Tom Green, Pecos Draw Exploration

Wildcats have been planned for Pecos and Tom Green counties.

Coquina Oil Corp. intends to drill No. 1 Thigpin, an 8,900-foot wildcat, in Pecos County, 1 1/2 mile northwest of the depleted one-well Thigpin, South (9,800) field.

Drillsite is 990 feet from south and east lines of section 41, block A-2, TCRR survey, three miles northwest of Sheffield, Tom Green Site.

Waggoner Exploration Co., Dallas, accounted for No. 3 Linthicum, scheduled to be 6,500 feet, as an attempt to re-open the Linthicum (Strawn) oil pool of Tom Green County.

The project spots 500 feet from south and 2,900 feet from west lines of section 1, AB&M survey, four miles west of San Angelo, and 1,167 feet east of the depleted opener.

The original discovery, Waggoner No. 2 Linthicum, finished in June 1973, for 50.6 barrels of 34-gravity oil daily, plus 21 barrels of water, producing through perforations at 5,487-5,491 feet. It became depleted last September.

Confirmer Finals In Edwards Field

The Hackberry Creek (Canyon) gas field of Edwards County gained a confirmation with completion of Pierce & Dehlinger, Midland, No. 2 Schoolfield, one mile northwest extension to the field.

It gauged a calculated absolute open flow of 480,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations at 3,044-3,084 feet, which had been acidized with 2,000 gallons.

It spots 9,658 feet from most southerly south line and 2,367 feet from east line of Mrs. E. Bussey survey 47 1/2, 12 miles east of Rocksprings.

The discovery, the firm's No. 1 N. W. Schoolfield, was completed Nov. 8, 1973, for 450,000 cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 3,021-3,086 feet.

Winkler Failure Now Plugged Back

N. B. Hunt, Dallas, No. 1-11-1 University, Winkler County deep failure, nine miles west of Wink, has been plugged back to 5,100 feet for tests of the Delaware.

It flowed gas at the rate of 1.5 million cubic feet daily, plus 60 barrels of fresh water and three barrels of mud in two hours, through a 3/4-inch choke and Strawn perforations at 14,872-14,906 feet.

A re-entry operation originally drilled by Sinclair Oil and Gas Co., total depth is 22,101 feet. A 7-inch liner is hung from 13,678-17,754 feet. It was abandoned in 1967, after making tests through perforations at 14,956-14,966 feet.

Stockmen In Six States May Join In Calf Slaughter

STEPHENVILLE (AP) — A leader of a proposed protest calf slaughter said today stockmen in at least six states will join in mass cattle killings Oct. 16 unless President Ford meets with their representatives.

Members of the Cross Plains Milk and Beef Association organized such a slaughter and trucked about 800 calves to a dairy near here Wednesday to shoot and bury them in a trench.

Slaughter Postponed

The slaughter was postponed for two weeks after appeals from the White House, Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Texas Agriculture Commissioner John White.

However, White House spokesmen said Wednesday and repeated Thursday that Ford has no plans to meet with the cattlemen.

The spokesmen said Ford is aware of stockmen's statements that feed is so high that they cannot bring a calf to edible size without losing $100 to $150 per animal.

James Traweck, president of the Cross Timbers group, said today he had received calls "from all over the nation" since Wednesday.

Briscoe Defends His Administration, Deplores Plans To Slaughter Calves

By LARRY LOVELACE

Gov. Dolph Briscoe defended the record of his administration, deplored Texas cattlemen's plans to slaughter 1,000 calves as "a waste of meat" and received an award from Scouts here Thursday afternoon.

The governor and Mrs. Briscoe also toured the remodeled Midland County Courthouse and were guests of honor at a public reception in the Petroleum Club.

After spending the night here, the Briscoes visited in Odessa this morning, touring the Presidential Museum.

Briscoe held a news conference at Rich Air Co. at Midland Regional Air Terminal shortly after his arrival.

In defending his administration, Briscoe said he was proud of his record. "We have kept our promise of no new or additional taxes. In addition, we will have a budget surplus, only the second within the last 20 years.

"If the national administration had been conducted in the same manner, we would not now be facing raging inflation," he contended.

The governor said he sympathized with the plight of Texas cattlemen but felt the slaughter of calves was the wrong way to approach the problem and would be "a waste of meat."

The proposal — banded about in Washington in recent weeks — to increase the federal gasoline tax by 10-30 cents a gallon also drew Briscoe's fire.

Peru Toll In Quake Hits 44

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Peruvian air force planes and helicopters crisscrossed the countryside today to evaluate the effects of a severe earthquake Thursday.

Forty-four persons were known dead and at least 1,000 were reported injured, 92 of them seriously. Several cities or towns in central Peru reported extensive damage.

Clearing Streets

Workers in Lima, the capital, began clearing shattered walls, fallen cornices and broken glass from the streets. At least two houses collapsed.

In Canete and Chincha, coastal cities south of Lima, 60 per cent of the houses were reported destroyed.

Emergency medical centers treated a steady flow of slightly injured or hysterical people. Authorities said 92 were hospitalized, 970 more were given first aid and 460 were treated for shock.

Panic Widespread

The quake struck at 9:21 a.m., and shocks continued for nearly an hour after the initial tremor.

Widespread panic was due to the memory of the devastating earthquake on May 31, 1970, in which 20,000 persons were killed and another 50,000 were reported missing.

The U.S. Geological Survey reported that the quake Thursday hit 7.7 on the Richter scale, a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. The 1970 quake measured 7.8.

Warmer Air Chases Chill

South winds over Central and West Texas brought warmer air into the state and put a chill lingering in some sections into retreat today.

Skies remained clear in almost all areas, but forecasts called for clouds and occasional showers in parts of West Texas by Saturday.

The National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal said there is a 20 per cent chance of rain in the Midland area Saturday, but it should be dry for the football games in the area tonight.

The maximum temperature in the Tall City Thursday was 79, and this morning's low was 62. The top readings here this afternoon and Saturday should be near 80, with tonight's low in the upper 50s.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 50 degrees at Nacogoches in East Texas up to 72 at Galveston on the coast, according to The Associated Press. Thursday's top marks went as high as 88 at Alice, Cotulla and McAllen in the south.

Meet On Petroleum Situation Proposed By Saudi Arabian

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saudi Arabia's oil minister today proposed a limited meeting of seven or eight nations, including oil producers, consumers and the underdeveloped world, to discuss the international petroleum situation.

Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, minister of petroleum and mineral resources, made the suggestion in a panel discussion that included Federal Energy Administration John Sawhill.

Sawhill made no immediate response to the suggestion, but later said that energy conservation efforts by the consuming countries might put pressure on the producers to lower prices.

More Banks Cut Prime Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's two largest commercial banks and one smaller bank announced a 1/4 per cent reduction in their prime loan rates today to 11 3/4 per cent, effective Monday.

The 1/4 percentage point cut in the key rate — initiated last week by Chase Manhattan Bank and Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York — was followed today by San Francisco's Bank of America, the nation's biggest bank, First National City Bank of New York and Mercantile Trust Co. of St. Louis.

A movement in the prime rate, a bank's lowest short-term loan rate for its biggest and best corporate customers, is not tied directly to personal or small business loan rates. But a sustained move in the prime often signals the future direction of other interest rates.

Despite this favorable economic development the slumping stock market continued its downward trend. At noon, the Dow Jones Industrials were down 9.62 to 577.99.

Rowe Says Proposed Gas Tax Would Lead To 'Frankenstein'

The federal government could be creating a "Frankenstein" in the form of a state income tax for Texas if proposals to drastically increase the tax on gasoline are approved, the Republican candidate for state comptroller said today in Midland.

Nick Rowe said he is calling on President Ford to drop the proposal for a 10-to-30-cent tax hike which has cropped up in Washington several times in recent weeks, or amend it "so that it will not penalize the economy of Texas."

Rowe said the increase would lead to lower state fuels tax revenues because of decreased consumption. That, in turn, would lead to decreased production and a further reduction in state tax revenues.

This, he said, would force Texas to institute a state income tax, a tax which he "totally and unalterably opposes."

In support of his position, Rowe said gasoline use in Texas was down 6 per cent in July — without any increase in federal tax — "in reaction to present high prices."

The issue was raised by Bob Bullock, the Democratic nominee, who challenged Rowe to comment on the gasoline tax proposal, which President Ford disavowed Wednesday.

The candidate was interviewed this morning at The Reporter-Telegram. A retired Army major, he escaped from the Viet Cong in December 1968 after more than five years of captivity.

Citing changes he would make, Rowe said, "The comptroller's office must no longer operate on a crisis-to-crisis approach" but should provide long-range outlooks to the legislature to assist it in planning for appropriations needs.

"We must try out plans with a computer first, rather than with a state full of taxpayers," he contended, saying that one of the comptroller's most important jobs is to "keep the state from going broke."

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Atty. Gen. William R. Saxbe condemned today the two standards of justice he said exist in the nation. He held a group here that antitrust violators and tax evaders should be given stiff jail sentences. Saxbe said such white collar criminals are no better than the car thief, burglar or robber.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has ruled out any gasoline tax increase and is firmly opposed to gas rationing but will ask Americans to "bite the bullet" in an anti-inflation program with mandatory features, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said today.

Solon Says Ford Hasn't Settled On Anti-Inflation Program Yet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford apparently has not made final decisions on the anti-inflation proposals he will present to Congress next week, a Republican congressional leader said today after a 90-minute White House meeting.

House GOP Whip Les Arends of Illinois, talking with reporters on the White House driveway, would give no details of the Cabinet Room meeting that also included other GOP congressional leaders.

"There was a general discussion," Arends said, adding that Ford "did not go into minute details" on the proposals he will outline for Congress and the American public in his Capitol Hill appearance.

Asked if the Republican leadership would support any Ford requests for a tax increase, Arends responded, "I don't know... It depends on what they have in there."

He said, when asked if Ford had settled on the shape of his anti-inflation program, "I don't think so."

Ford's meeting with the congressional Republicans came shortly before the Labor Department announced a September jobless rate of 5.8 per cent, up four tenths of a per cent from August.

Price Cuts Cited

Motorists had at least some temporary good news. There were price cuts by two major oil companies and renewed indications that Ford is against increasing federal gasoline taxes.

But Melvin R. Laird, a friend and informal adviser of Ford, called Thursday for the adoption of standby authority for gasoline rationing, saying it will be needed sooner or later.

The gasoline price cuts were announced by Mobil Oil Corp. and Amoco Oil Corp., a division of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

Price Cut 2 Cents

Mobil reduced gasoline prices by 2 cents a gallon and Amoco made a 3 cent-a-gallon cut. Amoco also lowered its price on No. 1 and No. 2 distillate oil by 3 cents a gallon. The cuts were effective immediately, and are in line with federal regulations linking wholesale gas prices to firms' crude oil costs.

Both oil companies confirmed that cost cuts for motorists are certain only at company-owned stations. Independent dealers will pay lower wholesale prices but they determine their own pump prices.

The indications that Ford opposes raising the federal gasoline tax came both from Rep. Bill Archer, R-Tex., and White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen.

Archer said Ford disclosed that he has "no intention of sending a proposal for a 20-cent gasoline tax increase to Congress."

Rate Rises

Among the major labor-force groups, the jobless rate for full-time workers was reported up from 4.8 per cent in August to 5.3 per cent in September, while the rate for household heads moved up from 3.1 to 3.4 per cent. The unemployment rate for married men was listed at 2.8 per cent in September, compared with 2.6 per cent in August. The teen-aged jobless rate rose from 15.3 to 16.7 per cent.

In September, the average work week of factory workers remained at 40.1 hours while factory overtime fell by two-tenths of an hour. The average hourly pay for a manufacturing worker last month rose eight cents to $4.51, while weekly earnings averaged $181.75, up from August's $177.64, the department said.

Within goods-producing industries, employment gained slightly in September due to a reduction in strike activity.

The issue was raised by Bob Bullock, the Democratic nominee, who challenged Rowe to comment on the gasoline tax proposal, which President Ford disavowed Wednesday.

The candidate was interviewed this morning at The Reporter-Telegram. A retired Army major, he escaped from the Viet Cong in December 1968 after more than five years of captivity.

Archer said Ford disclosed that he has "no intention of sending a proposal for a 20-cent gasoline tax increase to Congress."

And Nessen said that while the tax was among options suggested to Ford, the President opposed it.

Laird issued his call for standby rationing authority while moderating a conference on world oil problems. "Sooner or later a rationing system is going to be needed," he said.

He said some $100 billion per year is flowing to oil exporters and in six years the transfer may amount to $600 billion, an amount more than the value of (See FORD Page 2A)

Crisis Topples Italian Regime

ROME (AP) — The Fiat auto company today put 65,000 workers on a 24-hour work week, underlining the grave economic crisis that has toppled Italy's 36th postwar government and sharpened a Communist bid for power.

Fiat, whose sales have plunged as a result of the world energy crisis, said the purpose of the reduced work week beginning Monday would be to slow production.

The company promised the short week would not last beyond Jan. 31, and that a special state fund would help out employees no longer working a full 40-hour week.

Communists Major Factor

The long-simmering question of a role for the Communists in the government was a major factor in the collapse Thursday of the center-left coalition headed by Premier Mariano Rumor.

The Italian Communist party is the largest in the West, the second largest party in Italy. It gets one out of every four votes in national elections and controls the powerful General Confederation of Labor. It also controls the city government in Bologna and several other municipalities.

Rumor's Christian Democrats, Italy's dominant party since World War II, has steadfastly rejected the Communists' demands for inclusion in the government. But the Socialists, the second largest party in the ruling coalition, have increasingly supported the Communist demand, and their battles with the Christian Democrats crippled the government.

