Location is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 204, block 1, H&G survey, 1/2 mile south of a 6,978-foot failure and one mile west of the Duck Creek (Tannehill) field.

Coke Venture

Coquina Oil Corp., Midland, intends to drill No. 1 Copeland, a 5,000-foot venture in Coke County, four miles southwest of Blackwell.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,000 feet from west lines of section 278, block 1-A, H&TC survey, two miles southwest of the depleted Blackwell (Wolfcamp) field, and 3/4 mile southwest of a 6,601-foot failure.

Glasscock Tries

Diamond Shamrock Corp., Amarillo, has filed applications to drill two Wolfcamp tests in Glasscock County, seven miles southeast of Stanton.

No. 1-2 H. G. Cross, 1,326 feet from south and west lines of section 2, block 35, T-2-S, T&P survey, is two miles southeast of depleted production in the Gordon Street, South (Wolfcamp) field. Planned depth is 9,000 feet.

No. 1-45 Gordon Stone, 1,320 feet from south and east lines of section 45, block 35, T-1-S, T&P survey, is 3/4 mile northeast of marginal production in the Gordon Street, South field. Planned depth is 9,900 feet.

Eddy Test Flows Gas, Yields Fluid

David Fasken, Midland, No. 1-29 Howell-Federal, Eddy County, scheduled 9,800-foot Morrow test, 1/2 mile southwest of a recent extension to the Indian Basin field, was drilling ahead below 8,436 feet after taking a drillstem test in an unidentified formation.

Tool was open an unreported time on the test taken from 7,575-7,635 feet. Sour gas surfaced in 17 minutes, flowing after 45 minutes on a 1/2-inch choke at the rate of 1,051-million cubic feet and increasing to 1,607 million in an unreported time. After two hours, on a 3-18-inch choke, the gas rate was 2,356 million cubic feet per day. Recovery was 1,074 feet of unidentified fluid and 10 barrels of slightly gas-cut formation water.

The project is 1,300 feet from south and west lines of section 29-206-25e, 10 miles southwest of Lake Wood.

Spread Planned In Pecos Field

Atlantic Richfield Co. has made plans to re-enter and plug back to 11,200 feet at No. 1-55 J. O. Neal, former Atoka gas well, for recompletion attempt as a fifth 10,475-foot Mississippi producer and one-mile southeast extension to that pay in the Coyanosa field of Pecos County.

It spots 1,320 feet from south and west lines of section 55. (Continued On Page 11D)

City Oil Firm Wins Court Round

Injunction Issued Blocking FEA's Order On Buyers

A federal judge at San Antonio has issued an injunction against the Federal Energy Administration (FEA) blocking an order which barred a Midland independent oil concern from delivering oil to anyone except its "historical buyer."

The injunction, which will be in effect at least until a hearing is held by the Temporary Emergency Court of Appeals, allows Condon Operating Co. and its joint venturers to continue to deliver oil to the South Hampton Co. refinery near Silsbee. Attorneys for Condon believe it will be at least six weeks before the emergency court will hear the case.

The FEA had ordered Condon on Aug. 12 to halt deliveries of oil from an Ector County lease to South Hampton and to sell the crude to Phillips Petroleum Co. Condon's historical purchaser in this case.

In issuing the order to Condon, the FEA stated that Condon had violated part of FEA Regulation 211.63 dealing with deliveries to the historical purchaser. Section 211.63 requires that "all supplier-purchaser relationships in effect under contracts for sales, purchases and exchanges of domestic crude oil in effect Dec. 1, 1973, shall remain in effect for the duration of this program (Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act)."

Condon appealed to the FEA for a stay of that order and was refused. The Midland concern then went directly to the Midland-Odessa Division of the U.S. District Court, Western District of Texas. Judge John H. Wood Jr. of San Antonio was assigned the case and last week ruled against the order issued by the FEA and its administrator, John C. Sawhill. Judge Wood ruled that "the plaintiffs have not violated FEA's Section 211.63 regulation (See INJUNCTION Page 6A)

Winning Slogan Selected

A 10-year-old girl was stunned into silence Wednesday afternoon when members of the Midland Bi-Centennial Commission announced she had written the slogan which would be used for all the Tall City's 200th year fanfare. "Enjoy Your Freedom — It's America's Birthday," chosen from entries submitted by fifth and sixth grade students all over the city, was penned by Paula Robbins, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ray Robbins of 4007 Anetta Drive. A fifth grade student in Ruth Bush's class at Burnet Elementary School, she was presented a $25 savings bond supplied by Gibson Discount Center for creating the winning slogan. The announcement was made Wednesday afternoon in her classroom with her parents, who had been alerted to the news, waiting outside. Mrs. Harvey Heed, chairman of the committee for school involvement and board treasurer for the commission, made the presentation. She was assisted by Mrs. Katy Linehan, commission executive director. The contest winner is described by her school principal, Clin (See SLOGAN Page 6A)

Terrorists Drop Most Of Demands

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Terrorists holding an American woman diplomat and six others hostage for almost a week said today they were abandoning demands for $1 million ransom and release of political prisoners.

Declaring that conditions inside the besieged Venezuelan Consulate had become intolerable for both terrorists and their hostages, the terrorists' leader said the gunmen now would accept safe conduct out of the country to Mexico or Peru.

The guerrilla chief, Radames Mendez Vargas, made a dramatic appearance from a window of the consulate and read his new stand to police and newsmen.

The Dominican government earlier suspended negotiations with the terrorists.

"The archbishop is not coming again," an assistant chief of police said. "There will be no more negotiations."

"If they want to be tough, we'll be tough," the national police chief, Gen. Rafael Guzman Acosta, told local radio stations. He was apparently referring to a statement from the terrorists that their demands were not negotiable.

They have demanded $1 million and safe conduct to Cuba and Mexico for themselves and 37 political prisoners. President Joaquin Balaguer has agreed only to send the terrorists in the consulate — believed to number six — out of the country.

A bottle containing notes addressed to the U.S. and Spanish ambassadors was thrown out of the consulate Wednesday afternoon. The notes were delivered, but their contents were not disclosed.

Natural Gas Crisis Looms

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

Public utilities are warning businesses across the country that they may not get natural gas for heating this winter. Some utilities are refusing to accept new customers, industrial or residential.

An Associated Press survey showed there is a shortage of natural gas in almost every area, with the East Coast apparently facing the most severe problem. Natural gas provides 31 per cent of the energy used in the country.

Spokesmen for the utilities and some state officials blame the Federal Power Commission for the shortage. They say the FPC ceiling price for natural gas is too low and discourages exploration. "The companies need more money to explore and get additional gas," said George I. Bloom, chairman of the Pennsylvania Public Utilities Commission.

Other officials note that as fuel oil became more expensive, many people switched to natural gas, boosting the demand over a short period of time without development of new supplies.

Last June, the FPC revised its pricing system for natural gas, replacing a series of regional limits with a single national price of 42 cents per 1,000 cubic feet for so-called "new" gas from wells that began operation after Jan. 1, 1973. Previously, the price ranged from 19.9 to 34 cents per 1,000 cubic feet and averaged 27 cents, the commission said.

The government action was expected to mean another boost in prices for consumers who already are paying more than last year. A spokesman for Minnesota Gas Co. said, for example, that rates for residential customers are 12 to 14 per cent higher than last year and industrial customers are paying 30 per cent more than they did in 1973.

The shortage will hit hardest at "interruptible" customers — large industrial users whose contracts call for them to be cut off in times of trouble. These customers make arrangements for alternate sources of energy like heating oil. Cold weather frequently has meant cutoffs for the "interruptibles" in the past and officials say the situation will be worse this year.

Most utilities said, residential customers and high-priority users like hospitals and schools would not be affected by the shortage. But some companies are trying to discourage new customers.

Ex-Nixon Aides Leaving White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former aides of Richard M. Nixon are not being pressured to get off the White House payroll, but are beginning to leave on their own, says President Ford's chief spokesman.

The resignations of six hold-over aides were disclosed Wednesday, and Press Secretary Ron Nessen said others would be leaving soon. Nessen emphasized Ford has set no deadline for their departure.

The Wednesday resignations listed by Nessen were special counsel Richard Moore, special assistants David Wimer and David Parker, speechwriter Noel Koch and deputy special assistants Bruce Hershensohn and the Rev. John McLaughlin.

Panel Proposes State Not To Enact No-Fault Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — The Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs' long-awaited report on no-fault car insurance was issued today with a conclusion that the legislature should not enact a no-fault bill. Instead, the team of students and faculty members recommended that the present optional "personal injury protection" coverage be made mandatory and that all drivers be forced to carry bodily injury liability policies. Traffic victims would remain absolutely free to file suit against the drivers who injured them. No-fault would replace the present liability system, which generates hundreds of lawsuits a year, with something like homeowners or hospitalization coverage in which one collects exclusively from his own insurance company. The 1973 legislature, under pressure from the State Bar of Texas and the Texas Trial

Lawyers Association, passed a law requiring insurance companies to offer first-party "personal injury protection" (PIP) coverage in lieu of the usual medical payments coverage. Policyholders have the right to reject PIP, however. Personal injury protection (See NO-FAULT Page 6A)

State Weather Settles Into Fall Pattern

Texas weather settled today into a fall pattern of mild days and cool nights which promised to last through the weekend. Skies remained clear at all but two or three points this morning as light south and southeast breezes fanned the state. The weatherman promised clear to partly cloudy skies for Midland and surrounding area this afternoon, tonight and Friday, with temperatures climbing into the low 80s today and again Friday. The overnight low will be in the mid 50s.

Earthquake Hits Peru

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A violent earthquake jolted central Peru today, causing extensive damage and panic. Radio reports said three persons were killed and 38 injured in Canete, 120 miles south of Lima.

Radio Cruz del Sur said almost half the houses in the city were unsafe because of cracked walls and water seepage. Canete has a population of about 5,000.

There was no immediate official report on casualties. The quake struck at 9:51 a.m. CDT and another tremor hit five minutes later.

Electricity and gas supplies were cut off for about an hour. Radio reports said many houses collapsed, crushing a number of people.

In Lima, people were struck with terror as signs and masonry fell. At least six old houses in the downtown area collapsed.

United Way Drive Reaches 44 Per Cent

Midland's United Way campaign volunteers have thus far gathered in $238,030, they learned at noon today at their third report meeting.

The pledges and contributions represent 44.3 per cent of this year's goal of $538,400, campaign Chairman Bill Malone announced.

Special recognition was given to Rocky Ford Moving Vans employees. They received an Award of Excellence, which was accepted by W. S. Hatchell, sales manager. Preston Ross, a United Way loaned executive from Rocky Ford, participated in the presentation.

Volunteers were entertained by the further adventures of Pearl V. Chastity, a fictitious Midlander who "gets involved" with the 19 United Way agencies.

A sandwich lunch was served by volunteers from the Senior Citizens Center. The meeting was at The First National Bank.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford said today his wife is doing "very, very well" and is about two or three days ahead of what the doctors predicted as the rate of recovery from her breast cancer surgery.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House conferees agreed today to a money bill amendment under which U.S. military aid could be suspended to Turkey.

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon angrily cursed at a news photographer who tried to photograph him in a hospital corridor today, the photographer and witnesses said.

Friday Last Day To Register To Vote

Friday is the last day to register to vote in the Nov. 5 general election. Elmo Lineberger, Midland County tax assessor-collector, said his office would remain open until 5 p.m. minute crush since registrations are permanent now.

To maintain his registration, a person must vote in at least one general or primary election every three years.

All citizens at least 18 years old are eligible after 30 days' residency in the state. Teenagers may register Friday if they will be 18 within 30 days.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Wants New Shoes To Smell Sweetly

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Association

DEAR POLLY — We would greatly appreciate getting some answers from anyone who has found a remedy for removing the odor from new deerskin shoes. — MRS. R.S.

DEAR POLLY — One of my worst Pet Peeves is the deliberate rudeness of automobile drivers. One that burns me up is when I am getting ready to pull into a parking place and another car eases up at the side. The driver knows I am waiting to pull in, but pulls right into the space just as if no one was there. The driver gets out, looks you straight in the face and without a word walks right—into the store. — FRANCES.

DEAR POLLY — My answer is for Mrs. E.E.F. who would like to keep her new aluminum pans shiny-looking. For such pans, measuring cups, etc., that have turned dark from use she can submerge them in a large pan of water to which a generous amount of cream of tartar has been added and boil.

All will be bright again. (Polly's note—Two teaspoons to each quart of water is about right). — MRS. T.H.C.

DEAR POLLY — Our cat likes to nibble frequently but leaving her food on the floor attracted ants. To remedy this I put her saucer of food in the center of an eight-inch soup dish and fill the soup bowl with water up to the saucer so the ants cannot get to the food. The ant problem is eliminated by the same principle as a moat around a castle to keep out the invading enemy. — RUTH.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for others who move frequently as we do. The windows in the various houses we rent are never the same size. To eliminate much sewing (which I hate to do) or buying new draperies each time which is too expensive I found a quick and easy way to hem my draperies. Then they are just as easy to let down when needed. Simply tape the hems in. The first time I used masking tape and the next time I had no masking tape so used gray duct tape and it worked nicely, too.

Also I want to share a trick I learned concerning washable white double knit blouses or any such garments that acquire spots that will not come out. I boiled one of mine in color remover until the spot was gone, washed it in fabric whitener and hung it in the sun to dry. I was ready to throw away two white blouses and a pants suit before I discovered this. — PATRICIA.

Midland Artist's Exhibit Planned

The Midland Woman's Club will have a tea from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday in the clubhouse honoring Jim Tidmore, Midland artist, who will have a display of his paintings in the club during October. The public is invited to the tea and exhibit.

Tidmore studied art, particularly fine arts, commercial art, architecture, interior and fashion design. He has degrees from the Art Institute and Ray-Vogue Schools in Chicago, Ill., and North Texas State University, with additional studies with other teachers and schools.

Art work by Tidmore has won regional, state and national competitions. His paintings hang in many private collections and his murals decorate many homes. He is an accomplished cloisonne jeweler and was the only male to demonstrate and exhibit his work in the Women's Pavilion during Hemis-Fair '68. He designed and executed the Christmas decorations at Central Park Mall in San Antonio in 1969, and in 1970 was commissioned to design and arrange all displays at the Witte Confluence Museum at Hemis-Fair Plaza.

Tidmore, a prolific artist, is one of few artists who have achieved technical excellence in painting artificial light, and his candlelight and kerosene lamp paintings are recognized widely as contemporary masterpieces.

Attend Convention

Mrs. Velma Brown, Mrs. Helen Harpham of Jal, N.M., and Mr. and Mrs. J. Wayne Campbell recently returned from Portland, Ore., where they attended the convention of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees. The four were guests of the Fort Worth Chapter of Retired Federal Employees for a chartered trip to Oregon.

Company Promotes Physical Fitness

A Midland oil firm is supporting the physical fitness program conducted by the Women's Health Club of the Central YMCA by providing memberships in the club to its female employes.

John F. Dorn, who is associated with Forest Oil Corp., in a recent interview, revealed that 11 women employes in his company are taking advantage of the company's program. Believing physical fitness is fine for everyone, Dorn said he investigated providing memberships for women, as well as men, employes, in the programs at the Midland Y, as is done by the San Antonio offices of the oil company. The firm's sponsorship of memberships in Midland began in May. Dorn also stated the fitness programs provide employes with a morale boost and improve workmanship.

Mrs. Jim Reynolds, director of the Women's Health Club, is in charge of the women's classes, which are held at 12 noon Tuesdays and Thursdays in the club. According to Mrs. Reynolds, Tuesday is a dance exercise class, consisting of a warm-up period to prepare joints and muscles of participants for a vigorous workout. During the dance exercise conditioning period, there are 15 to 20 minutes of continuous movement. The level of exertion varies with individual fitness level and each woman is encouraged to work to her optimum training level, determined by her pulse rate. The Tuesday class is designed primarily to increase endurance and all-over fitness. It also is excellent for toning muscles and losing weight.

The Thursday class, according to Mrs. Reynolds, consists of exercises designed to tone and shape every part of the body. Correct execution of exercise is stressed, and, since women have weak abdominal muscles or weak backs, special emphasis is placed on exercises for these areas.

Fitness tests are given to each woman to determine her level of fitness. Blood pressure and pulse rates are taken before and after the tests. The level of fitness is determined by a women's fitness rating prepared by Dr. Brian J. Sharkey of the Human Performance Laboratory at the University of Montana. Women in the class are taught to take their post-exercise pulse rates. The pulse rate is an excellent gauge for determining the ideal intensity and duration for each woman. Beginners start working at 60 per cent of their target rate and gradually increase to 80

Home Freezers Hottest-Selling Major Appliances

By WILLIAM DIMASCIO
 PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Home freezers are the hottest selling major appliance in this inflation-wracked year, marketing reports show.

State University showed that the edible portion of a side of beef bought in bulk actually costs 34 cents a pound more than if the same meat were bought separately at supermarket prices.

Maddox To Open New Restaurant

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox, defeated in an attempt to regain Georgia's governorship, says he plans to open a new version of the restaurant that he closed to keep from integrating.

Maddox, 59, gained the attention that launched his political career by chasing blacks from his Pickrick Restaurant with ax handles.

Meaning Changes
 The prima donna was originally the singer of the principal role in 18th century opera. It was not until the 19th century that the term gained the meaning of a conceited and capricious operatic star.

Book Black Market Flourishes In Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union boasts it is the world's largest publisher—yet there is a book shortage that has spawned a flourishing black market for a public hungry for literature.

"Now, as never before, it is difficult to buy a good book although they are issued in bigger numbers than ever before," the Writer's Union newspaper, Literary Gazette, lamented recently.

Moscow's "House of Books," which Russians say is Europe's largest bookstore, has counters on its two floors that would stretch a mile if placed end to end. But clerks there routinely tell customers: "No Tolstol, no Dostoyevsky, no Pushkin, no Chekov" — all Russian classics that are easier to find in Helsinki, Finland, or Berkeley, Calif., than in Moscow.

The reason there is a shortage of these classics is that the printings are not big enough to meet public demand. Printings of these and other books are not big enough because the paper industry simply doesn't produce enough.

Of the printing paper available, a huge share goes for ideological and propaganda works that are given priority by the Communist party. There also is what Literary Gazette calls waste.

It recently criticized publishing houses for putting out "fantastically big issues" of unwanted books.

In Tashkent, a publishing house issued 600,000 copies of the novel "The Headless Horseman" by Wayne Reid and most piled up in stores and warehouses unsold, the newspaper said.

It added that one Moscow publishing house put out 30,000 copies of its own publishing plan for 1973 and nobody wanted them.

"On the same paper, they could have printed Pushkin's children's stories and would have paid for the book," Literary Gazette said.

Authors such as Mikhail Bulgakov and poet Osip Mandelstam who pose ideological problems for Soviet literary czars were issued last year in tiny editions. But there was no public sale in the Soviet Union and they are best purchased in New York, Copenhagen or some other Western cities where a large share of the copies were shipped.

The Soviet book publishing scene is replete with such ironies. Among the greatest is that Soviet literature is best known abroad for authors like Solzhenitsyn or Pasternak whose novels are not published here for political reasons.

Like most enterprises in the Soviet Union, publishing is run by the state and books and their authors are supposed to serve the state. Thus scientific and technical literature along with Marxist-Leninist works on politics and economics get first call over other nonfiction, fiction and poetry, whose range is narrowed even further by censorship.

That's one more reason that books of real appeal to average readers are in short supply.

Texas State Fair Opens This Friday

DALLAS (AP) — Big-time rodeo, college football classics and a hit Broadway musical highlight the 89th annual State Fair of Texas opening this weekend for a 17-day run.

The 1974 "Exposition of the West," the fair's theme this year, also includes livestock and horse shows, cooking contests, parades, bands, exhibits and midway rides and sideshows.

The fair is the nation's largest annual exposition, attracting more than three million visitors to the 250 landscaped acres of the State Fairgrounds.

The cowboys will be at the fair Oct. 5-13 when bulldoggers, bronc riders and steer ropers will tangle in a flurry of action and spills during nine evening performances at the coliseum.

Representing the Rodeo Cowboys Association, the rodeo performers will be competing for more than $50,000 in prize money.

At the opposite end of the fairgrounds at the music hall, Debbie Reynolds stars as the little Irish piano tuner in the Broadway musical "Irene." Along with a supporting cast, Miss Reynolds dances her way through 20 evening and matinee performances beginning Friday.

More than 250 exhibitors will participate in this year's fair.

officials say. They range from a violin maker in the Texas Crafts Village to a massive display of 1975 automobiles.

The Pan-American Livestock Exposition from Oct. 5-13 will attract cattlemen and stock breeders from throughout the world to its auctions and sales. Horse shows for eight breeds will be presented in the coliseum.

Entertainment echoes from numerous outdoor stages and from the big red and white striped circus tent.

This year fair visitors will preview the "Midway of the Future"—a recently rebuilt 365-foot long pedestrian mall with new lighting, flagpoles, redesigned stands, improved paving and landscaping.

Approximately 100,000 contest items will be judged by the Women's Department.

A lineup of four college football games in the Cotton Bowl will reach a peak at 2 p.m. Oct. 12 when 72,000 fans cram in to view the annual, tradition-steeped Texas-Oklahoma battle.

Southern Methodist University meets Oregon State in the first of a doubleheader this Saturday followed by Prairie View A&M against Grambling University. SMU concludes the grid clashes Oct. 19 against Rice in a Southwest Conference game.

Average Home Price Up Drastically In Decade

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The biggest components in the selling price of a new, single-family house are generally considered to be the cost of construction materials, 22 per cent, land, 25 per cent, and labor, about 15 per cent.

Since the price of all three has risen sharply in the past few years, so has the sales price of the average new house—from $30,500 in 1972, to $35,500 last year, according to The Conference Board.

Over a 10-year period to 1973, states the board, a business and economic research organization, the price of comparable new homes rose 84 per cent. It cites Federal Home Loan Bank Board figures to indicate that the price tags on existing homes doubled in the same period.

