Permian Basin OIL & GAS LOG

WT Sectors Draw Sites For Probes

Sterling, Tom Green and Nolan areas drew prospector sites.

C&K Petroleum, Inc., operating from Midland, staked site for a wildcat in Sterling, as No. 1 C. F. Conger, an 8,500-foot project.

It spots 1,320 feet from south and east lines of section 36, block 22, H&TC survey, eight miles southwest of Sterling City and two miles northwest of the Conger (Canyon) gas and WAM, South (Fusselman) gas fields.

Tom Green Try

Fortune Drilling Corp., San Angelo, intends to drill No. 1 Probandt, an 8,700-foot venture for tests of the Ellenburger, in Tom Green, 20 miles south of Sterling City.

Location is 1,791 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 55, block 7, H&TC survey, 3½ miles northwest of the Wayne Harris (Canyon) field in Irion County.

It also is ½ mile west of an 8,800-foot failure, which topped the Ellenburger at 8,680 feet, under ground elevation of 2,504 feet.

Nolan Probe

The 6,500-foot Nolan explorer is Robert M. Wynne, Midland, No. 1 Nita Brooks, to be drilled 19 miles southeast of Sweetwater and 2¾ miles south of Ellenburger production in the Beckham field, but separated by an Ellenburger failure.

Drillsite is 467 feet from south and 2,173 feet from west lines of section 77, block 5, T&P survey.

Schleicher Gets Two Discoveries

Cabana Oil Corp. of Abilene has taken over the former H.T.F. Corp. No. 2 Tisdale Estate, and completed the project as a Canyon reef oil discovery in Schleicher County, eight miles northeast of Eldorado.

It had a daily flowing potential of 130 barrels of 43-gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 1,000-1, producing natural, through a 12-64-inch choke and perforations at 5,304-5,310 feet.

Drilled to 5,397 feet, it has 4½-inch casing set one foot off bottom. Top of pay was picked at 5,100 feet, under ground elevation of 2,309 feet.

Wellsite is 660 feet from south and 1,929 feet from west lines of section 30, block M, GH&SA survey.

Fortune Drilling Corp. of San Angelo has completed as a Strawn reef gas-condensate pay opener in the Cheaney field of Schleicher, its No. 10 Cheaney, 25 miles northeast of Eldorado.

It gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 729,000 cubic feet of gas daily, with gas-liquid ratio measuring 84,166-1. Condensate gravity was 65.4 degrees.

Completion was effected through perforations at 4,591-4,595 feet, which had been washed with 125 gallons of mud acid.

It was drilled to 4,700 feet, and plugged back to 4,692 feet,

Emperor Haile Selassie Deposed

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Military reformers pledged to democracy and a new deal for the peasants today deposed Emperor Haile Selassie, the world's oldest and longest-reigning monarch, and put him under arrest.

The 13-man military committee that has been running Ethiopia for several months said it was recalling the emperor's 58-year-old son, Crown Prince Asfa Wossen, from Switzerland and would make him a figurehead king without any authority.

However, the prince suffered a stroke nearly two years ago. A friend in Geneva said he is still partially paralyzed and spends much of his time in the hospital.

The prince's son, Zere Yakob, who Selassie designated earlier this year as his successor as emperor, was believed en route to Geneva from Oxford University in England to see his ailing father.

Residents of Asmara, Ethiopia's second largest city, reported that crowds rejoiced in the streets when news spread that Selassie was overthrown.

An eyewitness said Selassie was taken away in the back seat of a blue sedan.

The announcement that Selassie was deposed was made by the 13-man Armed Forces Coordinating Committee.

It said parliament was closed, the constitution suspended, that troops were forming a provisional government and that civilian cabinet ministers were asked to remain in their posts.

It said church and state would be separated in a new constitution being readied under military supervision, and that it would provide for a free press and a representative civilian government.

Unofficial estimates put Selassie's wealth abroad at $10 billion, making him one of the world's richest men as well as ruler of one of the world's poorest countries.

But Selassie reportedly contended that much of his wealth has been distributed among his children.

Selassie was crowned emperor of Ethiopia Nov. 2, 1930.

An American eyewitness said a detachment of troops moved the 82-year-old emperor from his marble-lined palace in the central Addis Ababa at 10:30 a.m. and took him to the headquarters of the 4th Army Division, a ramshackle walled enclosure near the railroad tracks.

Troops were deployed at key points. The city had been put under a night-time curfew at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Addis Ababa was reported quiet, but Western embassies advised foreign residents to stay indoors.

The airport in Addis Ababa was reported closed, and commercial communications to Ethiopia were cut.

Earlier, reliable sources in the Ethiopian capital reported that the military had detained the emperor's only surviving daughter, Princess Tegagne-Work, who is the wife of an aristocrat accused of massive embezzlement of public funds.

The sources said the detention of the princess could signal the roundup of other members of the royal family.

The Armed Forces Coordinating Committee, a group of anonymous officers who have been directing the gradual military takeover of Ethiopia, has accused the emperor and the feudal landowners who with him controlled the country of embezzling millions of dollars, encouraging bureaucratic corruption and doing nothing to alleviate the effects of the drought which in the past two years killed an estimated 100,000 persons.

The military committee on Wednesday accused the emperor of refusing to return billions of dollars from secret Swiss bank accounts and other repositories abroad.

Selassie himself has been under virtual house arrest for several weeks, confined by the army to a radius of three miles around his Jubilee Palace, which the reformers have nationalized and renamed the National Palace.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission's staff recommended today a single nationwide price ceiling for what is called "old" natural gas sold by producers to interstate pipelines. A spokesman said the staff proposed a nationwide price of 24.5 cents per thousand cubic feet.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today approved, 55 to 24, a resolution urging President Ford to pardon no more Watergate figures until trials and appeals have run their courses.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Superior Court jury today convicted Marcus Wayne Chenault of the murders last June of Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr., and a church deacon.

BREAKING UP SCUFFLE—Police officers break up a scuffle outside South Boston High School today, on the first day of a court-ordered busing program to integrate Boston public schools. South Boston High is predominantly white. (AP Wirephoto.)

Whites Boycotting Boston Schools

BOSTON (AP) — Thousands of white pupils boycotted classes today as Boston schools opened under a court-ordered busing plan to achieve racial integration. Black pupils arriving at one predominantly white high school were met by an angry crowd of 500 whites.

At South Boston High, the crowd of whites met some 100 black pupils with booing and jeering, the mayor's office said. A piece of wood was thrown at one bus at the school, and stones were thrown at a bus at a nearby intersection.

A group of white teen-agers and some adults roughed up a television film crew at South Boston, but police broke it up. The crowd later dispersed, with only 150 or so people continuing to mill around after school began.

One arrest was reported at the South Boston school.

At predominantly black South Boston-Roxbury High, only five of an assigned 600 white pupils reported, and only two of those came by bus.

Few white pupils were reported at South Boston, where Police Commissioner Robert J. diGrazia personally escorted black pupils into the school.

Twenty of an estimated 75 to 100 uniformed policemen on hand at South Boston pushed part of the crowd back down steep G Street some 200 yards after a piece of wood was thrown at a bus carrying blacks.

The mayor's office also said stones had been thrown at a bus at a South Boston intersection. But the mayor's office said there had been no injuries or property damage reported.

"Why should I go there?" asked Marilyn Farley, 16-year-old South Boston pupil as she stood across the street with other demonstrators. "They (blacks) have their own schools to go to."

She said she would boycott "a year if I have to."

School officials said they expected high absenteeism from the protest. Some parents have promised a two-week boycott to force dropping of the busing plan.

Police said they had enough officers to handle any incidents.

"We have plans for every possible situation," said deputy police Supt. Paul Russell, adding that police would try to stay out of sight.

Deputy Mayor Robert Kiley warned, "Any person or group who attempts to interfere with the right of a child to go to school, particularly with his right to enter school property, will be dealt with forcefully."

A total of 18,200 students at all grades were scheduled to be bused in the first forced integration of the nation's oldest public school system, which is one-third black and two-thirds white.

City officials estimate the cost of the integration program in the 94,000-student school system at $8.8 million for this year.

The federal court order for busing was issued last June and the protest against it has been building recently, intensified by some candidates in Tuesday's primary elections. At neighborhood meetings in the past two weeks, parents said they would keep children out of school in an organized two-week boycott.

Nixon Rejected Appeals For Pardons By Former Aides, Paper Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the last days of his presidency, Richard M. Nixon received urgent appeals for pardons from former aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, The Washington Post reported today.

Quoting informed sources, reporters Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward wrote that Nixon rejected both requests and deeply resented the tone and character of the pleas.

The story said Nixon was especially upset by Haldeman's request, which was described as "threatening" and tantamount to blackmail. It said one source said the request implied "he'd send Nixon to jail if he didn't get a pardon."

Haldeman's lawyer, John J. Wilson, told the Post that he was unaware of any pardon request but did not believe that Haldeman would use a threatening tone because of his "generous and kindly attitude" toward Nixon.

Haldeman's wife said in California that her husband could not comment on the story because he is under court order not to discuss Watergate-related matters.

Angelo Is Urged To Seek State GOP Chairmanship

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. revealed this morning that he has been contacted by Republican leaders in several Texas cities urging him to seek the state chairmanship of the Republican party.

"I have not decided at this time that I should seek the position, but I am seriously considering the idea because I feel that the Republican party needs new direction," the mayor said.

Jack Warren of Tyler, a former Midlander, is the current chairman.

"I feel that Mr. Warren, who is a friend of mine, may seek the seat again," Angelo said.

Cooler Weather Due Area

Cooler air invaded the Panhandle-Plains sector and moved southward today with a promise of occasional rain and scattered thunderstorms.

The weak cool front, lying between Amarillo and Lubbock in early morning, lowered temperatures near dawn to 52 degrees at Dalhart and 57 at Amarillo while it was still 84 at El Paso in far West Texas. El Paso also posted the state's high with a maximum of 99 Wednesday.

Forecasters with the National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal predicted increasing cloudiness this afternoon, wind and temperatures turning cooler this afternoon.

Midlanders can even hope for some precipitation, with forecasters giving it a 20 per cent chance tonight and a 30 per cent probability on Friday.

Today's high mercury mark was expected to reach the upper 80s, following a high Wednesday of 95 and an overnight low of 70. A low temperature in the mid 60s is predicted tonight, with Friday's high near 80.

While clouds were thickening about 75 to 100 miles north of the frontal system, skies were generally clear in West Texas northwest of a line from Wichita Falls to the Big Bend coun-

Universal Increases Are Found

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices leaped 3.9 per cent in August, the second biggest monthly increase in 28 years, the government reported today.

Exploding prices last month ranged across almost the entire economy. There were substantial increases for everything from farm products to industrial goods.

Wholesale prices have risen at an adjusted annual rate of 37.3 per cent over the past three months. The August rise of 3.9 per cent works out to a staggering annual rate of 46.8 per cent.

The August increase in prices — following a rise of 3.7 per cent in July — was the second biggest in any month since November 1946, when prices jumped 4.2 per cent. The only bigger increase was last August's jump of 6.2 per cent following the lifting of the government's freeze on prices.

The government's Wholesale Price Index in August rose to 167.4 — 17.8 per cent higher than a year ago. The index is based on 1967 figures, meaning that it cost $167.40 to buy at wholesale a statistical variety of goods that cost $100 in the 1967-base period.

All figures are adjusted to account for seasonal differences.

Consumers seemingly can expect little relief in the coming months from the worst inflation in years since wholesale prices usually are quickly reflected at the retail level.

Detailing its price report, the Labor Department said agricultural products were up 7.6 per cent in August, following a rise of 6.4 per cent in July and a decline in each of the four preceding months.

Industrial commodities continued to rise rapidly in price and were up 2.5 per cent in August, a rate only slightly less than the average monthly increase of 2.7 per cent that has prevailed throughout most of the year.

Consumer finished goods, those products in the wholesale chain nearest retail outlets, rose two per cent.

House Subcommittee To Trim Transition Funds For Nixon

By JIM ADAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee intends to trim the $850,000 request for former President Richard M. Nixon's transition to private life, the chairman says.

"You can safely say it will be cut considerably," said Chairman Tom Steed, D-Okla., of the House Executive Offices Appropriations subcommittee, which took up the matter today.

"The paring knife will be working all through this thing," said Steed.

He said many congressmen "don't want to approve a nickel" for Nixon because of President Ford's pardon for him.

But Steed said Nixon, as well as any other former president, deserves transition money and said he hopes his subcommittee can cut it to expenses so well justified that Congress will approve it.

"This is an emotional thing," Steed said. "Unless we're able to bring out a tight, well-documented bill it will be in serious trouble. And from the tone over in the Senate I think it may be in serious trouble there, too."

He referred to the Senate Appropriations subcommittee hearing on Wednesday at which Chairman Joseph P. Montoya, D-N.M., told General Services Administration chief Arthur F. Sampson he was "given a snow job" by former Nixon aides.

Montoya made the comment when Sampson said Nixon aides Ronald L. Ziegler and Stephen Bull told him at a San Clemente, Calif., meeting how Nixon needed the $850,000.

Montoya and Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., sharply questioned why Nixon needed more than twice the $370,000 transition money that went to former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Sampson testified that a special $100,000 Watergate tapes vault is required under the agreement for safeguarding the tapes over the next five years. He said it would have a sophisticated alarm system and would be guarded by five guards hired at a cost of $50,000 a year.

Montoya and Hatfield questioned why the tapes and documents could not be stored in some secure federal office building and also why Nixon needs so much money for other chores after the millions of federal dollars already spent in connection with Nixon's San Clemente and Key Biscayne, Fla., properties.

Looting Replaces Shooting In Mozambique

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (AP) — More looting has been reported in the slums of Lourenco Marques, but reinforced Portuguese troops appeared to be getting control of Mozambique's seaside capital.

Hundreds of soldiers were flown from central and northern Mozambique throughout the day Wednesday.

The troops sealed off parts of the city shortly before midnight as sporadic looting broke out again in the African quarters. But military authorities said the situation was calmer than on Tuesday night.

Authorities at Miguel Bombarda Hospital, where most civilian casualties were taken, said 21 persons died at the hospital and the bodies of 29 others had been brought in since Tuesday. All but nine of the dead were blacks, he said.

There were unconfirmed reports that as many as 200 were killed Tuesday after the collapse of a white settlers' rebellion against the Portuguese government's agreement to give control of the government to Frelimo, the black guerrilla movement that has fought the Portuguese army to a standstill.

Blacks celebrating the end of the rebellion went on a spree of looting and violence in the ramshackle slums on three sides of the city. The chief target of the looters were small shops owned by Portuguese and Asians.

A hospital spokesman said 171 wounded were hospitalized and 200 more were treated and released. Many refused to leave the hospital because they were afraid, the spokesman said.

The hospital said most of the injuries were inflicted by knives, stones or machetes, but there were also several shotgun wounds.

The downtown business section escaped most of the violence but was virtually deserted on Wednesday as the whites took refuge in their homes and hotels.

Offices, shops, restaurants and banks were closed despite appeals by the military authorities to reopen. The airport was closed to civilian traffic. Only a few cars were on the streets.

The white rebels scattered after their movement foundered, but officials said many were arrested.

Wholesale Prices Explode Skyward

counted for much of the rise in agricultural prices last month. Processed foods and feeds were up 8.2 per cent while raw farm products rose 6.7 per cent to push over-all agricultural prices up 7.6 per cent at wholesale last month.

Shoppers can expect more price hikes ahead at supermarkets with the 3.2 per cent increase in consumer foods last month.

Consumer foods—those prepared for sale on grocery shelves—rose in price chiefly as a result of increases for meats, edible fats and oils, sugar products, processed poultry and eggs.

Some examples: meats, poultry and fish were up 1.5 per cent; sugar products 9.6 per cent; animal fats and oils 23 per cent, and manufactured animal feeds 39 per cent.

Soaring prices for machinery and equipment, trucks, commercial furniture and railroad equipment accounted for the rise in producer finished goods. Also up sharply last month were metal and chemical prices. Soft coal prices jumped another 4 per cent last month and were 66.8 per cent higher than a year ago while refined petroleum products increased 1.9 per cent in August to a level 87.2 per cent above a year ago.

Buda Housewife Joins Texas Textbook Battle

AUSTIN (AP) — A brunette from Buda told a textbook hearing examiner today that women were made to be housewives.

"I believe it is inborn to want to be a homemaker," said Mrs. Ray Piper, replying to objections made by women libbers that many textbooks still put women in stereotyped roles.

Mrs. Piper lives in a tiny suburban community south of Austin that in recent years has attracted artists and handicraft specialists.

It's true that a lot of women work outside the home these days, Mrs. Piper said, but "I don't believe 10 per cent really want it to be that way."

Mrs. Piper began her testimony by reading an inspirational poem. A green ribbon held her upswept hair, except for wispy spirals that framed her face.

She said one proposed textbook showed a picture of a man doing housework.

"The man would look so much more normal on the outside on a ladder than inside," she said.