Western Fears Aroused

The new crisis raised fears in Western capitals that admission of the Communists to the government might be the only alternative to government paralysis and economic collapse.

The United States and other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization feared that once in the government, the Communists would try to pull Italy out of NATO.

Further food price hikes would result also, he said, since transportation costs would increase.

Constitutional revision is not dead, the governor noted. He said committees in both the House and Senate will consider submitting several articles to the voters next year.

If another constitutional convention is ever convened, Briscoe said he hoped it would be a "citizens' convention," as he said, Briscoe said that proposed to this year's unsuccessful convention composed entirely of legislators.

Explosion Blasts Odessa Residence

ODESSA — An Odessa man and his family of three survived an explosion that heavily damaged their home late Thursday night.

Henry Abalos and his family came away from the disaster without serious injury after an apparent gas leak caused the one-story brick home to blow apart.

Fire Department Captain Weldon Leeks said that outside bricks were torn from the walls and the roof of the structure caved in. There was no fire.

The residence, which is located at 2105 N. Dixie St., exploded shortly after 9:30 p.m.

Panel Accepts Two Textbooks Opposed By Historical Group

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Two books opposed by the Daughters of the American Revolution, partly for allegedly teaching witchcraft, have been approved for Texas use by the State Textbook Committee.

The committee was expected to finish voting today on texts for 15 subjects. Final adoptions will be made by the State Board of Education Nov. 9, based largely on the committee's findings.

Patterns in Communication

"Patterns in Communication," a high school speech text published by Lippincott, and "Linescapes," a set of seventh grade readers published by The Economy Co., were adopted over DAR protests.

DAR spokeswoman Mrs. R. C. Bearden Jr. of San Angelo said "Linescapes" contains a story on witchcraft in violation of state guidelines against including religion in school books.

"If witchcraft can be taught, we want God and the cross in, too," she said.

"Patterns" has a chapter on adoptions — usually five — for each subject.

A vote on another high school speech book, "Communication: Interacting through Speech," was delayed until it could be verified that it was involved in the West Virginia school book protest movement. Then it took four ballots to get the required 10 votes to adopt it.

Bilingual Matter Decisions To Complete Committee Job

AUSTIN — John Bizilo, a member of the State Textbook Committee and principal of Austin Freshman School in Midland, today said the panel would have reached a decision by noon on elementary bilingual materials, followed by a business transaction, to complete the committee's week-long session.

Bizilo said although the group had been "running about two days behind because of lengthy discussions and slow deliberations," the sessions would conclude this afternoon and he and two consultants from the Midland public schools would return to the Tall City by early evening.

Two Other Midlanders

"It should have concluded Wednesday evening," he said.

Bizilo was assisted in Austin by Mrs. Josefina Saldana, a kindergarten teacher at DeZavala Elementary School and Cindy Witten, a "K-1" teacher at Burnet Elementary.

Midland's committee member said all of Thursday was devoted to voting on textbooks and this morning's activities would terminate with voting on recommendations for bilingual materials for kindergarten through first grade.

Following the transaction of "routine business" the panel would be dismissed, Bizilo said.

Praising his local 42-member advisory committee for its assistance, he said official recommendations "this year will total $18.7 million."

Final action on the State Textbook Committee's recommendations will be taken when the State Board of Education meets Nov. 9 to adopt textbooks.

City Receives Highway Funds

Midland has received $22,304 for highway project planning, the Texas Highway Commission revealed today.

The funds are provided by the Federal-Aid Highway Act.

Highway department engineer Bert Peoples said the funds would be used for such projected highway systems at the north route between Midland and Odessa and the loop road project planned for Midland's north boundaries.

Odessa's share of the planning money amounted to $19,125 while San Angelo will receive $23,893. Lubbock will get $34,285 and Abilene $23,893.

Participation in the funding of metropolitan planning organizations is anticipated at 80 per cent federal and 20 per cent state funds.

Peoples said the state was directed to allocate the funds to help reimburse local planning organizations for their efforts with the highway systems planning projects.

Nixon To Leave Hospital Today

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon's doctor says the former President can return to his San Clemente estate today, ending 12 days of tests and treatment at Long Beach Memorial Hospital for phlebitis and a blood clot in one lung.

Dr. John C. Lungren told newsmen Thursday that he would issue a final report on Nixon's illness late today, after his patient's expected departure, and outline his diagnosis of the illness, future treatment and the course of his recovery.

Results of tests for cancer have been negative, the physician said in his daily written bulletin.

Phlebitis, a painful vein inflammation affecting Nixon's left leg, can be a symptom of cancer in the stomach, lungs or pancreas, but it can also be caused by inactivity.

After Nixon entered the hospital, tests revealed that a small piece from the clot in his left leg had broken off and traveled to his right lung. After treating Nixon with anticoagulant drugs, Lungren said the lung clot had begun to be absorbed.

Nixon, 61, underwent further tests Thursday.

Lungren has advised Nixon to take a one-to-three-month "restricted convalescence," avoiding travel during that period.

On Thursday, Nixon's lawyers asked U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to excuse the former President from testifying in the Watergate cover-up trial in Washington, D.C.

The request was made in motions to quash subpoenas issued for Nixon's appearance by John D. Ehrlichman, one of the five former-Nixon political associates on trial, and by federal prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Jaworski has said Sirica should appoint a medical panel to examine Nixon if his lawyers pleaded that the former president was too ill to testify.

State Fair Gates Swing Open Today

DALLAS (AP) — The 89th annual State Fair of Texas opened at noon today with officials hoping to draw three million visitors to the 17-day exposition.

With a 1974 theme of "Exposition of the West," it began with a 112-unit parade through downtown Dallas.

The big show will not officially be opened, however, until noon Saturday when Gov. Dolph Briscoe and State Fair President Robert Cullum lead a traditional ribbon-cutting ceremony at Fair Park's Hall of State.

Five thousand balloons will be released at that time, including 3,000 carrying a free pass each.

The Western theme of this year's fair, the nation's largest state exposition, will get spotlight treatment starting Saturday night with a rodeo at the Fair Coliseum. The rodeo will run nightly through Oct. 14.

Five Free Cotton Bowl shows will be offered during the fair's run in addition to four football games, starting with the SMU-Oregon State contest Saturday.

Republicans Battle To Block Senate Action On Nixon's Tapes, Documents

By JIM LUTHER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senior Republicans are attempting to head off Senate passage of a bill giving the government custody of former President Richard M. Nixon's official tapes and papers.

The Senate formally went on record today urging President Ford to make all the facts of Watergate available to the public.

But Republican opposition blocked a quick vote on a bill designed to nullify a Nixon-Ford agreement giving the former President custody of his documents.

Republican leaders agreed to allow a final vote today if their motion to send the bill to the Judiciary Committee for consideration of its constitutional implications is rejected.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska, senior Republican on the Judiciary Committee, also has prepared a substitute bill that would declare the papers of all recent presidents, vice presidents and members of Congress to be public property.

A similar attempt Thursday by Republican Whip Robert P. Griffin, applying to congressmen and future presidents, failed 58 to 23.

The bill being debated is aimed at blocking destruction of any of Nixon's papers and tapes, which are deemed to contain evidence necessary for Watergate trials and for providing the public the full story of the scandal.

Under terms of the Nixon-Ford agreement, which was disclosed when Nixon was pardoned, the former president would control access to the documents. He could destroy any of his papers after three years and his tapes after five years.

But the tapes would have to be destroyed immediately upon Nixon's death, and under no circumstances any later than Sept. 1, 1984.

Mrs. Ford Making Recovery Faster Than Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford is making a faster-than-expected recovery from breast cancer surgery, President Ford reports.

"Betty's doing very, very well," Ford said Thursday.

"She is about two or three days ahead of what the doctors prognosticated as the rate of recovery. So, we're very happy."

Ford commented as he gave a special greeting in his Oval Office to Mrs. George P. Wallace and his wife, Mrs. George P. Wallace, a sister-in-law of former First Lady Bess Truman. Mrs. Wallace was on a bus tour of the capital.

A tight schedule prevented Ford from visiting his wife Thursday, but he talked to her by telephone during the day, aides said.

Dominican Leftists Reduce Demands

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Terrorists holding seven hostages in the Venezuelan consulate for a week have scaled down their demands, but the Dominican government is expected to hold out for full surrender.

Shouting from a consulate window through an improvised cardboard megaphone, guerrilla leader Radames Mendez Vargas told newsmen conditions inside the consulate were becoming intolerable.

Demand Dropped

He said he was dropping his demand for $1 million ransom and would settle for safe passage to Mexico and Peru for himself, the other terrorists and some of the 37 political prisoners whose freedom he had demanded earlier. Six terrorists are believed to be held up with the hostages.

There was no immediate response from President Joaquin Balaguer. But Dominican officials and foreign diplomats said they believed the retreat by Mendez Vargas strengthened the government's determination not to compromise.

These sources said they thought the terrorists would eventually agree to free American diplomat Barbara Hutehison and the other six hostages in exchange for safe conduct abroad for themselves alone.

The government said earlier this week it would agree to that.

Food Delivered

Thursday afternoon, U.S. Ambassador Robert A. Hurwitt and the Spanish ambassador put the daily delivery of food, water and other amenities inside the gate in the consulate fence. A man in a yellow shirt, presumably one of the terrorists, hesitantly emerged from the building, handed a note to a policeman, picked up the box and returned to the house.

The contents of the note were not disclosed.

So Laird predicted that eventually rationing will be necessary, coupled with taxes to discourage energy use.

The shift apparently indicates a larger role for Morton in the development of energy policies, Nessen reported Thursday that Ford will unveil his new economic plans in a speech early next week, but he said the time and forum have not yet been decided upon.

But also de facto valid... that is, recognized by the church," he says, adding they are "at any rate implicitly valid and recognizable."

What gave drama to Father van Beek's intervention is that his writings on the issue had been cited by Episcopal Bishop Arthur A. Vogel of Kansas City in an analysis guiding Episcopal bishops in acting on the matter.

Bishop Vogel, of the church's theological commission, concluded in the advisory, in which Father van Beek was cited as an authority for the position, that the women had not undergone ordination, but "only service, only a rite."

Father van Beek, terming himself a reluctant witness because of hesitancy as "an outsider to engage in armchair

Sweetwater Man Dies In Accident

ODESSA — Johnny Lee Phillips, 21, of Sweetwater was killed late Thursday night when the truck in which he was a passenger overturned on Interstate 20.

The driver of the truck, David Grant Clark, of Sweetwater received injuries and was listed this morning in satisfactory condition in Medical Center Hospital.

Phillips was thrown from the truck and pinned under the cab.

McDonnell Will Campaign In Area

Sam McDonnell, candidate for governor on the American party ticket, Saturday brings his campaign to the Midland-Odessa area.

He will visit in Midland during the morning and will greet and visit with residents of the area at a public reception scheduled at 2 p.m. at the Holiday Inn — East Highway 80 — Odessa.

McDonnell visited in Midland during a recent swing through this section of the state.

said, but also "ultimately, I would like to see both the comptroller and the treasurer appointed — say, by the Texas Supreme Court and ratified by the legislature."

But such system would only work in a true two-party state, he said.

The candidate expressed confidence in his election chances, noting he was gathering bipartisan support in some areas. "In the Rio Grande Valley, my campaign chairman is also Dolph Briscoe's campaign chairman," he said.

After addressing the noon luncheon of the Midland Jaycees today, Rowe was to wind up his campaign trip at Big Spring.

Rowe said field operations divisions could alleviate much of the problem by keeping a closer watch on delinquencies in their areas. He said an information program also would be helpful, since "many people don't know what they're supposed to do, because the forms are too complicated."

Bullock was characterized as a candidate with "special interest ties" and as a man trying "to 'wing it' into the comptroller's office" without the necessary qualifications.

Not only should the comptroller's office be free of "special interest ties," Rowe

Theological Hassle On Women Priests Stretches Across Denominational Lines

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — A theological argument cutting across denominational lines has developed over whether 11 women ordained last summer as priests of the Episcopal Church were validly invested with that office.

Most of the church's House of Bishops have said "no." But the theological rationale on which they acted is now challenged by the scholar on whose work their decision was mainly based. He's a Roman Catholic.

The Rev. Frans J. van Beek, a noted theologian at the Jesuits' Boston College, says that although the ordinations were irregular so far as church discipline goes, "they were true ordinations."

"There is a good case for considering them not only true quarterbacking," says he did so as an ecumenical duty and that Bishop Vogel had misinterpreted him.

He says tradition holds that "for a sacrament to be true and valid, there must be the intention of doing what the church does," and this is what the four bishops who ordained the women in Philadelphia last July "obviously intended to do."

Noting the "extraordinary situation" existing in the Episcopal Church, with majorities both of its bishops and lay-clerical representatives at various points favoring women's ordination, he adds:

"The participants in Philadelphia were not breaking the church. They were breaking the discipline of the church — a discipline which is experienced as ambiguous."

Spray Starch Spoils A Visitor To U.S.

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Sally's Problem
DEAR POLLY — I am a foreigner who has been enjoying the conveniences of your country for the past 10 years but now I am returning to my native land and will be leaving behind the many things you take for granted here.

One of the things I have become accustomed to and would like to continue with in my subtropical country is spray starch. Over there we wear summer-type clothes and iron shirts and other such things by sprinkling water on them. After using spray starch for 10 years I am reluctant to go back to the old way. Can anyone suggest a way of making my own spray starch at home? Also can this be put in a bottle so it can be sprayed on? Thank you for any help.
— LEOIA

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the way dresses are pictured and described in the mail order catalogues. One can plainly see that the front of the dress is flared, pleated or so on but what about the back? They fail to mention what it is like. If the front is full but the back is straight some of us could make a great entrance in the dress but how can one make a graceful exit backing-out of a room? It is

DEAR POLLY — I am replying to Mrs. J. N. N. who is worried about the money spent for the many many flowers sent to some funerals and that fade so quickly. For some time I have sent contributions to various charities instead of flowers especially if I would be sending them alone rather than with a group. If the friend died of cancer my donation goes to the Cancer Fund and so on. If the person had been active in a church I may contribute to it and for Catholic friends I often give a Mass. These memorials are more lasting than flowers and are helpful to the living. — H.D.

