

South Americans Know What Inflation Is All About

By MORT ROSENBLUM
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — They're not shedding any tears in South America for North Americans lamenting inflation. Down here inflation has been a household cuss word for years.

The price of an Argentine newspaper has gone up 200,000 per cent since 1944. It is as though an American who paid a dime for his paper after World War II now had to pay $200. "A paper now costs 200 pesos," mused a banker here. "Twenty years ago I could take my girl friend to lunch, the movies, afternoon tea, buy her flowers and then go back out to the suburbs in a cab for 200 pesos. That's inflation!"

Wages have gone up, too, though generally at a lower rate. For most Latin Americans, life gets tougher every day. For the millions with no work, it borders on the impossible.

As serious as it is, inflation is just a part of life, like taxes and flat tires. Economists list dozens of reasons for inflation, but the spiral basically is caused by more currency than goods on the market. As prices soar, wages follow, and prices climb again. Plummeting devaluations against the U.S. dollar directly affect most economies here. Governments in Brazil, Argentina, Bolivia and Chile whacked three zeros off their currencies during the past 15 years so the units would be lower. Since becoming independent in 1822, Brazil has gone from the real to the milreis to the cruzeiro to the new cruzeiro. Each new currency unit was worth 1,000 of the old. If American currency had devaluated at the same rate, George Washington today would have to throw $1 billion across the Potomac. Most families buy things on time, despite high interest rates. They know that tomorrow's salary will be higher than today's price, so they stay as deeply in debt as they can in order to come out ahead. A resident who bought an average car on a dollar contract a year ago in Santiago, Chile, for the equivalent of $7,000 has found the auto appreciated more than five times. He is careful not to wreck it. The standard government approach has been to fix prices and, sometimes, wages. But the results are generally poor. Merchants either ignore the fixed ceilings, or they take their goods off the market. Extensive black markets develop. Families suffer severe shortages of basic items. The extreme examples of Latin American inflation are the world's worst. But not all Latin American countries were in bad shape. Mexico, for example, went from 100 to 182, and Venezuela, with huge oil earnings, rose 100 to 124. The United States' index for that period was 100 to 145.

GROWING MORE ATTRACTIVE TO FOREIGNERS— Balance Of Payments Likely To Bolster Dollar Further

NEW YORK (AP) — That $2-billion surplus in the nation's balance of payments during the first three months of the year will likely contribute to an even further increase in the dollar's respectability. In the eyes of foreigners, the dollar has been growing increasingly attractive in recent weeks, despite its frayed edges. Some of the petroleum exporting nations are becoming its big supporters.

Illustrating this, foreign bank deposits have been rising in recent weeks. Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. estimates that more than $1 billion poured into U.S. banks from foreign institutions in the 30 days to mid-June. This increase, it said, brought the total second-quarter influx to about $3.5 billion. Among the reasons given for the renewed interest in the dollar was the high rate of interest offered.

The bank, which closely follows developments in foreign exchange, noted that the dollar now was firm against all other major currencies, and much stronger in relation to some. The biggest gain noted for the period from May 13 to June 18 was against the German mark, about 4.75 per cent, and the Italian lira. Against the Japanese yen, the dollar gained 1.75 per cent.

In general, the improvement seems to indicate relatively greater confidence in the U.S. economy, despite its problems, than in the economies of other industrial nations. While serious imbalances exist domestically, they tend to pale when compared with the economic disruptions abroad. Inflation, for example, is at a lower rate in the United States than in many foreign nations. Moreover, the wholesale prices of manufactured goods have been rising at a much greater rate in most industrial nations. One of the reasons is the extremely high cost of energy in many nations that lack a domestic petroleum supply. Balance of payments deficits exist in Japan, France, Italy and the United Kingdom, at least partially because of higher oil prices. While the United States also has a deficit in its oil trade account, its over-all payments balance is in surplus because of other factors, including exports. As a result, those with money to invest tend to overlook the problems in the U.S. economy — problems that in other years might have frightened them away.

In 1919, in World War I, part of a German fleet interned at Scapa Flow in Scotland was scuttled by the German crewmen. In 1945, Japanese forces on the island of Okinawa surrendered to the Americans. In 1963, the Roman Catholic archbishop of Milan, Italy was elected Pope. He took the name Paul VI.

Ten years ago: Communist China warned underdeveloped nations that they would become subject to Soviet domination if they accepted aid from the Soviets.

Five years ago: At least 62 persons were killed when an express train derailed near Benares, India.

One year ago: The U.S. Supreme Court handed down a new set of guidelines on obscenity, giving local authorities more control over books, magazines, plays and motion pictures.

Today's birthdays: Actress Jane Russell is 53. Opera singer Judith Raskin is 48. Thought for today: To err is human, to forgive divine — Alexander Pope, English poet, 1688-1744.

Thief Makes Hay With Cops Away

DALLAS (AP) — Two Dallas policemen answered a burglary alarm at an auto parts store here and when they got to the scene they found the burglars had fled leaving a basket full of loot outside the store.

The officers watched over the basket until a search unit arrived to check the store for fingerprints. Then everybody went inside.

When the officers came out, they discovered someone had stolen the basket.

Car Buyers Find It Costs More To Spend Less Now

By OWEN ULLMANN
 DETROIT (AP) — New car buyers are victims of an apparent paradox these days: It costs more to spend less.

That's because luxury, option-packed automobiles have escaped the price boosts that hit the smaller, less expensive cars.

A two-door Cadillac Eldorado with popular options, for example, costs $9,965 — only 3 per cent more than it did four years ago. And that includes extra safety and emission control features that weren't available at the start of the 1971 model year.

A two-door subcompact Ford Pinto with popular options is $2,776 — almost 28 per cent more expensive than the $2,179 it cost four years ago. Last year the same Pinto cost $3,230.

Overall, car prices have risen about one-tenth the 24 per cent rate of all retail products between October 1970 and April of this year, according to the federal Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Imports have jumped in price even more than the American small cars because of higher inflation abroad and revaluation of the dollar in 1971. A typical Volkswagen Beetle cost $1, 875 at new-model introduction in the fall of 1970 — $300 cheaper than the Pinto. Today it's up 46 per cent — to $2,738.

The general pricing strategy employed by automakers during the period has been to limit big percentage increases to smaller cars. That is where the demand is and thus the profit. In 1973, small cars, domestic and imported, comprised 40 per cent of the 11.4 million units sold. Small car demand

Bentzen Addresses Democratic Forum

HOUSTON (AP) — Democrats here unveil their Houston Democratic forum today, an effort to attract top Democrats to this city, with a speech by U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentzen who makes his home here.

Steve Oaks, the Democratic party chairman here, says the forum will meet four times per year to hear speakers from a wide spectrum of the party, ranging from Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., to Gov. George Wallace of Alabama.

"We propose to invite leading Democrats who will explore their varying approaches and differing ideas of how we can solve some of our nation's problems," Oaks said.

"We're very pleased to have Sen. Bentzen, who is Texas' best known Democrat on the national level, as our first speaker," Oaks added.

Advertise Or Be Forgotten!

reached a peak in January at the height of the fuel shortage scare, capturing 54 per cent of the market before leveling off to 48 per cent during the last several months.

Auto executives predict the small car market share will average 51 per cent at the end of the current year and could hit up to 65 per cent within the next two years or so.

The increases in small car prices cover all companies.

Industry analysts say that pricing pattern is the result of two major factors — price controls and unrealistically low prices of imports during the early 1970s.

The auto companies were under controls throughout most of this four-year period. As a result, one analyst explains, they were limited in how high they could raise average prices.

The more small car prices increased, the less big car prices could go up without exceeding Cost of Living Council price ceilings.

At the same time, the analyst said, the price of imports in 1971 were "unrealistically low and distorted" because of an imbalance in foreign currency exchange rates.

Each of the major U.S. automakers has raised prices this model year three or more times. Controls were removed from the industry last December.

