Cisco Strike Is Finished In Sterling

Stoltz, Wagner & Brown of Midland have completed No. 1 Ray as a Cisco sand discovery in Sterling County, seven miles southwest of Sterling City.

It failed to flow 315 barrels of 41-gravity oil per day, no water, with gas-oil ratio of 2,500-1, through a 12-64-inch choke and perforations at 7,563-7,738 feet, which had been acidized with 3,000 gallons and fractured with 30,000 gallons.

A re-entry operation, 11 originally was drilled by Bright & Schiff as No. 1 Williamson and plugged and abandoned in August, 1969, at 9,405 feet.

It has been cleaned out to 7,900 feet, and plugged back to 7,794 feet, with 4 1/2-inch casing seated at 7,887 feet. Ground elevation is 2,523 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and 1,000 feet from east lines of section 2, block 31, T-5-S, T&P survey.

South Plains Tests Slated

Two South Plains counties drew locations for searchers. Burmah Oil & Gas Co., Midland, intends to drill a 7,000-foot probe in northwest Lynn County, 20 miles northwest of Tahoka. It is No. 1 Pickens.

Drill site is 2,173 feet from north and west lines of section 4, block CB, EL&RR survey, abstract 894, five miles northwest of the Tahoka (Strawn lime) field.

'Alphabet Bomber' Nabbed In LA

Leader Of Rebel Convicts Killed In Freedom Try

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Yugoslavian immigrant with a record of sex offenses has been arrested for investigation of murder, and police say he is the "alphabet bomber" whose deadly charges have killed three persons.

Police and the FBI said Muharem Kurbegovic, 31, was taken into custody Tuesday night after he planted a tape recording in a trash can in a rest room at a Hollywood take-out restaurant.

They said Kurbegovic was the man who identified himself in telephone calls and other tape recordings as "Isaac Rasim," military leader of an organization he called Aliens of America.

He was called the alphabet bomber after threatening to spell out the group's name "in blood" unless immigration and sex laws were repealed.

William A. Sullivan, assistant director of the FBI in charge of the Los Angeles office, said Kurbegovic was apparently acting alone and "at this time it would be my opinion that there is no such group as the Aliens of America."

Police said Kurbegovic, who had been employed until this week at a blueprint company in Los Angeles, was unarmed and offered no resistance when he was arrested.

Kurbegovic, who has light, curly, short hair, was marched past newsmen at police headquarters and booked in connection with an Aug. 6 blast at Los Angeles International Airport that killed three persons and injured 35.

Last Friday night, in response to a warning from the man who called himself Isaac Rasim, police found a 25-pound bomb planted in a locker in a downtown bus station. The device was disarmed.

After Kurbegovic's arrest, police aided by bomb-sniffing dogs searched his Hollywood apartment and hauled away what they described as a large cache of chemicals and explosives.

They said the haul included numerous bottles of clear liquids, several cans of gunpowder, a large spool of electrical wire, a cassette tape recorder, a gas mask and a number of books on how to make bombs. Police would not say what the clear liquid was, but they said all of the material found could be used in making a large quantity of powerful explosives.

Sullivan said it was not known where the explosives were obtained.

A police spokesman said plainclothes officers and FBI agents had been following Kurbegovic for more than 18 hours before his arrest at the restaurant, Carl's Jr.

Witnesses at the restaurant described him as "mild looking." Tim Rice, 26, night manager at Carl's Jr., said the man ran in through a side door, followed by armed plain-clothesmen. He said the man was brought out of the restaurant handcuffed after what appeared to be a brief struggle.

Sullivan said the Immigration Service sifted the records of aliens living in the Los Angeles area, while police searched their records for aliens with records of sex offenses.

He said Kurbegovic was an alien with such a record, although Sullivan declined to give any details.

Kurbegovic has been a resident alien in the United States since 1967, Sullivan said. He said the tape found Tuesday night when Kurbegovic was arrested "reiterated political philosophy" espoused earlier by Rasim and did not contain a bomb threat.

Without any elaboration, Police Cmdr. Peter Hagan said investigators also had linked Kurbegovic to a firebombing Nov. 9 at the home of former Police Commissioner Emmett C. McLaughlin and to another attempted firebombing at the AMARILLO (AP)—A onetime policeman turned criminal, Darvin "Red" Meharg, 36, died today in a burst of gunfire, ending a 36-hour standoff by five inmates in the jail located atop the Potter County Courthouse.

Apparently injured was Meharg's girl friend, Barbara Thiel, 40, one of the inmates involved. Officers placed explosives on a door of the jail on the seventh floor and charged in when the blast went off.

The attack by law enforcement officers followed several hours of fruitless face-to-face negotiations between the inmates and Sheriff T. L. Baker and one of his captains, Don Smith.

City Police Chief Paul Hulsey and a sheriff's deputy were wounded, although apparently not seriously. A jail trustee, Edward Hooper, was seriously wounded.

The lone guard who was held as hostage, Stan Snitker, 33, was one of the first down from the jail and out of the courthouse. He was taken away in an ambulance because of a heart condition.

The five inmates originally held two guards as hostage but released one who suffered a hip injury during the takeover of the jail on the seventh and eighth floors.

A Department of Public Safety trooper, Cal Hinkle, suffered a minor wound. Deputy George Griner suffered a minor leg wound.

Meharg was a former Wichita Falls policeman and ex-convict who once escaped from the Wichita County jail.

Meharg was held here on a charge of aggravated robbery. He was spokesman for a group that included James E. Quinn, a federal prisoner held after an escape; Kenneth Oliver, facing a murder charge; James E. Petty, sentenced to eight years for robbery; and Mrs. Thiel, 40, charged with Meharg in the robbery case.

Mrs. Thiel's mother, Louzetta McGregor of Wichita Falls, said, however, that her daughter telephoned from the jail early Tuesday and told her estranged husband's employer that she had been forced to join Meharg.

The convicts took over the floor when Jailer Donald Sidwell opened their cell to check on them. Sheriff Baker said the convicts threw "a mixture of water and bleach" into Sidwell's face and struggled with him until they overpowered him.

Then they took Snitker as a second hostage.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate narrowly defeated today an attempt to cut $150 million from military aid to South Vietnam.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford declared through a spokesman today that he "probably will run" for the nation's highest office in 1976.

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A state district court judge, Preston H. Dial Jr., extended today the term of a grand jury that is investigating energy problems San Antonio has faced. The grand jury's term was to expire today. No indictments have been returned.

GM Will Partially Roll Back Planned Increase

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors announced today that in response to a request by President Ford it will partially roll back a planned price increase for 1975 cars.

GM said it would reduce the scheduled increase by an average $64 from the previously announced figure.

The auto maker's action had been predicted by the Detroit Free Press in a dispatch from its Washington bureau.

The newspaper said the President had indicated the move was coming when he conferred at the White House with leaders from the House and Senate.

GM chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg said the nation's largest industrial firm was implementing the rollback in response to "President Ford's appeal to all segments of the American public to help fight inflation."

GM, the auto industry's acknowledged pricing leader, had announced that prices of its 1975 vehicles would be going up by nearly 10 per cent, or an average $600 per vehicle. The figure included $400 in the base price plus $15 to $20 for shipping costs. With the rollback, the increase would be just short of 9 per cent, or slightly more than $440 on the average.

In addition, 1975 prices will include an average $130 increase for anti-pollution equipment, primarily for the catalytic converter, Gerstenberg said. He added the price for the emissions devices includes no profit markup.

President Ford last week sharply criticized GM's plans for price increases. Ford said he was "very disappointed" by GM's actions and hoped other auto companies would show greater pricing restraint and not follow GM's lead.

Chrysler and American Motors have been silent about their plans. Ford Motor Co. said it would boost prices by about 8 per cent, then said Tuesday that figure could climb.

However, GM is regarded as the industry price trend-setter, and Ford might limit its increase to the figure chosen by GM.

The auto companies raised prices on 1974 models more than an average $600 a vehicle since last September.

They said the haul included numerous bottles of clear liquids, several cans of gunpowder, a large spool of electrical wire, a cassette tape recorder, a gas mask and a number of books on how to make bombs. Police would not say what the clear liquid was, but they said all of the material found could be used in making a large quantity of powerful explosives.

Sullivan said it was not known where the explosives were obtained.

A police spokesman said plainclothes officers and FBI agents had been following Kurbegovic for more than 18 hours before his arrest at the restaurant, Carl's Jr.

Winds Injure Four Near El Paso

Winds clocked at 51 miles per hour destroyed four mobile homes and injured four persons during the night at the community of Clint east of El Paso.

The Weather Service reported that a funnel cloud also was sighted near Clint. Some light rain fell in El Paso this morning.

The rain came from a weak cool front which approached through Colorado. Rain also fell around Van Horn and Pecos in far West Texas, around Lubbock on the South Plains, at Perryton and Canadian in the Panhandle and between Pecos and Corpus Christi on the coast.

The National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal reported a 97-degree maximum Tuesday and predicted highs this afternoon and Thursday in the lower 90s, with a low tonight in the upper 60s. This morning's low was 71.

The Midland forecast for today and Thursday calls for a 20 per cent chance of rain.

Early morning temperatures sagged to 64 degrees at Marfa and 65 at Lubbock while it was still a warm 81 at Galveston. Tuesday's top marks ranged from 102 at Fort Worth down to 89 at Corpus Christi and Dalt, according to The Associated Press.

Officials observers looked for the return by evening of more thundershowers over West Texas and scattered thundershowers near the state's east border. They predicted the new cool front, easing toward the southeast, would push into Central Texas and halt by late Thursday.

Cost Of Living Up Despite Easing Of Food Prices Spiral

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living rose eight-tenths of a percent in July despite an easing in the increase in food prices, the government said today.

The July report marked only the second time this year the monthly increase in the government's Consumer Price Index has been less than 1 per cent.

The July increase would amount to an annual rate of inflation of 9.6 per cent, still ahead of last year's 8.8 per cent inflation rate.

Prices as of July 31 were 11.8 per cent higher than in July 1973, the government said. That is the biggest 12-month jump since the year ending September 1947, when the increase was 12.6 per cent.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said, however, workers managed to gain ground last month in their race with inflation. Spendable earnings, after taking account for inflation, moved up by two-tenths of a percent.

But since it was only the second monthly increase this year, real spendable earnings were 5.3 per cent less than a year earlier.

The major factors pushing up prices in July, the department said, were higher interests costs for home buyers and higher prices on cars, medical care and restaurant meals.

The increase in prices for regular gasoline showed from six-tenths of a penny in June to a two-tenths of a cent jump in July. The latest national average price worked out to 55.8 cents a gallon.

Food prices actually rose by one-tenth of one per cent. But because they usually rise much more in July, the Labor Department adjusted the change for seasonal variation. The result was a four-tenths of one per cent drop as far as the government's index is concerned.

The price of beef, dairy products, eggs and fresh fruits, which normally rise in July, declined.

Fresh vegetable prices declined even more than usual. Grocery store prices increased on poultry, pork, sugar and sweets and cereal and bakery products.

However, the food price slug-giness in July did not reflect health increases already working their way up to the grocery store level.

The government had reported earlier this month a whopping 6.4 per cent increase in prices for food and farm products at the wholesale level. This rise is expected to work its way to the consumer level over the next few months.

'Walking Tall' Hero Killed In Car Wreck In Tennessee

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Buford H. Pusser, 36, the former sheriff of McNairy County whose brushes with violence and death were made into the motion picture "Walking Tall," was killed early today in an automobile accident, authorities said.

Highway Patrol Trooper Paul Ervin said Pusser was killed when his 1974 Corvette ran off U.S. Highway 64 near his home town of Adamsville, Tenn., and struck an embankment. Ervin said Pusser was thrown from the vehicle and apparently was killed instantly.

The Tennessee Highway Patrol said there was no evidence of foul play.

The accident occurred hours after Pusser had told a news conference in Memphis that he would play himself in a sequel to "Walking Tall." Filming for the sequel, which was to have been called "Buford," had been scheduled to start Sept. 20 near Jackson, Tenn.

Because of his attempts to clean up McNairy County, the 6-foot-4, 250-pound Pusser was the target of killers seven times during his six-year tenure as sheriff, which ended four years ago. He was wounded several times and his wife was killed in an ambush assassination attempt on his life.

Ervin said Pusser had attended a fair at Selmer, Tenn., and was returning home at the time of the accident at 12:55 a.m.

He said Pusser's daughter, one of his three children, was following Pusser in a second car filled with young people away and witnessed the accident.

"There was no apparent reason for the accident that I could find," Ervin said. "I don't know if there was a tire blowout or not. I couldn't tell from the burned car. There was no evidence of foul play as far as I could determine."

Pusser, among the youngest sheriffs in Tennessee history when first elected at 28 after serving in the Marines and working as a professional wrestler, said plans for the new film called for it to pickup where "Walking Tall" left off — just after the Aug. 12, 1967, ambush of a patrol car in which he and his wife, Pauline, were riding.

Mrs. Pusser was killed in the barrage of automatic rifle fire after Pusser's jaw was shot away.

Public Hearing Scheduled On Proposed County Budget

A public hearing on the proposed 1975 Midland County budget will be held at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the commissioners courtroom in the Midland County Courthouse.

Budget expenditures are estimated at $3,947,907.84, $109,758.30 less than in 1974.

The budget will show estimated receipts for 1975, including revenue sharing funds, at $3,060,878.02, an increase over the previous year of $318,998.94.

The estimated beginning balance of county funds for the new budget is $2,147,531.37, which is a decrease of $705,787.06 from the 1974 beginning balance.

Resources for 1975 total $5,218,409.39, including the beginning balance and estimated receipts. The figure for the 1974 budget was $5,605,197.51.

The estimated net ad valorem tax collection, as shown by the proposed budget, is $1,913,658.94, compared to $1,757,893 in 1974, or an increase of $155,765.94. Collections on delinquent taxes in 1975 is expected to show an estimated $2,000 increase, with that final figure at $31,500.

DPS Spokesman Says He Doesn't Know Of Any Raza Unida Investigation

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—never investigated the Raza A Texas Department of Safety Unida, or its leaders, Carter spokesman says he does not know. "Not to my knowledge, know of any intelligence investigations of members or leaders of the Raza Unida Party, a predominantly Mexican-American third party movement."

The DPS response followed disclosure of a letter written to Gov. Dolph Briscoe by the Raza Unida gubernatorial candidate, Ramsey Muniz of Corpus Christi.

A spokesman for Muniz had said that Muniz' letter called for Briscoe to tell of any such investigations by the DPS, which party leaders have suspected since 1968. The Muniz spokesman, Carlos Guerra, said a source who he did not wish to identify told recently of investigations.

Guerra said Muniz' letter, which was sent Monday, said: "Having read the newspaper accounts of your statement regarding the propriety of various activities of the Department of Public Safety in intelligence division, I am writing because it has come to our attention that at various times our party and various of its leaders have been the subject of such investigations."

"I would like you to either confirm or deny these allegations," Muniz wrote to Briscoe. Bill Carter, spokesman for the DPS in Austin, said: "We driven around the block and don't have anything in the files on this." Asked if that meant the DPS company says it's a total loss.

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Who needs a driver's license? Not George Nelson. After managing for 50 years without driving a car, the San Diego man got a driver's license last week and bought a new car. He drove it around the block once and parked it in front of his house, then went to his job at a clothing store. When he returned home that night he met another new driver. "I met a new driver who had just the DPS in Austin, said: "We driven around the block and don't have anything in the files on this." Asked if that meant the DPS company says it's a total loss.

Both Sugar Prices And Profits Soar

NEW YORK (AP)—The world bidding for the scarce commodity. And the United States, which imports more than half its sugar from Latin America, the Philippines and other foreign sources, is in competition. They also say the tight supply situation has given them the opportunity to raise their profit margins on the once-abundant but low-profit item.

Amstar Corp., the nation's largest sugar refiner with more than $1 billion in annual sales, reported a 110 per cent increase in annual profits to $31.4 million for the year ending June 30. In the fourth quarter alone, Amstar's profits were $15.3 million, compared with $5.9 million the previous quarter and with $5.2 million for the previous year. Secret Corp., which last reported profits for the quarter ended March 31, showed earnings of $70,000 for that quarter, compared with a deficit of $61,000 for the same quarter of 1973. Holly Sugar Corp., which reports profits only on a yearly basis to Feb. 28, said profits last year rose to $5.3 million, from $2.6 million in 1973. Sales last year were $111.7 million. In the first quarter of this year, Holly Sugar's sales reached $30.4 million, more than half of the previous year's total. The company would not say what its quarterly profits were. "The cost of raw sugar is more than 80 per cent of today's refined sugar prices, and that price has risen from 12 cents a pound last year to more than 22 cents a pound today," said an Amstar spokesman. Amstar and other sugar companies say poor crops in Russia and Cuba in recent years and in Western Europe and the United States this year have aggravated the world supply and sent prices up sharply. "In recent months, prices have been sent further up by persistent buying of available supplies by the dollar rich Arab countries, and also by inflation," the Amstar spokesman said. He said returns also have gone up since price controls ended.

Mine Safety Administrator's Ouster Being Sought By UMW

By The Associated Press
The United Mine Workers union has called for the ouster of federal mine safety administrator James M. Day, saying he has failed to enforce laws designed to prevent mine casualties.

And a Republican senator, Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania, says he thinks there's a good chance President Ford may dump Day in favor of someone more acceptable to labor.

Led by UMW President Arnold Miller, more than 1,000 coal miners marched from a rally at the union's headquarters in downtown Washington to the Interior Department on Tuesday to demand Day's resignation.

Meanwhile, miners planned rallies and memorial services today in at least three states. Much of the attention focused on Birmingham, Ala., where an estimated 1,000 miners were expected to march in protest of imported coal.