Bit now the catch. With mortgage money tight and with many families unable to come up with the substantial down payments required, the housing market has shriveled almost to nothingness in many areas.

This means the proud homeowner who brags about his hedge against inflation — "I can get double what I paid for my house" — may be living in an illusory world. If there isn't a market, how can there be a selling price?

True, when the market comes alive again, he might obtain double his money. But if he were to sell today, he might find that big price tag cannot be converted into dollar bills.

Even before the economic summery of the past month, the subject of credit allocation was being discussed in banking and housing circles, among others.

Advocates of allocation claimed that some deserving sections of the economy, such as housing, were being starved for funds because they couldn't pay the price. Allocation of credit by price alone was unfair, they said.

The arguments against allocation by other criteria, such as social good or greater productivity, were immediately attacked by economists and financial men. Controls on credit, they claimed, would only make matters worse.

Elderly Japanese Changing Lifestyle

By STEVE WILSON

TOKYO (AP) — Quarreling with the kids and crowding in tiny apartments are problems that confront many old people in Japan, but not Mrs. Asa Koizumi, one of the few Japanese living in an old people's home.

She is typical of a growing number of Japanese who are breaking with the traditional Asian custom which demands that aged parents live with their children.

The changing attitudes between generations often make it hard for old and young Japanese to get along together. And, as in the case of Mrs. Koizumi, there isn't enough room in many crowded apartments for the elderly.

Japan's population is aging with unusual speed and the trend is expected to put more pressure on the government for improved welfare programs while burdening the economy with more nonproductive consumers. Both the political and economic changes are expected to be profound, according to various experts.

Mrs. Koizumi is an 83-year-old grandmother with deep wrinkles and strong, steady hands. She is healthy and able to move easily about her modest traditional straw-mat room and the various buildings where she lives at the Shisei Old People's home. It is in Tachikawa, a city on the western outskirts of Tokyo.

The widow moved into the home 10 years ago. Before that she had been living with her eldest son, his wife and their two children in a three-room apartment in Hachioji west of Tachikawa. The apartment's biggest room was only about 8-by-10 feet and the smallest of the three rooms was like a walk-in closet in a Western home.

She said she thinks that it is the duty of children to take care of their parents, but she is not sure that means they must live in the same home.

Mrs. Koizumi gets a monthly pension of 6,500 yen ($22 U.S.) from the national and local government. Her four children share in paying the monthly bill of 10,000 yen (about $34) for their mother's room. The home also gets another 30,000 yen ($103) in government subsidies for each resident like Mrs. Koizumi, according to its operators.

The home also has rooms where elderly couples can live together. In another of the cement buildings, four men or four women share each room because they cannot afford one of their own.

About 100,000 people, or two per cent of the 12 million Japanese over 60 years of age, now live in old people's homes. But the number has doubled in 10 years and is expected to continue growing sharply, said Mitsuo Isomura, head of the National Social Welfare Council.

The percentage of old people is rising so sharply in Japan because of the decline in birth and death rates after World War II. It means that the percentage of Japanese over 60 will more than double from 8 to 18 per cent in the 40 years from 1955 to 1995, according to government estimates. That is much quicker than in most Western nations where the birth and death rates have tapered off more slowly. Isomura said.

Two Swedish Authors Share Nobel Prize For Literature

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Two Swedish authors in their 70s, literary giants in their own country but little known abroad, shared the 1974 Nobel Prize for Literature today. Eyvind Johnson, 74, was cited for a "narrative art, farseeing in lands and ages, in the service of freedom," and Harry Martinson, 70, for poems and other works that "catch the dewdrop and reflect the cosmos."

U.S. Prepares Contingency Plans In Event Of Coal Miners' Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is preparing contingency plans to divert some coal supplies from electric utilities and to embargo coal exports in the event of a miners' strike next month. These are among several measures outlined in a memo from the Federal Energy Administration to the Interior Department. A copy was obtained by The Associated Press. The planning considers requiring electric utility companies to sell up to 40 per cent of their new coal deliveries to other industries, possibly under federal allocation and price control. A government official involved in the planning said the moves under consideration would be unlikely to result in power brownouts or blackouts or electrical rate increases. The moves are designed to preserve jobs and to prevent production cutbacks in other industries, the official said.

It occurred, lasted several weeks. Contract talks in the soft-coal industry began a month ago and negotiators for the United Mine Workers and the coal companies have until Nov. 12 to reach agreement before the current pact expires.

Energy experts estimate a fully effective coal strike would deny the nation three times as much energy on a daily basis as the oil embargo did last winter. The tentative plans for coping with a possible coal strike would deny the nation three times as much energy on a daily basis as the oil embargo did last winter.

Attorneys Ask Nixon Be Excused From Testifying

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for former President Richard M. Nixon asked U.S. District Judge John Sirica today to excuse Nixon from testifying in the Watergate cover-up trial. The request was made in two motions to quash subpoenas issued for Nixon's appearance at the trial by one of the defendants and by the government. Sirica refused to state the grounds cited in the motions but they were believed to claim that Nixon's health will not permit him to travel for at least a month.

trial on criminal charges of obstructing justice. In making the claim of newly discovered evidence the prosecutors said they may add other names to the list of alleged conspirators.

The five defendants, John D. Ehrlichman, H. R. Haldeman, John N. Mitchell, Kenneth W. Parkinson and Robert C. Maridian, appeared to take the snail's pace in stride. With the jury selection process not half completed, it appeared that the first testimony in the trial will not come until the middle of next week at the earliest. Rival Forces Converge But the forces that will shape the trial continued to converge, nonetheless. Richard M. Nixon's lawyers were expected to ask Sirica to excuse the former President from testifying at the trial on grounds that his health will not permit it.

And Ehrlichman posed a new problem for the judge: a claim that trial for conspiracy and obstruction of justice will place him in double jeopardy since Ehrlichman already stands convicted in the plumbers case.

The prosecutors' memorandum said the new evidence made it necessary to add one co-conspirator to the list drawn up by the Watergate grand jury. It did not name the person. Former Nixon Counsel But a source close to the case confirmed the man is Richard A. Moore, the former special counsel to Nixon, who testified at the Senate Watergate hearings that he urged John W. Dean III to tell the cover-up story to the President. Moore, who had been a hold-over in the Ford administration, resigned Wednesday. The prosecutor's office had included Moore on its list of 44 prospective witnesses, largely because he was involved in some of the taped conversations that will be introduced into evidence.

At the time of his Senate appearance in July a year ago, the white-haired Moore was represented by Herbert J. Miller, retained by Nixon after his resignation.

Besides recommending compulsory PIP and liability coverage, the LBJ school also recommended a provision that would prohibit a traffic victim from "stacking" benefits—collecting from his PIP, his hospitalization and the other driver's liability insurance for the same expenses. The study was made at the request of the State Board of Insurance. Board chairman Joe Christie said at a news conference that the board would make no "spur of the moment decisions" on whether to recommend that the legislature enact the plan submitted by the LBJ school. The report said it was impossible to conclude, based on the evidence available, that a no-fault system would reduce auto insurance premiums. It rejected no-fault primarily on the ground that it would take away from accident victims the right to sue for "pain and suffering."

Iranian Says End Of Cheap Oil Will Change Lifestyles For Many Nations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The end of cheap oil will force the industrialized nations to change their lifestyles, Iran's finance minister says. Hushang Ansary has been the only man to answer the scores of finance ministers who have complained for three days here about the disastrous effects wrought on their economies by the four-fold increase in oil prices. "Once cheap oil is no longer available, you have to do something: either lower your standard of living, forget about excessive consumption and about waste being an important basis of your economy, or you have to increase productivity, or both," Ansary said. "But how can you do it if you have social problems in your 'permissive society' ... with strikes every other day?" Ansary asked. It was not known whether officials of other oil producing nations will follow him before the World Bank and International Monetary Fund meeting, which ends Friday. Yet Ansary does not consider himself the spokesman of the oil producers. He spoke Tuesday as his country's finance minister and as governor of the World Bank for Iran, he stressed in an interview. "The industrial countries must recognize that as cheap oil and other raw materials are no longer available, the situation calls either for a change in lifestyles or an effort to do away with social ills and increase productivity," he told a hushed audience on Tuesday. "What did he have in mind?" Ansary was asked. "It boils down to this," he re-

State Textbook Panel Passes Over Controversial Series From Heath

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The State Textbook Committee entered its second day of balloting today after passing over a controversial series of language and grammar books Wednesday. D. C. Heath & Co.'s "Communicating" text for first-graders received six votes from the 15-member committee on the first ballot but never got more than two votes on nine subsequent ballots. Some parents in Kanawha County, W.Va., have withheld their children from school in protest against the Heath series for grades 1-6. The textbook committee selected four texts on the first ballot, then voted nine more times before it could pick the fifth book, published by Harper. One of those who defended Heath's books was Mrs. Gwendolyn H. Shelton of Austin, a committee member, who said criticism about violence in the books is unrealistic. "For example, a cougar is depicted as killing a deer by snapping its neck with its jaws," she said. "That's natural."

WTU President Resigns Position

ABILENE — Roff W. Hardy, president of the board of directors for the West Texas Utilities Co., Wednesday afternoon announced his resignation as a director and president of the company effective Jan. 1, 1975. Hardy, who has been company president since 1965, made the announcement following a board of directors meeting. Earlier in the day, Central Power and Light Co.'s board of directors had elected him a director, effective immediately, and chief executive officer, effective Jan. 1, 1975, at their meeting in Corpus Christi. R. E. Kennedy was elected by the WTU board to succeed Hardy as chairman and executive officer, with Durwood Chalker to take over as president of the company, both effective Jan. 1, 1975.

court series because he said it was the only one that gave the traditional approach to grammar. John Bizilo of Midland also opposed Turner. "Calling a spade a spade, our people (text readers and advisers in his district) called Harcourt dead last because it was traditional," he said. In the end, the committee rejected both Harcourt and Heath in favor of Harper. A sales representative for Harper swung his fist in a victory salute when the vote was announced. Final decisions on which books to adopt will be made Nov. 9 by the State Board of Education. School districts then may choose any one of the five books approved for each subject.

The study was made at the request of the State Board of Insurance. Board chairman Joe Christie said at a news conference that the board would make no "spur of the moment decisions" on whether to recommend that the legislature enact the plan submitted by the LBJ school. The report said it was impossible to conclude, based on the evidence available, that a no-fault system would reduce auto insurance premiums. It rejected no-fault primarily on the ground that it would take away from accident victims the right to sue for "pain and suffering."

Alvarez Conviction Overturned; New Trial Ordered Here

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has overturned the murder conviction here of Julian Alvarez of Lubbock and ordered a new trial. Alvarez — convicted Nov. 18, 1971, in 142nd District Court here for the Sept. 5, 1971, murder of Jesse Molinar of Midland — has been returned to the Midland County Jail. He remained there today in lieu of a $5,000 bond set by Judge Perry Rickett. Alvarez was returned from the prison at Huntsburg, where he was serving a 35-year sentence for the murder. No date has been set for the new trial.

Iranian Says End Of Cheap Oil Will Change Lifestyles For Many Nations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The end of cheap oil will force the industrialized nations to change their lifestyles, Iran's finance minister says. Hushang Ansary has been the only man to answer the scores of finance ministers who have complained for three days here about the disastrous effects wrought on their economies by the four-fold increase in oil prices. "Once cheap oil is no longer available, you have to do something: either lower your standard of living, forget about excessive consumption and about waste being an important basis of your economy, or you have to increase productivity, or both," Ansary said. "But how can you do it if you have social problems in your 'permissive society' ... with strikes every other day?" Ansary asked. It was not known whether officials of other oil producing nations will follow him before the World Bank and International Monetary Fund meeting, which ends Friday. Yet Ansary does not consider himself the spokesman of the oil producers. He spoke Tuesday as his country's finance minister and as governor of the World Bank for Iran, he stressed in an interview. "The industrial countries must recognize that as cheap oil and other raw materials are no longer available, the situation calls either for a change in lifestyles or an effort to do away with social ills and increase productivity," he told a hushed audience on Tuesday. "What did he have in mind?" Ansary was asked. "It boils down to this," he re-

Injunction Blocks FEA 'Buyer' Order

(Continued From Page 1A) and that the plaintiffs may not legally and constitutionally be mandatorily enjoined and required to sell to Phillips Petroleum Co. the crude oil which plaintiffs have elected under their contract with Phillips to take and own in kind and now desire to refine products for marketing for the plaintiffs' own account. Judge Wood, in granting the injunction, said he did not believe the FEA regulation, issued under the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act of 1973, was "intended or meant to prevent plaintiffs from using their own private property in an effort to alleviate the domestic emergency crisis except that plaintiffs are limited to a sales price in its unrefined crude state not to exceed $5.28 per barrel." Judge Wood added that the regulation in question did not in any manner "require plaintiffs to produce, market and sell its oil ... to any one particular individual purchaser exclusively, including Phillips Petroleum Co." The judge said the FEA order of Aug. 12, 1974, is "arbitrary, unreasonable, discriminatory, capricious, is further contrary to congressional mandate and is wanting in statutory authority."

Three Receive Probated Terms

Three men received probated sentences this morning after entering guilty pleas in Judge Perry Pickett's 142nd District Court. Richard Goodgion, 2615 Mariana St., was given a five-year probated term for the April 12 theft of lumber from Harold Shull of Midland. Gary Tucker, 3710 Gaston St., also was given a five-year probated term in connection with the same offense. John Lawler, 818 N. Baird St., received a one-year probated term and a $100 fine for a theft from a Kent Service Station here Nov. 23, 1973.

Judge To Inspect Documents Withheld From Federal Grand Jury In Airlines Case

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Documents withheld from a federal grand jury here were ordered Wednesday to be turned over to a U.S. magistrate for inspection.

U.S. Dist. Judge Adrian A. Spears ordered papers withheld by attorneys of Braniff International and Texas International airlines to produce the documents within 10 days.

The attorneys had been withholding the papers because of claims of "attorney-client privilege."

Spears ordered the attorneys to submit all the documents along "with an explanatory statement setting forth the reason(s) for non-disclosure of each document."

U.S. Magistrate John Giles will examine all documents and determine if they do indeed violate the attorney-client relationship, Spears ordered.

During the past 23 months, federal grand jurors here have been probing if Braniff and Texas International tried to prevent Southwest Airlines from entering the Texas market.

Giles has been given 30 days to determine if the documents should be submitted to the grand jurors or returned to the attorneys, Spears said.

Spears' order is in response to a motion filed earlier by the government asking a judge to determine the validity of the attorney's claim.

Documents handled by Giles will be "fully protected by the magistrate," until his decision is reached, Spears added.

A Braniff attorney has withheld "as many as 200 pages or more of documents" from the grand jurors, the government contends.

An attorney representing Texas International has failed to turn over an "unknown number" of records in connection with the grand jury investigation, according to the government.

Both attorneys have failed to comply with a request by the government that records be given to the grand jury members, the government contended earlier.

Graham Crusade In Brazil Opens With Empty Seats

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury joined Billy Graham for the opening of the American evangelist's Brazilian crusade, but less than half the vast Maracana stadium was filled.

Graham filled Maracana, the world's largest soccer stadium, with an estimated 200,000 people for a rally in 1960. There were 85,000 on hand Wednesday night for the first meeting in the five-day crusade Graham is holding in predominantly Roman Catholic Brazil.

"Many of our world leaders are warning about a third world war," Graham said. "Man has proven himself to be a moral failure. God is the only hope at this hour."

"Jesus is knocking at your door. You must open the door and let him in. You must be willing to change your whole life. You must repent to turn your life away from sin."

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, spoke of the need for Christian unity.

"The spread of the gospel is hindered by the divisions among Christians," he said. "It is possible and necessary for all Christian churches to work and pray together."

Gunman Kills Woman, Wounds Daughter, 17

WACO, Tex. (AP) — A flurry of gunfire killed Aurora Villareal, 60, and wounded her daughter Connie, 17, outside their home Wednesday night.

Police said Mrs. Villareal and her daughter had just returned from a food store and were alighting from a car when an unidentified assailant started shooting.

Six shots struck the mother, and her daughter was wounded twice, in the right arm and abdomen. Officers said they had learned no motive for the shooting and the gunman was being sought.

Boston High School Opens Quietly

BOSTON (AP) — South Boston High School opened quietly today. It was closed an hour early Wednesday after a fight between black and white pupils in the school cafeteria.

Citywide school attendance rose again Wednesday with 80.2 per cent of the students attending classes on the 15th day of court-ordered busing to achieve racial balance. On Tuesday, 79.2 per cent attended school, the school department reported.

Seven pupils and three teachers were injured slightly in the fight at South Boston's cafeteria. One witness, Kevin Ryan, 16, said the fight started after a "shoving match between a black kid and a white kid."

"But then, food started flying all over the place—coffee, milk, cake and spaghetti," Ryan said.

His sister Terry, 15, said she was hit on the side of the head by a food tray.

The fight was broken up when headmaster William J. Reid called in members of the police department's tactical patrol force.

A black girl was treated at a hospital for a hip injury.

Two black sisters were arrested and charged with delinquency for possession of a knife and attempted assault.

The school department said 294 whites and 194 blacks were at the high school when the fight broke out. The school has an enrollment of 1,031 whites and 380 blacks.

After a similar incident about two weeks ago at Hyde Park High School, officials closed the school for one day in an attempt to ease tensions.

At William Barton Rogers School, an annex to Hyde Park High, a spokesman reported several incidents Wednesday, including two pocketbook thefts, an assault on a teacher by a group of black pupils and a bus-stoning incident in which a 14-year-old black girl suffered a cut ear.

Solon Wants Move To Prevent Damage To Big Thicket Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressman Bob Eckhardt of Houston says the Interior Department should move quickly to prevent any possible damage to the Big Thicket National Preserve once President Ford signs a bill creating the preserve.

The Senate passed the Big Thicket bill Tuesday after the House had approved it earlier.

"During the six years the Big Thicket legislation was under consideration by Congress, there was little that could be done to stop the activity which was destroying some of the beauty of the Thicket area," Eckhardt, a Democrat, said in a letter to Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton.

Large lumber interests have agreed to observe a moratorium on cutting trees until the park's boundaries are decided.

"It is hoped that these interests will continue to observe the moratorium in the designated areas," he said.

"However, some individual owners and smaller companies have not joined in the moratorium."

Eckhardt told Morton landowners should be warned that any timber cutting would lower the land value when the government purchases the property. He also asked Morton to take any legal action possible to stop activity damaging the Thicket.

"After having fought to pass a (Big Thicket) bill during almost all of my eight years in Congress, I do not want to see the area damaged by some last minute cutting just as we have a bill passed," he wrote.

He urged Morton to make maps of the area available to local residents so they can determine exactly what land is to be included in the preserve.

Reinecke Says He's Ruined Politically And Financially

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Former Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke is back in California, describing himself as "ruined politically and financially."

Reinecke resigned Wednesday on his 2,078th day in office just minutes before he received an 18-month suspended sentence in Washington for perjury in the ITT affair.

As a convicted felon, he could no longer hold state office.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, who appointed Reinecke to the job in 1969, planned to fill the vacancy today.

As recently as April, the 50-year-old Reinecke was considered the front-runner for the Republican nomination to succeed Reagan.

But after the perjury indictment was returned by a Watergate grand jury, Reinecke was swamped in the June 4 primary by Controller Houston I. Flournoy.

Reinecke maintains he is innocent and says he plans to write a book entitled, "So Help Me God." He said he would appeal the conviction.

Reinecke has put his suburban Sacramento home up for sale and has been living with his family on his ranch near Placerville in the Sierra foothills east of Sacramento.

He also has advertised his cattle for sale in an effort to pay off his legal debts.

Reinecke was convicted July 27 on one count of lying to the Senate Judiciary Committee about his role in arrangements for financing the 1972 Republican National Convention.

The charge centered around Reinecke's testimony about when he advised then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell of an offer by International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. to underwrite the convention.

Foreign Aid Bill Shelved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has shelved a $2.5-billion foreign aid bill, but only after voting to bring CIA covert operations under close congressional scrutiny.

A 41-39 vote returned the authorization bill to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at least until after the November elections. Its ultimate fate remained uncertain.

The Senate had loaded down the bill with ceilings, limitations and restrictions opposed by President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Included were military aid cutoffs for Turkey and Chile and reductions in food aid and fertilizer shipments to South Vietnam.

In the end, 24 Republicans and 17 Democrats supported the motion of Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., to recommit the bill. Seven Republicans and 32 Democrats voted against it.

Returned to committee along with the bill was an amendment to require the president to report to Congress before spending any money for covert operations by the CIA or any other government agency, except for the sole purpose of obtaining information.

The amendment, offered by Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, and adopted by voice vote, was the strongest attempt to bring the Central Intelligence Agency under strict legislative review since the agency came under fire three weeks ago for covert operations in Chile.

Judge Removes Suspensions Of Two Houston Policemen

HOUSTON (AP) — A state judge has removed the 60-day suspensions of two Houston police officers, ruling that it is unconstitutional to require policemen to submit to lie detector tests.

State District Court Judge Wyatt H. Heard ruled Wednesday that the suspensions of Jack Heard Jr. and Wayne M. Jones were invalid and held that each was entitled to back pay of about $2,000.

The two officers were suspended last spring by Police Chief Carrol Lynn after the prostitute accused them of raping her and the officers refused to submit to the tests. They were reinstated by Lynn after a Harris County grand jury refused to indict them.

Judge Heard said a department order directing the officers to take the tests violated the protection guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution against unreasonable searches and seizures.

Clyde Woody, an attorney for the two officers, said the decision established a notable precedent in that it means police departments can no longer compel officers to take lie detector tests.

However, Alan Levin, an assistant city attorney, said the order applied only to the one case.

Judge Heard is no relation to Officer Heard who is a son of Harris County Sheriff Jack Heard Sr.

Lawyer Fee Issue In Class Action Suits Studied

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The federal appeals court here is considering whether states should be required to pay lawyers fees in class action suits brought by citizens against their state governments.