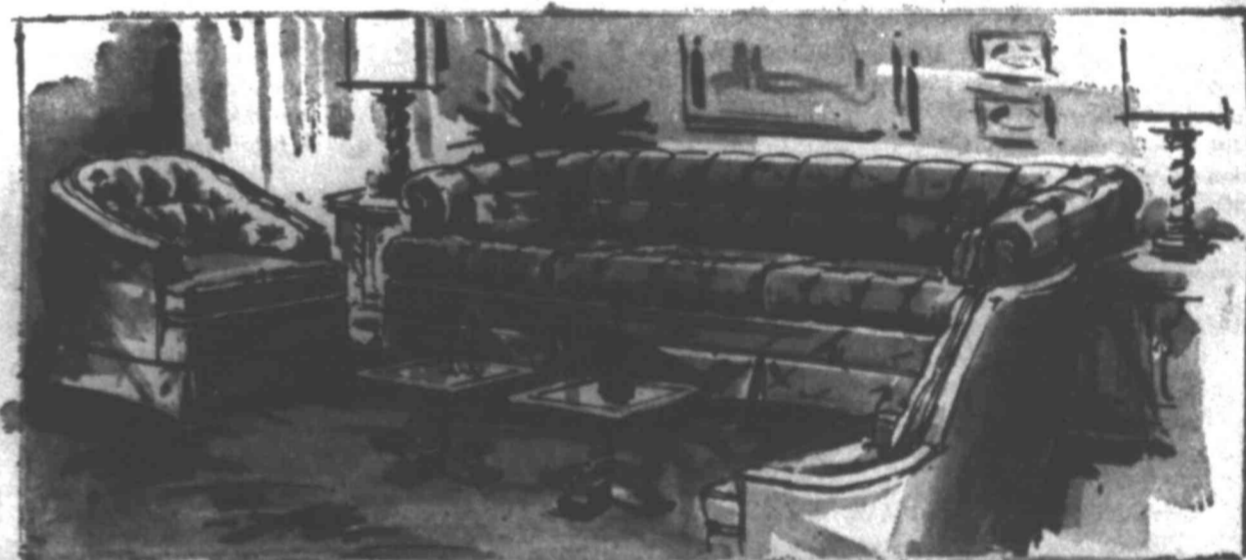

In addition to inflation, the companies say recent increases are a result of stricter government emission and safety regulations which have forced the firms to add costly equipment.

Bilderberg Think Tank Meetings Are Continuing

By JOHN GALE
 AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands (AP) — It's been 20 years since Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands first produced his formula for promoting the cause of transatlantic harmony. He introduced the idea of an international think tank, comprising top people from the United States and Western Europe, able to speak with total frankness on issues ruffling the Atlantic alliance.

Always, however, the chairman has been Bernhard, the German-born prince who married Queen Juliana while she was still a princess. Bernhard later fought with the Allies in World War II.

Gerald R. Ford attended two Bilderberg meetings long before he became vice president of the United States.

"You don't really belong to the organization; one gets an invitation from the prince," Ford said in 1965.

At various other times, the prince has requested and obtained the presence of Henry A. Kissinger — 1971, Woodstock, Vt. — Helmut Schmidt, now West German chancellor — 1973, Salsjobergen, Sweden — former U.S. Secretaries of State Dean Rusk and Christian A. Herter; Thomas E. Dewey, former governor of New York and twice Republican presidential nominee; former British Prime Minister Edward Heath; Amintore Fanfani of Italy and so on.

Bernhard promised the conferees privacy, and the 1974 meeting in April was no exception.

It was held in a luxury hotel at the French ski resort of Megeve. Before the meeting, Bernhard entered the downtown press center, the Megev Sports Hall, which was practically surrounded by police for the occasion.

He announced who had been invited to the meeting and what the topic would be. He then declared there would be no more information on the three-day session.

Reporters were never allowed to enter the hotel where the sessions were held.

There was only one topic at the meeting: prospects for the Atlantic world.

Eighty persons were invited and among those Americans who turned up were NATO commander Gen. Andrew Goodpastor; former U.S. Undersecretary of State George Ball, David Rockefeller, head of the Chase Manhattan Bank, and Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn.

Bernhard has made it clear that participants who deal with the press won't be invited back. Apart from that, he likes to change the faces. There is often a 50 per cent switch in representation from one year to the next.

Procedures have become well established. The main speakers get 10 minutes, other participants are limited to 5. Papers written by both American and European participants are distributed in English and French, the two languages of the conference. Votes are never taken and titles are never used. A government official or an ambassador is plain mister. Bernhard is Mr. Chairman.

"The purpose of the conference," he has said, "is that eminent persons in every field get the opportunity to speak freely without being hindered by the knowledge that their words and ideas will be eventually criticized in the press."

His pulling power appears to date from World War II, having taken his family into exile, he won his wings with Britain's Royal Air Force and reputedly got into rows with the British for going on unofficial bombing excursions over Germany.

He ended the war as commander in chief of the Dutch armed forces and a good friend of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Bernhard, now 82, unhesitatingly used his wartime contacts to get the Bilderberg conception rolling. He has consistently asserted its only aim is to foster the transatlantic relationship.

Bernhard clearly expects that within influential circles, the ideas emerging from Bilderberg will make their impression.

All Of Town's Voters On Ballot For Elections

BEVERLY BEACH, Fla. (AP) — There's never a voter recognition problem during local elections in this tiny Atlantic Coast town. All 18 registered voters know each other, and they're all on the ballot.

"We just put everybody on the slip," says city clerk Marcella Leatherwood, whose husband, Granville, is mayor. She said those who get the most votes "turn out to be our mayor and city commissioners."

The mayor and five commissioners are elected annually in a nonpartisan vote. Mrs. Leatherwood says the system has worked without a hitch since the town of 80 residents was incorporated 19 years ago.

"We've had some close elections, even ties, but I never heard a nasty word or seen evidence of any hurt feelings," she says. "Folks just abide by the vote 'cause it's the democratic way."

Two years ago, two citizens were deadlocked for one commissioner post. A special ballot was drawn and a second vote broke the tie.

Leatherwood, 58, was re-elected mayor last month. The incumbent five commissioners also won.

All six elected posts are unsalaried, but Mrs. Leatherwood, 57, says there has been some talk of offering a stipend for her appointed job.

"There's so much red tape with the state and the federal revenue sharing," she says. "These bookkeeping duties would get the best of me if I didn't get help. . . . Those boys in Tallahassee and Washington want five or six copies of everything."

Beverly Beach, about 20 miles north of Daytona Beach, has for years successfully fought off annexation proposals by neighboring Flagler Beach.

But the town may begin to expand if a proposed mobile home complex is annexed. It could increase the population greatly and force a change in the town's voting procedures.

You don't have to be a scientist to realize that these tons of rocks are held in check by perfect balance.

This kind of balance results in inertia. There is another state of being that results in sound initiative and worthwhile action.

You've heard men speak of a balanced background, a balanced education, a balanced life. They're usually referring to the fact that no important element has been ignored or neglected.

Religious sincerity is one necessary for this kind of balance. It cannot take the place of any of the other essentials. Nor can anything else take its place.

The Church is constantly helping us gain—and keep—our balance!

$200 Million Soviet Pact Given New York Company

MOSCOW (AP) — The Chemical Construction Corp. of New York has won the largest Soviet contract ever granted to an American firm. Worth about $200 million, it covers the developing and equipping of the first four plants of a huge ammonia-fertilizer complex.

The contract was signed Thursday at the Soviet Foreign Trade Ministry by John Clarke, head of the Chemico division responsible for the project, and the head of the Soviet foreign trade department supervising the deal.

Also present was Armand Hammer, chairman of Occidental Petroleum, who negotiated the master Soviet-American agreement under which the complex is being built.

The U.S. Export-Import Bank last month granted a $180-million loan to the Soviet Union for construction of the complex. American commercial banks are to match this sum.

Under a proposed 20-year deal, the Soviet Union will buy superphosphates produced in Florida by an Occidental consortium and use them to make a type of fertilizer greatly needed by Soviet agriculture.

In return the Soviets will ship the United States urea and ammonia to be used in production of nitrogen fertilizers. The new plants will produce the urea and ammonia from natural gas from the Soviet Union's Orenburg field. Chairman William Casey of the Export-Import Bank said this would free enough American natural gas to heat a million homes a year.