Another picture showed a father helping his daughter buy shoes. "This isn't very realistic," she said.

Mrs. Piper also objected to "swearing and the irreverant use of the word "God" in this sentence: "Oh, hell—another program . . . For God's sake, can't we just be decent."

"Christian teachers of this state should not be subjected to this language," she said.

The publisher, Human Development Training Institute, agreed to take out that language, but that wasn't good enough for Mrs. Piper. "I don't want any author who has to be reminded to be writing for my children," she said.

The hearing officer is Education Commissioner M. L. Brockette, who will make recommendations to the State Board of Education's Textbook Committee. The committee in turn will make recommendations to the full board.

Personnel Panel Named By Museum

A special personnel committee has been appointed for the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, according to Russell J. Ramsland, president.

Named to the committee are William S. Bachman, president of the Drilco Division of Smith International; Arthur Donnelly, vice president of FNB Development Corp.; Dr. Al G. Langford, president of Midland College; Joe McShane, partner in the oil firm of Wood and McShane, and Jack M. Moore, personnel officer for the City of Midland. All are Midland residents except McShane, who lives at Monahans.

The committee has been asked to draft a personnel policy for the new museum for consideration by the board of trustees. Adoption of such a policy will precede staffing of the museum for its initial operation next year. It also will have a bearing on decisions as to contracting-out certain jobs, Ramsland said.

Midland's Bulldogs will face the Eastwood High Troopers in their home debut at Memorial Stadium 8 p.m. Friday.

The Purple Pack opened the season with an impressive win over Amarillo Tascosa and Eastwood bowed to Las Cruces, N.M., Mayfield, 28-7, in its inaugural last week.

The Troopers of Coach J. D. Patridge, anxious for revenge after a 53-13 pistol-whipping at the hands of the Bulldogs in El Paso last year, will be out to gain some satisfaction for that loss.

The Troopers arrived on the scene today to take a pre-game workout in Odessa before moving into Midland Friday for the contest.

Coach John Reddell reported the Pack was in excellent shape for the game. Midland concluded heavy workouts Wednesday and went through a light, limbering up drill Thursday.

Cosden Files Suit On Contract With Insulation Firm

BIG SPRING — Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. and a construction firm have filed suit in 118th District Court against P. R. Insulation Ltd. Inc. of Houston and the company which provided the performance bond.

The petition filed Tuesday afternoon cites additional construction cost totaling $54,360 "after allowing for any balance owing under the sub-contract" between the insulation firm and Fish Engineering and Construction Inc. of Houston.

Cosden had contracted Fish Oct. 22, 1971 for an addition to the Cosden refinery at Big Spring, with Fish contracting with P. R. for some materials and labor. The performance bond for the sub-contract was issued by Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland, with offices in Houston.

The plaintiffs claims that Star Insulation Company Inc. of Odessa had to be sub-contracted due to the failure of P. R. to complete insulation and fire proofing.

Defensive Driving Course Discussed

The Defensive Driving Course sponsored here by the Texas Department of Public Safety, in cooperation with Midland Toastmasters clubs, was described for members of the Downtown Rotary Club at their meeting today noon in the American Legion Hall.

The speaker was Sgt. Clarence Stovall of the DPS Driver's License section. He was introduced by Maj. E. K. Browning, commander of the Midland Region of the DPS.

Stovall said the special course is made available through the National Safety Council. He discussed the overall program and told how classes are organized by companies and groups. Benefits of the course, instruction procedure, and cost of the course also were cited.

He said several classes have been conducted here during the last year, with an enrollment of 187 persons, representing oil companies and other firms and agencies. An instructors school was held recently, with 27 persons graduating as qualified instructors.

Sgt. Stovall said the program now is being revived after a summer recess.

Also discussed at the meeting were changes in the family code.

Utility Commissioners Cool To Simon Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — State utility commissioners showed little enthusiasm for suggestions by federal officials that rate increases for electric power companies be speeded.

At a meeting Wednesday called by Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, he and other federal officials encouraged the state commissioners to hurry rate increases for utilities which have faced higher costs.

"Rate increases, while considerable, have not been enough to meet the surging costs of fuel, construction and money," Simon said.

As a result, he said, problems in raising investment money have forced at least 18 utilities to cancel or delay construction projects.

"Unless these projects are restored in the near future, more brown-outs and blackouts are likely in the next few years," he said.

However, Richard Morgan of the Environmental Action Group, responded that "what we really need is to slow down the growth rate of the utility industry."

William Bevis, chairman of the Florida Public Service Commission, said that as for increasing utility rates, "we won't want to go that route."

"In Florida, we have about 1.5 million retirees and they have been raised right out of the price of bread," Bevis said.

J. Louis Moss, a member of the South Carolina Public Service Commission, said the answer to the utilities problem is not to raise rates but to lower interest costs on investment money.

Cause Of Jetliner's Crash Remains Puzzle

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The Eastern Airlines jetliner had cleared its approach and passengers settled back for an apparently normal landing. Then, seconds away from the expected safe landing, the craft mysteriously plunged into a cornfield, killing 69 persons.

The DC9-30 disintegrated and burst into flames as it bounced from the cornfield into a wooded hillside. Thirteen persons survived the crash on Wednesday, including a stewardess who walked away from the wreckage.

"There was no warning," said Charles J. Weaver of Charleston, one of the survivors. "It looked like a normal landing approach. I looked out and saw the ground and I knew we were going to crash."

Cause of the crash of Eastern flight 212 from Charleston, S.C., remained a puzzle as federal aviation investigators began their work.

Authorities said there were pockets of fog in the crash area, about two miles south of Charlotte's Douglas Municipal Airport, but no definite evidence that poor visibility hampered the pilot's approach.

Federal authorities hoped the first officer, James M. Daniels Jr., who also survived, could shed some light on the crash.

Ed Slattery, a spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board, said the plane's flight data recorder and cockpit voice recorder were both recovered and were sent to Washington for study.

Among the dead were Rear Adm. Charles W. Cummings, named commandant of the 8th Naval District in Charleston six days ago, and John Merriman, news editor for The CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite.

American Motors' Hornet Sportabout

AMC Offering Eight Models For 1975

American Motors offers an eight-model lineup of 1975 passenger cars that incorporate numerous important mechanical improvements, more luxury appointments inside and out, and a broad choice of optional high-style dress-up packages for the Gremlin, Hornet and Matador.

Sloan-Brothers—AMC, Inc., is Midland's authorized American Motors dealer.

The Javelin and Ambassador will not be offered in 1975 to permit the company to concentrate its resources on the production and marketing of its intermediate and small car lines, AMC president William V. Luneburg said.

"We see an increasing demand for intermediate and smaller cars in 1975, and we have adjusted our product lines to allow full concentration on making the Matador, Hornet and Gremlin the most outstanding values in their respective classes," Luneburg said.

The 1975 models include the four-passenger Gremlin, two and four-door Hornet sedans, the Hornet hatchback, the Hornet Sportabout, the Matador coupe, and the Matador four-door sedan and station wagon.

Among the major engineering advances for 1975 are a new electronic ignition system on all cars, optional overdrive units for Gremlins and Hornets with six-cylinder engines and manual transmissions, low profile six cylinder engines, catalytic converters, an all-new, more rugged three-speed manual transmission, and engine modifications designed to improve economy and reliability.

All 1975 AMC cars are designed to use non-leaded fuel.

Ethiopian Guerrillas Free American Hostages

HOUSTON (AP) — Four North Americans held hostage by a guerrilla group in Ethiopia since March 26 may be back in Houston today, a relative said.

The four—three employes of Tenneco Inc., of Houston and a United Nations geologist—have been released, the company confirmed Wednesday.

But a company spokesman refused to discuss reports that a ransom had been paid to gain release of the men. There had been reports that the Eritrean Liberation Front, a separatist movement seeking independence for the northern Ethiopian province of Eritrea, had been seeking $3.1 million in ransom.

"We aren't discussing that," a Tenneco spokesman said when asked about the ransom.

The four men released are all reported to be unharmed. They are Powers Cayce, 36, of Plainview, Tex., Motta Tavela, 52, the UN technician, Clifford M. James of Walkerton, Ontario, Canada and James William Rogers of Greenwich, Conn.

The Canadian Foreign Ministry announced Wednesday that the four men were to have been taken to Khartoum, the Sudanese capital for a direct flight back to Houston.

Rogers' father, Paul Rogers of Childress, Tex., said Wednesday "They have asked us not to discuss it, but there may be something tomorrow."

N. W. Freeman, chairman of the board of Tenneco, released a statement which said in part, "Plans for reunions of the families will be effected as quickly as possible.

"Unfortunately, communications are such that at the moment we are unable to determine exactly when that will occur."

The four men were captured while prospecting for oil.

FTC Refund Charges Accuse Neiman-Marcus, Five Others

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission alleged Wednesday five department store chains pocketed $2.8 million which charge-account customers overpaid on their bills.

The commission named five corporations doing business under nine different banners, including Gimbels, Neiman-Marcus, Bergdorf Goodman, Lord & Taylor, Bonwit Teller, Broadway and Lerner.

J. Thomas Rosch, director of the commission's Bureau of Consumer Protection, said an examination of the stores' books showed Gimbels to be the biggest apparent violator. He estimated the New York-based retailer appropriated $1.1 million from customer overpayments in the last five years.

The FTC will now offer the stores an opportunity to negotiate settlement of the proposed complaints before going to hearings. The agency suggested requiring the stores to pay back the money and henceforth refund an unused overpayment automatically after three months.

Rosch said the practice under attack begins when a customer through error or misunderstanding pays the store more than he or she owes.

Some of the stores would notify the customer only once of the positive balance in the account. Other stores would carry the money on the account for as long as 11 months. But eventually, if the account were not used, the money would revert to the store. Rosch said.

Astronaut Given Honorary Degree

SHAWNEE, Okla. (AP) — Skylab astronaut William R. Pogue has received an honorary doctor of science degree from his alma mater, Oklahoma Baptist University.

He was graduated from OBU in 1951 with a bachelor of science degree in education.

During the ceremony Wednesday, Pogue was described by OBU President William G. Tanner as "our graduate who has gone farther than any of the others," a tongue-in-cheek reference to Pogue's 34.5 million-mile, 84-day Skylab 3 trip which ended early this year.

He also was being honored for his church work. In Houston, he is a deacon at the Nassau Bay Baptist Church.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Some Seek Out Rougher Towels

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — How do you put body into a nylon lace tablecloth? Mine does not hold starch and sugar water would get sticky from spilled punch. — JOAN.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the lack of old-fashioned ROUGH bath towels in the stores. Our large family is scattered all over seven states. None of us can find such towels so have to hoard our old ones but we all need more badly. Present day soft towels makers say their towels have an absorbent side but that side on the ones we find is TOO soft. Towel makers, in our opinion, are only helping our whole country go soft. — MIM.

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. J.D.W. who wants to make a round floor-length table cover should first measure from her floor to table top, across diameter of the table and down the floor on the other side. She will need a square of material this wide across both ways. Use one width of material centered on the table and then add the necessary widths at each side to make the square.

Fold in half lengthwise and then in half crosswise so fabric is four layers thick. Make a string compass. Place material on the floor and thumbtack one end of string on double corner fold. Tie pencil to other end of string making string the length of the folded edge. Draw an arc. Cut through all layers on pencil line and have a circle the desired size that is ready for hemming. — VELMA.

DEAR POLLY — and Mrs. J.D.W. — When making a circular floor length skirt for a table, use a skirt hemmer for marking the length and cut with pinking shears so it can be cut without hemming. — DOTTY.

DEAR GIRLS — Do remember when such a skirt is to be hemmed, allowance for the hem must be made before cutting. A very narrow hem will lay flatter. I suggest using pinking shears to make a finished edge only when such a skirt is of felt or of a plasticized fabric. Hemming by hand makes it a better looking.

Also do be sure when piecing fabric at the sides that all pieces are cut on the straight of the material — never try sewing a bias cut piece to the straight edges of the larger piece of fabric. To cut I like to put the square of cloth on the table, being sure it is very straight. Then I sit on the floor to cut to the correct length or put a small table on the dining table to make the job a bit easier on the back. — POLLY.

Diamonds Take On New Look

NEW YORK (AP) — The trend today among about-to-be-engaged couples is individuality, evidenced in their quest for new and innovative styles in diamond engagement rings and wedding bands, reports the Diamond Information Center.

Today's fashion-aware young people still desire the diamond as the symbol of engagement. However, they are looking for a change from the traditional solitaire ring that their mothers may have chosen, the center points out.

Designers of precious jewelry, sensitive to this desire for change, are interpreting the tradition of the diamond engagement ring in exciting new settings. Although solitaire diamonds are used, the modern interest comes from unusual shanks, varied settings, and a very "now" use of small diamonds in ways quite different from the usual side stones.

Most popular are matching sets in ultramodern, geometrical patterns which feature clean, bold lines; squared shanks dramatically set off with smaller "side" stones; and rough-textured, free-form designs with the engagement and wedding rings interlocking to give the appearance of a single ring.

Today, there are more styles in both diamond engagement rings and wedding bands available than ever before in history, industry sources say.

DELLWOOD PLAZA, WHERE CLIMATIZED COMFORT IS A REALITY.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Wife Wears Rich Sister's Hand-Me-Downs

DEAR ABBY: My wife (I'll call her Ruth) has a sister I'll call Peggy. Peggy's husband is loaded with money, and Peggy spends a fortune on clothes.

Ruth and Peggy wear the same size, so Peggy sends Ruth boxes of dresses, coats and shoes that she's tired of. All the stuff is just like new, and Ruth looks like a million dollars in them.

Maybe I shouldn't feel this way, Abby, but it bothers me when I see my wife all dressed up in her sister's clothes. Although I can't afford to buy my wife the kind of clothes Peggy sends her, she wouldn't exactly go around in rags if she dressed in clothes that were within our income.

I've come awfully close to asking Ruth not to accept any more clothes from her sister, but I'm not sure it's the thing to do. I suppose it's selfish of me, Abby, but a guy can't help how he feels. What do you think?

POOR WORKING STIFF

DEAR STIFF: I think you should tell your wife what you've told me. Talk it over, and maybe you can reach an agreeable compromise. You're right, a guy can't help how he feels, and I, for one, can understand your feelings.

DEAR ABBY: My grandmother was one-sixteenth black. She married a white man. Neither she nor any of her children had Negroid features, and they all married whites.

The problem is my wife. I told her of my ancestry before we were married, and it didn't seem to make any difference. But now she refuses to have any children for fear one might be coal-black.

What are the chances of this occurring?

NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: Zero. A child will be no darker than his darkest parent.

DEAR ABBY: I am blind at age 14, and take my Seeing Eye dog Juniper with me everywhere I go.

Kids will often try to pet Juniper. I like kids, but Juniper is trained not to be friendly with strangers. If he growls, the mother grabs their children and scream, "what a vicious dog!"

Abby, please print this so parents will tell their kids to stay away from Seeing Eye dogs.

JEANNIE AND JUNIPER

DEAR JEANNIE: Thank you for your informative letter. This might be a good time to warn people against trying to be friendly with ALL strange dogs. Many dogs are used for protection these days and are trained to attack strangers who come too close.

Deadline Given For Publishing Wedding Stories

Thinking about having accounts of your engagement and wedding published in The Reporter-Telegram?

If the answer is in the affirmative, brides-to-be should visit the Women's Department of the newspaper and obtain information sheets and wedding forms in order to comply with the R-T policies on wedding stories, photographs and deadlines.

One of the new policy changes requires that wedding or engagement forms must be submitted before 5 p.m. Wednesday for publication in a Sunday paper.

Another important policy to be aware of is that wedding stories submitted more than five days after the wedding will not be published.

Easier Ironing

For easier ironing of articles with zippers or snaps, place a heavy turkish towel on your ironing board. Place articles right side down on towel and iron wrong side first.

Making Soup

The next time you prepare French onion soup, sprinkle a little sugar on the sliced onions when you are cooking them in butter or margarine before adding the beef broth.

Breakfast Held By Garden Club At White Home

Hostesses were executive board officers including Mrs. Robert J. McLellan, president; Mrs. J. W. Rasmussen, first vice president; Mrs. Gordon Marcum Jr., second vice president; Mrs. Robert D. Anson, secretary; and Mrs. Edward Hooper, treasurer.

Beer And Shrimp

Some good cooks like to simmer shrimp in beer — a pound of shrimp to a 12-ounce can of the beer. Peppercorns and bay leaf, celery tops and parsley sprigs may be added to the beer.

Don't Flatten

Fresh, high quality eggs stand high in the frying pan and do not flatten when broken from the shell.

Last Known American Prisoner Of War To Be Released

By DAVID JENKINS

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Emmet J. Kay of Hawaii, the last known American prisoner of war, will be freed next Thursday as part of a general prisoner exchange between the Communist Pathet Lao and the Laotian army, a diplomatic source reported today.

The Laotian Communists gave neutral diplomats "a categorical assurance" Wednesday night they would free the 47-year-old civilian pilot with the first prisoners, the source said. Earlier reports said Kay would be one of the last POW's handed over.

