TO HELP CHILDREN IN AMERICA—

Strengthening Family Life Is Being Urged

By TOM TIEDE
 NEW YORK (NEA)—In her book, "The Conspiracy Against Childhood," Eda Leshane remembers watching a mother castigate her one-year-old child in a restaurant. "If you don't stop acting like a baby," the mother growled. "I'm never going to take you anyplace again."
 Author Leshane then wondered: if you can't be a baby at one year old, when the heck can you be?
 Apparently never. Being a tad ain't what it used to be. In today's tough, demanding society, Huck Finn is a delinquent. Tom Sawyer is an underachiever. Heidi is in foster care and Alice of Wonderland is fantasizing dangerously and may have maturity problems.
 The 1970 White House Conference on Children reported that America's image of itself as a child oriented society is false. "A hard look at our institutions and way of life reveals that our national priorities lie elsewhere: the pursuit of affluence, the worship of material things, the hard sell and the soft."
 Nowhere is this more evident than in the home, where the child is expected from infancy to pursue the same objectives as the parents: in behavior, in material things, in the hard sell and soft.
 Parents prod children to grow up. To "do something." Yale child specialist Dr. Edward Zigler says children learn a great deal when they are doing nothing more than "chewing on a blade of grass," but such is often forbidden as parents rush their offspring to excellence before kindergarten.
 Books are published which teach kids to read at 10 months of age, machines are available to test I.Q. of toddlers; author Leshane writes of parents who complain, "What a day, I've spent hours planning Johnny's future."
 The result is usually nothing more than kids who are eight, sighing: "Thank God it's Friday." But increasingly, the result may be more damaging. Psychoanalyst James Thickett bluntly says that "in some respects, everyone has a wretched childhood."
 Other observers of family life believe the modern home's focus on educational and social achievement is a principle cause of youth alienation. "Why do children fail?" asks psychologist John Holt. "They fail because they are afraid... above all else, of failing."
 The failures have in recent years become a litter on the American landscape. Three million youngsters commit serious crimes annually, millions more do it undetected. At least 600,000 and more likely 1 million kids—the majority under 15—run away from home and wind up begging, bumming or getting into trouble on university campuses and city streets. Countless others bumble in school do combat with confused parents or simply grow up sad and frustrated wondering: "Is this all there is?"
 The statistics have led a concerned cadre of child advocates to call for reform in the home, or else.
 The 1970 White House Conference maintained that the beliefs of parents cannot infringe on the rights of children. It did not suggest what the child should do if such infringement is evident, but San Francisco psychologist Richard Farson does: Move out.

 Farson, an advocate of complete children's liberation says that "although a child cannot choose his parents in the genetic sense, he should be able to choose them in an environmental sense." He suggests multifamily communes, child exchange programs and children's residences. He believes unhappy kids should choose their own upbringing.
 The idea is not so preposterous. Multifamily communes are relatively common in America, Israel has kibbutz communities where children are raised by many parents, children's residences have been a fact of life for the neglected and unfortunate for centuries.
 Farson's new thought is "children's choice" which, critics gulp, if it came to pass "we'd have every kid in the nation trying somewhere else."

To be sure, the critics are hard on Farson's suggestion. "Would it not be quicker just to drop a nuclear bomb on every home in the country?" asks a New York Juvenile judge. "You couldn't destroy the family anymore completely." Despite agreement that the family is indeed in trouble, even in decadence, most child specialists believe strengthening it is the answer.
 "We've already weakened family life too much," says Urie Bronfenbrenner, of Cornell University. "The cocktail hour has replaced the children's hour in our homes. But letting kids run about free as they want, from door to door as it were, that's no solution."
 Bronfenbrenner's solution is an institutional as Farson's is radical. He believes the isolation of today's nuclear family, as compared with the socially adaptive extended family yore, is at the root of the problem.
 Without parents and grandparents about, mothers are lonely and unsupported, and fathers are under too much personal pressure; therefore "children today are relying much more on their peers than their parents."

 One solution, an ancient one: parents must redouble their efforts to create family compatibility. "Parents who cannot be at home when children are," says Bronfenbrenner sternly, "are not fit to be parents."
 Like Farson, Bronfenbrenner may be exceedingly adamant. Yet both agree the family needs help. So did Plato, of course, and more recently Dr. Spock, but today's problems are especially severe: two of five marriages end in divorce before five years; more than eight million of America's 54 million families are led by single parents; so common are the breakups, said the White House Conference report, that "a broken television set provokes more indignation and action than a broken family or child."
 The way out of the mess has confounded intellectuals, not to the child into the equation for the first time.

 Not as a free agent necessarily, but as one whose future efforts with marriage also is at stake, as one who may be part of the problem and therefore very likely a part of the solution.

'Prayer' Is Last Hope For Church

BEDFORD, England (AP) — The last hope of Bedfordshire County Council in their fight to save an old church is a "prayer" to the House of Lords.
 High Court judges in London allowed an appeal by ecclesiastical authorities who want to sell the 200-year-old Howard Congregational Church in Bedford. The church would be demolished and offices built on the site by a development company. But the judges allowed the council leave to appeal to the House of Lords against their ruling. The appeal is called a prayer. The threatened church was the meeting place of John Howard and his followers. Howard became famous as a reformer of the prisons.

Chimpanzee Uses Computer To Talk

ATLANTA (AP) — Scientists at the Yerkes Regional Primate Research Center in Atlanta claim they've taught a chimpanzee to communicate with them through a complex system involving a computer.
 The chimp has a vocabulary of some 75 words and is capable of making such basic requests as "please machine give piece of banana" and "please machine make window open."
 The researchers also say the chimp, named Lana, can ask questions and make simple comments on her surroundings.

Texas Prison Director Says He Made Decisions On Carrasco

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Texas Prison System Director W. J. Estelle has acknowledged it was his decision to place convict Fred Gomez Carrasco in a prison chapel job where Carrasco worked before he launched a fatal attempt to escape.

The San Antonio News because of Estelle's suspension of Carrasco's attempt to escape resulted in death for himself.

another convict and two women hostages they held for 11 days at the prison library early this month. "I have not seen the editorial but I am not surprised by it," Estelle said. "I am not disturbed by the (investigative) accounts from other agencies. It is not within my purview to supervise or criticize them. I work for a nine-member board. When my service ceases to meet their expectations they can do one of two things—change the locks or ask for my resignation. I'll be gentleman enough to provide them with it. But they have not asked for it." There have been several stories of how the four persons died in the prison yard, including reports from present and former inmates who said Carrasco and another convict, Rudy Dominguez, were shot to death by peace officers. Justice of the Peace J. W. Beyer ruled suicide in the deaths of Carrasco and Dominguez but no necessarily through self-inflicted wounds. He had qualified his ruling by saying their mere attempt to escape in the face of overwhelming disadvantages was in itself suicidal.

A Harris County medical examiner's report said their deaths were homicides. But Estelle said the most reliable findings will likely be made by the Walker County Grand Jury who, he said, "have all the resources at their beck and call."

Asked if he had any information to indicate Carrasco and Dominguez were slain by peace officers, Estelle said: "I can only say this much—when those officers were fired upon, after a call to surrender, they returned the fire. That's all I can say at this time."

Estelle said Carrasco's reputation was considered before the job assignment but "we determined in our judgment at that time it would be best to leave him in the main unit where he could be observable and still receive medical treatment." Carrasco was recovering from wounds suffered in a shootout with San Antonio police last summer, and required outpatient medical treatment. "We knew pretty much what we were looking at in Carrasco's case," he said.

Convicts Fear Backlash May Affect Prison Parole System

HOUSTON (AP) — Three inmates in the state prison here say they fear a backlash from prison officials on parole rates as an aftermath of the Fred Carrasco breakout attempt earlier this month.

"This is the thing we are most concerned about now," a convict said in an interview with the Houston Post. "That one man's example will be used on all of us and that the governor may clamp down."

mate said, "and that is the reason there was no unrest. You can really make a lot of noise in a cell. We could have made it really rough on the warden." "If he had grabbed officials I imagine there'd have been noise. When Willie Sutton broke out of prison in Pennsylvania, the other guys took the place apart to keep the officers busy with distractions."

One of the prisoners said officials told the inmates during the siege. "You all know we can't allow them to leave." "We didn't need to be told that," an inmate said. "If he (Carrasco) was such a bad, big time—well then he should have known—why even a fish knows you can't get out of the joint with hostages."

"He was taking the best way out as he saw it," the inmate said "but to me it was cowardly. He probably wouldn't have been in here as long as me because he had political contacts. I want to go home every day too..."

Benavides Mayor Saenz Found Guilty Of Perjury

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A third person has been convicted as a result of a federal grand jury investigation into alleged corruption in Duval County. A federal grand jury found Benavides Mayor Octavio Saenz guilty of perjury Thursday.

Following the verdicts, Saenz declined to comment to reporters but his attorney James Gillespie said, "It was an unexpected verdict." The attorney declined to say whether an appeal was anticipated.

The inmate was one of three interviewed by the Post. The Texas Department of Corrections declined to permit interviews with any prisoners who might have witnessed the Aug. 3 shootout.

Psychiatrist's Appeal Rejected

HOUSTON (AP) — An attorney for a Houston psychiatrist who refused to testify in court because he was not paid said he would return to the Texas Supreme Court today to seek the psychiatrist's release from jail.

Hearing Told Texas Needs More GPs, Rural Physicians

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Three Lubbock area doctors have told a Texas Legislature subcommittee that medical schools should give admission priority to rural students in an effort to encourage the formation of more rural physicians and general practitioners.

Dr. Brown said the state has enough doctors, but that there are not enough general practitioners and rural doctors. Dr. Johnson urged legislators to encourage medical school admissions committees to include at least two practicing rural doctors on the committee.

Treasure Hunter Assessed Term In Grand Larceny Plot Charge

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — A treasure diver who was shown on national television tossing what he claimed to be riches back into the sea has been assessed three years probation after pleading guilty to conspiracy to commit grand larceny.

Tom Gurr of Merritt Island drew the sentence Thursday from Circuit Judge Wallace Sample.

Defense lawyer David Horan told the court that Gurr is penniless and is receiving food stamps to help support his family.

Gurr was charged with trying to sell some artifacts he recovered from the remains of a Spanish treasure ship that went down off the Florida Keys in the 1700s.