In April 1973, when the initial protocol was signed, Hammer estimated it would generate $8 billion in trade. On Thursday he increased his estimate to more than $20 billion, explaining that the price of ammonia and phosphates had more than doubled.

Chemico is to supply the designs, engineering, material, construction advisers and equipment for four plants at Togliatti, on the Volga river about 400 miles east of Moscow. Each will produce 1,360 tons of ammonia a day.

Clarke said he expects construction to start by Jan. 1 with completion four years later. The Soviets plan to build four more plants in the complex, but the contracts for them have not been let yet.

Milk Co-Op Closer Now To Settlement Of Antitrust Case

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Attempting to remove "an unfair legal burden" to dairy farmers, the board of Associated Milk Producers, Inc., has stepped closer to an out-of-court settlement of a federal antitrust case.

An executive of the nation's largest milk cooperative and a dairyman who is a member of the co-op's legal committee both confirmed Thursday the board has approved a proposed consent decree.

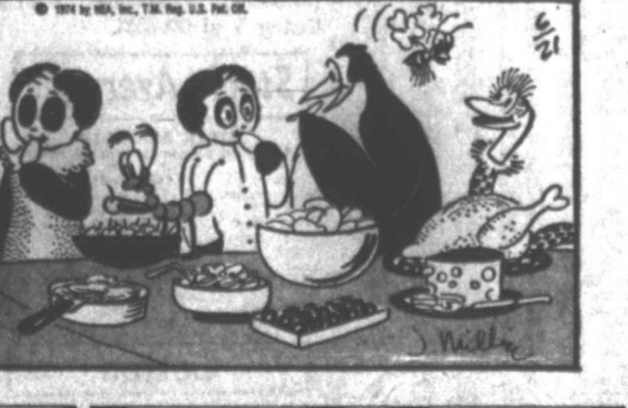

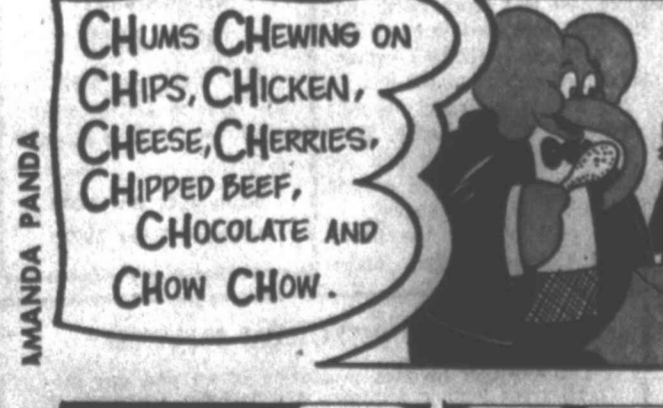

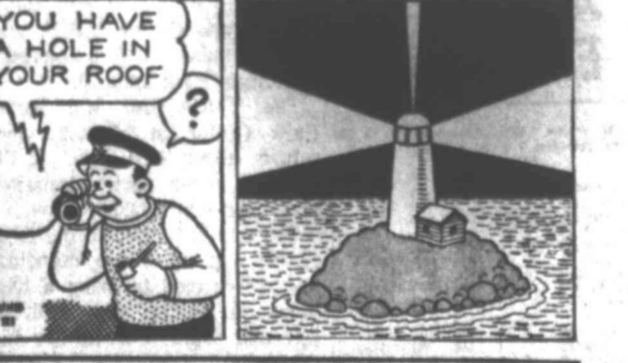

If the proposed consent decree by AMPI is accepted by the Justice Department in Washington and entered as an order by a federal judge, the complicated case won't come to trial.

The suit, alleging AMPI used strongarm tactics in 14 Midwestern states, was filed Feb. 1, 1972, here but has since been moved to Kansas City. Numerous depositions have been taken, millions of documents have been reproduced and AMPI sources say the legal costs may total between $3 million and $4 million.

From the depositions and documents emerged some of the disclosures in the Watergate-related milk fund controversy, including a $100,000 contribution to President Nixon's campaign in 1969, which an AMPI lawyer declared was illegal. The disclosures vexed and disappointed some AMPI members but many feel any political wheel-dealings were by former management.

The AMPI board established a three-man legal committee in December 1973. Committee member Scott Donoho of Floresville, Tex., says, "It is the object of our legal committee to bring all the legal difficulties AMPI found itself in to a conclusion at the earliest possible date with fairness to dairy farmers."

Donoho says, "Dairy farmers feel that this legal burden was an unjust burden and it must be terminated."

Raw Sex On Decline In American Films?

By BOB THOMAS
LOS ANGELES (AP) — For 10 years, American films have piled shock upon shock as movie makers responded to the Sexual Revolution. Now the trend seems to be slowing.

"I've noticed it in the scripts I read," says Jack Lemmon, winner of this year's best actor Oscar. "The raw sex seems to be on the decline."

"After all, what is left to shock people? Everything has been done on the screen, and familiarity makes things no longer shocking. If everybody streaked, nobody would notice."

"Even so, look how fast streaking has faded as a craze."

Lemmon's views are shared by other leaders of the film community. Says Robert Wise, maker of "The Sound of Music" and "The Andromeda Strain," and president of the Directors Guild of America: "I see a definite trend away from daring material on the screen. Not only because audiences have grown accustomed to it. There is also a concern on the part of most filmmakers about what course the Supreme Court will take."

Wise referred to the June 1973 decision by the U.S. Supreme Court allowing states and communities to decide their own standards of obscenity. Mike Nichols' "Carnal Knowledge" was ruled obscene in Albany, Ga., and an appeal is pending before the Supreme Court.

"Personally, I know of eight films that have not been made because of the decision," said director John Frankenheimer of "The Manchurian Candidate."

Sue Mengers, who represents Barbara Streisand, Gene Hackman and other stars for the Creative Management Agency, observed that the studios have been afraid of the X-rated picture for the last couple of years.

The reasons for that fear include the Supreme Court decision and the threat of having to fight legal battles in communities where such films are banned, plus the damage to corporate dignity.

At least one filmmaker believes there is a trend toward implicit vs. explicit sex on the screen for esthetic reasons. Says Tom Gries, director of "The Hawaiians" and "QB VII": "I've always felt that graphic sex does a disservice to the film and is counterproductive. I base that on my belief that the American audience in particular is not ready to sit through a sex scene. It takes them out of the story and makes each person aware of himself."

"This is not any moral abjuration. I simply believe, and most directors and producers agree, that it just doesn't work to put sex scenes in movies."

Another filmmaker, Jack Smight, now directing "Airport 1975," said he sees a decline in depiction of sex in movies. "From now on, I think it will be used only when it fits into the story, not extraneously."

Smight observed that the current trend is away from the intimate story which lent itself to sexual scenes.

Producers are no longer concerned with the relationship of two people; the big thing now is the catastrophe film. All-star casts are fighting to survive earthquake in "Earthquake," fire in "The Towering Inferno," air disaster in "Airport, 1975," "Hindenburg," etc.

Actress Susan Clark cites another trend against sex in films: "Love stories in films nowadays are not about man and woman — they concern man and man. Instead of Clark Gable and Jean Harlow, it's Paul Newman and Robert Redford."

The decline of interest in sex movies has hit the pornography industry, too.

"Our biggest problem is apathy," explains David Friedman, president of the Adult Film Association and maker of such pornoflicks as "The Erotic Adventures of Zorro" and "Trader Horny."

"Business for adult films is way off, and I don't see another 'Deep Throat' happening again."

Friedman estimates there are 730 theaters playing sex movies the year around, with a steady audience of one million to two million.

When the major film companies "dipped their toes into our pool" with X-rated films like "A Clockwork Orange" and "Last Tango in Paris," more theaters and wider audiences were opened up for adult movies, Friedman said.

"Then came 'Deep Throat' and 'Behind the Green Door,' which were creations of the media. Without all the national publicity, they would have done ordinary business."

"But everyone read about Linda Lovelace, and for the first time, sex movies were getting the carriage trade. I would guess some 30 million people saw 'Deep Throat.'"

"Some were amused, some were shocked. But most of them said, 'All right, I've seen a porno film. I don't need to see another one.'"

