

Pension Reform Measure Headed For White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate planned to send President Ford a bill today giving stronger protection to 35 to 40 million employees covered by private pension plans.

The President tentatively has arranged to sign the bill Friday.

The measure, under study by Congress for years, would guarantee full vesting or permanent rights to pensions.

It would require that all plans be fully funded and would create a government insurance plan to pay benefits when a private plan fails.

Other provisions would give individual employees not in private pension plans tax incentives to set up their own programs.

Self-employed persons, such as doctors and lawyers who already get a tax break in establishing pension programs, would receive a big increase in the amount of tax-exempt funds they could put into these programs.

College Newspaper, Magazine To Appear In Offset This Fall

A student newspaper produced on campus through the new offset printing classes will make its debut this fall at Midland College.

Staff positions are available for both the newspaper and the college magazine, the Chaparral, which will also be printed on the new equipment.

The printing facility, which boasts an estimated $35,000 to $40,000 in equipment and supplies, including a Compugraphic photo type setter and graphic arts camera capable of color separation, will be home to MC's new graphic arts course.

The course will cover both photo lithography and offset printing areas for students interested in advertising, public relations or printing.

It will teach the fundamentals of layout and design using the latest photo type setting equipment, basic and advanced camera techniques, and basic and advanced offset press techniques.

Students completing the course will have the basic skills to pursue careers in the printing field, or an understanding of the printing functions necessary for a career in advertising, commercial art or public relations.

Downtown Lions Hear Pund, Past District Governor

Joe Pund, veteran Big Spring Lions Club member and a past district governor of Lions International, was the speaker Wednesday noon at the meeting of the Midland Downtown Lions Club in the American Legion Hall.

Journalism courses offered this semester include introduction to mass communications, reporting and photography.

Pre-registration continues through Friday, or students may register Aug. 29.

Ehrlichman May Be Allowed To Check Nixon Documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's official counsel is studying a request that John D. Ehrlichman be permitted to inspect White House documents left over from when Ehrlichman was former President Richard M. Nixon's domestic affairs adviser.

Ehrlichman's request was based on his contention that the papers may help him prepare his defense against charges that he conspired to obstruct justice by attempting to block the Watergate investigation.

Ehrlichman and five others charged with conspiracy are scheduled to stand trial beginning Sept. 9 before U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica.

Bar Panel Advises Krogh Suspension

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — A recommendation that former White House "plumber" Egil Krogh be suspended from practicing law for nine months has been forwarded to the state Bar Association and the State Supreme Court.

It was made by a Bar Association disciplinary panel after two days of hearings. The three-lawyer panel heard testimony from Krogh among others before reaching a decision Wednesday.

Krogh, 35, was convicted in the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist and served 4½ months of a six-month sentence.

The panel chose suspension rather than disbarment because it said Krogh's involvement was attributable to inexperience, youth and the unusual atmosphere in the White House at the time.

Death, Drugs Ensnare Family Of Newspaper Girl's Slayer

DETROIT (AP) — Drugs and death have ensnared the family of Rudolph Acosta, who shot an innocent 12-year-old newspaper girl at his door because he thought she was a "hit man" who was slain in San Antonio, Tex. in February.

Acosta's brother was charged with manslaughter and freed under $2,500 bond.

Two hundred angry citizens then stormed Highland Park police headquarters demanding that Acosta be rearrested and charged with murder.

Wayne County prosecutors increased their charge.

Texas Teen-Ager Sues San Diego For $1.1 Million

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A Texas teen-ager has filed a $1.1-million claim against the city alleging he was jailed on the basis of evidence fabricated by a San Diego police detective. It was the 13th such claim filed against the city.

Douglas E. Cannon, of Pampa, Tex., said in his claim filed Wednesday that false evidence provided by Herman P. Wiggins in connection with two robberies in May led to Cannon's detention in the county jail for two months this summer.

Wiggins, who was dismissed from the force June 20, has pleaded innocent to an indictment alleging preparation of false evidence and perjury.

The 13 claims filed so far seek a total of $11 million from the city in the Wiggins matter. If the city rejects the claims, the claimants can then file a civil suit. Two such suits have already been filed.

Army Admits Recommendations For Evidence Inquiry Rejected In Contract Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has acknowledged that it found evidence of possible criminal activity and had recommended to their commander the case be handed over to civilian authority. The investigating team's recommendations were overturned by Col. Henry Tufts, CID commander.

The investigation concerned the award of a contract in 1972 for promoting and advertising the new all-volunteer Army program. The contract was given to N. W. Ayer & Son Inc., a New York advertising agency which has held Army contracts since 1967.

The Associated Press reported Aug. 18 that a confidential report, dated April 29, said CID investigators found what they considered evidence that the contract decision might have been wrongfully influenced by high-level Pentagon officials. They said there were "certain unusual relationships between the parties concerned" that merited further investigation, but they did not allege that anyone received favors.

Among those named in the CID report were former Secretary of the Army Robert Froehke, William H. Kraus, a member of the contract evaluation board, and Roger T. Kelley, then assistant secretary of the contract award.

The CID report said "the Department of Justice should be immediately apprised of the facts disclosed as a result of this inquiry and that the Department of Justice initiate an investigation as appropriate."

In an interview, Kraus denied there was any misconduct or favoritism connected with the contract award.

READY TO REGISTER—Charlie Northington, representing the Young Democrats, registers to vote prior to tonight's voter registration party from 8-10 p.m. in the VFW Hall. Mrs. Janeice Bullta assists him in registration, while Scott Pollard, a Young Republican, observes the procedure.

New Voter Registration Party Set

A new voter registration party will be held from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. today for persons who now are 18 years old and those who will be 18 on or before Nov. 5 at the VFW Hall at 1206 E. Taylor St.

Although the function is being sponsored by the various Midland Democratic clubs, the registration is nonpartisan and representatives of all active Midland political parties are invited to attend, according to Mrs. W. E. "Pete" Snelson, president of the Tall City Democratic Women's Club.

Mrs. Janeice Bullta, an employe of the Midland County Tax Assessor and Collector's office, and two assistants will be on hand to aid in voter registration and to answer questions.

All Midland County and City of Midland elected officials and 1974 candidates for office have been invited to answer questions, Mrs. Snelson said. Some state officials also have been invited.

A short program will be held with Pat Baskin, a local attorney, serving as master of ceremonies. Mrs. Rosenelle Cherry, Midland County clerk, will explain voter registration procedures, absentee voting and registration at colleges.

The Kirk Covington band, accompanied by Janis Johnson, vocalist, will be on hand.

Free soft drinks, popcorn and potato chips will be served.

Bentsen Cites Economy As Top Campaign Issue

HIGHTSTOWN, N.J. (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas told a fund-raising gathering of New Jersey Democrats that their party's congressional candidates will have plenty to talk about without Richard Nixon and Watergate.

"We'll be talking about keeping our economic head above water," he said Wednesday night.

Bentsen said the nation's economy is their obvious issue for the 1974 campaign.

Bentsen also said that through his travels in 30 states he knows that the Democratic party is not divided like it was in 1968 and 1972.

The Texas senator, 53, is considered a dark horse candidate for the 1976 presidential nomination.

Flight Test Success Puts Air Force Step Closer To Robot Spyplane Goal

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The Air Force has come a step closer to its goal of a robot spyplane with the successful test flight of an aircraft it calls the Remotely Piloted Vehicle (RPV).

The maiden flight of the Compass Cope RPV, with an 81-foot wingspan and a single jet engine mounted atop its fuselage, took place on Sunday at Edwards AFB, Calif. It is one of two long-range test planes built by Teledyne Ryan Aeronautical of San Diego.

The Teledyne contract is part of Project Compass Cope, which seeks an unmanned intelligence-gathering plane that can take off from a U.S. base or aircraft carrier, snoop its way at high altitudes and then land at a friendly field.

A Teledyne spokesman said the new plane can carry a payload of 750 pounds. The range and altitude ceiling are classified, he said.

A 750-pound payload could include cameras that can pick out vehicle markings at 10 miles, infrared and electronic sensors that can find missile control sites and decoy systems to frustrate surveillance devices.

Teledyne's craft will compete with a Boeing plane being developed under the same program. The first Boeing plane crashed during a test flight last year and another is being readied for testing.

Atlantic Richfield Bids $108,710 For Oil Leases

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Commission for Indian Affairs received a record high bid of $108,710 from Atlantic Richfield Co. for oil leases on lands in the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation in the Big Thicket.

Dempsey Henley, Liberty commission member, said the lease involved about 4,200 acres at an average lease price of $27.61 per acre. The lease sale was handled through the General Land Office.

Henley said proceeds from the lease sale would be used to match currently available state and federal funds for the construction of a major recreational facility for Indians on the reservation, including a new gymnasium, meeting rooms and other needed space.

Henley said the commission is asking a record $6 million budget for 1975-76 but only 10 per cent of it would come from state funds, a record low request.

He said the commission recently began construction of a $2 million housing project for the Tigua Indians at Ysleta, southeast of El Paso. Also under construction is a $578,000 tourist complex to help the Indians benefit from tourist visits, Henley said.

NEEDS REPAIRS, FURNISHINGS—Rockefeller Will Live In Official Residence If Appointment Okayed

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller will live in the mansion set aside by Congress recently as a vice presidential home if his appointment is confirmed by Congress, an aide says.

Press Secretary Hugh Mc Morrow said Wednesday night Rockefeller has picked the home on a 12-acre section of the Naval Observatory grounds over a handsome, beautifully appointed house he owns on fashionable Foxhall Road in a secluded, wooded section of northwest Washington.

A bill designating the 81-year-old mansion on the Naval Observatory grounds as the official vice presidential residence was signed by former President

Richard M. Nixon last month. The official residence is in need of repair and must be furnished. By contrast, the home Rockefeller already owns has been rarely used in recent years and appears in good shape. It is furnished with comfortable antiques and decorated with dozens of paintings, many of them by impressionist artists.

Congressional leaders are eager for a vice president to live in an official residence so it will not be necessary to spend additional taxpayer funds to protect the No. 2 man's house.

A Secret Service spokesman who accompanied Rockefeller to a speaking engagement here said no work has been started on the Naval Observatory house because there is some discrepancy in the language of the law setting it aside as an official residence.

"We have carefully looked over the property and know what must be done, but legally there is no way they can move in until the amendments are passed and added to the bill," the spokesman said. He had no estimate of how long that would take.

The Senate Appropriations Committee has passed a $315,000 appropriation to fix up the house, including funds for structural alterations, repair, furniture, silverware and other furnishings, and a more secure entrance on Massachusetts Avenue.

States in connection with political contributions.

He resides in Costa Rica, and an attorney said the country involved is Costa Rica.

James Lindsey, special customs agent, said, "Thomas Patrick Richardson identified himself as owner of the aircraft." Richardson has been connected with Vesco in testimony before the Senate Committee on Investigations.

Lindsey said the plane was seized under a section of the U.S. Code which "has to do with illegal exportation of munitions from this country to a foreign country."

Mack Ausburn, identifying himself as a Richardson lawyer, said he had talked with customs agents Sam Schwartz who told him the plane was "being confiscated for alleged violation of federal laws involving transportation of munitions and implements of war to a foreign country."

Ausburn said he was told that agents "came in like gangbusters" to confiscate the plane and that one of the cars carrying agents apparently was struck by the aircraft which was taxiing at the San Antonio International Airport Wednesday.

Jerry Newton of the U.S. attorney's office in Los Angeles where Richardson resides was quoted by the San Antonio Express as saying no arrests were made. The plane was here for routine repairs.

Newton said the seizure arose out of an investigation in his district.

Corporate Plans To Transfer Employees Being Thwarted Now

By WILLIAM PRATER
CHICAGO (AP) — Inflation and rising costs for Atlas corporate customers from $1.318 to $1.494. Cost-conscious firms have responded by slicing "moving extras" such as reimbursement for motels, house hunting and transportation. Cuts averaged 22.4 per cent from $1.932 in 1972 to $1,500. Thorne said in an interview on Wednesday. He said 37 per cent of the companies polled had one or more employees refuse transfer in 1973. One reason is that wives are taking their careers more seriously. Thorne said he has conducted the survey for the past seven years but hadn't seen the need to ask about the reluctance of wives to move until a year ago.

It Appears Only Lame-Duck Session Of Congress Can Save Insurance Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — It appears only a lame-duck session of Congress after the November elections can rescue President Ford's top-priority plan for enacting a multibillion-dollar national health insurance bill by this year. Mills' assessment came after he and Ford met at the White House just a few hours after the committee failed to reach a quick compromise on health insurance. The failure stemmed from a clash over financing methods of new taxes or another tap on general government revenues.

Longshoremen Vote On Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — Dock workers along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts have begun voting on a new work contract, with indications of acceptance in a number of major ports from Norfolk, Va., north. General acceptance could give the East Coast its first strike-free transition between longshoremen's contracts since the end of World War II. First returns showed the contract had gained approval of longshoremen in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk, but that Baltimore dock workers rejected it 1,104-676. The vote totals were to be made public today. Officials of the International Longshoremen's Association said the over-all margin in the four ports granting approval appeared to be two to one. Still other dock workers, such as those in Mobile, Ala., Savannah, Ga., and New Orleans, had not voted on the pact by Wednesday. The proposal would grant the longshoremen an increase of $1.90 in base pay over three years, bringing the rate to $8 an hour in the final year.

OBJECTIONS FROM FORD CITED— Proposed Changes Stalled In Freedom Of Information Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation again after the Labor Day recess. In a last-minute objection to some provisions, Ford said, "I must take care to avoid seriously impairing the government we all seek to make more open." However, he said "no other recent legislation more closely encompasses my objectives for open government than the philosophy underlying the Freedom of Information Act."

The bill, adopted in 1966, is intended to make it easier, quicker, and less costly for citizens to obtain access to government information.

One provision Ford objected to would allow a court to direct a government agency to suspend or impose other sanctions against an employee a judge.

Ford also objected to a section in both House and Senate bills that would make each government agency responsible for proving that documents had been properly classified in the interest of national security after a judge had inspected it privately.

Conferees agreed to put some clarifying language in their report, but said this would not basically alter the bill's provisions under which a judge could examine classified documents to determine if they had been classified properly.

The President also objected to other provisions dealing with access to investigative files of the FBI and other law enforcement agencies.

The biggest allocation for alterations was $9.3 million for the federal center in Fort Worth.

Four Oil Companies Comply With FEA Orders To Make Up Overcharges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four oil companies accused by the Federal Energy Administration of overcharges totaling $58.2 million already have complied with FEA orders to make up the costs to their customers. An FEA spokesman said the orders against the four companies resulted from an agency audit of the oil industry during the first half of the year.

Lifer Escapes Texas Prison

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A convict serving a life term for burglary escaped from the main unit of the state prison here Wednesday by simply stepping into a car and driving away, officials said. They identified the escapee as Lawrence J. Hall, 46, of San Antonio, where he was convicted. Warden W. C. Warner said the automobile in which Hall fled belonged to a prison guard. Police in San Antonio were asked to be on the lookout for the fugitive.

Subpanel Approves Station At Laredo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House subcommittee on public buildings has approved allocations for construction of a border station in Laredo. The allocations were part of $124.3 million approved by the subcommittee Wednesday to construct or alter federal buildings in 11 states.

Americans Fearful Of Anti-U.S. Wave Sweeping Greece

By NICHOLAS LILIFOS
ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Helms McCarty comes from New York, but she tells Greeks her home is in Canada.

Paul Canavos of Newton, Mass., has an American-registered car but he is not driving it these days.

U.S. citizens in Greece are going "underground," fearful of the strong wave of anti-American feeling sweeping the country.

Many Greeks blame Washington for not preventing Turkey's invasion of Cyprus. Others are angry because of the U.S. support of the now defunct military junta that governed Greece.

Shouts of "Klaster murder" and "CIA go home" are a common occurrence in the streets of Athens, normally bustling with foreign tourists at this time of the year. Cars owned by Americans, both civilians and military personnel, have been burned.

U.S. Tourism Down
The U.S. Embassy usually has some 7,000 American tourists registered at this time, but the present figure is 300. The Americans remaining are assuming a very low profile.

"I asked this clerk at the bank if I could change my travelers checks. He gave me a cold stare and told me to wait 10 minutes," said Mrs. McCarty.

"There was nobody in front of me and I decided to wait. When he saw I was prepared to, he screamed at me: 'I said 10 minutes.'"

"That was it. I got the message and walked off. Now I tell everyone I'm a Canadian."

Other Americans tell of similar experiences. Taxi drivers suddenly can't speak English. Normally efficient waiters move at a snail's pace when the customer is American.

