

Exploration Set In Pecos, Mitchell Area

Atlantic Richfield Co. has filed application to dually complete from an unidentified wildcat zone, and as a Devonian producer in the Coyanosa field of Pecos County, No. 4-42 J. O. Neal, six miles southeast of Coyanosa.

It originally was slated as a 12,000-foot test in the Coyanosa (Devonian) field, and flowed gas at the rate of 4 million cubic feet daily, on a 1/2-inch choke, on a drillstem test in the Devonian from 11,985-12,073 feet. Recovery was 8,055 feet of gas and condensate-cut drilling fluid. No other information was available.

It spots 660 feet from north and 1,320 feet from east lines of section 42, block OW, TTRR survey.

Mitchell Venture
Berk Royalty Co. of Wichita Falls, will drill No. 3-29 Spade, a 1,600-foot searcher in Mitchell County, 20 miles southwest of Colorado City.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 29, block 18, SPRR survey, 1 1/4 mile west of the four-well Ellwood, North (Yates) gas field, but separated by a depleted Yates oil well.

Pecos Gas Fields Get Outpost Sites

Outposts were staked in two Pecos County gas fields, and a stepout was planned in another.

Gas Producing Enterprises, Inc., No. 1 R.M., a 1/4-mile west outpost to the Oates, Northeast (Devonian) gas field, is slated to 15,500 feet.

It spots 1,867 feet from north and east lines of section 136, block 3, T&P survey, 17 miles southwest of Fort Stockton.

HNG Oil Co., Midland, plans No. 1-20 HNG Fee as a one-mile northwest outpost to the four-well southeast sector of the Eisenhower (Devonian-Ellenburger) gas field.

Contract depth is 13,500 feet. Location is 2,000 feet from south and west lines of section 20, block D, GC&SF survey, 20 miles south of Fort Stockton.

The field has one well about 20 miles to the northwest.

Wellaw Corp., Midland, will drill No. 1-B Moores Estate as a 1/4-mile east stepout to the two-well Tubb gas area of the Brookfield field, 14 miles west of Girvin.

Location is 1,980 feet from northeast and northwest lines of section 137, block 10, H&GN survey. It is slated to 3,500 feet.

Tom Green Area Oil Zone Opened

George H. Sherrill of San Angelo has reclassified as an upper Strawn oil discovery, No. 1 R. C. Jones, formerly the lone well in the Christoval, Northeast (upper Strawn) gas field of Tom Green County.

Daily flowing potential was for 22 barrels of 42-gravity oil and three barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio measuring 437-1.

Production was through a 1/4-inch choke and perforations at 4,992-5,000 feet, after retreating with 6,000 gallons of acid.

Jake L. Harmon, Dallas, completed the well in October, 1961, for 4.3 million cubic feet of (Continued On Page 10A)

Israelis In Third Day Of Raids

Lebanon Claims 100 Dead, Hurt In Air Attacks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli planes attacked five Palestinian refugee camps in southern Lebanon today with bombs and rockets, the Lebanese Defense Ministry reported. Lebanese hospitals reported some 100 persons wounded or killed.

The Lebanese government issued radio appeals for "urgent blood donations of all types."

It was the third day of Israeli air attacks in delayed retaliation for the Palestinian guerrilla raid a week ago on the Shamir kibbutz, in which three women were killed. The retaliatory raids had been delayed until President Nixon left the Middle East.

The Israeli command claimed that the targets hit today "were definitely identified as military installations of the terrorist organization."

But Associated Press reporter Nabih Basho reported from Sidon, the ancient Mediterranean port 25 miles south of Beirut, that the Israeli bombs and rockets hit one refugee camp in Sidon and three in the Biblical town of Tyre, 50 miles south of the Lebanese capital.

The camps have a total population of 44,000 refugees registered with the United Nations Relief and Works Agency.

Reporting by telephone from Sidon, Lebanon's third largest city, Basho said the Israeli planes came over in pairs at 11:30 a.m. to attack the Ein el Hilweh camp on the southern edge of the city.

Telephone reports from Tyre said the town's three camps were on fire, he said.

During another call 45 minutes later, Basho suddenly shouted: "My God, this place is shaking. They're back again. Hang up, I have to take shelter."

Ten minutes later he reported the Sidon camp had been hit again.

Local authorities in Sidon reported at least 25 persons were (See RAIDS Page 2A)

Nuclear Aid Plan Defended

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon told congressional leaders today the United States "will give no encouragement to any country in acquiring nuclear weapons," Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott reported.

The Pennsylvania senator also said Nixon defended the U.S. action in supplying nuclear reactors to Egypt and Israel, noting that both the Soviet Union and other European countries were prepared to do so with fewer safeguards than the United States is requiring.

Nixon reported on his Middle East mission to a bipartisan delegation of two dozen congressional leaders.

Besides restoring diplomatic relations with Egypt and Syria, Scott said, the President "hints that we'll restore relations with Algeria" as part of the effort for better relations with the Middle East.

He also was to meet with the Cabinet and the National Security Council about the Moscow trip before leaving for his Camp David, Md., retreat for the weekend.

Nixon leaves Tuesday for Brussels and Moscow.

Nixon returned from the Middle East Wednesday afternoon, landing at Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland where he was met by daughters Tricia Cox and Julie Eisenhower and Mrs. Eisenhower's husband, David.

Vice President Gerald R. Ford, and several Cabinet members were among several hundred persons greeting him as his helicopter landed on the south lawn of the White House from Andrews.

In a 15-minute ceremony, Nixon said "a profound and lasting change has taken place" in the Middle East.

Hobby Arrested For DWI

AUSTIN (AP)—Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby was arrested and accused of drunken driving at 3 a.m. today and said later he would plead no contest at 4 p.m.

With him in his automobile was a woman Hobby described as a friend of the family.

She said Hobby had been showing her the Hill Country and they had been on a private picnic.

"Last night I was charged with driving while intoxicated. With me in the car was a friend of our family, Mrs. Ann Chisholm, a visiting British journalist," Hobby said in a statement.

"I respect the officer for performing his duty, and I will not contest his opinion.

"This afternoon, at the court's convenience, I will enter a no contest plea.

"I respect the laws of Texas and will abide by the court's judgment. I sincerely regret this occurrence," Hobby said.

Hobby is scheduled to appear in Judge Mary Pearl Williams' county court-at-law.

Hobby was arrested shortly before 3 a.m. in North Austin.

Officers said they removed from Hobby's car an ice chest with a little ice, an empty half-gallon jug of wine and a fifth of Scotch whiskey, one third full.

Hobby told newsmen after he was booked on the misdemeanor accusation that he was returning from Cow Creek northwest of Austin with Mrs. Chisholm.

Mrs. Chisholm, he said, was working on a biography of Nancy Cunard at the University of Texas, and he was taking her back to quarters used by foreign students.

The Associated Press reached Mrs. Chisholm by telephone at the university's Humanities Research Center.

"I hadn't seen the Hill Country, so we decided to have a picnic," she said.

Asked how many attended the picnic, she said: "Just the two of us."

Asked if Hobby had been drinking, she said: "We'd had something to drink, yes, but I don't think I ought to talk about it if he has been charged with something."

The supervisor of the apartments where she is staying, Bob Grattan, said he has her registered as "Miss" and not "Mrs." as the police have her listed and as Hobby pronounced it.

Hobby did not spend any time in jail. He was released by Police Chief Bob Miles into the custody of his lawyer and then returned at 8 a.m. to be booked.

Impeachment Inquiry To Take Up Nixon Tax Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon's tax returns are coming before the House impeachment inquiry, with investigators especially interested in a $376,000 deduction he claimed for vice presidential papers given to the government.

The Judiciary Committee today begins trying to determine whether there was any fraud in the preparation of a deed for the gift, which was not signed and delivered until after a law authorizing such deductions had been repealed.

The deductions, spread over the years 1968-72, since have been disallowed by the Internal Revenue Service, which assigned Nixon $432,787 in back taxes. A similar conclusion was reached by the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, but neither investigation dealt with the question of fraud.

The Judiciary Committee also is examining Nixon's personal finances to see if any government or election camaign funds were converted to his personal use.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., pushing to complete the presentation of all impeachment evidence this week, has allotted only one day for the tax and finances presentation. He hopes to wind up the inquiry Friday with a study of the secret bombing of Cambodia in 1969-70.

Shell Oil Official Says Lines At Stations May Come Back

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gasoline lines may be just an unpleasant memory this summer, but they also could be on their way back.

While fuel shortages aren't expected, according to a Shell Oil Co. executive, there are no guarantees they won't occur—prompting, once again, the lines at gasoline stations.

The factors that govern whether gasoline is a precious commodity at the local service station or a common, plentiful fuel may tip in favor of a short supply, creating lines, according to Charles L. Blackburn, Shell's vice president in charge of transportation and supplies.

Or they could just tip the other way with demand remaining below previous expectations, creating a surplus, he said in an interview.

"It doesn't take a big shortage to get lines," Blackburn said. "Certainly it could happen again, particularly in isolated spots across the country."

The precarious fuel situation was underscored by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who said at a news conference Wednesday that the lines will reappear "or we will be fleeced by higher prices" unless renewed major conservation efforts are made.

"It is absolutely shocking and unbelievable that big cars, gas guzzlers, are now beginning to sell in a major way and small car sales are dropping," he said. "It's also a fact that speed limits on our highways in effect have gone back to the old 70 miles per hour instead of being held at 50 or 55."

In addition to increased gasoline use, a shortage could be created by severe transportation problems, a slight change in the size of shipments or a cold winter in the United States and Europe.

County Oil, Gas Valuations Gain 50 Per Cent This Year

The oil and gas mineral assessed valuations on Midland County tax rolls this year have increased by about 50 per cent, according to Pritchard & Abbott, the firm which did the valuations.

This represents an increase of $13.6 million, going from the $26,285,650 last year to $39,885,650 this year, based on the same 32 per cent assessment ratio used last year.

The commissioners court has not fixed this year's assessment rate or tax rate but the assessment ratio is not expected to change.

The figures were given this morning during the county board of equalization hearing on oil and gas property.

The personal property on last year's oil and gas rolls, added to mineral valuation, brought the total assessed value to $70,850,000 and the total assessed value for all property on the county rolls to $207,274,920.

Real property not associated with oil and gas is increasing about $12 million this year.

The Pritchard & Abbott representatives pointed out that although there has been a large

FIRST TIME SINCE WAR— East, West Germany Open Formal Relations

BERLIN (AP) — East and West Germany opened formal relations with each other today for the first time since the two states emerged from the World War II collapse of Hitler's Reich.

The event was low keyed in both East Berlin and Bonn, and each side stood firm on its version of the relationship between German states.

The accreditation of Bonn's representative, Guenter Gaus, in East Berlin and East Germany's Michael Kohl in Bonn had been delayed a month by a spy scandal that toppled the Bonn government of Chancellor Willy Brandt.

His successor, Helmut Schmidt, insisted on the cooling-off delay but also made clear his government would continue Brandt's policy of détente with the Communist East.

Gaus was received in East Berlin with full diplomatic honors by Chief of State Willi Stoph, emphasizing the Communist view that the two countries are separate and sovereign and maintain normal foreign relations.

In Bonn, President Gustav Heinemann accepted the accreditation of Kohl with a minimum of normal protocol in keeping with the West German view that Kohl represents another state on German soil but not a foreign country.

Goldwater Lists Laws To Prosecute Washington Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., says at least five federal criminal statutes could be used to prosecute The Washington Post for publishing top-secret government documents.

"I believe it is high time we find out if the government can protect its top-secret materials," Goldwater said Wednesday in calling for court action against the newspaper.

The Arizona Republican said it would be in the national interest for the attorney general to bring criminal proceedings so that the laws' applicability and constitutionality can be determined.

Hoover Memorandum — Goldwater referred specifically to publication in The Post on June 12 of a memo from the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to then Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

The memo dated May 9, 1969, quoted Alexander M. Haig Jr., currently White House chief of staff, as saying that Henry A. Kissinger had requested telephone surveillance on a member of Kissinger's National Security Council staff.

Kissinger, now secretary of State, has denied that he initiated any wiretaps and has threatened to resign unless questions about his role in the matter are resolved.

Post Executive Replies — In response to Goldwater, Benjamin C. Bradlee, The Post's executive editor, issued a statement saying:

"Last week Sen. Goldwater charged The Washington Post with treason. Now he's down to theft, but his accusation is again false.

"We acquired the documents lawfully from a source who had acquired them lawfully, possessed them lawfully and disclosed them lawfully.

"The documents dealt with the questionable legal and perhaps criminal act of wiretapping more than four years ago. They are overwhelmingly relevant to the critical issues of our time.

"Our counsel specifically advised us that no crime was involved in their publication," Bradlee said.

Goldwater's case was outlined in a 38-page memorandum by his legal counsel, J. Terry Emerson, which he inserted into the Congressional Record.

The memorandum listed these possible felonies:

- Communicating documents relating to national defense.
- Retaining national defense documents.

Conferees Try To Close Veterans Benefits Gaps

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate and House Veterans Affairs committees are working to reconcile wide differences between Senate and House bills to greatly increase educational benefits for Vietnam-era veterans.

The Senate passed a bill Wednesday raising monthly payments by 18.2 per cent, giving up to $720 a year in tuition grants, providing $2,000-a-year loans and raising the timetable for maximum benefits from 36 to 45 months.

The 18.2 per cent compares with 13.6 per cent voted by the House several weeks ago and 8 per cent called for by the Nixon administration.

OCEAN SHORES, Wash. (AP) — The Washington State Patrol said Wednesday it has officially ended the search for a 7-year-old boy who disappeared last weekend.

The parents told official Jeff had been playing with his brother and sister within 200 feet of their picnic site.

The state patrol said the boy had been living with his mother, Gayle Bratcher of Mesquite, Tex., and had been visiting his father.

Columnist Charges Postal Contractor Paid Klassen Fees

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General E. T. Klassen collected almost $23,000 in "management consultant fees" from a postal contractor while a member of the Board of Governors of the U.S. Postal Service, columnist Jack Anderson says.

