Steamy air enveloped most of Texas today, and dense fog hampered travel in some sections near the coast in early morning.

GOP Solon Asks Nixon To Resign

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Robert P. Griffin, the assistant Senate Republican leader, today called on President Nixon to resign.

"We've arrived at a point where both the nation and his own interests will best be served by resignation," Griffin said.

Griffin became the first member of the Senate's Republican leadership to urge Nixon publicly to resign, although other Republican officials have done so previously.

He said he believes the President will follow the course he suggests and offer his resignation.

Before entering a committee meeting in the Capitol, Griffin read from a hand-written statement and declined to answer all questions.

Griffin, standing outside a meeting of the Senate Rules Committee which is considering possible changes in the procedure by which a Senate impeachment trial is held, read this statement:

"I think we've arrived at a point where the nation's interests and his own interests would be best served by resigning. It's not just his enemies who feel that way. Many of his friends - and I consider myself one of them - believe now that this would be the most appropriate course. Needless to say, I am not alone in this view." (See GRIFFIN Page 2A)

before dawn in western areas of the state including Big Spring, Lamesa, Brownfield and Lubbock, and there were scattered showers in North and Central Texas from Gainesville to Temple and in South Texas from near Corpus Christi southward past Brownsville.

Forecasters looked for more showers to develop later today. Rain, which began during the early morning hours Sunday and continued intermittently much of the day, bathed the City of Midland with up to one inch of moisture.

.87 Inch At Terminal The National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal reported .87 inch of rain during the 24 hours ended at 6 a.m. today, and reported some light rain since that time.

Moisture continued to fall off and on in Midland this morning. The gauge atop The Reporter-Telegram Building caught one inch of rain Sunday, while one in Northwest Midland measured .75 inch and others in the city equalled or bettered that amount.

Big Lake, where a heavy shower fell late Saturday and Sunday, with some moisture still falling this morning.

Garden City observers said 1.8 inch of rain fell there Sunday and a light drizzle was keeping things wet this morning.

Andrews was wet with .20 inch of rain Sunday and more, although very light, fell there this morning.

Showers At Stanton The sheriff's office at Rankin said a total of .20 inch of rain fell there Sunday and this morning, while at Stanton heavy showers, with no gauge reported, fell Sunday and light showers still were around this morning.

A trace of rain fell at Crane Sunday, and a good rain was reported there this morning.

Big Spring had a slow rain Saturday night and a trace of moisture Sunday morning. A fall of 1.35 inches was reported at Kermit Sunday, with light rain falling at Monahans. Odessa reported up to .80 inch of rain Sunday. A trace of rain fell this morning at El Paso, and .24 inch measured at Marfa Sunday.

The weatherman at Terminal said there is a 40 per cent chance of more rain here this afternoon, with a 30 per cent chance tonight and Tuesday.

The Tall City's maximum temperature Sunday was 80 degrees, and this morning's low was 70. A maximum in the low 80s is expected today, with a minimum tonight in the middle 60s. Tuesday's high should be in the middle 80s.

Some of the thickest fog cloaked several counties around Victoria today, dropping visibility close to zero in places.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 80 degrees at Corpus Christi and 78 at Del Rio down to 63 at Amarillo Longview and Texarkana and 60 at Dalhart.

Top marks Sunday afternoon went as high as 100 at Alice. The coolest point was Lufkin with a maximum of 68. The Associated Press reported.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) - The roof of a federal office building in downtown Miami collapsed with a sudden roar today, sending tons of debris hurtling into offices below.

Authorities said two persons were killed, at least nine injured and others trapped in the rubble.

Authorities said they had not been able to make voice contact with four of nine people known to be trapped. There were fears others might also be buried in the wreckage.

"It is a very delicate rescue operation because one wall is very precariously balanced," said Don Hickman, Miami fire chief. "It could come down any minute and we have to be very careful."

"We Can't Gamble" "We can't gamble with cave-ins of beams and other stuff. I don't want to kill any people that are still under there."

"It was the most terrifying thing I ever saw," said Heather Cappannelli, 33, a clerk who worked in a first-floor office of the three-story Drug Enforcement Agency building.

"All of a sudden the building was coming down on top of us," Mrs. Cappannelli said. "There was a rumble and then the whole ceiling came down."

"I was next to a wall and a file cabinet so there was space for me underneath. I crouched on the floor and the stuff (rubble) was heaped all around me."

Cars Parked On Roof Police said the rear section of the building collapsed when cars parked on the roof apparently caused the ceiling to give way and send the autos and tons of concrete crashing into the floors below.

Jackson Memorial Hospital said it had received nine patients injured in the collapse. (See COLLAPSE Page 2A)

LITTLE REMAINING—Just a broken lawn chair, a few discarded telephones and a hammock are about all that was left on the prison lawn at Huntsville Sunday where previously hundreds of newsmen had gathered to report on an escape attempt by Fred Carrasco. # Prisoners Apparently Killed Selves In Bloody Escape Try (Related Stories Page 8A) HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) - An autopsy revealed today that Carrasco and one of his accomplices probably committed suicide during a bloody attempt to escape prison Saturday night.

Justice of the Peace J. W. Beeler said the autopsies on Carrasco and Rudolfo Dominguez confirmed a preliminary ruling that each man had received wounds fired "at very close if not point blank range" at the height of the 11-day confrontation in which two women hostages were killed.

Beeler said the autopsies on Carrasco and Dominguez confirmed a preliminary ruling that each man had received wounds fired "at very close if not point blank range" at the height of the 11-day confrontation in which two women hostages were killed.

"There is no evidence to show anyone else killed them. The wounds were made from a very close range. But we will never know if they killed themselves or killed each other. You'll have to draw your own conclusions," Beeler said.

"There is the probability they killed themselves but I can't say for a certainty they placed those guns to their heads. I don't believe anyone can ever say exactly what happened."

He said each man had a hole in the head and their bodies bore no other wounds. He said Carrasco had one bullet wound in his head. Dominguez had one bullet in the side of his temple and the bullet fragmented inside his brain.

Beeler had said earlier the two men killed the two women hostages handcuffed to them just before they dispatched themselves.

The wild shooting with prison guards came Saturday night in a doomed escape attempt in which Texas Ranger Capt. G. W. Burks said "all hell broke loose."

Burks and other officers who were inside the "Walls" unit prison yard said the four persons died inside a crude "Trojan Horse" Carrasco had constructed of blackboards and thick lawbooks. The academic armor, designed to get Carrasco from a prison library to an armored getaway car, collapsed as officers fired at it and tried to topple it with powerful water hoses.

Inside, Carrasco and Dominguez apparently picked their own targets.

Beeler issued a preliminary ruling declaring Carrasco and Dominguez had committed suicide after shooting their hostages, Mrs. Elizabeth Beseda, 47, handcuffed to Carrasco, and Mrs. Julia Standley, handcuffed to Dominguez.

A final ruling on cause of death is still pending from the Harris County (Houston) medical examiner.

In the midst of the violence Lt. Willard Stewart of the Texas Department of Corrections (TDC) rushed into the courtyard of the prison and cut the ropes which bound eight other hostages forced by the convicts to surround the wooden shield.

Carrasco, Dominguez and another convict, Ignacio Cuevas, began the climactic move when they walked out of the third-floor library surrounded by hostages and headed down a steep ramp toward the armored car they had demanded.

Inside the makeshift shield were Mrs. Beseda, Mrs. Standley and two other hostages: the Rev. Joseph O'Brien and Mrs. Novella Poliard, who was handcuffed to Cuevas. Cuevas was captured unharmed. Mrs. Poliard was not hurt, but Father O'Brien was shot once in the left side of the chest.

Cuevas has been charged with capital murder.

Beeler said he based his preliminary murder-suicide ruling on "the frequency and the timing of the gunfire and the number and type of fatal wounds" suffered by each of the men.

He said Carrasco died at approximately 9:58 p.m., some 10 minutes after the last shot was heard inside the prison grounds. It was approximately 30 minutes after Carrasco and his partners had run into a blockade of officers manning fire hoses and automatic weapons.

Beeler said the convicts were apparently looking for death.

"The wounds to both Carrasco and Dominguez were not inconsistent with self-inflicted wounds," he said. "But even if (See CARRASCO Page 2A)

LATE NEWS FLASHES

AUSTIN (AP) - Sen. Glenn Kothmann of San Antonio today requested the Senate Committee on Human Resources to investigate the Texas Department of Corrections in connection with the seizure of hostages by convict Fred Gomez Carrasco.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The White House postponed its regular daily news briefing today as President Nixon pondered his next move in the swirling impeachment controversy.

House, Senate Rush To Clear 'Must' Business Before Impeachment Grind

WASHINGTON (AP) - Appropriation bills for defense, veterans, space and housing programs are coming before the House and Senate, both of which are trying to clear essential business before taking up impeachment matters.

House debate was scheduled today on an $83.7-billion defense allotment. The Senate is taking up this week a $21.3-billion appropriations bill to fund the veterans, space and housing programs.

The need in the House to clear up essential business is more immediate than that of the Senate. Its impeachment floor debate is expected to begin Aug. 19. A Senate trial of President Nixon would depend on whether the House voted to impeach.

The Senate Rules Committee, however, already is working on the possibility of overhauling its impeachment rules. It was scheduled to hear from nine senators today.

In the Senate, supporters of a consumer protection bill planned to make another attempt this week to end a filibuster against the measure and bring it to a vote. Two previous attempts to shut off debate failed, by 10 votes the first time and seven votes the second.

The veterans-space-housing bill before the Senate is $139 million under President Nixon's budget.

However, economy advocates are expected to make efforts to cut it more.

There has been much talk of a reduction in Federal spending this session and Congress has passed a major budget reform bill designed to give it better control over spending.

But the actual results on the appropriations bills themselves (See CONGRESS Page 2A)

Tentative Pact Averts Nationwide Telephone Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Bell Telephone System and its unions have reached tentative agreement on a $3-billion, three-year contract, averting a nationwide telephone strike scheduled for today.

But negotiators for a separate group of International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers-IBEW members employed by the Western Electric Co., a Bell subsidiary, rejected the tentative agreement and IBEW members struck at least 10 Western Electric plants.

The tentative agreement covers the 500,000-member Communications Workers of America, IBEW members employed directly by Bell and a group of 35 smaller independent unions.

An IBEW spokesman said 80,000 IBEW members work for Western Electric and another 65,000 work directly for Bell.

Negotiators for IBEW members at Western Electric rejected the tentative settlement while negotiators for IBEW members working for Bell accepted it.

A Western Electric spokesman said IBEW members had set up pickets at 10 of the 15 Western Electric plants employing IBEW members.

He said pickets had been set up at plants in Chicago; Montgomery, Ill.; Lisle, Ill.; Omaha, Neb.; Columbus, Ohio; Shreveport, La.; Oklahoma City; Indianapolis; Kearny, N.J.; and Allentown, Pa. He said there were no IBEW pickets at Western Electric plants in Vancouver, Wash.; Reading, Pa.; Denver; San Ramon, Calif.; and Little Rock, Ark.

Eight other Western Electric plants whose workers are represented by the Communications Workers also were unaffected, the company spokesman said.

estimated that 56,000 to 57,000 IBEW workers were on strike.

The tentative agreement, which requires rank-and-file approval, would boost wages and benefits 35.8 per cent over the next three years.

