Mayonnaise Price Is Up

By LOUISE COOK, Associated Press Writer

The mayonnaise you put in your tuna fish salad or spread on your hamburger is going up in price along with the basic fish and meat you're trying to economize on.

The Associated Press compared prices in September 1973 with prices this Sept. 1 and Oct. 1. Complete figures for 1973 were not available, making a statistical comparison impossible.

The spot check showed, however, that prices for mayonnaise and mayonnaise-type dressings went up sharply over the past 13 months in many areas and there are indications of further increases ahead.

The AP check of a supermarket in each of 14 cities showed the price went up during September in six cities and was unchanged in eight. The increases ranged from 8 to 27 per cent.

In the eight cities where 1973 prices were available, the survey showed sharp increases over the year. In Washington, D.C., the price of a quart of mayonnaise-type dressing more than doubled, going from 65 cents in September 1973 to $1.49 on Oct. 1 this year.

A check of other items that are on the family shopping list only occasionally — things like mustard, pickles and apple sauce — showed generally smaller increases over a similar period of time.

Why is mayonnaise costing so much?

Mayonnaise and similar products are made of beaten egg, yolks, seasoning and oils. Many of those oils — as much as 70 per cent in some cases — come from soybeans and the price of the crop has been rising sharply as bad weather in the Midwest cuts the current harvest.

By the middle of August, the price of soybean oil already was up sharply. The Mayonnaise and Salad Dressing Institute said the cost of soybean oil had gone from 12 or 13 cents a pound to 43 or 44 cents.

On Sept. 1 this year, the U.S. Agriculture Department estimated that this year's soybean crop would total 1.32 billion bushels. The expected decline was due to spring rains that delayed planting and summer drought that cut into anticipated soybean yield as well as destroying much of the corn crop.

Farmers hoped that rains later in the summer would boost the amount of soybeans, which are harvested later than corn. Frost last week killed those hopes and some statisticians are predicting that the next government crop report, due Oct. 10, will estimate this year's soybean harvest at only 1.2 billion bushels.

The lower crop estimates have driven up the price of soybeans. On the Chicago market, the price went from around $7.50 a bushel before the frost to more than $8 a bushel.

Mayonnaise consumption, meanwhile, is rising as people eat more salads and sandwiches in an attempt to cut the family food budget.

Milk Co-Op Will Pay Texas $230,000 In Penalties

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The state of Texas will collect $230,000 in penalties from the nation's largest milk cooperative and has gained a comprehensive injunction in an out-of-court settlement of a suit alleging restraint of free trade.

Associated Milk Producers, Inc., however, did not admit any past wrongdoing in agreeing to pay the money.

In yet another move to dispense with myriad litigation against it, the scandal-tainted co-op submitted itself to the injunction only three months after the Texas attorney general's consumer protection division brought suit in state district court.

District Court Judge Tom Blackwell signed the agreed judgment which, besides the penalties, permanently restrained the 41,000-member, San Antonio-based AMPI from the following in Texas:

- Illegally "loading the pool" by using federal orders to flood a market with milk and depressing the price paid to dairy farmers.
- Forcing milk haulers to carry only AMPI milk from the dairy farm to the processing plant or from acquiring control of milk haulers who formerly carried non-AMPI milk, unless the haulers would continue to carry non-AMPI milk.
- Entering contracts to supply milk from its farmers to processors for more than one year at a time.
- Accepting rebates from processors.
- Using its influence in an area where its farmer members are predominant to require milk processors to buy AMPI milk in other areas where AMPI has competitors—in other words, foreclosing the market.
- Discriminating against any processor who buys non-AMPI raw milk.
- Threatening AMPI members who want to quit or using undue influence on non-AMPI members to join the co-op, which has a majority of the milk producers in Texas in its membership.
- "I felt that we were obtaining everything we could reasonably hope to obtain in a trial," said Atty. Gen. John Hill after a court session Tuesday in which he read the 11-page settlement.

The specifics in the injunction conformed with antitrust violations the state alleged in its original pleadings in the suit.

"I don't know of a base we haven't covered. In it, we try to see this operation continues as we believe now it is operating in a legal manner," said Hill. The order provides for annual review for the next 10 years.

AMPI attorney Sidney Harris of Washington, D.C., noted in court that "AMPI does not agree nor admit that the attorney general could have proved violations. AMPI does want to continue in business."

The co-op, which also has reached agreement in a proposed settlement of the federal government's antitrust suit against it, wants to "get its litigation behind it and to go forward in an entirely legitimate manner," said Harris.

Hill was asked by reporters if the agreement by AMPI to pay penalties was in effect an admission of past wrongdoing.

"No, it is not," Hill first said. Later, he said, "I'll let it speak for itself. I mean, you'll have to construe what it means. The public will have to construe what it means. We sought penalties in this suit for violations of the law and some penalties have now been collected."

"I think you ought to leave it at that," he said.

Hill declined to discuss negotiations about the amount of penalties except to say "there was some give and take."

Conceivably, the attorney general's office could have asked for more than $2 million if it carried the allegations back to the co-op's beginning of operations in 1969 and applied the maximum penalty to each day of operations.

However, Hill said, "That was never our intention and we didn't think the proof showed that at all."

Using the maximum daily fine of $1,500, the $230,000 figure would represent 153 days, although Hill did not indicate what figures or length of time were used in computing the penalty accepted by AMPI.

The federal case, which is now before a federal district judge in Kansas City, was filed in 1972 and contains the same complaints against AMPI operations. Competitors in private antitrust suits have also alleged predator and restrictive activities by AMPI.

According to one estimate, AMPI has spent between $3 million and $4 million in legal expenses since the federal suit was filed.

Despite its problems, AMPI set an annual record for revenue in the past fiscal year.

Two of its former top officials have pleaded guilty to Watergate-related federal campaign contribution violations and the co-op itself has been fined for such violations, involving contributions to former President Nixon's re-election campaign and to other Republicans and Democrats.

Former AMPI attorney Jake Jacobsen is pitted against former Treasury Secretary John Connally in Connally's pending trial on charges he accepted a bribe from the milk producers in return for his influence in the Nixon administration.

Big Thicket Bill Okayed, Sent To Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill would get protection under the establishing a Big Thicket National Preserve in East Texas. The House last week approved the bill which was hammered out in conference after the two houses passed separate measures.

The Senate Tuesday gave final approval for the park. The Senate earlier this year which will include about 41,500 acres of bogs, dry uplands, 100,000 streams and floodplain forests. The almost-extinct ivory-billed woodpecker and the red wolf committee.

The House, in approving the compromise bill last week, dropped its demands that the land for the park be acquired under a system known as "legislative taking," which would have permitted the Interior Department to buy the land under a short time table.

Instead, the department under the final legislation, will have six years to acquire the land, compensating its owners.

The two U.S. senators from Texas, Republican John Tower and Democrat Lloyd Bentsen, both praised the passage of the legislation, but expressed disappointment that the acreage of the preserve was reduced.

UT Faculty Members Call On Chancellor To Resign

AUSTIN (AP) — In a rare show of defiance and unity, the general faculty of The University of Texas at Austin has called on UT system Chancellor Charles LeMaistre to resign.

"I have no intention of resigning," replied LeMaistre, who has been under constant attack since he fired Dr. Stephen Spurr as president of UT-Austin Sept. 24.

About 50 of the 500 faculty members at the Tuesday meeting raised their hands to vote "no" on the no-confidence resolution. There was no exact count of the tally on either side.

Some said the action was without precedent in UT-Austin history.

LeMaistre was criticized chiefly for failing to explain why he fired Spurr and for acting without consulting the faculty.

The way in which Spurr was fired showed "the chancellor's complete contempt for the academic community and the people of Texas," the resolution said. "The general faculty of The University of Texas at Austin therefore expresses its lack of confidence in Chancellor LeMaistre and calls for his immediate resignation."

LeMaistre issued his response even before the faculty meeting, which he did not attend, had concluded.

He said he had given his reasons for firing Spurr at the board of regents' Sept. 25 meeting, at which LeMaistre read a statement saying only that he had lost confidence in Spurr's decisions.

"Legal counsel advises I go no further in discussing the issues involved," he said. This was a reference to a federal appeals court decision that has been interpreted to mean Spurr would have grounds for a civil damages suit if LeMaistre made public the reasons for firing him.

Regent Ed Clark told a reporter Tuesday he still did not know precisely why Spurr was fired but wanted to hear LeMaistre's reasons and would ask for them at the next regents' meeting.

Dr. Lorene Rogers, acting UT-Austin president, sought to ally fears that a permanent president would be named by LeMaistre without consulting the faculty.

LeMaistre has given his word that both faculty and students would serve as voting members of the committee to select a new president, and there also will be a separate campus advisory committee, she told the general faculty.

Besides demanding LeMaistre's resignation, the general faculty called on Gov. Dolph Briscoe to consult "all segments of the university community" before naming three new regents next year.

The terms of regents Frank Erwin of Austin, Dan Williams of Dallas and Jenkins Garrett of Fort Worth expire Jan. 10.

Briscoe is considered unlikely to reappoint Erwin, who worked hard to defeat him in the 1972 Democratic primary in which Erwin's close friend, then-Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes was a gubernatorial candidate.

In choosing new regents, the faculty asked Briscoe to find men and women "who are committed to the principle that system administrators consult with campus administrators, faculty, students and staff before undertaking major personnel decisions and, also to the principle of campus autonomy on matters of academic program." Spurr has accused Erwin and LeMaistre of meddling in the internal affairs of UT-Austin.

In another development, House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. turned down a request by Rep. Lane Denton, D-Waco, for a House Higher Education Subcommittee probe of the Spurr firing.

Daniel said such an investigation would be "inappropriate" since a faculty-student committee and the American Association and the American Professors are inquiring into the matter.

Missing Dallas Lawyer Starts New Life In Denver, Detective Claims

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas criminal lawyer apparently withdrew more than $30,000 from a bank, moved to Denver, Colo., grew a beard and started a new life as a gunsmith, a missing persons detective said Tuesday.

The detective, William King, said he is in the process of closing the file on former Dallas attorney Joe K. Hendley, who had been missing since Aug. 14 and had been feared a victim of foul play.

Hendley's wife did not confirm her husband's whereabouts, but King said, "I understand Hendley has grown a beard and has plans to enroll in a gunsmithing school at Denver. There was no foul play ... he's up there by his own volition."

Hendley, a former chief felony prosecutor for Dist. Atty. Henry Wade, reportedly made contact with his wife and law firm partners about 10 days ago. The partners contacted friends in the police department Monday and they relayed the information to King.

The 42-year-old Hendley vanished Aug. 14 after his wife drove him in her car to the law firm's downtown office. His 1971 Lincoln Continental also was reported missing.

Investigators confirmed after Hendley's disappearance that he had withdrawn $31,300 from an escrow account maintained by his firm on Aug. 14.

A wanted heroin suspect was picked up by police two weeks after the disappearance following an intensive search. The suspect's initials matched those written on the check written by Hendley to withdraw the money.

The suspect convinced detectives that he had no knowledge of Hendley's disappearance and he was released.

The bank withdrawal, police said, never was a police matter since no complaints were filed.

Plumbers Strike In Houston Area

HOUSTON (AP) — Some 900 plumbers remained on strike today after the union turned down a proposed wage and benefit pact.

Members of Plumbers Local 68 voted 568-13 to reject the offer made by the Mechanical Contractors Association and the Plumbing and Mechanical Contractors Council.

Union business manager W. D. Pickens said the disagreement was over wages and working conditions.

He said the old contract, which expired Monday, provided a base pay of $7.40 an hour. He declined to outline the union's wage increase request.

Top GSA Official Quits

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top official of the General Services Administration, identified by administration officials as one of eight accused of political use of the civil service system, has resigned from the government.

Assistant GSA Administrator Allan G. Kaupinen said he is resigning to return to private business, and declared his decision had "absolutely nothing whatsoever" to do with the Civil Service Commission charges pending against him.

He has become vice president of Inverness Investment Corp., a venture capital firm in suburban Alexandria, Va.

The Civil Service Commission has accused eight GSA officials of operating "an unlawful referral system involving improper influence in appointments" to career civil service jobs in the GSA, the housekeeping agency of the government.

The eight individuals cited by the commission last January have not been publicly identified by the government, but officials said Kaupinen was one.

Two others identified themselves Monday when they filed suit in federal court to block the Civil Service Commission from taking action against them.

They are Larry Roush, commissioner of the Public Buildings Service of the GSA, and Anne L. Powell of Roush's personal management staff.