In a column for today's newspapers, Anderson said Klassen, as deputy postmaster general, "intervened personally to help the Martin E. Segal Co. earn a 15 per cent commission on a half-million-dollar contract" and Klassen collected the fees when elevated to the board.

Anderson said Klassen admitted to an associate of his that he received about $20,000 from the Segal firm. The columnist said his investigation showed the actual total was $22,917.

Martin E. Segal, founder of the Segal firm, wrote Klassen in March 1970 on behalf of a client, Retirement Advisors, Inc., which wanted a contract to provide retirement literature for postal workers, Anderson wrote.

After Klassen agreed to the $500,000 contract, "he insisted on personal aides to make out the paperwork that would justify the deal."

In 1971, Klassen, a former president of the American Can Co., began collecting fees from Segal, Anderson said. Klassen explained that it was because of his labor-relations expertise, the columnist wrote.

After Klassen was elevated to postmaster general, the Segal firm received a $50,000 postal contract, despite the fact that its bid was among the highest, Anderson said. Klassen denied advance knowledge of that contract award, he added.

Experts Say Nation Slow Resolving Food Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — "A nation which cannot be educated out of smoking cigarettes presents a challenge to find effective ways to change unwise eating habits, a challenge as yet unmet," says a panel of experts studying American nutrition-education programs.

The panel, reporting today at the Senate Select Nutrition Committee.

On world food concerns, experts said continued imbalances in the international food supply will lead to "perpetual price swings that for the most part must be adjusted by free market pricing mechanisms."

The panel said those supply-and-demand price-setters need to be modified in their effect by "shock absorbers in the system, to protect the consumer in times of extreme shortages and to protect the producer in times of extreme gluts."

The panel recommended government programs to induce "ample stocks of essential grains" on farms and in the distribution system.

Today's subpanel on popular nutrition education said it was "underwhelmed" by progress in this area since the 1969 White House conference on hunger.

Far Short Of Goals — While acknowledging as outstanding achievements expanded nutrition-education programs of the Agriculture Department and advances in informative food labeling, the panelists concluded:

"The drive for improved popular nutrition education has fallen far short of the goals set by the White House conference."

They were especially critical of what they saw as insufficient movements to counterbalance the more than $1 billion spent annually by commercial food advertisers, "with the least nutritious foods and beverages tending to receive the strongest support."

At Wednesday's opening session, a report of a 36-person panel on "nutrition and special groups" concluded that "over the past three to four years, our nation's needy have become hungrier and poorer."

United Presbyterians Reject Sex Phraseology Elimination

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — United Presbyterians have turned down proposals to eliminate a masculine slant from the church's rites of worship.

Delegates to the denomination's governing assembly voted Wednesday to reject a long list of proposed revisions designed to get rid of phraseology "with a male sexist tendency."

"Nit-picking and tampering," the Rev. William Blair of Birmingham, Ala. called it, in moving successfully to throw out changes proposed by a committee on worship.

More than 250 of them involved removing male generic terms such as "he," "men," and "brothers," and substituting inclusive words such as "we," "people," and "neighbor."

In its report, the worship committee, headed by the Rev. Lewis Briner of Kalamazoo, Mich., said it found "no conscious or malicious intent to promote male chauvinism" in the worship book.

But the present usage "may contribute, however unintentionally, to furthering that regrettable cause," the committee added.

Opponents objected to the anticipated $110,000 cost of the recommended changes and said the revisions could torpedo a planned reunion with a sister southern branch, the Presbyterian Church U.S.

"It's just a bunch of words," said Debbie Hoesy, a Washington, D.C., youth delegate. She said the issue was too trivial for concern.

However, Sally Spaulding of San Diego, Calif., said that in attitudes about men and women, "our thinking is perpetuated by language more than anything else."

Stone Conviction, Sentence Upheld

ODESSA — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has upheld the murder conviction and 20-year sentence of Vernon Frank Stone, tried here for the April 15, 1971, shooting slaying of Alvin Dwan Cornish.

He had appealed on the grounds that (1) the prosecutor erred when he told the jury that he would not prosecute an innocent man, (2) that the court refused to instruct the jury on the law relating to justifiable homicide, and (3) that there was insufficient evidence to prove malice.

The appellate court overruled all of Stone's points.

Cloud Blanks Out Total Sun Eclipse

PERTH, Australia (AP) — A large cloud ruined almost a year's work for solar scientists near here today when it completely obscured the sun during a total eclipse.

For the past 10 months members of the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization had been preparing their instruments for the event at coastal Walpole, 565 miles southeast of Perth.

Minutes before the eclipse became total, the cloud moved across the sun, leaving the scientists despondent despite magnificent golden sunset effects lighting the southern sky.

Three miles away a big bill was bathed in sunlight.

Congress Has Equivalent Of Executive Privilege

By WALTER R. MEARS
An AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — It was a bit of Senate routine, a minor resolution handled without debate or dissent—but the issue behind that formality is one of the central controversies in the Watergate case.

The issue is the privilege of one branch of the government to withhold something sought by another branch. President Nixon is not alone in asserting that prerogative.

legally for itself, and while it normally grants requests from the courts, it maintains the right to withhold material when it chooses.

That is the congressional equivalent of the executive privilege Nixon is invoking in his battle to withhold White House tape recordings and documents sought by the courts and House impeachment investigators.

The resolution before the Senate the other day authorized a Senate Judiciary Committee aide to give a federal court evidence about the panel's rules of procedure.

In doing so, it restated the doctrine of control over Senate documents and over the testimony of senators or aides about legislative business.

By the privileges of the Senate of the United States, no evidence under the control and in the possession of the Senate of the United States can, by the mandate of process of the ordinary courts of justice, be taken from such control or possession but by its permission.

The requirement that the Senate decide whether to yield materials to outsiders is written into its rules, and covers employees as well as senators. The House reserves similar prerogatives.

Nixon is arguing that he is entitled to the same discretion over White House documents and tapes, on grounds of executive privilege. That is a key part of his argument against subpoenas from the federal courts and the House Judiciary Committee.

BY WEAKENING LEGISLATIVE POWERS— Delegates Still Trying To Win Briscoe's Support

By LEE JONES
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Leaders of the Texas Constitutional Convention haven't abandoned their efforts to win Gov. Dolph Briscoe's support for a new state charter by weakening legislative powers.

Convention President Price Daniel Jr. said a motion would be made today to reconsider Wednesday's close vote against changing the provision on overriding vetoes to meet Briscoe's objection.

should be necessary to override a veto, instead of two-thirds of those present and voting, as the tentative legislative article now provides.

But an amendment to make that change, needing a two-thirds majority for approval, failed 104-65—four votes short.

After two amendments to change the veto override provision failed, no further attempts were made Wednesday to meet Briscoe's objections.

Legislators rejected 54-30 an amendment by Rep. Lynn Nabers, D-Brownwood, to restore the Senate's right to meet in secret session to debate confirmation of the governor's appointees to state positions.

Judge Orders Briefs In Air Service Case

BIG SPRING, Tex. (AP) — A Big Spring man told a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing here Wednesday that many West Texans will be cut off from the rest of the state if Texas International is allowed to discontinue its Big Spring service.

Robert Cook, one of the owners of the company which leases the Howard County airport here, said, "This has evolved to the point where the only way you can get out of Big Spring is to hitchhike."

Cook said airline service has deteriorated since Texas International took over exclusive service here about five years ago.

"In my opinion, schedules were deliberately made so we couldn't use the service," he said.

Texan Sells Home At $500,000 Profit

HOUSTON (AP) — It's not often a man makes half a million dollars profit on the sale of his home.

Houston lawyer James W. Lee says he did.

Lee said Wednesday he bought a 60-by-146-foot lot and built the modest three-bedroom home in 1952 at a total cost of $30,500.

Last week he sold it for $325,000, he said.

Picketing Halted At Gulf Refinery

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge Joe Fisher ordered a halt to picketing and striking employees were back at work today at the Gulf Oil Co. refinery here.

Members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union were still battling in court, however.

The strike began at noon Wednesday in a dispute over Gulf's employment of contractors for jobs over which the union claims jurisdiction. Management and union had failed in 60 days of negotiating to make any progress toward settling the issue.

Fisher has set a June 28 hearing on whether to make his order a temporary injunction.

Woman Loses Job To Husband

BRUNSWICK, Ohio (AP) — Velma Mcmonigle, 28, who had been Brunswick's $2.50 an hour night dog catcher for three weeks, lost her job recently — to her husband.

It wasn't that her husband, Daniel, a high school English teacher, was more competent. The reason, Mrs. Mcmonigle said, was her husband didn't like taking over duties on the home front while she was out catching dogs.

"It's difficult cooking and caring for a 1-year-old, and I guess he's not much of a homemaker," Mrs. Mcmonigle said.

Mrs. Mcmonigle, who taught home economics at a high school until she left to have a baby a year ago, got the dog catcher's job at her own suggestion. Once she couldn't reach a dog catcher for three days to report a stray, and thought it was a good idea for the city to have a night dog catcher. The city agreed and gave her the job.

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — I hope someone can tell me how to remove stains from my bronze stove top and laminated plastic tile counter tops. Bowl rings and stains really show up. Since we have hard water I wonder if that is causing them. Please help me remedy this problem.
—MRS. F.E.I.

DEAR POLLY — I work in a small convenience-type store from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day and am amazed at the lack of courtesy shown by many customers. I try very hard to be polite but sometimes my anger breaks through. Most people seem to have forgotten how to say "Please" and "Thank you." So many demand rather than ask and I feel sure all salespeople would be more than willing to meet them half way or more. Thanks for allowing me to voice my Pet Peeve.

DEAR POLLY — This Pointer was printed in this column some years ago but is well worth repeating. I have used it constantly since then and now would not feel my hair was clean if rinsed with warm water. The effect is so stimulating. I use it even in winter when the water is ice cold. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — Our son was so busy while in college that we knew he had little time for writing but still felt we had to be in touch. We would buy 10 stamped post cards at a time, address them to ourselves and send them to him so all he had to do was pick up one and write a few lines. This made us feel better just to see his handwriting and know he was all right. — MRS. V.N.

Surprise Wedding Held For Couple
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A surprise birthday party, yes. But a surprise wedding?
Ed Creel knew he was going to get married to Nan Parmenter all right, but he didn't know in what way. The whole thing started when Creel, a 31-year-old Dallas, Tex., attorney, told friends he wanted a "different kind of wedding," since he previously had two traditional weddings. "Don't tell me, just do it," he said.

The unique wedding began when the bride and 50 guests were flown here by private jet, then escorted by the police to their hotel. After the bride and bridegroom changed into a long white dress and a tuxedo, respectively, the party boarded a barge accompanied by another one bearing a mariachi band. They cruised the San Antonio river and met a troupe of gun-singers, who staged a shootout.

The theme of the program was "J. W. Edgar, Schoolman for an Era." A multimedia presentation traced Dr. Edgar's career as an educator. Speakers included Ben Howell, chairman of the State Board of Education, and L. P. Sturgeon, executive secretary of the Texas State Teachers Association.

Mrs. Wenck attended the meeting as state director of the National Retired Teachers Association.

Couple Shares Professorship

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — China experts Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kagan share a single faculty appointment at Hamline University.

According to the Kagans, the arrangement was made necessary by the shrinking academic job market.

Kenneth Janzen, dean of the university, said that the school was mildly surprised when a couple responded to an advertisement for its opening in Asia history. "But the more we thought about it, the more it struck us as a creative way to deal with the new restrictions we are facing," Janzen said. "In this way both can work and one of them doesn't have to subdue all that training."

Mrs. Kagan said under the shared professorship, both parents are able to bring up their two young children.

Texas' Senators On Job

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen scored points galore recently in addressing the convention of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association at Houston. Sure, he said what his listeners wanted to hear, but at the same time he made it clear that he will be preaching the very same gospel in Washington, where it counts.

"When it comes to the independent oil producer," the senator said, "I am becoming more and more convinced that the government does not seem to know what it is doing."

And last Saturday night at Big Spring, Sen. John Tower spoke out loudly and clearly for the oil depletion allowance and against any move to terminate or reduce it. He said its removal would cause at least a three-cent hike in the cost of a gallon of gasoline. Tower was back in Washington Monday, speaking out for the depletion allowance.

The Texas senators may be counted upon to work for the best interests of the petroleum industry in the nation's capital.

"We hear a lot about 'Project Independence,'" Bentsen told his Houston audience, "and if we are to achieve energy self-sufficiency, then a large bulk of the weight and responsibility falls on the shoulders of the independent producers."

"But what is happening?"

"Project Independence is being undermined by low-cost government-backed loans for the export of drilling and refining equipment to foreign countries despite the shortage here at home."

"The Export-Import Bank is giving long-term credits, $200 million, at a seven per cent rate to export a flood of pipe and equipment."

Bentsen listed the major projects he was talking about — $100 million to build a pipeline from the Gulf of Suez to Alexandria, Egypt; $4 million for drilling rigs in Nigeria; $50 million for desulfurization equipment at a refinery in the Bahamas, and $6 million for an offshore drilling rig to be used by a member of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — the same group which coordinated the cutoff of oil shipments during the embargo.

"Frankly, it doesn't make any sense," he said.

"I want to know," Bentsen continued, "how these low-cost loans and export of drilling materials help us achieve our energy goals. I want to know why we have a deliberate policy of selling ourselves short here at home while we provide some oil rich countries with credits and low cost loans. And I want to know how much the whole thing is going to cost us."

Bentsen said a phasing out of the depletion allowance would be a phasing out of the independent producers, who have drilled almost 90 per cent of the wildcat wells in the U.S. in the first quarter of this year.

Can You Believe He's Eating The Whole Thing?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson Says: Klassen's indiscretions cost taxpayers.

WASHINGTON — Postmaster General Ted Klassen has collected several thousand dollars in fees from a firm doing business with the Postal Service.

While he was deputy postmaster general, he intervened personally to help the Martin E. Segal Co. earn a 15 per cent commission on a half-million-dollar postal contract.