DEAR READERS — If you wish the family to know you are thinking of them at the time you write a note of sympathy and in it mention the fact that a remembrance is being sent to so and so by you in memory of the deceased. Such organizations send cards of acknowledgment but they may not arrive for several days. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — I have so many pretty little Turkish towels (finger size) that matched nothing. They were never used until one day I picked up one and used it as a napkin and an idea was born. They were all taken to the kitchen and are used every day as napkins for breakfast and lunch. They are colorful, a nice size and many friends have remarked about how they like them and I do, too. They are easy to launder. Saves buying paper napkins. — ELEANOR.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

She Says 'Converse,' He Says 'Convert!'

DEAR ABBY: I am a high school senior. I attend church regularly and am active in our church youth group.

My problem is a friend of mine. He's a nice guy and we study together, but he belongs to another church, and keeps hassling me about my religion. He thinks it's his mission to go around converting people to HIS religion. We've had some pretty hot arguments about this, and I've told him he's wasting his time if he thinks he's going to turn me off my religion and on to something else.

I don't want to end our friendship because he's the most intelligent friend I have, but how can I convince him that I am happy with my own religion and don't want to change?

DEAR J.: Send him this quote from a letter that Thomas Jefferson wrote to Mrs. H. Harrison Smith in 1816: "I never told my own religion nor scrutinized that of another. I never attempted to make a convert, nor wished to change another's creed. I am satisfied that yours must be an excellent religion to have produced a life of such exemplary virtue and correctness. For it is in our lives, and not from our words that our religion must be judged."

And J., if your friend is as intelligent as you say he is, he will get your message and act accordingly.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I work together delivering morning newspapers. We start out at 1 a.m. and finish up about 5 a.m.

It's dark out at that time and many of the house numbers are hidden by big bushes, and some house numbers have been painted over and are impossible to read from the street, so my husband has to get out of the truck and look around for the house numbers with a flashlight. With so much meanness in the world today, he could be mistaken for a prowler. Not only that, but it's time-consuming to get out of the truck, set the brakes, and go looking around for house numbers. I hope you use this in your column to let folks know how they can solve our problem.

PAPER PEOPLE
DEAR PEOPLE: Your letter could solve that problem for others who must make deliveries at night.

DEAR ABBY: "Stumped" asked how to say no to sex since she was a divorcee and couldn't use that old "I'm saving myself for marriage" excuse. You told her she didn't need an excuse — just give him a flat "no!" Well, that would run a guy

Each year the chapter sells advertising to local merchants and prints a book of Christmas music. The books are given to local Scout, church and other organization. The proceeds from the sale of ads are used for philanthropic projects such as the annual valentine party for the special education students, Park Place and Leisure Lodge.

Philanthropic chairman, Mrs. Felts, asked members to donate fabric scraps to be given to Leisure Lodge for quilt making. The chapter voted to purchase additional supplies for the quilts with chapter funds.

Special guests included Mr. Don Stockburger, District 8

Stop... and look

A child is born with imagination, with the ability to see the magic of the world around him. Yet so much creativity—so much "seeing"—is often lost as we grow older and the complexities of life sweep over us.

When a child confronts nature, he isn't in a hurry. He takes time to study each blade of grass, to appreciate the colors of a butterfly, to marvel at a flower or the soft fur of a kitten.

We shouldn't lose this sensibility as we grow up. God created the world, but man has often abused it. So stop—once in awhile—and look, feel and listen. This is communion, restoration... like the spirit you find in church.

Have you been there lately?

'Plays For Living' Series To Begin

It's "Play for Living" time again!

For the fifth year, the Family Counseling Service of Midland will present another in the series of "Plays for Living" before church groups, civic clubs and other organizations in the Midland area. The plays are designed to make the public aware of such problems as drug abuse, effects of marital tension on families and the breakdown in communication between parents and children, all subjects of past plays presented here.

This year's play, "Lady on the Rocks," will deal with yet another serious problem of American modern-day life, alcoholism. It will have its first presentation at the Sunday morning service of the Unitarian Church of Midland, 3400 N. A Street. The public is invited to attend the 10:45 a.m. program.

Other churches and organizations may book a performance of the play by telephoning the Family Counseling Service, 683-4241. Linda George, assistant director of the FCS, is coordinating arrangements for performances.

"Lady on the Rocks" was commissioned by the National Council on Alcoholism to evoke public awareness of alcoholism by creating understanding for the victim and stimulating public action on this deep-seated national health problem.

The National Council on Marijuana and Drug Abuse continues to rate alcoholism as America's No. 1 drug problem, outdistancing heroin and other hard drugs and far outdistancing marijuana.

"Lady on the Rocks" concerns an average American family. The wife has a high tolerance for alcohol, and the husband is proud of the fact that she can hold her liquor well. The play makes the point that her unusual capacity for alcohol is a warning of her vulnerability to it. The play presents early warning signs of alcoholism, problems resulting from excessive drinking and ways of dealing with the problem.

drinker. Each performance of the play will be followed by a discussion period.

A group of actors identified with Midland Community Theatre are cast in this year's play. They include Mrs. Robert Pollard, Jim Walker, Biff Taylor and Cecile Davis. The production is directed by Mary Anne Gardiner, who has directed the last several "Plays for Living."

In addition to "Lady on the Rocks," the Family Counseling Service will present another "Play for Living" here this season. Titled "We the Family" and concerning the much-publicized "generation gap," the play went into rehearsal this week, with performances scheduled to begin soon.

Gospel Saxophonist Will Perform Here

Vernard Johnson, called one of the world's greatest gospel saxophonists, will present a public program Sunday afternoon in Faith Temple Church, 1605 N. Terrell St.

Johnson is a native of Kansas City and a graduate of Kansas State Teachers College at Emporia. Currently working toward graduate degrees in music at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, he will be the first black student to receive the Master of Church Music and Doctor of Musical Arts degrees at the Fort Worth school.

The young man has played his "Saxophone for Christ" in concerts and revivals across the

Church Unionists Plan November Meet

CINCINNATI, Ohio — Nine church denominations which for 12 years have been considering the possibility of union may hear a call in November for mutual recognition of memberships as a first step.

Such a step presumably would mean that member units — whether from Episcopal, Congregational or Presbyterian traditions — could flow freely between denominations without rebaptism or any bars to full participation. If the November plenary session approves the idea, it would then go to the participating churches for their consideration and leaders believe that such a step would not necessarily require constitutional changes or major legislation beyond that already on the books, in most cases.

About 23,000,000 Americans are members of the nine denominations.

The recommendation is expected to be among a number of reports coming to the plenary meeting of the Consultation on Church Union (COCU) here Nov. 3-8. They also may be recom-

Revival Continuing Through Next Week

A revival which began Tuesday night at First Apostolic Church, 710 S. Baird St., will continue through next week.

Evangelist R. A. Heard of Sulphur, La., is preaching during the revival. Services begin at 7:30 p.m. each weekday and at 7 p.m. Sunday, said host pastor L. A. Cessna. The public is invited.

The committee met for the first time with the new general secretary, the Rev. Dr. Gerald F. Moede, and associate general secretary, the Rev. Dr. John H. Satterwhite, of the Princeton, N. J.-based organization.

The church union body has five commissions on which 66 leaders of the nine denominations are developing various facets of the effort toward union.

There will be about 250 participants in the plenary meeting, including ten delegates from each of the nine churches, plus alternates and observers from as many as 20 non-COCU Protestant and Catholic bodies.

Bulldogs, Panthers Match 3-0 Records In Tilt At Odessa

Classic Rushing, Passing Battle Seen

BY TED BATTLES
 ODESSA — Midland High and Odessa Permian bring spottless 3-0 predistrict records into the 5-4A opener at W. T. Barrett Stadium 8 p.m. today and the game shapes up as a classic land and air battle.

The Bulldogs' Wishbone offense provides the Purple Pack with an infantry-oriented attack, although it was the pass that was the key to Midland's 21-8 upset of Permian last year.

Permian looks completely out of character as a passing team, particularly in view of its five straight individual rushing champions, but the Panthers have been effective, 24 of 30 completions by quarterback Kris Howard.

Midland Coach John Reddell points out that Permian still runs the ball well, "That's what makes their passing so effective."

"However, their power-sweep hasn't been as devastating as it has been in previous years, probably because they don't have that breakaway threat Mike Belew gave them last year."

Coach John Wilkins, whose Panthers bounced back from the Midland loss last year to share the 5-4A title with San Angelo, is concerned about the Bulldogs' rushing game that features all-district returnee Mike Gaddy and halfback Mike Hudspeth and Kim Madden. All three have been effective, but Reddell feels the Bulldogs will have to pass some to move the ball consistently against Permian.

With that in mind, he plans to use Sam Jordan and Terry Copeland at split end to provide quarterback John Webb with targets.

Midland has swept past three opponents, beating Amarillo Tascosa, 24-6; Eastwood, 46-0, and Lubbock Monterey, 14-7.

Permian's successes have come at the expense of El Paso Coronado, 28-6; Amarillo, 20-7, and O. D. Wyatt, 20-0.

Hudspeth (40-for-254 yards), Gaddy (39-244) and Madden (21-122) give the Bulldogs a balanced running attack. Quarterback John Webb has thrown sparingly, but completed eight of 24 for 158 yards and two touchdowns. Terry Copeland, with five receptions, is the top receiver.

Travis Howard has rushed for 213 yards on 50 carries while Kris Howard has passed for 377 yards and five touchdowns. Ricky Ross, 10 catches, and Daryl Hunt, five, are his favorite targets.

Pirate Warns Expert

Won-Lost Figures Don't Tell Whole Story

By ED PHILLIPS - PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirate slugger Bob Robertson had a prediction about the National League championship playoffs between his team and the Los Angeles Dodgers. At least he had a prediction about predictions.

"The sports writers are going to look at Los Angeles' record and our record and say we don't have a chance."

That record shows the Dodgers with 102 wins and 60 losses — the best in baseball this year — compiled in the tough NL West Division. The Pirates were 88-74 — the lowest total of victories by any first-place club — in the NL East where only one other team finished above .500.

Those numbers didn't phase Robertson, though.

"We beat them here and we beat them out there during the year. In a five-game series it's a dog-eat-dog situation and anything can happen."

Bucs Hold Edge

In the regular season, the Pirates were 8-4 against the Dodgers, sweeping all six games in Pittsburgh and going 2-4 in Los Angeles. Against all clubs in the Western Division, Pittsburgh was 44-28, encountering much rougher sledding in the East with a 44-46 mark.

But there are some other numbers floating around that tend to favor the Dodgers. Take 19-9 and 20-6.

Those are the won-lost records of Don Sutton and Andy Messersmith, who will be starting the first two games for Los Angeles. Toss in their earned run averages of 3.22 and 2.59 and stack them up against their opponents on the mound.

Jerry Reuss, who had more triumphs than anyone on the Pirate staff with a 16-11 record, will carry a 3.50 ERA into the playoffs Saturday. Jim Rooker took a 15-11 record and a 2.77 ERA into Sunday's game.

Whiff Ace

Further, Messersmith struck out 221 batters, second in the league, while Rooker led the Pirate staff with 139. So the numbers look like they favor Los Angeles.

That's on paper. On the field there were some other numbers. Specifically, Sutton was 1-2 and Messersmith 1-1 against the Pirates. Reuss was 2-1 and Rooker 1-1 versus Los Angeles.

The numbers also show the different roads the clubs took in winning their division titles. Los Angeles got off to the best start in the majors and was able to coast through a late charge by the Cincinnati Reds. They won when necessary.

Worst Start

Pittsburgh got off to the worst start in the majors and climbed past five clubs to a September-long dogfight with St. Louis that went to the last day of the season. The Pirates, too, won when they had to.

The Dodgers, who arrived in town Thursday to rest up for a workout today, are in possession of their first division championship.

Los Angeles' last pennant came in 1966, before the inauguration of division play.

Game time Saturday is 12:05 p.m., CDT, and the contest will be nationally televised on NBC. Sunday's game, starting at the same time, will not be carried by the network due to a football game.

Tuesday, the best-of-five series shifts to Los Angeles.

PP&K Contest Set Saturday

The Punt, Pass and Kick contest, sponsored for eight-to-13-year-olds, is scheduled for the Midland High band practice field Saturday with sessions to begin at 9:30 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The contest is sponsored by the Midland Optimist Club and Rogers Ford.

There will be six divisions of competition so that each youngster will be competing against others in their own age bracket.

Winners in each division advance to zone competition and from the long, winding trail leads to the PP&K finals at the National Football Conference championship game Dec. 29.

SAME OLD ACT—

Oakland Juggles Second Basemen

By ERIC PREWITT OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland A's are juggling second basemen again. It must be playoff time.

Dick Green will start at second in the American League playoffs which open here Saturday against the Baltimore Orioles. Manny Trillo is the new backup man because of Ted Kubiak's ankle injury.

At some other positions, Manager Alvin Dark isn't so sure of how he'll play things.

"We have problems, like whether Reggie Jackson can play in the field," Dark said.

Right-fielder Jackson, the A's leading home run hitter and the league's Most Valuable Player in 1973, pulled a hamstring muscle Sept. 22 and didn't play in the field through the final 10 days of the regular baseball season.