The commission charges were an outgrowth of investigations into allegations that the Nixon administration tried to put political appointees into the legally nonpartisan career civil service.

The Civil Service Commission, after investigating a complaint lodged by a GSA official, ordered four of the eight employees fired and the other four suspended. But the employees challenged the commission's authority to fire them and remained on the job.

GSA Administrator Arthur Sampson has privately defended his agency's hiring policies and refused to take action against those singled out by the Civil Service Commission. However, the GSA said it would follow commission directives to abolish the special personnel referral unit.

Although there has not yet been a hearing on the validity of the charges, the case has grown increasingly complex with the Civil Service Commission filing complaints against other federal agencies on similar grounds. GSA officials have accused the commission itself of referring political friends to agencies with requests that they be given civil service jobs.

Sources involved in a congressional probe of civil service hiring practices said the GSA cases are just the tip of the iceberg and that more abuses are expected to surface.

Kaupinen, 33, joined the Nixon administration in 1969 as an assistant to the President and went to work three years later for the Committee for the Re-election of the President. He returned to the White House after the 1972 campaign and shifted to GSA as No. 3 man in the agency on March 1, 1973.

Plasma Heated To 200 Million Degrees

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Scientists at The University of Texas have succeeded in heating plasma to more than 200 million degrees Fahrenheit, a necessary step in harnessing the power of the H-Bomb and the sun.

Actually, only 100 million degrees has been considered necessary for nuclear fusion. The Texas experiment kept the heat for only about a 50-millionth of a second instead of the full second required.

"What we have achieved is just one milestone on a long road," Dr. William E. Drummond, director of the UT Fusion Research Center, said Tuesday. "At the moment, we are looking down the pike to a point sometime in the 1990s when we should have a fusion power plant which actually demonstrates both the engineering and the commercial viability of this new source of energy."

The next step, Drummond said, is to carefully measure the properties of this extremely hot gas confined in a magnetic field in a machine called Tokamak.

Soviet scientists built the first Tokamak, a donut-shaped device that whirls the plasma in a magnetic field. No container could hold gas that hot.

The highest temperature previously achieved in a contained gas was 35 million to 40 million degrees at the Tokamak at Princeton University, Drummond said.

All data on peaceful use of thermonuclear fusion is shared by scientists around the world, he said.

Once achieved, commercial thermonuclear fusion would solve the world's energy needs because it uses an isotope of hydrogen called deuterium, which can be extracted easily from seawater.

Texas Electric Service Co. and nine other Texas power companies, through the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation, have been supporting nuclear fusion research since 1957. Utilities nationwide joined the effort through their research organization, the Electric Power Research Institute.

The Tokamak project represents a unique partnership of industry, university and government in supporting the kind of long-range research necessary to meet the country's future electric needs, Drummond said.

"If the goal of achieving fusion power can be reached, it will indeed be a thermonuclear El Dorado," he said. Fusion power plants could provide the world with a virtually unlimited supply of electrical energy. "These fusion power plants will not only be attractive from the environmental viewpoint," Drummond said, "but also because of intrinsic safety and the possibility of very high efficiency."

Drummond said Lake Austin contains enough deuterium to equal the energy of oil reserves of the entire Middle East.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Three Yodels For The Swiss

DEAR ABBY: I understand that a few years back, you had a letter in your column from someone who asked why the Swiss were such an arrogant people.

The writer stated that a Swiss will let you know five minutes after you meet him that he is not German, French or Italian — but SWISS.

My ancestors came from Bern, Switzerland. Therefore, I am interested in the way you answered that.

WISCONSINITE

DEAR WIS: First, the Swiss are not "arrogant." They are a proud people who have much about which to be proud. They have fresh air and clean government. (Their president serves for one year only, and cannot be re-elected.) They produce the world's finest chocolate, cheese, watches and precision instruments. Their people are honest, industrious and well-mannered. Their skiing is unbeatable and their banks unbreakable. And if that's not something to yodel about, I don't know what is!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 53-year-old widower. I have a nice home, a responsible position, good health and an adequate income.

Some time ago, I met an attractive widow and we've been seeing a lot of each other. She's pretty, has a good figure and is a fine cook and housekeeper. We have the same tastes in music, the theater, sports and literature. We couldn't be better matched had we been selected for each other by computer.

We want to get married, but we have a problem. I have a dog who has been my constant companion for eight years. Never having had children, King was a great comfort to us during my wife's terminal illness. He was like a member of my family.

Unfortunately the lady has a dog and cat to whom she is equally attached. We've tried to bring these animals together without success. Both dogs are big and they fight to the point of trying to kill each other.

If I bring King to the lady's apartment, he intimidates her cat, and she snarls and hisses and runs up the curtain.

We've discussed our problem with our friends and they're no help. Frankly, they think we're nuts.

Is there a solution that will work?

WANTS TO MARRY

DEAR WANTS: The widow has the advantage, two pets to one. Why not find a good home for King? Or flip a coin to see which dog goes. If King "wins," the cat remains a problem — unless the two can adjust. (If you two "perfectly-matched" humans can't overcome the animal barrier between you, you are indeed "nuts.")

DEAR ABBY: A Florida wife gripes because the bug spray her husband uses on their property makes him passionate. This is a problem?

Is it possible to find out what brand of bug spray her husband uses? And if the brand name isn't available, could you please ask her to send her husband?

COULD USE HIM IN OMAHA

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Air Terminal Plan

Some master plans for cities, counties or what-have-you are destined to become nothing more than dust-catchers reclining on shelves, but it appears that the plan being prepared for Midland Regional Air Terminal may serve a far more useful purpose, benefitting all concerned.

Highlights of a preliminary report on the proposed master plan for the terminal were outlined by Col. Wilson Banks, the City of Midland's aviation director, for Chamber of Commerce directors at their recent meeting.

From his presentation, it would seem that the plan, practical in its overall approach, has a great deal of merit, based on present and projected needs over a 20 year period.

Differing from some master plans, this one suggests needed improvements which can be accomplished within a reasonable price range.

The improvements also can be made in stages, as needed, which certainly can be most helpful.

This applies particularly to the present terminal building, which needs improving and expanding to meet present needs.

The report, Banks explained, recommends that the existing building be remodeled, improved and enlarged rather than erecting a new structure. This in itself will mean a saving of several million dollars for the city's taxpayers.

The other master plan recommendations, cited by Banks, also are practical, and certainly will be needed over a period of years.

They include: Extend main north-south runway by 2,600 feet to make a 9,500-foot, full-strength runway; establish development control over a 900-acre area immediately south of the airport for its protection in future; continue areas for fixed-base operators in areas both north and south of the terminal building; develop special cargo area within the next 10 years.

These recommendations, of course, are taken from the preliminary report, but Col. Banks appears pleased with them and is of the opinion they will meet with general approval of the City Council and the public.

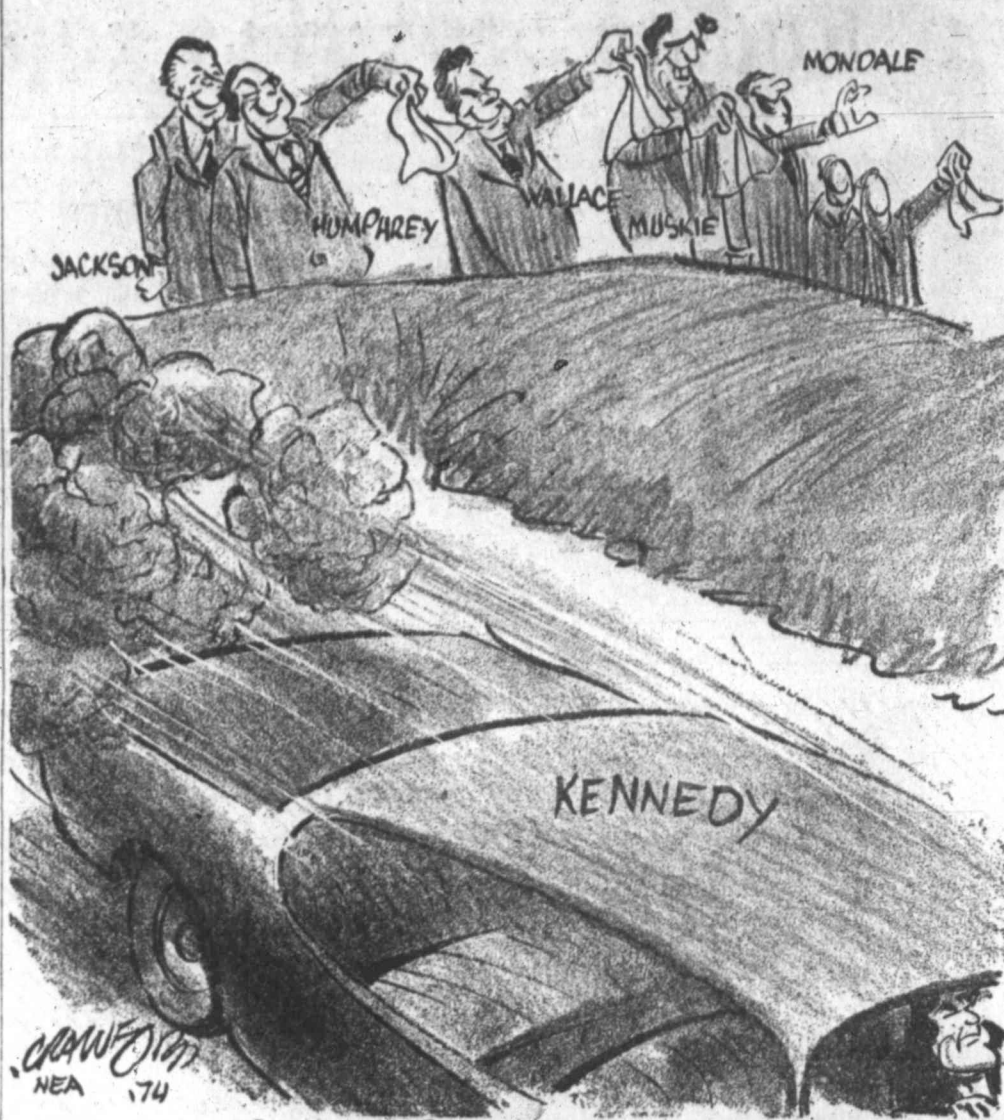

A plush, unnecessarily expensive, "better than any one else has" terminal, as Banks said, isn't necessary or required. A facility which adequately will meet present and future needs is a "must."

Steps also are being taken now to improve and expand the airport parking lot and to reinstitute limousine service to and from the airport.

Meanwhile, work on improving and strengthening the airport's main runways is proceeding on schedule.

Midland Regional Air Terminal can and must be continued as a first-class facility.

Parting Is Such Sweet Sorrow

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson Says: The Christian Children's Fund investigated.

WASHINGTON—The renowned Christian Children's Fund, like the old lady who lived in the shoe, has so many children it doesn't know what to do. Worse, the fund doesn't know what it did with $25 million, which was raised to feed, clothe and educate needy children around the world.

As part of his study of charities, Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., asked the General Accounting Office to investigate the Children's Fund. The GAO's secret report to Mondale may prove unsettling to the sponsors who monthly contribute $12 apiece to help one of the 188,000 children on the needy list.

The government auditors discovered, for instance, that the fund sinks $2.4 million of the charity money into advertising to raise still more money. The ads, showing tattered tots with pitiful faces, are heartrending. The solicited sponsors are given the impression that only the neediest are helped.

This is not exactly true, according to the GAO. In the Philippines and Colombia, where the GAO made on-the-spot checks, the neediest are ignored "because they are often undemourished and, as a result, cannot study effectively."

As a field office supervisor for the fund put it, somewhat uncharitably, "sponsors are pleased with a success story." Children too far gone in poverty need not apply.

The sponsor is urged to give his "child" a special gift on birthdays and Christmases. But the secret GAO study found in Kenya, for example, that only 25 per cent of the gift money ever reached the designated children.

"The sponsor of one child in this project sent $34 to be used as a special gift," reported the GAO. "The child received $4.28, and the project retained the rest."

In Greece, money was set aside to support a school which folded up. Some of the money was simply stashed in a bank depository, with no accounting given.

At a similar school project in Hong Kong, 118 children were supposedly being assisted by the fund. When the GAO checked, it found none of the children were even enrolled. The school was pocketing the cash.

Supervision of the spending was catch-as-catch-can. Of 68 children's projects in Kenya, 59 might be put in charge of the nation's interior.