Lawyers say the result could have a profound effect on the ability of citizens to mount constitutional claims against state officials.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals heard arguments Wednesday from lawyers involved in such suits against Mississippi, Alabama and Texas.

Arguments centered around the intent of the 11th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, the "sovereign amendment."

Under it, citizens have been barred from suing states in federal courts.

While it prohibits federal courts from assessing damages against the states, it does not bar them from issuing injunctions ordering state officials to stop an unconstitutional practice.

In the Mississippi case, state officials were found to have acted "obdurately and obstinately" in defending themselves against an injunction to reform Parchman Prison. Fees were awarded to the lawyers who filed the suit.

In the Texas case, lawyers who fought construction of a San Antonio freeway for environmentalist groups were denied an award of fees on sovereign immunity grounds.

To resolve the conflicting rulings by judges of the 5th Circuit, all 15 active judges and one senior judge are considering the case.

They also will hear the Alabama case, which asks the court to order the state to provide better medical care to prisoners.

Charles Alan Wright, the Texas constitutional scholar who helped prepare the executive privilege case of former President Richard Nixon, argued Wednesday against lawyers from the three states.

"The doctrine of sovereign immunity was developed under a system of government vastly different from our own," lawyer Roy Haber of Boulder, Colo., said.

"It was developed under the concept that the king can do no wrong. We in this country have a different philosophy of government. The 14th Amendment recognizes that the state can and does do wrong."

Wright responded that "it seems to me too late in history" to rule that the 11th Amendment is in any way superseded by the 14th. "The federal courts can tell the states what to do in the future but can't make them pay for what they've done wrong in the past."

Lawyers in the Texas case claim they were providing a "private attorney general" function in seeking enforcement of federal environmental regulations and they should be paid as agents of the government.

Arguments in the Mississippi case were more passionate.

"You're familiar with the absolute heinousness of the situation—that the officials were aware that generations that people were being beaten at the prison," Haber said.

"Where the 11th Amendment is a bar to the type of action necessary to effectuate the 14th Amendment, the 11th Amendment cannot stand in the way."

Compromise Bill Would Give Vietnam-Era Veterans Increased Educational Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vietnam-era veterans would get a 23 per cent hike in educational benefits under a new compromise reached by Senate and House conferees.

The benefits would be retroactive to Sept. 1.

Routine approval of the compromise by the full House and Senate is expected, but President Ford had warned last summer he would veto a similar bill as being inflationary.

The compromise bill would cost $1.48 billion. Among the features are a loan program of $600 per veteran and an extension of the time GI undergraduates can get benefits from 36 to 45 months.

A single veteran now getting $220 a month would receive $270 under the compromise.

The increases for a veteran with a wife would be from $261 to $321 a month and for a veteran with a wife and child from $298 to $366 a month. In addition, benefits for each dependent over the age of 2 were increased from $18 to $23.

The leader of the House conferees, Rep. Lin E. Teague, D-Tex., said he had been promised a new Ford administration position paper, in writing, on the benefits by Wednesday afternoon's conference, but none arrived.

"If he vetoes this thing, he'll get run over," Teague said.

The chairman of the conferees, Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., noted that Ford had voiced reservations about some of the programs and the over-all dollar amount agreed to Wednesday.

"But this is the second time

Pirates Nudge Cubs To Cinch East

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

"I really think the Lord had something to do with this ballgame," said Pittsburgh catcher Manny Sanguillen. "I just thank God we were able to do it."

The Lord may have helped but Chicago catcher Steve Swisher didn't hurt either as the Pirates clinched the National League East Division championship Wednesday night with a wild 5-4, 10-inning victory over the Cubs.

Chicago had the game won with two out and a man on third in the bottom of the ninth. Cubs' right-hander Rick Reuschel struck out pinch hitter Bob Robertson for what would have been the final out but Swisher let the pitch get away from him for a passed ball and Sanguillen raced home from third to send the game into overtime.

One inning later Sanguillen drove in the winning run with a bases-loaded infield single and the Cubs were on their way to the National League playoffs. They wind up 1½ games ahead of the runnerup St. Louis Cardinals.

which were rained out at Montreal. That game will not be made up.

The Pirates start the best-of-five NL playoffs Saturday afternoon against Los Angeles in Pittsburgh.

Elsewhere, Los Angeles edged Houston 5-4 in 10 innings; Atlanta bombed Cincinnati 13-0; Philadelphia shaded New York 3-2 in 10 innings and San Diego dumped San Francisco 9-5.

Chicago unloaded on Pirate starter Jim Rooker for four runs in the first and the Cubs spent the rest of the night playing catch-up.

Robertson, who celebrated his 28th birthday Wednesday by turning in the game's big play — the clutch ninth-inning strikeout — drenched Manager Danny Murtaugh, a non-drinker, with a gallon of milk.

Braves 13, Reds 0

Hank Aaron closed out his eventful season with his 20th homer, No. 733 lifetime, but refused to say it was his last game. He said earlier in the season this would be his last campaign, but has been having second thoughts lately.

Phil Niekro hurled a four-hitter for Atlanta to become the National League's second 20-game winner.

Dodgers 5, Astros 4, 10 innings
John Hale singled and Lee Lacy doubled him home in the 10th to give reliever Charlie Hough, 9-4, the win.

Phillies 2, Mets 2, 10 innings
Bill Robinson won it for Philadelphia with a sacrifice fly off starter and loser Jon Matlack.

Padres 9, Giants 5
San Diego scored four times in the ninth inning to win it.

Patriots' Secret

Fairbanks Lifts Sooner Defense For Use In Pros

By RON JENKINS

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — The summer pilgrimage of Chuck Fairbanks to his old home stand is helping to make the New England Patriots the "miracle" team of professional football.

Fairbanks came to this football-happy town last June to bone up on what is widely known in college circles as "the Okie" defense, a 5-2-4 set-up once scooped at by the pros.

Even Larry Lacey, defense boss of the Oklahoma Sooners, the nation's second-ranked college football team, didn't think his old boss was serious at first about implementing the successful college system.

But after two days of marathon discussions and film viewing — one session lasted until two o'clock in the morning — Lacey was convinced.

"He went about it like anything else he was serious about. It was work and no play for about three days around here," Lacey recalled.

Lacey said the peculiar thing to him was Fairbanks' faith that the alignment could be effective against the rush.

"The word was that it couldn't stop the running game in pro ball. But Chuck said he thought it could. I guess he was right. The Patriots are leading the league in rushing defense."

Although many factors, including the passing of Steve Plunkett and the running of Mack Herron, have contributed to New England's stunning 3-0 start in the American Football Conference's East Division, the Patriots' surprising defense probably ranks at the top.

The Patriots have allowed only 84 yards per game rushing in beating Super Bowl champion Miami, New York and Los Angeles. That's the best in the AFC, but the Patriots rank 12th against the pass, giving up 223.7 yards per contest.

In simple terms, the 5-2-4 system utilizes a noseguard over the center. He is flanked by two tacklers, who are in turn flanked by a pair of ends. There are only two linebackers and four deep backs.

But the system being used by Fairbanks' staff has a wrinkle that Lacey is credited with popularizing. That is, the two ends are dropped back off the line of scrimmage to protect against the pass and in effect become outside linebackers.

"If there's been anything I think we have contributed to the college scene, it's been the drop of the strong side end and the drop of both ends. It takes a little courage just to rush three men," Lacey said.

"The odd-man front has been used in pro ball, but not as a base defense," Lacey said. "In the past, the teams were an even-man front going to an odd-man front. Chuck is using an odd-man front on every down. No one in the pros has been a primary, true noseguard team that I know of."

Lacey said that even more than the defensive change, Fairbanks coaching has made the difference in the Patriots' fortunes.

"You've got to give the credit to Chuck," said Lacey. "He's a heck of a coach, a great defensive coach."

In the C Bracket, Marian Spears and Martha Davis won top honors while the consolation was won by Mardare Hooper and Alex Morris.

Wednesday was also membership day.

LOYAL TO END — Cleveland Manager Ken Aspromonte, left, congratulates Frank Robinson after the Indian DH hit his 574th career homer at Fenway Park Wednesday. Robinson was to be named to succeed Aspromonte as manager today. (AP Wirephoto.)

O'S, A'S PLAY OFF — It's Goodbye In American

The fans said goodbye. They said goodbye to Al Kaline, finishing 22 illustrious seasons. And they booed ferociously when the goodbye came prematurely.

They said goodbye to Ken Aspromonte, about to be replaced by Frank Robinson, major league baseball's first black manager.

And they said goodbye to the season. There were 24,812 fans on hand. Not a bad crowd for a baseball game. The only problem was, it was the crowd that showed up for the entire American League Wednesday.

But then, that's what happens when everything's tied up in a couple of neat little bundles, when nothing counts — except for the record books, the drives for the post-season awards, the pushes for next year's salary boost... and for those hard-core fans.

Just for the record, Eastern champion Baltimore edged last-place Detroit 5-4, Western winner Oakland lost 3-2 to last-place California; Texas nipped Minnesota 2-1, Cleveland turned back Boston 8-6, New York downed Milwaukee 2-1 and Chicago beat Kansas City 5-4 in 12 innings.

Orioles 5, Tigers 4
Baltimore, relaxing after Tuesday's pennant clinching, used plenty of reserves and still beat the Tigers.

Enos Cabell, whose two-run, tie-breaking double in the seventh inning enabled the Orioles to conclude the regular-season with their ninth consecutive triumph.

Kaline was happy to see his career concluded. "I'm glad it's over. I really am. I don't think I'll miss it."

He got ovations in the first and third innings when he batted. In the fifth, the crowd started booing loudly. They had spotted Ben Oglivie in the on-deck circle instead of Kaline.

It turned out that Kaline's shoulder was bothering him. "I didn't know if I should play or not... Everybody wanted to have me hit my 400th home run, but no way could I swing hard enough to hit a home run. I could have played but I could only punch the ball."

Angels 3, A's 2
California's Denny Doyle singled with the bases loaded in the bottom of the ninth inning, capping a two-run burst that finished Oakland's season on a low note.

Indians 8, Red Sox 6
Cleveland will break a racial barrier once again with Robinson's appointment. It was the Indians who, in 1947, had the American League's first black player, Larry Doby.

Moment Of Truth Arrives In 5-4A

The moment of truth is just around the corner for District 5-4A elevens and while the players await the league opener with great expectations, the coaches await the fateful hour with more than a little anticipation.

Even though league members left 21 of 24 opponents littered in their predistrict wake, the bodies are viewed with a certain amount of suspicion. No one can be that sure how formidable the opposition has been.

Friday night, however, the bullets are real enough and there will be sighs of relief along with disappointments.

On paper, all four matchups are attractive. Midland High at Odessa Permian and Odessa High at Midland Lee both the taste buds and one fan even wondered, "How come they're playing the same night. I'd like to see both of them."

Crowds at both games should be good, but this year they'd be even better if the games had been staggered. The only loss in 12 games for the neighborhood rivals was Odessa's 9-2 loss at Hobbs, N.M.

Everybody in the league will be watching San Angelo's invasion of Abilene Cooper with more than casual interest. Permian is ranked ahead of the Bobcats in the AP rankings, but the feeling around the league seems to be that San Angelo might be the team to beat.

Permian Coach John Wilkins, in looking at the overall 5-4A picture, points out that "San Angelo apparently has the defense to go with their offense this time. Smitty Hill (Bobcat coach) always has a strong offensive club, but his defense was suspect the last two years. This year, against probably the toughest predistrict schedule anyone played, the defense was impressive."

Cooper's defense under Coach Ray Overton has always been the Cougars forte, but the question is whether Cooper has enough offense to match the Bobcats...

long memories may recall that Sammy played for the old Philadelphia A's and St. Louis Browns back in the 1920s. In fact, Connie Mack paid the Detroit Tigers $75,000 in 1922 to acquire the third baseman and he was well worth the price, which was an eyebrow raiser in that day.

Hale batted .302 over a 10-year major league career that ended in 1930. In 1966, Hale was inducted into the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame.

Midlander Maurice Kennedy recalls that Hale once managed the Midland team in the old West Texas-New Mexico League in the late 1930s or early 1940s...

Horse racing returns to Midland Sunday with the Tall City Futurity ($15,000) and the Cat Claw Futurity ($15,000), highlighting a 16-race schedule for Quarter Horses.

Ray Reed, a familiar figure at Ruidoso Downs back in the 1960s, claims this is just the beginning. "We plan to apply for 21 racing dates in 1975 and we plan to make Midland Downs an attractive place to watch races."

If the dates are okayed, Reed says both Quarter Horses and and thoroughbreds will be raced here.

One of the novelty attractions Sunday will be the Paint Horse National finals. "Paint horses are about where Quarter Horses were 25 years ago," says Reed, who doubles as a nightclub entertainer. "And they can run just as fast as Quarter Horses."

The races are sanctioned, supervised and approved by the National Quarter Horse Racing Assn., and Sunday's race will attract some of the top jockeys from Ruidoso and Sunland such as Jerry Nicodemus, David Morris and Elbert Minchey.

Jenkins Notches 25th

Fergy Makes Cy Young Pitch

By BRENT KALLESTAD
BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Texas right hander Ferguson Jenkins polished off the Minnesota Twins Wednesday to climax a shiny 1974 performance which could result in the Cy Young Award.

"I think either Jim 'Catfish' Hunter, Mike Cuellar or I will win the Cy Young Award," said Jenkins, who combined with reliever Steve Foucault to stop Minnesota 2-1 in the season finale en route to his 25th victory against 12 losses.

"I'd like to win it, sure, but those other guys certainly deserve it, too."

Jenkins led the youthful Rangers to a second place finish. He won 18 of his last 24 decisions as Manager Billy Martin's Texans rolled upward. "I was hurt a lot earlier in the season or I think it could've been even a better year," said Jenkins. "We've got a lot of young players... this is a coming ball club."

Jenkins won 24 games for the Chicago Cubs and the Cy Young Award in the National League three years ago, but he was traded to Texas last year.

Jenkins' run stood up after the clubs exchanged seventh inning home runs with Tom Grieve hitting his ninth for the Rangers and Eric Soderholm No. 10 for Minnesota.

Minnesota's Rod Carew sat out the game but wrapped up his third straight league batting championship and fourth overall. Carew finished with a .364

Area AAA's Plunge Into District Warfare This Weekend

Lamesa-Snyder Clash In Showdown

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

District 3-AAA and District 2-AAA begin a new season Friday night as loop play opens, and previous records don't mean a thing as far as winning state playoff berths. Everyone is even with 0-0 district marks, and thus, there is new hope at every front.

Lamesa Coach Tom Koger, in his first year as head coach of the Tors, even goes beyond the "new season" thinking, however. "It's the whole season for us Friday. Of course, every game is important from here on out, but if we don't beat Snyder, there could be no season left."

Snyder, ranked eighth in the state among AAA schools, is a heavy favorite to capture the 3-AAA crown after returning to the loop from the AAAA ranks, and nobody knows it better than Koger's Tors.

Both teams will carry a 3-1 record into Friday's game in Snyder and the Tigers are favored to start their championship march.

The game will feature two of the state's top AAA running backs with Snyder owning Welton Cobb and Lamesa claiming fullback Melvin Robinson. Both are real threats and both are healthy.

Lamesa, however, has suffered the injury bug in their last two outings and will be missing the services of at least four starters. Defensive back James Bolton, guards James Garza and Rudy Garcia and quarterback Danny Flenniken will be missing with various injuries. Mark Mays is slated to go at quarterback, however, and has split time with Flenniken this year. Lamesa's offensive machine got a boost last Friday when sophomore Dennis Page and junior Eddy Pearson turned in fine performances in the rushing department. Most figure, however, that the game hinges on the performances of Cobb and Robinson with each defense playing the major role. Robinson, who gained over 1,000 yards rushing as a sophomore and junior, faces his sternest challenge of his career.

In other 3-AAA action Friday, Lubbock Estacado entertains Brownfield and San Angelo Lake View travels to Sweetwater.

The key outing in the District 2-AAA opens comes at Kermit Friday when the Yellow Jackets host the Andrews Mustangs. Kermit has been one of the surprise teams of the year and appear to be ready to make a serious threat at the 2-AAA crown. Kermit's only loss is a 17-14 loss to AAAA Hobbs, N.M.

Andrews, on the other hand, has been a disappointment this year with an 0-4 record to date. The Mustangs figured to be a strong contender, but offensive inconsistencies have kept the Mustangs at bay. The "new season" approach is important to the Mustangs this week, and will have the chance to put the previous losses behind them.

In other 2-AAA action Friday, Monahans (2-2) is a heavy favorite over Fort Stockton (0-4) Saturday in Odessa. Odessa Ector entertains undefeated Seminole in what appears to be a mismatch.

The rest of the three area districts continue non-conference play Friday.

Rankin, ranked third among Class A teams, gets back into action after a week off. The Devils moved up a notch in the state standings with an idle week and will host Robert Lee Friday. Coach Dwayne Turner's Devils, coasting to a 3-0 record so far, has won nine straight regular season games and is gunning for their third straight playoff appearance.

Stanton's Buffaloes, making their maiden voyage in Class A this year, will carry a 3-1 record into Friday's game against lowly Wall. Stanton is favored to win the District 5-A crown, a loop that has been dominated by Plains the last few seasons.

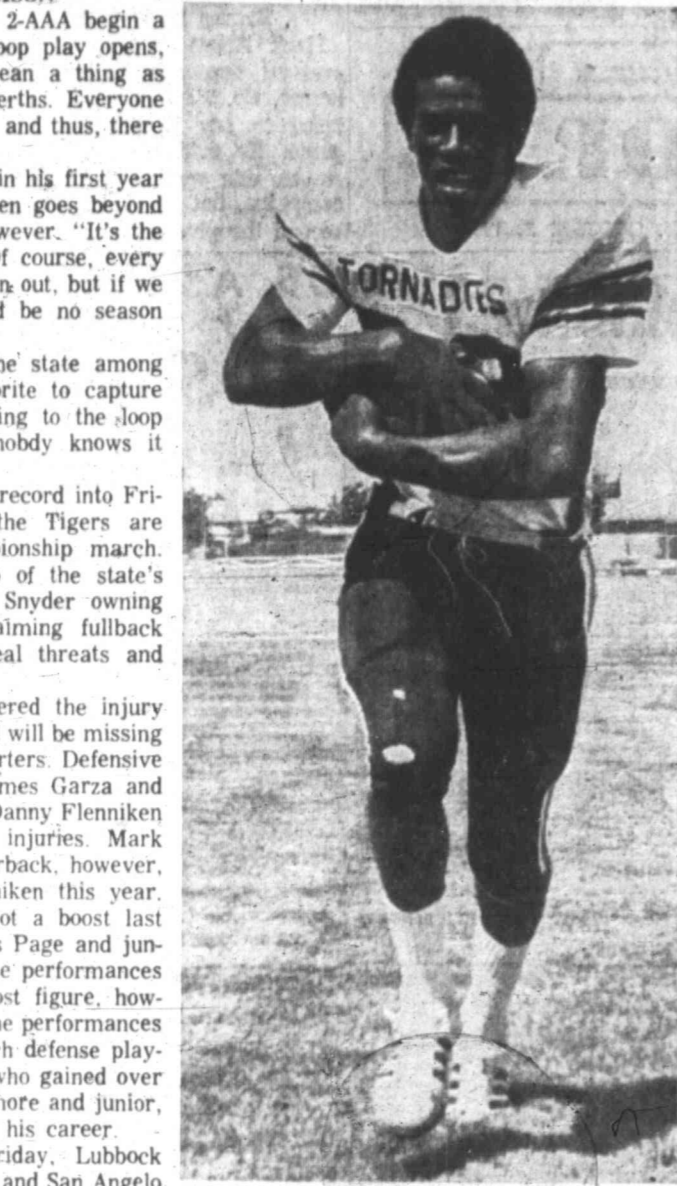

District 7-AA, a loop considered as a toss-up from top to bottom, also has all of its teams in action Friday. Crane, the pre-season favorite, hosts ranked Mason in a tough contest while Reagan County will host Brady. McCamey, fresh off of an upset over previously No. 1 ranked Coahoma, will host Van Horn in an important contest. Ozona travels to Iraan and league-leading Sonora treks to Llano in other action.

Buzas Adds Club

BOSTON (AP) — Joe Buzas, owner of the Pawtucket Red Sox of the International League and the Bristol Red Sox of the Eastern League, is adding a club to his 1975 operations. Joe Romano, president of the Elmira club in the New York Penn League, announced Wednesday that he and Buzas have formed a partnership.

Jerry Vorheis rolled a 252 to post the men's high game bowling score at Midland lanes and also notched the lone 600 series, beating the magic number by one.

Carmen Boyce probably was the most consistent bowler with series of 596, 594, 569 and 526. Becky Graves rolled three 200 games with 216, 208 and 201.

Odessa Busby moved into a first place tie with Fort Worth Crowthorn in the Texas Classic Bowling Association. Both have 25-7 records. In District 3, (Continued On Page 3-B)

A Crazy Year

People that are crazy enough to play the prognostication game this year are getting their due. It doesn't matter if your picking pro, college or high school games this season, the results are virtually the same—disaster.

I have never seen the area high school teams so evenly matched in a week-in, week-out basis. Last week this corner was 22-10 for a season total of 92-34 and a .730-percentage. Last week I picked Alpine and Ozona in upsets and lost both, but when I returned to the form chart on the rest of the squads, I got stuck again. You know there are going to be upsets, but you have to hit the right ones.

Marfa and Odessa Ector played to ties, and I can't take too much blame there, but McCamey's upset over top-ranked Coahoma and Lubbock Estacado's victory over Lubbock Monterey really shocked me.

Then there was those games listed in the gray area where I also took a beating. Plains, Balmorhea, Seagraves, Ozona and Crane, all listed in close battles last week, lost, and I lost along with them.

This week promises to be no easier as district play in two loops starts. It looks like it's going to be one of those years, but we will continue the picking game, and just hope for the best.