Prosecutors said the artifacts rightfully belonged to the state. The artifacts, part of the haul Gurr claimed to be tossing overboard when filmed by a network news crew in January, were later found in a canal behind a Keys home where he was living at the time.

At the time, Gurr said he was throwing the treasure back into the sea because the state was too slow in giving him his share.

Under Florida law, all recovered treasure is turned over to the state for study. Up to 75 percent is eventually returned to the finder. The state keeps the rest.

Gurr entered his guilty plea on June 26 after prosecutors reduced an original charge of grand larceny to conspiracy to commit grand larceny.

The charge was reduced after Gurr voluntarily turned in other artifacts he recovered from the treasure site. The state said it would be impossible to place a money value on the items.

Daughter Of LA Mayor Assessed Fine, Probation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Thomas Bradley's daughter has been fined $140 and placed on probation for two years after pleading no contest to a charge of resisting arrest.

Officers said Phyllis Bradley, 29, was stopped by police on June 26 after making an illegal left turn. Police said Miss Bradley refused to accept a traffic ticket and struck officers who tried to arrest her.

She was sentenced Thursday in municipal court. She is due in court Sept. 10 on separate charges of marijuana possession and conspiracy to supply cocaine.

Odessa Grand Jury Wins Drug Inquiry Extension

ODESSA — Thirty-one indictments were returned here Thursday by the 181st District Court grand jury. In addition, it reported seven sealed indictments, three no-bills and passed one case.

The grand jury reported that it needed a 90-day extension to continue its narcotics probe which has been under way the last three months.

Judge R. L. McKim granted the extension.

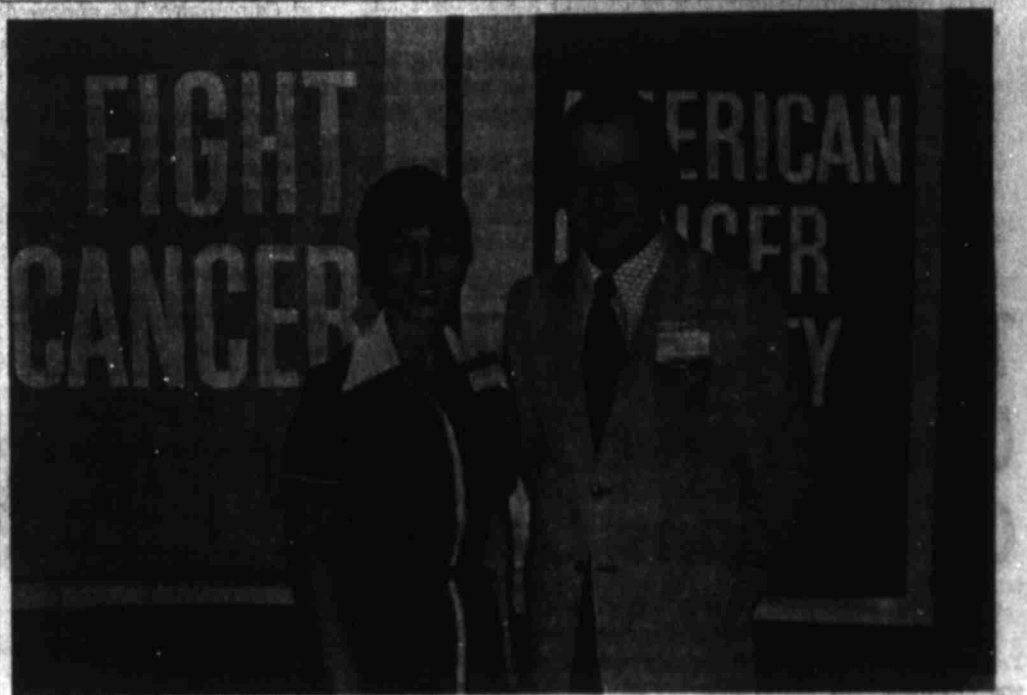

Those no-billed by the grand jury include David Moton of Odessa, James Willie Melton of Odessa and Leo Alois Morrow, address not listed.

Moton had been charged with murder in connection with the shooting death of Roberto Ortega Arenivas of Carlsbad, N.M., April 22.

Melton had been charged with aggravated assault in the stabbing of another Odessa man April 30.

Morrow had been charged with theft by bailer.

The indictments returned included two for possession of heroin, four for possession of marijuana, one for indecency with a child, eight for forgery, two for defrauding by worthless check, one for fraudulent use of a credit card, seven for theft, one for theft by check, four for burglary and one for carrying a prohibited weapon on premises licensed for sale of alcoholic beverages.

WERNER'S WORLD OF MUSIC — Werner Hirzel, 55, totes almost 150 pounds of musical sounds on his back as he makes his way along the midway at the Colorado State Fair at Pueblo. Hirzel retired four years ago as an electrician and took up the trade of being a one-man band. "So now I try to make people happy and make a better world. In fact, now I like this so much, I wouldn't give it up for all the money in the world." He has 51 gadgets in his symphony. (AP Wirephoto.)

Energy Woes Don't Bother 'Yesteryear Farmer'

ADAMS, N.D. (AP) — "Energy crisis? Ya-ya, I've heard about it," says Magnus Skytland, who professes to be happy even if other folks might think the world has passed him by.

Skytland, 71, lights a lamp in his kitchen and settles down near his wood-burning stove. The only energy problem threatening the wiry bachelor farmer is that "you can't hardly buy kerosene any more."

Skytland has never bothered with electricity and he prefers his four work horses to tractors. He says the 1932 Chevrolet in his garage is a fine car.

Inside the farm house, there's an old oilcloth on the kitchen table. Nearby is the daybed where Skytland sleeps. In an adjacent room, there's an old organ beside the treadle sewing machine his mother used.

The calendar on the wall says "March 1970."

"Here is where I was born, and here is where I've always lived," says Skytland. He cooks his meals on the same wood and coal range his mother used.

Each evening, he lights his kerosene and gas lamps and reads the weekly papers or farm journals. In the winter, when he tires of reading he plays his violin.

Skytland has owned two tractors in the past but he says they didn't do the work horses do. Last spring, Skytland's horses got into fields too wet for tractors. He says the crops on those low places are the best this August.

He says he never cared to drink, or to smoke or chew tobacco. But in the winter, Skytland burns tobacco on the stove. He says, "It kills the germs in the air and makes the house smell nice."

Skytland lives on his Social Security check of $123 a month and what he gets from renting his land.

"It ain't enough," he says, "but I make it."

Mexican Officials Say Kidnapers Silent

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — Officials maintained today that there has been no word from the kidnapers of President Luis Echeverria's 83-year-old father-in-law since he was seized at a busy Guadalajara street corner two days ago.

Troops and police continued the hunt for the old man, Jose Guadalupe Zuno Hernandez. Zuno's doctors said they feared for his life because he must have daily medication.

Persistent unofficial reports attributed the kidnaping to the leftist guerrillas of the People's Armed Revolutionary Front, who kidnaped U.S. Consul-General Terrance G. Leonhardt in Guadalajara 18 months ago.

But federal and state officials said they had nothing to confirm these reports, and sources close to the Zuno family said it had received no demands or notes from the kidnapers.

Atty. Gen. Pedro Ojeda Paulada reaffirmed the no-negotiations policy Echeverria adopted after freeing 30 political prisoners to ransom Leonhardt. "The people and the government do not make deals with criminals," said Ojeda.

Denver Schools Open Under Busing Court Order

DENVER (AP) — Denver schools open today under a federal court order requiring that one-fourth of the city's students be bused to achieve desegregation of schools.

School Supt. Louis J. Kisunas predicted attendance would be off by several thousand. But no demonstrations or other difficulties were expected.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that Denver's school system is sufficiently segregated by housing and social patterns to require the whole system be "dismantled root and branch" to achieve equal education for all as required by the Constitution.

Last April, U.S. District Court Judge William Doyle drew up a plan using busing to desegregate the schools, climaxing a dispute that began in 1968, when parents of Mexican-American children filed a petition alleging that the school system was racially segregated.

The Denver School Board had asked the Supreme Court to hold up implementation of the plan while an appeal is being considered by the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here. Justice Thurgood Marshall refused the stay without explanation or written ruling on Thursday.

Ford Rules Out Tax Increase This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for President Ford has ruled out any tax increase requests for this year but would not do the same for 1975.

Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst said it would be unrealistic to expect congressional action on taxes in the remaining weeks of Congress' 1974 session. "At this time, the President has no plans for asking for a tax increase," terHorst said.

But then he noted that Ford would be outlining his 1975 program in January. Asked if a tax increase to fight inflation would be part of Ford's requests then, terHorst said that is the "sort of issue a President always has before him."

Shortly after terHorst's remarks to newsmen, President Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers emerged from a half-hour session with Ford and had a good deal of praise for the new President.

But Woodcock said, "I would be opposed to a tax increase across the board."

Instead, Woodcock suggested tax cuts for lower and middle-rank taxpayers and increases in the upper brackets and for corporations.

Woodcock said Ford was approaching the situation with candor and expressed hope that Ford's Sept. 27-28 economic summit meeting would help educate the public on the dimensions of the problems.

Later, a White House spokesman said half a dozen preparatory meetings for the summit will be held at cities around the country.

terHorst's remarks on taxes came as he relayed a statement from Ford on the appointment of presidential economic counselor Kenneth Rush as chairman of the new eight-member Council on Wage and Price Stability.

The council is to monitor wage and price activities and use persuasion to discourage those which might be inflationary.

Ford also signed a $4.5 billion public works appropriation bill for the fiscal year that began July 1, but he did so with reluctance, noting that the total exceeded the budget by $80 million. Ford asked Congress to act under a new budget reform law to defer that amount of spending for a year.

Nickname 'Chinks' Draws Protesters

PEKIN, Ill. (AP) — Officials here were inscrutably polite to a Chinese-American organization protesting use of the official nickname "Chinks" for its high school athletic teams. But they weren't swayed by them.

"I'm referred to as a block-headed, bull-headed Kraut, and I'm proud of that myself," said Mayor William Waldmeier in a meeting on Thursday with several Chinese-Americans.

"I think in all honesty we have paid tribute to China, the mere fact that we are named after Peking," he said.

"You are named after Peking but you call the Chinese 'Chinks,'" replied Kung-Lee Wang, of Rockville, Md., president of the Organization of Chinese-Americans. "I'm very sure the Chinese don't take the word Chinks as an honor."

