

Three Areas Draw Sites For Ventures

Exploration has been scheduled in Sterling, Pecos and Dawson counties.

HNG Oil Co. of Midland plans to drill an 8,500-foot venture for tests of the Cisco in Sterling, 11 miles northwest of Sterling City.

Location is 2,440 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 4, block 31, T-4 S, T&P survey, 1 1/2 mile southwest of the marginal one-well Crede, Southeast (Wolfcamp) field.

Pecos Re-Entry
Flag-Redfern Oil Co. of Midland intends to re-enter and clean out to wildcat depth of 2,950 feet, at No. 1 H. K. Hinde Estate, Pecos County 10,175-foot failure, six miles west of the Millard (Queen) field.

Originally drilled by The Louisiana Land & Exploration Co., it was plugged and abandoned last April.

It is 1/2 mile southwest of Flag-Redfern's No. 1-33 Cornell, a scheduled 10,200-foot wildcat, which is drilling below 5,554 feet.

Drill site for the re-entry is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 19, block 198, TCRR survey, six miles southwest of Iraan.

Dawson Try
Mitchell Energy Corp., Houston, has staked site for No. 1 Donald Reeves, a 9,000 foot searcher in Dawson, eight miles north of Lamesa.

Drill site is 1,320 feet from south and 2,173 feet from east lines of section 55, block 35, T-6-N, T&P survey, abstract 235, 1/4 mile southeast of the firm's No. 1 Mollie Yates, a scheduled 9,000-foot wildcat, on which operations have not commenced.

Nolan Prospector Swabbing New Oil

Sun Oil Co. No. 1 B. K. Stone, Nolan County wildcat re-entry, four miles north of Maryneal, has indicated production in an unidentified formation with the swabbing of oil at the hourly rate of 10 barrels.

Recovery was through perforations at 5,153-5,205 feet, which had been acidized with 2,000 gallons.

Earlier, it swabbed 64 barrels of oil and 12 barrels of water in eight hours.

Operator was preparing to set a pump and continue production tests.

Originally drilled by El Paso Natural Gas Co. as No. 1 Harris, it was plugged and abandoned Sept. 4, 1950. It has 4 1/2-inch casing set at 5,477 feet, the old total depth.

It spots 1,960 feet from south and west lines of section 76, block X, T&P survey, on the southwest side of the Lake Trammell, South (Canyon reef) field.

Ford Calls For Voter Turnout

AS NATION PREPARES TO BALLOT TUESDAY

Two Midland Races Contested

By GEORGE MASSEY

Only two Midland County elective positions are contested in Tuesday's general election. All other county and district races feature unopposed incumbents.

The district clerk's race has drawn Republican and Democrat candidates.

In the Precinct 2 commissioner race, incumbent Democrat Charlie Welch is opposed by Republican E. G. "Ed" Harris and American party candidate Ada M. Spivey.

Residents in voting precincts 2, 10, 12, 14, 16, 23, 25 and 28 will cast ballots in the contested commissioner race. All precincts will cast votes in the contested district clerk race.

During recent interviews with The Reporter-Telegram staff, the three office-seekers discussed the major issues of the race.

Welch said experience in office was a primary consideration so the commissioner would have the knowledge to lessen the taxpayer's burden.

He said, "The commissioner has got to be active in his efforts to encourage the expansion of our tax base by attracting new industry to the Midland area."

Welch also said that "bringing an end to duplication of services" in county government and civic agencies was a major issue in the race. He said his long experience in the retail trade field qualified him to handle that situation.

Harris said the commissioner's court is "unbalanced," with only has one crack — anyone walking around it can see we don't need a new one."

Mrs. Spivey asserted that with a "red-headed woman on that commission, we might be able to hold the purse strings a little tighter."

In the race for district clerk, two contestants are seeking the office being vacated by Ruby Murray, who is retiring after 25 years of county service. Democratic candidate Madge

B. Wallis listed her experience as a deputy clerk in the county office as her main qualification. She said it would be "almost impossible" to run the district clerk's office without some prior experience.

Suzanne Young Seright, Republican district clerk candidate, said the major issue centered on individual qualifications of the candidates. She noted her college background. (See ELECTION Page 2A)

Failure To Cast Ballots Termed Slap To System

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford, warning that a low turnout in Tuesday's election could bring minority rule, urged Americans today to go to the polls and "send a message to Washington and the world."

"You will not just be voting for Democrats or Republicans," Ford said in a statement read to reporters and a bank of television cameras in the White House Rose Garden. "You will be casting your vote of confidence in the United States of America."

Ford did not specifically endorse Republican candidates in his pre-election statement. He stressed instead the need for voter turnout.

Surveys Discouraging
He said some surveys indicate a turnout of only 40 per cent of the voter population.

"If this is true, the Congress with which I must work here in Washington to control inflation, strengthen the economy and preserve peace in the world, could be elected by only 21 per cent of the voters," the President said. "I don't think anyone wants that kind of minority rule."

First Lady Betty Ford stood at the President's side as he read the statement.

Afterward, the President said — "We both voted, I hope they're counted," he said of their absentee ballots, adding — "It might be important."

'Minority Decision'
Ford, in speaking, departed slightly from his prepared text, using the words "minority decision" rather than "minority rule" in urging voters to turn out on Tuesday.

"Every eligible voter will send a message to Washington and to the world tomorrow," Ford said.

Those who cast their ballots, "whether they vote for Republican or Democratic candidates or for others will be voting 'yes' for our American tradition of government by the people and for the people," he said.

"Everyone who can get to the polls and fails to go, who refuses to exercise the precious right of a free citizen to vote his or her honest conviction is actually voting 'no' on our system of self-government," Ford said.

He said Americans who turn out to vote "will not just be voting for Democrats or Republicans. You will be casting your vote of confidence in the United States of America."

three Democrats and only one Republican. He said another Republican on the court would give an adequate representation to both political parties in county government.

Harris said the other major issue of the race was to "cut down on excessive spending" in the county's business operation.

$3-Million-Business
He said Midland County is a $3-million business and needs to be operated in light of that fact. Also he noted that the "majority of money is spent inside the city and not necessarily out in the county."

Mrs. Spivey said the major issue in the commissioner race was the "elimination of waste." She said too much money is being spent for unnecessary things and the "commissioners are not supervising where the money is being spent."

Mrs. Spivey noted the "$11,000 expenditure on a new courthouse sidewalk" as a prime example. She said the existing sidewalk

Cold Front Brings Freezing Weather, Some Snow To Texas

Freezing weather and a little snow chilled parts of the Texas Panhandle today on the heels of a norther which set off renewed threats of flooding in some areas downstate.

Radar detected rains pouring down at rates up to two inches per hour in the latest round of thunderstorms from around

Sanderson and Sonora in West Texas through Abilene, San Angelo and farther east along a line linking Junction, Waco and Corsicana. Near daylight the rainfall spread on to around Longview and Texarkana.

Near dawn the cold front was pushing through Central Texas along a line linking Paris, Waco and Del Rio.

Snow—the first of the season—mostly was mixed with a little rain on the east side of the Panhandle and amounted to little more than a trace, the National Weather Service reported.

Midland is not due for snow yet, but the city may see the first frost of the season Tuesday morning. The National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal has issued a frost warning and predicted the temperature would drop into the mid-30s by daylight hours Tuesday.

Today's high will be near 60. Tuesday's top mark will be in the same range as Sunday's 4-degree high reading. The overnight low was 45.

Early morning temperatures dropped to 31 degrees at Dalhart in the Panhandle and Marfa in the West Texas mountains, 32 at Amarillo and 33 at Perryton in the Panhandle. Readings elsewhere hit the 40s and 50s near the frontal zone and stayed as high as 74 at Galveston and 75 at Palacios on the coast. The Associated Press reported.

Forecasters looked for the colder air to shove southward past the Upper Texas Coast before nightfall, accompanied by more showers and thunderstorms while in its wake skies cleared slowly from the west. Overnight temperatures down to the 30s were promised much of West Texas and as low as the 40s in other sections.

Former President Nixon Taken Off Critical List

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, off the critical list, is showing such improvement that he is being allowed to walk with help in his hospital room, his doctor said today.

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is off the critical list after complications from phlebitis surgery, but medical officials say there is no word on when he may leave the hospital.

Dr. John C. Lungren, Nixon's personal physician, said Sunday that his patient is now receiving "sub-intensive care," which Lungren described as a step down from critical care.

Nixon had been in critical condition for six days after experiencing shock following an operation to partially close a vein in his left groin area. The surgery was designed to keep blood clots from moving to his lungs or heart.

"It's his best morning since hospitalization began," Lungren said in a statement issued at Memorial Hospital Medical Center.

It was also reported that the 61-year-old former chief executive began a soft food diet. (See NIXON Page 2A)

Four Young Leftists Die In Bomb Death Retaliation

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Four young leftists have been killed in Argentina in a 24-hour period, police said today, in apparent right-wing retaliation for the bomb murder of the country's top policeman.

The bullet-riddled bodies of Juan Carlos Nivas, 23, and Ruben D. Boussas, 20, members of the Socialist Workers party, were found several hours after armed men with police identification badges took them from their homes. The Marxist party said the abductors told relatives not to worry because the men were being taken for "routine identification."

A third party member, Arturo Robles Urquiza, 30, was shot to death after being kidnapped. Residents of the Buenos Aires district of Floresta reported to police they found Robles Urquiza bleeding on the pavement after hearing machine gun fire and the noise of a car fleeing. He died in an ambulance.

Buenos Aires provincial police reported that a 30-year-old leftist university professor, identified as Carlos Alberto Della Riva, was kidnapped and murdered in La Plata, 30 miles south of the capital. He taught in the University of La Plata, where two officials, like Della Riva, were killed. (See DEATHS Page 2A)

HOME, STREET LIGHTS TO GLOW AGAIN Christmas Parade Plans Announced

The annual Midland Christmas Parade this year will be one of the longest and most colorful in its history, Fred Tyler, executive vice president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, said today.

The parade, sponsored by the chamber's Retail Committee, will be held Dec. 7.

"We already have 20 units entered," Tyler said. "We should have many more by the Nov. 15 entry deadline."

Sam Blanck is the parade chairman. This year's event is built around the theme, "The Songs Of Christmas." Non-commercial floats will be competing for more than $1,000 in cash prizes, while commercial floats will be eligible for trophies.

Participating bands also will receive special awards. Midland streets and homes will once again be lighted during the Christmas season following the blackout of exterior decorations last year because of the energy shortage.

Tyler said the chamber's street decorations will go up during the week of Thanksgiving, but will not be lighted until the first Friday following Thanksgiving Day.

City Councilman Jim Kent said, "It is very improbable that the city council would request that residents refrain from lighting their exterior home decorations again this year."

Kent pointed out that last year's blackout request on exterior decorations was a temporary council effort at dealing with the energy shortage.

Early parade entries include: United States Marine Corps Color Guard, Midland SPCA, Cub Scout Pack 70, Midland YMCA, Midland High School Youth Center, Midland County 4-H Clubs, South Memorial Baptist Youth Group, Senior Citizens Center.

Also, Grace Lutheran Church, Eastside Baptist Church, United States Navy, Beta Omicron Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha, and bands from San Jacinto Junior High, Alamo Junior High, Goddard Junior High, Austin Freshman School and Edison Freshman School.

A number of mounted units have entered, including the Midland 4-H Mounted Drill Team, Ector County Mounted Drill Team and the Midland 4-H Horse Club.

