

Positive Thinking

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

You Can Change Your Weaknesses

Any weakness can be changed into a strength. Although this may sound incredible, it is a fact that you do not need to be pushed around indefinitely by some unfortunate personal characteristic that is a bother to you.

How do you go about changing a weakness into a strength? First, want to. And this is hard because maybe you don't want to, but know it is important that you should. And the next step is even harder: Choose to be rid of a weakness, and believe that you can. And choose to change strongly enough to make it stick. Start saying to your indecisive self: "I'm through being controlled by my weakness! I don't want to live with it any more!"

If I may be personal — I know this process will work for I tried it myself with an enormous inferiority complex which I had as a young person. It was a beauty — as high as a skyscraper. And an inferiority complex is no fun. Shy, shrinking, reticent, I would think glumly: "I don't amount to anything; have no brains, no ability."

At college there was one course in which the professor seemed to take satanic pleasure in firing questions at a student standing before the class. When he did this to me, even though I might know the answer, my mouth got dry, my tongue cleaved to the roof of my mouth.

One day at his get-with-it-or-else invitation I visited the professor in his office. "What's the matter with you anyway?" he asked sternly. "I am aware that you know the material but why can't you deliver?" He repeated a couple of questions previously put and I answered readily enough. "Why didn't you come up with these answers in class?" he exclaimed.

"I don't know, Professor. Guess I was all tied up," I replied weakly.

"The trouble with you," he continued, "is that you are a scared rabbit. Why don't you get wise to yourself and shake loose from that inferiority complex? Act like a man, not a poor weak fish!"

Angered, I stomped down the hall muttering: "I'm going to resign from this university; then go back and mop up that professor!" On second thought I didn't do it, and for a practical reason; he being a huge tough man of 6 feet 2.

Instead I went out and stood miserably on the front steps of the university building. I asked myself a serious question: "Now look, let's face it. Are you going to live this insipid way the rest of your life? Right then and there I made a choice. I decided I was completely fed up with being a scared rabbit.

Well, I did not actually get through with it all that fast. But I did discover that once you make a basic choice the directional finger is pointed in the way of successful overcoming.

It's an encouraging fact that you can actually do just about anything with yourself that you choose to do.

MATTERS OF MUTUAL INTEREST ON AGENDA
Ford, Soviet To Meet Nov. 23-24

MOSCOW (AP) — President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev will meet near Vladivostok in the Soviet Far East on Nov. 23-24 to discuss "matters of mutual interest," the White House and the Kremlin announced Saturday.

The session, following Ford's planned visits to Japan and South Korea, will give Brezhnev a chance to size up the President while they work on narrowing differences over a new nuclear arms limitation agreement. The Middle East and European security are also expected to be high on the agenda.

Narrowing the differences on arms limitation began during the current Moscow visit of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. He has claimed progress in his three days of talks with Brezhnev, but described the bargaining as tough.

U.S. officials said that Kissinger and Brezhnev have not reached an agreement, but were optimistic one could be achieved by the time the Soviet leader visits Washington early next summer.

The precise site of the short

November summit between Ford and Brezhnev was not disclosed.

The official announcement, both here and in Washington, said only that the two leaders would meet "in the vicinity of Vladivostok to exchange views on matters of mutual interest."

Vladivostok, a strategic port and naval headquarters for the Soviet Pacific fleet, is 450 miles north of Seoul, South Korea's capital, where Ford will visit Nov. 22-23. The city normally is closed to Westerners.

Brezhnev and Ford's expected discussion of the Middle East crisis will be significant because despite detente, the two powers have been trying to influence the Arabs along different paths toward a settlement with Israel.

While Kissinger is promoting step-by-step negotiations and a temporary shelving of the Palestinian issue, the Soviets have been pressing for a resumption of the Geneva peace conference to work on a full-blown Middle East settlement.

The European Security Conference in Geneva has also been tied up in an East-West dispute, and the Ford-Brezhnev session will enable the two leaders to exchange views on the subject.

Referring to his Moscow talks with Brezhnev, Kissinger said in a luncheon toast Saturday: "On this trip we made good progress in a number of fields and set a direction we hope and expect will be to the benefit of our two peoples and the benefit of all mankind."

In reply Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko explained the slow pace of the weapons talks and the mutual hope of success.

"Frequently negotiations have to go through several stages," he said. "The important thing is there should be movement from one stage to the next, that each stage should bring new success leading to ultimate agreement and accord."

"That is how we see the necessary approach to outstanding issues of the day."

Kissinger and Brezhnev met for 7½ hours in their final session of talks Saturday that eventually broke up at midnight.

Gromyko and Helmut Sonnenfeldt, a U.S. arms expert, were present for 2½ hours and additional aides were called in. But for the final 90 minutes Brezhnev and Kissinger met with only an interpreter.

Puerto Rican Unit Claiming Credit For Five Blasts

NEW YORK (AP) — Five bombs went off at or near banks in Manhattan early Saturday in what a Puerto Rican nationalist group called an offensive against "yanki monopoly capitalism."

No one was killed or injured by the blasts, four of which were in and around Rockefeller Center and the other in the Wall Street area.

A handful of guards and custodians at the site emerged somewhat dazed and shaken after the series of blasts, which began at 2:56 a.m. and ended at 3:30 a.m.

"We have just bombed imperialist banks," a woman caller told The Associated Press minutes later. "Free all Puerto Rican political prisoners!"

Acting Chief of Detectives James T. Sullivan said he believed the five bombings were the work of one group because of the rapid sequence of detonations.

He said he was puzzled only by the inclusion of the glass-walled Lever House at 53rd and Park Avenue. The building has no bank offices, though a First National City branch is across the street.

The other bombed midtown sites were the Banco de Ponce at 49th Street off Rockefeller Plaza, the Chemical Bank branch in the Exxon building at 49th Street and Sixth Avenue and the Union Carbide Building at 48th Street and Park Avenue, where Manufacturers Hanover Trust has a branch.

Car Destroyed

The biggest of the blasts, Sullivan said, was the one in Wall Street, which destroyed the car of Mary Rothbell, of Massapequa, N.Y., a night worker.

Sullivan said the device used in that explosion was the equivalent of 40 sticks of dynamite or 20 pounds of plastic explosive.

The explosion shattered windows of the Marine Midland office up to the 11th story and windows of four other banks within 300 feet.

The broken glass zone took in the Chase Manhattan headquarters, the Chemical Exchange Bank, the Federal Reserve Bank and the Barclay Bank.

The timing of the blasts, in the early morning hours, indicated "that the people responsible have some consideration for human life," Sullivan said.

WALL STREET EXPLOSION — Parts of an automobile lie in the street while police and workers clean up the sidewalk at the scene of a bomb explosion early Saturday in the Wall Street area of lower Manhattan. A bomb placed in the car destroyed the automobile and blew out plate glass windows in five nearby banks. Police said there was a likely connection between this blast and four other early morning explosions directed at major banks in mid-Manhattan. No injuries were reported in any of the explosions. Oops, Did You Forget To Turn The Clock Back?

After 10 straight months of Daylight Saving Time, clocks were turned back one hour at 2 a.m. today in most of the United States as the nation reverted to standard time for four winter months.

DST was imposed by Congress Jan. 6 as an energy saving measure.

In a report accompanying time-change legislation signed by President Ford Oct. 5, the Senate Commerce Committee said energy savings "must be balanced against a majority of the public's distaste for the observance of Daylight Saving Time" during the winter.

Under the new law, the nation will revert to daylight time on Sunday, Feb. 23, 1975.

The change will not affect eastern Indiana, Arizona, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and American Samoa, all of which remained on standard time during the experiment.

In addition, 66 counties in Kentucky that had been switched from the Eastern Time Zone to the Central Time Zone returned to the Eastern zone today.

Midlander Charged In Man's Slaying

David Dewayne Baker, 17, of 1519 S. Dallas St., was charged with murder Saturday in the death of a 33-year-old Midland oil field worker. He was released from Midland County Jail Saturday night after posting $25,000 bond.

Baker turned himself over to Midland police early Saturday morning following the fatal shooting of Buck H. Novian shortly after 2 a.m. in a south Midland tavern parking lot.

Novian was rushed by ambulance to Midland Memorial Hospital and given emergency treatment for four gunshot wounds to his chest, side and arm, police said.

Police detective Sgt. Gib Roach said Novian was shot with a .38 caliber weapon. Roach said Baker and some of his relatives had been involved in a disturbance with Novian inside the tavern before the shooting.

Novian died following emergency treatment at the hospital.

Baker was charged with murder in Justice of the Peace R. H. Pine's court. Judge Pine also set bond.

Kidnaped DJ Found Dead

DELAND, Fla. (AP) — The body of disc jockey Fred C. West was found in a wooded area Saturday, a day and a half after he was apparently kidnaped for $10,000 ransom, police said.

Two men were arrested in the case earlier Saturday, and the ransom money was recovered.

A spokesman for the Volusia County sheriff's office said the body was found lying face up and three empty cartridge cases were found nearby.

Shot Three Times

Rick Stone, a coworker of West's at WKKX, said, "Fred West was found. He's been shot three times, he's dead."

West had been reported missing Friday morning by his employers.

Volusia County Sheriff Edwin Duff was at the scene and could not be reached immediately for comment.

But Duff had said earlier Saturday, after James Perry Ables Jr., 28, was arrested, that "we are hoping for the best but fearing the worst" for West.

Ables was arrested after FBI agents and sheriff's officers surrounded an office building in downtown Deland.

Ransom Recovered

The ransom, paid by West's employers at radio station WKKX, was recovered Friday when Victor Williams, 28, also of Deland was arrested, police said.

Williams was charged with grand larceny and was being held at the Volusia County Jail on $5,000 bond.

Duff said officers received a tip from confidential sources that Ables was hiding in an apartment on the top floor of the three-story office building about a block from the sheriff's office.

Duff said Ables answered the Little Rugs! Big Rugs! See House of Carpets' Remnant Board. (Adv.)

AT DUTCH PENITENTIARY—
Choir Held Hostage

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands (AP) — Four armed prisoners, including a Palestinian hijacker, raided the chapel of nearby Scheveningen penitentiary during Mass Saturday night and took members of the volunteer choir hostage, the Justice Ministry said.

A spokesman said 23 of the hostages were neighborhood men, women and children who sang regularly at prison services. A Roman Catholic priest and two prison guards were also held.

He said nine prisoners attending the service were allowed to leave the chapel and return quietly to their cells.

Police brought in reinforcements and threw up roadblocks as about 500 spectators gathered outside the prison gates.

There were no immediate reports of injuries, a police spokesman said.

Police outside the building talked with the hostages by two-way radio. The two guards being held hostage carried walkie-talkies as part of their standard equipment.

The convicted hijacker, Adnan Ahmed Nuri, and the other armed inmates demanded they be put in touch with the consul or ambassador of an Arab country, and that Nuri's fellow hijacker, Sami Houssin Tamimah, also a Palestinian, be allowed to join them in the chapel.

Police said Tamimah has been confined to the hospital ward at the prison as the result of a hunger strike he staged last week.

Police said Tamimah was not (See HOSTAGES, Page 3A)

Ghost Of Inflation Haunting Trickers, Treaters

By HOWARD ANGIONE, Associated Press Writer

The ghost of inflation is haunting tricksters and tricksters alike as Halloween 1974 approaches.

Treaters accustomed to buying several bags of candy for neighborhood goblins are getting still another reminder of how sugar prices have shot up as they pay roughly 50 per cent more than they did last year.

For tricksters, the higher costs of paper and plastics have forced up the cost of new costumes as much as 25 per cent over 1973.

Jack O'Lantern is experiencing a mixed fate—pumpkins prices are up in some areas because of smaller crops and poor weather, but in others the price is about the same as last year.

Most retailers contacted by The Associated Press in a random survey said that people were buying about as much candy as they did in the past. But a revolt is under way in Greene County, Pa., where a (See GHOST, Page 3A)

'WELCOME TO MIDLAND' SIGN DESIGNED— Tech Student Wins Billboard Contest

Jeff Hale, an 18-year-old art student at Texas Tech, has been named winner of a contest to design a new "Welcome to Midland" billboard sign for the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

Hale is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Hale of 4601 Mercedes St. A graduate of Lee High School, he is a freshman at Tech.

Hale's entry — which won him a $100 cash prize — is a bright design of red, yellow, blue and black and focuses on Midland's skyline.

Winning honorable mention for their entries were Joe Cuellar, and Harold Paulk.

VIP Sponsors
The contest was conducted by the chamber's VIP (Visual Improvement Project) Committee.

The sign will be located on West Wall Street to greet visitors arriving from Midland Regional Air Terminal. A 30-foot area in front of the sign will be landscaped, according to Gordon Knox, VIP chairman.

The winning design is a bright, attractive piece with vibrant colors and a strong design that should be easily seen by motorists driving by at 50 miles per hour. Knox said, "The committee feels this design will give a feeling that Midland is a young, enthusiastic city with an unstuffy attitude — really a place that's not afraid to laugh even at itself."

Hale will redesign his entry to correct proportions — 11 feet by 30 feet — before it is turned over to a sign company for construction.

Mrs. Bille Karcher was in charge of the sign contest for VIP.

Granite Boulders

The competition is one of several projects undertaken by the committee this year. Decorating the traffic intersection of West Wall and Front streets with granite boulders and desert plants was an early activity. Additional plants will be added soon.

A tree removal program is under way with most of the emphasis now being placed on Big Spring Street.

Fulltime efforts to remove weeds and grass along major streets also have begun. A worker has been employed and is at work along Big Spring Street. Later, he will be working along Wall and Front streets.

Two tree-planting programs also will get under way soon. One will involve plantings by school children on Arbor Day. The other is expected to provide a comprehensive plan for a tree-lined street.

The various programs are being financed primarily by donations to a non-profit, tax-

Escape From Poverty, Better Jobs Prompt Line Of Wetbacks To U.S.

DALLAS (AP) — They stream into the United States in endless legions. "on soft feet by night" as the commissioner of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization describes it, seeking their own version of upward mobility in the jobs that lie north of the border.

That is the current wetback situation—Mexicans entering the United States illegally—as described in a Sunday copyright story by the Dallas Times Herald. It is written by staff reporter Dave Montgomery who spent weeks investigating.

The same ingredients that brought throngs of Europeans into America during the late 19th and early 20th centuries—escape from intense poverty and search for a better life—fuel the massive invasion from Mexico.

Pay Heavily
They pay heavily to enter the United States and sometimes even heavier to stay. Organized smuggling rings have grown proportionately in numbers and sophistication as the demand for illegal entry increases, charging hundreds of dollars to bring wetbacks across the border and ship them to every major labor market in the country.

Numerous smuggling pipelines flowing to Dallas are believed to contain more wetbacks than those of any U.S. city except Los Angeles.

Other lucrative but illegal sidelines also have grown and profited with the wetback upsurge—document forgers, guides, intercity "taxi" service, job arrangers and even marriage-for-hire schemes.

They come through a well-established underground virtually identical to the so-called slave railroad of pre-Civil War days.

The wetback's pilgrimage, however, now reaches beyond the familiar Tex-Mex culture of the Southwest, extending to every corner of the United States and, in some cases, rising above the lowest rung of the social ladder.

Key Transfer Point
An estimated 120,000 wetbacks are clustered throughout Dallas, which, along with nearby Fort Worth, is believed to be a key transfer point in the national smuggling chain.

Others venture farther — to New York, Detroit, Cleveland and Seattle—and to Chicago, a mecca for wetbacks.

Despite their illegal status, some urban wetbacks rub elbows with members of the U.S. middle class, pursuing 9-to-5 jobs in air-conditioned offices, riding to work in commuter carpools and drawing salaries which nudge the $10,000-a-year figure.

Many big-city wetbacks, however, hopelessly handicapped by illiteracy and unable to speak English, never see the other side of the tracks. The same urban anxieties that bedevil the impoverished legal city dweller plague the impoverished wetback.

Hundreds show up on police blotters as participants in domestic squabbles or as chronic drug users or burglary suspects.

Some Murdered
An unfortunate few, like Jesus Palsga Perez, show up as the subjects of back-page newspaper stories. A jobless drifter, who lived in a ramshackle Fort Worth apartment, Perez was shot to death outside a downtown tavern. His killer escaped.

But to the wetback, hardships encountered in the United States are usually no harsher—in fact, less severe—than the stark conditions which drove him from Mexico where the average annual wage is $900 a year.

Malnutrition, poverty and premature death are commonplace south of the border, largely the result of a skyrocketing population boom that has ballooned the labor force far out of proportion to available jobs.

More than 40 per cent of working-age Mexicans are jobless. Half the rural residents in Mexico—representing a fourth of the population—have no reportable income and the remaining rural workers make less than $400 a year.

Flow North
Hounded by the personal agonies of those conditions, they flow north from every state in Mexico and increasingly from parts of South America.

Using guides or relying on their own resources, they face the Rio Grande currents packed in boats, clinging to inertubes, or by wading naked, their clothes tucked under their arms.

On the other side, scurrying to avoid the Border Patrol, they hop a freight, meet a smuggler at a pre-arranged pickup point, or walk, pressing through the brush along well-established trails.

One wetback thoroughfare, according to the Border Patrol, cuts across ranchland owned by Gov. Dolph Briscoe. Although hundreds of migrants have been arrested while crossing Briscoe property over the years, say authorities, none has been found on the Briscoe payroll.

Their constant pilgrimage across the South Texas prairie—ranchers and patrolmen know them as "brush walkers"—produced a legacy of ranch country stories of starvation and death.

Nationalist Group Claims Credit For Bombing Banks In New York

 rected The Associated Press was titled "Communique No. 1" of the Armed Forces of Puerto Rican National Liberation.
 It used the acronym FALN, for Fuerzas Armadas de Liberación Nacional Puertorriqueña.
 Sullivan said at an afternoon news conference that the name FALN was new to the department.
 "There is unfamiliarity with the organization by us, but not necessarily with the people in it," Sullivan said. "We have some idea that the people have been involved with (other) Puerto Rican nationalist organizations."

Sources in San Juan, P.R., said the group that claimed responsibility for bombing New York banks Saturday has no known branch in Puerto Rico and no known links with independence-seeking organizations there.
 The bomb in the Wall Street area was placed beneath a car parked outside Marine Midland Bank building at 140 Broadway.
 Mayor Abraham D. Beame denounced the bombings as "outrageous acts of terrorism."
 Rep. Herman Badillo, D-N.Y., the first Puerto Rican elected to Congress, said he deplored "the appalling acts of destruction (by) a small group of self-styled terrorists who do not have support of the majority of Puerto Ricans in New York or do not have the support of the independence party members in Puerto Rico."

 The group taking responsibility for the explosions said it was supporting not only Puerto Rican independence, but also third-world liberation and freedom for the five Puerto Ricans in jail for the 1950 assassination attempt on President Harry S. Truman and the gunning of U.S. congressmen on the House floor.
 It also proclaimed support for a Puerto Rican solidarity rally at Madison Square Garden today, at which speakers were expected to include activist actress Jane Fonda and, according to the Communist Daily World newspaper, Angela Davis.

 The letter said that the FALN was responsible also for bombings in department stores here last spring and for the bombs set Sept. 28 in Newark, N.J. One bomb exploded that day outside Newark police headquarters. Another, planted outside City Hall, did not.
 Bombings by Puerto Rican militants in recent years have been attributed by New York police to a pro-independence group called MIRA and to nationalist leader Carlos Feliciano, but the name FALN had not turned up before.

 The type of explosives remained undetermined Saturday afternoon, but police called the bomb at the Ponce bank a "sophisticated device."
 Acting Chief of Detectives James T. Sullivan said the device that exploded in the Wall Street area was the equivalent of 40 sticks of dynamite or 20 pounds of plastic explosive.
 "The corporations that we bombed are an integral part of yanki monopoly capitalism and are responsible for the murderous policies of the yanki government in Puerto Rico, Latin America and against workers, peasants and Indians throughout the world," said the neatly-typewritten letter.

