Briscoe Will Seek Tax Cut

Eliminating Levy On Gas, Electric Bills Is Proposed

DALLAS (AP)—Gov. Dolph Briscoe said today he will advise the next legislature to cut state taxes by $80 million by eliminating the four per cent state sales tax on electric and gas utility bills.

"This measure would give much needed relief to the inflation-plagued consumer," Briscoe said in a political speech for the opening of his Dallas County campaign headquarters.

Skies Clear Over Texas

Skies were mostly clear and the early morning air nippy almost everywhere in Texas today — including the Permian Basin.

Following an early morning low of 57 degrees in the Midland area, temperatures had climbed to 76 degrees by noon, and were expected to reach into the mid 80s this afternoon. Wednesday's high was only 78 degrees, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal.

The Weather Service said skies will be clear to partly cloudy this afternoon, tonight and Friday, with the warming trend continuing. Friday's maximum temperature is expected to be in the low to mid 90s.

Meanwhile, prospects for the season's first hurricane to approach the state dwindled. Carmen, which dwindled to a tropical storm, is expected to be off the coast by Friday.

President Seeking Answers To Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford, convening a White House economic summit, declared today that Americans are "sick and tired of having politicians play with their pocketbooks" and want a prompt, practical battle plan against inflation.

Stressing the need for "attainable answers sharply defined and sorted out," Ford also cautioned that "there is no quick fix for what ails our economy."

The President told a diverse group of 26 economists and congressmen that he wants "the unwashed truth" about the economy laid before him and the American public.

And he quickly got it.

Puffing on his pipe, Ford listened while panelists seated around a table in the White House East Room recited gloomy economic statistics: Rising prices, growing unemployment, a drop in real earnings power, record high interest rates.

The initial speakers in the first of a series of conferences leading to Ford's economic summit later this month gave forecasts ranging from gloomy to hopeful.

"Another mild recession is sort of inevitable," said Harvard economist Otto Eckstein.

"There is very little likelihood of pronounced strength in any part of the economy" in 1975, said industrial economist David Grove.

"There is no near term improvement in prospect," said bank economist Beryl Sprinkel. But he said the rate of inflation may be easing.

Another bank economist, Walter Hoadley, said the American people are vigorously fighting inflation. But he warned that inflationary psychology may be starting to change spending habits.

Alan Greenspan, new chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said inflationary psychology is one of the major underlying economic problems.

If this can be overcome, Greenspan said, a major economic depressant would be removed.

Ford donned wire-rimmed spectacles to examine a series of technical charts presented by Greenspan to support a guardedly optimistic assessment of economic improvements.

Eckstein said "it might be clear some time next year that the worst of inflation is behind us." He suggested the rate might decline from 10 per cent this year to 8 per cent next year to 6 per cent the year after.

Ford told the session, broadcast nationally by public television and radio, that he wants the series of meetings to result in a package of proposals to "restore economic stability and sustain economic growth."

Inflation is a worldwide epidemic, Ford said, but "together we can beat it to its knees."

He said preparatory meetings for the Sept. 27-28 summit, such as the one he convened today, are open to the public through television and radio because they concern the people's business.

"Gentlemen, let's get to work," the President said in concluding his opening remarks.

Ford plowed no new economic ground in his comments, but (See FORD Page 6A)

Jacobsen's Deal Approval Blocked

DALLAS (AP)—The Texas attorney general and San Angelo district attorney asked a federal court today not to dismiss an indictment against former milk lobbyist Jake Jacobsen.

Jacobsen is under indictment on a charge of misapplication of funds involving the First Savings & Loan Association of San Angelo.

Federal prosecutors have asked U.S. District Court Judge Robert Hill to dismiss charges in exchange for Jacobsen's testimony against John Connally in a Washington bribery case.

Judge Hill is expected to rule today or Friday.

Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill filed a motion against dismissal of the indictment at the request of Sale Lewis, commissioner of the Texas Savings and Loan Department.

He was joined by San Angelo Dist. Atty. Royal Hart.

But should Judge Hill decide to drop the indictment, Hill and Hart asked that it be "without prejudice," which leaves the door open for state prosecution.

The investigation leading to the indictment charging Jacobsen and Ray Cowen, a former partner of Jacobsen, with misapplying $825,000 of the savings and loan company was made by the Texas Savings and Loan Department and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the brief stated.

"Such investigative material... was later turned over to the federal government with the understanding between the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the Texas Savings and Loan Department that any federal criminal act would be initiated and fully prosecuted," the brief said.

"No further action has been taken to date by state officials in the belief federal action was being fully pursued," the brief states.

Atty. Gen. Hill and Hart noted that federal prosecutors wanted the San Angelo indictment dropped so Jacobsen could testify in a "totally unrelated case."

U.S. Atty. Frank McCown has asked the indictment be dropped so Jacobsen, former lobbyist for Associated Milk Producers Inc., could testify the understanding between the federal government with the understanding between the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the Texas Savings and Loan Department that any federal criminal act would be initiated and fully prosecuted, the brief said.

Housing Panel Seeking Bids On 100-Unit Project

The Midland Housing Authority Wednesday heard advice from two building contractors for a proposed $2 million 100-unit housing project for elderly and handicapped citizens to be built here under guidelines of a turn-key Federal Housing and Urban Development grant.

At present the authority is advertising for construction and site proposals with a Nov. 1 deadline for bids from various contractors. All bids must follow the HUD guidelines for the turn-key project.

Representatives from the Midland-based firm of Pierce-Pace & Associates and the Temple firm of B-F-W Construction Co. Inc. told the authority that their companies had built similar public housing developments in three states with 90 per cent of their prior construction being in Texas.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Put Empty Jars To Storage Use

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Association

DEAR POLLY — How can I remove a burn mark, the size of a silver dollar, from my wood paneling? The mark is in a prominent corner. I would like to know how to remove it without damaging the paneling or having to replace the entire sheet.

I save empty jars and bottles to hold buttons, pins, nails, tacks, etc., label them and place in an easy-to-reach place. Whenever such an item is needed I know just where it can be found. — BETSY.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those television shows where the participants are seated in revolving chairs. To me it is most distracting and annoying to watch someone rocking or twisting while he or she is talking whether it is to emphasize a point or just through plain nervousness. — AGNES.

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. H. W. wanted to know how to keep the tongues in her little boy's shoes from slipping. When my children who are now grown had this problem I used to make two slits near the top of the tongue. Then when lacing the shoe I ran the lace through the slits from one eyelet to the other. I found this ended the slipping. — HELEN.

DEAR POLLY — Sudden thunderstorms often necessitate the turning on of one's car lights as we drive during the daylight hours. Often we forget to turn them off but a simple solution is to do so driving with one's BRIGHT light on. The red light on the dashboard will serve as a reminder to turn them off when the sky clears. Daytime bright-light driving does not seem to affect the on-coming traffic during a storm or at least I have had no problem meeting those with bright lights on. You might save a battery this way. — BETTE.

DEAR POLLY — I find cabbage odors are practically eliminated if an outside stalk of celery is added when you put the cabbage on to cook.

Discard celery when cooking is finished.

To remove an onion odor from the hands I "soap" them good with an unpeeled raw potato under cold running water.

Make a belt hanger out of an ordinary wooden coat hanger by screwing cup hooks all across the hanger bar.

When draping tie-back curtains lower the blinds to the height you want the tie-backs. Fasten each tie-back to the casing at the bottom of the blind and all the curtains will be draped at the same height and with no measuring.

When baby outgrows his high chair remove the arms and have a convenient kitchen stool that is also a nice height for ironing. When the weather is warm a few crushed moth balls in the bottom of a trash will keep the flies and other insects away. — SUE E.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Co-Worker's Wife Accuses Her Of Adultery

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old married woman. I've never had an experience like this in all my life — that's why it's so upsetting to me.

It all started when a co-worker, who must be in his late 40's, started kidding around at work and calling me his "girl friend." There was nothing to it. It was just a joke. He recently had a 25th wedding anniversary and I sent him and his wife a card. When I was out sick last year, he sent me a card.

Well, one evening last week, out of the blue I get a phone call from his wife. She started yelling and hollering and accusing me of having "an affair" with her husband. I was shocked. Then her husband took the phone away from her and apologized, saying she was having one of her "spells."

I avoided him at work. Last evening, she called again. This time my husband answered, and again she ranted and carried on about me and her husband. Finally, my husband hung up on her.

Abby, she sounds like a crazy woman. She could even kill me. I love my job but maybe I should quit. How should I handle this?

UPSET

DEAR UPSET: The woman is either disturbed or she drinks. (Maybe both.) Don't quit your job. There are laws to protect people against harassment of this kind. Have your lawyer write her a letter. (He'll know what to say.) That should do it.

DEAR ABBY: Neither my husband or I drink or smoke, and whenever we have a family gathering there is always some member of the family who brings a bottle of wine. In order not to hurt their feelings, we always open the bottle, but we never partake of it.

My husband and I do not like drinking in our home, so how do we tactfully get the idea across? These relatives read your column, so if this is printed, maybe they'll take the hint.

TWO TEE-TOTALERS

DEAR TWO: Don't count on it. Tell those who are apt to bring a bottle that when you want alcohol served in your home you'll provide it. It's your home, so don't be bashful.

DEAR ABBY: About the 80-year-old man who looks like 60, loves to dance, and puts on a show wherever there's music, much to the embarrassment of his daughter.

My grandfather is 86. He talks too loud, scratches wherever he pleases, straight in front of everybody, falls asleep in restaurants, and is always giving me advice.

He also diapered me when I was a baby, taught me how to fish, hugged me no matter how dirty I was, and loved me no matter how bad I was.

That old man can do anything he wants to do as long as I have anything to say about it.

And when he dies, I'll cry. Not because the end will have come for a man who has had a full and beautiful life, but because no one else will see the twinkle in his eye. G.

Seven Men Indicted In Prison Shootout

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The Walker County Grand Jury has indicted seven men on capital murder charges stemming from the Aug. 3 attempted prison escape that took four lives. Three of the men indicted are prison inmates. Inmate Ignacio Cuevas, was indicted Wednesday as principal in the shootout which left two women hostages and two prisoners dead. Cuevas was the lone survivor of the inmate trio that held the hostages in the 11-day siege preceding the shootout. The jury named six men in a separate indictment as parties to the escape attempt. They are Lawrence Hall, Fred Perales, Adolfo Alonzo, Pedro Alonzo, Benito Alonzo, and George Cisneros. Cisneros remains at large. The Alonzo are brothers. The indictment against Cuevas charges that he was a principal in the death of librarian hostage Julia Standley. Another librarian-hostage Elizabeth Basco was killed also. The second indictment accused the other six of being parties to the escape attempt by Fred Gomez Carrasco, Rodolfo Dominguez, and Cuevas. Carrasco and Dominguez died in the violent confrontation with law officers. The indictment charges that the six acted as parties to the rebel inmate trio during their escape attempt from the Huntsville prison and thus caused the shooting death of Julia Standley. A prison source said Wednesday that one of three guns smuggled to Carrasco was hidden in a ham from which the bones had been removed. The source said ammunition for the three guns was hidden inside cans of peaches. The ham and peach cans were taken to the prison commissary inside the prison by an inmate, according to the source. The indictment charges that the six acted as parties to the rebel inmate trio during their escape attempt from the Huntsville prison and thus caused the shooting death of Julia Standley.

Official White House Squirrel Feeder To Give Job To A Younger Man

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Navy Ensign Richard Feeney, 29, plans to relinquish his special presidential appointment as Official White House Squirrel Feeder to a younger man. Feeney was named to the singular, unpaid position in 1949, when he was 5 years old by President Harry S. Truman. "It's a title I've cherished for many years, but there comes a time when one must step down," the newly commissioned naval reserve officer said Wednesday. "I plan to write President Ford, telling him of the appointment's existence, and perhaps he'll find someone better for the job." When he was a child, Feeney and his mother would go to Lafayette Park, across from the White House, to wait for his father, Capt. Joseph Feeney. Feeney was a Navy liaison officer and administrative assistant to Truman. "One day I met the President and told him that the Lafayette Park squirrels were real fat and that his own squirrels at the White House were skinny," Feeney recalled. Truman, he said, acknowledged this dire problem and, to remedy it, appointed the youngster Official White House Squirrel Feeder. At the time, Feeney said, he was sitting on the President's lap in the West Wing of the White House. Newsmen overheard the conversation and asked Truman to elaborate. "Those characters on the Hill (Congress) are on vacation, so I don't need their confirmation," the President said. So the appointment was issued, with no expiration date and a stipulation that the job would be without pay. "Who wanted pay?" grinned Feeney, now stationed at Atlantic Fleet headquarters here. "It was a lot of fun to feed the squirrels, and I went to the White House as often as I could." Later, when word of the appointment spread, he said, the Feeneys were deluged with bags and boxes of peanuts from across the country. "We lived in an apartment, and I can remember one room literally filled with nuts," Feeney said. "They started arriving when people began wondering where I'd get food for the squirrels without funds." When Feeney grew up, he went to work in the White House himself—as assistant director of the Office of Special Projects. After joining the Navy, he served as a congressional liaison officer. And later, as he moved into other fields—which have included commercial photography and wine importing—he confesses he sadly neglected his White House squirrels. "It's time someone took the job from me," he said, a bit sadly.

Baltimore Longshoremen Accept Contract Offer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Apparently no port in the Northeast will be shut down by a longshoremen's strike this year as a result of a vote by Baltimore area longshoremen to accept a contract offer they had previously rejected. Reversing a vote taken two weeks ago, five Baltimore area locals of the International Longshoremen's Association ratified the three-year pact by an almost 8-1 margin. The vote taken Wednesday was 1,716 to 241. The vote brought the Baltimore locals into line with locals in other port cities from Boston to Hampton Roads, Va., which voted to ratify the agreement two weeks ago. The approved contract grants the dock workers a more than 30 per cent increase in wages and fringe benefits over the three years. The agreement will boost the longshoremen's pay from $6.10 to $8 in three years. A major reason behind Baltimore's change of heart on the contract was a reversal in the position of the leadership of Local 333, the largest local in the Baltimore area. Walter Kwarta, president of Local 333, earlier had recommended defeat of the contract offer because, he said, he disliked the local section negotiated with Steamship Trade Association of Baltimore. The rank and file followed his recommendation and voted the contract package down. Then last week, Kwarta announced that he had changed his mind and would support the proposed contract. He said he feared Baltimore would lose business if it was the only port in the Northeast to strike. Reportedly Kwarta was also under pressure from IILA President Thomas W. Gleason to reverse his stand on ratification. Gleason negotiated the master contract for Northeast ports.

Subpoena Issued For More Documents At White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time in a Watergate trial, former presidential assistant John D. Ehrlichman is asking hundreds of records and documents he left behind in the White House. Attorneys for Ehrlichman, a defendant in the Watergate cover-up trial, issued a subpoena for the voluminous files Wednesday. It calls for all of Ehrlichman's papers relating to the original Watergate burglary June 17, 1972, and all his records connected with White House taped presidential conversations about Watergate. The subpoena also calls for Ehrlichman's files related to "any and all records of any person, maintained at the White House, which refer to or relate to the Watergate matter from June 17, 1972, to and including May 1, 1973." Ehrlichman resigned from the White House April 30, 1973. After a dispute over a similar subpoena in the Watergate plumbers trial in July, the White House eventually complied with specific requests for some Ehrlichman notes. The other defendants in the trial are former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, former Haldeman aide Gordon Strachan, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and ex-Nixon re-election committee officials Kenneth W. Parkinson and Robert C. Mardian. All have been charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice in allegedly seeking to smother the original investigation into the break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters.

Houston To Reopen Elevators At Port

Betty Ford Says She Plans To Avoid 'Political Issues'

By FRANCES LEWINE WASHINGTON (AP) — In the first full-scale White House news conference by a president's wife, Betty Ford has said she plans to avoid political issues but would be happy to campaign for the Equal Rights Amendment for women. Smiling her way through a half-hour of questioning before an overflow crowd of 145 reporters and cameramen in the state dining room, Mrs. Ford said she will hold news conferences "as often as I think the press has anything to ask of interest." In the wide-ranging session, Mrs. Ford said she favors liberalized abortion laws and that she would encourage women to play an active role in politics. Mrs. Ford gave differing responses about her feelings on a second term for her husband when reporters pressed her on Sen. Jack's report that she was upset at the prospect of Ford's running in 1976. "Do you want him to run again?" "I feel at this point two years is quite a long way away. I wouldn't want to commit myself one way or another." Then, asked whether she would run happily with Ford in 1976, the President's wife said, "It depends on the state of the country." No Active Part For her part, though, she said, "I will not take a politically active part in politics as far as issues are concerned." But, when asked if she would be active in campaigning for approval of the Equal Rights Amendment in states which have not voted on it, she said, "Yes, I would be happy to take part in it." As for her role as First Lady, Mrs. Ford said she's already finding it "a very busy life." She said she expects her interests to be in art and children, especially the underprivileged and mentally retarded. Mrs. Ford said she sees no reason why the Fords won't maintain their normal family relationship in the White House. She said she was "completely dumbfounded the way the children adjusted.... They were just perfectly happy. We have had servants at home, so it isn't as if we were not used to having help." She reported that the President, who always made his own breakfast in their Alexandria, Va., home, "has become accustomed to the very good service we have in the upstairs family dining room. He finds it quite convenient. So I can't promise you that he is getting his own breakfast."