Organizations may enter by dialing the chamber office at 683-3381. Parade information and rules also are available from the chamber.

The parade route this year will begin in the vicinity of Western State Bank, go along Andrews High to Wall Street, then along Wall to Main Street.

"We have received a good number of entries," Blanck remarked. "But it would be helpful to receive many more during the coming week. This will allow us to begin laying out the staging area and compiling information for judges and parade marshals."

Kennedy Says Charges 'Untrue'

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says some of the articles published in the Boston Globe last week about his 1969 Chappaquiddick Island auto accident contained charges which are "ugly, untrue and grossly unfair."

The Globe published a series of five articles, which included a tape-recorded interview with the Massachusetts Democrat, concerning the accident that took the life of Mary Jo Kopechne.

In a letter published Sunday in the Globe, Kennedy also criticized the allegation that he had intended to take Miss Kopechne for a walk on the beach, not to her motel as he had contended.

"It is regrettable in the atmosphere of doubt and suspicion which enshrouds us as a people that the truth cannot compete with the unnamed sources, the groundless suggestions and the speculation which is nurtured by articles of sensationalism," he wrote.

Globe editor Thomas Winship said the newspaper did not rely on just a single source in a two-month investigation of the Chappaquiddick incident. He said the team of writers which put the story together "carefully considered the integrity and knowledgeability of its sources before publishing any information provided by them."

In a television interview broadcast during the weekend, Kennedy attributed the renewed interest in the 1969 accident to the post-Watergate mentality that "festers now in our society."

The comments, in an interview with WBZ-TV newsmen Steve Nevas, were taped Thursday and broadcast Saturday night.

Consuming Hobby

NEWTOWN, Conn. (AH) — Will Anderson, for whom beer took on a "new luster" while he was in college 13 years ago, has built his taste for beer memorabilia — or breweriana — into mammoth proportions.

One day in 1961 Anderson and his roommate at Cornell University were "kind of bored. We wanted to do anything but study," the 33-year-old collector recalled.

A pile of empty beer cans nearby — the remains of another buddy's recent party — caught their attention. They decided to see how many different types of beer cans they could find.

Today, two rooms in Anderson's home here are filled with about 3,000 cans, 450 trays, 1,000 embossed bottles and about 100 pre-Prohibition "poster-calendars."

He collected many of the containers by buying six-packs of beer. Others came from junk yards, antique dealers, flea markets and other collectors.

"I really didn't like the taste of beer as a teen-ager," said the hobbyist, who earns his living as a book club director. "But when I went to college and went out with the guys with only $1 in my pocket, beer took on some new luster."

The value of individual items in his collection ranges from less than $1 to a top of $100 he was offered for a gallon can of 1960s vintage. He didn't sell it.

In the last five years he has downplayed his interest in cans and increased it in trays, some of which go back to the late 1800s.

"The trays have really escalated in the last five to ten years," he said. "For a good, mint condition pre-Prohibition tray you could pay up to $100. The bottles and trays, I think, have found their way to being considered respectable antiques, while beer cans have yet to turn the corner."

Anderson, whose wife Sonja shares his hobby, has traveled widely to expand his collection. Another of his hobbies is music and one of his outlets is a 1950s rhythm and blues show he does regularly on a radio station in nearby Brookfield.

Its call letters are WINE.

WAITING TO BID—Thousands of West Texans took part in the annual St. Lawrence Fall Festival in Glasscock County Sunday. Here, part of the huge crowd waits to get in bids for the many items sold at auction. Other events included meals at noon and evening featuring sausage, barbecue beef and all the trimmings. The festival ended Sunday night with a dance.

Von Daniken's Latest Book Treads New Ground

By HANNS NEUERBOURG BONSTETTEN, Switzerland (AP) — Sucking on an unlit pipe, Erich von Daniken does not have to think long before answering the question whether he himself really believes that modern man is the product of ancient astronauts.

"Not completely at first," he readily concedes. "Basically, I thought it possible. But I was not at all sure. Now, I am dead certain. I would cling to it even if I were tortured."

With intercontinental support from tens of millions of fans, no immediate need of martyrdom seems likely for the stocky, bright-eyed Swiss who, according to his publishers, has become the world's most widely read modern author.

Four books in the past eight years — his first was "Chariots of the Gods" — have set worldwide sales rocketing, with close to 30 million copies printed in 34 languages. And his latest — titled "Appearances" — which has just hit the market, is a cinch to send him beyond that outer space belt in the book trade.

The new book, he predicts with a tense but contented smile, "is going to stir trouble and fiercest criticism" because he is treading new ground. On 320 pages he rummages through religious visions recorded since ancient times, dismisses most of them, including Lourdes and Fatima, and centers on those for which there is "objective proof."

The people who experience these, he suggests, were at the receiving end of interstellar communications. They received telepathic signals from the extraterrestrials who visited our planet some 30,000 years ago, mated with earthlings and by artificial mutation produced modern man.

"Electromagnetic waves are not possible but could not telepathically be a conceivable means of communications?" he says in his typical style studded with question marks. "If yes, how? Not in a given language. I cannot send a telepathic order to someone, 'You get me a glass of beer.' But I can transmit emotions, like peace, love, hatred and I can transmit pictures."

Von Daniken, 39, says initial response from readers makes clear he will hurt a lot of feelings but "I had to get this book off my chest." He had already received about 70 letters in the two weeks since it had gone on sale with an initial 100,000 copies on the German language market.

The letters, along with some 25,000 others, as well as news clips and countless photographs, are kept in multicolored file cabinets, lining the basement office of his modest home here. This is the place where he works, preferably at night between 10 p.m. and 4 a.m. while his German-born wife, his daughter and "Neptun," a calf-sized Great Dane, are asleep.

Using the English word, von Daniken says his success story has "crazy" dimensions. "In Rio, where I agreed to sign books for an hour at a large bookstore, the queue was like the one you see in Moscow at the Lenin mausoleum, crazy," he reminisces. "In Turkey, where they still have many alphabets, my latest sale figure is 178,000, crazy."

He has also broken ideological barriers. East Germany, he says, bans his books as anti-Marxist. In the Soviet Union, the film based on "Chariots" is durable fare even in rural regions. Peking has imported 20,000 Danikens in Chinese. In Czechoslovakia, they are a "tremendous success" and the official Yugoslav press agency speaks of a "convincing analysis" offered by the author. The front of scientists who dismiss his writings as cosmic wooziness is crumbling, too, according to von Daniken. His star witness is Josef F. Blumrich, Austrian-born NASA aerospace engineer. Blumrich, who presents himself as an original doubter, is the author of another bestseller, "The Spaceships of Ezekiel," in which he agrees with von Daniken that the Hebrew prophet describes the vehicle that brought the "ancient astronauts" to earth.

Both, along with "Exorcist" director William Friedkin, are on the advisory board of an "Ancient Astronaut Society." The group will have a world congress at Zurich next May. "It will be a solid affair," comments von Daniken. "No UFO (Unidentified Flying Object) people and the like."

Riva leftist Peronists, were murdered last month by the rightist Argentine Anti-Communist Alliance, the AAA.

The new slayings occurred under the chief of the federal police, Alberto Villar, and his wife were killed by a bomb attached to a small cruiser Friday.

The Montoneros, an underground organization linked to the leftist faction of Peronism, claimed responsibility for the murder of Villar, 51, a controversial specialist in guerrilla fighting.

James Leaves Austin Hospital

being permitted to see his wife, Pat, and daughters, Tricia Nixon Cox and Julie Nixon Eisenhower, but only for five minutes each hour. The family has been staying near the hospital.

A hospital source said Nixon was not reading books, watching television or carrying on much conversation.

Doctors said the blood clot in Nixon's left leg which prompted the surgery last Tuesday had not enlarged. They also said that postoperative internal bleeding had been stopped.

During a briefing of newsmen, Connie Hamilton, director of critical care nursing at the hospital, described Nixon as "physically quite ill."

She said two nurses had been in Nixon's room at all times during the critical period, but now there would be only one nurse in the room. A backup nurse will remain on the same floor, she said.

Langren said Nixon was buoyed by his visit from President Ford Friday and was receiving positive pressure breathing treatments administered by a respiratory therapist.

Briscoe Seeking Disaster Designation

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe asked President Ford today to declare 13 Texas counties as major-disaster areas because of "unprecedented rains, windstorms and tornadoes."

The telegram to Ford requested disaster relief for Anderson, Bell, Cook, El Paso, Hill, Hopkins, Limestone, McLennan, Parker, Palo Pinto, Sutton, Val Verde and Williamson counties.

Briscoe said surveys of damage to public and private property between Sept. 12 and Nov. 1 are under way and will be forwarded to Washington when total storm losses are known.

Two Midlanders Held In Burglary

Two Midland men were arrested Sunday in connection with the burglary of a vacant house at 103 E. Michigan St.

Charged in the incident are David K. McDowell, 4905 Leisure St. and George Stephenson, 4201 N. Garfield St., Apt. 243.

Bond was set at $7,500 on each by Justice of the Peace R. H. Pine. They were in jail this morning.

Police said they apprehended them after they were notified that a burglary was in progress.

IF ELECTED ATTORNEY GENERAL— Cole Says He Would Launch Probes Of State Agencies

Tom Cole, Republican candidate for Texas attorney general, told a press conference here today that, if elected, he would launch in-depth investigations of selected state agencies — the state treasurer, the Railroad Commission and the Agriculture Department. He proposed establishment of non-partisan citizen advisory committees to assist and help guide these investigations.

"The attorney general should be the lawyer for the people of the state as a whole and not just a shield for other state officials," Cole said.

"The essential functions of the attorney general's department during my four-year term will be the careful examination of all appropriations and expenditures of state money and a close scrutiny of the administrative practices of all state agencies," Cole pledged.

Cole was particularly critical of the discriminatory hiring practices of some state agencies and charged that his opponent had not taken effective action in this area.

"My opponent spends too much time grandstanding on emotional issues such as consumer protection and pollution, but does little to effect change. Just a few days ago, the incumbent attorney general made a statement that the Texas Department of Mental Health and Retardation would soon be the target of a public interest suit seeking to force changes in the treatment and facilities in state institutions. Why hasn't he acted to help solve these problems?" Cole questioned.

"We need an active, nose-to-the-grindstone attorney general and not a show horse who is really running for governor and doesn't care about being the state attorney general," Cole stated.

Postal Clinic Set Nov. 13

A postal clinic designed to save time and cut costs in business mailings will be held here Nov. 13.

The seminar is being sponsored jointly by the United States Postal Service, the Midland Chamber of Commerce and the Postal Customers Council.

The morning session will start at 10 a.m. and last until noon. The afternoon session will run from 2 to 4 p.m. Seminar programs will be held in the conference room of the Main Post Office, 100 E. Wall St.

Subject of the morning session will be first class mail. The afternoon program will deal with second, third and fourth class mail.

"There is no charge for this seminar. However, space is limited, so we are asking for advance registration for the persons planning to attend," noted David E. Holster, postmaster and sectional center manager.

Information on the seminar is being mailed to a large number of firms and non-profit organizations in Midland, complete with registration forms and reply envelopes.

Cotton

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures No. 2 were higher by as much as $5.75 a bale in midday dealings today.

Most of the cotton belt that hampered harvesting of the crop created demand for futures contracts, brokers said.