Then he moved up to the Board of Governors, which controls the Postal Service. Unknown to the other governors, he accepted "management consultant fees" from the Segal company while he was serving on the board.

When my associate Jack Coberly confronted him with our findings, Klassen admitted he had received around $50,000 from the firm. Our investigation determined that the payments totaled $22,917.67.

The Board of Governors, meanwhile, elected Klassen as the nation's 60th Postmaster General. Not long afterwards, the Segal firm was back angling for postal contracts. It landed a $50,000 contract, although its bid astonishingly was more than double the lowest entry.

Ted Klassen is a tall, stern, impressive figure with a tired, sagging face. He rose from office boy to president of American Can Co. before President Nixon recruited him to bring his business skills to the Postal Service.

Instead, we have exposed a record of mispending and mismanagement. Klassen cut back postal workers and slowed down the mails during the 1972 election campaign, we reported, in order to avoid raising postal rates and antagonizing the voters against Nixon.

While the mail service deteriorated, we wrote, he lavished postal funds on himself for everything from a penthouse dining room to Christmas presents for his friends. He also padded the postal payroll with his cronies and handed out contracts to favored companies.

Although these boondoggles cost the taxpayers much more than the Segal company collected, Klassen's dealings with this firm constitute a clear conflict of interest and an apparent violation of the law. Here are the details:

On March 5, 1970, the firm's founder and namesake, Martin E. Segal, wrote a personal letter to Klassen in behalf of a client, Retirement Advisers, Inc., which wanted a contract to produce retirement literature for postal employees.

Postal employees already could get all the retirement literature they needed from the Civil Service Commission. Nevertheless, Klassen agreed to award Segal's client a five-year, half-million-dollar contract. The Segal firm's take was 15 per cent.

After Klassen already had agreed to the contract, he instructed personal aides to make out the paperwork that would justify the deal. Then he tried to hide the transaction by entrusting the Segal file to a loyal aide who kept it under lock and key. (We got hold of the file anyway.)

Expertise Cited

The following year, Klassen began collecting secret fees from the Segal company which retained him, he told us, because of his expertise as a labor relations expert. He insisted that he could see nothing at all wrong with this.

RAY CROMLEY Misplaced Billions In The Energy Search

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Fuel costs for your car and mine will remain high because industry and government insist on following conventional approaches and resist radical technical ideas in developing new energy supplies.

As an example, present plans call for investing multi-millions and ultimately billions in research, development and production of gasoline from coal. Yet recent European studies show that methanol (wood alcohol) can be made from coal for a fifth the cost.

Methanol, apparently, is equal to or better than gasoline as a fuel. Race track drivers use it. Mixed with gasoline, it apparently steps up fuel economy in some cars. Using a blend of 10 per cent with gasoline in his tank for a year, and making no mechanical modifications, Prof. Thomas Reed of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology claims methanol significantly increased the octane rating of the gasoline and that his carbon monoxide exhausts were down by up to 70 per cent. He says his engine has better performance, runs cooler and starts more easily in the winter. Some 500 MIT students and faculty are scheduled to use the mix for a year on a trial basis.

Whether Reed is correct or not in his super claims is not important. Both methanol and ethanol (grain alcohol) are highly useful alcohols which new research promises to make available cheaply from a variety of sources. We already manufacture a billion gallons of methanol a year. Ethanol was used extensively in Europe as a motor fuel in World War I and II.

The sun shining on green plants and trees produces a hundred-billion tons of cellulose a year, most of which is not utilized. Though it never will come about, in theory we could obtain all our present energy needs from giant farms of high-output plants and trees.

More practically, methanol made from trash and other agricultural waste could supply 10 per cent of our current energy needs, enough to balance out the recent Arab oil embargo. Not today of course. Development on a large scale would take five to 10 years or more. But the potential is tremendous. The Army's Natick Laboratories have demonstrated that one ton of waste paper can produce 60 gallons of ethanol. Unrecycled U.S. paper wastes alone could be turned into seven-million gallons of gasoline equivalent a day. A 100,000 cattle feedlot could produce the equivalent of six-million gallons a year.

This waste approach is attractive because it would produce energy and fight pollution in the same process, ridding our communities of huge amounts of waste material. But for the reasonable future, coal offers the best prospects for really large-scale production. And methanol from coal burns with far less pollution than coal, gasoline or most gases produced from coal. But here again, a quick result is not in the cards.

Some protection for consumers is offered by the Federal Trade Commission's Textile Fiber Product Identification Act, which requires all ready-made or yard-goods items to have a label noting the fiber content.

In 1972, another FTC rule, the Care Labeling Trade Regulation, went into effect. This regulation requires all ready-made and yard-goods to carry labels advising the consumer of proper fabric care. Typical labels may advise "Dry Clean Only," "Hand Wash in Cool Water," or give other specific instructions which make it easier for consumers to know how to care for fabrics after they get them home.

Most "store bought" clothes have been carrying such hangtags for some time. The FTC Bureau of Consumer Protection reports, however, that some stores selling yard-goods have not yet begun to implement the FTC directives and that others do not routinely supply such care labels unless they are requested by the consumer.

And even these efforts do not assure the consumer that an item will stand up to normal wear-and-tear. Complaints about ready-made garments which have reached the files of many consumer agencies include: dress seams that pull out after one washing; buttons that fall off expensive suits; uneven hems; and trimmings that fade onto a garment.

Complaints about yard-goods include the tendency of some fabrics to "pick," "fuzz," or unravel; to trap body heat and not allow for evaporation of perspiration; and to stretch at stress points.

Garment industry experts suggest that persons planning to shop for ready-made clothes or to make their own familiarize themselves with the following marks of well-made clothing. —Fabrics should be cut with, not against, the grain and fabrics featuring plaids, stripes, checks, or designs should be carefully matched at seams. —Seams should be stitched securely, not just basted in, and should be wide enough for any alterations that may be needed in the future. Seam edges should be pinked, overcast, or taped to prevent ravelling. —Lapings, facings, and trimmings should take the same type of care as the fabric itself and should be securely sewn to the garment. —Hems and facings should not be visible from the right side of the garment. —Buttonholes should be bound or stitched securely and of the proper size for the buttons. Too-small buttonholes show wear quickly since buttons must be forced through them and too-large buttonholes may allow buttons to come undone. —All closings such as buttons, zippers, snaps, and grippers should be firmly sewn in the proper spot. Zippers should work easily and should be inserted without ripping the fabric. Our Consumer Protection attorneys suggest that you also (1) check all labels for fiber content and fabric care before purchasing, (2) try on all ready-made items for a correct fit, (3) get any guarantee in writing, and (4) check in advance on a store's return policy (some yard-goods, especially, cannot be returned).

Dear Editor:
I see where a U.S. District Judge has ordered the Dallas school authorities to color balance their suspensions of students for intractable behavior.

Like 10 black kids get out of hand and need suspending, our national black-white ratio would require the suspension also of 80-plus white kids, whether they needed it or not.

With color balance being required for schools and communities, the next move may be judicial decrees that any family producing all white or all black children will be in contempt of court.

Mexico Protests Treatment Of Illegal Aliens, Urges Fast Solution

By ALFONSO CHARDY
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico has sent a diplomatic protest to the U.S. government over treatment of illegal Mexican migrant workers and called for a prompt solution to the problem.

The U.S. Embassy here had no immediate comment but a press spokesman acknowledged receiving the note.

The Foreign Ministry released excerpts of the note which Mexican Foreign Minister Emilio O. Rabasa fired off Wednesday night to the American ambassador here, Joseph John Jova.

The note was written in what diplomatic observers here described as "tough terms," saying the United States thus far has taken no action in advancing negotiations with Mexico on the matter.

Hundreds of thousands of Mexican laborers cross the border into the United States illegally each year seeking jobs on American farms, mainly in the Southwest.

Recently the Mexican government estimated that during 1973 between 600,000 and one million such workers, known as "braceros," were deported by the United States.

Rabasa's note specifically protested the operation of what he called "detention centers" in the United States for Mexicans.

"The Ministry considers that the existence of these detention centers, whose title already indicates a situation which must be remedied, do not contribute at all to resolving the problem. On the contrary it is wors-

Summerlike Heat Clings To Far West Interior

By The Associated Press
Summerlike heat clung to much of the Far West interior today and showers and thunderstorms soaked areas from Montana to Maryland.

A high temperature of 92 Wednesday at Colorado Springs, Colo., tied the record for June 19 there. The mercury soared to 101 at Pueblo, Colo., and hit 112 at Coolidge, Ariz.

ANDERSON, Ind. (AP) — New board members for eight national agencies of the Church of God were appointed by the group's general assembly at its 85th international convention Wednesday. They included:

- Warner Press Publication Board—The Rev. Horace Germany, Kendaleon, Tex.

June 22 is the official first day of summer. Thunderstorm activity persisted in the Midwest overnight, particularly Illinois and Indiana. Wind gusts up to 65 miles per hour lashed Champaign, Ill., and funnel clouds were sighted at Fisher, Ill., and Evansville, Ind.

Showers and thunderstorms following a flow of warm air stretched from Montana through Nebraska to Virginia and Maryland.

The only exceptions to the warm weather were the Great Lakes region, the Pacific Coast and mountain areas, where temperatures dropped into the 50s and 60s overnight.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 92 at Phoenix, Ariz., to 51 at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Some other reports: Anchorage 51, partly cloudy, Atlanta 70 clear, Boston 64 clear, Buffalo 64 rain, Chicago 68 haze, Cincinnati 71 cloudy, Cleveland 67 clear, Dallas 80 clear, Denver 68 clear, Detroit 65 clear, Honolulu 77 partly cloudy, Indianapolis 72 cloudy, Kansas City 79 clear, Los Angeles 61 clear, Louisville 74 thunderstorms, Miami 80 clear, Minneapolis-St. Paul 63 clear, Nashville 74 clear, New York 70 cloudy, Philadelphia 72 cloudy, Phoenix 92 clear, Pittsburgh 66 cloudy, St. Louis 78 clear, San Francisco 56 clear, Seattle 57 clear, Washington 73 light rain.

ened," the note read in part. Rabasa called for "fair and humane" treatment for the workers arrested in the United States for deportation. However, the ministry did not describe the alleged mistreatment.

Over the past two years Mexico has been pushing for a new agreement with the American government on a quota system for braceros. Such a system existed until the late 1960s.

It was terminated then apparently because of pressure from American labor unions, which claimed Mexicans were taking jobs away from U.S. citizens.

Balloon Facility Dedicates New Pad

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP) — The National Scientific Balloon Facility here has a new $927,716 launch area.

Dr. Brad White, head of the National Science Foundation's Atmospheric Science Section, and Dan Hunt of Washington, D.C., chief of the office of National Centers and Facilities operation of NSF, headed the dedication ceremonies Wednesday.

The launch area, which is about a half-mile from the balloon facility, was built with funds provided by NSF. The pad is a paved area about 1,000 feet in diameter.

The principal speaker at the dedication luncheon was Dr. Robert Haynes, professor of astrophysics at Rice University and chairman of the committee that oversees the balloon facility.

during World War II to ease a U.S. manpower shortage. Rabasa said the United States thus far has only taken notice of the Mexican negotiations and has failed to act.

Specifically he listed three points in his protest note that Mexico would like included in a new agreement:

- Establishment of a fixed quota system for workers.

—Fair treatment. —Authorization for Mexican consular officials in the United States to intervene in bracero affairs.

Rabasa included in the note a copy of an agreement between Canada and Mexico signed this week in Ottawa which allows a quota system for Mexican laborers in Canada.

The minister said the bracero question is the last major problem remaining with the United States. It mentioned a salinity problem which was satisfactorily solved for Mexico.

For years Mexico complained that the United States was dumping excess salt waters from the Colorado River into the once fertile cotton valley of Mexicali, Mexico, across from Calexico, Calif.

Mexico and the United States signed a final agreement which provides for the U.S. to build a huge desalination plant in Arizona to reduce the saline content of the river.

While negotiations over salinity were in progress, Mexican officials used to say that the worst problem between the two nations. It took more than 12 years to settle.

Farah Buoyant As Plants Are Reopened

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A buoyant Willie Farah says his clothing company's product line "is going very, very, very well" and he appears to be putting a bitter labor dispute behind him.

Farah, son of a Lebanese immigrant, talks about his El Paso, Tex.-based company gaining strength from adversity.

He appeared Wednesday to announce the reopening of the second of two plants here closed last year when Farah Manufacturing Co. was retrenching during a 22-month strike and boycott.

A campaign by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union to be recognized as the Farah employees' bargaining agent concluded successfully in late February, ending a battle of heated rhetoric and complicated litigation.

Willie Farah says labor-management relations are going very well. The company, whose sales declined by millions during the dispute, is making money and is diversifying into sport coats and leisure wear.

Farah once had plants making trousers in Victoria, Tex.,

Las Cruces, N.M., Albuquerque, N.M. here and El Paso. Toward the end of the strike, only the five Farah plants in El Paso remained open.

Now, the trend is upbeat. One plant here already has 550 workers back on the job and new increments are being added each two weeks. Farah says about 2,500 employees will be employed eventually here—about twice the number at work before the plants closed. There's a chance the Victoria plant may reopen.

"We did not plan to reopen it but our product demand is such that I think we will," Willie Farah says.

Declining Hopes For Cut In Interest Push Mart Down

By CHET CURRIER, AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Dwindling hopes for a decline in interest rates pushed the stock market slightly lower again today in continued light trading.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 33 at 825.83, and declines held a 2 to 2 lead over advances on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers noted that Wall Street awaited uneasily the weekly announcement from New York's First National City Bank on its prime rate plans. It was feared the big bank, which lowered its prime a quarter-point early this month, would raise it again to the 11 1/2 percent level at which most banks have held their big business

Man Blasts Swank Dallas Department Store With Shotgun

DALLAS (AP) — A 25-year-old man who, police said, claimed he was a member of the American Nazi party was arrested early today after he pumped about fifty 12-gauge shotgun rounds into a swank Neiman-Marcus department store.