Official White House Squirrel Feeder To Give Job To A Younger Man

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Navy Ensign Richard Feeney, 29, plans to relinquish his special presidential appointment as Official White House Squirrel Feeder to a younger man. Feeney was named to the singular, unpaid position in 1949, when he was 5 years old by President Harry S. Truman. "It's a title I've cherished for many years, but there comes a time when one must step down," the newly commissioned naval reserve officer said Wednesday. "I plan to write President Ford, telling him of the appointment's existence, and perhaps he'll find someone better for the job." When he was a child, Feeney and his mother would go to Lafayette Park, across from the White House, to wait for his father, Capt. Joseph Feeney. Feeney was a Navy liaison officer and administrative assistant to Truman. "One day I met the President and told him that the Lafayette Park squirrels were real fat and that his own squirrels at the White House were skinny," Feeney recalled. Truman, he said, acknowledged this dire problem and, to remedy it, appointed the youngster Official White House Squirrel Feeder. At the time, Feeney said, he was sitting on the President's lap in the West Wing of the White House. Newsmen over-

Dr. Teller Warns Energy Crunch May Result In Upheaval

DALLAS (AP) — California nuclear physicist Dr. Edward Teller said here Wednesday the fuel crisis "will be not behind us, but ahead of us," unless great efforts are made to tap more energy sources.

Teller, often described as "the father of the hydrogen bomb" for his role in developing technical know-how that led to the development of the bomb, spoke here before a civic group.

Hitler's Rise Cited
He said that present energy problems and related world economic decline can be compared to the pre-depression conditions that he said resulted in Hitler's rise and World War II.

"If the energy question is not answered quickly and realistically, if the world gets into economic chaos, there will be desperate people," he said. "I don't know if it will be India or Greece or Italy or Japan."

Teller said that expanded use of nuclear energy to generate electricity is "the big step" toward energy self-sufficiency.

'Exotic Fuels'
He referred to "exotic fuels" such as solar energy and nuclear fusion saying they are "in the distant future."

"They may solve the next energy crisis, if we live that long," he said.

"There are plenty of solutions in the long run," Teller told his audience. "There is no reason to worry, except that needed action takes time and we don't have time."

He urged stepped-up drilling operations on the continental shelf, extraction from shale oil and the gasification of coal.

Anglos Become Dallas Schools Minority Group

DALLAS (AP) — Loss of Anglo pupils from Dallas schools has declined to a "promising" degree, school administrators say while noting Anglos are now in a minority among pupils.

School officials said Wednesday Negroes and Mexican Americans account for 55 per cent of the total enrollment in the Dallas school district.

Officials said Anglos number 45,458 or 44.75 per cent; Negroes number 61,416 or 41.99 per cent and there are 17,893 Mexican Americans, or 12.29 per cent.

Supt. Nolan Estes said the district has been losing three to five per cent of its Anglos each year but there has been only a one per cent loss this year.

Greenland, with an area of 940,000 square miles, is the world's largest island.

Caldwell Talks Of House Speakership Race

By LEE JONES
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The race for Texas House speaker took a new turn Wednesday when popular Rep. Nell Caldwell said he would become a candidate if necessary to preserve the 1973 "reform" rules.

Caldwell challenged the front runner, Rep. Bill Clayton, a conservative Democrat from Springlake, to make a public commitment to keep the main parts of those rules intact.

Clayton, who claims he has pledges of support from 98 representatives and House nominees, quickly responded that he agrees with Caldwell on most of the key rules.

"If Clayton doesn't specifically say what the rules should be and if he intends to change the rules fundamentally, I think he should be challenged," said Caldwell, who was under some pressure in the past to run for speaker.

A Democrat from Angleton, Caldwell is chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. He is pledged to liberal Rep. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, who admitted Wednesday he is running far behind Clayton but refused to concede defeat.

Clayton said in response to Caldwell, "As far as reform, I think you are going to find it extended beyond what it has been."

He said he agreed completely with Caldwell that the House should retain its rules that:

—Restrict House-Senate conference committees to the adjustment of actual differences on bills and prohibit them from rewriting portions on which the two chambers are agreed.

—Require considerable advance notice before committee hearings and floor action on bills to prevent House leaders from ramming bills through without adequate study.

Late Summer Cold Wave Chills Most Of Nation

By The Associated Press
A record late summer cold outbreak chilled areas from the northern Mississippi Valley to New York today, dropping temperatures into the 40s and occasional 30s.

New lows for the date were set at St. Joseph, Mo., Lansing, Mich., and Cleveland, Ohio, before dawn and more records were expected in the Mississippi Valley, the Great Lakes region and the Ohio Valley. Showers and thunderstorms dampened scattered parts of Florida, southeastern Georgia and the South Atlantic coastline.

Heavy thunderstorms caused some flooding on the west side of Savannah, Ga., where streets were under water one to two feet. Parts of nearby Garden City, Ga., were inundated to two to three feet.

Clayton said he had not decided on the third area of Caldwell's concern, a rule that weakens the speaker's control of committees by allocating half the seats on a committee-excluding chairman and vice-chairman—on a seniority basis.

"I think certainly seniority should play a role. I don't know whether we should keep what we have or try something different, but I definitely don't think it should be kicked out," Caldwell said.

Clayton said, "I am not threatening Bill—I wouldn't if I could... I hope this response is one I can accept, and if it is, power to him. I'll be in the amen corner."

A Caldwell candidacy might exert some attraction on the 18 or so liberals who pledged to Clayton following Tuesday's withdrawal of Rep. Fred Head, D-Athens, from the speaker's race. There also would be the possibility that Parker, who says he has 55 to 60 pledges, would drop out in favor of his close friend and former roommate.

Parker said Wednesday he would try to "untangle" the liberal-conservative alliance that formed behind Clayton following the withdrawals of Head and Reps. Dave Finney, D-Port Worth, and Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville, from the contest.

The 150 House members elect the speaker, and a majority—75 votes—is necessary if all representatives are present.

A speaker is one of the three most powerful men in Texas government because of his influence over the passage of legislation as presiding officer of the House.

High Interest Rates Not Slowing Business Spending

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — Are those high interest rates holding down business spending? Aren't they supposed to?

The answer to the first question is no, they're not holding down spending. The answer to the second is yes, they should be discouraging spending if the theory is correct.

The Conference Board, an independent research organization supported mainly by business, found in a study just finished that the nation's 1,000 largest manufacturers have sharply raised their capital appropriations.

Between the first and second quarters of the year, it found, these manufacturers authorized the spending of $16.29 billion, a whopping 30 per cent increase.

Since appropriations are authorizations to spend money in the future, the impact of heavy capital spending most likely will be felt for many months to come, when the actual spending will be done.

While the board said it feels an appropriations peak might have been reached, the substantial increase in spending plans during the April-May-June quarter adds another question mark about monetary policy.

The avowed intention of the Federal Reserve Board's tight money policy is to discourage spending, thus bringing the economy down to a noninflationary pace.

The most logical explanation for the surge in appropriations is that many U.S. industries believe they must expand their capacity or make their production lines more efficient.

The largest jump in appropriations, some 125 per cent, was registered by the petroleum industry, with nonferrous metals — non iron, that is — paper and chemicals following in that order.

One reason for expecting a peak has been reached in appropriations, said the board, is that electrical machinery orders are being increasingly affected by troubles in the electric utility industry.

Utilities are among those industries that have been forced to curtail borrowing. Bond issues have been postponed by poor markets and expansion plans have been thwarted by numerous factors, including environmental restraints.

Nevertheless, a separate survey of large manufacturers, this one also conducted by the Conference Board, suggests that capital spending is likely to remain strong in 1975.

It said about 50 per cent of manufacturers responding to the survey expect their capital spending to rise in 1975, 30 per cent expect little change over 1974 levels, and 20 per cent anticipate a decline.

Nearly one-half of those expecting a dip in their capital spending next year — that is, 10 per cent of all the manufacturers surveyed — cite tight credit conditions as a dominant factor.

BARBERING IS HER BUSINESS — Mildred Hoff of Scotland is a woman barber whose men customers come from far and near. Here, she gives 5-year-old Ronnie Vieth the kind of haircut he wants. (AP Wirephoto.)

Lady Barber One Of Best

SCOTLAND, Tex. (AP) — Mildred Hoff admits that some of her best customers originally came to her out of curiosity.

First, they were curious about her sign on U.S. 201 just south of Scotland, Tex.

It says "Jackass Hill" and "Mildred's Barber Shop."

Second, they could hardly resist trying out a shave and a haircut by a woman barber.

Third, but no doubt the most important reason for her booming business is that she is one of the best barbers in this part of the country. This part of the country is about 20 miles south of Wichita Falls.

That's what her customers say, men who come from as far away as Michigan and Arkansas, Wichita Falls, Vashit, Jacksboro and other communities, vacationers traveling along the highway, businessmen, salesmen, oilfield workers, teen-agers and tots. Her fulltime job that began 18 months ago as a parttime now brings in so many customers she doesn't get time for lunch. Recently she closed for a week's vacation—the first since opening.

Jackass Hill where Mildred's Barber Shop is located—overlooks a typical West Texas terrain—thick mesquite trees over miniature mountains and rocky land.

The shop, separate from the Hoff's pretty ranch home, was built by Mildred's husband, John. The sign over the door has a myramid of horseshoes and the lettering, done by Hoff in thick, heavy rope, says "Howdy Pardner," and "Welcome."

Early in the morning on a sunny weekday recently, Mrs. Hoff already was cutting hair and had customers waiting.

"I really enjoy barbering but I was a grandma before I ever got started in this business."

"I was the only one left in my family to carry on the tradition of barbering from my father and grandfather. I have eight brothers but none was interested in barbering."

"I thought I would give it a try just to keep me busy because John travels a lot as a transport operator. I went to Wichita Barber College and I think I was the only woman to begin and end training there. The men students used to kid me about getting more customers because I'm a woman."

"However, a lot of the men tell me that women barbers take more time in cutting their hair and styling it and that we're very conscientious."

"I guess a lot of people hear about this place because of the unusual name. Once a family stopped in for haircuts on their way home to Michigan. Later that year, another Michigan family on their way to Six Flags came by, said their friends had told them about me."

"Naturally, most of her customers come from Scotland and nearby Windthorst."

"I'm the only barber between here and Wichita Falls. There are a lot of good people out here and we all sort of stick together," Mildred said.

The shop is a hub for the town news...births, deaths, weddings...politics...weather...who's going on vacation...who's selling off some cattle. All the town topics circulate through the shop.

Since the coming of long hair, styling is very important, says Mrs. Hoff. The young men who have curly hair and let it grow usually like to have it straightened. Some older men want their hair dyed. Many want shaves and shampoos.

"It doesn't bother me how long the men's whiskers are or how they want their hair cut or styled. I try to please them, even the young children. If I have a new customer I may take as long as 45 minutes to let him see if I have styled it right. I cut to a certain length before I go on."

She added, "I think long hair has been a boon to the barber business because it has to be styled more often to keep it the right length and shape; it has to be shampooed often. I think it's been a great thing for men's hair."

The Hoff's, who have three children and three grandchildren, moved to the Scotland place, which includes 48 acres, five years ago. Hoff designed and helped build their house.

Jacks Hill got its name because Hoff's initials are J.A.H. and because the Hoff's owned a donkey at the time they moved here. Some friend immediately dubbed it "Jacks Hill."

Mildred says she wouldn't move back to the city for anything.

Black FBI Agent Gets Credit For DC9 Hijacker's Surrender

BOSTON (AP) — "He spoke the guy's language," a state policeman said after an FBI agent talked a young hijacker into giving up a DC9 jetliner and freeing its bloodied pilot. The unidentified agent convinced the razor-wielding youth over a two-way radio on Wednesday that he had no choice but to surrender. "The fellow could have committed murder, but the black agent started to talk to him in his own language, and things got better after that," said state police Lt. Robert Wills. The drama began when the hijacker, armed with a rusty nail and a straight razor, seized the pilot of an Eastern Airlines shuttle flight from New York after it had taxied to the terminal at Logan International Airport. After the hijacker ordered the passengers to leave the plane through emergency exits, he forced the pilot to roll the plane out onto a runway and demanded money.

At first the hijacker demanded $100,000, but later he lowered that to $10,000, the FBI said. Police put the money on the runway so he could "see its color." However, the hijacker's only comment was, "Give the money to the poor people of Roxbury," a predominantly black section of Boston. Police later picked up the money. The FBI agent, who was not identified, talked off and on with the hijacker for three hours, pleading with him to give up before he committed a more serious offense. FBI Special Agent James O. Newpher said that throughout the exchange, the hijacker "complained about lack of money, lack of a job, not being able to buy gifts for his relatives at Christmas time, not being able to own a house."

Finally, the hijacker opened the plane's door and walked "quietly and meekly" down the ladder to waiting police. He was identified as Marshall Collins III, 20, of Providence, R.I. Collins was charged with air piracy. He was held in lieu of $250,000 bond and was ordered to undergo psychiatric examination. The pilot, Lewis E. Whitaker Jr., 55, of Huntington Station, N.Y., suffered superficial cuts. The FBI said he had been struck with the flat side of a fire ax blade.

Turks On Cyprus Start Drive To Extend Lines

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkish forces may have started a drive to extend their lines along the northwest coast of Cyprus in violation of the cease-fire. The Greek Cypriot national guard charged that Turkish forces at Lefka advanced two miles Wednesday to capture the Greek Cypriot village of Galini. The Greeks claimed the Turks attacked the national guard detachment in the village with mortars and machine guns. Danish troops of the United Nations peace force in Lefka said they heard about 300 shots and two explosions, but the Turkish commander refused to let them investigate. Turkish Cypriots in Lefka believed the Turks would advance 12 miles along the coast road to Kokkina, a Turkish enclave. This would bring several Turkish Cypriot villages into the Turkish zone and would also give the Turks control of the rest of the coast of Morphou.

They include 10 to 15 per cent retirement increases for school teachers, 10 per cent retirement increase for state employees, 10 per cent cost-of-living increase for all state employees and an increase of $40 per student for public schools.

The governor also said again that he will present "a plan for the comprehensive restructuring of the state system of school finance which will be a dramatic step forward in public education. "As governor, I will do all I can to see that history records the 64th Legislature as the Public Education Session," he said.

Commissioner Shakes Up State Labor Department

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Three top officials of the Texas Department of Labor and Standards have been fired in a shake-up that threw out a fourth of the state agency's 40 employees. Labor Commissioner Jackie W. St. Clair said Wednesday he has dismissed assistant commissioner Tommy V. Smith, a former commissioner; Leonard Booth, director of the boxing and wrestling division; Simmie Ward, director of the employment and labor agencies division; and Jim Miller, regional manager at San Antonio. Also fired were two women accountants, an accounting clerk and three secretaries. "I have been here 15 months, and in my evaluation of the department, their performance was unsatisfactory to me, was St. Clair's only explanation for the dismissals. Advertise Or Be Forgotten!

BICENTENNIAL KICKOFF— First Continental Congress Reconvened At Philadelphia

By PAUL CARPENTER PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Governors and other delegates from the 13 original states reconvened the First Continental Congress here today, and their goals are much the same as that original meeting just 200 years ago. Among the draft resolutions to be put before the delegates today were a recommendation that the Constitution be amended to guarantee the rights of personal privacy and a proposal for a "broad declaration reaffirming our faith in the American system."

The proposed constitutional amendment on personal privacy would "guarantee forever that the people have the right to personal privacy and the freedom from undue governmental interference in their personal lives." The two-day meeting, hosted by Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp, launched the nation's bicentennial celebration, which reaches a climax on the 200th birthday of Independence, July 4, 1976. President Ford plans to be on hand for the final session Friday afternoon. The focus of the two-day observance is Carpenters' Hall, a two-story brick structure near Independence Hall. It was 200 years ago today that 56 colonial delegates from 12 of the 13 original states convened the First Continental Congress at Carpenters' Hall, seeking fair treatment from the English Parliament. The original Continental Congress was called by the colonial leadership of Massachusetts because of British actions against the colony, including the Boston Port Bill restricting trade. The measure eventually led to the Boston Tea Party. The other colonies feared similar measures could be enacted against them. Fifty-six delegates from 12 colonies came to Philadelphia. Of the 13 original states, only Georgia was not represented at the eight-week meeting. In addition to the delegates from Massachusetts, the First Continental Congress also drew representatives from Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, New Hampshire, New York and Rhode Island.

Report Raps HEW Record On Northern Segregation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare was accused today of ignoring evidence in its own files of widespread racial segregation in northern schools. The Center for National Policy Review said in a 117-page report that "northern schools today are far more segregated than those in the South" as a result of federal foot-dragging. The center, located at Catholic University here, based its three-year study on records of HEW investigations in 84 northern and western school districts. Some of the data was obtained through a court order. William L. Taylor, the center director, said: "HEW has found substantial violations in northern districts but has failed either to aid the victims of discrimination or to cut off federal dollars." Among the 84 government civil rights compliance reviews conducted in the North, the study found that 52 are still open and unresolved "although many, ripe with old age, are somewhat inactive." The average age of the cases exceeds 37 months. "While a few staff investigations have been shaky," the report said, "HEW's files literally bulge with documented evidence of violations of law."