Kay, 47, was a pilot for Continental Air Services, a charter line. The Pathet Lao captured him when his small plane was forced down in Communist territory on May 7, 1973, and he has been held at Sam Neua, the Pathet Lao capital in northeastern Laos.

The source said Kay would probably be flown to Phonesavan, on the Plain of Jars, one of the three or four locations in Laos at which prisoner exchange ceremonies will be held on Thursday. A Laotian air force plane is to bring him to Vientiane, where he will be handed over to the United States Embassy, the source said.

Embassy sources said he probably would be flown almost immediately to a U.S. airbase in northeastern Thailand and there put aboard an Air Force flight to Guam or Hawaii, depending on his health.

No American officials will go to the Plain of Jars for Kay's release. "The Pathet Lao takes the view that this is an internal affair between the two Lao parties," the source said.

The U.S. government still lists 1,100 Americans as missing in action in Indochina, including 320 in Laos. It says the bodies of 250 confirmed dead in Laos and 1,050 elsewhere in Indochina have not been recovered. Most of those in Laos disappeared in air crashes, but there has been no word of negotiations to arrange for search teams to visit the 260 known or suspected American crash sites in this country, and talks to arrange for searches in Vietnam have been suspended for months.

Kay's wife left Honolulu, Hawaii, Monday night for Laos to be on hand when her husband is released.

She said she was informed of his impending release two weeks ago by the U.S. State Department, which she said was notified in a cable from Vientiane.

Mrs. Kay and her two children returned to Honolulu from Laos last July 31, after plans for an early prisoner exchange under the Laos peace agreement failed to materialize.

The children, Kimo, 20, and Puanani, 15, are in school and did not accompany their mother on her latest journey to await reunion with Kay.

Everest Avalanche Kills Six

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — The leader of the French expedition to Mt. Everest and five Sherpa guides were buried alive by an avalanche that swept away two camps and forced the climbers to abandon their attempt to climb the world's highest peak, the Nepal Foreign Ministry announced today.

The ministry said the avalanche roared down the slopes of Everest on Monday, two days after the team of French professional mountaineers had pitched their third major camp at 22,632 feet on their way toward the 29,028-foot summit.

The avalanche swept away Camps 1 and 2, killing the expedition leader, 33-year-old Gerard Devoussoux of Chamonix and the five sherpas, the announcement added.

The deputy expedition leader, Georges Payot, quickly ordered the assault on Everest halted and messaged the Foreign Ministry that the remaining nine French climbers would return to Katmandu.

Payot, operating from the 17,548-foot base camp, also ordered the advance climbing team, which had pitched the third camp, to search for the six victims on its descent.

After two days of groping through the ruins of the two camps no trace of the men was found, Payot reported.

The avalanche struck the second camp, pitched at 20,992 feet, and the lower altitude first camp, the height of which was not disclosed.

The first two camps were the main climbing headquarters for the expedition, which had hoped to become the first French team to reach Everest's summit.

The tragedy was the worst on Everest since one Japanese climber and eight Sherpa guides were killed by an avalanche during the Japanese climb in spring 1970.

Permanent 55 MPH Speed Limit Bill Okayed By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nationwide highway speed limit would be set permanently at 55 miles per hour under a measure given 85-0 approval by the Senate.

The speed-limit provision was part of a highway bill okayed by the Senate on Wednesday and sent to the House.

The provision would make permanent a temporary 55 m.p.h. limit that was enacted in the midst of the energy crisis last winter but which is to expire June 30, 1975.

As in the temporary measure, the permanent limit would be enforced by cutting off federal highway aid to states that refused to set their limits at 55 m.p.h. or lower. Advocates said the reduced speeds have resulted in large savings of lives and gasoline.

The bill also would increase from 73,280 to 80,000 pounds the maximum allowable weight for vehicles on the Interstate highway system. Supporters said it would lead to more economical trucking operations, while the American Automobile Association denounced it as a hazard to motorists.

The Senate also went on record in favor of killing a requirement that cars be equipped with an interlock system to prevent them from starting before seat belts are fastened.

Senators adopted that amendment, 64 to 21, but the sponsors, Sens. James L. Buckley, Con-R-N.Y., and Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., then withdrew it.

The sponsors explained that elimination of the interlock devices, which became mandatory with 1974-model cars, was being considered in other legislation now in a Senate-House conference. But they said the vote showed the Senate's sentiment on the matter.

Planning Commission Okays Grant Requests

The Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission Wednesday approved resolutions accepting four grant applications by Ector, Howard and Andrews counties.

Ector County was given approval for a grant application to the state Criminal Justice Division for $46,359 to help pay the bills for a regional youth center.

The facility, now located in Northeast Odessa near Ector County Airport, will house 20 youths and will provide education, counseling and medical care as an alternate program to the ones provided by the Texas Youth Council. The youth center is scheduled to open its doors for business later this month in an effort to bring the borderline juvenile delinquent back into the mainstream of society.

Also in Ector County, The University of Texas at the Permian Basin received approval for a grant application totaling $45,257 to the Criminal Justice Division of the state for its law enforcement program.

The project funding would allow law enforcement students to attend the upper level university under a scholarship program.

The goals of the program are to develop law enforcement personnel who have analytical and research capabilities in order to upgrade their various police departments.

Howard County received approval of a grant application totaling $73,500 to the Federal Aviation Administration for the acquisition of a fire and rescue vehicle and vehicle shelter for the county airport.

The vehicle and shelter are needed to bring the air facility into compliance with Airport Regulations.

The Texas Highway Department along with Andrews County received approval for a grant application totaling $192,000 from the Federal Highway Administration to widen FM 87 from Mustang Drive in Andrews to .7 of a mile east of the city.

The highway is presently two-lane and would be increased to four lanes if the grant application goes through.

Ector Airport To Buy Hangar

ODESSA — Directors of the Ector County Airport Board Tuesday agreed to purchase a large hangar at an estimated cost of $80,000 for the county facility.

The proposal will be considered Sept. 23 by the Ector County commissioners.

Character Said Main Ingredient Of Good Company

By KRISTIN GOFF

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Ask J. Edgar Rhoads what it takes to make a good business these days and he'll tell you that a company, like a man, has got to have character.

At 90, Rhoads is in a unique position to comment on what it is that makes a business solid. He has spent more than 70 years working at J. E. Rhoads and Sons, a leather and industrial belting firm listed by the Business Founding Date Directory as the oldest company in the country.

"I've never felt a desire for a get-rich-quick business," says Rhoads, a thin, soft-spoken man who still works each day. "So many of them go bad, or if they don't, they hurt other people. I think character is as important in business as in churches."

Founded In 1702

Edgar Rhoads and his cousin, 65-year-old Richard H. Rhoads, are the seventh generation of family members to manage the firm, founded in 1702.

Like their ancestors, who fled England for the religious freedom offered in the colony founded by William Penn, the Rhoads are Quakers.

Rhoads leather was used in production of boots, harnesses and other necessities of colonial life. Around the Civil War era, industrial belting production began. In this century the family produced some of the largest industrial belts in the country, some as large as 6 feet wide and 500 feet long.

Not until the 1960s, when the emergence of synthetic materials pushed aside the importance of leather in the industrial belting field, did the Rhoads family finally abandon their tanning operations.

Ties Break Down

But the Rhoads' traditional ties to leather started to break down in the 1950s, when a nylon-reinforced German belt and other synthetic products began making strong inroads on the market. Between 1951 and 1958 their sales, which had peaked at service to 3,000 companies, dropped by half.

Within 10 years, the company closed down its tanning vats and abandoned its family ownership and partnership form of management.

The business was incorporated in 1965, but Richard, who is chairman of the board, and Edgar, chairman emeritus, still own almost all of the stock.

Both men concede they are likely to be the last generation to play an active role in operating the family firm. A professional team of managers now make most of the day-to-day decisions.

A new emphasis on growth is also making a substantial break with the company's past.

Edgar, who set up the firm's chemistry lab in 1903, also points to development of cements used to piece together strips of materials for the belts.

He estimates that he personally developed 50 to 100 different glues, including the first waterproof cement, during his 70 years with the firm. He still spends much of his time experimenting with materials suited to synthetics.

Others in the firm are working on such things as development of a conveyor belt flexible enough to go around corners.

Although the Rhoads have purchased two smaller belting firms in recent years to expand their operation, they have no plans to diversify from their specialized production of industrial belts, tapes and packings for hydraulic and pneumatic equipment.

They tried diversification in the 1960s when they attempted to make flowerpots from cohesive sawdust. The project ended a costly failure.

"We made a major mistake by trying to get into a completely different line . . . For a time it looked like it would go, but it flopped. That was a bad mistake," says Richard Rhoads.

"Since then we've stayed pretty much in belts and tapes and it seems advisable to stay in that field now."

'Race To The Top'

Many of today's young people can, and do amaze with their basically sound thoughts and actions.

Recently, a letter from a 14-year-old boy concerning the disturbing antics of some of his contemporaries in a Midland theater was published in this space. It created considerable favorable comment.

Now comes a school paper, "The Race To The Top," written by Xan Phiffer, a sophomore student at Lee High School.

Her paper is well worth publishing. It reads, in part, as follows:

"We are enveloped by a sadness over the moral decline in America today. Everywhere one turns he hears of fraud or theft or some other form of dishonesty. 'The things that make America great are being subverted for the things that make America rich.'

• • •

"Today people have such a great desire to reach the top rapidly, that they will take drastic measures to reach this goal. I believe this very thing played a major role in 'Watergate' and the other illegal acts committed by numerous politicians. In the case of 'Watergate' I believe Mr. Nixon and his accomplices wanted so badly to win that they took careless and illegal actions to do so. And after all, winning the presidential election is, in essence, among other things, coming into a great deal of wealth and power.

"Our desire for prosperity and prestige has overtaken our moral standards, integrity, superior products, desire to help one another.

"A classic example of the decline of our moral standards is the common-law marriage. Thirty years ago most people would never have thought of such a thing. The loss of our integrity is demonstrated every day. Officers of the law have been convicted for accepting bribes, students cheat on tests, and employes embezzle money from their own companies.

"How many times does one pay for something and then discover that it is an inferior product . . .

• • •

"America is in a tragic predicament, and the only way out is for each individual to make up his mind to be a better person, because our nation is composed of individuals. We cannot sit back and point our fingers at government or business, because we make up the organizations. Perhaps then, the things that once made America the country we like to remember will purify her once more."

Yes, Xan has the right idea. The answer to many of the nation's problems rests with the individual at the grassroots level.

At the same time, today's young people must not lose faith in America. It is the greatest and best nation on the face of the earth, and Xan's crowd of loyal young Americans can help keep it that way.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson Says: Here's why President Ford granted Nixon "full pardon."

WASHINGTON — Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski would have sought an indictment against former President Nixon "in a matter of weeks," according to sources familiar with the plans, if President Ford hadn't intervened with a pardon.

These sources say the special prosecutor intended to indict Nixon solely for obstruction of justice. Jaworski believed he had "an iron-clad case" against the former President and would get an "almost certain conviction," our sources report.

The case would have been based heavily upon Nixon's own tapes, which provide prima-facie evidence that he participated in the Watergate cover-up. Jaworski's deputy, James Neal, already had arranged for Secret Service technicians to testify about the taping system.

Our sources describe Jaworski as a man with a deep faith in the judicial processes. They say he simply could not ignore the verdict of the House Judiciary Committee, which voted unanimously to impeach Nixon for obstruction of justice, nor the will of the Watergate grand jury, which voted 19 to 0 to name him as an unindicted co-conspirator.

The grand jury would have indicted him last March if Jaworski had not counseled that a sitting President couldn't be legally indicted.

The threat of indictment hung over the former President like Damocles' sword. Sources who have had access to him in his seclusion at San Clemente describe him as "totally weary, terribly depressed and completely despondent."

One source has been struck by the "stark loneliness" of Richard Nixon. He is "absolutely alone within himself," the source explains.

All sources agree that he has complete control of his faculties, although his conversation sometimes wanders and his nerves seem frayed.

Nixon's psyche is so "delicate," our sources report, that his loyal aide Ronald Ziegler and attorney Herbert "Jack" Miller took President Ford's representative, attorney Benton Becker, aside before putting him together with Nixon at San Clemente. They asked the judicious Becker to keep the meeting informal.

Becker refused to comment on the meeting, except to say he found Nixon "alert" and "cordial."

The main cause of Nixon's anguish, according to our sources, was the expectation that Jaworski would ask the grand jury to indict him. The distraught Nixon even developed a strange inability to repeat Jaworski's name.

In a telephone conversation with Rep. Dan Kuykendall, R-Tenn., for example, the former President mumbled: "We've got problems with that fellow . . . ug . . . uh . . ."

"Jaworski?" suggested Kuykendall.

"Yes," said Nixon.

Others also have reported that he seems to have trouble with the special prosecutor's name.

We have established that President Ford learned of Nixon's mental state and imminent indictment. White House sources say the President feared the indictment could cause his predecessor a nervous breakdown.

Here are the other reasons, which finally persuaded the President to move quickly to grant Nixon a "full, free and absolute" pardon:

— Ford's legal advisers, Philip Buchen and Benton Becker, determined that a pardon was the President's prerogative and had nothing to do with equal justice. Lyndon Johnson granted less that 200 pardons during his five years in the White House, for example, while Harry Truman issued about 200 pardons a year. People have been pardoned for crimes that kept others in prison. Buchen and Becker advised Ford, therefore, that the Nixon pardon would not affect the criminal cases against H. R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman, John Mitchell and the other alleged conspirators.

— The President's lawyers came up with a quote from Alexander Hamilton who, writing in The Federalist, declared: "There are critical moments when a well-timed offer of pardon to the insurgents or rebels may restore the tranquility of the commonwealth." Under the preamble to the Constitution, the lawyers noted, the President is required to "insure the domestic tranquility." Ford agreed that a pardon, in Nixon's case, would promote tranquility.

— Buchen and Becker also contended there was no evidence Nixon had advance knowledge of the Watergate break-in. He was guilty merely of covering it up in order to avoid political embarrassment in the middle of the 1971 presidential campaign. What started out to be a political move wound up as a criminal conspiracy. The lawyers quoted from Sir Walter Scott's famous line, "Oh, what a tangled web we weave when first we practice to deceive!" Ford agreed that his predecessor hadn't started out to commit a crime but merely had become entangled in one.

— The President and his advisers also took into account Nixon's 28 years of political service, the last 24 under a national microscope. As one aide mused, "This is a terrible way to go after such long service."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
(Newspaper Enterprise Association)

From 1933 until Oswald Jacoby quit bridge for the duration on Dec. 7, 1941, his team, the Four Aces, dominated bridge. One of their most interesting contributions to bidding was their rule of "The ace and the king."

According to this rule if your partner made a game forcing or other very strong bid and you could take an ace and a king out of your hand and still have your previous bids you should bid a slam. If you held a singleton and could take away a king (or held no singleton, but could take away an ace) you should suggest a slam.

South would have responded one spade without the king of hearts and ace of diamonds. Hence, when North jumped to three spades, South is able to bid a slam in accordance with this rule.

He uses Blackwood because it is just possible that North would have a hand without an ace. North shows up with the two missing aces, but South does not bother with trying for a grand slam because he has nothing above the extra ace and king.

Of course, he might have asked for kings and then settled for six or he might even have bid seven. Shift the king of spades over to East and seven wheels in.

Writer Says Taxpayers Finance Industry Risks

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The economic mess this nation is now in cannot be blamed solely on the blunders of Congress and the executive, as serious as these consistently have been over the last 15 years or so.

The problem rests, too, with the changing nature of the 1,000 leading businesses of this nation.

By and large, management is now in the hands of professional managers. These men, many of whom come from the same dozen colleges, think in like patterns. Numbers act, think and talk like big-government bureaucrats. Some are in and out of government and while in Washington are almost indistinguishable from the careerists.

Many of these new-type managers are not wedded to their jobs but rather to personal advancement. A sizable number hop from one concern to another, gaining advancement with each move. They are interested in large measure, in setting a quick track record.

Over the long run, say a decade or two, impressive growth depends on taking intelligent chances, well-considered risks in pushing into new fields or new industrial methods which may take long years to show profit. If a manager aims at quick profits in two to four years, he will avoid risks and ventures which only promise payoffs far in the future. He may organize mergers and concentrate on areas where he can pass rising costs on to the customer without serious complications.

Productivity will rise slowly. Expansion will be slow and cautious. New inventions and new concepts will be adopted at a snail's pace if at all. Patents will be bought and pigeonholed. Many sound ideas will be carefully buried.

Witness the slow pace at which the $20 billion a year in government research and development is adapted and translated into new or improved industrial projects. And witness the speed with which Japanese and West German businessmen utilize new American discoveries.