Kermit, Snyder Get Nod

SNYDER, 24, LAMESA 10 — The Tigers are picked to win District 3-AAA and this is the game that should start it all. Lamesa is a little beat-up-with injuries and Snyder is healthy. I'll be there Friday.

KERMIT 28, ANDREWS 14 — Kermit has been one of the surprise teams of the year, and the Yellow Jackets will be out to prove their new found strength in this District 2-AAA opener.

REAGAN COUNTY 14, BRADY 9 — Coach Wilburn George's Owls are ripe to pull off an upset after a strong showing against AAA Lamesa last week.

MASON 18, CRANE 14 — Highly ranked Mason will have a tough time against Crane, but will pull off a narrow win.

McCAMEY 21, VAN HORN 7 — The Badgers have a lot going for them after an upset over Coahoma last week, but the problem for Coach Joe Neill is guarding against a let down.

STANTON 32, WALL 6 — Coach Bill Young's Buffs are back on the winning track and will get an impressive victory over Wall.

RANKIN 40, ROBERT LEE 8 — The Red Devils have had a week off to polish what has already been an impressive season and Robert Lee is the next to pay.

OZONA 29, IRAAN 7 — Ozona was humiliated last week week by AAA Lake View, so the Braves of Iraan better look for cover this week.

Cleveland Selects Robinson As Pilot

CLEVELAND (AP) — Frank Robinson, for two decades one of baseball's greatest players and competitors, today was named the first black manager in the 105-year history of major league baseball.

Robinson, 39, the game's fourth all-time leading home run hitter and the only player ever to be Most Valuable Player in both leagues, was named to succeed Ken Aspromonte as manager of the Cleveland Indians at a salary estimated at $180,000 a year.

At the news conference at which Robinson's appointment was announced by General Manager Phil Seghi, the 39-year-old superstar received a telegram of congratulations from President Ford.

The elevation of Robinson ended a years-long struggle by blacks to be elevated to a meaningful management position in baseball. It places Robinson in charge of a team which has a top white pitcher who has publicly criticized him and a black centerfielder who has been accused of being hard to handle.

HUNTING FISHING

Jim Binns, with 908 points, leads the High Sky Bass Club standings after the September tournament at Lake Amistad, where 33 members participated.

George Cooper's heavy stringer of a four pound, 13 ounce bass and an 11 pound, four ounce string took the Amistad-tourney. Dan Vogler was second, Hervy Heiser third and Bill Buttry fourth with Kevin Erck winning the teenage division.

The August tournament at Hubbard Lake went to Jim Binns in the men's category and Anne Morse in the women's. Charles Vogler, Lamesa, landed the heavy bass of 6 pounds, 11 ounces.

Al Crain was elected High Sky Bass Club president, Conrad Hobbs, vice president, Juanita Stiggen, secretary, and Bob Houser, treasurer, at a recent business meeting. The club meets 7:30 p.m. the fourth Tuesday of each month at 4100 W. Wall.

Chihuahuan Desert Meeting

Covering thousands of square miles in both the U.S. and Mexico, the complex and varied ecosystems of the Chihuahuan Desert will be the topics of a symposium at Alpine Oct. 16-18.

"The only reason I'm the first black manager is because I was born black," Robinson said at the news conference. "I'm not a superman; I'm not a miracle worker."

"This is what I really want to be judged by—the play on the field, and not on being the first, on being black."

The announcement, made at a Cleveland news conference attended by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and other officials, came 27 years, five months and 19 days after Jackie Robinson broke baseball's color barrier as a player.

It came almost two years after the greying, blinding Jackie Robinson made his last public appearance at a World Series, and said he wished he could one day see a member of his race managing a major league team. Jackie, who was no relation to Frank, died soon thereafter, his final baseball dream unfulfilled.

The telegram from President Ford called Robinson's elevation to the managing position welcome news.

'Physical' Rebels Worry Odessa Coach

By BOB DILLON

With preparations out of the way, Coach Dub Farris' big and burly Odessa Bronchos ready themselves for Friday's invasion of Memorial Stadium when they tangle with the Midland Lee Rebels in a big District 5-4A football opener.

Lee will be celebrating 1974 homecoming and will be out to try and avenge last year's 40-17 whipping to OHS in Odessa.

"It seems like everybody we play is celebrating their homecoming," said the personable Farris who is the new Broncho mentor this year. Farris takes over the reins from Dick Winder who had three straight 6-4 seasons to turn the Broncho fortunes around after several losing seasons. Farris is familiar with his team, however, since he was an assistant under Winder two years.

"Lee has got to be the most physical team we have faced thus far," said Farris. Farris went on to say that Hobbs has a hard-hitting outfit, but then quickly added that his team did not play well in its 9-2 loss to the Eagles in New Mexico. Hobbs was fired up and celebrating homecoming too.

"We are capable of playing much better and hope to Friday night over in Midland," added Farris.

Odessa brings a 2-1 mark into the game with victories over Amarillo and Andrews.

"The Hobbs game was disappointing to say the least, but now the ones that really count are coming up and this year the district will really be evenly-balanced," commented Farris.

Odessa, with the potent one-two punch of tailback Woodie

Colman Field is named after former Broncho grid coach Joe Coleman who coached the 1947 Bronchos to the state championship.

While Farris was handing out praise for the Rebels and their defense, Lee Coach Jim Acree had plenty to smile about after hearing that Keith Bishop, 220-pound senior tackle and tri-captain, got his cast off and will play on defense Friday. "Keith is a real leader and fine athlete and will be a big help to us against a team like OHS," said Acree.

Acree also reports that Terry Nelson, who has been slowed down by a thigh injury, will be ready to go either at a cornerback slot or safety position on defense.

"It looks like we will be in good shape for the game and we are anxious to get the district underway," said Acree.

A big bon fire is slated for 7:30 p.m. today on the Lee High parking lot.

GOOD NEWS — Midland Lee received good news this week when it was learned tackle Keith Bishop will have the cast removed from his ankle and be available for defensive duty against Odessa this week.

Shepard and quarterback Darrell Shepard, has plenty of size in the forward wall and defense and will be out to ruin the Rebel celebration activities.

The OHS JV, which is 3-0, takes on the Lee JV (2-1) at 7 p.m. today at Joe Coleman Field which is on the OHS campus. "The fans can come down Whitaker to the field which has plenty of parking space. But if the fans go to Fly Field, which is where the baseball games are played, they will have to park on the street," said Farris.

Chris Evert Advances To Quarterfinal

HOUSTON (AP) — Young Chris Evert says she's pleased with the way she's playing in the $50,000 women's professional tennis tournament here.

Her opponents so far certainly would agree she should be.

Top-seeded Miss Evert, 19, eased by Carrie Meyer 6-1, 6-0 Wednesday to gain the quarterfinals. It was her second easy victory in two days. She eliminated Susan Mehmedbasch by the score in the first round.

While Miss Evert had an easy time, two other seeded players were second round upset victims and a third barely escaped.

Robin Tenney and Wendy Overton scored the upsets, Tenney taking out seventh-seeded Marcie Louie 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 and Overton eliminating eighth-seeded Kathy Kuykendall 6-3, 6-2.

In other second round matches, second-seeded Virginia Wade was given a big scare before beating Isabel Fernandez 6-4, 3-6, 6-3; fourth seeded Evonne Goolagong clipped Terry Holladay 6-2, 6-2; fifth-seeded Helen Gourlay defeated Rachel Giscarre 6-1, 6-1; Kate Latham whipped Diane Fromholtz 6-4, 6-2 and Pam Teeguarden defeated Llana Kloss 6-3, 6-3.

Miss Evert, the leading money winner this year on the women's pro tour, has lost only two games in her two matches here and Wednesday's lone loss came on the heels of two double faults.

She said it didn't bother her.

"Oh, I double-faulted three or four times—that's more than usual, but I'm pretty happy with the way I served," she said. "I feel I won a lot of points serving."

"I'm pleased with the way I'm playing. I like the courts. They're not too fast—they let you be aggressive and still have a steady baseline."

Fernandez, who doesn't rank among the top 20 tournament money winners, took Wade, who is fourth in earnings, down to the wire before losing in the tourney's first match to date.

"I've never lost to her but she's one of the players I'm afraid of," said Wade.

ASTROS' GROSS POSSIBLE—Rookie Of Year?

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros' performance was Gross—that's Greg Gross—Wednesday night as Los Angeles scored a 10th inning run on Lee Lacy's double in their regular season finale before going into the National League playoffs.

Dodger Manager Walt Alton started his second line players against the Astros and still came away with a 5-4 victory in the meaningless game for both teams but Gross put on a big show anyway.

Gross, a strong candidate for rookie of the year honors, collected three hits, including a seventh inning triple that gave the Astros a temporary 4-3 lead, to set a Houston record for the most hits in a season with 185.

"We'll start the playoffs with (Don) Sutton and (Andy) Messersmith," Alton said. "We won't be making any changes there. As for Marshall's performance last (Tuesday) night, I'd rather go on his performance over the entire season than just one night."

Gross, who filled the Astros' right field position vacated by Jimmy Wynn last year, finished the game with three hits in four official times at bat.

"I think I should win it," Gross said of his race for rookie of the year with St. Louis' Bake McBride, "but it's going to be a tough choice. I think we both had outstanding seasons."

Messersmith pitched the first five innings for the Dodgers and left with a 2-1 lead after the fifth on Steve Yeager's solo homer and Tom Paciorek's double.

Houston tallied once in the fourth on the first of two run-scoring singles by Cliff Johnson.

Los Angeles took a 3-1 lead in the sixth on Bill Buckner's sacrifice fly.

Al Downing replaced Messersmith for the sixth and yielded four hits and two runs to tie it at 3-3 on Johnson's single and Cesar Cedeno's single.

Gross put Houston ahead 4-3 in the seventh with his second hit of the night, a triple. LA tied it in the ninth on Paciorek's sacrifice fly and won in the 10th on Lee Lacy's double.

make your own deal, then I would try to work something out with the Brewers."

Aaron ended the year just as he began, by homering. It was in Cincinnati last April 4 that Aaron cracked No. 774 to tie Babe Ruth's record on his first cut of the season. Wednesday's blast, his 20th this year, came on his final trip in the seventh inning on a 1-0 inside fastball that he just barely managed to get over the 330-foot marker down the left field line.

It was on his first swing in Atlanta Stadium this year that he drilled a pitch from Al Downing of the Los Angeles Dodgers over the fence to move ahead of Ruth last April 8.

Aaron said he won't decide for another 10 days or so whether he will retire or consider playing somewhere else.

"I'm planning to think over a lot of things," he said. "No one else is going to do the thinking for me."

He said any future records he might add to the 18 major league and 27 National League marks he already holds "doesn't enter into it at all."

Then, talking of his 21-year association with the Braves, including the last nine in Atlanta, Aaron said, "I enjoyed playing baseball," Aaron said. "If they and I'm going to miss it so tremendously."

PRO FOOTBALL FORECAST—

Cards, Vikes, Eagles Picks

By BEN THOMAS

AP Sports Writer

Aw, c'mon now! This can't be correct. It must be a misprint in the National Football League standings!

St. Louis and New England leading their respective divisions, both with 3-0 records? Well, football fans, it IS true—not a misprint.

And what's more, the Cardinals are very likely to still be first in the National Conference East and the Patriots No. 1 in the American Conference East after the fourth weekend of NFL action.

Of course the fact that the Cards and Pats are leading hasn't helped the old Pro Pignskin Picker's average. Last week, however, the picks climbed to 94 — most respectable showing so far this season. Overall, it's now 23-15-1 and the average is .605.

And on to this weekend: St. Louis (3-0) at San Francisco (2-1): The oddsmakers like St. Louis by a field goal, but Coach Don Coryell should do better, so ... CARDINALS 24, 49ERS 17.

Baltimore (0-3) at New England (3-0): This was one of the few games the Patriots were expected to win in the pre-season guessing ... PATRIOTS 31, COLTS 14.

Minnesota (3-0) at Dallas (1-2): The Vikings are favored by a mere two points in this replay of the 1973 NFC Championship game ... VIKINGS 17, COWBOYS 14.

Washington (2-1) at Cincinnati (2-1): The Bengals are favored by 4½ but the Redskins are No. 1 in the NFC in total defense and No. 2 in total offense. Let's call for a mild upset ... REDSKINS 19, BEN-GALS 7.

Buffalo (2-1) at Green Bay (2-1): The oddsmakers like Buffalo, but only by four points. Look for O.J. Simpson to handle the situation with ease. BILLS 24, PACKERS 17.

Denver (0-2-1) at Kansas City (1-2): The odds favor Denver by 1½ points, and the Chiefs are getting old. BRONCOS 17, CHIEFS 12.

Oakland (2-1) at Cleveland (1-2): Oakland hasn't given up the average is .605.

And on to this weekend: St. Louis (3-0) at San Francisco (2-1): The oddsmakers like St. Louis by a field goal, but Coach Don Coryell should do better, so ... CARDINALS 24, 49ERS 17.

a point in the first quarter for nine games ... RAIDERS 27, BROWNS 13.

Detroit (0-3) at Los Angeles (2-1): This game features the oddsmakers' biggest spread of the weekend, 15 points. But the 15 points could be worthwhile ... RAMS 27, LIONS 14.

Pittsburgh (1-1-1) at Houston (1-2): Another big-spread game — 14 points. But against Houston, the Steelers should roll to the tune of ... STEELERS 30, OILERS 10.

Philadelphia (2-1) at San Diego (1-2): The odds say Philadelphia will win by five points. It should be more. EAGLES 28, CHARGERS 7.

Loch Ness Will Get 'Monster'

LONDON (AP) — Loch Ness, whose murky waters rate as one of Scotland's top tourist attractions, is getting a monster visitors will be able to get a look at.

The "real life" monster — in concrete and steel — was commissioned by the local Preservation Group.

For decades the legendary prehistoric monster said to lurk in the Scottish Loch has evaded hunters, although numerous sightings have been claimed.

For years the Loch Ness Preservation Group has maintained round-the-clock vigils around the loch without any positive proof. Now the group has had its own Nessie made by London artist Alan Ross.

An authority on prehistoric creatures, Ross builds life-size cement and steel models which have been exhibited in many countries.

"Nessie was my most challenging assignment," says Ross. "Reports and pictures of monster sightings at Loch Ness and similar lakes in Finland, Ireland and Canada indicate that Nessie is probably a prehistoric Elasmosaurus," he added.

Women's Liberation Keeps Executives In Russia Tied Down

EDITOR'S NOTE: Soviet women have mastered the tractor, machinery in factories, computers—all things associated in the West with men. A Soviet woman has even flown in space. What has all this meant to the Moscow executive who needs a secretary?

By LYNNE OLSON

MOSCOW (AP) — The job of a secretary isn't exactly the first thing that comes to the mind of young Tamara Popova when she thinks about her future.

While sympathizing with her loftier aspirations, Tamara's father wishes more young women would consider office work. Then he and other middle-level Soviet executives could be liberated from answering their own phones, filing, typing their own letters and opening their own mail.

Many Soviet girls want only positions they consider more responsible, prestigious and lucrative.

In the spring, hundreds of young women write to Rabotnitsa, a Soviet women's magazine, and ask for information about careers. Not once, says a Rabotnitsa editor, has anyone expressed an interest in becoming a secretary.

"Traditionally," the magazine admitted, "the occupation of a secretary has been considered a secondary one."

The lack of interest in secretarial jobs has led to such a shortage that there are only about 40 secretaries for every 100 executives in the Soviet economy, Pravda has estimated.

The Communist party newspaper says this means that executives spend up to 40 per cent of their time doing routine clerical work — a cardinal sin in an economy trying to improve efficiency.

"The situation is also frustrating for those who have to deal with Soviet executives. Many times, their phones will be busy or no one will answer."

Often, it simply means that the beleaguered men have taken the phone off the hook or are ignoring it in order to try to get some work done.

A secretary recently explained in a letter to the government newspaper Izvestia about some of the reasons for the secretarial shortage.

"Our work may seem very simple to everybody," she said. "But by evening, our heads are heavy and our nerves are tense. We are not paid well at all for our labor. There are no gradations of qualifications and no bonuses."

According to the State Committee on Labor and Wages, secretaries make an average of 80-95 rubles a month — $104-$123.

Only 10 technical schools in the country offer secretarial training. Last year, they graduated 570 secretaries.

"Is that enough?" Rhetorically asked the newspaper Nedelya. Are you kidding? — its rhetorical reply.

"If there are thousands of enterprises in the country which need one, two or 10 secretaries, then tens of thousands of secretaries are needed," one newspaper said.

Mexico Might Admit 30th, 31st States Soon

MEXICO CITY, Mexico (AP) — Mexico might get its 30th and 31st states this year — one an area consisting largely of cactus and desert and the other a tropical Caribbean paradise where tourists go when they tire of the crowds at Acapulco.

President Luis Echeverria has urged congress to admit to the United States of Mexico the arid territory of Baja California del Sur and the territory of Quintana Roo in southern Mexico.

Baja California del Sur lies in the lower half of the long peninsula that extends southward from California into the Pacific; the northern half, above the 28th parallel was admitted to the Mexican union as a state in January 1962.

The territory of Quintana Roo, named for Andres Quintana Roo, a soldier and statesman of the independence period, occupies the western half of the Yucatan Peninsula and was created from the state in 1902, becoming a federal territory in 1935.

Both territories have now fulfilled the requirements of Article 73 of the Mexican Constitution for statehood: to have a minimum of 80,000 inhabitants and economic resources sufficient to maintain their own governmental functions and to contribute to the general treasury of the nation.

There is little question here but that congress will approve the bill for statehood for both territories which the president said he will submit for its consideration soon.

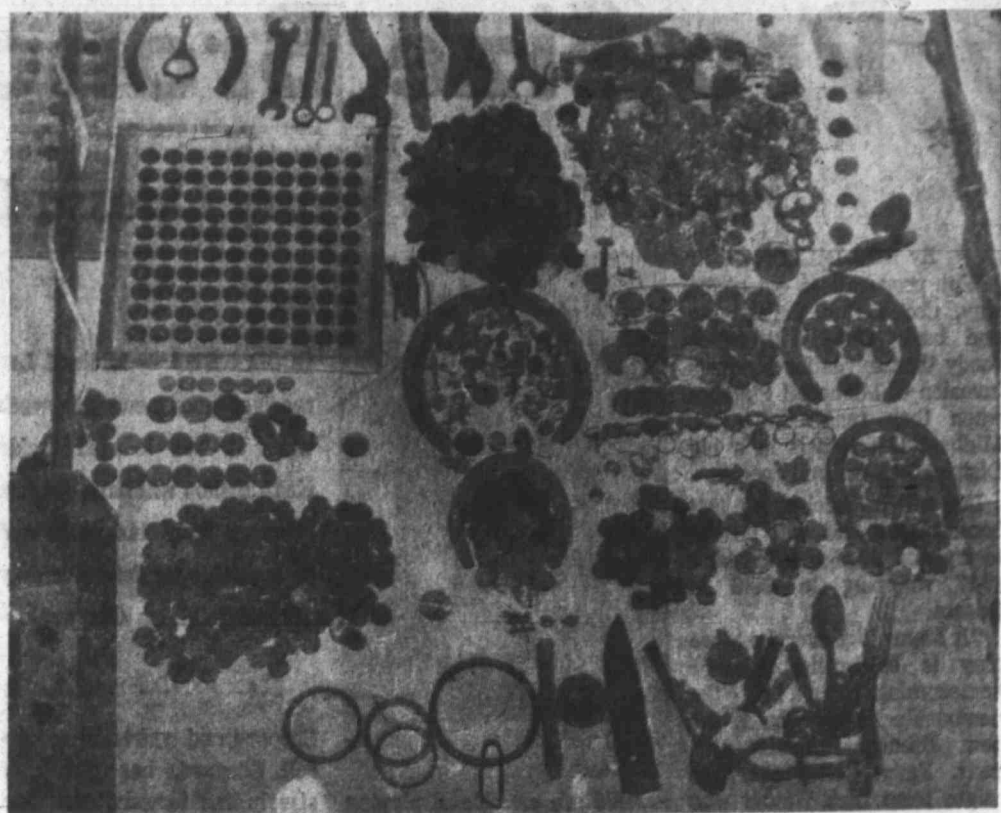

"We have put forth considerable effort in the territories of Baja California del Sur and Quintana Roo in support of the efforts the inhabitants themselves to provide their expanded populations with the infrastructure and resources necessary to maintain self-government," Echeverria said recently in his annual report to the nation.

"Through the Transpeninsular Highway, Baja California del Sur has been definitely linked with the rest of the nation. There and in Quintana Roo, agriculture and livestock, fishing, industrial and tourism activities are burgeoning."

Adoption of the presidential initiative, he declared, will not only achieve "a long standing ambition of the inhabitants of those regions... but also a traditional national aim consummating the federalist integration process, initiated 150 years ago in the first federal constitution, will be brought to fruition."

Inauguration of the 1,053-mile-long Transpeninsular Highway last Dec. 1 linked Cape San Lucas with Tijuana on the border with California in the north and opened up the entire territory for development.

In addition to commercial fishing, farming mining, cattle-raising and other activities, development of centers of tourism in towns such as Cabo San Lucas, La Paz, Loreto, Mulege and Santa Rosalia is going forward rapidly.

COIN DETECTOR — The hobby of hunting coins in ghost towns, around old bunk houses and in backyards is enhanced by a metal detector that locates coins from 2-10 inches underground. J. B. Hutchins, owner of Hutch's Meat Processing, Rankin Highway, has found an odd assortment of metal objects as well as old coins and now is stocking metal detectors at his store.

Hutch's Meat Processing Carries Metal Detectors

Metal detectors are growing in demand by people who are hunting old ghost towns, ranches and backyards looking for lost coins. In fact, the hobby of hunting old coins is growing so fast that Hutch's Meat Processing, Rankin Highway south of Interstate 20, is using one of its meat cases to stock metal detectors for sale.