Polish Priest To Be Re-Interred On Texas Prairie

By JOHN LUMPKIN SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Soon, Father Leopold will be home in tiny Panna Maria, Tex. Father Leopold Moczygemba, an immigrant from Poland, is credited with founding Panna Maria on prairie land between here and the Texas coast in 1854. The town claims it is the oldest Polish settlement in the United States. On the second Sunday in October, Father Leopold's remains will be re-interred near the Catholic Church there as a result of an unusual disinterment approval by a church cardinal in Detroit. The announcement of the movement of the remains was made Wednesday by Archbishop Francis Furey of San Antonio. The Rev. John Yanta, secretary of the Polish American Priests Association, said his group is sponsoring the missionary's re-interment in Panna Maria because "this is where his heart was, where his brothers and other relatives settled." Archbishop Furey said, "He is the father of the Polish community in the U.S. He is 'Pa-ther Poland' to all Poles in this country." Father Leopold died in 1891 and was interred in Detroit, where he cofounded Orchard Lake College and Sts. Cyril and Methodius Seminary, said the priests' association. After church approval and the consent of traceable third-generation descendants, a court order was obtained and the remains were moved temporarily this summer to San Antonio, where they are now, said a spokesman. Father Leopold came to Texas in 1851 to minister to German settlers but "he was so enamored of Texas, he wrote his friends and said, 'Why don't you come?'" said Archbishop Furey. Father Leopold selected the site for Panna Maria and arranged for about a hundred families from his home village and surrounding villages to emigrate to Texas. They packed their belongings, including farm equipment, and went by train to the seaport of Bremen, Germany, and landed in Galveston, Tex., nine weeks later. Using Mexican carts, they trekked to what is now Panna Maria. According to tradition, they reached the site on Christmas eve in 1854 and celebrated mass. They named Panna Maria after the Virgin Mary. For the next four decades, Father Leopold and his followers worked with an estimated 500,000 immigrants of Polish, German, Italian, Czech, Slavic and Spanish descent, a Polish priests' association spokesman said. The association said he served more immigrants from more ethnic groups than any other missionary in the United States. He was practical minded. "We know of letters of instruction he sent back to the old country about how to get passports, how to make currency changes, which booking agents were trustworthy and how to get jobs and housing," said Arthur Moczygemba, a spokesman who is serving as spokesman for the Polish priests. Moczygemba himself says he is a fourth-generation descendant.

Median Income Increases Faster Than Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The median income of U.S. households rose in 1973 to $10,512, more than $900 above the previous year, but inflation kept the actual gain in purchasing power to a bare 2.1 per cent. The Census Bureau reported Wednesday that household income in total dollars rose by 8.4 per cent from the $9,696 median recorded in 1972. The percentage boosts in total dollars and purchasing power were the same as those reported by the Census in July for family income, which rose to a median $12,051 in 1973. The median is the point at which half of the incomes are above the figure and half below. Family income encompasses the 55 million units of related persons, while the almost 700 million households include families, unrelated persons sharing a home and persons living alone. The Census figures showed that the highest average incomes were in households in non-farm areas and headed by white men 45 to 54 years old.

Lone Star Seeks New Gas Rate Hike

DALLAS (AP) — Lone Star Gas Co. has applied to the Texas Railroad Commission for permission to increase its rates 8.6 cents per thousand cubic feet. He traced the ground rules for the series of meetings leading to the summit. "We can't waste time stating and restating the problem," he said. "The problems are obvious..." Ford said when the conferences are complete he hopes "there will be greater areas of agreement than disagreement." "Where we disagree it will be necessary for the President and Congress to make some difficult decisions," he said. "Our political system is designed to do just that..." The participants in today's meeting represent a range of

Housing Authority Seeks Project Bids

(Continued From Page 1A) noted that most of the public housing sponsored by HUD is of a single-story design, but said projects such as the Midland housing for elderly and handicapped persons is best suited to the high rise concept of construction. The builders noted that land requirements for single-story units would be more than 10 acres for the 100 units proposed and that only 3 1/2 to 5 acres would be required for the 100 units if they are confined into a high rise building of 5 to 7 floors. They said, however, it was usually the practice to combine a few single-story buildings in the immediate area of the single high rise building for administrative and other operational purposes. Members of the authority questioned the builders as to the differences in construction of units to be used by elderly and handicapped only. The builders said little difference between the two units is necessary. It was explained that larger doors and hand rails are the major requirements for the 10 units required to meet handicapped persons needs. The authority also asked the builders about air conditioning and heating for the high-rise type of construction and were told that single unit heating and cooling devices are much more economical than a complete central cooling and heating system. It was noted by the builders that hotel construction costs for central heating and cooling ran about $125,000 more than the single unit construction costs in buildings of 150 units and more. In other action the Housing Authority elected H. G. Abbot as the new vice chairman for the housing study group and approved payment of $1,500 to the city for the last authority's deficit spending. The authority also agreed to set the annual reorganizational meeting for the first Wednesday in November at 2 p.m. The meeting was originally scheduled for the first Tuesday in November, but was reset to stay in line with the regular meeting date of the authority.

Ford Will Travel To Pittsburgh

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has added another appearance to his rapidly expanding list of trips. Other upcoming trips include Detroit, Philadelphia, Indianapolis, Louisville and Barre, Vt.

Hoffa Loses New Attempt To Run For Union Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Teamsters president James R. Hoffa has lost another bid for permission to run for union office. U.S. District Judge John N. Pratt Tuesday denied without comment Hoffa's motion for relief from the stipulations of the clemency order that freed him from prison. In 1971, then President Richard M. Nixon signed an order commuting Hoffa's 13-year sentence for jury tampering to 6 1/2 years on the condition that he not engage in union activities until 1980. Hoffa has appealed the stipulation without success. In his latest bid he sought permission to campaign for the presidency of a Detroit Teamsters local, but said he would not actually take office unless a court grants him specific permission to do so. The judge turned him down.

Senate Ratifies Sea Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has ratified 65 to 0 an amendment to the 17-nation convention for the International Council for the Exploration of the Sea. The amendment requires a two-thirds affirmative vote rather than a simple majority for approval of the annual budget of the council.

Chiefs Of Staff Have Almost Total Turnover In 13 Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's nomination of a new Army chief of staff will complete an almost total turnover in the nation's highest military body over the past 13 months. The death of Gen. Creighton W. Abrams on Wednesday created a vacancy in the post of Army chief of staff, which Ford will fill some time after Abrams is buried in Arlington National Cemetery on Friday. Top level retirements and promotions since early August last year have brought new faces to the jobs of chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, Air Force chief of staff, and chief of naval operations. Only the commandant of the Marine Corps remains as before. Despite changes in four of the five members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, there is little prospect of any dramatic shift of policies. There could be some differences in style, with certain of the new chiefs less visible than their predecessors. Pentagon sources regard Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, Army vice chief of staff, as holding the reins of power. Weyand, youthful-looking and vigorous as he nears 50, has been a close collaborator with Abrams in shaping policies credited with shifting the Army out of its Vietnam-era slump. Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger, who wants those policies continued, is described by associates as holding a high opinion of Weyand. Pentagon sources said it appears unlikely that retired Army Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., who left the Army to become President Nixon's White House staff chief, will return to head his old service. Leaving Ford's options open, White House spokesman Gerald F. terHorst would not rule out the possibility that Ford is considering Haig to succeed Abrams. However, assignment of Haig to the Army as its chief of staff after he has been remote from its problems for most of the past 5 1/2 years, would cause resentment in the Army officers corps. Indications are that Haig, after recall to active duty, might ultimately head to Europe to replace Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, as supreme allied commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, although some reported opposition to Haig within certain NATO governments could complicate matters. The brief noted that should Judge Hill dismiss the case "without prejudice," it should not be taken that the state would in fact prosecute Jacobsen on state criminal charges, but that such an avenue would be open.

Poster Contest Judges Selected

Judges have been announced for the annual Fire Prevention Week poster contest here, sponsored by the Midland Fire Department and the Midland Association of Insurance Agents. Asst. Fire Marshal Jack Roberts said the judges will include County Judge Barbara Culver; Stan Jacobs, chairman of the art department of Midland College; Scott McKee of McKee Insurance Agency, and Bill Tarver, Midland Fire Marshal. Judging will take place Oct. 2 in the Midland High School annex. Sept. 30 is the deadline for submitting posters to officials at private and public schools. Winners at the elementary, junior high school and high school levels will each be presented a trophy and a $25 savings bond. Second and third place winners will receive ribbons and prizes. The seven semi-

Judge Hill has questioned whether the special Watergate prosecutor's staff in Washington can make deals involving a completely unrelated case. The attorney general's brief dealt with that issue. The brief noted that should Judge Hill dismiss the case "without prejudice," it should not be taken that the state would in fact prosecute Jacobsen on state criminal charges, but that such an avenue would be open.

October Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford probably will meet with Mexican President Luis Echeverria in October at a location along the U.S.-Mexican border, White House officials said Wednesday.

Ford Presses Anti-Inflation War Planning

(Continued From Page 1A) stressed the need for cooperation in finding solutions to such problems as rising prices and high interest rates. "There is no quick fix for what ails our economy," he said, but "I refuse to believe the best brains in America and the smartest workers in the world cannot find a way to get the productive machinery of this great country back on the track." "The burdens of the battle against inflation will be lighter if every American, all 200 million of us, lends a hand," Ford said.

economic viewpoints, from former Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz to Harvard economist J. Kenneth Galbraith, one-time adviser of Democratic presidents. On the eve of today's meeting, Ford witnessed the swearing in of Alan Greenspan as chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers and said both he and Greenspan are optimistic about the economy. Greenspan, who left his New York consulting firm to succeed Herbert Stein in the key post, is known to favor as little government interference as possible in the economy. "I like his approach," Ford said. "He is re-organized as an optimist..." The President acknowledged the economy is plagued by severe problems, but added, "We have to be optimistic about what we can do about it..." That attitude is helpful and beneficial as we face some of the problems and hard decisions ahead." A follow-up meeting has been scheduled for New York on Sept. 23, with the economists presenting detailed papers to be submitted to the full summit conference later that week. Prior to the initial conference, White House coordinator

L. William Seidman and White House Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst said it was unlikely Congress could act this year on any major proposals flowing from the summit. This view brought expressions of dismay from some congressional leaders. "We just can't wait too long before some action is taken, because inflation and unemployment are both increasing," said Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield. Mansfield said he would continue to press for reimposing wage and price controls, a move opposed by Ford and his advisers.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 52 degrees at Dalt in the Panhandle up to 70 at Brownsville at the tip of the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Wednesday's top marks went no higher than 88 at El Paso and McAllen. The Associated Press reported.

Government Says Sugar Prices To Continue Climb

By DON KENDALL
 WASHINGTON (AP) — A five-pound bag of sugar that cost 85 cents last January is $2 today, and the government says consumers will see sugar prices increase further before settling down. "Retail prices will continue to rise for some time to adjust to the current high wholesale prices," the Agriculture Department said on Wednesday. "Higher sugar prices are also an important factor in explaining higher prices of sugar-containing foods and beverages." The department said in a food situation report that despite soaring prices, sugar consumption is equaling last year's level of 102 pounds per person and that adequate supplies are available. The report said that during the second quarter of 1974 consumers nationally paid an average of almost 25.4 cents per pound for sugar, or about $1.27 for each five-pound bag. In April-June last year, a bag cost 73 cents or slightly more than 14.6 cents per pound. A five-pound bag of sugar sold in chain stores in the Washington area Wednesday for $1.95, or 39 cents per pound. But the world's sweet tooth has bitten off such a huge bite the past year that sugar stockpiles have been reduced and prices are soaring on the international market. And the U.S. prices this summer has been the highest of all. Prices of raw sugar headed for refineries appear to be leveling off and may drop slightly, the report said. But with retail prices still catching up with recent wholesale increases, consumers are not expected to see relief soon. The report did not predict what shoppers can expect in coming months, although it did raise the possibility of some relief later on as the result of larger sugar output in the year ahead.

Ford To Work With Environment Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmental Protection Administrator Russell E. Train says President Ford wants to work directly with agency heads on major policy decisions "and not be shielded by his staff or by opinion papers." Train, who never met privately with former President Nixon, discussed environmental issues with President Ford for 45 minutes Wednesday in the White House Oval Office. Delighted at the result, Train reported in an interview: "He personally expected me to see him personally whenever I had a major issue to discuss. He also expected me to have a regular appointment with him every month or two." Uncertain over the White House "ground rules" for discussing the meeting with a reporter, Train placed a quick telephone call and then relayed the reply: "They said the ground rules were tell him anything he wants to know."

Operation On Tiny Baby Called Success

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Surgeons here say an operation to save the life of a week-old baby so small he could be cupped in the doctor's hands has been a success. Lee Allen Bailey was born Aug. 19, about a month prematurely, at the University of Kentucky's Chandler Medical Center. He weighed just over a pound. Doctors say such infants usually cannot live more than six hours. But despite his size, Lee, the son of Rainey and Nora Bell Bailey of Ashland, Ky., showed signs of vitality. He was placed in a special intensive care unit and carefully watched. Physicians observed that he couldn't keep food down. They took an X-ray which showed that the infant had a bowel obstruction. They said that without an operation, the child would eventually die from lack of nourishment, but the chance of success in operating on so small an infant was slim. The baby was fed intravenously until a team of three surgeons and two anesthesiologists was ready to perform the operation on Aug. 28. The surgeons, led by Dr. Juda Z. Jona, worked for three hours, using instruments designed for delicate eye surgery to remove the obstruction and to insert tubes in the baby's stomach and bowel, which was about the size of a shoestring. Jona said on Wednesday the operation is considered a temporary one enabling the baby to carry on body functions and to grow. Lee has now doubled his birth weight.

Signing Of Treaty Between U.S., Canada Is Urged For Gas Supplies

SEATTLE (AP) — A formal treaty between the United States and Canada must be signed to assure U.S. consumers of future natural gas supplies, a panel of gas company officials said. Such a treaty would allow the companies to advocate construction of a $7 billion trans-Canada pipeline to tap natural gas resources in Northwest Canada and Alaska. Companies were hurt last winter when British Columbia raised the price of gas and taxes on it. The officials said Canada told American consumers they would have to take the brunt of a cutback in Canadian production. "The Northwest currently imports 70 per cent of its gas from Canada, and that country is faced with a new cutback this winter. The utilities held the news briefing Wednesday afternoon in anticipation of hearings by the Federal Energy Administration scheduled to begin Thursday. FEA regional administrator Jack Robertson has said new cutbacks could hurt the region. James A. Thorpe, president of Washington Natural Gas Co., said 788 of his company's interruptible gas customers faced curtailments. Of those, 200 are in the heavy industrial classification and may have gas curtailed from 75 to 90 days. The balance could lose gas for only 10 days. "We have contacted all heavy industrial users twice," Thorpe said. "They were told to develop alternate sources of energy to take care of themselves. We have every reason to believe they have done so." The executives coming from the Cascade Co., Washington Natural Gas, Washington Water Power of Spokane and Los Angeles' Southern California Gas Co., appeared to favor a Canadian gas pipeline route. The alternative would be a pipeline across Alaska to run parallel to the oil pipeline now under construction.

New TESCO Generating Unit Open House Slated Saturday

Texas Electric Service Co. will put its newest generating unit on public display Saturday during an open house for all area residents at the Permian Basin plant near Monahans, C. Winston Barclay, TESCO's Western Division manager, said today. Tours of the new facility will be conducted from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. The 540,000-kilowatt Permian Basin No. 6 unit, largest in West Texas, was completed in time for full service this summer, Barclay said. The new unit tripled the generating capability of the plant to 707,000 kilowatts. The plant which supplies power to Grand Prairie, now represents 18 per cent of the company's total generating capacity. The Permian Basin plant began operation in 1948 with two 13,000 kilowatt units. Two similar units began operating in 1949 and the 115,000 kilowatt No. 5 unit was added in 1958. The primary fuel at the plant is natural gas, but oil is kept on hand for standby purposes and for peak operation, Barclay explained. To provide additional back-up fuel supplies, TESCO this year will increase the oil storage capability of its entire system to approximately three million barrels. All of the storage is for residual oil, which is not used for engine operation or home heating. In addition to the Permian Basin plant, the company operates six other gas-oil plants in Fort Worth, Graham, Wichita Falls and Colorado City. TESCO also is developing other fuel sources in East Texas, the company has one plant which uses lignite coal for fuel and is now building two others. It also is planning to construct a nuclear-fueled plant near Fort Worth. The first 1,150,000 kilowatt nuclear unit is scheduled for service in 1980, followed two years later by a second unit the same size. The company expects to spend $725 million on new construction during the next five years, more than it has spent in the last 21 years combined.

Weather Delays Kirk Interment

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (AP) — The interment of Premier Norman Kirk was delayed today when bad weather forced the three planes carrying the casket and the mourners to return to Christchurch. The coffin and the mourners were transferred to cars for the 140-mile trip road trip to Waimate, the village where the 51-year-old Labor party leader was born and where he was to be buried beside the graves of his parents. Kirk died last Saturday of a heart seizure in a Wellington hospital after months in poor health.

Septemberfest Beckons!

Septemberfest! Yes, Septemberfest... and here it is, time once again for celebrating in traditional "oom-pah" style.

It's interesting, the type of celebrations for which communities become noted.

It's somewhat strange that a celebration with a "tinge of the old country" would catch hold as it did in Midland, in Wonderful West Texas...

Septemberfest, in a comparatively brief period of time, has become one of the region's most popular entertainment events, as evidenced by the larger and larger crowds which attend it each year.

The sixth annual staging of Septemberfest is scheduled Saturday at the Museum of the Southwest, beginning at 6 p.m.

The previous events have been tremendous, but the 1974 entertainment well may be termed "spectacular." Sponsors of the unique celebration, more determined than ever to make this the Tall City's "biggest and best" entertainment attraction, have come up with a "show" which is bound to please the most fastidious persons of the Permian Basin Empire.

It is billed as a family affair, with many and varied treats of a delightful nature in store for mama, papa and all the youngsters.

The internationally famous "Big Name" Band of the Midland Downtown Lions Club, and the far-famed Felix Pehl German oom-pah band from Fredericksburg will be back this year to greet the crowds and to entertain them while there. But this is only one phase of the evening's entertainment.

A brand new feature is "Kinderfest," which is for the children. There will be clowns, acts of magic, art, sing-a-long, games galore, performances by the Pickwick Players, and rides in a pony-drawn cart.

And while the children are enjoying themselves, parents and grandparents will be dancing, singing, eating, and taking in all the sights. The Polka Dance Club from Wall will perform here for the first time this year. The Tall City Twirlers also will be "doing their thing" as a special entertainment feature.