American industrialists invited in by the government, and these have included the chiefs or high representatives of some of the major corporations in this country, have asked the federal establishment to take over such normal private business functions as running marketing tests for new products, setting up government-financed pilot plants and even, in some cases, requested full-scale model operations at taxpayer expense. Only if the government proves the ventures to be safe, some of these men say, will their firms be interested in investing.

This reaction is not unusual. In instance after instance, executives of major enterprises have told the government they are not receptive to taking risks in developing new products. This contrasts sharply with the attitude of executives of these same companies this reporter talked to regularly 10 and 20 years ago. The emphasis then was on new ideas. Risks were minimized by careful planning. Successes more than compensated for failures.

There is a limit, of course, to the present "hold-down." American industry is progressing but certainly its progress does not match that of Japan or West Germany in recent years. Our technological lead is disappearing, gradually but surely.

New materials and products are developed and marketed of course and products do get improved. But these advances are not taking place at the pace necessary to make possible the industrial expansion required to absorb our growing population, to stimulate the output necessary to hold inflation within reasonable limits and to provide for the regularly improving standards of living all of us aim for.

THE CONSUMER ALERT—

Check On Buyers Clubs Before Becoming Member

By JOHN L. HILL
Texas Attorney General

AUSTIN — The chance to buy merchandise at low discount prices has a lot of appeal for consumers these days because of presently rising prices on many consumer goods.

In the face of such price increases, some consumers have considered joining "buyers clubs" which offer savings on a number of items.

Many of these clubs are able to offer such savings because they can buy in bulk, or because they offer a more limited selection than regular department or specialty stores. In addition, those buyers clubs that operate by mail, with members ordering from catalogs, have no overhead or employe salaries to offset.

But Texans who are solicited to join buyers clubs that may make offers of savings on various kinds of purchases should exercise some caution before committing themselves, say our Consumer Protection attorneys.

Buyers club solicitations often are made by telephone, through the mail, or even in person-to-person or on-the-the street contact. They may be followed up by a personal visit from a salesman who occasionally may employ high-pressure tactics.

Salesmen or promotional material for such clubs may paint rosy pictures of the merchandise available and also may indicate unrealistic amounts of the savings consumers can realize if they join and buy through these clubs.

Our Consumer Protection Division points out, however, that what may not be emphasized by the salesman or in the promotional material is that a consumer must pay what usually amounts to a substantial membership fee to get the right to purchase through the club.

After paying such a fee, the consumer may find out that the benefits, products, and savings are not as great as they had been represented to be.

Consumers may find that some clubs occasionally substitute products for those ordered and that such substitutes may be of a different grade or quality than the original order.

Some clubs also may have an insufficient quantity of the products on hand to fill orders, or may require a minimum order.

It may be difficult to get prompt delivery on certain items offered by a buyers club, and in addition, the purchaser usually must assume the cost of returning any damaged items to the club for replacement.

Persons considering membership in a buyers club should take the following precautions:

1. Make sure you have the correct name, mailing address, and telephone number of the seller.

2. Get from the salesman or the club itself the names of the club members in your area and check with them to see if they have been satisfied with the savings, benefits, and products supplies by the club.

3. Do some comparison shopping before agreeing to join such a club, to determine that the prices advertised are accurate and to assure yourself that membership will result in significant savings.

4. Be aware that a club's listed prices usually do not include sales tax or mailing or delivery charges.

5. Check to see that local stores or repair shops will honor warranties on buyers club goods or you may have to send merchandise back to the club for repairs.

6. Remember that if you join a club through door-to-door solicitation you have the right to change your mind and get your money back if you cancel within three days.

7. Examine the club's membership contract carefully. Make sure your obligations and benefits are spelled out.

Donald Sutherland, Elliot Gould Serious Off-Screen

By EVE SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Donald Sutherland and Elliott Gould seem to specialize in movie roles with a distinct manic edge.

Some think they live those roles off-screen. Not so. Serious matters, such as the price of rice or politics, pop into their discussions of acting and what's funny (chicken is, goose isn't).

Lounging at opposite ends of a long, beige sofa in their hotel suite, the actors Robert Altman first paired as stars in "M-A-S-H" talked about life, work and interviews.

They've been promoting a new film, "S-P-Y-S," their third together, in which they play CIA men in trouble with almost everybody.

"We've been doing a lot of interviews, talking to journalists so they'll know what to talk to us about. Evidently some actors have given the impression doing interviews is an unpleasant task," Gould said.

"I like to be taken on. It's really very nice to be taken on and to respond. But anybody who wants to take me on had better be prepared. He'll have to give himself away, too."

"We've got a lot to share," Sutherland interrupted. "Everybody wants to be in movies. Everybody is the central character in their own movie. It's a very social business. So it's really joyful, interesting to participate in interviews, particularly when the two of us are together."

Sutherland is a lanky blond, 6-foot-four and 185 pounds, mustachioed and born in Canada. At 39, he has a string of film credits, including "Klute" with Jane Fonda and "Don't Look Now" with Julie Christie.

Gould, 35, looks heavier. He's 6-feet-3 and weighs 205, has dark eyes and brown electric-shock-curly hair, and is a native of Brooklyn, N.Y. He appeared on Broadway in musicals and drama before he went to Hollywood for movies.

Once married to Barbra Streisand, by whom he has a son, Jason, 7, Gould is divorcing Jennifer Bogart with whom he has two children. He prefers discussing the children to the former wives.

"I mean what I say and I say what I mean," Gould quipped. "And my kid says to me 'You are what you say.' Of course, that's because I replied 'Bull-' to something he said, and he said 'Daddy, you are what you say.'"

Sutherland lives in a Quebec farmhouse with French actress Francine Bisset, who recently gave birth to their first child. He has two children from two earlier marriages. They are growing up in California. Sutherland worries that they will have no conception of regular weather or changes of season.

Gould keeps an apartment in California and Sutherland "a telephone in a closet." Neither of them owns anything anywhere.

"To tell the truth, it's sad sometimes. I'm from the street. I live where I'm put. Frances Ford Coppola lives in San Francisco. I like it there, but Francis Ford lives there. Who can say where you live?" Gould asked.

That philosophy inspires Sutherland. "Once in California I parked my camper in a shopping center and when I came back there was a note on the window that said 'You are in my space.' And I thought, 'Wow, heavy.' Then I realized I was occupying his parking space."

The terrible twosome make the most sense when talking about their work.

"If it's special to be yourself or yourselves, then we are special," Gould said. "Once we were walking up Second Avenue after seeing a film of Donald's looking for Elaine's (a popular actor-writer-type restaurant.)

"People were great. I mean, you can walk through a crowd and be invisible. But this was like a party."

When Sutherland wants to change the subject, he mentions the price of rice, which he says has risen 120 per cent in the past year.

Then he's ready to talk about future projects.

"We want to work together. There's a pirate film which we wish to do, and a western, 'Rattlesnake Dick,'" he said.

In the meantime, he has completed "The Day of the Locusts," and is working on "The Defense," based on a Nabokov story about a chess player.

Gould is especially proud of "California Split," which he did with Robert Altman, and the "The Long Goodbye," a spoof of private detective films of the '40s.

Canadian politics and problems, inflation, pollution — all draw passing comment from Gould and Sutherland.

"Science is finished," Gould asserts. "We can't screw up the atmosphere any more."

He's writing a check to contribute to a New York senatorial candidate, Ramsey Clark, who is accepting no contribution greater than $100.

"Even if he loses, I think he's great. Think what that means. The attention he focuses on campaign finances, win or not," is very good.

Sutherland, off to another interview, wants to know where to buy a chair for the new baby. He puts on his pale straw hat, Gould picks up his dark glasses and they're off to continue promoting their film. They are, Sutherland says, "after all, in the business of selling motion pictures."

Wallace Spends More Than $1 Million To Gear Up For Possible Race

By BROOKS JACKSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace has raised and spent more than $1 million this year to gear up for a possible run for the White House in 1976, his finance reports show.

All but $40,000 of Wallace's donations have come in small gifts of under $100, the reports say.

Wallace is spending the money as fast as it comes in to work up valuable, computer-written lists of names and addresses of persons who will support him.

The pace of Wallace's early bird efforts is picking up. It took him 12 months to raise $1 million last year to pay off 1972 campaign debts and begin preliminary work for a possible new run next time. This year, it took him only 9 months to raise slightly more than $1 million.

Wallace's latest report, covering the period up to Aug. 31, shows that he has spent $1.2 million this year, slightly more than he raised. This has reduced his cash reserve to approximately $141,000.

Other embryonic presidential campaign committees are functioning on behalf of other Democrats, including Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota and former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford.

The latest entry is a two-month-old committee set up by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., which reported raising more than $100,000 so far.

A Republican, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, put the fund-raising efforts of his own presidential committee on ice last month after Gerald R. Ford all but sewed up the 1976 GOP nomination by becoming the incumbent President.

Next to Wallace, the best-financed presidential hopeful is Bentsen, who spent $209,000 this year and has $198,000 in cash left over. Almost all that money was raised before this year, because Bentsen has raised only $8,600 since Jan. 1.

Of all the committees, McCarthy's is the most heavily dependent on a single donor. The "Committee for a Constitutional Presidency" reported that it has raised $10,200 so far, of which $6,000 was given by William Clay Ford of Dearborn, Mich., president of professional football's Detroit Lions.

Ford also loaned the committee $9,000, which accounts for nearly all the cash it has on hand.

Wallace, who has no committee and who signs his finance reports personally, is running a more sophisticated fund-raising effort than in his earlier presidential runs.

The governor employs some methods used successfully by Republican Barry Goldwater in 1964 and Democrat George McGovern in 1972, including direct mail.

Through these efforts, Wallace may place himself far ahead of other Democrats in preparing for public financing legislation. Congress is expected to make public funds available to presidential primary candidates who can prove their support by raising a specified amount in small donations.

End To Tight Money Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor leaders at President Ford's second economic mini-summit called almost unanimously for an end to tight money policies which have pushed interest rates to record highs.

The labor leaders echoed on Wednesday the thoughts expressed by a panel of economists at the first mini-summit Sept. 5. But a change in tight money policies has been resisted by administration officials.

The labor leaders also charged that the government's anti-inflation policies are not working and may plunge the country into a severe recession with high unemployment.

At the start of the conference, Ford announced an effort to reduce unemployment by creating 85,000 new public jobs.

Ford said he will speed up the spending of $415 million in funds already set aside for jobs to be created in state and local governments. He said another $1.3 billion will be available to local governments for manpower programs.

The President said a close watch will be kept on unemployment and the government will "act with compassion" if it gets out of hand.

About 5.4 per cent of the work force is unemployed now.

"We will not permit the burden of necessary economic restraint to fall on those members of society least able to bear the costs," Ford said.

George Meany, head of the 13.5-million member AFL-CIO, complimented Ford for being willing to listen and called for "new thinking, new ideas and new directions."

"We've been going downhill for 5½ years under the present economic policies we have right at this minute," Meany said.

"We believe that budget cuts, high interest rates and tight money supply are not going to work in today's inflation."

In other economic developments Wednesday:

—State utility commissioners were urged by federal officials to speed rate increases for electric power companies.

—The Agriculture Department said August rains have helped the corn crop slightly but officials continued to predict higher food prices this year.

—A Senate committee recommended that the full Senate overturn Ford's three-month delay of a pay hike for 3.5 million federal employes.

—House Speaker Carl Albert called on Ford to act promptly with executive powers to ease economic problems and not to delay asking Congress for any added authority he needs.

Houston Firemen Are Back On Job

HOUSTON (AP) — Firemen were back on the job here today after ending a three-day sickout when faced with a state court ordering them to work.

Paul Carr, fire information officer, said firemen came back to their posts Wednesday night after District Court Judge Arthur Lesher granted a temporary restraining order sought by the city against the illegal strike.

Carr said 210 firemen had remained off their jobs during the day shift Wednesday — about 45 per cent of the shift. Officials covered the city with non-strikers on overtime.

A City Council resolution Wednesday authorized the filing of the suit, saying, "An unlawful work stoppage poses great peril to the lives and opportunity of the citizens."

A hearing on the case was set before Judge Lesher for Sept. 19.

One of six leaders of the sickout named in the suit, Carroll Gallien, 50, said the men taking part in the job action "felt like they accomplished their mission. The men are going to sit down and negotiate with us."

Lester W. Tyra Jr., president of the firefighters union which did not support the strike, told the council Wednesday, "These men didn't put their jobs on the line for any petty grievance. They have been oppressed for many years, doing a first class job and getting second class treatment."

The firemen taking part in the sickout demanded a 20 per cent pay hike, shortening the work week from 56 to 52 hours, and the separation of the firefighters and paramedics into different divisions. Firemen with medical training operate the emergency ambulance system here.

Beginning firemen now earn $9,711 a year. Their salary jumps to $10,067 a year when fully trained.

Soviets Plan Rehearsal For Joint Space Flight

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Soviet Union, but not the United States, will fly a rehearsal flight for the first international manned space mission, a Russian cosmonaut said Wednesday.

Gen. Vladimir A. Shatalov, chief of cosmonaut training, said the Russians dress rehearsal Soyuz spacecraft will be launched in May of 1975 and carry the same type of docking equipment to be used in the joint mission.

Shatalov said even though the United States does not plan to fly a similar mission, he foresees no problems.

"Judging by the training I witnessed at Star City (near Moscow) and here (the Johnson Space Center) yesterday, I have no doubts that the American crews are well prepared for this mission."

The two countries plan to link space ships together in orbit around the Earth during July.

During the press conference at the space center here, Shatalov spent most of his time explaining the recently-completed Soyuz 15 mission.

It was widely assumed that Soyuz 15 would dock with the Russian space laboratory and cosmonauts would occupy the space station.

But Shatalov said the primary purpose of the mission was to test an automatic docking system which did not work. He said it failed because the mechanism was inaccurately sensing the velocity at which the Soyuz was closing on the space station.

If there had been a successful docking, he said, the cosmonauts would not have occupied the space station.

Shatalov and eight other cosmonauts are here to continue training for the July mission. They are spending much of their time in flight simulators with American astronauts going over various parts of the proposed flight.

Housing Occupancy Is Up At Sul Ross

ALPINE — Fall housing occupancy at Sul Ross State University is up 12 per cent in married units and is up slightly over the 1973 figure in single student housing.

We're quite delighted the on-campus housing has shown an increase in one area and is slightly up in another, said Sul Ross President Dr. Hugh Meredith.

Mrs. Sharon Bass, director of housing at Sul Ross, said the married unit utilization has increased from 82 in 1973 to 92 in 1974, which represents a 12 per cent jump.

All available units for married students are full," Mrs. Bass said, "and there is a waiting list." There are 30 brick cottages, 44 duplexes, 3 farm cottages and 15 rock cottages available for married students.

There are 10 men's dormitories and 3 women's dormitories available for single students, she said.

Total occupancy of single housing complexes is up from 810 in 1973 to 812 in 1974.

But, Mrs. Bass said, Sul Ross has begun utilization of Ferguson Hall Apartments, which were unoccupied in 1973, for single men and women students.

Ferguson, which is equipped with kitchen facilities, has filled its 29 apartments for men and is only 3 shy of filling 14 apartments for women.

Marquis Annex, which has a capacity for 74 men students, is also nearly full, with 72 men occupants.

Smith Hall, one of the largest men's dormitories, had 103 occupants with a 108 capacity.

Mountainside, which was converted to an all-female dormitory this year, has 268 occupants with a 348 capacity.

The carp is among the comparatively few fish capable of making vocal noise.

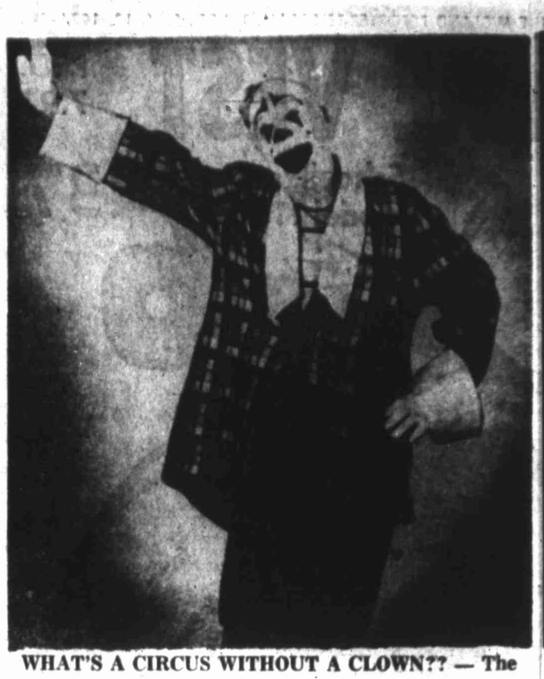
AMUSEMENTS

2B—THURSDAY, SEPT. 12, 1974



WHAT'S A CIRCUS WITHOUT A CLOWN?? — The big Shrine Circus coming to Midland for four performances this weekend will have Al Ross, "King of the Klowns," and his small army of mirthmakers delighting grownups and children alike. Included on the roster of zany entertainers is Tony, a student at Yale University during the winter months, who takes time away from his studies to join the Hubler International Circus each summer. The Midland performances will be the last before he returns to his classes. Performances of the Shrine Circus in Cub Stadium here will be at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday. A traditional parade will be a Saturday morning event in Downtown Midland.