No one was injured in the 6 a.m. shooting spree at the fashionable Northpark shopping mall. The store was closed at the time.

According to police, a man stole three boxes of shotgun shells from a convenience store, then went to Neiman's. He literally blasted his way in, shooting out glass doors and windows.

Inside the store, the man shot up a statue valued at $3,000 and then blasted his way out another door.

Total damages were estimated at $2,000.

Officer Robert Bounds said the man told him he was a member of the American Nazi party and hated Jews. The man was arrested without resistance.

William Calley To Turn Self In At Ft. Benning

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Former Army Lt. William L. Calley Jr. agreed to turn himself in to Army authorities at nearby Ft. Benning this afternoon, a prosecutor said.

"He'll be treated just like any other Army prisoner," said Charles T. Erion, assistant U.S. attorney. "He'll be in a cell at the post stockade."

Calley, convicted in the murder of 23 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai, has been free on bail since February pending his appeal of his court-martial conviction through civilian courts.

Erion revealed the decision sending Calley back into custody after a hearing before U.S. District Court Judge J. Robert Elliott, who confirmed that the Army had a right to take physical custody of Calley.

Three Youths Nabbed By Police After Car Chase

Three 16-year-old Midland boys were arrested near Anderson Elementary School, 600 Graeland St., just after midnight today after doing an estimated $2,000 damage to irrigation pipes on the school grounds and then crashing their car into a gas meter during a getaway chase.

The youths have been released to their parents and the case will be presented to the county attorney for consideration of detention in juvenile court.

Police had three calls to the school ground, but found nothing to first two times. When Trooper Billy Allen arrived a third time, he saw the boys flying over the pipe.

Fifty joints of pipe were damaged.

Other officers arrived at the spot and chased the youths. They drove through the alley in the 4700 block between Phidena and Versailles streets until they narrowly missed hitting a trash bin and rammed a meter.

The car received minor damage and damage to the meter was estimated to be $50.

Army Increases Recruiters' Pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has boosted special pay for some Army recruiters to as high as $150 a month.

The Army said it hopes the increased payments will attract "highly motivated and capable recruiters."

Only those Army recruiters who are directly involved in the field will be eligible for the increased pay. Those serving at headquarters will continue to receive the old special rate of $50 a month.

Revenue Sharing Reports Required

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government says it's asking recipients of revenue sharing money to report by Sept. 1 what they're doing with the money.

Treasury Department's Office of Revenue Sharing said the 1,000 recipients must publish expenditure figures in local news media as well as notify the federal government.

Reports are required annually. The latest one is to cover money spent or obligated since June 30, 1973.

Gas Well Blazes In Galveston Bay

PORT BOLIVAR, Tex. (AP) — Plans were made today to drill a relief well to shut off the flow of gas that was feeding a natural gas well fire in east Galveston Bay.

The well continued to burn Wednesday night after it blew out Tuesday and caught fire early Wednesday.

There were no injuries and the U.S. Coast Guard said the burning well posed no threat to Houston Ship Channel traffic.

The cause of the fire has not been determined.

The well, belonging to the Houston Oil & Minerals Co., is about a mile north of the western tip of Bolivar Peninsula.

FOR INSIGHTS INTO OCTOBER WAR— U.S. Military Team Will Visit Egypt

WASHINGTON (AP) — A United States military team will visit Egypt soon "to get some insights" into the October war from the Egyptian side, the Pentagon says.

Officials insist "it is not the plan" for the U.S. team to survey Egypt's weapons needs as a preliminary step to possible arms sales or gifts to the Cairo government.

However, they acknowledge Egyptian officers "may take the opportunity" to tell the Americans what U.S. weapons they might like to obtain.

Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger has said the United States would consider sympathetically any Egyptian request to buy military equipment from the United States.

Russia, which has supplied all of Egypt's planes, tanks, artillery, missiles and ammunition for many years, cut off the flow more than two months ago.

An Egyptian-Russian rift, which first opened two years ago, has reopened in recent months as Egypt and the United States healed their quarrel amid Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's campaign to bring peace between Arabs and Israelis.

Pentagon officials say the U.S. military team was invited by the Egyptians. It will number fewer than six senior officers, mostly specialists in intelligence and operations.

"They know our military men talked to the Israelis and they evidently want some of the same kind of rapport," one defense official said.

"They probably want to explain to our people the tactics they used and the reasons behind those tactics."

U.S. Air Force and Army generals long have had a close working relationship with the Israeli military.

Shortly after the October fighting ended, teams of U.S. air, tank and other experts visited the Sinai and Syrian battlefields on the Israeli side of the line.

Among other things, these teams studied the effects of weapons on both sides with an eye to possible modifications in U.S. arms so they would be more effective and survive better against Russian-made equipment.

Some important Russian gear captured from the Arabs by the Israelis was flown to the United States for close examination. The resulting information on Soviet antiaircraft missiles, antitank weapons and other arms has proved invaluable, U.S. officers say.

Meanwhile, although Russia still withholds fresh military supplies from Egypt, U.S. intelligence says there are still some 800 to 1,000 Russian advisers, technicians and other Soviet military personnel in Egypt.

To obtain a large log for a canoe, American Indians often burned down a tree.

Cattle Prices Take Tumble

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Cattle prices took a tumble after a holding action by cattlemen pushed prices paid to producers up sharply.

The downward trend Wednesday was blamed on sharply higher receipts.

This turnabout was most apparent at Omaha and Sioux City but also was noted at some of the other 11 Midwest terminal markets, said Bill Marshall, supervisor of the Kansas City Livestock Market.

About 1,000 cattle feeders agreed on the holding action for Monday and Tuesday in a meeting at South Sioux City, Neb., last weekend. At that time the feeders said they would not sell fed cattle for less than $40 per hundredweight.

Prices rose to a high of $41 at Sioux City and $40 to $40.25 at Omaha Tuesday. An estimated 7,000 cattle were offered Wednesday at Omaha, Marshall said this was more than the receipts for Monday and Tuesday and well above the receipts for a week ago.

Slaughter prices Wednesday were off 50 cents to $1 per hundredweight in Omaha and off $1 to $2 at Sioux City.

In Kansas City, receipts were light. However, Marshall said this is a normally slow period. He said a hold-down in the hog market is also evident because of depressed prices but indicated there may be improvement in that situation.

A week ago Wednesday, hog prices dipped to a low of $24.25 a hundredweight as compared with a high last summer of $62.25.

The price was up to $32.50 for top hogs in Kansas City by Wednesday. However, because of the week's low prices, the supply remained down.

Story Of Plot To Kill Saudi King Denied

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — King Faisal of Saudi Arabia escaped an assassination plot two weeks ago while en route from Jidda to his summer palace in Tayef, the leftist newspaper Al Mubasher says.

The newspaper said on Wednesday that the attempt was made with "a big military car" which crashed head-on into the royal motorcade, hitting a security jeep. It said the driver was killed and royal guards aboard the jeep were injured.

The Saudi embassy dismissed the report as "utter nonsense."

Watergate Panel Won't Call Nixon's Two Brothers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's two brothers and a key figure in the milk fund case will not be called to testify before the Senate Watergate Committee. Scurrying to meet a June 28 deadline for filing its report, the committee announced Wednesday it also has abandoned any thought of pursuing contempt of Congress action against Edward and F. Donald Nixon or others not in full compliance with its subpoenas. "It's an acknowledgement that time has run out and that every string has an end," said the panel's vice chairman, Sen. Howard H. Baker. The Tennessee Republican and Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., announced that no further effort will be made to call the Nixon brothers or Jake Jacobson, the Texas lawyer who is a central figure in the dairy fund investigation. Neither will the committee call C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, the President's close personal friend. The committee had wanted to question the Nixons about allegations that Rebozo used a $100,000 fund provided by billionaire Howard Hughes to make gifts and loans to them. The possibility that the Nixon brothers might be cited for contempt of Congress arose when they failed to keep an appointment with committee staff members last month. Sources close to the committee said the panel has decided there is insufficient time remaining to call Charles W. Colson and Egli Krogh, both former White House aides and key Watergate figures. Baker said the committee had voted to renew its request that the Central Intelligence Agency declassify documents related to Baker's separate probe of possible CIA Watergate involvement. Ervin said the panel had voted to comply with a request from special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski not to call Jacobson, formerly an officer of the nation's largest dairy cooperative, to testify in the dairy fund investigation.

Proposed Space Shuttle Draws Praise

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Astronaut Capt. John W. Young says the proposed space shuttle trips could "revolutionize conditions around the world." As an example, Young said, communication satellites could be put into orbit cheaply which could be used to educate persons who have never had this opportunity. "If you don't prepare for the future, you don't deserve one," Young, who has walked on the moon, said Wednesday at a news conference. Robert F. Thompson, manager of the space shuttle office at Johnson Spacecraft Center, said earth orbital round trips should cost $10.5 million or less. He said the entire shuttle program will cost slightly more than $5 billion. He said the $5 billion figure will get the country the developmental cost, test flights, two shuttle orbiters and the hardware to make six test flights. The first manned shuttle mission to orbit is scheduled for the second quarter of 1979. In answer to a question from a reporter, officials indicated that no woman would be on space shuttle flights until it is flying operational missions. That could be 1980 if shuttle financing, development and test flights remain on schedule. Thompson rated a woman's chance of getting an early shuttle flight as "relatively low." He said the first six flights will be "engineering test pilot flights." However, he added the shuttle is being designed so that "it can be used by either group."

Wheat Farmers Holding Grain

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Wheat growers, country elevator operators, grain dealers and economists who watch the market agree that the Kansas farmer is holding tightly to his newly harvested grain. "Until this year, the wheat farmer has never known how much people might be willing to pay for his product," Krenzlin said. "Now he knows, because back last February, someone offered to pay $6 a bushel..." About the same time, an economic study from Kansas State University recited the evidence: For two years, particularly since the great U.S. grain purchases by the Soviet Union and Communist China, the price of wheat doubled within six months after the harvest. By May, John Junior Anderson, president of the Kansas Farm Bureau, was preaching that Kansas wheat farmers should reverse the tradition of selling most of their grain at harvest time. Tom Ostrander, who has 2,200 acres of wheat around Wellington and is president of the Kansas Wheat Growers Association, has been the most strident voice in recent weeks. Says Don Anderson, manager of the Farmers Coop elevator at Wellington, "I guess I've only bought about 5 per cent of the wheat that's been brought in here, and that seems to be the trend all over the country," Anderson said. "It's a little amusing to me to see that the farmer is finally realizing that he has a product which people want."

Iowa Man Survives Three Twisters—But Each One Gets Closer

ANKENY, Iowa (AP) — Herman Nagel has survived three tornadoes without a scratch. Does he believe someone is watching over him?

"Hell no!" he said Wednesday night. "I think somebody's got it in for me. It's getting closer every time."

Nagel's three-bedroom home was hit by one of two twisters that shattered a hundred homes and businesses in this Des Moines suburb of 10,000 Tuesday night, killing two and injuring 10.

The community was sealed off to sightseers Wednesday as cleanup work and efforts to restore utilities continued.

It was the second time Nagel's $25,000 brick home was struck. A twister tore off the roof in October 1966 as Nagel, his wife, Joy, and their three children huddled in the basement.

The house was left broken, scattered and riddled again Tuesday.

"It's a well-built home, rather, it was well built," Nagel said.

It cost $8,000 to repair the 1966 damage. But now, "everything from the floor up is completely gone except the cook-ware."

He said Tuesday's tornado was much worse. "And it hit almost identically to the first one."

"This is the third one I went through. The first was in Fargo, N.D., about 1956," he said.

Nagel said the sky "kind of put me on my guard. It was real pale green. That happened the first time too."

Gov. Robert D. Ray on Wednesday toured Ankeny and other Central Iowa communities that hit by the tornadoes, high winds and rain.

He declared three counties disaster areas and said he would ask President Nixon for federal assistance.

Ankeny Mayor O. J. Weigel asked for help to move water-soaked items in three schools he said received an estimated $3 million damage.

Because of Nagel's experience with funnel clouds, he says he knows when one is about to strike.

"My ears pop. Evidently it's the vacuum created by the tornado. It's kind of a warning system. But I hope we don't have to rely on that, because you don't have much time after the pop. The tornado is right there."

The Nagels now have four children, ages 7 to 11, all asleep when his ears popped.

"That meant head for cover. I don't know if I threw the kids downstairs or pushed them. But luck was with us."

"Something went through the picture window in the living room moments after we passed it. It made a hole in the opposite wall."

"We made it downstairs in time, thank God." There the family waited out the storm, frightened, soaking wet, praying.

Nagel, an employe of the John Deere Des Moines Works, said, "It's like a bad dream. It can't happen twice, but it did."

But he's thankful. "Homes you can always rebuild."

FDA Working On Proposals To Regulate Shellfish Industry, Agency Chief Says

HOUSTON (AP) — The commissioner of U.S. Food and Drug Administration says his agency is continuing its investigation of artificial sweeteners and working on proposals to regulate the shellfish industry. "Most of us concerned with regulating the shellfish industry have become aware that we are not fully meeting our commitment to the public in this area," Dr. Alexander M. Schmidt said Wednesday. "We are currently working on a comprehensive collection of documents known as the National Shellfish Regulations. The whole package will be circulated to interested state agencies late this summer for their informal review prior to publication as formal proposals. Such a program is vital to uniform and more effective regulations."

Panel Okays Bill Guaranteeing Loans To Economically-Depressed Stockmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Agriculture Committee has approved a bill to provide $3 billion in government guaranteed loans to help economically-depressed livestock feeders.

What effect the loans would have on consumer prices has not been determined.

The legislation approved Wednesday would provide federal guarantees of 90 per cent on the emergency loans. The loans would be limited to $1 million per person and would have to be repaid at prevailing interest rates within seven years.

Schmidt addressed the 78th annual conference of the Association of Food and Drug Officials of the United States and appeared at a news conference. "We are reviewing data collected worldwide on artificial sweeteners," he said. "I have asked the National Science Academy to formally evaluate artificial sweeteners. I want the public to debate with all sides in airing their positions prior to any decision."