 It demanded "immediate and unconditional independence of Puerto Rico," which now has commonwealth status as part of the United States.
 The organization said it was commemorating the Oct. 30, 1950, uprising in Puerto Rico "against yanki colonial domination."
 "These bombings are also to accent the seriousness of our demands for the release of the five Puerto Rican political prisoners, the longest held political prisoners in this hemisphere, Oscar Collazo, Lolita Lebron, Rafael Cancel Miranda, Andres Figueroa Cordero and Irving Flores," it said.

 Collazo and Griselio Torresola tried to shoot their way into Blair House, President Truman's residence, to kill him on Nov. 1, 1950.
 Torresola and a guard died in the attempt and Collazo was wounded. Tried and sentenced to death, Collazo had his penalty commuted to a life term by Truman.

Buck H. Novian's Funeral Monday

Buck H. Novian, 33, of Rt. 3, Midland died in a Midland hospital Saturday morning.
 Services will be at 2 p.m. Monday in Newbie W. Ellis Chapel with interment later that day in Monahans Cemetery.
 Novian was reared at Toboka and attended public schools there. He moved to Monahans in 1962 where he married the former Miss Sharron Fine on March 6, 1962. They resided in Monahans until 1971 when the family moved to Midland. Novian was associated with the oil field and construction businesses in Midland.
 Survivors include the widow; three sons, Mike Novian, Mark Novian and Bobby Joe Novian, all of the home; a daughter, Ann Novian of the home; his mother, Mrs. Irene Novian of Albany; three brothers, Bud Novian of California, Billy and Johnny Novian, both of Albany; and seven sisters, Mrs. Lee Etta Hill, Mrs. Christine Wheeler and Mrs. Mary Coker, all of Albany; Mrs. Francis Porter and Mrs. Pauline Meaker, both of Slaton; and Mrs. Margie Hood of Beaumont.

Debate Teams Place In Meet

Three Midland teams placed in competition Saturday at the Andrews annual debate tournament which attracted eight high schools bringing four teams each.
 The Midland High School team of Kay Rever and Alice Ashmore, coached by Jenetha Holt, won a second place in Division B.
 Two Lee High School teams, coached by Maridell Fryar, won third place rankings. Kent Sutton and Kevin Clark paired up for Division A honors, with Elizabeth Richardson and Susan Tomlinson taking third in Division A.
 Both high school teams will compete again next weekend in individual events at the Odessa Invitational Tournament.
 Radar was developed in 1925 by Gregory Breit and Merle Tuva.

Kidnap Suspect Remains In Jail

ODESSA — Charles Wayne Petty, 29, of Andalusia, Ala., remained in Ector County Jail Saturday in lieu of $3,000 bond, charged with kidnaping an Odessa man.
 Petty was accused of kidnaping Dawson Purcell, allegedly after the pair was out drinking together Wednesday night. He was arrested by Andrews police.
 Purcell told police he and another man were drinking Wednesday night when the man forced him a gunpoint to drive to Andrews. After driving the man to Andrews, Purcell came back to Ector County where he reported the incident.
 The charge was filed with Justice of the Peace Jimmy Harris.

Pickup-Cycle Crash Hurt Man

ODESSA — Manuel R. Woods, 27, was listed in guarded condition at Medical Center Hospital late Saturday after receiving treatment for injuries suffered in a pickup truck-motorcycle crash.
 Nursing supervisors at the hospital said Woods suffered head and chest injuries.
 Department of Public Safety reports indicated that Woods' 1970 model motorcycle was heading west on U.S. 80 when it and a 1968 model pickup truck driven by Roy L. Rogers collided.
 Accident investigators said the pickup was attempting a left turn at the time of the 3:52 p.m. collision 2 miles west of Odessa.

Miss Kinsey Wins Writing Citation

Julia C. Kinsey, Midland High School senior, has been cited for outstanding performance in writing as winner of a 1974 National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE) achievement award.
 Miss Kinsey is one of 850 winners from high schools in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and American schools abroad. The NCTE writing contest begins annually in January, and over 6,200 students were nominated last February for this year's awards.

 Station owner Tom Joyner said he was first directed to take the money to a phone booth outside a DeLand department store, where he received another call telling him to go to a fishing camp on the St. Johns River five miles outside the city.
 "I left the money in a men's room there and noticed a man going directly in," Joyner said. "He was followed by police and FBI agents to the house where the money was found."
 Officers said they found a broken window and two open doors at West's apartment Friday.

AUSTIN — A southerly extension of Interstate Highway 27 to IH 20 and 10 is feasible and necessary, a report prepared by the Texas Highway Department has determined.
 Not only that, the extension is wanted.
 The report, released Friday, said seven public meetings were held during the study period with a total attendance of 1,725 persons.
 "It is most interesting to note that although hundreds of people attended the various meetings, not one word of opposition to the proposed project was voiced," the report said.
 In fact, the report said the key question is not "Should this highway be built?" but "Where should it be built?"
 The study was undertaken as a result of special provisions included by Congress in the 1973 Federal-Aid Highway Act. Ten proposed additions to the IH system nationwide were singled out for study in the act. Only the IH 27 extension had no special route prescribed by Congress.
 In all, 23 routes were proposed by various members of the regional communities in a broad area of Texas. The Highway Department study said examination of all the routes indicated that any of the routes would be feasible. The various proposed routes intersect with IH 10 points ranging from Ozona in West Texas to Houston on the Gulf Coast.
 "The 23 proposed routes are spread across many miles of the midriff of the state, but all routes would serve a large area," the report stated. "In the final analysis, the people at the meetings were in agreement that more important than the location was the need for the project."
 The higher costs of candy have "made it really tough on our families," said Mayor John Throckmorton of Waynesburg, the county seat. "You get 100 or so youngsters stopping by and it's going to run $15 or more for the night. The party will make it easier. Not so much candy, but I think the kids will enjoy it more. I know the adults are all for it."
 Retailers who are offering costumes left over from previous years report their prices are about the same, but prices are up on newly made items.
 Alfred Fisher of Ben Cooper Co., a major costume maker in New York, said outfitting a child for Halloween runs from $1.49 for a one-shot paper costume to $10 for a modest but good fabric product, compared with a range of $1 to $3 last year.

Balloon Launch Scrubbed

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — Attempts to launch the Project da Vinci lower atmosphere manned research balloon were scrubbed Saturday for the second straight weekend.
 Launch officials said a storm system moving into the Las Cruces, N.M., launch area forced the postponement. They said the system was bringing "adverse winds, restrictive cloud cover and the possibility of thundershowers in the mountains where the balloon would pass."
 Spokesmen for the da Vinci project team say they will continue to monitor the weather movement in the launch and flight areas and set a new flight date as soon as possible.
 The new date will be announced when the weather outlook appears favorable, probably within a week or two, the spokesman said.
 Two launch attempts were abandoned last weekend due to unfavorable upper winds at float altitudes between 4,000 and 14,000 feet.

uncommon with manned balloon flights because of the specific conditions that must be met both for crew safety and the experiments.
 The balloon is to carry instruments and a four-man crew on a 36-hour flight eastward across New Mexico and into West Texas in an attempt to find out what happens inside a moving body of air.
 Project officials said goals of the flight include "a comprehensive picture of a single air parcel as it crosses mountains, open plains, forests and cities."

 Police said they did not know how Nuri and Tamimah and the other three prisoners, one of whom was reported to be a Frenchman, obtained the guns for chapel raid.

Pan American Regents Continue To Study Merger With UT System

HOUSTON (AP) — Regents of Pan American University voted Saturday to move forward on an investigation of merging the Edinburg school with The University of Texas system.

With no dissension, the regents appointed a committee of Morris Atlas, Ruben Cardenas and Moises Vela to explore the possibility of the merger.

The regent committee was named after they heard a report from Dr. Ralph Schilling, president of Pan American, which in very general terms outlined advantages and disadvantages of the possible merger.

Spokesmen for the UT system have been noncommittal about any merger, saying only that they would be pleased to listen if Pan American came to them with the proposal.

Pan American offers undergraduate and masters degree programs in Edinburg and junior, senior and masters degree courses at Brownsville.

Panel Sought
Atlas, a UT graduate, urged the regents to name a committee to study the matter.

Atlas said Schilling's report, while general in nature, could serve as a starting point for the study.

He said any regents' committee should meet first with members of the UT system board of regents, then bring in members of the faculty and student body at Pan American in the discussion.

"We absolutely don't have any deadline on this matter and shouldn't set one for ourselves," he said.

Cardenas, while saying he did not have enough information to take a position for or against the merger, said, "A lot of people look at Pan American University as a window to the north. I would hate having someone in Austin setting our entrance standards."

Schilling, in his two-page report, said affiliation with The University of Texas system would give Pan American access to system operational experts, increased prestige for its graduates because of the UT name and the advantage of the being associated with a system "which is geographically board based and therefore with state-wide political contacts."

"In the realm of possible disadvantages, several items were investigated," he said. "There was no evidence to indicate that existing institutional autonomy would be jeopardized in such areas as academic governance and tenure, student organization and governance, private fund development and fees and charges based on local needs."

The regents spent most of their meeting with the architect for the university, Kenneth Bentsen.

Bentsen recommended, and the regents agreed, to accept the low bid of $2,059,000 for the construction of a new liberal arts building and a fine arts annex on the Edinburg campus.

Bidder Named
The successful bidder was Braselton Construction Co. of Corpus Christi. Construction is expected to begin within 30 days, with completion in the mid-summer of 1976.

Bentsen told the board he hoped to have a new library resource center ready for bids by the first part of January. The new center, which will contain the library, auditoriums and a media center, would be the largest building on campus. It would take about two years to construct, he said.

He also gave a report on three other projects currently under way—part of a $12 million building program on campus.

They are:
—A business administration building which Bentsen said would be completed by January of next year.

—The nursing education building which is now 85 per cent complete and should be finished by December of this year.

—A central cooling plant, delayed some six months by a strike of the supplier of water chilling units, but scheduled now to be completed next month.

Regents also gave school officials permission to seek approval from the College Coordinating Board for a new $1.3 million maintenance center for the school, to be built on the west side of the campus on a 40-acre tract.

Hormone Injections Help Youth Gain More Height

NEWINGTON, Conn. (AP) — Rick started hormone injections when he was 10 after being diagnosed in Boston as having growth-hormone deficiency. At that time he was 45 inches tall, the height of an average 6-year-old and growing less than one inch a year.

When he was 5 years old Rick, a victim of growth hormone deficiency and half the size he should have been for his age, remembers being trapped in a phone booth, too short to open the door and escape.

"He couldn't get out, and no one could see him in there. He was just petrified because no body could see him," said his mother, Margaret.

Rick would be a midget today if it weren't for growth-hormone treatments he received for nearly 10 years at Newington Children's Hospital.

Rick was one of the first cases treated for growth hormone deficiency in New England. Since the hospital opened its endocrinology clinic in 1964, 30 other children have been treated.

Hormone injections must be completed before a patient's bones fuse during his teens or early 20s and he stops growing. Each child receives three hormone injections a week made from human pituitary glands. Because each gland used in making the hormone is obtained after a person's death through a donation to medical science, its availability is limited and classified by the federal government as a "restricted drug."

"There is roughly half as much growth hormone available in this country as there are children needing it," said Dr. Raymond Hintz, a University of Connecticut endocrinologist.

Preparing to return to college to specialize in art, Rick said his shortness never became a psychological problem.

"It's just something you learn to cope with. You learn to cope with frustration; you learn to accept the fact you can't do certain things. You don't really overcome being short; you simply adapt."

Grain Exports Slightly Higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department officials say corn and wheat exports will be up some from earlier indications in the coming year. But they add that by the time 1975 harvests are ready the old crop reserves will be about the same size as thought previously.

The figures were included Friday in a new "supply and demand" report showing estimates on how grain supplies are expected to be used during the 1974-75 season.

Portuguese Premier Goncalves Vows Army Will Honor Elections Outcome

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Premier Vasco Goncalves, himself a military man, has vowed the army will honor the outcome of Portugal's first elections in half a century no matter what form of government the people choose.

Goncalves said in an interview Friday that he hopes the elections next March will result in a "progressist" government, meaning an administration with strong left-wing reformist tendencies.

In the interview six months to the day after the military toppled Portugal's dictatorship, the man credited with being the brains behind the revolt said he is confident that democracy will take root in Portugal.

Concedes 'Grave Problems'

He conceded Portugal has "grave problems," including a sagging economy, but he said the new government welcomes foreign investments and technological aid as long as foreign firms obey certain conditions.

"They must accept normal profits and not come to Portugal with the sole intention of taking advantage of low salaries. And foreign businesses must not compromise our national independence," he said.

Goncalves said his government was willing to work with Portuguese private enterprise and is drawing up a plan to place certain sectors of the economy, under state control while leaving the rest to private business. Areas mentioned as being earmarked for state operation were public low-rent housing, energy and transportation.

Goncalves, a lean 53-year-old officer schooled in engineering, is reputed to be the principal theoretician of the Armed Forces Movement of young officers that runs the country, and the principal author of its political program.

Patty Hearst's Father Doubts Mickey's Story

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's father has expressed doubt that former mobster Mickey Cohen knew where his daughter was 11 days ago but says he and his wife are "willing to talk to anybody who may know something about Patty."

"We listen to anybody who wants to help," Randolph A. Hearst said Friday.

Cohen has said he found out where Miss Hearst had been 11 days ago but does not know where she is now. Cohen said he didn't pursue her because "I don't bring nobody in to go to prison."

"I think he wants to help," said Hearst, editor and president of the San Francisco Examiner. "It is possible he had information indicating where she is, but it is unlikely."

Miss Hearst, 20, was an art student before she was kidnapped Feb. 4 by the Symbionese Liberation Army. In taped messages she later renounced her parents and said she was joining her captors as a revolutionary fighter.

Six SLA members were killed May 17 in a shootout with Los Angeles police.

Cohen said he used his own

He said the movement's objectives were "to raise the standard of living and the quality of life of the Portuguese people, to improve the educational level and to guarantee civil liberties."

Portugal is the poorest country in western Europe. Illiteracy is said to be 27 per cent nationwide. Its main export has been workers going abroad to earn a living wage.

Dormitory Curfew Ruling Expected

HOUSTON (AP) — Officials at Pan American University in Edinburg said Saturday they will probably know today whether they can continue to require college coeds between 18 and 21 who live in dorms to honor curfew hours.

"We have asked Atty. Gen. John Hill for an opinion on this matter and we expect a report tomorrow," Dr. Ralph Schilling, the college president, told members of the school's board of regents meeting here.

General Hill said he would probably know today whether they can continue to require college coeds between 18 and 21 who live in dorms to honor curfew hours.

World Food Conference Participants Don't Expect Fast Solutions

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. participants in the World Food Conference in Rome next month are warning against expectation that ways will be found to feed all of the world's hungry in the next few years.

They say they don't want to build false hopes by other nations that the United States will agree to bankroll an international food welfare system.

Instead, participants such as ambassador Edwin M. Martin and Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz say the emphasis at the meeting in Rome Nov. 5-16 should be on improving agriculture production in developing countries.

Support will be given by the U.S. delegation to the idea of a system of nationally held food reserves. However, Russian participation is regarded by some delegation sources as a key condition before such a system can actually function.

U.S. officials say a stockpile of 30 million to 60 million tons of grain could be set up but details would have to be worked out.

Meeting Proposed

The meeting of about 130 nations was proposed a year ago by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to discuss ways of maintaining adequate world food supplies and to deal with hunger arising from natural disasters.

Martin, a career diplomat who is organizing U.S. participation in the conference, said the Ford administration may pledge some increase in its food aid program, which has declined sharply in volume in the last two years.

But he said world hunger probably will be a fact of life for 10 years to come.

"There now are 400 million undernourished people in the world, and there is doubt that we will eliminate malnutrition in the next 10 years," he said. "Our target should be to reduce it numerically."

Some government officials planning the conference believe there has been a shift in emphasis by the United States from help-now to help-tomorrow. They said this is in part because of a worsening outlook for U.S. farm production this year.

Adverse Conditions

However, these same adverse crop conditions, with rising prices, have made the developing countries desperate for help now.

India, Bangladesh and Central Africa are immediate trouble spots.

Martin said in an interview that the rising price of food has aggravated world starvation. It probably "means more people are dying because of increased susceptibility to disease" and other hunger-related causes, he said.

The administration has asked Congress for $1 billion for food aid in the current fiscal year, which will provide about the same quantity of food as last year. But the volume of food aid last year was the lowest since Congress approved the U.S. Food for Peace law in 1954.

While food aid has declined, U.S. agricultural commercial exports soared last year to $2.3 billion, nearly double the previous year's value.

Increased Demand

Martin said that resulted from the increased commercial demand for U.S. food and the declining food surplus.

"Food aid has been a by-product of unwanted reserves in the past," he said in an interview. "It used to be cheaper to give it away than pay for storage."

But World Bank President Robert S. McNamara takes an opposite view, saying "aid is not a luxury—something affordable when times are easy and superfluous when times become temporarily troublesome."

"Aid is a continuing social and moral responsibility, and its need now is greater than ever," he said in a recent speech.

He argues that the affluent nations of the world should accept "some selective reduction in their already immensely high standard of living" to help ward off starvation in the world's poorest nations.

Lester R. Brown, a food expert with the Overseas Development Council and a former Agriculture Department official, also says Americans must do some "belt-tightening" to be sure death rates do not rise dramatically in a number of developing countries.

He said at a news conference this past week that there already is "disturbing evidence" that the 20-year decline in death rates has been reversed in anywhere from 12 to 20 developing nations of the world.

Price Hikes, Downturned Economy Keep Buyers Out Of Car Showrooms

DETROIT (AP) — Huge auto price increases and a downturned economy are keeping buyers out of the car showrooms this fall, causing auto industry layoffs and tumbling stock prices.

General Motors, with sales down a whopping 34 per cent during mid-October, is dropping second shifts at three plants on Nov. 11 and slowing down an assembly line in December, laying off 6,000 workers indefinitely.

The layoffs came at the earliest point in a model year in recent GM history—a time when production should be running full throttle. Industry observers said it is a sign that more layoffs are certain.

Chrysler, whose dealers are reportedly stuck with a 95-day stock of new cars, has threatened to close one of its six assembly plants—and throw 5,000 Detroit workers off the job—unless sales rebound.

Program Announced

After sales figures came in showing the industry 28 per cent below a year ago and Chrysler announced its cost-cutting programs, many shareholders couldn't wait to unload their auto stocks.

Shares of Big Three common stock were up for grabs on Wall Street this past week. Ford, GM and Chrysler were the most actively traded stocks Wednesday on the New York Stock Exchange, all heavy losers.

GM reported Friday that its third quarter profits plunged 94 per cent from last year. GM said increasing costs and sagging sales brought its profits for the three-month period down from the record level of $267 million a year ago to $16 million.

Auto executives, who rarely mention the price hike factor in auto sales, have begun to rattle President Ford over the coal for urging Americans to save instead of buy.

Consumers Not Buying

At midweek, after disclosing a third-quarter loss of $8 million at Chrysler Corp., Chairman Lynn Townsend said consumers "have been asked not to buy, and they're not buying."

But Jack Neal, a spokesman for the National Automobile Dealers Association in Washington, said buyers are being scared away by sky-high prices.

One Big Three vice president, who did not want to be identified, said there is a lot of sympathy in industry circles for Townsend's attack on Ford. He said he believes restrictive government credit policies "have hurt us more than anything, maybe more than high prices."

Even if consumer thrift is playing a big role in the sagging sales picture, in the words of one dealer: "It's that brand new price tag that's proving so resistible."

Prices Raised

The U.S. automakers raised prices at model introduction time last month an average of more than $400. It was the biggest single increase in history and put average car prices almost $1,000 above a year ago, after a series of earlier increases.

"There is no way we can equate a direct reaction," said Ray Windecker, a sales analyst at Ford-Motor Co. "But some of the surveys we run indicate that perception of price is a problem."

Dealers are complaining about the prices, but Neal says there is little they can do.

Don't Come In

Carl Fisher, Buick dealer in Troy, Mich., says his biggest concern is, "the people who think the price increase is so horrendous that they just don't come in."

The problem is that while price increases just come rolling through, the customers do not. "It's the same all over," said Neal.

"There just aren't a lot of people coming in," said one analyst who did not want to be named. "There's some traffic, but nothing like the dealers are accustomed to."