U.S. Will Try To Broaden Influence In Middle East

By KENNETH J. FREED
(An AP News Analysis)
WASHINGTON (AP) — The American strategy for the Middle East now calls for a lengthy cooling-down period while the United States tries to broaden its influence in the area.

With the region still nearly awe-struck by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's success in disengagement negotiations and with President Nixon's trip having cemented the U.S. position, Kissinger wants to let things quiet down. U.S. officials who traveled on both Nixon's and Kissinger's planes in the Middle East say this means the Geneva peace conference won't start until late fall.

This timetable is emphasized by Kissinger's tentative travel plans, which now call for a possible September trip to Moscow and India and a visit to China a month later.

However, such a Middle East cooling-off period does not mean Kissinger will overlook the area. He intends to try to draw Iraq and Libya, two of the most radical Arab states, into the web of U.S. influence. The two countries are important to Kissinger because they represent a destabilizing factor and because they are strongholds of Soviet influence.

Kissinger's strategy has been to increase American influence among the Arabs by making their reliance on the Russians so frustrating and unpleasant they would have to turn to Washington.

This worked with Egypt and Syria, particularly during the October 1973 war, but Kissinger expects Iraq and Libya to be more difficult.

For one thing, the Soviets are much more firmly entrenched in those two countries. They are, therefore, less able to turn away from Moscow. And at the same time this means the Russians will be much more determined to hold on after the major American gains in Syria and Egypt.

Kissinger is expected to begin with Iraq, if for no other reason than the erratic leadership of Libya makes it almost impossible to conduct business.

A waiting period before Geneva also will allow both sides to consider the realities of the three main issues still unresolved—fate of the Palestinian Arabs, Jerusalem and Israel's borders.

The United States has taken no detailed stand and won't until it appears the Arabs and Israelis hold irreconcilable positions.

That appears to be the case already. Not even the Arabs can agree among themselves concerning the Palestinians.

Other than to say something must be done. On the question of Jerusalem, Saudi Arabian King Faisal is demanding the eviction of Israel from the Holy City and is waving another oil boycott in the face of the United States if he doesn't get his way.

Both Egypt and Syria say they will accept nothing less than total return of Arab territory now held by Israel. Syria, particularly, is said to have told Kissinger it would fight if all its territory is not returned.

LABOR PARTY LOSES VOTE—

Wilson Is Under Increased Pressure To Call British General Election

LONDON (AP) — The minority Labor government was defeated in Parliament today for the third time in three days, putting Prime Minister Harold Wilson under increased pressure to call Britain's second general elections in less than a year.

The vote was not on a motion of confidence, and Wilson is not bound to resign. Under the British system the prime minister is free to call elections at any time, but if he loses on a motion of confidence he is expected to call a ballot promptly.

But several members of Wilson's cabinet reportedly are urging him to call general elections this summer to seek a clear majority for Labor.

Today's 49-42 defeat was on a government proposal to amend a proposed lottery bill.

Thursday night the House of Commons by a 21-vote margin rejected a government proposal to nationalize or take partial control of a number of industries.

On Wednesday the Commons by nine votes rejected Labor's plan to refund $24 million in taxes to trade unions, and the government suffered four minor defeats in a committee considering its finance bill.

Robert Mellish, Labor's blunt floor manager, said the defeat of the nationalization proposal was "a clear indication to the country that the minority government cannot proceed very much longer. The electorate must now be ready and must understand why there will have to be a general election."

Wilson said only that his party would "consider all the implications" of its defeat.

YOU'RE BEAUTIFUL — One of three rare white Bengal tigers, right, gets brotherly nudge from his brother following their births Thursday at the Cincinnati Zoo. Only 30 such rare animals are known to exist in the entire world. Odds on three white Bengals being born are too high to figure, officials said. The white Bengals have gray stripes and ice-blue eyes. The cub on the left is a normal orange and the only normal one among the four born. Round-the-clock care has been set up for the four. (AP Wirephoto.)

AT CINCINNATI ZOO— Three White Tiger Cubs Born

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Whining and whimpering, three rare white tiger cubs were watched around the clock by anxious zoo officials today.

The odds that their tawny orange Bengal mother would produce just one white cub were 4 to 1. But 8-year-old Kesari, descendant of the first white tiger brought to the United States, produced three white cubs and one orange cub Thursday.

Pepper Wilson, spokesman for the Cincinnati Zoo, said there are only about 30 white tigers known to exist in the world. Five are in the United States, he said.

Not albinos, they are the result of a genetic quirk.

The three new-born cubs have greyish fur with black stripes. Later, their fur will lighten. Their noses and paw pads are pink.

As any newborn kitten, their eyes are tightly closed. But when they open, they should be icy blue, like those of their ancestors.

Kesari rejected two of her cubs, a white male and an orange male which despite his color will have the potential to sire white cubs.

"She is taking good care of two of them," Wilson said. "She is licking their ears and nursing them. But she rejected two others."

The two rejected cubs are getting the kid glove treatment. Bottle-fed with concentrated milk and coddled by an 80-degree incubator, the two became instant hits at the 99-year-old zoo.

"We had people jammed in the building a couple hours after news of the births got out."

Midlanders Among Largest NTSU Class

DENTON — The largest class in the university's history some 1,276 students, were awarded degrees recently in the annual spring commencement exercises at North Texas State University.

Midlanders in the record graduating class included James R. Compton of 4009 Monty Drive, who received a master's degree in accounting. Receiving bachelor degrees were Myrtice P. Gillespie of 1710 N. Weatherford, clothing and textiles; Mrs. Nancy Robinson of 3110 Shell St., secondary education; Carolyn M. Moore of 1805 Ward St., journalism, and Diane Evelyn Horton of 3601 W. Shandon St., music education.

around," said Wilson. But no one is being allowed near the mother and the two white cubs she has chosen to nurse.

"A sudden noise or anything that would frighten her and she'd kill the babies," Wilson said.

Survival of the four is the primary concern at the moment.

"The situation with all of them will remain critical for several days. This race of tiger has a history of genetic problems," Wilson said. The cubs' father, Ramana, died in the past week.

The cubs in the incubators are handled gingerly by smock-wearing workers.

"Anyone with so much as a case of the sniffles doesn't get close to them. We're not taking any chances. We're pulling all stops to give them the best chances," said Wilson. "This is important to the world."

The cubs weigh about 3 pounds each. Full-grown, the white tigers will weigh 400 to 500 pounds, considerably more than the average orange Bengal.

The five white tigers in the United States are all descended from Mohan, a male who was captured in India by the Maharaja of Rewa in 1951. Only nine have been sighted in India since the turn of the century.

Kesari was loaned to Cincinnati by the National Zoo in Washington, D.C., where several generations of Mohan's descendants have been housed.

Watergate Has Little Impact On Summer White House Interns

By ANN BLACKMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Used to be a college kid could impress his friends by landing a summer job at the White House.

But Watergate has changed that.

"I've been told I'm signing up on the S.S. Titanic," said Linda Smith, a 22-year-old Wheaton College graduate.

"You say you're working at the White House, and you run into a lot of verbal abuse sometimes," added Michael Mulligan, 21, of Newburyport, Mass.

"I come from a Republican conservative area," said Judy Wilson of Cheyenne, Wyo. "And I've had some people say some negative things, like 'How could you go to work for someone up for impeachment?'"

The trio's laughter at each other's stories, underscored, however, what little impact such comments have on the attitudes and enthusiasm of this summer's White House 37 interns.

The 19 women and 18 men were chosen from 350 applicants to work in White House offices including the National Security Council, Domestic Council, news offices and Mrs. Nixon's office.

College students earn $125 a week, graduate students $150.

get anywhere else ... It's seeing what happens in the executive branch from the inside."

Mulligan, a senior at Middlebury College in Vermont, helps with liaison work between the administration and big business.

"I had the impression when I came that everyone in the White House would be totally concerned with saving the President," he said. "But in my office, they're not consumed by Watergate."

Miss Wilson, a 21-year-old Fulbright scholar who recently was graduated from the University of Wyoming, helps edit the news summaries delivered daily to President Nixon and his aides.