The average price for strict-low middling 1-1/4-inch spot cotton declined 49 points to 41.48 cents a pound Friday for the 12 leading markets, the New York Cotton Exchange said.

Monday prices were $4.75 a bale higher than the previous close, Dec. 4, 1973, March 4.50, and May 4.60.

Federal Mediators Fail To Break Coal Contract Deadlock

WASHINGTON (AP) — Contract talks remained deadlocked today despite efforts by federal mediators to get the negotiations going again as time ran short for averting a nationwide coal strike.

"Nothing is planned and there is no way we can resolve our differences as long as the operators refuse to discuss the critical issues," said a spokesman for President Arnold Miller of the United Mine Workers. Chief federal mediator W. J. Usery Jr. spent the morning trying to arrange a new meeting and an industry spokesman said it is possible the two sides could get together later in the day. However, nothing definite was planned.

Union Breaks Off Talks

Miller broke off the talks Sunday night, charging that the mine owners had refused to negotiate the key economic demands. He said only a slim chance remained of preventing a strike when the current contract expires at 12:01 a.m. EST Nov. 12.

"The onus is on the operators," the union chief said. "The next 24 to 48 hours are rather critical."

Usery stepped into the talks Sunday night after Miller led his bargaining team out of the negotiations, saying there was no point in continuing until the coal producers responded to the union's latest economic proposals.

A spokesman for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association said the mine owners had wanted to first resolve the remaining noneconomic issues.

"We made a great deal of progress and in a short time — in a day or so — we could reach an agreement," said Guy Farmer, the spokesman and chief industry negotiator.

Increasing Pressure

In an apparent move to increase pressure for a settlement, the UMW's 36-member bargaining council approved Miller's recommendation to return to the coal fields rather than wait in Washington in hopes that the talks would resume and result in a tentative agreement. Time is already running short and this means at least an extra day before they can return here.

The council must first approve any agreement before it can be submitted to the union's 120,000 members in 25 states under a complicated ratification process which could take up to 10 days. However, Miller said it may be possible to shorten the time provided a settlement is reached early this week.

The union leader was more optimistic in his outlook for preventing a walkout than UMW Secretary-Treasurer Harry Patrick, who accused the coal producers of "utter contempt" in dealing with the miners' economic demands. Patrick said "there is no way to prevent a coal strike."

Federal energy experts say a long shutdown of the mines would have a more devastating effect on the economy than last winter's Arab oil embargo. Widespread layoffs could be expected in the steel, automobile, chemical and railroad industries, all heavily dependent on coal.

Miller said the union and industry was only five or six percentage points "of being together" on the economic package. "We're not very far apart," he said.

Last Minute Gifts Roll In

By BROOKS JACKSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor unions and Republican party committees are making a flurry of last-minute campaign donations of $5,000 and more, according to reports pouring into government offices.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., reported getting a last-minute donation of $5,000 from the AFL-CIO's political arm, and another $5,000 from the Machinists' union.

Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah, running for the Senate, reported getting two gifts of $5,000 and $6,000 from the AFL-CIO, and another $5,000 from the Steelworkers.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., reported a $10,000 donation from the Republican Campaign Committee, and Richard Lugar, Republican candidate for the Senate from Indiana, reported $5,000 from the National Republican Senatorial Committee. Lugar also received $5,000 from an Indianapolis law firm.

Lugar's opponent, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., reported $5,000 from the AFL-CIO.

Telegrams continued to pour into the secretary of the Senate and the clerk of the House today, telling of fresh donations of $5,000 and more. Anything smaller won't have to be reported officially until next Jan. 31, the deadline for filing year-end campaign spending reports.

Only Larger Amounts

The last comprehensive reports to be filed before Tuesday's elections were due late last week, and cover the 10 days ending Oct. 24. Donations after that date need be reported by telegram only if they are as large as $5,000.

Weekend analyses of the most recent batch of comprehensive reports showed that the AFL-CIO spent $297,861 in the 10-day period, more than any other special interest group. The AFL-CIO reported total spending of $1.7 million through Oct. 24, also the most for any political group.

Foreman Ready To Fight Ali Again For Nothing

PARIS (AP) — Boxer George Foreman, who lost his world heavyweight crown last week to Muhammad Ali, says he is ready to fight Ali again "for nothing."

"I think that in Kinshasa the best athlete was beaten," said Foreman, speaking on a television show about the title bout in Zaire.

"I am prepared to meet Ali again and for nothing," he said. "I'll have no rest until I meet him again. Then I'll retire."

Foreman and Ali each earned $5 million for the fight. Ali has said he has no immediate future plans, but he disclosed after the fight he was offered $10-million to box Foreman or ex-champion Joe Frazier.

Auto Dealers Set Meeting In Odessa

A new consumer assistance program will be discussed Tuesday at the Texas Automobile Dealers Association meeting in Odessa. Bill Rogers of Midland, association vice president, announced today.

New car dealers from some 24 counties are expected to hear details of the Automotive Consumer Action Panel, which will function statewide and consider complaints involving franchised car and truck dealers who are members of the association.

The auto dealers will meet at the Inn of the Golden West.

Other disclosures: —Big maritime unions have donated another $141,000 to senators and congressmen who voted for a controversial bill to require that 30 per cent of America's oil travel in ships manned by American crews. This brings the total for the year to more than $500,000. The unions have given less than $30,000 to those who voted against the bill.

—Political trusts run by the nation's three biggest dairy-farmer cooperatives reported contributing only $30,925 in the 10-day reporting period, leaving them with a cash hoard of $2.3 million for possible last-minute gifts.

The dairy trusts have given much less this year than in previous years, possibly because of bad publicity over the milk-fund affair. Two former officials of the biggest co-op were sentenced to four months in jail Friday for making illegal campaign donations in earlier years.

Cover-Up Prosecutors Now Planning To Recall Hunt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecutors in the Watergate cover-up trial said today they will recall Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt to the witness stand because they have discovered that a memo he wrote five months after the Watergate break-in still exists.

The revelation prompted one defense attorney to move for an immediate mistrial. Another declared, "I have now a cover-up within a cover-up."

Asst. Special Prosecutor James F. Neal said existence of the memo, dated Nov. 14, 1972, was revealed to him over the weekend by William O. Bittman, who was once Hunt's lawyer.

Bittman was named an unindicted co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up by the same grand jury that indicted the five defendants in the cover-up trial.

Hunt had testified that he and his wife had written a memo detailing the background of the Watergate break-in, including the involvement of White House officials, at a time when only seven lower-level men had been indicted and were to stand trial for the crime.

Hunt quoted Bittman as saying he read the memo to defendant Kenneth W. Parkinson, an allegation denied by both Bittman and Parkinson.

Neal said that, until this weekend, Bittman also had denied in grand jury testimony and meetings with the prosecutors knowing that Hunt's memo ever existed.

Parkinson's lawyer, Jacob Stein, said he is now faced with challenging the credibility of Bittman and Hunt, both of whom have now admitted lying to the grand jury.

Stein asked for a separate trial for his client, describing Bittman's role as a "cover-up within a cover-up."

John J. Wilson, defense attorney for former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, asked for a mistrial. His request was rejected by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

Before the decision to recall Hunt, the prosecutors had indicated they were nearly finished with the testimony of major witnesses and would soon play recorded evidence they say is among the most damning to be put before the jury. Watergate prosecutors say they plan to play more than 20 presidential tapes, on which are heard only the voices of Richard M. Nixon and one or more of three of the defendants.

However, some legal preliminaries must be cleared up. The first of the tapes may be heard by the end of the week.

The disclosure that Hunt's memo still exists, and the resulting legal arguments, delayed Jeb Stuart Magruder's scheduled last day of cross-examination by the defense. Magruder, deputy director of Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign, has withstood most attempts so far by defense lawyers to chip away at his testimony.

Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair With This Treatment

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women that is not only stopping hair loss but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. If you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation. Adv.

Dear Abby.

—By Abigail van Buren

Don't Fleece Husband While He's Asleep

DEAR ABBY: When I was a little girl, I remember seeing my mother tiptoe into the bedroom where my father was sleeping and she'd take some money out of his pants pocket. Now that I'm married, I do the same thing to my husband. Sometimes he misses what I took and sometimes he doesn't. My question: Is it wrong to take money this way? I get an allowance to run the house, but sometimes it's not enough.

PICKPOCKET
DEAR PICK: If you need more money than your husband gives you, ask him for it when he's awake. To fleece him when he's asleep should make you feel sheepish.

DEAR ABBY: I will never be able to make amends to my wife for what I did to her, but if you choose my letter for your column it might keep someone else from making the same mistake. I'm an average 33-year-old man, married for six years. We have one child.

One night I went out alone and picked up a nice-looking girl in a bar. Believe me, she looked and acted as nice as any girl I had ever met. She was immaculate and ladylike. That girl gave me gonorrhea. I, in turn, infected my wife with such a severe case that she had to have a complete hysterectomy. She is only 30 years old, and now she'll never be able to have another child, and she wanted one so much.

The doctor had to tell her the truth and it nearly broke her heart because she had never looked at another man, and knew it had to be my fault. She says she's forgiven me, but I don't think I can ever forgive myself.

Abby, please tell your readers not to take foolish chances like I did. I'm not a tramp, Abby. I went out on my wife only once, and God forgive me, it was the most foolish thing I've ever done.

HATING MYSELF
DEAR HATING: I'll print your letter as a reminder to women as well as men that venereal disease is still one of

Smelly Hair Brush Makes Her Wonder

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Reporter Association

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — A natural bristle hair brush may do wonders for the hair but they certainly can be offensive to sensitive nasal passages. Mine is 100 per cent natural bristles and smells awful. I have washed it in any number of things (shampoo, dish liquids and a mild ammonia solution) but none worked. I am hesitant about using anything too strong for fear of damaging the bristles. I hope someone has a suggestion. — MRS. M.D.

DEAR POLLY — Eggs are so expensive I think they should be handled with more care. My Pet Peeve is that I bring a carton home from the market and they look fine on top. When I start to remove them there is nearly always one and sometimes two cracked ones that are stuck to the carton bottom. I cannot remove them without completely breaking them. Furthermore, I do not like to use cracked eggs. I feel I am paying for 12 eggs and usually wind up with only 10 or 11. — LYDIA.

DEAR POLLY — and Helen — We have a foam mattress and use a large piece of corduroy between it and the springs. It doesn't slide or move now. — J.G.

DEAR POLLY — When unraveling a knitted or crocheted item to reuse the yarn I wind it around a wide-mouthed bottle. This helps straighten it out. The smaller lengths needed for sewing together or whatever are just tossed inside the bottle so all are together. — PAM.

DEAR POLLY — Around the first of every month many people receive a brown envelope with a Social Security check, veteran's pension, etc., and many times people, especially the elderly, come to the bank with that easily recognized envelope in hand and also a bank book. I cringe thinking for assault. Why not tear up that brown envelope before leaving home and put the bank book and an unendorsed check in a white envelope? Carry this in a large purse if possible but do not be obvious about its containing a check. Some of the people who do this could never fight back enough to come out even with an assailant. — MRS. J.G.M.

DEAR POLLY — I would like to share a vitamin and energy conserving pointer. When I bake potatoes they are scrubbed, buttered and wrapped in foil. I always bake some extra ones to have on hand for potato salad, etc., that I will plan for the next day. The oven heat does double duty. Baking rather than boiling conserves vitamins as well. — MARY W.