They felt sure, knowing his record, that he would turn the wilderness into the private preserve of the special interests.

But the environmentalists may have been premature in their alarm. We have checked into Steiger's claim that he is in demand for the cabinet. A spokesman assured us that no one at the White House ever asked Steiger to be secretary of the interior.

On the contrary, we have determined that it was Steiger who contacted the White House and asked to be considered for the job. Our White House sources say he made the pitch to his fellow Arizonian, Dan Burch.

A member of Burch's staff told us that, although Burch and Steiger were friends, Burch would "never ever make an offer like that." Steiger failed to return our calls.

WATCH ON WASTE: While President Ford is calling upon Americans to tighten their belts, the Smithsonian Institution is spending $4 million a year on obscure research projects.

A $70,000 project was approved this year, for example, for the study of wild boars in Pakistan. The study is supposed to help Pakistan control the wild boar population.

The Smithsonian also has funded an $11,540, two-year research project to classify a species of bisexual Polish frog. This expenditure is explained as an effort to "allow Polish and American scientists to share the latest techniques in species identification."

A good many impoverished Americans might be more interested in eating than classifying frogs.

Footnote: The money for far-fetched projects is appropriated from surplus foreign currency owned by the U.S. government.

New Zealand To Hike Payments

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP)—The New Zealand government is to make lump sum payments of up to $3,750 to the dependents of any citizen dying before the age of 65.

The formula provides $1,500 cash to a totally dependent widow or widower, including a partner or a de facto relationship.

There are additional payments of $750 for each dependent child, up to a limit of $2,250.

Payments are reduced in cases of partial dependency. Lump sum payments have been paid to the dependents of accident victims since April last year.

The extension of the scheme by Prime Minister Norman E. Kirk's Labor government to cover all deaths becomes effective in April 1975.

RAY CROMLEY Yes, Overregulation Does Feed Inflation

WASHINGTON (NEA)—If you need an example of how the federal government promotes inflation, visit the Interstate Commerce Commission.

That agency is no worse than most but being typical it illustrates how inefficient and unwise government regulation can drive up costs and therefore prices.

The price of transportation is especially important because it enters into the cost of virtually everything we buy from food to houses and motor cars.

Take these unhappy examples gleaned, not from industry complaints, but from government studies:

ICC opposition to multiple-car and volume rail freight rates delayed unconsciously the introduction of efficient unit trains.

ICC attitudes have discouraged the wider application of containerization, which both government and industry believe can cut costs markedly.

Regulatory procedures inhibit the efficiencies which come through the joint usage and joint control of common trackage by two rail companies.

ICC procedures encourage discriminatory rates, forcing one class of rail service to subsidize another. A Department of Transportation survey brings out that perishables and freight on light-density lines are subsidized by other freight.

Protracted hearings and court reviews on mergers may take so long the expected benefits are dissipated before the merger is permitted.

In 1971, the railroads were required by the ICC to maintain service on 21,000 miles of lightly traveled track for which revenues were less than operating costs, forcing the rails to charge higher rates on profitable routes, thus driving away business. Again, raising costs.

Innovations which improve service or reduce costs almost inevitably require changes in rates to realize their potential, says one government study. By slowing and discouraging such price changes the ICC inhibits the very process of innovation.

ICC attitudes discourage such efficiencies as could be achieved by closer cooperation between the railroads, truck lines and barge operations.

The ICC makes it virtually impossible for rail lines to make those expeditious shifts in rates often required to meet competition.

The regulation of trucking operations has been even more ridiculous.

The fixing of routes is so arbitrary that trucking firms may be required to make a 50 mile detour north to pick up a load 100 miles south.

There are limitations on the type of goods carried.

Trucks frequently have been required to return empty even when suitable cargoes were available—but proscribed for one unimportant reason or another.

Worse yet, some of the newer agencies make the ICC look generous by comparison.

Now there are numbers of "inflation busting" programs which are politically appealing but highly impractical. These too often monopolize the attention of Congress, the White House and participants in mini-summits.

But there are also genuine practical ways to spur the economy, reduce inflation and hold employment at high levels. These less glamorous proposals are talked about privately when experts get together. In such meetings items like regulations which pad costs, the obtuse at-

RALPH NOVAK Rules Cited On How To Watch Tv Football

NEW YORK (NEA)—Every once in a while, when they get tired, the quarterbacks and linebackers and wide receivers and instant replay specialists let something on television that isn't a football game. But those exceptions are so rare these days that it behooves everyone to know how to watch television football.

So here are some basic rules: Do Not Question the Omniscience of the Announcers. If the announcer gets that doom-day tone in his voice and says something like, "There's no tomorrow for the Falcons," don't be skeptical. Don't say to yourself, "Most Sundays are followed by Mondays, then in these troubled times." Instead reflect on the difficult philosophical plight in which the Falcons seem to find themselves.

Do Not Take the Name of Pete Rozelle in Vain. And it's not too smart to trifle with Howard Cosell, either.

If You Have to Fall Asleep During a Game, Do It When the Chicago Bears Are Playing. It is well known that the Chicago Bears have not played an interesting game in 37 years.

Pay strict Attention to Commercials. This may seem like rash advice but the commercials will often be the most entertaining thing you see all day and they usually don't make you feel like an idiot if you don't know what a set-back flare in the two-minute drill is.

Also, they enable you to see many of the players with their uniforms and helmets off, trying to act like more or less normal humans; this will make you appreciate how lucky you are they have their uniforms and helmets on most of the time.

Always Watch the Ball. Everyone always tells you to not watch the ball if you really want to appreciate the game. But in the first place, you can't not watch the ball on television because your television set is always watching the ball.

And in the second place, if you watch the ball you'll feel embarrassed later when people ask you who won and you have to say, "I don't know but No. 78 knocked down No. 83 about 19 times out of 37."

Keep Women in Perspective. Remember that not all women are luscious blondes sitting in the stands, luscious blondes leading cheers or luscious blondes trying to molest Joe Namath. There are in the universe a few brunettes and redheads and a few unattractive blondes. Can you think of any you know?

Never Watch the Half-time Show. It is well known that no real fan watches the half-time marching, singing, dancing, batontwirling and

Rep. Rodino Says He's Enjoying Spotlight

By MIKE WATERS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Peter W. Rodino Jr., who used to be just a face in the political crowd, says he's enjoying the spotlight that was generated by presiding over the House Judiciary Committee impeachment inquiry.

"Face it, I'm a human being," the New Jersey congressman said in an interview. "These plaudits are satisfying."

Rodino, 65 and serving his 13th term as representative of New Jersey's 10th congressional district, vaulted from relative obscurity to national prominence as chairman of the televised committee hearings on the impeachment of Richard M. Nixon.

Now speaking invitations pile up at his Capitol Hill office. Democratic colleagues want him to campaign for them and his name is recognized across the country.

It was not always so. Two years ago, when his name was placed in vice presidential nomination at the Democratic National Convention many delegates had never heard of him. He got 62 votes.

"I never sought the glare of the spotlight," Rodino said. "I never looked forward to any of this. My objective was to contribute something good to the system. I never sought it, but I guess in politics survival depends on letting people know what you have done."

He takes special pride in the fact that "people keep telling me that 'you and your committee restored faith in our system.'"

The committee recommended the impeachment of Nixon, but the former president resigned before the issue went to the House.

"The system is working," Rodino declared. "What better way to celebrate the bicentennial than to point out that the system is working."

Mrs. Ford Gains Strength, Spirits Good, Doctors Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford is regaining her strength and is in excellent spirits as she recovers from surgery for breast cancer, her doctors say.

A medical bulletin said her temperature had returned to normal and that all other vital signs continue normal. Her activities Tuesday included reading, sitting in a chair, watching television and visiting with members of her family.

President Ford visited his wife at the Bethesda Naval Hospital Tuesday night and gave her a green Gucci tote bag which he said was a gift from Italian President Giovanni Leone. Ford was accompanied by Grand Rapids businessman Jack Stiles, a family friend.

Dr. William Fouty, who performed the surgery Saturday, said he feels Mrs. Ford "has had an excellent post-operative course."

There was no further word on whether her doctors will prescribe any therapy to combat the threat that Mrs. Ford's cancer might spread. Doctors reported Monday that cancer cells were found in two of the 30 lymph nodes removed during the operation, and that further diagnostic studies would be made.

School Land Lease Sale Disappointing

AUSTIN (AP) — A shortage of money and oilfield equipment apparently was reflected Tuesday in the sale of $5,567,177 in oil and gas leases on more than 144,554 acres of public school lands.

Texas Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong noted that the July lease sale brought in a record $24 million to the state.

"From our talks with industry spokesmen, the lack of availability of offshore drilling rigs, as well as available bonus dollars, was a factor" in the Tuesday sale, Armstrong said.

He also noted that the School Land Board's decision to hold four lease sales a year, instead of two, accounted for a decline in the bids.

Hunt Hassie Trust submitted the largest bid of $256,356 for a tract in Loving County.

More than 89,472 acres in the Gulf of Mexico were leased for $2,780,644.

Armstrong said the School Land Board is considering leasing land by geographic zones, as the federal government does. It also may cut back from four to three sales a year.

Constitution is a living-thing — that we met the test?"

The Italian-American lawmaker from Newark sometimes feels like a fish out of water campaigning for colleagues.

"Jeez, what do I say to a bunch of farmers?" he reportedly inquired of an aide recently before addressing a rural crowd in South Dakota.

This fall, he is to campaign in Indiana, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa, Kansas, Oregon, and New York. The party has asked him to address a meeting of the Democratic National Committee next month.

Before he chaired the impeachment hearings, out-of-town speaking invitations came mostly from ethnic groups, particularly Italian-American organizations.

His new fame has meant personal sacrifices such as giving up family dinner outings on weekends. And it has cut into his paddleball, opera and reading time.

Now the Judiciary Committee is gearing up for hearings on the nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller to be vice president. And Rodino has to worry about his own political survival. Like every other House member, he's up for re-election in November.

Drainage Project Under Consideration

A drainage project to eliminate ponding of water in the intersection of Interstate 20 and the Garden City Highway is under consideration by the State Highway Commission following a session with Midland city and county officials in Austin.

The Midland group made the trip to Austin Tuesday in an effort to have highway department plans to pump water that ponds in the intersection of Midland Draw changed to an open ditch, free-flow drainage system.

County Judge Barbara Culver proposed the open ditch drainage in an effort to reduce by a half the cost of the previously state budgeted pump-drainage installation. The highway commission had estimated the project at near $1 million, but the Midland proposal would only cost the state between $300,000 to $500,000, Judge Culver said.

Both proposals would eliminate the ponding by transferring the water to an open ditch, which is near the city sewer plant south of the city.

Judge Culver said members of the highway commission were "very responsive" to the open ditch proposal. The judge noted that another Midland group had asked for a delay on the project construction last April in order that a study could be conducted for a possible alternate drainage proposal.

Fred Baker, city public works director, said the open ditch would intercept 877 cubic feet of water per second and carry it eastward along Cloverdale Road to the draw area.

Baker said only 1 mile of right-of-way would be necessary. The entire length of the open ditch would be approximately 2 1/4 miles from the highway intersection to the draw.

Members of the highway commission said a decision would be made on the choice of projects within 60 to 90 days.

Other Midlanders representing the open ditch drainage proposal were City Councilman Jim Kent, and County Commissioners Charlie Welch, John Thomas and Durward Wright.

Rocky Filling In For Ford At Two Stops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller is filling in for President Ford at two non-political stops that mark a one-day exception to his inactivity while undergoing congressional confirmation as vice president.

Ford asked Rockefeller to take his place today at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, and before the national UPI Editors conference in San Francisco. Ford's wife, Betty, was operated on last Saturday for breast cancer.

Rockefeller's schedule called for him to make the overnight round trip to the Pacific Coast in under 30 hours, leaving Washington at dawn today and returning from San Francisco early Thursday.

The decision to make the speeches, however, does not signal any change in Rockefeller's plans to avoid political speeches pending confirmation, which is not expected in either the House or the Senate until after the Nov. 5 elections.

Meanwhile, in Washington, the chairman of the Senate Rules Committee, which held hearings on the Rockefeller nomination last week, said mail is running "very heavily" against him.

But Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., said the panel "probably will very strongly" recommend Rockefeller's confirmation though he declined to rule out the possibility of Senate rejection.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., however, said when asked about the negative Rockefeller mail that "I don't think that that would influence the committee any."