The U.S. embassy said it received at least 300 calls last weekend from Americans complaining of bad treatment. None said they had been physically hurt, but sometimes the hostility bordered on injury.

BY ARAB REPRESENTATIVES— Portugal Said Offered $400 Million To Refuse U.S. Airbase Rights In Azores

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Portugal has received an Arab offer of $400 million to refuse renewal of U.S. airbase rights in the Azores, according to U.S. intelligence sources.

Arab representatives also were said to have offered to lift the oil embargo against Portugal.

The Arab aim, as U.S. intelligence men view it, is to deny the United States use of the key Lajes Airbase in the Azores for any future arms lifts to Israel.

The treaty covering U.S. use of the Azores base ran out in February. Negotiations are under way on renewing those base rights for another five years.

Most U.S. allies and friends, apparently concerned about displeasing the Arabs, refused permission for the United States to use bases on their soil last fall when the U.S. Air Force flew emergency war supplies to Israel, then battling with Egypt and Syria. Portugal was the exception. With tacit Portuguese consent, U.S. transport planes were able to land and refuel at Lajes, permitting them to haul big loads 6,000 miles from the United States to Israel.

The U.S. Air Force also was able to fly F4 Phantom jet fighters to Israel by refueling them in the air from tanker planes based in the Azores, which is about 1,100 miles west of Gibraltar.

The United States normally maintains no combat planes at Lajes, only refueling and maintenance facilities manned by about 1,000 specialists who service Military Airlift Command flights to southern Europe and the Mediterranean area.

Reports of the Arab offer were said to have come from Portuguese political sources, prompting some U.S. officials to suggest that Portugal might be trying to pressure the United States into raising the ante for retaining rights to the Azores base. However, other officials felt the Portuguese sources intended only to alert the United States to the Arab move and favored continued American use of the base.

Houston Living Cost Index Up

HOUSTON (AP) — A U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics report says the cost of living in Houston jumped 3.6 per cent during the three-month period ended in July.

Increased costs of automobiles and gasoline was reflected in a 5.3 per cent boost in transportation costs. Housing costs were up 4.8 per cent for the three-month period and 12.5 per cent for the past year.

Houston food prices jumped one per cent, the lowest quarterly increase in two years, the bureau said.

GAO Says $1 Barrel Increase For Oil Enhances Profits, But Not Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — An oil price increase of $1 a barrel has enhanced oil company profits but not oil production, the General Accounting Office says.

The price hike was granted last December by the Nixon administration, which said the boost would increase oil supplies by providing the incentive to develop new reserves and by reducing demand.

However, the GAO concluded an eight-month-long study of oil prices with the findings that major oil companies believe the price hike will have no immediate impact on production and, at the same time, "there seems to be no question that industry profits have increased as a result of the increase in the price" of oil.

Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., asserted that Nixon administration officials knew when they permitted the price hike that it would fail to encourage production.

Fraser said that instead the oil companies "have received a windfall of $1.8 billion as a direct result of that decision and still no action has been taken to tax that windfall."

The GAO study said the administration's decision was based in part on advice given by the Stanford Research Institute. The institute told the Cost of Living Council last December that more modest price hikes would discourage oil consumption without generating excess profits, the GAO said. In addition, the Stanford report cautioned that it was by no means certain that substantial higher prices would stimulate more new oil production according to the GAO.

Senate Cuts Military Appropriations Almost $5 Billion

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has trimmed military appropriations by almost $5 billion, while balking at proposals to cut even more deeply into the Pentagon's budget.

The action came Wednesday, the same day in which President Ford briefly addressed both the Senate and the House. Ford renewed his call for cooperation and announced that Pennsylvania Avenue, which connects the White House with the Capitol, has once again "become a two-way street."

Both the House and the Senate passed bills and took other legislative action at a brisk pace in advance of the recess which begins at the end of the week.

In passing the defense spending bill and sending it to a conference with the House, the Senate first rejected an amendment placing an $81 billion spending ceiling on the Pentagon for fiscal 1975. The amendment by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., lost 35 to 57.

Also defeated was an amendment by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to strip $150 million from the $700 million earmarked for military aid to South Vietnam.

In its final form, the military appropriation passed by the Senate totals slightly more than the sum voted by the House but $3.1 billion more than the amount appropriated requested by former President Richard M. Nixon.

It is also $1.31 billion less than the House but $3.1 billion more than the amount appropriated requested by former President Richard M. Nixon.

Appropriations Committee Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said the cut, the largest in history, was necessary for inflationary reasons but still maintains an adequate defense.

In other congressional action Wednesday, the Senate passed and sent to the House a compromise bill giving veterans attending school under the GI Bill a 23 per cent increase in monthly benefits. Ford has said he will not hesitate to veto the measure if he finds it inflationary.

An attempt in the House Ways and Means Committee to reach a compromise on national health insurance collapsed amid disagreement on how to finance the program which would cover virtually every American's health needs.

The House authorized the first study since 1959 of foreign investments in this country.

Several congressmen said for eigners are buying up coal and other minerals in dangerous quantities.

A bill to put a ceiling on federal spending through joint White House and congressional action was introduced by a bipartisan group of senators. The bill would hold the federal budget to $295 billion for the current fiscal year.

Ford expressed last-minute objections to proposed changes in the Freedom of Information Act but a congressional conference committee went only part way to meet them.

Jawboning Stands As Ford's Weapon On Wage, Price Hikes

By G. DAVID WALLACE
WASHINGTON (AP) — A in and tell people they can do this and not this. What we are trying to do is let them know day, Friday Aug. 9. That was Ford's ultimate weapon in that if they take actions which we consider unjustified, we will let the world know," Rush said.

Both White House and General Motors officials agree that in the latest case, the administration engaged in no threats and there was no bargaining.

The jawboning opened Aug. 8, the day before GM announced its price hike. GM officials Oscar A. Lundin and Henry W. Welch flew from Detroit to Washington to meet with Rush and Herbert Stein, outgoing chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors. The GM officials presented data they felt supported their position.

"I didn't bargain or try to exact promises or anything like that. We tried to let them see all the points of view," Rush said.

"We were very disappointed in this price increase. We thought it was too much," GM announced its price increase from Detroit the next day, Friday Aug. 9. That was Ford's ultimate weapon in that if they take actions which we consider unjustified, we will let the world know," Rush said.

President Ford moved into office, declared inflation to be his No. 1 problem and broke silence on GM the next Monday.

"I was very disappointed, and I hope the General Motors action will not be viewed as a signal by other auto companies or other industries," said Ford in a statement read by the White House press secretary. That was the only communication GM would receive from the White House after the Rush-Stein meeting.

But, as GM Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg explained in a statement, the fact that the nation had a new President and that Ford had tapped inflation as the No. 1 problem made an impression on GM brass.

"We did feel some response was desirable. We felt this strong sense of responsibility, and we acted," Gerstenberg said.

So on Tuesday Lundin and Welch came back to the White House and told Rush they

'Bomber' Suspect Won't Talk

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A man accused of being the "alphabet bomber" refuses to talk with police, just as he has for years with other people who thought he was a mute.

His landlady, however, said he had talked frequently with her and was articulate, and police said other persons also had heard him speak.

Muhammed Kurbegovic's double life came to light on Wednesday as authorities prepared to charge him with murder in an Aug. 6 bombing which killed three persons at Los Angeles International Airport.

The 31-year-old Yugoslavian immigrant was arrested Tuesday night, and police said they are convinced he is the foreign-accented man who claimed responsibility for the airport bombing in telephone calls and tape recordings and threatened a wave of bombings in public places.

They said he apparently acted out of vengeance against police because he was arrested once for lewd conduct and because of it was refused permission by the Police Commission to run a dance hall.

In his tapes, the "alphabet bomber" demanded that immigration and sex laws be repealed.

The muteness Kurbegovic exhibited for years among some people puzzled police. They said he refused to answer their questions and seemed to go into trances.

But police said he showed no signs of muteness when he defended himself in court in 1971 against the lewd conduct charge, which was dismissed.

At RPM Industries, where Kurbegovic was a blueprint engineer for two years, workers said they had never known him to speak. Immigration authorities also regarded him as a mute.

The "alphabet bomber" was so named because he said he was going to plant bombs in locations to spell out the name of an organization he called "Aliens of America."

Police said they found "almost a truckload of explosives" in his Hollywood apartment.

Estimated $500 Million In Subsidies Expected To Go To U.S. Farmers

By DON KENDALL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Too much rain last spring and drought this summer will mean an estimated $500 million in government subsidies to stricken farmers under a natural disaster clause put into new farm legislation by Congress last year.

The Agriculture Department said on Wednesday that farmers who produce wheat, corn, sorghum, barley or upland cotton may be eligible for the payments to "recover some of their losses" from weather this year.

If the $500 million estimate is correct, it would boost farm subsidies this calendar year to at least $800 million, a spokesman said. Earlier, the USDA had expected total payments, including a lower level of disaster subsidies, to be less than $600 million.

However, the 1974 farm subsidy total will be the smallest since 1960 when $702 million was paid. The payments climbed to a record of nearly $4 billion in 1972 and then dropped to $2.6 billion last year as government acreage curbs were relaxed and commodity prices soared.

The new farm legislation went into effect with 1974 crops and uses a "target price" method of computing regular payments to farmers when cash market prices fall below the target levels.

But since commodity prices are above the target levels, no regular payments will be made to farmers for 1974 production of wheat, feed grains and cotton. The disaster payments are authorized separately in the law to help compensate farmers for losses from floods, drought and other natural causes.

Although officials declined giving payment estimates for individual states, most of the money is expected to go to wheat and feed grains producers in the hardest-hit drought areas, including Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas.

The payments will include about $45 million to those farm-

Nixon, Pressed For Cash, Has Several Options Open

By DICK BARNES

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon may sell his Florida houses and could renegotiate the mortgage on his San Clemente estate to ease personal budget problems confronting him as a private citizen. And big money may lie ahead if he contracts to write a book.

Those financial options for the former President were outlined by Nixon associates, although there is no firm word on what he will do. One adviser said he expected no quick decision on future financial arrangements.

Nixon's resignation made more immediate the money problem that began four months ago with Internal Revenue Service findings that he owed nearly $500,000 in back income taxes, penalties and interest.

While the documents of his presidency are potentially worth millions, Nixon's problem is ready cash. "I've got to find a way to pay my taxes," Nixon said in his White House farewell Aug. 9.

His income dropped sharply from presidential salary to pension, with his resignation in the face of virtually certain im-penalties from 1970-72, plus interest.

—He has promised to pay an additional $148,061 for 1969 back taxes, although the statute of limitations for civil collection of that sum has expired.

—He was to pay $243,000 in principal and interest July 15 as the final payment on his San Clemente property. But he received a six-month extension on that debt in return for agreeing to pay higher interest.

—His principal assets at this point are his equity in the San Clemente property and two houses at Key Biscayne, Fla. He owns no corporate stocks or bonds.

—His income, instead of $250,000 as president, is now $62,950 in presidential pension, plus about $18,000 for other past government service ranging from World War II military duty to vice president. For his first six months out of office, he's also entitled to $480,000 in transition office expenses, then will get $96,000 a year for aides' salaries, plus other benefits such as office space.

The simplest quick step Nixon could take to raise significant money probably would be the sale of his two houses in Key Biscayne, Fla., which could net him $150,000 or more.

Within six months, he'll also have to revamp his mortgage arrangements for the San Clemente property. He could simply extend payments on the amount now due or he could raise immediate cash by negotiating a new and larger mortgage.

The former President also could make a financial comeback by writing a book or selling his papers and tapes.

The papers and tapes are potentially worth millions of dollars. President Ford's lawyers have said the tapes and documents will remain in the White House until Watergate legal issues are resolved.

Ultimately, the materials are expected to go to Nixon, but there has been no indication he will sell them. He has said previously that the materials would be placed in a Nixon presidential library.

No one has said Nixon intends to write a book. After his vice presidency, he authored a commercially successful volume entitled "Six Crises."

Experts in the publishing industry say that paying Nixon a big advance for a book would be highly speculative. They say that it is impossible to tell now what the public interest in a Nixon book would be in 1½ to 2 years — the minimum time they figure would elapse before a book could be in bookstores.

Another major question, they agree, is what would Nixon say?

"The value would be if he told it like it happened," said one agent. "If he just wrote a nice rosy painted picture, then the critics would murder it."

Nixon has until January to work out a means for paying off the San Clemente mortgage. The Nixons have given every indication they intend to live permanently in California, so what the public interest in a Nixon book would be in 1½ to 2 years — the minimum time they figure would elapse before a book could be in bookstores.

Texan Reaches Backward To Deal With Energy Crisis

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Wichtalan Bill Rowland is solving the energy crisis by going back to the horse and buggy days—in his own way.

At the same time he's creating a stir among his friends with the custom-built buggy he ordered from an Amish carriage maker in Rocks, Pa.

"I decided a long time ago that I wanted a buggy like those used in pioneer days," Rowland said, "so when I visited the Amish settlement in Lancaster County, Pa., and saw the buggies being made, I ordered one."

It took nearly three months for this four-wheel, horse-drawn "courtin" buggy to be made by Benjamin Fisher. It is a one-seat buggy identical to those used 200 years ago and which are still used by Amish families.

The harness, also handmade in the Amish settlement, is leather. Rowland plans to get a Tennessee walking horse to use with the buggy.

"I'm going to have fun just riding around in the buggy, but I also plan to use it in parades, rodeos and other similar activities," he said.

Rowland keeps the buggy stored on his farm—where there is plenty of space for riding.

The Amish do not believe in modern ways. They are pictured in their dress, lifestyle and beliefs. They still drive horses and buggies in preference to automobiles.

It is a tradition that Amish parents furnish their sons with buggies of the type Rowland has.

Carriage making, handed down from one generation to another, is a family trade with each member contributing some work on the buggies.

Three Men Nabbed On Drug Charges

DALLAS (AP) — Three Houston men were expected to be arraigned before a U.S. magistrate here today on charges of possession and sale of $210,000 worth of cocaine and heroin, according to Drug Enforcement Administration officials.

The men were arrested Wednesday by DEA agents who said the trio attempted to sell them 10 ounces of heroin valued at $150,000 and 20 ounces of cocaine, valued at $60,000. The arrests culminated an undercover investigation by DEA during the past several weeks.

The three arrested were identified by DEA officers as David Cruz, 22, Roger Lamas, 18, and Roy Avila, 24.

Prosecutor Denies Charges By Fisher Jacobsen Received 'Too Sweet A Deal'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for the Department of Justice has denied charges by Congressman O. C. Fisher, D-Tex., that Jake Jacobsen was given "too sweet a deal" when he agreed to testify against former Texas Gov. John Connally.

Jacobsen, an Austin lawyer, pleaded guilty to bribery charges in connection with the milk fund scandal involving Connally, and in return the Justice Department dropped charges of embezzlement filed against him in Texas. The charges were part of a seven-count indictment for perjury, conspiracy and misapplication of the funds of a savings and loan association in Fisher's home town, San Angelo.

The dropping of the charges was part of a deal in which Jacobsen agreed to testify against Connally who has been indicted on charges that he took two $5,000 bribes from Associated Milk Producers, Inc., the nation's biggest dairy cooperative.

Fisher said the deal with Jacobsen had the trappings of an obstruction of justice by the prosecutors and contained ingredients of bribery. He made his charges in a statement inserted in the congressional record Monday.

The spokesman for the prosecution, James Doyle, said that justice would be done in the case involving the savings and loan association. He pointed out that charges in that case were dropped only against Jacobsen and not against his former business partner Edward Cowan, the second man indicted in the affair.

But Fisher insisted that his constituents want to know why Jacobsen would not be prosecuted.

"They can call this plea-bargaining if they want to, but it has all the trappings of an obstruction of justice," he said.

"If they offered Jacobsen $1,000, say, to testify against Connally, that would be bribery. But in terms of administration of justice, what is the difference? We can be sure that having the Texas case dismissed was worth far more than $1,000 to Jake Jacobsen."

Jacobsen faced a maximum penalty of up to 35 years in jail and $70,000 in fines on the San Angelo indictment. The bribe count to which he pleaded guilty carries a maximum penalty of two years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

"It seems to me that the Office of the Special Prosecutor owes it to the public to explain what was wrong with the Texas case against Jacobsen that justifies it being thrown out of court," Fisher said.

Houston's Police Chief Cites Lack Of Manpower

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Police Chief Carrol M. Lynn says he is trying to protect the 507 square miles of Houston with half enough policemen.

As of the first of the year, we have the only large police department in the United States that is operating at half strength," Lynn said.

"We have been graduating the largest classes in the history of the Houston police department, but we are playing a catch-up game."