In announcing the settlement at a news conference Sunday night, CWA President Glenn E. Watts said the contract would be submitted for ratification (See PHONE Page 2A)

Carrasco, Other Inmate Apparently Committed Suicide

Beeler also was quoted as saying that the convicts had suicidal tendencies "because they chose to go ahead and fall into this volley of fire."

W. J. Estelle, director of the Texas Department of Corrections and commander of the prison forces, said later, "The only thing I was sure of was that he would not escape."

It was Estelle who had negotiated with Carrasco for more than 10 days while the South

Texas convict held his hostages inside the library and made his demands for freedom in exchange for their lives.

Estelle finally told Carrasco he would accept his demands and set up the trap that was sprung as the convicts and the hostages moved out of the library.

Burks, wearing a flak jacket, said he was hit once in the chest by a bullet fired from within the shield after the hoses scattered the outer ring of hostages.

"I knocked me down. I saw two other officers go down the same way. Our bullet-proof vests saved our lives," he said. Another officer on the scene, Sheriff Darrell White of Walker County, said he saw only "one bullet wound, a head wound," in Carrasco.

White said after the hoses were turned on at least one ruptured and the water pressure went down. At that time some shots allegedly were fired from inside the shield. Officers answered in kind.

"I heard someone shout at those inside the shield 'Give up, you can't come out there alive,'" White said.

When the water hoses failed to topple the shield, officers pushed a long metal ladder through a window and tried to turn it over. There were more shots that appeared to come from inside the wooden shield, and then the shield was toppled, White said.

Then it was over, White said. He added he approached the area and saw the bodies next to the overturned shield. Other officers were picking up Father O'Brien.

Beeler said by the time the shield was toppled "darn near all of them were dead."

Burks said that when he and other officers reached the battered shield, "Carrasco and Dominguez appeared dead. Two women were also dead. I saw a movement. It was Father O'Brien, I told him, 'It's all over, Father. Everything is going to be all right.' I thought I saw a flicker of another movement and I kept my 45 automatic handy. I didn't want those convicts killing anyone else. Then we determined that Carrasco and Dominguez were definitely dead and that Cuevas was out cold. Somebody came up with keys and unlocked the handcuffs."

Authorities said Mrs. Beseda, a prison math teacher, was lying next to Carrasco's body and was shot once, the bullet exiting her body. Mrs. Standley, a librarian at the prison was shot four times in the back. Beeler described the "Trojan Horse" as a "pretty hell of a good fortress. There were damned few bullet penetrations."

The bodies of Carrasco and Dominguez were taken to the Harris County morgue. Dominguez' body was claimed by his wife, officials said.

Funerals for the two hostages were to be held today.

Grim-faced TDC officials, who said the officers "did the very best under the circumstances that could have been done by anybody," promised a thorough investigation of the events, and especially the security systems that allowed the guns to fall into Carrasco's hands.

"We are going to find out how the guns came in," Warden Hal Husbands told newsmen Sunday. "Security will be tightened up considerably. Things that come in from the outside will be handled differently."

Earlier there had been speculation that Carrasco might have had the three guns he and his partners carried—two .357 magnum pistols, and a .38 caliber pistol—as well as ammunition mailed to the prison chapel. Carrasco worked in the chapel as a porter and could have intercepted the packages before they were picked up by the addressee. Prison officials said such packages were not checked.

Authorities also have charged Carrasco's wife, Rosa, with providing the guns used for the attempted break. She has gone into hiding and failed to contact any of the negotiators during the 11-day siege in the prison's library.

The standoff and attempted prison escape apparently was doomed from the very beginning. Prison officials explained afterwards that at no time was there any thought given to granting Carrasco's demands.

Alligator Farmer Awaiting Day When Killing Legal

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Beady eyes peer from flower-covered pools where Ed Froehlich raises 1,000 alligators and waits for the day when killing them will be legal.

He moves carefully when he's near the hungry gators. He says they would soon bite off his leg as he goes.

"I've got all I can do to jump out of the truck, throw them a couple buckets of fish and jump back in again," Froehlich says of the late summer feeding frenzies of the 4- to 12-foot adults.

Froehlich started his alligator farm in 1966 on the assumption the law eventually will change so he can slaughter the reptiles for their leather.

He raises them on part of his 2,500-acre cattle ranch in Palm Beach County and last year pumped $10,000 into the project.

Froehlich, one of the few licensed alligator farmers in Florida, has 15 acres of pens and ponds for the reptiles. He feeds the baby gators every other day on chicken necks—skinned, dusted with a vitamin supplement and ground into mush. The growups get a ton or more of mullet and a few cattle hide and all — every two weeks.

Froehlich credits the food for his success at alligator farming and reports the hatch of 338 little gators last year. He says, "Gators are like anybody else. They need variety."

In the United States, it's illegal to kill alligators except during tightly controlled hunting seasons in Louisiana. Federal law forbids transportation of alligator skins or products across state lines.

There is no indication the law will be changed soon but Froehlich says changes are inevitable.

"It's a thing that's going to come and I'd like to be on the ground floor," he says. "There isn't anybody closer to nature than me but everything is here for a purpose — to benefit man."

Says Froehlich: "If nature lovers can justify raising cattle for food and leather, why not raise alligators for the same purpose? The leather is beautiful and the meat lean."

Waldheim's announcement on Sunday, at the end of a two-day visit in Lisbon, reiterated a declaration made last week by President Antonio de Spínola. The visit was the first to Portugal by a U.N. secretary-general.

Waldheim said Spínola was prepared to reverse the traditional Portuguese stand and give "full cooperation to the United Nations" in implementing resolutions on ending colonialism.

The secretary-general said Spínola gave him no date for granting independence to the territory called Guinea-Bissau by rebels who have fought a guerrilla war for independence from Lisbon for 13 years.

Independence for Lisbon's three African colonies was a major goal of the April 25 army revolt that brought Spínola to power. The president has said Lisbon will free Mozambique and Angola after Portuguese Guinea.

U.N. Role In Cyprus Seemingly Downgraded

By The Associated Press

Talks on the demarcation of cease-fire lines and buffer zones on Cyprus between Greek Cypriot and Turkish forces entered a fourth day today as truce agreements remained largely inoperative.

Military officers representing Britain, Greece, Turkey and the United Nations peace-keeping force, who are conducting the talks, took their search for firm cease-fire lines to the battle zones on Sunday.

As they inspected the zones, skirmishes were reported along the northern coast near Kyrenia and along the "Green Line" separating the Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot sections of Nicosia.

The U.N. role in the peace effort apparently was downgraded on Sunday. A late-night press briefing on the deliberations was given by a secretary of the British High Commission in Nicosia, instead of by U.N. spokesman Rudolf Stajduhar as usual, after a British official announced that the United Nations henceforth would be in an "observer status."

In an earlier briefing, Stajduhar had referred to the work of the officers as "the four-party talks," but when the British spokesman, Geoffrey Stephens, took over, he called it "tripartite talks."

Asked to explain the change, both Stajduhar and Stephens declined comment. In New York, a spokesman for U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said he knew nothing about a downgraded U.N. presence.

Greece, Turkey and Britain are participating in the talks as signatories to the 1960 treaty granting Cyprus independence from Britain and setting up the three as guarantors of its independence.

Relations between Turkey and the United Nations are not known to have deteriorated in the past week, after Turkish insistence that U.N. troops withdraw from Turkish-controlled areas on the Mediterranean island.

"We are having difficulties with the freedom of movement of the United Nations forces in areas controlled by the Turkish armed forces," Stajduhar said Sunday. There are 3,750 U.N. soldiers on the island, but their functions have not been spelled out since the July 15 coup on Cyprus that deposed President Archbishop Makarios and began the slide toward a Turkish invasion five days later.

The U.N. spokesman on Cyprus said six Finns with the U.N. force at Bellapais, near Kyrenia, were forced from the town at gunpoint late last week. He said the United Nations has

The area was cordoned off as rescue workers struggled to clear the wreckage with the aid of heavy cranes.

The injured were carried out on stretchers and boards. One woman suffered face and leg injuries. The injured included David Costa, deputy director of the Miami office of the drug agency, who said he arrived at a hospital.

"I closed my eyes when I saw it coming down. I bent over. When it stopped, I crawled out of there."

Ted Swift, a spokesman for the drug agency, said two or three of those trapped were men, the rest women.

Swift said about 125 people work in the building, but not all were there at the time.

Ronald Mayer, a city building inspector, said the building was built in 1925 as a parking garage. It was last inspected in 1968 and found "to be safe for the purposes for which it was built," he said.

Prisoner Wounded In Brief Uprising At San Quentin

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — San Quentin Prison was under tightened security today after a weekend disturbance in which inmates battled guards with broken crutches until one prisoner was shot.

The wounded inmate, Lawrence Alexander, 31, serving a term for robbery from Los Angeles, was reported in good condition in a nearby hospital after removal of a .38 caliber bullet from his stomach.

Associate Warden Darrow Smith said the incident occurred Saturday when 12 prisoners in a section reserved for discipline problems refused to return to their cells from the exercise yard. He said they were protesting various conditions, including food, showers, clothing and sanitation.

The biggest fiscal 1975 money bill sent to Nixon so far, a $13.5-billion measure carrying funds for farm, environmental and consumer programs, was $138 million over the President's budget.

It will debate legislation Thursday providing additional subsidies for passenger trains operated by Amtrak.

The House, pushing to clear its calendar, has scheduled action today on 19 bills under a procedure strictly limiting debate.

U.S., BRITAIN PROTEST--

MOSCOW (AP) — American and British ambassadors delivered a formal note to the Soviet Foreign Embassy today protesting interference with access to Berlin.

Spokesmen for the embassies refused to elaborate, but according to U.S. officials in Washington the note said the interference with travel is in direct violation of the 1971 Four-Power Agreement on Berlin.

France, the third Western ally, was expected to join the protest.

Washington officials said there were reports this morning that one or two buses bound for the city had been impeded. Earlier, traffic appeared to be moving slowly.

Talks between the United States and East Germany on establishing ties broke off last week on the Berlin issue. The East Germans, supported by the Soviets, had been stopping traffic to an environmental agency opened by West Germany in the divided city.

The East Germans claimed the opening violated the 1971 agreement. The State Department countered that the Western powers "will be looking to the Soviet Union to live up to its responsibilities" of permitting free traffic.

Guinea To Get Independence, Waldheim Reports

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — United Nations Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim says he has been told Portugal is ready to grant independence to its West African colony of Portuguese Guinea.

Waldheim's announcement on Sunday, at the end of a two-day visit in Lisbon, reiterated a declaration made last week by President Antonio de Spínola. The visit was the first to Portugal by a U.N. secretary-general.

Waldheim said Spínola was prepared to reverse the traditional Portuguese stand and give "full cooperation to the United Nations" in implementing resolutions on ending colonialism.

The secretary-general said Spínola gave him no date for granting independence to the territory called Guinea-Bissau by rebels who have fought a guerrilla war for independence from Lisbon for 13 years.

Independence for Lisbon's three African colonies was a major goal of the April 25 army revolt that brought Spínola to power. The president has said Lisbon will free Mozambique and Angola after Portuguese Guinea.

'Baby Jane Walker' Finally Identified

ODESSA — "Baby Jane Walker," whose true identity had been a mystery to Ector County officers since her arrest July 19 has now been identified.