'Godspell' Ending Casa Run

FORT WORTH — "Godspell," the musical that keeps coming back to Casa Manana, is on the boards of Fort Worth's famed theater-in-the-round for a final five-performance run.

The first of the five presentations is scheduled for 8 p.m. today, with additional performances scheduled Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, as well as Sunday afternoon. The Sunday matinee will begin at 2:30. Tickets for all performances are on sale daily at the Casa Manana box office as well as at Preston Ticket Agency in Dallas.

After Casa's two previous productions of "Godspell," (one in July and one in August), members of the production had scattered, but as the time for the current revival approached, cast members returned from all over. The two leads, Scott Jarvis and Tip Kelley, flew in from Los Angeles, and others came back from such places as New York, Houston, Dallas, Denton and Canyon.

And in the audience tonight will be one woman who has seen this production 19 times already, along with many other returnees mixed with newcomers.

What is this show that it exerts such a strong influence on all those whom it touches? It is a rock musical which tells the stories of Jesus as they are related in the gospel of St. Matthew. It tells them joyously, with love, humor, and with the innocent naivete of children hearing them for the first time.

"Godspell" was written by a young university student, and its music was composed by another young man. Somehow these two put together a show which speaks to all ages and faiths.

The two earlier productions of "Godspell" this summer were done as part of Casa Manana's regular season, which closed early this month with the musical "Gypsy." This third go-round is being presented privately by Casa's producer, Melvin Ducas, and director Buff Shurr and musical director Joseph Stecko. They, along with cast and audiences, just couldn't bear to see the show end.

ACT Growing, Prospering

By WILLIAM GLOVER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — For several years an ornate ad high on outer wall of the Geary Theater has fervently urged: "Share the Refulgence! Soar With the Act!"

Recent events at the American Conservatory Theater suggest that though radiant splendor may still be enthusiastic excess, the troupe has indeed attained a rare altitude of financial stability. And with that comes greater creative freedom.

"I'm surrounded by princes and a princess all deeply committed to patronage in the noblest sense," Managing Director William Ball says. "It liberates my thinking for concentration on artistic matter."

The current situation by the Golden Gate offers tonic contrast to the situation of many drama organizations, from Joe Papp's huge Public Theater in New York to the most modest grassroots repertory, caught by spiralling costs and chronic fund-raising.

ACT hasn't found a magical way to eliminate such concerns, but in Ball's thinking has gotten them under reasonable control. It all hasn't happened overnight. The company was founded at Pittsburgh in 1965, survived a gypsy season after tribulations there, then settled here.

Onward hasn't been steadily upward in the years since, mainly because of economic stresses. The ninth season of rotating repertory here begins next month, however, with a schedule of seven new productions and two revivals.

General critical praise has been accompanied by significant growth in subscription support.

"Last season we had 18,000 subscribers," reports Ball, "which has a 35 per cent increase from the year before — which had been a 35 per cent rise from two years ago. This season we are hoping for 21,000 subscribers."

Besides steadily growing box-office support, two other factors contribute largely to the balding, 43-year-old director's upbeat outlook:

The Ford Foundation has posted a $2-million grant, of which $750,000 is assigned for general support through 1977; $450,000 to create a cash flow account through the same period; and $800,000 toward purchase of a 71-year lease on the Geary and for construction of new facilities next door. Most of the allotment stipulates matching contributions from other sources.

The second bracer for business care has been the take-over by Cyril Magnin, a retired department store magnate, of chief responsibility for such fund-raising. Magnin, now 75, has been an ardent supporter of ACT since its local advent.

James MacKenzie, executive development director, is another ranking member of the staff which Ball credits with freeing him to focus totally on ACT's play schedule and the massive training programs that are a basic part of ACT's concept. At season peak, ACT employs 200 actors and technicians.

"The biggest problem is finding big new plays," Ball says of a production schedule sometimes criticized of over-emphasizing classic dramas and modern standards.

"The tendency of writers today is to do chamber plays, limited in idea. I believe, though, they will write of heroic champions if given the chance."

For the past three years ACT has had a subsidiary program of new plays, performed in workshop fashion for invited audiences only. With the new facilities, which will include a 299-seat theater to augment the Geary's accommodations for 1,200 spectators, the new play display will go public.

COMING TO MIDLAND — Freddy Martin, famous as one of the top band leaders in the big band era of the 1930s and '40s, will be in Midland a week from tonight as one of the headliners of the "Big Band Cavalcade," a program of musical memories to be presented in Midland High School auditorium under auspices of Midland Community Concerts Association. Martin and his "silvertone saxophone" will be joined by such other popular personalities as Bob Crosby, Red Norvo and vocalist Helen Forrest. Next week's program is the opening event of Midland Community Concerts Association's new season and will be open to association members and guests only, with no single admissions to be available.

$4,000 Prize Total For Show At Hobbs

HOBBS, N.M. — Almost $4,000 in prize money is being offered in this year's exhibition sponsored by the Llano Estacado Art Association of Hobbs, annually one of the top fall competitions in the Southwest.

The exhibition will open Sept. 29 in the fine arts building on the campus of New Mexico Junior College here, and continue through Oct. 1. Entry deadline is Sept. 26.

Adjudicators for this ninth annual event will be William Rakocy, curator of collections for the El Paso Museum of Fine Art, and Wiltz Harrison, professor of art at the University of Texas-El Paso.

Entry selected by the judges as the best-in-show will bring its creator a $500 cash prize. Purchase awards donated by various Hobbs business firms and individuals will be given in the following categories: oil; acrylic and mixed media; watercolor; sculpture; graphics; ceramics and crafts.

To be eligible for the show and competition, persons must be at least 18 years of age. Entry fees are $3 per entry for LEAA members and $4 per entry for non-members. A fee of 20 per cent will be charged by the art association on all sales except purchase awards. Entries which are not-for-sale must be so designated on entry blanks.

Additional information on the upcoming show is available from the Llano Estacado Art Association at P. O. Box 684, Hobbs, N.M., 88240.

O'Connor May Be Out Of 'Family'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Can it be the same without Archie Bunker in "All in the Family"?

Norman Lear, executive producer, said Wednesday that if Carroll O'Connor does not report for work today he will be written out of the popular CBS comedy series.

O'Connor refuses to cross a picket line of striking electricians at CBS. Taping of the show has been suspended since Aug. 21.

Odessa Civic Concert Season Opens Tonight

ODESSA — Mezzo-soprano Theresa Treadaway-Carroll will open Odessa Civic Concert Association's new season with a recital tonight.

The 8 p.m. event will be in the auditorium of Bonham Junior High School. Members of Midland's Community Concerts Association may attend at no charge under the reciprocal attendance arrangement existing between the concert organizations of the two cities.

Miss Treadaway-Carroll currently holds the title of Affiliate Artist in the music department of Texas Tech University, Lubbock. Her association with that university is made possible by grants from the Sears, Roebuck Foundation and the National Endowment for the Arts. She gave her first performances at TTU in the spring and summer and, during the current month, will give additional performances in the Lubbock area, as well as in Levelland, Snyder and Odessa.

Friday, Miss Treadaway-Carroll will present informal programs at Odessa College and the University of Texas of the Permian Basin. Pianist Trudi Post of Lubbock will be her accompanist for all programs.

As TTU's affiliate artist, Miss Treadway-Carroll will spend a total of eight weeks on campus during the current year, returning in November to sing the title role in "Carmen" for the Texas Tech Music Theatre's production of the Bizet opera in November. Between engagements at Tech, she performs with the Lake George Opera company and on tour with the Goldovsky Opera Theater. During the winter season she sings with the Boston Opera. A graduate of the University of Oklahoma, she has studied at the Sherwood Music Conservatory in Chicago and at the Metropolitan Opera Studio in New York.

Brewer Cast In New Play

ABILENE — Phillip Brewer of Midland has been cast in a new play now in rehearsal at McMurry College where he is a sophomore political science major. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Homer Brewer of Midland.

The play, titled "It Shouldn't Happen to a Dog," is a one-act comedy by playwright Wolf Mankowitz.

According to McMurry drama director Jo Guthrie, the play retells the Biblical story of Jonah going to Ninevah. It will be done in modern dress in its production here.

Dr. Thomas K. Kim, McMurry College president, has asked that the play be presented for a group of United Methodist ministers scheduled to meet here soon, after which it will be toured to churches and other settings in the Abilene area.

Joining Brewer in the two-member cast is student Neilon Ely of Merkel, who has the part of Jonah. Brewer is handling the other parts in the comedy, director Guthrie said.

Music Workshop Slated

Dr. Arryl S. Paul, a member of the music faculty of The University of Texas-El Paso, will conduct a Saturday workshop for members of the Midland Music Teachers Association and their students.

The day-long event in the studio of Mrs. Wayne Matthews, 2513 Harvard St., will begin with registration at 8:30 a.m. Area teachers of music and Midland teachers not affiliated with MMTA who would like to participate in the workshop may contact Mrs. James Finley, workshop chairman, for additional information.

The workshop theme will be "Interpretations and Technique of the Baroque, Classical, Romantic and Contemporary Musical Periods." Students of various MMTA members will perform selections representative of these musical eras during the afternoon, with Dr. Paul then to give critical analyses of the performances.

Saturday's workshop is the first in a series of special recitals, programs and clinics planned during the coming season for MMTA members and their students.

Dr. Paul, a native of Springfield, Mo., holds a bachelor of music from Drury College at Springfield, the master of music degree from Wichita University and a doctorate from the University of Arizona. He has done additional graduate work at Indiana University and the University of Geneva. He made his professional debut at the age of 4, being considered something of a child prodigy. In later years he has been guest soloist with symphony orchestras in Springfield, Wichita, Kan., Bloomington, Ind., and El Paso, and has played solo programs in many cities in the Southwest and elsewhere, including New York City, Chicago, Albuquerque, Artesia and Alamogordo, N.M. He has been a member of the UTEP faculty since 1966.

Dr. Arryl Paul

SONG AND DANCE MAN — Terry Milligan will be seen as Michael, half of the song-and-dance team of Agnes and Michael, in Permian Playhouse's production of the musical, "I Do! I Do!", opening Friday night at Odessa's community theater. Joining him in the two-member cast is Barbara Iglehart. "I Do! I Do!" is directed by PPH associate director James Walters. The PPH production will play weekends through Sept. 28 and seats for all performances may be reserved by telephoning the theater at 362-2329.

'D-Day' Near

Midland Arts Association's annual "D-Day" is nearing.

That's "Demonstration Day," when selected members of MAA join in presenting demonstrations of various art techniques for their fellow MAA members and the public alike. The event has become a popular yearly happening in the Tall City.

This year's program will be held on the grounds of the Museum of the Southwest's Lancaster House, 1705 W. Indiana St., between 1:30 and 4 p.m. Sunday. The public is invited to attend at no charge.

Demonstrating their particular specialities at the gathering will be:

— Pat Metts, drawing.

— Faye Grissett and Donna Long, jewelry making.

— Jack Hickman, raku pottery.

— Stan Jacobs, wheel throwing (pottery).

— Jean Posey, slab building (pottery).

— Dorothy Peterson, watercolors.

— Marian Ford, embossing (printmaking).

— Kay Sprecher, macrame.

— John Van Auken, welded sculpture.

Jeanette Van Auken, flower arranging.

Sunday's program will be the first of many events planned by Midland Arts Association for its members and the public during the 1974-75 season. The big event of the year will be the annual Fall Regional Art and Crafts Exhibition opening Oct. 26 and continuing until Nov. 2.

The exhibition, annually one of the most important showcases of the creative output of artists and craftsmen in West Texas and eastern New Mexico, will offer cash awards of approximately $1,000. Adjudicator for the show will be Harry S. Parker III, new director of the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts.

ART DEMONSTRATOR — Jack Hickman, art instructor at the Trinity School of Midland, will be one of a dozen members of Midland Arts Association who will be featured in MAA's annual demonstration of art techniques Sunday afternoon. He will demonstrate raku pottery making. The event on the grounds of Lancaster House will be open to the public without charge.

Western Culture Exhibit Scheduled

An exhibition of Western art, literature and memorabilia collected over five decades by noted Texas historian J. Evetts Haley, a native of the Permian Basin, will go on view Friday at the Museum of the Southwest, 1705 W. Missouri St. The collection which is now housed in part at the museum, is known as the Nita Stewart Haley Memorial Library.

Selected works relative to exploration, military history, Indians, and other historical aspects of Western Americana, particularly Texas, compose the show. These works will remain on view here through Oct. 29.

Admission to the museum is free at all times. Museum hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, and 2 to 5 p.m. each Sunday.

ODESSA — Odessa Mayor Dan Hemphill — perched in a utility truck "cherry picker" near the top of the 45-foot liberty pole — sang a proclamation declaring Oct. 5 as "Colonial Fling-Ding and Fun-of-a-Gun Day" in Odessa.

The proclamation was made in ceremonies on the lawn of the Ector County Courthouse.

The "Fun-of-a-Gun" will feature two chili cookoffs and a stew cookoff.

The "Colonial Fling-Ding," more commonly known in Odessa as the Cow Chip Throwing Contest, will expand to include seven categories this year.

Spitz May Swim Again-For Money

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two years after his amazing win of seven gold medals in the Olympic Games, Mark Spitz says that he might swim again, but for money this time.

His hair has grown long since he electrified the world with his seven gold medals and seven world records at Munich in 1972. He is richer, having cashed in on product endorsements and show business offers.

Same As Before

But at 24 he remains the same as before — outspoken, competitive, self-assured, and cocky, say his detractors.

He claims he is stronger than he was during the Olympics, and that has made him think about swimming again.

"I think a man reaches his physical maturity between 28 and 32," he observed in the apartment he shares with his wife, Susan, in Marina del Rey yacht basin. "The only reason swimmers stop competing at 22 is that they get out of school and have to go work. Otherwise they could go on and even swim better.

Two Years To Train

"I've been talking to a friend about my getting back in training. I would have to start now and train for two years before I would be back in peak condition. I think I could at least break one of my records.

"But it would have to be for money this time. How? I don't know. Something could be worked out."

The 1976 Olympics are apparently out of the question for Spitz, not merely because of his yen to make his swimming pay. He said the Amateur Athletic Union considers him a professional because he has endorsed swimming products.

"They're discriminating against my profession," he complained. "A doctor or lawyer could continue their jobs and swim as amateurs. But because I'm in entertainment, I'm a professional. Did you know that swimmers can't even take jobs as lifeguards and remain amateurs. It's ridiculous."

He continued with a blast at AAU officials as "a bunch of phonies. They don't stand up for our country at all; they bend backwards to please the Iron Curtain countries.

"Because of the gold medals I won, they thought there were too many swimming events in the Olympics. But every one of the races I swam were bona-fide world events.

Three Events Cut

"Now they've cut three swimming events, including the men's sprint relay. A swimmer would have to win five individual events and two relays to match my record (of four individual, three relays).

"Nobody complained when Valery Borzov won the 100- and the 200-meter dashes. Or when Olga Korbut won the floor exercises and the balance beam. It's so hypocritical."

In the two years since the Olympics, Mark Spitz has rarely gone near the water, except for his favorite hobby of sailing his 36-foot boat.

"I had such a regimented life of practicing at 6 a.m. and again at 4 p.m. that I delight in doing nothing."

But he is full of business matters — pursuing his career in show business, following up on his product endorsements ("I'm not an absentee landlord"), researching a new business about which he is secretive.

She's One Of First Female Union Carpenters

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — When a new idea hammers away at a woman, she will find a way to nail it down. This is the nuts-and-bolts story of how Jane Thomas happened to become one of the first women union carpenters in America.

Jane's dimpled face, slim figure and manicured hands are familiar sights to members of the Carpenters and Joiners of America Local Union 1098 here.

When her four-year apprenticeship of weekly classes and on-the-job training has been completed, Jane will be a full-fledged union carpenter — and a good one, her co-workers agree.

Her interest in the trade zoomed when she learned that the pay of an apprentice doubled that of any job she had ever held — securities cashier, beautician, chef and over-the-counter stock trader.

Why not become a carpenter? She felt certain she'd like the work.

She applied to the union, satisfied examiners and interviewers, and won acceptance.

Once these hurdles were history, a larger obstacle faced her. It took salesmanship of the highest order to convince her husband, a student at Louisiana State University, that carpentry was a good field for her.

"My husband really didn't like the idea of my being around so many men all the time," she said. "I pointed out that it was the same situation a girl often gets into in office work as far as the ratio of women to men is concerned.

"And girls in an office have to fend off unwanted attention from men simply because they do dress attractively as part of their total role in meeting the public.

"My personal experience is that I have been treated with more respect by fellow construction workers than I have in some office situations."

Thomas finally saw his wife's point of view.