Lynn made the statement Wednesday in response to a complaint by Rev. Dayton Salisbury, a Catholic chaplain at Texas Southern University, which is primarily black.

Salisbury said the black community is not getting enough police protection.

"There is quite a bit of crime that does occur in black areas," Lynn said, "if for no other reason than that they are high population areas. The areas closer to downtown have higher rates of crime all over the U.S."

"This has very little to do with race. It is largely because of population."

Lynn said he had the highest number of police units in black areas for that reason.

The chief added that crime was increasing among all people, not just among blacks.

"Our most recent publicized murder in Houston was done by whites," Lynn said, referring to the murder last Sunday of Ethel Nacol, wife of a wholesale jewelry businessman here.

"Race doesn't seem to be a factor (in the crime increase)," Lynn said. "I have no statistics that reflect this."

Salisbury told correctional chaplains attending the 104th Congress of the American Corrections Association "There is a great deal of pain in the black community."

"I am fearful of the direction in which our society is going," he said. "The hostility in the white community is what scares me."

Car-Bike Crash Kills Woman, 18

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP) — Karen Ann Brownlee, 18, of Denison died at a hospital Wednesday night three hours after being struck by a car while riding a bicycle on a Sherman street.

Police said her unlighted bicycle was traveling the wrong way on a freeway access road. They reported the only identification she carried was a door key pinned to her blouse, and it was two hours after the accident before a friend identified her.

HOUSTON (AP) — Harris County Deputy Sheriff James W. Schattle, 25, had his badge in the right place during an off-duty assignment as a security guard at a residence.

When Schattle surprised a burglar in the garage, the prowler fired and would have struck Schattle in the heart, but his badge deflected the bullet. Schattle was treated and released from a hospital.

Appellate Court Orders New Trial

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court has ordered a new trial in a case involving a suit by Ford Motor Co. against Dallas Power and Light Co.

The original suit claimed that the release of water from DP&L's Mountain Creek, Tex., dam during heavy rains in May 1969 caused flooding of Big D Auto Auction Co. lots where some 650 Ford, Mercury and Lincoln-Continental (used) automobiles were stored.

Judge Robert M. Hill of U.S. District Court in Dallas had thrown out the suit after a jury found that Big D knew the area in the Mountain Creek flood plain was subject to flooding.

Judge Hill said this constituted contributory negligence and therefore Ford was not entitled to recover damages from DP&L.

Judge John R. Brown of the appeals court said Wednesday Hill should have applied a different standard of negligence and sent the case back for a new trial.

Judge Brown noted in his opinion that General Motors, American Motors and Chrysler Corp. also had cars on the Big D lot and are "waiting in the wings with similar claims."

WTCC Opposes Ban Or Curtailment Of 245-T

ABILENE — The executive committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has voiced opposition to any governmental legislation or regulations which would curtail or ban the use of 245-T chemical for brush control in West Texas.

Burl Hulsey Jr. of Fort Worth, WTCC president, said the most common use of 245-T in West Texas is in the area of brush control. He said the organization's Agriculture and Ranching Committee works closely with several of the leading universities and experiment stations researching and applying brush control methods. The chamber has been advised by them that there is no meaningful data at this time to indicate adverse human effects as a result of the application of the chemical to brush.

"Annually, hundreds of thousands of acres of mesquite and other brush infested range land are treated with 245-T," Hulsey said. "It is the most economical method of control yet devised and, for all practical purposes, the ban of its use would result in brush control on a mass basis coming to a standstill."

In its position paper, it is emphasized that WTCC has not in the past, nor does it at the present time, advocate practices detrimental to human good but that it is time that legislation which abruptly alters food production to the economic detriment of every American be based on legitimate probabilities, and not on one in a million possibilities.

It is pointed out that landowners in West Texas are willing to spend millions of dollars annually in the application of 245-T for brush control so that more food can be produced at a lower cost for the consumer. Banning the use of 245-T would leave producers only the alternative of using mechanical methods which are totally impractical on a large scale and would consume at least 100 times more petroleum products and to a lesser degree other scarce products.

Hulsey said that research on the use of 245-T on an average of 2 million acres per year for the last 20 years throughout the state shows that over this period of time there have been no documented adverse effects.

Rockefeller Says He Expects To Spend Lot Of Time Helping GOP Candidates

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
WASHINGTON (AP) — Fresh from his first campaign trip as a vice presidential nominee, Nelson A. Rockefeller says he expects to spend a lot of time helping Republican candidates this fall.

Besides keeping four or five political speaking dates each month, dates made before he was nominated Tuesday for vice president, Rockefeller says President Ford "would like me to take some of his previous engagements."

But the former New York governor emphasized in talking to reporters when he flew here Wednesday night after speaking to a Republican dinner in Newport, R.I., that "it really depends on the President" and that no firm policy has been decided.

Earlier Wednesday, in Providence, R.I., Rockefeller sought to assure congressional Democrats that his campaigning won't be directed solely against them.

"I'll campaign for people, but not against anybody I've never been a campaigner who slashed out at the other side," he said.

A top Rockefeller aide, meanwhile, said the nominee had also discussed with Ford the possibility of taking a major role in the administration's battle against inflation and of becoming head of the White House Domestic Council. But Hugh Morrow, the aide, said nothing final had been decided.

Rockefeller's fast-paced schedule here today includes 19 courtesy calls on Senate and House members, including his one-time rival, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Goldwater said on Tuesday that some GOP conservatives were upset when Ford chose Rockefeller. Asked about this on Wednesday, Rockefeller said now was the time for national and party unity.

"We've got too many serious problems to deal with petty squabbles and ideological squabbles," he said.

Rockefeller also planned to have lunch with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and dinner with Ford before returning to his Seal Harbor, Maine, retreat. Aides said Rockefeller hopes to have 10 days of relaxation after a press conference Friday morning.

In chatting with reporters aboard the Air Force Convair prop plane made available to him by the White House, Rockefeller said one reason he agreed to accept the vice presidential nomination, a post he previously had spurned, is that "this has just got to be a fantastic moment in American history."

"It's like tacking a boat, we're on a totally new tack," he said of the transition from the Nixon to the Ford administration. "I think it's very exciting."

Rockefeller said he hopes his confirmation hearings will begin in about three weeks and that a long-time aide, Robert Douglas, will be his representative in making arrangements with the Senate Rules and House Judiciary committees. He promised to do whatever the two panels demand, including supplying financial data, because "they're taking the responsibility for the voters."

He said he knows what his net worth is "in general terms" but added: "They'll be somewhat disappointed in the amount."

Rockefeller said of his family's reaction to his nomination: "Happy (Mrs. Rockefeller) was great, but I don't think the children were too enthusiastic. I've been around a lot more (since resigning the New York governorship last December)."

First Step Toward Peace Accords Seen On Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The leaders of the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities who have been separated by the fighting, and the safety of a meeting which President Glafcos Clerides said might be a first step toward a peace agreement.

The cessation of hostilities and the holding of the cease-fire are creating conditions which are conducive toward finding a peaceful solution of the Cyprus problem," the Greek Cypriot leader said.

Clerides said he was waiting for Vice President Rauf Denktash, leader of the island's 120,000 Turkish Cypriots, to fix a time "when we can begin meeting to deal with a series of humanitarian problems which are of interest to both communities."

Denktash said earlier that the meeting could be held by Saturday, but Clerides said no time had been fixed yet. The two men, who negotiated on behalf of their communities for years before the overthrow of President Makarios and still say they are friends, have not met since the collapse of the Geneva peace negotiations Aug. 13.

Clerides said it was essential to discuss the exchange of prisoners, plight of refugees, restoration of communication between those persons—both Greek and Turkish Cypriots—who have been separated by the fighting, and the safety of Greek Cypriots in Turkish areas and Turkish Cypriots in Greek areas.

Clerides talked to newsmen at the United States Embassy after signing a black-covered book of condolence for the slaying of Ambassador Rodger P. Davies, who was shot during an anti-American demonstration by Greek Cypriots at the embassy on Monday.

"I do not think this sad incident, which I have condemned publicly, will affect the relations between the United States and the Republic of Cyprus," Clerides said. He noted that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger had said that the Cyprus government bore no responsibility for Davies' death.

Greek Cypriot police hunting for Davies' killers held an unidentified person in custody in connection with the riot that led to the shooting.

Two other persons were arrested on Wednesday but were released after questioning. The police refused to give any information about them and would not say whether they were among the three persons for whom warrants were issued in connection with the riot.

A government statement said only that investigations were being "actively pursued in all directions under the personal supervision of the attorney general."

Trustees Approve $3-Million School Budget At Lamesa

LAMESA — The Lamesa School Board met Monday and approved a budget of almost $3 million while leaving the evaluation level and the $2 per hundred dollar tax rate unchanged.

The budget's approval of the evaluation tax rate came after only a few minutes of discussion.

The 1974-75 school year's budget calls for expenditures of $2,960,068. However, revenues are expected to be approximately $2,968,679 — about $100,000 short of the approved budget. The difference will be made up by the fund balance (surplus funds which have accumulated over the years).

Farm Union Leader Chavez In Hospital

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Cesar Chavez has been hospitalized with back pains and flu symptoms, apparently the result of overwork and a recent two-week fast, his doctor says.

"He needs a good rest," Dr. Jerome Lackner said of the United Farmer Workers leader. "He works night and day and is on his feet for long hours."

El Paso Woman Installed As National President Of American Legion Auxiliary

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — It was virtually a family reunion when Mrs. Maurice Kubby of El Paso was installed as national president of the American Legion Auxiliary here today.

Witnessing the ceremonies during the group's 54th annual national convention were Mrs. Kubby's husband, two daughters, a brother, two brothers-in-law and a nephew.

She succeeds Mrs. B. M. Jarrett of Shelby, N.C.

Some 2,000 convention delegates and guests heard Mrs. Kubby, who moves into the presidency after serving a year as national vice president, announce that the theme for her one-year term of office will be "Achieving the Impossible."

Mrs. Kubby has won many honors, including most recently being named "Woman of the Year" by The El Paso (Tex.) Herald-Post for work in civic activities.

She also was named "Conquistadora" by the city of El Paso for community activities and received the "Order of Friendship" from the mayor of Juarez, Mexico, for work in improving community relations.

An auxiliary member for 26 years, Mrs. Kubby's eligibility is derived from her husband's military service during World War I.

The auxiliary's convention is in conjunction with the national meeting of the American Legion this week in Miami Beach.

Role Of Amsterdam Streetcar Conductors Changed

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Automation has turned the Amsterdam streetcar conductor, once renowned for his folksy humor, into a plainclothes enforcement agent who stalks nonpaying riders on the city's transit system. The conductors went out in 1969 to be replaced on the capital's 300 trams by automatic ticket vendors and bright yellow punching machines. The new system depended heavily on the honesty of the city's commuters. Sadly, they flunked the test. City transit officials estimate that Amsterdam loses two million Guilders (about $770,000) annually in unpaid fares.

First, the problem was tackled by uniformed inspectors who worked in pairs and uncovered slightly under 3 per cent of all passengers checked as "black riders." Plainclothes men were introduced experimentally last year and the detection rate went up to 4.3 per cent. They work in teams of six — flashing a badge when challenged — and go through a crowded tram much more quickly. City transit spokesman Jan Freeke said problems started right after introduction of the automatic system. "It's funny — passengers on a train don't see the inspector as someone who hands down people without tickets. It's an accepted method of control. But it was different with the trams."

Another problem, said Freeke, was that people missed the wisecracking conductors of old, who buttered up the old folks and flirted with the girls. Freeke said these problems have been overcome and the control system is now virtually trouble-free. Most offenders simply pay up the automatic fine, which is extracted on the spot. The control system also traps a large number of foreign visitors, who get confused by automated ticketing despite conspicuously posted signs in English, French and German.

"About 30 per cent of nonpaying riders are tourists," Freeke said. "The controllers recognize their confusion and often allow them to avoid the fine by buying a regular ticket, but then there are wily Amsterdammers who carry a 10 Mark bill and claim to be Germans if they are caught."

Despite the diminished cordiality of the new tickling scheme, Amsterdam streetcars are still good for an occasional laugh. Crowded trams sometimes empty out mysteriously from one stop to the next when a controller steps aboard.

Enzo Stuarti

Enzo Stuarti To Sing Friday At Benefit Here

Singer-actor Enzo Stuarti will perform a benefit for Midland's High Sky Girl's Ranch Friday in the Midland Country Club. Stuarti has performed in numerous television shows, Broadway productions, concerts and even a royal command performance. A native Italian, he is known for his strong, well-controlled baritone voice — a voice entertainment columnist Dan Lewis says "can carry to the back of the theater without the mike."

He is a veteran of 13 Broadway productions including "Kiss Me Kate," "Fanny," Cole Porter's "Around the World in 80 Days" and Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Me and Juliet" and "South Pacific." He will play in the London production of "Man of La Mancha" beginning in January 1975. A versatile performer, Stuarti says his repertoire of songs includes everything from "pops to opera." Indeed he sings arrangements ranging from a La Mancha medley to his own "I Pagliaccio" to the song "I" by the contemporary group Bread. Stuarti has been featured on several television shows, including "Mannix," "Ironside" and "Playhouse 90." He also has appeared on the Ed Sullivan Show 17 times, the Mike Douglas Show 145 times and the Johnny Carson Show 20 times. In a recent appearance on the Carson show, he announced his plans to perform the High Sky benefit in Midland. He also has done a royal command performance for Morocco's Prince Ranier and Princess Grace and plans to do another soon.

War Exiles May Resist Proposed 'Earned' Amnesty

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — A meeting of American war exiles now living in Canada may be held to plan resistance to Ford's amnesty, says a man active in the expatriate group called AMEX. Ed Starkins, originally from San Diego, Calif., commented, "If we ever return, even for a visit, it will not be with the idea that we are being forgiven, but because the war is over and the issue is dead." Starkins, who was representative of the hard line taken by some exiles asked about amnesty, said those opposed to "earned" amnesty such as that suggested by President Ford on Monday in Chicago would "likely meet in Toronto or Winnipeg to plan a boycott of any amnesty with alternative service." One expatriate maintained that only 25 per cent of the estimated 60,000 to 100,000 American draft evaders and deserters in Canada would be interested in Ford's proposal that they be allowed to "work their way back into American society." "Conditional amnesty isn't really amnesty," said Diego Collins, a war resister from Stockton, Calif. "Amnesty does not mean forgiving, but forgetting."

Festival At Globe Ends Sunday

ODESSA — The Globe of the Great Southwest will close out its annual Shakespeare Summer Festival Sunday. The sixth annual season of "shirtsleeves Shakespeare" began here June 21, with Tuesday through Saturday night and Sunday afternoon performances being offered each week since. "Macbeth," the season-opening production, will have its final presentation here Friday night. The Saturday night performance will be Mollere's comedy classic, "The Imaginary Invalid," which was the second production to enter the season repertory. Closing out the season in a 2:30 p.m. performance Sunday will be the third and last festival offering, Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night."

Tonight's presentation also will be "Twelfth Night." Globe producer-director Charles D. McCally has directed the "experimental" production of "Macbeth" (featuring demon possession and exorcism) plus the Mollere comedy. New York Actress Clair Luce directed "Twelfth Night." Tickets for the four remaining festival performances are on sale daily at the theater box office, 2306 Shakespeare Road, adjacent to the Odessa College campus. Tickets may be reserved by telephoning 332-4081.

New Kind Of Tv Network Starting Up

By JAY SHARBUTT NEW YORK (AP) — Next month, a new kind of television network plans to start transmitting sports and special-interest programs to an estimated 85 communities in five mid-America states. What makes the network totally unlike ABC, NBC or CBS is that it'll serve only cable-tv subscribers, not the general viewing public. It was created by Target Network Television, a Kansas City, Mo., firm which says it'll feed programs to 70 microwave-linked cable-tv systems in Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma. TNT, which doesn't own the firms, refers to them as "affiliates." If all goes well, says Tom Lemmons, general manager of TNT, a subsidiary of KMBA-TV in Kansas City, the company hopes to extend the network into Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota. He says his firm will provide its affiliates with its own programming, not that of KMBA, seven days a week. Broadcast hours will be from 9 a.m. to 10:30 or 11 p.m., except on Sundays.