One common story has it that the city got its name when an early settler's wife stuck a pin in a globe map and it came out in Peking, China. The nickname "Chinks" has been applied to the city's high school athletic teams for decades.

The term drew protests in 1972 and 1973 from the Chinese Image Promotion Association of Columbus, Ohio. The issue was then taken up by the Organization of Chinese-Americans, which has recently bombarded elected officials, the media and city hall with letters.

Waldmeier told Wang he had no influence to get the community to agree to a change. City Atty. Alfred Black said the mayor and city council had no power to legislate a change.

Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands Pounded By Rains

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands were pounded by heavy rains today as a tropical depression moved through the eastern Caribbean.

The National Hurricane Center in Miami predicted some flooding and possible landslides on some islands.

The center said heavy rains would continue on Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands and would spread to Haiti and the Dominican Republic as the depression moves westward at about 25 miles an hour. Little change in speed or strength of the depression, which had maximum sustained winds of 25 to 35 m.p.h. were predicted.

If sustained winds reach 38 m.p.h., the depression will be designated as a tropical storm and would be named Carmen.

Small craft in the affected islands were warned to stay in ports.

Meanwhile, Becky, the season's first hurricane, roamed the open North Atlantic Ocean far from land.

Becky was centered about 400 miles north-northeast of Bermuda and was moving north-northeast at about 15 m.p.h. It packed maximum winds of about 100 m.p.h.

Forecasters have predicted a slight increase in strength and forward speed for Becky.

Let's get our oil off the shelf.

America uses more crude oil than it produces. Over one-third of the oil we use has to be imported.

The way things are going, this country's need for foreign crude will grow substantially over the next decade.

To help overcome America's shortage of indigenous energy and minimize our dependence on foreign sources, the nation must:

- step up efforts to find and produce more oil and gas at home
- take various energy conservation measures
- increase our reliance on coal and nuclear energy
- speed research into new energy sources

These are not options. We must do all of them. And we must act promptly.

The course likely to give us greatest relief during the next decade or so is to find more domestic oil and gas. America has the drive, expertise and—most important—the geological indications to do this successfully. Our search must go wherever the best geological clues lead.

They lead out to sea. Geologists say the best hunting ground now is the Outer Continental Shelf beyond our coasts.

The U.S. Geological Survey reports indications that substantial quantities of oil and gas may exist beneath the Georges Bank, some 30 to 120 miles off New England, and beneath the Baltimore Canyon Trough, 25 to 90 miles off the coast of the mid-Atlantic states.

We won't know for sure, of course, until we drill.

What of the pollution danger? In the U.S., in the past 25 years, nearly 19,000 wells have been drilled in the marine environment. Of these, four experienced accidents that posed serious pollution problems. None resulted in permanent damage to the environment.

Even if the Atlantic Shelf could be leased today, it would take at least three years in the exploration phase to locate oil or gas that may exist. Then another three to ten years to bring production to commercial levels, build platforms, and lay undersea pipelines to shore.

But drilling in the Atlantic can't begin. Not until the Bureau of Land Management and other government agencies complete complex procedures calling for nomination and selection of tracts, public hearings, evaluation of comments, and finally, the issuance of an environmental impact statement. After that, the Department of the Interior determines whether to take the next step—the sale of oil and gas leases.

And while America waits years for the red tape to unravel, other countries are taking action. The nations bordering the North Sea moved quickly to open their waters to oil and gas exploration. As a result, Britain is now largely self-sufficient in gas and may soon become so in oil. Norway is becoming an oil exporter. And the search goes on in the waters of 75 nations around the globe.

The need to find petroleum close to home and less susceptible to foreign control is urgent.

Oil and gas production in the United States is short.

So is time.

However, Pentagon sources

They suggested defense officials

Petroleum Prices May Have To Be Forced Up, Treasury Official Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prices that consumers pay for petroleum products may have to be forced up as part of Project Independence, a top Treasury Department official says.

Jack F. Bennett, under-secretary of monetary funds, said on Thursday that the government might have to act on prices as a move to cut demand and encourage development of alternative energy sources.

Bennett's statement to reporters came a day after President Ford urged that Project Independence, the government's energy development program, be accelerated.

Meanwhile, federal energy chief John C. Sawhill said there has been confusion over the intent of Project Independence.

"The goal of Project Independence is to put the country in a position where by 1980 we are not vulnerable to an embargo by a nation or politically aligned group of nations. That is, we want to be at the point where an oil embargo would not seriously hurt us domestically or have a significant impact on foreign policy."

"This is not to say that the United States will not be importing energy fuels," Sawhill added, saying he believes former President Richard M. Nixon's statements on this point have been misinterpreted.

The energy chief said Ford directed him to draw up a blueprint for Project Independence and submit it by early November and to prepare a message for Congress underlining the energy-related bills that must be passed this session.

Treaty Governing Use, Protection Of Oceans Urged

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — After three weeks of policy statements from the 148 nations represented and another seven weeks of discussions in three working committees, the conference failed to agree on a treaty provision covering any of the 100 agenda items.

Many of the 5,000 delegates and observers had already left Caracas and were looking ahead to the next conference in Geneva starting March 17. Many delegates indicated they hope to hold bilateral or regional meetings before then to try to resolve differences.

The most significant achievement of the conferences was an agreement in principle by all of the delegates that the limits of territorial waters should be extended from 3 to 12 miles and that an additional 188 miles should be an economic zone open to international navigation but with the adjacent coastal nation controlling the economic resources of the waters and the seabed.

NO STATE DEPARTMENT REPLY— Canada Requests Return Of U.S. Deserter Captured On Its Ground

OTTAWA (AP) — The Canadian government has received no reply from the U.S. State Department after requesting the return of a U.S. Army deserter captured by American customs agents on Canadian soil.

The Canadian Foreign Office delivered its request for the return of Ronald J. Anderson, 31, to the U.S. embassy on Thursday after the U.S. Customs Service admitted that its men went "a few yards" into Canada last Saturday to take Anderson into custody.

The customs men arrested the young man in Peace Arch International Park, on the border between the state of Washington and British Columbia, after he and his wife, Marion, drove across the border to visit his mother and his 11-year-old son by an earlier marriage in Poulso, Wash.

The Customs Service said Anderson broke away from his men and they crossed the border inadvertently to recapture him. A spokesman said the agents did not realize they had crossed the border until it was too late.

The customs men turned Anderson over to the Army, which is holding him at Ft. Lewis, Wash. A spokesman there said the Army was awaiting instructions from the State Department.

Anderson deserted from the Army in 1968 after it refused to classify him as a conscientious objector, according to his mother, Betty Peterson. She said he left the Army "because he

THROUGH JUNE 30— $850,000 Budget Request For Nixon Expenses Is Made

WASHINGTON (AP) — A budget request of $850,000, almost a quarter-million dollars more than provided for under law, is being made for former President Richard M. Nixon's pension and expenses through next June 30.

The budget request was developed by the General Services Administration after consultation with the former president. President Ford sent it to Congress on Thursday.

During his first six months out of office, Nixon is entitled to $450,000 in transition expenses, which is included in the request.

He also is entitled to $60,000 a year in pension, and the Former Presidents Act of 1968 provides $66,000 a year for staff salaries.

The transition period would end Feb. 9, 1975, at which time the law calls for Nixon to be eligible for about $150,000 in staff and pension funds through the end of the fiscal year.

But the request made on Thursday calls for funds of $400,000 to be provided for the period Feb. 9-June 30, 1975.

Not included in this would be the cost of Secret Service protection for Nixon or the value of the buildings at the former Western White House that he is using as an office.

Meanwhile, Nixon personally received a pair of subpoenas delivered by Deputy U.S. Marshal John Wetmore to his San Clemente, Calif. home.

One calls for the former president to testify at the Watergate cover-up trial of his closest former aides. The second seeks a written statement in a suit filed in Charlotte, N.C., claiming that White House aides and local officials illegally prevented the complainant from attending a 1971 rally in honor of the Rev. Billy Graham at which Nixon spoke.

Rotarians Hear Theatre Official Explain Program

Children's theater in America is very important, just as important as adult theater, members of the Midland Downtown Rotary Club were told Thursday noon at their meeting in the American Legion Hall.

The speaker was Tom Mikotowicz, assistant director of Midland Community Theatre, Inc., who is in charge of its theater school and youth productions. He was introduced by Rotarian Jack Daniels.

Mikotowicz described what goes on in his area of jurisdiction at MCT, and stated his philosophy — action — in working with youths.

He explained teaching techniques used in the theater school, designed primarily to bring out the creativity in youths, and in getting them to use their imagination. He cited specific results of the program, stating that theater training and discipline helps many students in various ways.

Real learning for the youths comes through the use of imagination in working with others in special imaginary situations created for them, the speaker said.

The theater school's fall semester begins Sept. 9, he said. Mikotowicz also discussed the Pickwick Players program, in which plays are produced each year. The season's first audition is scheduled at 1 p.m., Sept. 7, at MCT, he said.

Judge To Rule Next Week On Jacobsen's Plea-Bargaining Deal

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge Robert M. Hill said Thursday he will rule next week on a plea-bargaining deal between Austin lawyer Jake Jacobsen and federal prosecutors.

Jacobsen pleaded guilty to federal charges of bribery in the milk fund scandal case involving former Gov. John Connally.

In exchange for his testimony, Texas charges involving misapplication of funds of a San Angelo savings and loan firm were dropped.

Hill said he will sentence Jacobsen's partner, Ray Cowan, in about 30 days after he receives a probation officer's report. Cowan pleaded guilty to the charges before Hill Thursday.

The Texas indictment charged that Jacobsen and Cowan misapplied $825,000 in funds belonging to a San Angelo company.

U.S. Atty. Frank McCown filed a special memorandum from the Justice Department to justify the approval of the plea-bargain made in Washington May 21, 1974.

McCown told Hill that he had been directed to dismiss the Texas charges against Jacobsen as part of the deal with the Austin lawyer.

Jacobsen agreed to testify against Connally in the government's case accusing the former governor of taking a bribe from Texas-based Associated Milk Producers, Inc. Jacobsen was a lobbyist for AMPI at the time.

Army Private Gets Six Months For Copter Flight

FORT MEADE, Md. (AP) — A young Army private is beginning a six-month term at hard labor as punishment for landing a stolen helicopter on the White House lawn.

Twenty-year-old Robert K. Preston was sentenced by a military jury on Thursday after a three-day trial in which he pleaded guilty to charges stemming from his Feb. 17 aerial escapade.