Other rallies were scheduled in West Frankfort, Ill., and Ludlow, Colo.

The scheduled events are part of the UMW's Monday-to-Friday work stoppage in memory of the more than 100,000 miners who have died in mines this century.

The UMW claims that 115,000 miners in 12 states, who dig 75 per cent of the nation's coal, are involved.

The coal industry has complained the work stoppage is a thinly veiled effort to deplete supplies at power plants and steel mills before contract bargaining time.

The current three-year contract expires in mid-November and any reduction of coal stockpiles would strengthen the UMW's hand at the bargaining table.

At the Washington rally the miners, carrying anti-Day placards and chanting "Day out now," accused day of favoritism toward the coal industry and of showing lack of concern for their problems.

"We're not satisfied with the loss of life among our membership... It's time we take a firm position," Miller told miners.

He said if government and industry don't respond to the union's pleas for more mine safety, "then we'll make it so costly to them that they'll have to respond."

Schweiker, also speaking at the rally, proposed a number of mine safety reforms and called for "a mine safety program run by professionals—not by politicians."

He later told reporters he believed President Ford will withdraw Day's nomination.

Day was nominated by former President Richard M. Nixon to be administrator of the Interior Department's Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration but has not been confirmed by the Senate.

Green Addresses Historical Society

Wet and dry weather always has had a great deal to do with the type of agriculture practiced in Midland County and West Texas in general, Charles Green, Midland County agricultural agent, told members of the Midland County Historical Society at their August meeting, held in the home of Mrs. John P. McKinley, president.

He said an exceptionally rainy period in the early 1880's resulted in quite a bit of farming by the early settlers. He said it must have looked like a real farming haven at that time. But it was a different story in the 1890's when a severe drought caused abandonment of farms, ranches, homesteads and even entire towns, all the way up to Kansas, he added.

Green spoke on the subject, "Antique Agriculture in Midland County."

During the meeting's business session, plans were discussed for the fall meeting of the Permian Historical Society, which will be held in Midland on Sept. 28. Mrs. McKinley, vice president of the Permian Society, will be in charge of the program for the day-long meet. The occasion also will be an event in the observance of County History Appreciation Week.

Another feature of the observance will be a tour of the Nita Stewart Hailey Memorial Library exhibit in the Museum of the Southwest.

It was announced that the society's application for a site marker for the first post office here has been approved.

It also was announced that Midland's contributions to the Texas Historical Foundation again have qualified the Midland Historical Survey Committee as a Quota Buster.

Several Midlanders plan to attend a "Get-Together" of representatives of historical groups at Colorado City on Oct. 5, Mrs. McKinley said.

Green, in his address, said the first people who brought agriculture to this part of Texas were the herders and grazers who brought flocks of sheep and herds of cattle into the area to take advantage of the free land, good grass and mild climate.

Development of ground water resources and the windmill got ranching off on a firm basis, Green, a Midland resident since 1949, said.

It is recorded that E. H. "Lish" Estes brought the first load of windmills to Midland in 1886.

Green quoted from an article written by the late W. C.

Cochran, pioneer resident, concerning farming and ranching incidents of early years in Midland County.

A statewide program initiated recently by John C. White, agriculture commissioner, was reviewed by Mrs. McKinley. It is the Family Land Heritage Program, designed to recognize and honor those families who have "Lived On and Worked the Same Land" since 1874 or before. It was started last month and will culminate this year in an awards ceremony at the Texas State Fair.

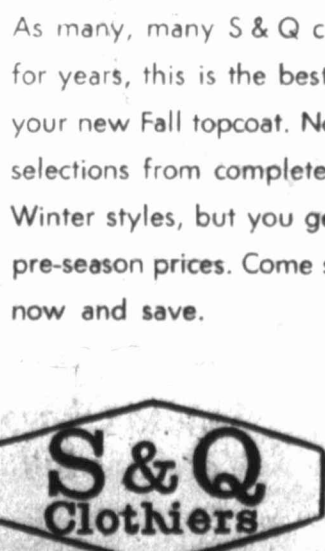

Mrs. McKinley said the Midland County Historical Society will conduct a survey to locate such families in Midland County.

'Gainesville Eight' Are Still Trying To Recover From Trial's Effects

By JOHN MUELLER
GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A year after they were acquitted, defendants in the Gainesville Eight conspiracy case say they're still trying to recover from the trial's effects.

"I still don't trust a whole lot of people," said Scott Camil, a defendant whose best friend turned out to be a government informer. Camil's feelings seem to mirror those of the other defendants.

Seven members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War and a sympathizer were found innocent last Aug. 31 of plotting violence during the 1972 Republican National Convention.

The trial lasted nearly five weeks but the jury took less than four hours to decide their innocence.

The eight were Camil, Stanley Michelson, Alton Foss and John Briggs, all of Gainesville; Don Perdue, of Hollywood, Fla.; Peter Mahoney of New York; Bill Patterson of El Paso, Tex., and John Kniffin of Austin, Tex.

In May, the eight filed a $1.2 million suit against government prosecutors charging they deprived the defendants of their constitutional rights by using paid FBI informers.

The government's case was based primarily on informers and paid agents who infiltrated the VVAW. One of the informers was Emerson Poe, a close friend of Camil.

"I keep much more to myself than I did before the trial. It's a bummer because I like people," Camil, 28, said.

Camil left Gainesville briefly after the trial, shaved off his curly black beard and then slipped quietly back into this North Florida university community to write a book and help produce a movie about his experiences.

Trying For Reunion
After the trial, the defendants scattered across the country.

"We're trying to get together a reunion of the Gainesville Eight trial," Camil said.

"We're trying to get it set for the end of August in Gainesville."

Kniffin, 32, is working as a mechanic in Brenham, Tex., and taking night courses at the University of Texas in Austin.

"The trial created financial hardships that will be hard to overcome," Kniffin, who is married, said.

Defense attorneys donated their time, but after the trial Kniffin estimated the defendants still owed some $40,000 for transcripts, legal costs and travel expenses for themselves and witnesses.

Kniffin is still active in veterans' affairs and participated in the veterans' demonstration in Washington, D.C., on July 4.

Briggs, 22, is working as a recording engineer in Gainesville and manages a rock band.

"I've had just hard times getting things together. I feel really afraid to open up to new people who come into my life. I just don't talk much," Briggs said.

Michelson, 25, is back in Gainesville after working on a Puerto Rican farm. He is active in the American Veterans Movement. He was among a group that recently took over an elevator in the Washington monument.

"I went to Puerto Rico so I could be Stanley. I had to be just Stanley, just myself. A lot of people introduce you 'This is Stan Michelson. He's one of the Gainesville Eight,'" Michelson said.

Patterson, 26, who represented himself at the trial, is attending the University of Texas branch in El Paso, "trying to recover," and trying to get his head and his finances together.

"Blind Hostility"
"I think I had probably the highest level of blind hostility I've ever had in my life" when the trial ended, Patterson said.

That hostility, aimed at police and law enforcement agencies, caused him to be harassed by the police and arrested.

He was taken before a judge for failure to identify himself to an officer and was arrested another time for having a weapon, which turned out to be legal, he said.

Patterson said he's still suspicious of people.

Foss, 27, still faces legal trouble. He is accused of selling five pounds of marijuana to an undercover narcotics agent.

His trial was postponed in July because he was committed to a Veterans Administration Hospital mental ward strapped to a stretcher after a weekend of using cocaine and barbiturates in nervous anticipation of the trial.

Leaves Hospital
He left after a week and a half in the hospital, when he woke up one night to find another patient urinating on him.

"There's nobody who's ever going to get well in that place," he said.

Foss said he's been apolitical since the trial, raising food in his own garden and keeping bees.

Perdue, 25, is working as a diving instructor in Hollywood, Fla., and plans to return to school part-time in the fall to finish up a degree in oceanography.

"I think a lot of people are seeing it our way now," Perdue said, adding that people are believing the defense claims that their prosecution was tied to Watergate.

Mahoney, 26, has been attending Hunter College, working part-time in an off-track betting shop and participating in an occasional demonstration.

He said that following the trial he had trouble for a long time trusting new people and was treated by a psychiatrist.

Perdue and his wife planned to spend a month this summer in Europe.

"This is the trip we were supposed to take in August of 1972. We never quite got there," he said.

Rock School Called One Of Last Links To U.S. Frontier

By KENNETH T. WALSH
RIO BLANCO, Colo. (AP) — Folks hereabouts say the Rock School is one of the few remaining links with the American frontier.

Just as in pioneer days, boys and girls of different ages attend classes together. There is no formal grade division at the two-room elementary school.

And just as in the past, the school also serves as a summertime civic center for the sparsely populated ranch area, the site for Bible school, sewing and women's club meetings and health education classes.

Rock School was built in 1897 by the ancestors of cattle ranchers now living in the Pi-ceance Creek Basin of north-western Colorado.

Parents and grandparents of recent students also took lessons at the school.

Bob King, superintendent of the Meeker public school district which includes Rock School, says the current pupils are sons and daughters of ranch hands and gas well crewmen. They often move away in the middle of the year.

Twenty-six youngsters started the last school year and nine of them finished. But 18 other families moved into the area so 27 youngsters finished the year at Rock School.

In the last few years, there have been many applicants for the teaching post because of a job shortage.

"We want people who like to hunt and hike and appreciate this part of God's country," King said. "If they can't appreciate it, the experience may be a disaster."

Jim and Joanne Stanko have just completed their third year of teaching at Rock School. They plan to leave the post in fall because they inherited a ranch in nearby Steamboat Springs from a relative.

Both are Coloradans who took bachelor's degrees at Western State College in Gunnison. Stanko also has an M.A. degree in secondary education and social studies.

The Stankos stressed individual attention to pupils. Stanko concentrated on social studies and science, and Mrs. Stanko taught reading, English and "language arts."

They normally divided the class in half so both could teach at once in each of the two one-room school buildings.

They used older pupils as tutors for the younger ones. Older pupils also formulated tests for the younger ones, although they tended to make the questions too difficult, Stanko said.

"The kids treat each other as brother and sister," the 29-year-old Stanko said. "They probably have a better chance to express themselves in this environment."

But Stanko sometimes worries that the youngsters are only concerned with "things close to home."

"I try to develop a good discussion on something of national importance, but all the kids are interested in is the opening of deer season," the teacher said. He added that the problem might lie in the rural lifestyle rather than Rock School.

The rural lifestyle extends to financing the annual class trip, which this year involved a visit to Denver, 180 miles away. The students earned $300 by having local hunters contribute several hundred deerskins, which the youngsters cleaned, salted and sold to a Craig hide dealer.

King said Rock School graduates do well in Meeker High School after an initial period of adjustment in the town of 2,000. About half the Rock School graduates who end up in Meeker High go on to college, which is about the same as the average number from Meeker elementary schools, King said.

15-Vehicle Crash Hurts Six Persons

SEALY, Tex. (AP) — A 15-vehicle pickup on Interstate 10 west of here left six injured motorists in hospitals today.

State police said the crashes Tuesday at the San Bernard River bridge about 40 miles from Houston involved a Continental Trailways bus, seven automobiles, four semi-tractors, trailers and three pickup trucks. A total of 22 persons suffered injuries.

Only one person was reported in serious condition. He was Edwin Wyatt, 62, of San Antonio and he was admitted to a hospital at Columbus.

A spokesman for the Department of Public Safety said a grass fire along Interstate 10 caused heavy smoke, slowing cars as they approached the San Bernard bridge.

"It was a sort of chain reaction after that," the spokesman said. "The rest of the vehicles just piled up."

The bus and a truck burned and another vehicle was damaged by fire.

Work Rules Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service and the National Association of Letter Carriers have agreed to establish a commission to evaluate controversial new work rules. James Rademacher, president of the union, said the rules will be suspended until the review is completed. Rademacher said if the union still objects to the rules after the commission's review, he could order a work stoppage. The rules govern work loads and assignments.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Should She Conveniently 'Forget' The Pill?

DEAR ABBY: John and I have been married for 14 months. He had a 3-year-old son by a previous marriage. We had no trouble getting custody of the boy because his mother didn't want him. (She hasn't come to see him once.) I am 29 and John is 35, and I want to have a child of my own. John's son, whom I honestly couldn't love more if I had given birth to him, would dearly love a little brother or sister, and I desperately want one, but John says no. His excuses are lame. ("The world is in such a sorry state, we shouldn't increase the population now. We have one healthy, normal child now, why press our luck?")

I am on the pill, and could conveniently "forget" to take it a few mornings, but I hate to be dishonest. If I were to get pregnant, he couldn't force me to have an abortion, and I'm sure that after the child was born he would grow to love it like he loves his son. Please help me sort out my feelings, Abby.

TORN IN CHICAGO
DEAR TORN: About your scheme to "conveniently forget" the pill: Forget it. (The scheme, not the pill.) Ideally, you and John should get some counseling together. Most clergymen are well equipped; also Chicago has many expert marriage counselors. If John refuses to go, you can't force him, but do go alone. You need some sound, objective counseling to help you resolve this knotty problem.

DEAR ABBY: A writer was unhappy about her flat chest.

Rehearsal Dinner Hosted
ODESSA — Mr. and Mrs. William R. Claypole of this city hosted a wedding rehearsal dinner in the Tea Room of the Odessa Country Club prior to the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Louis Vandergriff Saturday evening in Grace Lutheran Church at Midland.

Mrs. Claypole is the bridegroom's mother and Mrs. Vandergriff is the former Debra Lynn Koch of Midland.

This year Bill Beaton, top designer for knits, introduces a fascinating collection for the mother and Mrs. Vandergriff seemingly never-tired toddlers.

In sizes two, three and four, Beaton breaks loose with jogging, tennis, bowling and just plain kicking costumes. Right for all these activities, they can also be counted on for double duty like single stroller sitting.

Active wear best characterizes the knits collection and can readily vie with the best of pro shop fashions. And the toddler is the true activist! After the first step no mother in the world needs to be told who is the busiest body in the house.

The fashions for that age group are great. But, of course, little people, given their own choice, would probably prefer to streak.

DEAR ABBY: John and I asked you whether breast implants were considered deceitful and therefore sinful in the eyes of the Lord.

You suggested that she ask her clergyman for a ruling. I disagree. Every clergyman cannot keep abreast of new developments in plastic surgery; some clergymen are big busts as advisers on these points.

The writer should look behind her breast—where her heart is—for the answer. Whom is she trying to deceive or please? "Capping" one's teeth for cosmetic reasons has been accepted practice for years. Are teeth more important to beauty than breasts?

BEVERLY HILLS M.S.
DEAR M. S.: Only to those who have trouble keeping their mouths shut.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SHIRLEY: I agree. Something is wrong. Maybe he gave at the office.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Function Plus For Younger Set

NEW YORK (NEA) — This year it's "no more" for cutesy sportswear for the nursery set.

It's an active sportswear look with all the flair of big people fashions — especially in the fabrics, colors and patterns. A special point is that it's no longer a navy-and-pastel world, and bunny and bird motifs have moved over to make room for the rest of the animal kingdom as well as fish patterns and stripes.

And more important than the fashion pluses, wearability and practicality make their marks especially with polyester doubleknits.

This year Bill Beaton, top designer for knits, introduces a fascinating collection for the mother and Mrs. Vandergriff seemingly never-tired toddlers.

In sizes two, three and four, Beaton breaks loose with jogging, tennis, bowling and just plain kicking costumes. Right for all these activities, they can also be counted on for double duty like single stroller sitting.

Doris Reeves Becomes Bride Of David R. Reese

Doris Marie Reeves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy R. Reeves of 3702 Shell St., and David Randolph Reese, son of Mrs. Marjorie Reese of Hurst and Thomas J. Reese of Waco, repeated double ring wedding vows at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Alamo Heights Baptist Church.

The Rev. Bruce Mc Nair performed the ceremony. Lisa Hodge of Odessa was the maid of honor. The bridesmaid was Ellen Brown. Dana Bostwick was the flower girl, and Craig Bostwick was ring bearer. The best man was Larry D. Hall of Cherry Point, N.C., formerly of Midland. The father of the bridegroom was the groomsmen, and Jesse E. Reeves was the usher.

Music for the ceremony was played by Joe Callan, organist. The church was decorated with candelabra covered with ivy and holding yellow candles.

Mr. Reeves presented his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of white satapeau and re-embroidered lace featuring a high waistline and bishop sleeves. Re-embroidered lace circled the neckline and was styled with crystal pleating to create a pinafore front. The semi-full skirt had a lace-edged double row of crystal pleating at the hemline. Lace edged her chapel-length mantilla. She carried a cascade of English ivy, gladiolus, poppon mums and baby's breath.

The bride's attendants wore full-length dresses made with yellow roses over yellow, styled with sleeveless, bodices and print.

The couple will reside at 1125 Lyndon St., Apartment 4, in Houston, after Aug. 29. The bride is a junior nursing major at the Houston campus of Texas Woman's University. The bridegroom is a graduate of Texas State Technical Institute of Waco.

Casserole Tip
Slivers of left over cooked ham are delicious added to a tomato and spaghetti casserole. Top with grated yellow cheese.

Soup Recipe
Combine a can of whole kernel corn with cream of mushroom soup, adding bits of crisp and fried onion.

Fall Fashions Liberate Women

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Woman's Editor

You can go to extremes with fashion's dreams this fall — in new separates that let you create and express your very own fashion lifestyle. It's been quite a few years since fashion dictated to women, and appropriately enough, today's woman makes fashion her handmaiden, dressing in the way that most compliments her own needs and tastes.

You can liberate your own style consciousness with skirts that come just below the knee, or sweep dramatically to the floor. Choose dressmaker-style jackets with self-tie belts and soft molded lapels, or select a figure-molding tunic in bold stripes matched to heel-length full skirts.