He saw two things in the sales slowdown: "High prices and consumer concern" with fighting inflation.

Dealers Got Fat

"But it's not that easy. At the end of the 1974 model year these dealers got pretty fat. When new model prices were announced, the rush was on (for '74s), and some of these dealers made some pretty good bucks. Now they're not too hungry. In a couple of months, that's when we'll see if these prices will stick."

Compounding the problem for the Big Three are the imports, which are still selling 1974 models at 1974 model prices. They grabbed a bigger share of the market in August and again in September.

Mercedes Benz has already set its 1975 prices, and the increases were as hefty as those set by the Big Three, a Big Three analyst said.

"That's a pretty good indication of what's to come. The import dealers are very high on stock, and these stocks are almost entirely 1974 holdovers at 1974 prices."

Sales Increase

The imports, which were 20 to 30 per cent off their 1973 sales pace last spring, were 10 per cent above a year ago in September, when their share of the U.S. market climbed to 15.4 per cent.

U.S., Soviet Agreement On Scientific Technology Exchange Work Hailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russians and Americans reported progress Saturday under a scientific and technology exchange agreement.

In a news conference, the U.S. chairman of the Joint Commission on Scientific and Technical Cooperation, Dr. H. Guyford Stever, hailed the program's work as "an important building block in the detente between the two countries."

His counterpart, Soviet academician V. A. Kirillin, said, "I have no doubt our work will proceed successfully."

The exchange agreement, reached 2 1/2 years ago, calls for work in 37 areas from solid state theory to forestry.

Almost 500 scientists from both countries have been in exchange programs for planning conferences and actual research, which is just beginning on some of the projects.

Agreement Criticized

Congressional conservatives have criticized the agreement as a giveaway of valuable American technological advances in aerospace and computers, as examples.

Stever told reporters that the programs will benefit both countries and that view is also shared by President Ford, who met with the Soviets Friday.

When asked if advanced U.S. computer models would be sent to Russia, Stever referred the question to the Soviets.

The answer was only that the computer exchange involves application of computers to large-scale management problems and training of personnel.

Stever and Kirillin said visiting scientists still face restrictions on travel in both countries, and that the subject was discussed in the commission's three-day session.

HOW TO HANDLE CONDEMNATION

It's a real shock when you're told that part (or all) of your property will be taken for a new highway, sewer line, high tension line or other public use. It's usually an even greater shock when the representative of the public utility, highway department or government tells you what they propose to pay.

Relax, and react rationally. Your property may be taken if it is really needed for public use but you must be compensated at "fair market value." If the initial offer is unacceptable, make an appointment to discuss the facts with your attorney. If he helps (Come in for your free copy of "Homes For Living" he'll arrange for one or more magazine.)

Real Estate Appraisers to appraise the condemned property for you. With the facts they give him about "fair market value," he can represent you better in direct negotiation, or a preliminary hearing, or (if necessary) in a court action.

One caution — Have a clear understanding of the fees of attorney and appraisers before engaging them.

If you have any questions on this subject or any other aspect of real estate, feel free to phone or drop in at DON JOHNSON REALTORS, 2318 W. Ohio St. Phone: 683-5333. We're here to help! (Come in for your free copy of "Homes For Living" he'll arrange for one or more magazine.)

Ringing The Bell

By BOB TIEUEL

The Black Experience: According to Bob W. Decherd, editorial staff writer for The Dallas Morning News, "10 years ago, Lyndon Johnson challenged Americans to sum up a little common sense and knock down the last illegal, overt barriers to racial equality in this country. It remains a concept which transcends political philosophies and cuts to the marrow of human sensibilities.

Yet in 1974, mob violence erupts in Boston because the mayor has tried to enforce a federal court order, seeking racial balance in the city's public schools. The President urged Bostonians "To reject violence of any kind," but nowhere did he say to obey the law set forth by the federal courts.

Collectively, we must decide how to proceed, what to substitute for busing as a method for achieving equal education. Voluntarism is no answer. But an answer is needed. Without one, this country could revert back to bitter, separatist divisions between men of unlike race but similar emotion and aspiration.

Whites flee for the suburbs, leaving blacks to populate our inner cities — but without the political or social tools to prevent decay into an urban core. In the few instances where those tools are available, all that is achieved is two separate and somewhat equal cities — like Atlanta, a city within a city.

In Boston, an intensely political school board, operating without any reasoned federal guidance, for years neglected the educational woes of a decaying school system, concentrating instead of trying to stave off busing.

Indeed, this is no time to revel in Boston's troubles. Before more bitterness and acrimony inhibit America's cities, we should evaluate what has happened this past decade. The President can take the lead. The lesson in Boston is not that busing is bad, but that human dignity and individual freedom require the most enduring kind of attention, starting with the highest office in the land."

As we pen these lines, we are with Our Girl Friday, deep in the heart of northeast Texas to place to rest "Aunt Sis." She lived to a ripe old age and flowers bedecked the remains from every angle we could see. A fitting tribute to one who gave her life that others might enjoy some of the good things of life. A teacher, musician, civic and community worker, a churchwoman and above all — a friend.

"A servant of God, who has written the final chapter of a life well lived," intoned the minister. We add our Amen.

Until later, Peace and God be with all of our bellringers.

Redd Foxx Takes Oath As Oklahoma Town Police Chief

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — Comedian-actor Redd Foxx, dressed in blue jeans and a denim jacket, has been sworn in as chief of police in nearby Taft.

District Court Judge Bill Haworth gave Foxx the oath on Friday.

Foxx, star of NBC's "Sanford and Son" had been named chief of police of the all-black eastern Oklahoma community several months ago by Taft Mayor Lelia Foley.

Foxx said he didn't take the office lightly and would spend some time in Taft — the site of a state children's home.

"It is my desire to put Taft on the map, to turn the town into a city," Foxx said. "Hopefully other entertainers will adopt towns and together we'll improve the plight of black people all over this country."

Hungarian Rock Musician Defects

NEW YORK (AP) — Thomas Barta, a member of a four-man Hungarian rock music group which recently toured the United States, has defected and hopes to remain in this country, a spokesman for ABC-Dunhill Records says.

The spokesman said Friday that Barta married an American, Carol Russin, who went along on the tour as a representative of Jimmy Miller Productions.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Sunday, Oct. 27, the 300th day of 1974. There are 65 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1806, Napoleon Bonaparte's army occupied Berlin.
On this date —
In 1651, the Irish city of Limerick surrendered to the British after a long siege.
In 1659, two Quakers, William Robinson and Marmaduke Stevenson, were hanged for returning to the Massachusetts Colony after being banned.
In 1858, the 28th American president, Theodore Roosevelt, was born in New York City.
In 1912, the siege of the Turkish city of Adrianople began during the Balkan War.
In 1920, the League of Nations transferred its headquarters from London to Geneva.
Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson endorsed a new plan for setting aside a fixed portion of the federal income tax for automatic distribution to the states.
Five years ago: Pope Paul VI adopted a proposal by bishops that they meet in synod every two years, but he reaffirmed Papal primacy in the Roman Catholic Church.
One year ago: A United Nations peace-keeping force arrived in Cairo to attempt to set up a lasting cease-fire between Israeli and Arab forces.
Today's birthdays: Actress Ruby Dee is 50 years old. Actress Teresa Wright is 55.

Customs Auction Sale Set

By JIM BARLOW
HOUSTON (AP) — Is your heart set on owning a box of crane parts, 36 kegs of steel screws, size 8 by 1 1/2 inches, or possibly 80 bags of green coffee?
Or perhaps you operate a topless girls volleyball league and need 48 cases of girl's shorts and one case of matching shirts.
It's all for sale Nov. 2 along with a lot of other valuable articles and miscellaneous junk at the semi-annual U.S. Customs auction sale.
Twice a year the department gets rid of unclaimed or seized articles that pile up in bonded warehouses.
"We try to notify everybody involved but they don't always respond," says Gilbert Snyder, customs management service officer who supervises the sales. "Most of it is merchandise somebody orders from overseas but then changes his mind about."
"We sell it and pay warehouse charges, customs duties and taxes. If there is any excess money it goes to the owner if he notifies us, otherwise it goes into the government general fund," Snyder said.
Divided into 335 lots, the merchandise ranges from the most prosaic to the weird.
For sale are three cases of tape recorders, three clocks, two pictures and an outboard motor.
For a fast getaway, the auction offers a Volkswagen, an American Motors Gremlin, an Opel, a British Land Rover or a 1936 motorcycle with a carton of spare parts.
You can also find 16 cartons of bird cages and you might populate the cages with the contents of a case full of mounted butterflies.
Of course there is a trunk full of used household effects for sale and another carton containing a stuffed dog, and ice-cream and an Army sleeping bag.
And if your hair is thinning a bit, the customs people will be glad to sell you 50 cases of synthetic hair wigs, and 50 coils of steel banding to hold the wigs on during a windstorm.

Packing Company Kills 551 Calves

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP) — A meat packing company slaughtered 551 calves Saturday as cattlemen continued their protest over a price squeeze they claim is threatening beef producers. The 41,000 pounds of veal from the slaughter will be sent to Honduran hurricane victims.

A spokesman for the Dubuque Packing Co. said the cattle came from members of the National Farmers Organization (NFO) in Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois and Minnesota. Earlier this month NFO beef producers shot or slit the throats of 636 calves and buried them in trenches near Curtiss, Wis. They said the action was to dramatize the effects of high feed prices which cause farmers to lose money in fattening cattle for market.

More To Come
Richard Wertzberger, a spokesman for the meat packing company, said workers were sent home Saturday after they slaughtered all the calves that had arrived at the plant by 10 a.m. He said more animals, en route to Dubuque from southern Minnesota and Postville, Iowa, would be slaughtered Monday.

Jim Runde, the NFO co-ordinator of the slaughter from Cuba City, Wis., said an anticipated goal of 1,000 calves for slaughtering Saturday wasn't reached because the state NFO president, Steve Pavish, had been called to Kansas City on business, and the calf roundup in Wisconsin was not organized properly.

He said only the meat from calves killed Saturday will be trucked to Miami on Monday for shipment to Honduras. The rest will be distributed to as yet unspecified charitable organizations in this country, he said.

Who Needs Meat?
"We're checking on several organizations now," Runde said. "Brother John has 104 dependent children at Boys Town in the Desert at Beaumont, Calif. If it turns out he needs the meat, I imagine we'll give it to them. We're also checking groups in the Midwest," Runde said.

Runde said the NFO in Washington advised his group that President Ford would visit Wisconsin beef raisers soon to discuss their economic problems. Wertzberger said his firm did not hesitate to donate the time, labor and facilities to slaughter the calves.

Morally Wrong
"We agreed to do the processing because we believe it is morally wrong to kill and bury calves when so much of the world is going hungry."

NFO President Oren Lee Staley of Corning, Iowa, said the benefits of having the calves slaughtered and given to charity include: Keeping cattle off the market in hope prices will rise, getting food to the needy and drawing attention to the plight of beef producers.

Albert International, Inc., a Honduran meat exporting firm, said one of its ships will carry the veal to San Pedro Sula, There, the Honduran Red Cross will distribute the meat.

DEPRESSION ART "FOUND" Public Offered 1937 U.S. Gov't. Art Prints

Imagine, if you can, finding several thousand sets of antique prints of the world's greatest paintings that were lost for more than 35 years! It actually happened... and this is the true story of the discovery of that lost treasure.

Eleanor Roosevelt

Back in 1937, immediately following the depression years, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and a select group of a dozen nationally prominent people formed a voluntary national committee for art appreciation to create an art program that would give the public a well-needed moral lift. It was the committee's decision to select the world's most famous paintings from the 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries — the best paintings of Matisse, Van Gogh, Rembrandt, Picasso, Gauguin, Titian, etc. — and to reproduce them in full color as perfectly as humanly possible and make them available to the public at a price within the reach of nearly everyone.

Abandoned in 1937

For some unknown reason, after a quantity of these beautiful reproductions were made, the entire project was abandoned and this collection of perfect reproductions was stored in a Brooklyn warehouse, where they remained undisturbed since 1937.

Through a series of rare coincidences, the lost collection was "rediscovered" and leading lithographers and art critics agreed that the subject matter and quality of detail and color reproduction was incredibly accurate. Over $500,000.00 was spent to make finely engraved glass printing plates. It would be impossible to reproduce prints such as these under existing methods, and for that reason these prints are literally collector's items. Once they have been sold, there will be no more available. A truly excellent art "investment" that makes a fabulous gift.

Available to Public

These authentic original 1937 prints have been appraised by the American Appraisers' Assoc. at $7.00 each print. Now, these full color 11" x 14" prints are finally available to the public at $19.95 for a collection of 18 prints. Send cash, check or money order to: U.S. Surplus, Dept. J8, P.O. Box 605, Tarzana, Calif. 91356. Fully GUARANTEED. Certificate of authenticity given with each set. Master Charge and BankAmericard OK (give card number). Adv.

ARAFAT ARRIVES — Yasir Arafat of the Palestine Liberation Organization, walks past honor guard as he attends the opening session of the Arab summit meeting in Rabat, Morocco, Saturday. Arab Leaders Open Summit

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Arab leaders opened their summit Saturday with unpremeditated security and an appeal to end the feud between Jordan's King Hussein and Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization.

Hussein arrived surrounded by bodyguards to ward off any possible terrorist attempt. Newsmen were examined by an X-ray machine and then allowed into the conference chamber for less than 10 minutes.

Meeting to decide on the next move toward peace in the Middle East, the Arab leaders heard an emotional appeal for unity from the conference host, King Hassan II of Morocco. Referring to the dispute between Hussein and Arafat over who should gain control of the West Bank of Jordan should Israel withdraw its forces, Hassan said:

"If King Hussein and brother Arafat can surmount their personal conflict to build an honorable bridge across the problems and setbacks, they will find us all supporting them and wishing them well."

Arafat, seated directly across the horseshoe-shaped table from Hussein, asked for the right to speak after Hassan finished the opening address, but Hassan overruled him and asked Arafat to wait until the conference went into closed session.

The session lasted only 35 minutes and the conference was adjourned until this morning.

In Tel Aviv, the Israeli military command said the army and air force would begin large-scale maneuvers Saturday night on the occupied Syrian Golan Heights and in the Jordan valley.

A spokesman said there was no connection between the military exercises and the Arab summit conference.

The Soviet government, meanwhile, issued a message to the Arab summit meeting saying peace in the Middle East requires "liberation of Arab lands seized in 1967" and ensuring "legitimate national rights of the Arab people of Palestine."

The message, carried by the Soviet news agency Tass, was signed by President Nikolai Podgorny and Premier Alexei Kosygin.

The kings and presidents of the 18 Arab countries hoped to reach consensus on whether to try for more partial agreements with Israel or insist on a full meeting of the Geneva peace conference to work out a comprehensive settlement.

Two Men Arrested In Five Murders

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Two men were arrested Saturday in the deaths of five persons slain late Friday night when a gunman opened fire at a birthday party with an automatic carbine, police said.

Wounded were guests Odie Gambin and Johnny Reed, 49, also of Cleveland, police said. Gambin was reported in critical condition at Huron Road Hospital. Reed was treated and released, hospital officials said.

Police said they were told that a man entered the suite where Muldrew was holding the party for Mrs. Phillips and after an argument opened fire with a .30-caliber automatic carbine.

Florida Family Beats Energy Cost

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Members of the Webb Armstrong family have found a way to beat the high cost of electricity. They've unplugged their all-electric home.

"I think it's something that everybody may have to do sooner or later," Mrs. Armstrong said last week — the family's third without power.

They now have no operating air conditioner, television, washer, dryer, stereo, stove, hot water heater, electric can opener, hairdryer, clocks, refrigerator or toaster.

Lanterns, Cold Showers

Instead, there are lanterns, a kerosene stove and cold showers at the Armstrong home in this Lower Florida Gulf Coast city.

"To me it's not an imposition at all," said Armstrong, operator of an automobile repair business. "About the only thing we miss is that big bill."

Armstrong had the electric company turn off the power when his monthly bill topped $100. He said the lights will stay out until the rates go down, which "probably won't happen very soon."

He estimated his weekly fuel costs are now about $9.70, including the cost of kerosene, quarters to wash at the laundromat and ice.

Mrs. Armstrong buys a block of ice every three days and crams it into the refrigerator's freezer compartment to keep groceries fresh. She buys her

Texas Baptists Meet Tuesday At Amarillo For Convention

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Texas Baptists will hear proposals for a $20-million fund in 1975 for world missions and are urged to set a goal of 100,000 conversions to Christ next year at their annual convention here Tuesday through Thursday.

Although these matters may meet with little opposition, the messengers (delegates), noted for being outspoken, may clash over such issues as abortion and women's role in congregations.

The Rev. Ralph Smith of Austin, Convention president, will make the call for the conversions goal in the opening session Tuesday night.

The specter of world hunger will be a theme running throughout the convention. The Texas Baptist Christian Life Commission in its annual report is expected to offer positive solutions.

Workers who helped transport the Texas Baptists' disaster relief mobile unit to vic-meat daily and cooks on a kerosene stove.

Armstrong insisted that the entire family, including two sons and a daughter, are enjoying their new lifestyle.

"I find I've got more time now," he said. "I'm less tense, more relaxed. I talk to my kids. We do things together."

Time once spent watching television is now used for reading or playing monopoly, checkers or gin rummy. Armstrong also listens to a nightly mystery story on a battery-powered radio.

"We really wanted to see if we could do it," she said. "And we are doing it."

Midland College Slates Four New Adult Courses

Midland College's department of community services will begin four adult education classes this week at Lee High School, with all the courses scheduled to be held Tuesday evenings.

Window treatments will instruct students on special forms of window treatments other than draperies or shades including cornices and cornice-boards, swags and cascades. The class will meet 7-9 p.m., room 402, for six weeks, at a cost of $12.

Defensive driving is an 8-hour course for experienced drivers wanting to learn how professionals avoid accidents. Graduates can qualify for a 10 per cent reduction in auto insurance costs. Class will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays for two weeks, 7-9 p.m., in room 456, at a cost of $10.

Watercolor will meet six weeks from 7-9:30 p.m. in room 227, at a cost of $15. The course will cover use of transparent watercolor, composition, and perspective.

Bookkeeping fundamentals II will include the combination journal, general and subsidiary ledgers, depreciation, payroll systems, inventories and introduction to automated data processing. The class will meet for eight weeks, 7-10 p.m., room 455, at a cost of $24.

Red Police Arrest Suspected Killer

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow police say they have arrested a man they accuse of being responsible for a recent string of stabbings which have taken the lives of at least 11 women.

Aside from confirming the arrest, police declined to comment. Medical sources said a 23-year-old man was arrested after two women were killed Thursday night.

Bandit Taps Bank At Jacinto City

Middlemen Take Bigger Food Bite

WASHINGTON (AP) — The middlemen who process and sell food after it leaves the farm took a record bite from consumer grocery spending last month, the Agriculture Department says.

In September, according to USDA figures released Friday, the retail cost of a year's supply of farm-produced food items jumped $25 to a record annual rate of $1,776 for a typical household.

The Ford administration plans a meeting this week to see if something can be done to trim middleman costs for food between the farmer and consumer. President Ford has said food prices are his top priority in combating inflation.

The figures by USDA showed that all of the 1.4 per cent increase during September was due to a larger share going to middlemen. Of the total marketbasket cost, farmers received $723 as their share on an annual basis, while middlemen received a record rate of $1,053.

The farm share was down $8 from August while the middleman portion was up $33 during the month, according to department officials.

Announced By Butz

The meeting this week was announced Friday by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz. It was described as an "inquiry into margins and barriers" involved in the nation's food supply.

Meanwhile, President Ford received from all federal departments and agencies a list of marginal programs that are candidates for elimination or paring.

The President, who is trying to hold this year's federal spending below $300 billion, will ask Congress to share in the hard decisions on budget cuts, Press Secretary Ron Nessen said.

Dr. Alexander Completes Exams

Bill Alexander has been notified that he successfully completed the examinations of the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons and has earned the distinction of Diplomate in the Academy.