Preston called it a strange sentence but added, "It's easy to live with six months." He promised his mother, "I ain't going to fuss and fight no more."

Preston's defense attorney, Capt. Herbert Moulter, said, "We're very disappointed" and announced that he planned to appeal the sentence.

The eight-man military panel sentenced Preston to one year at hard labor, but military judge Col. Kenneth A. Howard ruled that six months of pre-trial confinement in a maximum security facility must be subtracted from the sentence.

The jury of four officers and four enlisted men also ordered Preston to pay a $2,400 fine by forfeiting $500 a month in salary for one year.

Preston was liable for a maximum sentence of 2½ years at hard labor and a dishonorable discharge, but jury foreman Lt. Col. Paul Makowski said the panel had voted against expelling Preston from the Army in order to avoid putting another "blemish" on his record.

"The boy does have potential. We felt it might inhibit his rehabilitation," Makowski said.

Preston admitted stealing the helicopter from the Ft. Meade airfield, buzzing both the Washington Monument and the U.S. Capitol and twice landing on the South Lawn of the White House.

"I meant no harm," Preston told the jury, explaining that he only "wanted to get attention to the problems I had."

Home For Unwed Mothers Doing Booming Business

By GERALD J. TAYLOR
WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — In an era when legal abortions and birth control pills are making homes for unwed mothers as outdated as necking in the back seat, there is just such a home here that is doing a booming business.

St. Theresa Hospital's program began a year ago, the idea of Sister Maryann Regensburger, a nun concerned with the Supreme Court's 1973 ruling permitting abortion. Many other homes for unwed mothers were closing because of the decision. Charity is rarely needed.

"We've had married women, divorced women, professional and unskilled participants," Sister Maryann says. "We had two who were on abortion tables in other hospitals when they decided to come here. They've come from all over the country."

Participants are placed in jobs at the hospital — usually nonphysical positions such as medical librarian, receptionist or microfilm technician — and paid what regular employees receive.

Paycheck deductions are made for medical care and rooming costs.

The women live on the hospital grounds in a building which housed its now defunct nursing school. One of the 10 staff obstetricians is assigned to each woman and remains her private physician until she delivers her baby.

Psychologists, psychiatrists and social service agency personnel are available. So are courses in sewing, homemaking and arts and crafts.

"The program seems to be accomplishing our two main goals — saving the babies from abortion and sending the mothers back to society with different outlooks toward the future," she says.

The program is named St. Therese Alternative Finds Friendly Employment — Residence. Fifty-four women — the maximum possible — now are participating and about 55 percent of the 67 children born have been put up for adoption through unrelated agencies.

Aerialist Pays Debt To Society — On Tightrope

NEW YORK (AP) — Compulsive Parisian aerialist Philippe Petit has paid his debt to society. He served his sentence on a tightrope before a delighted Central Park jury of 10,000.

The Frenchman's crime was a breathtaking gambol on Aug. 7 between the 1,500-foot towers of the World Trade Center here. The court, however, agreed to drop charges if he dared to perform in the park.

So, on Thursday night, to the oomph band strains of "The Daring Young Man on the Flying Trapeze," Petit did his thing — legally — on a 600-foot cable suspended 80 feet above Central Park's Bevedere Lake.

He somersaulted. He balanced. He almost slipped. The crowd gasped, oohed and aahed.

The cable rose to a turret of the rugged stone Bevedere Castle. Before the performance, Petit had promised "a fantastic show — like a fairy tale as I climb to the castle."

Clad in a silvery suit and white ballet slippers, he grasped a 35-foot pole for balance as he made his way up and down the cable that was, at one point, at a 45 degree angle.

The excited, shoulder-to-shoulder crowd, sweltering in the muggy Manhattan night, alternately grinned in delight and shut eyes and groaned during the 40-minute performance.

"I lose my breath when he does his stunts," said Debbie Ziole, 22, of Brooklyn. "I am so afraid he just might come down."

Shell Hunters Crowd Hawaiian Beaches

HONOLULU (AP) — A booming trade in jewelry made from common seashells has brought beachcombers armed with shovels, kitchen strainers, and makeshift winnow screens to seek miniature treasures on hitherto tranquil Hawaiian beaches.

Their quarry is the Puka shell, the disc end of tiny cone-shaped seashells. The shells are made into necklaces, bracelets, earrings and handbags, but are used most often for single-strand choker necklaces for both men and women that are the rage of the islands.

The necklaces are sold at roadside stands where the going price for chokers is from $18 to $25. Stores in the Honolulu area are charging between $35 and $50.

The seashell ends that make up the necklaces are eroded from the rest of the shell by sand and coral. They have a tiny hole in the middle, which give the shell its name — puka is the Hawaiian word for hole.

About 150 shells are needed for a 15-inch choker.

The shells are found in greatest abundance at beaches on Oahu's north shore and upper leeward coast. Beachcombers sift through sand, coral, driftglass and other shells to find the tiny Puka shells.

"Nobody swims anymore," said one woman as she examined a mound of sediment her young sons had carried up on the beach.

"We got here at 5 a.m. and there were already others here," said another puka-hunter on a recent morning. "Weekends are worst, but there are big crowds even on weekdays." The scramble for the shells led to a brawl recently when one family encroached on an area staked out by another family.

Swimmers and sunbathers grumble that they have no place to lie and worry about sands littered with piles of discarded shells, coral and glass.

Some enterprising youngsters gather shells and sell them. A pound-sized coffee can of Puka shells will bring $10.

Mexican Families Can Do Nothing But Just Wait For Desalting Plant

MEXICALI, Mexico (AP) — The Mexicali Valley is a hot, dusty place where only snakes and other desert creatures can survive without water brought in by canal from the Colorado River.

It takes a hardy person to withstand the frequent 130-degree temperatures, swirling dust and winds coming off the Sonora Desert that kick up stinging sand and leave lips dry and cracked.

Juan Virreal, 44, is one of perhaps 200,000 peasants living in the triangular-shaped valley whose base hugs the California border and whose apex to the south touches the Gulf of California.

Virreal leaned against a tree, closed his eyes against the dazzling brightness of the sun and wondered if he could wait three or four more years for the wonderful fruit of diplomacy to blossom.

The United States has agreed to build a $67-million desalting plant in Arizona to prevent U.S. salt contamination of the Colorado River from further injuring Mexicali Valley fields and pastures. The plant will not be finished at least until 1980. The United States, in the meantime, is sending low salinity water to the Mexicali Valley from U.S. water storage areas.

But Mexican authorities say it will be at least three or four years before good water will be able to cleanse the valley of the salt, which is visible up to six inches deep in the earth. "Three or four years is a long time to wait when your belly is rumbling from hunger and you're having to borrow money from the bank just to buy the family some beans," Virreal said.

"What can we do but wait. Sometimes the families here eat only one meal a day. We were not poor before the salt came. We ate three good meals a day. Now the children sometimes cry because there is not enough to eat."

"If it were not for the government banks we would be finished. They at least loan us money for seeds and to buy beans and tortillas to keep us alive."

Virreal, like most of the other farmers in the Mexicali Valley, lives on a government-awarded collective farm, called an ejido, on which each family uses up to 44 acres.

Government officials and businessmen say the Mexicali Valley's farmers once did well by Mexican standards.

"It wasn't unusual for a family to make more than $8,000 a year and to buy a new car every four or five years," said one official. "Many of them would have refrigerators and televisions, but now they owe a lot of money to the banks and can't even get money to put a new roof on the house."

Government officials say that insects and poor prices for crops have also meant economic hardship to the valley's farmers.

The salt problem began in 1981 when crops started falling as before.

Government chemists were called in to test the soil. They found a high concentration of salt.

Bargain Stocks: It Depends On View Of Future

By JOHN CUNNEIFF NEW YORK (AP) — It's all in how you look at it.

A portfolio manager and stock market adviser, John Wright of Bridgeport, Conn., has compiled a list of 1,550 leading American publicly owned common stocks that are available at 20 per cent of their market values of five years ago.

Does this mean there are bargains in stocks? It depends upon your assessment of the future.

If you believe the capitalist system is irrevocably disintegrating before your eyes, says Wright, there would really be nothing left in which to invest.

But if you interpret the low prices as a symptom of "an emerging new era of international regulation of money and credit," a period of stability, that is, then you might decide the risks are worth the rewards.

"In which case," says Wright, "there is no time like the present to buy, not sell, the common stocks of blue-chip industrial corporations."

How does Wright personally view the situation? Although he feels a major financial crisis of European origin might possibly severely affect American security markets within the next few weeks, he advises investors to retain investment grade common stocks.

Consumers also have learned that the point of view you take might determine your mood, and vice versa.

Some consumers might exult in learning that the dollar amount of disposable income has been growing this year. In fact, from the first quarter of 1973 through June of this year it has risen at an annual rate of 9 per cent.

But now you have to relate that increase to something else — to prices. Prices also have been rising, of course, and at a faster clip than dollar income. That 9 per cent increase now becomes a 1.5 per cent decline.

The situation becomes clearer when you realize that the measuring stick used, the dollar, doesn't have a constant value. It is true that Americans are earning more dollars, but those dollars are worth less than 1973 dollars.

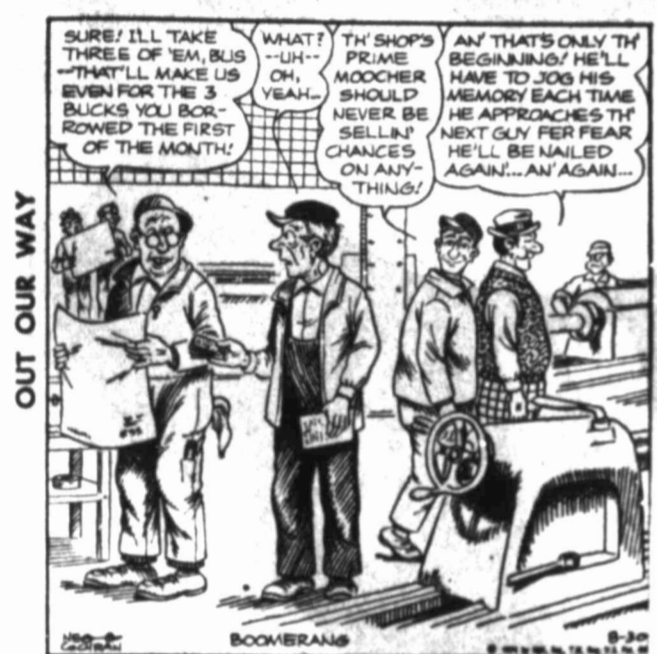

Homeowners also have learned to view their personal financial position from two perspectives.