DEAR GIRLS — We could all save on heat by planning oven dinners when baking potatoes. Cooking at the same time could be a meat loaf, vegetable casserole and a baked dessert rather than one today and another tomorrow. — POLLY.

Cattle graze on reclaimed land near TESCO's lignite coal operation near Fairfield, Texas. The dragline used for recovering the lignite can be seen just over the hill.

Ten months ago this peaceful Texas pasture was a coal mine.

The lignite coal found here is being used to generate electricity for Texas Electric Service Company in our Big Brown plant near Fairfield, Texas. Our main fuels are natural gas and oil, and they will continue to be for several years. But new supplies of these fuels are increasingly difficult to obtain. Using lignite, and by the 1980's nuclear fuel, will help us reduce our dependence on natural gas and oil. One advantage of using lignite is that it isn't being used extensively for any purpose other than the generation of electricity.

After removing coal from the land you see here, it was reclaimed — the soil was replaced, tilled, fertilized and a variety of grasses planted — to make its productivity equal to or better than before. Now it is used for raising crops or cattle. At Texas Electric, we're continuing the orderly development of our power system so that you'll continue having the electricity you need. And we're doing it with full concern for the environment.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?
 "Thy Word is Truth" (John 17:17)
 by Bryan Boat

One of the early converts to Christianity was an Ethiopian nobleman. This man was the treasurer to the queen of Ethiopia. More than this, he seems to have been a Jewish proselyte because the narrative in Acts 8 begins with his trip home from Jerusalem where he had gone to worship. As he traveled, he was reading from the Old Testament book of Isaiah. Philip, a gospel evangelist, met his chariot and began to tell him the good news about Christ, beginning from the passage he was reading.

What did he tell him? The text doesn't say, but, no doubt, the main emphasis was on the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus. Philip also told the man what to do to be saved from his sins. We know this because the man's recorded response to Philip's teaching is: "See, here is water! What is to prevent my being baptized?" Because the Ethiopian believed in Jesus, Philip took him down into the water and immersed him. They both came up out of the water. The Ethiopian nobleman emerged from the water as a new person, a Christian, and he went on his way rejoicing.

The conversion account of the Ethiopian can apply to you as well. When you act on your faith in Jesus by being baptized, God will forgive your sins and add you to his church.

'Fly In The Parfait' Does Not Ruin Show

By FRANCHELLE MOORE
 One of 400 guests attending the "Focus on Fashion" benefit style show and luncheon held Friday by the Children's Service League at Midland Country Club became "A Fly in the Parfait."

This "guest," of the Diptera order, such as the Musca domestica (common housefly), ended his existence, after harassing one table of 10 luncheon guests, by making a nose-dive into one of the guest's parfait dessert. This was fortunate for the comfort of the guests, but, unfortunately the flying object had his "sweet death" prior to the showing of exciting fashions by Lord and Taylor of New York, Dallas and Houston.

Countess de Veyrac was the commentator for the showing of fashions reminiscent of the 1920s and 1930s. Styles of well-known designers throughout the world, such as Emilio Pucci, Adele Simpson, Geoffrey Beene and

Kissinger Heads Back To Mideast

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today Israel and the Arab states must "make an effort to bring their positions closer to each other." Kissinger, who begins another Middle East peacekeeping swing Tuesday, told newsmen the purpose of the trip is "to see whether useful negotiations can be conducted and in what manner."

With Yugoslav President Tito at his side, Kissinger said the United States "will do its utmost to move matters in the Middle East to a just and lasting peace."

Kissinger conferred with Tito for 1 1/2 hours in the Yugoslav leader's White Palace, an imposing mansion that once belonged to Prince Paul, pretender to the throne.

Brief Statements
They made brief statements to newsmen afterwards and took no questions.

Tito, a steadfast supporter of the Arabs in their push for Israel to relinquish territory, said both he and Kissinger expressed concern "because of the stagnation that is there. Much depends on the United States which so far has had a main influence."

Kissinger said, "The United States would like to do its best to prevent a stalemate from developing. This requires that all the parties on both sides understand the special necessities of the other and make an effort to bring their position closer to each other. It is for this purpose that I am going to the Middle East."

After his Middle East peace swing, Kissinger goes to Turkey for talks on the Cyprus dispute.

Turks Angry About Aid
The Turks are angry about the bill adopted by the U.S. Congress last month to cut off aid to them unless there is progress toward a settlement on Cyprus. Kissinger wants to ease the Turkish government's concern and insure Turkey's continued cooperation in Eastern Mediterranean affairs.

The secretary of State was flying later today to Rome for a major address Tuesday before the World Food Conference. He will hurry on to the capitals of Egypt on Tuesday night, Saudi Arabia and Jordan on Wednesday and Syria and Israel on Thursday "to explore possible next steps toward a Middle East peace," he announced Sunday.

Seeking To Renew Talks
American officials stressed that the trip, Kissinger's eighth through the Middle East since the October 1973 war, was not intended to produce any agreements. Instead he will be trying to find out what can be done to get negotiations going again.

The officials said the secretary of State is not convinced that the summit ruled out his step-by-step approach calling for Israel to hold separate troop-withdrawal negotiations with Egypt and Jordan and an indefinite delay in the resumption of the Geneva peace conference. He hopes that progress in such negotiations would induce the Syrians to negotiate in the same way.

Kissinger told newsmen "several of the parties" had asked him to return to the Middle East. He did not name them, but diplomats in Cairo said President Anwar Sadat of Egypt had sent Kissinger a report on the Rabat conference and asked him to return.

Egypt Encouraging
A spokesman for the Egyptian foreign ministry said his government "still holds to the Kissinger step-by-step approach... We welcome any step forward and will do our utmost to persuade other Arab countries to go along with it."

The spokesman did not rule out the possibility that the Arab leaders in Rabat had reached a private agreement not to oppose separate Israeli-Egyptian negotiations.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahras said Kissinger's "sudden visit" is a clear indication that he was taken by surprise by the Arab summit decision recognizing the Palestine Liberation Organization as the representative of the Palestinian Arabs living on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

However, American officials said he anticipated this as one of two possible outcomes of the conference. The other was a stalemate between the rival claims of the PLO and Jordan, which would have enabled Jordan to start separate negotiations with Israel, as Kissinger advocated.

Arafat Ready To Meet
Yasir Arafat, the head of the PLO, told Time magazine he was prepared to meet with Kissinger. He charged that the Israelis within six months "intend to make a pre-emptive strike against the Syrians and Palestinians to begin the fifth Arab-Israeli war."

Kissinger talked for four hours Sunday in Bucharest with President Nicolae Ceausescu and assured the Romanian leader that the U.S. Congress would soon pass a trade bill extending trade benefits to Romania. The bill has been held up by the congressional campaign to get the Soviet government to let more Jews emigrate to Israel in exchange for trade concessions.

Doctor Says Breast Cancer To Kill 250 Men This Year

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — About 32,750 women will die from breast cancer in 1974 but few people know the disease will also kill about 250 men, a Philadelphia physician says.

And because breast cancer is so rare in men, they may not recognize it or become concerned when they notice lumps

Automated Cash Trend Spreading

WASHINGTON (AP) — It won't be long before Americans can get cash from their banks any time they want — and not be arrested.

Today there are more than 1,500 automated tellers located throughout the United States that allow customers to perform 90 per cent of all their banking business around-the-clock without ever stopping inside a bank, the American Bankers Assn. reports.

These tellers are the evolutionary link between the paper-based (cash and check) banking of today and the electronic banking of tomorrow. Some seven million Americans already hold the magnetically encoded "money cards" that activate these robot tellers which can supplement or even replace branch banks.

on their chest, says Dr. Paul A. DeMare, associate professor of radiation therapy at Philadelphia's Thomas Jefferson University Hospital.

DeMare estimates there are about 700 new cases of male breast cancer every year in the United States.

"It never crosses the mind of a man who finds a lump in his chest," he told the American Society of Therapeutic Radiologists' convention Sunday. "In fact, he may not even know there is such a thing."

DeMare said doctors often overlook the possibility of male breast cancer though tumors are the main cause of lumps in the male breast.

Diagnosis is often delayed for months or even years and may be one reason men have only a 50-50 chance of living five years after breast cancer surgery, he said.

DeMare said that two-thirds of the men treated for breast cancer are more than 65 years old.

DeMare said the surgery is about the same in both sexes — removal of the breast tissue, underlying muscle and nearby lymph nodes.

The symptoms are a lump or open sore near the nipple, a retracted or inverted nipple, and in some cases a discharge, he said.

The truck had been stolen from his residence. The license plates had been changed on the pickup, Midland police said.

Charges of aggravated assault were filed against Andrew Swearingin, 26, of Odessa in the case. He remained in Odessa City Jail today. A bond of $3,000 had been set.

Rioters Damage Dallas County Jail

DALLAS (AP) — Cancellation of visiting privileges apparently touched off a Sunday disturbance by Dallas County jail prisoners which resulted in $2,000 damage to the cells.

A Dallas County Sheriff's Office spokesman said Sunday visitation rights were canceled after officers found a hole in the screen separating the visitors from the inmates at the old jail in the County Records Building.

The disturbance, which began about 1:30 p.m., lasted just under two hours, the spokesman said. He said about 100 prisoners were on the sixth and seventh floors but not all participated.

One Injured Slightly
One prisoner was slightly injured when he cut his hand on glass.

Patrol cars ringed the building and Sheriff Clarence Jones, backed by about 50 officers, talked with representatives of the prisoners.

A crowd of about 200 gathered across the street. Many were there to visit prisoners.

Prisoners smashed 15 comodes in two tanks and used the brick-sized chunks of heavy porcelain to smash out several visitors' windows. The visitors' windows are made of "unbreakable" 2-inch-thick glass, about three inches by 10 inches in area.

As the visiting ports were shattered, prisoners armed themselves with crude knives, covered hands and arms with protective toweling and smashed glass windows high over Elm Street and Houston Street. Jailers hurried 15 to 20 visitors out of the jail corridors fearing weapons, drugs or other contraband would be passed through the visitors' windows to prisoners inside.

Off-duty deputies were summoned, clad in riot helmets and carrying riot sticks. Six prisoners acting as spokesmen for the rioters were allowed by Chief Deputy H. A. Bockemuhl to leave the seventh-floor cells and speak to Sheriff Jones in a sixth-floor office. The talks lasted about 45 minutes.

Sheriff Jones and Bockemuhl said the prisoners complained of slow mail delivery, declared medical services are often not available and said jailers won't talk to them.

They asked Sheriff Jones to let them talk to Federal District Judge Sarah T. Hughes.

While the spokesmen cited their grievances the rioters laid down their homemade weapons, stripped for a search and were transferred to another tank.

In the wrecked tanks, deputies found homemade maces fashioned from chunks of steel cradled in socks, hand-fashioned knives made of spoons and metal light fixture facings along with countless chunks of jagged porcelain from uprooted toilets. Electricity and plumbing no longer functioned. Sheriff Jones estimated damage at less than $2,000.

Meanwhile, prisoners in one tank on the sixth floor inflamed by shouts from the floor above and cheers from the street crowd, began breaking glass and comodes in their tank.

A Despicable Episode

One wonders just what kind of a person would put deadly cyanide in candy given to trick-or-treaters at Halloween.