"I probably could have come back last weekend, but they wanted to make sure I was ready for the playoffs," said Jackson, who took part in a special batting practice session with most of the other A's regulars Thursday.

Dark would like Ray Fosse to start as catcher for defensive purposes, but the 196 hitter may be replaced by power hitting Gene Tenace, the regular first baseman. The move would start a chain reaction, with Joe Rudi moving from left field to first.

"If we change three positions, we've got inexperience, inexperience, inexperience," admits Dark.

The A's and Orioles both had workouts scheduled this afternoon at the Oakland Coliseum, where about 40,000 fans are expected Saturday to watch Jim "Catfish" Hunter, 25-12, pitch against the Orioles' Mike Cuellar, 22-10, in the opener of the best-of-five playoff.

Oakland, en route to a second straight world championship, advanced to the World Series by beating the Orioles in five games last season.

Texas Christian University, which hasn't beaten Arkansas in 15 years, hopes Coach Jim Shofner hasn't forgotten how the Horned Frogs beat the Razorbacks two out of his three years when he was attending TCU back in the 1950's.

It won't have to wait long to find out. The teams square off at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Fort Worth in the only Southwest Conference game on tap. Arkansas, with victories over Southern California and Tulsa and a loss to Oklahoma State, will be favored over a Frog team that has only a victory over UT-Arlington in three starts.

Elsewhere in non-conference games, Southern Methodist hosts Oregon State and Texas A&M tries to stretch its victory string to four against Kansas University at Lawrence in afternoon games.

The arc schedule has Texas Tech trying to concentrate on a 7:30 p.m. date with Oklahoma State in Lubbock's Jones Stadium, but following the 26-3 win over Texas last week that isn't easy. Baylor is at Florida State and Washington catches rebounding Texas in a 7 p.m. game at Austin.

Houston, 2-2, invades South Carolina where Paul Dietzel, the one-time glamor coach of college football, is finishing up a 10-year hitch and will devote his fulltime to the athletic director's duties next year.

Missouri Valley Conference members North Texas and West Texas see action against Drake and Southern Mississippi, respectively.

West Texas, after a lacing at the hands of New Mexico State, bounced back to thrash Wichita State last week while North Texas has lost to SMU.

and Tulsa.

Texas-El Paso, 1-0 in Western Athletic Conference play, although 1-2 for the season, takes on WAC favorite Arizona at Tucson Saturday night.

More than 40,000 are expected for the Tech-OSU game, a series that stands 10-6-3 in Tech's favor. The Cowboys, a 31-14 loser to Baylor last week after wins over Wichita State, 59-6, and Arkansas, 26-7, have 12 Texans on their traveling squad.

Abby Daigle kicked four field goals in the win over Arkansas, and he could wind up in a kicking duel with Tech's Brian Hall, if it's close.

A&M, which has rocketed to fourth place in one national grid poll, faces a Kansas club that holds victories over Washington State and Florida State and lost to Tennessee, 17-3. But there shouldn't be any surprises offensively. This is the fourth straight Veeer team the Aggies have faced.

Texas plays a Washington team that A&M beat last week.

Horned Frogs Face 15-Year Hog Jinx

as the Steers tune up for their Dallas date with Oklahoma next week.

SMU, 2-1, plays Oregon State, 0-3, in the Cotton Bowl at 1:30 p.m. and the Mustangs aren't worried so much about winning or losing as they are about how many fans will show up. For the Virginia Tech game, there were 57,000 no shows.

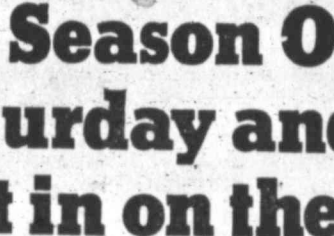

Florida State suffered a 40-0 loss to Kansas last week, so Baylor's hopes for squaring their season's record at 2-2 are good this week.

The Lone Star Conference

sends Southwest Texas, 1-1, an upset winner over Angelo State last week, against Abilene Christian College at Abilene Saturday night. The Wildcats had a 13-game win streak severed by Texas A&I, 46-14, last week. Sul Ross, 1-1, is at Sam Houston, 1-2; Angelo State, 1-1, is at Tarleton, 1-2, and Howard Payne, 1-2, plays at East Texas, 2-1.

The big one, however, will send A&I, 3-0, against S.F. Austin, 3-0, at Nacogdoches. SFA ranked second in this week's NAIA poll.

Lee JV Bows To Odessa

ODESSA — The Odessa junior varsity, with the help of three 15-yard penalties in the fourth period, downed the Midland Lee JV, 21-14, at Joe Coleman Field Thursday night.

With the score tied, 14-14 and OHS apparently stopped the flag for three consecutive unsportsmanship conduct penalties on the Rebels, giving the Bronchos a first down at the Rebel five. Two plays later, Johnny Burleson, who scored all three OHS TDs, banged over from the one to make it 20-14. The 200-pounder had already scored in the first and third period. Rick Boren, a 220-pound transfer from California, split the uprights for the 21-14 lead.

What hurt Lee more than anything was a net two yards total offense in the second half after moving the ball well against the big Bronchos.

Lee Leads 6-0
In fact, Lee took a 6-0 lead in the first period, driving 80 yards in 14 plays to score, with Robert Oschner racing 13 yards for the TD. Dempsey Stover's attempt for the extra point sailed wide left.

Burleson then got loose on a 61-yard TD gallop to pull the Bronchos even, 6-6 and Boren booted the extra point through for a 7-6 lead late in the first period.

Boren, who boomed all of his kickoffs out of the end zone, misfired on a pair of 50-yard field goals—one in the second period and one in the third, but the big youngster had kicked a 55-yarder in practice and missed by one yard a 60-yard attempt earlier in the week.

Coach Ernie Johnson's Rebs didn't seem too concerned by being behind 7-6 and drove 66 yards in 11 plays to score again, this time on a perfectly executed screen pass from quarterback Brad Wright to Brian Crowell from 10 yards out. The Rebs, came up with some razzle-dazzle on the extra point play, with Crowell faking the field goal, passing to John Lowery who was all alone in the end zone for the two-pointer to make it 14-7 in favor of Lee.

Remains Unbeaten
OHS then came back in the second half to add two TDs on short two and one-yard plunges by Burleson to remain undefeated in four games with the victory which featured hard hitting by both sides.

Temper flared several times, but never got out of hand during the game.

Roger Owens made three key runs on end sweeps that kept the Rebels off balance during the second half with one being a 32-yard run.

Oschner got off a great 45-yard scamper and Stover a 20-yard run in the first half for the Rebels, but the Midland team just was unable to move the ball in the second half.

With the loss, Lee is now 2-2.

Sunland Season Opens

SUNLAND PARK, N.M. — The biggest purse distribution in Sunland Park history — an estimated $2½ million — will be sliced up during the '74-75 season which starts unreeling on Saturday.

The 88-day campaign, extending through early May, has attracted about the finest-quality horses in the track's 16-year history. "All indications point to another record-breaking year, and the continued development of our racing program and rapidly-growing purse distribution," said General Manager Al Rosa.

The opening weekend consists of 12-race programs on both Saturday and Sunday, starting at 1:30 p.m. both days.

But a variety of season-opening activities will get Saturday's agenda moving at 12 noon. The early agenda will include a ceremonial parade by mounted members of the El Paso Sheriff's Posse and the Juarez Charro Association.

The well-known film actor,

Chill Wills, will also be on hand for the opening-day activities. Also slated to take part are three lovely young ladies — the reigning Miss El Paso, Aundie Evers; Jan Nilsson of Las Cruces, who holds the title of Miss New Mexico Universe; and Donna Reel of Albuquerque, who was recently crowned Miss New Mexico America.

Cook Treats Broken Leg Lightly, Hears About It

San Antonio Express-Sports editor Dan Cook was telling about the faux pas he made on his tv sports program before Saturday's Texas Tech-Texas game at Lubbock.

Dan, during one of his weeknight telecasts, reported that Tech kicker Brian Hall had broken his leg, but then threw in a "It's no big deal."

At that point, he was cut off for a commercial and before he could get back on the air, the switchboard lit up like a Christmas tree with calls from infuriated viewers.

"The general tenor of the call was that 'if that had been a University of Texas kicker, you wouldn't have been so flip.'"

The callers weren't aware, of course, that Hall kicks with an artificial leg and the broken limb was easily replaced.

Midland Athletic Director Thurman (Tugboat) Jones had a special interest in last week's Texas A&M-Washington game. Tug had coached at A&M before coming to Midland as a coach back in the late 1940's and he went to Washington as one of Jim Owens assistants after winning a state AAAA title at Highland Park.

Incidentally, Huskie officials are waiting somewhat fearfully for NFL football in Seattle's new domed stadium in 1976, particularly in view of the inroads pro football has made on college attendance in one-time flourishing collegiate centers such as Fort Worth, Dallas and Houston.

Last year, Washington averaged 55,000 fans per game, just 3,000 under stadium capacity, and that was with a 2-9 team.

With Texas A&M 3-0 for the first time since Bear Bryant in 1957, Aggie jokes are the kind even the Aggies laugh at now. Such as, "Know what you call an Aggie after five years?"

Bullpups, Permian JV Struggle To 7-7 Tie

By BOB DILLON
The Midland Bullpup junior varsity and Permian JV set the stage for tonight's District 5-4A opener by battling to an exciting 7-7 deadlock Thursday afternoon in Memorial Stadium.

Midland had a chance to win the game in the second half, but was turned back by a determined Permian defense at the one-foot line.

Permian came into the game unscored upon, but the Pups changed that in a hurry in the opening period to take a 7-0 lead on the Black Cats.

Midland kicked off to Permian and held after the Panthers moved to the Pup 41. Both teams displayed hard-hitting defenses and after an exchange of punts, Midland took advantage of a strong 25 mile-per-hour wind and a short 17-yard punt off the toe of Bobby Riggs to drive 40 yards in five plays to score.

WT Area Grid Races Kick Off

All important district races begin on two fronts tonight in area football circles as the AAA squads forget about past performances and look to the future.

District 3-AAA and 2-AAA open loop play tonight with Snyder's Tigers favored in 3-AAA and a massive four-way scramble expected in 2-AAA against Monahan, Pecos, Kermit and Seminole.

Snyder hosts Lamesa today at 7:30 p.m. in what is considered the most important district opener in the two loops. Both own a 3-1 record going into the affair, and both expected to make a strong run at the crown.

In other 3-AAA action, Lubbock Estacado entertains Brownfield while San Angelo Lake View travels to Sweetwater.

The most important affair in the 2-AAA circle appears to be the opening battle between Kermit and Andrews, another 7:30 p.m. outing. Kermit has been a surprise team this year and owns a 3-1 record while Andrews, figured to own upset possibilities, stands at 0-4.

In other 2-AAA action, Fort Stockton treks to Monahan tonight while Odessa Ector hosts Seminole Saturday in W. T. Barret Stadium.

All other teams continue the non-conference slate tonight.

Teams in District 7-AA face some tough foes with McCamey hosting Van Horn, Crane entertaining Mason, Reagan County hosting Brady, Ozona traveling to Iraan and Sonora trekking to Llano.

HURRICANE'S BEST SINCE EARLY 1960's— Shug Jordan Fears Miami

By The Associated Press
Eleventh-ranked Auburn, with the nation's best total defense in college football, held Miami of Florida to a minus 85 yards rushing the last time the two teams met.

That was in 1968 when the Tigers upset Miami 31-6. But when the two powers meet tonight in front of an anticipated 40,000 fans in the Orange Bowl, Auburn Coach Ralph Shug" Jordan expects a much tougher opponent in the 16th-ranked Hurricanes.

"From looking at films and talking to scouts, Miami has the best team they've probably had since the early 1960s," said Jordan.

In key games Saturday, it's No. 1 Ohio State at Washington State in Seattle; Wake Forest at No. 2 Oklahoma; No. 3 Alabama at Mississippi in Jacksonville; No. 4 Michigan at Stanford; No. 5 Texas A&M at Kansas; Minnesota at No. 6 Nebraska; No. 7 Notre Dame at Michigan State; East Carolina at No. 8 North Carolina State; Iowa at No. 9 Southern California and Oklahoma State at No. 10 Texas Tech.

Miami has averaged 214 yards rushing and 90 yards passing. Auburn has allowed only 126 yards in total defense and is giving up just 1.7 yards per rushing attempt.