She finally identified herself as Virginia Duran, 24, of New Mexico.

She had only told officers her name was "Baby Jane Walker" and she carried no identification.

She was jailed July 19 after being picked up 14 miles west of Odessa on IH 20 for hitchhiking. She was fined $34.50 and placed in county jail when she couldn't pay the fine.

Sheriff's Capt. George Olesh said the woman was wanted in Albuquerque for probation violations. She had been placed on probation there for possession of heroin and carrying a prohibited weapon.

Olesh said New Mexico authorities plan to extradite the woman.

She has already served out her fine, but authorities were holding her while attempts were made to identify her.

A man came to the jail twice to visit her. On the first visit he told officers she was his missing wife. However, when he returned the next morning, he said he had made a mistake and she was not his wife.

A report on a fingerprint check was not expected until next week.

Senate Panel Hearing Proposals To Overhaul Impeachment Rules

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee is hearing specific proposals for overhauling its impeachment trial rules against what some see as an uncertain backdrop of Senate support for President Nixon.

The committee is going into closed session to hear from nine senators today in the first of two sessions to hear testimony before drafting recommendations to be used if the House impeaches Nixon.

Meanwhile, there were estimates within the Senate that there are neither 67 sure Senate votes for conviction, nor 34 needed for acquittal.

Experienced head-counters believe that if Nixon escapes conviction it will be on a vote where his foes mustered a clear majority but fell short of the required two-thirds.

On the House side, where debate on impeachment may begin Aug. 19, Republican Leader John Rhodes of Arizona canceled a morning news conference at which he had planned to reveal how he would vote. An aide said Rhodes had become ill, and the conference was put off until later in the week.

Also, Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr. of the House Judiciary Committee has sent each House member a schedule that lists the times when they will be able to hear each of the 19 presidential tape recordings in the committee's possession.

The Senate Rules Committee already has decided it wants to stick mainly with the rules written for the nation's only presidential impeachment trial, that of President Andrew Johnson in 1868.

However, battles are likely in the panel and before the full Senate on the role of Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, who will preside, and on whether to set standards for introduction of evidence or conviction.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., in prepared testimony, urged the committee to set rules to insure the Senate can subpoena the tapes and documents of 64 White House conversations being supervised special prosecutor Leon Jaworski under last month's 8-0 Supreme Court ruling.

Other scheduled witnesses today included Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, Robert T. Stafford, R-Vt., William Hathaway, D-Maine, Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and William L. Scott, R-Va.

In his testimony, Mondale urged that all proceedings in any impeachment trial take place in public, and on radio and television, including the final debate between senators that would be in closed session under current rules.

In discussing the need to subpoena the White House tapes, which were denied the House Judiciary Committee, Mondale said "we need those tapes in order to be fair to the President and in order to be fair to the American people as we consider whether to remove a President from office."

Besides the schedule for listening to the tapes, House members also have received a complete set of the volumes of evidence released by the Judiciary Committee.

The evidence includes everything presented to the committee on Nixon's behalf by his counsel, James D. St. Clair.

By the end of the week the members also will have the Judiciary Committee's report on the three articles of impeachment it has approved, along with dissenting views of the 10 Republicans who voted against them.

Meanwhile, in other developments: —President Nixon has decided for the time being not to take to the airwaves in a national speech about impeachment, Nixon reached that decision at Camp David, Md., after conferring with his speechwriters and aides.

Hopkins Reunion Set In Lubbock

LUBBOCK — The Hopkins County Reunion will be held on Aug. 11 in Lubbock at the Little Party House, next to the East Broadway entrance to MacKenzie Park just east of the South Plains Fairgrounds.

Each family is requested to bring a picnic lunch and a card table and chairs. Old Hopkins County stew will be served by Gordy Clapp, stew maker.

—Vice President Gerald R. Ford said at news conferences in Mississippi and New Orleans that he could see some justification for House censure of Nixon as an alternative to impeachment. Ford said he still believes the facts do not warrant impeachment.

—Time Magazine said in this week's issue that only one minute was needed to change a reel of tape that recorded a presidential conversation in which a more than five-minute gap has been discovered. Newsweek said that Nixon is using a Sony recorder with an erasure

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

She Should Just Say: "NO!"

DEAR ABBY: I've been struggling with this problem for a year and can't seem to come up with a solution.

I am 27, reasonably attractive and divorced. When a girl is 21 and not yet married, she can say no to a fellow and use the excuse that she is saving herself for marriage. But when she's 27 and divorced, what can she say that will be acceptable?

If I say, "I don't believe in sex outside marriage," it sounds like I'm trying to rope myself another husband, which is not necessarily true.

How can I get around this? What I need is some clever saying that will get me off the hook without making me sound like a goody-goody. STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: What makes you think you have to either deliver, or come up with an excuse? Surely you have something other than sex to offer a man. Just say: "No," and don't feel that you have to justify it.

DEAR ABBY: The days when girls went to college to catch a husband are a thing of the past. If girls don't get an education so they can support themselves they will end up on welfare.

The no-fault divorces are telling a story loud and clear. Women are not going to be able to hook a man and live off him for the rest of their lives.

A relative of mine is now looking for work at the age of 67. For 15 years her ex-husband sent her $800 a month, and she spent every dime of it. Last month she was told there will be no more checks and now she is half out of her mind. She's never done any kind of work in her life. She's hopelessly helpless.

She wants to come and live with me. I told her no. At age 45, I went back to school for two years to prepare myself for the job I now have. I like being independent, and I don't want to give up my privacy, which is what I would have to do if I let her come and live with me. Do you blame me?

ANONYMOUS
DEAR ANONYMOUS: I'd have to know more about the relationship between you and this relative. If she is someone who looked after you when you were helpless, it would make a difference.

DEAR ABBY: The girl I'm dating has been invited to her cousin's wedding. She received a formal invitation, and enclosed was a note which read: "I'm sorry, but I must ask you please not to bring a guest as it will be too much. Thank you," and it was signed by the bride's mother.

My question: Isn't it customary for a girl who is dating someone special to be allowed to bring him? I had quite a long discussion with my girlfriend. I told her that under the circumstances I didn't think she should attend the wedding either as I do not approve of her going without me as her escort.

I would like your opinion. I OBJECT

DEAR OBJECT: Objection overruled! You aren't officially engaged to her and should not expect to be included. You appear to be unduly possessive of a girl you are only "dating." And you are out of order to insist that she not attend her cousin's wedding because you were not made welcome. Case dismissed.

CONFIDENTIAL TO M AND K: When an argument develops into a physical fight, the one who lands the first blow has lost the argument.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Cat's Mistake Still Lingers

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Editor's Association

DEAR POLLY — One night our cat was left in the house, mistook our brand new sofa for a litter box and soaked it good. There is no noticeable stain but the wetness went down under the cushion into the frame and stuffing and the odor is very strong. We have soaked it with a disinfectant and a few other liquid cleaners but the smell remains. Is there any way to remedy this without having to cut out the stuffing and then replacing it? — J.N.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the television commercials that feature noisy eating. This certainly makes it hard to teach children proper manners when they see such crudeness as the accepted way to eat. — MRS. H.W.

DEAR POLLY — I do want to tell Eugenia that I solved my dog's bad breath problem by giving him dog biscuits with his meal which helped. Then I started checking the contents of his food and often found such food has onion or garlic in it. When this is the case change to a product with a meatier base. This can be a real wonder worker. — JANET.

DEAR POLLY — How I sympathize with Eugenia whose 10-year-old Pomeranian has such bad breath. She has certainly checked into what might be local problems. The basic cause may be due to a kidney malfunction. She should take the dog to a vet and have his urinary and digestive system checked. — PET LOVER.

DEAR READERS — An animal doctor I talked with also suggested that the dog might have lesions in his mouth which could be causing the trouble. Find the cause first and then try to cover up the bad breath. A mouth wash might also be used to clean the dog's teeth. He said that dry-base food causes less bad breath. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — I planted a garden and the moles moved in and upset the roots of some plants. They went straight down

David Bransons To Live In Lubbock After Wedding Trip To San Antonio

Mr. and Mrs. David James Rogers, James Coldeway, Gail Mason, Linda Hagler, Karen Daw and Susan Burks.

A spiral archway, entwined with greenery held by a cluster of white roses, decorated the chapel altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in candlelight satin enhanced with double layers of watered silk organza overlay. The fitted bodice was appliqued with Venetian lace that also capped and cuffed the full bishop sleeves. The flared circle skirt fell from an abbreviated Empire waistline. Her Juliet cap, fashioned of lace petals and seed pearls, held a chapel-length veil of silk illusion edged completely in matching lace. She carried a cascade of white rosebuds and baby's breath.

Her attendants were gowned identically in iris crepe featuring scoop neck bodices accented with large ruffled collars edged in ecru lace. The floor-length gowns were of princess design.

Each attendant wore a head-dress of a small cluster of daisies attached and carried a nosegay of daisies and baby's breath.

The reception was held at the church. Members of the house party were Jenni Harris, Mrs. W. J. Richmond, Mrs. Al Mason, all of Midland; Annette Akens of Ranger, cousin of the bride; Mrs. Jimmy Nettles of Grand Prairie and Mrs. Larry McGraw of Ballinger, both aunts of the bride; Susan Bleeker of Dumas and Judy McKinley of Lubbock; Karen Akens and Lori McGraw, cousins of the bride, passed out rice bags.

The bride is a graduate of Midland High School and attended Lubbock Christian College, where she was the member of the Christliche Damen Social Club. Her husband, a Lee High School graduate, is attending LCC and is a Koinonia Social Club member. He is employed by G&M Plumbing.

We don't intend to leave the next generation with a generation gap.

In the years ahead, these youngsters will need enough electricity for their homes, jobs, schools and hospitals—and to take care of the environment.

At the same time, the availability of the basic fuels used to run our generating plants — natural gas and oil — will continue to decline.

That's why at Texas Electric we're starting to use other fuels, to decrease our dependence on natural gas and oil.

We're already adding lignite coal plants to our system. And we're planning a nuclear plant near Glen Rose for the 1980's.

One advantage of using lignite and nuclear fuels is that neither is being used extensively for any purpose other than the generation of electricity.

But plants that use these fuels cost a lot more than gas/oil plants.

While this means electricity will have to cost more in the future, the cost will be less with lignite and nuclear fuels than with natural gas and oil — even if adequate new supplies were available.

We're continuing the orderly development of our power system, because we don't intend to leave the next generation with a generation gap.

"And whether the land is rich or poor, and whether there is wood in it or not, be of good courage, and bring some of the fruit of the land." Now the time was the season of the first ripe grapes.—Numbers 13:20.

Yes, It Is Strange!

"Isn't it strange," comments Ed Thompson, executive vice president of the Midland-based Permian Basin Petroleum Association, "that when the Federal Energy Administration wanted to hire some oilmen to help their operations, various columnists and certain news media thought it ridiculous."

"When the U.S. Geological Survey turned to the oil industry for guidance in eliminating offshore oil spills, again came the cry... 'putting Dracula in charge of the blood banks.'"

Yes, it really is strange that these situations can and do occur, over and over again... always against the petroleum industry.

Yet when information is desired on agriculture, agronomists are consulted, which is perfectly in order, and the columnists do not scream. The same thing is true when an economist is consulted concerning the economy, or a transportation authority when data is sought on a certain phase of transportation. No one finds fault when consulting these experts in government efforts to solve problems.