By one measure, the rising market prices of homes, those who already own homes have a solid investment, or at least a hedge against inflation. The house they bought in 1970 for $30,000 might be worth $40,000 on the market today.

On paper it all looks nice, but how do you turn the paper into profit if there isn't a market. In many communities houses are advertised at steadily higher prices — without any homes being sold in months.

The unavailability of mortgage money has so dampened the housing market that a good many of those so-called market prices aren't anything of the sort. If there's no market there's no accurate market price.

Ford Planning Meetings With European Leaders

By DECK BARNES

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is planning personal meetings with European leaders and looks forward to "a productive and cooperative relationship" despite an edgy exchange with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

Ford's views on European relationships were reflected in a deliberately worded White House statement issued on Thursday, two days after Giscard criticized the President for not mentioning Europe in a major congressional speech.

Both presidents are new in the job and must deal with Franco-American relations that have been frequently bumpy in recent years.

But Ford also obviously sought to reassure Europe that it remains high in the American mind. And the statement pointed out steps he took in his first days as President to communicate with the Europeans, although they weren't mentioned in his Aug. 12 address to Congress.

The note of sharpness came at the end of the brief statement read to newsmen at a late afternoon White House briefing. It concluded:

"The President looks forward to a productive and cooperative relationship with France and our other friends in Europe as well as with the existing emerging institutions of the European community, but this requires reciprocity on the part of our partners."

Giscard said Tuesday night on French television that Ford's omission of Europe in his speech to Congress was an indication to him that Europe should look after its own affairs. He called for a European summit meeting in late November or early December.

The White House statement said Ford "is planning personal meetings with allied leaders as soon as it is mutually convenient."

At about the same time the overture to European allies was being issued, senior State Department officials reported that the United States and East Germany would establish formal diplomatic relations, probably by next week.

These officials said an announcement is expected Friday that an East German delegation will arrive here next week to complete work on documents to be exchanged.

Ford Tells Graduates He Wants To Help Them Get Jobs That Make Sense As Well As Money

By FRANK CORMIER
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — President Ford told members of an Ohio State University graduating class today that his administration wants to help them "get a job that makes sense as well as money."

In an address prepared for summer commencement exercises, Ford contended that too many college graduates and employers together in a new climate of credibility —

He also said he has asked secretaries of labor and health, education and welfare to report to him on "new ways to bring the world of work and the institutions of education closer together."

Ford said "skills and intellect must harmonize so that the wheels of industry not only hum but sing."

Ford said he will ask Congress next year to extend hiring laws dealing with both vocational and higher education.

"Both are essential," he said, "because we need new jobs and new skills."

His speech was televised nationally by the Public Broadcasting Service.

Speaking of the major economic problems facing his audience and the rest of the country, The President said: "We must make extraordinary efforts to supply our know-how, our capital, our technology and our human resources to increase productivity at a faster pace. Inflation is creating a national state of anxiety. Productivity must improve if we are to have a less inflationary economy. In the long run, it is the only way we can raise wages without inflationary price increases."

President Reaffirms Position Against Grain Exports Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has reaffirmed his opposition to limiting grain exports, even as the Agriculture Department was reporting a surge in corn buying by the Common Market nations.

"The President reaffirmed his previous position that he saw no need for export controls," Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said on Thursday after a meeting with Ford.

Meanwhile, an Agriculture Department spokesman reported that the nine-member Common Market has ordered nearly 368.5 million bushels of corn for larger cutbacks were planned in imported feed grain.

Oct. 1. A week ago, the total for the present year was only 204.8 million bushels.

However, a department spokesman termed the increase in corn buying merely speculative and predicted that much of it would not be shipped.

On Wednesday, Petrus Lardinois, the Common Market's agriculture commissioner, said the community's feed grain needs would be down 10 per cent in the year ahead and reported from the United States. Last week, Japan also indicated it would make a 10 per cent cutback in U.S. feed grain needs.

College Football Pins Hopes On Player Limit

Pro football is embroiled in an internal turmoil that matches glibulous owners against greedy players in a squabble over how to divide the spoils while concern grips college football over the division of talent.

The mercenaries' tug-of-war rages over the fat gates and lucrative TV money while the colleges fret over the division of talent.

In the college ranks, there has been a distressing tendency toward polarization since the abandoning of the one-plateau system in favor of free-substitution football, which is great for spectators, makes coaching so much more simple, but, nevertheless, devours the budget.

And it has hurt both sides. The schools that wound up with a surplus of talent as well as those struggling to keep the game alive. Ohio State, which draws $6,000-plus per game at home, can't make ends meet under the current setup, so you can imagine the plight of Minnesota, Indiana or Northwestern.

With the enormous squads required for plateau football, the bigger schools have sucked up all the talent like a non-discriminating vacuum cleaner. And it has hurt the Baylors, Purdue and Oregon of the football world along with the Michigans and Texas, ruining what once were attractive rivalries such as Texas-TCU.

The Southwest Conference, once one of the most envied conferences in the country because of its tendencies toward fratricide, now has become a one, maybe two, team league. It's the same around the other conferences. . . Michigan and Ohio State in the Big Ten, USC and UCLA on the Coast, Arizona State in the WAC, Alabama and either LSU or Tennessee in the SEC.

Battle Scene

By Ted Battles

one-plateau football, appears to be the recently adopted 30-player limit recruiting rule. It is hoped this will redistribute the talent and foster better intra-conference competition which would spell better games. The effects of the rule won't be apparent this year, but if it is to do its job, it will be evident in the next three years.

The frowns caused by a recent study in the Big Eight indicates that the SMUs, TCUs, Baylors and Rice may take heart. Perhaps they will be saved before it's too late, after all.

According to the Big Eight study, chances are Oklahoma would not have recruited quarterback Steve Davis, Oklahoma State would be without stellar fullback George Palmer, and New Jersey-born Rich Glover might have started at Rutgers instead of Nebraska and Lucius Selmon wasn't among OU's top priority picks.

All four were among the 30-to-45 group recruited by their schools and in all probability would have wound up at another college under the 30-a-year limitation.

Of course, the reaction is different. At Oklahoma, Coach Barry Switzer gloomily predicts, "The conference as we know it today is not what it will be in the future."

From poverty-stricken Kansas State, Coach Vince Gibson, feels, "We can live with the 30-per-year rule because everyone else has to."

John Curtis, the St. Louis Cardinals' 26-year-old left-hander, came within one pitch of the third no-batter this year and the first in the National League.

But that one pitch rocketed off the bat of San Diego's Fred Knefler in the eighth inning and wrecked not only the no-batter but the shutout as well.

Fortunately, Jim Dwyer and Mike Tyson got a couple of hits when they really counted and gave Curtis an 8-12 record and the Cards a 3-1 victory over the Padres Thursday night.

In the ninth, Bake McBride, Ken Reitz, Dwyer and Tyson hit successive two-out singles to move the Cards within half a game of first-place Pittsburgh in the National League East.

In other National League games, Los Angeles beat Chicago 3-1, New York whipped Houston 7-0, San Francisco nipped Pittsburgh 3-2 in 11 innings and Atlanta downed Montreal 7-2. In the American League, Boston beat Chicago 3-2 and Baltimore defeated Texas 6-2.

Dodgers 2, Cubs 1
Anky Messersmith and Mike Marshall combined to three-hit the Cubs and give the Dodgers their fifth straight victory to widen their lead in the National League West to 3½ games over Cincinnati.

Messersmith held Chicago hitless until rookie Pete LaCock led off the seventh inning with his first major league homer.

Mets 7, Astros 6
The Mets snapped Dave Roberts' 26-inning scoreless streak in the first inning when Bud Harrelson doubled and came around on Felix Millan's bunt single and a sacrifice fly by Ted Martinez. They added three more runs in the third, then scored their final three in the sixth off reliever Jim York.

Giants 3, Pirates 2
Dave Kingman drove in two San Francisco runs with a fourth-inning homer and an 11th-inning single that beat the Pirates.

Gary Matthews opened the 11th with an infield single and was bunted to second. Dave Gusti then walked. Chris Speier intentionally before Kingman singled to left. Willie Stargell sent the game into extra innings with his 21st homer, a ninth-inning shot.

Braves 7, Expos 2
Mike Lum's ninth homer gave Atlanta a 1-0 lead, the Expos tied the score in the bottom of the second, then Ralph Garr hit his 10th after Steve Rogers hit Vic Ozell with a pitch and Larry Linz dropped Rogers' throw at second on an attempted bunt play.

Red Sox 3, White Sox 2
Willbur Wood's record slipped to 19-16 after Rick Burleson drove in two of Boston's runs in the victory over Chicago that widened the Red Sox' American League East lead to five games over the New York Yankees.

Orioles 6, Rangers 2
Tommy Davis keyed Baltimore's victory over the Rangers with a three-run single in the fourth inning. After Texas scored a run in the bottom of the fourth, Brooks Robinson led off the fifth with his seventh homer.

Baltimore 4, Texas 2
Bobby Ayala pitched for Baltimore in the victory over Texas. He struck out three batters in the seventh and eighth innings and gave up only one run in the ninth.

Phillies 6, Cardinals 4
The Phillies' four-run eighth inning broke the Cardinals' lead in the National League Central. The Phillies' lead was extended in the ninth when Dave Stieb hit a sacrifice fly to drive in a run.

Pirates 5, Cubs 3
The Pirates' lead in the National League East was extended to 1½ games over the Cubs. The Pirates scored four runs in the eighth and three in the ninth.

Reds 5, Braves 4
The Reds' lead in the National League West was extended to 4½ games over the Braves. The Reds scored four runs in the eighth and one in the ninth.

Padres 5, Athletics 4
The Padres' lead in the National League West was extended to 1½ games over the Athletics. The Padres scored four runs in the eighth and one in the ninth.

Mariners 5, Angels 4
The Mariners' lead in the American League West was extended to 1½ games over the Angels. The Mariners scored four runs in the eighth and one in the ninth.