Right now, he added, Sunday programming hours are scheduled to run from 4 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., but may be increased. TNT officials emphasize they aren't trying to compete with mass entertainment shows offered by the networks and independent tv stations. They say they instead hope to draw "clearly defined special interest audiences and make them reachable to special interest advertisers." Lemmons says it'll try to do this with shows on cooking, auto repair, boating and health care, to cite a few examples, in addition to its evening professional and collegiate sports offerings. He says TNT also will have two news packages — the first a noon report consisting of brief news summaries, live reports from the Chicago and Kansas City boards of trade and farm-oriented weather reports. In the evening, he said, there'll be updated boards of trade summaries, sports reports and hard news, the last provided by Television News, Inc., a New York-based tv news service created to service local stations. According to Federal Communications Commission officials and cable-tv industry experts, the TNT interstate operation only is the second of its kind to operate in the United States so far. The first, the New York-based Home Box Office company, a cable-tv subsidiary of Time-Life Inc. began its operations in November 1972. HBO officials say their company now serves 30 cable-tv systems in New York State, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

Midland Youth Center Chatter

By GAYLE GRIMLAND, LESLIE MORGAN and VICKI THROCKMORTON

Hope everyone has made it through the first hot-filled, exciting, adventurous, utterly delightful week. Sophomores, have you stocked up on bathroom passes, elevator keys, and found your classes on the third floor? Friday, with regular classes, should have a calming influence, but we can expect an exciting Friday night. Hey, guys, have you given that cute little blonde whose locker is across the hall, a call? Remember Friday's are national date nights. Our newest Building is Sochiro Fujiwara, Youth for Understanding exchange student from Osaka, Japan. We were honored to make his acquaintance last Monday night. Randall McClechee surely will show him a good Texas time. Sochiro appreciated everyone coming out to greet him. It Looks Fantastic The Youth Center looks fantastic after being painted that true purple and gold last weekend. It really has brought out our MHS spirit. A big Thanks go to everyone who worked enthusiastically. This year will be the best for sure!!! Friday, Sept. 6, will be more than an unlucky day for those who haven't purchased a Youth Center card by then. Please notice that some food prices were increased by five cents, due to inflation. Junior Council members are reminded to hurry and get their health cards at the Health Department on Tuesdays or Fridays.

The time's come to get involved. There are so many opportunities offered by our big variety of clubs and activities. The clubs need YOU! For all you sophomores, next Tuesday is the first Youth Center 100 Club meeting. Your involvement will lead to bigger and better things — Junior Council. The football boys have been working out in that hot summer sun. It will all pay off in the first September game. Doing the paper work for the boys this year are secretaries Brenda Matejek and Michelle Hickey. And The Band Played On The band gave a fantastic concert last Tuesday night in the Student Patio. It was held in preparation for marching season. The twirlers also were featured. Afterward, ice cream and Coloes were served at Hogan Park. Farewell to those members of the class of '74 who will be taking off for their first semester of college. Thanks for everything, and we'll sure miss ya. News for the Chatter column should be placed on the Y.C. Chatter Board or given to one of the Chatter writers. Be sure and check next Thursday's Reporter-Telegram up-to-date info from the halls of MHS. Gayle Leslie Vicki DRAMATIC MOMENT—Cast members in the Summer Mummer's current production of "Rascality on the Rig" react to a sinister turn of events. The melodrama is continuing Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights through Aug. 31 at the American Legion Hall.

Shirley Temple Black's Career Taking Diplomatic Turn Now

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Shirley Temple Black's career, which began on "The Good Ship Lollipop," now takes a diplomatic turn with her nomination by President Ford as ambassador to Ghana.

Conscious of protocol, Mrs. Black responded to Wednesday's White House announcement with the comment that she was "deeply honored." But she would say little more about it until the Senate nomination hearing.

"If confirmed by the Senate, I will move to Ghana with my family," she said by telephone from her Woodside, Calif., home. "We will maintain our residence in California and will return here after the assignment is over."

The family consists of husband Charles Black; Susan, 28, Mrs. Black's daughter by her first marriage to actor John Agar; Charles Jr., 22, and Lori, 20, both university students. Black is president of Marcella International Co., a marine resources development firm.

"The company does a lot of work in the Middle East, Yugoslavia and Central America, and his associates are based in New Zealand, Hawaii, Missouri and here in Burlingame near our home," Mrs. Black said. "Charlie travels a great deal, so he might as well be based in Ghana as here."

Now 46, Shirley Temple Black has been in the limelight for 46 years, achieving international fame as the most successful child star in Hollywood history.

She delighted Depression-era movie audiences and later generations of television viewers with her performances in such films as "The Little Colonel," "Curly Top," "Wee Willie Winkie" and "Bright Eyes," vehicle for the song "The Good Ship Lollipop."

She managed to bridge the awkward age in films like "Kiss and Tell," "The Bachelor and the Bobbysoxer" and "Part Apache." Her last movie was "A Kiss for Corlie" in 1949.

Since then, Mrs. Black has devoted herself to politics and good works. She made a bid for Congress in 1967 and lost in the Republican primary to Paul N. McCloskey Jr.

Would she run for office again? "If I were 18 and sure of everything, I would give you a definite yes or no," she replied. "I don't have any plans. I prefer the world of international relations."

Mrs. Black was a U.S. delegate to the United Nations General Assembly in 1969 and in 1972 she served as vice chairman of the United States delegation to the U.N. Conference on Human Environment in Stockholm.

She was the first woman elected to the boards of directors of the Del Monte Corp. and Walt Disney Productions.

Although she described herself as a believer in equal opportunity for women, she admitted that she has ruled women's libbers with two of her remarks: "I was liberated when I was 3 years old" and "I prefer the strong arms of my husband."

Jazz Pianist Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jazz pianist Marvin Ash, 59, who played in the Jack Teagarden and Bob Crosby bands, died of a heart attack Wednesday in an Encino hospital. Ash, who also was the piano accompanist on the Mickey Mouse Club television series, spent most of his 48 years as a professional musician in Los Angeles.

Septembertfest '74 Slated Sept. 7 At Museum Complex

Outdoor food booths and refreshment stands, interspersed with myriad exhibits and artist demonstrations—plus and entertainment galore—start Septembertfest '74 coming up Sept. 7 on the grounds of Midland's Museum of the Southwest.

Las Manos, museum volunteer service organization, is again sponsoring the fantastic, fun-filled, fund-raising festival. This sixth annual German jamboree is being planned to be bigger than ever with virtually every one of the three-block area comprising the Museum's Turner Memorial Gallery, Function Hall and Lancaster Garden Center to be utilized on festival night.

A variety of food will be available this year at three large well-staffed booths spaced far enough apart to insure fast service and to prevent long lines. There will be tables and chairs, and a beverage cart at each location.

Menu choices include: "Wurstplate"—1/2-pound smoked

German bratwurst, veal and pork, German potato salad, pickles and pretzels, bread; "Wurstbrot"—best slices, German dry sauer, Mustard cheese and pickle; "Wurstwich"—(do-it-yourself sandwich)—Selections from assorted cold cuts, German bologna, Bavarian luncheon loaf, corned beef, Braunschweiger, smoked pork tenderloin, pickles, mustard, Snowcones and popcorn will be plentiful supply, and costumes "hawkers" will peddle a sausage-on-a-stick (one-third pound, uncooked bratwurst).

John Brown, fourth-generation German baker, will be back for the third year to bake his famous lechies in Marine field ovens on the lawn. Sonny Grobe of Fredericksburg, third generation sausage-maker, assisted by Devonia Hall, also of Fredericksburg, will make sausage using antique equipment.

Indiana and K streets will be closed at the museum complex and the intersection will be converted into a bear garden for the occasion.

In Turner Memorial Gallery, some of the state's top artists and craftsmen will present an Invitational Showcase which will last both Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. They will create, display and sell their works.

Among showcase participants are: Linda Searcy of Fort Worth, who paints miniature art on eggs; Jim Barbee of Fort Stockton who makes the "Barbee Knives, Shari Hatcher of Swoony, painter of decorative animals in an imaginative, whimsical style; Willard Phillips of Houston, metal sculptor, The Dennis of Fredericksburg, back again with their 3-D Homestead Puzzle... unique 3-D puzzle, Carol Paul of Georgetown, quiltmaker; Joyce Fogelstein Treat and daughters of San Antonio, who make ceramic wall plaques.

Also, Craig Selmsott of Buda, who makes jewelry; Joe Pyle of Odessa, glassblower; Paul and Amy Johnson of Austin, who make gold and silver "Little Flutes"; Elaine and Hal Cutchner of University Park, N.M., Blue Ram Weavers; Jean Adams of Las Cruces, N.M., weaver; the Terry Durleasons of Austin. He does dry brush watercolors and tempera Texas wildlife paintings and she makes gold jewelry; Nolan Booty of Albuquerque, N.M., who does on-the-spot charcoal portraits.

A first for the Shop of the Southwest will be a Truck Show in the library by Calvin Hildebrand of Santa Fe, N.M., well-known Indian trader. His authentic Indian wares will be for sale. Hildebrand will present an additional showing Sunday afternoon.

Oom-Pah Band

From the stage of Midland's Showmobile, located on Indiana Street, the Felix Peil oom-pah band of Fredericksburg will play German music. They will accompany the Polka Dance Club of Wall, which is led by Harvey Mikitis, as Septembertfesters receive German dancing lessons. Fredericksburg Mayor Sidney M. Herke, will lead a Sangerfest. Jim Kent will emcee.

The Lions Club "Big Name Band" will play on the front porch of Turner Gallery for dancing on the drive. Mrs. Walter Money will play rinky-tink piano and Mrs. Gary Hall will perform on the accordion. There also will be round dancing. The West Texas Region Antique Auto Club of America will parade early in the festival.

An impressive list of performers will entertain in the Planetarium, with Mike Ferguson of Dallas serving as emcee. There will be seven 30-minute shows during the evening with a 15-minute intermission.

Septembertfest '74 also will feature children's activities, including a clown, a magician, the Pickwick Players, face painting, games, art and science exhibit, puppet show, sing-along, sifter service, and perhaps even a donkey ride.

Las Manos committee members will be costumed. The beautiful strudel cart of last year will be in use. Drawings will be held at regular intervals throughout the evening for many nice gifts.

All museum facilities will be open to the public. Open House will feature a flower show by the Garden Center. The Midland Camera Club will have a display and special exhibits will be on view in Turner Gallery.

If the weather is "wurst" on Sept. 7, Septembertfest will be held Sept. 8.

All profits are used to benefit the museum.

Your Midland Theatres Presents:

PLANNING AHEAD—Mrs. Ben D. Johnson, president of Las Manos, Museum of the Southwest's volunteer service organization, briefs Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo on Las Manos' plans for its annual fund-raising project, "Septembertfest," which comes up Sept. 7 on the museum grounds. Mrs. Johnson, who in general chairman of this year's event, and Mayor Angelo expressed their hope that the upcoming festival will be even more of a regional attraction than ever. Many residents of numerous cities in the area annually travel to Midland to attend the fun festival.

Play About Kidnaping Of Pope Proving Smash Hit In Europe

By JANET HUSEBY

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—The Brooklyn cabbie is tense. The kidnaped Pope is stashed in the pantry. The Rabbi turns frantic and the European audience loves it.

It is not every day that a Brazilian playwright absconds with the Pope in New York and ransoms him for "peace" at the United Nations. "The Day They Kidnaped the Pope" first opened here in 1971. Enthusiasts of the comedy with a message may take the production for an official papal showing in the Vatican.

Sources say that if the Pope likes it, the play may run in a Rome theater during the upcoming holy year festivities.

The play opened in Rio, toured Argentina, Mexico and Venezuela for more than a year and a half, and then hit the European boards. By the end of the year "Kidnaped" will have played or be running in 25 European theaters from Berlin to Antwerp, Paris to Tel Aviv.

"And then," says author Joao Betencourt, sitting in a small cafe along Rio's patterned sidewalk, "we try for London and New York."

Set in contemporary New York, the play traces the actions of Sam, a Jewish taxi driver from Brooklyn who kidnapes Pope "Albert" and brings him home to his wife Sara. While Sara cooks dinner, newscasters report that the Pope will not be freed until the world comes up with the ransom of "24 hours of peace."

Police instead try to charge Big Price Rise

While farm prices have moved up 7.8 per cent over the last 30 years, cost of items farmers must buy to grow food for the nation has jumped 32 per cent.

Betencourt, 40, studied at the Yale Drama School after he gave up a fledgling career as an agricultural engineer on his family's farm to write plays.

"When I first graduated from college I didn't know I could do what I wanted so I toured the Rio suburbs during the morning selling insecticides and perfumes and rushed home in the afternoon to write plays."

In the early '50s he wrote a tragedy — his only one — and won a prize from the Teatro de Estudiantes. He used the money to finance his Yale studies.

Now, 13 comedies later, Betencourt defines his style: "There are two kinds of writers: those who believe in the values of life; they write tragedies. And those who believe in surviving; they write comedies."

Houston Ballet Signs Soili Arvola, Leo Ahonen

HOUSTON — The Houston Ballet, under the artistic direction of Nina Popova, is announcing the signing of Soili Arvola and Leo Ahonen as principal dancers with the company for the 1974-75 season, soon to begin. The couple first appeared with the Houston Ballet as guest artists in the spring of 1972, and joined the company the following fall as principal dancers.

Soili Arvola studied at the ballet school of the Finnish National Opera, and began her professional career in 1966 with the Finnish Ballet. In 1968 she joined the San Francisco Ballet as principal dancer, and also choreographed several works for the company. From 1970 until she joined the Houston Ballet in 1972, Ms. Arvola toured extensively in this country and abroad. She and Ahonen are husband and wife.

Ahonen also began his professional career with the Finnish Ballet in Helsinki. He has been principal dancer with the Scandinavian Ballet, the National Ballet of Holland, and the Royal Winnipeg Ballet. He has danced in 27 countries, in over 200 roles, and this year celebrates his 30th anniversary as a professional dancer.

Last season the pair danced in several ballets with the Houston Ballet receiving special notice for their work in James Clouner's "Carmine Burana" which is to be repeated this season. They will also be featured in a series of free outdoor performances by the Houston Ballet at the Miller Theater. Programming for the Miller Theater performances will be announced later.

Band Concert Slated Tonight

The Lee High School and Austin Freshman School bands will present a free concert at 7 p.m. today by the flagpole at Lee.

The bands will play "pop" selections, marches and light musical numbers. Dan Green directs the Austin band, and Ike Nail and Tom Dillon direct the Lee group. Dillon will play a flute solo.

Candidates Have Problem Of Who

ATLANTA (AP)—With 17 candidates for governor and 12 running for lieutenant governor in Georgia this summer, even the candidates are having a problem remembering who's who.

State Rep. George Busbee, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, was busy hand-shaking at a convention of broadcasters.

"What station are you with?" Busbee asked one man.

"Station? I'm running against you for governor," the man replied.

Archeologists To View Ancient Phenomenon That Occurs Annually

By JAMES R. FEIPERT
LONDON (AP) — Archeologists will gather in December in the dark recesses of an ancient burial mound in Ireland to view an annual phenomenon that has occurred with precise regularity for 5,000 years.

With the coming of the winter solstice Dec. 21 a thin shaft of sunlight will pierce the darkness to illuminate an altar stone, carved with three mysterious spirals, at the back of the burial chamber 62 feet inside the mound.

Built in 2100 B.C.

The alignment of the tomb's tiny entrance and the altar stone with the sun's rays five days either side of the winter solstice — the sun's lowest point in the heavens — indicates the stone-age people who built the mound around 2100 B.C. had a remarkably precise knowledge of the solar cycle.

The mound, near the village of Slane in County Meath about 30 miles northwest of Dublin, predates England's Stonehenge, a mysterious circle of massive stones also aligned with the sun's movements, by more than 1,000 years.

That would make the Irish burial mound, scientists claim, the oldest astronomically oriented monument in the world.

The Irish mound supports the theory that various Stone-Age cultures in the British Isles investigated solar cycles and may have exchanged information that resulted in the construction of Stonehenge on the Salisbury Plain about 1900 B.C.

Patterned Stones
"Stonehenge and its astronomically positioned stones might have become an important repository or library of astronomical knowledge known at the time," says Jon Patrick of the Dublin College of Technology.

Patrick, an Australian-born lecturer in land surveying, surveyed the astronomical alignment of the Irish mound for Michael O'Kelly, professor of archeology at University College in Cork, Ireland.

A report of the survey appeared in "Nature," the prestigious British science journal.

During the winter solstice in 1960 O'Kelly observed that four minutes after sunrise the sun's rays shone through the "roof box," a yard-wide rectangular opening just above the entrance. They penetrated to the rear of the burial chamber and fully illuminated it for 17 minutes before the sun moved out of alignment.

Patrick wrote that O'Kelly asked him "to make an accurate survey of the roof box to see if this phenomenon would have occurred when the burial chamber was first built."

After a complicated series of measurements involving the distant horizon and placement of the chamber, Patrick concluded "that the sun has shone down the passage to the chamber ever since the date of its construction and will probably continue to do so forever."