One thing the sponsors learned last year—don't run out of food! And the 100-member food committee pledges that this will not happen this year. Four large food booths will be in operation. Enjoy a full German dinner if you like. Or perhaps you would prefer a "Wurstwich" or some of the other old-country delicacies.

These are only a few of the highlights. Take your choice.

Septemberfest is a tremendous event, and in addition to providing top entertainment, it also serves as a fund-raising function for the Museum of the Southwest.

One bit of advice... Don't Miss It!

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson and Les Whitten Say: Turkey never intended to honor Cyprus accord.

WASHINGTON—On July 30 in Geneva, the foreign ministers of Britain, Greece and Turkey solemnly affixed their signatures to a Cyprus cease-fire agreement. The British hailed it as "the first step on a long, hard road." To the Greeks, it represented "the starting point of a fair settlement." As far as the Turks were concerned it apparently was an act of hypocrisy.

This is the message that emerges from a document we have obtained from highly placed diplomatic sources. It is entitled "Operation Order No. 1," and it lays out the plan of attack used by Turkish forces to capture Cypriot towns near Kyrenia.

It is dated July 30—the very day Turkey's foreign minister, Turan Guner, signed the Geneva agreement. At the precise moment the Turks were declaring peace, in short, it appears they were secretly planning to attack.

Although the document came to us from reliable official sources who accept it as genuine, there is no way we can completely vouch for its authenticity. We asked several experts at the State Department and Pentagon to examine it and give us an informed opinion. They timidly refused to even look at it.

We took it to the Turks and invited rebuttal. An embassy spokesman told my associate Joe Spear that he recognized the names of the Turkish officers listed in the operation order. And he acknowledged that the word "Kartal," used in the document, was the code name for Turkish operations in Cyprus. It means "eagle" in Turkish, he said.

The spokesman then declared that any further comment would be "impossible." The Turkish military, he said, "doesn't tell us anything."

The "mission," as laid out by the operations orders, reads: "The 28th Division having the objective of extending and ensuring the security of the area occupied will attack on the 30th of July and occupy a line running from Hill 1023 West of Lapithos-Dassi-Sisklipos villages."

The Turkish attack actually began on July 31, not July 30. But the assault unfolded exactly as outlined in the plan.

The 1st Infantry Regiment will move along the Road Sisklipos—and the Sisklipos valley east of the villages Krini-Agios Ermolaos, following the Commando Brigade which will cover the regiment.

The armored battalion of the armored brigade, with the tanks landed in the region of Kyrenia, will move towards Plantani village along the road Bogari-Kyrenia-Agios Georgios. It will attach the three tanks of the 28th division. The tanks of the tank battalion in the area of Krini together with the 230 Infantry Regiment will form a task force.

The amphibious regiment will occupy the Karvas area and will reconnoiter the enemy. The commando brigade will attack with its units situated in the area of Sisklipos and TOM TIEDE Who's To Protect Us From Our Protectors?

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Although it has not been entirely confirmed there is general agreement now that civilian officers kept very tight control over military commanders during the tense period of Richard Nixon's resignation. Defense chief James Schlesinger is said to have worried prudently about "a military intervention into the constitutional process."

The latter is a polite phrase for a harsh matter: military coup. Skeptics deny the possibility only at the nation's peril. Through the American military has been among history's more obedient armed forces, and though it is at least the most pious machine ever generated by businessmen and academics, it is a group not entirely peopled by angels. Institutionally the services subscribe to democracy; but individually, at least on occasion, it is a different matter.

I have in mind an example of a Marine lieutenant, the illustrative suggestion of a California lawyer named Doug Sorenson. Last summer this lieutenant, who shall remain nameless here, brought court martial charges against an enlisted man whom Sorenson was hired to defend. The facts of the case are of no consequence now, nor is the guilt or innocence of the enlisted man. What is important, and shocking, is Sorenson's recollection of the attitudes and opinions of this service officer which, though certainly atypical, should be read with care by confident citizens who worry not at all about the U.S. military.

During the course of an interview between attorney Sorenson and the complainant lieutenant, the subject matter strayed from legalities and into philosophies. In this respect the officer admitted an intellectual health that can only be described as grim. When asked about his observations on justice, for instance, the lieutenant replied: "I don't think the system of justice works. I believe that might makes right. If all there is in you and me and a hamburger, if you whip me then you have the right to the hamburger. I don't believe in sharing just because we're both human beings and we're both starving."

Beyond this, the lieutenant admitted no belief in compassion either. Not even for his fellows in the service. During one portion of the interview he stumbled into the subject of the men of the USS Pueblo, who in 1971 surrendered and were taken prisoners by the North Koreans. The lieutenant said he was angry that these men, who survived beatings and torture, were allowed to return to the United States alive: "I thought they were gonna hang beaucoup soon as they (returned). Yes, sir. They (the U.S. military) should have shot them in front of the masses, thousands."

Finally, and most gruesome of all, the Marine officer gave his comments on his profession. A good soldier, he said, is a lot like a good Nazi: "There is no doubt that Adolf Eichmann was a very poor person. He may have been sick, I don't know. But he killed a lot of people. He was responsible for the deaths of many, many people. But there is also no doubt that he was an outstanding soldier. He was a terrific soldier. By God, he got the order and he carried it out."

As mentioned before, it must be hoped that the attitudes of this particular military man (who, by the way, is still in uniform) are isolated. But experience indicates that they are not as rare as they should be in the services. Men with similar views have worn stars and commanded legions. Though all in the service swear or affirm allegiance to the Constitution, military annals are crammed with an arresting assortment of examples of men putting patriotism above democracy. There is a retired general in Texas, for one, who believes military rule in America is inevitable; as he put it, "If we ran everything like a division, we wouldn't have half the problems."

This is not to say the hob-nail minds seriously threaten the military. Indeed the dimwits now as always are a very small minority. Just the same, there may be growing cause for concern. The military no longer draws its majority from the ranks of suspicious civilians—

THE CONSUMER ALERT—Differences Cited In Health, Natural Foods

By JOHN L. HILL, Texas Attorney General. AUSTIN — The health food industry has become a billion dollar business in the last few years, for a number of reasons. Perhaps one of the most significant is the desire of some persons to return to a simpler, more natural way of living. Also, some people are concerned about the state of the environment and its effect on the foods that are available for human consumption. In addition, some people want to protest the increased use of food additives and the advertising claims for certain foods by choosing alternatives to "supermarket foods."

Yet sometimes, the consumers purchasing "health" or "organically grown" foods and frequenting "natural food stores" don't really have a clear idea of what such terms mean.

- 1. Get all the facts necessary to make an informed decision about the advantages and disadvantages of such foods. 2. Consult your physician about using any special diet, diet supplements, or vitamins to correct a health problem. 3. Patronize a reputable merchant or supplier to make sure you get what you pay for. 4. Examine food labels to see that ingredients are as represented. 5. Check the shelf life or expiration date of health foods carefully. Since some contain no preservatives, this is important. Perishable foods must be used quickly or refrigerated.

Nixon Not To End

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The president's day in office will end in a fight, it is predicted by Eisenhower law. "It's because that history will simply be the country for six months, give chaos..."

Nixon's Family Decided Not To Fight To Bitter End During Last Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the last days of Richard M. Nixon's presidency, his family decided it would be useless to fight to the bitter end, says David Eisenhower, Nixon's son-in-law.

"It became our conclusion that history will treat this administration just as unkindly simply for the sake of grinding the country down for another six months, given the economic chaos," Eisenhower said.

In a luncheon interview three weeks after Nixon surrendered the presidency, Eisenhower, 28, discussed the family's reaction to the politically fatal June 23 tape recordings and Nixon's decision to resign.

"I think he was surprised by the fact that his family was willing to go through it, if need be," Eisenhower said.

He also said it would be a good idea if Nixon ran again for public office. "He's been defeated... he's been bitter. He's been all the rest in the last year and a half," Eisenhower said. "But in calmer times, under different circumstances, the man has a heck of a lot to contribute."

"If he went into the Senate, I think it would be a good idea... But I'm positive he's not thinking about it now."

Asked if he thought Nixon lied to the country about his knowledge of the Watergate cover-up, Eisenhower said, "I don't know. I don't know what's on the rest of the tapes. I'm not going to pass judgment on that."

Nixon was reluctant to tell his family about the damaging contents of the June 23 tapes, Eisenhower said. On Friday, Aug. 7, three days before admitting publicly that he had attempted to thwart the FBI's Watergate investigation, Nixon telephoned Julie and told her "something very serious had come up, that he'd probably have to resign."

He summoned daughter Tracy and her husband Edward

Cox from New York and close friend C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo was in town at the time, Eisenhower said.

The family gathered in the privacy of the second floor of the White House. The then-president supplied transcripts and instructions "to think about it a little while and come back," Eisenhower said, without revealing exactly what Nixon told his family.

On Wednesday, Aug. 7, a day before he announced his decision to the country, Nixon told his family he would resign.

"We were concerned whether the smoking pistol was here or not, whether the innocence or so-called guilt. However the issues were resolved, as a family it was best to remind ourselves that 1968 was not a mistake, that if the Nixon administration came to a premature end, so be it."

Eisenhower stressed that the Watergate tragedy has not ended for Nixon. "There's still something very direct and very threatening at issue right now," he said. "He's already been subpoenaed... It's clear he has financial trouble... but certainly a candid memoir would be worth a tremendous amount of money."

Waldheim Returns To U.N. Offices

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim has returned to his office for the first time in 18 days, following a tour of eight countries and a bout with a stomach ailment.

The 55-year-old Austrian statesman came down with gastric enteritis when he returned home from the 11-day trip. He spent a week convalescing in a New York hospital and at home.

Returning to his office Wednesday, he met with U.S. Ambassador John Scali and Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik to discuss his visits last month to Cyprus, Greece and Turkey.

Planning, Zoning Panel Okays Eased Trailer Use Ordinance

Midland Planning and Zoning Commission has stamped approval on two items that will allow the use of trailers on commercial property and give more flexibility in development of inner-city vacant lots.

The commission agreed that a temporary trailer ordinance for protection purposes on commercial property was needed because the old ordinance dealt with residential trailer uses only.

The special mobile home permit for C-2 property (and below) would allow the city council to waive the requirements of occupancy by the owner or his immediate family. The addition does not allow for any changes in mobile home usage within residential areas.

The commission voted to approve a rewrite of the planned district concept that would take out the three-acre requirement and allow planned district development of vacant lots confined on both sides by prior residential development.

The commission noted, however, that complete control of the building still would remain in its hands. Any proposed townhouse, duplex or similar planned district would be approved for construction only if it was in keeping with prior area development, according to the commission.

The planned district rewrite also would include a provision to allow larger storage facilities to be built in back yards of residential property. At present the proposal would increase the storage facility size from 80 square feet to 160 square feet.

Commissioners, in other action, gave approval to Robert P. Conner on his request for a specific use (on-premises consumption of alcoholic beverages) permit at 302 Secor St. Conner has requested that he be allowed to operate a private banquet room for special events at that location.

Approval was given to a request by Barker and Day, applicants, for a specific use (day nursery) permit for their location at the corner of Park and Midkiff Streets. The applicants gave proof of Welfare Department approval to operate a 15-child facility from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays.

Possible Pilot Error Eyed In Air Crash

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The possibility of pilot error is being investigated in a plane crash that killed three persons Tuesday, including the nation's first husband-wife running team to serve in the Vietnam War.

Federal authorities said the finding of a plane wing 2,000 feet from the crash site could indicate extreme stress due to overreaction from the pilot.

At the controls of the light aircraft was Robert A. Williams, 27, a hospital administrator from Florida. The 5-foot-11-inch, 170-pound Williams, 28, and their two-month-old son Jeffrey.

The couple drew attention in 1968 when the military allowed them to break tradition and serve together in a rugged mountain outpost in Vietnam.

They were visiting Cincinnati to show their new son to Mrs. Williams' parents.

E. J. McAvey of Chicago, investigator for the National Transportation and Safety Board, said there was no preliminary indication of mechanical failure.

Witnesses saw the plane break up shortly after takeoff from the suburban Blue Ash Airport.

McAvey said there was a strong possibility Williams may have experienced "spatial disorientation," a common problem in crashes involving private planes.

He said pilots not familiar with instruments become confused on flying into clouds and overreact.

"They pull back on the stick in basic to get above the clouds, he said, forcing stress on the wings.

The result, he said, is a tear in the outer fabric, causing the skin of the wing to expand "like a balloon and explode."

He said the plane wing had exploded.

President Appears To Be Showing Door To People Who Could Give Him Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford appears to have used the American Foreign Policy establishment as a refuge for people whose past identification with Richard M. Nixon could embarrass the White House.

Two of three major diplomatic appointments announced Wednesday fall in this description, according to U.S. officials and some foreign diplomats posted here.

The sources also included the White House decision to restore presidential chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr. to military duty, possibly as commander of NATO armed forces.

Ford named George Bush as the new head of the U.S. mission in Peking, ending his 21-month role as Republican national chairman.

Appointed ambassador to France was Kenneth Rush who served as Nixon's economic policy coordinator and who once taught law to Nixon.

"This certainly is not a question of Ford trying to show he is in command of foreign policy by these appointments," a State Department source said. "These are not his people."

A Western European diplomat agreed. "He's showing the door to some men who could give him trouble, but he is not hurting them either. These are good jobs, but they are out of the American sight-line."

Imported Water For Plains Seen Within 10 Years

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The Chairman of the Water Conservation and Development Task force says the recent drought conditions in the state have demonstrated that many small communities have inadequate water resources.

Gen. James Rose, the group's director, Wednesday predicted that there will be some form of water importation into the High Plains area within five to ten years.

Rose told members of the West Texas-based group Water, Inc., that the task force is completing short-range plans for the development and conservation of Texas water resources.

Rose noted that Gov. Dolph Briscoe considers water importation an issue with "top-burner priority."

Rose said water importation is one part of the task force's five pronged plan. He said the group's job is to study the water needs of the state for the next 50 years with or without federal aid.

Dodge Gives Better Choice In '75

DETROIT — Buyers turned from sport utility Ramchargers to Sportsman wagons and pickups, Dodge has assembled an across-the-board offering with great appeal.

While the entire industry's sales dipped below expectations during depressed conditions brought on by the energy crisis, Dodge was able to increase its market penetration," said Richard D. McLaughlin, general sales manager.

Dodge moved from seventh to fourth place in industry sales in 1974. And one reason is that the division offered dependable products with great overall appeal.

Coming off an all-time record year in 1973, Dodge is still in reach of its second or third best year in history.

"Dodge Dart is on its way to another division compact car record. And now, with an all-new line of intermediates heading changes for '75, Dodge strength is positioned exactly where the action is."

"Right On Stream" Our new 1975 entries put us right on stream in the fast-moving intermediate segment.

"We feel that our 1975 models represent the highest level of design from vehicle to vehicle that the division has ever introduced," said McLaughlin.

Dodge is introducing an all-new Special Edition as an intermediate specialty entry, an all-new series of Coronets, richer appearing Monacos and a variety of economy, sporty and luxury Darts.

Together with subcompact Colts introduced new for the calendar year, and a wide range of personal use-oriented vehicles two and three-seat wagons, The with fixed "opera" window, and flag-ship Royal Monaco in four-door sedan and hardtop Brougham comes in special luxury two-door hardtop version wagons.

Painting: Fun Or Miserable Mess?

By DAVID JORDAN
Written for Associated Press

Painting can be fun and easy or it can be a miserable mess, depending on how it is done. So before you start slinging paint around your home or apartment, here are some trouble-saving tips many other painters have picked up the hard way.

If you are painting finished furniture or woodwork, nothing beats a good overall sanding. If you are lazy, sand the parts that get the most wear. Then wash the whole thing with "liquid sander" to take off wax, dirt and grease and soften old paint so the surface is more receptive.

Always mask off woodwork when you paint walls (or the floor when painting woodwork) with a roll of inexpensive masking paper with one sticky edge. When you mask off a project, remove the tape while the paint is still wet; you'll get a smoother line.

Remove all knobs, hinges, and other hardware in preparation for painting furniture. Wood knobs are easier to paint if you put the screw back in part way and hold the knob like a popsicle; or set the knob on the neck of a pop bottle and spray paint. You'll save time and do a better job. If you are painting furniture with legs, drive a short nail in the bottom of each to boost them off the floor, so they won't stick to newspaper or whatever you use to catch drips. Place legless cabinets, chests, and the like on old magazines or wood blocks for the same reason.

When you open a can of paint, punch several holes in the groove the lid fits into. The paint slopped into the groove will run back into the can. When you put the lid on, it will seal against the side of the groove. At the end of a job — before you start taping the lid on with a hammer — drop an old rag over the can so you won't splash paint all over yourself. Smaller cans seal best if you set them flat on the floor and step on the top. To keep paint from drying out in storage, invert the can once to seal around the lid.

When painting, submerge your brush bristles only about a third into the paint, and the brush will be easier to clean later. Buy good quality brushes and take care of them. Don't bother with cheap ones; the bristles come out and they don't carry enough paint from the can to adequately do the job.

Cheap paint thinner or mineral spirits clean as well as turpentine and cost less. Of course, if you are using water-based paint, plain water or soap and water will probably do the job. It's not necessary to clean your brush between coats of enamel — just put a tablespoon of thinner in a plastic bag, stick the brush in, and tape the bag tightly around the brush handle.

Spray paint is handy for small projects, but because it's thin, plan to apply several light coats. If you use more than one coat, try using only one nozzle so you will have a clean one for the next job. In fact, it pays to board clean spray cans because it's nice to have spare ones on hand because they clog easily.

Most competing brands of spray paint aren't compatible, so if you are going to paint something with several colors, buy them all in the same brand. It's disheartening to see paint wrinkle and come off where colors overlap.

Pudgy Reruns Almost Ruined Wayne Newton's Career

By JERRY BUCK
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Wayne Newton said old television reruns showing him as a pudgy kid with a high voice almost ruined his career.