Certainly the person or persons would have to be sick (mentally ill) or else the meanest in the world. But whichever the case might be and regardless of whether the guilty persons are apprehended, nothing can or will bring back to life the little eight-year-old Deer Park boy who died from cyanide poisoning after eating his first piece of trick-or-treat candy last Thursday night.

Here was an innocent child, well within the age limit recommended for trick-or-treating, struck down by a vicious, cold-blooded murderer for no apparent reason other than to kill.

It was fortunate that other youngsters making the same rounds in the Pasadena neighborhood did not suffer a like fate. The others apparently had not had occasion to sample their "loot" before tragedy struck. Police were quick to collect all the candy from children in the area.

This is a sickening episode. There is no known punishment which would do justice to the murderers for this inhuman act. Yet, it is hoped that the guilty parties will be apprehended and brought to justice.

This is the very thing about which the Midland woman quoted in this space recently, feared would happen here or elsewhere if trick-or-treaters made their rounds this year. She urged parents to caution their children about such dangers. Perhaps this boy's parents did that very thing, but who can expect any young lad from sampling candy given him at Halloween, supposedly in the friendly spirit of the occasion.

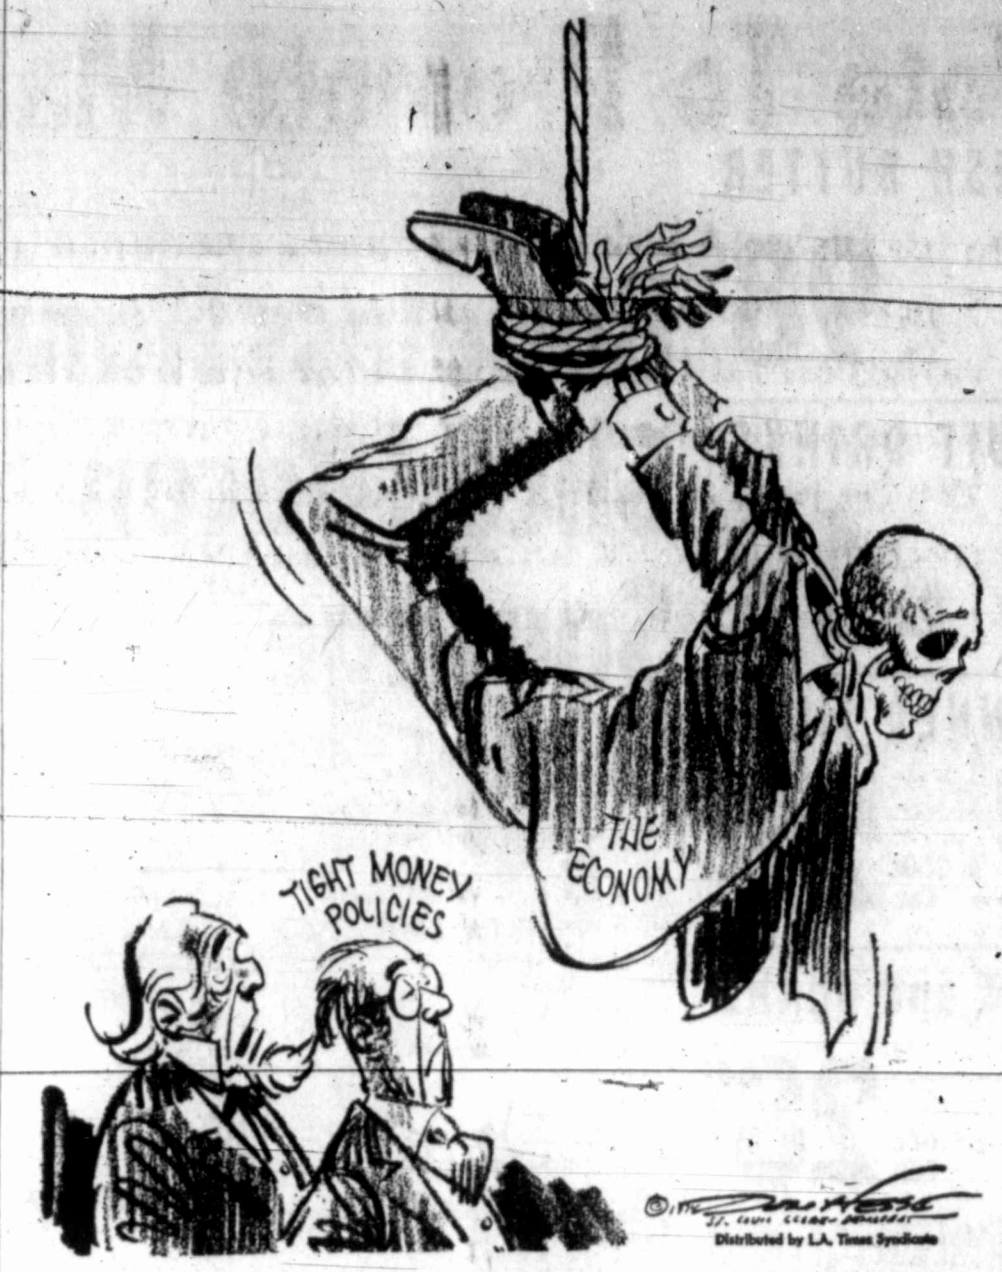

And who in the world would expect anyone to put poison in candy distributed to unsuspecting children at Halloween or any other time, particularly in a friendly Texas suburban community.

But it did happen and residents of the Lone Star State and others are shocked and grieved that it did. Without any reason whatsoever, a little boy's life was snuffed out, and the nation is saddened as a result thereof.

Persons far and wide join in expressing heartfelt sympathy to the parents of the trusting, innocent lad who died at the hands of mad, evil persons who most certainly have no love in their hearts for children, or anyone else for that matter.

May Timothy Mark O'Bryan's untimely, tragic death serve as a constant reminder for both parents and their children to practice care and extreme caution always, as a means of preventing recurrences of similar nature anywhere at any time.

'Think You Might Have Left Him There Too Long?'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON—Dr. Timothy Leary, the erstwhile high priest of psychedelics who once urged everyone to "turn on, tune in, drop out" on LSD, has had a dramatic change of heart. It was the Watergate scandal, he told a California grand jury, that made him see the light.

"I think if Watergate hadn't happened, I probably wouldn't be here today," he solemnly swore. Then, in his new role as reformer, he accused his former attorney, George Chula, of smuggling drugs to him in prison.

The Los Angeles attorney has denied the charge. He has also pleaded not guilty to an indictment on different charges.

According to Leary's secret, sealed testimony, he insisted to the grand jury that he wasn't angry at his former lawyer. "He is a very pleasant, jolly person," Leary said. "It would be hard for anyone to be angry at him."

But after watching the Watergate drama unfold, Leary felt a compulsion to tell all. "I feel a certain responsibility for ending what I think is a cover-up," he testified.

He spoke of "two-ply lawyers" who "encourage and sponsor activities which are illegal" and then "defend people with whom they have been collaborating and cooperating."

He added, with a ring of righteousness: "I think that we are at a time now in this country when everybody has to tell the truth."

This was strange testimony coming from the former pipe-smoker of the drug cult, the way-out Harvard psychology professor, who preached the heavens of hallucination and wound up in jail on marijuana charges.

In a spectacular jailbreak allegedly engineered by the Weathermen, Leary escaped from a California prison and fled to Algeria. He later flew to Afghanistan with a jetsetter named Joanna Harcourt-Smith. But he was turned over to U.S. authorities who brought him home under guard.

The repentant Leary told the grand jury that he had broken with his past. "I do not intend to take any illegal drugs," he vowed. Then he launched into a colorful tale of how his attorney twice had slipped him small lumps of hashish to eat.

The first time was in the courthouse. He had become irritated with Chula for prating before the tv cameras and had asked the bailiffs to arrange a room for a private lawyer-client conversation.

"After I blew up and spoke forcefully to him, Mr. Chula reached down and pulled up his pant leg and, out of his stocking, he produced a piece of hashish and he handed it to me," related Leary.

"And what did you do with it?" asked Los Angeles District Attorney Art Koelle.

"I took it and I ate it," said Leary.

"All right," said Koelle.

RAY CROMLEY Campaign Reform Cited At Grass Roots Level

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The U.S. Congress has a great deal to learn from some state legislatures on writing election campaign laws. And more to learn from public referendums such as that held in California.

In Texas, California and Washington, citizens can file lawsuits to force candidates to comply with financial disclosures.

In at least one state, contributions are limited to individuals. No special interest or public interest groups, no corporations or unions can give money to candidates, either directly or through separate permanent political committees.

One state not only requires lobbyists to make detailed reports of expenditures but prohibits them from making any type of political contribution.

A number of legislatures require that officials and candidates make available their personal financial records and, in addition, have set up monitoring committees to make certain complete, accurate reports are turned in on time.

One state allows political committees to donate to candidates only those funds collected from members within the candidate's own district. That same state prohibits contributions from any one individual or group greater than 5 per cent of a candidate's spending limitation.

One state not only requires business firms and labor unions to set up separate political committees if they want to donate to candidates; it also requires that these political groups make a clear distinction between their organizational and financial support of candidates and their lobbying of legislators and officials in the executive branch.

The financing of these two types of operation must be clearly separated.

The above, of course, is a summary of some of the provisions enacted by some of the states. These restrictions and others, including limits on campaign financing and regulations requiring the public disclosure of donors, are by no means uniform or universal. Most have been enacted or improved in the last two years as a result, presumably, of Watergate.

In total, 47 state legislatures have passed some sort of financial disclosure legislation; numbers are in the process of expanding the right of private citizen access to what goes on in legislative committee meetings.

What's interesting, of course, is that some state legislatures have been able and willing to go so much further in meaningful campaign reform than the Congress. Folk wisdom has it that if you want to get reform, you had better go to Washington because you'll never be able to get anything done locally.

When the problem is put to the public, as in California, it's clear the majority of citizens now are ready for much more stringent laws on campaign financing and other election practices than are the Congress and most state legislatures.

It now is evident that if private citizens in every state would develop codes of fair election rules and present these to the public through local referendums where such are allowed, we could, within the next half dozen years or so have elections in this country that would raise the ethical standards of our elected officials to tolerable levels.

Each year, more than 70 million new mouths are added to the world's population, with most of the increase — four fifths of it — occurring in the poorest, least developed countries. The impressive gains in food production achieved through the so-called "Green Revolution" literally have been eaten up by uncurbed population growth.

Droughts, storms and cold weather — possibly heralds of a worldwide climatic change — also have reduced the world's grain reserves. Where once there was a buffer of more than three months' supply, it now is down to less than a month. The have-not nations face not only starvation but bankruptcy because of the soaring prices of grain, fertilizer and petroleum.

As for the have nations, they are "on a collision course with the poor of the world," warns George Borghstrom, food scientist at Michigan State University.

The Rome conference is expected to focus on two main approaches to the crisis. One will be to establish a method to help poor countries finance food purchases and to urge the richer countries to give money and technical assistance to help them improve domestic production. The other will be to create an international grain reserve system — a World Food Bank — to prevent local famines. Where the deposits into the bank are to come from is another question.

Inevitably, the United States as the world's largest food exporter as well as food consumer, will be looked to for the largest contribution. "Our political leaders may decide to cast Asia adrift . . . and say it's too big," says Lester Brown of a think tank called the Overseas Development Council. "Or (they) may go to the people and ask for the food equivalent of turning thermostats down six degrees — one mealless day a week or skipping one meal a week."