Jane was employed as an apprentice carpenter in November 1972 by a construction company in Baton Rouge. She was one of the crew to build a $3½-million high school in Central, La., a suburb of the state capital.

Her working day begins at 7 a.m. When it's over at 3:30 p.m., she has long evenings — and weekends, too — to spend with her husband, her son and the family pets, and to pursue her avocations.

During off hours, Jane refinishes furniture. Interior carpentry, such as cabinetry, is her favorite in the new field she has entered. She also occasionally appears at trade shows and on radio on behalf of Disston, a tool company.

She has a green thumb as well as a good sawing arm — and Louisiana's climate gives her the chance to garden all year long.

Once Jane has become a master craftsman, the homemaker-turned-home-builder will be able to choose her work.

Skill is only part of being a good carpenter. Self-motivation is just as important, she points out.

"But I think," she contends, "there's a big spot for women in construction. It happens to suit my abilities and interests very well."

Designer Closing Swank Dress Shop

LONDON (AP) — John Cavanagh, one of Britain's leading dress designers, is closing his dress shop in London's swank Mayfair District.

"The ever-increasing overheads and cost of production have made it virtually impossible for us to continue this business any longer," Cavanagh wrote in a letter to his customers.

His customers included Princess Alexandra and the Duchess of Kent.

Cavanagh, now 60, has worked as a dress designer since he was 18. He began as a pupil of the late Edwaeux and Pierre Balmain before opening his own premises in Curzon Street, London, in 1952.

Lawyers For Five May Try To Block Scheduled Inquiry

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Lawyers for five of the seven men charged in the prison escape here Aug. 3 in which four died said they may try to stop a scheduled court of inquiry into the affair.

The lawyers, all appointed to represent five persons charged with capital murder in the case, made the statement as their clients entered pleas of innocent during an arraignment Wednesday.

The lawyers, Alfred Thomas and Ray Montgomery of Houston, said they may also ask a change of venue for their clients.

The court of inquiry, called by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, is due to start after the end of a grand jury probe here, expected in mid-October.

Open to the public, the inquiry is designed to investigate the prison escape attempt in which two inmates and two hostages died and accusations that the inmates—Fred Carrasco and Rodolfo Dominguez—were executed by law enforcement officers.

A court of inquiry might make a fair trial for their clients impossible, the lawyers said.

The lawyers represent Lawrence Hall, Fred Parales, Adolfo Alonzo, Pedro Alonzo, and Benito Alonzo. All of the men are prison inmates except Benito Alonzo. They are charged with helping to smuggle into the prison guns used in the escape attempt. Under Texas law, they can be charged with murder.

Also entering an innocent plea was Ignacio Cuevas. He was the only one of the three inmates involved in the escape attempt to survive the shootout.

Cuevas told District Court Judge V. L. Warren, "I never fired my pistol. I never killed anybody."

Midland Youth Center Chatter

By GAYLE GRIMLAND, LESLIE MORGAN and VICKIE THROCKMORTON

Another rip-roaring week whizzed by. Our purple polls opened Wednesday in search of Midland's leaders, with Student Council elections. A representative and alternate were elected from each 3rd period class.

Other elections kept students busy circling names and filling out ballots to establish themselves for the coming year. Leading the Junior Class are Tim Johnson, president; Jeff Webb, vice president; Steva Graham, secretary, and Betsy Allday, treasurer. Adding a dash of spirit along the way for the Bullpups are Junior Varsity cheerleaders, Betsy Morrison, Susan Wimberly and Diane Freshour, with Staci Moore as alternate.

The following 100 Club officers had a good run for their money in an enthusiastic turn-out at the polls, with many candidates in the running: Leslie Houston, president, and Clay Pollard, vice president. Secretaries, appointed by Mr. Rasco, are: Vicki Goodenough, Kenla Ray, Amy Thompson and Jean Huestis. Thanks for all the 100 Club members who worked on the Youth Center last weekend. The patio really looks GREAT!!!! The volleyball court, basketball court, new ping-pong tables, and tables on which to eat during lunch are a great improvement.

Foreign Language Clubs get on the move with good attendence and election of officers. Le Club de Francais elected Marcey Pinard as president; Charles Priddy, vice president; Karla Juni, secretary; Katie Arnold, treasurer, and Vicki Stone, scrapbook. El Club de Amistad (Spanish) inaugurated into office Pat Brown, president; Susan Mendenhall, vice president; Sue Ann Clark and Lisa Howe, secretaries, and Leslie Morgan, tresurer. Sophmore Class officers will be elected Tuesday.

WHAT WAS THE RUSH?

Friday, after 3rd period, there was a big rush of students checking out of school, buying football tickets, and painting and packing cars. Where were they all going? To the zoo? Heck NO!!! Bulldog supporters were headed toward Amarillo for the Midland-Tascosa football game. The five-hour drive paid off with M.H.S.'s first game, first victory of the season, 26-6!!!!! Those seen on the highway with carloads of Bulldog backers were Shelley Boyd, Amy Dean, the Harris', Jeff Webb, Tish Madison, the Dunlap's, Mac Gesell, Thad Scott, Chris Gaddy, Ginger Culp, plus many, many more active students and parents.

HOME OPENER

The Junior Varsity met Lee this afternoon in their first game. Hope you came out on top, Bullpups!!

Our Purple Pack will prove their strength against El Paso Eastwood at 8 p.m. Friday in Midland Memorial Stadium. The Bulldog Bleachers will be packed to the press box since there's no excuse to miss a home game. The occasion will feature the great M.H.S. Band and Possettes to help cheer.

Those girls dressed in purple & white (namely the Possettes) will be selling football programs this year. Be sure and spot one and buy a program to help support the Student Council. A reminder to all girls that you must meet at 6:30 p.m. on the West side.

BANGLES FOR SALE

"Would you please buy a BANGLE?????" Surely everyone has heard this sales pitch more than once from someone in the Junior Class. Well, would you please buy a bangle to help support the Junior Class for the Junior-Senior Prom? Some of the eager beaver sellers to look for in the halls are Paul Beique, Steva Graham, Terry Hancock, Gaye Hill, Susan Tighe, Scott Bass, Jeff Webb and Betsy Allday.

There will be no wallflowers at the Victory Dance in the Youth Center following the game. It won't be a chancy place to go on a Friday, the 13th, for jiving to the tunes of "Meny" from 10-12. It won't be disastrous for anyone because everyone can come, dates, no dates, for the price of 50 cents per person for Y.C. members, and $1 for non-members. Get Ready to Rock Steady!

The Spanish Club reminds everyone that Saturday, Sept. 14 is Mexican-American Independence Day. This holiday will be celebrated with food, music, and booths in the County Exhibit Building. It should be a fun day, so come out and participate.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is celebrating the climax of the hard-candy sale with a picnic supper at 7 p.m. Sunday in Cowden Park. Members can turn in their money which will be used for future retreats and banquets. Bring your own dinner. Drinks will be provided. Besides food there will be softball, frisbee and football. It should be a blast, so see ya then. Thanks go to the LaForces for the use of their house for the last meeting.

NEW FACES

Many people new to Midland also are new to Midland High. They are Cindy Goodgame from Huntsville; Denise and Doug Pickering from Evergreen, Colo., Courtney Agar from Tyler, and Sandi Seeker from Wichita Falls. Also a sophmore transfer from Lee is Kelly Eng. Welcome to these and many more.

MYSTERY

Who dines in the Youth Center behind closed doors, watching their favorite soap opera? None other than the senior girls of '75. Now by invitation only, senior boys can enter. Better be nice, boys!!!

The Chatter writers would like to know more about YOU, the students of Midland High. Information will be printed about Club meetings and activities, names, happenings, and any personal facts not known about friends. There will be a box in the office and at the candy counter in the Y.C. If you've got it, we want it!

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: Experience is the name everyone gives to his mistakes.

Until next week,

Federal Appeals Court Upholds Refusal To Delay Convention

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court Wednesday affirmed the judgment of a lower court in refusing to order a delay of the Texas Democratic convention, which falls during the Jewish holidays of Rosh Hashana.

Eleven Jewish convention delegates asked U.S. Dist. Judge Adrian Spears of Austin to issue a temporary injunction forbidding the State Democratic Executive Committee (SDEC) to hold the convention on the designated day, Sept. 17.

Spears said the Jewish delegates did not show enough proof that their suit would succeed at trial, and a three-judge panel of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals agreed.

The appeals court noted that the Texas Democratic convention was set by law to fall on the third Tuesday in September.

"It is undisputed that the conflict in dates resulted from the workings of a religiously neutral and valid law, not enacted with any invidious purpose," said Judge Thomas Gibbs Gee, writing for the majority.

"Countless state functions are scheduled throughout the year: accounting, bar, and medical accounting, bank, and medical court sessions; highway lettings; in short, the entire panoply of public affairs," Gee wrote.

"To permit a would-be participant in any of these to require its rescheduling on constitutional grounds to remove a conflict with his religious occasions, where it was scheduled without reference to or intent to impinge upon them, would render orderly government impossible."

In a concurring opinion, Judge Irving Goldberg agreed that the 11 delegates probably had no constitutional right to force the party to reschedule its convention, but he chided the Democrats for refusing to change it voluntarily.

"When members of a respected religion are, even temporarily and unintentionally, excommunicated from an important part of the political process, all citizens sensitive to the rights of minorities and to the precious freedoms vouchsafed in the Constitution should weep," Goldberg wrote.

"The judicial arm does not have the muscle to lift every stone cluttering the political pathway," he continued. "Other areas of our political system do have the strength. Unless they exercise their muscles, democratic atrophy will surely follow."

Problem Of Dealing With Economy Remains In Discussion Stage

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The malfunctioning economy may in theory be the nation's No. 1 problem, as President Ford has indicated, but once again Watergate has pre-empted the position.

For one month it seemed that inflation, recession and the other related specters that have haunted every household would be exposed by enlightened discussion, and eventually routed by decisive action.

Those who held that view now aren't so certain. Whereas the pardon of President Nixon was decisive and absolute and required no conference, the number one problem, the economy, remains in the discussion stage.

In fact, the nature of the beast has not yet been ascertained, and nobody seems to know whether to plunge the spear into the hide or the heart.

The President already has indicated that it is now too late in the congressional session for enaction of anti-inflationary legislation, whatever form it might take.

Meanwhile, the battle of the economy is being fought with much the same attitudes of the former administration, led by a chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers who was actually chosen by Nixon.

Alan Greenspan, the chairman, has reiterated his belief that the money supply must remain tight, despite the consensus of economists at a White House meeting Sept. 5 that the money supply should be eased.

The Federal Reserve Board has the responsibility for controlling the amount of money fed into the economy. It can cut the supply if it feels too many dollars are chasing too few goods. Or, if the supply seems insufficient, it can release more funds.

The big controversy about a tight money policy at this stage of the economy is that it might be strangling domestic industry, including essential public utilities, instead of restoring ecopomic health.

Those who oppose tight money argue that the nation is on the verge of a deep recession and that the economy needs an injection of financial energy rather than a further restriction.

In addition, some businessmen and economists and labor leaders argue that a tight money policy hits domestic economic activity hard but is far less effective in holding down the price of oil or cocoa or other imports.

Lee Plays At Snyder Friday

Midland Lee's Steve Degenfelder ... ready to face Snyder Friday

Reb Defense Impresses Hodges

The Midland Reporter-Telegram
SPORTS
1C—THURSDAY, SEPT. 12, 1974

By TED BATTLES

SNYDER — Maruice Hodges is back in Class AAA and he's glad of it. That's where the Snyder Tigers feel more comfortable, he points out.

"We really didn't belong in AAAA, but we did pretty well in that division," said Hodges, whose Tigers were 6-3-1 last year. "But I'm glad we're back in AAA. That's where we belong."

The change in divisions offers little comfort to the Midland Lee Rebels, who play the Tigers, here in an 8 p.m. game Friday. The Tigers look as formidable as the team that beat Lee, 27-15, last year.

"We are quicker this year," says Hodges, "but we are not quite as big."

The Tigers have five offensive starters and three defensive starters back from last year and on the basis of a 21-6 win over Monahans last week climbed the 10th place in the AAA state ratings.

"We made the usual opening game mistakes, anxious mistakes, but overall, we had a good night offensively and made the big play defensively. This week our opposition will be much tougher.

"Lee looked awesome defensively against Lubbock," Hodges shuddered, "Any time you hold a team to 25 yards total offense, that's good. I don't care who you are playing."

Of course, Welton Cobb, hailed as one of this fall's Friday night super stars, and with adequate reason, heads the Tiger offense and will be the one Lee's defense will key on. Cobb broke 60 and 55 yards and scored three times in leading Snyder over Monahans last week.

Cobb had two touchdowns, one a 44-yard run, and gained 92 yards in seven carries against Lee last year. He's a complete football player in that he's just as valuable to the Tigers at linebacker on defense.

If the Rebels are concerned with Cobb, Snyder is equally worried about tailback Milton Jones, who romped for three touchdowns and gained 128 yards in 12 carries in Lee's 28-0 victory over Lubbock in last week's opener.

The Rebels go into the game in good shape. Tailback Blain Murray was slowed down this week by an ankle injury, but is scheduled to start on defense. Milton Jones will start offensively. Terry Nelson missed last week's game because of a leg injury, but figures to see some action at split end behind Robert Johnson and will start at free safety.

Slotback Lance Posey will move from free safety to cornerback on defense.

The depth at running back, linebacker and defensive ends are a luxury that Coach Jim Acree is throughly enjoying and he was also pleased with the way junior Russell Kellner performed at backup quarterback last week.

"He's good runner and has the tools to make a fine quarterback," says the Lee mentor. "And at fullback Mike Oliphant's blocking and Brian Webb's running give us a nice combination."

At the ends, Jim Kruez and Gary Bowman start, but Max McLane and Junior Miller are

Cards, Mets In Trouble

What Wife Will Buy 3 A.M. Finish?

By HAL BOCK

NEW YORK (AP) — The National League has no curfew, which explains why the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Mets were playing baseball at 3:10 a.m., EDT, Thursday. morning.

And Bake McBride was getting a little tired waiting around for something to happen, which explains why the Cardinals won a 4-3 decision in 25 innings, the second longest game in major league history.

McBride had opened the 25th — yes, 25th — with an infield single and was leading off first base when Cards' Manager Red Schoendienst flashed the hit-and-run sign. "I was leaning," said McBride, "leaning back on my heels, resting."

He was entitled to the breather. After all, he'd been in center field from the start, some seven hours earlier. Hank Webb, the sixth Mets' pitcher, decided a pickoff throw might be a good idea. It was, but where Webb threw it wasn't.

The high throw got past first baseman John Milner for an error and McBride was on his way. "I figured I could get to third," he said, "Then, when I turned second, I said to myself, 'I'm going all the way.' "

McBride steamed around third, never looking for a stop or go sign from coach Vern Benson. "He was going too fast to see any sign anway," decided Benson.

Milner retrieved the ball and threw to the plate and McBride slid across just as catcher Ron Hodges dropped the ball.

As plate umpire Ed Sudol signalled him safe, McBride lay on the ground, seemingly stunned that the tie-breaking run had finally scored. "There was dirt in my eyes, dirt everywhere," he said. "I was tired.

At seven hours, four minutes, it was the longest night game in major league history, both in terms of time and in terms of innings. And it fell only one inning short of the all-time marathon record, a 26-inning dandy between the Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston Braves May 1, 1920.

Ironically, the Mets were one out away from a regulation nine-inning victory. Jerry Koosman was leading 3-1 with a three-hitter when Ken Reitz tagged him for a two-out, two-run homer that tied the game.

Given that second life, the Cards hung on until McBride's legs delivered the victory that moved them to within 2½ games of first-place Pittsburgh in the National League's East Division.

In the St. Louis dressing room, Reggie Smith delivered a a warning to his married teammates. "There's no way," he said, "that your wives are going to believe you guys were out playing baseball all night."

Phils 8, Pirates 5

The Pirates not only lost the game, they lost their ace pitcher when a line drive by Philadelphia's Willie Montanez struck Dock Ellis on the right hand, fractured a bone and knocked the Pirate star out of the lineup for at least three weeks.

The other damage done by a Philadelphia bat was Bill Robinson's three-run eighth-inning home run, which broke a 5-5 tie and sent the Phillies to victory.

Bob Robertson and Art Howe hit homers as the losers built a 5-2 lead entering the Philadelphia seventh.

Dodgers 5, Giants 4

Center fielder Garry Maddox made a two-run error on Ron Cey's sixth-inning line drive, helping the Dodgers break a 2-2 tie and record their victory over the Giants.

Expos 6-13, Cubs 1-4

Willie Davis's two-run home run sparked the Expos' four-run first inning and set them on the way to a rout of the Cubs in the second game after Mike Jorgensen clubbed two homers to lead Montreal in the first game.

Former Midland Cub Ron Dunn homered for Chicago.

Braves 1, Reds 1

Rain washed out the contest in the fifth inning, and the game was to be replayed completely as part of a doubleheader today, although the statistics counted toward the regular season records.