There's a freedom in fashion that will appeal to every woman. A million light years removed from the hobble skirt of 1910 that literally hobbled women, new clothes are eye appealing as well as comfortable.

Made for the woman of today, separates interchange in your wardrobe for a range of fashion effectiveness and occasions.

"BAPTISM" NO. 5

When Jesus gave the Great Commission to His apostles he declared, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." (Mk. 16:15, 16)

This passage has caused no little trouble to those who attempt to avoid the NECESSITY of being immersed in water as part of God's plan of salvation. The plain truth about this citation should cause every concerned soul to rush toward those who would be willing to assist them in becoming nothing more or nothing less than a Christian.

Jesus said if a man believes the gospel and is immersed he shall be saved, and if he does not believe the gospel he shall be damned. Since baptism has been commanded by inspiration (Ac. 10:48) who could possibly ignore it and be saved? No man claims that he can ignore the command to believe in Christ and be saved!

As we have studied in this present series, the Bible says that baptism is "for the remission of sins." (Ac. 2:38) Baptism "washes away sins." (Ac. 22:16) Baptism puts one "in Christ." (Ga. 3:27) Baptism puts one "into the Body" which is the church. (1 Co. 12:13) Man has been "commanded" to be baptized. (Ac. 10:48)

Ladies and gentlemen of our reading audience, is there any real reason for you and I to rebel against such plain truths? It is not a question of what the Bible says. We know now what the Bible says. Read these passages again! It is a question now of your faith! Do you believe what the scriptures say? If so will you obey them and cease quibbling? If you will, we would be most happy to assist you in obeying the gospel of Jesus Christ... even this very night.

You are invited to assemble with the Cuthbert and Austin Streets Church of Christ any time. You will be treated as an honored guest.

Poor Workmanship Has Her In Stitches

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — Recently I spilled oil paint on my shag carpet. Is there any way to remove it? — M.B.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the poor workmanship on wearing apparel. Anything goes from open seams to poor quality thread and stacks that may have one leg longer than the other. With the prices one has to pay for clothes today it is terrible to have to add to the cost of having them altered or the seams re-sewn. — EVELYN.

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. C.A.W. wanted to know how to tell wool yarn from acrylic after the labels have been removed. This can be done by carefully burning a bit at the end of a strand with a lighted match. The acrylic yarn will melt, forming a blob that will not crumble when pressed between the fingers. Wool yarn does not form this hard blob but easily crumbles into ash when pressed. Do use caution when doing such burning. Hold over an ash tray.

DEAR POLLY — My fishing Pointer is to remove the cartridge from a discarded ballpoint pen, roll up your fishing license, insert it in the pen and clip in your shirt pocket. It is always dry and in a safe place.

When making a pants suit it is a great time-saver to sew a small piece of contrasting color material in the back seam. This will show on the underside as the pants are being put on. You can tell at a glance which is the front and which is the back. — MABEL.

DEAR POLLY — When a recipe calls for adding melted fat after the other ingredients have been added, I melt the measured fat in the pan to be used for the baking. It is never forgotten and there is one less pan to wash. — MRS. H.P.

Government To Re-Examine All Items Installed In Two Nixon Homes

By DICK BARNES
WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is going to re-examine all publicly financed items installed in Richard M. Nixon's Florida and California homes with an eye to recovering what it profitably can, according to the head of the General Services Administration.

Arthur F. Sampson said his agency will "look at every item" installed while Nixon was President, and then decide what should be done with them now.

From Nixon's 1968 election until mid-1973, the government put $1,156,675 worth of equipment and capital improvements into Nixon's homes at San Cle-most of the expenditures were required for security protection.

Sampson said he is considering what to do at Key Biscayne if Nixon sells either or both of his homes there. As President, Nixon used one house for a vacation residence and the second for an office. The government leased two others in the compound for administrative and security offices.

"We are looking at those leases now," said Sampson. He believes the government would have to do some work to restore the homes for residential use. But he said he believes the government would not be obligated to do any work at the home Nixon used for an office.

He said security protection continues at Key Biscayne the same as when Nixon was President.

As long as security requirements continue, many of the government-financed installations at Nixon's homes may have to be retained.

He said Nixon's aides have expressed informally Nixon's

His three principal aides now working in San Clemente are still on White House salaries. Nixon is entitled to $450,000 for other expenses of his presidential transition, but the money hasn't been appropriated yet.

As a result, there's been no money available to buy station-

Former Outlaw Member Of Bonnie And Clyde Gang Is Gunned Down

HOUSTON (AP) — Three shot gun blasts early Tuesday ended the life of a man who once said he could never live down his violent past.

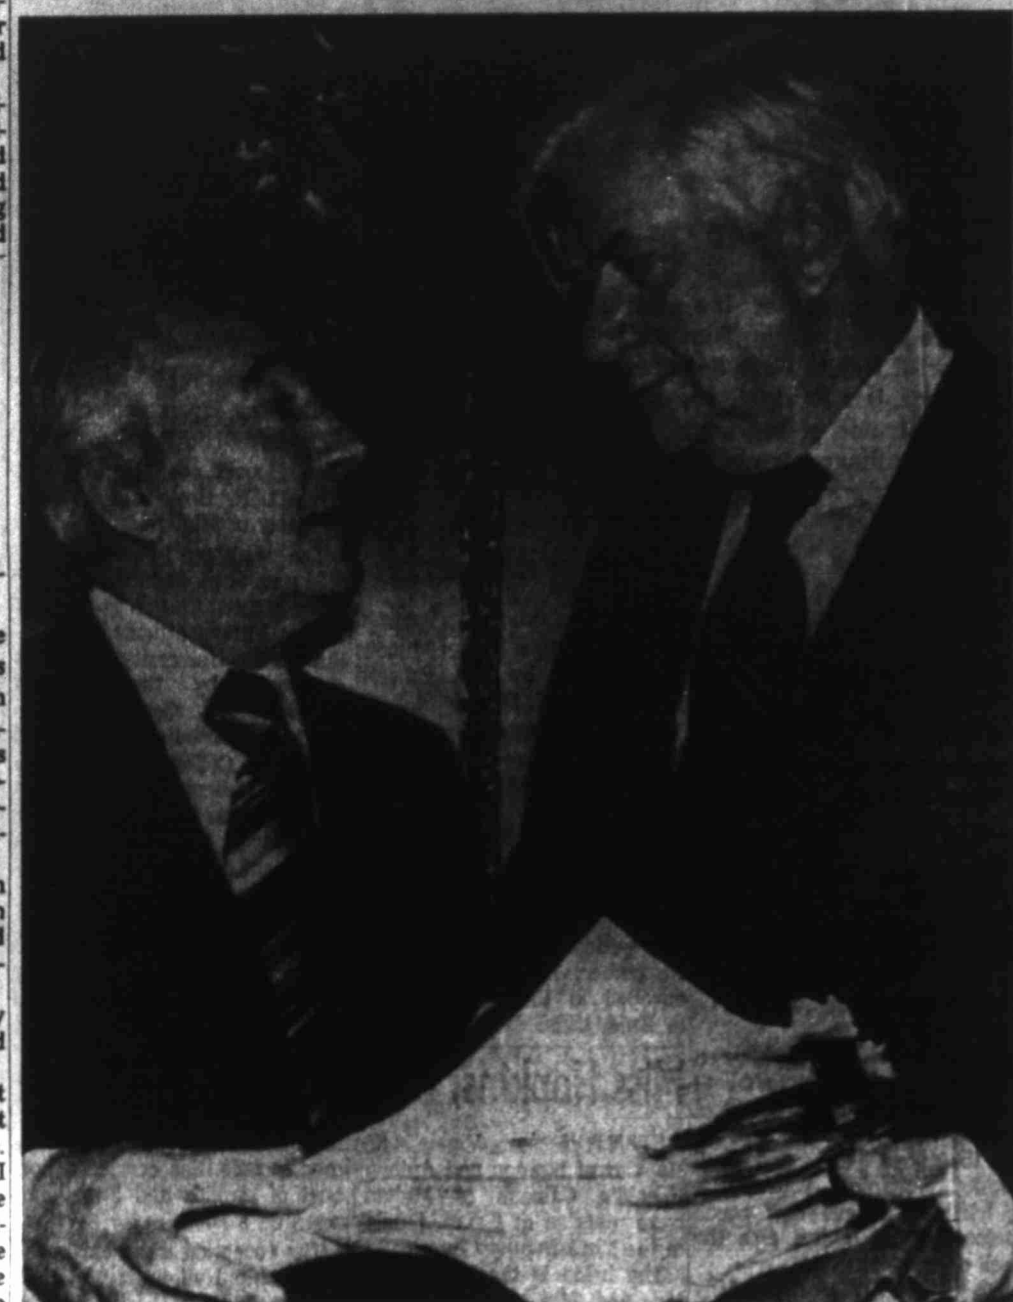

William Daniel "Deacon" Jones, a former outlaw member of the Bonnie and Clyde gang, was shot to death as he stood outside the door of the home occupied by the man police say killed him.

Officers said Jones, 58, and a girl friend, Lydia Johnson, 28, were with Bonnie and Clyde, but he had had no contact with him for many years.

"I guess he never really straightened up," Sullivan said Tuesday.

"Bonnie and Clyde were just kids in their early 20s—not really big-time gangsters. But Jones was really young—I believe just 17 or 18 when he joined them. Jones never looked like a criminal, not someone who would shoot you. Clyde would shoot you in a minute and ask questions later. Clyde was a coward, and cowards are years of a 15-year sentence for his part in the 1934 slaying of a Fort Worth deputy sheriff.

"I guess now the only ones left from that crime era are me and Floyd Hamilton," said J.C. Sullivan, a protégé of Jones up to be killed, though. That who drove for Bonnie and

Granberry, Tennessee's Governor Support Rocky

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Tennessee's Republican governor Winfield Dunn, and Texas GOP gubernatorial candidate Jim Granberry have expressed confidence in the nomination of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president.

"I have a very positive reaction to the president's decision this (Tuesday) morning," said Dunn who spoke on Granberry's behalf before a Tarrant County Republicans luncheon.

Dunn said Rockefeller was among the three names he submitted to President Ford for consideration. The others were Tennessee Senators Howard Baker, and Bill Brock.

Rockefeller's experience as governor of New York for 14 years is a strong asset, Dunn said.

Granberry, former mayor of Lubbock, said he had once thought Rockefeller too liberal, but a recent speech by the vice presidential nominee changed his mind.

Granberry recalled that Rockefeller had talked about "limited government" and

Man Who Only Embezzled From 'Very Rich' Given Three Years In Prison

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Thomas Bates' attorney said his client took money from the bank accounts of the "very, very rich" who "really didn't know how much they had."

Bates, 27, stood before U.S. District Court Judge D.W. Suttle Tuesday, who sentenced the college graduate to three years in prison for embezzlement.

Marital problems, alcoholism and bad investments in the stock market led Bates eventually to embezzle $127,000 from Alamo National Bank, his attorney told Suttle.

The attorney, A.L. Hernden, said that his client "went further in, further in, further in, trouble."

"He knew there was a day that he was going to get caught. And he was relieved somewhat when it (embezzlement) was discovered," the attorney said.

The longer Bates got away with the embezzlement of funds, the more he drank and he "squandered some of the money and became more of an alcoholic," Hernden said.

The former bank employee had earlier pleaded guilty to six counts of embezzlement totaling $40,656 from the bank beginning in August 1972.

Bates testified during his guilty plea that he had given the FBI a statement saying he had taken about $127,000.

Hernden said his client took money from accounts of the "very, very rich" who really "didn't know how much they had" and probably would not have discovered the loss for years.

He added that he did not think Bates had had a drink since the former assistant cashier had been caught.

Bates told Suttle that "I do regret being here. I have to pay for my mistakes. I was or probably still am an alcoholic. I attribute a lot that I did to this disease."

The judge told the young man that, "If you hadn't come clean as you had, I'd given you more time (to serve)."

Suttle added that he would recommend in Bates' judgment that he should be slated for an alcoholic treatment program at whatever prison he is sent.

The judge said Bates had "considerable ability" but "we can't let the public down in the banking business. The public has to know everyone who gets caught has to pay the penalty."

Bates, who holds a bachelor's degree in business administration, was sentenced to serve six concurrent three-year prison terms.

Coeducational Prison Has Success

HOUSTON (AP) — The warden of the federal government's first long-range coeducation prison unit at Fort Worth, Tex. says he is skeptical at first but now terms the experiment "something of a success."

"There is a wide consensus that new and different things in corrections need to be tried and that removing people from the way society is, usually in counterproductive," Federal Warden Charles Campbell said.

Campbell, appointed to head the unit in 1971, spoke Tuesday at a session of the 104th Congress of the American Corrections Association.

At Campbell's facility, women have a separate dormitory where they sleep. All other prison activities are coed however, he said.

Campbell said candidates for coed facilities should be carefully screened to exclude the more violence prone inmates and concentrate on prisoners nearing release from prison.

The warden said the coed concept has not been without incidents of sexual contact but he said the evidence shows it is not a main preoccupation. Campbell cited 26 cases of known attempted sexual contact at his institution in the past two years, despite the fact it is strictly forbidden.

In another session of the Congress, the auxiliary bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of San Antonio said the recent Huntsville prison escape attempt should be a source of remorse to church leaders.

The Most Rev. Patrick Flores said churches often fail to accept poor persons from the wrong side of town and particularly those in trouble with the police.

He said one such person could have been Fred Gomez Carrasco, who died along with another inmate in the escape attempt.

"Was he, perhaps, turned away?" Bishop Flores asked. "Did this convince him church people wouldn't lend a helping hand?"

VFW Convention Against Amnesty

CHICAGO (AP) — The Veterans of Foreign Wars national convention has voted unanimously to oppose amnesty for draft dodgers and deserters.

About 4,000 delegates approved without dissent on Tuesday a resolution opposing amnesty.

The vote came one day after President Ford chose the VFW convention to announce a review of policy toward the estimated 50,000 Americans living abroad because of draft resistance or desertion.

The VFW resolution urged that deserters and draft evaders be made to face the judicial process. It read in part:

"We sustain total opposition to general and selective amnesty for draft dodgers and military deserters. And they should be required to stand trial for their crimes and shall pay such penalties as the laws prescribe."

The resolution declared the VFW will continue to pursue its no-amnesty doctrine without amendment.

Reputed Bookmakers Indicted In Alleged Gambling Operation

NEW YORK (AP) — An indictment charging two reputed bookmakers with involvement in a $26 million-a-year gambling operation says they conferred with a doctor working for the New York Giants pro football team to get detailed information on player injuries.

The doctor, Anthony Pisani, is not accused of any crime in the indictment. Pisani resigned the post of orthopedic surgeon to the Giants last month after 10 years with the National Football League. He is now chief orthopedic surgeon at St. Vincent's Hospital here.

Named in the indictment are Thomas Musto, 64, and Michael Astarita, 47, whom officials said were arrested previously on gambling charges. Musto was described as a soldier in the crime family of the late Vito Genovese.

They were charged with one count of criminal conspiracy and 20 counts of gambling. Both men pleaded innocent and were released on their own recognizance by State Supreme Court Justice Irving Lina for a hearing on Sept. 23.

If inside information on player injuries was provided, it could aid gamblers in predicting the outcome of games about to be played.

NFL policy prohibits any association with gamblers, bookmakers or members of organized crime.

It has rules which require public listing of injuries, classifying players as "out," "doubtful," "questionable," "possible" and "probable."

A spokesman in the office of NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the NFL's Security Division was investigating.

The indictment says the gamblers "agreed to confer on a regular basis" with Pisani.

'Tomorrow' May Go To Vietnam

NEW YORK (AP) — You forgot the story about the former U.S. base at Cam Ranh Bay and maybe do stories in My Lai, Da Nang and Hue. He said the itinerary isn't set yet.

But the talk show host made no bones about the fact he doesn't plan to become a war correspondent, voluntary or otherwise. He won't venture into active fighting areas, such as the Que Son Valley southwest of Da Nang.

"We're watching the whole scene with a little trepidation," he admitted. "There's still a war going on over there and probably, if it's widespread, we may just scrub the whole trip."

Camp's Over

By RAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Snidely Foon, the noted television critic, returned tanned and fit the other day from Camp Rerun, a summer study facility set aside for tv critics by the three networks.

He was sighted staggering down a boulevard under a load of network press kits for the 1975 season. The CBS kit, the largest of the lot, tilted him far to starboard. It weighed four pounds.

"What's new, chum?" he gasped as he set the kits down.

"Haven't you heard? NBC is allowing pre-viewing this season."

"Gee, Snidely," breathed Snidely. "What is that?"

"Pre-viewing means you get to review the shows in print before they're on the air. ABC and CBS have allowed it for years."

"I wanted to surprise the audience. Tv critics have been fighting NBC about this for years. They say it violates the conditional system of checks and balances."

"Besides, everyone knows a program's no good unless a critic says it is."

"So why'd NBC give in?" asked Snidely.

"The Chicago critics wrote nasty stuff about the old policy and a reader sent NBC an anonymous card. Under this kind of pressure, NBC couldn't really do anything else but give in."

"To have that kind of power, hey?" said Snidely, a wicked glint in his eye. "Think I'll rap 'The Waltons' this year. Always wanted to do that."

"But that's a CBS show."

"The network is unimportant. The show is what counts. I'm nominated for Post."

'A Good Partner ...'

Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller, former governor of the State of New York, is the vice presidential nominee of the United States.

He was nominated Tuesday for the No. 2 spot in government by President Gerald R. Ford, thus ending a 10-day period of intense speculation. Numerous Republican leaders had been mentioned as possibilities.

The Reporter-Telegram, which had endorsed George Bush, chairman of the Republican National Committee and a former Midland resident, for the vice presidency, is disappointed, of course. But at the same time this newspaper, respecting the judgment of the President in the matter, supports Ford in his nomination.