A native of Corpus Christi, Dr. Alexander earned a B. A. degree from Texas A & M University before taking his Medical degree at the University of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston. Dirt, Squirt & Quirt

FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS

Nothing has worked quite right for the cotton producer this year. Too much dry weather and hot sun during the growing season reduced acreage and yield potential and the unusually cool cloudy and wet conditions of the fall are further reducing yield and income prospects. Quality losses can be considerable, according to Charles Green, county agent, if the present weather pattern continues. Weather has also played havoc with haying operations due to limited curing time between rainy spells. The moisture has not caused any special problems on native rangelands, however lack of sunshine and cooler temperatures have slowed growth of forage in response to the food soil moisture. Soils are at field capacity in a broad area of West Texas and this fact causes some optimism for next season's agricultural prospects.

Beef cows with high milk production levels may wear heavier calves, but they don't necessarily put more dollars in the bank, according to a study conducted jointly with USDA's Agricultural Research Service and Dr. Robert Totusek, Oklahoma State University cattle nutritionist. The study shows that extra weight can be put on more efficiently by feeding the calf directly than by putting feed through the cow to make milk. When milk levels were compared for Herefords, Hereford-Holstein crossbreds and Holsteins, Herefords returned the most dollars when feed costs were subtracted from the calf's weaning value. Hereford calves were most efficient in converting milk and available feed into weaning weight. At 12- to 13-pound milk levels, they were getting all the milk they needed in addition to good grass. Herefords required about 15 per cent less roughage than crossbreds and from 30 to 45 per cent less than Holsteins. This research probably is quite applicable to West Texas conditions where the semiarid conditions of producing forage on native rangeland limits the expression of milking ability above the 12 to 15 pound level. It should be pointed out, however, that many producers need to select for milking ability in replacement heifers as there are many cows of all breeds that do not have the genetic ability to produce milk at levels of 12 to 13 pounds daily regardless of breed and nutrition.

A new mimeographed leaflet on the Art of Making Compost is available at the county Extension office. The leaflet describes a fast and slow method of converting waste vegetable materials into a valuable fertilizer for improving soils. The mimeo is authored by Dr. William S. Peavy, Extension Area Horticulturist serving 19 counties in West Texas.

Any of a number of spring flowering bulbs can be planted this fall to provide early color as soon as winter is past. Among these are crocus, snowdrops, winter aconite, hyacinths, narcissus, daffodils and tulips. The variety of color and size within the various flowering bulbs is almost limitless. Spring flowering bulbs must be planted in the fall so that roots and flowers can develop during the winter months. Then, at the first hint of spring, the flowers burst open. For repeat blooming over a period of years, Green suggests planting the bulbs in good sandy loam soil located in a sunny area. With the exception of tulips, plant spring flowering bulbs in October and November so they have ample time to develop a good root system. Keep tulip bulbs in a refrigerator at 35 to 40 degrees F. until mid-December to obtain longer stem length and good flower development. Green advises planting bulbs so the top is below the surface of the soil a distance of about twice the bulb's diameter. For narcissus and tulips this would be about 4 inches, and for smaller bulbs, about 2 inches.

Inflation boosts the value of Texas farm and ranch land, but it takes its toll of agricultural profits through skyrocketing production costs, says an economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Inflation also affects the demand for agricultural products, with a higher demand for lower cost items requiring less processing and a lower demand for high cost, highly processed items. Prices received by farmers will continue to respond to supply changes, and such changes will affect producers more rapidly than the effects of inflation.

Chrysler Chairman Says Ford's Advice Hurting Auto Sales

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
NEW YORK (AP) — Chairman Lynn Townsend of Chrysler Corp. said this past week that the auto and housing industries were on the brink of serious recession and President Ford's economic advice hadn't helped.

"He urged people not to buy, and they're not buying," said Townsend, whose company announced the day before that it had lost $8 million in the third quarter.

Townsend said that instead of urging Americans to cut their buying, he should tell them to spend. He said the government should also ease credit controls and put a moratorium on any further requirements for safety or antipollution equipment on cars.

Townsend's remarks came the day it was announced that the rate of new car sales for Detroit's auto producers in mid-October was down 28.4 per cent from a year earlier.

Sales at Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler were both off about 18 per cent. The drop at General Motors Corp. was 34 per cent at American Motors, which has not yet put its 1975 models on the market, the decline was 46 per cent.

Townsend said that in spite of the declining sales, Chrysler planned a second price hike. He said increases averaging $400 a car last month still left the company with an average of $250 in unrecovered costs per car.

Generally, if demand for a product declines, the prices follow it downward. But the Chrysler chairman said Nixon administration economic controls had caused dislocations which still hadn't worked themselves out in the economy.

General Motors said Friday slower sales, strikes and rising prices cut its third quarter profit to a mere $16 million, or a nickel a share, down from a record $267 million, or 92 cents a share, a year earlier.

GM, the nation's biggest manufacturer, said it had been absorbing cost increases of more than $300 a vehicle during 1972-74 price controls and was now absorbing $500, including $100 in costs added just since the start of the 1975 model year.

Earlier in the week, GM had announced about 6,000 workers were being laid off because of sagging auto sales — the first time in recent history that layoffs had been ordered so early in a model year.

Exxon Corp., the world's biggest oil company, said this past week that its third-quarter profits totaled $800 million, up 25 per cent from the year before on a 63 per cent gain in revenues to $11.94 billion.

Gulf Oil said its profits were up 31 per cent at $275 million, Cities Service up 75 per cent at $45.8 million, Indiana Standard 101 per cent to $296 million, Phillips Petroleum 110 per cent to $112.9 million, Continental Oil 122 per cent to $120.2 million and Shell Oil 158 per cent to $216 million.

Furr's Cafeteria Logs Sales, Earnings Hikes

LUBBOCK — Furr's Cafeteria Inc. has reported increases in sales and earnings for the nine-month period ended Sept. 28.

During the period, Furr's had net earnings of $1,720,405, an increase of $374,040, or 28 per cent over the similar period of 1973.

Per share earnings were 75 cents this year, compared to 57 cents in the same period of 1973.

Sales increased to $33,432,718 in the first nine months of 1974, up from $28,477,668 in the similar period of 1973, an increase of 17 per cent.

Earnings per share attributable to investment tax credit were four cents, compared with three cents during the same period of 1973.

Third quarter sales were $11,631,656, compared to $10,176,412 for the same three months of 1973, an increase of 14 per cent.

Earnings were $606,176, equal to 27 cents per share for the third quarter, compared to earnings of $476,960 or 20 cents per share for the third quarter of 1973, an increase of 27 per cent.

The group is sponsoring meetings in various sections of the country to better acquaint area cattlemen with the happenings and progress of the Maine-Anjou breed.

Officers, directors and staff from the national headquarters office in Kansas City will be on hand for individual presentations concerning their respective activities.

Investors Diversified Services has begun sale here of shares in a new mutual fund, IDS Bond Fund.

Eddie Mee, district sales manager, said the investment objectives of the fund are to maintain a high level of current income over the longest period of time and to conserve the value of the investment.

In seeking these objectives, IDS Bond Fund will invest primarily in marketable debt securities — corporate bonds, U.S. government securities and non-rated debt securities.

TOP REALTOR — Joan Noel, associated with Bunnie Kent Realtors Inc., has been named Midland Board of Realtors Co-Op Champion for September.

Permits Total $178,890

Building permits for three new homes amounted to $135,000 last week, the bulk of the week's $178,890 total. Permit totals for the year now stand at $26.6 million.

Research Fuels To Test Gas Here

Research Fuels Inc., a large U.S. shopping center gasoline management company announced Saturday that it will hold major performance tests using non-leaded gasoline at Rattlesnake Raceway here.

The test vehicle will be the Research Fuels-Steed Lola which has been driven by Brian Redman in the Formula 5000 series for the last two years. During this period Redman has won eight of the 13 U.S. Formula 5000 races he has entered, driving the Jim Hall prepared Lola. He finished second in four races. This year Redman leads Mario Andretti by 13 points in the series with one race at Riverside, Calif. to go. Andretti drives the Viceroy-Castrol Lola prepared by Parnelli Jones.

The performance tests to be held at Rattlesnake Raceway will use a non-leaded racing gasoline equivalent to the racing leaded gasoline used during the Formula 5000 series.

Research Fuels manages and sells passenger car leaded and non-leaded gasoline through 176 units located in 28 states.

Two of the new residential permits were issued to Charles Wallace Construction Co. for $45,000 homes to go up at 1001 W. Pine St. and 1205 Shirley Lane.

The other residential construction permit was issued to Harvey Langston Builders for a $45,000 home at 2407 Metz Place.

repair permits took a $25,640 share of the weekly permit total $18,250 for the week. Those with a $12,000 permit issued to Clyde White for office alterations at 605 W. Texas St. Kent Oil Co. was issued an $8,000 permit for remodeling a service station located at 1709 Rankin Highway. Hemsley Spear was issued a $3,640 permit for kitchen alterations at 300 W. TMA Elects New Officers

FORT WORTH — The board of directors of the Texas Manufacturers Association (TMA), during its fourth annual meeting here, elected San Antonio business executive Hull Youngblood as its chairman for 1975.

Youngblood, president of Southern Steel Co., will succeed William T. Slaton as of Jan. 1, 1975. Slaton, president of Delta Steel Buildings Co., Dallas, will move up to chairman of TMA's executive committee. Meeting prior to TMA's 52nd annual Conference of Texas Industry, the board elected David T. Shirey, Greenville, as state vice chairman, and Lamar Lovvorn, Dallas, as treasurer.

O. R. Clements of Odessa was re-elected Region III chairman.

Five Large Banks Cut Prime Rates

NEW YORK (AP) — First National City Bank of New York has announced an industry-low prime interest rate of 11 per cent. Several other large commercial banks also posted reduced lending fees.

Citibank, the country's second largest bank, said Friday the new prime rate, down a quarter point from 11.25 per cent, will take effect Monday.

Crocker National Bank of San Francisco, the 13th largest bank; Northern Trust Co. of Chicago, and Pittsburgh National Bank all reduced the rate they charge their most credit-worthy customers from 11.5 per cent to 11.25 per cent, effective Monday.

Monday will herald the fourth consecutive week of sliding interest rates. Although not directly related to small business and consumer loans, changes in the prime rate often foreshadow changes in costs of borrowing money for smaller customers.

Maine-Anjou Group To Meet At San Angelo

SAN ANGELO — The fifth in a series of regional seminars sponsored by the International Maine-Anjou Association will be held Nov. 8 at the Holiday Inn here.

The group is sponsoring meetings in various sections of the country to better acquaint area cattlemen with the happenings and progress of the Maine-Anjou breed.

Officers, directors and staff from the national headquarters office in Kansas City will be on hand for individual presentations concerning their respective activities.

IDS Begins Sales Of New Mutual Fund

Investors Diversified Services has begun sale here of shares in a new mutual fund, IDS Bond Fund.

Eddie Mee, district sales manager, said the investment objectives of the fund are to maintain a high level of current income over the longest period of time and to conserve the value of the investment.

In seeking these objectives, IDS Bond Fund will invest primarily in marketable debt securities — corporate bonds, U.S. government securities and non-rated debt securities.

Action Line-Fish Aids Community

ANSWERS CALLS — "Action Line-Fish, may I help you?" With these words Mrs. Bert Marier, receptionist at the Action Line-Fish office in the First Presbyterian Church, answers a call. The inquiry may be as simple as "Where can I donate old magazines?" or for the more serious question, such as "My son is on drugs, where can I find help?" Each volunteer has had many hours of training to acquaint her with community resources available to provide assistance for persons with problems.

TRAINING SESSION—Mrs. Robert Thomason, left, conducts a training session for Action Line-Fish volunteers, from the left, Mrs. R. W. Patteson, Mrs. Bill Kouns, Mrs. Gus Sanger, Mrs. Joe Hathaway and Mrs. James L. Davis. Other services offered by the agency include helping the aged and needy fill out Social Security or welfare forms. The primary purpose of Action Line-Fish is to refer callers to an agency or someone who can assist. The agency has limited emergency financial funds available on a one-time basis for payments of utilities, prescriptions and rent.

CHECKING MAP — Mrs. Elmo Wiejel, Mrs. John Kolb and Mrs. Henry Krusekopf, from the left, check directions on a City of Midland map for directions to assist a caller to Action Line-Fish. Volunteers at the agency are available from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, by dialing 682-8130.

ACTION LINE-FISH DESK — Pictured at the Action Line-Fish desk are, from the left, Mrs. George Dye, Mrs. Jack Jordan and Mrs. Vincent Scury. Callers to the agency may remain anonymous, if they choose, or should a person-to-person situation arise, Action Line-Fish volunteers are available. Last year, the agency received 1,746 telephone calls.

TRAINING PROGRAMS — Joe Green, second from right, is the instructor for an Action Line-Fish community service project of the Midland Vocational Training Center. He is shown with students who are learning to do yard work assistance. Action Line-Fish was organized in 1970 by the First Presbyterian Church as an information and referral service. The program is sponsored by the Midland Association of Churches, with the association providing administrative funds.

Miss Howard, G. S. Pitman Wed In Houston Church

HOUSTON — Gordon Scott Pitman, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Pitman Jr. of Fort Worth, married Anne Kathryn Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe R. Howard of Humble, formerly of Midland, at 4 p.m. Saturday in the Bammel Road Church of Christ here.

Harold Poland of the Kingwood Church of Christ, Humble, was the officiating minister for the double ring ceremony. Wedding music was provided by a chorus from the West University Church of Christ, Houston.

Mr. Howard presented his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of white silk organza over peau de soie. The bodice was fashioned of Venise lace with a high neckline of Venise lace also featured at the tops of the sheer Juliet sleeves and deep cuffs. The skirt was fully gathered at the sides and back and flowed into a sweep train. Falling from the Empire waistline was a chapel train. A Venise lace half hat accented with pearls held her three-tiered elbow veil of English nylon illusion. She carried a cascade of white carnations and pink Sweetheart roses trimmed with pink velvet ribbon.

Mrs. Danny Tomlinson of Midland, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Carol Sides of Midland, Tish Randolph of Dallas and Susan Pitman of Fort Worth, sister of the bridegroom.

Best man was Tim Kuenstler of Fort Worth, brother of the bridegroom. Groomsmen were Richard Foster of Midland and Mike Anderson and David Ardyno, both of Fort Worth. Ushers were Travis McCormick of Humble and Mark Freeman of Beaumont, cousin of the bridegroom.

A reception was held at the church.

After a brief trip, the couple will reside in Huntsville where the bridegroom is a student at Sam Houston State University. The bride is a graduate of Lee High School. Both were former students at Abilene Christian College.

The bride recently was entertained with a bridal shower in Midland at the home of Mrs. Ben Sides. Hostesses were Mrs. Sides, Mrs. Wayne Potter, Mrs. Johnny Stewart and Mrs. Ralph Foster.

Mrs. Gordon S. Pitman

Girl Scouts, Council Plan Project For Bicentennial Of American Revolution Observance In Area

Members of the Bicentennial Task Force of the Permian Basin Girl Scout Council have announced the launching of its American Revolution Bicentennial project.

The task group, headed by Mrs. Richard C. Slack of Pecos, has detailed plans for the project itself, troop leader workshops and criteria for earning patches. Other members of the group include Mrs. R. L. Huxtable of Odessa, Mrs. John Redfern III of Midland, Mrs. Bill Whitfield of Monahans and Mrs. L. E. Bristler of Odessa.

The workshops will be launched Nov. 5 in Midland and Odessa.

Leaders will meet in the Girl Scout Little House in Midland and the Odessa Service Center from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon Nov. 5.

The Bicentennial workshops are council-wide events and are open to leaders and interested adults throughout the Permian Basin Girl Scout Council.

Interested Girl Scout troops may participate in this program during the next two years.

In the next two years, Girl Scouts in the council will be searching for America's "Hidden Heroines." These heroines are women and girls who have contributed to the building of the nation.

Girl Scouts will work with historical societies, museums, libraries and universities to uncover names and contributions by American women.

Participating troops will be offered the opportunity of wearing specially designed Bicentennial patches on their uniforms.

The project, initiated by Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., has been officially recognized by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

Mrs. Horton Presents Review At Chapter Meet

Mrs. LeJeune Horton reviewed the book "Upstairs at the White House — My Life With the First Ladies" by J. V. West, chief usher at the White House from the Roosevelt administration in 1941 through six weeks of the Nixon administration in 1969, when the Preceptor Alpha Omega Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met recently in the home of Mrs. F. C. Stickney, 707 W. Tennessee St.

Mrs. Stickney, vice president, conducted the business meeting in the absence of Mrs. Jack Howard, president. It was decided the chapter will contribute to the state project, The Center for Behavioral Studies. Mrs. Robert King was named city council representative. Mrs. Stickney reported on the West Texas Area Convention held here recently and Mrs. Graham Bevel reported on the city council executive board meeting.

It was announced the chapter will be in charge of tickets for the Harvest Ball which will be Nov. 9 in the VFW Hall. Music will be provided by "The Raiders."

A citywide city council meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 4 at The Midland National Bank, in lieu of the next regularly scheduled meeting.

WEDDING PLANNED—Mr. and Mrs. George Vernon White, 2201 Seaboard St., announce the engagement of their daughter, Cathy Ann, to Benton New, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chesley Alton New of East Bernard. The wedding is planned for 5 p.m. Jan. 25 in the First United Methodist Church of Austin. Miss White is a senior sociology major at The University of Texas-Austin and is a member of Alpha Delta Pi social sorority. Her fiancé attended Austin Community College and is serving in the U.S. Air Force, stationed at Bergstrom Air Force Base, Austin.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT — Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Coke of 2923 W. Louisiana St. announce the engagement of their daughter, Sue Ann, to Dale Cobb, son of Mrs. Virginia Moore of Keller. The ceremony will be held at 2 p.m. Jan. 4 in the Pioneer Drive Baptist Church in Abilene. The bride-elect and her fiancé are students at Tarleton State University.

Shauneen Frazier

Frazier-Hatfield Engagement Told

PECOS — Mr. and Mrs. Clifford H. Frazier of this city announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Shauneen Annette, to Alton George "Biff" Hatfield Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton G. Hatfield, 3204 W. Shandon St., Midland.

The couple will exchange wedding vows at 7 p.m. Nov. 29 in the First United Methodist Church of Pecos, with the Rev. Noble Wiltshire officiating.

Miss Frazier is a 1973 graduate of Pecos High School and attended Texas Tech University one year. She is employed here with Hi-Pro Feeds, Inc.

Hatfield is a 1968 graduate of Denver City High School and attended The University of Texas-Austin. He served two years in the U.S. Army, 13 months of which were served in Korea. He is employed here by Texaco Inc.

Miniskirt Seeing Its Last Days

LONDON (AP) — The mini is fini.

Britain's gift to the world of women's fashions, the miniskirt, is finally gone — after hovering near hip-level heights for the past ten years.

The last stitch in this hemline-dropping event was sewn by one of the biggest firms of chain stores in the country, C&A.

A spokesman for the company, which four years ago sold thousands of minis each day, said: "There will be no more minis when present stocks have gone. They just don't sell nowadays."

The firm was just about the last of the major holdouts. Most of the other big department stores and fashion chains had dropped the mini for longer lengths within the last two years, or more.

The mini was introduced by the early 1960s, largely by fashion designer Mary Quant. For the last three years, many designers have given up (or down) on the mini, although a lot of lean-legged gals kept them up.

Mrs. Jimmie Bradshaw

Lamoyane Harrell, Bradshaw Married

The First Baptist Church parlor decorated with baskets of white flowers accented with green spider mums carrying out the bride's chosen colors was the scene of the exchange of wedding vows at 4 p.m. Saturday between Frances Lamoyane Harrell and Jimmie Charles Bradshaw.

Parents of the couple are the late Mr. and Mrs. Dan W. Harrell of Lubbock and Mrs. C. M. Bradshaw of El Campo, and the late Mr. Bradshaw. Dr. L. L. Morriss, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated for the double ring ceremony. Wedding selections were provided by Mrs. J. C. Whitaker, pianist, and Debbie Bradshaw of Abilene, soloist. Given in marriage by her uncle, Ed Hatch, the bride chose to wear a floor-length gown of ivory chiffon. Embroidered English net lace outlined the bodice, which featured a ring neckline and full sleeves and the three-tiered skirt. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a Camelot headpiece of matching lace. She carried a simplicity cascade bouquet of white Japhette orchids, yellow Sweetheart roses, stephanotis and Hahn's ivy.