Coming Home In Wee Hours

Bake McBride, St. Louis Cardinal infielder who played for Arkansas in the Texas League two years ago, slides home with winning run as Redbirds nipped New York Mets, 4-3, in 25-inning game at Mets Stadium. Catcher Ron Hodges waits for the ball. Game ended at 3:10 a.m. (AP Wirephoto.)

PADRES WIN 2-0 THREE-HITTER—

Spillner, Ivie Team To Beat Astros

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Dan Spillner has discovered a new pitch and another of San Diego's 22-year-old rookies, Mike Ivie, has realized a lifetime dream.

Spillner, 7-10, hurled a three-hit, 2-0 victory over Houston Wednesday night after approaching catcher Fred Kendall before the game and saying:

I haven't tried it in a game all year, but I think I can throw a fork ball."

"I've been hoping all season that he could come up with another pitch and his fork ball made a big difference," Kendall said after Spillner struck out 10 Astros and walked only one.

"I called for it on four of his first five pitches and we got two ground-ball outs, so I called for it a lot the rest of the way. It made his fast ball even faster."

However, Spillner, who hurled a one-hit, 1-0 victory at Chicago June 19, was locked in a scoreless duel with veteran Houston righthander Don Wilson, 10-12, until the seventh inning when Ivie hit a two-run homer, his first in the majors. It came after a walk to John Grubb.

"That was something I've waited for all my life," said Ivie, a $100,000 bonus baby who twice has quit baseball since being signed as the nation's No. 1 draft choice in June 1970.

"I was in such a daze I don't even remember touching all the bases."

"The remarkable thing about Ivie," said San Diego Manager John McNamara, "is that he was air sick all the way from Cincinnati today."

The Padres awoke at 7 a.m. in Cincinnati Wednesday (4 a.m. San Diego time), arrived at the airport and learned that their commercial flight to San Diego would be almost three hours late in departing.

Due to land here at noon, the Padres arrived at 2:45 p.m. and had put in a 17-hour day by the time Spillner dispatched the Astros in an hour and 46 minutes.

It was only the 10th San Diego victory in the club's last 46 games.

Bill Greif, 7-17, will try to give the Padres a sweep of the two-game Houston series tonight when he opposes Astros righthander Tom Griffin, 13-8.

Rankin, McCamey Battle Over Upton County Crown

Crane Faces Rugged Kermit Test Friday Night

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

It seems to be a little early in the season for a championship grid game to unfurl in West Texas, but its the highlight of the week and they call it the Upton County Championship.

Actually it's a non-conference game between Rankin and McCamey, but the way that these two teams go at it, it's championship caliber all the way.

McCamey, a representative of District 7-AA, won the battle for the county title last year with a last quarter drive with three minutes remaining for a narrow 13-6 victory and Rankin won the title two years ago.

Both are rated as power structures in their respective districts and Rankin, representing District 6-A, won a regional title last year in the Class A circles.

Coach Dewayne Turner's Red Devils and Coach Joe Neill's Badgers return many of the same personnel that made last year's game an exciting one. The only thing different is that both squads will be more experienced than a year ago.

Both showed awesome power in their openers last week with Rankin destroying Eldorado, 41-0, while McCamey ran past Iraan, 48-7. Rankin's Ernest Black scored four touchdowns and passed for another last week while McCamey had a more balanced attack with quarterback Perry Graves and reserve halfback Manuel Martinez leading the way with two TDs each. Both have rugged defenses, however, and few expect the game to be a high scoring affair. Rankin is rated ninth in the state while McCamey is a well respected AA member.

While Rankin and McCamey wage war in Rankin, Crane's Golden Cranes will host Kermit in an effort to produce another AAA giant killing. Crane clipped AAA Fort Stockton last week 20-0, mainly on two TD bombs by veteran quarterback Mike Roseberry while Kermit slapped AA power Alpine, 28-20, in a surprise. Kermit rates as the favorite over Coach Joe Boyd's District 7-AA favorites, but Boyd is highly optimistic about this year's Birds.

In the AAA circles, Andrews' Mustangs have the chore of traveling to W. T. Barrett Stadium to tangle with the Odessa High Bronchos in their second straight bout with AAAA elevens. The Mustangs lost to Big Spring last week, 16-6, on the home field and this week's outing appears to be tougher than that one.

Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes, a narrow 9-7 victor over Carlsbad, N.M., play at home for the first time and are expected to have an easier time of it when they host AA Denver City. Carlsbad is a AAAA squad. New Head Coach Tom Koger will be seeking his second straight victory as the headmaster.

Stanton's Buffaloes, playing for the first time in District 5-A, got a boost last week by belting AA Tahoka, 21-0, and travel to Wink Friday with a contest with Class A Wink. Stanton has been picked to win 5-A.

Reagan County, the defending champion of District 7-AA, will try to rebound after a 20-6 loss to Coahoma when they travel to Ballinger. Coach Wilburn George's crew is in the midst of a rebuilding year, but after their showing against second ranked Coahoma, the Owls may prove to be tougher than most thought.

Yanks Hold Off Birds As Gura Wins 2nd Game

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Boog Powell's run-scoring pinch-single in the 17th inning of the opener of a twi-night doubleheader gave the Baltimore Orioles a 3-2 victory, but Larry Gura's five-hit pitching led the New York Yankees to a 5-1 triumph in the nightcap.

The split of the doubleheader kept the Yankees two games ahead of second-place Baltimore in the hot American League East race. Cleveland beat Boston 3-1, dropping the Red Sox 2½ games off the pace and putting the Indians just five games out.

Elsewhere in the American League, Minnesota beat Oakland 5-3 in 10 innings, Texas trimmed Chicago 6-2, California edged Kansas City 3-2 in 10 innings and Milwaukee blanked Detroit 3-0.

Gura, purchased on Aug. 18 from Syracuse of the International League, raised his record with the Yankees to 3-0.

Gura yielded a run in the first inning, then shut the door on the Orioles. The Yankees went ahead with four runs in the second when Sandy Alomar and Jim Mason hit RBI singles, Elliott Maddox was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded and Lou Piniella rapped a sacrifice fly.

Roy White accounted for the final run with his fifth homer of the season in the ninth.

The opener, a four hour, 12 minute marathon marked by arguments and missed scoring opportunities, ended when Powell singled following two walks off relief pitcher Cecil Upshaw, 1-6.

Indians 3, Red Sox 1

Indians pitching star Gaylord Perry stopped Boston on five hits in posting his 19th victory against 10 losses.

Twins 5, A's 2

Harmon Killebrew slugged his 13th home run of the season in the 10th inning, a two-run

Rangers Sock Sox, Gain On Oakland

CHICAGO (AP) — The second-place Texas Rangers edged one game closer to the lead in the American League West as they defeated the Chicago White Sox 6-2.

Wednesday night's triumph was the Rangers' fifth in six games and moved them within 5½ games of the division-leading Oakland A's, who lost to Minnesota 5-3 in 10 innings.

Jim Bibby pitched a four-hitter for his 19th victory of the season as Jim Spencer drove in two runs with two singles to lift the Rangers past Chicago.

Chicago rookie third baseman Bee Bee Richard committed two errors on the same play as Texas scored twice in the first inning.

After Cesar Tovar tripled and scored on a passed ball for the Rangers' first run, Mike Hargrove grounded to Richard, who fumbled the ball and threw wildly to first as Hargrove went to second. Spencer followed with his first RBI hit.

Spencer's other RBI came in the Rangers' two-run fifth inning. Tovar and Jeff Burroughs had the other run-scoring hit.

Burroughs' RBI was his 113th of the season, extending his major league lead.

Bibby surrendered only one hit over the first eight innings, a single by Bill Sharp with one out in the first. The White Sox scored in the ninth, when Carlos May singled and Ken Henderson hit his 17th home run of the season. Tony Muser's single after the home run was the only other White Sox hit.

Bibby departed after Muser's hit. Steve Foucault, the Rangers' bullpen workhorse, then made his 64th relief appearance and got Brian Downing on a game-ending grounder.

The Rangers collected 11 hits off three White Sox pitchers.

Texas scored four runs, two of them unearned, off loser Jack Kucek, 1-2. The Rangers also chased rookie Jim Otten, second of the Chicago pitchers, with two runs on four hits in the sixth.

The White Sox played without Ed Herrmann, Bill Melton and Dick Allen. Allen called in sick before the game. It was the first time this season he has not dressed for a contest.

The Picking Game

As we kick off the second week of the picking game, let's set some goals and take a look at what we are trying to do.

This column is devoted weekly to picking area high school football action as well as some of the key games across the state. The goal for this corner is to reach the .800 percentage mark, a feat that has not been accomplished in the last two years. Last year we finished with a .763, and most prognosticators feel that a job was well done if the .700 mark is obtained.

Also this column is the opinion of one writer and should be taken as such. Your opinion may be different than mine and you may be right, which makes it all the more fun. I will attempt to pick the score in each contest, but that is really of secondary concern even though most readers like to see it in the paper. Most readers like to see you hang by your own rope.

The scores picked in each game in no way represent true point spreads, but again, is the opinion of one writer and that writer (me) has to live or die with the choice made. In other words, you win some and you lose some, but in football very few are rained out. It's all for fun so get in on the act and see if you're better than I am.

Last week we were right on 26 of 32 games for an .813 percentage and we picked the Clint-Dell City score right on the nose at 10-0. We missed Crane's upset over Fort Stockton, Kermit's defeat of Alpine, Brownfield's loss to Levelland, Plainview's victory over Lubbock Estacado, Lake View's loss to Kerrville Tivy and Morton's narrow win over Plains.

It's another week (there's always something fresh about a new week) so let's get to the games for the second week action.

Here We Go

McCAMEY 20, RANKIN 14 — This is called the Upton County Championship, and more times than not, it is a real head buster. Frankly, I'm not sure who will really win, but there won't be a touchdown's difference. I'll be there Friday night.

KERMIT 14, CRANE 10 — The Golden Cranes finally run out of luck against AAA teams, but not by much. Byron Battles will cover this one.

LAMESA 21, DENVER CITY 8 — The Golden Tors race to their second straight victory, but this time by a bigger margin.

ODESSA HIGH 28, ANDREWS 8 — The Mustangs meet another AAAA school and the horses at Odessa are tougher than Steers.

STANTON 21, WINK 8 — The Buffs murdered an AA team last week, so we await to see just how bad Coach Young's squad will tear up a Class A squad.

BALLINGER 14, REAGAN COUNTY 6 — The Owls face another tough AA 11 in the midst of a rebuilding year, but they may come closer than last week.

capable backups. And behind starting linebackers Steve Degenfelder and Trey Shepherd, Jones and Webb provide solid depth.

"Posey has been a revelation since we turned the slot back over to him," Acree notes. "We were worried about his blocking, but once we said 'It's yours', he has been a different player."

The depth at tailback was illustrated in the opener when Murray did the bulk of the running on the long first TD drive and at the three fresh Jones was inserted to provide the lift that produced the touchdown.

More Names Go In Roster Cuts

By The Associated Press

The 26 strike-plagued National Football League teams — reduced to their final 47-player rosters — have dropped another dozen or so veterans in late moves to make room for rookies and free agents.

The flurry of transactions Wednesday capped last-minute roster shuffling of about 200 players and left a handful of lingering veterans out in the cold on the verge of the 1974 season.

Washington, wheeling and dealing under coach George Allen, waived three well-known veterans: Roosevelt Taylor, Myron Pottios and Walter Rock. The Redskins also cut Joe Sweet.

Allen, however, recalled veterans Deacon Jones, John Wilbur and Ray Schoenke after temporarily placing all three of them on waivers.

Among other veterans dropped were Earl McCullouch and Jim O'Brien of Detroit; John Mooring of Miami; Leroy Kelly and Bob Brown of Oakland; Fair Hooker of New Orleans; and Leland Glass of Green Bay.

Technicalities involving the NFL waiver system and other transactions, however, left some of the final team rosters temporarily in doubt. Late trading was also a factor.

Detroit waived wide receiver McCullouch, a seven-year veteran, and O'Brien, whose field goal gave Baltimore the 1970 Super Bowl title.

"We never have announced our cuts and we're not going to start now," said Oakland Coach John Madden when asked about Kelley and Brown. Both one-time stars have apparently been dropped.

In moves involving two veteran NFL receivers, New Orleans dropped Fair Hooker and Green Bay waived Leland Glass.

The defending champion Miami Dolphins — beginning the regular season with seven rookies — released John Mooring, a three-year veteran offensive lineman recently acquired from the New York Jets.

The Pittsburgh Steelers, the only team unbeaten in preseason exhibition play, waived veterans Henry Davis, a linebacker; Dave Davis, a receiver; and Dennis Meyer, a safety.

With 14 rookies on its squad, Pittsburgh traded veteran defensive end Craig Hanneman to New England for a 1975 draft choice.

New England, meanwhile, waived veterans Dave Lewis, a punter; Ron Acks, a linebacker; and Rick Cash, a tackle.

Philadelphia cut six veterans. Included were runner Lee Bougess, a four-year player, and punter Tom McNeil, an eight-year player.

SMU Tight End Remains In Critical Condition

DALLAS (AP) — Tight end Dwain Staten remained in critical condition at Presbyterian Hospital early today a victim of meningococcal meningitis.

Staten, who played for Dallas Carter High School, was stricken with the disease Wednesday morning. He had missed Tuesday's workouts after he told coaches he did not feel well.

SMU Coach Dave Smith said Staten was "in critical condition and he is in the Lord's hands."

Trainer Cash Birdwell said players and coaches have been tested. Birdwell, who had been treating Staten for a pulled groin, was placed on medication.

Two other players, John Clark and Gus Lamkin, complained of not feeling well. Tests were run on them and they were released.

Staten had no roommate, but suitemates Ricky Wesson and Charlie Adams were placed on antibiotics.

Aussie Challenger Out To Avenge Tuesday Loss

By CORNELIUS F. HURLEY

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The Australian challenger Southern Cross was out for vengeance today in her second try for victory over the America's Cup defender Courageous.

With any cooperation from the weather, the scheduled starting time was noon. That's when the first warning signal is given. There's another alert five minutes later, and the starting gun is fired at 12:10 p.m.

The start may be postponed for various reasons but not past 2:10 p.m.

The visiting yacht, making Australia's third straight challenge for the 123-year-old Cup, had an unexpected layoff Wednesday, which gave her crew a chance for a new and intensive course in sail handling.

It appeared that mistakes, both in selection of sails and in their handling, helped lead to Southern Cross' four minute, 54 second defeat by the Americans in the first race of the series Tuesday.

The Aussies amitted as much in a post-race news conference in which their spokesman blamed the loss on "human error."

Both crews were ready to go for the second heat Wednesday, but the weather wasn't.

Thick fog shrouded Newport Harbor and the Atlantic Ocean site of the 24.3 mile Olympic course in Rhode Island Sound.

Sarazen, Snead, Hogan, Palmer Inducted

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Gene Sarazen, at 72 the oldest of the living inductees to the new World Golf Hall of Fame, stood on the steps of the white, $2.5 million complex in the Carolina sandhill country.

Jack Nicklaus had just kidded Arnold Palmer during the induction ceremonies Wednesday, and Sam Snead had kidded Ben Hogan.

"As I stand here and look about me," said Sarazen, the little squire from upstate New York who won the first of his major titles more than a half-century ago, "I become very lonely.

"None of my friends are here.

"They've all gone to another, higher Hall of Fame. And I have a feeling they're up there now, waiting for me on the first tee to make up the foursome.

"But I keep telling them, you'd better play away fellows. I'll catch you on the back nine."'

Those five — Sarazen, Snead, Hogan, Nicklaus and Palmer — were among the 13 men and women formally installed as the charter members of the new Hall of Fame.

The others, selected by the Golf Writers Association of America, are Francis Ouimet, Bobby Jones, Harry Vardon, Walter Hagan, Byron Nelson, Gary Player, and two women pros; Patty Berg and Babe Didrickson Zaharias.

All living inductees — those dead are Jones, Hogan, Zaharias, Ouimet and Vardon — attended the ceremonies at which President Gerald Ford was the principal speaker.

Ford told a black tie dinner Wednesday night that golf is a game where honor is more important than rules.

"Without good sportsmanship, golf could not exist. Without trust, another name for good sportsmanship, governments could not exist either," Ford said.

Ford also made several jokes about his golfing ability, claiming that because of his wild swing the players don't shout "fore" as a warning on his home course, but rather shout "Ford."

Earlier in the day Ford played nine holes of golf, playing a few holes with Nicklaus, Palmer, Player, Snead, Berg, Sarazen and Nelson.

The President shot a 48 over what would be a par 35 course and said his game was "passable. I've got to work on it."

FULLBACK GETS GREEN LIGHT—

Leaks Tests Knee

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — With rain pelting down and anxious teammates gathered on the sidelines, Roosevelt Leaks collected his soon-to-be tormentors about him.

"Hit me, don't hold back," the crippled All-American Texas fullback urged the freshmen who would soon use him as a tackling dummy in a scrimmage.