Ford, in making his announcement, said that Rockefeller "will be a good partner for me and a good partner for the country."

Rockefeller, in turn, said that he was deeply honored at the call to serve Ford and "through him all the people of this great country."

It is interesting to note that neither Ford or Rockefeller has ever been elected to national office.

So, another significant step has been taken in a series of fast-breaking developments, as the nation forges toward a degree of normalcy following the Watergate scandals.

The restoring of public confidence in government is the big challenge at the moment, and the new administration appears to be striving diligently to achieve this objective in the quickest possible time.

Congressional leaders have indicated they anticipate easy confirmation of Rockefeller as vice president.

Rockefeller was praised by House Speaker Carl Albert as "one of the most experienced and capable men in the country."

Rockefeller, who resigned last December as governor of New York after 15 years in that post, at one time was considered an Eastern liberal of the first order. Over the years, however, it is said by insiders that he has moderated his political philosophy to be acceptable to almost everyone — except conservatives with long memories.

But many conservatives, even those with long memories, undoubtedly are willing to accept the 66-year-old Rockefeller as vice president, hopeful that he has mellowed and "moderated" since his earlier years in public office.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson Says: Pentagon lords shrug off new spirit of frugality.

WASHINGTON — Congressmen are grumbling that the message of inflation and frugality is not getting through to our admirals, generals and a few administration high-livers.

Legislators who drop by to chat with the brass hats at cocktail time, for instance, soon find that the military loasts being raised to belt-tightening are really 90-proof hogwash on the rocks. The congressmen see GI servants mixing the drinks, polishing the silver, hustling the canapes, mowing the lawn outside and chauffeuring the Pentagon panjandrums' wives home from their shopping.

With such petty extravagance before their eyes, it is hard for the members to believe that the brass hats are being any more frugal with their multi-billion-dollar budget.

Actually, the hundreds of recruits assigned to such menial jobs are costing the taxpayers at least $5.4 million a year, even though Pentagon regulations bar the use of GIs as domestic servants for officers. Mahon Seeks Answer

Lately, House Appropriations chairman, George Mahon, D-Tex., who usually zips through military requests with the speed of a Polaris missile, has demanded to know why well-paid officers need GI servants.

In reply, former Army Secretary Robert Froehke explained that he didn't want his Chief of Staff rushing home at five o'clock to mow the lawn. Groveled Mahon.

"Well, he could hire his own help like the rest of us."

At a recent party for 500 — including then Vice President Gerald Ford — Marine Commandant Gen Robert Cushman dragged local leathernecks to wash dishes and serve liquor without pay. Two of them were minors, which would have gotten Cushman's license revoked if he were running a bar. "This may have occurred inadvertently," a spokesman explained lamely. Like the other Joint Chiefs, Cushman is allotted five military servants for his personal convenience. At a GI salary of almost $8,000 plus benefits, this means each Chief can tap the taxpayers for $40,000 a year for his house-cleaning and errands.

During interviews with the GI's my reporter Howie Kurtz found them serving as baby-sitters, pet walkers, cookie bakers for a general's children, boot-polishers, car waxers and bathroom floor scrubbers. Rings A Bell

When his general wants to summon him, one Air Force steward complained, he rings a bell. "The name should be changed from aide to maid," the steward grumbles. Although they are supposed to get extra pay for serving at parties, most don't. And some brass hats loan their stewards around as if they were portable appliances.

Until last year, these GI valets, cabin boys and grocery shoppers were sent to a training school to pursue such topics as The Correct Waitress, Ice Carving Made Easy, Use of Domestic Appliances, and The Army Wife, ample, 15 or 20 stewards were rushed out to be at his beck and call. Vice President Spiro Agnew, before he was forced out of office, had two houseboys assigned to him.

Janitors and Waiters Aboard the presidential yacht Sequoia, Navy aides served as janitors and waiters for partying staffers.

Other stewards wash dishes in the White House staff mess. Several times a week, they also must serve without pay as butlers at private parties in the homes of White House officials.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., outraged by such reports, brought the GAO in to look into White House misuse of GIs. The GAO privately informed Proxmire that they were stonewalled.

"We have been unable to obtain permission from the White House to examine the records or ... to interview the personnel assigned to the staff mess," Proxmire was told.

Nevertheless, the GAO watchdogs did find at least 11 million was being spent by the White House to pay their GI servants. Some, the GAO reported, were working 60 hours a week.

Footnote: President Gerald Ford is unaffiliated with an Arabian potente complex, and already there are signs that fewer GI servants will be at the White House. Meanwhile, despite the new Pentagon regulations, most generals and admirals still are using their orderlies as household servants.

RAY CROMLEY Previewing Presidential Economic Policies

WASHINGTON (NEA)—At one time, a younger and perhaps more radical Mr. Ford proposed that the president should sit down with Congress to review the government's ongoing programs, then introduce bills rescinding previously voted appropriations for those activities both agreed did not meet the test of economy.

This was Minority Leader Ford's approach to inflation. Mr. Nixon attempted to achieve this same end by a series of vetoes and by leeching appropriations. He failed.

At another time, Mr. Ford backed proposals for creating an independent, bipartisan organization to review the government's programs and budgets on a regular basis. The Hoover-type commission would include members of Congress and the public.

For one, this group was to run a comprehensive review of federal domestic and foreign assistance programs to determine which were overlapping, inefficiently run, unproductive or had outlived usefulness. In 1967, Mr. Ford noted, there were 400 federal aid appropriations for 170 separate assistance programs administered by 21 federal departments and agencies, 150 Washington bureaus and 400 regional offices, each with its own way of passing out federal tax dollars.

The same studies were to determine which new programs should be created and which old ones expanded. Here, Mr. Ford has favored stimulating private capital investment and the creation of jobs by wider and stronger investment credits, accelerated depreciation, a greater stimulus for private industrial research, stronger incentives for employers to hire and train the unskilled and added subsidies for housing when unemployment reached intolerable levels.

To assist these analyses, Mr. Ford favored a five-year projection of all department budgets to determine where government spending programs were heading. First and second-year costs, he believed, were only the thin edge of the wedge.

A man changes when he becomes president, it is said. His past therefore may be no accurate guide. But the major clue we have today on how Mr. Ford will attack unemployment and high prices is what he has proposed or supported vigorously in the past on his own, not as the president's man.

As suggested above, Ford is known to be a bug on budget cutting — spending where you must spend, heavily if you must, but slashing everywhere else, postponing all "good" but not pressingly essential programs.

Alan Greenspan, likely chairman of Mr. Ford's Council of Economic Advisers, likewise holds budget cutting as his top priority. Before he originally agreed to take the job, he exacted a firm Nixon promise to back him up with vetoes, and with major cuts in administration budget proposals.

In all this, Mr. Ford and Greenspan will get enthusiastic support from Dr. Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. Which is

Bread Costs More

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers paid more for bread in the second quarter despite a sharp drop in the cost of the wheat used to make it, the Agriculture Department reported. During April, May and June, the average price of a one-pound loaf of white bread rose to 34.4 cents from 32.8 cents while the farm value of the wheat used for the loaf dropped to 4.5 cents from a record 6.4 cents in the first quarter, the department said. The report indicated that bakers and other middlemen have increased their share of the final sales price.

EGALITE, CIVIL RIGHTS—France's New Government Is Looking More Liberal

PARIS (LENS) — As everybody knows, it is easier to talk liberal than to be it. France's new government is no exception. In its first 10 weeks, it has not done worse, its performance has been patchy but not dishonorable.

The chief victim of the realities of power has been the home minister, Michel Poniatowski, who once wrote a book fiercely denouncing the liberal practices of the previous regime. Now in charge of the police and of public order, he has set out some spectacular operations involving mass checks on everyone moving in parts of several major towns.

These have led to a number of presumably worthwhile arrests, but they have disturbed those whose evidence led to civil liberties. Police excesses, which were common in the past, appear to have diminished. But the practice continues of holding people for "verification of identity" — which is a most circumstances illegal.

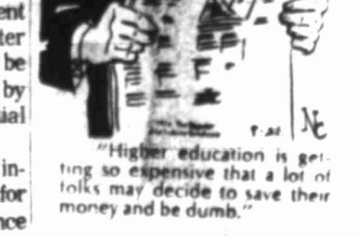

Illegal telephone tapping is claimed to have been halted. And indeed it has been where orthodox members of opposition parties or trade unionists of various sorts are still being tapped — legally or not one cannot say, but it would be surprising if the definition of what constitutes a security risk were not being spread fairly wide.

The government has already promised that no action will be taken against anyone who commits the offense of insulting the president; a similar pledge about insults to heads of foreign states has been refused. But it is hard to imagine that the new regime will ever revert to the Gaullist practice of financially squeezing the extremist press by seizing its issues, on some pretext, until they couldn't be sold.

The voting age, and the age of legal majority, has been lowered to 18. Contraceptive advice is to be more easily available, and the pill is to be obtainable "on the national health" reform of the abortion law is still to come, but no further prosecutions are being initiated under the present restrictive legislation. Manstfield Promises Quick Action On VP Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield promised quick action today on Nelson A. Rockefeller's nomination to be vice president.

Mansfield told reporters every effort would be made "to get it done before we go out in October."

With overwhelming praise except from some longstanding Republican foes, Rockefeller's confirmation by Congress is virtually assured, but there is some question about how long it will take.

Congress plans to meet only about six more weeks between now and November. Congress is scheduled to begin a Labor Day recess Thursday and is tentatively scheduled to recess again in October for re-election campaigning.

Chairman of both House and Senate confirmation committees declined Tuesday to set any target date and House Judiciary Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., did not rule out confirmation after the November elections.

"I'm not going to set any timetable except whatever timetable is necessary for thorough and responsible consideration," Rodino said.

Rodino and Senate Rules Committee Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., set confirmation machinery, including requests for a full FBI investigation, in motion immediately after President Ford named Rockefeller his nominee.

Both chairmen said a major question is how long it will take to investigate Rockefeller's multimillion dollar financial holdings to see whether there are any conflicts of interest.

Rockefeller flew into Washington in his own plane Tuesday morning to accept the nomination, held his first news conference, paid courtesy calls on some congressmen and then flew out to continue a vacation in Maine.

Before he left he told newsmen he believes President Ford "has every intention" of seeking election in 1976 to a full term.

"That was my impression, that's what I urged, that's my assumption," Rockefeller said.

In another session with reporters Rockefeller said he did not talk to Ford about the President's 1976 plans. A White House spokesman later said there was no discrepancy in Rockefeller's statements since Rockefeller spoke with Ford on two different occasions.

Rockefeller said it would be presumptuous of him to talk about his own hopes for 1976 before Congress confirms him.

Ford, whose selection of Rockefeller was a well-kept secret, called the vice president-designate "a good partner for me... for our country and the world."

Rockefeller's nomination drew wide-ranging praise from congressmen including Black Caucus Chairman Charles W. Rangel, D-N.Y. But it drew disapproval from conservative Republicans including Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona.

Rockefeller refused to support Goldwater's 1964 GOP presidential candidacy and Goldwater said Rockefeller's nomination "is not going to set well with the conservatives in the Republican Party."

"I warned the President of that and I am sure he understood that," Goldwater said.

But Goldwater said Rockefeller is eminently qualified to be vice president and he will support him.

Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, a conservative candidate in several 1972 Republican presidential primaries, said he was "very disappointed" at the selection.

"He has continually been rejected nationwide by the majority of the Republican Party... Throughout his career he has used his influence to increase spending and debt," Ashbrook said.

But House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes said, "I can't believe conservative Republicans feel broadening the base of the party is a bad thing—unless they want to keep on losing and keep on being a minority."

Besides, on fiscal matters

Rockefeller is conservative, Rhodes said.

Congressional leaders and rank and file generally agreed that confirmation will be easy; some also said it would be quick.

"I think the President has made a choice very few will criticize," said House Speaker Carl Albert.

House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. joked: "I suppose it will take some time to unwind his finances."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said he hopes the nomination can be confirmed in 35 to 40 days rather than the 55 it took to confirm Ford as vice president last year.

Few members were as optimistic as Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, who indicated he thought Congress could confirm Rockefeller in a week.

Aside from the conservative Republicans, Rockefeller's only immediate congressional critic was Rep. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y.

"It is ironic that after Watergate an oil billionaire should be appointed to the vice presidency by an appointed president," she said.

Rangel said he doubted Rockefeller could be confirmed before November, and another Judiciary member, Rep. Charles E. Wiggins of California, said it may take until January.

Ford's confirmation took two months, and Congress only plans to meet a little more than a month between now and November. It recesses Thursday with the Senate returning Sept. 4 and the House Sept. 11, then plans to recess by Oct. 15 for campaigning.

Both Cannon and Rodino said they will not even be in a position to plan a starting time for Rockefeller's confirmation hearings until they return from recess in September.

During that time, President Ford and Congress' leaders have already agreed, the FBI will be making the exhaustive background investigation that for Ford took two weeks.

HOWDY, TEACHERS—New educators to Midland schools and University of Texas of the Permian Basin, as well as sponsors of the barbecue, listen to welcomes by Chamber of Commerce, Midland College, UTPB and Midland public school officials.

Barbecue Held For Teachers, Administrators

An estimated 175 persons were in Hogan Park Tuesday evening for a western-style barbecue honoring new teachers and administrators, sponsored by the Education Committee of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

Among the 175 attending were Chamber officials, representatives from local businesses which paid for the event and trustees from the schools represented.

The honorees were new teachers and administrators from the Midland Independent School District, Midland College, University of Texas of the Permian Basin; Trinity School, Hillander School, St. Ann's School and Midland Christian School.

Entertainment during the meal was provided by "The Origin," a folk singing group from Lee High School.

Al G. Langford, president of Midland College, introduced both honorees and sponsors, expressing appreciation to Janiece Buita of the Midland County tax office for providing voter registration service at the park for the new educators and to John Cox, general manager of the Midland Cubs, who later in the evening hosted barbecue guests at the Cubs-Amarillo Giants game.

K. M. Jastrow, Chamber of Commerce president, greeted the new teachers, followed by MISD Supt. James H. Matley, MC academic dean Dr. Don Hunt and UTPB President Dr. Billy H. Amstend.

NEW CHOIR DIRECTOR—Mr. and Mrs. Doug Browne were among the new teachers and administrators present for the Tuesday night barbecue sponsored by the Education Committee of the Midland Chamber of Commerce. Browne replaces Henry Sellers as Lee High School's choir director.

DURING BOARD MEETING—MC Trustees Accept Bids

Business pertaining to the new Midland College campus dominated Tuesday night's meeting of the board of trustees in the Midland Room of the Midland National Bank.

Trustees accepted low bids of American Desk Manufacturing for laboratory equipment at $79,864 and lecture room seating at $7,332, and Commercial Kitchens for food service equipment at $43,384.

Bids awarded for library furniture went to E&I Co-op for lounge seating $6,813.50; Indeco Sales for reading carrels at $4,338, reading tables for $8,374.80 and steel book stacks for $14,843, and 3-M for a book detection system, $12,975.

MC President Dr. Al G. Langford expressed appreciation to the Junior League of Midland for its purchase of $7,000 of reading tables for the library.

Another item on the Tuesday agenda regarding the MC campus, currently under construction, was the appointment of a landscape committee to assist and advise landscape architect Art Glick who was hired Aug. 1 in a special meeting of the board.

Named to the committee were James L. Myers, William Milner, W. H. Mewhorter, James N. Allison Jr., George H. Vineyard, W. B. Thrasher, Joseph H. Dominey, William H. Malone, L. O. Thompson and Carroll Kiser. Also appointed was Gordon S. Knox, director and chairman of the Midland Chamber of Commerce's VIP (Visual Improvement Projects) Committee.

Due to a proposed modification on the administration building's inner court for landscaping purposes designed to eliminate "blank walls" in the area, trustees will meet at 4 p.m. Monday at the building site to render their decisions.

The special meeting of the trustees in committee as a whole is necessary because contractors for the project, Area Builders, have indicated their desire to pour concrete for the inner court Aug. 30. Modifications for landscaping purposes must be made prior to that time in case additional plumbing is required.

In additional business involving the MC grounds, trustees voted to grant an extension of two weeks to Tex-Line, Inc., for completion of a sprinkler system.

Appointments Okayed

Board members also approved the appointment of eight persons to the college staff, including Dr. David Norton as assistant to the president for research and development. He replaces Dr. Alvin Cannady who has accepted a position as professor at Pan American University.

Dr. Norton received his bachelor's degree from Howard Payne College, completing master's and doctorate at The University of Texas-Austin in educational and junior college administration.

He is past president of Vernon Regional College; director of the Junior College Division and Junior College Program Examiner for the Coordinating Board; Texas College and University System in Austin, and dean of admissions, registrar and professor of education at Lee College in Baytown.

Also named to MC positions were Dan Ledbetter, welding; Ralph E. Long, math; Mrs. Betty Moore, Spanish; Ricardo Saldana, vocational counselor; Leon O. Taylor, machine/shop; Dr. Charles Wakefield, electronic data processing, and Gary Brummer, business.

The Tuesday meeting also included the trustees' approval of the budget amendments for 1973-74, which showed a fund balance of $118,442.00, as well as error and correction lists from the city tax office.

The meeting concluded with an hour-and-a-half executive session in which board members considered the sale of a "very small portion" of MC lands for a facility which, if approved, would service both the college and another organization. No action was taken.

Japanese Embassy Stormed In Seoul

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — About 200 demonstrators stormed the shuttered Japanese Embassy today and tore the embassy sign from the building. They were protesting Tokyo's disclaimers of moral or legal responsibility for the attempted assassination of President Chung Hee Park.