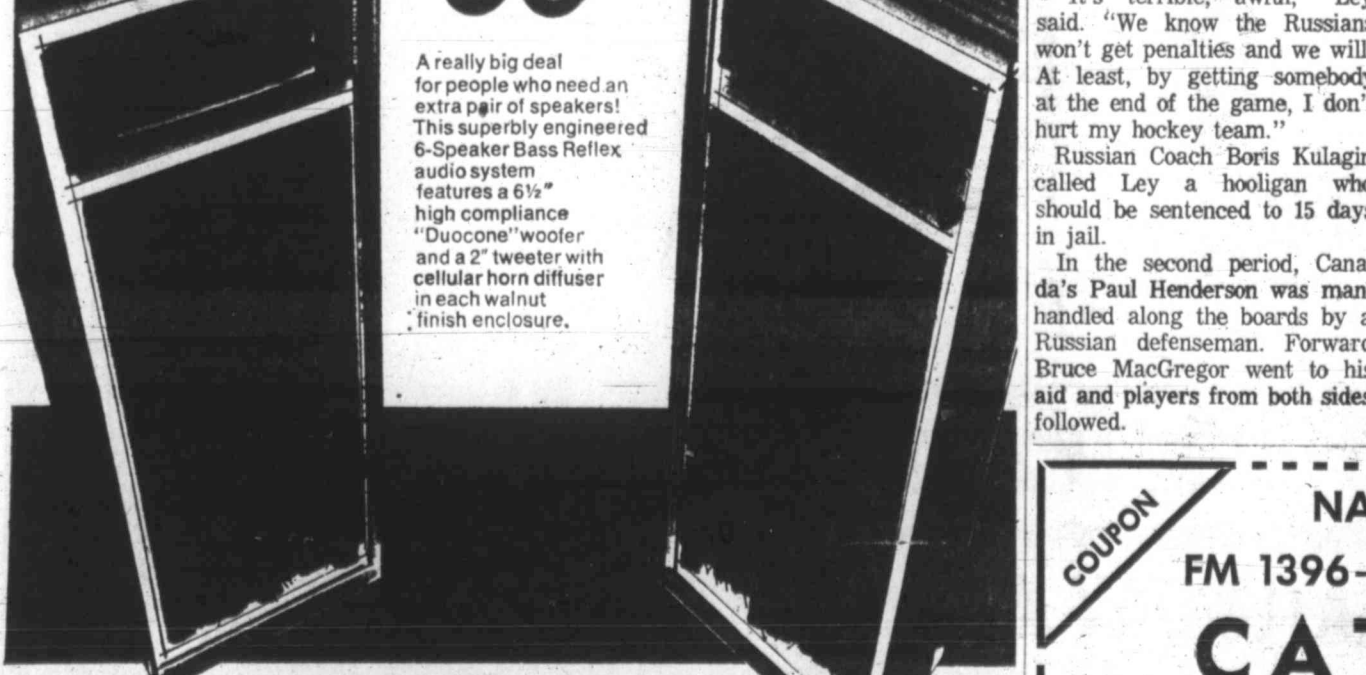

"They're human beings, just people, like you and me," said Washington State linebacker Don Hoover of Ohio State. "They're No. 1, but we're shooting to knock them off."

Wake Forest, which hasn't won since its opener in 1973, doesn't figure to provide much trouble at all for Coach Barry Switzer's Sooners, unbeaten in 14 straight games.

New Indian Pilot Earns Player Respect

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

"The day of the black manager is inevitable," Jackie Robinson wrote in his autobiography. The inevitable became reality Thursday when the Cleveland Indians named Frank Robinson as their new manager.

The first black to play in the major leagues, Jackie Robinson wrote that a black manager would be named "when an owner finally realizes that the arguments that white players will not accept advice from a black is a phony."

Former teammates and associates of Frank Robinson were open in their praise for the new manager.

"He's a leader," said Pat Dobson, who played with Robinson on the 1970 world champion Baltimore Orioles. "He won't stand for mental mistakes. He'll work hard on fundamentals."

Frank Messer, who broadcast the Baltimore games that year, said the Orioles "wouldn't have won it without him. Frank made a ballplayer out of Paul Blair. I have the most admiration for him. I think he'll do a good job."

Phil Rizzuto, former New York Yankee star infielder and now a broadcaster, noted that Robinson managed in Puerto Rico to get experience. Two players who performed for Robinson in the winter league also praised him.

"Frank gives players a lot of confidence," said Sandy Alomar, who also played with Robinson at California this season. "You can talk to him as a friend as well as a manager. 'I'll tell you one thing. He'll get respect. He demands it."

Baltimore pitcher Jim Palmer, who played for Robinson in 1968 in Puerto Rico, said "he got along with the players and they respected him for a number of reasons — what he had done and what he knows, and the way he acted and reacted to players."

Larry Doby — who broke the American League color line when he played with the Indians in 1947 — said he was disappointed, but not resentful, that he didn't get the job. Doby was a Cleveland coach this past season.

"But I am happy that baseball is now showing it's not prejudiced," Doby said. "Somewhere, Jackie Robinson will be smiling." Doby said, "because he's the reason it's all happening now."

Robinson Hopes He's Not The End

By RICHARD BILOTTI
CLEVELAND (AP) — Frank Robinson, the first black manager in the 105-year history of the major leagues, says he doesn't know what baseball people are thinking, "but I hope — I hope — that they don't say 'now we have one here' and then forget about hiring any more."

He also said he doesn't want to get involved in worrying about the ratio of blacks to whites on his coaching staff.

"I hope if I name three black ones and a white one you don't get on me; and I don't want you to get on me if I name three white coaches and one black one," he said.

Robinson was honored Thursday — just after his selection to manage the Cleveland Indians was formally announced — by President Gerald R. Ford, baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and others, including newsmen.

"I know millions of Americans join me in sending warmest good wishes for every success in future seasons," Ford's telegram said.

Robinson — in a contemplative mood when talking with newsmen and repeatedly trying to minimize the racial aspects of his appointment — also alluded to a color barrier broken in 1947 by Jackie Robinson when he joined the major leagues.

"If I had one wish in the world today," Robinson said, "that wish would be to have Jackie Robinson here to see this happen."

But he added that he did not want to be known only as the first black manager in the majors.

"I want to be judged by my expertise on the field," Robinson said. "I was born black and now that I'm a manager, I guess I have to be a black manager."

Robinson said he is aware of the pressure that will be put upon him, but explained it will come from outside. "I don't feel any pressure from within and that's the most important thing to me," Robinson said.

Robinson will make an estimated $180,000 a year from his one-year pact as player-manager of the Indians.

"My hat size has gotten bigger in the last few months," Robinson said. "But that's only because I've let my hair grow. I plan to get my hair cut soon and that should help reduce my hat size."

Robinson, the only man to be named most valuable player in both leagues, gained his managing experience as mentor of the Santurce club in the Puerto Rican winter league.

He made the All-NBA 12 times, 10 as a first team selection.

He finishes his career as the third highest regular season scorer with 25,192 points. In 1969-70 he was the top scorer with an average of 31.2 points per game.

He scored 63 against the New York Knicks on Jan. 17, 1962, the most scored by a guard in one game.

He has tallied the most points in playoff history for a career with 4,457 and for a single season with 562 in 1970. His average of 40.6 points per game in the 1965 playoffs is also a record.

Robinson said, "I don't want to be known only as the first black manager in the majors."

Despite 5-Stroke Deficit, Miller Still Not Out Of It

By BOB GREEN
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Johnny Miller, five shots back of the surprise rookie leader, said he isn't out of it going into today's second round of the $135,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

But Miller, admittedly weary and lacking desire, sounded very much as if he were trying to convince himself.

"I'd be lying if I said I was up for this tournament," said Miller, who had to get "maybe the biggest break of my life" to salvage a par-71 in Thursday's first round.

That put Miller, the winner of eight tour titles and a record $346,000 this season, well behind stocky Bobby Heins, a 23-year-old native of Monticello, N.Y., who surprised even himself with a five-under-par 66.

"I only hit three or four shots every time I looked up, the ball was going straight for the flag," said Heins, who hasn't come close to making expenses and has survived the cut only five times in his brief pro career.

J.C. Snead and journeyman Dave Eichelberger matched 67 in the bright, warm sunshine that bathed the 6,800-yard, par-71 Sahara-Nevada Country Club course and were tied for second, one shot out.

Former champion Chi Chi Rodriguez, Mike Hill, Ken Still and John Schroeder were at 68 while defending title-holder John Mahaffey was in a big bunch at 69.

Tom Weiskopf, who was paired with Miller, managed only a four-over-par 75 and must improve today if he is to qualify for the final two rounds.

Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Lee Trevino and U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin are not competing.

Charlotte Douses Fire

CHICAGO (AP) — The Charlotte no-names, nee the New York Stars, remained well and alive in the Eastern Division race of the World Football League today following a 41-30 victory over the Chicago Fire in a nationally televised game.

The no-names, or still the Stars, made their first appearance as representatives of Charlotte, N.C., Thursday night and lost no time in establishing some kind of identity. They managed to get decals of the letter "C" stamped on their helmets.

The Stars, who are soon to have a new name, were inspired too much for the Fire.

Led by quarterback Tom Sherman, they struck for a 33-15 half-time lead and then coasted to their ninth victory against five losses to remain one game behind Florida in the Eastern Division.

Sherman speared for one touchdown and hurled touchdown passes of 63 yards to Al Barnes and 45 yards to Bert Askson before leaving the game with an injured knee. Brian Dowling did the quarterbacking in the second half as the Fire put on a late rally which fell short.

Mixed Doubles Tourney Ends

The rain-delayed first annual Midland Mixed Doubles benefit wound up Thursday with Virginia Brown-Biyong Sison winning the Davis Cup flight, Malcolm Manns-Dariene Cutlip, Odessa, the Davis Cup consolation, while David and Bonnie Legg, Midland, won the Wightman Cup flight and Joe Blumentritt-Marilyn Branscum, Midland, won the Wightman consolation.

Midland National Bank sponsored the tournament. Krueger Jewelry donated the trophies.

TENNIS ROUNDUP

Wade Advances

HOUSTON (AP) — Great Britain's Virginia Wade says she'd rather play beautiful tennis than win but it's working out just the opposite for her in the $50,000 Women's Pro Tennis Circuit tournament here.

Wade, second seeded, advanced to the semifinals of the tournament Thursday with a scrambling 3-6, 7-5, 7-5 victory over 16-year-old Robin Tenney.

And in Lahaina, Hawaii, Dick Stockton bypassed the quarter-finals of the first Island Holiday Pro Tennis Classic scheduled for today hitting by winning his third straight match.

Stockton ousted Ray Ruffels 7-5, 6-1 Thursday.

"I want to be one of the best tennis players in the world and I want to play more attractive tennis than anyone else," said Wade, who advanced to the semifinals at Wimbledon this year.

"If I'm really playing well, really hitting the ball, I can lose track of the purpose behind it all," she said.

Prior to her victory over Miss Tenney, Miss Wade had to rally to defeat unseeded Isabel Fernandez of Colombia 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

Fourth-seeded Evonne Goolagong of Australia defeated fellow Aussie Helen Gourlay, fifth seeded, 6-4, 6-3 in Thursday's other quarter-finals match.

Quarter-finals matches today include No. 1-seeded Chris Evert vs. Wendy Overton and Pam Teeguarden vs. Kate combe of Australia was scheduled to face sixth-seeded Onny Parun of New Zealand; fifth-seeded Roscoe Tanner and third-seeded Colin Dibley were matched together, and fourth-seeded Tom Gorman was to face Sherwood Stewart.

Semifinals were scheduled for Saturday with finals Sunday.

Velma Price Captures Ranchland Women's Meet

Velma Price defeated Mary Robinson, 2-1, Thursday at the Ranchland Hill Country Club to win the Ladies Club Golf Championship.

Retha Peterson defeated Nina Colter, 2-up, to win consolation honors.

Buff Cooke won the first flight with a 2-up victory over Golda Morgan while Betty Howell took a second hole sudden death win over Martha McCuen for the consolation prize.

Maryanna Brimberry downed Thelma Johnston, 3-up, to win the second flight while the consolation honors went to Joann Adkins with a victory over Shirley Mays.

Peggy Moffitt won the nine-hole flight with a 4-3 victory over Ann Smith. In the consolation stroke play, Maxine LaBouff won over Nadine Guthrie and Winnie Van Landingham.

Here We Go Again!

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., is at it again! It seems he just can't keep from going after the oil industry, using every trick in the book to hamstring the very business which is doing more than any other to whip the energy problem.

The senator, in the past, has come forth with numerous ideas which were far from being helpful to oil and gas interests. In fact, most of them would have put many independent operators out of business.

Now, the Washington senator, running hard for a presidential nomination, has called on the Ford administration to roll back domestic oil prices and limit imports of foreign oil.

He proposes that the maximum price of domestic crude oil be reduced to $7 or $8 a barrel.

Jackson apparently isn't concerned with the existing cost of finding, developing and producing more oil to meet present and future needs. Nor is he concerned about what operating costs may be tomorrow.

He talks about the "ruinous and cruel" impact of runaway oil prices. This certainly is true, as it concerns imported crude oil, but there are no runaway prices on the domestic scene. The more oil produced at home, the less need there will be for the higher priced foreign crude. Yet, the senator would reduce the price of domestic crude, which would tend to curb production on the home front. It doesn't make sense.

Jackson made his recommendations about the same time that Treasury Secretary William E. Simon was pointing out that the only leverage oil importing nations have to bring about lower prices is to reduce consumption and increase domestic production of energy resources.

Simon declined comment on Senator Jackson's proposal.

He did say, however, that President Ford next week will outline to Congress a program of energy conservation, which may include some mandatory energy controls.

The problem of inflation, of course, is becoming more and more vexing, but clamping down on domestic oil production isn't the best means of meeting the international problem.

It is difficult to see how the lowering and limiting of domestic oil prices would achieve the stated aim of lowering world oil prices if domestic exploration and production drop as a result of the action.

Jackson also has proposed that the United States employ "a massive conservation program" to reduce U.S. dependence on imported oil by 2 million barrels daily.

Increased domestic production is a most effective means of reducing dependence on imported oil.

'We Should Have You Out Of There In A Couple Of Years'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson Says: Here's more on Sen. Marlow Cook.

WASHINGTON—The double standard in Washington is nowhere more apparent than in the attitude toward gifts.

The much-maligned Washington bureaucrat may not even permit himself to be taken to the cafeteria by anyone with a problem before his agency. But the winning and dining of members of Congress by favor seekers is a major industry in Washington.

Most senators carefully reject any large charity and confine their contraband from private interests to football tickets, toiletries, liquor, cigars and the like. But Kentucky's silver-haired Senator Marlow Cook, if his memoirs should ever be put to music, could entitle them: "How to Succeed in the Senate Without Really Trying." For he has accepted, gratis, everything from automobiles to apartments.