Moses Malone Turns Professional

By BERT ROSENTHAL

NEW YORK (AP) — First, there was the George Milken era of pro basketball. Then came the period beginning with Bill Russell and Walt Chamberlain. They were followed by Lew Alcindor, now known as Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Now it's Bill Walton — and possibly Moses Malone. The big difference between Malone and the other dominant centers is that they attended college before turning pro and he did not.

But the rare leap from high school in Petersburg, Va., last season to the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association this year does not make the soft-spoken, confident 6-foot-11 potential pro superstar.

"I think I can make the team," he said in classic understatement Thursday at a gala news conference officially announcing his signing of a contract estimated at more than $3 million.

"I plan to work hard," continued the ambidextrous youngster. "I am not a selfish player."

Snead Grabs TPC Lead

By TOM SALADINO

ATLANTA (AP) — J.C. Snead, a former minor league baseball player and nephew of golfing great Sam Snead, fashioned a course-tying 64 Thursday to take a one-stroke lead in the rain-splattered first round of the $250,000 Tournament Players Championship, but he refused to let it get to him.

"I try not to get excited," said the 32-year-old veteran who hasn't won on the tour in over two years.

He belted out 10 birdies during his round, including five straight and seven on his first nine holes. He also had a pair of bogeys as he took his slim lead over obscure second-year pro Tom Evans, who had a 65 in the opening round which was marred by three thunderstorm delays. The weather caused play to be suspended for two hours, 35 minutes.

The 45 players who did not finish their rounds will conclude their opening play today before the second round begins in this initial TPC tournament, which is worth $50,000 to the winner in addition to a 10-year tour exemption and an invitation to the U.S. Open. The players are dedicated to making this event a fifth major journey, joining the Masters, U.S. Open, PGA and British Open.

Two strokes behind Snead over the par 72, 6,883-yard Atlanta Country Club course are Jack Nicklaus and journeyman Bobby Mitchell. Both had 66. Alone at 67 was Homero Blancas, while at 68 were Rod Purnell, Roy Pace, Larry Hinson, Gibby Gilbert, Bob E. Smith, and Tim Collins.

Evans, 25, from Dallas, is a winner of only $7,000 in his two years on the tour. He was a last-minute addition to the field of 144, getting in when Bobby Cole withdrew with a back injury Wednesday.

Leading money-winner Johnny Miller had a 70 while Masters and British Open champion Gary Player had a 73, as did Arnold Palmer. PGA champ Lee Trevino will complete his round today, as will U.S. Open winner Hale Irwin.

ATLANTA (AP) — Here are the top 10 players in the $250,000 Tournament Players Championship over the 72, 6,883-yard Atlanta Country Club course. Officials released only 36 scores due to the rain delays. The complete list will be furnished Friday after the second round of play:

Andrews Shrouded In Mystery

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
R-T Sports Writer

ANDREWS — With virtually every pre-season grid poll relegating the 1974 grid season as the year of Loboos and Eagles in District 2-AAA, the final outcome of the Andrews Mustangs is shrouded in mystery.

Coch Tommy Watkins, heading into his third year at the Andrews helm, says that Pecos and Monahans should be favored to battle it out for the district crown, but the remaining five teams should be about even in overall talent.

"We will be better than last season," Watkins predicts. "We will be quicker and have better running backs than last year."

The Mustangs do figure to be better than last year when Andrews posted a meager 3-7 record, but the main problem again will be in the experience department.

Andrews returns only three offensive and three defensive starters from last year's crew and only 30 players are listed on the varsity, a small number for a AAA school.

Watkins will go with Jamie Mosley (160, Sr.) to run his new Slot-T formation, which replaces the I that Watkins has run the past two seasons. Mosley is listed as a leader and a good thrower.

The rest of the backfield slots still remain in the undecided category, but there are some heated races for positions which could help the team overall. Brian Arnold (168, Sr.), a starter at fullback last year, is being pushed for the slot by Owen Randolph (180, Jr.) while returning tailback Steve Duffy (165, Sr.) is in a battle with James Brooks (162, Sr.), Phil Collins (155, Sr.) and Chuck Wilson (172, Jr.) are competing for the wingback position.

The offensive line, however, appears to be set and is listed by Watkins as the main strength of the Andrews team. Strong tackle John Allbright (220, Sr.) is the only returning starter, but there is size and strength elsewhere. Quick tackle Gerald Galloway (232, Jr.) adds good size and guards Gary Rawls (180, Sr.) and Manny Gonzales (173, Jr.) should be strong.

David Vickers (160, Sr.) will be the center while Mike Parker (145, Jr.) will man the split end slot. David Murphy (175, Sr.) will be the tight end.

The defense will be headed by returning stalwarts end Murphy, tackle Galloway and linebacker Ralls. Albright will play a tackle while Randolph will be at the nose guard slot.

Duffy will be one corner back along with Joe Vara (150, Jr.) while Tommy Bales (175, Sr.) will join Ralls at the other linebacking position. Murphy will be joined by Eddie Guelker (170, Sr.) at the end post while Collins will be the safety. Wilson or Arnold will hold down the key rover slot.

The Mustangs will be tested early in the season with the first two dates against AAAA powers Big Spring and Odessa High. This should give a better indication of just how strong or weak the Mustangs will be in 1974.

If the Mustangs can cruise with good showings early in the year, their hopes in district play may take a big leap. The District 2-AAA slate favors the Mustangs if they prove to be a strong unit. Andrews faces both loop favorites, Pecos and Monahans, on the home field.

It could possibly make a big difference in the final 2-AAA standings.

PREDICTION: The 2-AAA choice here will be no different than all the rest. Pecos and Monahans at the top and Seminole to win the battle for third. Andrews fourth in 2-AAA.

IN HARD-HITTING SCRIMMAGE

Rebels Whip Coronado

By BOB DILLON,
R-T Sports Writer

LAMESA — Coach Jim Acree's Midland Lee Rebels and the Lubbock Coronado Mustangs hooked up in a spirited, hard-hitting football scrimmage Thursday evening with the Tall City team outscoring the South Plains team, 3-1.

An early afternoon rain shower made the playing surface on the Lamesa High School stadium too wet, so both the junior varsity and varsity teams met on the Golden Tornado practice field.

Midland Lee's JV scored five times to shut out the Coronado JV in a two-hour session to get things underway and the younger Rebels impressed with their showing.

In the varsity competition, both Lee and Coronado laced their shoes on tightly and went after each other as if it were in loop warfare.

Lee was given the ball first and the Rebels moved down the field post haste with tailback Blain Murray doing most of the ball carrying. Murray broke for 11 yards on his first carry and added consecutive gains of eight and six yards before quarterback Greg Rendall broke for 22 yards, but the long drive died and the ball was moved back to the Coronado's own 20 where the Mustangs put the ball into play. On the very first play from scrimmage, quarterback Kenny Blackwell, a 175-pound senior, injured his knee much to Coach Jimmie Keeling's dismay, but he came back in later to engineer the Coronado attack.

Wingback Randy Clabaugh, speedy 150-pounder, broke on a 33-yard scamper with Terry Nelson catching him from behind and the Lee defense led by Steve Degenfelder, Keith Bishop, Buster Mathis, Roger Linton and Gary Bowman, halted the Ponies.

Milton Jones, 215-pound senior tailback, then joined the second unit and broke for 16 yards and fullback Brian Webb added four more before Jones broke on a 22-yard touchdown scamper to give Lee its first score. On the run, Lance Posey threw a key downfield block for Jones.

On another possession, Lee, on the bull-like rushes of Jones and Webb, scored with Webb reaching the final 11 yards for the TD.

Lee was turned away from another tally after Bobby Humble picked up eight, Murray six and 36 yards, and Rendall broke on an 11-yard run before the drive fizzled.

Larry Anders, fine 173-pound running back for the Mustangs, then got the Hub City eleven's only score of the afternoon, but it was a beauty as he broke for a 60-yard TD run, breaking one tackle along the way, slowing down long enough to enable a defender to miss him, and then he poured on the coal to race into the end zone to make it 2-1 in favor of Lee.

Wanting to get some of his younger, more experienced players into action, Acree asked Keeling if he wanted to insert his third string, but there came a strong "No," so the Rebels cranked up and drove again for another score on the Mustang breaking on a beautiful 33-yard TD scamper.

Acree seemed pretty well pleased with his Rebels performance. "At least we know what we can do against some outside competition," said Acree at the end of the scrimmage. Acree showed concern about his team's passing game which was practically nothing at times and the defense on inside running plays and slant-in passes over the middle. Blackwell only hit tight end Rocky Williams, a 220-pounder, once during the drills, however, and this has to please Acree, who is getting his team ready for the season opener in Memorial Stadium next Friday against the Lubbock Westerners.

Coronado is the pick in District 4-A by the experts, but Keeling feels there needs to be lots of improvement, especially after the way Lee moved the ball on offense.

SUMMARY: Lee is definitely improved over last year's 3-7 team with lots of backfield depth and more overall line depth. Acree was pleased with the play of Junior Miller, 6-5, 205-pound junior, who is out for high school football for the first time. "He can make us a player," because he wants to play," commented Acree. Miller, called "Too Tall" by his teammates, leaped up and slapped down one pass into the quarterback's face during the leather-popping session. The Rebels did impress, but more will be known after three non-loop games with Lubbock, Snyder and Plainview. Then comes the tough District 5-AA grid which is lovingly called the Little Southwest Conference across the state. "We will know a lot more today after viewing the films so we can grade some individuals," said Acree.

Birmingham Trips Chicago Fire, 22-8

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Except for getting "a little greedy" near the end of the first half, Jack Gotta thought his Birmingham Americans played a near-perfect game Thursday night when they turned back the Chicago Fire 22-8 in a pivotal World Football League game.

"There's no doubt that this was a big game for us," said Gotta. "It was against a team in our division and in their own backyard."

The victory enabled the undefeated Americans, who boosted their record to 8-0, to open a two-game gap over the Fire which had to settle back to a tie for second with Memphis at 6-2.

"It might have been our best defensive effort of the season," said Gotta. "We played a good team and might have shut them out if we hadn't gotten a little greedy."

The Americans got "a little greedy" near the end of the first half. They were leading 14-0 on a two-yard touchdown run by Jim Edwards and a 19-yard touchdown pass from George Mira to Paul Robinson.

With less than a minute to go in the first half, Matthew Reed went in to throw a bomb only to have Harry Howard intercept.