The third day of protests at the embassy followed a statement by Premier Kim Jong-il that said Japan had no blame in the episode was "nonsensical."

The slogan-shouting demonstrators were members of Kwangbok-hoi, an organization of anti-Japanese independence fighters and their families. A police cordon drove them off and the police retrieved the sign and returned it to the embassy.

Park's wife and a teen-age girl were killed in the assassination attempt last week, but the president was unharmed. The assassin, Moon Se-kwang, is a Korean who lived in Osaka, Japan. He entered Korea on a Japanese passport issued in the name of an Osaka man with whose wife Moon had had an affair.

Kim said Moon got the passport because the Japanese authorities were negligent.

"Under Japanese criminal law, it is an offense even to insult a foreign chief of state," he said. "This was not a case of insult here. Moon attempted to assassinate our president."

Clever, that Adam Smith.

Sound as old Adam Smith was, with his concepts of supply and demand, higher prices don't increase supplies overnight—at least not in the petroleum industry. It takes long lead times to crank up exploration, and often several years to bring new oil and gas discoveries into actual production.

Yet a surprising number of people look at today's higher petroleum prices and wonder why—even with this added incentive—U.S. crude oil production continues to fall off. One all-too-quick explanation is that the oil companies are purposely holding back U.S. production so prices will rise still more.

Fantasies are exciting. But the facts are more informative. Mobil, for example, is producing as much oil in the U.S. as we can, consistent with sound conservation principles and federal and state laws and regulations. "All out," in layman's parlance. The problem is that our U.S. production and that of the industry as a whole has been on the decline for several years for lack of enough new discoveries. U.S. oil wells are getting older—and less productive.

But the incentive of higher prices will almost certainly slow the decline and, we hope, reverse that trend, because Adam Smith's "marketplace mechanism" is as valid today as it was back in 1776, when the British theoretician first proclaimed his ideas. Today's prices for petroleum have already stimulated a host of activities that, down the road, will mean more oil, more gas. Consider this evidence:

- The Hughes Tool Co. rig count, a barometer of daily drilling activity, was up by more than 25 percent during the first five months of this year compared with the same period a year ago.
- Drilling was up by 11 percent during the first quarter for exploratory wells, those in areas where oil or gas is yet to be found, hence riskier and more expensive.
- Geophysical activity—the preliminary work preceding drilling—will be up 24 percent this year, based on current activity levels.
- More money is being spent to squeeze oil out of existing fields. This year, Mobil alone expects to spend about $28 million for improved recovery from existing fields.
- The statistics may look even better when the federal government finally opens to oil company exploration some of the promising coastal areas off the U.S. East and West Coasts and in the Gulf of Alaska.
- Improving the U.S. production outlook will, as we said, take time as well as incentive. But the process has begun. Clever, that Adam Smith.

Midlander Attends Debate Workshop

FORT WORTH — Marilee Buttery of Midland was among 164 high school debaters from nine states who recently completed the 11th annual summer debate workshop at Texas Christian University.

The two-week workshop used the 1974-75 debate topic as a basis for instruction and competition.

Each student was given extensive round experience with preparatory instruction in all areas of research, analysis and presentation. The debate topic for the coming school year is "Resolved: That the United States should significantly change the method of selecting presidential and vice-presidential candidates."

ANDREWS — Two faculty members of The University of Texas of the Permian Basin were in Andrews today to a Curriculum Objective Workshop for the middle school faculty.

Dr. Edwin Kurtz, professor and chairman of life science, and Dr. Douglas Hale, assistant professor of mathematics, presented guidelines for constructing curriculum objectives.

The objective of the workshop was "to help the faculty write objectives and goals for the total curriculum in the new middle school building," Dr. Kurtz said.

Livestock Growers Get $32.7 Million In Suit Against A&P

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Seven livestock growers in two states have been awarded $32.7 million in damages in a price fixing judgment against A&P Stores.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter signed the award Tuesday. A jury decided July 25 in favor of the growers from California and Colorado, who claimed A&P had violated anti-trust laws by conspiring with other chains not named as defendants.

The jury determined A&P tried to restrain trade in fresh meats between 1964 and 1974 by setting high prices in stores and paying low prices to packers and feeders.

The judge said he will hear motions for a new trial Oct. 11.

He set Oct. 17 as the date to hear motions to make the suit a class action, for injunctive relief and on attorney's fees.

If motions for a new trial are denied and the judge rules in favor of a class action, another trial probably would be held to determine additional damages.

The $32.7 million award, however, will start drawing interest immediately.

Damages were awarded to California growers Dan Compton of Woodbridge, Irvin Bray of King City, Arnold Christensen of Arbutle and Stanley and Orin Van Vleck of Slough House.

Damages also were awarded to Colorado growers William Prather of DeBeque and R.E. Boulton and Sons of New Castle.

FBI Probe Of Prison Shootout Being Urged

AUSTIN (AP) — The vice chairman of the joint legislative committee on prison reform said today he would push for a full FBI investigation of the shootout at Huntsville State Prison.

"I for one, being one member of the committee, would recommend that the committee recommend that the Justice Department get involved," said Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Houston.

Leland noted at a news conference that the FBI already is investigating allegations that one inmate who took part in the attempted breakout that resulted in four deaths, Ignacio Cuevas, was beaten.

He also said he would ask Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who was in prison during the 11-day crisis, to testify before the committee about what he had learned.

The committee meets Friday afternoon. Leland said it might review letters received from prison inmates and one of the hostages, prison guard Bobby Heard, about the incident.

Fred Gomez Carrasco, reputed South Texas drug lord, another inmate and two women hostages were killed by gunfire as Carrasco led an attempted breakout Aug. 3 after holding as many as 15 people hostages.

A Huntsville grand jury has been investigating the affair.

Leland called his news conference to issue a statement, deploring the attempted breakout and other attempted jail breaks, including one now going on at Amarillo, in which hostages have been taken.

He asked newsmen to help him get the word to the people, "and especially to those persons who are incarcerated in Texas' prisons and jails."

Season Of Beauty Contests May See Six-Foot Queen

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

This is the season of the beauty contests and it is quite evident that the winners are shooting so high that we may have a six-foot queen in a year or two.

You might conclude that this is bad news for short men. This is not the case as will be evident shortly. That is not an intentional pun, either.

Tracked down Sharai Banks. She is an articulate, beautiful brunette with blue-grey eyes who is very much a member of the young generation. She is 28. She also is five feet eleven inches tall.

At the moment she was presiding over the store of her mother, Mrs. M. Banks, called the Village Tall Shop. It has just moved into new and larger quarters in a North Dallas shopping center.

Are Dallas girls becoming taller?

"Big Deal" "Not really," Shar replied. "Most people think Texans are bigger. Big deal! All kids are getting bigger now. They're feeding them vitamins and things."

There was a time, she said, looking back over those mere 28 years, "When I would go out and I would be the only tall person there. Not any more!"

Some tall girls tend to be self-made wallflowers. They don't assert themselves. Were the tall girls avoiding parties?

Shar didn't know anything about that. "I've never been conscious of it (her height). My mother is 5-9 and I've worked among tall girls all my life." She wears the new high-fashion platform heels of two and three inches.

Mayor Carries A Big Stick

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — While it may be a cliché to say you can't fight city hall, John Jay Hubbard must know it's true.

Two weeks ago, Hubbard, 39, resigned as city clerk in a clash with the mayor over the firing of an employe in the clerk's office.

The mayor blocked the resignation by keeping the matter off the city council's agenda.

"He does carry a big stick," said Hubbard of the mayor, who also happens to be his father, Orville. "Sometimes that's hard to swallow."

But he added, "I think we've had a requiem... We have new respect for each other."

Pilot Makes Announcement

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The Star reported that a South African Airways pilot made this announcement to his passengers: "I have some good news and some bad news. First the bad news, Cape Town's airport is fogbound. We will have to turn back to Jan Smuts Airport in Johannesburg. Now for the good news. We are five minutes ahead of schedule."

"They're getting proud of their height," she said of the taller ones.

Surely tall girls have trouble getting dates.

That set Shar's waist-length hair swishing sometimes in anger and again in laughter.

"They can get the short ones all day long," she replied. She said she can't explain why tall women attract short men so much.

On the other hand, "The tall dingbats want—they want those little bitty things," she said with a tone of cynicism.

So there you have all these conflicts. Beauty contest judges pick tall girls as the ideal, tall men pick short girls, short men fall heavily for tall women.

There is no answer to the chemistry which turns people on.

If tall women want to meet the towering men, why don't they hang around the shops catering to towering males and pretend to buy for a brother or something. There are some real tall ones there.

It wouldn't mean anything, said Shar. Remember, they like the shorter ones.

Is there anything Shar dislikes about being tall?

"Little bitty short guys bug-ging the hell out of me" does disturb her.

"I don't mind talking to them and being friends, but if they ask me to dance, I tell them, 'You have to come above my (anatomy deleted).'"

Slow Down Plan Getting Results

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — A California Highway Patrol car, red light flashing, weaves from lane to lane in the rush hour freeway traffic carrying a big sign reading, "It's 55."

At one or two minute intervals, the lead patrol car is followed by 14 others flashing the same red lights and messages. Units with public address horns make verbal warnings.

The patrol said the reason for the two-week experiment in the Los Angeles area is because officers have noted that motorists are generally disregarding the 55 mile an hour speed limit and returning to the 65 m.p.h. speed of pre-energy crisis days.

"It's what you would call instant compliance," said spokesman Lt. Bob Kovach in evaluating motorist reaction after the program began Monday. He said the only major violator so far was a motorcyclist who whizzed by on the freeway shoulder going about 80 m.p.h.

Hitchhiker, Driver Charged In Wreck

GRASSY SOUND, N.J. (AP) — A hitchhiker and the man who picked him up both were charged with drunken driving after each had an accident in the same car, police report.

Officers told this story: James Kelly, 22, of Philadelphia, thumbed a ride on North Wildwood Boulevard early Monday with Edward Wolf, 37, also of Philadelphia.

As Wolf pulled out, the car veered off the road and struck a small pole. Kelly commented on Wolf's condition and offered to drive. Wolf agreed. But when Kelly got behind the wheel, he swerved across the road and struck another pole.

The men were held in Cape May County jail in lieu of $250 bond each.

She was dancing the other evening with a 6-3 fellow and he gave a sigh of relief. "I'm sick and tired of riding those little bitty girls around on my knee," he confided.

Reminded that once the "five-foot-two, eyes of blue" woman was the American ideal, Shar was asked if she believes styles in women's figures will come full cycle back to the short ones.

"I don't think there is a cycle," she said. "The Italians and Spanish once were thought of as being short and they are becoming taller."

Shar defines a tall woman as any 5-7 or more.

Over 6-2 and a woman has trouble being fitted. The shop does fit customers of 6-4.

"Strangely," she said, "Those over 6-2 don't like to go to a tall shop."

She can't explain that. What do they do? "They get mis-fitted."

The Banks are quite pleased that the new 5-11 Miss Tall International, Gall Frantz, is a customer.

Tall shops are fighting an old stigma. Once their stock was mostly dull browns and blacks.

"Now they make juicier stuff and we're getting younger customers," Shar said. At that moment, two-thirds of those in the store were in their 20s.

To illustrate, she brought out what she described as a cocktail dress.

It was a floor-length knit with little hang-down things that swing back and forth as if to call attention to well-shaped limbs. The décolletage was way down to there or somewhere.

To a discerning male, it is more revealing than the tiniest bikini.

Shar held it up to her trim figure.

"It's from the Green Funky Line," she said. "They call it their Mistress Collection."

She grinned. "An old maid won't wear this. If she does, she won't be an old maid long."

The issue of height sometimes amuses her. She related that she was in a group recently viewing the Tower of London.

"There was a group of Japanese there. Gee, they're short. We were pointing down at them. And then we noticed they were pointing up at us."

While Shar was revealing some of the secrets of the tall girl, our own Beautiful Lady was piling tall clothes on the counter and furiously writing a check.

Yes, we married a 5-11 who was one of two who organized the Tip Toppers Club of Dallas. It is hoped that the Beautiful Lady and Shar don't consider six feet a "little bitty guy." If they do, they're too discreet to mention it to us.

Rockefeller Name Synonymous With Wealth And Power, With Public Service And Philanthropy

By TERRY RYAN
NEW YORK (AP)—In the eyes of the ruling class, the Rockefeller name is synonymous with wealth, with public service and philanthropy. The second generation of the family, which began with John D. Rockefeller in 1839, has found a new role in the political arena as a dynasty based on wealth, and the origin of that wealth can be dated with precision. On Jan. 10, 1870, the Standard Oil Co. was incorporated in Ohio with John Davison Rockefeller as president. He was called a robber baron by many. He gave away $530 million before he died. He was Nelson Rockefeller's grandfather. The early generations of Rockefeller had survived in America as tradesmen and farmers, neither spectacular successes nor failures. The family now dates its history from the birth of John D. Rockefeller in 1839. His father was an itinerant salesman who sometimes used the name "Dr. Rock" to peddle patent medicines.

John D. Rockefeller had a knack for acquiring money and a willingness to give it away. He was imaginative and ruthless in his business dealings, active and utterly correct in his private life. His attributes have become trademarks of a family that considers wealth a public trust and waste a sin.

Under his direction, Standard Oil acquired control of the industry through mergers, favorable railroad rates, rebates and other practices, many now illegal. By 1885 the company controlled 95 per cent of the nation's oil refining capacity. At the turn of the century, John D. Rockefeller's annual income was estimated at $50 million. He was called the richest man in the world.

The break-up of Standard Oil in 1911 under new federal anti-trust laws had little effect on the family fortune. John D. Rockefeller had retired from active business life.

His most trusted adviser, Baptist minister named Fred T. Gates, had warned him, "Unless you distribute your vast fortune quicker than it grows, it will crush not only you and your children, but your children's children."

With the aid of his son, John D. Rockefeller Jr., the senior Rockefeller spent the rest of his life giving away money and polishing his public image. He died in 1937 three months short of his 97th birthday.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. spent his life in the shadow of his family fortune. He was a shy, retiring man with little taste for the world of business and finance. He seemed almost apologetic about the family's wealth and spent most of his life giving part of it away. In 1913, he organized the Rockefeller Foundation. By the time he died in 1960, the foundation and other family-funded agencies had given an estimated $2.5 billion to education, medical research and other social and charitable causes.

Despite such philanthropy, the children of John Jr. inherited considerable fortunes. A daughter and five sons, Nelson Rockefeller included, seemed to wear their millions more comfortably. While their father was content with the quiet bankrolling of philanthropy, they have acquired a taste for active control and public leadership.

John D. Rockefeller 3rd, 68, eldest of the brothers, has been a leader in efforts to assess and deal with world population problems as founder and chairman of the Population Council.

Nelson Rockefeller, 66, spent much of his life in government service and politics. The third son, Laurence Rockefeller, 65, has combined an interest in conservation with business as developer of resort hotels in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and elsewhere. Like the others of his generation, he has been willing to use the family wealth and influence in matters that concern him, such as environmental quality.

John D. Winthrop Rockefeller, who died in 1973, displayed another trait of this Rockefeller generation, a willingness to move outside the family base in New York. He was twice elected governor of Arkansas after serving eight years as chairman of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission. Youngest of the five brothers is David Rockefeller, 59, board chairman and chief executive officer of Chase Manhattan Bank, third largest in the country. He has gained a worldwide reputation as a powerful spokesman for the banking and business community.

Job Plan Okayed
WASHINGTON (AP)—A Youth Conservation Corps to provide summer jobs for 50,000 girls and boys has been approved by the House. The $60 million program would allow summer workers to earn about $300 for two months work on state and federal lands.

Rockefeller underlined that theme by declaring that he expects Ford to top the Republican ticket in 1976, while declining to talk about his own political future. The former New York governor has sought the GOP nomination three times, twice as a declared candidate. He was widely regarded as a likely entry in 1976.

Ford's candidacy would foreclose that last chance. And Rockefeller said he is convinced the President indeed will run for the office he now holds by appointment and succession.

"He has every intention of it," Rockefeller said Tuesday as he called on the congressional chairmen who will supervise the vice presidential confirmation process. "That was my impression, that's what I urged, that's my assumption."

As vice president, Ford said he would not be a candidate for president in 1976. But after Ford succeeded to the presidency, a spokesman said the chief executive had not decided whether to seek election to a full term.

Rockefeller also said that he will be on the road campaigning for Republican candidates this fall. He said he had discussed that 1974 campaign role with Ford and is delighted at the prospect.

But a one-time political adversary warned that not all Republicans are going to be delighted with Rockefeller. Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who beat Rockefeller in a bitter contest for the GOP presidential nomination a decade ago, said the vice presidential nominee "is not going to sit well with the conservatives in the Republican Party."

Goldwater said he had warned Ford of that prospect, and "I am sure he understood." He also said Rockefeller is eminently qualified, and had been one of the names on his list of suggestions for the vice presidential nomination.

Rockefeller's background, experience and easy manner were major assets at the polls, although he never managed to convert them into nominating strength at a GOP national convention.

Ford evidenced no concern that Rockefeller might upstage the president. He said Rockefeller would be a good teammate and partner. For his part, Rockefeller emphasized his role as No. 2. "To preside over the Senate of the United States and to otherwise simply carry out any assignment..." from Ford.

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Nelson A. Rockefeller is going on duty as White House understudy with a pledge to do President Ford's bidding and a forecast that his new boss will be running for a full term in 1976.

Rockefeller, at 66 a durable if unsuccessful presidential campaigner, took pains to emphasize that he understands and accepts his subordinate role as Ford's vice president-designate. He said that what he does now is entirely up to the President.

For, said Rockefeller, "the detailed understanding with Ford as to what he will be assigned to do in his new job. He said that and the problems facing the nation led him to accept the vice presidency."

he once had dismissed as only standby equipment. While he didn't say so, the appointment also offered what was almost certainly his last chance for national office.