Tower said he has received a considerable amount of mail opposing the former New York governor, adding it "comes from both conservatives and some of the Angela Davis stripe," a reference to the black revolutionary who testified against Rockefeller last week.

But Tower predicted the nomination would be confirmed.

Kidnap Victim Found Dead

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The wife of a rural banker was found dead after she was kidnaped by three gunmen who forced her husband to give them an undisclosed amount of money.

The body of Jean R. Reville, 51, was found late Tuesday in the trunk of her car on a dirt road about 12 miles west of Augusta, the FBI said early today.

The cause of death was not immediately known. An autopsy was scheduled today.

Her husband, 53-year-old Eatonton B. Reville Jr., was waylaid on his way to work early Monday by three masked, armed men who told him his wife was locked in the trunk of her car, agents said.

Mrs. Reville had left home about an hour earlier than her husband for her nursing job at University Hospital in Augusta. Authorities said Reville took the men to the Hepzibah branch of the Georgia Railroad Bank and Trust, where he is manager, and gave them a plastic waste container filled with an undisclosed amount of cash.

He was found locked in the trunk of his car early Tuesday, FBI agent Joseph Sylvester said in announcing the discovery of Mrs. Reville's body that authorities had received a telephone call saying a blue 1969 Buick Electra had been spotted on a dirt road near Martinez, a suburb of Augusta. The body was in the trunk.

Some stations are worried about finding enough unleaded gas customers.

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer

New car owners apparently won't have to worry about finding unleaded gasoline for their 1975 models this fall. But some service stations are worrying about finding enough customers for the new grade.

A nationwide survey by The Associated Press indicates that at least half the stations in most states already carry unleaded gasoline and many more, mostly in rural areas, plan to stock it later this fall.

Virtually all American-made cars will require unleaded fuel.

The only 1975 models which can use leaded gasoline are Chrysler's equipped with either of two optional V-8 engines, the 318 cubic inch displacement power plant available in compact and intermediates and the 360 c.i.d. engine, an option on larger Chrysler Corp. cars.

And while about 80 per cent of the new cars will have anti-pollution converters, even those autos which do not come equipped with the devices must use unleaded gas.

This is because the Environmental Protection Agency gave the cars a production go-ahead after testing models which used lead-free fuel.

Even if a car is not equipped with a converter, which would be ruined if leaded gas is used, it still must use no-lead, exclusive of Chryslers with special order 318 and 360 c.i.d. engines. Autos requiring lead-free have special gas tank filler necks which can take only special lead-free fuel nozzles.

In addition, the autos will be marked near the filler cap and on the dashboard as requiring unleaded-free gas. Federal regulations call for a fine of $10,000 per day for stations which, except in emergencies, put leaded fuel in the new, specially marked autos.

All General Motors cars, about 75 per cent of Ford and Chrysler cars and 30 per cent of American Motors cars will have converters.

Thus, about 55 per cent of the new models will require unleaded fuel. But few of the 8.5 million cars Detroit's auto makers expect to sell in the 1975-model year are on the road. And so far, that has meant slow business at many pumps for unleaded gas.

"All the stations required to carry unleaded gas have stocks of it," says Gerald Kroll, president of the Missouri Service Station Dealers Association. "Our only problem has been getting customers for it."

The head of the Pennsylvania-Delaware station dealers association says up to 70 per cent of the two states' stations now carry unleaded gasoline. But he adds, "It's the slowest-selling."

The North Dakota Auto Club reports one Fargo dealer spent up to $15,000 to provide unleaded fuel at nine area stations. But in a recent 10-day period he sold only 10 gallons of the grade.

Many smaller stations have complained that federal regulations requiring them to sell unleaded gasoline have forced them to replace premium grades with unleaded because the stations only had two pumps and couldn't afford a third.

Although unleaded grades have accounted for less than 5 per cent of retail gasoline sales, the auto companies say half the cars on the road today can use unleaded fuels and the percentage will increase as more 1975 models hit the nation's highways.

Plastic Industry Officials File Suits Contesting Vinyl Chloride Standards

CHICAGO (AP) — Plastics industry officials quickly denounced and filed lawsuits contesting new federal safety standards reducing worker exposure to vinyl chloride, a gas that may cause cancer.

One industry official called the standards "economically unrealistic, technically infeasible, politically motivated and medically ridiculous."

President Todd C. Walker of the Firestone Plastics Co., a division of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., added in a statement Tuesday that the standards "puts the vinyl plastics industry on a collision course with economic disaster. More importantly, it throws two million jobs down the drain, according to an economic impact study made earlier this year by Arthur Little & Co.," an industrial consulting firm.

Asst. U.S. Labor Secretary John H. Stender, who had announced the new Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) standards earlier Tuesday, said some plants will have trouble meeting the tightened standards, but he added, "This will not cause the industry to shut down."

The stricter regulations for vinyl chloride, a chemical used in numerous plastic products, would cover 7,500 U.S. plants with 350,000 workers. Present standards will remain in effect until January with a gradual, one-year transition to the tighter standards, Stender said.

Slender said provisions would allow a company that cannot meet the standards to ask for a variance or a time extension.

At least two industrial groups immediately filed court actions contesting the new standards.

The Society of the Plastics Industry Inc., which represents more than 90 per cent of vinyl chloride and polyvinyl chloride producers, filed suit in New York asking the U.S. Court of Appeals for judicial review. A separate suit was filed by the Hooker Chemical Co., of Stamford, Conn.

After several deaths from a rare liver cancer which were thought to be related to the handling of vinyl chloride were reported, the government in April ordered an emergency lowering of the then-prevailing limit of 500 parts per million to which workers could be exposed.

Preliminary tests conducted in Northbrook, Ill., later that month showed that test mice developed liver cancer when exposed to concentrations of 50 parts per million of vinyl chloride.

Judge Culver said members of the highway commission were "very responsive" to the open ditch proposal. The judge noted that another Midland group had asked for a delay on the project construction last April in order that a study could be conducted for a possible alternate drainage proposal.

Fred Baker, city public works director, said the open ditch would intercept 877 cubic feet of water per second and carry it eastward along Cloverdale Road to the draw area.

Baker said only 1 mile of right-of-way would be necessary. The entire length of the open ditch would be approximately 2 1/4 miles from the highway intersection to the draw.

Members of the highway commission said a decision would be made on the choice of projects within 60 to 90 days.

Other Midlanders representing the open ditch drainage proposal were City Councilman Jim Kent, and County Commissioners Charlie Welch, John Thomas and Durward Wright.

Some Stations Worried About Finding Enough Unleaded Gas Customers

By OWEN ULLMANN

New car owners apparently won't have to worry about finding unleaded gasoline for their 1975 models this fall. But some service stations are worrying about finding enough customers for the new grade.

A nationwide survey by The Associated Press indicates that at least half the stations in most states already carry unleaded gasoline and many more, mostly in rural areas, plan to stock it later this fall.

Virtually all American-made cars will require unleaded fuel.

The only 1975 models which can use leaded gasoline are Chrysler's equipped with either of two optional V-8 engines, the 318 cubic inch displacement power plant available in compact and intermediates and the 360 c.i.d. engine, an option on larger Chrysler Corp. cars.

And while about 80 per cent of the new cars will have anti-pollution converters, even those autos which do not come equipped with the devices must use unleaded gas.

This is because the Environmental Protection Agency gave the cars a production go-ahead

Rocky Filling In For Ford At Two Stops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller is filling in for President Ford at two non-political stops that mark a one-day exception to his inactivity while undergoing congressional confirmation as vice president.

Ford asked Rockefeller to take his place today at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, and before the national UPI Editors conference in San Francisco. Ford's wife, Betty, was operated on last Saturday for breast cancer.

Rockefeller's schedule called for him to make the overnight round trip to the Pacific Coast in under 30 hours, leaving Washington at dawn today and returning from San Francisco early Thursday.

The decision to make the speeches, however, does not signal any change in Rockefeller's plans to avoid political speeches pending confirmation, which is not expected in either the House or the Senate until after the Nov. 5 elections.

Meanwhile, in Washington, the chairman of the Senate Rules Committee, which held hearings on the Rockefeller nomination last week, said mail is running "very heavily" against him.

But Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., said the panel "probably will very strongly" recommend Rockefeller's confirmation though he declined to rule out the possibility of Senate rejection.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., however, said when asked about the negative Rockefeller mail that "I don't think that that would influence the committee any."

Tower said he has received a considerable amount of mail opposing the former New York governor, adding it "comes from both conservatives and some of the Angela Davis stripe," a reference to the black revolutionary who testified against Rockefeller last week.

But Tower predicted the nomination would be confirmed.

Kidnap Victim Found Dead

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The wife of a rural banker was found dead after she was kidnaped by three gunmen who forced her husband to give them an undisclosed amount of money.

The body of Jean R. Reville, 51, was found late Tuesday in the trunk of her car on a dirt road about 12 miles west of Augusta, the FBI said early today.

The cause of death was not immediately known. An autopsy was scheduled today.

Her husband, 53-year-old Eatonton B. Reville Jr., was waylaid on his way to work early Monday by three masked, armed men who told him his wife was locked in the trunk of her car, agents said.

Mrs. Reville had left home about an hour earlier than her husband for her nursing job at University Hospital in Augusta. Authorities said Reville took the men to the Hepzibah branch of the Georgia Railroad Bank and Trust, where he is manager, and gave them a plastic waste container filled with an undisclosed amount of cash.

He was found locked in the trunk of his car early Tuesday, FBI agent Joseph Sylvester said in announcing the discovery of Mrs. Reville's body that authorities had received a telephone call saying a blue 1969 Buick Electra had been spotted on a dirt road near Martinez, a suburb of Augusta. The body was in the trunk.

But Chairman Tom Steed, D-Okl., of the House subcommittee that cut President Ford's $850,000 request for Nixon on "emotional issue," called the money an "emotional issue" and urged the House to cut it no further.

Meanwhile, figures were released showing that government equipment in Nixon's California and Florida homes is valued at more than $1 million.

The figures, drawn up by the Office of Management and Budget, were released Tuesday by Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M.

Food Price Increases May Top Predictions Because Of Killer Frosts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food price increases in 1975 may top current predictions because of killer frosts in Midwestern corn and soybean areas, Agriculture Department sources say.

Reduced corn and soybean crops can produce higher prices for meat, poultry and dairy products, because the two crops are used in feed for livestock.

One Agriculture Department source, who asked not be identified, said an estimate by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz that food prices may rise 8 to 10 per cent next year could be conservative if damage to fall crops is extensive.

“Until this latest weather trouble some were thinking retail food prices might go up 3 or 4 per cent each quarter during the first half of next year,” another department official said.

In other economic news Tuesday, a 5.5 per cent pay raise went into effect for 3.5 million federal workers. President Ford had sought to delay the increase until Jan. 1 but was overruled by the Senate.

—The Civil Aeronautics Board approved an air fare discount plan for United Airlines that would cut some fares by 25 per cent.

The new fares are for mid-week flights between cities at least 1,500 miles apart and will be in effect Oct. 15 to March 13 except Christmas and Thanksgiving. The plan would cut coach fare between Chicago and Los Angeles, for example, from $280 to $210.

—Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the White House is not considering gasoline rationing.

—The estimated cost of major military weapons increased $16.9 billion in the three months ended in June, mainly because of inflation, the Pentagon disclosed.

Meantime, USDA said in a report Tuesday that “the growing season came to an end for much of this year’s corn crop” as the result of early frost the nights of Sept. 21 and 22.

Frosts also stopped soybean development in the Midwest, raising concern that the harvest will be reduced further.

A revised report on the 1974 harvest, however, is not planned by USDA until Oct. 10, reflecting crop conditions as of the first of the month. Late planting last spring and drought in the summer already have reduced prospects far below indications six months ago.

Department officials have predicted retail food prices for all of 1974 will average 15 to 17 per cent higher than they did last year when they showed a 14.5 per cent gain over 1972.

Butz told a news conference Aug. 26, “we don’t anticipate anything like a 10 per cent increase” in food prices next year. He said again this week an 8 to 10 per cent increase was likely.

However, USDA food economists say they have not formed solid price estimates for all of 1975. But one said Butz has described what may happen during the first half of next year.

Some new estimates will be made in early November. One reason for the delay is that economists want to look at the Oct. 10 crop production figures.

Many Countries Fear U.S. Policies Could Cause Worldwide Recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — A surprisingly large number of countries are fearful that the United States could push the world into a deep economic recession if it rigidly pursues its anti-inflation policies.