Leaks had to know. A ten-inch scar ran across his right knee like the jagged lines in a stock-market graph—courtesy of a surgeon's scalpel.

There was still pain . . . shooting pain. But the 210-pound senior from Brenham, Tex. wanted the answer to but one question: would the knee hold?

After 12 solid hits, the answer was that it would hold. Leaks got the green light.

Since his operation on the knee, a surgeon said was one of the most damaged he had seen, Leaks had lived his own private hell. His lonely rehabilitation consisted of lifting weights, and running. The moment of truth came Wednesday.

"I was out to see what I was made of . . . and I thought today might as well be the day," said Leaks after he got an okay from the doctors.

The word was out all over Austin. It was supposed to be a closed practice for the Longhorns.

Birmingham Suffers Loss

By The Associated Press

The rookie World Football League — newly embarked on the second half of its 20-game season — no longer has any unbeaten or winless teams.

The Memphis Southmen rolled to a 46-7 victory Wednesday night to hand the Birmingham Americans their first loss. And the Detroit Wheels upset the Florida Blazers 15-14 for their first victory.

In the other WFL games, New York downed Portland 34-15, Southern California defeated Chicago 31-28, Philadelphia bombed Jacksonville 41-23 in overtime and the Hawaiians edged Houston 24-17.

"You can't ever feel secure against a team like Birmingham," said Coach John McVay of the Southmen after the victory in Memphis before 30,675 spectators revenged an earlier 58-33 loss to the Americans.

Flanker Ed Marshall of Memphis snared three touchdown passes — two of them from quarterback John Huarte and one from running back John Harvey. The Southmen defenders made three key interceptions.

Locked in a tight WFL Central Division race, Birmingham, 10-1, and Memphis, 9-2, hold the best won-and-lost records in the league.

In Orlando, Fla., a six-yard touchdown run by rookie Billy Sadler and his subsequent action-point pass reception eventually became the decisive points for Detroit in its 15-14 victory over Florida.

But the Wheels, 1-10, got a bad scare in the fourth quarter after Tommy Reamon of the Blazers, 7-4, scored on a one-yard plunge. Detroit had to stop an action point pass that could have tied it.

HOROSCOPE

by Carroll Righter

(Sept. 13)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An unimportant Friday the 13th, with no significant today. You can take the usual steps effective for you to increase your attractiveness. Congratulate others on their achievements.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You want to have a good time today, but do not take any unnecessary or expensive risks. Pay bills. Have affection for mate in p.m. is wise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Add to harmony at home and bring out the best in both yourself and those who dwell with you. Plan how to become more successful, also. Read.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get information and keep appointments that will help you succeed more quickly in the future. Solve utility matters wisely. Shop.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 23) Study your financial position to know where you stand. Don't rely on unsound adviser who is busy now. Handle own affairs intelligently.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take the treatments you need to bring out your particular charm now when social life will be improved. A group affair can prove most interesting p.m.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Plan future more wisely, either alone or with clever organizers. Endeavor to help one who is in real trouble.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get together with good pals and make the right arrangements to further your aims. Try to make good friends of new acquaintances you made recently. Avoid a troublemaker tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Solve credit matters. Don't force some civic matter that is in a stagnant state. Await a better day to do something constructive about it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study those new lawsuits but don't make any moves as yet on them until you are better prepared. Listen to suggestions from one with different experience. Do something thoughtful for mate in p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Keep promises made to others carefully. If you encourage your mate, you get along much better. Avoid one who is trying to make trouble between you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Talk over mutual affairs with one who is important to your scheme of things, as well as influential, and get good results. Avoid one who tries to block you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Improve surroundings and get things in better working order. A day for action and then tonight, take it easy. Don't let some fellow worker down.

HOW TO CUT BACK WITHOUT CUTTING DOWN.

You want a luxury car but can't afford the luxury of poor gas mileage. Get a Volvo 164.

It gives you air conditioning, lets you sit on leather, and offers almost as much front legroom as a Cadillac deVille. And still gets about 50% better gas mileage than most comparably priced domestic sedans.*

Test drive our 164. For a luxury car, it's an economy.

$3,000 Car Joins Model T In Limbo

DETROIT (AP) — The American-made $3,000 car is apparently going the way of the Ford Model T, a relic of the past in the United States auto industry.

American Motors brought the U.S.-produced $3,000 automobile closer to extinction on Wednesday by announcing that the tentative base price for the 1975 model of its smallest car, the Gremlin, is $2,800.

AMC Chairman Roy D. Chapin said final prices on the company's 1975 models would be announced when they go on sale Nov. 15.

Base Prices Up Again

The Chrysler Corp., which also announced tentative 1975 sticker prices on Wednesday, said its lowest-priced product, a compact Plymouth Duster, will carry a 1975-model base price of $3,246.

General Motors' Chevrolet Vega will also sell for a base of about $2,800 and the Ford Motor Co.'s Pinto is expected to run about the same.

Auto industry sources say that the cost to the consumer on these lowest-priced cars from the four U.S. auto makers will now exceed $3,000 in almost every case because of add-ons for popular options like radios.

For example, Ford says those who buy Pintos usually add an average of $300 in options, boosting the cost of the car near $3,100, excluding mandatory charges such as taxes and delivery costs.

Last fall, when 1974-model cars were introduced, a brand-new Gremlin could be driven home for about $2,300. The Vega began the model year at $2,237. The basic Pinto was $2,021 in May 1974.

Price increases during the 1974 model year boosted the price of the average American auto by more than $400.

For the new model year, GM raised car prices an average $416, or 8.6 per cent. But the Vega climbed 12 per cent, or $295. Ford Motor Co. said its prices are expected to rise about 8 per cent, or an average of $418. Ford was expected to release specific figures today.

Chrysler increases average $400, or 8.8 per cent, the firm said Wednesday. AMC, with a heavy emphasis on smaller, less expensive cars, issued increases averaging $300, or 7.7 per cent.

The bulk of the 1975 increases are going on the better-selling autos, and despite a slowdown in the small car sales spurt, compacts and subcompacts have been moving steadily.

Monoxide From Car Exhausts Increases Accident Possibility

CHICAGO (AP) — Carbon monoxide from automobile exhausts may increase the possibility of traffic accidents, according to two studies reported by the National Safety Council.

The experimental studies published in the council's research magazine, The Journal of Safety Research, found that drivers subjected to levels of carbon monoxide typical in autos suffered losses in alertness and sharpness of vision.

Dr. Nicholas Rummo of the Environmental Protection Agency, Chapel Hill, N. C., and Kiriako Sarlanis of the Social Security Administration, Baltimore, Md., conducted a driver reaction time study with seven volunteers of ages 19 to 27.

The subjects operated a driving simulator for two hours, during which they were exposed to carbon monoxide levels commonly found inside moving automobiles. A separate test with normal air was used to establish a comparative base.

The subjects followed another car, projected in the simulator, at 45 to 65 miles per hour. As the lead car changed speeds, the drivers had to alter their own speeds to maintain a constant following distance.

Rummo and Sarlanis reported that all of their subjects had slower reaction times while breathing the carbon monoxide mixture and had greater difficulty adjusting their speed.

Six of the subjects, who were nonsmokers, made fewer steering corrections, possibly indicating greater impact of the carbon monoxide on them, the researchers said.

The seventh subject, a cigarette smoker, made more steering corrections, leading the researchers to conclude that he may have been less affected by higher carbon monoxide levels.

In another study, Santo Salvatore, a Brown University psychologist, found six young adult subjects — all nonsmokers — experienced narrowed fields of vison while breathing carbon monoxide at levels normal in cars.

He also found that they had greater difficulty detecting objects pictured against low-contrast backgrounds.

Three States Report Snow

By The Associated Press

Snow fell on parts of Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska today, while thundershowers helped the Midwest stay muggy and warm.

The late-summer storm dumped 3 inches of snow on Rawlins, Wyo. Two inches of rain drenched Falls City, Neb.

Fog crawled along the California coast and spread out among the North and Middle Atlantic Coast states, reducing visibility to zero in Philipsburg and Harrisburg, Pa.

But skies were clear across most of the southern half of the nation.

AT RECEPTION—Jim Granberry, center, GOP gubernatorial candidate, visits at a reception Wednesday with Midland County Commissioner Win Brown, left, and Jim Lacy.

Briscoe's 'Unadministration' Slammed By Granberry Here

Jim Granberry, Republican candidate for governor, visited in Midland Wednesday and slammed what he called the "unadministration" of Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Saying that "the leadership void in Austin has produced crisis after crisis," Granberry leveled strong criticism at Briscoe's call for the abolition of the sales tax on consumer utility bills, at an estimated savings of $80 million.

The candidate said that since not all Texans pay utility bills, not all consumers in the state would benefit by the action. "This proposal would specifically exclude thousands of students, non-home owners and thousands of our senior citizens who reside in nursing homes while struggling to survive on fixed incomes," he noted.

Granberry said his proposal — made a week before Briscoe's — to reduce the state sales tax by one cent would save consumers approximately $280 million and "provide relief to all consumers and particularly those on fixed incomes."

He criticized Briscoe's failure to call special session of the Texas Legislature to deal with the problem of school financing. Because of Briscoe's action, he said, "hundreds of school districts across Texas have been compelled to raise local property taxes to keep their educational programs afloat."

Granberry contended the state had the money to bail out the local school systems, saying, "The state had a significantly large surplus in June 1973 and the current surplus is in excess of $500 million."

He quoted Dan Kubiak, Democratic state representative and chairman of the House Committee on Education, as saying of Briscoe's decision: "The local tax increases, necessitated by the governor's refusal, can be called the Briscoe tax and, therefore, destroy the governor's 'no new taxes' promise."

The GOP candidate said he felt confident of success in November and noted he was recently endorsed by State Rep. Larry Bales, D-Austin.

Granberry attended a reception at the Kimber-Lea clubhouse here Wednesday night. Today, he will be in Lubbock and lead a parade in Lockney. Friday, he will be in Amarillo and Houston.

Evel Knievel's $6 Million Check 'Pure Rubber'

By LEE MITGANG

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember that $6 million check that Evel Knievel was waving around before his rocket launch into the Snake River Canyon? Well, it was a fake.

The promoters only gave Knievel a $250,000 advance. The check was pure rubber — part of the publicity that both Knievel and the promoters dreamed up.

There's another thing that is still floating around in their minds: the actual amount of money the whole extravaganza earned.

The promoters have released various estimates of the gross, but so far nobody has produced any firm figures. All that is known is that Knievel probably earned a lot of money — millions by his account — but nobody is sure.

But if current estimates work out, Knievel's rocky quarter-mile ride earned him $6,666.67 per foot — before taxes and expenses, that is.

Reached at his home in Butte, Mont., Knievel says he believes between one million and one and one-half million persons watched him fall into the canyon, at an average cost of $10 a person in closed circuit theaters throughout the country. Gate receipts at the canyon itself came to about $600,000.

Robert Arum, the New York lawyer who heads Top Rank, Inc., the promoter of the motorcycle jump, has guaranteed Knievel the larger of either $6 million in cash or 60 per cent of all receipts, including the theater gate, promotional sales and other income, minus various unspecified promotional expenses to be paid to Top Rank.

In the days before Knievel's "Sky-cycle" tumbled 700 feet into the canyon, he had been displaying the $6 million check, offering, for instance, to pay for a round of drinks with it. That was a promotional gimmick, it was later revealed. The check was a fake.

On Wednesday, Arum reiterated his earlier estimate that theater receipts would total about $15 million, with promotional sales and other monies bringing total revenues to some $21 million.

That's $5 million lower than Arum had predicted only days before the jump, however, and even the revised figure may be on the high side.

After promotional fees are subtracted, Arum says Knievel's share of the gross will be about $9 million.

If that figure holds, then Knievel's net earnings would come to between $3 to 3.5 million after the 50 to 60 per cent taxes he expects to pay, plus the $1 million he has already laid out for the launching ramp, three "Sky-cycles," leasing the canyon and other expenses.

Luxury Cunard Liner Burns

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Flames erupted deep in the bowels of the luxury liner Cunard Ambassador today, forcing most of the 280 crewmen aboard to scramble onto life boats lowered into the Gulf of Mexico.

Within two hours, a rescue vessel was plucking the crewmen out of their rafts and boats, bobbing in gentle swells about 30 miles southwest of Key West.

There were no immediate reports of injuries and the 486-foot liner was carrying no passengers at the time of the fire.

"The fire's in the engine room and it's serious," said Coast Guard Lt. George Johnson in Miami. "They tried to put it out themselves and couldn't."

Fifty fire fighters remained aboard but the engine room blaze raged out of control, he said.

The naval ship Tallulah, with only a small crew reached the burning vessel shortly after the men abandoned ship. It was unable to get too close to the liner because it was carrying aviation gasoline.

The liner, owned by Cunard Lines Ltd., reportedly was leased to Bahamas Cruise Lines, whose officials in Miami were holding an emergency meeting. Most of the ship's crew are British.

The luxury liner, built in 1972, had left Miami at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and was en route to New Orleans to pick up cruise passengers, a spokesman said. The ship can hold a maximum of 650 passengers.

Askew To Head Southern Governors

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Southern states stand ready and better prepared for the future than at any time in the past, says Florida Gov. Reuben Askew.

Askew was selected chairman of the Southern Governors' Conference Wednesday at the close of a three-day session at nearby Lakeway resort.

Askew said that according to projections the South will be the fastest growing area of the country from now to the end of this century.

"There is no reason why the South cannot lead by example in such areas as land use, pollution control, energy conservation and honest and open government," Askew said.

In one of their final acts Wednesday the governors voted 7-2 not to urge Southern states to adopt state wiretap laws similar to the federal statute.

"The events of the past two years have shown us what can happen and the abuses that can occur when we have this foot-in-the-door legislation," said Arkansas Gov. Dale Bumpers, who is the Democratic nominee for U.S. Senate.

Askew, who said wiretaps had proven valuable in fighting organized crime in his state, voted for such state laws, as did Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe. Briscoe said later he would recommend a state wiretap law to the 1975 Texas legislature, as he did in 1973. "I favor it as a tool to fight organized crime," Briscoe said.

Another approved resolution also aroused discussion. It calls for a national tourism agency plus a $30 million appropriation for a domestic tourism promotion program. Tennessee Gov. Winnfield Dunn and Briscoe said they did not like the idea of asking for a federal grant in one resolution and then in another resolution, which also was approved, ask that the federal budget be balanced.

A resolution that restated the conference's 1973 stand on the energy crisis was approved without comment. It encourages exploration for new gas and oil supplies, deregulation of oil and gas prices, a speedup in leasing of federal offshore lands, developments of superports and state and federal steps to encourage nuclear power.

Other approved resolutions asked expanded restoration and an equitable system of forest taxation, a reversal of the federal order against "coal unit trains," a request the President revoked a 1973 order "to eliminate the discriminatory import license fees on residual fuel oils for utilities," and a request that governors share in the discussions at President Ford's summit conference on the economy.

Brownwood Man Both Pastor, Jailer

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (AP) — He speaks from the pulpit on Sunday. He's a jailer on Monday. And the Rev. Lowell Vernon "Butch" Warren Jr. actually practices what he preaches.

The Brown County jailer, a native of Brinkley, Ark., is probably the only jailer-preacher in Texas, believes Brown County Sheriff Danny Neal.

The thing that worried the Rev. Mr. Warren when he took the jailer's job was the irony of carrying a weapon and at the same time trying to talk to prisoners about Jesus Christ.

"An officer asked me one day how I felt about wearing a gun on my hip and a cross in my lapel," he said in a recent interview.

"My answer to this was: Which one outweighs the other?"

He said, "To me the cross means Christianity. I know the roads are not going to be easy to follow because of the opposition concerning the gun. But I accept the challenge and intend to give my best to do justice to God, justice to my fellow officers and justice to the public I work for."

Added Warren, "The prisoners here need a friend. I am not saying that the other deputies or officers are not friends to them, but I apply my Christianity as being the principal character of my friendship.

"My first obligation in the job is upholding the law. I try to impress upon the prisoners if they don't like the law, they don't go about trying to change it by breaking it," he said.

"I also try to help them by giving them a foothold, something they can progress forward on," he said.

"When they have committed a crime, they should not be recognized as children, but should be looked upon as adults. Therefore, they can be punished by the law for their crimes. In giving them a foothold on life I feel they come to the realization of crimes and punishment they face."

He has a special position but he tries not to take undue advantage of it.

"I do not try to press my religion on them by preaching or condemning . . . In my position, I don't place myself as a judge of others. I feel God alone is capable and He will make that judgment," the jailer-preacher said.

He says his relationship with the prisoners must be sensible. He recognizes the ones who would or could take advantage of him and of others who need his help.

However, he says, "I will always go as far as the law allows in trying to bring help to those who seek it."

Warren has started a Thursday night program when religious films are shown and counseling is offered to those who ask. This is done through volunteer help of other pastors.

He said his congregation in the South Leon Baptist Church of Newburg accepts his dual role and supports him.