Patrick noted that Ireland has about 200 such burial mounds, sometimes called "fairy forts," but "to my knowledge none of them has a roof box" like the one in County Meath.

"As this structure is unique, and as the whole monument is so grandiose," Patrick wrote, "it seems likely that its orientation is deliberate."

Little is known about the people who built the County Meath mound, but archeologists speculate they worshiped the sun and thus gave much attention to the study of its movement through the heavens.

Penetration of the sun's rays to the altar stone, where the dead were apparently cremated, may have symbolized ultimate resurrection.

A 1967 excavation of the tomb floor revealed the burnt bone fragments of about five persons. But "the tomb has been open to visitors since 1899," Patrick wrote, "and an unknown amount of the original burial deposit may have been removed since then."

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Thursday, Aug. 22, the 224th day of 1974. There are 131 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1941, during World War II, Nazi troops reached the outskirts of the Russian city of Leningrad.

On this date:
In 1654, the man who has gone down in history as the first Jewish emigrant to America, Jacob Barsimmon, landed at New Amsterdam.

In 1762, the first American woman newspaper editor, Ann Franklin, went to work at the Newport Mercury in Rhode Island.

In 1776, during the Revolutionary War, British Gen. William Howe landed 10,000 soldiers on New York's Long Island.

In 1846, the annexation of New Mexico as U.S. territory was announced at Santa Fe.

In 1910, Japan annexed Korea.

In 1966, a Republican national convention in San Francisco renominated President Dwight Eisenhower and Vice President Richard Nixon for second terms.

Ten years ago: Hurricane Cleo hit the southern Caribbean, killing 136 persons in Haiti and Guadeloupe.

Five years ago: President Nixon reaffirmed the U.S. pledge to meet any attack against South Korea.

One year ago: President Nixon accepted blame for the Watergate scandal. He also announced the resignation of William Rogers as Secretary of State and the nomination of Henry Kissinger for the job.

Today's birthdays:
Baseball's Carl Yastrzemski is 35. French fashion designer Marc Bohan is 48.
Thought for today: The machinery of government would not work if it were not allowed a little play in its joints — Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, 1841-1935.

Cashed Jam
LONDON (AP) — Mrs. Ann Shifrin and her husband caused a traffic jam outside their home here in Camberwell by projecting protest messages on to the side of St. Giles Church opposite. The couple complained that when the church bells were ringing they could not get their children to sleep.

A large crowd gathered to read the messages.

Housing Market Values Up Sharply

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — According to a popular saying, many of us could not afford to buy the house in which we now live, because its market value has risen so much faster than our paychecks.

In January 1973 the average price of a standard single-family house was $24,700, according to the Department of Commerce. In March of this year the same category of housing had a price tag of $35,800.

The more than 40 per cent increase in housing compares with roughly a 10 or 11 per cent increase in median family income during the same period, thus making it much more difficult for prospective homebuyers.

A similar situation is developing in regard to automobiles.

selling price of all new cars was $2,830, and median family income was $4,621.

From that high mark, the percentage of income needed to buy a car fell fairly steadily, reaching a low of 32.6 per cent in 1972, when the average car price was $3,931 and median income was $12,051. That meant a new car cost 64 per cent of a year's income.

Now, however, the swiftly accelerating prices of cars seems to be forcing a reversal of the trend, according to Goldman, Sachs & Co., the securities house.

It estimates that the percentage will reach 33.7 for 1974, with median family income around $13,000 and new car prices averaging $4,300. In 1975 it foresees a percentage of 36, based on income of $13,900 and an average car price of $4,370.

First Photographer Of Nation's Capital Little-Known Figure

By DONALD SANDERS
WASHINGTON (AP) — It is an irony of history that the man who took the earliest surviving and remarkably distinct photographs of the nation's capital is a shadowy, little-known figure.

He was John Plumbe Jr., an immigrant who became a prosecuting attorney in Iowa, later established a chain of thriving photographic studios and died a suicide at 48 when the government rejected his scheme for a transcontinental railroad on a southern route.

Five of the daguerreotypes he made about 1846 in Washington and one from Baltimore survive, discovered in a flea market 2,000 miles away 126 years later.

31 Survive
Although Plumbe was in the business of photographing notables, only 31 surviving portraits have been identified. Those include such persons as John Quincy Adams, John C. Calhoun, Henry Clay, Sam Houston, James K. Polk and Mrs. Polk, Martin Van Buren, and Gen. Tom Thumb, the P.T. Barnum attraction.

An advertisement published here in 1845 claimed that the Plumbe National Daguerrian Gallery was established in Boston and New York in 1840. If true, that would make Plumbe one of the first U.S. practitioners of the new art, Matthew B. Brady, the famous Civil War photographer, opened his first studio in 1844 in New York.

When Plumbe decided to try his hand in the lucrative Washington field, he took a familiar course. He had his brother write to a friendly congressman. In December 1844, Richard Plumbe wrote to Gen. George W. Jones, a prominent delegate to Congress who helped secure creation of the Wisconsin and Iowa territories.

To Erich Gallery
"His object," Richard Plumbe wrote of his brother, "is to endeavor to get the use of a committee room in the Capitol for the purpose of taking Daguerreotype miniatures in . . . the likeness of public individuals to enrich his galleries of portraits in New York, Boston, etc., which would do much to bring prestige . . ."

Whether he got the committee room was not discovered by Alan Fern, chief of the Library of Congress Prints and Photographs Division, and Milton Kaplan, curator of historical prints, who recently researched Plumbe's career. But they did find that Plumbe set up shop within six weeks of the letter as the capital's first professional photographer.

One of the most interesting of his daguerreotypes is the daguerreotype of the U.S. Capitol. It is a frontal view from the east, showing the copper-covered wooden dome which Charles Bulfinch designed for restoration of the building after the British burned it in 1814. That dome was replaced with the present cast iron dome, completed during the Civil War in 1865.

Patent Office
Another shows the Patent Office — to be used nearly 20 years later as a hospital ward by Clara Barton and Walt Whitman helped minister to the Union wounded. There are wood-piles, outbuildings and private houses. The Patent Office, restored in recent years, now houses two branches of the Smithsonian Institution.

Two other views are of the General Post Office in the same area. One seems at first glance marred by scratches.

But a close examination shows them to be wires. Fern and Kaplan theorize that they carried Samuel F.B. Morse's new telegraph message from his office on Pennsylvania Avenue to Baltimore.

N. Currier, later of Currier and Ives fame, reproduced some of Plumbe's photographs, and Plumbe himself took a copyright in 1846 intending to issue a daily series of likenesses of great Americans, to be sold by subscription.

The venture seems to have been a failure and Plumbe finally sold his establishment to his employer, returning to Dubuque, Iowa. He had settled there in 1850, after emigrating to this country in 1821 from his native Wales. Working his way West, he had worked as a railroad surveyor in western Pennsylvania and Virginia before becoming prosecuting attorney for Dubuque County.

By 1849 he was on his way to California, where he lived from 1850 to 1854, and must have left his capital daguerreotypes there, where they were found so many years later.

Dead In 1857
Plumbe spent a decade formulating and promoting his idea for a transcontinental railroad via a southern route. With another of his ideas frustrated, he returned to Dubuque and committed suicide there in 1857.

"He was the embodiment of the American 19th century adventurer: an immigrant, starting with little, creating a business empire," Fern and Kaplan wrote in the library's Quarterly Journal.

"He boasted of employing a staff of 500 at the height of his career. He was involved in two other areas of significance to the growing nation: rail transport and printmaking . . . But he has remained obscure."

West Point Brings Bradley Memories

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — "Everytime I return to West Point I visit my youth, my roots and my dreams," reminisced General of the Army Omar N. Bradley at the recent dedication ceremonies of a library to house his personal papers at the U.S. Military Academy.

Gen. Bradley, America's first chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the only living five-star general, is the first West Point graduate to be honored with a library at the academy. He was a classmate of Dwight D. Eisenhower in the class of 1915.

"If it is true, as I have long believed, that men march to the cadence of thought," said the 81-year old general, "and if one thought can be extracted from my papers that may benefit our nation, then I will be returning to West Point some small part of all it has given me."

Chess Tournament Scheduled Sunday

The Midland Chess Club will hold a tournament Sunday at Hagan Park. Registration for the Tall City Open No. 2 will be from 9-9 a.m., with play to begin at 9:30.

Prizes will be awarded as follows: $20 for first, $15 for second, $10 for third and $5 each for the top contestants in B, C, D and unrated classes. The entry fee is $4. For more information, contact Andy Lettu at 682-3631.

Diamond Jewelry Fashions Changing

NEW YORK (AP) — The trend today among about-to-be-engaged couples is individuality, evidenced in their quest for new and innovative styles in diamond engagement rings and wedding bands, reports the Diamond Information Center.

Today's fashion-aware young people still desire the diamond as the symbol of engagement. However, they are looking for a change from the traditional solitaire ring that their mothers may have chosen, the center points out.

Designers of precious jewelry, sensitive to this desire for change, are interpreting the tradition of the diamond engagement ring in exciting new settings. Although solitaire diamonds are used, the modern interest comes from unusual shanks, varied settings, and a very "now" use of small diamonds in ways quite different from the usual side stones.

Most popular are matching sets in ultramodern, geometrical patterns which feature clean, bold lines; squared shanks dramatically set off with smaller "side" stones; and rough-textured, free-form designs with the engagement and wedding rings interlocking to give the appearance of a single ring.

Today, there are more styles in both diamond engagement rings and wedding bands available than ever before in history, industry sources say.

Fairness To All!

It is interesting to note that a West Texan from the Plains country is gaining support as the next speaker of the Texas House of Representatives.
He is Rep. Bill Clayton, D-Springlake, who has gained an enviable reputation while serving a number of terms in the House. He is recognized as an authority on matters concerning water and has worked diligently in this field.
Four other state representatives — three Democrats and a Republican — are quoted as saying that Clayton is "the only candidate in the race with an unquestioned record of fairness to all members."
This is a pretty fair recommendation!
Clayton, Rep. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, and Rep. Fred Head, D-Athens, are reported to be the three leading candidates to succeed Speaker Price Daniel.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson and Les Whitten Say: Eight airports cited as insecure.

WASHINGTON — The U.S. government has found grossly inadequate security at eight major foreign airports from which terrorists may fly for hijacking and bombing attacks in America.

The eight "most vulnerable" airports were turned up by a secret Federal Aviation Administration survey which was obtained by Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y.

As sponsor of a new anti-hijacking law, Murphy pointed out the results to Transportation Secretary Claude Brinegar with a request that he order suspension of U.S. air traffic to the eight countries unless they tighten security.

The U.S. government sleuths, working undercover, named the eight airports as Beirut, New Delhi, Bangkok, Brussels, Rome, Buenos Aires, Copenhagen and London. Here are the highlights of the FAA findings:

- Beirut: Arab terrorists continue to use Lebanon as a haven for murderers, hijackers and terrorists. The Lebanese government affords them freedom of movement (and) diplomatic immunity. There is no appreciation by security personnel at the airport of the dimensions of the security threat posed by potential terrorists.
- London (Heathrow): The English are very bullheaded and have refused to institute proper security measures. The investigators found unlocked security doors, unarmed guards and inadequate airport fencing.
- New Delhi: "Very poor screening. No officers around parked aircraft. The slow pace of the Indian police (means) a resolution of these problems will not take place for some time."
- Bangkok: "Security is poor to non-existent. There are unescorted passengers in the ramp areas when flights are boarding." The FAA praises Pan Am and TWA for doing well under these incredible conditions.
- Brussels: "Security is very poor and spotty. This is dangerous in view of the fact that Brussels airport has been the focal point of terrorist movement of weapons. Weapons, bombs, etc., could easily be transferred to passengers."
- Rome: "After the Dec. 17, 1973, commando-style fire bombing of a Pan Am flight in which 32 persons were killed, the Rome airport security improvement was only temporary. (There are) very poor search procedures... metal detectors were obviously inoperative..."
- Buenos Aires: "Government security people do search, but they only search when they feel like it..." One plane returned to the airport with engine trouble and the passengers (roomed) at will and re-embarked without any search.
- Copenhagen: "Security is almost non-existent. It is the most lax in the world..." Guards at the access points pass anyone with any type of I.D. SAS should be forced to abide by a security program or give up its rights to the U.S.

Sound Observations

"The actions we must take to deal with our energy problem fall into two obvious categories. First, we (must continue) to make a planned and orderly reduction in energy consumption, and second, we need a major effort to expand energy resources as rapidly as possible. Both of these steps are needed to get us safely through the next decade, when we will have to make the best of our increasing dependence on petroleum."

"Both steps are equally essential to ensure a smooth transition to a new era that lies beyond the years after 1985, when new energy forms will have to meet a larger and larger share of total energy demand."

These are the sound observations of Clifton C. Garvin Jr., president of Exxon Corp., and a former Midland resident, who most assuredly knows whereof he speaks.

Tom Tiede Experts Speculate On 'Panic' Possibilities

WASHINGTON (NEA)—It could begin with a harmless aside. A man withdrawing bank savings to pay bills jokes to a friend that in times like this he wishes his money in his pocket. The friend misses the joke and decides to draw out his own account. A rumor spreads that the bank is closing and others line up for their funds. A television crew is alerted and photos of the action are transmitted to homes across America. Panic! It's 1929 all over again.

Unlikely? Of course. Impossible? Not according to pessimistic polls now being taken by longtime financial forecaster Albert Sindlinger. He, working out of his well-reputed firm in Pennsylvania, says that Americans in soundings before the administration changeover, have been assuming a negative attitude about the economy that is potentially ruinous.

"I show a 20 to 30 per cent decline in the consumer's belief in fiscal stability. This is the largest drop of confidence I've recorded in 20 years of surveying. Normally, a 9 per cent drop is considered serious. So 20 to 30 per cent is critical. I think it indicates a collapse of confidence."

It also may indicate something much more important. Often the end of confidence portends the beginning of fear. Sindlinger says increasing numbers of citizens "have heard rumors about banks." And two of 10 polled "are thinking of withdrawing" their savings. "A lot of people we talk to are comparing things with 1929. Personally, so do I. I've been conducting these financial polls for a long time now and I've never seen anything like it. Right now I just have to believe we're heading right down the road to depression."

Such talk, unspoken in high government, is also avoided by the overwhelming majority of practicing economists. The accepted line, wise or not, is that it is virtually impossible for a sophisticated financial system such as ours to repeat the mortification of total bust. Yet what happens when people no longer believe in the infallibility of the accepted line?

Louis Harris recently reported that 46 per cent of the polled population did not think the government capable of preventing another depression. And for panic, even economist Alan Greenspan, presidential adviser in the waning Nixon days, has warned that if short-term interest rates get much higher he fears "massive withdrawals" from and thus the rupture of U.S. savings institutions.

Clearly the situation, even if below crisis level, should be of watchful concern to all. Yet Sindlinger says it's not. Sindlinger, far from practicing restraint, is energetically encouraging the public to withdraw savings for automobiles and airline trips which, the advertisers insist, "will cost even more if you wait." And government, Sindlinger adds, is so paralyzed with confusion that: "When I talk to politicians about the gravity of the matter the first thing they want to know is should they sell their stocks. That's the mentality we have in Washington; they look first to their own welfare."

It may be of course that Sindlinger's warnings are ignored because they are faulty. His work, called confidence indexing, is thought by many to be unreliable.

"In tight times," says a Washington banker, "people always sound more pessimistic than they really are. I don't doubt they tell Sindlinger they're near panic, but that may just mean they're angry. As for a run on the banks, Americans are too smart for that. The average savings account is now about $3,700 and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation insures each account for up to $20,000. This is 1974; you know, not 1929."

So Albert Sindlinger, put

Some reports are that they may buy up General Motors and other stocks until they own our big industries and can double and triple prices on cars and other products when the notion strikes them.

And when the desert brigades can raise the price on cars as vastly as they have on their oil, they can really put us Americans back on our feet.

THE CONSUMER ALERT — If It Sounds Too Good To Be True, It Probably Is

BY JOHN L. HILL
Texas Attorney General
AUSTIN — If you're looking through the classified section of your newspaper, sooner or later you're sure to run across an ad that reads something like this:

"Business opportunity! New firm expanding into this area needs distributor for national product. No selling required. Earn $20,000 a year working part-time! Proven investment returns. Call Mr. Wonder."

If you respond to this or similar ads, there's a chance you could become the object of a misleading sales pitch for a less-than-profitable distributorship. The sales routine for such a deceptive offer generally follows this pattern:

Mr. Wonder comes to your house or sends a sales representative to explain the distributorship investment opportunity. The product to be distributed may be anything from film to children's books to vending machines (a despise freeze-dried coffee or soup).