Late Summer Trip Has Its Dividends

One thing about a late summer vacation, you come back and find a fresh new season at the threshold with football interest quickening as the baseball season winds down to its conclusion.

Despite the players' strike, the early start of the fledgling NFL and the NFL exhibitions, we caught our first touch of football fever while driving down the Rio Grande Valley last week and catching sight of the Socorro, N.M., high school squad from the Interstate in a morning shoe-and-shorts workout.

Battle Scene

By Ted Battles

And who says, a lot doesn't happen in two weeks?

While we were away, pitchers Mike Weiss and Budd Schultz were promoted to Wichita along with infielder Joel Green. Former Midland Cub second baseman Rob Sperring was called up by Chicago and made his major league debut with a homer and double.

The NFL players reluctantly were permitted to report to camp and the NFL was caught fibbing about its attendance figures, which left Penn State Coach Joe Paterno, who has a penchant for the controversial, with egg on his face. And someone facetiously suggested they rename the Dallas Cowboys the Lame Ducks.

Back in Midland, school has again started and the Bulldog and Rebel football squads are just a couple of days away from donning the pads for serious workouts, which means those preseason scrimmages and first games can't be far behind.

While in Arlington for the Texas-Oakland series a couple of weeks back, Fergie Jenkins treated Ranger fans to a two-hitter, but then in the final two games the A's showed why they'll probably win another world championship with lopsided wins.

And the change in the mood of Ranger fans over the last year was reflected when 22,000 showed despite a rain threat to see Jenkins pitch, 25,000 were on hand for Jim Bibby's start the next night and less than 18,000 were on hand for young David Clyde's start the third night. Last year, the 19-year-old from Houston Westchester High was the only draw the Rangers had.

Paterno? When it was announced by the WFL Philadelphia Bells that they had drawn 61,000 for their opener, Paterno said it just showed that baseball was dead since only 34,000 showed up across the street to watch the Philadelphia Phils play the same night.

Later, it was disclosed that the Bell crowd wasn't that big and that they were "freebies." Still, a throng of 50,000 or so represented a good throng for the new venture, free or not.

Perhaps more amazing is the fact that 34,000 passed up the free show to pay their way in to the Phillies game.

Maybe the Phils will survive despite the WFL after all.

PEPPER'S HOMER DECIDES IT— M-Cubs Lose, 4-3, In 15th

BY TED BATTLES

Tony Pepper mercifully put an end to the Midland Cubs agonizing throes of frustration by holting a home run over the right field in the vicinity of the 300-foot mark to give Amarillo's Giants a 4-3 Texas League victory in the 15th inning Tuesday night at Cuba Stadium.

The giant first baseman, a look-a-like for Willie McCovey, ended the longest game of the season here for the residue of 1,200 fans with his 19th homer after coming up with a couple of diving saves that probably prevented the Cubs from winning in regulation nine innings.

Midland left 19 runners on base, three times leaving the bases loaded in the marathon three hour, 57-minute contest.

It was a sixth inning home run by Mike Sember that finally tied it at 3-3 in the sixth for Midland after the Cubs had trailed 3-0 at the end of three.

From that point on, it was a pitching duel between Midland's Bruce Sutter, who allowed only four hits in 8 2/3 innings after relieving starter Tom Backcock after the Giants struck for two runs in the third, and David Heaverlo, who pitched 7 1/3 scoreless innings after arriving in relief of starter David Fuqua in the sixth. It was the longest pitching stint for Heaverlo in a two-year pro career.

Yet, neither pitcher was involved in the decision. Terry Hansen, 24, who pitched the final two innings, got the win while Paul Zeln, 24, suffered the loss after pitching out of two tough jams in his four-inning stint.

Shortstop Sember came up with the fielding gem of the night in a game liberally sprinkled with great defensive saves. Mike's big play came in the third after the Giants had scored twice. Racing into the hole to backhand Lazzaro Del Orbe's one-skip liner,

Smith. Midland retaliated for a couple of runs in the third when Steve Clancy reached second as centerfielder Englert lost his fly ball in the lights. Brock Davis beat out a grounder to short and Bill Huisman doubled home one run and Jerry Tabb's fly produced the other, still the Cubs left the bases loaded.

Sember's fourth homer, over the scoreboard in the sixth, tied it and when Davis walked and Huisman singled to left, that signaled the end for Fuqua.

The Cubs loaded the bases in the ninth and again in the 14th only to see the Giants squirm out of it.

TONIGHT VS. GIANTS Cubs' Geisel Seeks 13th

CUB BRIEFS — Lethander Dave Geisel, who has a chance to tie Dan Corder's Midland club record for victories in a season, will go for Midland in tonight's final game against Amarillo here. The 19-year-old rookie is 12-5 and will be opposed by Rob Dressler, 19-10. Dave is 2-1 against the Giants and Dressler is 2-3 against the Cubs. Amarillo now has a 12-13 edge in the season's series with Midland after trailing at one stage 8-1

Amarillo Manager Denny Sommers reports that pitcher John Montefusco, called up at mid-season by Phoenix, broke a Pacific Coast League record that had stood since 1910. "He gave up a hit to Gerry Remy of Salt Lake City and then struck out eight in a row."

Big Spring's R. J. Englert, the former Texas Aggie who roams centerfield for the Giants, plans to play winter ball in Mexico. The season runs September through November. Bruce Sutter, who turned in a masterful relief job for the Cubs, Tuesday night, is a printer during the off season back in Lancaster, Pa.

El Paso invades Midland for five games in three days with a doubleheader Thursday. It will be the final Ladies Night of the season. Friday will be Republican Women's and Industrial Night as well as the final 10 cent beer night

Orioles Spill Texas

Randle, Baylor Exchange Punches

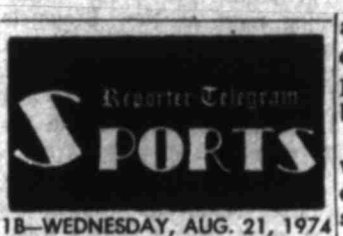

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

Sometimes it doesn't pay to just stand around... sometimes it does.

Third baseman Lenny Randle of Texas just stood around the bag—and nearly got tagged with a punch in the mouth for not moving away during the Rangers' 2-1 loss to Baltimore.

And Bert Blyleven of Minnesota just stood around near third base and got tagged with an error and a 2-1 loss to the New York Yankees for not being 90 feet away.

But Kansas City pitcher Al Fitzmorris played a losing game of dodge-ball with a couple of Cleveland line drives, then got away—and got a 2-0 victory over the Indians, too.

18—WEDNESDAY, AUG. 21, 1974

Randle nearly received a Don Baylor punch. Baylor singled, then stole second in the Orioles' second inning. Catcher Jim Sundberg's throw went into center field and Baylor had difficulty getting untrangled from second baseman Dave Nelson before racing to third.

Baylor said that when he got to third, Randle was standing in his way. "I told him to move aside and one word led to another." After a few punches, Randle backed off and both benches emptied.

When the dust settled, Baylor went back to third, then scored on a single by Brooks Robinson.

Yankees 2, Twins 1

Blyleven was near third. Catcher Glenn Borgman was down the first base line, chasing a wild throw by shortstop Danny Thompson.

And Bobby Murcer of the Yankees, was rounding third and suddenly noticed that nobody—except umpire Larry Napp—was anywhere near home plate. So Murcer raced home with the run that beat the Twins.

Royals 2, Indians 0

Homers by Tony Solaita and Fran Healy sent Kansas City past Gaylord Perry and the Indians. Fitzmorris pitched five three-hit innings but had to leave because of injuries sustained from hard grounders that bounced off his right leg and his pitching hand for hits.

In Texas League action Tuesday, Arkansas blasted Shreveport 8-2, Victoria dropped Alexandria 5-2 and San Antonio dumped El Paso 4-2.

Arkansas' Larry Volkening went the distance in hurling his 12th complete game of the year and picking up his ninth victory. The Travelers Joe Lindsey drove in four runs, two of them coming on his eighth homer of the season.

Victoria's hitting subdued Alexandria as Mike Ivie and Jerry Turner slammed home runs. Randy Trapp of the Toros connected for two hits and two runs.

San Antonio's Jim Strickland spaced six El Paso hits while gaining his 10th victory of the season against eight losses.

WFL ROUNDUP—Blazers Face Mild Storm

By The Associated Press

The Florida Blazers play the Portland Storm tonight, but they have Georgia on their minds.

"Everybody is asking about a possible move of the team," said Blazers Coach Jack Pardee Tuesday. "Nobody is asking about Portland."

If they did, they'd find out that Portland is winless in six games, while the Blazers have won five of six.

Portland is in last place in the Western Division and Florida is in first in the Eastern Division, but the Blazers are also in limbo, with persistent rumors of the franchise shifting to Atlanta.

And that kind of talk made preparation difficult for tonight's World Football League game against the Storm.

"If we play like we practiced today, we'll be embarrassed by 40 points," Pardee said.

On the other hand, Portland's practices and games have both been the same—unsuccessful. Last week, the Storm was embarrassed by 22 points, losing to the New York Stars 26-16.

In tonight's other WFL action, the Hawaiians are at Memphis, Southern California is at Philadelphia, Birmingham at Jacksonville and Houston at New York.

In Thursday's nationally-televised game, the Chicago Fire, 5-1, will battle the Detroit Wheels, who have lost their six games.

In Jacksonville, the Americans, 6-0, have the best total offense and the best record, but the Sharks, 2-4, have a new coach—Charlie Tate—who was greeted by a standing ovation from his new charges.

Dodgers, Reds Keep Pace In NL

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

The National League is playing the East-West game these days and Tuesday the West won ... and won ... and won ... and won ...

The wild, wild West won all six matches from the mild, mild East, leaving the two divisions races unchanged.

Dodgers 18, Cubs 8
The Dodgers, who snapped a six-game slump Monday, found the friendly outblowing Chicago breeze to their liking and pounded out a club record 24 hits. The barrage included three home runs by Dave Lopes, who had only three apiece all season, and one apiece by Jimmy Wynn, Steve Garvey and Willie Crawford.

Lopes also had a single, double and four runs batted in. Garvey had four RBI. Crawford had three singles in addition to his homer and Ron Cey had a double and three singles. Carmen Fanzone belted a grand slam for the Cubs and Rick Stelmazek also homered.

Reds 7, Phillies 1
Cincinnati remained 2 1/2 games behind Los Angeles when Johnny Bench hit his 25th home run of the season, a three-run shot in the third inning, and Joe Morgan cracked his third in two nights. The victory gave the Reds a 75-49 mark after 124 games, the identical record they had at the same point last season when they trailed Los Angeles by 1 1/2 games.

Braves 8, Cardinals 6
Darrell Evans clinched a four-run second inning with his second two-run homer in two games. The Braves wiped out a

FOR SHOFNER'S AERIAL ATTACK—

Luttrell Provides Balance

FORT WORTH (AP) — Once or twice last fall, and unpleasantly often last spring, TCU sophomore linebacker Joe Segulja got a head-on view of Mike Luttrell.

"Mike's different from an ordinary runner," says Segulja. "You see him coming and think you have him and about then he's moved a little and you only get a little bit of him."

Tacklers have been having difficulty with Luttrell for two years now in the Southwest Conference. He has rushed for 1,771 yards despite a rash of injuries, and now threatens Jim Swink's all-time Frog rushing record of 2,618 yards.

But now TCU's fortunes, dwindling in recent seasons until 1973 saw only one conference victory, have been turned over to Jim Shofner, whose statements and pro league background make it certain the Purples will invest their resources in an air attack this year.

Where does that leave Luttrell? It leaves him much appreciated. Shofner compares him to former pro star Jim Taylor. Frog backfield coach Jimmy Thomas, who last year was himself an NFL running back, says Luttrell is "super." They make it clear Luttrell will be given the ball, both to run with and to catch.

"Mike's a strong, quick runner," says Shofner, "but he's a great blocker, 500, just a complete ball player."

Unfortunately for Shofner in his maiden season as a head coach, he doesn't have enough like Luttrell. The former Frog star (Shofner led the league in rushing himself in 1975) knows it.

"We're not physically strong enough to just ram the ball down the field," he says. "We'll be making first downs in order to get to a big play."

Shofner's No. 1 offensive aide, Tommy Runnels, says, "We won't be bashful about throwing the ball. We won't be waiting until it's third-and-eight before we pass."

While the presence of a runner like Luttrell will keep the attack fairly well balanced, Shofner likes the passing potential of junior quarterback Lee Cook. Cook completed more than half his passes last year, while in a reserve role. A search will continue in pre-season work for a running mate for Luttrell, with Kent Waldrep, Bobby Cowan, Ronnie Littleton and possibly Bobby Forrest the likeliest candidates.

Gary Patterson, a 144 hurdler, and senior Dave Duncan are the top receivers, but freshman Mike Renfro, and junior Dicky Powers will also see a lot of duty. Sophomore Roy Leach fell off scaffolding while working this summer and injuries will prevent him from playing.

Transfer Ronald Parker could wind up with the tight end job. Merle Wang returns to anchor the offensive line, while John McWilliams and Terry Champagne also have experience, and will be joined by bright sophomore prospects Scott O'Gee and Jerry Callier.

Linemen are at a premium around TCU. The offensive line is uncertain, and only Tommy Van Wart returns on defense, manning one tackle spot. Van Wart's friends in the front four (Shofner has installed a basic 4-3-4 defense) will probably be J. G. Grouch at tackle and ends Chad Utley and David Gregg.

In a building situation, complicated by a complete change of offensive and defensive systems, Shofner still has hopes of some immediate success, despite a schedule which adds Minnesota, Alabama and Arizona State to the list of SWC foes.

FOR CAGE PLAY—

Runnerup Now Eligible

ST. LOUIS (AP) — More than one team from a conference will be eligible to participate in the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament in the future, according to action taken Tuesday by the NCAA Executive Committee.

The committee, which held its annual meeting here, announced a policy change which permits a team other than the conference title holder to be eligible for one of the 12 "at large" berths in the national tournament.

Sixteen of the 32 tournament spots go to conference champions and four others are taken from regional tournaments conducted by the East Coast Athletic Conference.

Under the new policy, however, no more than two teams from a conference may play in the national tournament.

Tickets for the 1975 tournament will cost more than before, the NCAA said. Ticket prices for early-round action will go up from $4 to $5 and prices for the finals—to be held in San Diego—will go up from $10 to $12. The price for admission to the 1976 finals in Philadelphia will go up to $12.50.

Rebels, Pack Don Grid Pads Friday

First Games Only Two Weeks Later

Midland High and Midland Lee moved into the third day of drills and shorts workouts Wednesday and will don the pads for more strenuous body-tumbling in preparation for the season's opening Sept. 6 when the Bulldogs trek to Amarillo. Tascosa while the Rebels are hosting Lubbock High at Memorial Stadium.

Lee is working two sessions daily, a short one in the morning and a longer drill in the afternoon.

Midland High is holding just one workout out of necessity. "We had planned to go with two sessions," said Coach John Reddell, "but it just wasn't workable in view of how far some would have to come to make the morning practice. We would have had to start before daylight for them to make their classes."

"The players look like they are in pretty good shape," Reddell added, "and with a longer afternoon practice, we should be able to accomplish what we would with two-a-days, if the attitude is good."

Lee has 35 to 40 hopefuls on hand.

"We don't have many out this year," said Coach Jim Acree, "and we are real young and small."

When asked how it looks, Acree said, "You might ask somebody else because I really don't know. It's that stage of the year when it's hard to tell what you've got."

Midland High has 50 to 55 varsity prospects on hand with 21 lettermen back. One of Reddell's problems this fall is a lack of depth.

The early season form chart rates Odessa Permian and San Angelo the teams to beat in the District 5-4A race. The two were co-champions last year with Permian representing the league by virtue of its crushing win over the Bobcats.

Both Midland and Lee will pause Saturday morning for a picture-taking session, but then will return to the business of preparing for inter-squad scrimmages at the end of next week.

Ford Says He Won't Seek Wage And Price Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has pledged not to seek wage-price controls, saying recent experience makes it clear that compulsory controls would be most undesirable. He made the statement on Tuesday as Congress was completing action on his request for legislation to re-establish a wage and price monitoring agency. The new agency would disclose on investigation and disclosure of increases that threaten to feed inflation. It would have no authority to impose controls. "I will do my best to see that the new price and wage monitoring agency works effectively to combat inflation," Ford said. "There will be no mandatory wage and price controls." The President added that he wanted to get this message to labor and business leaders so they can act accordingly.

Ford also moved to set up a steering committee to prepare for an economic summit conference scheduled for late September or early October. He has promised to preside at the economic summit, which also would include representatives from Congress, management, labor and consumer groups. The bill setting up a Council on Wage and Price Stability, in effect a revival of the old Cost of Living Council, was the first specific legislation Ford asked for. The House took the final action approving it on Tuesday, 389-27. The Senate already passed the bill. While many congressmen, especially Democrats, have publicly expressed skepticism about the efficacy of an agency without mandatory control powers, the overwhelming inclination was to give the new President's proposal a chance. The council is to have eight full and four advisory members, all named by the President, who also designates the chairman. It is to analyze industrial capacity, demand and supply, to seek better data on which wages and prices are based, to obtain reports on wages, costs, prices and related matters, and to review government programs to see how they may be contributing to inflation. The council is to encourage productivity improvements and encourage wage and price restraint. It is authorized to conduct public hearings.