"You're constantly called on to figure out how you feel about each issue," she said. "You constantly have to be aware of what your opinion is."

Kelly Duncan, a 20-year-old junior at Georgetown University and a registered Democrat from New Orleans, La., said that by talking to White House staffers about their jobs and how Watergate has affected White House operations, he is able to draw his own conclusions about how the scandal has affected the executive branch.

"I had no second thoughts on coming back after last year," said Miss Smith, of Ardmore, Pa., who works for Mrs. Nixon's press secretary, Helen Smith. (They are not related).

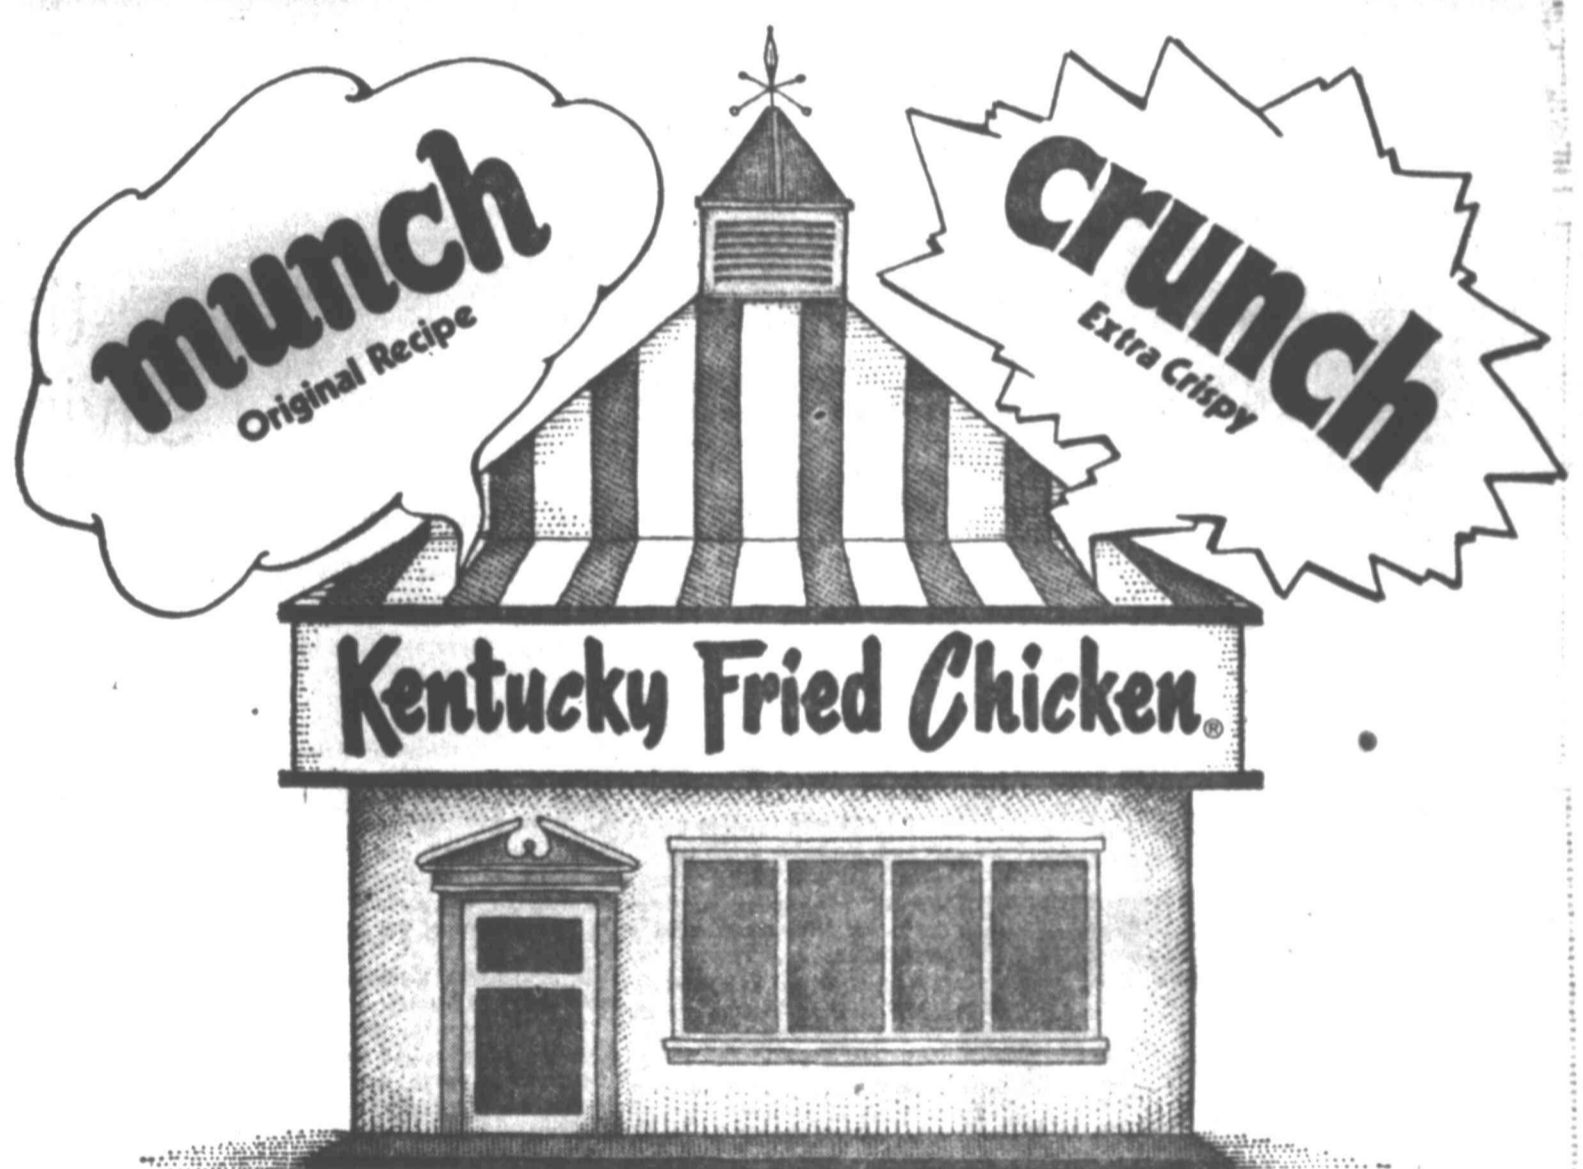

"It's an experience I wouldn't trade for anything."

Jacobsen May Plead Guilty To Bribery

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon decided to order the Texas lawyer Jake Jacobsen to plead guilty to a reduced charge of bribery in connection with $10,000 he says he offered to former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, according to informed sources.

Jacobsen, who once swore that Connally refused the money, is offering to testify that Connally actually took it in two installments for help he gave Jacobsen's client, Associated Milk Producers Inc., the sources said. Connally consistently has denied taking the money.

In return for a guilty plea and Jacobsen's promise of cooperation, the Watergate special prosecution force has agreed to drop its perjury case against him and to arrange for the Justice Department to drop an unrelated indictment in a Texas savings-and-loan case.

All told, Jacobsen could receive maximum punishment of up to 40 years and $80,000 in fines if convicted on all counts in the Watergate and Texas cases. Sources said the Watergate prosecutors offered to allow him to plead guilty instead to the least serious felony charge of bribery, which carries a maximum penalty of two years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

Jacobsen had sought to have all charges reduced to misdemeanors because conviction of a felony almost certainly would lead to loss of his right to practice law, the sources said.

However, the prosecutors insisted on stiffer terms, and Jacobsen's lawyer, Charles A. McNelis, agreed to the bribe charge more than two weeks ago, the sources said. Jacobsen wants to resolve the charges against him because his wife is in poor health and needs constant attention, a source said.

Jacobsen, McNelis and spokesmen for the Justice Department and the Watergate prosecutors all declined comment.

Connally could not be reached but his lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, said he had heard rumors of an impending deal.

Jacobsen represented the milk producers in 1971 and arranged for his old friend Connally to work within the administration for an increase in federal milk price supports.