Maid of honor was Cindy Bradshaw, daughter of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Ben Cason, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Best man was Ben Cason. Groomsman was Charles "Chuck" Pierce of Abilene and Roy Ed Hatch of Stillwater, Okla., and Cecil M. Hatch of Seminole were ushers. The bridal attendants wore floor-length dresses of seal blue and carried single yellow roses. A reception was held in the parlor of the church. Following a wedding trip to New Mexico, the couple will reside here at 2822 Durant St.

The bride a former teacher in the Lubbock Public School System, is a graduate of Texas Tech University with a B.S. degree in music and a master's degree in elementary education. Bradshaw attended Draughon's Business College in San Antonio. He is employed with Texaco Inc. as production foreman.

Marsha Cherry

Cherry-Shelburne Engagement Told

LUBBOCK — Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cherry of Lubbock announce the engagement of their daughter, Marsha Marie, to Paul Vernon Shelburne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Shelburne Jr. of 2708 W. Michigan St., Midland.

The couple is to be married at 2 p.m. Jan. 4 in Ford Memorial Chapel of the First Baptist Church here.

Miss Cherry is a senior education major at Baylor University, where she is vice president of the Athenian Social Club. Her fiancé is a senior biology major at Baylor University. He is a member of Kappa Omega Tau Social Service Fraternity and is employed by the Waco Independent School District.

Grants-In-Aid Subject Of Altrusa Club Meeting

The Altrusa Club of Midland met at the Sheraton Inn Thursday to hear a program on Grants-in-Aid, presented by the international relations committee.

Mrs. John J. Carter, president, presided and led the invocation. During the brief business meeting preceding the program, Mrs. Carter reminded members Nov. 15 is the deadline for sending gifts to the Big Spring State Hospital, and that gifts may be taken to the home of Mrs. Loleta B. Guffey. She stated that a report on District Nine conference, held recently in Waco, would be given at a called meeting in November, place and time to be announced. Stationery and hammers were distributed to members for sale, to raise money for the club's civic projects.

Mrs. Guffey, chairman of the international relations committee, introduced other members of the committee, Mrs. Marie Lones, Mrs. Lewis Feagan and Mrs. Robert Cain. She explained that October is designated by Altrusa International as Grants-in-Aid month and explained that the program is and how it is administered. Available Grants

A grant, from $250 to $1000, is available to women in Latin America, Asia, Africa and the Near and Middle East for graduate study in American universities and colleges.

These women must be graduates of universities or colleges in their own country, wishing to further their studies, but cannot be accommodated at home. Quite often sufficient money is not available, locally, for them to complete their studies in America and they can apply (or be recommended) to Altrusa International for monetary assistance. This money is available to the international treasurer through contributions by more than 550 clubs throughout the world. Upon graduation from the American schools the students must return to their native country and put into practice their educational advantages.

Between April 1945, when the fund was established, and June, 1973, a total of $742,523 have been given to 1,343 women. Figures for 1974, ending in June

Sandra K. Self, K. T. French Wed In Midland

Sandra K. Self, daughter of Gerald E. Self and the late Mrs. Self, and Kirk Talmadge French, son of Lloyd R. French Sr. of Midland and Mrs. Margaret Lovelace of San Antonio, were married here Thursday in the home of the bride's father, 910 Harvard St. The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. R. E. Kimsey Sr. of Midland.

Best man was L. R. French Jr., brother of the bridegroom, and Nancy Self attended her sister as maid of honor.

A reception followed the ceremony and dinner was served to approximately 50 guests. Among the out-of-city guests were Mr. and Mrs. Alex Patterson of San Antonio, brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom.

Mrs. French attended Southern Methodist University and teaches at Burnet Elementary School here. French attended Austin College, Sherman. He is associated with Mutual Pipe and Supply Co.

Following a wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will be at home at 2900 W. Illinois St., Apartment 25.

Deadline Given For Publishing Wedding Stories

Thinking about having accounts of your engagement and wedding published in The Reporter-Telegram?
 If the answer is in the affirmative, brides-to-be should visit the Women's Department of the newspaper and obtain information sheets and wedding forms in order to comply with the R-T policies on wedding stories, photographs and deadlines.
 One of the new policy changes requires that wedding or engagement forms must be submitted before 5 p.m. Wednesday for publication in a Sunday paper.
 Another important policy to be aware of is that wedding stories submitted more than five days after the wedding will not be published.

GROSS NATIONAL PRODUCT DISTORTED—

Economist Criticizes Accounting Method

NEW YORK (AP) — An economist with one of New York's major banks says bookkeeping changes by U.S. companies to help offset inflation may have distorted the gross national product (GNP) to show declines where slight increases or at least stability should have been recorded.

Dr. Irwin L. Kellner, vice president and economist with the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Bank, says that if such distortions prove to be true, they could have prompted business and consumer decisions which aggravated the nation's economic problems.

In Washington, James L. Pate, assistant secretary of Commerce for economic affairs, called Kellner's approach "astute analysis" and logical and said he had been thinking along similar lines.

He said the department is making a survey of changes in accounting methods to determine what if any revisions in both corporate profits reports and the GNP were necessary.

As inflation mounted throughout the year, an increasing number of companies changed the way they account for their inventories, which affect both corporate profits and the GNP.

Technically, they changed from first-in, first-out (FIFO) to last-in, first-out (LIFO) method.

The difference is that in figuring the cost of inventories under FIFO, the lower prices at the beginning of the year are used for the whole period. Under LIFO, the higher prices paid at the end are used.

Since the inventory left at the end of the period is subtracted from sales to determine profits, LIFO accounting increases costs, thereby reducing both profits and income taxes.

Ordinarily, the government releases the changes in inventory valuations from quarter to quarter at the same time changes in the GNP are announced. Pate and other government economists said this third quarter in 1973. Kellner said the increase in the September quarter was probably from inflation rather than any big increase in production for inventory rather than sale. He said when allowance is made for inflated inventories, the GNP probably rose somewhat the second quarter of this year and did not fall the 1.6 per cent announced at the time.

By the same token, he estimated the GNP for the recently ended quarter probably did not drop the 2.9 per cent announced but continued at about the same rate as in the previous quarter.

GM Starts Cost-Cutting In Face Of Profits Dip

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors is launching a cost-cutting program in the wake of sagging car sales which dropped the firm's profit margin to practically zero.

GM said the cutbacks will include a trimming of capital expenditures as well as already announced production and employment cuts at four plants.

The company said Friday that its profits during the third quarter of 1974 were $16 million, down 94 per cent from record earnings of $267 million during the same period last year. And domestic auto sales during mid-October were off more than 28 per cent.

Ford and Chrysler also announced more layoffs Friday as they escalated cost-cutting programs to deal with the current depression in auto sales.

But even with the cost cutting, GM executives say an improvement in the troubled auto industry depends upon the nation's economic rebound.

GM Chairman Richard C.

Gerstenberg and President E.M. Estes cited unrecovered costs totaling $200 on 1975 model cars as having a significant impact on the profits decline.

Sales Down Only Slightly
While profits nose dived, dollar sales declined just 9 per cent, to $6.7 billion. The heavy toll on profits as compared to sales is viewed as an indication of heavy inflationary pressures.

Profits as a per cent of sales, another indicator, were .02 per cent, down from 3.5 per cent in the third quarter last year.

Church Of God Sets Dedication
The Midland Church of God will dedicate its new building at 5300 Thomason Drive at 2:30 p.m. today.

The Rev. Gene Rice, Texas superintendent of the Churches of God will be the dedicatory speaker.

An open house will be held at 1:30 p.m. today.

Special gospel singing is scheduled for 7 p.m. today in the new church.

Language Uncommon
The Persian language (Farsi) is widely spoken only in Iran, Afghanistan and among the Parsees of India.

Historical Survey Committees Cited At New Braunfels

NEW BRAUNFELS — Forty-one county historical survey committees across the state, including Midland, received recognition for outstanding local preservation programs at the annual meeting of the Texas Historical Commission held here Friday and Saturday. Each of these groups was given a Distinguished Service Award for having organized progressive and well-rounded preservation efforts during the last year.

Among the rigorous requirements for the Distinguished Service Award are that the local historical survey committee (1) present at least six talks on local history a year to other civic groups; (2) participate in the planning of at least three local historical tours; (3) help publish a brochure, map, or place mat showing locations of historical interest in the county; (4) sponsor at least one history appreciation observance; (5) conduct a historic preservation project such as starting a historical museum, restoring a historic building, erecting historical markers, or sponsoring a written history of the county; and (6) carry out part of a local oral history program.

The winning counties were Anderson, Bowie, Brooks, Burleson, Carson, Coke, Colorado, Crockett, Crosby, DeWitt, Fannin, Fort Bend, Freestone, Galveston, Garza, Gray, Grayson, Grimes, Hale, Harris, Harrison, Hays, Hildago, Hill, Houston, Kimble, Kleberg, Jasper, Marion, Midland, Newton, Nueces, Runnels, Scurry, Shackelford, Travis, Walker, Washington, Williamson, Wise, Young.

West Texas historian Dr. William Curry Holden and his wife Frances Mayhugh Holden — researcher, and museum official — Saturday received the highest award given by the state in the field of preservation for 1974: The Ruth Lester Award for Meritorious Achievement in Historic Preservation. The award was conferred by the Texas Historical Commission at the two-day meeting's concluding session.

The Holdens, residents of Lubbock for many years, largely are responsible for implementing the idea of a group of buildings to tell the story of ranching in Texas. The Ranch Headquarters, located on the Texas Tech University campus, now contains 12 ranch buildings and plans call for a total of 23 buildings to be in place by the Bicentennial year of 1976.

MEETING SCHEDULED HERE NOV. 5—

Tv Show To Open Epilepsy Month

Affiliates of the Epilepsy Foundation of America (EFA) including the Permian Basin Chapter in Midland — will observe November as Epilepsy Month 1974.

The month will be kicked off with a "Marcus Welby" television program on the ABC network at 9 p.m. CST Tuesday.

A total of 185 local ABC-TV networks — including Station KMOM, Channel 9, in Monahan Basin chapter. The television program deals with a relatively new, experimental treatment for epilepsy and other disorders called "biofeedback" now being studied at a number of research facilities. The EFA also is funding a research project in this area.

Biofeedback conditioning means that a person is attempting to control certain body processes usually thought to be automatic. Blood pressure is one example. In epilepsy, biofeedback refers to the mental process of controlling the brain to reduce epileptic seizures.

It generally is not available as a treatment, but — if experiments prove successful — persons with epilepsy may some day be able to go to special centers to learn the technique.

The local EFA chapter offers a number of programs and activities for individuals with epilepsy.

"An estimated four million Americans have epilepsy," Deans said, "and as many as 6,000 may live in the Permian Basin."

"Employment and public prejudice are two of the biggest problems we face, and both subjects are dealt with on the television program," Deans said. "Many persons don't know, for example, that most epilepsy can be treated successfully with modern medication and that most persons with epilepsy are highly employable."

Persons working in the EFA hope that their efforts during November, with the aid of the television program, will give millions of persons a more accurate picture of epilepsy and its characteristics, Deans said.

Hottest Item At Sale Is Menu

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Menus are selling like hotcakes at the liquidation sale of a Cincinnati landmark, the Sheraton Hotel.

Souvenir-minded buyers have purchased more than 2,000 of the menus, a spokesman said Friday.

"Menus are selling better than anywhere else I have worked," said Etta Clossman, of Dayton, an employee of National Content Liquidators.

"With approximately 75 percent of the 62-year-old hotel's equipment sold, most of the remaining items are being sold as souvenirs, she said.

Among them: brass door knobs, room keys, ash trays and old stock certificates, issued by the hotel in 1918.

James Earl Ray Explains Defense Lawyer Switch

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—James Earl Ray has testified that his lawyers hurt his defense six years ago by seeking money from writings about the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

Ray testified Friday at a hearing in federal court in which he is trying to obtain a trial by renouncing his guilty plea in the King assassination. He says a trial will prove him innocent.

Ray said he switched lawyers in 1968 because his first attorney, Arthur Hanes Sr. of Birmingham, Ala., seemed more concerned about royalty rights to the story than about Ray's legal interests.

But he said the lawyer he switched to, Percy Foreman of Houston, Tex., became involved in a similar conflict of interest when he, too, contracted for royalties.

Ray also said he suspected author William Bradford Huie disclosed confidential information that interfered with his defense.

"It appeared I was being a state's witness against myself for a few dollars," he testified. Ray, like Huie and the lawyers, reviewed by state legislators was a party to the royalty contract.

Ray said his brother Jerry will carry the program.

The Permian Basin chapter of EFA will hold a meeting at 8 p.m. Nov. 5 at the Cerebral Palsy Center, 802 Ventura St. in Midland in conjunction with the kickoff.

Judge Perry Pickett will speak on the legal problems encountered by epileptics.

Interested persons are invited to attend, according to Hal Dean, president of the Permian Basin chapter.

The television program deals with a relatively new, experimental treatment for epilepsy and other disorders called "biofeedback" now being studied at a number of research facilities. The EFA also is funding a research project in this area.

Texas Municipal League Conference Opens Today

FORT WORTH (AP)—The 62nd conference of the Texas Municipal League unfolds this week with city officials facing a wide range of problems and issues.

Some 2,000 officials from across the state will be here today through Tuesday probing such issues as utilities regulations, community development and environmental quality.

Other topics include affirmative action planning, property tax assessment and appraisal, and planning and zoning.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe will headline the annual banquet but the conference will bring together authorities from all areas of government and related fields.

Speakers include Sen. John Tower; Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley; Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex.; Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Tex.; Arthur Busch, regional administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency; Dick Morgan, re-

1,481 Discharged Under President's Amnesty Program

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—The military deserter processing center at Ft. Benjamin Harrison reports 1,481 persons have been discharged with 28 still in processing under the President's amnesty program.

The military services have received 4,069 telephone inquiries about the program.

Meanwhile, in Washington, the American Civil Liberties Union said it is acting as a clearing house for men who want to know whether they are under indictment for draft evasion.

The ACLU said it has obtained a complete list of pending federal draft indictments and anyone can determine his status by telephoning the ACLU.

Two Junior Achievers Reach $100 Sales Mark

Janet Belden, a senior at Midland High School and Mark Hall, a junior at Midland High, have become the first students to reach $100 sales mark for Junior Achievement this year. Belden, a member of EM-BARCO, a miniature company counseled by Cities Service Oil Co. holds every major award given by J.A. She is a third-year member of the business education organization. Among her honors is the title of "Treasurer of the Year," which goes to the top accounting officer each year in J.A. The title has been bestowed upon her for the last two years.

MARRIED TOO YOUNG—Syreeta Building Own Foundation

By MARY CAMPBELL, AP Newsfeatures Writer
"Stevie Wonder Presents Syreeta" is the new album and Syreeta Wright, the former Mrs. Stevie Wonder, is starting to perform live. By the middle of September, she had been on stage 15 times in four cities and not been scared yet.
Syreeta, who is billing herself by her first name alone, says that Wonder taught her the good and bad sides of the performing business, which makes her feel pretty secure. As well as writing songs and producing her album, he also is keeping an eye on her career and acting as a kind of second manager and friend.
"They were married three years and Syreeta says they simply married too young. She says, "We didn't know enough about ourselves to be together. We hadn't experienced life enough. It was a psychological strain being with somebody knowing you had to have more experience of life and knowing we couldn't do it together."
"My mistake was in thinking it was enough that I could make somebody else happy. You have to be happy yourself before you can do anything for anybody else. You have to have foundations in everything, with no cracks. That foundation is you yourself. Now that I know that, I'm working on my foundation."
"I expected a light to come down from heaven as soon as I said, 'I do.' It disappointed me."
"The Wonders have been divorced about seven months. Syreeta says, "It took us a long time to get a divorce. For two years we were seeing each other on and off, then we decided to go ahead and finish it. It's not cool, having this feeling that you have a husband out there in the world someplace; it causes complexes."
"I'm sorry we couldn't make it work. I'm glad we were able to end it and be friends."
"He has a nice girl now. I hope he is established enough in himself that he can just get married without a lot of problems. He is a beautiful person and I want him to be happy. When I first heard about it, I thought, 'Oh, I've got to check this out. This was mine.' But I thought about it and I think I've cooled myself out as far as that is concerned. You don't own people."
Syreeta says she'd like to re-marry, maybe in about five years. She isn't ready to marry now but she is ready to meet somebody, she says with a twinkle.

Referral Service By Bar Utilized

AUSTIN — The State Bar of Texas' new statewide lawyer referral service apparently is helping fill a public need, the bar reported Saturday.
In the first two months, 380 persons had immediate appointments made for them with lawyers in their own areas. The fee is $10 for up to one-half hour of legal consultation.
The toll-free number is 800-292-9690. The referral service was established by the bar to make legal services easily and inexpensively available to persons who do not know a lawyer.

By GARTH JONES (An AP News Analysis)
AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Republican office holders are fighting for their political lives in a series of hot local and regional contests that provide the sole hope for a good voter turnout Nov. 5.
With just a little more than a week to go, there are at least three congressional races and a long list of state legislative contests where Democratic and Republican candidates are slugging it out fiercely.
The size of the turnout Nov. 5 could upset a lot of campaign plans, particularly where third-party Raza Unida, American party and Socialist Workers party candidates are involved.
An extremely low turnout, below the 1.58 million in the May primaries, likely would guarantee the GOP incumbents a return trip to Washington and Austin.
However, a large turnout, as much as the 2.5 million predicted by Atty. Gen. John Hill, could cause several GOP faces to disappear from Congress and the legislature.

Campaign reports say Republican Doug Harlan is trailing Democrat Bob Krueger in their bitter South Texas battle to succeed retiring Rep. C. C. Fisher, D-Tex.
In the two other hardest fought congressional contests Republicans now think Rep. Bob Price, R-Tex., will be able to stand off the challenge of Jack Hightower, Democratic state senator, and Rep. Alan Steelman, R-Tex., can outlast Democrat Mike McKool, another former state senator. However, the voter turnout in the Panhandle, North Texas, and Dallas, Kirchhoff, Republican, for the senate seat vacated by Hightower; Democrat Kent Hance vs Republican Robert Garner, for the seat vacated by Sen. H. J. Blanchard, D-Lubbock, and Sen. Lloyd Doggett against Republican Clarke Straughan in Austin.
The hottest scene of state representative fighting seems to be the Houston area.
Rep. Kay Bailey, R-Houston, has a good fight going with Democrat Karey Breshenham, one of the few all-women general election battles ever between major party candidates.
Rep. Ray Barnhart, R-Pasadena, is reportedly trailing in his race with Democrat Bill Caraway, Houston, Rep. Larry Vick, R-Houston, has plenty of trouble in his contest with Democrat Robert Lord. Rep. Don Henderson, R-Houston, has a close race with Democrat John Heath.
Two other Houston races are interesting because of their makeup.
Rep. Kay Bailey, R-Houston, has a good fight going with Democrat Karey Breshenham, one of the few all-women general election battles ever between major party candidates.

Amtrak Fares To Rise

WASHINGTON
ing inflation, Amtrak's fares for the next year are expected to rise by an average of 10 percent of its routes effective next year.
"Congress, cost escalation, truck fuel, materials, restated earlier, tent that Amtrak to the extent possible increases with inflation," the rail corporation said.
Some Variations
It said the fares generally apply East. But there are exceptions on the Montreal via Albany route. The Washington-Baltimore one-way ticket will go up 20 percent.
Local fares between Denver and Seattle-Los Angeles will not be raised. West Coast routes, with the land coach fare, Family Plan Rates under $10 will go up about 10 percent. However, rates for accompanying persons, reduced rate fares, and reduced rate fares for seniors, will begin on Monday, Thursday to be published.
No changes in accommodation, sleeping car, or parlor car service.
It said details of rate changes will be published in a new Amtrak tariff to be published.

Texas Road Down 20 Percent
AUSTIN (AP) — Fatal accidents here persons this year with 2,927 for the year in 1973, the Department of Transportation reported. The decrease is 20 percent and 16 percent.