Indeed, he arrived in the Senate almost six years ago in a free Buick provided by a Louisville dealer named Jim Cooke. Sources with access to the records claim the generous dealer loaned Senator Cook a couple of Buicks a year until early 1971. Thereafter, the senator got his Buicks from an Arlington, Va., dealer named Larry Peacock. The senator was loathe to discuss his transportation arrangements. He admitted only that he had borrowed a Buick "for a couple months" from Cooke and had bought a Buick from Peacock.

Voting Address

As the senator from Kentucky, Cook felt he should have a voting address in the Blue Grass state. At first, he used the Buick dealer's home address. Then he set himself up, for about one dollar a month, in Louisville's plush penthouse atop the fashionable "800" apartment building. The apartment belonged to James E. Barnett, who was away promoting wrestling matches in Australia.

In return for the use of the apartment, the senator told us, he served as an overseer of the furniture and art in Barnett's apartment. He also paid the electric bills, telephone bills and maid service out of his own pocket, he said. Our sources, however, say Cooke only paid for parking and maid service. Now Cooke has moved into an apartment in his own name in the same building.

During the 1972 Republican convention, he wangled a rent-free apartment in Miami Beach. He insisted to us at first that he had rented rooms in the hotel where the Kentucky delegation was billeted. But when my associate Jack Cloberty confronted him with the address of his Miami Beach digs, the senator acknowledged that he had stayed there "a couple nights."

During his first few years in he is even less likely to get anywhere.

Those East players who sat back and failed to stick in a one-spade overall on board 32 of the Olympiad game found this out.

Invariably, West would open a club against South's three notrump. The jack would be played from dummy. After it held the trick South would lead dummy's jack of diamonds and let it ride. West would be in most exclusive club, there are too few restraints.

Footnote: Cook told us he seldom makes more than $10,000 a year from his law practice. After his election to the Senate, he also was named a director of the Bank of Louisville. The chairman, Sam Kline, happens to be the father-in-law of National Industries' head honcho, Stanley Yarmuth. Incidentally, Yarmuth's son John is on the public payroll as Cook's legislative aide.

Stanley Yarmuth did not return our calls. Jim Cooke and Larry Peacock both refused to comment.

WATCH ON WASTE: Government bureaucrats constantly are looking for excuses to get away from Washington and visit faraway places at the taxpayers' expense.

Two Census Bureau technicians, for example, took off last month on a jaunt to Germany for an 11-day "International Symposium on Economics of Informatics," where they exchanged information on counting people.

The price tag for this trip is $2,100, excluding the conference fees. Yet it could have been much more. Originally two of their superiors, Edward Failor and his aide Skip Watts, who are more skilled at Republican politicking than census taking, had planned to go along.

But after we questioned Failor's aide about the cost and purposes of the trip, both he and Failor canceled out. "We have decided not to accompany the two experts after all," they notified us.

Management Takes A Real Oriental Slant

NEW YORK (NEA) — The famed productivity of Japanese workers is being duplicated in America — with American workers.

Some 20 Japanese companies operating in the United States are outperforming American companies in the same industries, writes Richard Tanner Johnson and William G. Ouchi in the Harvard Business Review. The key, they believe, lies in the Japanese style of management.

For instance in one plant in San Diego, 200 American workers put together tv sets on an assembly line identical to the company's assembly lines in Japan. The productivity of the workers on both sides of the Pacific is the same, showing that Japanese management techniques are exportable.

What is the Japanese style? The Japanese executive is not a "decision maker" in the Western sense. His function is to encourage change and initiative from the lower levels up and to improve the flow of information upward from the subordinates who work closest to the problems. Most Japanese companies have an open-door policy so that any employee has immediate access to any manager.

Americans hired into executive positions in Japanese companies find themselves in an upside-down world. "The bottom-up style of decision-making can be very frustrating for an American accustomed to the issuance of orders from above," write Johnson and Ouchi.

East and West have met on the production line. But what is astonishing is that it is the former that practices democracy and individualism and the latter that has the authoritarian system.

WHAT GOOD ARE anti-littering signs if most people don't think they apply to them? Or ugly looking litter barrels which may, in themselves, be an eyesore? Or $100 fines for littering if they are seldom enforced?

Not very much says University of Wisconsin sociologist Thomas Heberlein who has found that many people simply don't seem to regard their littering acts as littering.

More specific signs, such as "Paper is litter, don't throw paper out of your car," is one of his suggestions for attacking the highway litter problem.

Another is brighter, more attractive, "fun to use" cans that encourage the litterer to re-use them.

As for those stiff fines, they make an officer want pretty definite proof before he arrests someone. But not only is littering not an obvious act, like running a red light, it is not as dangerous to other motorists. Thus litterers rank far down on the policeman's priority list of offenders.

Lower, more realistic fines might increase the likelihood of more arrests and hence better enforcement of the anti-litter laws, thinks Heberlein.

We think he thinks smart.

THOSE CHILD-PROOF caps on medicine bottles and other dangerous products found around the house are a pain in the neck, frequently resisting the best efforts of adults to open them, too.

But they're doing the job they were designed to do: Saving young lives.

In the first full year that the tops were used on aspirin bottles, child poisonings from aspirin alone dropped nearly 20 per cent reports George Maisel, director of the Poison Prevention Packaging Division of the Consumer Product Safety Commission in Washington, D.C.

Since then, nine other household products have come under the Poison Prevention Act — things like furniture polish, oven cleaners and lighter fluid — bringing the total to about farmers cannot be expected to part with their produce except at a price much higher than the one set by the government at this time last year.

If she does raise the purchase price for wheat, however, she will either have to raise the price charged by ration shops or increase state subsidies. So she may well opt to continue the unhappy compromise between state and private trading.

Because India's food reserves are now negligible, a bad harvest automatically means a food deficit unless the difference can be made up by imports.

Earlier this year the government thought it could scrape through with 9 million tons, even though last year the system barely functioned with 11.5 million tons. This could have been done only by reducing the numbers eligible for a ration, perhaps by leaving rural areas to fend for themselves.

But now Prime Minister Indira Gandhi is aiming for the 11 million tons distributed last year. Her problem is how to beg, borrow or buy yet another million tons with wheat prices high and world reserves low.

India is now claiming a share in the emergency fund which the United Nations hopes to mobilize to help the countries hit hardest by oil prices rises. This is said to be why Indian envoys are discussing the grain requirements in Washington; the United States is expected to be one of the chief donors of grain to the UN fund.

A bad harvest can always be blamed on the weather and Indians are duly doing so. But India's agricultural problems go well beyond a few erratic monsoons.

The green revolution has lost its momentum because of administrative failures over a wide front. Low productivity in state-run factories has caused a shortage of both fertilizer and quality seeds. The development of new strains of wheat has fallen behind, aggravating the incidence of pests and diseases in the one crop which had, until recently, proved the promise of the "miracle" seeds.

But the government continues to neglect long-term solutions — sustained research, for instance — in favor of instant remedies such as changes in the distribution system.

Mrs. Gandhi is under considerable pressure from the left to renationalize the wheat trade after the failure of the part-state, part-private trading system that was introduced this year. But she knows that, with the general price level rising by 2 or 3 per cent a month,

Cooperative Curbs Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A confidential staff report of a Republican antitrust task force urges curbs on the power of big agricultural cooperatives as a means of fighting the high price of food.

The report already has been criticized by the House panel members, some of whom represent rural districts. Chairman Rep. H. John Heinz III, the Pittsburgh pickle heir, said his task force discussed the report Wednesday and found it premature and in need of further study.

Views Not Represented
"It does not represent the position or views of the task force," he said, stressing that the report had not been intended for publication.

The Associated Press obtained a copy of the confidential report Thursday. Among its recommendations:

—A ban to keep corporations from processing food from joining farmer-style cooperatives, which enjoy certain antitrust exemptions. This might force liquidation of one big co-op that already controls half the chickens sold in the United States.

Amendment Proposed
—An amendment to allow the Justice Department to go to court to prevent mergers of farmer cooperatives into giants such as the three dairy co-ops that control 25 per cent of the nation's milk. Under current law, co-ops legally may grow to any size if they avoid predatory methods.

—Study of an idea to discourage expensive advertising of brand-name foods through tax laws. The report said such advertising tends to discourage competing new brands from entering the market.

More Freedom Urged
—Freedom for independent supermarkets to join cooperatives to produce their own low-priced house brands, such as those sold by chain supermarkets.

—More democratic arrangements for farmers in voting on federally regulated markets for milk, fruit and vegetables. Co-op managers presently are able to cast bloc votes for all their members, even if a majority disagrees with the manager's position.

The Heinz committee, called the Republican Task Force on Antitrust and Monopoly Problems, seeks to fight inflation by fostering competition and avoiding wage and price controls.

Heinz said he is not repudiating the staff's report on the food industry, which was based on several days of hearings held a few weeks ago, but he said the panel has not adopted it. "We did not feel we had all the facts," he said.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian C. Winston Barclay. Hulseley was accompanied to Midland by W. G. "Bill" Marquardt, vice president of TESCO, a former manager of the firm's Western Division here and a past president of the Midland Rotary Club.

Hulseley discussed the nation's energy situation, how it affects West Texas, and what the electric utility industry is doing about it.

Pointing out that West Texans 50 and 60 years ago got along without a lot of things, he added that people today are just not going to turn away from the goods, services and conveniences to which they have become accustomed.

"The fact is," he said, "that there is a direct linkage between energy, productivity and our standard of living."

Although some people consider the energy problem solved, Hulseley said the energy crisis still is with and ahead of the nation.

Hulseley quoted Dr. Edward Teller, an outstanding atomic scientist, as saying, "Unless there are great and well-directed efforts, we are going to be completely dependent upon unreliable energy sources and we are going to have an unprecedented trade deficit."

Hulseley said that in 1973, more than 75 per cent of the nation's energy was supplied by oil and gas, of which about 23 per cent was imported. He added that by 1985, if present trends continue, "we will have to import half of our petroleum requirements."

Winston Barclay at the club's Thursday meeting. Hulseley, who addressed the club, was introduced by Barclay.

Public Understanding Key To Solving Energy Problem, WTCC President Says

Public understanding is the key to solve the energy problem, and everyone has a vital role to play in the communications process, Burl B. Hulseley Jr. of Fort Worth told members of the Midland Downtown Rotary Club at their Thursday noon meeting in the American Legion Hall.

Hulseley, president of Texas Electric Service Co. and of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, continued by saying, "We can help by promoting free enterprise and the understanding that profits provide capital to develop our energy resources."

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian C. Winston Barclay. Hulseley was accompanied to Midland by W. G. "Bill" Marquardt, vice president of TESCO, a former manager of the firm's Western Division here and a past president of the Midland Rotary Club.

Although some people consider the energy problem solved, Hulseley said the energy crisis still is with and ahead of the nation.

Hulseley quoted Dr. Edward Teller, an outstanding atomic scientist, as saying, "Unless there are great and well-directed efforts, we are going to be completely dependent upon unreliable energy sources and we are going to have an unprecedented trade deficit."

Hulseley said that in 1973, more than 75 per cent of the nation's energy was supplied by oil and gas, of which about 23 per cent was imported. He added that by 1985, if present trends continue, "we will have to import half of our petroleum requirements."

He said that studies show that self-sufficiency by 1985 is possible, "but would require an enormous effort." He said that another report (National Academy of Engineering) says that self-sufficiency in 10 years would require about $600 billion in capital expenditures.

Hulseley expressed the opinion that the nation can reach the goal of self-sufficiency by 1985, but with two big qualifications: — "First, if we are willing to make an all-out national commitment, and second, if we start now."

"And a good place to start is right here in West Texas," he added.

He explained that the Permian Basin produces about 20 per cent of the nation's oil and production of oil and gas must be dramatically increased. He said he doesn't expect to see any more boom towns as in the mid-1960s, but that West Texas certainly adds a new challenge and opportunity.

He commented on the drilling program now under way in the Permian Basin and said that more wells will be drilled in the next five years than were drilled in the past 10, "assuming that oil prices remain at an adequate level."

But capital to finance the program to meet the nation's energy needs, he said, can be attracted only when there is sufficient expectation that it will yield a profit to investors.

He praised the comprehensive campaign sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to gain a better understanding of the role of profits. "Profits Create Jobs" is the campaign's theme.

Turning to the electric utility industry, he said that abundant sources of coal and uranium are essential to providing energy for the nation. He said that Texas Electric Service is providing the additional electricity which is needed through a long-range program of fuel diversification.

He said that TESCO will be spending more than $725 million on new construction during the next five years.

"The key to the plan of having sufficient future energy," he said, "is to let our American system of free enterprise work for us now as it has in the past. We will have to pay more for the energy we use, and price increases are not pleasant, but higher prices are better than low prices and no energy."

"West Texas oil and natural gas are part of the solution to the nation's problem," he said. "So is providing additional electrical energy, using the more abundant fuels of coal and uranium."

He concluded by saying, "We can all help by using energy in all forms, wisely and efficiently."

Antibusing March Held

BOSTON (AP) — Police estimated that 4,000 whites participated in an antibusing march through South Boston today as schools opened with low attendance and scattered violence.

The marchers sang "God Bless America" and carried signs with such slogans as "Whites Have Rights" as they walked with a police escort. Marching with them were several state legislators, school committeemen and city councilors.

33 Students Show Up
Of the 2,074 white students assigned to attend Roxbury and South Boston High Schools, 23 showed up for class today.

Local leaders called for the march and boycott as part of what they said would be a national day of antibusing demonstrations.

Near Roslindale High School, authorities said a white pupil was confronted by 15 blacks and was stabbed in the arm. Police quoted the 15-year-old boy as saying the blacks told him, "What are you going to school for? There is a boycott on."

He received stitches for the wound, which was described as superficial.

Attendance Off
Attendance was off sharply at many high schools in white neighborhoods — some of them untouched so far by a federal court order to integrate schools with cross-town busing.