J. B. Hutchins, owner of Hutch's, became interested in a metal detector two years ago when he was told by his doctor he shouldn't sit in a boat fishing. Now he walks around with a metal detector scanning the ground and has found thousands of coins, old and new, rings of gold and silver, religious crosses and chains, buried under several inches of dirt and sand.

A friend demonstrated the metal detector in Hutchins' backyard and turned up quite a few coins. Before the friend had covered the whole yard with the metal detector, Hutchins bought it and has been hunting old coins as a hobby since.

Hutchins' enthusiasm for his hobby of hunting old coins has infected his friends and he found himself making several trips a week to Odessa to buy metal detectors for them. He decided to stock them in his meat processing store. Hutchins hastens to assure his meat customers that he still has hams and chickens at Hutch's Meat Processing. Hunting old coins is a hobby.

Not only has he found valuable coins and rings, he has turned up old horseshoes, wagon wheel hubs, bottle caps and foil. In fact, he says with a wry grin, his metal detector has an affinity for pull tops and foil.

He has found a silver saddle ring, a cup full of gold rings with set missing, including a one-third ounce pink gold handmade ring minus the set.

In a park in Midland he found over 500 coins, but he generally hunts old coins at ghost towns and old deserted ranch houses, of course, getting permission first.

An 1871 Indian head penny, worth $8-$10, was found at the old town of Picketville two miles north of Breckenridge along with 103 coins dated earlier than 1920. He found 300 coins of all ages in three days there.

He has a bag of coins weighing 39 pounds. One has been appraised at $65. One valuable ring with three diamonds was found three inches underground. He also found a 14 carat gold Bull Durham watch fob that American Tobacco Co. said was made in 1914, the back of a gold watch and a silver World War I French Medal.

The metal detectors that Hutchins stocks cost from $49 to $300 and will detect metal from 2-10 inches underground.

CARPET TALK
By Edd Tucker
REMODELING is a time-consuming, expensive and often messy proposition, disrupting your home life as well as your budget. But did you ever think how much "remodeling" you can do with carpeting... the easy way?

Large expanses of space, such as floors and walls, dominate the impression a room gives. That's why fresh paint on the walls makes a drab room wake up... and new carpeting on the floor completes the picture. If you can't change the room itself, you can make it look new with color and carpeting.

Carpets can help you remodel in other practical ways. For instance, replacing an old tile floor in kitchen or bath can be costly and disruptive... but one of the new kitchen carpets can be cut to fit in a jiffy, transforming the room instantly. And the durable, stain-resistant and moisture-resistant carpets are easy on the cook's feet as well.

Rocky Voices Confidence U.S. Can Overcome Economic Woes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In his first cross-country speaking trip as a stand-in for President Ford, Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller concentrated on expressing confidence the nation could overcome its economic problems.

Rockefeller took Ford's place Wednesday for nonpolitical speeches at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, and a United Press International editors' conference here. He said he is in a "suspended position" pending congressional confirmation.

After an overnight stay in San Francisco, he returns to Washington today for a luncheon of the Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board.

The former New York governor has said he won't make political appearances until he is confirmed.

California Officials To View Oil Slick

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — State investigators planned to fly over a 12-mile section of rocky coastline today to inspect an oil slick that Coast Guard officials say was caused by natural seepage.

The seepage had caused no damage to the beach area south of Santa Barbara and presented no danger to fish or fowl, the team reported.

"Natural gas seepage in the area is common but ocean currents and wind usually keep the oil offshore," O'Connell said.

Two-Week Moratorium Put On Calf Slaughter

STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Ranchers and dairyman developed plans today to seek a meeting with President Ford, at the same time setting a two-week moratorium on the slaughter of hundreds of calves in protest over economic conditions.

Presidential aide David Wheat told cattlemen Wednesday he would attempt to set up a meeting with Ford but later clarified his remarks to emphasize no definite meeting had been arranged.

Wheat telephoned dairyman Jack Beyer on whose range some 800 calves were to be shot Wednesday. Wheat's call and an on-the-scene appeal by Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White caused the some 400 dairymen and ranchers gathered at the Beyer farm to scrap their immediate plans to slaughter the cattle and bury the carcasses in a mass grave.

Cattlemen and dairy herd owners backed their stock trailers and pickup trucks to the edge of a 75-yard-long trench, threatening to shoot the bawling young calves because the price of feed makes it impractical to raise them to maturity.

The stockmen spurred proposals to donate the calves to charitable groups.

"We're not in the donating business. We came here to kill these calves because we can't afford to feed them. Neither can anyone else. You'd lose money on them even if you got them free," said one stockman.

One cattleman, Garvin Wood, 57, said beef and dairy operators lose $100 to $150 a head on grain-fed cattle because of the skyrocketing cost of feed. He blamed the sale of U.S. grain to Russia for the pinch.

"That's when it all started, right about then. I've been in this business since 1946 and I've never lost money until now," he said.

White appealed to the cattlemen not to slaughter the calves, all of which averaged about 90 pounds each, far below proper slaughter weight.

Additionally, the calves were not sleek, well-fed beef cattle but sickly, undernourished bull calf culls.

"Hell, a dozen won't bring but about $70," said Beyer's son, Jim. "You can't afford to keep them. They'll just starve."

White climbed atop a flatbed truck, microphone in hand, told the sea of weathered faces they had his sympathy.

"I know what you're going through. I'd sell my cattle just for what I've got in them. I'm sure you would, too."

"But there's got to be a better way than this. Let's try to hold on a little longer. Give me a chance to try to set up a meeting with President Ford. I believe he's an honest and sincere man. I believe he'd rather talk to one of you than all the New York economists together," White told a responsive audience.

There were many, however,

Kidnap Victim's Death Blamed On Carbon Monoxide

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Authorities say carbon monoxide gas killed Jean R. Reville. She died in the trunk of a car where she had been left by three bandits who kidnaped her for a ransom paid by her banker husband.

Meanwhile, officials of the Georgia Railroad Bank and Trust offered a $5,000 reward Wednesday for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the bandits. Mrs. Reville's husband, E.B. Reville, is manager of the Hephzibah, Ga., branch of the bank.

Three men kidnaped Reville early Monday and told him they were holding his 51-year-old wife. He gave them an undisclosed sum from his bank to arrange for her freedom.

He was found locked in the trunk of his car by searchers Tuesday.

Mrs. Reville's body was found in the trunk of her vehicle several hours later. A pathologist's report disclosed that she died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

FBI agent Joseph Sylvester said the three bandits face federal charges of bank robbery and extortion and state charges of murder and kidnaping.

He said authorities are pursuing hundreds of leads.

who scoffed at help from Washington.

"What good will it do to talk, John?" called one gravelled voice from the crowd. "They've never done us any good so far."

James Traweck urged the stockmen to wait two weeks to give Ford a chance to provide subsidies or other solutions.

White appealed to their sense "If nothing happens in two weeks then we'll come back out here and kill these calves and more. What we do here will mushroom all over the country," he said.

After several voice votes, the outcomes of which were questionable, the disgruntled cowmen scrapped their plans to slaughter the calves.

White appealed to their sense of public relations but some cattlemen were unmoved. "I don't give a damn," snapped one. "Ninety per cent of the women don't know where their groceries come from. They're going to find out."

But White, in a conciliatory tone, pressed his belief that slaughtering the cattle would serve no useful purpose.

Symphony To Bring Sound Of Music To Midland, Odessa

The sound of music will be in the air this month in both Midland and Odessa as the Midland-Odessa Symphony launches its 1974-75 season.

Not only will October be offering season-opening concerts in the two cities, but there will be special "pops" preliminary programs in each place as well.

Campaigns for the sale of season tickets for the six-concert series offered by the orchestra this year will begin with the "pops" events next week. The first of the special programs will be at noon Tuesday in the new Convenience Center of the American Bank of Odessa, followed by the Midland's now-traditional "Pops in the Plaza" concert at noon Wednesday in the plaza of The First National Bank in Downtown Midland.

Both "pops" events will be free to the public, and sandwiches and soft drinks will be available.

Dr. Thomas Hohstadt, new music director-conductor of the Midland-Odessa Symphony, will be on the podium for the orchestra's season-opening concert Oct. 21 and 22. Dr. Hohstadt served 10 years as conductor of the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra before accepting the Midland-Odessa post this past summer.

Of the 1974-75 season, Dr. Hohstadt said that "our programs have been designed to please a wide variety of musical tastes throughout the season, with emphasis always upon quality music."

The opening concerts Oct. 21 and 22 will have guitar virtuoso Chet Atkins appearing as guest artist. The Odessa concert on Monday, Oct. 21, will be in the Ector County Coliseum, beginning at 8 p.m. and will be open to persons purchasing individual concert tickets as well to those who hold season tickets. The Midland concert on Oct. 22, in Lee High School auditorium, will be open to season ticket-holders only.

Single tickets for the Odessa Atkins concert are priced at $6.50, $5.50 and $4.50. Season tickets are $20 for reserved seats, $15 for general admission, and $4 for students.

Atkins' recent concert tours have taken him to more than a hundred cities in the U.S., Canada, Europe, Africa and Japan. Critics recognize his genius and note his appeal is much broader than the country and Western music fields into which he made his first musical venture.

The first half of the season-opening concerts will feature the orchestra with such rousing works as Haymen's "Hallelujah," Carmen Dragon's "Shenandoah," Aaron Copland's

"Rodeo," and Paul Creston's "Night in Mexico." The entire second half of each program will feature Atkins in a wide range of selections with the symphony. The second concert pair is scheduled Dec. 16 and 17, at which Christmas music will be offered. Other concerts scheduled for the season are to be on Feb. 3 (in Odessa only), March 10 and 11, April 7 and 8, and May 5 (in Midland only).

Season tickets may be ordered by mail from either the Midland Symphony Association or the Odessa Symphony Association, or purchased from individual members. The Midland mailing address is P. O. Box 4482, Midland 79701, and the Odessa address is Box 2342, Odessa 79760. Symphony Guilds in both cities will have ticket sales offices beginning next week. The Midland box office will be in the Texas Electric Service Co., while the Odessa Guild's sales location will be the American Bank Convenience Center.

Rick Nelson To Perform At LCC Soon

LUBBOCK—Rick Nelson, popular recording star, will appear in concert at Lubbock Christian College Oct. 26.

The program will be a highlight event of LCC's first High School Day of the current year. High school students from the South Plains and surrounding area will be on the LCC campus that day for special programs designed to familiarize them with college life.

High School Day is an annual event at LCC, sponsored by the college's admissions office. Special sessions dealing with academic and financial aid counseling, plus campus tours and a variety of other activities are on the schedule.

Nelson and the Stone Canyon Band will perform in Moody Auditorium on the LCC campus. All seats are reserved and are priced at $4.50. Tickets may be purchased at both locations of John's Jeans in Lubbock or by mail from the admissions office, Lubbock Christian College, 5601 W. 19th St., Lubbock 79407.

Midland Students Involved In Campus Musicals, Dramas

Students from Midland are involved in campus musicals and dramatic productions scheduled for presentation during coming weeks at Southwest Texas State University and McMurry College.

Midlanders Kim Curry, Ricky Bowen and Barron Frith, all students at Southwest Texas State University, San Marcos, are working in three separate productions which will be presented at the university this month.

Frith is a cast member of the musical, "Once Upon A Mattress," scheduled for presentation Oct. 7-12 in the university theater.

The musical spoof is based on the old fairy tale of the princess and the pea. Frith plays the part of Sir Harry in the production. A graduate of Robert E. Lee High School, Frith is a freshman music major at SWTSU, where he also is a member of the University Chorale.

Bowen, also a graduate of Lee High School, is a SWTSU freshman majoring in political science. He will appear in SWTSU readers theater production of "Thunder Traveling Over the Mountain" which will have presentations Oct. 16-18 in the university's Speech-Drama Center.

Directed by Dr. Lester Schilling of the speech-drama faculty, the play is about the Nez Perce Indians. The script is made up of passages from original sources, plus dialogue, speeches and events and legends from the oral tradition of the tribe.

Miss Curry, a junior student at SWTSU, is assistant director of a production of Eugene Ionesco's "Exit the King," which will open Oct. 21 in the university's Studio Theater.

The play is about the impending death of a king who has lived thousands of years, and it probes the inner and outer feelings of the monarch and those who have loved him and served him. The SWSTU production will feature an experimental type of staging known as "environmental theater," allowing the audience to share the stage with the actors. The production, which will have performances through Oct. 26, is directed by SWSTU graduate student Robert Neubauer of Corpus Christi. Philip Brewer of Midland, a junior student at McMurry College, Abilene, is actively involved in two separate productions at the school.

Brewer is the assistant director of McMurry's "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds" which will be presented Oct. 10-12 in the Moody Center Little Theater on the college campus. The Paul Zindel drama is directed by Jo B. Guthrie of the McMurry speech-drama faculty.

Brewer is a cast member of the McMurry College production of the hit musical drama, "Godspell." The musical utilizes the device of a group of circus performers who act out the parables in the Gospel According to St. Matthew. The musical was a recent hit in New York and has since had numerous successful productions elsewhere.

McMurry drama director Jo Guthrie is directing the production, with Dr. David Blackburn serving as musical director.

Injunction Sought In Strike Violence

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — District Court Judge Donald Markle has been asked to sign an order forbidding violence by union workers who have been on strike since Aug. 5 at the Texas City plant of Amoco Oil Co.

Markle scheduled a hearing next Wednesday after company lawyers filed the temporary and permanent injunction petition Wednesday.

The Oil, Chemical & Atomic Workers Union Local 4-449 is seeking a 36-hour work week. Amoco alleges pickets and others have blocked plant driveways, scattered nails and tacks in the driveways, have cursed and threatened employees entering the plant, and have thrown rocks and other objects. One employee was reported to have been injured.

Ice Capades Opens Run Next Tuesday

ODESSA — Take a little bit of the sawdust-y flavor of the circus. Add the thrills, excitement and athletic prowess of a sports attraction. Lace it with the 20th Century magic of film, and you have the newest edition of Ice Capades, opening at Odessa's Ector County Coliseum next Tuesday for a seven-performance engagement.

Moving to the music of James Harbert and Billy Barnes, decked out in the costumes of Bill Campbell, glittering with the splendid sets of Bill Goodwin, and staged by the kaleidoscopic mind of director-choreographer Bob Turk, this year's Ice Capades is variety show par excellence.

The mood and pace of this fast-moving show are set the moment the lights go up and the music begins for the opening production, "Reflections." The ice comes alive with a shimmering display of multi-images reflected off a montage of mirrors, as the members of the corps de ballet introduce lovely Julie Holmes to skate a fluid, dreamlike solo. It's a long, long time from May to December, but not the way Ice Capades does it. Through the magic of film, the show brings "the seasons," spotlighting Roy and Sandi Wagelein in Summer and Sashi Kuchiki in the spring segment. Winter is a skating party at St. Moritz, featuring the corps de ballet and the charming Sarah Kawahara.

Ice Capades "goes thataway" to end the first half of this exciting new production, as the world-famous Ice Capets became "The Rangerettes" to perform some brilliant precision skating, Texas style.

For the grand finale, Ice Capades presents one of the most colorful productions numbers ever staged, "Carnival." There are musicians, devils, harlequins, and jesters.

PIVOTAL CHARACTERS—Gloria Stephenson, Clay Guthrie, Henry Goulet and Robert Reeder, from left to right, portray some of the pivotal characters in "Jabberwock," a new comedy by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee which opens Oct. 11 at Theatre Centre. Performances will continue there through Oct. 26.

'Jabberwock' Rehearsals In Final Stage

A new comedy combining fantasy with fact is "Jabberwock," now in rehearsal at Theatre Centre.

The play by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee, who collaborated in creating such previous stage hits as "Auntie Mame," "Inherit the Wind" and "The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail," opens a week from Friday to initiate the fall portion of Midland Community Theatre's current season. It will run through Oct. 26, barring holdovers.

"Jabberwock" is based on the late, great American humorist James Thurber's rather loose recollections of his boyhood in Columbus, Ohio back in the World War I era. Playwrights Lawrence and Lee call their play "a slightly off-key hymn to the pertinence and the impertinence of nonsense, a psalm of life as experienced by a teenaged non-conformist. Documentary? Hardly!"

So who, or what, is a "Jabberwock?"

Fans of Lewis Carroll, author of the beloved "Alice in Wonderland," will undoubtedly recognize it as the title of Carroll's famous nonsense poem, and the pair of playwrights go on to explain: "Thurber looked askance at the reliability of reality long before it became stylish as Theater of the Absurd. He and Lewis Carroll are undoubtedly the leading absurdists of the English language. Carroll's celebrated poem begins 'Twas brillig and the slithy toves.' But Thurber asks, 'What do you mean it WAS brillig?' It still is! That's why we've called the play 'Jabberwock'!

"The Jabberwock in Thurber's life—the monstrous dragon which needed a sword in the stomach—was hypocrisy, self-deception, the lie of repetition, the toxic rumor that life is a bore. Thurber, like the young hero of Lewis Carroll's poem, slew that dragon. But the Jabberwock is a Hydra-headed monster which must be slain daily. And Thurber reminds us how it can be done!"

Lawrence and Lee drew most of their stage material from Thurber's popular and highly praised "My Life and Hard Times" and "My World and Welcome To It." They also utilized portions of such other Thurber stories as "The Night the Ghost Got In," "What Do You Mean It WAS Brillig?" "A Sequence of Servants" and "The Night the Bed Fell."

One critic noted that "In watching and listening to 'Jabberwock,' it's hard to tell where Thurber left off and Lawrence and Lee begin. They have caught Thurber's nuances almost flawlessly." Another wrote that the script might best be described as "an episodic comedy filled with the absurdities of young Jamie Thurber's imagination and the unusual things that were commonplace in his household." Still another described the play as "a warm and funny show about warm and funny people."

In MCT's production, young

Jamie Thurber is played by Clay Guthrie, with Gloria Stephenson in the pivotal role of his mother. His father is portrayed by Mark Guinan, with Hal Coon and Robert Reeder as Jamie's brothers. The liveliest character in the household is Grandpa Fisher, age 77, who alternates between refighting the Civil War and saddle-breaking the family's new electric car. Henry Goulet will be seen in the role.

Many other delightful characters make up the cast of this new play which was written for the American Playwrights Theatre, an organization of community and non-commercial theaters, formed to acquire the rights to new scripts before Broadway and touring groups (and the movies) have worn them thin.

The Theatre Centre box office has opened to MCT members to make seat reservations for all performances of the comedy. Tickets will go on sale to the general public next Monday.

MCT Elects New Board Members

Four new members of the board of governors of Midland Community Theatre Inc. were elected Sunday at MCT's annual meeting.

The new board members are Mrs. Frank Kell Cahoon, Mrs. Billy Jackson, Rufe Bynum, Glenn Rogers, Charles Tighe and Michael Wisenbaker. They replace Mrs. William Aycock, Mrs. Jackson, Rufe Bynum, Jr., and Robert C. Bledsoe. Hold-over directors are C. J. Kelly, F. H. McGuigan, La Doyce Lambert, Ed Vogler, Dick Vivion, W. W. Griffith and Decker Dawson.

At a subsequent meeting of the board this week, McGuigan was named president of MCT for the coming year, succeeding Lambert in the post. Other new officers are Vogler, vice president for business; Vivion, vice president for production, and Griffith, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. W. J. Heath was named to the theater board at this meeting, to succeed Mrs. Robert Gourley, who resigned. Mrs. Heath is president of ACT IX, theater auxiliary.

At Sunday's annual meeting, Bob Mayberry received the annual Hambrocks Award for 1974. Hambrocks is an organization made up of backstage workers of Midland Community Theatre. Mayberry also is active onstage at MCT, having had a role in MCT's "Of Mice and Men" earlier this season as well as being a cast member of MCT's "Jabberwock," which opens late next week.

LUBBOCK — Veteran television and motion picture actress Kathleen Freeman is the star of Hayloft Dinner Theater's current attraction, "The Solid Gold Cadillac."

Don't Use Mouth To Siphon Gas

OTTAWA (AP) — Consumers' Association of Canada reports that motorists risk serious injury and possible death if they use their mouths to siphon gasoline from one car gas tank to another. If a mouthful of gasoline is swallowed, nausea and vomiting may result. Serious lung damage can be caused by sucking the gas into the lungs. If siphoning is necessary, use a hand pump.

Grassroots Government Attacking Problems With Vitality

By RICHARD E. MEYER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Far from the center of power, while Washington flourished in Watergate, state and city governments moved briskly and often innovatively to advance the commonweal.

Government at the grassroots acted with vitality in many areas despite the two years of scandal, impeachment proceedings and presidential resignation in Washington — perhaps even because of them.

Some states aided their elderly with tax and rent relief. Others, in cooperation with their municipalities, inaugurated new mass transit systems. Nearly all passed campaign finance disclosure laws. Several reorganized their governmental machinery from top to bottom. Many took new steps to improve the safety and security of their residents. And some took long-range steps to plan their futures.

"At the federal level," says Dan Evans, governor of Washington and chairman of the National Governors' Conference, "initiatives are still being debated or 'considered' — in such critical areas as consumer protection, governmental reorganization, energy use and controls, land use legislation, welfare reform, ethics in government — while states and their subdivisions have acted decisively."

A survey by The Associated Press has turned up a variety of state and local projects over the past two years — all of them determined efforts to grapple with the nation's political, economic and social problems.

THE ELDERLY

Massachusetts has guaranteed a minimum income for its elderly. It assures them of $195 a month from federal takeover of the state's aid-to-the-aged program, plus a state supplement of $214.52 for a couple living together without blindness or disability.

Several states, including Pennsylvania, have "circuit breakers" in their tax laws, pegging property tax payments to incomes.

The provision, plus rent relief to widows and widowers age 50 or over, has meant tax rebates for tens of thousands of elderly Pennsylvanians. They are paid with income from the state lottery.

Pennsylvanians have approved $100 million in bonds to provide low-interest state loans to nursing homes which find it virtually impossible to obtain money in the private market to upgrade fire safety. Arkansas provides free prescription drugs for the elderly. New York is letting persons 60 and older audit courses free at state universities and community colleges.