Connally argued strongly for a price increase at a White House meeting at which President

Constitution Delegates Expected To Back Down On Special Sessions

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Constitutional Convention delegates badly wanted to give themselves as legislators the power to call special sessions. But they were expected to back down today under prodding from Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

A preliminary tally Thursday indicated Briscoe will get the two-thirds vote necessary to pull that power out of the legislative article of a new Texas Constitution.

Compromises worked out with the governor on two other provisions dealing with the balance of power between the executive and legislative branches were approved Thursday.

A 106-41 vote changed the required majority to override a veto from two thirds of those present and voting to three-fifths the total membership of each house.

Briscoe agreed to a provision allowing legislators to convene in brief special sessions to consider overriding a veto. But he insisted on greater majority than the 51 per cent originally proposed to call such a session.

The convention voted 113-37 for a compromise requiring a three-fifths majority of each house on a petition calling a "veto session."

Briscoe's attitude toward a new constitution seemed to be the main subject of Thursday's floor session, and the governor's wife watched and listened for a time from the spectator's gallery.

A convention leader, Rep. Neil Caldwell, D-Angleton, said Briscoe's support was "exceedingly important."

"I think if he opposed the document, he could kill it," Caldwell said. Voter approval is needed before a new constitution can take effect.

Briscoe has asserted that the legislative article as approved before the compromises were reached would weaken the governor's power.

Rep. Larry Bales, D-Austin, urged the delegates to keep the section allowing lawmakers to call themselves into special session by a petition of two-thirds of each house. He reminded them of Briscoe's refusal thus far to call a session to deal with the financial crisis faced by many public school districts.

Being Good Samaritan Almost Costs Man His Life

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Being a Good Samaritan has almost cost Tommy Howard his life.

Howard, 50, has been collecting money for Mattie Morrison, a crippled woman who lost everything when her home burned during the Symbionese Liberation Army shootout with police here May 17. Since Howard's efforts were detailed in news stories, he has been attacked twice.

Howard was robbed Tuesday as he sat next to the glass jar he keeps for donations from sightseers who visit the shoot-out site.

"There were two men," Howard said Thursday. "One reached for the jar and I said, 'Man, don't mess with the jar...that's for the lady who lived here. She's a cripple.' But he said 'No, I got to have it. I need it myself.'"

The man then pulled out a straight razor and, forcing Howard back, took the meager contents of the jar and fled with a companion, Howard said.

"I figured I got to find him," Howard said. "So I drove around and I found him...and I called the police and they got him. You can't let them kind of people get away."

Police arrested Thomas Ford, 29, who was charged with petty theft and displaying a weapon in a threatening manner, authorities said.

On Wednesday, two angry women approached Howard as he sat next to a poster asking donations, demanding to know why he wasn't collecting money for them. They too were burned out during the shootout.

"Well, if you ain't gonna help me, I'm gonna bust this up," Howard quoted one of the women as saying.

"Then she pulled the sign down, and the other one she hit me with a board," Howard said.

Loan Program To Aid Stock Producers Moving Ahead In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A loan program to assist hard-pressed livestock producers is moving toward final shape in the Senate after Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz qualified Nixon administration opposition to it.

Butz said Thursday he still basically opposed the measure as a bad precedent. But he said he preferred to recommend safeguards that might improve it.

Senate debate was scheduled for today on the $3 billion measure, which would provide guaranteed loans to livestock, dairy and poultry farmers stricken by the eight-month price decline at the farm level.

A vote on the measure is set for Monday.

Butz said he feels the livestock producers' situation—with losses for many of up to $200 an animal as costs have steadily risen—has bottomed out.

The secretary predicted that relatively few farmers and ranchers will go completely broke as a result of the decline.

Butz also stepped slightly back from an earlier threat to recommend retaliation if Canada does not soon agree to a system that would reopen its market to U.S. beef, a $100-million-a-year outlet for American cattle.

Butz said his talk of possible retaliation was not meant as interference with Canadian government decisions, only as a reflection of "the position in this country."

In Ottawa, the Canadian cabinet met after the Butz statement and decided to keep the beef ban in force, sources said. No beef or cattle can enter unless the United States certifies none had ever been exposed to DES, a growth booster found to cause cancer in laboratory animals.

Hobby Fined $100, Given Probated Sentence

By ROBERT HEARD

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby has been fined $100 and given a 30-day jail sentence, probated for nine months, following his arrest on charges of driving while intoxicated.

Immediately after his court appearance Thursday afternoon here the lieutenant governor, accompanied by his wife, Diana, stood before newsmen and television cameras and asked Texans to judge him on his overall performance and not only on the arrest incident.

"Needless to say," Hobby stated, "I am extremely sorry about this incident. I hope the people of Texas will judge me on the basis of all my actions."

Hobby was arrested at 2:48 a.m. Thursday. He told officers he was taking Miss Ann Chisholm, 33, of London, England, back to her University of Texas lodging after a private picnic in the hills west of Austin.

Hobby appeared before Judge Mary Pearl Williams with his wife, who had flown in from Houston early in the day. Mrs. Hobby smiled and chatted with reporters and positioned herself next to her husband as he spoke to reporters.

Hobby said he did not expect the incident to affect his political career.

Moments earlier, he stood with hands clasped behind him in front of Judge Williams' bench. His voice was barely audible.

Mrs. Hobby declined comment, except to say she thought Hobby's remarks adequately covered the matter.

Hobby paid the $100 fine in cash, plus $40 court costs and $90 probation fee.

Sheriff's officers took prints of all 10 of the lieutenant governor's fingers. There was considerable paperwork, including swearing to probation conditions such as "avoid persons or places of disreputable or harmful character," "drink no alcoholic beverages" and "work faithfully at suitable employment as far as possible." Hobby is president of the Houston Post.

He also had a 10-minute talk with his probation officer.

The entire process, from the time the judge walked into the courtroom at 4 p.m. until Hobby left the courthouse, took 47 minutes.

Miss Chisholm is a journalist doing research at the university for a biography of Nancy Cunard, the great-granddaughter of the founder of Cunard Steamship Lines, Miss Cunard died in 1965 at age of 68 after years of championing civil rights for blacks.

Hobby, 42, said Miss Chisholm was a friend of the family.

She said she met him last week and saw him for the second time Wednesday. They left his Northwest Austin home between 8 and 9 p.m. for the picnic, she said.

A university student from Houston working on a master's degree in library science, whom Miss Chisholm identified as Kay Peters, lives in a garage apartment behind the Hobby home. Miss Chisholm said Miss Peters declined to go on the picnic.

Police say Hobby refused to take a Breathalyzer test, which would have indicated the amount of whatever alcohol he had in his blood.

A justice of the peace could suspend Hobby's driver's license if he determines Hobby indeed refused to take the test.

A petition to the JP for an administrative hearing would be filed within 30 days after the Department of Public Safety receives an affidavit from Austin police that Hobby declined to take the test.

Police Chief Bob Miles said such an affidavit would be sent to DPS. "This case will be treated no differently than any other," Miles said.

Heavy Turnout Seen In Lamesa Election

LAMESA — A heavy turnout is expected here Saturday on a proposal to allow the sale within the city limits of liquor for off-premises consumption.

Wet and dry forces are waging heated campaigns on the issue.

When the absentee voting period ended Tuesday, 601 ballots had been cast. That is more than twice as many absentee votes as have ever been cast in Dawson County.

According to county clerk Louise White.

The proposal would allow Lamesa grocery stores to obtain permits to sell beer, and package stores would be allowed within the city limits.

Proponents of the issue say it will improve Lamesa's economy. Opponents argue that a dry city is a better place to rear a family.

The dry faction calls itself Citizens Against Legalized Liquor. CALL. CALL has advised heavily in the Lamesa newspaper and on radio. Last week, CALL contacted all registered voters in Lamesa.

"We don't feel this proposal will bring any improvements to Lamesa," said the Rev. Gerrold Lake, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene.

Isreal Ybanez, who initiated the issue, said Lamesans who want to buy liquor must go to Midland, Big Spring, Lubbock and on radio. Last week, CALL contacted all registered voters in Lamesa.

"We don't feel this proposal will bring any improvements to Lamesa," said the Rev. Gerrold Lake, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene.