Today, minus 96 pounds and with a deeper voice, Newton, 32, is one of the hottest entertainers in Las Vegas and Lake Tahoe.

He stars in a new TV entertainment special — his first since 1969 — to be aired Sept. 29. Universal Studios has asked him to star in three TV movies, and he is considering the offer. But many people still picture him as the baby dumping seen on the reruns.

"Locked into any false image is a tough cross to bear," he said during a recent visit from his home in Las Vegas. He also had a ranch in Logandale, Nev.

"I don't like to say that I've got a new image because that sounds like something contrived," he said. "What happened was I just grew up. I was a child before. The old shows — like 'Lucy' — almost ruined my career. People thought of me as that kid."

"I did the 'Lucy' show 12 or 13 years ago, and it's been rerun at least 15 times. It still comes back to haunt me, although at the time I did it I was grateful."

At his peak, Newton weighed 265. His weight now steps between 170 and 174.

He lowered his singing key though his advisers told him it would hurt his career.

"It was killing me right after night to sing in high key, he said. "I was hoarse all the time."

A year and a half ago he played a dramatic part on "Owen Marshall, Counselor at Law." He was cast as a philosophy professor accused of the mercy killing of his child. Newton said, "It was a great opportunity for me to play a man my own age."

Newton said he wants to do more dramatic parts. As for a weekly variety show, he said, "I'd consider it if I could do it at leisure — and in Vegas."

Dedication Set For Federal Building, Post Office Complex

Friday To Climax Eight Years Of Effort

Federal Building and Post Office Complex

Mahon To Speak At Dedication

Congressman George Mahon, who largely was responsible for gaining a federal court and the new Federal Building and Post Office Complex for Midland, will be the speaker Friday afternoon when the multi-million dollar facility is dedicated.

Mahon, who formerly served as Mitchell County attorney, the House Committee on Appropriations, introduced and pushed to completion legislation creating the new Midland Odessa Division of the Western District of Texas Federal Court, when he was eight years old. He was reared on a farm and was graduated from the University of Texas at Austin, where he earned his LL.B. degree from the University of Texas School of Law in 1925. He also attended the University of Minnesota and holds honorary LL.D. degrees from several universities, including Texas Tech.

Mahon also is chairman of the Joint Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Federal Expenditures and is a regent of the Smithsonian Institution. He holds numerous awards, including the American Political Science Association's Congressional Distinguished Service Award; the George Washington Award of the American Good Government Society; and the Congressional Distinguished Public Service Award of the American Legion.

His 19th Congressional District includes the following counties: Andrews, Bailey, Castro, Cochran, Deaf Smith, Gaines, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Martin, Midland, Parmer, Terry, and parts of Dawson and Ector.

Friday's dedication of Midland's new Federal Building and Post Office Complex marks the climax of an eight-year history of efforts to consolidate federal agencies here under one roof.

Federal agencies previously had been housed in separate quarters throughout the city.

Completed in April, the federal center includes a one-story building for the U.S. Postal Service and a three-story complex that provides facilities for the U.S. attorney, U.S. marshal, Armed Forces Recruiting Stations, Department of Agriculture, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Internal Revenue Service, Treasury Department and Selective Service System. Additionally, it houses the offices of U.S. Rep. George Mahon.

A vehicle maintenance facility is located at the east end of the 200,900-square-foot triangular site formed by East Wall, Main and Front streets.

The building is contemporary in design with walls of brick and concrete. The predominant architectural feature is the strong horizontal lines provided by projecting concrete walls at each floor and at the roof line.

Under the direction of the General Services Administration's Public Buildings Service, the structure was designed by Neuhard and Babb of Midland and Covington-Shelton-Taylor of Odessa and was built by Area Builders of Odessa.

The key element of Midland's master plan for downtown development was cited in 1967 as the future building to house the then newly formed Federal Court for the Western District of Texas.

And in July of 1971 the U.S. District Court, Western District of Texas, set up quarters in the Midland Chamber of Commerce Building until the federal complex was completed.

Demolition and clearing of the proposed site began early in 1972 and construction on the buildings began in April of that year. In 1972 Area Builders of Odessa was awarded the construction contract as low bidder among seven applicants for the project.

Formal groundbreaking ceremonies for the complex were held in April of 1972 under the hand of Mahon and other federal and local dignitaries.

Prior to groundbreaking, Mahon had announced in June of 1971 that the Nixon budget would include funding for the $6.1 million project. Over $4 million was required in construction costs while some $767,000 was appropriated for the acquisition of land and $195,000 was spent by Congress for the planning and design of the Federal Building complex.

Other offices housed in the federal complex include the agricultural stabilization county office, soil conservation service, food and nutrition service, Department of Defense Investigative Service, Department of Labor wage and hour office, Federal Credit Union, and a U.S. magistrate office.

McCamey Man Hurt Critically

IRAAN — Lloyd Lee Hays, 39, of McCamey was listed in "guarded" condition in the intensive care unit of an Odessa hospital where he was brought for treatment late Wednesday following a one-car accident 20 miles south of Sheffield on State Highway 116, and the conference room in Room 115.

Hays first was taken to Iraan General Hospital and later transferred to the Odessa facility. The Department of Health, Safety and Welfare, County Department of Public Security officer Dean Watson of Iraan reported that Hays' car overturned at least four times.

Variety Of Federal Agencies Occupy Offices In New Center

Not too long ago — in fact, just prior to the opening of the Federal Building and Post Office Complex this year — federal offices were scattered in numerous buildings throughout the city. Now, all are located under one roof — that of the Administration Building which will be formally dedicated at 3 p.m. Friday, with Congressman George Mahon of Lubbock the dedicatory speaker.

In the building are the Department of Agriculture, including the Agriculture Stabilization and Education and Welfare Agency, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, including the Social Security Administration, is in Room 108, the Food & Nutrition Service, Room 106, the Internal Revenue Service of the Department of the Treasury is in Room 101, and the Federal Credit Union is located in Room 107.

The United States Judicial Branch includes the office of U.S. District Judge D. W. Suttle, Room 301; the district courtroom, Room 330; the U.S. judge in bankruptcy, Room 201; U.S. magistrate, Room 203; bankruptcy and magistrate hearing room, Room 202, and grand jury room, Room 225.

Rounding out the tenants in the new building are offices of the U.S. Department of Justice. The Federal Bureau of Investigation is in Room 217, the U.S. attorney is in Room 304 and the U.S. marshal's office is in Room 219.

The U.S. probation office is in Room 229 and the Drug Enforcement field office is in Room 120.

New Postal Facility Able To Serve Population Of 90,000

Holster Grew Up With Postal Service

By LUANNA CROW
It could be said that David Holster grew up with the Midland Postal Service, having begun work as a clerk in 1941 and having risen to the position of local and regional postmaster for the Midland-based regional Sectional Center Facility (SCF). He began work with the Postal Service just four years after the completion of the old post office on Loraine Street, which was recently declared as surplus property by the GSA after post office operations moved into the new Federal Building and Post Office complex at 200 E. Wall St.

90,000 by moving additional carriers to serve that many new houses."

The SCF operation entails servicing 365,000 persons within the 22,000-square-mile area in this region. Sixty-five postmasters report to Holster in his position as postmaster of the regional SCF postmaster.

Holster served in World War II as a multi-engine pilot and is now retired from the Air Force Reserve with the rank of lieutenant colonel. Among his various civic activities, he has served seven years as chairman of the Military Affairs Committee for the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

Having moved to Midland in 1929 and beginning work as a clerk 15 years later, Holster served in all the supervisory positions in the office. He was promoted from assistant postmaster to postmaster in 1961 and was named regional SCF postmaster 10 years later.

Of the new facility, the Post Office veteran said, "We're very, very pleased with it. We've felt that we needed new quarters for 25 years."

"When the old building was completed in 1957, the statement was made that the building would take adequate care of Midland's postal needs for a population up to 15,000 people. But as it turned out, we used that facility through 60,000 people with a few annexes in use during that time."

Holster said postal authorities "feel we can take care of our SCF distribution and a population of up to

Midland West Texas Mail Processing Hub

The hub of the U.S. mail processing in the vast West Texas area will be officially dedicated, as part of the new multi-million dollar U.S. Federal Building and Post Office complex, in ceremonies scheduled for 3 p.m. Friday.

The Postal Service will follow up with an open house Oct. 12, thus finalizing the move from the old headquarters on Loraine Street into the new facilities on Wall Street.

The new facility houses the Midland-based Sectional Center

Facility (SCF) Management office which is headed by Postmaster David Holster. The operational budget for this year totaled $13 million.

According to Carl O. Hyde, SCF manager of lobby programs, the facility serves 365,000 persons through its 66 post offices in a 22,000-square-mile area.

The Midland SCF region extends from Orla and Fort Davis on the west, to San Angelo and Eolia on the east, to Ackery and Gail on the north, and to Sonora and Ozona on the south.

The region is headquartered in the Tall City largely due to the available air transportation and the highway system which allow for speedy dispensation of the mails.

Hyde said the 66 post offices in the region employ 865 workers who handle 90 billion pieces of mail annually.

Midland employees number 257 and 264 motor vehicles are utilized in the Tall City operation, Hyde said.

The new facility offers a spacious area for operations as well as modern machines including a letter sorting machine. The lobby programs manager said over 50 per cent of the letter mail in the U.S. is now machine-processed, compared to a meager 10 per cent a few years ago.

Three-Judge Panel Weighs Decision In Medical Suit

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Defense and Education Fund claims Texas law will not allow a non-profit group to hire a doctor.

The state argues that the health organization wanted to direct the doctor's practice and are not competent to make such decisions.

Wood dismissed the suit earlier and an appeals court upheld his ruling but ordered a hearing by a three-judge panel.

Rodriguez Draws 35-Year Prison Term In Shooting

BYDNER — The jury of the 131st District Court late Wednesday night assessed David Rodriguez 35 years in the Texas Department of Corrections for assault with intent to murder a police officer.

The jury had returned a guilty late Wednesday morning after deliberating for half an hour.

Rodriguez was accused of shooting police officer J. L. Culler in the left arm with his revolver after Culler and officer Lemmy Lee had followed the car in which Rodriguez and several companions were riding the night of June 8.

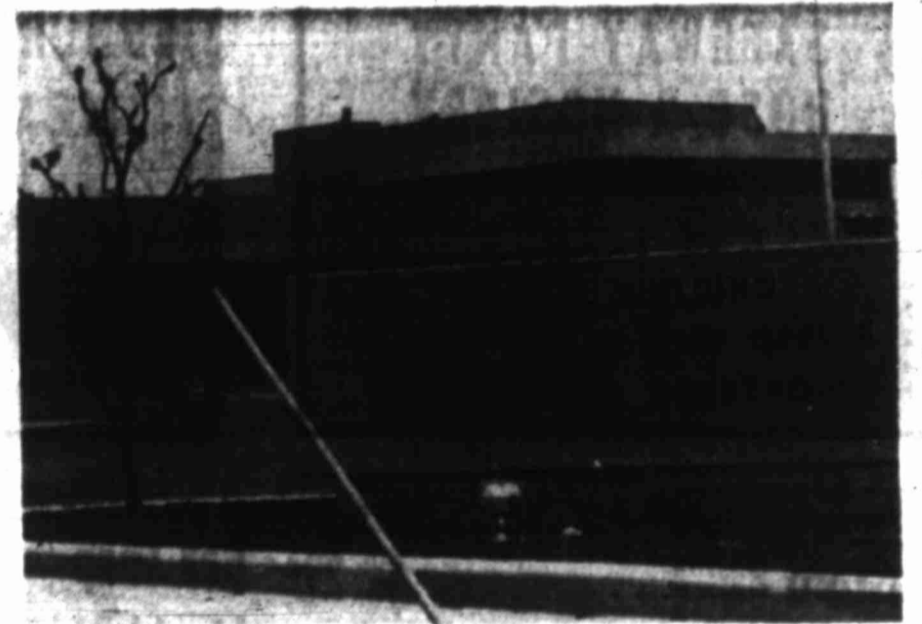

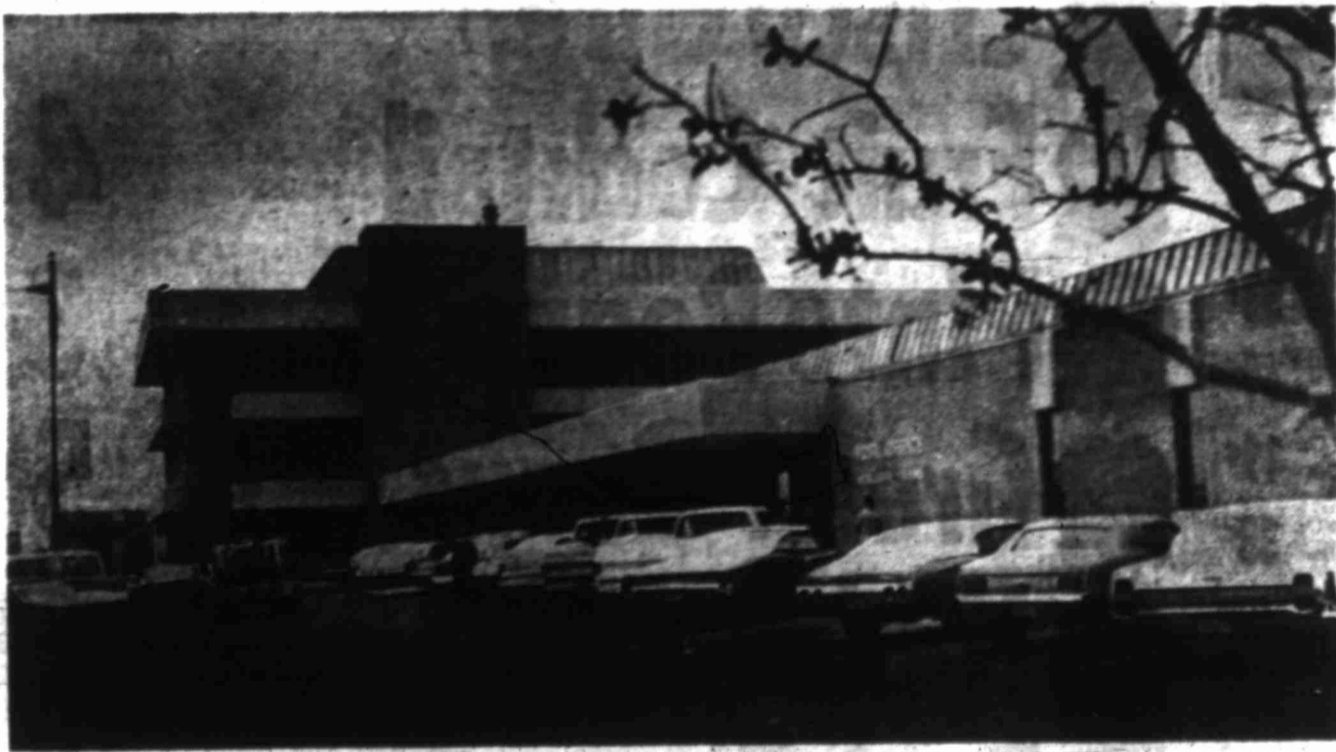

The trial, which had begun Aug. 28, was recessed Aug. 29 until Tuesday of this week due to the illness of a juror.

Kids Lack Sense Of Accomplishment Now

By TOM TIEDE
(Last in a Series)

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Not long ago in Maryland a 10-year-old boy took over a paper route from a friend. When he told his parents about the new enterprise, they were outraged. In the ensuing argument, the boy's mother slapped him and his dad threatened to cut out his allowance if "you ever do anything so foolish again."

Generation Gap
Defeated, the lad quit the route and returned to his former life: Watching tv or reading comic books each day after school.

Such is the stuff of the generation gap.

There was a time when children could be of use to their parents. In the largely rural and agrarian America of a century ago, children were expected to assume mature responsibilities. They helped on the farm, got jobs to supplement the family income. True, some were exploited, others brutalized in sweat shops, but historians say they had a sense of worth and accomplishment that is all but totally lacking in the nation of the Seventies.

Today, says child advocate and author Eda LeShane, there are few demands put on a child's own inventiveness and industry. A seven-year-old herder had something to offer in the 18th century, but his latter-day contemporaries are thought too feeble for work, too young for responsibility.

"We push them to excel in school or sports," grumps a Washington pediatrician, "but it's considered folly or unkind to give them anything else to do."

Affluence and comfort are aparently the key culprits in this conspiracy against children, says Richard Boone of the child-oriented Robert Kennedy Foundation. America looks on its children not as producers but as consumers. "We want them to stay in school, because that way they'll remain off the labor market for his kid than was done for him."

And we want them to spend their parents' money."

The function of youth today, Boone adds, is not to earn but to spend. "This is why adults are charged $3 for a Pablo Casals memorial recital, and kids $8 for a rock concert."

Plenty Of Cash
To be sure, the kids have plenty of cash. Surveys by the Gilbert Youth Research indicate the nation's 28 million teen-agers alone spend $15 billion annually: 90 per cent own radios, 86 per cent own record players, 22 per cent own automobiles. More important, they influence their parents on even bigger spending: Gilbert says perhaps 69 per cent of all cars and vacations purchased in the United States are inspired by kiddie comments.

The money is predominantly adult-earned. But this is in keeping with the protectionist theory of modern child rearing. Weekly allowance is Father's way of telling the world he's doing better for his kid than was done for him.

By the same token, a kid, with plenty of leisure time, who doesn't "have to" work, is another indication of parental success.

There is of course no fair reason to sniff at parents who want better lives for their children. Nor do any save primitives wish a return to the days when children marched to the coal mines with pop and grandpop.

Yet many observers feel the pendulum has swung too far to the side of comfort, to the detriment of the sheltered child. Psychologist Richard Farson says that since money is power, and also a measure of human independence, children by right should be allowed access to fair and decent employment: this way they "can exploit the system rather than be exploited by it."