Meanwhile, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz testifies today before the House Agriculture Committee, which is considering similar loan relief proposals.

The bill provides that livestock, dairy, poultry and egg producers would be eligible for the loans but none of the money could be used for expanding operations.

He explained these were just a part of the FDA's program to inform the public about what it is eating, which was recently underscored by new guidelines on labeling.

The administration opposes the emergency loans, saying it

Livestock feeders have been caught between fixed costs and generally declining prices for almost a year.

"One of my goals is to educate the public to the degree of risk they are assuming," he said.

Snooker Ace Dies

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Horace Lindrum, 62, one of the world's greatest snooker players, died today in a Sydney hospital. In 46 years of professional play, Lindrum made 14 world tours. He was a nephew of the late Walter Lindrum, a world champion billiard player.

Most witnesses before the panel this week called for some sort of emergency loan relief. Restoration of import quotas on meat also has been suggested.

In testimony Wednesday, House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., said the producers are "losing their hearts, their confidence and their shirts." He recommended emergency loans.

Symphony League Cites Nancy Hanks

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Nancy Hanks, chairwoman of the National Endowment for the Arts, has been awarded the American Symphony Orchestra League's 1974 Gold Baton. The award was presented at the League's annual conference Wednesday for Miss Hanks' and the Council's efforts to open "the doors to the golden age in music and the arts in America."

Tax Revolt Fails To Materialize

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Donald Alexander says a predicted Watergate-related tax revolt against the IRS this year did not materialize.

He told the national convention of the Jaycees here that 6.2 per cent more income tax returns were filed this year than last.

No Tax Increase Expected In City During This Year

Midlanders had a combined tax rate of $2.705 per $100 of valuation in 1973 for city, school and college district property, and officials indicate there will be no change this year.

According to city tax officials, the assessed value of property in all three districts is up this year due to normal causes—new construction and re-assessment of property values.

Figures on proposed 1974 property valuation show that assessments on oil property outside the city limits alone may be up 28.3 per cent over 1973. The 1973 oil property valuation was $87,000,000 and the preliminary 1974 figure is $113,000,000 according to Virgil Jones, tax assessor-collector. This would provide a healthy increase for school and college district tax rolls.

The City-school-college board of equalization will open its tax assessment meeting at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the Midland High School Cafeteria at which time property owners are invited to appear and formally lodge any complaint they have concerning their property valuation.

Average figures for increases in city property assessments usually hit between $5 million and $15 million in a normal year, according to tax officials.

The 1973 tax levy for the city was $1.14 per $100 valuation, with a total assessed property value of $335,686,960. These figures brought a total payable tax figure in the city to $3,826,431.33.

And, Jones reports that $3,448,757.45 has been collected to date.

Working on a tax rate of $1.425 per $100 valuation, school taxes reached a total payable figure of $7,978,235.90 in 1973. To date, $6,465,544.73 of that amount has been collected.

Pennies Not Worth Much Except When They Are Bunched

NEW YORK (AP) — The announcement by the Treasury that stores could offer customers change in scrip instead of pennies during the penny shortage seems innocuous enough. After all, what's a penny worth? Most customers will agree: Not much. It's when the pennies are bunched, such as when the price of a can of peas is raised to 26 cents from 23 cents, that customers are irked. One penny, though, is hardly worth worrying about. Maybe so. But if you reviewed grocery store economics you might change your mind. A penny, insignificant as it seems to be, represents the profit on $1 of sales at many stores. At some it might be the profit on $2 of sales. One penny to each of a thousand customers isn't going to impress any one of them. But a thousand pennies that customers fail to redeem make a mighty impression on stores. It may be as good as $1,000 in sales. The question arises, therefore, about how people will use the scrip that some stores will be inclined to issue. Will they carefully safeguard it and trade it in for goods on their next trip to the store? Or will they discard it? Inflation discriminates, especially when it is concentrated in the basic necessities of life. Food is probably the most basic need, and that is where the biggest price increases have been concentrated. While it is true that the rich do spend more money on food than do the poor, there is a limit to how much either can consume before their appetites are satisfied. As a percentage of income, food expenditures therefore might be only 10 per cent for some of the rich. The poor, however, sometimes never reach a point of satiety. Instead, they might spend more than 30 per cent of income on food and still be unable to satisfy the requirements of nutrition or the desires of taste.

'SLEEPING GIANT'

Savannah Lies Moored At Home Port Like Ghost

By KATHERYN JOHNSON
SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — The sleek white NS Savannah, the world's first nuclear-powered merchant ship, lies moored in its home port like a ghost.
Tied up at the waterfront docks with the curving skyline of historic Savannah as a backdrop, she sits in limbo like a sleeping giant which could come alive again.

Powerless now, it is kept running at a minimum level. The water chemistry is being maintained in the reactor so that it doesn't corrode and the reactor could be reactivated.
Devoid of human activity except for two men who check for radioactivity and keep the machinery running, the $80-million ship waits while the federal government and City of Savannah figure out what to do with it.

Out Of Service
The government took the ship out of service in 1970 for several reasons. There was a problem getting specialized crewmen; the cost of operation was excessive and a Commerce Department spokesman said "most of what could be learned from the operation of the vessel had been learned."

The ship's nuclear reactor, deep inside, contains radioactivity, although the fuel element has been removed and the ship cannot go anywhere under its own steam.
Launched in 1962
President Eisenhower conceived the idea of a merchant marine vessel to demonstrate the peaceful uses of the atom.

The ship was launched in 1962 amid fanfare and has traveled more than 90,000 miles to foreign ports.
The ship belongs to the U.S. Maritime Administration but the city leases it for $1 a year. It is not open to the public but the city is considering a proposal for a tourist attraction to be known as the Eisenhower Peace Center.

National Council Inspecting Buffalo Trail Scout Ranch

Buffalo Trail Scout Ranch, the summer hideaway of many area Boy Scouts near Fort Davis, was to undergo an inspection today from the National Council of Boy Scouts.

Jack Maddox of Hobbs, N.M., and a national Scout Council volunteer, are conducting the inspection, which Midland Boy Scout Executive Director Steve Odum said "will cover all aspects" of the camp including physical facilities, programs, food and health and safety standards.

Odum said the ranch hopes to keep its certified national camp rating, the highest honor awarded by the Scouts, at the inspection. The Scout council inspects each camp annually.

The Scout executive said the facility is operating at its capacity with 300 campers, 20 adult leaders and 44 members of the camp staff.

Seven scout troops from Midland have invaded the 6,000-acre ranch which serves an 18-county area. Odum said "it was a pretty popular camp" and that campers go far away to "Anasazi and Corpus Christi" to visit there.

Activities offered at Buffalo Trail include swimming, archery, horseback riding, backpacking and sharpening one's skills at the rifle range. Odum said campers can also work on their scouting advancement.

Two more weeks remain in the regular camp sessions. The fee for an individual is $28 a week which includes all necessities except personal and camping gear.

Two special camps will begin

June 30 on the Buffalo Trail grounds.

An aquatic camp will offer instruction in rowing, canoeing, swimming and rescue methods while the mountain men camp will test campers' skills in wilderness survival and woodlore skills. "It will teach the scout how to take care of himself out of doors," Odum said.

The facility doesn't have a lake so aquatic campers will be based to a neighboring camp for instruction in rowing and canoeing.

The fee for both camps will be $37 a week.

The "extremely popular" Lad and Dad Campout for 8, 9 and 10-year olds with their fathers will take place June 29-30 at Buffalo Trail.

All areas of the camp will be open for father and son campers. A $5 fee for each camper will include three meals, 10 rounds on the rifle range and various other activities.

Odum said interested persons need to make advance registrations with their fees at the scout center.

More information can be obtained from Odum at 694-7171.

Today In History Dr. Hardin Resigns As SMU President

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, June 20, the 171st day of 1974. There are 194 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1789, the French Revolution began.

On this date: In 1632, the English crown granted the colony of Maryland to Lord Baltimore.

In 1837, Victoria became queen of England on the death of her uncle, King William IV.

In 1863, West Virginia became the 35th state to be admitted to the Union.

In 1898, the United States seized the island of Guam in the Spanish-American War.

In 1906, a Republican national convention in Chicago nominated William Howard Taft of Ohio for president.

In 1943, the United States and the Soviet Union agreed to establish the so-called "hot line" communications system between Washington and Moscow.

Ten years ago: Gen. William Westmoreland became the U.S. military commander in Vietnam upon retirement of Gen. Paul Harkins.

Five years ago: Georges Pompidou was inaugurated president of France.

One year ago: The Committee to Re-elect President Nixon was fined after being found guilty of concealing a $200,000 contribution from financier Robert Vesco.

Today's birthdays: The pretender to the Spanish throne, Don Juan, is 61. Playwright Lillian Hellman is 68.

Thought for today: And what so tedious as a twice-told tale — Homer, ancient Greek writer.

DALLAS (AP) — Paul Hardin, for two years the president of Southern Methodist University, resigned that post Wednesday.

SMU spokesmen said Hardin will continue teaching law at the university after his resignation becomes effective June 30.

Dr. Willis Tate, chancellor at SMU, was asked to assume presidential duties along with his current post.

The Dallas Morning News reported that Hardin's resignation came under fire from the school's trustees.

The paper quoted sources as saying that key trustees were angered earlier this year by Hardin's handling of problems with SMU's football program and also of troubles with the Southwestern Legal Foundation.

The sources said the trustees were concerned with apparent bad publicity SMU had generated in both instances.

Tate said he accepted Hardin's resignation "with deep regret" because the university had made steady progress and operated financially in the black during his tenure.

Tate said Hardin will continue to teach and do research at the SMU School of Law.

"A majority of the Board of Governors have been polled and have agreed to accept his resignation," said C. A. Tatum Jr., chairman of the trustees.

"Under Dr. Hardin's leadership the past two years, SMU has made excellent progress—both academically and financially—although the University was faced with many difficult problems and situations during this time. He is a man of very remarkable ability and accomplishments and I am confident that he will succeed in whatever career he chooses.

"I plan to recommend to the Board of Trustees by letter that the action of the board of governors be confirmed and that Dr. Willis Tate, chancellor of SMU, be asked to assume the additional responsibilities as president of the University, succeeding Dr. Hardin," Tatum said.

Hardin was elected as SMU's sixth president by the school's board of trustees on April 10, 1972. He resigned as president of Wake Forest College at Spartanburg, S. C., to take the SMU post.

FEO Controls No Longer Needed, Says Oil Leader

HOUSTON (AP) — The chairman of the board of Exxon Co. USA says Federal Energy Office petroleum price controls and allocation programs have outlived their usefulness.

M. A. Wright said the dismantling of these programs could lead to reduced prices for some petroleum products.

"While petroleum supplies have increased, the FEO has moved toward increasingly complex controls in its crude and product allocation programs," Wright said at a news conference Wednesday.

"The government allocation programs may have been warranted when the embargo was in effect. However, today some of the circumstances justifying government allocations are no longer with us.

"Those controls thwart efficient operation and could threaten the nation's efforts to move toward energy self-sufficiency."

Any short term negative effects would be quickly offset by the benefits of restoring competition in the market place if price and allocation programs were removed right now, he said.

He said supplies of products such as heavy fuel oil, propane, butane, middle distillates and lubricating oils are clearly adequate to satisfy demand.

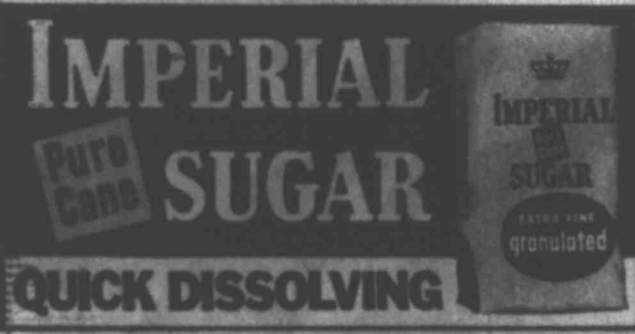

"By removing controls on these products, the market place will become more competitive, thereby stabilizing or possibly reducing some product prices," Wright said.

"It is our opinion the FEO should act now to relax these controls on the industry that are not clearly required by the immediate circumstances."

He said Exxon anticipates that total petroleum supplies will be adequate this summer and the coming winter.

He said the recent easing of tensions in the Middle East and the resulting increased availability of oil to the United States gives reasonable confidence the acute crisis brought on by the Arab embargo has now passed.

'Macbeth' To Feature Exorcism.

ODESSA — Demons instead of witches, and an exorcism scene. These are features of the "new" experimental version of "Macbeth" which will open the sixth annual Summer Shakespeare Festival of the Globe of the Great Southwest Friday night.

"We thought that, with all the current interest in demons and exorcism, this would be a contemporary — and timely — approach to take," says Globe producer-director Charles D. McCally of his new production of Shakespeare's vivid, melodramatic tragedy.

"Macbeth," the powerful drama of a man driven to destruction by ambition and disloyalty, opens the Globe's summer season at 8 p.m. Friday. The second production of the season, Moliere's "The Imaginary Invalid," enters the festival repertory next Tuesday night, while the third production, Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," will have performances beginning in early July.

Of his experimental production of "Macbeth," McCally states that "It should be pointed out we have not added any lines to Shakespeare's work — all the words are those of the great dramatist himself." However, some small portions of dialogue were omitted, such as portions dealing with witches, to permit use of demons instead.

Toward the end of the play, a scene is added in which an exorcist tries unsuccessfully to save Lady Macbeth from death. No words have been added here, although a portion of the Roman Catholic exorcism ritual is spoken in background.

"We actually witnessed an exorcism mass in our attempt to bring realism to this scene," McCally said.

Jim Daniels, a member of the Globe's repertory company, is in the title role of the Scottish nobleman who is persuaded by demons and an ambitious wife to murder his king and usurp the throne. His wife and accomplice will be portrayed by Denma Dumagan, another member of the repertory company. Wayne Narey will be seen as the heroic MacDuff and A. D. Cover is in the role of Duncan, the victim-king. Other members of the Globe's repertory company from many parts of the nation fill the more than 30 roles in the drama.