Thompson says it works the same way in the oil business.

"If you are looking for oil, you use geologists, a logical first step; then if you want to drill a well, a drilling contractor is a must. No problem. If you believe petroleum engineers are experts in planning and figuring reserves, you use them. If you have to build pipelines and refineries, you seek out those most experienced in these fields.

"But if the government decides to call in these experts on a particular oil industry problem, the persons using such good judgment are accused of putting a fox in the hen house to guard the chickens."

The association executive is so right in his observations. What is the big difference when petroleum is involved? Actually, there can be but one answer: Those who scream the loudest are out to get the oil and gas industry, and they don't overlook an opportunity to apply the dagger.

"We in the oil business," Thompson said, "resent implications that only someone outside the oil industry, can be honest enough, or smart enough, to solve industry problems."

Oil companies are doing everything possible to prevent oil spills and to overcome other pollution problems. They are spending more money than most persons realize on research in this particular field, while receiving little if any credit for their effort.

This also has been true to a marked degree in the all-out effort of the petroleum industry to find and produce more oil to satisfy the nation's energy requirements.

It's time that credit be given where credit is due, and the petroleum industry is high on the list.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson Says: U.S.-trained foreign policemen prefer to stick with torture.

WASHINGTON — Students at the International Police Academy, a school run by the State Department to train foreign policemen, have developed some chilling views about torture tactics.

After a lengthy investigation, we have found no evidence that the academy actually advocates third-degree methods. But we have read several student papers, which Vietnam and Uruguay, are told discuss the use of torture to break suspects.

"As a last resort..." wrote a Nepalese inspector, torture is "practical and necessary."

A South Vietnamese policeman wrote that "threats and force can pull out any truth in a minimum time."

A Zaire officer agreed "force or threats" will expedite an investigation but warned "This tactic must not be known by the public."

Another student from Nepal told how "carelessness" by interrogators had caused death, thereby creating "another trouble."

The State Department-run academy has been accused of teaching torture tactics. The movie "State of Siege," for example, showed the schools graduates torturing political prisoners.

An investigator for Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., told us he had seen a number of these written by the academy's students in support of torture tactics. The papers were written in English, Spanish and French, he said, and were kept in locked steel cabinets.

My associate Joe Spear, accompanied by Spanish and French translators, paid a call upon the police academy, which is located in an old street car garage called the "Car Barn" in Washington's swinging Georgetown section.

They were shown evidence, selected by the school's administrators, who tended to prove that the school doesn't teach torture tactics. Their own documents, however, reveal an ambivalent attitude toward torture.

For example, the lesson plan includes instruction in "Interviews and Interrogations." This teaches foreign policemen to question suspects in soundproof, windowless rooms with "bare walls."

They are instructed to use such interrogation techniques as "emotional appeals," "exaggerating fears" and psychological "JOLTS." They are taught to observe the "physical state of the subject" for "sweating," "color changes," "dry mouth," and rapid pulse and breathing.

The lesson plan also states, however, that "so-called third degree tactics" should not be used. It is argued that these techniques "lower the interrogator's self-respect," impair "police efficiency," lower "the esteem of the police in the public eye" and lead to "false confessions and miscarriages of justice."

The foreign policemen, who come to the academy for such repressive governments as Brazil, Chile, Pakistan, South

TOM TIEDE President Looks To The Conservative Element

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In 16th-century England a stable owner named Tobias Hobson devised a simple method to assure that his mounts for hire would be ridden with equal regularity and justice no matter their age or appearance. Although each renter-rider was shown a selection of steeds, each was obligated to take the first one nearest the stable door.

Thus the origin of "Hobson's choice," which means there's no choice at all.

It seems apparent that this is how Richard Nixon sees the impeachment debate now unfolding in the House of Representatives. He has in the past warned the nation that his removal from office would bring every evil but boils to the land; now, according to White House assistants, he is massing his forces to take this same strong message to the conservative contingent in Congress.

The pitch: reject impeachment or invite catastrophe.

The campaign, already underway, is directed by White House counselor Dean Burch. Sources say the usual lobby tactics of log-rolling and stroking will be used, but the emphasis will be on presenting the President's view of impeachment consequences, i.e., that this wobbly nation can ill afford any more votes for unknown.

Reportedly, Burch and Nixon have divided the unknown into three categories: the effect of impeachment on the nation, the effect on the presidency, and the effect on the individual legislators. Of these, perhaps, the last is the club.

The White House justifiably believes that conservatives will not only have to answer to history for a negative vote, but to today's constituencies as well. Says a White House regular: "Undoubtedly, there would be a wave of sentiment for an ousted president. Following that, many people may try to ease their consciences by getting rid of the most visible reminders of the deed, those who brought it about. Liberals and moderates might survive, but good luck to the others."

Whatever the strength of this logic, if widely accepted in the House, it could tip the balance of votes to the President. Although Democrats outnumber Republicans in the chamber 248 to 187, the real majority is to the conservatives. Estimates are difficult, because classification is, but most observers here feel that the House contains 235- to 45 conservatives and only 190 to 200 other views. Clearly then, if conservatives panic en masse Nixon could be saved.

Realistically, though, this possibility is remote. This was made known by some Republican conservatives on the Judiciary Committee, at least one of whom, M. Caldwell Butler of Virginia, ignored not only a district constituency that voted 72.7 per cent for Nixon but also personal overtures by Vice President Gerald Ford. Says a Caldwell friend: "Conscience aside, he decided to do what he had to do."

Therefore at this juncture, White House pressures notwithstanding, the President's chances in the House are slim. Strong leadership allies are missing (GOP floor leader John Rhodes once asked Nixon to resign and GOP Caucus Chairman John Anderson openly favors impeachment). And besides, there is the historic weight of committee recommendation working against the President; a study of the 84th Congress indicated that when proposals passed committee by more than 60 per cent (the Judiciary voted for impeachment by 70 per cent) they had a 90 per cent chance of going on to final acceptance on the floor.

Despite these odds, however, Taste Disguised Before the advent of ice boxes and refrigerators, spoiling meats and fish were liberally spiced with herbs to disguise the bad taste.

Dear Editor: My Watergate-wallowing neighbor says he has been watching the tv presentations of philosophical congressmen agonizing and-or gloating over the question of exorcising the President.

He says this reminds him of the time when the Egyptians were giving the Lord's people a hard time and He sent a plague of locusts to influence the offenders to mend their ways.

He says the Lord obviously is unhappy with us, but instead of sending a plague of locusts upon us, He has sent us a plague of lawyers.

DON OAKLEY Our 'Free World' Of Dictatorships Cited

NEW YORK (NEA)—It would be good to be able to record the sudden crumbling of the military dictatorship which misruled Greece for seven years could be credited, at least in part, to efforts by the United States.

As it was, the self-engineered ouster of the regime apparently came as a complete surprise to Washington, an unexpected consequence of the Cyprus crisis. Indeed, according to Secretary of State Kissinger, we had hesitated to bring any pressure on Athens for fear that "superhawks" might seize control of the government and launch a war against Turkey.

Thus, welcome as Greece's return to civilian rule is, it is not something this country can pride itself on. And while there may be one less dictatorship in the world, there are plenty more where it came from. Too many of them, unfortunately, are counted among America's allies or national proteges.

In South Vietnam, the ideals and goals for which 55,000 American soldiers died, remain as distant as ever. That country, still struggling for existence against a relentless foe who has never recognized the cease-fire, is no model of human freedom. Neither is the Philippines, though tutored in democracy for half a century by the United States. While the budding autocratic rule of President Marcos is still fairly benign, at least two members of the Philippine political opposition languish in prison, simply because they are the opposition.

But it is South Korea, whose independence another 30,000 American soldiers gave their lives to secure, that presents the most disheartening example. There, mere criticism of the 13-year old regime of President Park Chung Hee is punishable by death. There, an ongoing series of trials of dissidents which began last winter has had the effect of stifling every voice of opposition to Park's increasingly repressive rule.

Those who have been tried or who face trial under emergency decrees proclaimed by Park include the former president of South Korea, Yun Po Sun, Catholic Bishop Daniel Chi, the poet Kim Chi Ha and scores of other prominent and lesser citizens. In a veritable reign of terror, the lawyer who defended Kim and six students was himself arrested because he objected in court to the three

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Oswald: "Let's have a de-kind-to-declarers week." Jim: "Just to those declarers who don't make the bad plays."

East has played that card because he holds the singleton ace or the doubleton ace-jack. In the first case South isn't going to make three diamond tricks; in the second case he will if he plays carefully.

Jim: "The careful play must occur right here. It is up to South to play his ten of diamonds, not the four spot." Oswald: "Let's see what happens after he plays the ten. East leads back a spade to 'knock out dummy's ace. South leads a diamond to his king and is delighted to see East's jack drop. Now he leads his four of diamonds, finesses dummy's eight and has his three diamond tricks."

Oswald: "This is a reasonable happy development. Obviously

Ford Says He's Considering Ending Talk Of Impeachment

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford says he dislikes some of the things that were done by President Nixon's White House but "I still believe the President is innocent of any impeachable offense."

TWO AMERICANS HURT— Train Bomb In Italy Kills 12, Injures 18

ROME (AP) — Italy's leftist-dominated trade unions called general strikes today to protest the Sunday bombing of an express train which killed 12 persons and injured 48, including two Americans.

The injured Americans were identified as Leonard Gary Palma, 21, of Aliquippa, Pa., and John Maiorano, 29, of Wilmington, Del. Neither was seriously hurt.

The leftists blamed neo-Fascists for the blast, and police refused to rule out any extremist group. They said they had few clues.

The bombing, which followed an alarm clock used as a timing device and traces of TNT and plastic explosive were found in the charred and bloody wreckage of one passenger car.

The bombing, which followed a long series of terrorist acts in Italy, raised new fears that extremists were trying to throw the country into turmoil at a time of serious economic difficulty.

Trade union leaders called an eight-hour general strike throughout Bologna province and strikes of up to four hours in the rest of the country.

The bomb went off as the train, heading for Brenner on the Austrian border, passed through a tunnel between Bologna and Florence.

The unions said in a statement that the bombing "was undoubtedly part of the criminal plan being hatched by the Fascists."

In April, a time bomb hidden in a trash can exploded during an anti-Fascist rally in Brescia, north of Bologna, killing seven persons. Police blamed right-wing extremists but made no arrests.

The Sunday blast went off around 1:30 a.m. as the 17-car train sped through an 11-mile tunnel. The train carried more than 1,000 passengers — mostly Italians on their way from Rome to vacations in Austria, Switzerland and West Germany.

The blast tore the roof off the fifth car of the train and set another on fire. Passengers jumped from the cars as the train emerged from the tunnel and coasted to the San Benedetto Val di Sambro station a half-mile down the track.

By early today, only three of the dead had been positively identified, all members of a family named Russo from Merano, Italy.

Tech Med School Names New Dean

LUBBOCK (AP) — The appointment of George S. Tyner as dean of the Texas Tech University School of Medicine was announced Saturday by Texas Tech President Grover Murray.

The appointment becomes effective Aug. 5. Tyner succeeds William W. Frye.

The new dean has been serving as associate dean for education and student affairs in the medical school.