West Virginia is using a $4 million federal grant to provide transportation tickets for the elderly and disabled on both public and private carriers. And with its state lottery money, Pennsylvania is providing free rides for anyone over 65 on any of more than 70 participating transportation systems at any time but rush hour.

ENVIRONMENT

Boston has been ordered by the Environmental Protection Agency to reduce the number of cars on its old, narrow streets. To help meet the EPA ruling, cut air and noise pollution and reduce the traffic jams, the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority offers "dime time" in nonrush hours, when passengers can ride buses, subways and commuter railroads anywhere for a dime. Normal fare is 20 to 25 cents.

Other cities and states are using mass transit to cut down auto damage to the environment. Chattanooga, Tenn., is inaugurating a mass transit authority. A half-cent of Michigan's two-penny increase in gasoline tax is going to mass transit, and the state is deploying a fleet of minibuses in its smaller cities that can be summoned by telephone for door-to-door service. Michigan also is opening 51 parking lots at strategic spots around the state for car pools. St. Louis city and county, the neighboring state of Illinois and their Bi-State System are reducing bus fares to 25 cents and expanding service. Oregon is using highway money to build more than 60 miles of bikeways — and turning urban bikeways originally planned as scenic routes into bicycle routes.

To Brad Jones, 17, of Portland, who uses a bikeway to get to and from work in a department store, "it's really a great idea." Jones says he has friends who feel the same way. "It's a much safer way and it makes getting to work a lot faster and easier."

In other moves to improve the environment:

West Virginia is scrapping the half-million abandoned cars and assorted other pieces of junk marring its countryside. Connecticut is building 10 plants to process solid waste and recover reusable materials such as iron, glass and aluminum. Waste that cannot be recycled is converted to fuel for power plants. Wisconsin cities and counties collect trash and ship it to regional centers for recycling under supervision of the state.

In the urban environment, Philadelphia is rehabilitating 580 homes in a neighborhood development program and tearing down scores of abandoned homes to turn the lots into urban "green spots." Salt Lake City has forced its downtown businesses to remove the neon jungle of overhanging signs, which once rated its Main Street a mention in a book on kitsch.

POLITICS AND GOVERNMENT

Forty-seven states have passed campaign finance disclosure laws, many carrying stringent penalties for violation — some including loss of office if the violator should win.

The state of Washington requires all candidates for state office and all elected officeholders to file personal financial statements listing salaries, dividends, real estate and stock holdings, positions held in business firms and all clients of the firms doing business worth $500 or more each year. Washington also requires candidates or their election committees to list all campaign contributions of more than $5. It limits total campaign spending to 10 cents per registered voter in each candidate's constituency.

Several states have established watchdogs to keep an eye on their officeholders.

Some states have reorganized their governments.

Louisiana has written a new constitution. Massachusetts, Idaho, Kansas and South Dakota have consolidated their executive agencies into cabinet-like departments. Utah has established regional councils of government. Connecticut has consolidated its prosecutors and given them statewide jurisdiction. And South Dakota has curtailed patronage with civil service-type jobs for all but a few top-level, policy-making employees.

SAFETY AND SECURITY
Cities and states have taken steps to improve the safety and security of their residents and to provide help for citizens in distress.

Georgia provides a telephone information and referral service. Its Department of Human Resources accepts telephone calls on a toll-free system. Counselors connect callers with appropriate agencies and stay on the line for "immediate feedback."

"We have gotten calls from people who are being evicted who run to the corner drug store and call on the tie-line and say their furniture is being thrown on the streets," says Joy Ruyle, director of the program. "We usually get it stored in temporary housing."

Woman's Cancer Probable Result Of Drug Mother Took In Pregnancy

MONROVIA, Calif. (AP) —

In 1952, Janice Luder's mother took a drug to prevent losing Janice through a miscarriage.

"I was trying to save a life," the mother recalled.

Twenty-two years later, Janice had a radical operation for cancer of the vagina — she probably result of the drug her mother took.

The drug is called diethylstilbestrol (DES) and was prescribed to perhaps millions of women between 1945 and 1971 to prevent miscarriage.

Then, after a link was established to vaginal cancer, the Food and Drug Administration warned against the use of the hormone during pregnancy.

25,000 Women Exposed
In Southern California, one study estimated 25,000 women were exposed to DES before birth. There have been reports of 15 vaginal cancers among them but no deaths. Two hundred cases have been reported nationwide, with 24 deaths. Cancer linked to DES has never been detected in males.

Patients usually undergo radiation therapy or hysterectomies and vaginectomies (removal of the vagina).

Janice Luder might be expected to blame her mother for the cancer. She doesn't.

"There could be a chance my cancer wasn't caused by it (DES), so why put the guilt on my mother?" she asks.

Her mother, Vivian MacWhirter, said until she checked her doctor's records, she thought she had taken nothing stronger than vitamins during her pregnancy. After finding out that she had taken DES and that it might have caused her daughter's illness, Mrs. MacWhirter said she felt a stab of guilt.

Mother Defends Action

"But very shortly, I felt differently," she said. "I had had faith in my doctor and faced with the same situation and the same knowledge, I would do the same thing today. I was trying to save a life."

Janice's cancer was detected during a routine examination. The operation took nearly six

Extradition Ruled Out For Hughes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Billonaire Howard Hughes will not be extradited from the Bahamas to face trial in Las Vegas, a Justice Department spokesman says.

Spokesman Robert Stevenson said Wednesday that department lawyers decided against trying to extradite Hughes to face stock manipulation charges because it would be expensive and chances of success were slim.

Hughes is scheduled to be arraigned Oct. 25 in federal court on charges of wire fraud, mail fraud and conspiracy to manipulate the stock of Air West Airlines. He and three associates are accused of conspiring to drive down Air West stock prices while negotiating to buy the airlines in 1968.

hours. Four surgeons removed her uterus, pelvic lymph nodes and part of her vagina.

Doctors said there is a 95 percent chance the cancer will not recur.

"The hardest thing for me to accept through all this was that I'd be sterile," she said. "To me that outweighed the fact I had cancer."

Listening to her was her husband, Larry, a college student. They share a home in Monrovia, a Los Angeles suburb, with Mrs. Luder's parents.

"Oh, we can adopt," said

Mrs. Luder. "Wanting to live outweighed the fact I couldn't have children. The important thing is that my husband and I can have a life together."

She is concerned about women who may have never heard of DES and who might develop vaginal cancer, which can be quickly terminal if it goes undetected.

"All it takes is one trip to the doctor," she said. "You think of cancer as being painful or causing you to lose weight. I felt great even the day I was admitted to the hospital."

Midland Youth Center Chatter

By GAYLE GRIMLAND, LESLIE MORGAN and VICKI THROCKMORTON

Monday the race begins! The runners are keyed up and ready to go full blast. At first it's crowded and everyone is able to keep up with the others. Toward the middle, Wednesday, one tends to fall behind and gets tired. By Thursday, one can see the finish line around the curve. Friday, the runner finally makes it over the finish line: a chance to rest, party, and prepare for the next race on Monday.

The President's Social Committee wishes to thank all the eager workers who helped decorate the Youth Center for the dance last weekend. Everything really looked great. A special thanks to Debbie Rasmussen and Renee Pomeroy for their artistic abilities. Announced as Howdy Week favorites were Michelle Hickey and Sam Zachery. Musical Named For Hair Products

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The popular '50s rock 'n' roll musical "Grease," which is enjoying a successful run in San Francisco, was so named because of the hair preparations used by teen-agers of that era.

It is no wonder then that in Mexico the musical was tagged "Vaseline."

Facts On Oil Earnings

Oil companies, "despite general clamor to the contrary," have been earning less than the average of all other industries.

This is the firm conviction of Dr. Robert H. Sterling, a Rice University professor of accounting.

This fact has been stated time after time by the oil companies and others, but to have a Rice University professor of Dr. Sterling's stature volunteer facts and figures supporting industry claims in this regard really lends prestige to the case in point.

Dr. Sterling, according to a Houston news release appearing in the Sept. 25 issue of The Oil Daily, said the correct profit picture of the oil industry now has been established through independent research.

He emphasized the fact that the true effect of expropriations of some oil companies by certain foreign governments has not yet been fully revealed.

The professor cited comparisons covering the 1964-73 decade.

Oil companies, for instance, had 10.9 per cent return on common equity, compared to 12.4 per cent for other industries. In the area of return on owner's equity, oil had 9.8 per cent, while other industries had 11.7 per cent. Concerning return on owner's equity plus long-term debt, oil had 8.7 per cent, compared to 10.7 for other industries. Finally, on return on total assets, oil showed 6.9 per cent, compared to 7.7 per cent for other industries.

This is a most interesting study, revealing noteworthy, reliable figures which should gain the attention of members of Congress, consumers and the nation at large.

We have heard so many fairy tales to the contrary, many of them irresponsible and from questionable sources, that it is most encouraging to have a distinguished Rice University professor of accounting uphold the earnings claim of the petroleum industry.

A Final Reminder!

If you yet haven't registered for voting in the Nov. 5 general election, you had better get with it NOW! Time is very short for taking care of this important matter.

Qualified persons wishing to vote in the general election must be registered BY Saturday of this week. A voter registration application may be obtained at the county tax assessor-collector's office. It may be filed either in person or by mail.

The Midland League of Women Voters points out that it is not necessary to register every year in order to vote. An initial voter registration is good for three years and is extended automatically for three more years when the holder votes in a primary, runoff or general election.

Remember the "by Saturday" deadline . . . and today is Thursday!

'Here's A Written Report, Mr. President, But It's In Invisible Ink!'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson Says: ITT's top bugging man 'visited' Chile.

WASHINGTON — International Telephone and Telegraph dispatched one of America's top bugging experts into the homes and government palace of Chilean president Salvador Allende in 1971.

The alleged purpose of this mysterious mission was to "de-bug" Allende's rooms and to train Chilean police and army men in electronic de-bugging techniques. Interestingly, it was the military which later overthrew Allende.

The visit of master-bugger John Ragan came as ITT, the CIA and the U.S. Embassy in Santiago busily were seeking information to help them get the socialist Allende out of office. Allende was nationalizing American companies in Chile, including ITT.

Ragan, an ex-FBI electronic specialist, is best known as the man called in by the White House "plumbers" to bug the home of columnist Joseph Kraft. But in the "business," Ragan is respected as an awesome pro: A specialist called in to de-bug the quarters of such notables as Richard Nixon, former Attorney General John Mitchell, Charles "Bebe" Rebozo and others.

On his trip to turbulent Chile, Ragan took along a load of "offensive" bugging equipment. Secret Watergate documents show he was accompanied down by ITT's assistant security director, Russell Tagliareni.

The documents reveal that Ragan stayed in Chile from April 28, 1971, to May 5, 1971, and was paid $200 a day by ITT. While there, Ragan, at the invitation of the army and police, entered Allende's homes at Valparaiso and Santiago, and his presidential palace.

According to Ragan, he and Allende once sat down and had coffee. There the Chilean leader learned that Ragan worked for ITT. Ragan describes the conversation as "cordial."

No one seems to know why ITT, a relentless enemy of Allende's, was allowed in his dwellings, much less why the Chilean president let an ITT agent conduct "electronic sweeps" of his rooms at a time when planting of bugs was widely feared in Chile. Allende can't explain: He died from gunshot wounds in the coup.

But as we reported on March 21, 1972, ITT had made approaches "to select members of the Armed Forces in an attempt to have them lead some sort of uprising" in late 1970, only a few months before ITT and the Chilean army helped arrange Ragan's visit.

The ITT electronics mission is even more puzzling in view of a secret ITT memo dated Sept. 29, 1970, from ITT Vice President E. J. Gerrity to ITT President Harold Geneen. In the memo, Gerrity advises "We should withdraw all technical help (to Chile) and should not promise any technical assistance in the future."

Yet, within months, ITT's deputy security chief and its $200-a-day electronics consultant were dispatched to give "technical assistance" to the army, police and to at least one Chilean telephone company official.

Through a trusted intermediary, we have been given a summary of Ragan's notes on the visit. They do not shed the same recruitment abuses are widespread in the Marine Corps. Recruiters have gone to the crime rosters for their "few good men," and have arranged with district attorneys, defense attorneys and judges to drop or reduce criminal charges against those who enlist.

A California source, familiar with the practice, describes how prospective jailbirds are told "that unless they enlist for a term of two or three years, they will go to jail." Not surprisingly, most of them prefer a hitch in the Marines to a stretch in the slammer.

My reporter, Randy Fitzgerald, made spot-checks around the country. Here are a few of his findings.

In Houston, a spokesman for the Harris County District Attorney's office admitted it is an "informal" practice to allow prison prospects to choose military service instead. Usually such prisoners would have gotten probation, he said.

Another Texas district attorney, who preferred not to be identified, acknowledged that the number of men entering the Marine Corps through coerced enlistment "has increased considerably in the last few years."

Los Angeles attorney Scott Tepper says he has clients "from all across the nation" who were coerced into the armed services. "Marine recruiters are now enrolling young recruits," he charged, by methods "reminiscent of the impressment techniques used in Draconian times."

The Marine Corps' acting commandant, Gen. E. E. Anderson, insisted "all this is against policy. Yet in a letter to Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Tex., the general conceded that recruiting regulations have been "circumvented" in an unknown number of cases.

RAY CROMLEY Executive Prisoner In The White House

WASHINGTON (NEA)—President Ford is in danger of becoming a prisoner of his White House staff.

Although old friends get through to him, the staff limits the President's contacts, taking care to restrict those who will oppose plans they favor. They program his movements in a way to influence his actions and decisions or keep him so busy he does not have time to intensively question their judgments. They bring back word from the bureaucracy that things they do not want done cannot be done or they produce evidence of a public consensus for programs they favor.

This scenario is not new of course. To an important extent, Presidents Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon and Eisenhower too, were prisoners. President Franklin Roosevelt, originator of the White House staff system, escaped imprisonment primarily because he was adept at playing one man against another. President Truman was partly successful because he delegated so much authority to cabinet officers. Even the most willful staff — and Mr. Truman had that — could not seriously affect most decisions.

Mr. Ford's situation appears to be worse than that of his predecessors, with the possible exception of Mr. Johnson.

When Roosevelt set up the modern White House staff system years back, the move was hailed by experts as saving the presidency. The problem then, as now, was that the federal bureaucracy had become so large, unwieldy and entrenched that it moved under its own power with little regard to the president — any president — or his wishes.

The White House staff thus was created to provide the president with men and women expert enough to penetrate that bureaucracy, find out where the levers were and get the action the president wanted. They were also to give the president independent viewpoints on proposals from the departments and bureaus. Things didn't work out that way.

Mr. Kennedy was forced to make end runs around his own staff. He spent a great deal of time putting his own men into key posts up and down the line in the major departments. He then dealt with them. This technique, curiously enough was attempted by Mr. Nixon's chief assistants, H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman with quite unfortunate results. Mr. Johnson relied on a host of personal contacts he had built up in his years as an influential senator.

It was clear to Presidents Kennedy, Truman and Johnson that the White House staff had become a mini-bureaucracy on its own with a momentum difficult to control and heavy with vested interests. The problem is heavy even when a president of one party is succeeded by a president from the opposition. Though there can be a house cleaning, once in place the new group itself becomes a semi-independent living body not completely subject to a president's will, as witness Dr. Kissinger's manipulation of Mr. Nixon in foreign affairs.

The problem is more serious when a vice president succeeds a president of his own party in mid-term and inherits the old staff. Mr. Johnson was convinced the Kennedy White House group he took over repeatedly sabotaged his efforts, as indeed it did. There are reports Ford is suffering the same problem.

THE CONSUMER ALERT—Energy Labeling Program Is Voluntary Venture

BY JOHN L. HILL

Texas Attorney General

AUSTIN — Consumers whose gas and electricity bills are soaring have a tool to assist them in conserving energy — a new energy conservation labeling program.

The program is designed to give consumers, for the first time, the information they need to choose household appliances that make the most efficient use of energy.

For individual consumers, buying more "energy efficient" appliances could mean significantly lower monthly gas or electricity bills.

And, since about 20 per cent of all energy used in the U.S. is used in apartments and homes, and since 1973 alone, more than 43 million major appliances were sold in this country, there is a potential for energy saving on a nationwide scale.

The energy conservation labeling program for household appliances and equipment was begun this past summer by the Department of Commerce as a voluntary cooperative venture between consumers, retailers, and manufacturers.

Although the labels that tell how much energy an appliance uses were designed mainly to help consumers make buying decisions, the program also aims to encourage retailers to stock supplies, and manufacturers to design and produce products that waste less energy.

Since the program now is entirely voluntary, its success depends on the cooperation of all three groups to make it work.

Manufacturers who participate in the program will be labeling household appliances to show how much energy they use and their relative efficiency compared to similar models.

A bill approved last year by the U.S. Senate also would require appliance manufacturers to state energy use in dollars and cents on the labels, although manufacturers say different rates of use and regional variations in utility costs would make such information useless.

Retailers cooperating in the program will provide information on how the energy conservation labeling program works, and will use the energy efficiency information in advertising and point-of-purchase material. Some retailers are cooperating by distributing booklets on energy conservation published by local agencies.

Consumers can use the energy efficiency information to compare appliance models and see which will cost less to operate.

Sometimes an appliance may cost more initially than a competing brand, but operate so much more efficiently that within a few months it has made up the difference by reduced energy bills.

For example, a major appliance that costs $40 more than a competing brand may use only $10 of electricity a month, while a cheaper brand uses $20. In only four months, a consumer could have made up the difference in price. After that, the appliance that initially seemed more expensive would actually be more economical.

The first appliances to be labeled with energy consumption information under the new program were room air conditioners. Eventually, other household appliances that use large amounts of energy and vary greatly in efficiency between models will also be labeled. Refrigerators and freezers, washers and dryers, dishwashers, kitchen ranges and ovens, water heaters, space heaters, and central air conditioning and heating equipment already have been proposed for the energy conservation labeling program.

Consumers can look for three letters on appliances covered under the program to show operating efficiency: EER. They stand for "energy efficiency ratio."

Their appearance on room air conditioner labels this past summer indicated that a unit had been tested and certified by the manufacturer in accordance with program standards for cooling capacity and electrical power requirements. To get the EER for room air conditioners the cooling capacity (BTU's) is divided by the power used to run the unit (watts). The higher the EER, the more efficient the unit.

The energy conservation labeling program, if it is a success, will be a good illustration of what can be achieved when consumers and businessmen work together toward a common goal.

DEMONSTRATION FOR NAVY—One-man mini-helicopter piloted by Jerry Alexander is flown Wednesday in a demonstration at Ector County Airport. The small craft, developed by Aerospace General Co. of Odessa, was flown for 30 minutes at altitudes of more than 1,500 feet. Watching were Ralph Carson, project supervisor of the Naval Air Development Center at Warminster, Pa., other Navy officials and officials from the Air Force and Federal Aviation Administration. Aerospace President Gilbert Magli will take the helicopter to Warminster in November for further demonstrations for the government. (R-T Photos by Johnny Virden.)

Odessa Starts Selective Traffic Enforcement Plan

ODESSA — More traffic accidents and a higher fatality rate this year than last year have prompted the beginning of the Selective Traffic Enforcement Plan (STEP) here. The program began Tuesday. Funded by a $90,000 grant from the Governor's Office of Traffic Safety, the program will be in effect for a six-month period. If successful, it may be extended, Capt. Jimmy Hallman, head of the city's traffic division, said. Hallman explained that the program will include officers working during off-duty hours and riding in unmarked cars for the first week of the program. He explained that this is being done because people just naturally watch their driving more closely if they see a police car in the area. After the first week of the patrolman will go back to standard marked vehicles. The 30 officers who have signed up to participate in the program will include officers working during off-duty hours and riding in unmarked cars for the first week of the program.

They will be working at 83 different locations where there has been 10 or more accidents during the last year. Hallman explained that only regular uniformed officers will still be issuing traffic citations during this week. The plain clothsmen will serve only as observers in an attempt to learn more about the habits of Odessa's drivers, Hallman said.

Ford To Outline Energy Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is expected to address Congress on his new economic and energy programs next Tuesday. Ford's plans were disclosed Wednesday in an address in New York by Sidney L. Jones, deputy assistant to the President for economics and deputy counselor for economic policy.

Senate Unit Okays Plan To Help Preserve Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special federal aid for communities significantly hurt by imports has been approved by the Senate Finance Committee. Under a proposal approved Wednesday, a community whose manufacturing jobs are lost or threatened by imports would be eligible for direct federal loans and loan guarantees. A special federal fund would include $100 million a year in loans and another $500 million for guaranteeing private loans. The loans would be allowed for any plant acquisition, construction or modernization likely to attract new investment and create jobs. The provision was part of the committee's efforts to write a new trade bill that protects American workers and business while opening markets for U.S. exports. Sen. Russell B. Long, the committee chairman, also said the panel had reversed a decision taken Tuesday which would have provided tax relief for industries hurt by imports. The provision, now revoked, would have given a 7 per cent tax credit for industrial investment that results in creation of jobs and an additional credit for each new job created in an area heavily affected by imports. Long also said that a final agreement on the issue of Soviet emigration which has blocked action on the bill, may have to be worked out when the trade legislation is debated on the Senate floor in November or December.

EPA Rules Facing Challenge In Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal antipollution regulations for power plants announced Wednesday already have been challenged in court by utility companies and blasted by the head of the Atomic Energy Commission. Environmental Protection Administrator Russell E. Train eased previously proposed controls on power plant discharges of a dozen forms of pollution in signing the final regulations. But Train imposed, against industry objections, a requirement that large power plants in operation since Jan. 1, 1970, add expensive cooling towers or artificial ponds to keep from heating up streams and lakes. Environmental Protection Administrator Russell E. Train Wednesday he was sure somebody would sue — as somebody always did when EPA issued a major regulation. Meanwhile, the EPA regulations were sharply criticized by Dixy Lee Ray, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. She said the commission had told EPA emphatically that the question of retro-fitting atomic power plants with water-cooling facilities "was one issue of extraordinary importance." She said some 56 nuclear plants might be required to add these facilities at an estimated cost of $2.1 billion. EPA estimated its entire set of standards, covering both heat and other pollution discharges, would cost utilities some $4.1 billion by 1983 and would add about 1.5 per cent to the cost of electricity.