Very likely, you will be shown lavish colored photographs and brochures of the product designed to impress you with the fact that large amounts of money can be made with little effort. The salesman of such a product will agree that such a machine will sell at least 15 units of the product a day.

"But let's be conservative," he may say. "Suppose it sells only 10 units a day. Even at that, you can make $1,400 a month if you purchase 10 machines and they earn 50 cents on each sale."

After describing the profitable machine locations provided by the company, the salesman will urge you to sign a contract immediately to take advantage of the "fantastic" offer for only $2,000.

When you sign, you may be told that a "locator" will call a few days after your machines are delivered to tell you the spots at which they will be placed.

So your machines are delivered, your money paid. After what may vary from a few days to never, the locator comes by with a list of locations for your machines and has you sign a form stating that "locations have been provided and are acceptable."

Later, when you survey the locations, you may find that your soup dispensing machine

Dropout Finds Going Back To School Rewarding Thing

NORWICH, Conn. (AP) — school. In fact, she joked, "You can get so much more by waiting rather than entering college right after high school graduation," says Mrs. Juanita Tylanda of Norwich, who waits from kindergarten on, with too much pressure.

But after 10 years out of school, "I felt I needed more education and signed up for an introduction to psychology evening extension course at Eastern Connecticut State College. At 27, she said, she felt "very old" and "ready for the grave" sitting with youths just out of high school. But she was pleasantly surprised that many students were even older and that they were all treated like people — "not like old women and men."

At times, she said, she didn't think she would make it "but I'd tell myself I just can't give up. It would all be in vain."

The stimulating atmosphere of college affected her. "At home I didn't read that many books. I'm lulled too easily into just watching television and sitting on the porch."

She and her husband, Elton, have lived in an old home they hope to restore. They burned wood during the winter and after a course on the environment, began growing their own vegetables in a hothouse. They also bought goats and began using the milk to make cottage cheese and yogurt.

With a degree in hand, and a career in teaching or social work ahead, Mrs. Tylanda credits her husband with helping her reach her initial goal.

"It's easy to do things when you have someone to back you up," she said. "He encouraged me and helps me with everything I do."

"I found you really can do what you want if you plan and sacrifice and do it the right way," Mrs. Tylanda said. "Our little acre seems like a hundred. We can do so much with it."

New York Humbles Texans, 43-10

By BRUCE LOWITT
NEW YORK (AP) — It was supposed to be a classic struggle... the World Football League's No. 1 rushing offense against its No. 1 rushing defense.

But as New York defensive end Gerry Philbin exclaimed: "I can't believe this game—I thought it would be close!"

Bob Gladieux made it look easy. He ran for 84 yards and three touchdowns and caught a Tom Sherman pass for a fourth score in the Stars' 43-10 rout of the Houston Texans Wednesday night.

Chenier Signs Amazing Contract

By TOM SEPPY
WASHINGTON (AP) — Phil Chenier, a so-called "hardship case" only three years ago, has become the latest of the instant sports millionaires.

Chenier, 23-year-old guard, Wednesday signed a seven-year contract with the Washington Bullets of the National Basketball Association for what was described as "in excess of $1 million."

There were unconfirmed reports, however, that the contract was for an estimated $2.8 million, or some $400,000 a year.

news conference that the Bullets "are very happy he signed a long-term contract. He will not be compared to other guards; he will be the standard. Other guards will be compared to Phil."

Chenier was selected in the hardship draft before he would have begun his senior year at the University of California in his hometown of Berkeley.

He was expected to be worked slowly, but his development was forced when Earl Monroe left the club and ended up with the New York Knicks. Chenier averaged 12.3 points per game in his rookie year.

two games of the season, now have won five in a row. This led Parrilli to understate, "We seem to be getting the hang of it. We have a lot of pride."

"I thought we would have to do more throwing, but the running game broke it open."

Gladieux bulled over twice from one yard out, belted over from the four and hauled in Sherman's five-yarder for his other touchdown. But he was only the brightest star. Ed White had 69 rushing yards and Dave Richards added 63 to New York's 231 yards on the ground.

Ller Hurls No-Hitter

By BOB WARNER
Associated Press Writer
WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Alfredo Urdaneta, a 12-year-old Little Leaguer from Maracaibo, Venezuela, is becoming an old hand at pitchers duels—in both throwing and batting.

In the Latin American regional playoffs for a spot in the Little League World Series, Urdaneta pitched a no-hitter against San Salvador and struck Maracaibo's only hit, a solo home run that won the game.

Grant Guthrie had kicked field goals of 31 and 51 yards to give the Sharks a 6-0 lead going into the final period. But Reed threw a 27-yard touchdown pass to Alfred Jenkins to put the Americans ahead.

Urdaneta nearly repeated the feat Wednesday in the series itself. The southpaw held Jackson, Tenn., to a lone single and hit an opposite-field homer to win the game 1-0 in an overtime seventh inning.

Red Bluff, Calif., also won its first-round game, defeating a Victoria, Canada, team 3-0.

Mark Keluche, a plump right-hander who stands 5-foot-8 and says he weighs about 245 pounds, held the Canadians to two hits and struck out 11. Red Bluff mixed a single, a double and two errors to score all its runs in the fourth inning.

The loss in the Maracaibo-Jackson game went to Stan Weaver, who allowed only a bunt single in the six innings of regulation play, striking out 12 and walking none.

But Urdaneta led off the seventh, worked Weaver to a 2-2 count and then smashed a high fastball over the left-field fence about 215 feet away.

Kao Hsiung, Taiwan, and Tallmadge, Ohio, were scheduled to meet at 2 p.m., EDT, today in a semifinal game. Maracaibo and Red Bluff were paired in the other semifinal at 5 p.m., EDT.

The series finale is slated for Saturday afternoon.

AAU Swim Meet Set For Start

By ERIC PREWITT
CONCORD, Calif. (AP) — Officials of the National AAU Swimming Championships opening here today figured out where to seat the competitors before solving the problem of how to get all 1,360 swimmers in the water.
"We'll be using another pool for some of the preliminaries," said Pete Cutino, water polo coach at the nearby University of California and co-chairman for the four-day AAU meet.
"This meet is a lot bigger than the 1972 Olympic trials and the qualifying times for it were a lot tougher," he added.
One set of bleachers has been reserved for the swimmers ranging in age from 11 to 30 throughout the meet at the Concord Community Park pool. The extra pool available for preliminaries is at a local junior college.
"The eight finals on tonight's program include three with world record holders entered—the men's and women's 400-meter freestyle and the men's 100-meter breaststroke."
Rick DeMont was out to protect his 3:38.18 mark in the men's 400 free, and Heather Greenwood's 4:17.33 record was in jeopardy on the women's side. World record holder John Hencken, 1:04.02, was favored in the breaststroke event. One of the challengers to Miss Greenwood, a 17-year-old from Fresno, Calif., is Australian Jenny Turrill, 14, who holds world freestyle records for 200 and 1,500 meters.

"I'll swim in the 200, 400 and 1,500 here," said the 5-foot-3 Australian. "In the 400, the winner will probably break the record. But I doubt if I'll win."
It will be another blow to America's prestige in swimming if she wins. Miss Greenwood is the only active U.S. female swimmer now holding a world mark.
"East German girls have been taking over the list, adding several world marks in Vienna this week. East Germany will meet the Americans here next weekend in a dual meet."
"I think the U.S. girls are going to be hurting," retired Olympic star Mark Spitz said on a visit here this week. "But our boys should hold their own."
Top U.S. finishers automatically will earn berths on the team which will face the East Germans.
The overflow entry list includes many young swimmers with little chance of making the finals this year but with hopes of developing into contenders for the 1976 Olympic team.

NOTRE DAME, OHIO STATE, OKLAHOMA—

Midlands Boast Three Top College Prospects

By JERRY LISKA
AP Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Notre Dame, Ohio State and Oklahoma last season gave the sprawling Midlands the nation's top three college football teams.
But two of that talented threesome have new problems this year and the third has a holdover fly in the ointment.
National champion Notre Dame ran into summer woes with the loss of seven potential starters through injuries and violation of campus rules.
The Big Ten's Ohio State ranked No. 2 in the final Associated Press poll, has a still-bristling squad but an ailing coach—Woody Hayes, recovering from a summer heart attack.
No. 3 Oklahoma, again tabbed the Big Eight team to beat, once more is all dressed up with no place to go—howwise that is. The Sooners have one more season left under conference probation for recruiting irregularities.
Elsewhere in the Midlands, Tulsa is a slight favorite over

North Texas State to take the Missouri Valley Conference title both shared last season, and Kent State is a strong choice to dethrone Miami of Ohio in the Mid-American Conference.
Everything pointed toward Notre Dame catapulting from its classic Sugar Bowl triumph over Alabama to another perfect season until trouble began mounting for Coach Ara Parseghian.
Among the keenest losses are key running back Eric Penick, who tore an ankle in spring practice and may be benched until midseason or later, and two regulars among six players bounced recently for violation of school rules—defensive end Ross Browner and safety Luther Bradley.
But Parseghian still has back eight offensive starters, including talented quarterback Tom Clements, and six defensive regulars to tackle an Irish schedule starting Sept. 9 in a nationally televised game at Georgia Tech and winding up Nov. 30 with another national TV contest against perhaps the sternest foe of the season, Southern California.

Ohio State returns 16 regulars from the Buckeye club which tied Michigan 10-10 for a share of last season's Big Ten title and then, as a controversial conference delegate to the Rose Bowl, clobbered Southern California 42-21.
Hayes' protege and current arch-rival coach at Michigan, Bo Schembechler, also has suffered a heart attack.
Schembechler came back strong from his 1972 attack.
Like Michigan, again bracketed with Ohio State as the Big 2 against the Little 8 in the Big Ten race, the Buckeyes have an outstanding quarterback.
It could be that the Big Ten title again will be settled on the final Saturday, Nov. 23, between Ohio State and Michigan.
Ohio State is missing such standouts as offensive tackle John Hicks, the nation's top interior lineman of 1973, and a demon linebacking trio in Randy Gradishar, Rick Middleton and Vic Koegel.
But Hayes still has running back Archie Griffin, who crushed for Big Ten and Buckeye school records of 1,577 yards last season, and two splendid fullbacks in Champ Henson and Pete Johnson.

Michigan, bidding for a fourth straight Big Ten title, must rebuild offensive and defensive lines, but Schembechler could have the fastest backfield in Wolverine history.
Behind quarterback Dennis Franklin, Chuck Heater was moved from tailback to fullback, Gil Chapman shifts from tailback to wingback and a pair of swiftness, Gordon Bell and Rob Lytle, share tailback.
As for the rest of the Big Ten, Minnesota again may be the closest pursuer of the Ohio State-Michigan tandem with Illinois, Purdue, Michigan State and Northwestern each having a chance to break out of the fourth-place tie they shared last season.
The Big Eight has one new coach, Bill Mallory, who moved to Colorado after fashioning a 26-12-0 five-season record at Miami of Ohio.

Alexander Gets Release

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer
Kenmit Alexander, vice president of the National Football League Players Association, says the Philadelphia Eagles no longer want him because of his activities in the union's labor dispute with NFL owners.
The Eagles and the NFL Management Council, representing the owners, disagreed with Alexander's charges.
Alexander, an 11-year defensive back with three NFL teams, was told Wednesday by the Eagles that he was free to make a deal for himself with another team.
"I believe it was because of the union and the strike that this is happening," Alexander said. "They don't particularly like my organizational activities over the last three years."
Both the NFL and the NFL Players Association, representing the players, said they hoped the move would not be construed as retaliation for Alexander's union activities with the NFLPA, which technically is still on strike against the NFL owners although players have been allowed to report to their respective training camps during a two-week cooling-off period.
Alexander said he talked with Eagles' Coach Mike McCormack last November "about my future with Philadelphia" and he suggested his becoming captain of the special teams. He told him I knew I could make the team at cornerback. He then said he would give me an opportunity to make my own deal if I was not going to be a starter."
At union headquarters in Washington, Alexander said he heard nothing further until a few days ago, after he reported to camp. Then, he said, McCormack told him he "wasn't going to make the club, that he had other guys in camp and there was a new rookie. Mike stressed three or four times that a lot of people would think it was for my being a union official, but he said that wasn't the reason."
"I think there is a lot of pressure on him because of the strike."
Meanwhile, the NFLPA's executive committee, meeting in New York, agreed that no member of the union's negotiating team trying to settle the dispute could be cut until at least 14 days after he reported to camp.

The committee also said union negotiators would not be included in mandatory cuts until one week after the date for the final cuts.
Besides Alexander, those affected are Bill Curry of Houston, Tom Keating of Pittsburgh, Ed Podolak of Kansas City, Alon Page of Minnesota, Willie Brown of Oakland and Ken Bowman of Green Bay.
The Eagles also waived quarterback Jim Maxwell and he was claimed by San Diego. Maxwell, signed as a free agent in 1973, has been injured throughout his career and never appeared in a regular-season game.
Meanwhile, Roman Gabriel, the Eagles' No. 1 quarterback, returned to camp after spending two days with his ailing wife, but his status for Saturday night's game against Oakland remained uncertain.

Tyler JC Coach Suffers Attack

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Floyd Wagstaff, 63, the nation's winningest junior college coach, remained in intensive care and listed in poor condition at a local hospital after suffering a heart attack Wednesday at Tyler Junior College.
Wagstaff has had almost 700 victories since his arrival at Tyler JC in 1946, where he is head basketball coach and athletic director.
His teams have captured the state junior college crown 11 times and the national title in 1949 and 1961.
Wagstaff, who was in Hupteville last week for a checkup, slumped over while talking to some people at the college just before noon.
Wagstaff was the Texas Sports Writers Association Junior Coach of the Year in 1949, 1953, 1960, and 1972.
In 16 years as head football coach at TJC, Wagstaff was 682-130-36. He is a graduate of Stephen F. Austin College and has a masters from North Texas State. He was born in Joquin, Tex., on Jan. 8, 1911.

GLORY DAYS MAY BE OVER—

Reagan County's Owls Face Rebuilding Year

BY TERRY WILLIAMSON
R-T Sports Writer

END POWER—Monty Barnes, 175, Sr., is the only defensive and offensive returning starter for the Reagan County Owls. Barnes was a District 7-AA all-loop performer a year ago, and gives the Owls a definite offensive plus at the end slot.

Coach Wilburn George, who is heading into his 14th season as the Owl headmaster, faces a rebuilding job of major consequences with a pre-district schedule that is murder even for a top-notch team. Also, other teams in the loop appear to be better than a year ago, and that doesn't sound good when the call is put on new troops.

Before district play even starts, the Birds will have to face the likes of District 4-AA favorites Ballinger and Coahoma along with AAA power Lamesa. If the squad is not thinned by then, the Owls could have a chance in district play. Alpine is also scheduled.

Coach George will give the Birds a new look this season, however, in an effort to get the most out of his squad. George will move to a Pro-Set offense instead of the Wishbone that brought a championship a year ago. "We just don't have the fullback power we had last year to make the Wishbone go," George said. "We will probably throw a lot this year and hope for the best."

Mark Edwards, a junior, will get the call at quarterback and promises to give some offensive punch. He is a good thrower and will have some excellent receivers in ends Monty Barnes and Tim Turner along with tailback George Thompson. Barnes and Thompson are returning starters, but in the interior line, only senior Kye Emert returns at a guard slot.

The running chores will be left up to fullback Terry Jones (160, Jr.), Thompson (157, Jr.) and wingback Jennings Teel, a 178-pound sophomore, who could be at the start of a brilliant career for the Owls.

The real test for the Owls, however, will come up front where George will have to find help to go along with Emert (175, Sr.). Joel Hall (150, Sr.), who was a defensive standout last year, will move to the other guard slot to add depth. Bodie Dykes (165, Jr.) will be the center while the tackle slots will be manned by Jeff Lewis (175, Jr.) and sophomore Dennis Kruse, who adds respectability with 195-pound size.

Turner and Barnes are a pair of good ends and George will probably be finding ways to get the ball to them.

The defensive crew faces a similar challenge with only halfback Barnes, nose guard Emert and linebacker Hall being the returning starters. There will be no change in the defensive makeup, however, with George going with the traditional five-man front.

Lewis and Kruse will have to double at the tackle slots while Dykes and Ricky James (140, Jr.) will be at the ends. Edwards will join Hall at a linebacking spot while Turner will aid Barnes at the halfback positions. Thompson will also have to double as a safety while the hard-hitting Jones will be a key man at the rover slot. Depth is a problem and many of the Owls will have to see two-way duty.