Before coming to Texas Tech, Tyner was associate dean of the University of Colorado School of Medicine and assistant to the vice president for medical affairs. He was in private medical practice in Denver for nine years.

Frye consented in mid 1973 to serve until the appointment of a new dean. He is chancellor emeritus of Louisiana State University's Medical Center.

PROTEST CANCELS RITE AT CHURCH

WASHINGTON (AP)—An order banning a newly ordained woman priest from celebrating the eucharist at an Episcopal church here was protested Sunday by cancellation of the church's rite of Holy Communion.

Instead, the rector of St. Stephen and the Incarnation Church substituted a brief prayer service. The congregation applauded the decision.

"For the first time in 14 years at this church the Eucharist will not be celebrated at the 10 a.m. service," said the Rev. William A. Wendt, the rector.

Mrs. Allison Cheek, one of 11 women ordained in a disputed ceremony last Monday in Philadelphia, had been forbidden from celebrating the eucharist at the church by Episcopal Bishop William F. Creighton, the presiding bishop of Washington.

First Presbyterians Call Minister Of Pastoral Care

The First Presbyterian Church Sunday extended a call to Dr. Franklin Ray Riddle Jr. of Memphis, Tenn., to become its minister of pastoral care and family life.

The unanimous action came at a congregational meeting which followed the morning worship service.

The Rev. Robert Boynton Smith, pastor of the church, presided at the meeting as moderator.

Water Treading Champion Secure

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Forty Peter Bahn, the 375-pound unofficial world champion water treader from De Soto, Ill., can relax. His record remains intact.

Two lithe and athletic Philadelphians became ill trying to break it this weekend.

A month ago Bahn treaded water for 26 hours and three minutes. When he finished, he climbed ashore and popped a cool can of beer.

But the best that Ken Garvin, a 20-year-old college student, could do was 19 hours — from 9 a.m. Saturday to four Sunday mornings.

"It was my breathing that did it," said Raymond Cressee, 19, who entered the water with Garvin but lasted only 13½ hours.

FOR 24 SENATORS— Impeachment Would Be Ahead Of Campaigning

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Robert Dole says that if he has to spend October at a Senate impeachment trial of President Nixon, his Democratic opponent in November's election also should be there.

"With the possibility of an extended trial, those who are potential jurors ought to be there," the Kansas Republican said in an interview.

Democratic leaders have talked of inviting senators elected in November to watch the proceedings in case the trial runs into the new Congress.

But Sen. Robert C. Byrd thinks Dole's idea goes a little far. "One could carry that to a ridiculous conclusion," the assistant Democratic leader said. "We don't expect it to go over until next year. Between November and January, they would have ample time to catch up."

Dole, however, was seeking to deal with a problem that is facing 24 of the 100 senators. They are running for re-election this fall.

Under the present impeachment schedule, the trial would be starting in the weeks before the election, limiting them to Sunday campaigning at the most.

In the meantime, their opponents would be spending their time seeking votes.

As a result, the candidate-senators are making their plans now on the assumption there will indeed be an impeachment trial.

"I think you've got to make a contingency plan, as unpalatable as that might be," said Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo. "You can't afford to not be here."

"I'd prefer to move the Senate to Colorado," he said. "When you get out West, people would prefer to see you at home instead of in Washington."

However, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., facing perhaps the toughest fight of any Democratic incumbent, thinks the voters will understand.

"I don't think people are going to penalize senators who are here," he said. "They will understand that this is something that is both historic and important."

"They wouldn't want you out campaigning," he added. "Though 24 senators are running, more than half of them are considered strong favorites. Although all politicians worry, they probably won't suffer as much from being away as the 10 who have more difficult races, seven Republicans and three Democrats."

Prison Shootings, Electrical Accident Swell Weekend Toll

By The Associated Press Four state prison shootings and the electrocution of three men in a radio antenna accident helped to swell the weekend violent death toll in Texas.

Altogether an Associated Press tally showed 20 fatalities across the state, including nine in traffic on streets and highways, between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

Gunfire Saturday night in the main prison at Huntsville ended an attempt by three hostage-taking convicts to escape. Bullets killed two armed convicts—Fred Gomez Carrasco and Rodolfo Dominguez—and two of their 12 hostages—Elizabeth Beseda, 46, and Judy Standley, 43, both employees in the prison education system.

Antenna Hits Power Line Three men died Sunday near Buffalo as a citizens band radio antenna fell across a power line while they were taking it down. They were Carl Bell 25; Dennis Reed, 24, and Bubba Roach, 18, all of the Buffalo area. The accident happened at Bell's home two miles east of town.

These were among other victims: Marcus Ledbetter, 50, was killed Sunday night in a Waco lounge during an argument. Robene Robinson, 36, was wounded in the back and leg. Two persons were arrested.

Elgie Roosevelt Bennett, 40, was found dead on a bullet wound in the head Sunday at a Dallas self-service car wash stand. Police said his pockets had been emptied.

A Ft. Hood soldier identified only as Roberto Martinez was killed Sunday in a car pedestrian accident south of Killeen in Central Texas. Officers said Martinez was walking along Farm Road 440 before dawn when he was struck by a car.

Retired Army Maj. Travis Bundrick, 47, of Bethany, La., was killed early Sunday in a traffic accident between Longview and Marshall in East Texas.

Myrtle Lakes, a 19-year-old invalid, died Sunday afternoon in Dallas when trapped in the bedroom of her home by fire.

Ruby Mathew Cummings, 53, of Jacinto City, was killed Saturday in a car-truck crash in northeast Harris County. Police club were Carl Rutz, Andy Latu, Jos Castillo and Dan Spitz.

By Anthony Jubin, 58, of Cross-speding car Friday night at Weatherford and one of the trio—known to his companions only as "Billy"—was killed as he darted across busy U.S. 20.

Patrolmen said there was a small bag of marijuana seeds in the auto.

Charles W. Del Mere, 29, of Crowley died Friday night of injuries suffered half an hour earlier in a collision of a car and a truck near Crowley on Farm Road 731.

A tire blowout on a fire truck Friday killed fireman Charles W. Rose, 42, at Clyde, east of Abilene, while he was answering an alarm.

Officers reported they stopped three young men in a

Little Girl, 10, Reluctant To Return To Belfast Home

WASECA, Minn. (AP) — "I don't want to go back," said 10-year-old Marie O'Neill. "It's much nicer here. The people are better ... I'm not scared here."

Marie is among 120 youngsters who will be returning in two weeks to their Belfast homes in the heart of Northern Ireland's war zone after spending six weeks in the Midwest.

About 30 of the children got together Sunday for a small-town picnic, at the edge of Clear Lake near Waseca, featuring a potluck buffet and softball games sponsored by the Irish American Club of Southern Minnesota.

The youngsters came to Minnesota, the Dakotas and Wisconsin June 28 via a project sponsored by the Hibbing, Minn., Rotary Club to help them escape the Protestant-Catholic violence which has plagued Northern Ireland.

Marie, a summer guest of the Joe Jacobs family of Maple Plain, Minn., was not the only one who didn't relish returning home. But some expressed concern for relatives.

"I'll be kind of glad to get home because I miss my sisters," said Jackie Scarsfield, 10. She added, "But America's fantastic."

They return home Aug. 12.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

"Thy Word is Truth" (John 17:17) by Bryan Bost

Many people think that their lives are so upright and productive of good that God will save them because of their goodness. This position ignores the universality of sin (Romans 3:23) and also does not take into account the example of Cornelius recorded in Acts 10.

Cornelius was like so many claim to be today: a devout man who feared God, a benevolent man, a prayerful man, a just man with a good reputation. Yet, the Bible tells us that he was an unsaved man. What did he need? He needed the gospel of Jesus Christ, as does every person. When the apostle Peter preached Christ to him, he believed and was baptized. As a Christian then his sins were forgiven and salvation was his.

What's the point? You can't be good enough to be saved. Being a good moral person, a good citizen, and part of a loving family are commendable, but they will not bring salvation. Only obedience to Jesus Christ can do that.

Huntsville Crisis May Bring Song

DALLAS (AP) — Bloody battles with outlaws are usually remembered years afterward as a song rather than newspaper count.

Just as the 1971 Attica, N.Y. prison riots generated a widely known folk-song, so, in all likelihood, will the Texas prison shootout at Huntsville in which narcotics lord Fred Gomez Carrasco, fellow convict Rudy Dominguez, and hostages Mrs. Julia Standley and Mrs. Elizabeth Beseda were killed.

Although the Attica and Huntsville ordeals were different, they were alike in being long, tense and deadly.

The emotions and feelings of the Huntsville hostages may not be known until someone writes a poem or song.

Attica Ballad Recalled

For those who survived the long ordeal, parallels might be found in a famous song about Attica by folk-singer Tom Paxton, who felt there would have been no bloodshed if prominent men instead of ordinary prisoners and guards had been involved.

At Attica, 43 persons were killed in a five-day revolt. The toll included one guard and three inmates when the revolt broke out. Then 29 inmates and 10 hostages when state police stormed the prison after hearing an erroneous report prisoners had slit their hostages' throats.

Autopsies later showed all the hostages died in the gunfire and none had their throats cut. Carrasco Unlikely Hero

No one is sure what a Huntsville song might include. Carrasco, a dope pusher, is an unlikely hero.

Perhaps a Huntsville song, like that of Attica, will eventually deal with whether the shooting was necessary.

The aftermath of the shooting has seen no immediate criticism of prison officials' strategy.

But during the Huntsville ordeal, several hostages pleaded with prison officials and state politicians to do all necessary to avoid bloodshed.

Fellow Church Members Hear Tribute Paid Woman Victims

By JOHN LUMPKIN HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — "O, what peace we often forfeit, O, what needless pain we bear..."

The hymn was sung Sunday in an almost-full church which lost two of its flock as the longest recorded prison holdout in American history ended the night before at the Walls unit of the Texas Department of Corrections.

A third member of the First Presbyterian Church was the director of the prison system whose stated policy "that the act of taking a hostage will not provide a means of escape" was invoked Saturday night.

The minister, the Rev. L. Carroll Pickett, knew both of the slain hostages—Julia Standley and Elizabeth Beseda—and counseled their families through the 10 days prison director W. J. Estelle negotiated with convict leader Fred Gomez Carrasco.

"Have we trial and temptation? Is there trouble everywhere?"

The funeral services for Mrs. Beseda and Mrs. Standley were to be held today in the same church.

On the second row with the congregation Sunday were Mrs. Standley's five sons and daughters and the husband she divorced two years ago.

The Rev. Mr. Pickett was supposed to be on vacation Sunday. One of his deacons said he had arranged for an alternate speaker, but returned to his church because of his close connection to the prison drama's conclusion.

"When we are in trouble or calamity, when we are hunted and destroyed," the pastor read from the Bible, "is it because He does not love us any more?"

"No. Because the Scripture tells us that for His sake we must be ready to face death at every moment of the day."

After the sermon, which brought quiet weeping among some of the congregation, Mrs. Standley's former husband said she was prepared for what happened.

"Had Full Life" She had lived a full life, was very contented and was ready to meet her Maker," said Troy Standley, an ex-FBI agent.

Standley, interviewed with his family in the pastor's study, said he fully agreed with the policy of the prison system, although its consequences for them were grim.

If we did not have that (the policy), we might as well tear down all the walls of all the penal institutions in the nation," he said.

Love was the Rev. Mr. Pickett's theme.