Isreal Ybanez, who initiated the issue, said Lamesans who want to buy liquor must go to Midland, Big Spring, Lubbock

And since they have to go so far for one item," he said, "they go ahead and do a little extra shopping there."

Ybanez estimated $75,000-$100,000 a year in liquor sales taxes are lost by Lamesa. "If we allow liquor purchases in the city, then we will keep Lamesa money here. It will be great for our economy," he said.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. until 7 p.m. All four voting boxes will be in the Dawson County Courthouse.

It's Frightening Times For Patty Look-Alikes As Officers Search For Hearst Girl, Harrises

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Driving down U.S. 101 south of Santa Barbara, Linda Lipsett, her husband Don and a female friend were trying to figure out why a Highway Patrol car had tailed them for 20 miles.

Suddenly another patrol car appeared behind them and then a sheriff's car shot off a ramp, followed by another patrol car.

Mrs. Lipsett remarked, "Boy! They're really after somebody."

She was right. Officers thought the Lipsetts and their friend were Patricia Hearst and her two Symbionese Liberation Army captors-turned-comrades.

Moments later, terrified and bewildered, the three were lying face down on the pavement, seven officers holding pistols and rifles on them.

Explanation Later

Mrs. Lipsett said they pleaded with the officers to explain what was happening but were told, "Be quiet."

The explanation came minutes later.

"We thought you might have been Patty Hearst and Emily and William Harris," an officer said. Their identities established, the Lipsetts and their friend, Katie Rowland, stood up and brushed off their clothes.

"We were absolutely panicked," Mrs. Lipsett said. "We thought they were going to shoot us."

Other Californians have had similar experiences during the police search for the Harrises and Miss Hearst, the newspaper heiress who was kidnapped Feb. 4 and is now sought as an SLA terrorist.

The FBI says it has no clues to the trio's present whereabouts. The last confirmed sighting was at an Inglewood, Calif., sporting goods store on May 16, the day before six other SLA members died in a fiery shootout with authorities in Los Angeles.

Police say they don't know how many people they have stopped since.

Some persons are merely questioned briefly and released. Others are held at the gunpoint until police establish their identities.

Steve Thorp, 25, who owns a van and lives in Los Angeles Topanga Canyon, said he was stopped twice, and the second time police "loose apart" the van looking for evidence.

A Pasadena Star-News reporter was stopped by officers from three squad cars and four motorcycles after he and his wife, while in a coffee shop, showed interest in a newspaper headline about the three fugitives.

Whether a police officer draws a weapon on a Patricia Hearst look-a-like "depends how strongly he feels she looks like Patty," said a Los Angeles police spokesman, Lt. Dan Cooke.

Mark Rosenbaum, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, disputed this, saying: "When the police say they don't receive complaints, that's nonsense. They complain, but not to police."

Two Energy Executives Dispute Who's To Blame For Natural Gas Price Hike

By JOHN LAMPKIN

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Oscar Wyatt of Coastal States Gas Corp. blames three public utilities for the highest natural gas prices in Texas history. A former utility official disputes this and says Wyatt's subsidiary has caused price escalations itself.

Whatever the reason, some natural gas prices at the wellhead had tripled in the last two years.

And, says John Newman of Newman Brothers Drilling Co. here, "Bad as things are today, two months from now you will look back and these will be the good old days."

The competition for newly produced natural gas is fierce, says Newman, who worked at obtaining natural gas for San Antonio's publicly owned utility, City Public Service.

Both Newman and Wyatt, although disagreeing about key elements of the situation, described this week a new dimension of the competition which is occurring.

According to both Newman and Wyatt, Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. customers and others are bidding for precious natural gas against Lo-Vaca. In other words, the customers are buying gas directly from the producer and then contracting with Lo-Vaca to transport it.

Newman says San Antonio, Austin and the Lower Colorado River Authority (LCRA) must try to obtain the gas directly. Lo-Vaca, an intrastate subsidiary of Coastal States, cannot fulfill its contracts with the utilities with the gas it has acquired on its own, Wyatt has said.

Newman, formerly a City Public Service Board member and still knowledgeable in board affairs, says industry is bidding on the direct purchases from the producer also. He adds, "The other thing is the severe competition between the gas pipeline companies."

Newman says, "The ideal situation is that nobody tries to buy gas for themselves. Ideally, only Lo-Vaca is buying gas for their system."

Then, the customers would pay Lo-Vaca for both the gas and transportation costs.

That's the way it used to be. Gas pipeline companies would purchase natural gas at the wellhead from producers and then dispense it to customers on their pipeline systems.

"There are approximately 40 bidders for any new supply of gas that is found and most of them are Lo-Vaca customers," Wyatt said in a statement this week.

"They have ranged from a cement plant in San Antonio to a petrochemical plant in Houston to a refinery in Beaumont, and even to your own City Public Service board management who are out buying gas at pretty high prices all the time."

"With the help of its so-called partners, LCRA and the City of Austin, they have escalated prices at the wellhead to the highest point in the history of Texas and in the shortest period of time," says Wyatt.

Wyatt also says, "So what happened, instead of having three or four intrastate gas companies bidding with a reasonable degree of judgment, there are now many bidders and some of them have questionable judgment and certainly no experience at buying gas on gas pipelines."

While he doesn't quarrel with the pass-through order, he says Lo-Vaca entered a bid in Scurry County moving natural gas prices from $1 a thousand to $1.25. He says he objects to this because another company had "last call" on the gas anyway, meaning it was given the opportunity by contract to take the gas at a higher price when the bidding ended.

Of Wyatt's charges pointed specifically at the utilities, Newman says, "That's not true. The industrial users are doing the same thing and getting them to transport it. We reluctantly had to go out and attempt to get gas..."

Wyatt says establishment of a "fair and reasonable rate by the railroad commission, presumably higher than rates in Lo-Vaca supply contracts with its customers, would enhance Lo-Vaca's chances of buying gas for its pipelines.

Wyatt says the additional costs resulting from the bidding competition "amounts to over $1 million a month" for San Antonio "which is passed on at one point or another to their customers."

Newman, who also fought Lo-Vaca curtailments by buying reserve fuel oil for electrical generation, says of the gas bidding, "If we weren't doing what we were doing, then industry would be buying it."

Natural gas sold for delivery only inside the state was about 50 cents per thousand cubic feet two years ago, says Newman. Now, he says he has heard of natural gas selling for as high as $1.50 per thousand for larger reserves in South Texas.

Natural gas which is to be delivered out of state is lower in price. Those prices are controlled by the federal government. No such controls are on intrastate gas.

Newman says Lo-Vaca, using an order by the Texas Railroad Commission providing for a 100 per cent "pass through" of costs of newly bought gas, has bid up the price in West Texas this year.

While he doesn't quarrel with the pass-through order, he says Lo-Vaca entered a bid in Scurry County moving natural gas prices from $1 a thousand to $1.25. He says he objects to this because another company had "last call" on the gas anyway, meaning it was given the opportunity by contract to take the gas at a higher price when the bidding ended.

Everyone In School Election Squabble Given Board Seat

CHICOTA, Tex. (AP) — A dual controversies this spring, three members of the seven-man board quit.

That left four members, including the two contested seats.

But Tuesday night, a compromise settled everything.

Drake, who originally won the election but according to the court judgment was to lose his seat to Falls, decided to let Falls vote for him to fill the three board vacancies.

Falls, in turn, voted to give Drake one of the vacant seats. The second seat went to Foster and the third to a man not involved in the dispute.

Thus all four parties to the election suit were on the board. And the board also thus had seven unchallenged members for the first time since April.

Case, who had been a winner in both the election and the court suit, said, "I think we've got a crew that will be able to work together."

The settlement ended friction stemming from a June 5 state court ruling that Gene Cass and Jack Falls were winners of an April 6 trustee election and that Richard Drake and Victor Foster were not.

The struggle for board seats coincided with a controversy in Chicota over whether to spend about $4 million to upgrade the district or merge with the North Lamar Independent School District.

The Texas Education Agency ruled last November Chicota must either vastly improve its facilities, merge, or lose accreditation by June 1975.