Doll Collecting 'Shop Talk' Set Sunday Afternoon

The Shop of the Southwest of the Museum of the Southwest will present the second program in its new "Shop Talk" series Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Vernon L. Allman of Midland will speak on doll collecting, a fast-growing hobby in the U.S., at the 3:30 p.m. event.

The program which is to be open to the public without charge is intended to stimulate and maintain interest in dolls and doll collecting, and to make the public aware of the aids to doll collecting currently available at the Shop of the Southwest.

The Shop of the Southwest is a project of Las Manos — "the Hands" — museum volunteer service organization. Profits of the shop help underwrite the museum's operational expenses and help fund museum programs and projects.

Planetarium Slates Shows On Fridays During Summer

Fridays will be special days this summer at the planetarium of the Museum of the Southwest. Beginning this week, the museum is reserving Fridays for special tours of the planetarium or for short, informal "sky shows" there. The tours and special shows will be available without charge, and interested persons have been invited to contact the museum office, 683-2882, to reserve a time for their organizations or groups. However, the museum asks that groups desiring a tour or special show be composed of 15 or more persons.

The museum will inaugurate a regular series of Friday evening planetarium shows at 8 p.m. this Friday. The shows, to be one hour in length, will include both a survey of the current night sky and a more theatrical presentation dealing with some aspect of astronomy. Admission to these weekly community programs will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children under age 12. Tickets may be purchased in advance at the museum office in the Turner Memorial Gallery, 1705 W. Missouri St. or at the planetarium in Haley Park each Friday evening.

Derives Name From Sound. The grunon, a blue and white silvery fish, highly prized as food, is believed to have derived its name from the Spanish word grunon meaning "grunter."

MCT Play Ends Soon

Final presentations of Midland Community Theatre's current attraction, "Dr. Cook's Garden," will be offered Friday and Saturday nights.

The pair of closing performances will have 8:30 curtains. Tickets are on sale daily at the Theatre Centre box office, and seat reservations may be made by telephone by dialing 682-4544.

"Dr. Cook's Garden," a suspense thriller by playwright Ira Levin, is the fourth production of MCT's 1974 season.

Symphony Meeting Now Under Way In Tennessee City

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Representatives of symphony orchestras throughout the U.S. and Canada, among them representatives of the Midland-Odesa Symphony, are in attendance at the American Symphony Orchestra League conference here this week.

The Permian Basin delegation includes Kenneth W. Nordman, president of the Midland Symphony Association, and Mrs. Roger D. Allen, president of the Midland Symphony Guild.

The 29th annual meeting began Tuesday and will continue through Friday. More than 800 representatives of orchestras — including symphony managers, presidents, conductors, board members, and women's association members — are participating in conference sessions, along with composers, music publishers and musicians.

Sessions are being held to demonstrate the effectiveness of the Suzuki method in developing young string players; to discover new avenues of cooperation between music educators and symphony orchestras; to determine whether symphony orchestras play enough contemporary music; to find ways to attract musicians to smaller communities, and to codify the responsibilities of symphony board members. Other sessions are offered for composers, publishers, publicity directors, and members of women's associations. Youth concerts, youth orchestras, and related arts funds also are receiving attention at the conclave.

Highlighting the conference will be tonight's concert by the Memphis Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Vincent deFrank, which will feature renowned young pianist Lorin Hollander as guest artist. Hollander will join the orchestra in a performance of the Saint-Saens Concerto No. 5. Following the concert, ASOL conference participants will be honored guests at a reception at Memphis' Summit Club, hosted by Columbia Artists Management Inc.

SCANDALOUS GOINGS-ON — Greg Kerley sings about lusty old "Saint Angela town" and its wild, wild women in this scene in "The Land and the River." The colorful music drama of San Angelo history and lore will have final performances today, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., as part of the current Fiesta del Concho pageant at San Angelo.

Mayberry's 'Millie' Starring At Hayloft

LUBBOCK — Ariene Golonka, probably best-known as Millie on the recent "Mayberry RFD" television series, is the star of Hayloft Dinner Theater's new show, "Petepat."

The hilarious two-act comedy is having a series of preview nights this week and will officially open Friday night. The show will run through early July, with reservations for all performances now being accepted.

Miss Golonka's career began with summer stock at Hinsdale, Ill., in separate productions with Charlton Heston and Burt Lahr. She moved on to New York where she waited tables and did stage routines at the Gaslight Club while studying with famed drama coach Lee Strasberg and waiting for her first break on Broadway. It came in "Night Circus," starring Ben Gazzara. Although the show only lasted two weeks, it showed off Ariene's abundant talent and she was soon on her way in her stage career. She had roles in "Take Me Along," with Jackie Gleason; "Come Blow Your Horn," with Hal March; "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," opposite Kirk Douglas; "Ready When You Are, C. B.," with Julie Harris, and "The Waywood Stock" with Robert Cummings.

Choir Still Needs $14,000 For Trip

By BO BASKIN

As members of the Lee High School Choir enter the home stretch of a fund raising drive for their trip to Vienna, Austria, they are running a hefty $14,000 short of their goal.

The choir members need $40,000 to make the July 10 trip to Vienna where they will participate in the International Youth and Music Festival. The choir earned the right to participate in the program when it was selected one of the 15 most outstanding choirs in a field of 80 choirs from across the country. The Lee choir was later chosen as the most outstanding among the 15 selected for the festival. The selections were based on a board of experts' review of the choir's taped performances.

The choir thus far has raised $65,548. John Kaplan, Lee High choir booster club president, explained that that sum exceeds the amount originally projected as the cost of the trip. "The original goal for the trip was $56,000, but as the cost of jet fuel skyrocketed, the cost of the trip jumped to $80,000."

Kaplan also pointed out that the choir members had worked very hard in attempting to reach their goal. "We had originally hoped that the choir itself would raise approximately $15,000, with the rest of the money coming from other sources. However the choir members far exceeded the amount we hoped they would raise. They came up with $28,000—some $13,000 more than the choir raised for its project the year before."

The money was raised through a series of projects and concerts, Kaplan pointed out, however, that the choir itself is no longer in a position to have concerts or money raising projects. "A lot of these students are working or are out of town right now, so it would be very hard to organize anything," he said.

According to Kaplan, the choir's money problems are complicated by the misconception many people have of the trip's purpose. "Many people are reluctant to contribute any money, because they think the choir is making the trip merely to have a good time," he said. "While a good time is anticipated, the primary purpose for the trip is to make possible a cultural exchange."

Kaplan explained that the choir has already missed its deadline to pay for the trip. "We've spent all the money we have," he said. "But we still owe about $14,000. The original deadline was June 1, so we're sort of in a grace period right now."

"We don't want to beg, but we do need to make a pretty desperate plea for help. We would like to try to avoid borrowing so as not to saddle next year's choir with our debt. That means we are going to need some fairly substantial assistance."

Kaplan said that there are still a number of pledges outstanding. "We would be very grateful if those who made pledges would attempt to fulfill them if at all possible."

Chamber Seeks Info On Clubs, Groups in Midland

Current information about every club, group and organization in Midland is being sought by the Midland Chamber of Commerce. Particularly needed is the name, address and telephone number of each group's president or chairman.

"New residents are coming to Midland in greater numbers each day and they are eager to find out about particular groups in the city," a chamber spokesman said. "Some of these groups are listed in the Junior League's Directory of Community Service publication. Many others are not, especially if they are special-interest groups."

Leaders in such organizations are asked to write the chamber at P.O. Box 1899, or call the chamber office at 683-3381.

LIBRARY EXHIBIT—Mariana Fly of 4413 Harlowe St. looks over items in the exhibit of African arts and crafts now on display in the Midland County Public Library.

Library Displaying African Arts, Crafts

Examples of East and Central African arts and crafts are on display in the main reading room of the Midland County Library. The exhibit is from the collection of the Glen M. Ford and was acquired in Africa by Ford and his son John.

The items displayed include modern Masai jewelry, a Masai spear, Kisii soapstone sculpture from Kenya, Makonde wood sculpture from Tanzania, and elephant bone carvings from the lions.

Midlanders Receive Degrees in Education

AUSTIN — Three Midlanders received degrees in the College of Education at the close of the spring semester.

Receiving the Bachelor of Science in Elementary Education were Jacquelyn Rose Gould, Carolyn Emily Stokely and Martin Earnest Synatchek Jr.

Also from the Congo are an old musical instrument, a ladle and hut broom. Two of the most interesting Congo pieces are small house gods, which are quite old. One of these has a fur cap that is removed to keep the evil spirits away when the head of the house is not home.

The Masai jewelry consists of beaded headbands and a collar. The spear is the only defense young Masai herdsmen have against large predators such as lions.

The cotton print on display is typical of present day dress of African women. Colorful prints of this type are usually worn in a wrap-around fashion.

The exhibit will be on display until the end of June. The library is open during the summer 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Monday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

Two Texas World War II Commands Changed History

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

If the commands of two Texans had been wiped out in World War II, everybody in America would have headed for the storm cellar.

The two were Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and Adm. Chester Nimitz.

The fact that Eisenhower went on to become President made his tenure in the public eye longer than that of Nimitz.

But some old salts, Navy and Marine, might point out that their hero commanded a lot more territory than Eisenhower.

Such post-war discussions about who was best or biggest have been known to result in knots on some debater's head, particularly in barrooms.

Eisenhower swept across a small area from the English

Channel to Berlin after taking a strip of Africa.

Nimitz commanded all the vast Pacific except for some vague line where Gen. Douglas MacArthur operated occasionally.

Yet Nimitz wanted to be Army and Eisenhower wanted the Navy and both ended up in the wrong service.

When it came down to the head knocking, Nimitz commanded a huge array of land-operating soldiers and Marines, while Eisenhower controlled all sorts of ships.

Doug Hubbard, who directs the Nimitz Museum at Fredericksburg, was telling about Nimitz the other day.

At the time of the decision about service branches, the young Nimitz was residing in Kerrville with his mother and his stepfather-uncle—his mother married her late husband's brother.

He saw a couple of spit-and-polish second lieutenants on maneuvers from Ft. Sam Houston and decided to be a soldier.

He asked Rep. James L. Slayden of San Antonio to appoint him to West Point. Slayden said all his slots to that school were filled, but he did have an opening for the Naval Academy.

The results are well known, and Nimitz did get to command ground troops. He actually controlled 2.5 million men of all branches, including his beloved sailors.

He would have called for more men, but he never could teach those Marines to walk on water although some contended they could when they were loaded on that native run.

One strange incident came when Nimitz was placed in command of the Pacific, where things were going very, very badly.

This was immediately after Pearl Harbor. It was determined in Washington that Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, commander of the Pacific Fleet when the Japanese struck the U.S. Pacific citadel, could no longer be kept at his post.

Did Nimitz go to Pearl Harbor in full dress uniform ready to sweep everything clean?

He sure didn't.

He got aboard a train in civilian clothes and bearing the pseudonym of Mr. Freeman. He flew from the West Coast to Hawaii on a clumsy old flying boat.

He was sworn in as commander in chief Pacific on a submarine deck. Perhaps that was one of the few functioning ships afloat or not on mission.

No one was impressed. His clothes didn't fit and he didn't scream and stomp and do other things a great commander should.

But in no time, he turned the war around and the Americans started winning.

That was a far piece to come for a small-town boy born in Fredericksburg. He grew up in the Steamboat Hotel owned by his grandfather. That's the Nimitz Center-Museum now.

When he was six, his mother, Anna, and her second husband moved to Kerrville, where Nimitz' stepfather was assistant manager of the St. Charles Hotel.

Little known is the fact that Nimitz' ring finger was missing.

He was sent to Germany in peaceful days to learn about diesel and he installed one in a Navy ship.

Nimitz was showing the new motor to high Navy visitors when his finger caught in the machinery.

He might have lost more than his digit had not his Naval Academy ring jammed the machine and stopped it.

Director Hubbard can show pictures where the absence of that finger is obvious.

He met what looked like disaster as a 22-year-old ensign.

He was given command of a destroyer, the Decatur, a beat-up old hulk that was without crew, coal, water, supplies, guns or torpedoes and told to have it at sea in two days.

Nimitz conned a bunch of warrant officers with whom he played cards into helping him around the clock and the ship hit the waves on time.

bridge to the engine room backwards.

So when he ordered full speed ahead he got full speed astern.

"Navigation was difficult," Nimitz related in a massive understatement.

Then he ran the Decatur aground in mud. That meant instant court-martial, which he underwent. He only got a letter of reprimand as his sentence.

While he became chief of naval operations, the USS Indianapolis sank and 890 men died. Skipper was Capt. Charles B. McVay III. He was found guilty but sentence was remitted.

A McVay friend asked Nimitz if any U.S. Navy officer in history had reached flag rank after a court-martial.

"You're looking at one right here," said Nimitz, the Decatur grounding still fresh in his mind decades later.

BEER CAN HATS — A group of Hawaiian youngsters gathers for an impromptu singing session outfitted in beer can hats, which are a current fad in the islands. (AP Wirephoto.)

Beer Can Hats New Rage In Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Many wives here are encouraging their husbands to drink a greater variety of beer, but with a stern warning: "Don't bend the can."

Armed with scissors, paper punches and crochet needles, the creative women are caught in a current fad—beer can hats.

Environmentalists are pleased because fewer discarded cans are winding up along the roadways, and the beer companies are happy, being the beneficiaries of the free advertising.

Holding up their side of the operation, husbands are downing brands of beer they don't usually prefer, just to provide a desired can design.

Referring to one brand, a husband said, "I wouldn't drink the stuff. I poured out the entire six-pack, so my wife could have the cans."

Teetotalers also are getting into the act, making their hats out of soft drink cans. The brand name and design on the cans are cut out in sections, edged with a line of holes and used as panels in a wide variety of caps, hats and visors crocheted with yarn.

Square or rectangular sections are joined to form the crown on some hats. Crescent shapes form the bill and round-ed triangular shapes form the crown on baseball or golf style caps.