Amtrak Fares To Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing inflation, Amtrak said Saturday it is increasing fares an average of 10 per cent on most of its routes effective Nov. 15.

"Congress, recognizing the cost escalation affecting Amtrak fuel, material and labor, restated earlier this year its intent that Amtrak compensate, to the extent possible, for such increases with fare adjustments," the railroad passenger corporation said in announcing the increases.

Some Variations

It said the fare increase is generally applicable in the East. But there will be no increase on the Adirondack service between New York and Montreal via Albany and only a 5 per cent raise for conventional coach passengers on the Washington-Boston route. A one-way ticket between New York and Washington now costs $13.75.

In the Midwest, fares will remain unchanged on the Chicago-Detroit, Chicago-St. Louis and Chicago-Port Huron routes. The Chicago-to-Florida route will go up 20 per cent.

Local fares between Chicago and Denver as well as the Seattle-Los Angeles route will not be raised. Other West and West Coast routes will be increased, with the Seattle-Portland coach fare going up $1.50.

Family Plan Rates

Rates under the family plan will go up about 12 per cent for accompanying family members. However, Saturday will be added as a day on which reduced rate family travel can begin. Previously, trips had to begin on Mondays through Thursdays to be eligible.

No changes will be made in accommodation charges for sleeping car, slumbercoach and parlor car service, Amtrak said.

It said details of the varying rate changes will be included in a new Amtrak systemwide tariff to be published Oct. 27.

Texas Road Deaths Down 20 Per Cent

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas traffic accidents have killed 2,341 persons this year, compared with 2,927 for the same period in 1973, the Department of Public Safety reports.

Fatal accidents this year total 2,019, compared with 2,408 at this time last year.

The decrease in fatalities is 20 per cent and in fatal accidents 16 per cent.

115-Year-Old Native Texan Says She Remembers Lincoln

By ROBERT HEARD

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A week after John Brown captured Harper's Ferry to free the slaves, a black girl was born in Uvalde County. Saturday, that black girl celebrated her 115th birthday in an Austin nursing home.

"I don't remember," Mrs. Emma Hodge Jones says of her birthdate. "I remember Lincoln."

Mrs. Jones' niece, Mrs. Hattie Hodge, says the family Bible shows the birthday was in 1859. Why has she lived so long? "I tried to do the right thing," she says. "The Lord has been good to me. But I've had a lot of trials and tribulations in my life."

The family moved to Cottonwood Center, south of Austin, when she was a girl. She married but had no children. Her husband died more than 40 years ago.

Mrs. Hodge says her aunt is a professional photographer and took family portraits all over Texas.

Mrs. Jones still can walk a little but spends most of her time in a wheelchair and wears fluffy blue slippers. "I have a lot of aches and pains—corns and bunions," she says.

A photographer asked her to smile. "I ain't got no teeth to smile now."

She watches television and likes it. "But I get tired after awhile." She could not recall any other pleasures.

"Sometimes night after night I don't sleep. Sometimes I get things straight and sometimes not," she says. Worries that keep her awake, she says, include "nurses that pull off my clothes and put on dirty clothes."

Asked what she wants for her next birthday, she said: "I'm not expecting to be here. I pray the Lord to take me away and give me peace and rest."

Security Guard Charged In Bank Vault Burglary

CHICAGO (AP) — A security guard has been charged in the burglary of more than $4 million from a Chicago vault last weekend. Authorities put 300 federal and local officers to work hunting him down.

The FBI charged Ralph Marrera, 31, of Berwyn, Friday with bank larceny, bank burglary and use of explosive devices in the theft from the Armored Express Corp., an armored car firm. It was the largest cash haul by thieves in U.S. history.

The amount of cash taken was revised upward late Friday from $3.9 million to more than $4 million by Richard G. Held, special agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office.

Authorities said Marrera was the only guard on duty Sunday when thieves carted off the 800 pounds of cash in small, hard-to-trace bills.

They left $21 million behind for lack of time or manpower, police said.

Drowning Victim Found At Coleman

COLEMAN, Tex. (AP) — Searchers Friday night found the body of an 84-year-old man who apparently drowned when he attempted to leave his pickup truck after it flooded at a low water crossing south of here.

The victim was identified as B. L. Strickland. Authorities said he may have left the truck after attempting to cross a flooded stream as early as 11 a.m. Friday.

Party Fervor Still Exists At Republican Birthplace

RIPON, Wis. (AP) — Alvan Bovay was disgusted with the way things were going in Washington, so he called about 50 friends and neighbors together to discuss it one spring evening. After hearing speeches, many aimed at crooked politicians, they agreed to form a new grass roots political organization and seek support from other Midwest farmers and merchants.

They decided to call themselves the Republican party. Many things have changed in Ripon since that March 20, 1854, meeting. But some things are still the same.

The Little White Schoolhouse where Bovay and his friends met has been moved three times. It became a certified national landmark in August, so designated by the National Parks Service.

Much of the fervor sparked at that neighborhood gathering 120 years ago is still evident. Two-thirds of Ripon's voters consistently vote Republican. Seven times as many Republicans as Democrats turned out for September's state primary.

"Republicanism," as they call it in Ripon, is a way of life for the townspeople. It kept them from losing faith in the party while the nation weathered Watergate and the downfall of former President Richard M. Nixon.

"People don't talk about Watergate around here very much. Most of us thought a lot was made out of nothing," said Carl Diedrich, a spokesman for a group of local businessmen called the Republican Education Foundation.

"The people around here, partly because of the history and tradition of the Little White Schoolhouse, are fairly sophisticated politically. These things go on in politics, and it wasn't something to be alarmed about," added Ray Riordan, a lawyer who has run unsuccessfully for state legislature four times.

Several area GOP committees reported record contributions this year while Republican campaign donations were dropping in the rest of the nation.

A child's first glimpse of history is the Little White Schoolhouse, and even the closed curtain of the polling booth can't shut out tradition.

"Sometimes I think I'm going to vote for a Democrat, but when it comes down to it, I hardly ever do," said one woman. "It would be like voting against your town."

Only once, in 1964, when Lyndon Johnson scored a four-vote victory over Barry Goldwater, has Ripon gone Democrat in a national election.

The town was founded by English and German pioneer farmers who started a college and brought one of the first northern railroads through Ripon. It's much like any other rural Midwest community today.

The population has grown to 7,000 and many workers toil in the modern cookie factory and the washing machine plant.

The broad streets are shaded by century-old trees, the parks are spacious and green, and the three-block business district is jammed with small barber shops, hardware stores, boutiques and bars.

The only men wearing neckties or women wearing dresses work in the banks, insurance offices and law firms off the main street. But they slide onto stools next to grimy factory workers when they order lunch at their favorite taverns.

"It can get pretty lonely around here if you're not a Republican," said Pat Slattery, 23, who came to Ripon to edit the weekly newspaper after graduation from the University of Wisconsin.

Despite the local poise glowing descriptions of the schoolhouse as a national shrine and cornerstone of community pride, few Ripon names are on the lists of 7,000 tourists who stop each year.

"It's always been here, and people take it for granted, but I'm sure they're still quite proud of it," said Dr. George Miller, a local historian and professor at tiny Ripon College.

Open House

"We're going to have an open house and other activities this fall to get more local people involved," said Edwin Kuhn, whose duties as Chamber of Commerce secretary include serving as schoolhouse curator.

The chamber shoulders most of the $1,500 bare bones annual budget for the schoolhouse. There's a little help from private donors and the city council.

Otherwise, the only people involved with the schoolhouse are the ladies of the Garden Club who fuss with the flowers in the cornerstone of community front yard.

'Odd Couple' Steals $1.50, Fresh Pie

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Philadelphia woman told police she was threatened at knifepoint and struck over the head with a flower vase in her own apartment Friday. Adding insult to injury, the assailant took a freshly baked pie that was cooling on a dining room table.

Betty Fox, 81, said she was watching television at home when a small boy opened a kitchen window Friday, walked into the living room and grabbed a purse containing $1.50.

When Mrs. Fox followed the boy outside, she was confronted by a woman who ordered her back into the apartment.

The woman pulled out a knife, picked up a flower vase and struck Mrs. Fox on the head and then grabbed the pie as she left the apartment, Mrs. Fox said.

AWARD FOR M-SYSTEM STORE—Preston Ross, left, United Way of Midland loaned executive, presents Award of Excellence to Gene McClintick, manager of the M-System Store No. 19, and Mrs. Ira Owen, head cashier. The award is in recognition of the store's employees achieving more than 75 per cent fair share giving to the United Way fund campaign.

Shoplifting Not Seasonal, Midland Officer Warns

By JOE GORDON
Shoplifting is not just a seasonal operation as is thought by many persons, according to Sgt. Fred Johnson, crime prevention coordinator for the Midland Police Department. Johnson stressed that this would be brought out more if storeowners took inventories more than once a year. Shoplifting has shown an increase here over last year, with storeowners indicating losses that have increased from one and a half per cent of their merchandise to as high as eight per cent, according to Johnson. Food stuffs recently have been a favorite target of shoplifters. Johnson explained that this was due to the higher costs of food. Not only shoplifting but internal thefts account for much of the merchandise taken from businesses each year. In fact, Johnson says that shoplifting carries only a 12 per cent margin, over that of internal thefts.

Last year, of theft cases investigated, Johnson said, 56 per cent were shoplifting cases, while 44 per cent were internal thefts — or employees taking items from the store. Johnson said that clothing stores recently have been a favorite place for shoplifters and with the Christmas season approaching, this is expected to increase. Dressing rooms seem to be the favorite place for the theft of items from clothing stores, with the culprit usually hanging one item of clothing over another when he takes it in the dressing room.

The officer recommends that stores have clerks hang the items in the dressing room for customers. Items stolen most frequently from clothing stores include dresses, lipstick, underclothing, jewelry and shoes. Johnson said the police department offers preventive courses on shoplifting and internal theft. The shoplifting course is offered to store personnel, while the internal theft course is given to management personnel.

Johnson said that shoplifting only requires that it be proved that a person is hiding an item and that he doesn't have to leave the store with it. Many stores have allowed the shoplifters to get past the cash register or out the front door before they are stopped.

Joe Ellis Nick Sanchez

Two Promoted On YMCA Staff

Joe Ellis and Nick Sanchez, Ellis, physical director at the Central YMCA for the past two and a half years, assumed the duties of central executive Oct. 1, replacing Chris Olin, who became executive director of the San Angelo YMCA.

A graduate of Abilene High School, he received his B. S. degree from Hardin-Simmons University and Master of Education degree from Texas Tech University. Ellis, 32, has more than six years experience in the YMCA, spending three years with the Odessa YMCA as youth director and one year as a part-time program director at the Lubbock YMCA. He resides at 2703 N. L St. with his wife, Glenda, and two daughters, Sharon and Teresa. He and his family attend First Baptist Church.

Nick Sanchez is now Park Center executive director. He has three years experience with the YMCA, serving as program director of Park Center. A 1963 graduate of Midland High School, Sanchez attended Commercial College of Midland and also has had additional courses at the National Outreach Center in Chicago. He is a member of Guadalupe Catholic Church, Eastside Lions and the Jaycees. He was Jaycee of the month for April 1974. He resides at 206 E. Shandon St. with his wife, Sylvia, and children Pat, Nick III and Michelle.

ODESSA — Dr. Jon D. Swartz, chairman of psychology at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin, has been elected to membership in the Division of Community Psychology of the American Psychological Association.

Texas Heart Fund Chairman To Talk At Odessa Meet
ODESSA — Mrs. Barefoot Sanders, 1975 Texas Heart Fund chairwoman, will hold a news conference at 4:30 p.m. Thursday in the ballroom of Inn of the Golden West here.

Following the press conference, Mrs. Sanders will be the keynote speaker at the Heart Fund's regional campaign workshop, also to be held in the Inn of the Golden West. She will arrive at the Midland Regional Air Terminal at 3:30 p.m.

Cover-Up Trial Figures Scatter At Weekend

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Another long, wearying week over and the principals in the Watergate cover-up trial are spending the weekend in differing ways: a long bus ride for the jurors, work for lawyers and defendants, a return to prison for John W. Dean III.

"Get off this stand as fast as you can and get out of the courtroom before some other lawyer thinks of some other questions to ask you," U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica told Dean in jest Friday as he wound up eight grueling days of testimony. It brought a rare smile to Dean's face. He looked haggard after answering thousands of questions tonelessly and without emotion. Marshals waited to return him to the detention facility at Ft. Holabird, Md., where he is serving a one-to-four-year sentence for obstruction of justice.

To the jury, the judge said: "Have a good weekend, relax, have a good bus ride." The jurors, who are being sequestered in a motel during the trial, will be taken for an excursion and perhaps a picnic this weekend.

Unlike most others in Washington, the jurors will have to work Monday, which is Veterans Day and a legal holiday. But Sirica had few good words for the lawyers, still quarrelsome with each other and with the judge — even after repeated admonitions to cut it out.

Sirica grew testy during Dean's lengthy cross-examination by David Bress, Robert C. Mardian's lawyer, and sought to hurry him along. "Is this just to make him out another liar on a piece of evidence, is that the idea?" Sirica asked. And addressing all lawyers, he said: "I think you have done a pretty good job, all of you, that he has admitted his participation in this alleged cover-up case. He's told what he knows. It's up to the jury regardless of what he's admitted or anything, they can still believe him or disbelieve him."

But after a recess, Sirica said, "I do not want the jury to be influenced by the court." There was no way of knowing how his testimony affected the jury, but Dean seemed to be unshaken in his vivid and painstakingly detailed narrative — essentially the same story of cover-up that he told the televised Senate Watergate Committee hearings last year. He was caught in some discrepancies on dates. For instance, he told of a meeting attended by John N. Mitchell on June 23-24, 1972, but it turned out Mitchell was not in Washington those days. Dean said the meeting actually was on June 28th.

And the famed computer-like memory failed Dean on the last question. How many days had he been on the witness stand, Sirica asked. "Nine," said

Dean, who had been a witness for eight. The battles among lawyers and judge turned out to be more interesting than the testimony for the spectators who waited hours in long lines to get into the courtroom. After Dean and the jury had gone, the lawyers got in one final, raucous round over the government's failure to give them the name of the witness who will follow Monday's witness, Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr.

Chief Prosecutor James F. Nease said he didn't have the name and, in any case, the government never promised to give more than a day's notice. "I can't see why there's any objection to giving them the name of the witness," said Sirica, trying to avoid another acrid debate. "When we know precisely who the witness after Hunt will be, we'll let them know," said Nease. Again, Sirica sought a compromise. "Unless we are ordered to, no," said Nease. "When we know, we'll tell. We have to communicate."

Bress jumped in. "I want to go on the record protesting the approach of the prosecution in this case. I have endured months of waiting for material... The only reason they don't give it (the name of the witness) to us is that we might be able to prepare better for cross-examination."

Assistant prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste said the government wasn't trying to be unfair, but added "we've bent over backwards. There is no sign of reciprocity." Mitchell's lawyer, William G. Hundley, wisecracked: "If they want to ask Monday for a list of our witnesses we'll not call until Christmas time we'll give it to them." Nease shot back: "We have given them thousands of pages of transcript and they said, 'Hee-hee. Here's our testimony on the back of a matchcover.'" Sighing, Sirica started to say: "We've been getting along pretty good until this time" and laughter rocked the courtroom. "We're not trying to be evasive," Nease said, explaining that the witness could be any of three people. "Well, give us two or three," yelled H. R. Haldeman's attorney, John J. Wilson from his table in back of all the other lawyers. When Nease repeated he was not sure who it would be, Hundley told the judge, "Put him under oath."

By then the judge had risen from his chair, obviously preparing to leave. "I've got enough problems now keeping you under control," he said. The defendants in the trial, in addition to Haldeman, Mitchell and Mardian, are John D. Ehrlichman and Kenneth W. Parkins.

Milk Lobbyist Jacobsen Prosecution Halt Asked

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The Justice Department has filed a motion in the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans seeking to stop prosecution of Jake Jacobsen in a misapplication of funds case in Texas.

Hill issued the order Wednesday after refusing to dismiss charges against Jacobsen as requested by the Justice Department. The Justice Department promised Jacobsen he would not be prosecuted on charges of misapplying $825,000 of a San Angelo savings and loan association in exchange of his testimony against former Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally.

Economic Gloom Dims Gaiety Of Guests At Lavish April In Paris Social Event

NEW YORK (AP) — The view of the current state of the economy was Mrs. Laura Johnson, a New York socialite in a puffy, gold-threaded gown by Christian Dior. She pointed to a dazzling diamond necklace and asked to be quoted as saying, "Instead of watching my money go down the stock market, I prefer to see my money buy diamonds — by Bulgari — going down my décolleté."

The 23rd annual ball was held to benefit the American French Foundation Charities, including Odyssey House and Cancer Research. Organizers said the ball earned $150,000 last year.

The ball's organizers said 1,200 people would attend, but waiters serving the five-course meal estimated 900 plates.

Utility Firm Has Fishy Plans

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Edison Co., whose power usually is of the electric variety, is going in for fish power.

Edison and the Massachusetts Department of Natural Resources have started the initial stages of a $2 million project to build a salmon hatchery near the company's Pilgrim nuclear power station in Plymouth.

The hatchery would use warm water discharged from the plant to raise salmon eggs. Edison says the hatchery could raise as many as a million fish a year.

Anne Armstrong Claims Ford Program Will Work

DALLAS (AP) — The high rate of inflation can be slowed down by next year if President Ford's anti-inflationary program is adopted, presidential advisor Anne Armstrong has told a group of Texas businessmen.

Mrs. Armstrong told the convention of the Texas Seedmen's Association Friday that the 12 per cent rate of inflation can be reduced considerably with public and government efforts.

She defended the administration's efforts to "whip inflation now" saying curbs on federal spending, a surtax on higher incomes, and increased productivity and supply are needed to stimulate "an increasingly sluggish economy."

Greek Cypriot Women Protest In Silent March

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Thousands of Greek Cypriot women marched silently through the streets of Nicosia Saturday demanding United Nations support to free Cyprus from Turkish occupation.

"No more widows... We bear children to live in peace, not to be killed," said some of the hundreds of placards.

Other placards attacked the U.S. government stand on Cyprus, saying "No Kissinger solutions... NATO is responsible for our tragedy."

The demonstration was part of daily, week-long manifestations to mark the opening of the Cyprus debate before the United Nations on Monday.

No. 1 Buckeyes Roll On, 55-7

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Six consecutive, 100-plus yard rushing games set by Oklahoma's Steve Owens in 1968-69. Griffin, who scored the third play to gain a 7-7 tie late in the first quarter on Jim Pooler's seven-yard touchdown run. Griffin, who left the runway to contest midway through the third quarter, tied the record of touchdown tosses of 11 yards to Pete Johnson and a five-yard scoring flip to Ray Griffin, Archie's freshman brother, and carried nine times for 55 yards. The triumph kept Ohio State tied with Michigan for the Big Ten lead and left Northwestern third in the conference cellar with a 0-4 record and 1-6 overall record.

Michigan Too Powerful For Out-Manned Gophers

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — taking the prize for the seventh consecutive time. The Wolverines' offensive line mauled the Gophers' defense, opening massive holes for Lytle and Bell. The two, alternating in the tailback slot, combined for 202 yards rushing in the first half alone.

Michigan scored twice in the second period, fullback Chuck Heater from the one and Bell from two yards out. Quarterback Dennis Franklin, in and out with an ankle injury, threw a 22-yard touchdown pass to Jim Smith in the third period, and substitute quarterback Mark Elzinga added a 55-yard touchdown run in the final period. Both came after interceptions.

Irish Dazzle Miami, 38-7

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — made a shambles of what had been expected to be a rugged defensive battle by marching 79 yards in six plays the first time they had the ball. Clements lofted a perfect pass to tight end Pete Demmerle, who took it in stride at the 10-yard line and sped in for a 47-yard touchdown play only 2:09 into the game.

Huskers Hold Off Pokes

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska cornerbacks Ardel Johnson and Jim Burrow made key defensive plays in the final three minutes to halt Oklahoma State drives and preserve a 7-3 victory for the ninth-ranked Cornhuskers in a Big Eight Conference football game Saturday.