PREDICTION: With a devastating pre-district slate and a small matter of Badgers and Cranes in loop play, the Owls just don't own the firepower to win again. Third in District 7-AA.

Doctors Not Employes Of Professional Teams

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League's chief security officer says doctors are not employees of NFL clubs but added that team officials would be questioned by the commissioner if any suspicion arose concerning medical reports.

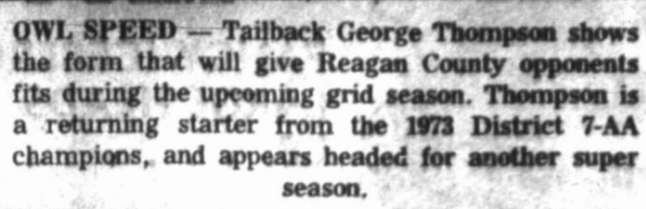

Jack Danahy, a former agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said Wednesday team doctors are not subject to the same jurisdiction as players and officials.

But he added: "If any suspicion arose involving medical reports I am sure an official of the suspected team would be summoned by the commissioner for questioning. There cannot be even an appearance of evil."

Danahy made his remarks concerning the involvement of Dr. Anthony Pisani in a $25 million-a-year sports gambling operation. Pisani resigned earlier this year as the New York Giants' orthopedic surgeon.

No charges were filed against him, but he was named in a 46-count indictment against Thomas Musta, 64, of New York and Michael Astarita, 47, of Hillsdale, N.J., involving one count of criminal conspiracy and 23 counts of gambling.

The indictment charges Musta and Astarita agreed to confer on a regular basis with Pisani before NFL games last year regarding the extent of injuries to Giants' players.

BUT BEAR SAYS IT'S LOOKING BAD— Record Year For Alabama

By HOYT HARWELL
TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — "Every year looks real bad for us and this one is no exception," says Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant, whose Alabama football team missed the national title last year by two points.

Other teams should have it so bad, with the Crimson Tide the favorite to capture an unprecedented fourth straight Southeastern Conference championship and go to its 16th straight post-season bowl, a record, and its 28th bowl trip over-all, also a record.

But conference titles and bowl trips are almost secondary to Bryant, who says, "The national championship is our goal every year."

Bryant's 231 coaching victories put him third on the all-time list.

He has won three national championships at Alabama but the closest the Tide has come to the title since its 1965 national championship was last Dec. 31 in the Sugar Bowl when Notre Dame won a thriller 24-23 and captured the honor. Alabama was ranked fourth in the final poll.

Despite Bryant's worries, he admits his upcoming team has several strong points: Quarterbacks, runners and defense.

"But our team speed is very ordinary, especially our offensive line, and we are going to have to improve our kicking game," Bryant says.

Senior Gary Rutledge and junior Richard Todd, who shared duties last season, again will be the quarterbacks with backup help from Robert Fraley. Bryant says Todd also might do the punting, making the fake punt a threat.

"We've got running backs running out our ears," he says, but "they've got to block better than they did in the spring to make the wishbone go."

They include Randy Billingsley, Calvin Culliver, Willie Shelby, James Taylor, Mike Stock and Ralph Stokes, all veterans.

OKLAHOMA AND THE SEVEN DWARFS? — Sooners Eye Banner Year In Big Eight Conference

By RON JENKINS
NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Is the Big Eight Conference back to Oklahoma and the Seven Dwarfs?

Not quite, but for the first time since Bud Wilkinson's marvelous team of the 1960s, the Sooners are the near-unanimous selection of writers and coaches to capture the conference title.

The Sooners, who finished No. 2 in The Associated Press football rankings in 1971 and 1972 and were No. 3 a year ago, undoubtedly will make another strong bid for the national championship.

All this is despite an NCAA probation which will keep Oklahoma out of bowl participation for the second year in a row and off television this year and next.

The probation's effect hasn't been evident on the playing field.

Oklahoma walked to the league championship in 1973, posting a 10-0-1 record. Only an early-season 7-7 tie with Southern California kept the Sooners from chalking up their first unblemished season in 15 years.

They could accomplish that goal this season, with what is expected to be a wishbone attack even more devastating than last year's and a softer non-conference slate.

The Oklahoma offense is geared around halfback Joe Washington and quarterback

Steve Davis, both juniors and among nine returning from the 1973 unit which averaged 453 yards total offense per game.

Coach Barry Switzer calls Washington, a 170-pounder from Port Arthur, Tex., "the greatest running back I've seen at Oklahoma."

That's quite a statement since Switzer, as offensive boss before ascending to the top job in 1973, tutored the likes of Heisman Trophy winner Steve Owens and the speedy Greg Pruitt.

Washington ripped for 1,173 yards and led the Big Eight, averaging 6.7 yards per carry. Davis came on as a redshirt sophomore and operated the wishbone controls brilliantly. He led the conference in scoring with 107 points, rushed for 87 yards and passed for 304 more.

Waymon Clark, who plowed for 1,104 yards, returns at fullback and is supported ably by junior Jim Littlell. The other starter at halfback likely will be Grant Burchett, a power runner with speed who was injured in Oklahoma's first game a year ago against Baylor.

Spelling Davis at quarterback will be soph Joe McReynolds and Kerry Jackson, whose all-tered high school transcript led to the Sooner probation.

Oklahoma has two super split ends in Tinker Owens and Billy Brooks, and a proven tight end in Wayne Hoffman.

Defensively, the Sooners will miss All-American noseguard Lucious Selmon and six other starters.

But there is plenty of talent left, including rangy All-American linebacker Rod Shante, unanimous All-Big Eight safety selection Randy Hughes and Lucious Selmon's two massive, younger brothers, tackles Le-Ray and Dewey.

CAN MENTOR SLOW DOWN? — Hayes Biggest Question In Ohio State Lineup

By GEORGE STRODE
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The big question about Ohio State's football team this fall will be the coach himself.

Can Woody Hayes, a summer heart attack victim, slow down and follow doctor's orders?

The 61-year-old Hayes said he will, but warned, "I'm not going to be a nice, old man on the sidelines."

Hayes makes it no secret that he wants a fourth national college championship before he retires. And 1974 could be the year, considering he has 16 regulars back from the second-ranked squad of last season.

"We'll be up there," he promised.

"What were we? No. 1 for eight weeks last fall. All Alabama had to do was beat Notre Dame in the Sugar Bowl," reminded Hayes.

Instead, the Irish ripped Alabama by one point while Ohio State thrashed Southern California in the Rose Bowl. Notre Dame was No. 1 in the final poll.

Even with such talent returning, Ohio State lost impressive players such as tackle John Hicks, the Oakland and Lombardi Award winner as the nation's best interior lineman, and linebackers Randy Gradishar, Vic Koegel and Rick Middleton.

Hicks and Gradishar were both two-time All-Americans, helping the Buckeyes to the Big Ten co-title with Michigan and a 10-0-1 record last season.

The Buckeyes, who have won or shared five of the last six Big Ten titles, have 38 letterman back.

"Complacency will be a problem, a real problem," Hayes said. "That's why I'm not going to be a nice, old coach."

Ohio State's game-breaker again will be junior tailback Archie Griffin, who rushed for conference and school records of 1,577 yards last season.

Other Ohio State weapons are slick-running quarterback Cornelius Greene, the Most Valuable Player in the Rose Bowl, and Harold "Champ" Henson and Pete Johnson, a pair of tackle-shattering fullbacks.

A defense that gave up only 64 points last season returns—the likes of tackle Pete Cusick, and Van DeGrone, linebackers Arnie Jones and Bruce Elias and deep back Neal Colzie.

To patch the linebacking corps, Jones has switched back from defensive tackle and Elias from fullback. Elias, pressed into service when Henson hurt his knee early last fall, led Ohio State in 1973 scoring.

Colzie led the nation in punt returns with 679 yards on 40 tries.

The Buckeyes launch the 1974 campaign at Minnesota in a Big Ten opener Sept. 14.

'TACKLES' IN DEBUT — Football May Go To Dogs As Another Season Nears

By MICHAEL B. FALLON
Worcester Gazette

Written For Associated Press

If you think professional football, with its players' strike and general air of confusion, is going to the dogs, you may be right.

The National Broadcasting Company is hoping a new type of game will boost its ratings of pro football television coverage this fall.

The network is turning to "Tackles," described as a non-descript fat hound dog with a leather helmet and cleated feet, to describe the nine rules changes that will alter the image of the professional game for television viewers this fall.

With the success of "Peter Puck," who explained hockey to new fans and even entertained some old ones, NBC asked the cartoon creators Hanna-Barbera of Hollywood to come up with a football animal for the same purposes.

Tackles will make his debut when NBC covers the Miami-Los Angeles preseason game from EA Saturday night, Aug. 24.

Viewers will be given a five-minute glimpse of the new NBC gimmick and will see him thereafter popping up during time outs or explaining penalties and situations that were created by the rules changes.

NBC expects big results from the cartoon creature.

Peter Puck became such a celebrity in his own right for NBC's coverage of the National Hockey League that he finally got his own mailing address at NBC.

The network is hoping that "Tackles" will engender the same kind of response.

NBC has refused to disclose what the cost of Peter Puck or Tackles would be but conceded the endeavors are being undertaken for a considerable amount of money.

Test Slated For Ryan Fastball

By RON ROACH
ANAHEIM (AP) — What batters have wondered about in recent years will undergo scientific scrutiny early next month: The speed of Nolan Ryan's fastball.

California Angels' Manager Dick Williams says he's never seen a pitcher throw harder than Ryan, and pitching coach Tom Morgan believes there's no harder thrower around.

Faster than Bob Feller? Faster than Sandy Koufax?

Nobody has stakes that claim for the 27-year-old strikeout king of the big leagues, but the questions of just how fast he can throw a baseball is expected to be answered by an infra-red radar device.

Rockwell International scientists, who tested the device Tuesday night when Ryan struck out 19 Detroit Tigers, will set up for an official clocking of Ryan's pitches the next time Nolan pitches in Anaheim, Sept. 6 or 7 against Chicago.

The fastest pitch ever gauged was 98.6 miles per hour, thrown by Cleveland's Feller in 1946.

Nine other pitchers have been tested at a speed exceeding 90 m.p.h.

Ryan, a 6-foot-2, 185-pounder, is sort of curious himself.

"It's a promotion, that's all. They asked me if I was willing, and I agreed. I hope it works out. I think it's interesting," Ryan said.

The Rockwell device measures speed by means of the Doppler frequency shift. Feller was timed by a U.S. Army limbline chronograph, a box-like device resembling an inverted wooden pyramid containing electric beams spaced five feet apart. The ball was thrown 145 feet per second.

Feller's test involved five pregame pitches. Ryan also will have five pregame pitches, as well as his pitches during the game.

Koufax, the ex-Los Angeles Dodger, was recorded at 93.2 m.p.h. in 1960, only the seventh fastest on the list. Koufax, Don Drysdale, Steve Barber, Herb Score, Ryne Duren and Bob Turley all were involved in an experiment in Miami, utilizing a high-speed movie camera shooting 60 frames per second.

Barber, then a Baltimore rookie, threw 95.5 m.p.h. to rank second behind Feller.

81 New Projects Are Scheduled To Drill In Permian Basin Areas

Operators in the two-state area of the Permian Basin, last week staked 81 new oil and gas projects, which included 16 ventures and 65 development tests.

The count was down 22 from the 103 applications filed two weeks ago.

Texas Railroad Commission District 7-C, with offices in San Angelo, had the largest amount of wildcats filed, with six staked.

Districts 8 and 8-A tied with five exploratory applications filed in their areas, and Southeast New Mexico did not have any wildcat applications filed in that area.

Leading in development projects was District 8-A, with 25 filed.

West Texas Areas Draw Exploration

Wildcats have been scheduled in Glasscock and Winkler sectors.
Diamond Shamrock Corp. of Amarillo has staked site for an 8,300-foot wildcat in Glasscock County, 16 miles northwest of Garden City. It is No. 1-13 G. S. Brunson.
Drillrite is 1,320 feet from north and west lines of section 13, block 36, T-3-S, T&P survey, 1 1/4 mile southwest of the one-well WZB (Grayburg) field.
Winkler Site
Union Oil Co. of California will drill No. 2-36 University, a 6,600-foot exploratory test in Winkler, seven miles southwest of Wink townsite.
It spots 1,320 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 36, block 20, ULS, one location northeast of the depleted Delaware gas discovery in the War-Wink, North field.

Development Tests Scheduled In Eddy

Samedan Oil Corp. Midland, has staked site No. 1 Nix as a 1/4-mile southeast offset to an undesignated one-well Morrow area of Eddy County, N.M., three miles north of Lake Wood.
It has a planned depth of 9,600 feet, and spots 660 feet from north and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 9-19-26e.

Connecticut Starts Releasing 200 Prisoners Under New Court Ruling

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — "They were going to be released sometime anyway," Connecticut's top law enforcement officer said as the first scores of inmates whose sentences were cut short walked to freedom.
The inmates serving state Circuit Court terms of more than one year, were freed because the state Supreme Court ruled last month that 12 months was the longest sentence the lower court could impose.
The high court ruled that a longer sentence encroached on the authority of the Superior Court and violated the state Constitution.
In special proceedings on Wednesday, Hartford Superior Court Judge Walter J. Sidor declared the sentences of the affected inmates illegal. Circuit Court Judge Nicholas F. Armentano then resented each inmate to one year from the time each began serving his original sentence.
James W. Greene, a lawyer for the federally funded Legal Assistance to Prisoners, presented petitions for reductions in sentences from 198 affected prisoners. He said 19 of these had served 10 months, long enough to make them eligible for immediate release. The rest will be eligible as soon as they serve an equivalent period.
Greene said he was checking to see whether there were other prisoners who had been given sentences of illegal length under the Supreme Court ruling.
The study, carried over the last three years, indicated pupils of the same ethnic group tend to stick together in school. The study covered 37 secondary schools. It observed and analyzed lunchroom and other free-period pupil activity.
The schools studied included only those in the district where the black pupil population made up at least 10 per cent of the enrollment.
The report concluded that junior high school pupils interacted more often than high school pupils and male pupils tended to interact more often than females in ethnically mixed groups.

Busing Achieves Little Interaction In Dallas Schools

DALLAS (AP) — Busing of school children has had little effect in achieving interaction of the races in secondary schools, according to a survey conducted by the Dallas Independent School District.
The study, carried over the last three years, indicated pupils of the same ethnic group tend to stick together in school. The study covered 37 secondary schools. It observed and analyzed lunchroom and other free-period pupil activity.

Carving 'Chops' Profitable Art

By LEONARD PRATT

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — "One hundred thousand dollars is not too much for one of my chops," said the balding but sharp-eyed little man.

He meant Taiwan dollars, but that still comes out to U.S. $2,632. A hefty sum for a few Chinese characters carved on a small stone.

Wang Wang-sun has been carving them for 47 years, and is an acknowledged master of the art that is almost a national obsession for Chinese and several other Asian peoples — names carved into personal seals, or "chops."

It starts with a person's given name, composed of one or two of what Chinese consider to be good or lucky characters, and which often get pretty flowery — Wang's means "emperor of his descendants." The second part of it all is the tradition of using a chop on official documents which in the West would require a signature. Everyone from cabinet ministers to noodle vendors has a chop, and in their time they've gone on everything from decorations of war to restaurant bills.

And the third is the Chinese love of oddly shaped little things — clocks disguised as chickens, tree roots that look like buffalo, a priceless piece of jade carved to look like a grasshopper.

Put them all together and you've got a chop — a piece of fine stone, ivory or jade carved to resemble anything from a dog to a bamboo grove but flattened on the bottom where the owner's name is carved in one of the hundreds of writing styles that China has developed in thousands of years of history.

Since a man's chop has the same legal validity as his signature, they are closely guarded and highly prized possessions.

And in all of this, Wang is conceded to be at the top of the chop-carving profession.

Ho Hao-tien, director of the National Palace Museum where the Nationalist Chinese government exhibits Chinese art dating back thousands of years, calls Wang "clearly the best of his time."

In addition to the government's formal seal, Wang has done chops for Nationalist president Chiang Kai-shek and vice president Yen Chia-kan, as well as other Chinese officials.

Among non-Chinese, he claims chops done for Indian leader Mahatma Gandhi, South Korea's president Park Chung-hee and former president Syngman Rhee, former Japanese prime minister Shinsuke Kishi, and Joseph Stilwell, the U.S. general who served as chief of staff for Chinese armed forces in World War II.

Wang is proud of being a fussy worker.

He says he's done some chops for free, but once turned down an offer of $18,000 to do a chop because he didn't like the sound of the man's name.