But employment is only a small piece of the problem facing subjugated and over-protective children today. The larger word is: responsibility.

Many child advocates believe it simply isn't wise to keep youngsters under wraps for 16 to 18 years and then suddenly dump them into the competitive world. Says an official with the U.S. Office of Child Development:

'Hard To Adjust'
"We see what happens in every walk of life. In the number of young marrieds who get divorces, in the number of youngsters who Welch on debts, in the number of suddenly grown up people who become alcoholics — they find it hard to adjust in the real world, it's a lot of hit and miss."

Better, the advocates say, that kids pick up experience as they mature. But how can they when the adults in control rule otherwise? Recently a band of Boy Scouts volunteered to clean up the litter in a national park, but permission was refused because the park staff was unorganized.

Red Tape Discouraging
Children who attempt to enter the administrative dialogue of their schools are usually ignored and in some cases disciplined.

The Kennedy Foundation's Boone says the old canal which cuts through Washington, now in disuse, would be an ideal rehabilitation project for area youths but: "I'd hate to try to cut through the red tape."

Boone says adults, including adults in positions to help, are simply not willing to listen to the ideas of kids. This too, roots in the theory that kids should not be doers but learners in custody. Even the synonym for children — waifs, brats, wards — expose an adult prejudice of superiority.

And no doubt the opinion is only strengthened when, as in the late 1960s, some youth blew their opportunity at responsibility with excesses and arrogance; as a Washington police official remembers it, "The rowdies only reinforced the opinion kids should be seen but not heard."

'Prisoners Of Childhood'
Indeed, the giving of responsibility would carry no guarantee of thoughtful use. Perhaps the only absolute fact to come out of centuries of child studies is that kids are every bit as imprudent as non-kids. Yet this is no excuse for keeping them, as psychologist Farson puts it, "prisoners of childhood."

Reason dictates that as the world turns more rapidly its inhabitants need as much head start as possible to keep from falling behind.

Children, says family specialist Edward Zigler, are not nearly as fragile nor as stupid as adults have condemned them to be. Rather they are an enormous (73 million under 18) and potentially rich human resource still under the overburden of parental and societal intolerance.

A mind is too precious a thing to waste, at whatever age, and a nation that continues such squander, does so at its present and especially its future peril.

'Gringo Park' Gathering Place For Scores Of Retired Americans

By ALFONSO CHARDY
GUADALAJARA, Mexico — Its real name is Plaza San Francisco, but to most Guadalajara residents it is known as "Gringo Park." It is a small, tree-lined Mexican square dominated by a Spanish colonial church called San Francisco Church. Hence its official name. But scores of elderly retired American citizens gather in the park almost every morning to "watch the world go by," as one of them put it. Hence its nickname. "Gringo" is the usual name given Americans in Mexico. Guadalajara, a well-planned city of beautiful colonial buildings, fountains and ultramodern structures, is 200 miles west of the Mexican capital. It has a population of 1.7 million. The elderly Americans in Gringo Park are part of the estimated 15,000 retirees from the United States living in the Guadalajara area, attracted by a good climate, cheaper cost of living and the appeal of living in a foreign country close to home. Many of the retirees live in suburban areas in homes ranging in price from $50,000 to $250,000. For them life is peaceful and

But not for the Americans who gather daily in Gringo Park. They are among the 700 or 1,000 retirees who live in cheap hotels rooms or apartments in the downtown area of Guadalajara. Gabriel Romero, immigration department chief in Guadalajara, said they do not constitute a burden for the city because even if their income is low it is still more than most of the poor Mexicans in the area can boast. The Gringo Park Americans live on pensions, U.S. Social Security payments and interest from investments. Their monthly income averages from $200 to $500 a month.

Chuck Deane, president of the Guadalajara American Society, said his group organizes bingo games and provides guidance for these retirees. A retired train engineer from San Diego said he had invested his life savings of $15,000 in Mexican government bonds and teachers. They gather on benches at 9 a.m. and stay there gossiping and talking until noon when they leave for lunch. They return again the next day at the same time.

When Marvin Matuzak jumped from the Houston Oilers to the Houston Texans, it was precisely what the NFL owners claimed would happen if the players were granted their "freedom."

However, the whole strike issue may be settled by a couple of people not even involved in the strike, way off in San Francisco. That will come when William T. Swigert, a U.S. district judge, rules on the Joe Kapp suit against the NFL. Kapp, you'll recall, was allegedly blackballed from the NFL when he refused to sign the standard players contract with the Boston Patriots. Kapp's objection was the so-called Rozelle Rule and the reserve and option clauses. ...

Midland Seeks Repeat Of '73 Pigskin Triumph

By BOB DILLON
R-T Sports Writer

AMARILLO — Midland and Amarillo Tascosa are going to have to go some to top last year's exciting 23-21 victory by Coach John Reddell's Bulldogs, when they hit the turf at 7:30 p.m. Friday as they open the 1974 football season in Dick Bivins Stadium.

Last year, Tascosa scored late only to see a passing attempt for the two-point conversion knocked away and Midland was off to a 6-3-1 season while Coach Jocko Harris' Rebels wound up 8-2 and runnerup to Amarillo Caprock for the 3-4A crown.

Once again, this year, the Purple Pack will hold a weight advantage in the forward wall and the 5-4A eleven has good outside speed to boot in the triple-option wishbone attack.

"Tascosa runs out of the Slot I or Walking I formation," said Reddell. "They (Tascosa) like to do a lot of criss-crossing with their backs and use wingback James Mayberry on a lot of reverse plays," added Reddell.

Tascosa has 10 players going both ways while Midland inserts 11 fresh players on its defensive unit. Tom Dunlap may see some duty at a line-backer slot while Harris only substitutes either Sid Stockdale or Joe Harris at a defensive end in the place of Steve Bowers, who starts at a right tackle slot on offense.

Midland appears to be in near tip-top shape with the exception of Neil Hill, a 175-pound senior guard on defense who is out for four weeks with a cracked ankle. "Neil will be in a cast for four weeks and we will replace him with Randall McCleskey on defense," quipped Reddell. McCleskey also plays defensive end on defense too.

John Webb, 180-pound senior, inherits the quarterback slot and has looked good in pre-season play. Mike Gaddy, power-running fullback, heads a strong running attack. The 200-pounder is joined by Mike Hudspeth, 175-pound senior, and junior Kim Madden, a 150-pounder, at the halfback position.

Webb has tight end Sam Hubert, a 200-pounder, end and Rufus Johnson, tall and rangy receiver at split end, to throw to.

Bill Rhotenberry, (200) tackle, anchors down the line and is joined by Dunlap, Bruce Smith and Bill Newberry, all 195-pounders, in the forward wall.

Westerners Prepare Crying Towel Ambush

BY TED BATTLES

Midland Lee Coach Jim Acree says he gets worried any time the opposing coach brings out the crying towel, so by now he should have have his fingernails nibbled down to the first knuckle. That's the kind of picture Lubbock Coach Tommy Stone brings to the Memorial Stadium on Friday.

The Rebels and Westerners, who have been launching football seasons against one another ever since 1963, go at it at 8 p.m. Friday in Memorial Stadium. Everyone is invited, but to hear Tommy tell it, they ought to rate the game X and keep women and children away.

If you'll look at the series record, despite Lee's victories in the last three games, it has been a close rivalry down through the years, in a series that began back in 1961, Lee holds a 7-6 edge with last year's margin, 13-7.

"We are way down this year," says Stone, "with just

Connors Triumphs

Chris Boed On Her Way To No. 56

By KAROL STONGER
FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)

— Jimmy Connors, known as a wisecracker as well as a tennis wizard, feigned a few tears when Jan Kodes said he wouldn't bet on him, the favorite, in the final of the U.S. Open.

He also shook a fist in mock anger when he heard his bride-to-be, Chris Evert, had been booed and called a bad sport by the Forest Hills crowd that once loved her.

Two Players Left

"There are only two players left who can win — Stan Smith and John Newcombe," said Jan Kodes, the 12th-seeded Czech who was knocked off by Connors, 7-5, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2.

When asked where he would put Connors, Kodes apologetically said third.

"Third place ain't bad," quipped Connors, rubbing his eyes to dry tears that weren't there. "I'm the one who has to go out and play. That's why they put me out there."

"Until Sunday, no one will know who is best."

The men will be a step closer to determining a champion today during the men's quarter-finals round.

Connors Advances

The top-seeded Connors, seeking his third major crown of the year, met Alex Metreveli of the Soviet Union; Stan Smith and Roscoe Tanner were pitted in an all-American duel, and the other American left in the championships, Arthur Ashe, met defending champion John Newcombe. Aging Ken Rosewall faced young Indian Vijay Amritraj. Only Amritraj and Tanner are not seeded.

The women, who reduced their numbers to four Wednesday, meet in the semifinals Friday.

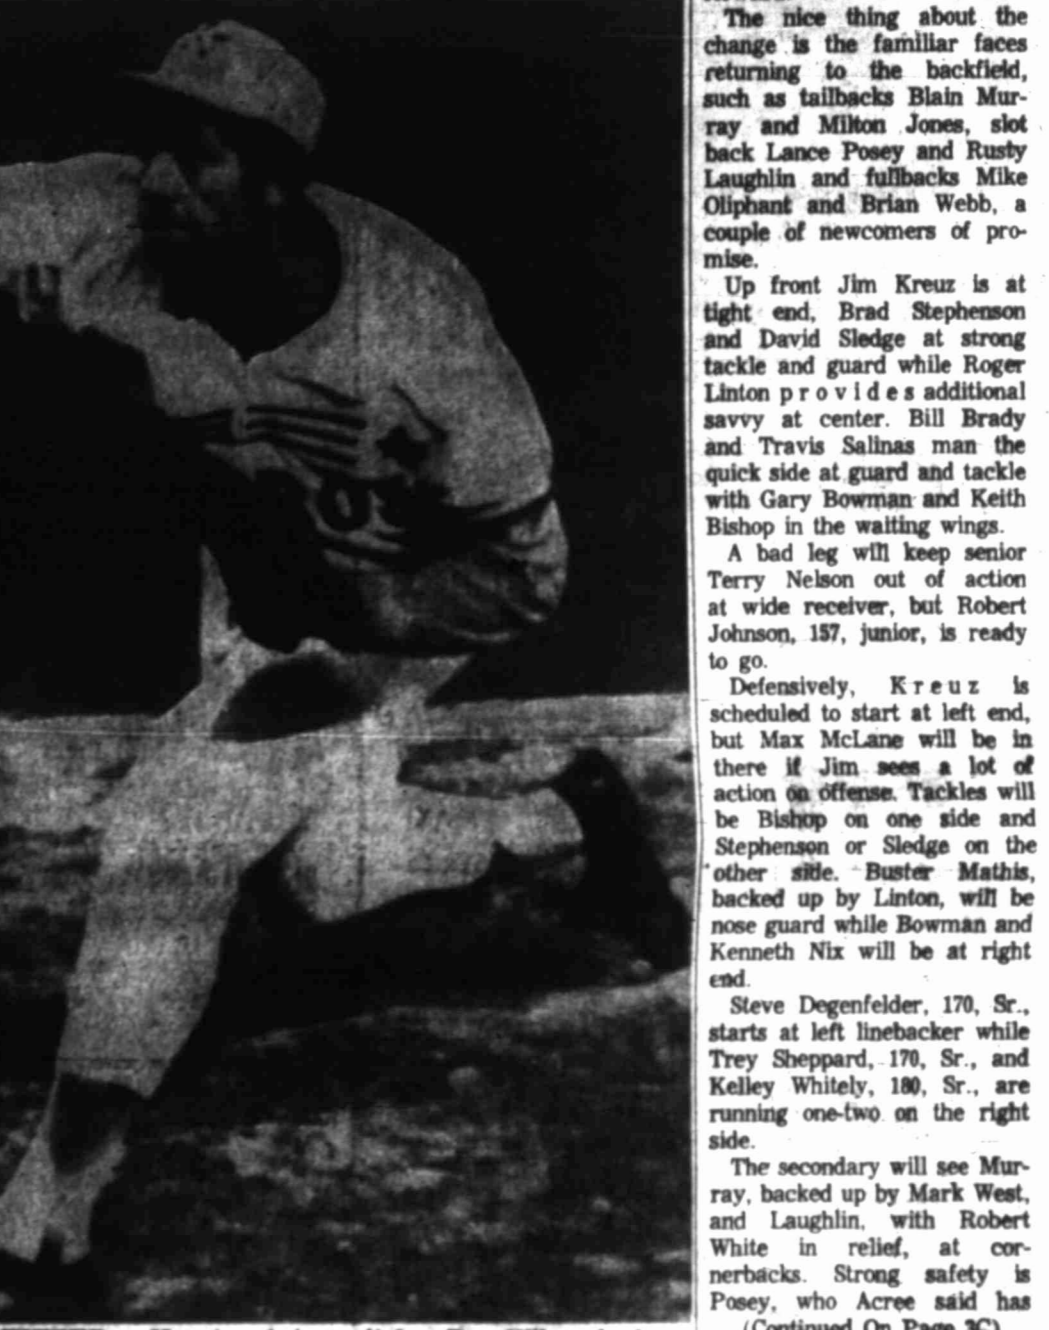

Miss Evert, the Wimbledon champion who won her 56th straight match when she beat Lesley Hunt, 4-6, 6-3, will take on another Australian, Evonne Goolagong — a player she has yet to beat on grass.

Billie Jean King will get a rematch against Julie Heldman, Miss Goolagong, who last beat Miss Evert in the Australian Open in January, advanced with a 6-4, 7-5 victory over Kerry Melville, also of Australia.

Ms. King beat her good friend and doubles partner Rosie Casals, 6-1, 7-6, and Miss Heldman downed Nancy Gunter, 7-6, 7-6.

LIFTED ON WAY TO NO-HITTER — Houston Astros pitcher Don Wilson had a no-hitter going for eight innings against Cincinnati Wednesday when he was derided for a pinch-hitter with the Reds ahead 2-1. Reds spoiled the gem against Mike Cosgrove in the ninth. (AP Wirephoto.)

5-4 IN 10TH—Toros Beat El Paso

VICTORIA, Tex. (AP) — In the sixth inning he had put Catcher Jay Klevin cracked a single with two in the 10th inning to drive in Greg Harts with the winning run as Victoria took the first game of the Texas League playoffs with a 5-4 victory over El Paso.

The two teams will play again tonight in the second of their three-of-five series.

Klevin's single off relief pitcher Larry Dierks was his second clutch hit of the night.

Hockey Tourney

NEW YORK (AP) — Four schools, Boston College, Brown, Cornell and St. Lawrence, have been invited to compete in the 13th annual Eastern College Athletic Conference Hockey Festival, it was announced today by Scotty Whitelaw, commissioner of the ECAC.

Victoria collected nine hits off three El Paso pitchers. One of the hits was a two-run blast by Randy Trapp in the first.

Dave Collins hit a solo blast for El Paso in the fifth inning and Rocky Jordan tied it 4-4 in the eighth with a two-run walk-off left field.

Dwight Bernard (7-4) will pitch for Victoria tonight while El Paso will go with Frank Panick (6-5).

Fergy Muddles To 1-0 Victory Over Minnesota

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — After Ferguson Jenkins stopped the Minnesota Twins on seven hits for a 1-0 victory here Wednesday night, you would have thought the Texas Ranger right-hander had pitched a bad game judging by the talk coming out of the dressing room.

"I didn't have a real good fastball, early," said Jenkins. "I wasn't getting it to good spots."

Said rookie catcher Jim Sundberg, "I didn't think he had very good stuff tonight. He couldn't get his fastball where he wanted it early in the game. But, when you can be erratic and still pitch like that, you are some pitcher. And he's some pitcher."

It remained for pitching coach Art Fowler to put the Jenkins performance in its proper perspective.

"How can you say he had an off night," said Fowler. "He pitched a shutout, didn't he? I thought he pitched a helluva game. That's why he's making all the money he is."

The shutout was the sixth of the season for Jenkins and tied him with Boston's Luis Tiant for the league lead in that department. It was the least pitcher's fourth 1-0 victory.

Jenkins, now 21-11, is also tied with Oakland's Catfish Hunter for the league lead in victories. He also is tied with Detroit's Mickey Lolich for the league lead in complete games with 25.

Wilson Lifted During No-Hitter

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Manager Preston Gomez repeated history in the Astros' 2-1 loss to Cincinnati Wednesday night and the result was the same—a loss for his team.

Astros starter Don Wilson, who pitched a no-hitter against Cincinnati in 1969, had another no-hitter through eight innings Wednesday night until Gomez pulled him for a pinchhitter and Wilson ended up the loser.

Across the field in the Reds dugout, pitcher Clay Kirby recalled a situation at San Diego when Gomez was his manager in 1970. Gomez with the Padres' skipper, pulled Kirby with a no-hitter after eight innings and Gomez's team lost that one, too.

"You have to do the best you can and forget the record," Gomez said. "This was not one of my toughest decisions. The name of the game is to win. He (Wilson) pitched a hell of a game."

Gomez was greeted with a chorus of boos from the sparcrowd of 8,024 when he lifted Wilson for pinchhitter Tommy Helms in the eighth inning. Helms grounded out.

"The fans didn't bother me," Gomez said. "They wanted it (the no-hitter). But I get paid for winning the ball game, not for no-hitters."

Gomez' decision backfired in the top of the ninth when Astros reliever Mike Cosgrove yielded Cincinnati's first hit of the game, a single up the middle by Tony Perez.

"Gomez just tried to keep them from winning," Cosgrove said. "I'm sure he (Wilson) is disturbed about things."

Wilson could not be reached for comment after the game. Teammates said he already had left the clubhouse.