Fire quarterback Virgil Carter went into action and completed three straight passes for 65 yards in 27 seconds capped by a 28-yard scoring aerial to Jim Scott. Carter then hit Jack Dolbin with the action point to cut Birmingham's lead to 14-8 and put the Fire back into the game before a hopeful home crowd of 44,732.

Still, the Americans never panicked and after a scoreless third quarter, they marched 66 yards in nine plays late in the game to clinch it on a three-yard run by Art Cantrelle.

Cantrelle, out of Louisiana State and formerly of the Canadian League, set up his own touchdown with runs of six and 22 yards. The Americans rushed 40 times for 212 net yards while the Fire had only 18 attempts for 70 yards.

Pack Faces Snyder Today

Coach John Reddell and his coaching staff unveiled the 1974 varsity football squad before 250 rabid Midland High fans at Memorial Stadium Thursday night in the annual Booster Club Kickoff Rally-Barbecue, but the first real grid test for the Bulldogs will come tonight at the same site when they host the Snyder Tigers of District 3-AAA in the first scrimmage of the season.

Reddell said Thursday that the Memorial Stadium battle would begin around 7:30 p.m. between the two varsities. The sophomores will tangle at 5:30 p.m. while the junior varsities will follow with a 6:30 p.m. scrimmage. There is no admission charge to the scrimmage and the public is invited to attend.

The Midland High band, cheerleaders and Posettes were among those on hand Thursday as the general public got their first look at the 1974 Bulldogs. Dave Widner, Booster Club president, served as master of ceremonies for the event and Reddell introduced each of his varsity members to the crowd.

"We feel that we are at about the same stage as last year. If the pieces fall into place for us, we could have a very good team," Reddell told the fans Thursday.

Steelers Face 'Skins Tonight

By ANDY LIPPMAN
AP Sports Writer

One of the most successful quarterbacks in the National Football League preseason has been Pittsburgh's Joe Gilliam.

And when he leads the Steelers against the Washington Redskins tonight, Gilliam will be placing his skills in comparison with the Steelers' Terry Bradshaw and Washington's Sonny Jurgensen, two men who have made success a habit.

If Gilliam continues his success, it could mean failure for the two veterans.

Gilliam this preseason has led the Steelers to four straight victories. He has completed 53 of 86 attempts for 874 yards and leads the league with seven touchdown passes.

Meanwhile, Jurgensen, the 18-year veteran, is still trying to prove he has recovered from off-season knee surgery and will undergo a critical testing tonight that could nudge him onto the taxi squad and into ultimate retirement.

Bradshaw also has been hampered by an injury — to his passing arm — and has found himself in the second slot behind Gilliam.

In the other games tonight, Green Bay is at Miami and Detroit is at Buffalo.

On Saturday, Philadelphia will face the New York Giants at Princeton, N.J.; Denver will meet New England at Spokane, Wash.; Baltimore will be at Atlanta; Minnesota at St. Louis; Kansas City at Dallas; the New York Jets at New Orleans; Los Angeles at San Diego, and Chicago at Houston.

Cincinnati and Cleveland will play at Columbus, Ohio, on Sunday and Oakland will be at San Francisco in a nationally televised game Monday night.

Miami is trying to rebound from its worst loss in three years when it hosts Green Bay.

Los Angeles walloped the defending champions 31-13 last Saturday and the Dolphins hope that the return of running back Mercury Morris will stimulate their offense.

RHCC Tourney Set For Weekend

The Ranchland Hills Country Club will hold its annual Club Golf Championship Tournament Saturday through Monday with the first two rounds being match play and the final outing medal play.

John Enzminger is the defending champion, but he won't be back to defend his crown. Larry Snyder and Gary Latta-John are rated as the tournament favorites.

IN U.S. OPEN TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS—

Evert Jumps Wedding Tradition

By KAROL STONGER

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Chris Evert jumped the gun on wedding tradition in her 1974 debut at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

She wore something borrowed. Not for lack, but for lack of a dress, left behind in Greenwich, Conn., where she is staying during the tournament. She donned an understated little A-line owned by Kris Kemmer and overwhelmed Gail Chantre of France 6-1, 6-1 on the West Side Tennis Club's grassy center court Wednesday.

Then, the future Mrs. Jimmy Connors answered endless questions about her pending marriage.

"I'm just glad the wedding is only two months away," she said. "Then maybe all of the publicity will die down and we will have some privacy."

Miss Evert has won 11 events so far this year, including the last 10 in a row. Connors has won 11. Their most laced victories, however, were at Wimbledon, which earned them their respective No. 1 seeds for Forest Hills.

to-be, Billie Jean King looked more the part. Pale-skinned, from Indoor World Team Tennis play, Mrs. King put on a white lace dress with matching long-sleeved jacket for her match with another WTT player, Isabelle Fernandez of Colombia. Mrs. King, the No. 2 seed, won handily 6-3, 6-2.

Crowds turned out in record numbers for the second straight day, and were pelted by late-afternoon rain for the second straight day, but what they saw was pure sunshine.

Fifth-seeded Evonne Goolagong, the effervescent Australian, defeated Joanne Evert, Chris' younger sister, 6-3, 6-0; Rosemary Casals, the No. 8 seed, ousted Barbara Downis, a fellow Californian, 6-2, 6-3, and Kerry Melville of Australia, the No. 4 seed, advanced when Anna Maria Pinto-Bravo of Argentina defaulted at 4-0 in the first set.

Connors and Stan Smith, who share top ranking among United States men, there was plenty of other action to excite the 13,128 tennis buffs.

All of the seeded men who competed advanced, but only Arthur Ashe and Manuel Orantes ran out their victories in the minimum of three sets. Ashe, the No. 8 seed, eliminated Trey Waitke of St. Louis 5-3, 7-6, 6-2 and Orantes, the 10th seed from Spain, ousted Frantisek Pala of Czechoslovakia 6-4, 7-6, 6-4.

Miami Seeks Third Title

Dolphins Continue Winning Despite Critics

By JOHN R. SKINNER
MIAMI (AP)—The methodical, run-dominated offense which has taken the Miami Dolphins to two straight Super Bowl crowns has been called dull and boring by critics, but to Coach Don Shula, it's a thing of beauty. It wins.

And for fullback Larry Csonka's final year in the National Football League, it will remain. Shula badly wants to be the first coach to capture three straight Super Bowl titles, and he won't worry about finding replacements for World Football League defectors Coonka, Jim Klück and Paul Warfield until he has to in 1975.

Shula escaped the players' strike with no sign of team disunity, with 34 veterans reporting to camp during the strike. The only sign of unhappiness has been in veterans' demands for fat, renegotiated contracts which have been offered to only a handful to keep them from being snatched up by the NFL.

A few rookies will probably make the team, like top draft pick Donald Reese, a defensive end, but none are likely to crack the veteran and still youthful lineup unless injuries develop. The Dolphins also have experienced backup men for every position.

The offensive line of center Jim Langer, guards Larry Little and Bob Kuechenberg, tackles Norm Evans and Wayne Moore and tight end Jim Mandich is one of the NFL's best.

With their blocking, Csonka has had three straight years of over 1,000 yards, rushing and Mercury Morris just missed his second straight 1,000-yard year last season.

Warfield and Marlin Briscoe give Shula the balance to keep for stacking defenses to stop the run. Quarterback Bob Griese threw for 1,422 yards and 17 touchdowns last year.

The defense was the American Conference's stingiest last season and then smothered Cincinnati, Oakland and Minnesota in the playoffs.

The defenders once known as the "No-Names" are now celebrities — tackles Bob Heinz and Manny Fernandez, ends Bill Stanfill and Vern Den Herder, linebackers Nick Buoniconti, Mike Kolen, Doug Swift and Bob Matheson, cornerbacks Tim Foley and Curtis Johnson and safeties Dick Anderson and Jake Scott.

The "33 defense," begun two years ago to solve an injury problem, has evolved into a key pass defense. It finds Matheson, who wears No. 53 on his uniform, replacing a tackle and lining up either as an end or linebacker.

The rule change which appears to hurt Miami the most is the moving of the goalposts back 10 yards. Soccer-style kicker Garo Yepremian had been a threat to score whenever the Dolphins reached midfield.

Teaff Thinks Green May Be Bear's Best

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
WACO, Tex. (AP)—You might say the Gary Greens of Texas high school football are Baylor University's hope for a Southwest Conference championship which seems light years away after a dismal 2-9 season in 1973.

Coach Grant Teaff sees the Bear defensive back as all-conference talent with the potential to become one of the best athletes in Baylor history.

"Gary is just tremendous—the type of kid you can build a program with," Teaff said.

The 6-foot-11, 175-pound Green, a former football and track star at San Antonio Sam Houston, moved his way into a starting role last year as a freshman.

"He is a hitter," said Teaff, underlining "hitter."

"I'm not a pretty tackler," Green said. "I steer wrestle 'em, clothesline 'em... I'm not afraid... you get hurt when you're timid."

"Any good receiver is going to catch passes on you... I like to really punish them after they make the catch."

Green hasn't just set his sights on a winning season like a number of the Baylor players.

"I feel like we can win every last one of them," Green said.

"I feel like we can be just as awesome as Oklahoma."

Is Green scared of playing Oklahoma in the opener?

"I'm excited," Green said. "We'll do okay. We've got better athletes on this team now. They are stronger and quicker. We went through a rugged weight program in the off-season."

Green flexed a muscle and said, "Man, I can bench press 250 pounds. You're supposed to be pretty good if you can bench press your weight."

Green, who once scored 41 points in a district track meet with his 9.7 sprinter's speed, said he wasn't just vying for all-conference honors.

"I feel I should shoot for All-America," Green said. "I feel I can be as good as anyone."

Green, realizing he might be sounding a little pop-offish, pointed at some of the other Baylor players.

"Listen, we won't have one of the biggest teams around but we've worked hard... you won't find an ounce of fat on anybody," Green said. "A lot of good things can happen if you're willing to work."

Green has set his goals for the moon and the stars.

The moon for Baylor would be the first Southwest Conference championship since 1924.

IN DUAL SWIM MEET—

Americans Eye German Victory

By BOB EGELKO

CONCORD, Calif. (AP)—

"We take this differently than the Americans," says Rudolf Schramme, coach of the East German swimming team. "We are more realistic."

"The Americans have been the best for years, and their men will remain best," he added. "There will be many other times to prove things."

Schramme's powerful squad faces the United States here this weekend in a dual meet between the world's top swimming powers.