Elgin Car Dealer Files Antitrust Suit Against Ford

DALLAS (AP) — An antitrust suit has been filed in Dallas federal court by an Elgin, Tex., car dealer who claims Ford Motor Co. prohibited him from selling or advertising cars in nearby Austin. J. Ron Smith of Elgin contended in the $9-million suit that Ford committed five violations of federal and state antitrust laws and the motor vehicle board's "dealers day-in-court law." Smith, owner of Ron Smith Ford Sales of Elgin, was forced out of business by Ford when his supply of cars was cut off, said Cecil Casterline, Smith's attorney. Casterline said the company claimed it was following an allocation formula. The attorney said Ford agreed in a November 1973 hearing of the motor vehicle board that the formula may have been inequitable in Smith's case. Casterline said Smith sold all of the cars he was supplied and was left with orders to fill when his bank foreclosed on him early this year. The suit asks for three times the amount of Smith's claimed damages of $3 million if the antitrust violations are proved.

Georgia Governor Said Organizing Presidential Bid

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Sources close to Gov. Jimmy Carter say he is preparing a strong push for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976 and that his formal announcement will come within months. Two sources said in separate interviews Wednesday they believe the 50-year-old outgoing governor has made "an irrevocable decision" to seek the presidency, although Carter, himself, remains publicly silent. One source said the formal announcement could come just before Carter leaves office next January or shortly thereafter. Both sources have access to the governor's thinking. Each agreed to be interviewed on the condition that their names would not be used.

Israeli Withdrawal, Oil Price Reductions Linked By Saudi Arabian

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sheik Zaki Yamani, Saudi Arabia's petroleum minister, warns that another Middle East war could break out in the next six months if the United States does not force Israel to pull back all the way to its 1967 borders.

"All the ingredients of another war are here if we don't have a full Israeli withdrawal," Yamani told 17 newsmen at a dinner Wednesday night.

However, if Israel yields all the land occupied during the 1967 war, Saudi Arabia should be able to persuade all Arab members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) to sharply reduce current oil prices, he said.

"I assure you if we can solve the (Israeli) problem the price of oil will come down," Yamani told his guests.

Together Arab states produce some 24 million barrels of petroleum a day. Yamani's theory is that Iran and Venezuela, the two top non-Arab producing nations, would not withstand a united Arab drive for lower prices.

The Harvard-educated oil minister portrayed Saudi Arabia as a friend of the United States and a steadfast advocate within oil councils of lower prices. Were it not for Saudi Arabia, he said, petroleum would now sell at $15 to $17 a barrel instead of about $11.

"It's all in America's hands," he said. "Israel's only source of power is the United States."

Yamani advanced two major reasons for Israel to settle now with its Arab neighbors by giving up all of its gains from the 1967 war.

Ordinary Americans, finding oil prices on the rise, are questioning whether the current level of U.S. support for Israel is in their interest, he said.

Also, Yamani said, the Arabs are growing ever stronger militarily.

"We're not suggesting Israel should disappear," he said. "The United States can give it security. But the Palestinians who lost their homes have to be treated as human beings."

Yamani said Saudi Arabia will continue its campaign at the next OPEC meeting in December for a price reduction of $1 a barrel.

He said high oil prices are responsible for only a fraction of the current inflation and suggested the United States cut its petroleum consumption by conservation measures and finding alternate sources of energy.

Nixon's Expense Money Slashed Again; Efforts To Cut Off Pension Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has overwhelmingly voted to slash former President Richard M. Nixon's expense money to $200,000 but rejected an effort to cut off even his pension as retribution for Watergate.

Senate action is still required on the measure.

President Ford originally asked $850,000 for Nixon. The House also acted to hold Nixon's White House tapes and papers in Washington until Congress acts on proposals to make them public property.

Cutoff of Nixon's $55,000 pension was proposed by Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., who said that would be the House's last chance to register its verdict that Nixon's "service was not honorable, not deserving of reward."

But Waldie's effort was rejected 344 to 46 after Rep. Howard W. Robison, R-N.Y., appealed to the House to "end this vengeful spirit."

In a compromise between nothing and the $398,000 approved in committee, the House chopped off another $198,000.

The action was on an $8.4 billion supplemental appropriations bill that appears headed for President Ford's veto because the House boosted it $394 million above his budget.

The bill was approved 317 to 72.

Hours earlier, President Ford's historic appearance before a House subcommittee to answer 14 questions on his part-don for Nixon had been set for a week from today.

Chairman William Hungate, D-Mo., of the House Judiciary subcommittee said the session will be open to live broadcast coverage.

Ford will be the first president to appear personally before a congressional panel for questioning since Abraham Lincoln's appearances during the Civil War.

The cut in Nixon's expense money to $200,000 was proposed by Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, D-N.Y., in two separate amendments.

He said that would be enough to cover Nixon's expenses for sorting out his records and answering more than 500,000 letters and would still encourage Nixon to cooperate in making his tapes and documents available to the public.

Addabbo said, "If we give him no funds, we can expect no cooperation from him."

The $398,000 Nixon money approved in committee included $245,000 for a six-month transition period and $153,000 for longer-term expenses.

An Addabbo amendment to cut the $245,000 to $100,000 was approved 342 to 47 and an amendment to cut the $153,000 to $100,000 was approved 321 to 62.

Efforts by Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, to cut everything except the $55,000 pension were rejected.

An amendment by Rep. Sidney Yates, D-Ill., to prohibit use of federal funds to remove Nixon's tapes and papers from federal custody in Washington until Congress acts on proposals to make them public property instead of his personal property was approved by voice vote.

Houston Phone Rate Hike Okayed

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston City Council has given final approval to Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. to increase its rates by 15.6 per cent, effective today, for one-party residential telephone service.

The action, by a 7-2 vote Wednesday, boosts the monthly residential bill from $7.35 to $8.50.

The new ordinance also authorized the telephone company to begin changing in 1976 for telephone number information requests.

Record-Breaking Cold, Snow Blankets Eastern Half Of United States

The eastern half of the nation shivered under a record-breaking blanket of early cold and snow today.

Milwaukee, Wis., set an Oct. 3 record with a low predawn temperature of 27 degrees. New lows for the date also were recorded in Indianapolis, Ind.; Buffalo, N.Y., and Birmingham, Ala.

An Oct. 3, 1886, low of 32 degrees was surpassed in Chicago, marking the third straight day of record low temperatures there.

Pittsburgh, Pa., had its earliest snowfall in a century along with record cold for the date.

An inch of snow whitened Syracuse, N.Y., and there were scattered snowfalls in the lower Great Lakes region, the upper Ohio Valley and the northern Appalachians.

Oct. 2 cold records were broken Wednesday in Charleston, W.Va.; Binghamton, N.Y.; Grand Rapids, Mich., and South Bend, Ind.

Thundershowers that dumped an inch of rain on Bakersfield, Calif., Wednesday, moved eastward.

The northern corners of both coasts were cloudy.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 22 at Bradford, Pa., to 89 at Needles, Calif.

Cambodian Insurgent Force Driven Back

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Government troops drove insurgent forces threatening Kompong Chhnang back two more miles from the provincial capital 57 miles north of Phnom Penh, the Cambodian military command reported today.

It said armored and infantry forces moved on Khmer Rouge rebels dug in five miles west and northwest of the town and killed 80 of the insurgents.

Other reports said the rebels still hold a six-mile section of Highway 5 north of Kompong Chhnang, and another government column is moving against this force.

The Khmer Rouge launched a drive around Kompong Chhnang in mid-September. Foreign observers in Phnom Penh believe their objective was to isolate the town and to disrupt the agricultural economy of the surrounding area.

Western diplomatic observers flying over the province reported seeing rebels burning villages that had been left intact by fleeing civilians.

Meanwhile, in South Vietnam, a group of opposition politicians asserted that President Nguyen Van Thieu is "unable to represent the aspirations and will of the majority of the non-Communist Vietnamese people" and called for his immediate resignation.

The statement was issued at a news conference called by National Assembly member Ly Qui Chung, who is closely affiliated with the nominal leader of the so-called Third Force, Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh. Fifteen assemblymen, senators, former assemblymen and professors signed the statement.

Marriage Is Still Dream Of U.S. Women But Want Some Changes, Poll Shows

NEW YORK (AP) — A good ducted by The Roper Organization is still the dream of American women, but they want some changes made, according to a national poll. Communal living, living alone or living with someone without wanting to combine marriage, being married were viewed as children and careers. Sixteen percent of the women interviewed in the American Women's Opinion Poll con-women cite for getting and staying married. But after love, the poll indicated some shifts in marital priorities. Personal compatibility in marriage — being able to talk together about feelings — is more important to women than sexual fidelity, having children or financial security, the poll reported today.

Coast Guard's Rescue Team Saves Boater

By FRANK ALLEN
ASTORIA, Ore. (AP) — Mike Allison looks at the world through the window of a helicopter. He is a flight mechanic for the Coast Guard search-and-rescue team based in Astoria.

During a routine flight along the Oregon coast recently, Allison was looking down at the ocean, hoping to spot a whale.

"Hey! I see something down there," Allison told the pilot through his headphones. "Looks like a guy waving."

"Come on, Allison. You can't see a guy waving from 2,000 feet," said co-pilot Terry Robertson. "You're not even using the binoculars."

The radioman chimed in, "You seeing sea gulls down there again, Allison?"

"Really," Allison insisted. "I see a guy in the water and he isn't in a boat."

"Okay," said Robertson. "We'll make a lazy circle and have a look."

Allison, 22, was not seeing sea gulls. Below was Charles Machan, clinging to what remained of his fishing boat.

An hour earlier, the bow of the 21-foot boat split suddenly and the bilge filled with water. Machan, 33, of Lincoln City, had no radio aboard to call for help. He grabbed some floats as the boat sank.

Machan knew he could not last long in the chilly water. He kept checking the time on his watch. He decided he was too far out to swim for shore. Finally, he heard the whop-whop of the helicopter's rotor blades.

"I waved and yelled, but I thought they'd never see me," he said. "I feared it was all over. Then they turned around and came back."

On board the helicopter, Allison rolled back the big side door, manned his rescue position and spoke into his intercom. "Basket going down. Basket on the surface. Man getting in basket. Raising the basket. Man and basket on board."

Three minutes after spotting him in the water, Allison was wrapping a blanket around Machan and putting him under the heater. Machan's lips were blue. His whole body was trembling.

Robertson, 25, radioed ahead to Newport to have an ambulance standing by. Machan was rushed to the hospital. Doctors looked him over and prescribed a hot bath.

"It's hard to explain the good feeling I had bringing this guy to safety," Allison said.

Robertson agreed. "The funny thing was we weren't supposed to be on a rescue mission," he said.

"We just happened on the guy while we were taking some spare boat parts to Newport. It was a Saturday morning. The night before I tried to talk the operations officer out of having us make the run. Nobody wants to make a routine run on the weekend. But afterward I was happy we went."

Admittedly, an episode sprinkled with such coincidence is rare for the Coast Guard. But search-and-rescue (SAR) crews see plenty of action every week.

Last year the Coast Guard answered more than 64,000 calls for assistance and saved nearly 3,000 lives. Mike Allison, Terry Robertson and their 80 teammates at Astoria contributed substantially to that record.

They ran 220 SAR missions, scouring 420 miles of rugged coastline from Canada to the California border.

They evacuated heart attack victims from fishing vessels hundreds of miles offshore. They rescued teen-agers stranded after their kayaks had crashed. They risked crashing into high cliffs in storm winds to snatch injured people from rising tides.

Like other Coast Guard stations around the country, their busiest season is the three-month period between Memorial Day and Labor Day. With an estimated eight million pleasure boats in the nation, the typical SAR operation no longer involves a freighter at the mercy of angry winter seas.

To support their mission, crews at Astoria operate a sophisticated communications network. They maintain contact with harbor authorities, police agencies and a team of doctors with the U.S. Public Health Service in Seattle. By radio, the doctors advise rescue crews during medical evacuations.

The workhorse of SAR operations is still the high-speed Coast Guard cutter. Dozens of these versatile boats patrol the coastal waters and river mouths. But Astoria's three H-3 Sikorsky helicopters have added significantly to the Coast Guard's rescue capability.

Former Inmate Now Prison Ombudsman

By MARY SCHEIER
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — James Spivey thinks he knows more about prisons than most criminologists because he took a 36-year course in penology the hard way: behind bars.

"After all that time living with prisoners you know what they pull off and you know what the administration is pulling off," the tall, heavily built Spivey said with a laugh.

Spivey, 62, has been free since 1970 and lives in Detroit. He's now married and the father of a 5-year-old son. He is putting what he learned in prison to use as Michigan's legislative corrections ombudsman.

He handles grievances both from inmates and prison employes and works as problem solver and reformer.

Spivey was found guilty of murder in 1934 when police said he drove a get-away car after a fatal shooting. His sentence was commuted and his lawyers discovered his trial transcript had been destroyed and his conviction rested on the unsigned confession of another man convicted in the case.

Spivey says he never knew the other man and has consistently denied his guilt.

Since he's been out of prison, Spivey has devoted himself to working with youngsters in trouble, mainly through church organizations.

The legislature created the ombudsman post last year, and Spivey got the job simply by applying for it.

"I studied for this," he said. "I took up sociology, journalism, management, business administration, chess, law ... I stuck with law for about 20 years (through correspondence courses), until I found out that everything was at the judge's discretion. "We've got too many laws," he said.

"I'm not bitter," Spivey said. He said he waited a long time to try to get his sentence commuted because "You don't have the money, you don't have the knowledge."

Even now, he said, not all prisoners know their legal rights.

"When you're sending a fellow to 10 years or to life and someone says: 'Here's your rights,' do you think he's listening?" Spivey asked. "It's a nightmare you wait to awake from."

Spivey was 22 years old when he entered prison. He spent most of his years behind bars at Southern Michigan State Prison at Jackson.

"I was too shocked to be angry," he said of those first few years. "I was in a daze, not really aware of what had happened. When it hits you, when 'Hey, I'm in for life' really hits you, you build up a hope that the truth will come out."

Spivey said prisons are worse now than in the past. He said that up to the 1940s: "Wardens gave inmates as much leeway as possible. After that it tightened up."

After all those years in jail, why did he decide to take a job that brought him back into a prison?

"What was done to me — that's why," Spivey said. "I don't think it is the meaning of living, that human beings should suppress other human beings lives. I think we should add to each other's life."

"Life is so short."

Like other Coast Guard stations around the country, their busiest season is the three-month period between Memorial Day and Labor Day. With an estimated eight million pleasure boats in the nation, the typical SAR operation no longer involves a freighter at the mercy of angry winter seas.

To support their mission, crews at Astoria operate a sophisticated communications network. They maintain contact with harbor authorities, police agencies and a team of doctors with the U.S. Public Health Service in Seattle. By radio, the doctors advise rescue crews during medical evacuations.

The workhorse of SAR operations is still the high-speed Coast Guard cutter. Dozens of these versatile boats patrol the coastal waters and river mouths. But Astoria's three H-3 Sikorsky helicopters have added significantly to the Coast Guard's rescue capability.

Flanigan Denies Offering Diplomatic Posts For Gifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide Peter M. Flanigan has disputed congressional testimony that he offered ambassadorships in return for contributions to former President Richard M. Nixon's campaign.

Testifying Wednesday before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on his own nomination to be ambassador to Spain, Flanigan said, "Most of these matters have been looked into at great length by the Watergate special prosecutor ... and his response is that they know about these things and they have no charges against me."

Flanigan also defended himself against charges that he was unfit for the ambassadorial post because of his role in the ITT antitrust affair and his reputation of being the White House liaison for businessmen seeking favors. The charges were raised by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo.

Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd has said the ITT case alone is enough to convince him that Flanigan is unfit.

Midlander Indicted In Odessa Robbery

ODESSA — David Canava Zapta, 24, of Midland was indicted Monday by the Ector County Grand Jury in a robbery case.

Zapta is accused of the aggravated robbery Sept. 12 of the Eighth Street Grocery here in which $139 was taken.

The grand jury investigated two fatal shootings which occurred here last weekend and returned no-bills in both cases.

The victims of the separate shootings were Kenneth Allen, of Odessa, 19, who was shot early Sunday, and Charles Richard Merritt, 24, of Odessa, who also was shot to death Sunday.

The grand jury returned indictments in 26 other cases and passed one case.

CURE FOR SENILITY? — Doctors at the Miami Heart Institute think they may be on the track of a possible cure for memory loss and senility. Called hyperbaric oxygenation, the process introduces oxygen into the blood at high pressure in conjunction with a drug and results in improved brain function. Experiments using a pressure chamber are under way, as demonstrated here by nurse Betty Garrish and Claude Kirk Sr. (AP Wirephoto.)

Greece To Hold Elections Nov. 17

By PAUL ANASTASSIADES
ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Greece's first parliamentary elections in a decade are scheduled for Nov. 17, and a referendum to decide whether the monarchy will be restored is promised by Jan. 1.

Premier Constantine Caramanlis' government announced the return of democratic elections Wednesday night. It said a new caretaker government headed by Caramanlis would be formed in the next few days to replace the "government of national salvation" formed last July after the collapse of the military dictatorship that overthrew the last parliamentary government in 1967.

The date of the referendum on the monarchy is to be announced within 15 days after the election, and the vote is to be held within 30 days of the announcement.

The government did not say whether Greece's last king, 34-year-old Constantine, would be allowed to return to Greece prior to the referendum to plead the case for restoration of the monarchy. He fled to Italy in December 1967 after an unsuccessful attempt to oust the military junta and now lives in Britain.

George Papadopoulos, the LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson says former President Richard M. Nixon "destroyed himself by his devotion to the muse of history."

Wilson said Wednesday in a broadcast interview with David Frost that Nixon wanted the White House tapes to ensure his place in history.

"He wanted to have everything recorded that he did, for the sake of history, for the historians," Wilson said. "It might not be published for 100 years and those tapes have ensured for him a place in history the very opposite of what he would have wished."

Oil Hidden
It is estimated that more than 40 billion barrels of recoverable oil reserves are hidden under the seabed of the North Sea separating England from Scandinavia.

leader of the 1967 military coup, abolished the monarchy in July 1973 and declared Greece a republic. He also held a referendum to ratify his action, and the vote, according to the government, was 3,670,124 in favor to 1,064,320 opposed, with about 920,000 not voting.

The military dictatorship collapsed under the weight of last summer's Cyprus crisis. After Caramanlis took over on July 23, he promised elections, declared a general amnesty for political prisoners and restored Greek citizenship to those who had lost it because of their opposition to the dictatorship.

In a preliminary to elections, the government on Sept. 23 lifted the ban on the Greek Communist party that had been in effect since 1936. It also announced that civilians and technicians who worked for the military government could be candidates for parliament.

Deadly 'Red Tide' Moving Toward Texas Gulf Coast

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A so-called "red tide" which a Texas A&I marine biologist says has killed thousands of Gulf of Mexico fish now littering Mexican beaches could be headed for Texas, according to a commercial fisherman.

Pat Pace of Brownsville, the fisherman, said he was told by the biologist that thousands of dead fish cover 20 miles or more of Mexico beaches.

Pace quoted Dr. Henry Hildebrand of Texas A&I University as saying "the beach is so loaded with dead fish you could hardly walk without stepping on them."

Pace said Hildebrand, who was en route to Corpus Christi late Wednesday, told him the dead fish included redfish, trout, pike, flounder, drum and crabs.

The fisherman said Hildebrand reported the red tide is drifting north and is now within 30 miles of the mouth of the Rio Grande. Not much is known about red tide except that "it's known to kill everything," Pace said.

"This is the first time it's ever been near the Texas coast," he continued, saying the results could be disastrous for the fishing industry in South Texas.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren
She'll Marry Him For The Fourth Time

DEAR ABBY: I am a fairly intelligent, nice-looking woman of 33, who is getting married for the fourth time. Before you jump to the conclusion that I am a fickle or a poor judge of character, let me tell you that I am marrying the same man for the fourth time.

We don't have any kids, so that's not why we keep going back to each other. Don't send me to a shrink. I've been to one. We've also seen marriage counselors. They have all told us the same thing. We NEED each other.

We've tried living together (without marriage) and even living with others. It didn't work. We fight a lot, but when we kiss and make up it's better than ever. When he hits me, I hit him back, and believe me, I can take care of myself.

He's not a meal ticket and neither am I. We could both make it on our own. Abby, have you ever heard from couples who married each other more than once, and learned the secret of making that marriage work?

If so, please let me know. I can't live WITH him and I can't live WITHOUT him. Thanks.

FOURTH TIME AROUND
DEAR FOURTH: All right, I'll try. Readers? Is it really more wonderful the second time around—with the same partner, that is?

DEAR ABBY: As far back as I can remember, I've wanted to be a school teacher. Now my dream has come true.

I would like to make a lasting impression on my students. What should I stress that will be truly helpful to sixth graders? I want to inspire them to learn.

NEW TEACHER
DEAR TEACHER: Tell them to read, read, read and read some more! There is a treasury of knowledge—free for the taking on the shelves of our public libraries. The person who DOES NOT read has no advantage over the person who WILL NOT read.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it's all right for a bride to do the Polish apron dance at her reception if neither one of the couple is Polish?

This is the dance where the male guests throw money into the bride's apron for the privilege of dancing with her. I know of one wedding where nobody was Polish, but they did the dance anyway because every little bit helps when a young couple is just starting out. GETTING MARRIED

DEAR GETTING: If you want to take up a collection at your wedding reception, this is as good a way as any.

DEAR ABBY: When I graduated from high school, a well-to-do uncle who lived in Portland sent me a check for $100. I put it in my billfold intending to bank it. I failed to write and thank him for it immediately as I should have. I didn't get around to banking it (or trying to) until three months later.