“None of us can hope to avoid disaster if there is a severe recession in the United States,” said British finance minister Denis Healey at the annual meeting Tuesday of the International Monetary Fund.

Others who have expressed varying degrees of concern include delegates from Italy, Belgium, Japan, Korea, the Latin American nations, and IMF Managing Director Johannes Witteveen of The Netherlands.

More than one delegate has referred to fears of a repeat of the world depression of the 1930s, including Italian Finance Minister Emilio Colombo.

“Clearly, international laissez-faire economics will not do in the circumstances,” said Colombo, whose country is in severe financial difficulty resulting in part from high oil prices.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon sought to put their fears to rest in his speech Tuesday, saying inflation, not recession, is the major threat to world stability.

“I do not believe the world is in imminent danger of a drift into cumulative recession, though we must be alert and ready to act quickly should the situation change unexpectedly,” he said.

Officials of other nations have no quarrel that inflation is a major problem that must be dealt with, but they are worried that the U.S. is fighting it in the wrong way.

The Ford administration is attempting to pursue twin policies of spending restraint and tight credit, both of which are designed to reduce demand for goods and take pressure off of prices.

But Willy de Clercq, the finance minister of Belgium, said such policies have brought a real risk of an excessive slowing down of activity in the industrial countries, although he did not mention any country by name.

Witteveen also said he thought demand already had slackened in many developed countries, but that prices have not. He urged that price and wage controls be considered as ways of bringing prices into

Energy-Saving Proposals Eyed By Administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — A stiff new fee on gasoline, surcharges on natural gas and electricity, and a tax break for insulating your home are among the energy saving proposals pondered by the Ford administration.

Administration spokesmen said Tuesday that these and other ideas were being circulated among White House and Cabinet officials with the aim of sending energy-conservation proposals to Congress as part of President Ford’s economic package.

The proposals could come as early as next week, but spokesmen and officials said they were not yet in final shape and had not been approved by the President.

Among the tentative proposals were ideas to require industry planning for energy conservation, and to boost government publicity on fuel-saving methods.

A spokesman for the Federal Energy Office said the United States would gain two ways from strong conservation efforts.

They would allow a reduction of oil imports, reducing the outflow in the U.S. balance of payments.

And they would “show the world we mean business” as the United States seeks to rally oil-importing nations behind a campaign to reduce demand and force international oil prices down.

Another FEA source said still more energy-saving proposals may emerge later when the agency sends its Project Independence policy proposals to President Ford in November.

The spokesman and source provided these outlines of the conservation ideas under consideration for early proposal to Congress.

—A conservation fee on gasoline, at 10, 20 or 30 cents per gallon. This would raise the price at the pump to as much as 80 cents per gallon, but at least part of the fees collected might be refunded to the public through the income tax system.

—Owners of homes and commercial buildings might be allowed to purchase basic quotas of natural gas and electricity at normal prices; but graduated surcharges might be collected on excess use.

Large commercial buildings probably could reduce their use of electricity some 10 to 20 per cent, the FEA source said.

—Home owners who install insulation or storm windows might be allowed to deduct 20 to 30 per cent of the cost from their income tax payment.

—Industries might be required to develop energy conservation plans subject to federal approval, but the FEA has not indicated how such plans could be enforced.

Last winter’s public appeals, followed by rising prices, cut energy consumption and the FEA reports that even now, instead of the usual annual increase, energy consumption is barely back to last year’s level.

Getty Announces Wheeler Strike

A natural gas discovery in Wheeler County, Tex., has been announced by Getty Oil Co. Located three miles south of Wheeler, the No. 1 S. K. Williams encountered 53 feet net pay in the Hunton formation between depth of 14,570-14,700 feet. On a production test through a 1-inch choke, the discovery flowed equivalent of 24 million cubic feet per day through 14,672-14,679 feet.

Getty holds a 58.25 per cent working interest in the discovery located in a 3,840-acre working interest unit. Getty contributed 2,167 net acres to the unit and holds an additional 2,227 acres in the area. Other participants are Sun Oil Co., Gulf Oil Corp., Phillips Petroleum Co., Lloyd H. Smith, H. L. Brown Jr., and Gary Laughlin.

The discovery was drilled under supervision of Getty Oil Co. exploration personnel based in Midland, and production personnel in Oklahoma City, Okla.

The deal they were offered, she said, would have given liberals three delegates and three alternates if they would agree to withhold a petition to select at-large delegates by political preference.

When her group rejected the deal, she said, they were told, “That means you’ll get zero.”

“This needs to be told nationally—how Texas still resists going by the rules of the party and of their own rules,” she said.

Among the violations, she said, were Guest’s refusal to allow consideration of a minority report from the Nominations Committee and his refusal to permit nominations from the floor of the convention. These rights are “in all the rule books,” she said.

Mrs. Carr’s challenge goes to Robert Strauss, chairman of the Compliance Review Commission. Guest has 10 days in which to reply, she said.

If the challenge is upheld, Mrs. Carr’s group, which includes Wallaceites, would replace 11 of the 88 delegates and “about 15” of the alternates with their own people.

Their hostages in addition to Miss Hutchison, the director of the U.S. Information Service in the Dominican Republic, are the Venezuelan consul and a vice consul, two Dominican secretaries, a Spanish priest and a young messenger.

Combs Transferred To Huntsville After Dropping Appeal

Stephen Max Combs, who was convicted of murder in the death of Vickie Bernethy, has dropped his appeal in the 1970 murder and was transferred to the Texas Department of Corrections in Huntsville today, according to the Midland County sheriff’s department.

He had been sentenced to 15 years in the state prison following a May 1973 trial here.

Forest Oil Charter Plane Crashes In Alaska; 6 Die

PRUDHOE BAY, Alaska (AP) — Six persons were killed in the crash Tuesday night of a plane chartered to a Texas oil company, state police said.

Authorities said the twin-engine plane was chartered to Forest Oil Co., based in San Antonio, Tex.

The plane crashed about 500 yards short of the Lupine air strip, near the company’s drilling operation on the North Slope of the Brooks Range, about 400 miles north of Fairbanks.

Names of the victims were not known at once.

A witness told rescue workers that the plane appeared to be coming in too low.

Minutes before the crash the pilot radioed the nearby Happy Valley construction camp that he was about to land at the Lupine strip. Authorities said the pilot made no mention of any mechanical problems.

The ceiling was 1,000 feet and it was snowing at the time of the crash, officers said.

Common Cause State Director Urges 'Accountability Checks'

The state director of Common Cause blasted what he termed corrupt government practices by the legislature as a sign of better things to come.

He called House Bill 1, an ethics bill, a major breakthrough because it requires full-disclosures of any profit which could be made by individuals or political parties from pending legislation.

He said HB 4 stated clearly that the “public’s business must be done in public.” Tobian indicated belief that this measure alone would get the government out of the private cocktail party decision-making syndrome.

HB 6 brings government documents previously held secret into the public access where they belong, Tobian said.

Tobian said Common Cause in Midland needs to start a long and hard drive to gain new members. The membership here now stands at 50. State membership is 8,300 persons.

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A Texas House subcommittee on regulation of the real estate industry heard attacks Tuesday on contracts which allow lenders to turn down subsequent buyers of mortgaged property.

Emmett Larkin, an El Paso broker and director of the Texas Association of Realtors, told the legislators he doubts the constitutionality of a provision, common in mortgage contracts, which lets a lender deny a new buyer permission to assume a mortgage.

Rep. Jerry Donaldson of Gatesville, a member of the subcommittee which is considering the first major changes in the field in 10 years, said some contracts seek to avoid the constitutional question by providing that sale without approval is the same as default.

Other witnesses called for legislation requiring higher educational standards for real estate salesmen and brokers.

A. S. Passero, president of the El Paso Board of Realtors, proposed that salesmen be required to take 30 hours of classes before being licensed and 30 additional hours within six months after being licensed.

Also, Passero said, brokers Snyder received $145,000 for widening and resurfacing Round Top Road from College Street to FM 2763 and $55,000 for new surfacing and construction of turning lanes on 37th Street.

Police Investigate Two Theft Reports

Wanda Johnson, a customer at a Midland motor hotel, told officers a blouse, $5 in cash and a can of lighter fluid had been taken from her room Tuesday.

Larry Rails, 705 N. Weatherford St., advised police that a .22 caliber pistol and $3 in change had been taken in a Tuesday burglary of his residence. The front door had been jimmied open with a sharp instrument, police said.

Three Persons Hurt In Mishap

ODESSA — Three persons were injured in a three-car smashup at 11:20 a.m. Tuesday 3 mile east of Odessa on the U.S. 80 service road.

Listed in fair condition at Odessa Medical Center are Mrs. Betty Birch Woodard of Odessa and a passenger in her car, Mrs. Charmaine Woodard of Port Clinton, Ohio. Treated and released from Odessa Medical Center was Larry Dean Sisco of Odessa.

Sisco was the driver of a pickup truck involved in the accident. Officers said also involved was a pickup being driven by David McCoy of El Paso. McCoy was unhurt.

Midland did cite legislation passed by the last session of the legislature as a sign of better things to come.

He called House Bill 1, an ethics bill, a major breakthrough because it requires full-disclosures of any profit which could be made by individuals or political parties from pending legislation.

He said HB 4 stated clearly that the “public’s business must be done in public.” Tobian indicated belief that this measure alone would get the government out of the private cocktail party decision-making syndrome.

HB 6 brings government documents previously held secret into the public access where they belong, Tobian said.

Tobian said Common Cause in Midland needs to start a long and hard drive to gain new members. The membership here now stands at 50. State membership is 8,300 persons.

However, several witnesses told the subcommittee that proposals for continuing education or recertification were unnecessary because the market would force the unfit out of business.

Subcommittee chairman Lindon Williams of Houston said, “nobody on this committee wants to put a fence around the real estate license. We want to upgrade the profession.”

Bridgewater Withdraws From Commissioner Race

Preston F. Bridgewater Jr., chairman of his withdrawal from the race.

Due to the lateness of his action, his name will remain on the ballot despite his withdrawal, he said.

Precinct 4 incumbent Win Brown is running for re-election to the post as the Republican nominee.

With this in mind, I feel that I could not devote the time necessary to serve the residents of Precinct 4 in the manner which they deserve,” Bridgewater said.

“I appreciate all the encouragement and help received from so many people during the months I have been active in the campaign,” he added.

Bridgewater said today he would advise the county clerk and the Democratic county

Competitive Prices, No-Lead Gasoline Hurting Filling Station Dealers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Down in the trenches these days of gasoline battles is the industryman of the industry, the filling station man. How is he doing? Extensive talks with three of them show all have troubles of one sort or another.

By RICK SCOTT
DALLAS (AP) — While the oil companies are fighting their own battles of supply, refining, taxes and criticism in Congress, what of the little man, the retailer?
 Has he got it good like he did last fall when he could sell every drop of gas he could get at the highest price the government would allow?
 A talk with three service station operators—a microcosm of neighborhood retailers—shows that they have their critical problems, too, particularly since gasoline prices have become competitive, at least in that area.
 Joe Gunn closed his station last week. He says he couldn't make a living out of it.
 H. B. Lee is looking for someone to buy his station. He says he'd rather face a firing squad than be in the business.

Jerry Davis is so busy he can only keep his service station open four hours a day, five days a week before running out of gas. Business couldn't be much better, he says.
 Gunn, a mustachioed man with dark, serious eyes, bought an automotive repair shop last Friday, the same day he closed his major-brand service station a few blocks away.
 Gunn said three things drove him out of business—higher prices that left him at a competitive disadvantage with small independents, a government edict that he sell lead-free gasoline and a recent scare over some bad gasoline that caused engine damage to some cars.
 Gunn, a discount store manager before taking over the station less than two years ago, said the only time he made good money was during last winter's gasoline shortage. He sold all the fuel he could get then, with regular gas priced at 54.9 cents a gallon.

But with independent stations cutting prices in recent months, he came down to about 49 cents a gallon for regular.
 "And I couldn't make a living selling at that. Even then, there were nearby stations selling for eight or nine cents a gallon less."
 "I told my customers I understood why they quit buying gas from me. I'd wave at them and they'd wave at me as they drove by," Gunn said.
 Gunn said his supplier, Fina, refused to cut its price to him so he could compete with the independents. He bought his gasoline through a jobber—a middleman.
 This summer, the government ordered most stations to switch at least one of their pumps to lead-free gasoline. Gunn's station had only two storage tanks, one for regular and one for premium. He had to take out the premium and put in lead-free fuel.