Shotgun Artist Freed On Bond

DALLAS (AP) — A man identified by police as David McMath Allen, 25, went free under $3,000 bond on charges growing out of a shotgun attack on a Neiman-Marcus specialty store Thursday.

Officers accused him of blasting 50 rounds from a 12-gauge shotgun through the doors and windows of the Neiman store in Dallas' North Park shopping center about 6 a.m., when the store was closed.

The formal charge against him was second degree burglary.

NOT CONCERNED — Despite his league-leading RBI total, Jeff Burroughs, left, of the Texas Rangers, says he is unconcerned whether he is picked to play in the All-Star game this year. Billy Martin, right, Ranger manager, agrees with his slugger that the All-Star pick is not that important. ## Burroughs Leading AL In RBI Race

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Jeff Burroughs, Texas Ranger rightfielder who leads the American League in runs-batted-in and is among the leaders in home runs, hits, doubles and runs scored, isn't sure he would vote himself for the All-Star team if he were a non-player. "Fans never pick rookies and hardly ever pick second-year men," said Burroughs, who is in his second full year with the Rangers. "Most people want to vote for the players they know. "The players who make the All-Star team are the ones who have been the most consistent over the years," he said. Burroughs didn't say he doesn't care whether he makes the starting American League lineup, but he showed no particular excitement when told that he jumped from ninth to sixth in today's release of All-Star balloting results, and was just 44,000 votes from the third place spot among outfielders. Burroughs has 221,962 votes and Detroit's Al Kaline is third with 266,350. The top three voters get starting spots in the outfield. "Jeff has a great future," said Ranger Mgr. Billy Martin. "He's a good hitter and is becoming a good all-around player. He's had only one bad night in the field and that was last Sunday. Burroughs' 56 RBIs still is easily the top mark in the American League although he's had just three RPs in the last two-and-a-half weeks. "Our team is not built around one player hitting," said Martin. "It is built around winning and we're still winning consistently." Martin said Burroughs has "been getting good pitches to hit all year because I have put hot hitters behind him. The hitters in front of him have also hit and they have a lot of speed. That's why we've been winning." Martin was even less concerned than Burroughs about the All-Star balloting. "I don't even want to think about it," he said. "There are more important things than the All-Star game."

Lightning Halts Power At San Antonio Airport

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Lightning bolts, spawned by summer thunderstorms Thursday, created International Airport's own energy crisis.

Electrical power to the terminal building was knocked out at 4 p.m. when the City Public Service Airport Substation burned out.

By dusk, power still had not been restored although emergency crews were working to hook up a portable transformer. The portable transformer began operating at about 9:05 p.m., restoring power.

Authorities said lightning struck a power line near the airport radar tower, causing a fire in the substation transformer.

Switching devices were badly burned and could not be repaired.

Auxiliary power supplies were available for runway lighting and control tower systems, allowing near-normal departure and arrival flights.

There was, however, no relief for the circuits which supply the terminal building as darkness was falling.

Lighting in the hallways was non-existent. Ticket agents worked beside kerosene lanterns.

The metal screening devices were inoperable and passengers were being searched with battery-powered hand screeners.

Everyone except passengers on departing flights was barred from a satellite lounge area.

City officials made an emergency purchase of battery-powered light units which were flown in from Houston.

Broken Lighting Fixture Blamed In Galveston Fire

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Fire department officials say a broken light fixture caused a pier warehouse fire that resulted in the loss of several thousand bales of cotton and thousands of sacks of rice.

Damages from the Monday night blaze were expected to be between $5 and $10 million.

Fire Marshal A. D. Carroll said Thursday the fire which destroyed one pier shed and half of another started after the breaking of a light fixture during the stacking of bales of cotton on the pier. He said a machine lifting the bales broke a light bulb which ignited the cotton.

He said attempts to put out the other bales with fire extinguishers were unsuccessful.

The fire marshal said 9,900 bales of cotton, 86,657 sacks of rice and an undetermined amount of tea, twine and rubber were destroyed.

Temple Youth, 17, Rescued After 24 Hours In River

TEMPLE, Tex. (AP) — A 17-year-old Temple youth was in good condition today after spending almost 24 hours struggling to hold on to a raft in the Little River.

A Department of Public Safety helicopter rescued Paul Chambers Tuesday seven miles from where he started what he planned to be a short trip.

Chambers told authorities he had planned to go only one mile down river and then return to the point where his brother was waiting for him.

He said his raft tipped over in the strong current causing him to lose his glasses. He added he is so nearsighted he could not see where he was going so he held on to the bottom of his raft.

Chambers said he finally managed to reach the river bank Thursday and call for help. A farmer heard him and notified the youth's parents. The DPS helicopter arrived in minutes.

Midland Named National Bicentennial Community

Midland has been approved as a National Bicentennial Community by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, meeting in Washington this week. The notice came Thursday in a telegram to Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. from John W. Warner, administrator of the national group, said: "Congratulations. Your application for official designation as a Bicentennial community was approved by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration. Please inform local media of this designation and contact your state bicentennial commission to arrange details for your flag and certificate presentation ceremony."

Only a handful of Texas cities have been designated national bicentennial communities. The announcement followed news one week ago that the Texas ARBC had approved Midland as a Texas Bicentennial Community.

Joe Dornier, chairman of the Midland ARBC, said "We are delighted to learn of our application's approval in Washington. We appreciate the support given us by U.S. Rep. George Mahon, as well as Sen. John Tower and Lloyd Bentsen." He added that the local organization would begin a program of promoting bicentennial projects and events starting in July.

Broken Lighting Fixture Blamed In Galveston Fire

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Fire department officials say a broken light fixture caused a pier warehouse fire that resulted in the loss of several thousand bales of cotton and thousands of sacks of rice.

Damages from the Monday night blaze were expected to be between $5 and $10 million.

Fire Marshal A. D. Carroll said Thursday the fire which destroyed one pier shed and half of another started after the breaking of a light fixture during the stacking of bales of cotton on the pier. He said a machine lifting the bales broke a light bulb which ignited the cotton.

He said attempts to put out the other bales with fire extinguishers were unsuccessful.

The fire marshal said 9,900 bales of cotton, 86,657 sacks of rice and an undetermined amount of tea, twine and rubber were destroyed.

Policewoman's Shot Wounds Man In Stolen Car

DALLAS (AP) — Policewoman Marian A. Hoy, 26, shot and wounded a man in a stolen car Thursday night because he didn't stop reaching for what she thought might be a gun between the seats, fellow officers said.

They reported the man, 26, suffered a slight injury from a bullet fragment. He was held without immediate charge.

Police gave these details:
Officer Hoy, 26, spotted a car reported stolen earlier and radioed for reinforcement. Two police vehicles stopped the automobile on a freeway service road.

As the policewoman and her partner advanced, the halted driver turned to extend a hand between the seats. After warning him to stop, she fired.

Officer Hoy received minor cuts on her hand from glass fragments.

Although a stolen car report had stated the driver was armed, police searched and found no gun in the vehicle.

Army Inducts 500 Volunteers At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) —
A big crowd cheered after 500 men and women were sworn into the U.S. Army here Thursday night.

It was the largest national mass enlistment since World War II, since the Volunteer Army began in October 1970, the Army said.

The ceremony was held between games of a Texas League baseball doubleheader between the San Antonio
Brewers and the Midland Cubs.

Of the 500 volunteers, 50 were women. They can enter any Army career except the infantry, armor and artillery.

Temple Youth, 17, Rescued After 24 Hours In River

TEMPLE, Tex. (AP) — A 17-year-old Temple youth was in good condition today after spending almost 24 hours struggling to hold on to a raft in the Little River.

A Department of Public Safety helicopter rescued Paul Chambers Tuesday seven miles from where he started what he planned to be a short trip.

Chambers told authorities he had planned to go only one mile down river and then return to the point where his brother was waiting for him.

He said his raft tipped over in the strong current causing him to lose his glasses. He added he is so nearsighted he could not see where he was going so he held on to the bottom of his raft.

Chambers said he finally managed to reach the river bank Thursday and call for help. A farmer heard him and notified the youth's parents.
The DPS helicopter arrived in minutes.