He referred to the choice of the prison librarian Mrs. Beseda and Mrs. Standley to remain with the gunmen convicts—they were handcuffed to two of them—while other hostages were in a less dangerous position when the convicts emerged from the prison library.

Greatest Love "They loved those people so much that they volunteered, if someone else could go on living on this earth," Pickett said.

"That is love. The greatest love is to lay down one's life for another."

Some of the surviving hostages were expected to attend the two women's funeral, as was Estelle.

Male Hostage Describes Prison Rescue As 'Professional Job,' Praises Priest

CONROE, Tex. (AP) — Ron Robinson, one of the surviving prison hostages, says Fred Gomez Carrasco was prepared to die yet appeared confident of escape moments before his death.

"He said hundreds of times he would either go free or die," Robinson said.

Robinson, 35, grieved stricken from the terrors of the 11-day ordeal, commented at his modest home here where he was reunited with his wife, Jeanne, and their children, Jimmy, 8, and Sheryle, 11.

He was handcuffed to the outside of a crude blackboard enclosure with seven other hostages.

Robinson said a sudden blast of high pressure water, turned on them by prison guards, knocked him and the other hostages, tied with a rope to each side of the blackboard shield, down.

He was on the opposite side of the blackboard shield from officers challenging the escaping inmates and said he had no fear of the shots he heard. He said the shield was bulletproof because the inmates had fired test bullets into the heavy law books taped around it while still in the library.

The water knocked him down. When he looked up he saw officers with flashlights looking through a window.

"I motioned to them to come and help and pointed to the handcuffs," he said. He said they came out and cut the rope and led him and two others to safety.

"In my opinion it was a rescue job that was as professional as could be done by any group of men under similar circumstances," said Robinson, a doctoral student in criminal justice at Sam Houston State University and a teacher in the prison school system.

He described the ordeal for the hostages as a "massive game of patience."

"We were caught in the middle," he said.

He described the Rev. Joseph O'Brien, one of the hostages shot in the escape attempt, as a "real hero" during the stay under the guns of their captors.

"He volunteered to stay with us, even after Carrasco had offered to let him go," Robinson said.

There were reports from the library that Robinson had been shot on the first morning of the siege. He said what happened was that Rodolfo Dominguez, one of the convicts killed Saturday night, fired a shot past his head and he (Robinson) fell to the floor.

He said Novella Pollard was on the telephone at the time trying to get prison officials to negotiate with Carrasco.

She cried, "Oh, my God, they've killed Mr. Robinson," Robinson said.

Carrasco apparently thought it was necessary to continue the story.

Robinson said he had no choice but to go along with the story in order to protect himself and the rest of the hostages.

Texas Prison Director Now Worried At Future

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Texas prison director W. J. Estelle Jr. had Fred Gomez Carrasco on his mind for 11 days. Now, with Carrasco and three others dead, Estelle worries about the future of Texas prisons.

Estelle commanded prison forces during the long ordeal that ended Saturday when Carrasco, another armed convict, and two women hostages were killed in an escape attempt.

Now Estelle fears the drama that ended in death might discourage new recruits for the Texas Department of Corrections.

He also thinks the deaths of Elizabeth Beseda and Julia Standley, prison teachers who became Carrasco's hostages, demonstrate a need to give employees salaries in line with the potential hazards of their jobs.

"For years we have been trying to obtain a budget that would allow the Board of Corrections to compensate employees for the dangers they are exposed to every day," he said.

"Next January we will go to the legislature with a budget proposal that will hopefully get officers out of a salary bracket where they must supplement the necessities of life with the use of food stamps."

He said that one effect of the siege has been a 50 per cent decrease in recruiting interviews and an unusually high number of recruits who did not report for the latest officer training class, which began a few days after the capture of the prison library by Carrasco and two companions.

Estelle said there will be some immediate changes at the prison unit but it is too early to determine exactly what they will include. He said they certainly will include some remodeling of the prison library.

What about the presence of women in the system, exposed to the dangers which left two of them dead Saturday night?

Estelle stared at his office floor.

"I just can't handle that one right now," he answered.

Unionists Strike Amoco Refinery For 36-Hour Week

TEXAS CITY, Tex. (AP) — Union employees at the Amoco Oil Co. refinery here walked off the job early today in support of demands for a 36-hour work week.

A company spokesman said picket lines were established immediately after the walkout and Amoco supervisory personnel took over operation of the refinery.

Billy Jones, president of Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union Local 4-449, had notified the company Saturday that the strike would take place. He said wages were not at issue.

Jones said a clause in the union's contract with Amoco, which runs until Jan. 7, 1975, allows a strike if the company and union cannot agree on reducing the work week from 40 to 36 hours.

L. V. Durland, refinery manager, said the union represents 1,126 employees.

Fedders Ordered To Drop Sales Pitch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fedders Corp. has been ordered to stop making false claims of uniqueness for its air conditioners. The order from Administrative Law Judge Ernest Barnes can be appealed to the Federal Trade Commission.

Barnes ruled that Fedders had falsely advertised its air conditioners as being uniquely endowed with reserve cooling power.

Critically injured were the car's driver, Bill Bagshaw, 30, of Long Beach, Calif., and Michael Tatkus, 23, of Quincy, Ill. Authorities said Bagshaw's late model car, competing in pro stock eliminator dashes during finals of the American Hot Rod Association's $150,000 Gateway Nationals, went out of control midway through a quarter-mile race, jumped a guard rail and careened on its side through wire fence into bleachers lining the track.

Outfielder Brock Davis ... closing in on .300

Cubs' Brock Davis No Believer In Bat Streaks

Outfielder Bill Droegge went on a 22-game hitting streak that raised his average some 40 points, but Midland Cub centerfielder Brock Davis isn't that sold on streaks.

"When I was with San Antonio a few seasons ago I had a 16-game hitting streak, missed a game and then went on a 13-game streak and I wound up losing ground," recalls the 31-year-old veteran. "I never got over one hit a game," he explains. "It was always 1-for-4, 1-5, 1-3."

It was about the same time that Davis and Oscar Gamble were in the same outfield for the Chicago Cub farm club at San Antonio of the Texas League.

"At the All-Star break we were learning up the league. Oscar was batting about .349 and I had a .346 both going for the league batting title," Davis said.

"Then Oscar decided to go for the home runs and I went into a slump. He wound up hitting .297 and I finished at .300."

Davis, whose correct first name is Bruyshear, but was dubbed Brock when a Little League found that too much of a tongue twister, said he tried to be a home run hitter when he was with Amarillo in 1967.

"I wound up with 11 homers and a .262 batting average, so I've just tried to make contact and hit the ball where it's pitched since then," he commented. "It's a lot tougher to keep your average up day-after-day," he pointed out. "It goes up and down according to your daily performance. When you hit a home run, it's there in the records and doesn't change."

Davis broke in with the Houston Astros (then the Colt 45s) back in 1963 and has played with the Chicago Cubs and Milwaukee Brewers. In fact, Davis hit 318 for the Brewers in 86 games in 1972 and then last year had a .286 average for Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League.

The Cubs picked him up in May and it took Brock a long time to get started. He was batting .172 June 16 but at the end of the San Antonio series last week had raised his average to .299. Since then he has gone 2-for-12 and dipped back to .293, but his next surge should carry him over the .300 mark.

Deliberately, Brock gives the Cubs a lot of range in center field, although, if pressed, Davis will admit he doesn't go after the deep ones with carefree abandon. "I just don't know the park well enough yet."

After major league and AAA parks, Midland calls for a definite adjustment since it's the first time in several years that Brock has played in a park without a warning track to alert the outfielder to the proximity of the fence.

It may be back to the wet look soon for Gaylord Perry. The Cleveland Indian pitching ace dismissed the spit ball from his repertoire at the start of the season, but he's never needed it more than he does now.

After winning 15 of his first 16 decisions, Perry now has lost five in a row—including Sunday's 5-3 thumping by the Milwaukee Brewers in the second game of a doubleheader. The Indians won the opener 4-3.

White Sox 6-13, Rangers 3-16
Chicago took advantage of a pair of errors by Texas shortstop Toby Harrah in the seventh inning to score two unearned runs and beat Texas in the first game of their doubleheader.

Bill Melton's two-run homer capped a four-run uprising in the sixth inning and Jorge Orta drove in five runs to lead Chicago's victory in the second game. It was the White Sox' first doubleheader sweep of the season.

Tigers 6-3, Orioles 1-8
Joe Coleman pitched a two-hitter and Dick Sharon slugged a two-run homer to help Detroit beat Baltimore in the first game of their doubleheader. Brooks Robinson drove in four runs with a homer and single to lead Baltimore to victory in the nightcap.

Cub players were surprised that Tabb and pitcher Geisel weren't selected along with Tyrone and second baseman Bill Huisman for the Texas League All-Star team. Geisel's 11 victories puts him among the top four winners in the league and Tabb is second and third in homers and rbis, respectively.

However, Tyrone and Huisman are both excellent choices. Tyrone leads in homers and rbi and Huisman has a .344 average. Bill should be back in the lineup this week.

Whitey Praises Facility

Whitey Lockman, Chicago Cubs director of player development, was praising Midland's baseball park at a rap session following Saturday night's game with El Paso. "It's definitely a Class AAA facility," said Whitey. "In fact, the playing field is as fine as you'll find anywhere in baseball. The lights are the best in the league."

Then he asked Manager Walt Dixon for his nomination of the worst lights in the Texas League, "San Antonio?" "No," Walt responded, "My vote goes to Amarillo. You wouldn't believe the lights there. After leaving here, we always have trouble seeing the ball up there and it makes a big difference."

Whitey suggested they couldn't be as bad as the lights at Austin, when it was a Milwaukee Braves farm club in the Texas League.

"That's right," Walt agreed. "You could throw 10 balls out in the infield and it would be like an Easter-egg hunt trying to find them."

Whitey chimed in, "I've seen balls go out of that park three fence signs inside the foul line and be called foul. One night, Don Kessinger went 5-for-5 at Austin and I had to ask where three of the hits went."

Lockman made his managerial debut at Austin and recalls that Fred Norman was the starting pitcher. "He had a no-hitter for three innings and then they scored 13 runs."

Whitey was also the manager in the Texas League's longest game while managing at Dallas-Fort Worth and the opposition with Austin.

"Charley Hartenstein pitched the first 18 innings," said Whitey. "He threw more than 150 pitches which is a lot of pitches."

The game went 25 innings, but Whitey got the thumb in the 19th and directed the club by phone from the Arlington Stadium clubhouse. "We finally lost 2-1 in the 25th," he said.

Adams In Record Setters

Speaking of big Innings, someone asked roving infield instructor Bobby Adams if he remembered the time (Aug. 8, 1954) the Brooklyn Dodgers came up with 13 runs in the last of the eighth after two were out in a game at Ebbets Field when he was with the Reds.

"No, but I remember the night we were playing in Brooklyn and they scored 15 runs in the first inning," he recalled with a pained expression. "And every one of the runs was earned. Duke Snider hit a grand slam homer and had a chance for another one, but struck out."

"I remember the second out, because I was at second and had to make a diving catch of a liner. I never saw so many hard hit balls."

A check of the record book, shows both instances were National League marks.

While playing for the New York Giants, Lockman was part of what stands as one of the greatest comebacks of all time.