When I tried to bank the check, I found that he had stopped payment on it! Then I received a letter from my uncle saying that since he didn't hear from me for three months, he assumed the check had been lost. In a sense, it was I "lost" 100 bucks, but I learned a lesson about promptness I'll never forget.

Near-Extinct Timber Wolf Still Center Of Wildlife Controversy

By TIMOTHY HARPER
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Almost crackling with energy, Chinook skittered down the wooded path, lunging to the end of her leash and whirling in a cloud of gray-black fur and flashing teeth.

"Likes To Play Rough"

"Ah, she got me again," shrugged Orin Benson, sucking the trickle of blood from the bright red scratch on the arm holding the rope. "She likes to play rough."

Chinook is an eastern timber wolf — extinct in most of the 48 contiguous states; a source of bitter controversy in the few areas with remnant populations.

Dancing nervously on long, slender hind legs, she snapped and pawed playfully at Benson's head and shoulders. Her long tongue lolled, but she took in every movement out of slanted yellow eyes.

Raises Several Litters

Benson has raised several litters of wolves at his rural Eagle, Wis., sporting dog kennels since becoming fascinated with the beast's manners and morals several years ago.

"I study them and they study me," he said. "There's really no way to tame them. They get wild even when you let them out for a little bit."

The once-proud ruler of the forest has been on the federal government's endangered species list since 1967. There are several reasons:

—The wolf needs virgin wilderness to survive — 40 square miles per animal, scientists say. But today a wolf is fortunate to have 10 square miles of uninterrupted forest in which to roam.

—Hunters are competing with the wolf for the white-tail deer, a staple in a wolf's diet.

—Farmers worried about attacks on their livestock oppose the efforts of conservationists to protect America's remaining wolves.

Little Public Support

—And there is little public support for measures to save the wolf. That's because of an ingrained fear of the animal fostered in fairy tales, children's cartoons and horror movies.

John Harris, a Hayward, Calif., protectionist who has raised two dozen wolves, says the public is ignorant about them.

"There has never been a documented instance of a wolf attacking a human on this continent," said Harris, who travels the country, exhibiting his wolves and lecturing about them. Last summer, two on exhibit were poisoned in New York City.

Wolves number 2,000 to 5,000 in Alaska, but only between 300 and 1,000 still roam northern Minnesota, according to the latest estimates by biologists.

Two Dozen On Island

There are about two dozen on Michigan's Isle Royale in Lake Superior, but only a dozen or so — including four transplanted from Minnesota for study last winter — in the rest of the state.

Wisconsin, with an estimated 40,000 wolves in 1835, has fewer than six today.

There are no timber wolves in the rest of the United States. New England once had tens of thousands, but none has been sighted in the northeast in 30 years. Nationally, the wolf is now confined to less than one per cent of its original range.

The U.S. Interior Department classifies the wolf as "a species whose prospects of survival and reproduction are in immediate jeopardy." But this status provides no actual protection.

Predator Law Scrapped

The Interior Department recently ordered Minnesota to scrap its predator control program, which allowed limited killing of wolves. That leaves Alaska as the only state paying wolf bounties. The wolf has had complete protection in Michigan since 1960 and in Wisconsin since 1967.

Scientists claim the wolf is vital to the survival of the deer — even though the normal adult wolf kills 20 deer per year — by culling out the weaker deer to improve breeding strains and preventing deer herds from overbrowsing.

"Deer would not be deer if wolves weren't around," said Dr. William Robinson of the University of Northern Michigan in Marquette. "The deer is a swift, graceful animal, and it's gotten that way through selective pressures brought by predators, and the wolf is the main predator."

Dispute Over Deer

"They say wolves are needed to thin out the deer," scoffed Arvid Haurnunen, head of the anti-wolf Virginia (Minn.) Sportsmen's Club. "Hunters can do it just as well. The deer herd is down, and it's all because of the wolves. How about protecting the deer?"

Haurnunen, 71, has been hunting and trapping in the Minnesota wilds for 60 years. He's one of many woodsmen who does not believe the wolf is vanishing.

"I know for a fact there's over 4,000 wolves in northern Minnesota alone," he said. "They'll never be extinct. We've been hunting, trapping and poisoning them for 100 years and there's more now than ever."

Northwoods residents are especially critical of such groups as Help Our Wolves Live (HOWL) in Minneapolis and the celebrity-studded Fund for Animals in Washington. "We resent it when people in Los Angeles and New York try to tell us about wolves," said Dick Maw, a Lutsen, Minn., outdoors writer and Forest Service worker. "The wolves have wiped out sheep farming in northern Minnesota."

Goals Misunderstood

The protectionists say anti-wolf outdoorsmen don't understand their goals.

Many scientists explain that the greatest problem for wolves is not hunters, but the deteriorating deer habitat. They say that the maturation of northern forests has deprived the deer of the low shrubbery and other browse that sprouted after fires leveled the woods at the turn of the century.

Long-Range Solution

Ecology-minded groups, such as the nonprofit Northwoods Environmental Institute, say better forest management to provide more browse for deer is the ultimate long-range solution.

"The wolf considers man either equal or below him," said Joan Gehr, whose family is raising nine wolves near Shawano, Wis. "He's not subservient like a dog."

Servicemen's Rights Center Claims First Small Success

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The Center for Servicemen's Rights, born during the Vietnam war and still growing in this Navy town, is claiming a small success since the Navy dropped court-martial charges against a dissident sailor and gave him a general discharge.

"This is a real victory," said lawyer John Murcko, who represented Seaman Ret. David Medina, 21, after he sought help at the center. "If we had gone to the court-martial, Dave could have gotten six months in jail, loss of pay and a bad conduct discharge."

Groups like the center sprung up around the nation during the Vietnam war, and many are still counseling GIs and hiring defense lawyers despite the end of the draft and the massive American effort in Indochina. The center has been active since 1968 in San Diego, today the home base of 85,000 naval personnel.

"There are about 40 servicemen's projects today in the United States, England, Germany and Asia," said Kathy Gilbert, a staff member.

In the Medina case, the sailor was charged with solicitation to mutiny. He was accused of trying to organize crew members to call a news conference last month to publicize what he said were unsafe conditions on the 23-year-old destroyer Agerholm.

Medina of Las Vegas, Nev., also was charged with distribution of unauthorized material, copies of the Scaggle Agency Review, a paper put out by some of the sailors.

A special court-martial was set for Tuesday.

Last week after the center had publicized the case through news releases and demonstrations, the Navy reduced the charges to soliciting others to go on unauthorized leave. Then Tuesday it dropped all charges and gave Medina a "general discharge under honorable conditions" which does not allow him to re-enlist or keep his uniform. It is one level below an honorable discharge.

The Navy rejected his application for a hardship discharge, which he said he needed because both his parents were disabled and his four younger brothers and sisters could not support the family.

Navy spokesman Capt. Fred Snyder said the charges were dropped and the discharge issued because the Navy decided it was not worthwhile to recall crew members from the Agerholm, which set sail for the Far East two weeks ago, to testify at the court-martial.

Odessa Receives 60-Year Sentence

ODESSA — Santos Navarette Larez, 23, of Odessa Wednesday afternoon was sentenced to 60 years in prison after being convicted earlier in the day on a charge of sale of heroin. Larez is already serving a 10-year term for possession of heroin.

Judge C. V. Milburn of the 70th District Court imposed the sentence.

Larez was charged with selling heroin to a state narcotics agent March 6. On April 12, he was arrested again, this time for possession. He entered a guilty plea to that charge April 23 and was sentenced to 10 years at that time.

Dam Injunction Hearing Slated

VICTORIA, Tex. (AP) — A hearing on whether a temporary halt to construction on a dam project in Jackson County should be made permanent was to be held in federal court here today.

U.S. District Court Judge Owen Cox of Corpus Christi signed the temporary restraining order Monday to halt work on the Palmetto Bend dam and reservoir project.

The plaintiffs in the suit, the Sierra Club and the Palmetto Citizens Group of Jackson County, want to halt construction of the dam because they believe it violates the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

The dam and reservoir have an estimated cost of almost $55 million.

Postal Service Quits Airtrans

DALLAS (AP) — The U.S. Postal Service, citing unsatisfactory capacity and reliability, will quit using the Airtrans ground transportation system at the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport, officials said Wednesday.

Jack Johns, assistant district manager for mail processing, said trucks will be used to move mail from planes to airport mail facilities beginning Friday afternoon.

"Airtrans has not been satisfactory. As a result, we have been running extensive trials with Airtrans to see if it could be improved. It was not improved to the point we could use it," Johns said.

Johns said the decision to discontinue use of Airtrans was made personally by Postal Service governor E. T. Klassen, who was in Dallas last week to review delivery problems at the new airport.

Airtrans is operated by LTV Corp.

Millionaire's Will Ignores Relatives

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — One of three surviving relatives says he plans to contest the will of an industrialist who left some $13 million to his nurse and thousands of dollars to his gardener and dogs.

Merton Lamkins, 63, nephew of industrialist Sumner Lamkins, called the will outrageous and said he would file suit in Macomb County Probate Court this week contesting it. Lamkins died Sunday at 82.

bulk of his $13 million estate to Lucille Rahmeyer, 58. She served as his housekeeper and confidante after nursing his mother during a terminal illness 20 years ago and his wife, who died in 1967.

Lamkins also named Mrs. Rahmeyer president of his 700-employee New Haven, Mich., foundry, where she has been secretary and director.

Lamkins also bequeathed $10,000 to his gardener, Steve Sputa, 62, of New Baltimore; $15,000 for the care of two German Shepherd dogs; $25,000 to the Macomb County Humane Society; and $40,000 to two Mount Clemens churches.

Left out the will was Merton Lamkins, who is vice president of sales at Federal Screw Works of Detroit, and two nieces.

Government Rejects Bid To Drop Newsprint Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has rejected a bid by American newspaper publishers to have the $5-a-ton duty removed from imported lightweight Canadian newsprint, industry sources say.

The decision comes against the background of the fourth price increase this year for Canadian newsprint. Major Canadian newsprint manufacturers recently increased the price of 30-pound newsprint from $234.65 a ton to $260.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association (ANPA) urged the U.S. Bureau of Customs a year ago to remove the duty. Customs officials declined to comment if the tariff removal had been rejected, saying the request was still under study.

One industry source said Wednesday that, "We heard the proposal was denied. That's not official, but we expect it."

The refusal by Customs to remove the duty reportedly is based on agency findings that newspapers do not use more lightweight newsprint than all other weights combined. Most newsprint is in the 28.5 to 35-pound category and is admitted duty free. The ANPA sought to expand the duty-free category to include weights down to 24.5 pounds.

Fourth Canadian Newsprint Firm Slates Price Hike

NEW YORK (AP) — Domtar, Ltd., of Montreal, Can., became the fourth newsprint producer to announce a price increase of about $25 a ton to $260 in the United States, effective Jan. 1.

Domtar's price for standard 30-pound newsprint now is $234.65 a ton. The firm said prices on other grades of newsprint will be increased proportionately.

Earlier announcements of a Jan. 1 price increase to about $260 a ton had been made by Price Co., of Quebec City, one of Eastern Canada's largest producers; Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Mills, Ltd., of Toronto, and Boise Cascade Corp., of Boise, Idaho.

Other producers are expected by analysts to join in this fourth announcement of newsprint price increases in a year.

As before, the companies are blaming rising costs of labor, fuel, wood pulp and chemicals used in the paper-making process.

A ton of newsprint makes about 7,000 copies of a 28-page paper. A large metropolitan newspaper may use up to 300,000 tons of newsprint each year.

Four Men Die After Drinking Canned Fuel

SHELBY, N.C. (AP) — Four men died and two were hospitalized after drinking a canned fuel containing deadly methyl alcohol, police reported.

A spokesman for the Cleveland Memorial Hospital identified the dead as William Davis Jr., William H. Hopper, Tamadge Gillam and Ben Smith, all of the Shelby area.

Another man, Lee Smith, was transferred to a Charlotte hospital in critical condition.

The Cleveland Memorial spokesman said four others were treated after drinking the fuel. Three were released and one was hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

Police said the victims apparently drank the can of "Handy Fuel," after straining it through a cloth. The can contained a poison label, they added.

MERTHYR TYDFIL, Wales (AP) — Stray sheep, a menace to Welsh drivers and gardeners, are proving smarter than the authorities. They roll across restricting cattle grids and took only two weeks to crack "sheep-proof" garbage bins.

"We are up against a very sophisticated animal," said Welsh undersecretary Ted Rowlands.

Court Reverses Midland Mail Fraud Conviction

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court today reversed the recent Midland, Tex., mail fraud conviction of Clifton Ralph Cramer because his sentence included $10,000 fine.

The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals said U.S. Dist. Judge John H. Wood Jr. sentenced Cramer under the Youth Corrections Act (YCA), designed for rehabilitation not punishment, and that it was doubtful that the punishment of a fine also could be imposed.

Doubt must always be resolved in favor of the individual, not the government, the 5th Circuit said. The case was remanded to Judge Wood with instructions to cancel the fine.

Weight Of Inflation Prompts Sharp Drop In Market Prices

By CHET CURRIER

Coca-Cola fell 4% to 45¢ in active trading. A Wall Street Journal column reported that company management had begun a policy of not talking with securities analysts individually because doing so was taking up excessive amounts of the executives' time.

Other heavy losers in the active trading of the Dow Jones average were: American Cyanamid, down 2 1/2% to 27 3/4; and Dow Chemical, down 1 1/2% to 31 1/2.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 10.48 at 591.05, and losers outnumbered gainers by close to 2-to-1 in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow, which had rebounded after a brief pass below 600 Tuesday, showed little sign of resistance as it sank below it again today. The average last closed below that psychological milestone on Nov. 1, 1962.

Westinghouse Electric was the Big Board volume leader, down 2 1/4% at 249.00-share block traded at 9 1/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was off .40 at 61.61.

The six-month financial report for the drilling subsidiary recorded a 95 percent increase in revenue over the like period of 1973. Drilling costs increased by only 84 percent. Drilling revenues for the six months ended June 30, were $1.9 million and direct drilling costs were $1.6 million.

Oklahoma Cattle Raisers Criticize Kill-Off Proposal

WOODWARD, Okla. (AP)—John Dunn, president of the Oklahoma Cattlemen's Association, said Wednesday members of his organization would rather give their cattle to poor people than kill and bury them because of adverse economic conditions.

The Woodward rancher denounced plans by a group of Texas ranchers to slaughter some 800 animals in protest to economic problems of the cattle and dairy industries.

The Texas group had planned to kill the animals Wednesday but postponed action for at least two weeks in response to a plea from the White House.

Bus Safety Rules May Push Prices Too High For Schools

CHICAGO (AP) — Safety requirements for next year's school buses may push price tags beyond the reach of many school districts, industry and safety officials say.

Some school districts already are feeling the pinch of price hikes of 25 per cent or more in the last year, said Edward T. Clayton of Blue Bird Body Co. of Fort Valley, Ga. The firm is one of six major school bus producers.

Much of the increase in prices is due to higher raw material costs. But officials who gathered for a National Safety Congress meeting in Chicago said Wednesday they expect additional hikes to result from safety advances such as padded seat backs and guard railings.

Exact costs have not been tabulated, they said. A 66-passenger bus now costs from $14,000 to $18,000, depending on safety specifications in a given state, Clayton said.

Clayton predicted that continued cost hikes would mean "schools in some states will be operating 10-year-old buses."

Robert B. Kurre, an engineer for the Wayne Transportation Co. of Richmond, Ind., said in a telephone interview that it's too early to measure the sales impact of price increases.

He said most school districts submit orders early in the calendar year for fall delivery. A spokesman for the School Bus Manufacturers' Institute in Washington, D.C., agreed.

James Tidings, chief engineer for Thomas Built Buses Inc. of High Point, N.C., said from 12 to 25 school bus passengers die annually. Government figures put the annual death toll at 25 to 35, with some 5,000 injuries.

One major change proposed by the government would require foam padding on top, back and sides of seats on next year's models.

"Seat design has completely changed in the last two or three years," Clayton said during a panel discussion on school bus safety. Some states already require seat back and guard rail padding and some manufacturers have made them standard equipment.

He cited other recent safety improvements, including elimination of rough interior metal edges and corners.

Tidings said safety improvements not only push prices higher, but features as safer seats cut available space, meaning districts will need more buses to carry the same number of children.

Officials said the new seats may cut bus capacity by as much as seven children.

WELFARE FRAUD UNITS PLANNED

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Public Welfare Commissioner Raymond W. Vowell said Wednesday the state is in the process of establishing welfare fraud units in each of the department's 10 regions.

"These will be specially trained units looking for people who are trying to take advantage of our welfare services illegally," Vowell said.

"If illegal acts are uncovered, the evidence will be turned over to local law enforcement officials. These are not law enforcement groups."

Vowell said the idea is not new because some cities, including Dallas and Houston, have had fraud units for years and a number of investigations have been conducted out of the central office in Austin.

"But some of our new programs, such as food stamps, called for more skilled investigation," he said.

The units also will investigate any alleged fraud in Aid to Families of Dependent Children and reports of child abuse. They also will look into any reports of suspicious activity by welfare employees.

Vowell said each unit, when fully established, would consist of a supervisor and five investigators, with maybe two units in Dallas and Houston, plus a small staff in Austin.

Betty Ford's Ordeal Triggers Wave Of Sympathy, Awakening

By FRANCES LEWINE WASHINGTON (AP) — Betty Ford's sudden ordeal with cancer has touched off a sympathetic reaction among women across the country and an awakening to the dangers they also face.

Ten thousand letters, more than 500 phone calls, over 200 telegrams and scores of flower arrangements have poured into the White House and Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital since word came of Mrs. Ford's breast cancer operation Saturday.

Mrs. Ford was reported continuing to make a good recovery. A medical bulletin said she is on a regular diet and had gained almost full mobility of her right arm.

A spokesman for the American Cancer Society said telephones "have been ringing off the hook" with calls from thousands of women who want to make appointments with doctors and clinics for breast cancer examinations.

Ford, but she may have saved an awful lot of women's lives," said a spokesman for the American Cancer Crusade, which long has sponsored an educational campaign to alert women to the need for early detection and periodic check-ups.

The outpouring of prayers, good wishes and hopeful advice from those who have recovered from breast cancer surgery like hers has been dramatic.

In only four days, the volume of mail at the White House appears to have exceeded anything First Ladies in recent years have received. Wives of senators have been helping Mrs. Ford cope with the flood of messages.

After more flowers arrived at the hospital than Mrs. Ford could possibly accommodate in the five-room presidential suite during an expected 10-day stay, President Ford appealed to those who might want to send flowers to contribute instead to the American Cancer Society.

how the donations to the cancer society will be affected by the appeal, a spokesman said. But even the White House is getting donations, many of them small although there was one check for $5,000.

"One thing is definite, though," the cancer society spokesman noted. "Thousands of women around the country are asking the American Cancer Society, clinics, hospitals and doctors about getting breast examinations. It has galvanized everyone into action."

The letters to Mrs. Ford have come from young and old, people in public life and women who want to encourage her. Some cured cancer patients even sent their pictures.

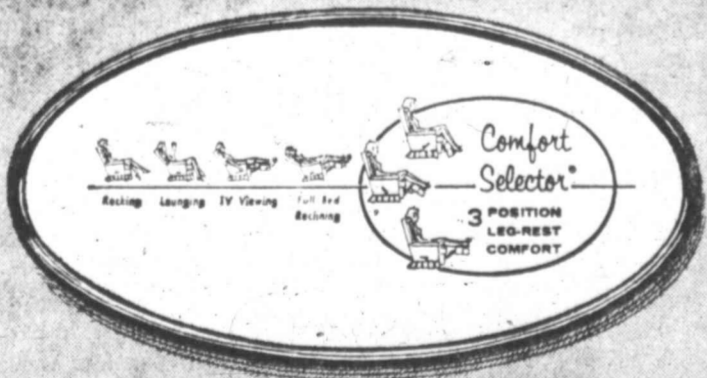

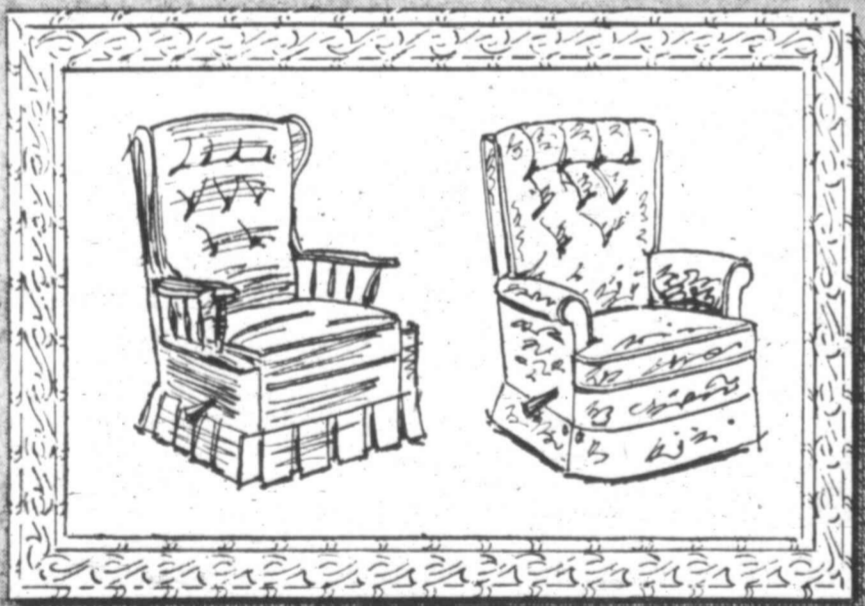

Alice Longworth, 90-year-old daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt, sent this message to Mrs. Ford: "Just a line to wish you well from one who a number of years ago had the experience you just had."

"It's a tragedy for Mrs. Ford, but she may have saved an awful lot of women's lives," said a spokesman for the American Cancer Crusade, which long has sponsored an educational campaign to alert women to the need for early detection and periodic check-ups. "It's still too early yet to tell. Advertise Or Be Forgotten!"