The meet is being billed as a shootout for No. 1, a chance for the American women to avenge their stunning losses in last year's world championships or for the East German team to end the U.S. reign of more than a decade over international swimming.

"The prestige of American swimming is at stake," says American men's coach Ron Balart of Pasadena, Calif.

City College. "The East Germans wouldn't be here if they didn't think they had a shot at us."

Not so, says German star Kornelia Ender, who won four gold medals at the 1973 championships in Belgrade.

"The competition will only show who swims best on that day," the willowy 15-year-old said as the East Germans wound up their Thursday morning workout. Miss Ender and Schramme spoke in German.

The blonde, poised 5-foot-10 freestyler may decide the women's meet and team standings in her duels with American champion Shirley Babashoff. Miss Ender was making no predictions, but said she thought a teammate, Andrea Franke would also be a factor.

Miss Babashoff's mind is on her German rival. "I remember Belgrade and I'm thinking, 'there goes Kornelia, I've got to get her,'" she said.

"I think the women train harder than we do," said Wolf-rain Sperling, who swims the individual medley on the men's team. "They train together. They work themselves."

The American men are strong favorites to win their half of the meet, but triple world record-holder Tim Shaw isn't taking anything for granted.

"The only thing people will ask about is the combined score," said the lanky 16-year-old freestyler from Long Beach, Calif. "I have to get as far out ahead as possible, not just win it."

Yugoslavian Prints Now Being Shown

Yugoslavia IV, an intriguing exhibit of contemporary prints, opened this week at the Museum of the Southwest. It is the fourth exhibit from Yugoslavia to be sponsored by Oregon State University as a part of their International Exchange Exhibits program.

The major exhibition of 100 prints provides an overall look at the rich variety and maturation of printmaking in Yugoslavia today.

Viewers will admire the excellent use by the artists of the several direct and basic printmaking techniques, the highly imaginative and innovative mixture of techniques, and the sensitive and personal use of color.

Also on view at the Museum is "The Spanish Tradition in American Architecture" which is a fascinating exhibit consisting of an introductory structure and 30 panels which join into five free-standing units, illustrated with photographs and measured drawings, showing the Spanish influence on American architecture.

Both exhibitions are scheduled to close on September 5. Museum hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, and 2 to 5 p.m. Sundays. There is never an admission charge.

State Arts, Crafts Display Scheduled In City Sept. 4-8

AUSTIN — An exhibit of more than 30 exceptional Texas art and craft items will be in Midland, Sept. 4-8.

The touring exhibit, an outgrowth of the Texas State Arts and Crafts Fair, will be on view at the Museum of the Southwest during regular visitor hours.

From a special display of the work of more than 100 of Texas' top artists and craftsmen, participants in the 1974 Texas State Arts and Crafts Fair, 33 pieces were selected for this exhibit's nine month tour of the state.

With a wide variety of media represented, from pottery and jewelry to musical instruments and even a muzzle-loading rifle, it promises to be an eye-opener.

The Texas State Arts & Crafts Fair was originated and has been produced by the Texas Tourist Development Agency for three years, with Phil Davis acting as director.

Now, however, it is being turned over to a private organization, The Texas Arts and Crafts Foundation. This touring exhibit is the first of the new foundation's programs in behalf of Texas' artists and craftsmen.

Dave Sansom, artist's coordinator for the Texas State Arts and Crafts Fair, says of the exhibit: "I see the touring exhibit primarily as an aid to communication. Many people have no concept of who the artists and craftsmen of Texas are or what they're like, but using these thirty-two pieces as a springboard, we can begin to acquaint Texans with their creative neighbors." To this end Sansom, who will be in Midland with the exhibit, will be available for special talks with school art classes and other interested groups.

WAXAHACHIE, Tex. (AP) — An Ellis County judge here has issued a temporary injunction against promoters of a country music festival scheduled to begin today at Trumbull.

County Atty. Gene Knize argued that the promoters, Quadrosonic Corp. of America, had not sought permission for the festival as required by state law for gatherings of more than 5,000 persons. The promoters advertised that 4,999 tickets would be sold per day.

Quadrosonics spokesman Roy Stamps, said the promoters would appeal the decision to the U.S. District Court in Dallas.

HARD-HITTING AS A WET NOODLE— Tv Fare Real Antidote For Fatigue

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — You may be a bit pooped at the end of the Labor Day weekend, but take a look Monday night at ABC News' "Closeup" which dwells on the programs the three networks offer viewers every night of the year.

The hour-long show, covering only entertainment programs, studies how and why they're aired, and the effect ratings, advertisers, various critics and the much-publicized annual Senate hearings run by Sen. John Pastore, D-R.I., have on the direction these shows take.

Called "Prime Time TV: The Decision Makers," it's a fair over-all look at a much-battered subject. It's worth watching if only to learn more about various pressures shaping the networks' evening schedules.

Also, it is as hard-hitting as a wet noodle.

No startling revelations emerge, the peppy lingo of reruns never is raised and the show's explanation of the controversial A. C. Nielsen ratings system — the heart of television life — is simpler than the string bikini.

The biggest gripe I have about the show is that virtually all of it centers on the New York establishment, with well-known words here emitting the same criticism or words of defense they've made to print reporters for years.

The hicklands, as some call any place outside Manhattan, are barely represented.

Also, well, check out ABC's show Monday night anyway. It has its share of haws, but at least it offers a taste of what goes on along Broadcast Row, goes on network TV news specials rarely examine.

In other Labor Day weekend viewing matters, comedian Jerry Lewis' annual Muscular Dystrophy Telethon kicks off from Las Vegas, Nev., Sunday at 10:30 p.m. EDT. It'll continue until 6:30 p.m. Monday.

The show, featuring over 150 stars, also will come from Nashville and New York, and be broadcast by 174 stations, according to telethon officials.

They say last year's show raised more than $12.5 million — of which 15 per cent went for expenses — for muscular dystrophy research.

This Afternoon's Market Report

New York Exchange

NEW YORK (AP) — New York stock markets advanced 1 3/8 points today, with the Dow Jones average rising 1 3/8 to 68 3/4. The market was buoyed by a technical rally in brick trading.

The noon Dow Jones average of 68 3/4, and gainers held a 5-4-2 advantage over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

By traditional standards, stocks had been long overdue for a technical upswing following the 140-point slide in the Dow over the past 16 sessions. Analysis said an additional spark was provided by several signs of a possible letup in high-money pressure among them a continuing decline in Treasury-bill yields.

CNA Financial was the Big Board volume leader, unchanged at 5 in a 150,000-share block trade.

Robbery, Assault Charged Odessa Sought In Holdup

ODESSA — Charges of robbery and assault have been filed against Christopher Dwayne Cline, 19, of Odessa in connection with the holdup and assault of a Seven-11 grocery store clerk last week, but police have not apprehended the suspect.

Law enforcement agencies in East Texas believed the suspect to be in that area.

Charges were filed against Cline after an informant identified him from an artist's drawing made with the help of information supplied by the store clerk. The informant matched a picture of Cline to the drawing.

The store clerk told officers that an assistant robbed her at knife point and took $48.80 from the cash registers in the store. She said the assistant then drove the clerk several miles north of Odessa on Highway 380 where she was sexually attacked and released.

Police said that the assistant's late model pickup truck was reported stolen from an Odessa music company the day before the robbery.

Group Resolution Asks Ministries For Women

HOUSTON (AP) — Strong resolutions on the opening of church ministries to women were adopted at the closing session of the leadership Conference of Women Religious (LCWR).

There were only a few votes on the LCWR resolution supporting the principle that "all ministries in the church be open to women and men as the Spirit calls them."

Implicit in the resolution was the ordination of women as Catholic priests, although it was not spelled out.

The resolution concluded, "The LCWR affirms the principle that women have active participation in all decision-making bodies of the church. It is an injustice to restrict any church ministry or the right to participate in making decisions on the basis of sex."

Other resolutions dealt with world hunger and amnesty. Delegates approved one calling on all women religious to fast during World Hunger Week, Sept. 22-23.

The amnesty resolution stated, "The LCWR join all others desirous of reconciliation and seek the granting of universal, unconditional amnesty to all those who in obeying the laws of their conscience refused military participation in the Vietnamese war."

Catholic Priest In England Refuses To Change; Wears Cassock, Flat Hat, Speaks Dead Language

By GRAHAM HEATHCOTE SANDERSTEAD, England (AP) — By staying the same, the Rev. Peter John Morgan has become a "different" style of priest in the present-day Roman Catholic Church.

He wears a cassock, a black flat hat, speaks a dead language, venerates a four-centuries-dead pope and defies the wishes of the present pontiff, Pope Paul VI.

In a changing world, Father Morgan refuses to change. Rejecting the modernized liturgy and defying Vatican directives to put it in local languages, he sticks to the traditional Mass in Latin.

He has counterparts scattered around the world, including the United States — traditionalists who have, by not changing, become rebels in a church that changed.

The traditionalists are willing to spend time, energy and money for their cause. And there are thousands of them, here and there, who don't like the new ways.

Supporters of Father Morgan provide him with a house here on the outskirts of London, pay him a salary with expenses to freewheel over southern England to say the old Mass.

Many are ready to drive miles for his hour-long ceremony on any day of the week.

To publicize their campaign, they've formed a society and advertise on a poster that "The traditional Roman Catholic Mass is now widely available again."

Father Morgan, English-born, looks older than his 34 years. He is round-faced, portly under his ankle-length black cassock, talks incessantly, is rapid in speech and quick of movement. He speaks English, French, Italian and Latin.

"Yes, I am young," he said in an interview, "but there is no one else to do it. I have tried to unite the traditionalists. The Church must retain its dignity."

Father Morgan started his clerical career in the Church of England and went to Australia on missionary work among the Aborigines in northern Queensland. He was converted to the Roman Catholic Church in 1963 — "a gift of faith," he said.

To a question of why the apparently simple matter of the form and language of the Mass should be disturbing the mighty, 600-million strong Church, Father Morgan replied:

"Lex orandi, lex credendi — the law of prayer is the law of belief. What we believe as the doctrine of the Church must be expressed in our official prayer. If I consider something doubtful, I as a priest am bound not to do it."

Father Morgan has set up 25 centers in southern England where the traditional Latin Mass is celebrated.

His name has been read out in the dioceses of Clifton, Plymouth and Southwark, which accused him of saying "illicit Masses for groups of traditionalist Catholics which he has no authorization to do."