This is a prospect not to be wished upon anyone.

NEW YORK (NEA) — The United Nations-sponsored World Food conference opens in Rome Tuesday. There, under the lengthening shadow of an impending world food crisis, statesmen from most member nations of the U.N. will attempt to arrive at workable solutions to the greatest threat facing mankind in this century — perhaps the greatest in all history — and one more ominous even than nuclear war.

The dimensions of the crisis have been plain to see for a long time, at least in terms of statistics. According to U.N. experts, some 32 countries containing 700 million people, mostly in Asia and Africa and a few in Latin America, face mass starvation.

Each year, more than 70 million new mouths are added to the world's population, with most of the increase — four fifths of it — occurring in the poorest, least developed countries. WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The mango is a luscious, aromatic fruit which has been cultivated for some 6,000 years. Mangoes are a valuable food for millions of inhabitants of the tropics. The World Almanac says, "The fruit was introduced into the western hemisphere when Portuguese colonists brought it to Brazil from southeast Asia around 1700."

The BIBLE Can You Quiz It?

1. Consider the misgivings Abram must have had before leaving his native Chaldaea. He was 75 and his wife was not young. A nephew went with them. Where did he build his first altar and where and why did he have his first real trouble? Genesis 12:8, 10, 13.

2. What similar trouble did Abram bring on himself in Gerar? Genesis 20.

3. What quality did Abram have which enabled him to make the journey? Hebrews 11:1, 8, 9.

4. The way money is used determines if it is the "root of all evil." It is not the money itself, but the high regard in which it is held. Give the entire quotation and tell who said it. 1 Tim. 1:1, 6:9-10.

5. What was Paul's desire and prayer for Israel? Romans 10:1. Four correct . . . excellent. Three correct . . . good.

Best Part Of All Is The Eating

WAYCROSS, Ga. (AP)—When Mr. and Mrs. Randall Walker sit down to dinner to enjoy southern peas and rice, they are eating a variety of pea that has been saved for seed for the past 50 years, being replanted every season.

The speckled field pea was originally planted by Walker's father. Every year the couple plants the dried pea seed and then watches them grow. The best part of all is eating them, Walker said.

Shallowater Plane Crash Leaves Four Persons Dead

By The Associated Press

A private plane crash which took four lives helped swell the violent death toll in Texas during the weekend. Altogether there were reports of 19 fatalities, including 11 in traffic accidents, between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday. State police said the air crash occurred Sunday as a single-engine plane was starting to land at the Shallowater airport about 12 miles northwest of Lubbock. They listed these dead: pilot Bob W. Crittenden, 23; Chipper Wayne Joyner, 24, and his wife Amy, 19, and Larry Wiginton, 24, all of Littlefield.

These were among the other victims: Gregoria Lopez, 53, was killed Sunday evening when a car grazed a utility pole and struck her as she stood in front of her home in San Antonio. Police said the driver fled on foot and was being sought. Officers reported one car struck another Sunday night as it backed from a ditch onto Texas 123 about four miles south of San Marcos and the crash killed Selestino Rodriguez and his wife Julia, both 56, of Martindale, Tex., and a companion, Eusebia Hurtado of Maxwell, Tex. A motorcycle and a truck collided Sunday on Padre Island near Port Isabel killed the cyclist, Jaquelyn Niehus, 38, of Fort Worth.

Eighteen-month-old Brian Keith Bowman died Sunday in Houston of injuries suffered the night before when he was struck by a car near his home. Louis Thomas, 66, of Houston was shot to death in Fort Bend County. Police questioned a man. Houston Shooting Houston police said Roscoe Johnson, 40, was shot to death Saturday night outside a lounge after an argument with another man. Albert Lyssy, 21, of Edinburg was killed early Sunday in a car-truck collision in that Lower Rio Grande Valley city. A British subject working in Houston was killed here Saturday when he was struck by a car as he directed traffic around a stalled vehicle on a freeway. He was identified as Ian James Matthews, 21. Frank Henry Welch was shot to death Saturday in the East Texas community of Pine Valley, near Diboll. Bobby Joe Cook, 23, of Diboll was charged with manslaughter. Justice of the Peace David Wilson of Lufkin set bond at $2,500.

Father Defends His Belief As Child, 4, Dies Of Diphtheria

CORTEZ, Colo. (AP) — Walter Sitton still puts his faith only in God, even though his daughter Christy Gale, 4, died of diphtheria after he refused to allow her medical care. "I believe God would have healed her if it was His will," Sitton said Sunday night. The 40-year-old carpenter, father of six until his daughter died, took his stand as Colorado health officials arrived in this small Rocky Mountain town to give diphtheria shots to school children. Two Sons In Hospital As he spoke, two of his sons were in a hospital—under court order—receiving treatment for the disease. They were reported in good condition. Sitton said another daughter and another son contracted diphtheria but recovered. The Sitton family belongs to the Church of the First Born, a religious group that does not believe in medical care. Christy Gale died last Thursday. But about 40 members of the church submitted to throat cultures Sunday night to allow health officials to determine whether they had contracted the disease, according to Sitton. Dr. Thomas Vernon, a state health department spokesman, says as many as 40 persons were in the Sitton home just south of here, praying for the girl's recovery. About 150 members of the sect attend local schools, Vernon said. Sitton said he's confident God would have saved his other children without the hospital's care. "I think any time anyone gets well from anything, God heals them," he said. "Medicine may help relieve the symptoms but God heals them. To Me It's Simple" "I'm sure it's difficult to understand, but to me it's simple. God has the power over all things. And I can't see why not just trust Him with everything." Diphtheria is an acute infectious disease of the tonsils, pharynx, larynx or nose. The normal fatality rate is 5 or 10 per cent. The only effective control is through active immunization with diphtheria toxoid, health officials said. The Cortez cases are the first reported in Colorado since 1972, when there was one non-fatal case. A health department spokesman said the highest incidence was in 1921, when 2,619 cases were recorded and 224 persons died.

Ft. Hood Soldier, 19, Held In Sniper Incident

HARKER HEIGHTS, Tex. (AP) — A 19-year-old Ft. Hood private was held today after a sniper fired at least 24 shots at passing motorists, shot at two policemen and riddled a local business with bullets. Police Chief Charlie Mitchell said the soldier would be charged with two counts of attempted capital murder for shooting at the two policemen, who had responded to a report of a sniper. There were no reported injuries from the gunfire Sunday night. The police chief said a new 22-caliber automatic rifle with scope was recovered after the arrest. Mitchell said the man told police he had just bought the rifle and "wanted to try it out." The soldier was arrested without resistance 11:20 p.m. Sunday after a tip that he was in a house near where the shooting occurred, Mitchell said. Mitchell said the shots were fired a quarter mile off Farm Road 2410 at Harker Heights, about three miles east of Killen in Central Texas. At least four cars were hit by bullets, the police chief said. Shots also were fired at the Highway Machinery Co. building, breaking windows and some equipment, Mitchell said. Mitchell said officers believed between 40 and 50 rounds of ammunition were fired during the sniping incident.

The youngest mayor in the history of Massachusetts is Steve Erickson, 21, of Gardner.

Signs Point To Light Texas Voter Turnout

By The Associated Press A few more hours of last-minute campaigning and the 1974 General Election will be over, except for the voting. Most Texas polls open at 7 a.m. Tuesday and all close at 7 p.m., although those standing in line will still get to vote after hours. The size of the voter turnout remained the big question, with Democrats hoping to benefit from anything over the 1.5 million that voted in the May primaries and Republicans expecting to benefit from anything under that. The Texas Election Bureau predicted 2.75 million, based largely on the state's fast-growing population. Secretary of State Mark White predicted 2.16 million or about 40 per cent of the estimated eligible voter strength. Other estimates, mainly by Republicans, dropped as low as 1.5 and 1.7 million. Reports on absentee voting generally show decreases from absentee voting in 1970, the last non-presidential election year. Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Democrat, who has not campaigned the last two weeks because of the critical illness of his mother, will vote Tuesday morning at the Uvalde Junior High School box, and await returns at his Uvalde home. Jim Granberry, Republican candidate for governor, completed his 18 months of campaigning today with a series of news conferences. He votes Tuesday morning, right after the polls open, at a Lubbock junior high school and will be at his Lubbock County headquarters for returns. Ramsey Muniz, Raza Unida candidate for governor, will await returns at his Corpus Christi headquarters or his home. Sam McDonnell, American Party candidate for governor, planned a final day news conference in Austin, then was to return to Dallas to vote. Sherry Smith, Socialist Workers candidate for governor, is sponsoring an election night party in Houston, $1 admission with refreshments. Another big election night party will be in Austin, sponsored by the Young Adult Republican Club. Admission will be by a $5 donation to the cause. GOP candidates expected to be on hand include Bob Holt, candidate for state treasurer; Tom Cole, attorney general; Nick Rowe, comptroller; Zack Fisher, agricultural commissioner; Mary Lou Grier, land commissioner, and various local candidates. In downtown Austin, Atty. Gen. John Hill, Democratic candidate for re-election, is sponsoring an election night party in the historic Driskill Hotel.

Two Medical Experts Urge Crackdown On 'Fat Clinics'

CHICAGO (AP) — Two medical authorities today urged a crackdown on so-called "fat clinics" which use injections of a human hormone to help patients lose weight. The hormone, derived from the urine of pregnant women, is called human chorionic gonadotropin. An editorial in today's issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association says the weight-loss program of these advertised clinics may be hazardous to health and questions the value of the hormones. It was written by Dr. John C. Ballin, director of the AMA's department of drugs, and Dr. Philip L. White, director of the department of foods and nutrition. They noted that the attorney general of Michigan has ruled that the fat clinics are "in violation of Michigan's medical practice act, both as to participating licensed physicians and other persons who participate." "We hope that other states will interpret their medical practice acts similarly," Ballin and White said. A. T. W. Simeons, a British doctor practicing in Rome, first used human chorionic gonadotropin along with a semi-starvation diet in the treatment of obesity more than 20 years ago. The fat clinics using the Simeons hormone injections and diet "have proliferated throughout the United States and many of these are franchise operations," the editorial notes. Fat people on this regimen receive a total of 40 injections, ostensibly under medical supervision, and are placed on 500-calorie diets. A course of treatment lasting 42 to 60 days may cost up to $700. The diet is inadequate and therefore poses a health hazard because it results in protein loss from body tissues, the editorial warned. There is no valid scientific evidence to demonstrate that human chorionic gonadotropin has any effect on weight loss, it said.

Onassis Enters New York Hospital For 'Routine' Check

NEW YORK (AP) — Aristotle Onassis has entered New York Hospital for a "routine physical checkup," the hospital says. The hospital's administrator said Sunday that Onassis, husband of the former Jacqueline Kennedy, was listed in satisfactory condition simply because it was hospital practice to list a condition for all patients. He said the Greek financier entered the hospital under an assumed name, "Mr. Phillips," because he did not wish "to have any unnecessary publicity."

Jerry Lewis Gets Ticket In Mishap

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Comedian Jerry Lewis was ticketed by police after he stopped to view a traffic accident and set off a three-car crash in which two persons were slightly injured. The Nevada State Highway Patrol said Lewis told officers after the Saturday mishap he stopped after recognizing someone involved in the original crash. Patrolmen said a vehicle driven by a 23-year-old woman then rammed Lewis' car from behind, bounced off and hit a third auto.