 Gunn said he couldn't sell no-lead—the customers didn't want it. He acknowledged that demand might increase later since 1975 cars must use the lead-free fuel.
 But, Gunn said, "I lost all my Ethyl sales and nobody needs lead-free right now."
 While his manufacturer refused to cut prices to make dealers more competitive, Gunn said he was ordered by his jobber to keep his station open longer, from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. This was supposed to increase his sales volume, but Gunn says it increased his expenses. Some independents, selling at lower prices, are open only a few hours a day, he said.

Gunn and his employees bought gasoline for their personal cars at a nearby independent station where gasoline sells for 40.5 cents a gallon. "That was cheaper than I could get it at my own pumps," he recalled.
 But Gunn was still struggling along until a batch of bad gasoline further sapped his business. Gunn said his station never received any of the bad product, but he suffered.
 "That was just the final blow," he said.
 A few blocks from Gunn's boarded-up station, Lee runs another station. And he wants out.
 "I'd close the s.o.b. down today if I could find a buyer," Lee said. Occasionally, a car drove up to his pumping island where regular was selling for 43.9 cents.

He said he wasn't making any money at that price.
 "I wouldn't go into another service station business if they put me in front of a firing squad. I'd say, 'Pull the trigger,'" Lee said.
 Lee buys his gasoline through the same jobber that sold to Gunn. Lee said the jobber had cut the price to the bone, and that he had done likewise.
 "I'm not making any money. The jobber isn't making any money, I don't think," Lee said.
 The stories of Gunn and Lee contrast with that of Jerry Davis, who runs an independent TexGas station in the same neighborhood.
 Davis pumps all the regular he can get at 40.6 cents a gallon. He doesn't sell premium. And his lead-free sells for 41.6

cents a gallon, considerably less than the 58.9 cents a gallon which Lee gets for his lead-free fuel.
 Davis' station brings back memories of the winter gasoline shortage.
 Davis keeps the station open only from 6 a.m. to 10 a.m. Monday through Friday. Some days he has to close before 10 a.m. because his daily allocation is gone.
 On a recent morning, a line of cars snaked out the station driveway and down the street about half a block. This was a slow day, Davis said.
 "We sell our allocation and go home," said Davis, who manages the station. He receives a straight salary, where as Gunn and Lee depended on a profit margin from each gallon sold.
 Davis said he doesn't understand why the major brand stations should be selling their gasoline for such a higher price. He thinks the gasoline is available for sale at a lower price.

 "We get our gasoline direct from TexGas, and it's all from cheaper domestic crude oil. We aren't using any of the more expensive imported crude oil. Of course that means we don't have as much gas to sell," he said.
 The small independents, like TexGas, have hurt sales at the major brand stations. Davis, Gunn and Lee agree on this. Davis said other station operators often buy their personal gas at his pumps because it's cheaper.
 "People come in here, they wait in line, and they tell me it's like the gas shortage last winter," Davis said.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
 Today is Wednesday, Oct. 2, the 275th day of 1974. There are 90 days left in the year.
 Today's highlight in history:
 On this date in 1919, President Woodrow Wilson suffered a stroke, completely paralyzing the left side of his body.
 On this date —
 In 1780, Maj. John Andre, the British officer who negotiated Benedict Arnold's attempt to surrender West Point, was hanged as a spy.
 In 1804, the people of England were mobilized to resist invasion by Napoleon Bonaparte.
 In 1869, the Indian nationalist leader, Mohandas Gandhi, was born.
 In 1889, the first Pan American Conference was held in Washington.
 In 1941, in World War II, German armies launched an all-out drive against Moscow.
 In 1967, the first black to sit on the U.S. Supreme Court, Thurgood Marshall, was sworn in.
 Ten years ago: More than 125,000 persons fled from the Louisiana Gulf Coast as hurricane Hilda churned toward the coastal area.
 Five years ago: A controversial U.S. test of a hydrogen bomb underground in the Aleutians was carried out without setting off a feared earthquake.
 One year ago: The internationally known Finnish longdistance runner, Paavo Nurmi, died in Helsinki at 76.
 Today's birthdays: Comedian Groucho Marx is 79. Writer and film critic Rex Reed is 34.
 Thought for today: The causes of events always interest us more than the events themselves — Cicero, Roman scholar, 106-43 B.C.

Derringer Collection Displayed At Hillsboro

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer
 It has been some little time since we have read anything about a Derringer being the chief evidence in a murder trial. Last time such a weapon gained much prominence was April 14, 1865. It was owned by John Wilkes Booth, an actor of Washington, D.C.
 Ah, ha! You thought it was spelled "derringer." Didn't you? You may be right and you may be wrong. At any rate, M. C. "Doc" Bentley of Itasca, Tex., has an interesting story to tell about the spelling.
 Bentley has most of his collection of weapons on display currently at Hill Junior College whose neat, new-appearing buildings sit atop a hill across Interstate 35E from the venerable city of Hillsboro.
 In the collection of the college Confederate Research Center and Gun Museum are 18 Bentley derringers, to use the common spelling.
 Bentley relates that this small pistol was invented by Henry Derringer Jr., an American who lived in the last century.
 It proved so popular that it was widely copied by other gunsmiths.
 Derringer never patented his invention, Bentley says, and the other manufacturers, just to be on the safe side in case Derringer wanted to sue, spelled the name of their pistols "derringer." Thus the double "R" has become the accepted spelling unless you can find one of Derringer's originals.
 The college collection is small but representative and is presided over by Col. Harold B. Simpson, a professor and the author of more than 20 books on military affairs.
 In cases on the walls are all sorts of rifles, including such historic names as Springfield, Enfield, Remington and the Sharps, the latter a great favorite with buffalo hunters.
 There are some other rifles there made by people unknown to the general public, which makes them more interesting to gun collectors.
 Some of these rifles have tremendous bores. This refers to the size of the hole in the barrel and not some person you met at a cocktail party.
 There is one of .70 caliber, meaning it took a bullet seven-tenths of an inch thick. Modern rifle bullets are less than half that size.

 There are some .50-caliber and .44-caliber rifles, huge things best used for hunting bison.
 The disconcerting thing about a derringer is that you shoot once and then surrender if you miss. This is because most of them are single shot and you're disarmed the instant you discharge one.
 They are small enough to be hidden in the palm of a hand. Women once carried them, and professional gamblers often slid them onto their lap under the card table ready for instant action in case one of the yokels hollered that he was being cheated.
 Bentley, who was Hill County auditor for four terms and tax assessor and collector for two, is an enthusiastic gun collector and attends many of the meetings of the gun associations.
 He says many of the derringers were of .22 or .32 caliber. A bullet that size is too small to knock a man down.
 Thus highly popular were the .41 calibers, which could at least leave the victim flat on the floor if it didn't send him to the great beyond.
 The same type of derringer with which Booth killed Abraham Lincoln is on display at the museum.
 It, too, is a .41 caliber. It was a muzzle loader requiring a long and complicated process to reload, and there was just no chance for Booth to have gotten a second shot.
 Later, derringers were adapted to use cartridges about the same time that revolvers began to use the easier-handled ammunition.
 There were exceptions to the single-shot weapons.
 One of Bentley's appears to the layman seeing it through the glass of its case to be a three-shot job.
 It is an illusion, Bentley says. What looks like a center barrel really is a pivot. When one barrel is fired, the second barrel swings into position under the firing pin.
 Another version of the two-shot pistol is an "over and under." The firing pin itself moves from one barrel to the other.
 He also has a four-shot derringer and it is easy to see that this was a primitive version of what was to become the modern revolver.

Fromholtz Cops Upset Over Casals

HOUSTON (AP) — Diane Fromholtz says she is still learning on the women's tennis tour.

The unseeded Australian, playing in only her sixth tourney, scored a big upset Tuesday as she eliminated third-seeded Rosemary Casals 6-0, 6-3 in the first round of the women's professional tennis tournament here.

"I played well," Fromholtz said. "I relaxed and kept the pressure on. I have to keep myself keyed up, but most important I was staying relaxed. I'm just learning, you know."

Casals was the only upset victim as four other favorites came through as expected including first-seeded Chris Evert, the leading money winner on this year's women's pro tour who defeated Susan Mehmedbasich 6-1, 6-0.

In other matches involving favorites second seeded Virginia Wade defeated Helene Anlot 6-3, 6-2, fourth-seeded Evonne Goolagong defeated Janet Newberry 6-4, 6-3 and eighth-seeded Kathy Kuykendall defeated Kristy Pidgeon, 6-1, 6-4.

Acree gave a brief report on Keith Bishop, 220-pound senior tri-captain who has his foot in a cast. "The cast comes off today and we will see if he can go. We even have a steel plate in his shoe in case Dr. Dean gives him the go-ahead," said Acree.

Acree went on to say that OHS, Lee's homecoming opponent in Memorial stadium, is by far the biggest team in District 5-4A. He cited Aturo Vasquez, 240-pounds, Rodney Clower, 225, Arnold Castro, 210, Dean Blair, 220, Charlie Mayer, 205, Rodney Shelton, 210, Jimmy Cagle, 210, Jay Tipton, 200, Tommy Renuau, 225 and Steve Fain, a 210-pound. "We've got to do a good job on Woodie and Darrell Shepard if we are going to win," stated Acree flately. A big bon fire and pep rally will be held in the Lee parking lot Thursday night for the big homecoming affair.

The Lee JV travels to Odessa Thursday night to meet the OHS JV at Joe Coleman Field which is the new lighted playing field on the OHS campus. There is a grand stand, new all-weather track and mercury vapor lighting system. Ector, Permian and OHS, all have the new system to cut down on wear and tear of W. T. Barrett Stadium.

Duniven, Williams Share Honors

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

Texas Tech quarterback Tommy Duniven and flanker Lawrence Williams looked as though they were playing catch on a neighborhood lawn Saturday against sixth-ranked Texas.

Only like Tech assistant Coach Tom Wilson says "You'd better have good hands when you play catch with Tommy or he'll knock 'em off."

Duniven completed touchdown strikes of 77, 15 and 18 yards to Williams as they earned. The Associated Press Southwest Conference co-offensive Players of the Week award in the 26-3 upset of the Longhorns.

The strong-armed, 6-foot-2, 200-pound Duniven, who is just a sophomore, once threw a ball 75 yards in the air at McLean, Tex., High School, Saturday he winged a pass 46 yards into the teeth of a 25-mile-an hour wind.

Williams fielded it at the Texas 40 and romped to the end zone. Duniven has thrown just 28 passes this year and completed 21—a whopping 75 per cent for four touchdowns. "He has a real natural release," says Wilson, a former Tech quarterback who calls all the Red Raider plays from the press box. "He has the potential to be super star. Tommy was seven for seven last week... that's not too bad."

Duniven was a quarterback on offense and a middle linebacker on defense in high school where he lettered in football, basketball, track, tennis and golf.

Williams was a quarterback at Wichita Falls. "The way Duniven throws the ball you couldn't miss it if you wanted to," said Williams. "He just drills it."

Duniven was not recruited by Texas but Williams was sought by the Longhorns. "Texas had been winning and I wanted to go somewhere I thought there might be a chance to beat Texas," said Williams, a senior. "It took a long time but I made it."

Duniven has yet to play in a losing collegiate game. He took the freshman team to a 5-0

Germany, Davis Capture AP Honors

By The Associated Press

Jim Germany is starting out as if he wants to lock up the Missouri Valley offensive player of the week award for the season.

Germany, senior tailback for New Mexico State, was named for the weekly honors today, the second time in a row.

He almost singlehandedly wrecked any hopes of Texas-Arlington last Saturday as the Aggies rolled to a 42-14 win. He carried the ball 21 times, racking up 192 yards and scored five touchdowns, the first conference player in nine years to score that many.

His touchdown runs went for 7, 4, 1, 13 and 74 yards. "Jim did more things that a great back does than he ever done in any game before," coach Jim Bradley said.

"He was reading his blocks perfectly, making his cuts when he needed to, spinning off at all the right times, and he turned on the speed when it counted."

Germany edged West Texas State's Tully Blanchard for the honors.

Blanchard came off the bench to spark the Buffaloes to a 41-7 win over Wichita State, pitching three touchdown passes.

He entered the game in the second quarter when his team was behind 7-0. On the first series he led the team to a touchdown, then threw a scoring pass with just 16 seconds left in the half.

In the second half his 43- and 15-yard scoring passes to Tracy Dickson broke the game wide open.

