ware said. "It is paid for completely. I have put so much into it."

Mrs. Ware appeared to run out of luck last week when the Illinois Supreme Court refused to review an Appellate Court decision upholding the purchase.

But Tuesday, Gov. Daniel Walker said he was joining up with Mrs. Ware. Walker contends that Allan Blair and David R. Gray bought Mrs. Ware's home on a tax delinquency technicality, but that they did it through a corporate front which does not have a real estate license. This, he believes, is a violation of the law," Walker said.

He said the alleged violation would invalidate the purchase of the home and that he will ask the courts to so rule. He said it also established grounds for revoking the individual brokers licenses of Blair and Gray.

The tax delinquency dates to a period in 1968 when Mrs. Ware was convalescing from a heart ailment.

A spokesman for the governor said she instructed her attorney to find out what taxes she owed and make sure they were all paid.

The attorney discovered she owed $500 and paid the bill, but failed to notice the final payment was due on an alley assessment, which was not listed in the general tax records, Walker's spokesman said.

This assessment, $41.57, was the basis for Mrs. Ware losing her home to Blair and Gray. It grew to $59.81 with penalties.

Blair contends Mrs. Ware was properly notified of the delinquency proceedings but failed to intervene. Mrs. Ware, who has been living in her home pending court appeals, says she was not notified.

In some states public agencies sell tax delinquent property at auction and return the proceeds, less taxes owed, to the original owner. In Illinois, delinquent property can be purchased for the amount of taxes due.

Weapons Bill Limiting South Vietnam's Aid Approved By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a $21.8-billion military weapons procurement bill with a $900 million limit on military aid to South Vietnam for the coming year.

Approved Tuesday, the measure goes to a House-Senate conference committee for final adjustment of differences.

The House last month voted to authorize $22.6 billion for weapons development and purchase for the U.S. armed forces and $1.126 billion for military aid to South Vietnam.

The Nixon administration budget called for $23.1 billion for procurement and $1.6 billion for South Vietnam.

The Senate rejected 46 to 45 an amendment to cut military assistance to South Vietnam to $750 million.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, defended the $900 million recommendation by the Senate Armed Services Committee as a clear signal in itself "that the 100 on U.S. uniformed manpower South Vietnamese government or by June 30, 1975, a reduction of 49,000 from Pentagon plans."

During seven days of debate, the Senate defeated amendments to reduce funding for such new weapons systems by the same date.

Dear Abby

Widow, 63, Wants Widower To Move In
—By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've been a widow for three years and have been longing for male companionship ever since. Oh, I have plenty of women friends, but it's not the same.

I read in the obituaries recently that a woman I knew from church had died and was survived by her husband. I remembered him as a tall, nice-looking, refined gentleman, so I wrote him a letter offering my condolences, and I invited him to supper at my home.

(I hadn't seen him in 10 years.)

He came, bringing flowers, and we had a wonderful time — just the two of us.

As he was leaving he said, "I am lonely too. How about my moving in with you?" (I am 69 and he is 74.)

I asked: "Is this a proposal?" He said: "Lord, no! We're too old for that!"

DEAR ABBY: I have five children and 24 grandchildren who are always popping in on me, and I can't have a man living with me. On the other hand, I would enjoy having steady company and I'm afraid that if I pass up some other widow will be the fact that I had had another man's child. He wouldn't even consider my suggestion that maybe I should give up my baby as soon as it was born.

I was so happy I thought I had died and gone to heaven.

All of a sudden, Jim changes his mind. Now he wants me to give my baby away. He says he can't love another man's child. Abby, I have grown to love my son, and I can't give him up now.

I love Jim, too, and don't know what I would do without him. Is he being unfair, or am I wrong to expect him to accept another man's child?

Please help me. I am all mixed up. I am 20 and Jim is 25.

ALONE

DEAR ALONE: Jim is unfair. He agreed to accept your child, but now finds that he cannot. You must decide whether you will have fewer regrets giving up Jim or giving up your son. No one can make that choice for you. God bless.

Chicago Psychologist Develops Way To End Stuttering Immediately

CHICAGO (AP) — A University of Chicago psychologist has developed a method of training stutterers to speak fluently almost immediately.

Dr. Israel Goldiamond's program does not attack the underlying cause of stuttering, which may not be known, but produces a new, fluent speech pattern.

All 54 patients who have completed the program since 1967 are able to speak fluently without stuttering. Others dropped out before completion when they developed fluency.

An estimated 1 to 3 per cent of American males have a stuttering problem, outnumbering female stutterers eight to one.

In developing the therapeutic program, Goldiamond experimented with dozens of stutterers for five years. Some required as many as 200 sessions. Now, in 30 or fewer sessions, stuttering can be eliminated.

He said patient records show that their stuttering disappears almost immediately once they begin the program. Continuation speeds up their speech and reinforces what they have learned, and followups show improvement is maintained over the years, Goldiamond said.

Tornadoes Toll Hits 17

DRUMRIGHT, Okla. (AP) — Drumright, Tulsa and Oklahoma City. The deaths of two elderly Drumright residents Tuesday raised the toll from a weekend of tornadoes to 17 in Oklahoma.

The latest victims were Sarah McCurley, 94, and Henderson Smith, 82, both of Drumright.

Bruce Bogart, claims consultant with the American Insurance Association, estimated insured damage in Drumright at $3.5 million. He placed state-wide losses at well over $30 million, with Tulsa hardest hit.

Federal disaster centers opened Tuesday or today in Tulsa and Oklahoma City.