Braniff Decides To Leave Love Field

DALLAS (AP) — Braniff International has decided to leave Love Field here and consolidate its Dallas-Fort Worth service at the two cities' new regional airport. Braniff President C. Edward Acker said the Tuesday decision to stop 13 intrastate commuter flights from Love Field Sept. 1 and add 10 flights at the regional facility was the best way to serve the greatest number of travelers in the Southwest metropolis. Acker said Braniff now will fly to Houston from D-FW every 30 minutes during peak traffic periods. Flights depart on the hour will go to Houston Intercontinental Airport and on the half-hour to Houston Hobby Airport, he said. A Braniff spokesman said the change will mean a net gain of one flight to Houston, including 17 to Intercontinental and 10 to Hobby. Braniff will add one daily flight to San Antonio from D-FW but drop two Love Field-originated flights for a total of 16. Austin will have a total of six flights when Braniff adds one D-FW flight and drops three from Love Field. Braniff's decision to leave Love Field withdraws the airline from commuter flight battle with Southwest Airlines and Texas International at that airport. A southwest spokesman said his airline would have no comment on the Braniff pullout. A spokesman for Texas International said at the company's Houston headquarters that service to Austin from Love Field would continue as long as that field is open for commercial flights. The company does not fly from Love Field to either Houston's Hobby or San Antonio. The spokesman had no comment about any expansion of TIA's service from Love Field. Dry Weather Warning Naturalists say that dry weather is approaching when you see rabbits playing in the open and quails staying in flocks instead of pairing off.

Jumping from a single aircraft at 15,000 feet, they completed the formation in 40 seconds. M. A. Jenkins, a free fall photographer, jumped with them to take the photograph. They were rehearsing for a planned jump Sunday when they hope to form a 34-man star. (AP Wirephoto.)

Strauss Says Labor-Backed Move Which Caused Walkout At Democratic Meeting Was Mistake

By DON McLEOD
WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic party chairman Robert Strauss says the labor-backed move which caused a walkout at the party's charter commission meeting was a mistake. But he says some members of the reform wing took unfair advantage of it. Strauss said in an interview that he opposed the effort to remove some reform rules from the party's new charter, to be debated and adopted in Kansas City in December. "I wouldn't have supported that," he said. "I would have been the first to rise in opposition."

Amending the charter would take a two-thirds vote, while changing the bylaws takes only a majority. Strauss said he now expects the article to be adopted in December as written, with all the reform rules intact. He also indicated he hopes to work out a compromise on the other key controversy — section requiring the party to take "affirmative action" to include minorities specifically dropping but a minority group that they should not take the weekend's events as a signal they are unwelcome at the December conference. "By the time we get to Kansas City," he said of the charter, "we'll have language that 85 per cent of the delegates can accept."

An amendment offered by Doris Hardesty, wife of an AFL-CIO official, would have deleted several specific reform regulations for the selection of national convention delegates, including a ban on unit-rule voting. This sparked a walkout by black members, women and white liberals which broke up the meeting in Kansas City Sunday. The walkout dumped the remaining charter work over to the December meeting, which will be a mini version of the national convention. Mrs. Hardesty said after the blowup Sunday that she had not meant to wipe out such things as the unit-rule ban but had included it in a parliamentary blunder. However, she said she will argue in December against the item she was really after, a requirement that national convention delegates "reasonably reflect the division of preference of those Democrats who participated" in the delegate selection process.

GOOD IDEA—Miner Billy Duty of Harts, W. Va., sees the current shutdown of the coalfields as a good idea. He said the United Mine Workers' memorial observance will put the union in a better bargaining position. (AP Wirephoto.)

Miner Says Coalfields Shutdown Good

HARTS, W. Va. (AP) — Billy Miller's election and also after that "I'll tell the story." Many in the coal industry believe the approaching contract deadline was the real reason Miller called the memorial vacation. As for the upcoming contract, Duty said, "I don't like to tell them what I want in it. Dental and eye care should be added to the health care, for one thing. What good's money these days?" He aggravated a back injury last month and probably wouldn't have worked this week even if the mines had been open, but he says the week's layoff can only strengthen the union's bargaining position. "I thought this week was a good idea," he said. "But some of the men were a little disgruntled. They wanted to know why the hell Arnold couldn't have waited until squirrel season."

Money Supply Up
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board is continuing its goal of moderate growth in the money supply, a new report shows. The latest minutes of the board show that a target growth rate of between 3 and 7 per cent in the money supply was set. Moderate growth in the money supply and budget reductions have been the administration's primary weapons against inflation. Most of the men don't want the safety job," he said, turning a hand through his curly red hair and grinning. "They're afraid the company will be mad, but I don't care. The coal companies don't give a damn if I get killed under that mountain. They'll just drive over my body to get at that coal." Duty is self-admittedly outspoken, but he says spending 26 of his nearly 40 years in the mines has left him with a lot of scars and few illusions. He said he supported UMW President Arnold Miller before

'Dropouts' Enjoying Life Now

PORT ISABEL, Tex. (AP) — Two years ago, Don Veach, then a 36-year-old land surveyor, sat in his Houston office thinking depressing thoughts about the crowded Gulf Freeway he would soon have to fight to get home. He made up his mind to chuck it all and get out.

Now his bearded face sports a happy smile as he guns his four-wheel-drive power wagon through the soft sands of Padre Island, carrying passengers on yet another beachcombing jaunt.

Don makes his living on the beach, wearing sneakers and shorts, and he loves it. So does his attractive wife, who left a lucrative position with Eastern Airlines to drop out with her husband.

Although they aren't saving any money—"that's not the point," says Judy Veach—their beach trips bring in enough cash to keep them going without undue hardship. They live in a cluttered flat-roofed bungalow in Port Isabel, surrounded by fascinating look-driftwood and debris—hailed in from isolated stretches of Padre Island.

They're happy, carefree people who seem to have completely discarded urban ways.

"I feel 10 years younger than I did 10 years ago," Judy said recently after wrestling her four-wheel-drive truck for six hours along Padre's beaches. A fast-talking sophisticated woman of 34, Judy grew up in Irving, worked for the Dallas Theatre Center, handled public relations for Eastern Airlines in Washington and then became an in-flight executive before changing lifestyle.

She and Don offer what they say is the only beachcombing expedition on South Padre Island. At $15 a head, they haul tourists 26 miles up the island to the Port Mansfield Channel, providing a running historical commentary along the way. Most of the trip is through the unspoiled stretches of the island, where shelling and beachcombing are good. Don also takes out fishing parties occasionally.

"When we left Houston we had no idea how we would make a living," Judy related. "We just knew we had to get out of the rat race."

"It was just guts," said Don, a strongly-built man with a no-nonsense air about him.

The Veaches drove their truck and rented trailer to Port Isabel, a favorite vacation spot, in the early part of 1972. They ran into trouble after renting a cheap house for a month. "I couldn't get a job, not even cleaning fish," Don said. "It got pretty tight. We had paid off all our debts in Houston, and had no money left over. We ate fish three times a day, and I caught it."

In desperation, they applied to the Port Isabel school district and were accepted as substitute teachers. This work kept them going until the beachcombing trips started, and began to pay off.

"We want to do things on our own terms," said Don, who has rejected suggestions that he buy more vehicles and haul more passengers and make more money. "For too many years we did what other people wanted us to do. Now we're not going to get involved with projects, or with other people. We want to keep it simple."

Judy feels other people should have the courage to break away, too. "We should have done it sooner. People shouldn't just sit on their dreams." She and Don, who also is a native of Irving, were married three years ago in Houston.

Don was asked if he offers trips on holidays. "Now, it's a bit too crowded those days. We leave the beach to the poor people who have to work for a living."

Injunction Is Won By Adult Theater

HOUSTON (AP) — A Best-movie theater featuring adult films has won a temporary injunction that allows it to continue operations pending a hearing by a three-judge federal panel.

U.S. Dist. Judge John Singleton issued the ruling Tuesday and placed the Sun Theater's case along with other obscenity cases now pending.

No date has been set for hearing on the cases. The other suits were brought by theaters in San Antonio, San Angelo and Fort Worth against public officials in those cities.

On this date:
In 1690, Pueblo Indians took possession of Santa Fe, N.M., after driving out the Spanish.
In 1858, slavery was an issue as the famous debates began between political contenders Abraham Lincoln and Stephen Douglas.

In 1918, the World War I battle of the Somme river began in France.

Thought for today: The White House is the finest prison in the world—Harry S. Truman.

Many Travel To Banana Hill

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Thousands of people are traveling to a humble home in Banana Hill, 20 miles from here, to see a 19-year-old school girl who claims a divine power of healing.

Skeptics and believers alike are making the pilgrimage to see Margaret Wangari, who has been described by a local clergyman as working through "the hand of God."

Two of her most spectacular cures are claimed to be that of a woman who had been crippled for 10 years and the restoration to normality of a mentally disturbed man who used to run through the capital's streets in the buff.

Margaret claims her powers came to her after she heard the voice of God and saw a vision while attending a Christian camp at Njoro, 50 miles from here. On her return home, she effected two apparent cures and others have been claimed. People are now flocking to see the "miracle worker." It is also a gift of speaking in unknown tongues rumored she has the Biblical

CARPET TALK
By Edd Tucker

COMPROMISE is something we all get used to in major things we buy, from homes to cars to appliances. Dad may want a flashy sports car, but compromise on a family wagon because it's more practical. The budget may mean that Mom has to have a smaller refrigerator than she'd like, or settle for practical basics in the family's fall fashions. Often this choice or compromise is between style and practicality. And there's a very human tendency to choose what "turns us on" rather than what's practical (as car makers know when they stress elegant fabrics and jazzy wheel covers). But there's one place compromise is no longer necessary between style and practicality and that's in carpeting. With the amazing advances in man-made fibers, you can choose from many new carpets that are completely practical, and stylish, too. Want hard wear and a favorite robin's egg blue color? You can have it. Want a fun look shag at a modest price? You can have it. Want a luxury plush that won't show soil or will shed stains easily? You can have that, too. In today's no-compromise world of carpets, even budget strains don't mean you have to give up the texture, style and color you really want in a carpet. Come in and look over the happy selection we feature in every price range, from today's leading carpet manufacturers.

Foxx Loses Bid For Fast Divorce

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Comedian Redd Foxx has lost a bid for a quick divorce and a later property settlement with his wife Betty Jean.

Foxx, star of television's "Sanford and Son" series, moved for a summary judgment, but it was denied on Monday by District Court Judge Keith Hayes. A hearing was set for a later, unspecified date.

Foxx testified he and his wife were incompatible.

"We just don't get along. She wants to go out at night and I'm too tired," said Foxx, 51.

The couple has been married five years. They have no children.

Franco Recovery Called Complete

LAR CORUNA, Spain (AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco, 81, has so completely recovered from three weeks in the hospital that his health is now "better than a normal man his age," his doctor says.

The dictator, who has ruled Spain for more than 35 years, was treated in July for thrombophlebitis, an inflammation of the veins.

"He is taking walks every day through the gardens of El Pazo de Meiras," his doctor said Tuesday, and soon plans to play some golf.

NEW BURGER CHEF—Burger Chef, 907 Andrews Highway, will soon undergo a complete modernization program, Don Tidwell, owner announced.

Burger Chef Is Undergoing Full Modernization Program

An all new Burger Chef is introducing the F.I.N. (Future Is Now) program which has been implemented in approximately 500 Burger Chef restaurants across the nation. Customer acceptance has been tremendous. The program includes two "work bars" that enable the customers to fix their own hamburgers and garnish them as they choose, and to help themselves to all they want.

Also included in the updating program will be a salad bar that enables the customers to eat all the salad they want for a very low price. As an added convenience to the customers there will be a hostess to assist them with the "works," salad bars, and help with small children in any way possible.

This type program is a first for a national chain and it labels Burger Chef as the restaurant with "A Point of Difference."

Treasure Hunter's $2-Million Deposit Silences Laughter

GEORGETOWN, Del. (AP)—They kidded Melvin L. Joseph when he headed for Florida more than a decade ago on his first treasure hunt.

But no one was laughing in this rural town Tuesday as he deposited an estimated $2 million worth of jewels, Spanish gold doubloons and other treasure in a bank.

Joseph, 53, and his partner, Melvin A. Fisher, 52, of Key West, Fla., collected the treasure over the past 11 years in a search they said has led them to a sunken Spanish galleon that may contain the largest treasure ever found.

Tuesday's deposit was collected from 23 sunken wrecks off the Florida coast and only recently released by the state, which claims 25 per cent of all finds.

Both men say that, in their search of Atlantic waters, they have found the jackpot—a sunken Spanish galleon that has eluded treasure hunters for centuries.

Although the state of Florida, which licensed their operations, has neither confirmed nor denied it, the partners are convinced they have located the "Atocha," a Spanish galleon that sank in a 1622 hurricane with a reported 50 tons of gold and silver on board.

At today's prices, the treasure could bring about $400 million, Fisher told a reporter.

He said the treasure retrieved from the Atocha site so far is still in possession of Florida's Division of Archives, Records and History Management. Fisher estimates the value at $5 million to $6 million, and he says he expects it to reach the hundreds of millions before salvage is completed in the next few years.

"It's been a long time people have been laughing about this," said Joseph, a Georgetown contractor who got into treasure hunting as a hobby in 1962 and joined with Fisher in a part-time business partnership several years later.

In their search for the Atocha, Fisher said the pair spent five years researching historical references to the ship. They then covered more than 120,000 linear miles with an electronic search device before they located their site near the Marquessa Keys about 35 miles off Key West, Fla.

Infant's Baptism Not Valid Because Mother For Abortion

MARLBORO, Mass. (AP) — The baptism of the infant son of a mother who supports the right of women to have abortions is not officially recognized by the Roman Catholic Church, according to parish priests.

A New York priest baptized 3-month-old Nathaniel Morreale on the steps of the Immaculate Conception Church on Tuesday, even though the priest's superiors had instructed him not to.

The infant was denied baptism on Aug. 11 because his mother, Carol Morreale, 20, had been quoted as saying she favored a proposal by Bill Baird to open an abortion clinic in Marlboro. Baird operates similar clinics in Boston and on Long Island.

After the nighttime ceremony, parish priests said in a statement that the baptism "is surely as valid as any baptism administered at any Christian church... It seems clear, however, that the child is not baptized into the ecclesiastical community of the faith that we call the Roman Catholic Church."

The baptism was performed by the Rev. Joseph O'Rourke, a director of a New York-based organization called Catholics for a Free Choice, which advocates women's rights to have abortions.

The priest's statement said "... no priest worthy of the name can in good faith support such a position."

It called the stance "perilously close to heresy."

About 300 spectators stood in the street in front of the large brick church to watch the outdoor baptism. Many clapped when Father O'Rourke said, "I baptize you, Nathaniel Morreale, in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit."

The parish priests said that because of Mrs. Morreale's opinions on abortion, they questioned whether her son would be raised as a Catholic. They said they had to be sure of this before they could baptize the child.

"This whole thing was a ploy by Mr. William Baird," said the Rev. Benjamin McMahon, associate pastor of the Marlboro church. "We had no idea of putting this into the press."

Father McMahon said Mrs. Morreale and her husband, Daniel, 20, "are still members of this church, because they live within the boundaries of this parish."

Whether they were in good standing was an internal church matter, he said.

The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Boston, in which the Marlboro parish is included, supported the local priests' decision.

Council officials urge all Cub pack and Scout troop leaders to attend the meeting, or have a representative from their unit in attendance.

The roundup program will be explained and unit and boy recognitions will be outlined.

The roundup is the Buffalo Trail Council's annual drive for new Cub and new Scouts.

The roundup theme this year is "All American Team" and will be geared around a football atmosphere.

1,000 Subway Riders Escape Death In Blaze

NEW YORK (AP) — "Coming through that tunnel was like coming through hell. If we were down there longer, there would have been deaths," said Fred Rontzon, 27, who walked to safety from a subway fire.

A board of inquiry convened today to investigate the rush hour fire that trapped more than 1,000 commuters for two hours in a sweltering, smoke-filled tunnel 90 feet below the East River on Tuesday evening. Four trains were stranded when electric power to the tube was shut off. Firemen said tunnel temperatures reached an estimated 100 degrees.

At least 125 persons, many weeping and covered with soot, were taken to hospitals for treatment of heat fatigue, smoke inhalation and other injuries.

No serious injuries were reported, however, and most were released after getting first-aid.

Two of the trains were partially evacuated, with passengers walking in darkness along an underground catwalk to emergency exits on either side of the tunnel in Manhattan and Brooklyn.

As they emerged, scores immediately received oxygen administered at the scene by hundreds of police and firemen.

The fire was extinguished within 90 minutes, but it was another 40 minutes before power was restored to allow the stalled trains to be moved.

Midlander's Sister Dies; Rites Today

SNYDER — Mrs. Mamie A. Merritt, 81, of Abilene and formerly of Snyder, sister of Mrs. Florence Patterson of Midland, died Tuesday in an Abilene hospital.

Services were held at 11 a.m. today in the Elliott-Hamill Funeral Home Chapel at Abilene.

Additional services will be at 4 p.m. Thursday in the First Presbyterian Church here, with the Rev. John Gaston, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Snyder Cemetery under direction of the Bell-Seals Funeral Home.

Other survivors include four daughters, 10 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Ford To Sign Education Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford plans to sign today a $25 billion education bill extending Great Society school aid programs and imposing new scheduling curbs.

Ford scheduled a trip across town for a 1 p.m. CDT public ceremony at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

In what was reviewed as a peace-making gesture, major education organizations were invited to witness the bill signing. Many had battled with former President Richard M. Nixon over his not infrequent vetoes of education money bills.

Ford, who has labeled inflation "public enemy No. 1," already has warned Congress against spending at levels authorized in the new bill through 1978.

But he told a joint session of Congress on Aug. 12 that his reservations about the measure "fade in comparison to the urgent needs of America for quality education."

In implementing its provisions, however, Ford said he will "oppose excessive funding during this inflationary crisis."

The bill authorizes $7.2 billion next year alone.