Trailing Brooklyn by 12 1/2 games in August, the Giants caught the Dodgers on the last day of the season to force a three-game playoff that was climaxed by Bobby Thomson's "shot heard 'round the world."

In the deciding game, the Giants went into the last of the ninth trailing 4-1.

Al Dark and Don Mueller opened the inning with singles and after Monte Irvin popped up, Lockman came up.

Adams grinned, "Whitey said he was determined to pull one over the fence... tell 'em what happened."

"I doubled to the opposite field," Whitey related.

However, it got a run home and brought the ill-fated Ralph Branca out of the bullpen for his date with infamy.

"The overhang in left field made it the cheapest home run shot in baseball," said Adams. "All it took was a fly, but to get the ball in the lower deck was nearly impossible, so Thomson must have really tagged that one to get it there."

Tiny's Gay Squeaks By WT Horse

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. — Tiny's Gay needed just one more leg to win the triple crown of quarter horse racing after taking a paper-thin victory in Sunday's $310,310 Rainbow Futurity at Ruidoso Downs.

Tiny's Gay posted its 11th win without a loss in the regionally telecast race and needs only a victory in the All-America Futurity to win the triple crown.

However, Vim and Vigor, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Scharbauer of Midland, Texas, almost ruptured the streak by finishing with a rush in the 400-yard sprint to come within a smothering nostril of victory.

The winning time was 19.74 seconds.

Regalado Scores Shocking Victory

By BOB GREEN (than Weiskopf, who put on some heat with a birdie-birdie finish for a 73-73, Dave Hill, who held a two-stroke advantage when the final round started, bogeyed his first two holes, blew to a 75 and was third at 280.

"He did everything right and everybody else made the mistakes. He's your champion."

And that's Victor Regalado, a 26-year-old Mexican, whose triumph in the Pleasant Valley Golf Classic Sunday ranked as probably the biggest upset since Orville Moody won the 1969 U.S. Open.

The young man with the perpetually puzzled expression took advantage of a massive collapse by the leaders—Weiskopf, Dave Hill and Jim Wiechers—and won his first American tournament with a two-under-par 69 and a 278 total.

That was one stroke better mark of 214.156 set by Mario Andretti at the Texas World Speedway.

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. — Richard Petty had his Dodge in the lead most of the race to win a rain shortened Purulatore 500 mile stock car race over second place finisher Buddy Baker.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. — George Burris III, of Port Washington, N.Y., fired a final-round 72 Sunday to win the 16th Amateur golf championship by three strokes.

TALLEDEGA, Ala. — A.J. Foyt topped the world's closed course speed record at Alabama a International Motor Speedway with a 217.854 miles per hour run, besting the 1973 record of 214.156 set by Mario Andretti at the Texas World Speedway.

LOUISVILLE — Jaime Fillo defeated defending champion Manuel Ornes 3-6, 6-4, 6-4 and Guillermo Vilas rallied for a 6-4, 1-6, 7-5 victory over Eddie Dibbs to gain the finals of the $100,000 Tennis Pro Classic.

CINCINNATI — Top-seeded Marty Riesen claimed the $50,000 first prize in the 87th Western Tennis Championships with a straight set 8-6, 7-5 triumph over second-seeded Bob Lutz.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charges by striking National Football League players and countercharges by struck owners continued Sunday.

The new charge by the players came from Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, who claimed that the owners had lost $4 million in revenue from this weekend's poorly attended preseason games.

"We hope that the owners come to the (bargaining) table and take a look at their check book," Garvey said. "Then they'll begin to realize it's time to bargain."

But the owners retorted quickly through John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council, who claimed that the financial loss from the games hurt chances of a settlement.

"Our ability to meet the union's financial demands is dependent on our revenues, and even though we have no reliable figures as yet, it's obvious our revenues were affected this weekend."

Brown, Evans Cop PBRPC Skeet Shoot

A registered skeet shoot was held Sunday at the Permian Basin Rifle and Pistol Club's shotgun facility with Ed Brown and Bud Evans taking top honors.

Brown won the Class A 12 gauge competition with a 49 x 50 while Evans won the Class A 28 gauge with a 46 x 50 and also won top honors in the 410 gauge with a 46 x 50.

Gene Bogart won the Class B 12 gauge title with a 47 x 50 while Evans won the Class C with 49 x 50. J. A. Richardson won Class D with 48 x 50.

Brown and Richardson won the B and C title in 28 gauge with scores of 49 x 50 and 42 x 50.

In the 410 gauge competition, Brown won the Class B with 46 x 50 while M. England won the Class C with 39 x 50.

Brock's Thefts Pace Cardinals

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

Lou Brock and Davey Lopes are running; St. Louis and Los Angeles are winning.

And that's no coincidence. After Philadelphia had taken a 6-1 victory in the opener of their Sunday doubleheader, Brock swiped three bases to pace St. Louis to an 11-0 rout in the nightcap.

Those three thefts, added to one in the opener, lifted Brock's season total to 72, tops in the majors by far. Lopes, meanwhile, swiped four bases in helping the Dodgers to a 2-1 victory over the Houston Astros.

PHILS 6-0, CARDS 1-11

Mike Schmidt was the hero of the opening game, slugging a pair of home runs to boost his season total to 25.

But in the second game it was all Brock and his teammates. The Busch Stadium crowd of 48,245, largest of the year and fifth largest in stadium history, was in a constant uproar, cheering Brock's every move.

Cubs 4-1, Pirates 3-7

The Cubs won the opener behind the eight-hit pitching of Bill Bonham. But Andy Thornton's two-run homer in the fifth inning was the deciding blow. Pittsburgh gained a split when Dave Parker belted a three-run homer to cap a four-run fifth inning surge in the second game.

Braves 4-2, Giants 2-3

Dusty Baker's two-run homer in the ninth inning lifted Atlanta to victory in the opener, after Mike Lum had homered in the seventh to tie the score. Gary Matthews and Chris Speier hit consecutive homers for the Giants in the fourth inning. Matthews' run-scoring double capped a three-run first inning that got the Giants going in the second game.

Reds 7-0, Padres 2-1

Tony Perez capped a two-run rally with a tie-breaking single in the sixth inning of the opener, then the Reds broke the game open with three runs in the eighth. In the nightcap, Fred Kendall's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded in the 14th inning produced the only run of the game.

Fans Voice Opinion

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

The fan has spoken.

Silent until now as the warring parties in the National Football League traded charges, the fan struck the loudest blow yet this weekend. His message was clear: he's not very interested in watching rookies and free agents play football.

In the deciding game, the Giants went into the last of the ninth trailing 4-1.

Al Dark and Don Mueller opened the inning with singles and after Monte Irvin popped up, Lockman came up.

Adams grinned, "Whitey said he was determined to pull one over the fence... tell 'em what happened."

"I doubled to the opposite field," Whitey related.

However, it got a run home and brought the ill-fated Ralph Branca out of the bullpen for his date with infamy.

"The overhang in left field made it the cheapest home run shot in baseball," said Adams. "All it took was a fly, but to get the ball in the lower deck was nearly impossible, so Thomson must have really tagged that one to get it there."

'Big M' Believed Behind Much Of Crime In Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The head of the state attorney general's organized crime division says he believes a crime syndicate is behind much of the illegal gambling, narcotics and prostitution in Texas.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Tim James said he is convinced that not all organized crime in Texas is home grown and controlled.

"Mafia with a big M is hard to finger. It's difficult to document and prove such an association ... It is my opinion that a syndicate-related operative is the kingpin behind a lot of questionable activities currently flourishing in Texas. Illegal gambling, narcotics, racketeering and prostitution have got 'mob' written all over them," James said.

He did not identify the "kingpin" by name. But the Texas Organized Crime Prevention Council, which distributed James' remarks, said, "a notorious Mafia leader does make frequent business trips to Texas."

The council began an information and publicity blitz, with a packet of news releases and 30-second radio spots distributed statewide for use starting Monday.

James said he believes one of the syndicate's biggest businesses is narcotics, and "San Antonio and Houston are the two principal narcotics problem areas in Texas. There are millions and millions of dollars being made in narcotics in Houston and San Antonio, and the big boys are there."

He also cited a Bexar County

(San Antonio) grand jury report linking pornography to organized crime. The report said 90 per cent of the pornography in the United States appeared to be controlled by three groups operating with the "blessing and cooperation of the national crime syndicate."

The grand jury proceedings included testimony that "one of these groups operates two of the three adult bookstores in San Antonio and the majority of all the adult bookstores in Texas," the organized crime council said.

The council several times mentioned bookmaking as a major Texas link with out-of-state crime syndicates.

"There isn't any doubt that bookmaking is one of the sources of capital for the narcotics traffic. The so-called innocent bet placed on a football game includes an automatic rakeoff for organized criminals who are engaged in some of the most vicious rackets in our society," said Houston Dist. Atty. Carol Vance.

LA. Wayne Posey, head of the Metro Squad in Dallas County, said Texas bookies make at least $100 million in profit during a typical football season by pocketing 10 cents on each dollar that is bet.

The Texas Department of Public Safety has estimated that about 1,000 persons are known to be operating in organized bookmaking activities.

Dallas Dist. Atty. Henry Wade, a member of the Organized Crime Prevention Council, said "bookmaking is probably our most serious connection with organized crime in Dallas—and in Texas for that matter."

Posey said most people "think a bookmaker is a nice guy who provides a service."

"This nice guy gets his line from say Louisville, Las Vegas or New Orleans and that line doesn't come free. They'll pay $10,000 a season to get a football line or agree to place all layoffs with these guys until the line's drawn. The payoff money usually goes back up the same ladder that the line came down; therefore, you have an organization and it is a criminal conspiracy," Posey said.

"Once the bookie has done this he has entered into business with the big syndicate because the line is developed with people who have intelligence resources throughout the nation, probably more extensive than any law enforcement intelligence resource."

Col. Wilson Speir, director of the DPS, said Texas needs a law authorizing wiretapping under limited circumstances as a weapon against organized crime. He recommended a law modeled after federal procedure, under which the U.S. Justice Department and a federal judge both must approve an agent's request for a wiretap.

"The top men in organized crime are isolated from the people who do the dirty work. More often than not, their only contact is by telephone," Speir said.

Proxmire, Administration Officials Disagree On Nixon's Economic Clout

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The question of whether impeachment moves against President Nixon have an effect on the economy produced disagreement Sunday between a congressional leader and a pair of top administration officials.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-

Wis., called on Nixon to turn over the duties of his office to Vice President Gerald R. Ford temporarily.

Proxmire, chairman of the congressional Joint Economic Committee, said Nixon was preoccupied with his impeachment defense and is unable to devote sufficient time to pressing economic matters.

"No. 1 and by far the most important, as an absolute prerequisite, is that President Nixon temporarily step down, under the 25th Amendment ... I think that's absolutely essential," Proxmire said on ABC's Issues and Answers.

Contrasting comments, however, came from Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press," and Kenneth Rush, White House economic coordinator, who was on CBS's "Face the Nation."

Rush discounted a link between the President's political problems and the troubles of the economy.

"Our inflation is a worldwide phenomenon. It is caused basically by a simultaneous worldwide boom in '72 and '73, where demand far exceeded supply. This was greatly aggravated by the oil embargo ... and by the food shortages which in part were caused by very bad weather," said Rush.