With Nebraska holding a 7-3 lead, Johnson recovered Cowboy quarterback Charlie Weatherly's fumble on the one-yard line with 3:22 showing on the clock to stop an Oklahoma State drive that had covered 79 yards in 10 plays.

Edison Nips Crockett, 6-0

Alvin Price scored on a short run Saturday afternoon to give the Edison Wildcats of Midland a hard-fought 6-0 victory over the Odessa Crockett in Odessa in a ninth grade football game.

In other action, Odessa Hood's Highlanders remain undefeated in seven games with a 28-7 victory over Odessa Nimitz Thursday night at Odessa Permian while Odessa Bowie nudged Austin Orange Saturday morning, 8-6.

Bulldogs Second In Cross-Country

ABILENE — The Midland Bulldog cross-country team finished second to Odessa Permian Saturday with Midland Christian College Invitational meet.

In junior varsity, Permian and Midland finished one-two. Permian scored 39 points while MHS was second with 120 points. Lee scored 185 for its seventh. Other teams in varsity competition included Caprock of Amarillo, Brownwood, Amarillo High, Abilene Cooper, Palo Duro, Abilene, San Angelo and Tascosa of Amarillo.

Trojans' Davis Enjoys Field Day In 31-10 Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — And it broke the record of 40 ahead 17-10 early in the third quarter and Davis romped 11 yards through left tackle for a game-clinching 24-10 lead.

McCoy Released

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association announced Friday they had cut forward Gil McCoy, trimming their roster to 12 players.

OLD TIMER?—Torben Ulrich, 45, returns shot with a ballet flourish Saturday on the way to today's Grand Masters Tennis Tour finals at the Racquet Club. The GMT "Guru" meets Frank Sedgman in the rubber match of their 1974 rivalry. Each has won four titles.

AS UTAH STATE RALLIES— Buffs Tumble, 21-16

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — Running back Louie Giammona scored on a nine-yard run with 1:34 remaining Saturday to hand Utah State University a 21-16 come-from-behind non-conference college football victory over West Texas State.

Trailing 16-7 with seven minutes left, fullback Jerry Cox capped an 80-yard, 11-play drive with a plunge from the three-yard line, paving the way for Giammona's game-winning score.

Sam Houston Suffers First League Defeat

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — scored a touchdown apiece as Fullback Kevin Jurgajtis and halfback Alvyod Davis combined for 282 yards rushing and Blanchard's pass on the Utah State 25 with 40 seconds left. It was the fourth time this season Utah State came from behind late in the game to triumph. Utah State has a 5-1 season mark, while West Texas is 4-3.

ACC Rips Sul Ross

ALPINE, Tex. (AP) — Quarterback David Haynes passed for two touchdowns here Saturday to lead the Abilene Christian Wildcats to a 21-9 Lone Star Conference victory over Sul Ross.

Jurgajtis carried 22 times for 162 yards. He set up his own one-yard TD run in the second quarter with a 55-yard dash.

Greenwood Wins

FLUVANNA — The Greenwood Rangers raised their season basketball record to 2-0 here Friday night with an impressive 70-42 victory over Fluvanna.

McGregor Released

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association announced Friday they had cut forward Gil McGregor, trimming their roster to 12 players.

Davis highlighted a 12-yard rushing day on 20 carries with a 13-yard scoring run in the third quarter. Quarterback Gary Franks had opened SWT's scoring with an 18-yard TD in the first period.

James Oliphant ran one-yard in the final quarter for the only touchdown by Sam Houston, which fell to 4-1 in LSC play and 4-3 for the year. SWT is now 3-2 and 3-3.

Rebels Strike Late To Dispose Of Stubborn Steers, 27-7

By TED BATTLES
R-T Sports Editor

Rebs Head For Permian Showdown

The four and Jones burst over right tackle for the score on first down with 8:02 left in the half.

The Steers faced a fourth and three at their 20 and Robison, one of former Big Spring greats, went back to set up a punt. Lee put on a token rush and quickly peeled back to set up another wall. Only this time Robison didn't punt. He rambled 28 yards to the 48.

Then with third and 10, Moore hit tailback Danny Ferrell in the left flat with a screen pass. Ferrell, with the niftiest piece of broken field running these eyes have seen this year, galloped 32 yards for the touchdown and James Coffey converted with 35 seconds left in the half.

The Steers took the second half kickoff and appeared to be developing into an ho-hum victory. Lee won 27-7, but it was a game that easily could have been lost and it wasn't until two final period touchdowns that Lee could glance back over his shoulder with any assurance that it wouldn't be caught.

The win boosts Lee's record to 6-1 for the season and 3-1 in District 5-AA, leaving the Rebels alone in hot pursuit of Permian's 4-0 Panthers.

With Midland and San Angelo tied for third at 2-1-1 and three weeks to play, the race is fraught with possibilities, but right now it's Lee and Permian, one-on-one.

Unexpected Route

Lee's victory Friday night didn't come exactly the way it had been expected, that is, by controlling the ball for long, time-consuming marches against a Steer defense that proved porous to the run in previous district games.

Lee cashed in on two pass interceptions and a 60-yard Blain Murray punt return for three of its scores and didn't mount a successful scoring drive until the final TD of the night, a plodding 14-play, 61-yard hike that finally saw tailback Clyde Gary plow over right tackle from the one with 3:01 left in the game.

Big Spring got maximum mileage out of its lone score which closed a 13-0 gap to 13-7 just before the half. The turning point came after both elevens had squandered third period opportunities and Big Spring was in the process of mounting another threat.

Moore Sharp

The Steers' Mark Moore, who enjoyed his most productive night of the season with 13 of 27 completions for 211 yards, had Big Spring on the move again with a drive that carried from the Steer 19 to third and seven on the Big Spring 47.

Bobby Humble rushed and hit Moore just as he threw and the ball was woefully short as Rusty Laughlin picked it off and raced 50 yards to the Steer four as the third period ended.

Quarterback Greg Rendall broke over left tackle for the final six yards behind blocks by center Roger Linton and guard David Sledge to finally open some daylight between the teams. Milton Jones, who missed after the second TD, teed his second of three conversions to make it 20-7.

Lee Scores

Lee's first TD came after the Steers had driven some 30 yards to midfield by exploiting the screen pass to the flat, but Robert Johnson came up with a big interception and returned it 29 yards to the Steer 31.

It took just three plays with fullback Mike Oliphant booming through a yawning abyss at left guard to score from the 12 after Murray set up on a reverse for 14 and a tackle slant for five. Jones kick made it 7-0 with 3:05 left in the first period.

Murray, who gained 116 yards in 15 carries for Lee, returned a 43-yard punt 60 yards behind a wall of white before punter Doug Robison tackled him at the Steer 12.

McCamey Destroys Cranes Hopes, 42-7

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
R-T Sports Writer

CRANE — McCamey's rabid band of Badgers put a 42-7 death bite on the Crane Golden Cranes here Friday night in an important District 7-AA engagement as the Birds fell from serious title contention and the Badgers got the mark of the team to beat.

It was the fourth victory in a row for Coach Joe Neill's Badgers and gives McCamey a 5-2 season mark and a 1-0 district reading while Coach Joe Boyd's Cranes fell to a 3-5 season mark and 0-2 in loop play.

McCamey was simply relentless in gaining its opening loop win with 393 yards rushing and another 109 in the airways, including five touchdowns that were downright spectacular. The Badger offensive armada almost scored at will after a mistake riddled first quarter, and it had the effect of dousing the homecoming fires of the Golden Birds.

Stephens Productive

It's hard to pinpoint any individual that highlighted the McCamey attack, but you can start with fullback Rick Stephens, who rushed for 129 yards, scored two touchdowns (one of which was a 32-yard interception return and the other a 51-yard burst up the Crane middle), and kicked four extra points.

As spectacular as that effort was, quarterback Perry Graves didn't do too badly either. Graves rushed for 124 yards, scored a two-point conversion, and tossed a 90-yard scoring strike to split-end Leland Bolen. Graves also had a 59-yard touchdown called back on a needless clipping penalty.

96-Yard KO Return

Halfback Clifton Pettis rushed for 62 yards and scored on a 96-yard kickoff return while fleet-footed Ruben Acosta rushed for 38 yards and a pair of touchdowns. David Myrick, a reserve fullback, carried for 40 yards in only three carries.

And the 'McCamey defense was just as effective with end Sammy Gutierrez, Stephens and

Stanton Hopes Suffer Setback

SEAGRAVES—The Seagraves Eagles put together an 80-yard scoring drive late in the fourth period here Friday to capture a 30-22 District 5-A victory over the Stanton Buffaloes.

With the score 22-22, the Eagles capped the 80-yard drive with Joe Stanley scoring from one-yard out and then running for a two-point conversion.

The game was billed as the championship battle of District 5-A and the Eagles now own a 7-1 season mark and a 2-0 district reading with only two district games left. Stanton was placed in a survival role with a 4-3 and 0-1 record.

The hard-nosed squads swapped first period touchdowns with Seagraves scoring on an 80-yard run by Gary Crutcher and Stanton getting in lights on a four-yard touchdown by Elvin Brown. The Eagles appeared to put the game away with 16 points in the second quarter on Robert Tamez' 12-yard run and Crutcher again damaging the Stanton defense with a 28-yard scoring jaunt. The Eagles also converted on both two-point plays.

Stanton, however, challenged again in the third period with

Lamesa Bows To Cubs

BROWNFIELD — Lamesa's luckless Golden Tornado lost their fourth straight District 3-AAA contest here Friday night as the Brownfield Cubs produced a two-point conversion in the third period to capture a narrow 8-7 victory.

Lamesa is now 3-5 on the year and 0-4 in district play while Brownfield is 2-4-1 and a 1-1-1.

The Tornadoes scored with a little over a minute left in the first half when Anthony Manuel plunged over from three yards out and Mike Moore converted.

That 7-0 cushion disappeared in the final quarter when Brownfield quarterback Scott

Possibility Of Coal Strike Is Prompting Appalachia Activity

By STRAT DOUTHAT
NORTHFORK, W.Va. (AP) — Autumn is a season of blazing beauty in the southern West Virginia coalfields, an isolated, sparsely populated land of high, steep hills and narrow, winding valleys.

But here in Appalachia, fall is also a time of preparation. The hills and valleys abound with activity. People are putting up pumpkins, winterizing their homes, gathering coal and firewood.

These are the preparations of every October. This time around, however, there is an added impetus, provided as much by a date on the calendar as by the cool nights and changing leaves.

Taking No Chances
Really cold weather doesn't set in until December, but the contractual agreement between the Bituminous Coal Operators Association and the United Mine Workers of America expires Nov. 12.

Folks around here aren't taking any chances. The coalfields are preparing for a long strike at the end of their three-year contract.

No Sick Pay
The current contract doesn't provide for sick pay, and the miners want it. They want pension benefits raised from $150 to $500 a month, entirely at company expense. This would increase employer contributions from 80 cents a ton of coal to $2.25.

The union also wants "substantial" pay raises above the present $43 to $50 a day now paid to the 120,000 unionized soft coal miners. Fifty thousand of them live and work in West Virginia.

Wants Control
Perhaps the most controversial issue — one involving control of the mines — is the union's proposal that it decide whether a mine is safe to enter. Under the present contract, the company decides about mine safety. If the union doesn't like a company's decision, federal arbitrators are called in.

Leaders of the Coal Operators Association, negotiating with the UMW in Washington, said they have responded favorably to some union proposals, but "cannot turn the management of the mines over to the union."

Nowhere are the strike preparations more evident than in the hundreds of tiny communities strewn across the sprawling bituminous coal seams of southeastern Virginia, eastern Kentucky and southern West Virginia.

Northfork is typical of many of these tiny towns. The energy shortage and the demand for coal brought prosperity in recent months, but the strike threat has been a setback.

Two new stores opened this year, the first new ones in ages, to serve Northfork's 700 residents and 3,500 to 4,000 people in the surrounding hollows and coal camps.

At nearby Kyle, Postmistress Ruby Dalton, who also operates a small grocery, said: "The bread man told me business was bad and I know I used to sell 12 to 15 cases of pop a week and now I'm lucky to sell three. Also, people are buying up coal and hauling away scraps from the sawmill by the truckload. They're getting ready."

And over in Pineville, 50 miles to the west, a miner's wife who works as a legal secretary said business was terrible and everybody, herself included, was preparing for a strike.

'Beans, Beans, More Beans'
"Everybody's complaining how bad things are," she said. "In fact, that's usually the first thing they talk about when you walk into a store — how bad things are now and how they are going to get worse."

"I canned a lot of beans and we're storing up things like sugar and Crisco. A lot of miners we know are eating out of their gardens and laying their grocery money aside. Of course, it was a bad year for everything except beans and that means it's going to be beans, beans and more beans."

Holding The Hammer
"You know," she added after a brief pause, "I don't know what people will do that have big families and the wife doesn't have a job. I went back to work in July and it has really helped us."

There are 33,000 active miners in southern West Virginia's UMW Districts 29 and 17. For the first time in years they believe they are going into contract talks holding the hammer.

The price of coal has more than tripled in the past 15 months. Demand has exceeded supply since the oil crisis last fall, and the industry has a history of strikes. The last two contracts were preceded by shutdowns. The strike lasted 45 days in 1971.

Joel Price, a Wall Street analyst with Dean, Witter and Co., told a recent gathering of southeastern Kentucky businessmen and bankers there will be a strike of at least a month's duration.

Old Statute Allows Outlaw Designation

By ROBERT H. REID
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Recalling the days of posses and vigilantes, North Carolina maintains a statute which in effect deputizes the citizenry and allows officers to shoot designated felons on sight.

The statute, enacted in 1866, empowers judges to declare felony fugitives outlaws. Once a person has been declared an outlaw, he is subject to arrest by any citizen. If the outlaw refuses an arrest warning, any citizen "may slay him without accusation or impeachment of any crime."

State officials say they cannot determine how many persons have been declared outlaws in modern times, although the statute has been used against four men in the last six months.

There is no record of a modern outlaw ever being shot by a citizen, officials say.

In one of the latest instances, a 19-year-old youth facing 66 years imprisonment for various robbery convictions was declared an outlaw after he escaped from a Fayetteville jail.

Law officers who have sought outlaw status for felons say they do not expect private citizens to go after criminals like posses of old.

"It's not a hunting license," said Burley Mitchell, district attorney of Wake County. "If a felon flees, law enforcement officers cannot shoot him unless the officer determines he's in immediate danger. Now if he becomes an outlaw, the law enforcement officers or any private citizen can shoot him. What it really does is deputizes the citizenry and gives law enforcement officers more authority."

The statute does not empower officers or private citizens to lie in ambush for an outlaw. In a turn-of-the-century decision, the North Carolina Supreme Court determined that outlaws must be "called upon and warned to surrender before they are allowed to be slain."

The statute itself gives wide latitude to judges in labeling felons as outlaws. Any judge of the state Supreme Court, Superior Court "or any criminal court," or any two justices of the peace, need only "to receive information that a felony has been committed, and that such a person flees from justice" to make an outlaw declaration.

A felony suspect may be declared an outlaw before he has actually been convicted, provided a judge deems that his guilt or potential danger appear convincing. Last April two prisoners who escaped from a Rockingham County jail while awaiting trial for murder were declared outlaws.

Mitchell, who has recently asked a judge to declare a 22-year-old man an outlaw, said he took the action to scare the fugitive into surrendering. The Wake County sheriff's department quoted the young man, who was charged with rape and armed robbery, as saying he would never be captured alive. A few hours after being declared an outlaw, he meekly turned himself in to authorities.

Houston Grand Opera Season Opener Not Quite As Grand As Expected

By ROGER SOUTHAFF
Reporter-Telegram Staff

HOUSTON — The Houston Grand Opera's new season—a season marking its 20th anniversary year—has opened somewhat less grandly than expected.

Be assured, the season-opening "Manon" here earlier this month was an entirely serviceable production—worthy of respect for what it was—but somehow, to launch such a momentous season as this, one might have hoped for more of a blockbuster. I can't help but look back on the HGO production of Verdi's "Macbeth" which opened the 19th season in fine style last October, to find the current season's "Manon" disappointingly lacking by comparison.

Tremendous Progress Made
Certainly, the Houston Grand Opera has cause for celebration in this anniversary year. From very humble beginnings, the HGO has made tremendous strides in 19 years to the point where it now stands fifth among the seven major opera companies in America—behind the Metropolitan, New York City, Chicago Lyric and San Francisco operas, but ahead of the Seattle and Santa Fe operas. (Placement on this list is determined by annual budget, number of productions staged and number of performances given.)

And, just as certainly, Houston Grand Opera's current season promises to be abundantly grand in coming months, offering as it does productions (several of them brand-new) of such lustrous masterworks as Verdi's "Il Trovatore," Puccini's "La Boheme," Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier" and Alban Berg's "Lulu," plus the acknowledged blockbuster of the season, Donizetti's "Lucrezia Borgia," which will star Joan Sutherland—the operatic world's "La Stupenda" herself—in the title role.

The HGO undoubtedly had its reasons for initiating this milestone season with "Manon" and but it beats me what they were. It did not thrill me overmuch and if I didn't already know that the HGO is capable of achieving far greater things artistically, "Manon" would not dispose me to make a long return trip to Houston to attend any other operatic offering there.

The faults of "Manon" seldom lay in the singing, or in the orchestral accompaniment, or even in the staging. No, the trouble lay more with the opera itself which tends to tediousness, with its rather stale story and not-very-exciting music, and with the sets which were disappointingly static and stereotyped.

Massenet's five-act opera is in the form of opera-comique (opéra itself which tends to tediousness, with its rather stale story and not-very-exciting music, and with the sets which were disappointingly static and stereotyped.)

The principals in the Houston production sang with conviction and almost always with great skill. Soprano Catherine Malifitano, whom Permian Basin opera fans may recall in her appearances with the Santa Fe Opera several seasons ago, was entirely creditable as Manon Lescaut. Miss Malifitano is a strikingly beautiful young artist—and a good actress as well—and she brought freshness and zest to the role of the free-spirited, tragic young heroine.

Splendid Vocal Performance
Lyric tenor Stuart Burrows gave a splendid vocal performance as Des Grieux, and physically he was commanding in his stage presence. Burrows and Miss Malifitano worked extremely well together (although her vocal artistry has not quite the maturity to match his) and several of their duets were high points of the performance.

A third principal, Brent Ellis (also familiar to Southwesterners because of his numerous appearances at Santa Fe) was in the role of Lescaut, cousin to Manon. Ellis is a fine singer and a good actor and he gave his HGO assignment the creditable, controlled kind of performance that he can be counted on to provide.

Lesser stage roles were handled, to greater or lesser degrees of fluency and expertise, by Harry Dworchak, James Atherton, David Rae Smith and Graham Clark. Martha Williford, Barrie Smith and Elizabeth Ott were visually and vocally appealing as three bright-plumaged actresses, Javotte, Pousette and Rosette. Houston Grand Opera's new season will continue with Verdi's "Il Trovatore," opening Nov. 19 and having additional performances through Nov. 24. Martina Arroyo, Kostas Paskalis and Lili Chookasian will star in the production.

'Faculty's Folly' Madness Coming Up

It's almost time for Trinity School's annual Halloween madness!

What madness? Why, the "Faculty's Folly," that's what! For the second year, faculty members at Trinity will lose their inhibitions, don their stage makeup and bring forth a stirring melodrama. The first "Folly" last year played to packed houses and Trinity's faculty, a sterling crew of these plans, is determined to repeat its triumph this year.

The current opus, titled "Blazing Gradebooks," is from the pens of faculty members Bill Coombes and Jack Hickman. Liz Pennebaker is directing the production, as she did last year's "Folly." Faculty and staff at Trinity will fill all roles in the melodrama.

The "Faculty's Folly" will be a highlight of the annual Halloween festival at Trinity School.

The melodrama will have two dinner theater presentations in the St. Francis Commons of the school. The first performance will begin at 6 p.m. Thursday, and the second at 7:30 p.m. Reservations are necessary and should be made no later than Monday afternoon by telephoning the Trinity School office, 694-6681.