At English High in the Back Bay section, for example, buses arrived virtually empty from West Roxbury, a middle-income white neighborhood.

Police Commissioner Robert DiGrazia said the marchers would be allowed to march the length of Broadway, the main street in the South Boston section, but would be kept away from all schools.

Protest Organized
A demonstration spokesman said the protest was organized by a Denver-based organization called Citizens' Association for Neighborhood Schools.

Integration of Boston schools is being carried out under an order from U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity. Garrity has ordered the Boston School Committee to draw up a more complete integration plan. However, a lawyer said the committee would not have specific guidelines for the plan ready for a hearing today.

Carradine Expects Civil Settlement
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The attorney for actor David Carradine says he expects an out-of-court settlement of an incident in which the star of television's "Kung Fu" series allegedly ransacked a neighbor's home.

Attorney Richard Caballero says Carradine will plead innocent to attempted burglary, malicious mischief and trespass if the criminal charges are not dropped. But he said, "We believe this case will be resolved civilly and that all charges will be dropped. If there were any damages, they will be paid for."

Carradine allegedly smashed windows, rifled a medicine cabinet and overturned furniture in the home of Michael Loebner. Caballero said the two "are very friendly — they are neighbors and this whole thing will be settled out of court."

Some Wheat Suits Filed In Wrong Jurisdiction

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Wheat farmers in three states who filed federal court antitrust suits in connection with 1972 wheat sales to Russia have filed 15 days to transfer suits against one defendant to New York City or Washington, D.C.

U.S. District Court Judge Fred Daugherty said Thursday that cases filed in Texas and Oklahoma against Clarence Palmbly, former U.S. Department of Agriculture secretary, were brought in the wrong jurisdiction.

Two lawsuits were filed in Texas by farmers in New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle against Palmbly, Continental Grain Co. and five other grain firms. A group of southwestern Oklahoma wheat farmers sued Palmbly and the six grain companies in federal court at Oklahoma City.

Palmbly became an official of Continental after leaving the Department of Agriculture. The suits were consolidated and assigned to Judge Daugherty for pre-trial and discovery procedures.

The farmers' suits alleged that Palmbly negotiated with the Russians while he was an official of the Department of Agriculture and then used the information he gained to sell the Russians a large quantity of wheat in 1972 after he became an official of Continental Grain.

Conspiracy Alleged
The suits also alleged that the defendants conspired to hold down normal market prices of wheat while they sold wheat secretly to Russia at inflated prices.

Daugherty said the farmers had not supported their claims that any of Palmbly's alleged illegal acts were committed in Oklahoma or Texas. He said all sides have admitted the Russians wheat negotiations in New York and Washington and there had been no evidence submitted that Palmbly purchased any wheat in Oklahoma or Texas.

Suits May Be Dropped
Daugherty said the suits against Continental and the other grain firms were filed in the proper jurisdiction since the firms bought wheat from farmers in Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico.

If the suits against Palmbly are not transferred to New York or Washington, Daugherty said, they could be dismissed.

27 Juror Challenges Due In Cover-up Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica is willing to grant additional challenges to the defendants in the Watergate cover-up trial a combined total of 27 peremptory challenges of jurors.

The judge allowed attorneys for the five defendants a total of 15 challenges for the regular jurors and three additional for the panel of six alternates.

The prosecution will be allowed six challenges for the regular panel and three for the alternates.

No Reason Needed

Lawyers need not cite any reason when dismissing a potential juror through use of peremptory challenge.

In his order Sirica disclosed that defense attorneys had refused to agree to allow the prosecution more than six challenges.

"The court was willing, and thought selection of the 12 jurors and six alternates would be completed, Sirica said, "I think we have a good chance for the early part of next week."

Sirica talked to newsmen after he and prosecution and defense lawyers had spent a day in a locked courtroom interviewing potential jurors.

Interview Completed

After almost seven hours, they had completed only 10 interviews. Five persons were excused, apparently because the judge or the attorneys felt they had indicated bias. Five remained on the panel, still subject to one more round of challenges.

Each potential juror was asked nearly 100 questions. Sirica formed a panel of 144 potential jurors for this phase of the selection process. Unless the pace picks up markedly, it will take more than a week to complete questioning of each.

Sirica and the lawyers were questioning jurors when lawyers for Nixon delivered to the judge's office a sealed envelope containing motions asking him to quash subpoenas requiring Nixon's testimony.

Subpoena Issued

One of the subpoenas was issued by defendant John D. Ehrlichman, former high-ranking aide in the Nixon White House. The other came from special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

"I'm sealing everything involved in this matter until after the jury has been sequestered," Sirica said. He refused even to give copies to the prosecutors or Ehrlichman's attorneys.

While they couldn't be confirmed, reports circulated in the federal courthouse that Nixon's lawyers had cited health and national security as reasons why he would be unable to appear.

On trial with Ehrlichman are former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, former Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian, and former campaign lawyer Kenneth W. Parkinson.

They are charged with conspiring to thwart the investigation of the break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters in order to hide the identities of the administration and Nixon campaign officials who planned and knew about it.

Ehrlichman's Wife Tells Watergate's Impact On Family, Marriage, And Life

WASHINGTON (AP) — The year, Ehrlichman will be defending himself against accusations that he and four other men tried to thwart investigations into the Watergate scandal.

Mrs. Ehrlichman said she and her husband of almost 25 years have been brought closer together by the Watergate scandal. It's also had an impact on their five children, three boys and two girls, ranging in age from 14 to 24.

Lesson Learned

"We have felt our children have had an opportunity through this to learn at a very early age some very basic lessons. Sometimes people are well along in years before they understand what it's like for someone to be accused; for someone to be maligned, to be ridiculed, to be criticized, to be..."

Her words ran together as she reached a verbal crescendo, not taking time for breath. Then abruptly, she stopped.

Throughout these long, agonizing months, Mrs. Ehrlichman has been almost a constant companion to her husband, appearing at his side in the courtrooms, consoling him in the privacy of their Seattle home, smiling bravely for photographers as the cover-up trial began. Even when a demonstrator spat at her husband Wednesday, Mrs. Ehrlichman kept her composure.

'Last Days' Hardest

Mrs. Ehrlichman said one of the hardest times was a month before her husband resigned from the White House when headlines thrust him into the snowballing Watergate scandal.

"Those days I was very unhappy," she said. "But honest, you can only be unhappy just so long... So I'm beginning to get very good at passing these things off."

Mrs. Ehrlichman said she and her husband of almost 25 years have been brought closer together by the Watergate scandal. It's also had an impact on their five children, three boys and two girls, ranging in age from 14 to 24.

Her words ran together as she reached a verbal crescendo, not taking time for breath. Then abruptly, she stopped.

Impact Discussed

In an hour-long interview Thursday at the hotel where she is staying, Mrs. Ehrlichman discussed the impact of the Watergate scandal on her family, her marriage and her private life.

"You draw closer to God whenever you have anything that's tough," said Mrs. Ehrlichman, a Christian Scientist. "When other people are saying things that you know aren't true, you have to sort out your own identity... you have to be very strong in what you know to be the truth, what you know your motives were. If you have that, you can live with yourself."

Resigned In 1973

Ehrlichman, 49, once one of Richard M. Nixon's closest White House aides, resigned his domestic affairs post in April 1973, in the midst of the Watergate scandal. Last July, he was convicted of conspiring to violate the civil rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist and two counts of perjury. He has appealed the conviction, which carries a sentence of 20 months to five years.

Vocational Class Conducts Fiesta

Students in the Midland High School Vocational Training class located in the Bunche Building of Travis Elementary School were to hold a Mexican fiesta this afternoon.

The 13- to 21-year-old mentally retarded students made decorations for the occasion, complete with a papier-mache pinata, and were to present a program for their parents.

Mrs. Sue Beasley, who along with Joe Green, teaches the special class, said the fiesta was planned as a "motivational" tool to keep students interested in school. She said art instruction and lessons on the cultural background of the fiesta were used in preparing for the occasion.

The program was to include games, pantomimes, Spanish songs and refreshments.

Green and Mrs. Beasley were assisted by teacher-aides Mrs. Dale Linton and Mrs. Cora Carter. Becky Hall is a student teacher aide for the program.

Quick, Tough Action Planned As Major Crime Rate Rockets

WASHINGTON (AP) — District attorneys who have tested a quick and tough system for prosecuting habitual criminals call it a promising weapon against rising national crime rates.

They delivered that report Thursday to Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe, who plans to implement the system in 10 cities as the Ford administration's first effort to deal with the increase in crime.

Saxbe conferred with prosecutors who administered the system in the Brooklyn and Bronx sections of New York City and with other criminal justice authorities as the FBI issued new statistics showing still another boost in the nation's crime rate.

The FBI said the volume of serious crime rose 16 per cent in the first six months of 1974 compared with the same period a year ago.

Brooklyn and Bronx prosecutors said top-priority prosecution has produced a high conviction rate and long prison sentences for repeat offenders.

The system works this way: After arresting an individual, police review his past record of arrests and convictions. If the individual has several recent offenses, his case would be assigned to a special team of prosecutors that would press the court for a swift trial and a harsh sentence. The prosecutors would inform the judge about the defendant's past record. The primary target is the violent offender.

The high-priority cases now come to trial in 75 days, while it sometimes takes two years to try other defendants handled routinely, he added.

High Conviction Rate
Bronx Dist. Atty. Mario Merola said that 97 per cent of the defendants channeled through the special system are convicted. The rate could be as low as 50 per cent with routine treatment, he estimated.

Without special handling, cases often collapse as witnesses die, move away or forget what they saw while waiting years for a trial, the prosecutors told reporters after meeting with Saxbe.

The system also has encouraged judges to impose longer prison sentences, they added.

Multiple Sclerosis Chapter Names Two Board Members

The Permian Basin Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society has announced two new board members.

They are Stanley C. Moore, chairman of the board of Smith Industries, Inc., and C. J. Kelly, president of The First National Bank of Midland.

Moore is a member of the multiple sclerosis national advisory council, and Kelly has been the chairman here the last four years for the annual May multiple sclerosis fund raising campaign.

The Permian Basin Chapter includes 19 West Texas counties. Lynn Hunt, chairman of the chapter board, said "We are grateful for the help and support of both these men in the past and anticipate the value of their experience in looking to the future. We all want to have a part in the eradication of this dread disease."

Sul Ross Names Business Affairs Vice President

ALPINE — Sul Ross State University has hired a new vice president for business affairs, filling a position that has been vacant since August.

C. R. Richardson, presently an assistant vice president for business affairs and business manager of the University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston, will take over the position Nov. 1.

Richardson, 36, holds a degree in education and is a certified public accountant. From 1970-72, Richardson served as associate dean of business affairs at the University of Texas Medical School in Houston.

Making the announcement, Sul Ross President Hugh Meredith said, "The University is very fortunate in being able to secure the service of someone with such a broad experience in financial affairs and in management of plant operation."

Other positions held by Richardson include business manager of the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston, 1964-70; auditor at West Texas State University, 1963-64, and assistant state auditor, 1961-63.

First Lady's Surgery Spurs Concern Among Texas Women

By The Associated Press

Texas women apparently are showing concern over the threat of breast cancer as a result of the publicity given in recent days to the surgery performed on First Lady Betty Ford.

A state survey showed that American Cancer Society chapters, hospitals and private doctors have reported increased interest on the part of women for information on medical checks for breast cancer.

The operation on Mrs. Ford—the removal of her breast—has spurred additional contributions to agencies involved in cancer research.

"There has been a significant increase in requests for information about breast cancer examinations and, in contributions," said a spokesman for the Austin American Cancer Society. "Mrs. Ford's problem has made everyone aware."

Doctors throughout the state also noted an increase in inquiries about breast examinations, although some noted that such an examination is now more widely accepted by women as an annual precautionary measure.

"I would think that the publicity given to Mrs. Ford's surgery would have the effect of increasing interest in breast examination," said Dr. Maurice Korkmas of Irving. He said, however, he had not noticed any increase in demand for examinations.

A spokesman for the St. Joseph Hospital in Bryan said six breast examinations had been made at the hospital this week.

"This is more than the usual number," said Peggy Whitford, assistant hospital director, who explained that in the past the average was one examination a week.

In Corpus Christi, the district office of the American Cancer Society reported that calls requesting information about breast cancer and other forms of cancer "have at least doubled since the publicity about Mrs. Ford."

In Wichita Falls, the Society said that request for information picked up slightly. "But contributions to the society have picked up considerably since Mrs. Ford's surgery," a spokesman said.

The American Cancer Society's Harris County unit said its inquiries increased fourfold.

The University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital & Tumor Institute said the number of inquiries there jumped to about 40 a day compared with a normal number of only one or two.

Dr. James L. Barnard of Corpus Christi said that Texas doctors "already place a heavy stress on cancer examinations anyway."

Refunds On Spray Paints Ordered To Start Monday

By JOHN STOWELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers can begin demanding full refunds Monday for millions of new or used cans of spray paint containing the cancer-causing chemical vinyl chloride.

But since the chemical is not listed on labels, it may be almost impossible to determine whether the aerosol paint you own contains vinyl chloride.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission said today it has denied requests by several paint manufacturers to revoke the federal refund order. Retailers will be required to post lists in their stores of vinyl chloride-containing paints they have sold during past years.

The industry had warned the commission that it produced tens of millions of cans of spray paint with vinyl chloride, and that repurchase at $1.50 to $2.00 each would put many companies out of business.