Bruce Davis, West Texas State's middle linebacker from Odessa, won defensive player of the week awards Tuesday on the strength of 15 unassisted and six assisted tackles.

He forced one fumble, had a fumble recovery and a pass deflection.

Others nominated for defensive player honors were Tom Hickey of Louisville, Mark Hailey of Southern Illinois, Donnie Ross of New Mexico State, Dave Warren of Wichita State and Joe Campbell of Drake.

Representing Midland College in the tournament will be Price Courter, David Gage, Kelly Sewell and Kent Williams.

City, School, College Tax Assessments Show Increases

Ad valorem tax statements for the City of Midland, Midland Independent School District and Midland College are in the mail, and all show increases over last year's tax rolls.

Tax assessor-collector Virgil Jones said 64,180 individual statements were mailed; and noted that major increases to the tax rolls came about because of new commercial and residential construction along with revaluations of many pieces of property.

Jones said that the largest increase to the tax rolls came in the form of a 28 per cent hike in assessments on oil properties. The oil property reassessment raised payable school taxes to $25.7 million over the 1973 figures.

The tax rate and assessment percentage remain the same on the 1974 statements, with all being figured at a 75 per cent assessment. The tax rates are $1.14 per $100 of valuation on city taxes; $1.425 per $100 valuation on school taxes; and 14 cents per $100 valuation on college taxes, Jones said.

Total assessed property valuation for the city tax roll is $345,403,400 which will bring a figure of $3,937,595.41 in collectable taxes.

Independent school district total valuations amount to $545,052,690 and will bring $7,767,055.22 in collectable taxes.

Midland College tax roll property valuations are the same as that of the school district, but will bring a smaller figure of $763,069 in collectable taxes because of the much smaller rate.

Increases to the tax rolls came in the amounts of $14,962,420 over 1973 for real estate assessments, $7,770,560 in personal property assessments and $25.7 million in oil assessments for school and college taxes. Total increases to the school and college tax rolls is $48,474,250. City tax roll increases include $7 million on real estate and $2.7 million on personal property. Jones said that these hikes would bring $110,764 in city tax collections above the 1973 figure.

Jones said individual tax statements were figured by applying the equalized and current market value of property to the appropriate tax rate after the property was assessed on the 75 per cent base.

He gave a point in case concerning a single piece of residential property valued at $20,000. Jones said that city taxes would amount to $171 while school taxes would be $213.75 and college taxes would be $21, giving the owner a total tax bill of $405.75.

Jones said before any tax assessments are made all properties must be measured and appraised along with an inspection for improvements. The property is then classified and given allowance for depreciation and equalized with other like properties to arrive at a current market value.

Payment of tax statements can be made without penalty or interest between now and Jan. 31.

City, school and college tax collections for 1973 all stand at the 98 per cent mark or better, Jones said.

Funeral services were to be held at 4 p.m. today at Lamesa for Donice Britt, 19, who died late Monday of injuries received in a two-car collision Sunday near Eden.

Miss Britt died in a San Angelo hospital.

The services will be in the First Baptist Church of Lamesa, with the Rev. Bill Hargade, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Lamesa Memorial Park.

A native of Lamesa, she was graduated from Lamesa High School in 1973 and had lived in Midland the last year.

Survivors include her mother, Mrs. James (Audrey Faye) Tompkins of Midland; her father, Ray Doyce Britt of Lamesa; two sisters, Brenda Sue Britt of Midland and Marcy Larissa Britt of Lamesa, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Britt of Lamesa.

Funeral services were to be held at 2 p.m. today in Resthaven-Singleton-Wilson Chapel here, with interment in Peaceful Gardens Memorial Park.

Survivors include the widow, four other sons, four daughters, a sister, two brothers, 31 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Vote Due Today On Controversial Textbooks

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The 15-member State Textbook Committee, caught in a cross-fire of protest with hints of a local boycott in Austin, votes today on a series of proposed texts.

Final decisions on which books to adopt in 15 public school subjects will be made Nov. 9 by the State Board of Education, based largely on the committee's recommendations.

The committee was reminded at its final hearing Tuesday that one series of language arts books, D. C. Heath & Co.'s "Communicating" for grades 1-6 has been involved in the strikes and boycott over texts in Kanawha County, W.Va.

"After carefully and thoroughly reviewing this series, I can understand why so many thousands of parents in West Virginia are objecting to these books and are willing to sacrifice their salaries in strikes against the use of these books," said Mrs. Mel Gabler of Longview.

Mrs. Gabler, who has protested books from a generally conservative stance for more than a dozen years, recently became a full-time consultant on textbooks and offers her services to groups in other states.

She released to The Associated Press a letter in which Alice Moore, leader of the West Virginia protest, asked for reviews of the Health books and several other texts.

Mrs. Gabler contends the Health books portray stealing, vandalism and violence in a way that is unhealthy for youngsters. She called the series "handbooks on how to cheat, rob and steal for 6 through 9-year-olds."

A spokeswoman for the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. R. C. Bearden Jr. of San Angelo, said an unidentified Austin woman approached her at the hearing in September and mentioned the possibility of a boycott.

She quoted the woman as saying: "I want you to know that I and a group of my friends are prepared, if they adopt all these texts to which you all are objecting, to take our children out of school and to have our day in court to let people know what is going on and what is in the textbooks."

Women's rights advocates also are trying to force changes in some of the books and say they are not happy with any of the basic readers that are up for adoption.

"All of them have a well measurable amount of sexism," said Marjorie Randal of Clear Lake City. "All we could do was grade them from totally unacceptable to relatively acceptable."

Louis Stolar of the Hal Leonard Publishing Co. said the Continuing Task Force on Education for Women appeared to be going too far in its attack on stereotyping of female roles in textbooks.

"The methods employed project an extremely negative attitude toward those values which a majority of people in our society consider to be sound, proven, desirable and even necessary," Stolar said.

"To project a positive approach to the many contributions made by professional women is one thing, but to pick on Mom is another," he said.

Committee member Gwendolyn Shelton of Austin objected to a kindergarten book published by Stolar's firm that shows a mother in an apron fainting after a bug gets on her hand.

"Mr. Stolar, moms don't faint, they get the flyswatter," Mrs. Shelton said.

Midland County and the state have mailed 39,313 ad valorem tax statements to property owners. County tax officials said $2,135,772.14 in taxes are to be collected by the county, while the state will receive $350,201.93 from Midland County property owners.

Mrs. Frances Shuffield, chief deputy county tax assessor-collector, said the total assessed valuation of the county is $224,810,860 and that the county is collecting for the state on a taxable value of $205,990,760.

County taxes are being collected on a 32 per cent assessment ratio and the tax rate is the same as it was in 1973, 95 cents per $100 valuation, Mrs. Shuffield said.

The state tax rate has dropped five cents per $100 valuation. In 1973 the state tax rate was 22 cents, while this year it is 17 cents per $100 valuation, Mrs. Shuffield added.

A breakdown of the county tax funds shows that 70.5 cents goes to the general fund, 15 cents for special revenue fund, and 9.5 cents for the courthouse and jail sinking fund.

Mrs. Shuffield said a discount of three per cent will be given on taxes paid during October, while two per cent will be given for November payment and one per cent for December payment.

In January 1975, the full tax must be paid and no penalty will be assessed through Jan. 31. A 1 1/2 per cent penalty will be added in February. The penalty increases 1 1/2 per cent per month.

Mrs. Shuffield explained that on a home valued at $20,000 assessed at 32 per cent or $6,400 — the county tax should be $60.88. The state tax would be $10.88. This would mean a total of $71.76 in county and state taxes.

In 1973 Midland County had a total valuation of $204,349,940 and was to have collected $1,941,396.76 in funds. Actual collections thus far have been $1,865,939.82 or 96.12 per cent.

In 1973 the state value for the county was listed as $185,356.78, while the state tax was $407,786.80.

Henry Gibson Changes Image

By BOB THOMAS
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Henry Gibson plays an ego-maniacal bigot in a new movie about country and Western music, and that, he hopes, will put an end to his image as the lower-bearing poet from "Laugh-In."

The sock-it-to-me television series went off the air at the end of the 1972-73 season. The wispy, sweet-faced Gibson had left it a year and a half before, but the impact of art end to his image as the lower-bearing poet from "Laugh-In."

He left "Laugh-In" after three and a half years "because I didn't think I was growing."

But the role of the effete poet clung to Gibson, hindering his efforts for versatility. He did guest appearances on variety shows and played roles in television films, but always in the same image.

Then one day last year his agent told him to report for an interview with Robert Altman, director of "M-A-S-H."

When Gibson walked in the office, Altman took one look at him and remarked, "I'm so glad. I was afraid the 'Laugh-In' image would be too strong."

The director was making "The Long Goodbye," a Phillip Marlowe detective yarn with Elliott Gould. He cast Gibson as a sinister psychiatrist.

Gibson, who had appeared on Broadway in a Lillian Hellman play, got good reviews, although "The Long Goodbye" was panned in Hollywood.

"People here thought it was an attack on the Hollywood Establishment," said Gibson. "It wasn't. It was simply a satire on the genre of detective movies."

Altman next cast Gibson in his new movie, "Nashville." "I play a 60ish, egomaniacal country and Western singer who is sort of 'Mr. Nashville,'" a friend of presidents and a man who is accustomed to having his own way," Gibson said.

"He is very powerful and very bigoted. He isn't based on any one figure in Nashville, but is sort of a composite."

Arledge Producing Sinatra Special

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Sinatra hasn't been known to engage in any sport of late, save an occasional workout with reporters. So why is the president of ABC Sports producing the singer's coming tv special?

"One reason is that I greatly admire the guy," says Roone Arledge, head of ABC Sports since 1966. "But it's also that I think the idea of doing the show live is incredibly exciting. "I've been arguing for a long time that television has to get back into doing variety shows and things like that live again. And when I heard about this show, I told everyone I wanted to do it."

The no-tape special will be broadcast by ABC-TV from Madison Square Garden on Sunday evening, Oct. 13. It's Sinatra's second tv special since he gave up a self-imposed two-year retirement from show biz. Arledge, a major influence in network sports coverage ever since he joined ABC 14 years ago, was asked if he'd like to produce similar entertainment specials should the Sinatra show prove a hit.

"Yeah, I would very much like to do that," he replied without hesitation. "I don't want to leave sports, particularly, but I've wanted to do something like this for a long time."

"In fact, when I signed a new contract with ABC two years ago, it had a stipulation that I was allowed—in fact, encouraged—to do entertainment programs, whether movies or dramatic or variety shows."

"I really haven't had time until now to do any, because I've been tied up with so many things. But when this one came along, it was something I said I absolutely had to do."

Arledge, whose television career began at NBC, where he started as a stage manager and later produced or directed news, special events and entertainment shows, was asked if he has any other nonsports programs pending.

"No, not really," he said. "Part of my problem always is time. There are several movies—both made-for-tv and theatrical—I have been approached about producing, but I just haven't had the time."

"The main problem, particularly with feature films, is that they take so long. You've got to spend 10 weeks or three months on one, and I can't really do that and continue with what I'm doing now."

Peerless Prophet Produces Fearless Forecast For Fall

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — I see by the old clock of the wall it is time for the fall Fearless Forecast, the peerless prophesy which dares say which of the 24 new weekly tv series this season will prosper or poop out.

As in past seasons, the predictions are made without reference to Nielsen ratings or their civilian "equivalent, tea leaves."

We prepare the prophesy by taking a case of beer into the tv room, shutting the door and watching tv all week. Some times we turn the set on. Herewith, then, is this fall's Fearless Forecast:

SUNDAY — ABC's "Sonny Comedy Revue" is doomed, kaput, fini, and also won't survive.

MONDAY — CBS' "Rhoda" has many rotters and is in for a long, long run. NBC's "Born Free" will be cut free by December, leaving Elsa to wonder where her next gazelle is coming from.

WEDNESDAY — CBS' "Sons and Daughters" will go the way of the Mamas and the Pappas. "Manhunter" also will lose its way very soon.

At NBC, "Little House on the Prairie" will have its FHA loan foreclosed by spring; "Lucas Tanner" may teach at least two years, and "Petrocelli," about a lawyer, will win its hard-fought case for renewal. At ABC, "That's My Mama," set in a barbershop, will be clipped in December. "Get Christie Love" will be gotten-out-by then, also.

THURSDAY — NBC's "Sierra" will join the Donner party before the snow falls, but "Movin' On," a double-clutching version of the old "Route 66" series, will last a year and possibly move on to another.