Supermarkets here are stocking special stands with skeins of yarn in a variety of colors to meet the demand. And single-hole, hand-held paper punches have shown up on drug store counters.

One local enterprise is selling a brochure, including patterns and instructions for the hats, for 50 cents.

Getting the top off a soft aluminum can is done easily by placing it sideways in an electric can opener, but trying that on a heavier stainless steel can may strip the gears.

Heavy gloves are advised when using a knife or hand-held can opener to remove the top, reports a husband sporting a bandaged thumb.

Several delegates from the Midland County Division will attend the 20th annual assembly of the American Heart Association, Texas Affiliate, in Fort Worth Friday.

Swimming Pool Burglars Elude Midland Officers

Police discovered a burglary in progress at the Washington Park Swimming Pool about 3 a.m. today but the culprits got away.

Patrolman Roy Harrison and Jerry Compton noticed the candy machine open and went to investigate. As they approached the pool building, they heard a noise like someone climbing on a chain-link fence on the north side.

But the burglars — police believe there were three of them — got away, apparently by jumping off the building.

Two candy machines were broken into and it appeared that the burglars were trying to get into the soft drink machines when the officers surprised them.

The money was taken from both candy machines and the coin box from one of them has not been found, the officers said.

They reported finding two wet swimming trunks and a towel, a hammer believed to have been used to open the machines, a tennis shoe and some candy which had been dropped.

DIPLOMA WITHHELD — Sharon Pinkham shows the empty diploma folder she received Wednesday at South River (N.J.) High School commencement exercises. She didn't get a diploma because she failed a written test in badminton and didn't take a test in tennis. She is protesting the situation to state officials. (AP Wirephoto.)

Flunked Written Test On Badminton Costs Student High School Diploma

SOUTH RIVER, N.J. (AP) — Sharon Pinkham could miss starting college in the fall because she failed written badminton and tennis tests given only to girls in her high school's gym classes.

The 18-year-old, C-average student received a blank piece of paper instead of a diploma Wednesday at her school's ceremonies.

Unless Sharon passes the physical education course in summer school, or wins a fight to have the tests declared unconstitutional by state education authorities, Middlesex County College says it will withdraw her acceptance for fall classes.

Sharon, who wants to be a nurse, failed the physical education course because she received a 45 on the badminton test and a zero for not taking the tennis exam.

But Sharon, her mother, many spectators at the ceremony and the girl's legal adviser were quick to make the point that the tests were administered only to girls.

Boys were graded only on participation and attitude, according to Joseph Buckley, a third-year law student serving as Sharon's legal adviser.

Buckley, who works for the Rutgers Legal Aid Clinic in Newark, said a complaint on the matter has been presented to local education authorities. He said the complaint alleges the tests were discriminatory since they were given only to female physical education students.

Pearl Pinkham, Sharon's mother, said three of her five sons already had graduated from South River High School and none had to pass the tests that kept Sharon from graduating.

Sharon's 320 classmates and many of their guests at the graduation applauded wildly when her name was called. The consensus among the male graduates was, "If the boys don't have to take the test, neither do the girls."

Sharon received a grade of 98 in class participation, a category that was counted twice. She said her other marks were a 78 in skills, the 45 in badminton and the zero in tennis. According to those figures, her average was just below 60. Passing is 70.

NEW YORK (AP) — The reporters who broke the Watergate story said Wednesday that Martha Mitchell had been held "a political prisoner" by agents of the Nixon administration.

They also said that her estranged husband, former Alt. Gen. John N. Mitchell, was just a "reluctant participant" in events leading to the Watergate burglary of Democratic National Headquarters and the resulting attempted cover-up.

"I agree," said Mrs. Mitchell when Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward of the Washington Post said Mitchell was not a "zealous initiator" of those policies. Mrs. Mitchell commented, "I was just one woman fighting a whole government."

More than 300 delegates are expected.

A classification talk delivered by Rotarian Harry Neuhardt, news director of KMDI-TV, featured the program at the meeting of the Midland Downtown Rotary Club today noon in the American Legion Hall.

"Objectivity of National News Reporting... Including Watergate and Other Subjects" was Neuhardt's subject.

John Young, president-elect, presided at the meeting.

It was announced that the club's annual officer installation banquet will be held at 7 p.m. next Thursday at the Midland Country Club. Next week's luncheon meeting will be dispensed with in favor of the banquet, to which all Rotary-Areas are invited.

DeBakey May Do No More Transplants Unless Breakthrough Made

By JIM BARLOW
HOUSTON (AP) — A pioneer in heart transplant surgery says he expects to do no more of them unless there is a big breakthrough in medicine. Instead, medical science must rely on research in prevention of heart disease, said Dr. Michael DeBakey in an exclusive interview.

"We've gone through the experience and we know what that experience proves," DeBakey said. "Unless there were some radical changes taking place in terms of new knowledge, there's no reason to expect it to be any different. So why do it?"

DeBakey performed 12 heart transplants at the Texas Medical Center here, and only two were long-term survivors. "One died at the end of four years of chronic rejection," he said. "The other one is still living, after five-and-a-half years. True, he's doing well. We don't know why."

"But that's a small yield considering the effort you put into it," DeBakey said heart transplantation also is limited by the need to find donors who are young, healthy and "killed in a very special way. That limits it right away. So it can never be an answer to the major portion of heart disease."

"This means you've got to look for something else to solve the problem of heart disease. Obviously that's in the direction of solving the problems of arteriosclerosis," he said.

Arteriosclerosis is a generic term for a number of chronic conditions affecting the arteries bringing blood to the heart.

"That's the cause of it (heart disease)," he said. "So research needs to be more directed towards that to ultimately solve that problem. Not in the direction of heart transplants."

DeBakey said he still is conducting experiments toward development of an artificial heart, but he pointed out there are actually two different kinds of implantable mechanical heart aids.

"You just can't lump them all together," he said. "They are used for different purposes. One type is that which replaces the whole heart. That is an experimental procedure."

"The other category is those which are used to primarily support or assist the circulation temporarily—a number of days or days or as much as maybe a week. That has been progressive and we actually do

The government alleged that he had the gun on Dec. 23, 1973.

use that clinically, DeBakey because they think through co-operation they can improve their own medical treatment."

In a wide-ranging question and answer session DeBakey, who seldom gives interviews, talked about a number of subjects.

A honorary member of the Soviet Academy of Medicine, DeBakey who has made many trips to Russia since 1968, said don't discriminate on the basis of the Soviet Union is pushing of financials any way. Every type of national health insurance 'primarily' body has available to him the opportunity to go into a medical center if he needs to go there."

In order to match Russia's health delivery system, DeBakey said, this country must provide some type of national health insurance program that will meet the needs of all the people.

"It's accessible to every one," he said. "In other words, they DeBakey refused to take a stand on the several different types of national health insurance now being debated in Con-medicine, I think there is no high regard for what he has between Russia and the United States."

DeBakey said he does not believe a national health insurance plan must lower the quality of medical care.

"Medicare has not hurt the practice of medicine because of the way it's done," he said. "The impression I had was a patient can choose his doctor and a doctor has the right to practice the way he wants, coming as long as he is practicing good"

DeBakey said, "They have apparently very

No. 1 In Star Galaxy

Thanks to its June isolation and a West Texas atmosphere that's ready for football any time of the year, the Coaches All-America Game enjoys a status once reserved for the College All-Star and East-West games, back before their importance was diluted.

Even though the College All-Stars met the pro champions in early August in the relic they call Chicago's Soldiers Field and the best seniors from east and west of the Mississippi tangled in San Francisco's equally antiquated Kezar Stadium, they both were something special in the way of all-star attractions.

Then the pros went at it almost year round and with the advent of specialized football became so proficient that the College All-Star game lost its competitive luster.

The East-West game, on the other hand, became lost in the maze of post-season bowl games and its imitators, and considering the purpose of the game — Strong legs run so that weak legs may walk — it's rather sad.

The coaches launched the All-America game back in 1961 and while it sounded like a fine idea, it floundered in first Buffalo and then Atlanta and appeared headed for oblivion until transferred to Lubbock in 1970, the year of the tornado.

It still has its problems, the biggest perhaps the reluctance of collegians with gaudy reputations to risk injury that might jeopardize promising professional careers.

One thing it hasn't lacked is spectator enthusiasm, and the effect it has on the performers has turned the game into a thrilling spectacle.

Future Pro Stars Shine

In its four-year run at Lubbock, the game has attracted 171,256 fans and this year it will surpass the 191,460 customers who watched the game in the nine previous years.

In its history, the game has produced an impressive alumni of pros and some standouts who failed to make it in the play-for-pay ranks.

Georgia's Fran Tarkenton, for example, stood out for the East in a 30-20 loss in the inaugural game back in 1961 while Bill Nielsen outdueled Daryle Lamonica as the West won 22-21 in 1963.

In 1965, Notre Dame's John Huarte sparked the East to a 24-14 victory, but experienced a pro career as a fringe player. Still, Dick Butkus was the defensive standout and Ken Willard, the leading rusher, won the MVP trophy.

Steve Spurrier and Gene Washington combined on a 46-yard scoring play in 1967 for a 13-9 East victory and 1968 Heisman Trophy winner Gary Beban completed 15 of 22 passes for 322 yards, a feat he never duplicated in the pros. Yet while Gary didn't make it, Larry Conka, the game's leading rusher and MVP, did.

In 1969, Kansas' Bobby Douglass was the hero of the West's 14-10 triumph.

Since the game came to Lubbock, it has featured high-scoring and wild finishes, probably the best of all the 1971 thriller in which SMU's Chuck Hixson sparked a West comeback and Jim Plunkett finished it with a 23-yard scoring pass to Nebraska's Joe Orduna just 31 seconds before the end for a 33-28 win.

Saturday night in Jones Stadium, they'll add another chapter and as is the tradition, 40,000 fans will be there to soak up the action, despite 100-degree heat.

LED CIRCUIT IN '73—

Crompton Reflects On Changing Times

By BOB GREEN
AKRON, Ohio (AP) — "Pale," said Bruce Crompton, "has been different to me this year."

"Not unkind. Just different."

Crompton, defending champion in the $170,000 American Golf Classic, came into this tournament a year ago as the game's leading money winner and holder of three titles for the season.

He went on to make his fourth victory of the year, finished the season with $274,000 in winnings and became the game's fifth $1 million career winner. It was, by far, the best season of his 17-year career.

He hasn't won this year. He hasn't even threatened very seriously. He ranks 23rd on the current money list with $54,000.

But the sturdy-built, 39-year-old Australian declines to complain.

"If I'm 23rd on the money list, then only 22 men in the world are playing better than I am. That's not too bad. The amount I won last year has been bettered by only one man in history. Only four men have won more for a career."

"I can't complain," he emphasized today before leaving for

Other standouts include U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin, host pro Bobby Nichols and Forrest Fezler, Jerry Heard, Ben Crenshaw, Tom Watson, John Mahaffey, Eddie Fawcett, Larry Wadkins, Tom Kite and Allen Miller.

George Scott ruined a perfectly good evening for Steve Busby Wednesday night.

The Milwaukee first baseman walked on a 3-2 count, Busby's rare moment of imperfection, and thus spoiled a perfect game by the Kansas City pitcher.

Scott was the only baserunner Busby allowed during a 2-0 no-hitter, first of the 1974 baseball season and the second of his brief career.

"I didn't make a whole lot of bad pitches and made them hit the ball," said Busby, who received excellent fielding support on route to his beauty.

Two catches by right fielder Al Owens and a sparkling play by second baseman Cookie Rojas preserved the no-hitter.

With one out in the second inning, Darrell Porter hit a long drive to right center which Owens snared on the run. With two out in the fourth, Owens raced into the same territory to tag down a drive by Scott.

Brooks Robinson ... knocks in three runs

With two out in the eighth, Bob Hansen hit a hard ground ball headed toward right field, but Rojas intercepted it with a diving, whiff-and-throw play.

"That was the play that made the whole game," said Busby. "That was super. I can't recall him doing that since I've been here with this club, diving for a ball hit that far from him

Lubbock Invasion 'Sad Commentary'

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Texas Tech Coach Jim Carlen, one of the hosts for the 14th annual Coaches All-America football game, said today "It's a sad commentary" that professional football would invade the grounds of a college All-Star contest to bicker over a threatened strike.

"If they (the owners and players) want a battleground why don't they go to Chicago?" queried Carlen. "The pros help put that (All-Star) game on. We don't even have a professional team in this town."

Representatives of the National Football League Players Association headed by Bill Curry of the Houston Oilers met Wednesday with rookies from the East and West squads who will tangle Saturday night in a nationally televised All-Star game in Jones Stadium.

Carlen, an assistant on the West squad, said "I personally have no sides in the dispute. Bill Curry is a good friend of mine. He played for me at Georgia Tech. But this dispute is stealing all the thunder from the coaches game which provides funds for our association."

"Now, I don't mind the pros being here, scouting their talent and everything. I understand that. But the business of using Lubbock for their little battleground could reach the boiling point."

Carly, saying the NFLPA was not trying to pressure rookies into joining the association, noted, "We want the rookies to realize that the changes we are trying to make will benefit them more than it will the older players."

The majority of players at the All-Star game contacted by Tech's Carlen in late July that's a different story. They can fight all they want down there.

Carly, an assistant on the West squad, said "I personally have no sides in the dispute. Bill Curry is a good friend of mine. He played for me at Georgia Tech. But this dispute is stealing all the thunder from the coaches game which provides funds for our association."

"Now, I don't mind the pros being here, scouting their talent and everything. I understand that. But the business of using Lubbock for their little battleground could reach the boiling point."

Carly, saying the NFLPA was not trying to pressure rookies into joining the association, noted, "We want the rookies to realize that the changes we are trying to make will benefit them more than it will the older players."

The majority of players at the All-Star game contacted by Tech's Carlen in late July that's a different story. They

Tabb's Fly Decides Long Game

SAN ANTONIO — Midland's Cubs made it two extra-inning wins in a row here Wednesday by defeating the San Antonio Brewer, 8-7, in 14 innings while stretching their Texas League win-streak to six in a row.