A compromise between the House and Senate versions prohibits federal courts from ordering the busting of a child beyond the closest or next-closest school to achieve desegregation, unless necessary to protect the constitutional rights of minority children.

A House provision requiring courts to reopen desegregation cases which called for longer bus rides was dropped.

Fashioned during two years of tough wrangling in Congress, the bill builds upon the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act which pumped billions of federal dollars into schools across the country to help poor and black kids catch up in the classroom.

In a basic departure, the new bill revises the formula for distributing funds for the educationally disadvantaged, giving proportionately more to rural and suburban areas at the expense of big cities.

Turkish Leader Says He's Ready To Begin Talks

By The Associated Press

Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit said today Turkey is ready to negotiate "reasonable" changes in the demarcation line carved out by Turkish forces on Cyprus, and that he is "more optimistic than before that Cyprus negotiations can start again."

He said he and British Ambassador Sir Horace Phillips met for 45 minutes in Ankara and discussed possibilities for restarting the talks and that Britain is contacting all the parties involved.

Ecevit told newsmen he is willing to meet with Greek Premier Constantine Caramanlis "anywhere, anytime."

Ecevit said Turkey has made an open call to all parties — Greek Cypriots, Greece and Britain — for immediate negotiations on a Cyprus settlement.

"Until the final status is settled chaos will reign on the island," he said. "The Greek Cypriots will suffer from this at least as much, in fact more than the Turks."

Ecevit said there is an absolute need for separate areas for the Greek and Turkish Cypriots because of ethnic, religious and cultural differences.

"There is no concept of a Cyprus nation on either side. No one can speak of a Cypriot nation. If they live separately but side by side they will find the possibility of an agreement," he said.

The Turkish Cypriot community on Cyprus numbers 120,000. The Greek Cypriots number 520,000.

The Turks invaded Cyprus July 20, five days after a Greek national guard coup overthrew the constitutionally elected president, Archbishop Makarios, with a plan to join Cyprus to Greece.

The Turks now control more than one-third of the island in the northeast. The boundary runs roughly from Lefka in the west 65 miles to the main port of Famagusta in the east. The United Nations reported that Turkish forces already have ordered U.N. peacekeeping personnel out of Famagusta.

Turks Plan State

Informed sources in Ankara said Tuesday the Turkish government is going ahead with plans to set up a self-sufficient Turkish Cypriot state in the northern part of Cyprus.

They said the Turkish government still wants Cyprus to become a federation of Greek and Turkish Cypriot states. But they said Ecevit is not waiting for the Greeks and Greek Cypriots to withdraw their opposition to the modified form of partition. Turkey is demanding.

The sources reported that a special Turkish government commission has been set up to oversee the program and that an aide of Ecevit is on Cyprus to determine what is needed for a Turkish Cypriot administration. Thousands of specialists from Turkey will be sent to help the new government, the sources said.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger reported earlier this week that Turkey has agreed to negotiate the release of some of the territory its invasion force captured and a reduction of the Turkish forces. But the Turks said the Greeks and Greek Cypriots must recognize Turkish control of a significant portion of the island.

Cypriot President Glafcos Clerides declared on Tuesday that peace cannot be restored to Cyprus until the Greek Cypriot refugees displaced by the Turkish invasion are returned to their homes. His government estimates there are 200,000 such refugees, nearly a third of the island's population.

A U.S. Air Force plane left the British air base at Akrotiri in southern Cyprus, to take home the body of U.S. Ambassador Roger Davies, killed by snipers Monday as anti-American demonstrators attacked the U.S. Embassy. The plane stopped in Beirut to pick up the widowed ambassador's two children.

Clerides' government announced that a warrant had been issued for three persons wanted for questioning about the riot but refused to give any information about them. The snipers are believed to have been members of the EOKA-B guerrilla organization which seeks unification of Cyprus with Greece.

House Votes To Cut Down Mass Transit Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a victory for President Ford, the House has voted to cut a $20 billion mass transit bill down to the $11 billion he requested.

The House passed the bill Tuesday 234 to 22, after the funding authorization was reduced by a 257-156 vote.

The bill would authorize the first federal operating subsidies to hard-pinched mass transit systems, as well as money for buying new equipment.

Similar bills are pending in the Senate.

Ford consistently had opposed operating subsidies as a congressman but told mayors during his first days in office last week that he would take a broader view as President.

However, he warned the House through his congressional supporters that he wanted the bill cut nearly in half to help him reduce the federal budget and thereby fight inflation.

When Democrats tried to keep funding at the $18.8 billion level, Republicans led by Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, offered the lower figure and the House accepted it.

The House also deleted a section of the bill which the American Automobile Association said was a long-sought goal of the trucking industry: To permit heavier and longer trucks on the nation's highways.

The amendment to knock it off the bill, offered by Rep. Edward I. Koch, D-N.Y., passed 259 to 159.

Supporters of the original proposal argued it was to compensate for trucks being penalized by federally imposed speed limits of 55 miles per hour.

Mass transit funds would be allocated by four categories based on need.

The largest—$6.8 billion—would provide funds for cities with existing subway or fixed-rail systems or those under construction. Nine cities now are eligible: Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Atlanta, Baltimore and Pittsburgh.

The second category of between 240 and 270 cities with 50,000 population or more would be allocated $1.7 billion.

They also have the possibility of getting $2.9 billion more from a third pot to be distributed on a city-by-city basis at the discretion of the secretary of transportation.

The fourth category would be the first federal funds for mass transit systems in small towns and rural areas, with $600 million authorized.

Rep. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., a sponsor of the $20 billion bill, said more money might be authorized in a House-Senate conference.

Even if not, "I believe it is a basic victory. The big thing is that for the first time the federal government has affirmed that both operating subsidies and capital investment funds will be provided for mass transit," she said.

Oil Companies Agree To Repay Overcharges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten oil companies have agreed to repay some $108.7 million in alleged overcharges to their customers, the Federal Energy Administration reports.

In addition, agency officials said on Tuesday that four other oil companies have been notified they are suspected of overcharges totaling some $60.7 million.

The overcharges stem from violations of the FEA's pricing regulations.

Of the 10 companies, four were ordered to bar price increases and to roll back prices and take other steps until overcharges totaling $58.2 million are made up. The FEA identified the firms as Ashland, Charter, Conoco and Koch.

The other six companies, which the FEA refused to name, voluntarily agreed to roll back prices totaling $45.5 million without a formal order from the agency. These companies had been accused of illegally increasing diesel fuel prices and service station rents and incorrectly computing base prices, product costs and product-exchange agreements with firms in other parts of the country.

An FEA spokesman said that in many instances the violations were inadvertent because of the complexity of the pricing regulations.

The victims of the overcharges ranged throughout the distribution chain from large terminal operators to consumers, and virtually all petroleum products were involved, the spokesman said.

The actions were taken during the first six-month study of oil company operations, which ended June 30, by the agency's refinery audit review program. The FEA said its 90-member field staff is in the midst of its second round of audits.

The four companies suspected of overcharges of $60.7 million have been given an opportunity to explain their procedures.

Animal Protectors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration has ordered airlines to take steps to protect pets and other animals transported by air.

New regulations require the carriers to assure that pets in cargo compartments have plenty of air and that their cages are securely fastened to the cargo hold. The cages also must be surrounded by webbing or partitions to protect against other cargo.

Early Enactment Expected On Pension Reform Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Early enactment seems assured for a bill designed to protect workers' pension rights.

The House passed the compromise measure Tuesday with only two dissenting votes.

In the Senate, where a vote is scheduled for late today, one of the sponsors, Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., said he knows of no opposition. Republicans predicted that President Ford will sign the measure promptly.

The bill would assure workers they will get benefits based on credits they have built up during their employment, even if they leave their employers before normal retirement time. It contains safeguards against pension plans lacking the funds to pay off.

The bill approved by the House 407 to 2 also provides enhanced tax breaks for more affluent self-employed persons, such as doctors and lawyers, who set up their own retirement plans.

For the first time employees not covered by company plans would be allowed to set up tax-favored pension plans of their own. The bill would not require companies to establish pension plans, but would regulate those in existence and any set up in the future.

While some critics continued to term it inadequate, sponsors hailed the bill as a landmark achievement in protecting workers' rights.

A key provision relates to vesting, the right of an employee who has participated in a plan for a given number of years to take his right to future benefits with him if he quits early or changes jobs.

Employers would have options: Full vesting after 10 years, 25 per cent vesting after 10 years increasing to 100 per cent after 15, or 50 per cent when age and years of service total 45 with the remaining half vesting in the next five years.

The bill also sets down rules as to employer contributions, intended to see that pension funds are adequate to meet their obligations. It sets up an insurance system, somewhat similar to the government insurance on bank deposits, to protect against total loss of pensions if companies or funds go broke.

Other provisions permit, on a voluntary basis, transfer of pension rights from one employer to another when an employee changes jobs, or give him the option of using his credits in a personal retirement plan. For self-employed persons who now may deduct 10 per cent of their earnings from taxable income up to $2,500 a year, if they invest the sums in a personal retirement plan, the limits would be raised to 15 per cent and $7,500 a year. Employees without company plans could invest up to $1,500 a year in personal retirement.

Aid Plan Urged
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States should supply rice to flood-devastated Bangladesh, two Louisiana congressmen said. Reps. John B. Breaux and Otto E. Passman, both Democrats, noted that the United States has a rice surplus at a time when Bangladesh has a shortage. As a result of the floods, the Asian country expects a food grain shortage of about 2.7 million tons, they said.

Five Years After British Intervention, Northern Ireland Unchanged

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Five years it is now since the British army arrived to keep Protestants and Catholics from mutilating each other in Northern Ireland, and where, as Sean O'Casey asked in his play "Shadow of the Gunman," has anything gotten anyone?

To what avail all the white papers and changes in government, all the defiance and marches, Protestant parades and hunger strikes, the building and bursting of the barricades, the weapon sweeps and the internments with and without trial, and all the death and destruction?

Merchant speaks. A merchant speaks, Jim McKenna, surveying the bomb-cratered city center of Armagh, St. Patrick's ancient cathedral town; "You might say we are back to square one. Except the square is not there any more. It's been blown away."

A Catholic priest speaks. Father Fernando Carbery of the Ardoyne Chapel where more than 100 parishioners, including two young girls, have been "lifted" by the British and interned at the Long Nesh camp on suspicion of Irish Republican Army activities.

"The women have had the hardest time of it, getting on each other's nerves all day and afraid to go out at nights. Since the sectarian assassinations started, if the man of the house is 15 minutes late home from work or stops off at one of the two pubs left around here, they are on the phone to the priests and the neighbors in a total panic. You wouldn't believe the pill popping that goes on around here."

A Protestant leader speaks. Harry Murray, the shipyard shop steward who organized the 16-day Ulster Workers' Council strike recently that brought the province to its knees and toppled the Catholic-Protestant power-sharing government coalition:

"Has anything been achieved because of all the deaths here in the past five years? It's time for the politicians to get back to the bread and butter issues. You can't eat the tricolor of the republic or the Union Jack. The violence is destroying us north and south because people will not invest in Ireland."

A British soldier speaks. Corp. William Jones of B Company, Royal Regiment of Wales, on his fourth tour in Ulster, going all the way back to August 1969 when he slept in a burned-out bus and didn't know "who was bloody who":

"Five years leaves you tone deaf to insults. There can't be any new curse words I haven't heard. Time teaches you to keep on your toes. You learn not to pose for a sniper when someone stops you with a question. You know something is cooking if the kids have suddenly gone from the streets and not to go near a parked vehicle that wasn't there before. The gunmen keep getting younger — 14 and 15 some of them — and less expert. But it doesn't pay to take them for granted."

A social worker speaks, the Rev. Sydney Callaghan, head of "The Samaritans," a volunteer organization that ventures into both Catholic and Protestant enclaves at any hour to aid the suicidal and despairing:

"The surprising thing is that the suicide rate and the intake at the mental hospitals in Belfast has actually gone down since the troubles resumed. The psychiatrists say this is normal — whatever that means — for a wartime situation."

Community Concern. "It's a sad commentary and a spin-off from our times that the less adequate feel more filled in a disturbed situation. The heartening thing is that the ghetto areas demonstrate intense community concern. If an old age pensioner gets the windows blown out in a bomb blast, the young people are around next morning to paint and plaster. Surely, there is something worth building on here if we can ever get it all sorted out."

Five characters in possession of a tragedy and in search of a solution. But in the grim drama of tormented Ulster, death has all the best lines.

From Aug. 14, 1969, when British troops arrived to keep the peace between Protestant loyalists and Catholic activist-Cum-Republicans in the now forgotten civil rights marches, 1,045 people have been killed, including 218 soldiers and 54 policemen. Sectarian murders, a newer phase in the IRA guerrilla campaign and its attending Protestant backlash, have claimed the lives of 149 Catholics and 78 Protestants.

In the past five years the government has paid out more than $180 million in property damage claims and $20 million for personal injuries, much of it emergency money to get the shopkeeper and the factory owner back in business. Thousands of more claims are pending.

The devastation which began with the burning of Belfast's linen mills and warehouses and left Derry without a single hotel and only the shell of a shopping center has now wrecked Newry, Strabane, Armagh, Dungannon and Downpatrick. Tiny Belleek, a hot spot right on the border, now looks as fragile as its famous china-ware.

"Out of 15 villages in my constituency I doubt whether there is one that has not been bombed, and the first six months of this year have been the worst ever," asserted hardline Protestant leader John Taylor, who is calling for an armed home guard of 30,000 volunteers as a "third force to assist the army and police against terrorists."

The Europa Hotel, Belfast's largest, marked its third year in business a few weeks ago with damage claims passing the $3 million mark, which is about one-third of what it cost to erect the 300-room show-place.

Northern Ireland came into being half a century ago as an artificial entity to reconcile the political aspirations of its one million Protestants. They feared Rome and remained steadfastly loyal to the British crown while half-a-million Catholics, mostly of Celtic origin, romantically if not always actively identified with the Irish Republican Army's dream of a free united Ireland.

The new troubles erupted in late 1968 with a series of civil rights marches on behalf of Ulster's Catholic minority, which complained of years of coming off second best in jobs and housing and elective representation. The protest turned to bloody riots and Protestant extremists, who looked upon every concession as a sellout to Rome, broke up the demonstrations and marched into the ghettos of Belfast and Londonderry, burning and beating.

Perhaps a third of the people in Northern Ireland, especially in the upper middle-class suburbs and the heavily Protestant towns, have never heard a shot fired.

Ghetto Shootings. But in the ghettos, shootings are an everyday occurrence. On Aug. 8, 1971, the day internment began, 198 houses were burned out in Farrington Gardens, a mixed Catholic and Protestant neighborhood near the Ardoyne Chapel.

Despite the daily devastation in Ulster there are still pockets of cooperation among the mutually suspicious sects. The courageous fire brigade, the ambulance corps and the public health nurses still answer emergency calls anywhere in Belfast regardless of their own beliefs.

All kinds of ironies mark the five-year struggle. In prim, proper Belfast, that gray Victorian city, massage parlors have sprung up to soothe the bomb-burdened businessman. With the security forces busy hunting for bombs, smuggling and potteen making have become growth industries and cock-fighting has made a big comeback in the countryside.

There has been a marked increase in venereal disease, pot smoking and juvenile vandalism, yet in the ghetto areas children do better in school because there is no place to go at nights. They learn other, more lethal lessons, like how to hobble an army armored car by winding the barbed-wire coil that sits on the bumper around the axle.

The latest in an endless series of solutions to the Irish problem calls for a constitutional convention some time in the next six months or perhaps later for the people of Ulster to decide for themselves what to do with themselves.

But since the Protestants, in an unprecedented display of solidarity, swept 11 of the 12 Ulster seats in the London Parliament in the last elections and locked arms to tie up the province in the subsequent general strike, the Catholic community is more apprehensive than ever about its future under Ireland's Orange majority rule.

And while the Irish army, as distinguished from the outlawed IRA, is patrolling the border more effectively against arms smuggling, the Dublin government increased traditional Protestant fears of rule from Rome when Premier Liam Cosgrave crossed the floor of the parliament to vote with the opposition and help defeat his own party's bill to legalize contraceptives.

Protestant leaders talk more and more of establishing a separate country of Ulster, on a commonwealth basis if necessary, as the clamor grows in England, which has suffered its own bombs at the Tower of London and elsewhere, to pull the troops out of Ireland.

'Widowese' Born Out Of Necessity

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — chairman and chief executive officer of a national financial services organization with headquarters here.

"Women who face entering the ranks of widowhood — too often with relatively little preparation or knowledge of financial matters — need a vocabulary all their own," Bowler says.

The pioneer Western executive suggests a starting lexicon of "widowese":

Family allowance: An allowance out of the estate provided for by statute and granted by the court to help tide over the surviving spouse and/or children during the period the estate is in process of settlement.

Joint return: A surviving spouse with a dependent may take advantage of federal joint income tax rates for two years.

Annuity: A contract that provides the widow with an income for a specified period of time or for life.

Letter of instruction: A personal letter spelling out exactly what to do in case of death. It alleviates confusion — even helps lessen the blow of sadness.

Tenancy in entirety: Property jointly owned by man and wife. At the death of one, all property passes to the surviving spouse. Tenancy in common is jointly owned property — it is partitioned so that the spouse's share may be willed to whomever he designates.

Estate tax: That which is levied by the federal government on an estate. The state levy is called an inheritance tax.

Marital deduction: A marital deduction automatically reduces the estate tax if everything is left outright. It can still be done with a trust — but make certain that the trust is set up by a professional.

Adjusted gross estate: The gross estate minus funeral costs, administration costs, and debts of the estate. Up to one-half of the adjusted gross estate may go to the surviving spouse tax-free — no matter how much is involved.