Survey Shows Democratic Landslide

By DON McLEOD
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic landslide appeared imminent today on the eve of the first election to feel the full brunt of Watergate and a staggering economy.

The final pre-election survey by The Associated Press shows Democrats have a shot at two-thirds control of both houses of Congress and a record number of governorships.

Confident Democratic leaders predicted Sunday their party would carry a virtual sweep of Tuesday's elections, while Republicans talked about holding down their losses.

The balloting for 35 governorships, 34 Senate seats and all 435 House posts will be the first since Richard M. Nixon resigned as president and was pardoned by his chosen successor, Gerald R. Ford.

The election also comes amid mounting inflation and unemployment and national debate over what to do about both.

Ford has campaigned for GOP candidates saying he needs a Congress he can work with to cure the economy, while Democrats have called for the congressional strength to put through their own solutions.

Ironically, the anticipated Democratic romp comes just two years after Nixon had won for the Republicans one of history's two biggest presidential landslides. But it was reminiscent of 1966, when Republicans turned the same trick after their presidential disaster in the Barry Goldwater campaign of 1964.

Democrats Still Ahead

Although Republicans contended that their embattled candidates were closing gaps across the country, the latest available information showed Democrats still ahead in most of the key races.

The AP survey, based on reports from bureaus in all 50 states, late polls and interviews with political strategists for the major parties and candidates gives this picture:

Senate — The Democrats likely to gain from 5 to 7 of the 14 GOP seats at stake and with a good chance to hold all 20 of their own. This could mean 63 to 65 Democrats in the new Senate, compared to the 58-42 margin they already hold.

House — The Democratic gain could be as high as 50 seats and probably no less than 20 if present trends hold. They now hold a 248-187 edge and could approach the massive 295-140 majority they achieved in Lyndon B. Johnson's 1964 landslide.

Governors — The Democrats hold the record for most governorships in the hands of one party — 39 in 1939. Already holding 32 of the 50 statehouses, they now appear likely to gain from 7 to as many as 10.

The party out of the White House normally gains in off-year elections — an average 4 senators and 26 House members in the last five.

Brock Still Optimistic

"Our mission is to keep it under the average losses," Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill., chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee, said on ABC's "Issues and Answers" show Sunday.

"Frankly, I would like to keep it in the range of 20 to 25" House seats, Michel said, the number of GOP congressmen he concedes are in deep trouble.

Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee in the Senate, said losing 4 or 5 Senate seats would be normal in the off-year following a presidential landslide like Nixon's but predicted, "We'll do better than that."

But that was as close as any Republican leaders — including President Ford — would come to putting numbers on their expected fate — Tuesday. When asked for his prediction, Ford brushed aside the question with "not on Sunday."

'Turnaround' Seen

On another television panel show, GOP party chairman Mary Louise Smith also ducked the "numbers game" but said she saw a "turnaround" in the Watergate backlash that has been hampering Republican campaigns.

However, Democratic chairman Robert Strauss, appearing with Mrs. Smith on "Meet the Press," predicted a gain of 4 to 6 Senate seats, 27 to 32 in the House and statehouse victories to place 85 to 90 per cent of the population under Democratic governors.

The AP survey shows at least four Republican senators in the greatest danger of defeat — in Colorado, Kentucky, Oklahoma and North Dakota.

A fifth, Robert Dole of Kansas, has overcome a deficit in the polls against Democrat William Roy and the race is now rated a toss-up.

A sixth Senate race apparently has turned around but still is too close to call with Democrat Wayne Owens ahead of the GOP's Jake Garn in Utah by a narrow margin in three recent polls. They are seeking the seat of retiring Republican Sen. Wallace F. Bennett.

Florida's Stone Ahead

Democrat Richard Stone also leads Republican Jack Eckerd for the Senate seat vacated in Florida by the retirement of Republican Edward J. Gurney.

In New York Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits is ahead in the polls but still threatened by former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark. In Vermont, Democrat Patrick Leahy appears within reach of Republican Richard Mallary.

On the House side, Republicans are bracing for losses of four or more seats in California and New York. Democrats also have a chance for multi-seat pickups in New Jersey, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Connecticut, Iowa and Virginia.

Republican chances of knocking off Democratic House members are in South Carolina, Louisiana and Utah as well as in Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania, where Democrats captured traditionally GOP seats in special elections earlier this year.

New York, California

The Democrats are well ahead and considered sure to capture the two biggest governorships, with Democrat Edmund G. "Jerry" Brown Jr., expected to beat Houston Flournoy in California for the job being vacated by Ronald Reagan, and Democrat Hugh L. Carey a heavy favorite over incumbent Republican New York Gov. Malcolm Wilson.

Republican-held governorships also are threatened in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Arizona, Oregon, Tennessee, Colorado and Wyoming. The hottest race is in Michigan, where Democrat Sander Levin has knotted Republican Gov. William G. Milliken in a race too close for the polls to predict.

Big Fountain Is Popular

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—A fountain made up of 49 vertical jets that spout streams up to two stories high is a big attraction in this city. The jets are like geysers in a bed of flat stones.

Naturally the fountain is as attractive to kids as a forbidden bureau drawer when Mom's out shopping. And children of all ages are not discouraged from running or riding bicycles through the jets. The 2,000-square-foot arena of water is in the central square of Crown Center, the city's 50-building urban redevelopment project.

Inflation Declared Top Election Issue

NEW YORK (AP) — Voters see inflation as the No. 1 issue in the election Tuesday and will be skeptical of any candidate who hasn't discussed it in terms they can understand, private pollsters say.

"Let's not kid ourselves, in this election there is one overriding problem on people's minds, and that's the economy," Frank Goldsmith of Oliver Quayle & Co. said.

Harry O'Neill of Opinion Research Corp. in Princeton, N.J., also used the word "overriding" to describe worry about inflation, adding, "The situation is similar to the way Vietnam was the big issue several years ago."

Goldsmith, O'Neill and three other pollsters declined to discuss details of the information they have supplied to candidates, but they did describe what their studies show about voter concerns.

Dick Wirthlin of Decision Making Information in Los Angeles and Tully Plesser of Cambridge Opinion Studies in New York emphasized the advantage of discussing inflation in specific terms.

"The electorate needs something it can understand," Wirthlin said. "For example, cut government spending, soak the oil companies, hold the line against defense spending. But this all must be played against the background of what the electorate wants to hear. There seems to be much sympathy toward making sacrifices if the electorate can be assured that these sacrifices will help curb inflation."

Plesser said voters will respond best to a candidate who identifies a cause of inflation and holds it up as an enemy to be attacked — you need something to clarify the issue for voters, who can't dope out the nuances of the problem."

Goldsmith said a candidate would be a "fool if he says he's going to lick the inflation problem. People are too intelligent to believe that. A candidate needs to be honest, to stress areas where he has shown some expertise that could contribute to a solution."

Bob Teeters of Market Opinion Research in Detroit said, "The only clear consensus that seems to be emerging is that a substantial number of voters think restraint in spending is needed."

Top Black UAW Officer Slain In Detroit Bar

DETROIT (AP) — "It's a real bone crusher, man," says one union official of the weekend slaying of Nelson Jack Edwards, the top-ranking black officer of the United Auto Workers.

A native of Montgomery, Ala., Edwards came to Detroit in 1937 at the age of 20 and found work at the Chrysler Foundry. He later moved to Ford's Lincoln plant.

He was active in the UAW from almost the beginning and began a steady rise in the union. In 1962, he became the first black elected to the UAW's International Executive Board, and eight years later he became the first of his race to be elected a vice president of the big auto union.

Edwards, 57, died early Saturday in a burst of gunfire at a Detroit bar. Police say the shots were fired by a patron who opened fire with a pistol when he was told the bar was closing.

Police said Edwards, a confidante of the late UAW president, Walter Reuther, had been in the bar for less than 10 minutes.

They said a man they identified as Saul Burnett, 39, Detroit, was dozing at the counter of the Broadway Sportsman's Club bar when he was jostled awake and told it was time for final drinks.

Witnesses told officers that Burnett cursed, jumped to his feet and tossed a bottle towards the rear of the room. Then he drew a pistol and began firing the first of five shots.

Edwards, sitting at a table nearby, stood up, apparently to try to stop the commotion. Police said he was hit by two bullets, once in the wrist and once in the head. He died an hour later.

Burnett, a truck driver, was charged Sunday with second-degree murder. He was to be arraigned today in Detroit Records Court.

Herrera FG Cracks Cards' String

DALLAS (AP) — Those who live by last-minute heroics also eventually die by them. At least that's what the only remaining unbeaten team in the National Football League learned Sunday.

St. Louis' thrill-a-minute Cardinals, who had strung seven consecutive victories including five in the final minute, fell by a similar sword.

Dallas' Efen Herrera, a free agent from UCLA the Cowboys signed only a month ago, chipped true a 20-yard field goal with four seconds left to hand Dallas a 17-14 victory.

half to a strained and bruised knee. The St. Louis offense wasn't the same without the slippery Metcalf in the game.

"When we lost Metcalf, it was like Dallas losing Calvin Hill and he is the Calvin Hill of our offense," said Cardinal Coach Don Coryell.

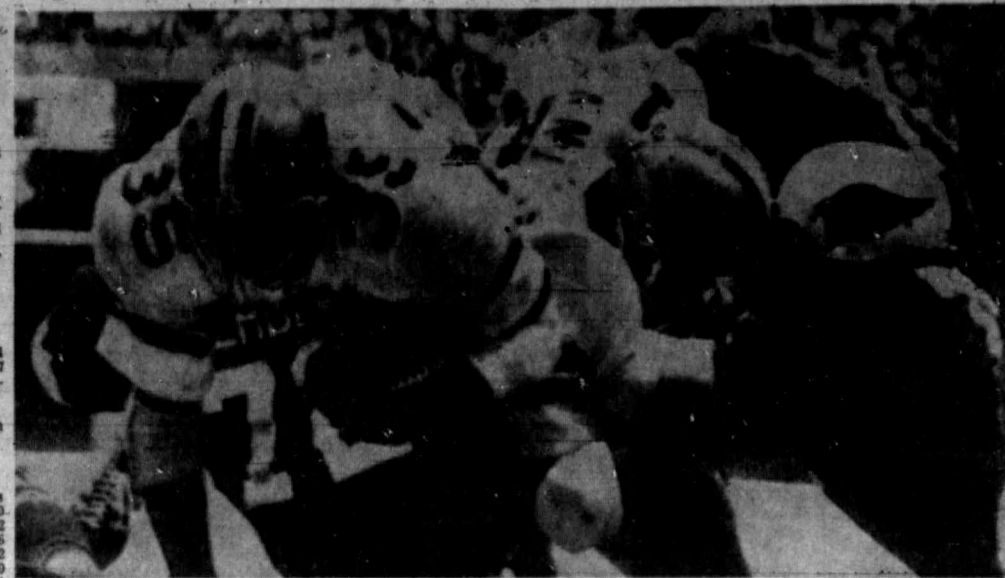

Metcalf said in the dressing room after the game "I doubt if I will be able to play next week."

The Cardinals meet Minnesota in the Monday night television game on Nov. 11.

St. Louis Quarterback Jim Hart nailed tight end Jackie Smith with a 19-yard first-quarter touchdown pass from a 7-0 lead but Dallas tied it just before halftime on Robert Newhouse's two-yard run.