The teams conclude hostilities tonight with a doubleheader and Midland returns home to face Amarillo at Cubs Stadium at 7:45 p.m. Friday.

The winning blow turned out to be a sacrifice fly by Jerry Tabb, scoring Brock Davis, who had quite a night. Davis walked three times and tripled home Bill Bright in the ninth to force the issue into extra innings.

Davis' game-tying blow came off Luis Penalver, an old nemesis of the Cubs.

The Cubs also thwarted undefeated Dennis Eckersley in his bid for a ninth straight victory.

Midland turned two bases on balls into a three-run first-inning when Wayne Tyrone hit his 11th homer about 360-feet to left-center into the teeth of a 25-mph wind.

Two more runs came in on the second as Midland took advantage of two walks, Steve Chaney's double and an error by Mike Hannah at first.

Tabb hit a solo homer to right in the third, his 13th of the year.

Eckersley stopped the Cubs on one hit for five innings after that. Bright singled and Davis tripled to tie it in the ninth off reliever Penalver and send it into extra innings.

In the 14th, with Dennis Kinney pitching, Midland won it as Davis led off with a single, Ken Szostkiewicz moved the runner up with a sacrifice. Ortiz was walked intentionally and Tyrone singled to lead the bases. Tabb then hit a sacrifice fly to deep center for the winning run.

San Antonio struck for three singles and two runs in the first inning. Then starter Bob Ott walked two and Alvin McGrew hit a three-run homer in the second to tie it at 5-5.

Dwain Frazier, who had come in after McGrew's homer, shutout the Brewers until the seventh when he experienced control tour trouble. Walks to McGrew and Dave Oliver were followed by Gary Ratliff's two-run double to give the Brewers a 7-4 lead. Francisco Lopez came on and blanked the Brewers the rest of the way to notch his first victory as a Cub.

HILLER NOTCHES 8TH VICTORY--

Rangers Lose In 11th, 4-2

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP)—The Texas Rangers haven't won an extra-inning game this season, and that trend continued Wednesday night as they dropped a 4-2 decision to the Detroit Tigers.

A walk to Micky Stanley, followed by Jerry Moses' single, Ed Brinkman's double and John Knox' grounder to second accounted for the Tigers' two 11th-inning runs. Detroit reliever John Hiller recorded his eighth victory in 12 decisions and the Rangers absorbed their fifth straight extra-inning loss.

Hiller struggled in the eighth, "but after that he was the John Hiller we know so well."

Hiller, who was credited with both his club's triumphs in a three-game series, was pleased with his five-inning performance.

"Except for the eighth I was sharper than I've been in more than a week," he said. "Most of my pitches were effective. I got into trouble in the eighth but got out of it with the tie, and from then on things went a lot better."

The Rangers touched Hiller, who also owns 10 saves, for one run in the eighth on singles by Dave Nelson, Alex Johnson and rookie Mike Hargrove.

Hargrove, the Rangers' left-handed-batting designated hitter, has not been starting against left-handed pitchers, so it came as a surprise when Billy Martin, the Texas platoon-conscious manager, decided to let Hargrove face the left-handed Hiller.

"The left-handers Hargrove has faced he has hit pretty good," said the dejected Martin. "The other night the same pitcher (Hiller) struck out the clutch.

"Jackie Brown pitched well enough to win. We had our chances in the eighth to win it right there, but we didn't take advantage of it."

World Cup Soccer Teams Take Rest

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—World Cup soccer stars take a rest from the action today, with Poland joining West Germany in the second round while the goal-shy Latin Americans still seek their first victory.

World Cup Soccer Teams Take Rest

With 16 of the 24 first round matches completed, this is the situation: Group I: West Germany has moved into second round, whatever the result of its match with East Germany Saturday. East Germany or Chile will take the remaining qualifying place. Australia cannot advance.

Group II: Zaire is out. Brazil, Yugoslavia and Scotland will battle Saturday for the two qualifying places.

Group III: Still open, but with Uruguay facing a statistically tougher task than the Netherlands, Sweden and Bulgaria.

Group IV: Poland has qualified, while Haiti cannot advance. Argentina can qualify by beating Haiti Sunday, only if Italy loses to Poland. A draw puts Italy through.

Poland made sure of its second round place with an easy 7-0 triumph over Haiti in Munich. Argentina, previously beaten 3-2 by Poland, scored both goals, one accidentally, in the 1-1 draw with Italy at Stuttgart.

Sweden and Holland fought out a bruising goalless draw in Dortmund. It was Sweden's second successive non-scoring and the fourth of the tournament.

Uruguay and Bulgaria drew 1-1 in Hannover.

HUNTING FISHING

Sandhills Pistol Club President Jas Bailey informs that the group will hold its monthly pistol shoot at 10 a.m. Sunday at the club's new range one mile west of Notrees.

The NRA approved competition will be an 1800 match using the .22 caliber, center fire (.32 and .45 caliber) and .45 caliber with each of three 60-shot segments counting 10 points.

Shooters are divided into master, expert, sharpshooter and marksman categories.

White bass and striped bass catches were off, but there's always something biting at Lake Spence near Robert Lee. Channel cats and black bass were keeping anglers busy the last couple of weeks. Gary Sutherland, Midland, was one of the fortunate ones, six channel cats to five pounds. O. D. Rosser, Midland, took eight white bass. Milk Aubry led the Lubbock Bass Club contest with a seven-pound, four-ounce black and Kenneth Kiker of Robert Lee reeled in a 27 1/2 pound yellow cat. Midland's James Isbell reported a six-pound stiper and six-pound bass; L. G.

IS ANYBODY HOME?—

Dodgers Reclaim Daffiness Days

By The Associated Press
Anybody home? Who's out first? Why? Don't ask. Even Abbott and Costello couldn't have explained this mess.

With a daffiness that brought back memories of those wild Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants, the new, improved Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants elevated the art of baserunning to new highs.

Or, depending on your point of view, dumped it down to new lows.

Things like San Diego rookie Dan Spillner's one-hit 1-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs were almost overlooked, as were the "commonplace" victories by Montreal, 4-2 over Cincinnati; Atlanta, 5-0 over New York; and Philadelphia, 5-4 over Houston.

In the first inning of the Dodgers' game in Pittsburgh Wednesday night, which the Pirates won 7-3, Lee Lacy of Los Angeles was on third, Jimmy Wynn on second and Ron Cey on first, as Jerry Reuss fired a two-out, full-count pitch to Joe Ferguson.

Strike three? Ferguson thought so. So did catcher Manny Sanguillen, flipping the ball toward the mound. And so, unfortunately, did Lacy, jogging toward the Dodgers' dugout.

Strike three? Nope. Ball four. Wynn, on third by this time, took off for home but was tagged out by the catcher Sanguillen, who then relayed it to Richie Hebner at third, who stepped on the bag.

Lacy suddenly realized what was going on and dashed headlong to the plate, where Hebner threw to Sanguillen, who tagged Lacy.

Chief umpire Ed Sudol finally ruled that Wynn was out when he touched home because he technically passed Lacy on the basepath. And Lacy was entitled to home because of the bases-loaded walk, even though he was near the dugout when Wynn was out.

And what's more, the umpire added, Lacy was immune to a tag. So he scored when he slid home, even though Sanguillen tagged him and even though Wynn had already made the last out of the inning.

The Pirates overcame the Dodgers' 3-1 lead to win. Giants 5, Cardinals 4. The Giants had a play to match.

In the third inning, Giant Garry Maddox was on first when Ed Goodson hit a Bob Gibson pitch to deep center field. Bake McBride leaped for it at the 410-foot sign on the wall, and seemingly caught it. But the ball fell out, over the eight-foot high wall.

What was it? A two-run homer for Goodson? Maddox stopped at second base. Then he circled back toward first, thinking the ball was caught. It was thrown back over the wall, onto the playing field, by a stadium attendant.

Goodson passed him between first and second and was called out for passing Maddox. Then Maddox took off again, coming around the bases—the right way. He crossed home and Goodson was credited with a line drive ricocheted off Spillner, and he made it to first.

Expos 4, Reds 2. Ron Hunt's bases-loaded tie-breaking single and Tim Foli's sacrifice fly gave the Expos a two-run edge in the fourth inning—which rookie relief pitcher John Montague made stand.

Braves 5, Mets 0. Tom House relieved Buzz Capra for the Braves in the sixth inning, with Atlanta leading 2-0, and preserved the win.

Schmidt Could Boo Uninformed Masses

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It would be poetic justice if Mike Schmidt turned toward the stands and bood.

Schmidt, the third baseman of the Philadelphia Phillies, is tearing up National League pitching.

He's also playing sensationally in the field.

Take Wednesday night, for example. Schmidt ripped three singles and knocked in two runs in a 5-4 victory for the Phillies over the Houston Astros. He stole at least three base hits from the Astros.

"He's the most improved player in the league," said Houston Manager Preston Gomez of Schmidt. "I know he's strong and he can hit, but he impresses me most the way he plays third base."

Why would Schmidt want to turn and boo the fans. Take a look at the latest vote for the National League All-Star Team. The 24-year-old Schmidt is out of sight behind Ron Cey, Rich Hebner, Darrell Evans, Wayne Garrett and others.

Now look at Schmidt's credentials. He's hitting .334, tied for the major league lead in home runs with 17, among the top five in RBI, with 50, and he's rapped 10 doubles.

Schmidt doesn't want to debate the merits of fans selecting the all-star players, but he's disappointed that he probably will watch the game on television because the early season ballot doesn't even have him listed.

"In my position, I wish the coaches, managers and players, even the sports writers, picked the all-star team," Schmidt said.

The Phillies held onto their slim lead in the National League East thanks to Schmidt, starting pitcher Jim Lonborg, and relievers Jesus Hernalz and Mac Scarce.

Lonborg earned his ninth victory—fifth in succession—against five losses. The tall righthander went into the ninth leading 5-2 but he gave up three straight singles, loading the bases with none out.

Phillies Manager Danny Ozark called for Hernalz. The young righthander gave up a sacrifice fly to Cesar Cedeno and then got Bob Watson on a foul fly to first. Lee May, however, ripped a run-scoring single and it was 5-4 with left-swinger John Edwards the batter.

Houston had run out of right-handed pinch hitters with Doug Rader and Milt May on the injured list. So Ozark played the percentage. He brought in Scarce, even though the young southpaw has had poor luck with lefthanded hitters.

Ozark figured it just right.

AS TEST OF GREATNESS—

Greenberg Leans To RBI's

By IRA BERKOW
NEW YORK (NEA) — While the world swoons over the home run, the less glamorous but more significant run-batted-in trudges ever onward.

This at least is the opinion of Hank Greenberg who lends achievement and perspective to the issue.

For many years, Greenberg was known mainly as the man who (along with Jimmy Fox) had come closest to Babe Ruth's record of 60 homers in a season. Greenberg belted 58 in 1938.

Yet few people ever mentioned — even when they knew — that Greenberg was second to Lou Gehrig in most run-batted-in in an American League season. Greenberg in 1937 drove in 183 runners, one short of Gehrig's mark.

"Everyone always talks about the homer," said Greenberg, "but I always thought that the RBI is what the game is all about."

"I think the RBI, more than the home run, symbolizes production and scoring when the chips are down. The RBI is the clutch hit."

"There is no question that the homer is more spectacular. But look what happens. A guy like Henry Aaron is a great RBI man, but people only see him as a homer guy. And it's a shame. Since Henry broke the Babe's lifetime home run record, that's all people are talking about. Henry Aaron and his homers."

Aaron this season may overtake Ruth in career RBIs, a virtual sotto voce fact. Aaron began the 1974 season with 2,133 "ribbies," second to Ruth's 2,217.

However, no one will soon catch Ruth, Gehrig or Greenberg, who are Nos. 1, 2 and 3, in the important statistic category of "players with 5 or fewer at-bats per RBI." Ruth averaged one RBI per 3.79 official at-bats, Gehrig one per 4.03 and Greenberg 4.07. Harmon Killebrew is the best active player in this category with one RBI per every 5.65 at-bats.

Greenberg's most spectacular run-batted-in are commemorated on his plaque in the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown. But, not unexpectedly, the RBIs are overshadowed by that — there Game has changed . . . but Hank Greenberg delivers in clutch.

it is again — tinsely solo swing, Greenberg's plaque in part reads: "Won 1945 pennant (for Detroit) on last day of season with Grand Slam Home Run in 9th inning."

Greenberg, on the other hand, can still feel a twinge of regret when recalling the last game of the 1937 season, which he entered with 182 run-batted-in.

"This was chance for Gehrig's record, and I really wanted it," said Greenberg. "We started a rookie pitcher named Jake Wade and Cleveland started Johnny Allen. Now, Allen had been injured for the first part of the season and began pitching again after the All-Star break. Well, he had now won all 15 of his games. Sixteen straight wins is the record."

"Of course, all the papers were full of Allen's try for the record. And my record was mentioned in passing, if it was mentioned at all."

"In the second inning, I singled to left and drove in my 183rd run of the season. And that was it. Our rookie pitched a 1-6 shutout."

"The next day the papers were filled with how Allen just missed the record. And nothing about my just missing a record."

Even today, says Greenberg, now 63 and retired as an active player since 1947, he is stopped on the street and told how it's too bad he missed Ruth's record.

Greenberg today is grayer than he was in his playing days, but he remains as powerful looking. He is 6-4 and weighs 220, his playing weight. He stays in shape by playing tennis and the stock market.

He is so good at the stock market, that he has made millions of dollars from it (though he takes his lumps today with the rest of the nation's investors).

Another frequent opponent of his, Bobby Riggs. (Riggs, as most persons in Western

The Kiwanis Braves scored a run in the seventh inning to edge Furra 7-6 Wednesday night in an Eastern Sophomore League game.

Jeff Loud had two doubles and Greg Kruse added another to lead the eight-hit Kiwanis attack.

Finally, he agreed to play with the benches. I started hitting drop shots. He was jumping over the benches like crazy. I wore him out, but still only beat him on the last shot of the fifth and last game, after we were tied two games each."