They also said the 24 liver cancer deaths attributed to vinyl chloride occurred among workers who had been exposed to heavy concentrations for years. They said there was no proof that limited exposure

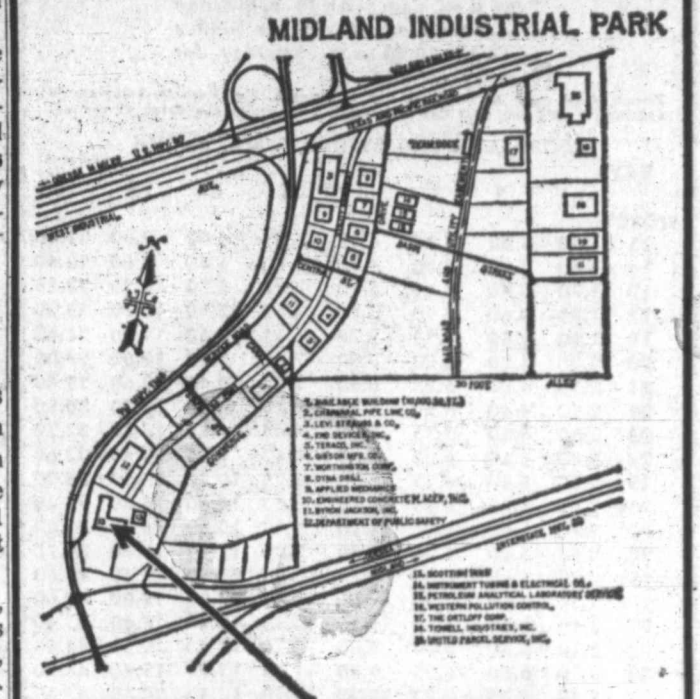

Schools Present Progress Reports

Bryant W. Saxon, director of curricular services for the Midland public schools, today reminded parents their children were given mid-quarter progress reports on Wednesday.

Saxon said elementary students were given report cards and secondary students received mid-quarter reports from each teacher.

The Midland Independent School District this year is pioneering the "quarter system," with the first quarter ending Nov. 7. Following the quarter's completion, computerized report cards will be mailed out for each student.

The progress reports usually include teacher comments, Saxon said, and are given to the students themselves rather than mailed to the parents.

Better Set of Wheels

Your wheels use twice as much energy per passenger-mile as ours.* With less fuel available and higher costs for that fuel, your wheels may turn slower and slower. Stock Mart All But Ignores Banks' Cut In Prime Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market all but ignored the prime-rate cut by two major banks and several smaller ones today and continued sinking in moderate trading.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 9.62 at $77.99, and losers held a 2-to-1 edge on gainers at the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said the dominant force in the market was anxiety over the possible effects on the world's economies of continuing inflation and the oil-price squeeze. Such concerns apparently were strong enough to neutralize any enthusiasm engendered by the spreading quarter-point reduction to 11 1/2 per cent in the prime.

Simplicity Pattern was the most-active NYSE stock, down 1/4 at 6 1/4. A 134,000-share block traded at 6 1/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was off .33 at 60.85.

The oil issue was pointed up when Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani, in calling for talks between oil-producing and consuming nations, asserted today that conservation measures by consuming countries in themselves "will never put real pressure" on the exporting nations.

Meanwhile, there was bearish news from another direction as the government reported a marked rise in unemployment last month.

Missouri Portland Cement fell 2 1/2 to 17 1/2. The privately held Cargill Inc., which owns about 18 per cent of the company's stock, said it planned no immediate offer to buy more of the shares, although it said it had not abandoned its intention eventually to acquire control of the company.

The Big Board's broadly based composite index was down .36 at 25.53.

Amex warrants, the volume leader on the American Stock Exchange, slipped 1/4 to 3 1/4.

AUSTIN (AP) — Securities dealers are prohibited from selling to the public stock in Omega-Alpha Inc. under an order issued by State Securities Commissioner Roy W. Mouser.

Consumers' Guide To Doctors Stirs Up Controversy

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A consumers' guide to doctors, complete with prices, stirred up a hornet's nest of controversy here, but its publisher believes it is a useful tool which should be adopted elsewhere.

Patterned after a similar guide by consumer advocate Ralph Nader, the guide lists a doctor's fees and office hours, and tells where he was educated and whether he accepts Medicare patients.

"It was just like stirring up a hornet's nest. It was unbelievable," said Ron Sakolsky, who headed the project in this central Illinois city of 100,000.

"The medical society has a vested interest in keeping consumers in the dark. They don't want consumers to be able to make easy comparisons of such things as fees," said Sakolsky, an assistant professor at Sangamon State University.

Nader's Health Research Group prepared the first such guide in 1973 in Prince George's County, Md. It was designed to be a model for similar guides throughout the nation.

Robert McGarragh of Washington, D.C., who headed the Nader project, said in a telephone interview that the Springfield guide was the second one to be completed.

McGarrah said about a dozen more are being prepared elsewhere in the country.

"Anyone who has ever had to find a doctor knows how much trouble it is," McGarragh said. "Sometimes the medical society has a referral bureau that will give you the names of a few doctors — but they never say whether the doctor is any good or charges so much for a five-minute visit that you'd be better off in a hospital emergency room."

The Springfield guide is available for free at bookstores and other shops. Sakolsky said that while the guide may not be able to give definitive advice on a physician's skill, it can provide some hints, like his hospital staff appointments.

Because of opposition from the Sangamon County Medical Society, only 54 of Springfield's 215 doctors provided the requested information for the guide, Sakolsky said. The other doctors were listed in the guide as being "uncooperative."

phone directories. Such listings, Sakolsky said his group plans to update the guide every year. He said he believes more and more doctors will participate.

AMC Employes Agree To Go Back To Work; Pact Okayed

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) — Strikers at American Motors Corp.'s main assembly plant have agreed to resume work after accepting a contract. AMC said it hopes to return to full production by Monday.

Workers at AMC's Milwaukee plants will vote Saturday and Sunday on the new two-year contract, and on a proposed settlement reached Thursday concerning local issues.

Negotiators said they sought a settlement of local issues in Brampton by the weekend.

AMC said Kenosha's priority production next week would include parts necessary to get the South Bend and Toledo plants back in full gear.

Issues Unresolved

Some local issues remain unresolved in Kenosha. Ralph Daum, Local 72 president, said if these matters are not settled by Oct. 31, his local may resume the work stoppage.

Members Kenosha Local 72 said the pact was approved by a 9-1

Pension Increase Helps, But Little

NEW BALTIMORE, Mich. (AP) — Frank Hoguever, 89, Chrysler Corp.'s oldest living pensioner, has two words for the latest increase in his benefits: "Big Deal."

Hoguever's monthly check has just jumped $59.45, to $285.05, under the latest increase built into the contract negotiated with the United Auto Workers.

The increase alone is $14.45 more than his monthly pension when he retired 24 years ago, but he's not impressed.

"I mean it's nice and all, I'm getting $285.05 a month now, and when I first retired it was $45," he said. "But what do they do? They raise the pension, then they raise the price of a car?"

"I've got a brand new Dodge out there in the garage right now — always had Dodges — and this one cost me $5,100. It's the same damn car I bought the first time off John F. Dodge and Horace Dodge for $750. Ain't that much different, mister."

Operated Hammer

For more than 37 years, Hoguever operated the huge hammer in a drop forge shop, smashing white-hot steel into the rods.

"Never missed a day of work in my life. Never. Here I am pushing 90, and healthier than you are. Can't hear too good of course, 'cause for 37½ years I only stood two feet away from that hammer, and it hitin' 5,000 pounds on every whack."

New England Region Shows Little Evidence Of Watergate Backlash

By DICK BRAUDE

BOSTON (AP) — The six-state New England region, which often takes pride in its political independence, shows little evidence of any post-Watergate backlash against Republicans or incumbents in general as election time approaches.

An Associated Press survey of state and congressional election races in Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut shows that incumbents are favored in most races. Other front-runners are comprised largely of present or past office-holders.

Campaigns in which incumbents are facing the stiffest challenges are focusing strictly on state issues such as taxes and the local economy.

Governor's offices in all six states are up for grabs, along with three U.S. Senate seats and 25 seats in the U.S. House of Representatives.

There will be at least two new governors, two new U.S. senators and six new congressmen in the region due to retirements, incumbents seeking higher office and in one case a primary election loss.

The Senate openings are in New Hampshire and Vermont where two veteran Republicans are retiring. Despite Watergate's alleged harm to the GOP, the two senators are expected to be replaced by two Republican congressmen.

U.S. Rep. Louis Wyman, R-N.H., is the favorite to replace Sen. Norris Cotton, a conservative. Wyman apparently has overcome efforts of his Democratic opponent, former state Insurance Commissioner John Durkin, to tie the congressman to former President Richard M. Nixon.

U.S. Rep. Richard Mallary, R-Vt., is expected to replace Republican Sen. George D. Aiken.

ken who has spent 34 years in the Senate.

Mallary is popular throughout the state and his Democratic rival, County Prosecutor Patrick Leahy, is bucking a Vermont tradition of sending Republicans to the Senate for the past 140 years.

The third U.S. Senate race is in Connecticut, where Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, a Democratic liberal, is favored over state Rep. James Brannen, the first black elected to the state General Assembly.

The hottest gubernatorial races are in Maine and Connecticut where incumbents are not, or cannot, seek re-election.

Democratic Maine Gov. Kenneth Curtis is prohibited by state law from succeeding himself after two terms.

His departure opens the way for former state Atty. Gen. James Erwin, a GOP conservative; Democratic National Committeeman George Mitchell; businessman James Longley and Stanley Leen and County Court Clerk William Hughes, all independents.

In Connecticut, Republican Gov. Thomas Meskill decided not to seek re-election and was nominated for a federal judgeship by Nixon the day before the former president resigned.

Meskill's job will go either to GOP congressman Robert Steele or Democratic congresswoman Ella Grasso. She could become the first woman in the nation to win the office without the aid of a husband who preceded her.

In Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont and Rhode Island, the incumbents — two Democrats and two Republicans — are running hard for new terms.

Massachusetts Gov. Francis Sargent, a GOP liberal, may face the toughest fight, a battle with liberal Democrat Michael Dukakis. Dukakis, a former state representative who au-state tax department corporate tax files of his political opponents, apparently has found a home in his northern state after moving from the South years ago. The state Supreme Court ruled that Thomson's actions were illegal, but no charges were brought against him.

Thomson is favored over Democrat Richard Leonard, a former state senator from Democratic Nashua.

Vermont, usually a rock-ribbed GOP state, elected a Democratic governor for the second time in a century last time, and Gov. Thomas Salmon is heavily favored for re-election against Republican House Speaker Walter Kennedy.

As in virtually all New England states, the issue in Rhode Island is how to draw the line on state taxes and state spending. Democratic Gov. Philip Noel is being challenged by Republican businessman James Nugent, who has pledged not to raise taxes.

Main interest in the region's congressional contests centers on five districts where incumbents have voluntarily moved out, and a sixth where the incumbent, U.S. Rep. Robert Tiernan, D-R.I., lost in the primary to state Rep. Edward Beard.

As in the U.S. Senate and governor's races throughout New England, the advantage in the congressional campaigns is with candidates who have held or at least sought, public office. An expected regional crop of fresh faces did not materialize in the primaries.

One exception is 30-year old Toby Moffett, a former Ralph Nader employee, who defeated New Britain, Conn., Mayor

Stanley Pac to win the Democratic nomination for Mrs. Harold Donohue, a Worcester Democrat, has opened the way for two state representatives.

Moffett will be opposed by Republican Pat Piscopo, a former Connecticut banking official. In Massachusetts, the retirement of long-time U.S. Rep. Joseph Early, a Democratic powerhouse in the legislature is favored over David Lionetti, a Republican.

National Variety Store Chains Changing Their Merchandising Methods

By LEE MITGANG

NEW YORK (AP) — The last two decades haven't been kind to that old familiar Main Street fixture, the five-and-dime store.

In the '60s, they faced sudden competition from the new discount stores and mounting consumer demand for a one-stop shopping center with plenty of parking.

Now in the '70s, big general merchandisers like Woolworth, W. T. Grant and S. S. Kresge see property taxes soaring in downtown locations, making giant high-volume outlets in shopping malls even more attractive.

This combination of factors has "forced national variety chains to alter radically, and often painfully, their basic merchandising philosophies, some of which like Woolworth's, evolved over nearly a century.

Not that variety outlets have become unprofitable albatrosses in every case. But few national retailers seem interested in building them anymore.

"We haven't opened up a variety-type store in five years," a spokesman for W. T. Grant says. "The national retailers have left that to smaller regional concerns. The big companies are getting the hell out of it."

The name most synonymous with the five-and-dime concept, F. W. Woolworth, still had more than 1,600 variety outlets as of April 30, but that was 51 fewer than a year ago. They anticipate another 50 to 60 closings in the current year.

Woolworth, like the other national giants, has been concentrating its expansion programs on its 100,000 square foot-plus "Woolco," one-stop shopping centers located for the most part in suburban shopping malls. Woolco stores have grown in number from 192 in 1973 to 230, about 17 per cent of total Woolworth-owned stores and that percentage is growing.

S. S. Kresge, which once had 745 "Green Front" Kresge Stores of the five-and-dime type in the mid-1930s, now has only 379 in the United States. They are in a holding pattern, a spokesman says, planning to maintain and modernize existing variety stores. But expansion energies will be spent on longer, one-stop "K-Mart" discount outlets which will soon outnumber smaller, variety outlets by about two-to-one.

About half of W. T. Grant's 1,172 outlets fall under the smaller variety heading, a spokesman estimates, but that percentage is shrinking as the company builds more and more giant "Grant City" outlets.

thored the Massachusetts no-fault auto insurance law, has waged a low-key but well-organized campaign.

Despite talk of political upheaval and anti-establishment candidate success in the wake of Watergate, the other New England governors appear to be on somewhat safer ground.