Gomez said there was no discussion on the bench about the move. "I make my own decision," Gomez said.

All three runs in the game were unearned. Cincinnati got its two winning runs in the fifth inning when Pete Rose hit a grounder to shortstop Roger Metzger.

Metzger threw wild to first base and Oscar Gamble and George Foster, both walked by Wilson, scored.

Houston's run came in the seventh when Darrell Chaney bobbled a grounder hit by Cliff Johnson allowing Milt May to score.

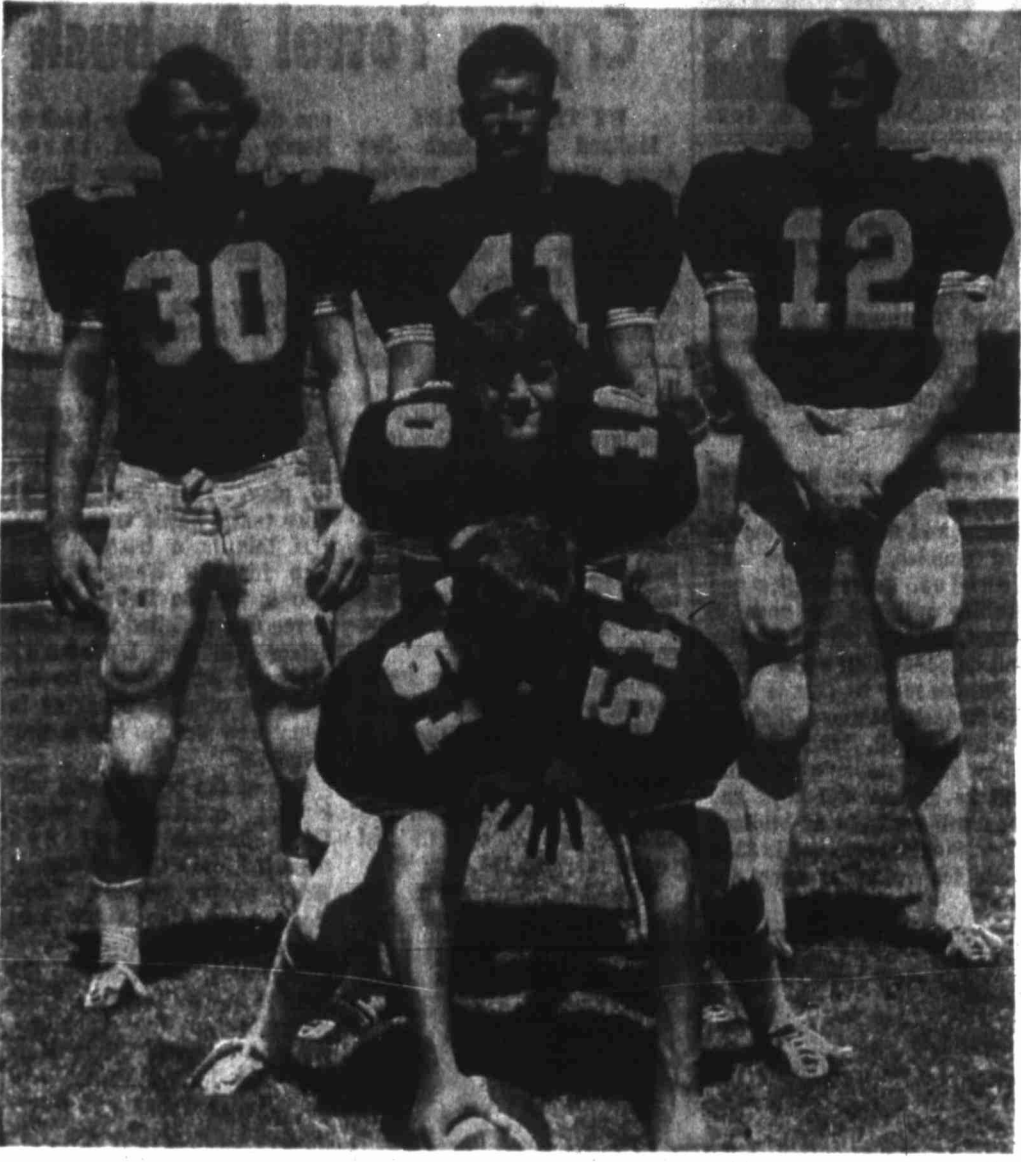

Almost lost in the uproar of Wilson's near no-hitter was the solid seven-hit pitching of Jack Billingham, who became the National League's first pitcher to win 18 games this season.

Kirby, more than anyone else, knew how Wilson felt.

"I had pitched eight innings of no-hit ball," he said, recalling the 1970 game.

Old Gangs Still Loose On West Texas Prep Grid Scene

ANDREWS FACES STEERS — The Andrews Mustangs open the 1974 grid season against the Big Spring Steers Friday night in Andrews, and these five players could play an important part in that game. David Vickers (51) center, Jamie Mosley (10) quarterback, Owen Randolph (30) fullback, Steve Duffy (41) tailback, and Phil Collins (12) wingback.

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

West Texas high school football is a bit like a bunch of wild gangs running loose on some city block, and just like in real life, some gangs get stronger and some weaker with each passing year.

These gruesome gangs start their seasonal run for domination Friday night and there are some new faces along with some old faces in the fold when the city blocks unfurl their colors for 1974.

In District 2-AAA, most feel that Monahan and Pecos again will battle it out for the block championship (no tire tools allowed), but the rest of the league may be stronger overall than a year ago.

The Andrews Mustangs happen to be a gang on the block that no one seems to know just where they will fit in. Coach Tommy Watkins' herd will give their first indication of just how strong or weak the gang will be Friday when they host AAAA Big Spring, a kid that is rated as a darkhorse on their on block, the tough District 5-4A.

Monahan will host Snyder

Friday's Action

District 3-AAA: Lamesa at Carlsbad, N.M.; Brownfield at Levelland, El Paso; Irvin at Lubbock; Dalhart, Pecos at El Paso; Lubbock Estacado (outgoing); Kerseyville; Toy at Lake View; Snyder at Abilene; Sweetwater at Abilene.

District 5-AAA: Big Spring at Andrews; Snyder at Monahan; Crane at Fort Stockton; Alpine at Kerseyville; Odessa at Amarillo; Canyon, Pecos at El Paso; Irvin; Bentlake at Dumas City.

District 2-AAA: Coahoma at Reagan County; Crane at Fort Stockton; McCamey at Iraan; Junction at Odessa; Coleman at Emory.

District 5-4: Plains at Marfa; Seagraves at Emory; X.M. Seagraves at Shallowater; Tahoka at Stanton.

District 6-4: Clint at Dool City; Eldorado at Rankin; McCamey at Iraan; Marfa at Imperial; Wink at Van Horn; Balmerhorne at Sanderson.

while Pecos, the other block bully, travels to El Paso Irvin to test just how strong it really is.

In District 3-AAA, Lamesa was the biggest bully on the West Texas street, winning a regional domination before being knocked off by Mount Pleasant on the way to state domination. This year the Turn face heavy losses from that street gang and hope to rebound this year with a new look—new that is with the exception of fullback Melvin Robinson, who walked the street at will in 1973.

Lamesa faces Carlsbad, N.M., on a foreign street Friday with new gang leader Coach Tom Koger at the helm.

For fans are waiting to see what hope there is in 1974 to again be the street bully.

In District 7-AA, the games seem to be prime for a new street leader, Crane's Golden Cranes and McCamey's Badgers, who have not had street leadership in a while, are tagged as rough and tumble crews. Crane will test its new found strength against AAA Fort Stockton while McCamey will test Class A Iraan. True parallels may be hard to come by in the first street action.

Reagan County, which whipped rival gangs to the tune of 9-2 a year ago, appears to be in a rebuilding year, and the Owls have the chore of hosting Coahoma, a bully that is listed as the No. 2 gang in the AA wars statewide. Sonora, the new kid on the block, will face Coleman in an AA initiation with everyone looking to see the outcome.

In District 6-A, Rankin's Red Devils have dominated their block for two consecutive years, and last year the Devils also won regional domination after knocking off a couple of undefeated toughies. Things don't figure to change much on this street, but Balmerhorne, whose only loss last season was to Rankin, is still on the block.

Rankin, however, got off to a slow start last year and was bistructured on the opening week by Eldorado. Eldorado is again the Devils' first opponent and this will be a street fight that will hold a lot of interest for street war prognosticators.

Stanton's Buffaloes have given up the District 7-AA street and moved to the District 5-A stomping grounds. Kids on new blocks are not often treated well, but most feel that the Buffs will establish superiority early and end the domination of the Plains Cowboys.

Coach Bill Young's Buffs will host Tahoka Friday in their first test, but true block courage won't be tested until much later.

Rebs Ready To Rebound

Jones, Posey Head Veteran Lee Returnees

By BOB DILLON

Coach Jim Acree's Midland Lee Rebels look forward to a banner season after last year's disastrous 3-7 reading which saw them only beat Abilene in loop play.

This year's version appears much stronger, more dedicated and closely knit than last year's outfit. At times in 1973, the Rebels played well. They only lost to Abilene Cooper, 12-7 and dropped a 14-14 decision to co-champion San Angelo and lost to Odessa Permian, 14-6.

Acree has 15 lettermen back including a pair of two-year winners in Milton Jones and Lance Posey. Jones, a 215-pound senior, has been switched to tailback from fullback while Posey is a halfback for the Rebs and weighs 150 pounds. It was Posey who took a kickoff 100 yards against Permian last year.

Other returning letter, include Keith Bishop, 218-pound senior who moves from offensive tackle to fullback, but still mans a tackle slot on defense. Greg Rendall, 160-pound senior quarterback is a letterman along with Bishop, Blain Murray, 155-pound tailback; Trey Shepherd, 170-pound strong back and defensive end and linebacker; Tom Cloyd, tight end and punter; Max McLane, 156-pound senior end; Terry Nelson, 149-pound senior split end and safety; Roger Linton, 160-pound nose guard; Brad Stephenson, 181-pound senior tackle; Gary Bowman, 161-pound senior guard; Buster Mathis, 165-pound senior guard on offense and nose guard on the defensive unit; David Sledge, 223-pound senior guard and Steve Degenfelder, 170-pound senior guard and linebacker.

Lee looked strong indeed against Lubbock Coronado in Lamesa last week as the Rebs posted a 3-1 victory over the Mustangs who are favored in 4-4A this fall over Lubbock Monterey.

Jones ran well with a pair of TD runs of 23 and 22 yards and Brian Webb, 170-pound junior fullback, scored from the 11.

Last year, Lee won 12-6 over Lubbock High's Westerners, Friday night's opponent in Memorial Stadium, but then only beat Plainview and Abilene the rest of the way.

Acree has moved Bishop into the backfield and the big senior and co-captain has shown good blocking ability, but has not carried that ball that much on offense.

Rendall, Bishop and Bowman are this year's co-captains which were elected by the vote of their teammates.

With anticipation, Lee is looking to a vast improvement this year and maybe even one as good as 1972 when they wound up 8-2 on the season, losing only to Abilene Cooper and Odessa Permian by scores of 7-3 and 14-13.

Orioles Blank Sox For Third Straight

The New York Yankees are red hot. The Boston Red Sox are red-faced.

Their individual predicaments have given some color to the American League East race.

The Yankees won their 16th game in 20 Wednesday with a 3-0 decision over the Milwaukee Brewers and climbed into a first-place tie with failing Boston in the East.

The embarrassed Red Sox made the tie possible by losing a 6-0 decision to the Baltimore Orioles, their sixth straight loss and their ninth in the last 11 games.

The win moved the three-place Orioles within two games of the top.

Baltimore's suddenly revitalized pitching staff not only beat the Red Sox in their three-game series — they humiliated them with consecutive shutouts.

Jim Palmer and Earl Williams combined to pace Baltimore's victory over the stumbling Red Sox.

Palmer, back on the active roster less than a month after 54 days on the disabled list, hurled a three-hitter. Williams, who has hit eight of his 13 home runs since Aug. 1, clubbed two solo homers and drove in three runs.

Yankees 3, Brewers 0

George "Doc" Medich pitched a five-hitter and retired 15 straight batters at one point to pace New York's victory.

Lou Piniella doubled home the first of two runs in the first inning as the Yankees beat nemesis Kevin Kobel.

Bob Oliver drove in two runs with a double and single to lead California over Oakland. Oliver doubled to drive in Bobby Valentine and then scored himself as the Angels scored twice off losing pitcher Vida Blue in the second inning.

White Sox 7, Royals 0

Jim Kaat fired a four-hitter and the Chicago White Sox erupted for six runs and seven hits in the fifth inning to beat Kansas City. Paul Splittorff was the loser.

Angels 5, A's 2

Bob Oliver drove in two runs with a double and single to lead California over Oakland. Oliver doubled to drive in Bobby Valentine and then scored himself as the Angels scored twice off losing pitcher Vida Blue in the second inning.

St. Louis within 1 1/2 games of the first-place Pittsburgh Pirates in the NL East.

With the score tied 4-4, Bake McBride singled to lead off the eighth, was sacrificed to second, took third on an infield out and scored on Dwyer's single to center.

Run-scoring singles by Mike Lum, Dave Johnson and pitcher Max Leon in the seventh inning lifted the Braves to their fourth consecutive victory and saddled San Diego with its ninth straight loss.

Mets 4, Cubs 2

"We're doing everything right now," said Manager Yogi Berra, whose Mets stretched their winning streak to seven games by completing a three-game sweep over Chicago.

Cardinals 5, Expos 4

Jim Dwyer's run-scoring pinch-strike in the eighth inning drove in the tie-breaking run and gave the Cards their fourth

Wynn's Homer Sinks Giants

By The Associated Press

Jimmy Wynn's three-run homer in the 11th inning powered the Dodgers to victory, maintaining their 2 1/2-game lead over Cincinnati in the NL West. The Dodgers and Reds open a crucial three-game set in Cincinnati Friday night.

Ferguson's leadoff homer in the ninth inning, his 14th of the year, had tied the game at 3-3.

Cardinals 5, Expos 4

Jim Dwyer's run-scoring pinch-strike in the eighth inning drove in the tie-breaking run and gave the Cards their fourth

Now that the opinion has been expressed, let's take a look at the first week of action in the area and across the state.

BIG SPRING 28, ANDREWS 14—A big test for the Mustangs will end on a sour note. I'll be at this one.

LAMESA 18, CARLSBAD 14—The Tors will make Tom Koger's debut a successful one.

COAHOMA 36, REAGAN COUNTY 13—The Owls are rebuilding and the Bulldogs are favored in District 6-AA.

FORT STOCKTON 14, CRANE 7—This is AAA against AA, but the difference may not be much.

MCCAMEY 35, IRAAN 12—This is AA against A and there will be a big difference.

RANKIN 24, ELDORADO 7—The Devils will get over the shock of last year's 9-7 loss to this same crew.

STANTON 16, TAHOKA 7—The Buffs begin a new era as a Class A power.

Tough Grid Slate To Test Alabama

By ED BREAKER
ATLANTA (AP) — Alabama's preseason status as the most powerful college football team in the South will be tested on the field this year.

Louisiana State and independent power Miami, Fla. Alabama also faces SEC darkhorse contender Auburn but doesn't play Florida or Georgia, who, because of their schedules, have an outside shot at the league title.

MIXED UP MIDGETS—Two micro midget race drivers escaped serious injury when their cars collided and one was upset during the feature race at Brickerville, Pa. NEW YORK (AP) — This was back in May, with the college football season still five months away. Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian, coach of the 1973 national champions, was asked the following question: "Do you remember what happened the last time a team coached by Pepper Rodgers opened against a defending national champion?"

Parseghian's answer: "My memory's not that bad. For those whose memories are that bad, what happened was that in the 1972 opener Nebraska's UCLA team ended Nebraska's dream of an unprecedented third consecutive national crown with a 20-17 upset after the Cornhuskers had won 23 games in a row and had a 22-game unbeaten string.

Rodgers has come home to Georgia Tech and on Monday night he gets a chance to upend another national champion when the Yellow Jackets entertain Notre Dame before a nationwide television audience (ABC-TV, 8 p.m., CDT).

SNEAKY AUSSIES WONDER— Did Courageous Cheat?

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — A controversy flared Wednesday over the upcoming America's Cup competition when two members of the Australian entourage seeking the trophy sneaked aboard United States defender Courageous and found irregularities on the craft.

The Australians, reserve skipper John Cuneo of the Challenger Southern Cross and an unidentified crew member, sneaked aboard Courageous Monday night and questioned the ability of the boat to pass the stiff construction rules which govern the International 12-meter class — to which both boats belong.

The discussion is over the positioning of two main winch drums which control the jibs. The 12-meter rules say that the boat's deck must be flat except for certain "small" depressions, but the Courageous winch drums are set into a depressed area approximately four feet by four feet.

If the International Yacht Racing Union rules the drums must be set on deck, Courageous will have to undergo extensive revisions before the races — scheduled to begin Tuesday. Were the Americans to sail an illegal craft, the Australians would protest and likely would win — giving the challengers the Cup for the first time since the racing began in 1851.

The two linebackers will be Dusty Hicks and Sam Jordan.

Midlander Fixture On U.S. Tuna Fishing Team

Midlander Richard Hinkle is involved in his fourth term on the U.S. Tuna team that is hooked up in international competition off Yarmouth, Nova Scotia this week.

Participants are selected for five year terms and in 1971 Hinkle's 282-pound catch helped the U.S. team to finish second.

Last year, Hinkle captained the five-man U.S. team to a first or last place finish, depending upon how you want to look at it.

"There were no fish caught during the week of the tournament," Hinkle grinned. "So there were no winners and no losers." Oddly enough, Hinkle adds, there were plenty of tuna caught the week before and the week after the tournament, but, of course, they don't count.