Cass Elliott Death Caused By Obesity

LONDON (AP) — The official coroner's report said today singer Cass Elliott was the victim of her own obesity.

Coroner Gavin Thurston said the 276-pound Miss Elliott, whose body was found a week ago in her London apartment, died because "part of the heart muscle turned to fat due to obesity."

Britain's top pathologist, Keith Simpson, who conducted the autopsy, testified that he found no traces of alcohol or drugs.

He ruled out the possibility suggested by her physician last week that she died after choking on a ham sandwich.

Simpson said nothing was found to indicate her wind passage had been blocked.

India Said Dissatisfied With Red Union Arsenal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indian defense officials are reported dissatisfied with some of the major weapons received from Russia and turning elsewhere to buy new submarines and aircraft.

U.S. intelligence sources report the Indians are unhappy with the performance of F class diesel-powered attack submarines and some jet fighters supplied by the Soviet Union, as well as spare parts and other logistic support provided by Russia.

As a result, these sources said, the Indians have shown renewed interest in buying advanced planes and other arms from the British, who used to be one of their main suppliers.

Meanwhile, the Indians are reported enlarging their own weapons industry, which has supplied home-manufactured tanks and other weaponry.

There is no indication that the Indians are actively considering any major arms procurement from the United States.

Unaligned India grew closer to Russia in recent years, particularly when the Soviet Union supported the New Delhi government in India's war with Pakistan over Bangladesh. Pakistan was backed by Communist China.

Russia is reported to have sent India six diesel subs, nine destroyer escorts, surface-to-air missiles, and more than 300 jet fighters, many of which were assembled at Indian aeronautics plants.

Indian navy crews went to Russia several weeks ago to take possession of a seventh submarine and a 10th Petya-class destroyer escort, these sources said.

For future arms purchases, the Indians are believed by U.S. intelligence sources to be considering the new British Jaguar jet fighter and the Nimrod anti-submarine warfare plane, among a variety of weapons.

These developments fit in with persistent reports that India is expanding its sea and air operations in the Indian Ocean, which is receiving increased attention from the United States because of oil tanker routes passing through those waters.

Atlanta Editor's Abduction, Ransom

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — "I didn't get a fair trial," protested William A. H. Williams after a federal court jury convicted him of extortion in the abduction of Atlanta Constitution Editor Reg Murphy.

Williams, 34, had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity. But psychiatrists who testified at the week-long trial disagreed on the defendant's mental state at the time of the abduction last February.

U.S. District Court Judge William O'Kelley set Aug. 30 for sentencing. Williams, 34, could get 30 years in prison.

The husky building subcontractor stared glumly through heavy, dark-rimmed glasses as the jury read the verdict Sunday after four hours of deliberation.

Murphy, who was released after the owners of The Constitution, Cox Enterprises Inc., paid $700,000 to free him, sat with his wife among spectators in the courtroom. After the verdict he said:

"I think that proves the American jury system works well. It reinforces the earlier evidence that kidnaping and political terrorism and extortion won't work."

East, West Belled By Thunderstorms

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms persisted in the East and the West today while the midsection of the nation was dry.

Greensboro, N.C., received almost 1 1/2 inches of rain in six hours, and the streets of Las Cruces, N.M., were flooded.

Much of the Pacific Coast still lay under a fog blanket. Scattered thunderstorms stretched from Texas to Colorado and along the Atlantic Coast.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 46 at Sawyer Air Force Base, Mich., to 90 at Yuma, Ariz.

Ex-Army Sniper Holds Three Men Hostage For Six Hours

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sunday that he had been on a two-man political assassination team in Vietnam.

Deadly marksmanship may have been the sole accomplishment of the young man, who has spent much of the past 13 months under psychiatric treatment, Neff said.

But there was no civilian market for the skill he had acquired.

"He was a highly trained specialist as a sniper, and it was really the first time in his life he had any sense of accomplishment," said Neff.

Sunday, Gabron crouched in underbrush with his high-powered rifle, telling one hostage, park ranger Kenneth Wichmann, he had "come up here to die."

Police said the episode began shortly after 8 a.m., when Wichmann, 38, and volunteer ranger Stephen Chrisman, 19, were investigating a report of a man with a gun.

As they approached, Gabron fired three shots, ordered the men out of their truck and forced them to handcuff themselves to the vehicle.

Before Neff arrived, hiker Lee Pickard, 59, stumbled onto the scene and Gabron ordered him to sit with the rangers. Police gathered below.

After Neff arrived, Gabron freed the hostages. Then he and the doctor talked, and by 2:20 p.m. Gabron said he would leave.

"When I got up there, he wanted neither to die nor to kill. He simply found himself in a compromised situation," said Neff.

AP Newsmen Visit Captured Town

The women, who the day before had told this reporter that they feared death if the U.N. force moved out, were taken to the Bellapais Hotel at the edge of town. They spent the first night with as many as 40 to a double room.

The next morning the women were told that three Turkish soldiers had been shot in the back during the night. Their bodies had been found in Bellapais with crosses carved on their chests, and the inference was that Christian Greek Cypriot guerrillas had sneaked down from the mountains to wreak vengeance on the Moslem Turks.

The United Nations has prevented from approaching Bellapais by Turkish patrols, but our press car rolled unhindered Sunday along the dusty road to the town.

A busload of women passed by us to the center of town, from where they were being permitted to go home and collect food and clothes.

The young and middle-aged women were shoved into trucks and driven away to a still-un-disclosed location.

Turkish officer said. "We wish them no harm."

"We are not looting, but they are stealing from us," he said.

Most of the women were assembled at the hotel. They crowded around, sweating in the 100-degree sun. They estimated about 600 adults and several hundred children were at the hotel and complained about the lack of water and food.

"But this is war," the Turkish officer protested.

The only water source was a concrete drainage ditch through which water flowed swiftly, and some Greek women knelt beside it to wash clothes. Turkish soldiers poured drinking water for other women.

"We have as much as we can expect, I suppose," said Toula Staridou, a pretty housewife. "But I want my husband back. I will not leave 'til then."

Her husband and other men apparently were taken to an open air detention camp in the plains outside Nicosia, U.N. Archibishop Makarios on the wall and one of me. But they left untouched a framed portrait of John F. Kennedy.

Other women at the hotel said they had been treated well. "We have been overcrowded, but the troops have not harmed us. In fact, they have been nice," said Maroula Antoniou, a government worker from Nicosia.

Also with the refugees, but living in a separate house, was an American citizen, Helene Kay from Los Angeles, who was based in Kyrenia for the Wholesale Tours International Co. when the war caught up with her.

Mrs. Kay was concerned about her 19-year-old adopted Greek son, John, who was driven away with the other men. "I must find him," she said.

She described the looting of her house last Friday, after she had refused to join the rest of the population in the center of town.

"They pushed me out, and then grabbed things, like a valuable watch, an antique gun. They smashed a picture of Archbishop Makarios on the wall and one of me. But they left untouched a framed portrait of John F. Kennedy."

Buying By Bargain Hunters Keeps Market Prices Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices were mixed today as bargain-hunting shored up some recently depressed blue chip issues.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 blue chip industrials was up 3.60 at 753.18, while losers maintained a very slight lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers noted buying picked up gradually late in the morning, apparently encouraged by the market's steady trend Friday and early today after its sharp losses in the preceding six sessions.

Clorex was the most active NYSE issue, up 1/4 at 9 1/4 in a massive 483,800-share block trade.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .08 at 76.74.

Nixon Rules Out Major Tv Address

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon has rejected, at least for now, suggestions that he take his case against impeachment to the people with a major nationally televised address, aides report.

Speculation that Nixon was preparing such an address was spurred Sunday when he summoned his top two speechwriters and his impeachment lawyer to his mountaintop retreat.

But after a five-hour discussion with speechwriters Patrick Buchanan and Ray Price, lawyer James D. St. Clair and White House aides Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Ronald L. Ziegler, a presidential spokesman said "there will not be a speech this week."

New Posture Hinted

Meanwhile, The Washington Post quoted White House sources as saying Nixon is being urged by key advisers to adopt a new impeachment defense posture in which he would acknowledge some degree of participation in the Watergate cover-up while stressing that he had no intention to break the law.

A story by reporters Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein said the sources reported that the new tactic was proposed because the 64 tape recordings which Nixon has been ordered to turn over to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica contain information potentially damaging to the President.

Warren Issues Denial

White House Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren issued the denial of plans for a nationally televised address by the President concerning the impeachment and said he knew of no plan for a written presidential statement either.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and House GOP Leader John Rhodes of Arizona suggested that Nixon make a major public address on the issue now dominating most of the President's working hours.

Disclosure that Nixon had called the speechwriters to his secluded compound also fed rumors he was considering resigning but Warren issued a steadfast denial.

"No," the spokesman said. "Nothing has changed."

Morrow Extender Indicated In Eddy

Cities Service Oil Co. No. 1-2 Workcamp, indicated second south extension to that pay in the Russell field of Eddy County, has indicated production as a fourth Morrow well and male east extension to that pay in the field, with the flowing of gas on a drillstem test.

Tool was open one hour on the test taken from 11,040-11,250 feet, using a 3/4-inch bottomhole choke and a 1,250-foot water blanket.

Waterblanket surfaced in 10 minutes and gas in 15, flowing at the initial, daily rate of 4 million cubic feet and increasing to stabilized daily rate of 6.1 million cubic feet per day on a 21-64-inch choke. It flowed two barrels of distillate along with the gas. Recovery was 300 barrels of water-cut drilling mud. The sample chamber yielded 40 cubic centimeters of water and 20.5 cubic feet of gas.

Wolfcamp production was indicated with the flowing of gas at the rate of 561,300 cubic feet of gas per day on a drillstem test at 9,230-9,300 feet.

Test site is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 23-20s-28e, 12 miles northeast of Carlsbad.

Connally's Woes Won't Halt Bentsen Presidential Drive

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., said Sunday he does not think the troubles of fellow Texan, former Treasury Secretary John Connally, will affect Bentsen's try for the Democratic presidential nomination.
 Bentsen was asked on a Sunday radio-television panel program "Capital Eye" what effect the indictment of Connally might have on Bentsen's campaign.
 "You have Californians in trouble," Bentsen answered. "You have folks from Massachusetts in trouble. You have this around the country. All you have to do is look at what's happened and it's shared unfortunately by a lot of people around the country. So I don't see that as having any effect."
 Bentsen said it is obvious from the polls that Sen Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., is favored now "and after that I think it's anybody's race. But I do not believe that Sen Kennedy, nor anybody else, has this nomination locked up. I think that's yet to be decided."
 Bentsen said of his own efforts that "everything that has happened has been good. I've had good receptions as I have been around the country. But again I try to be a total realist in things like that—and I'm going to continue to get around the country on weekends and if it continues to build like this, I would be quite optimistic."
 Bentsen also said, in answer to questions that he would "guess" the U.S. House would vote to impeach President Nixon but he had no idea of what margin. He said the Senate expected to get the controversy sometime early in the fall.

Limits Suggested On 'Hot' Air Cargos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Certain radioactive materials would be banned from being carried on commercial aircraft that also carry passengers under a proposal by the Atomic Energy Commission. It also suggested that lower limits be put on the amount of radiation passengers may receive from materials carried in a craft's cargo hold. There have been two reported incidents in recent years where passengers were exposed to radiation from improperly packed radioactive cargo.