At ABC, "Paper Moon" faces a pink-slip eclipse after one season, but "Harry O" is good for two years, maybe more.

FRIDAY — CBS' "Planet of the Apes" will slip on its own banana peels by December.

At NBC, "Chico and the Man," currently a hit show, will sag as the year wears on and last but one season. Not so with "The Rockford Files," destined to amiably amble, on for years. "Police Woman" will pay that bet I made on Pres-taken away before Christmas. At ABC, "Kodiak" faces immediate extinction, but "Texas Wheelers" may survive if its acid content isn't diluted—as happened two shows ago—and if it is moved to a different evening. "The Night Stalker" also needs a new night for stalking; wretched though it is, it has a bizarre charm that may keep it going if the change is made.

SATURDAY — CBS' "Paul Sand" show, about a young bass player, will string along for a season, then bow out. At ABC, "The New Land" will be subdivided and its tenants evicted before the spring corn ripens. "Nakia," about a Navajo deputy sheriff, may survive for a season, but only if better scripts emerge from the producer's hogan.

This concludes the Fearless Forecast. I must go now and for years. "Police Woman" will pay that bet I made on Pres-

Latin Americans 'Nouveau Riche' Of Southern Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A $16,000 silver Mercedes Benz sports car tooling around the Miami suburb of Coral Gables displays a sticker saying, "Latins are Loaded."

While the whimsical slogan may not be quite true for all 350,000 Latin Americans estimated to be living in the Miami area, it certainly applies to at least 50 millionaires and hundreds of others of slightly less modest means in South Florida.

The editor-publisher of Miami's newest daily newspaper is a wealthy Cuban exile, Alberto Diaz-Masvidal. Miami Mayor Maurice Ferre is a multimillionaire Puerto Rican, nephew of a former governor of the island.

Seven of the city's bank presidents are Cuban refugees. The elderly Cuban-born boss of the world's largest rum-making firm, Jose "Pepin" Bosch, is a parttime resident of Miami, where much of Ba-cardi's administrative operations are located.

Across the causeway on Miami Beach, Carlos Prio Socarras, the last constitutional president of Cuba, looks after vast real estate holdings and investments which continue to pile up the pesos.

Latins, in fact, have come to be the "nouveau riche" of South Florida in the past few years.

A Latin "Millionaires Row" stretches from Palm Beach down the Gold Coast through Miami and its luxurious satellite communities of Key Biscayne and Coral Gables.

Despite the inflation-recession syndrome gripping the country, Cubans in particular have acquired a local reputation for keeping the money moving—working hard to make it, but spending it easily—for clothes, cars, homes, furnishings and entertainment. You name it.

"These people don't know what inflation means," says the manager of a large downtown department store. "We love them. I'd say 60 to 75 per cent of our shoppers are Cubans. We've seen no drop in business from last year. In fact, we may be up."

While there are many rags-to-riches stories involving Latins, a number of the well-heeled managed to bring their fortunes with them and build upon them over the years.

For the Cubans, how much they have now may depend on when they got here and how much money they had outside the country—or were able to bring out—once Fidel Castro started "redistributing" their wealth.

With one out of every four Miami area residents being of Latin descent, they have a total annual income of about $1 billion, according to Richard Tobin of Strategy Research Corp.

Haircut Hearing Scheduled For Mass Murder Defendant

HOUSTON (AP) — A state judge has scheduled a hearing for next Monday on motions that David Owen Brooks, 19, a defendant in the Houston mass murder case, be given no more haircuts prior to his sanity hearing.

Ted Musick, Brooks' lawyer, contends his client was injured while being forced to have his hair cut in the county jail.

Musick asked District Court Judge William Hutton to dismiss the charges against Brooks or to order the sheriff's office not to cut Brooks' hair.

Brooks is being held without bond after being named in murder indictments involving four of the 27 victims of the 1972 sex-lectire murder. Brooks has a sanity hearing scheduled in Hutton's court Nov. 4.

Musick's motions are filed under the supervision of sheriff's deputies who had inmates drag Brooks from his cell and force him into a barber's chair.

Chief Sheriff's Deputy Gus George denied the charge. George said Brooks was not abused. He said Brooks did not want his hair cut but that haircuts are necessary in jail for cleanliness and sanitation.

Wired Jaws Resulting In Weight Loss

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — "A few people say I'm nuts," says Bobbie Manzella, who had her jaws wired shut because she got tired of being five feet tall and 235 pounds wide.

"Now I'm down to 200 pounds," she said two months after the operation. "I'm going to keep my jaws wired until I'm down to 115 pounds, which is what I weighed 18 years ago when I was married."

"It may take a year," she added.

"When I weighed 235 I never wanted to go out," she said. "I never wanted to do anything. I hated the way I looked. I was ashamed."

But now Mrs. Manzella has adjusted to eating everything through a straw and living without southern fried chicken and other fattening delicacies.

Mrs. Manzella said she got the idea of having the operation from a television report on an English woman who had her jaws wired shut to lose weight.

"I had tried clubs, crash diets, meat and salad diets, diet pills, even eating nothing for days but I couldn't stick to anything," she said.

So, after consulting with her husband and doctors, an oral surgeon tied her upper and lower teeth together with steel wires, the operation used when a person has a broken jaw.

With frequent checks by her family doctor to make sure she isn't shedding fat too quickly or is undernourished, Mrs. Manzella said, "I never felt better in my life."

Dole's Stepping Stone, Nixon's Defense, Becomes Political Millstone

By LEW FERGUSON
TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — As a freshman senator, Robert Dole of Kansas made a political name for himself as a strong defender of Richard M. Nixon's policies. His reward was the Republican national chairmanship.
 Now, Dole's stepping stone to national prominence has become a political millstone, and he finds himself in an uphill battle for re-election in a state that last elected a Democratic senator in 1938.
 Dole's Democratic opponent is Rep. William R. Roy, a lawyer and physician and former Republican who is completing his second term in the House.
 Well ahead of Roy in the polls last spring, Dole appears to be slipping behind as the Nov. 5 election nears.
 A poll by Central Research Corp. of Topeka released Sept. 22 gave Roy 50 per cent of the vote, Dole 42 per cent with 8 per cent undecided. That was a two-point gain for Roy in a month.

 "It's a tight race and I guess I am a little bit behind," concedes the 51-year-old Dole, who has never lost in 10 races starting with election to the state House of Representatives at age 26.
 Appearing with Roy Sunday on the CBS program "Face the Nation," Dole said that President Ford has now become a handicap for him. Republicans were encouraged when Ford took over, he said, but then "along came the pardon (of Nixon) and amnesty."
 "I don't need any more help of that kind before November," he added.
 Roy, 48, said he hasn't made an issue of Watergate in the Senate race. The Senate Watergate Committee, cleared Dole and the Republican National Committee of any involvement in the illegal activities carried on by the Committee for the Re-Election of the President.

 However, Roy said "many people think Sen. Dole, as Republican national chairman, knew or should have known about Watergate. I have no reason to believe that Sen. Dole knew," he added.
 Six years ago, Dole easily defeated Democrat William I. Robinson by 175,000 votes out of 875,000 cast to succeed Republican Sen. Frank Carlson, who retired.
 In January 1971, Dole was picked by Nixon for the party chairmanship and held the job for two years.
 Many Kansas Republicans feel Dole should not have taken the chairman's post. Some in the senator's home territory in thinly western Kansas complain they had difficulty in reaching him with their problems while he held the national party post.
 Dole says he thinks it was a plus for Kansas for him to ed farm funds, and adds the senator sponsored a bill to abolish the Department of Agriculture.

 Dole responds that he was seeking to curb government spending in the fight on inflation, and notes that, if re-elected, he will be the senior Republican on the Senate Agriculture Committee.
 Dole also has charged his Democratic rival with voting both ways on issues such as de-

Nurses Across Nation Begin Revolution To Get Recognition For Skills, Beliefs

By RON GEORGEFF
HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A cardiac patient in a hospital suddenly develops an irregular heart beat, so a nurse jumps into action to give medication or cardiac resuscitation.
 Technically, that nurse in Connecticut is violating the law. But what she is doing has become common in cardiac care units throughout the state.
 The disparity between actual practice and law is so extensive, according to one nursing organization official, that 95 per cent of nurses are working without statutory authority.
 An attempt to change the laws, planned in the next legislature, is just one indication of more fundamental change in nursing today. Nurses across the country have begun a "revolution" to gain recognition for their skills and beliefs.
No Longer Silent
 No longer do nurses want to be handmaidens to physicians, as they clearly indicated at the recent American Nurses Association convention in California. No longer are nurses passively accepting without question nursing regulations from physicians — and hospital administrators. And no longer are they remaining silent about pay, working conditions or staffing policies.
 "Nurses are seeking a collegial relationship with physicians and a larger role in the health care team," says Jean Bowen, president of the 3,000-member Connecticut Nurses Association (CNA) and director of Hartford Hospital School of Nursing.
 Pat Blake, CNA's director, says the days when a nurse snapped to attention for a doctor are gone, in part because of women's liberation.
 "The feminist movement has made a terrific impression on nursing," she said. "We're just beginning to realize how male-dominated we've been by physicians and administrators."

 Nurses aren't trying to take over physicians' roles, the spokeswoman emphasized. But they want to determine what is appropriate for nursing and to be recognized for their independent functions in law, and practice.
 Today, nurses are making more independent judgments in the care of patients.
New Class of Nurses
 Mary Donaho, director of nursing at Hartford Hospital, said nurses in intensive care regularly diagnose patients and implement life-saving care until the doctor arrives. In the out-patient department, nurses are the first ones to aid patients, she said, adding that the laws should reflect those critical duties.
 A new class of nurses, nurse practitioners, are being trained in at least four programs in the state, including Hartford Hospital, Yale and the University of Connecticut Health Center.
 Ann Carmine of Farmington has been a nurse practitioner for a year at Hartford Hospital. Working in a new primary care unit off the emergency room, she sees the nonemergency cases that come into the hospital, including sore throats, bug bites and common colds.
 She examines a patient for the specific complaint and is able to tell if he is suffering from a more complicated problem. A physician is always available but she calls on him only in more serious cases.
Central Issue
 The nursing profession's demand for authority to make such independent judgments is a central issue in the nursing revolution.
 "There are thousands of different medications a nurse has to know and a nurse often has to make a decision quickly before a physician comes," said Pat Blake.
 "In the smaller hospitals, you no longer have a house physician staff on duty 24 hours a day, so nurses take over some of their duties during physicians' off hours."
 The proposed revision of the Nurse Practices Act would give registered nurses the right to diagnose, counsel, teach, refer and collaborate in the total health care regimen. It broadens the current definition, which requires a nurse to act

"OPERATION OF THE HOLY SPIRIT"

Jesus promised the apostles that when He left He would send the Comforter to them. (Jn. 16:7) In Acts 2 we have the record of the Holy Spirit overwhelming them in complete fulfillment of that promise. The purpose of this "baptism with the Holy Spirit" was to guide them (the apostles) into all truth. As a result of this they were able to give Divine revelation (the New Testament) and confirm that revelation by miracles. Other than Cornelius (and we are told exactly why he received the baptism, Acts 10:34-47), no other individual ever received this measure of the Holy Spirit.

The 1 Corinthian letter, chapter 12, speaks of "spiritual gifts," but such came to those in the first century through the "laying on of the apostles' hands." (Acts 8:14-18) Only those who had received these special gifts could speak in tongues, etc. However, when the last apostle died all such gifts ceased. The reason? Because the complete New Testament had been given and confirmed as the Word of the Living God.

We have that word with us today. It is the New Testament. It is COMPLETE and furnishes the child of God unto EVERY good work. (2 Ti. 3:16,17) We cannot name one single thing that the personal indwelling of the Spirit can do that is not said that the Word can do!

Someone may ask, "Don't you believe that the Spirit dwells in the Christian?" My answer is, "Yes I do!" (Ro. 8:1) But I hasten to add the fact that "Christ also dwells in the Christian." (Ro. 8:10) and the "Word also dwells in the Christian." (Co. 3:16)

I must urge upon you, dear reader, that the Spirit works upon man and through man, but He works through the written Word. James declares that "the Word is able to save your souls." (Ja. 1:21) Paul says that the Scriptures "are able to make you wise unto salvation." (2 Ti. 3:15) and through the Scriptures we find "hope." (Ro. 15:4) Whatever man needs from God the Word furnishes that need! The Words of God possess a real, life-giving, sufficiency for every person who will believe them and obey them.