"I have three conditions for doing a chop," says Wang. "I must like the person I'm doing it for. The name must be a good one. And the quality of the stone must be high."

Even then, there's no telling how long it can take. Though the work itself doesn't require much more than about an hour per chop, it all depends on how he feels.

"Sometimes I get up feeling good, and carve a lot. Other times I'll go for a month or two without working at all," Wang says.

With what he likes to call his "iron pen," Wang figures he's carved about 20,000 characters in his time and, in addition, has trained several students in the art.

Fully in character, he admits he hasn't taken on many students — "because I could only work with a few, only with the best."

Old broom handles make excellent rollers when moving heavy trunks and furniture.

New Way Of Planting Rice Latest Hope For Food Race Breakthrough

By ARNOLD ZETTLIN
BULACAN, The Philippines (AP) — A new way of planting rice that challenges the practices of centuries is the latest hope for a breakthrough in the race to boost food production in Asia ahead of the needs of its rising population.

"There is no doubt that we are going to change the way rice is grown in Asia," said the man about to oversee a major test of the method called direct seeding. He is Vernon Ross, a 6-foot-2 former University of Tennessee agriculture specialist and director of training at the International Rice Research Institute at Los Baños, the Philippines.

To make good his optimism, Ross and other advocates of direct seeding will have to overcome the entrenched practices of centuries of rice farmers in a continent where people depend for their lives on the staple.

But the new method will increase the farmers' yields from three to five times on land depending for its water on rainfall instead of on irrigation, according to Ross. From some experimental plots, Ross has extracted rice at the rate of more than 10 tons per hectare from land which previously yielded 1.4 tons.

If Ross carries off the change, it will have immense impact. He said 67 per cent of rice land in Asia is rainfed. Much of increased yields of new seed varieties has been concentrated on irrigated land.

A major test is under way this crop year in this and other rice provinces near Manila. The government of the Philippines is turning over 24,000 hectares, about 60,000 acres, to direct seeding. On the basis of experiments carried out on nine scattered plots last year, Ross is wagering the rice yields will triple on the test hectare.

Like many Asian countries, the Philippines does not grow enough rice to satisfy its population, which is growing at the rate of more than 3 per cent each year. Partly because of the lag, it is promoting direct seeding more than a year ahead of Ross's schedule.

Charlie The Alligator Hauled Hissing From His Home

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
 CHICAGO (AP) — Charlie, a 20-year-old alligator, was hauled from his home in a pet shop for $5, it was reported Friday. Bob Hanahan, one of the handlers, said, "He seemed mad at everybody ... He had a lot of fight in him ... But we'll find him a new home somewhere, that's part of our business." Since the oldest son, Andrew, said Josephine Hanahan, 55, "Charlie would start hissing and snapping at the air and once he nearly got out of his tank. I never liked Charlie very much, anyway. It got so he was terrorizing our household."

Kidnaping Charged Four Amarillo Prisoners In Rebellion, Shootout

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Sheriff's deputies have put an end to a 36-hour revolt by prisoners holding a hostage in the Potter County jail by blasting their way inside, shooting the rebels leader and rescuing the hostage.

Darvin "Red" Meharg, 28, a former policeman who had turned to crime, was cut down by a shotgun blast and killed Wednesday as officers rushed him and he tried to grab the jailer he had held captive.

Four captured unharmed. His four partners in the escape attempt, including a woman, were charged with aggravated kidnaping. The four, captured unharmed, are James E. Quinn, 23, an escapee from a federal institution in Florida; Kenneth Albert Oliver, 27, serving a murder sentence; James Petty, 26, convicted of armed robbery; and Barbara Thiel, 40, who had been arrested along with Meharg on robbery charges. Justice of the Peace Clifford Roberts set individual bonds of $50,000.

Meharg and his confederates took over the seventh floor of the downtown jail about midnight Monday when they overpowered guards Don Sidwell and Stan Snitker, and then demanded a getaway car and $10,000 cash.

Armed Only With Knives. Later in the day they released Sidwell, who had been injured during the scuffle with the prisoners.

Neither the prisoners nor the guards carried guns. Meharg and the others were armed only with knives they stole from the kitchen.

Sheriff T. L. Baker said his men moved on Meharg and his group "when it became apparent that further discussion would gain nothing and, in all probability, might endanger the life of Snitker and other innocent people."

Other prisoners in cells of the seventh floor did not participate in the attempted break. They remained in their cells while Meharg negotiated with jail officers.

"We thank God that the bloodshed was no more than it was," Baker said.

Injured during the charge by the officers were trusty Edward Hosford, 21, who was shot in the stomach; Deputy George Griner, who suffered a leg wound, and state trooper Cal Hinkle who also suffered a leg wound.

Baker gave the order to rush the seventh floor shortly before noon.

Baker said the door leading to the seventh floor was blasted open and officers dashed in. Meharg reached for Snitker and was shot.

Snitker was rescued unharmed.

Meharg, the leader of the group, was a former Wichita Falls policeman who was fired from that job in 1958 for what a detective described as "hard-boiled misbehavior." Since then he had been in trouble with the law and at one time escaped from the Wichita County jail.

Mrs. Thiel had become his companion in recent years. Her mother, Louzetta McGregor, said Mrs. Thiel was a reluctant participant in the attempted break.

County Judge Branch Archer said there will be "an unbiased investigation of the attempted jailbreak and subsequent violence." He told Dist. Atty. Tom Curtis he has appointed "two or three" private lawyers to assist him in taking statements and gathering evidence.

Curtis said transcripts and statements will be taken "from every other prisoner who knows what took place."

It was the second such disturbance in Texas by the use of hostages in less than a month. Two convicts and two hostages died Aug. 3 in the Huntsville state prison when the convicts tried to make their way to an armored car they had demanded and ran into a blockade of armed officers.

A justice of the peace later ruled that convicts Fred Gomez Carrasco and Rodolfo Dominguez shot hostages Elizabeth Beseda and Julia Standley and then killed themselves at Huntsville. The shooting put an end to an 11-day siege during which Carrasco and two partners held as many as 15 hostages in the prison library.

Three Main Factors Unite To Produce Cyprus Crisis

By NICK LUDINGTON
(An AP News Analysis)
ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Hard-nosed Turkish leadership, Greek blunders and indecision and Washington's refusal to risk another Vietnam combined to write the latest chapter in the Cyprus story.

"Everyone must know now that there is a Turkey in the world which means what it says and does what it says it will," said Haluk Ulman, 42, one of Premier Bulent Ecevit's chief foreign affairs advisers.

Turkey made much of its humanitarian motive—to save the lives of Turkish Cypriots. But more important was the threat that Cyprus, just 40 miles from the Turkish mainland, might be united with Greece after the overthrow by President Ma-karios and replaced him with the notorious Nicos Sampson, a leader of the EOKA-B underground and rabid advocate of Enosis, the union of Cyprus with Greece.

"This was de facto Enosis," Ulman said. "We decided on a solution which would finally and absolutely obstruct Enosis."

The Greeks erred in assuming that Ecevit, like Turkish premiers in crises over Cyprus in 1964 and 1967, would not take military action. The Greeks apparently felt that the United States would stop the Turks with a combination of threats and diplomacy, as it was credited with doing in the two previous flareups.

This time U.S. envoy Joseph Sisco engaged in an Ankara-Athens peace shuttle and Secretaries of State Henry A. Kissinger kept the international telephone lines busy. But, as Kissinger told a news conference last week, the United States does not accept "that it must stop every local war between smaller states."

The Turks invaded the Greek junta abandoned its words on Cyprus, explaining Cyprus and the Greek military dictatorship was destroyed after the first cease-fire.

Minister Turan Guner gave the Greeks a take-it-or-leave-it opportunity to agree to a divided Cyprus, with autonomous Greek and Turkish Cypriot states joined in a federation. The Greeks refused. Ulman says they were misled by hints from the British that they could check the Turks.

Instead, the Turkish troops moved again, occupied the territory the Greeks and Greek Cypriots wouldn't concede, and captured more to be used in bargaining.

Turkish officials say confidently that the Cyprus problem is now solved. Ecevit said the invasion was a "neat surgical operation. At the start there is pain, then the patient is healed."

Storms Roll Over Nation

By The Associated Press
Thunderstorms, some of them severe, rumbled from the southern Rockies to the upper Great Lakes today.

Two mobile homes were destroyed and a third damaged Wednesday when storms hit near Mount Pleasant in southern Iowa. Power lines and trees were downed in Albia and the roof of a Fairfield home was blown off but no injuries were reported.

Wind gusts of more than 70 miles per hour blew into Clovis, N.M., and more than 5 inches of rain drenched Sedgwick, Kan., Wednesday night.

A few thundershowers also were scattered along the Gulf and lower Atlantic Coast. The West Coast and eastern half of the nation were patched with fog. Visibility was zero in Lebanon, N.H.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 42 at Evanston, Wyo., to 90 at Blythe, Calif.

Some other reports: Anchorage 57 clear, Atlanta 68 clear, Boston 66 clear, Buffalo 69 partly cloudy, Chicago 71 clear, Cincinnati 68 clear, Cleveland 66 clear, Dallas 69 clear, Denver 63 clear, Detroit 66 clear, Honolulu 78 clear, Indianapolis 67 clear, Kansas City 69 thundershower, Los Angeles 65 clear, Louisville 66 clear.

Jail Dispatcher, Wife Knew Of Hazards Involved In Job

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—The wife of a hostage held 36 hours by rebelling Potter County jail prisoners said she and her husband had discussed such situations as hazards of the job.

"We knew it was part of the job when he took it," said Yvonne Snitker, wife of jail dispatcher Stanley Snitker, 33.

"We had discussed it before he took the job."

"He has a bump on his head and an injured elbow. Other than that, he's all right."

Snitker was sent home to rest after his rescue Wednesday. A second hostage was released Tuesday noon. The two were captured Monday night when five prisoners took over the jail.

"We knew the Lord was with us," Mrs. Snitker said. "We're Christians and the Lord is our personal Savior. If life is taken, it was God's will and God would keep us going."

The Snitkers have two daughters, Cindy, 10 and Shaune, 12. Snitker became dispatcher for the sheriff's department in February after holding a similar job with the Texas Department of Public Safety here for five years.

Mrs. Snitker said her husband was born with a heart condition but it was surgically corrected several years ago and is no longer a problem.

President's Favorite Skiing Spot Called 'Boom Town Of The Rockies'

By MARY LEONHARD
VAIL, Colo. (AP) - Between the winter and summer seasons in this recreation town, the population swells to over 10,000. Vail, at a 8,000-foot altitude, has summer temperatures in the 70s during the day, in the 50s at night. It offers jumping, fishing, hiking, horseback riding, tennis, golf and swimming. The ski-lift gondolas start their summer runs for sightseers June 1. After the original construction Vail Associates, the limited partnership headed by Seibert, began selling land to developers and builders, and to individuals who built fashionable homes on the lower mountainsides. Second-home condominium apartments are Vail favorites. Vail's first buildings were Austrian-Alpine, designed by Fitzhugh Scott, Milwaukee architect-landscape planner. Their deceptively random placement, their tall stance and whimsical trim are delightful. Later buildings are more urbane, influenced by the San Francisco and Denver architects who were attracted here. Vail outgrew its original master plan, stretching up and down the valley. It's now five miles long, a mile and a half wide. Most streets are closed to foot or take the free minibuses which circulate from 7 a.m. to midnight. The town is building a 1,000-car, four-level parking garage into a hillside at the town's entry beside Interstate 70, which now crosses the valley north of Vail. Vail's revenue sources would include any property-tax payer. Only 12 per cent of municipal income is from property tax. Of the other sources, 36 per cent is sales tax; 8 per cent, recreational fees, and 15 per cent such items as parking fees, building permits, fines - and ice skating.

UNTIL THE ICE FLOES COMETH— Detroit River Mailboat Serves Crews On Great Lakes Freighters

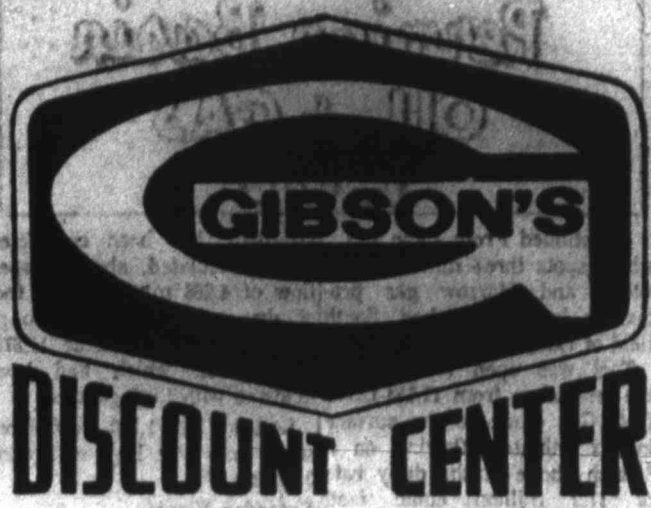

DETROIT (AP) - The mail must float through is the motto of the Detroit River postman - until the ice floes cometh. During the months when the river is navigable - usually from mid-April to mid-December - the Wescott Mail Boat delivers and picks up mail from personnel on passing freighters. For the crewmen who ply the Great Lakes, mail call is most important since they often have no contact with the outside world for weeks at a time. To these thousands of men and their families the 45-foot, diesel-powered "floating post office" is one of the most sought-after vessels in the world. The method for delivery of mail on the river is unique. The mail boat rides alongside the large vessels as they move up or down the river. A rope is tossed between the ships and mail is placed in a rail fastened to the rope. The service also provides other conveniences. Often ships will order coffee and the mail boat makes the delivery along with the mail. It also offers laundry and dry-cleaning pickup and return. Deliveries may also include supplies from a local marine store, machinery parts, sailors' baggage and even newspapers from Detroit and other cities. Occasionally, the mail boat takes on or debarks a passenger and even this operation is done without the freighter cutting down its speed. Just as the mail is put aboard, the Wescott brushes alongside the ship, keeps pace with it and then a crew member on the larger vessel lowers a ladder and hoists himself aboard. The mail boat then turns around and heads back to shore. During the eight-month period when the Detroit river is ice-free and open to ships, the Wescott serves some 14,000 vessels a year. In 1972 it accounted for 714,576 pieces of mail and parcel post packages compared to 47,000 pieces of mail in its first year of operation in 1895. When the mail service began as an experiment 79 years ago under Postmaster John J. Enright, the "Florence B." was used as a carrier. The mail was delivered in a somewhat different manner. A man in a rowboat was set out in the path of the oncoming vessel. The man would row alongside the ship and toss a line up onto the deck, wait for the slack to be played out, then be taken along at speed with a jerk while the mail bucket was passed down and returned. Once this was done, he was cast adrift to row to the next ship or to be picked up by the "Florence B." Contract Acquired After several changes in ownership, the J. W. Wescott Co., a marine reporting agency, acquired the contract for the service. Although the mail boat is not owned by the U.S. Postal Service its services are obtained by government contract. At one time the mail boat was used as a complete post office with sorting and cancellations made on board. Today the office is located ashore at the foot of 24th Street, which is known as the "River Station" with its own Zip code number 48222. The boat acts as a carrier only. A total of ten persons, not including one postal employee who works an eight-hour day sorting and preparing the mail, make up the operation. On-board crews consist of three two-man crews each working an eight-hour day to give the river men a 24-hour service, seven days a week, throughout the navigable seasons.

China Fixes Population Total Near 800 Million

TOKYO (AP) - For the first time since 1967, China has told the world how many people it has: Almost 800 million. The disclosure ends years of speculation by outsiders. The last official population tally, released 17 years ago, showed 656.6 million people. An unofficial Chinese atlas compiled in 1972 and published last year put the population at 703.3 million, and the United Nations, about the same time, estimated it at 800.7 million. The guessing game has swung between 700 million to 800 million, compared with the approximately 210 million in the United States and 250 million of the Soviet Union. The new official figure was given in a speech Wednesday to the World Population Conference in Bucharest by Huang Shu-hua, Peking's delegate. Hsinhua, the official Chinese news agency, distributed the text of the speech today. Huang left unanswered the important questions of whether the growth rate has stabilized or how fast the population is growing. But he said that since Mao Tse-tung's Communists took over the mainland in 1949, China's population has grown by almost 60 per cent, from about 500 million to nearly 800 million. At the same time, he said, annual grain production had more than doubled, from 110 million tons to 250 million, and only slightly more than 10 per cent of China's territory was under cultivation. China practices birth control, advocates late marriages and carries out family planning except in some sparsely settled areas where population growth is encouraged.