Musical Tryouts Slated

In case you hadn't heard, Midland Community Theatre's 1975 musical will be a Golden Oldie, "Anything Goes."

And also just in case you hadn't heard, tryouts for the musical will begin a week from today.

The first tryout session will be at 2 p.m. next Sunday at Theatre Centre, followed by additional sessions at 8 p.m. Nov. 4 and 6.

"Anything Goes," a rollicking musical of the 1930s, has music by famed Cole Porter. Some of the best-known songs from the show include "I Get a Kick Out of You," "Blow, Gabriel, Blow," "You're the Top," and "All Through the Night."

The musical is set aboard an ocean liner. It was Ethel Merman's first big show as a Broadway star.

Additional information on the musical and the upcoming tryouts is available from the Theatre Centre office, 682-2544.

Replacement Named For Sills

DALLAS — Acclaimed European soprano Leyla Gencer has been selected to replace American operatic superstar Beverly Sills in the Dallas Civic Opera's "Lucrezia Borgia," which opens the DCO's 18th season Friday night.

Miss Sills underwent surgery in New York Thursday for a possible malignancy.

Miss Gencer is no stranger to Dallas, having appeared in a Dallas Civic Opera production of "Madame Butterfly" several seasons ago.

Miss Gencer, a native of Turkey, is noted for her portrayal of the title role of Donizetti's "Lucrezia Borgia" in numerous leading opera houses of Europe. The Rome Opera and Naples' San Carlo Opera both created new productions of this work for the soprano. She made her New York debut last year in Carnegie Hall in a concert version of Verdi's "Attila," and her performances at Moscow's Bolshoi Theatre in "La Traviata," "Aida" and "Butterfly" drew rave reviews. She also recently sang the title role in Donizetti's "Anna Bolena" at England's Glyndebourne Festival Opera, in a new production mounted specially for her.

"The Dallas Civic Opera company and the entire cast of "Lucrezia Borgia" are saddened by the sudden illness of Miss Sills," stated Nicola Rescigno, DCO's artistic director and conductor, and acting manager Diana Clark. "We wish her a rapid recovery, and look forward to her return to Dallas Civic Opera in future seasons. However, we have full confidence that Leyla Gencer will give us exciting performances in this role for which she is acclaimed, and we are deeply indebted to her for consenting to perform on such short notice."

"Lucrezia Borgia" is also scheduled for presentation Nov. 3, 6 and 8. Puccini's "Tosca" will be performed here Nov. 15, 17 and 19, starring the legendary Magda Olivero, to be followed by the DCO debut of the great American soprano, Marilyn Horne, in Thomas' "Mignon," on Nov. 27 and 29. Bellini's "I Puritani" will complete the season Dec. 5, 8 and 10, starring famed lyric tenor Alfredo Kraus and presenting the acclaimed young Italian soprano Elena Numziata in her American operatic debut.

Organist-Harpsichordist Plays Fine Recital Here

Michael Chibbett of Edinburgh, Scotland displayed both musical erudition and performing skill impressive in one so young when he played an organ-harpsichord recital here Thursday night.

The recitalist, on his first concert tour of the United States, will play programs on the campuses of Texas Tech University at Lubbock and Southern Methodist University, Dallas, as well as one in Albuquerque, N.M., before returning home next month. In recent days, he has played in Baltimore, St. Louis and elsewhere.

Chibbett's offerings for organ seemed strongest, most positive in his program here. It may be that the young man was rejoicing in the opportunity for creative performance afforded by the fine and extremely versatile organ (one of the best, undoubtedly, in this part of the country) in the First United Methodist Church sanctuary. Whatever, he provided a fine reading of two chorale preludes and the Passacaglia and Fugue in C minor that left little doubt as to his affinity for the keyboard works of J.S. Bach. In a lighter vein, he offered Three Pieces for Mechanical Organ in a Clock by Joseph Haydn and a well thought-out Fantasia by W. A. Mozart.

The single manual instrument on which Chibbett played the harpsichord segment of his program was less suited for solo recital work than it is for continuo work and presented the recitalist with limitations for registration and ornamentation. Nevertheless, Chibbett demonstrated a deft harpsichord technique (he is, after all, a former student of the noted Gustav Leonhardt, so one would not expect less) and provided some fine Baroque musical sounds. Harpsichord works included those by Thomas Morley, Jan Sweelinck, Johann Jakob Froberger and J. S. Bach. His recital was sponsored by First Methodist Church.

'Edenton Tea Party' Repeat Set Today

ODESSA — A second performance of "The Edenton Tea Party" will be presented at 2 p.m. today in Odessa's Globe of the Great Southwest.

The original play commemorates the historic boycott by a group of women in Edenton, N.C., in October, 1774, who pledged not to purchase English tea or other British goods. The play is presented by Odessa's 12 chapters of Beta Sigma Phi sorority as a Bicentennial event in the Permian Basin.

Tickets for today's performance, priced at $2 for adults and $1 for children under age 12, will be available at the Globe box office in advance of performance time. The Globe Theatre is at 2308 Shakespeare Road, on the south edge of the Odessa College campus.

KEPT SECRET FROM WIFE — Actor Rex Harrison says he kept secret for two years the fact that his third wife, Kay Kendall, was dying of leukemia. In his autobiography published Friday in London, Harrison says doctors warned him that his wife must not know of her illness. She died in 1959 at the age of 28. (AP Wirephoto.)

Bonham School Papers Prove 'Populer'—Like Short Hair

By LUANNA CROW
 "Short hair is becoming popular," reads the society section article, "but if you have long hair, pigtales and pony tails are very good looking."
 "You can pull your hair back and fluff it up. Buns are good looking with any kind of hair. Side tales are good too."
 The article is lifted straight from the Bonham News Flash, one of two fourth grade newspapers supervised by teacher Terry Jimenez at Bonham Elementary School. The first issues of the Flash and the Bonham News and Sports went to press last week.

 The papers offer a selection of news items, comics, society, want ads and features. The students do all the work, from gathering the news and writing to typing and assisting in mimeographing the publications.
 Jimenez said he did not correct his students' errors and intends for the youngsters to find those for themselves. Among the items included in the first editions was this offering in the News and Sports:

 "If you have younger brothers or sisters tell you mom to put them in kindergarten. Its a great place for five year olds to learn great stuff."
 The newspaper project was begun to help the students with punctuation, capitalization and grammar. Before beginning production, the students studied The Reporter-Telegram, a section at a time. The Bonham papers, modeled roughly after the R-T, consequently include items ranging from weddings to features. Even want ads are printed, requesting such items as a male Pekinese, puzzles, games and buffalo nickels.

 Perhaps it was an exasperated teacher who entered the want ad that reads, "WANTED: HARD working students. Room 110."

The students take want ads from 8:15 to 8:30 a.m. in room 206 from other students, teachers or interested members of the community. No fee is charged.
 The lost and found section in the News and Sports features four items — all coats — somehow mislaid by Bonham students. One of the lost items is described thus: "An all colored poncho with black trim on the end."
 Another lost item is: "Blue jeans jacket the buttons say lee riders."
 In the news section of the News Flash, the R-T had front page billing:

"FLASH BULLETIN, real reporter coming to Bonham. Her name is Louana, shes coming to 206 to help with the school paper. She's not even here yet by shes already made headlines."
 "Shes from the Midland Reporter-Telegram... Things like this make good reading so read the Bonham News Flash."
 Another news item, this one from the News and Sports, reads: "The JR. league says

PRESSES ROLLIN'—Typist Larry Whiteside, left, and want ad man Craig Holland, center, assist their teacher, Terry Jimenez, in mimeographing the first copies of the Bonham Elementary School News Flash and the News and Sports. Jimenez believes they are the first elementary newspapers ever published in Midland.

BUDDING CARTOONISTS—Fourth graders Tracy Murphee and Tammy Huddleston are the artists of this comic strip taken from the Bonham (Elementary School) News and Sports, one of the school's two fledgling newspapers.

'LOST: Blue jeans jacket the buttons say lee riders.'

thank you for coming to see the play. And you were all nice and polite."
 The two papers originate in two different fourth grade sections taught by Jimenez and the combined staffs total over 50 students. Begun as a social studies and language arts project, the newspapers' publication has brought enthusiastic response from parents who have loaned typewriters, tables and staplers to the class for the production process.
 The classes devote about an hour a day to the newspaper, which will be published monthly and is sold for a penny a page. This makes the News Flash a five-cent commodity and the News and Sports a four-cent item.
 Cynthia Besek and Ella Ernst are co-editors for the News Flash, with Terri Rogers and Bryan Patterson at the helm of the News and Sports.

Henderson Man Dies In Crash Near Longview
 LONGVIEW, Tex. (AP) — Wesley Glen Ridges, 57, of Henderson was killed shortly after midnight Saturday when his car crashed head-on with another vehicle on Texas 322 12 miles south of here.
 Hospitalized with injuries suffered in the accident was Dan Cook, 37, of Longview.

"Inside was old furniture and cob webs. The stairs squawked, someone was coming, everyone hid. It was our Moms. Its a Halloween party."

Texas Lawmaker Cited For Service To Parks
 DENVER (AP) — The National Recreation and Park Association Friday named U.S. Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., to receive its National Congressional Award for distinguished service to the cause of parks, recreation and conservation.
 Eckhardt was cited for his fight against highway encroachment on a major city park in Texas and his legislation authorizing the Big Thicket National Preserve.
 Also receiving a National Congressional Award was the late Congressman John P. Saylor, R-Pa. The award was accepted by his widow, Mrs. Grace Saylor of Johnstown, Pa.
 The Distinguished Community Service Award went to Mrs. George R. Cannon, president of The Park People in Denver. The National Voluntary Service Award was given to Mrs. Howard A. Frame of Atherton, Calif., and the Na-

Pope Issues Toughest Censure Yet To World Meet Of Bishops

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI Saturday issued his toughest censure yet to a world assembly of Roman Catholic bishops, telling them he could not accept all they have said in their month-long debate on ways to deal with the church's problems.
 Describing himself as an "overseer" in an address at the closing session of the 4th World Synod of Bishops, the pontiff said:
 "We praise the spontaneity and the sincerity that has been shown, yet not all the elements are to be retained."
 "We could not allow false directions to be followed. We would be negligent in this fundamental obligation of ours to confirm our brethren."
 Pope Paul, whose reproof was unexpected, made no public

Gihls' Selections Great

As indicated by the photograph, Gihls Realty and Management has some of the finest selections in offices. Gihls can offer anything from single offices to two and three room suites. Not only does Gihls offer a selection in offices, but Gihls have six different buildings in which to work. Gihls would also like to recognize two of its key personnel, Russ Miller, Chief Engineer, and Rudy Garcia, who is in charge of cleaning crews. Both of these men have done an excellent job and have pledged to continue to be of service to all of Gihls tenants. If GRM can be of service to you with regards to office space, please call 682-2033 or visit at 1400 Gihls Tower West.

Discoveries—
 (Continued From Page 1D) a national average of slightly less than 120 barrels. Some wells are flowing 8,000 to 12,000 barrels a day in the northern part of the trend. Pemex has mapped two more structural trends parallel to the producing fields. Fourteen new wildcat locations have been chosen, most of them east and west of the producing trend. Reforma production will be feeding most refineries in Mexico within two or three years. Gas produced with the oil is expected to reinforce the government company's position as a producer of raw material for manufacture of petrochemicals.

Hobbs SPE Hosts Technical Meeting
 HOBBS, N.M. — The Hobbs Section of Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME will hold a Petroleum Technology Symposium Nov. 7 and 8 at the Holiday Inn here. Papers to be presented were included in the program at the annual SPE meeting held in Houston early this month. Subjects to be covered include waterflood, operations and reservoir. The area meeting will afford an opportunity for engineers and operators who were unable to attend the Houston SPE meeting to hear some of the papers on new technology in those fields.

Dairy Co-Ops Donate $90,105 To Candidates, Panels Since Sept. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — The three big dairy co-operatives, which had trouble giving their political money away earlier this year, have donated $90,105 to candidates and political committees since Sept. 1.

During that time a dozen candidates returned dairy donations, and others sent word they would not accept money if offered.

Ky., who got $10,250 from the trust run by Dairymen Inc. of Louisville, Ky. Cook got $5,000 from the co-op earlier in the year, for a total of $15,250.

Other large gifts since Sept. 1: —$5,000 to Rep. Frank E. Denholm, D-S.D., a member of the Agriculture Committee, from the trust run by Mid-America Dairymen.

—$4,000 to Rep. Bob Price, R-Texas, a member of the Agriculture Committee, from AMPI.

—$5,000 from AMPI for Richard L. Franks of Springfield, Mo., Democratic candidate for Congress. Franks also received $1,000 from Mid-Am., for a total of $6,000.

So far this year the co-ops have taken in far more money—$890,164 in small donations from their members—than they have donated for political purposes. For the most part the money is deducted automatically from their milk checks.

Energy Production Makes Montana Rancher Stranger In His Hometown

By PAUL RECER
COLSTRIP, Mont. (AP) — Rancher Wally McRae calls Colstrip his hometown, but he's a stranger here now. The production of energy has made this lonesome corner of "the boom-be-Big Sky Country" an industrial outpost.

The character of Montana, Wyoming and North Dakota, where the coal treasure is buried just below the prairie, has changed for the 1.6 million people who lived here three years ago, when the boom began.

There are hundreds of Wally McRaes in Montana and Wyoming where the incipient Great Plains coal boom has had its greatest impact so far. They are banding together in associations to protect this land.

Savage is helping build the Jim Bridger electric power plant, an $800 million, 2,000-megawatt complex that will burn Wyoming coal, enough for a city of half-a-million, like Seattle. To reach the plant, he must commute 80 miles a day.

Boomers in Colstrip feel even more isolated. The nearest doctor or supermarket or department store or movie is 40 miles away. Children often play on a gravel-topped road, dodging 10-ton trucks.

"You have to draw on inner resources to endure here," said Mrs. Clarence McMurtrey, the 29-year-old wife of a pipefitter from California. Her husband is helping build the Colstrip Power Plant. They live in a 22-foot motor home with their three children.

FBI Seeks Extortionists

DALLAS (AP) — FBI J. D. Brown said a third member of the team apparently was waiting for the money and escaped unseen before Brookins returned to the store.

The couple gained entry into the Brookins home posing as representatives of the Dallas Independent School District.

The gunman called Brookins and instructed him where to leave the money, the police said. Mrs. Brookins was allowed to talk on the phone to prove she was being held.

Coal production in Montana, Wyoming and North Dakota was under 20 million tons in 1972 and it jumped to 40 million in 1973, almost all of it so far in Wyoming and Montana.

Environmental concern and the energy shortage changed the picture. Montana, Wyoming and North Dakota have 23 billion tons of low-sulphur coal. It can be burned so cleanly that utility companies using it can easily meet clean air standards effective next July.

There's enough of the low-sulphur fuel in the three states to generate all the nation's current electricity consumption for 30 years. And strip mining is so easy the coal can be shipped 1,000 miles and still be cheaper than deep-mined Eastern coal, whose cost is rising.

LEADER OF THE PACK — Ruth J. Wong, 51, says she will do "anything I can to stay" as cubmaster of Pack No. 2 at Taylor Road School in Cleveland Heights, Ohio. arms behind her, she said. The Brookins children Diana, 9, David, 3, and a nephew, Greg Haywood, 4, were sent to a back room.

The gunman called Brookins and instructed him where to leave the money, the police said. Mrs. Brookins was allowed to talk on the phone to prove she was being held.

Police said the family was not mistreated although Mrs. Brookins was left bound and gagged.

New Satellite Could Be Used To Measure Earth Resources

By HOWARD BENEDICT
WASHINGTON (AP) — Geologist R. B. Parker spent weeks backpacking and mulepacking in Wyoming's rugged Wind River Mountains to map linear faults and fractures, the potential sites of hidden mineral deposits.

During a five-year period, he mapped little more than 10 percent of the region. Then, one afternoon, he received a single picture of the entire range, snapped from America's Earth Resources Technology Satellite — ERTS. In just three hours, sitting at his desk at the University of Wyoming, he completed the job, charting scores of linear features.

Potential sources of minerals, oil, gas and geothermal energy have been located in many western states and in South Africa, Brazil, Mexico, Iran and other nations.

Demo Congress Likely To Have Mixed Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nov. 5 election is likely to confront President Ford with the most heavily Democratic Congress in a decade, primed to push for more programs at home and fewer abroad than the President will want.

But some Democrats already fear that weak Democratic leadership, especially in the House, could produce a mixed legislative record that would leave the party vulnerable in the 1976 presidential campaign.

With 10 days to go before the election, an Associated Press survey shows the likelihood of substantial Democratic gains has increased. The Democrats could pick up five or more GOP Senate seats and from 30 to 50 in the House.

The Democrats currently control the Senate 58 to 42, and the House 248 to 187.

Even if Republicans hold Democratic gains to their 20-25 target, the new House will have more Democrats than any since 205 were elected in the late Lyndon B. Johnson's 1964 landslide.

Many of the likely Democratic victors are younger and more liberal than the Republicans who are either retiring or facing defeat.

In the Senate, Democratic strength seems likely to go above 60 for the first time since the 1967-69 period. But it will take a far bigger sweep than now seems likely to reach the 1964 total of 68.

Even if the Democratic majorities near the two-thirds level that is needed to override a presidential veto — 290 in the House, 67 in the Senate — the 94th Congress is unlikely to be the "veto-proof" body against which Ford has been campaigning.

Straight party votes are a rarity. With majorities nearly that big in the last two years of the Eisenhower administration, Democrats overrode only two of 44 votes.

A major question mark is how the lame-duck 93rd Congress that returns Nov. 18 and the new 94th Congress will react to the nation's deepening economic crisis.

Candidates in both parties have generally opposed the President's 5 per cent surtax plan.

Congress is likely to push harder than Ford for expanded public service employment and lower income tax relief. Many Democrats think 1975 will be the year in which Congress can enact broad tax reform and health insurance plans that go beyond the administration's likely proposals.

On the foreign front, the new Congress may be even harder to convince than the current one of the need for continued large-scale U.S. military assistance to South Vietnam and Turkey. Clashes with Ford seem inevitable.

The survey, based on reports by AP bureaus and interviews here, shows projected Democratic statewide sweeps in California and New York could increase the party's congressional gains in those states beyond earlier estimates.

In view of the handicaps of the Watergate scandal and the slumping economy Republicans and the undecided vote appears would be satisfied to keep large, a bad sign for an incumbent.

publican pickups appear to be Sen. Mike Gravel's Alaska seat and the Nevada spot being surrendered by retiring Sen. Alan Bible.

The Alaska race is considered close between Gravel and conservative Republican C. R. Lewis. But in Nevada, Democratic polls show Lt. Gov. Harry Reid widening his margin over Republican former Gov. Paul Laxalt.

Of the 14 GOP seats, only Sens. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Charles McC. Mathias Jr. of Maryland and Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania now seem certain winners.

The most vulnerable GOP seats are in Florida, Colorado, North Dakota, Kentucky and Oklahoma. Democrat Richard Stone is considered ahead of Republican Jack Eckerd for Sen. Edward J. Gurney's Florida seat.

Incumbent GOP Sens. Peter Dominick of Colorado, Milton R. Young of North Dakota, Marlow W. Cook of Kentucky and Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma are rated at this point behind their Democratic rivals, Gary Hart, former Gov. William L. Guy, Gov. Wendell Ford and former Rep. Ed Edmondson, respectively.

Republican Sen. Robert Dole's race in Kansas against Democratic Rep. William Roy remains close. Dole says he has pulled ahead, but some Republicans think he may have peaked too soon.

Another tight contest is in Utah, where Democratic Rep. Wayne Owens has moved into a marginal lead in one poll against Republican Jake Garn, Republican Sen. Wallace Bennett is retiring.

Other Democratic chances are in Oregon, where state Sen. Betty Roberts is challenging Sen. Bob Packwood, and in New Hampshire and Vermont, where Democrats are mounting strong challenges in races without incumbents.

Republicans are increasingly concerned about New York, where polls show former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark surprisingly close to Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits. Conservative Barbara Keating is draining off GOP votes upstate, and the undecided vote appears large, a bad sign for an incumbent.