Since he has been making the long trek of Nova Scotia, Hinkle has landed four tunas over 200 pounds. "Two were off Prince Edward Islands, which actually now are better tuna grounds than Yarmouth and they weighed 226 and 222 pounds."

Last summer teams from Australia, New Zealand, Norway, France, Monaco, Italy, the British Caribbean and Mexico competed. Hinkle, a Tall City oil distributor, still isn't quite sure how he was picked on the team. Kip Farrington, who pretty much runs the show for the U.S., called up and asked if he wanted to be on the team and gave him a week to decide. It took Hinkle a day to call back.

Other current members of the U.S. Team are Roger Derbyshire, Philadelphia; Dr. John Chambers, Baltimore; James Owings, Washington, D.C.; and Hugo Rutherford, Aiken, S.C.

Just being on the team, Hinkle feels, is quite an honor and privilege. "You are guests of the Canadian government while in Nova Scotia and associated with some of the outstanding people in the world. The Canadian prime minister and I are on a first-name relationship."

One of the members of the Canadian team last year was Jean Beliveau, retired great of the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

Pittsburgh, Dallas End Sham Season

DALLAS (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers can claim their first perfect preseason record with a victory over Dallas tonight in Texas Stadium where the Cowboys have never lost an exhibition game.

The nationally televised bout in Texas Stadium was the National Football League's preseason windup for the two clubs and there's more at stake than records.

A sizzling battle is in progress for Pittsburgh's No. 1 quarterback job with Joe Gilliam and Terry Bradshaw hoping to ignite enough fireworks against the Cowboys to earn Steeler Coach Chuck Noll's favor.

Gilliam owned the preseason edge over the sore-armed Bradshaw going into the game. Gilliam has completed an NFL-high nine touchdown passes for 988 yards, connecting on 60 per cent of his aerials.

Bradshaw's best outing came last Friday night in a 21-19 victory over Washington when he threw the winning touchdown pass.

Pittsburgh is 3-0 and already assured of its best preseason record ever. The best previous mark was 4-1-1 in 1972.

Dallas, plagued by injuries and an inconsistent running game, is 2-3. Coach Tom Landry's No. 1 quarterback Roger Staubach will sit the game out with rib injuries but is expected to be ready for the regular season opener with Atlanta.

Rebels—

(Continued From Page 3C) "come to life in the last week," and Russell Kellner, 178, Jr., is at free safety. "He's been doing a great job for us," Acree notes.

As far as the kicking game goes, Sledge, Jones and Oliphant are battling for the PAT spot. Oliphant's leg strength makes him a good bet to kick off for the Rebels.

Jones and Tom Cloyd are the leading punters with Jones having a 2-10's of a second edge in launching the ball.

With 15 lettermen, Lee does hold an edge in experience and in heart, but the early in the year a couple of blunders can wipe out a supposed paper edge in a hurry, a fact the Rebels are acutely aware of.

Eagles A Threat

Cowboys, Indians May Find Intruder In Private War

By ALEX SACHARE
The Dallas Cowboys and Washington Cowboys remain the class teams in the Eastern Division of the National Football Conference, but if Bill Bergey does as much for Philadelphia's defense as Roman Gabriel did for its offense, the Eagles could pull a surprise.

Dallas and Washington, proven quantities, are showing signs of wavering. George Allen's "Over the Hill Gang" of Redskins is one year further over that hill, while the World Football League has made considerable inroads into the talented cast of Cowboys.

Which lends hope to the other clubs in the NFC East — and of the three, the Eagles seem to be more likely to challenge than the St. Louis Cardinals or New York Giants.

The Cowboys have as much talent as ever, but morale could be a problem. The NFL has signed a host of Dallas stars to future contracts, and how well these lame ducks perform could be a key to the season.

"I want them to help us win the Super Bowl," Coach Tom Landry said. "If they are willing to do that, then they're acceptable to me."

Philadelphia Eagles Coach Mike McCormack calls Gabriel, the quarterback obtained from the Los Angeles

Bear Bryant

Paul "Bear" Bryant says the Maryland game will be his toughest. It is the opener for both teams, at College Park, Md., on Sept. 14. The Tide and LSU should settle the SEC title chase when they tangle on national television in Birmingham on Oct. 9, one week before the battle with Miami.

Bryant says a team has to have a quality he calls "want to" to win a national championship, adding that his team "didn't have it in the spring."

But Bryant has a multitude of running backs for his wish-bone, plus two returning quarterbacks in Gary Rutledge and Richard Todd. Defense, however, could be exceptional with the likes of linebacker Woodrow Lowe, lineman Mike Duhose and back Mike Washington. The Tide must rebuild the kicking game.

The South will have its share of outstanding individuals. The quarterback brigade includes Jeff Grantz of South Carolina, Condredge Holloway of Tennessee, Rocky Felker of Mississippi State, Fred Solomon of Tampa, Jeff Bowers of Southern Mississippi, Fred Fisher of Vanderbilt and Steve Foley of Tulane, all considered outstanding by their coaches.

Quarterbacking could be the stumbling block for LSU and Georgia. Neither team has settled on one yet, although

Florida and Georgia are the darkhorse contenders, Auburn should be improved and Tennessee still has question marks on defense, plus an imposing early schedule against such powers at UCLA, Kansas, Auburn, LSU and Alabama.

Looking at the respective conferences, Alabama is heavily favored to win an unprecedented fourth straight SEC crown, with LSU given the best shot at dislodging the Tide.

Florida and Georgia are the darkhorse contenders, Auburn should be improved and Tennessee still has question marks on defense, plus an imposing early schedule against such powers at UCLA, Kansas, Auburn, LSU and Alabama.

Tennessee, Kansas Beauties Snare First Honors At Pageant

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A coed from Tennessee who has been singing since she was 4 and an 18-year-old cheer leader from Kansas snared the first honors in the Miss America Pageant.

Miss Tennessee, Deborah Humphreys Kincaid, won the talent competition, and Miss Kansas, Karen Diane Smith, topped the swimsuit field in the opening night of preliminary Wednesday.

Preliminary winners also will be chosen tonight and Friday, and 10 semifinalists will be picked for Saturday night's televised finals for the title of Miss America 1975.

Miss Kincaid, 21, a Memphis State University senior from Humboldt, put a lot of "life" into the medley of songs she sang. The titles were "Once in My Life," "In My Own Life," time" and "This Is My Life." She was the first of 18 state queens to perform her talent, and that didn't faze her.

"I was first in my local pageant, first in my state pageant and first here. I like being blonde, who sang on the Ted Mack Amateur Hour 11 times in her youth.

She sang the same medley on a televised College Girl of the Year contest in April, in which she finished third as Tennessee's representative.

For winning a preliminary here, she and Miss Smith were assured $1,000 scholarships, with the possibility of winning up to $15,000 in scholarships as Miss America.

Miss Kansas, a striking 24-24-34 brunette has just graduated from Shawnee Mission Northwest High School, where she spent four years as a cheer leader and gymnast.

Did she have any qualms about parading down the Convention Hall ramp in her apple green bathing suit? She replied, "Not particularly. It's somewhat unnering, but it's worth it."

Miss Smith, who will do a jazz and acrobatic dance in talent competition Friday, has been a cheer leading instructor as well as a dance teacher with 40 pupils in the past four years.

Miss Tennessee said she usually goes through various psychological stages just before she performs, ranging from nervousness to a build-up of excitement which is released when she sings.

MIDLAND BOUND—Felix Pehl, left, and Mayor Sidney Henke, both of Frederickburg, will be traveling to Midland this weekend to take part in the sixth annual Septemberfest here Saturday night. Pehl and his famed "Oompah Band" were among the entertainment hits of last year's Septemberfest, and are being brought back for this year's festival in response to popular demand. Septemberfest, the German-style fun, food and entertainment festival, will be held between 6 and 11 p.m. Saturday on the grounds of the Museum of the Southwest. The event, open to the public, is sponsored by Las Manos—"The Hands"—museum volunteer service organization.

Fords Attend Play At Kennedy Center

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford said he had learned that the Kennedy Center was promoting the arts, and he was glad to see it in his first theatrical show nowdays for the big numbers, as chief executive — a new musical, "Mack and Mabel."

The President and Mrs. Ford got an enthusiastic ovation from the packed audience when they stood in floodlights in the presidential box.

Later, they went backstage to congratulate the cast and were applauded there, too.

Actor Robert Preston, who played Mack Sennett, and Bernadette Peters, as Mabel, chatted with the President and he wished them good luck.

The show, about Hollywood producer Mack Sennett of slapstick comedy fame and Mabel Normand, a star of those movies, got less than enthusiastic reviews in Washington newspapers.

But Ford said it was "just my mood" and "I like that kind of a show after a hard day."

Asked whether it was the pie-throwing slapstick that appealed to him, the President replied: "The dancing girls." And

The Midland Reporter-Telegram AMUSEMENTS

'Hawkeye's Father' Proud Of Son

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Robert Alda has a standard reply when asked the age of his son: "Alan is six feet, two inches."

This is an actor's whimsical ploy for avoiding reference to his age. The record books show that Alan Alda is 38, and his father is 60. But, except for some gray at the temples, Robert Alda looks little changed from when he played George

Gershwin in the 1945 Warner Brothers biography, "Rhapsody in Blue."

Bob Alda was back in Hollywood for a guest appearance on "Rhoda," CBS' new situation comedy starring Valerie Harper. Between rehearsals he joked about being known as "Alan Alda's father" since his son's success on the "MASH" television series.

Alan Alda is a younger, slimmer version of his father, the resemblance especially noticeable in their smiles.

"When I'm on tour, I sometimes introduce myself as 'Hawkeye's father,'" said Bob. "I couldn't be prouder. My boy's a wonderful actor, but then I knew this a long time, notably from his two most noted roles.

For years he was known as the actor who played George Gershwin. Then, after he originated the role on Broadway in "Guys and Dolls," he was linked to Sky Masterson in the Depression.

Alda said "If I can leave behind two such memorable roles, I guess I've done a good job."

Alda studied to be an architect at New York University, but he was leaving school in the middle of the Depression.

COMING TO ODESSA—Singer Johnny Cash, one of America's top entertainers in the country and western music field, is booked into Odessa's Ector County Coliseum for one performance only Sept. 14. The show will also feature Cash's wife, singer June Carter, as well as Carl Perkins and the Tennessee Three. Tickets for the concert are on sale in Midland at the Record Center, and at Tape Town in Big Spring.

Pickwick Auditions Set Saturday

Auditions to fill vacancies in the Pickwick Players, the young people's performing company of Midland Community Theatre, will take place Saturday afternoon.

Membership in the select company is open to young people 12 years of age and older. Students interested in trying for places in the company are asked to come to the Saturday audition session prepared to present a one-minute reading and to do a short improvisation, said Tom Mikolowicz, director of the Pickwicks.

Auditions are scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. Saturday at Theatre Centre, 2301 W. Indiana St.

The Friday night event here, which no awards were made, was the one for "outstanding achievement in news and documentary writing."

Harry Reasoner, Bill Moyers Recipients Of Tv Emmy Awards

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC anchorman Harry Reasoner and former public tv newsman Bill Moyers each have received national Emmy awards as the year's "outstanding television news broadcaster."

Moyers also received two other Emmys for his "Bill Moyers' Journal," which is no longer on the air, during annual awards ceremonies held here Wednesday night by the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

The Academy handed out a total of 39 Emmys in 25 categories of tv news, documentary, religious and children's programs during the nationally televised awards program, broadcast live by ABC.

CBS and the Public Broadcasting Service won the top honors among nominees in seven major news awards categories, one of which was the best-broadcaster award given Moyers and Reasoner.

CBS took home seven Emmys — three in the category of "outstanding achievement with regularly scheduled news programs" — while PBS won five, two of them in the regularly scheduled "magazine-type programs" category.

NBC won two Emmys and ABC three in the top seven news-awards categories, while another went to "The World at War," a British-made documentary series that is syndicated.

The 104-minute program, hosted by ABC talk show star Dick Cavett, was held at the New York Hilton and attended by an estimated 750 members of the television industry.

The Academy said that on an over-all basis, in all categories, ABC won 12 Emmys, CBS 12.

Permian Civic Ballet will hold its first dance workshop of the new season this week and next.

The Midland-based ballet company will be initiating preparations for its annual winter production to be presented in December, at the upcoming sessions, scheduled Saturday through Tuesday, at Rodenhiser Hall at Midland Air Terminal.

The sessions will be directed by Bill Martin-Vicount of Fort Worth, artistic director for Permian Civic Ballet.

The ballet organization presently has openings in both its senior and junior dance companies, and all eligible dancers in the Permian Basin area are invited to affiliate with the organization. To be eligible, they must have had several years' dance training and be recommended by their respective dance teachers. AN UNEXPECTED LOVE STORY

Farmer Raises Herd Of 1 Million Head—Bees, That Is

LITCHFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Hewitt, a quiet man who has sold all but one acre of his farm as a beekeeper since he graduated from high school in the 1930s. He checks his hives each day, transferring bees from one to another when it's time for the annual honey harvest.

De bees often sting their keeper?

"Oh, if they're good-natured other days quite a number of them won't do very much. If they're not, you use a smoker," he said, describing a can containing burning twine and a bellows that gives off smoke that is supposed to soothe angry bees.

But do bees sting despite the smoker?

"Well, some days not at all, other days quite a number of them won't do very much. If they're not, you use a smoker," he said, describing a can containing burning twine and a bellows that gives off smoke that is supposed to soothe angry bees.

Prospective keepers can buy mail-order bees shipped from supply houses in the South. But house, while scout bees search for a new home. By putting a basket over the swarm and dumping the bees into an empty hive, Hewitt can gain a new honey-producing colony.

Meanwhile, back at the old, formerly crowded hive, the remaining bees raise a new queen by feeding a developing larva a special food called royal jelly.

Hewitt uses modern technology to help his bees make honey more efficiently. The hives have reusable wax panels that the bees use as foundations for their honeycombs.

If they put less energy into building combs, the bees will lay more energy into making honey, he said.

Bees make honey for food during the winter. At harvest time in the fall, Hewitt removes a few pounds of honeycombs from each hive and lets the honey drip out of them. He then replaces the panels and the bees will fill them with honey again the next year.

Advocate Explains Benefits Of Gardening Organically

By EARL ARONSON
 You can eat better and for less plus living a healthier life, when you garden organically, says an advocate of the system. It reminds us that millions of gardeners are working to prove this. Many families have focused on the problems of pollution, insecticide contamination and hazards, and the recycling of wastes, says Allan A. Swenson, whom we have known for many years. "Organic gardening offers a practical answer for millions of home owners, and for those who rent as well. If you want tastier food, free from pesticides, now is the time for you to begin organic gardening."

All of us, he contends, will profit from the revitalization that comes with living in tune with the natural environment. "The smallest plot of ground can be made productive, and the most meager topsoil can be made fertile," he adds. "When you learn and follow the simple, basic methods of organic gardening your way of life can be enlivened. That's not fancy, that is fact!" Noting that new hybrid plants discouraging disease and insects are a big step forward for both organic and nonorganic gardener, Swenson says: "We freely admit that chemical fertilizers can and do increase yields over unfertilized plots. The question is: At what price? Many gardeners have agreed that the short-term benefits are short-term indeed when compared to the benefits of organically developed tilth and humus for sound long-range productivity." Whether it is a big or small garden, a window box or vine crope climbing a trellis, Swenson continues. "Whatever you wish for in organic gardening can be made to happen. The ingredients of success are planning, preparation and tender loving care. Put your head, hands and heart into organic gardening. Use your head to design a thoughtful garden plan, then to produce a fruitful garden, flowers for the soul.

Choose the best seed and supplies. Use your hands to plant, hoe and harvest. Put your heart to good gardening to appreciate the earth's goodness — the wondrous balance of soil, crops, birds and insects." Swenson says: "The riches held within the soil must be unlocked in order to produce a fruitful garden, body, flowers for the soul.

Compost is the key that turns soil into productive land, land that will yield bountiful harvests of tasty vegetables and fruits, large and magnificent flowers and hardy shrubs and trees. When you feed your soil, it feeds the plants. In turn, the feed you — vegetables for the body, flowers for the soul.

Psychologist Warns Economists Consumers Not Robots

NEW YORK (AP) — A consumer psychologist has a suggestion for some of those statisticians and economists who now are pursuing their presidentially encouraged talks of reviewing the causes and solutions of inflation: Don't assume that consumers are like automations. If you admit they act like human beings rather than numbers you won't have to keep repeating that lame excuse: "People didn't act as anticipated."

Prof. George Katona, who for years headed the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan, challenges some of the bedrock assumptions on which economic thinking rests. To illustrate, many economists believe that in times of inflation people must be encouraged to save and admonished not to spend. But, Katona says in effect, people already are motivated to do so. They need no encouragement.

Not that they always do save when inflation rages. When the fear of shortages or mistrust in the dollar's value are added to the equation, people might act the very opposite. They rush to buy while they can.

Katona, widely regarded as the founder of consumer surveys as they exist today, related some of his views and findings in a paper prepared for an American Psychological Association meeting in New Orleans last Sunday.

Consumers and others do not always react in the predicted manner because of the presence of optimistic or pessimistic attitudes which have their origins in past experience, trust in government, financial conditions and the like.

Too often, Katona suggests, economists accept the simple proposition that all there is to inflation is "an insufficient supply of goods in relation to the demand for them at existing prices."

Such an attitude, he said, ignores a mass of relevant material on how people perceive the supply-demand ratio.

Price controls, for example, are viewed by Katona as psychological as much as legal. During World War II and in 1971-73, he said, it was shown that price controls work only if people cooperate with them.

"Governments are powerless to enforce controls if very many businessmen and consumers disregard them ... At the present time the psychological climate creates serious obstacles to dealing with inflation, Katona says. He maintains "there prevails a lack of trust in government."