Hart connected with Mel Gray on a 10-yard touchdown pass to push St. Louis ahead 14-7 in the third period, but Dallas rallied again to tie it 14-all on Hill's two-yard gallop.

Then Cowboy quarterback Roger Staubach whipped Dallas 71 yards to get position for Herrera's pressure field goal.

Chicago Puts John Cox To Work... Scouting

John Cox will sputter in protest and cite examples to the contrary, but everybody knows that after the Texas League baseball season is over the Midland Cubs' general manager takes the rest of the year off.

That wasn't the case this year. Along about mid-September, John received a phone call from his boss, Chicago Cub General Manager John Holland, who asked him if he could get away.

John checked his golf calendar, not wishing to appear too anxious, and said he thought he might be free. Holland told him to drop everything and report to St. Louis and scout the National League's contending teams during the final two weeks of the season at St. Louis, Cincinnati and Houston.

When no sympathy was forthcoming, he explained the purpose of the mission. "Chicago just wanted another opinion on players for possible trades during the off season. And after the season, we all got together in Chicago to compare notes. All of the scouts and administrative personnel in the organization were there."

Billy Williams to the Oakland A's for a couple or relief pitchers and a minor league infielder.

"It would have been nice to get a 15 to 20-game winner in exchange for Williams, but he is what, 36, 38 years old, and the last couple of seasons has been susceptible to injuries, so who would give up a big winner."

John already is beginning to make plans for the Chicago-Milwaukee exhibition game, which has been switched from April 5 to April 6, a Sunday. Originally, the teams were to play here Saturday and in Shreveport Sunday, but since Milwaukee no longer is the parent club in Shreveport, the Louisiana date has been dropped.

Chicago will stay in Scottsdale a day longer and hit Albuquerque April 5 and Midland April 6.

The trade which sent Hank Aaron to Milwaukee over the weekend means Midland may see baseball's home run king take aim at the Cubs Stadium barriers.

"Of course, we don't know for sure whether he'll play here, but I'll try to find out something definite at the winter meetings." That will come in a few weeks and it means John again will have to "bite the bullet" and make whatever sacrifices are necessary for those long New Orleans meetings, probably at Pat O'Brien's or Your Father's Mustache.

In Sunday's top game, the Buffalo Bills beat the New England Patriots in a 29-28 thriller to decide the leader in the American Conference East.

Elsewhere, the division leaders in action all won. The Pittsburgh Steelers, leaders in the AFC Central, hammered the Philadelphia Eagles 27-0; the Oakland Raiders, first in the AFC Western, beat the Denver Broncos 28-17, and the Minnesota Vikings, atop the NFC Central, walloped the Chicago Bears 17-0.

In the other games, the Miami Dolphins ripped the Atlanta Falcons 42-7, the Redskins tripped the Green Bay Packers 17-6, the Cincinnati Bengals turned back the Baltimore Colts 24-14, the Houston Oilers trimmed the New York Jets 27-2, the Detroit Lions nudged the New Orleans Saints 19-14, the San Diego Chargers nipped the Cleveland Browns 36-35 and the New York Giants surprised the Kansas City Chiefs 33-27.

Los Angeles, the NFC Western leader, plays San Francisco tonight.

Linebacker Dave Washington ran 72 yards with a pass interception for a touchdown, then blocked a field goal attempt with 50 seconds remaining to help Buffalo win a spine-tingling game from New England. The victory boosted the Bills into sole possession of first place in the AFC East with a 7-1 record.

Jim Plunkett and sprinted down the sideline to put Buffalo in front midway through the third period.

However, the Patriots, who lost a 30-28 decision to the Bills in Buffalo two weeks ago, charged back as Mark Herron capped a 51-yard drive with a short touchdown run later in the period. John Smith kicked the conversion, putting New England in front 28-26. Led by quarterback Joe Ferguson, the Bills moved downfield to set up John Leybold's winning field

Oilers 27, Jets 22
Dan Pastorini threw a 51-yard pass to Ken Burrough to set up Willie Rodgers' winning touchdown run with 1:56 to play in Houston's victory over the New York's Jets.

The Chiefs had the ball inside the Giants' one-yard line when the game ended after quarterback Len Dawson engineered a 77-yard march in eight plays.

McKINLEY PACES 31-27 UPSET— UTEP Stuns Sun Devils

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)—Quarterback Bobby McKinley ran for two fourth-period touchdowns to lead Texas-El Paso to a 31-27 upset over 14th ranked Arizona State University in a crucial Western Athletic Conference football game Saturday night.

McKinley, a junior from El Paso, Tex., completed a 51-yard scoring drive with 13:45 left in the final period by running the ball three yards for a touchdown to put the Miners ahead 22-21.

Four minutes later he ran 41 yards for UTEP's final score. McKinley put Texas-El Paso on the scoreboard first in the game with 8:50 left in the opening period as he tossed a 14-yard pass to split end James Hubbard in the end zone.

The touchdown came after defensive tackle Joe Miller recovered an Arizona State fumble on the Sun Devils' 19-yard line. That was the first of five Arizona State fumbles recovered by Texas-El Paso, which managed to convert four into scores.

Sandwiched between the McKinley-to-Hubbard touchdown and McKinley's first score of the final quarter, UTEP booted field goals of 31, 15, and 51 yards.

Arizona State freshman halfback Fred Williams carried the ball 23 times for 216 yards and two touchdowns, including an 85-yard run on the first play of scrimmage to open the second half. It was Sun Devils' second touchdown of the game and put Arizona State ahead, 21-16, the only time during the game when it had the lead.

Williams also had a six-yard scoring run in the opening period, while Morris Owens caught touchdowns passes from quarterback Dennis Sproul of 32 yards and 54 yards. That 34-yard scoring play came with 8:17 left in the closing.

The loss dropped Arizona State's record to 5-2 and 3-1 in WAC competition.

WARRIORS BEAT BLAZERS—

Cleveland Edges Suns

By The Associated Press
Easy-going Bill Fitch has faced plenty of strange events during his four years as the only coach of the Cleveland Cavaliers, a perennial National Basketball Association loser. Now, he has seen everything.

"It was a peculiar basketball game," said Fitch, known for his sense of humor, after Cleveland edged the visiting Phoenix Suns 104-101 Sunday night.

Both teams played so unusually that it was the most important game of the year," said Rick Barry, who scored 41 points to lead Golden State Warriors to victory against the Portland Trail Blazers.

Barry, who had 14 points to help visiting Golden State to a 39-26 first period lead, praised the Warriors' strong defense. Los Angeles had a string of 12 straight victories against Buffalo. But the visitors' from the East quickly turned things around.

The Braves took a 40-16 edge at the end of the opening period with the aid of 12 points by Bob McAdoo; their 6-foot-10 center who led all scorers with 32 points in the blistering game. In Kansas City, Chet Walker scored 26 points — 20 of them in the second half — to lead the Chicago Bulls to their victory against the Kings. Chicago is 5-3 now and Kansas City Omaha is 1-3.

"We play every game like it is 5-3."

WITH 10-1 ROUT OF MINNESOTA—

'Real' Bruins Break Loose

By The Associated Press
There was never any reason to remind rookie Boston Coach Don Cherry that Phil Esposito is the center who wears No. 7 on his hockey team, or that No. 4 appears on defenseman Bob Orr's back.

Still, it took until Sunday night for Cherry to see what his "real" Bruins looked like. The club had endured a somewhat awkward start, with Esposito scoring 12 and Orr 10 of Boston's 38 goals while the Bruins stumbled to three victories and four ties in their first 10 games.

Sunday night, Cherry looked for a new approach and broke up Esposito's line with Wayne Cashman on the left and Gregg Sheppard on the right in an effort to balance the scoring punch.

To say the least, the maneuver worked. Ten players scored goals — including No. 7 and No. 4, of course — in a 10-1 rout of the Minnesota North Stars as the new coach received his formal introduction to the Boston Bruins.

"That's the kind of team I thought Boston had when I came here," Cherry said. "We saw the real Boston Bruins tonight."

Elsewhere, the Philadelphia Flyers topped the New York Islanders 3-1; the Buffalo Sabres trimmed the New York Rangers 4-3; the Kansas City Scouts nipped the Washington Capitals 5-4, and the Pittsburgh Penguins tied the Chicago Black Hawks 3-3.

The Bruins rained 42 shots on Minnesota goaltender Cesare Maniago, including 20 in a five-goal first period.

NY Nets Defeat Spurs

By The Associated Press
Bill Melchioni was relegated to the end of the bench this season by Mike Gale, Brian Taylor, John Williamson and rookie Al Skinner. But Sunday he had 10 assists, seven of them in the last quarter when he helped the Nets hold off a San Antonio rally that drew the Spurs to within five points. He also had six points and two steals.

"I don't understand what everybody's making a big deal about," said Loughery. "He's part of our team. I haven't called anybody to try to get rid of him."

lead and the Spurs rallied but never caught up. Julius Erving was the high scorer for the Nets with 31 points and Brian Taylor, who had eight of the Nets' first 15 points, wound up with 23. George Gervin led the Spurs with 31 and center Swen Nater added 17 points and 22 rebounds.

Artis Gilmore scored 22 points to lead the Kentucky Colonels to their 25th consecutive victory over the Memphis franchise.

Rick Mount of Memphis took game scoring honors with 27. The Sounds took their only lead of the game at 93-92, but then Ted McClain scored six points for Kentucky and the Colonels never again trailed.

Green-McLendon Win

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Hubert Green, winner of four titles and more than $207,000 this season, ranks as one of pro golf's outstanding young players.

He ticked off his schedule for the rest of the year: a Monday fight to Australia for a tournament, then to New Zealand, with maybe a stop in Hong Kong. Then to Japan for two more tournaments.

Mac McLendon, Green's partner in their successful assault on the $250,000 National Team Championship, had just broken out of a dismal, four-year slump and had a happier, much less complicated schedule for the rest of the season.

"I'm gonna go home and drink a little beer," McLendon said.

The old friends from Birmingham, Ala., combined for a final round 64 Sunday and a one-stroke triumph in the unique event in which scoring is based on the team's better ball on each hole. They finished with a 255 total, a whopping 33 strokes under par on the 7,162-yard Magnolia course within sight of the towers and turrets of Walt Disney World.

Incredible Sam Snead, whose legendary career spans four decades and stretches back to the dark Depression days of the 1930s, and nephew J.C. Snead tied for second with Bert Yancey and Ed Sneed at 256.

Sam and J.C. had a final round 64 while Yancey and Sneed, the third-round leaders, had to birdie the final hole for a 67.

Almost unbelievably, old Sam finished with the best money-winning total of his career. He's been the leading money winner three times but most of his record 84 official tour titles were accumulated when purses were but a tiny fraction of the amount now offered.

He was second in the Los Angeles Open this year, challenged strongly for two other titles and finished the year with $55,000 in winnings in only a handful of appearances.

John Schlee and Bobby Cole of South Africa followed with 65-257.

Jack Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf never really got in the chase. They finished with 66-260. Johnny Miller, winner of eight tournaments and Player of the Year honors this season, and Grier Jones had 64-262. Arnold Palmer and Lanny Wadkins got to within one shot of

Hull Finds Midas Touch

By The Associated Press
Winnipeg's Golden Jet, Bobby Hull, has found the Midas touch for scoring. So, that matter, have the rest of the Jets, who crushed the Michigan Stags 11-3 Sunday night.

The victory was the second straight in which Winnipeg reached double figures. They pounded the Toronto Toros 10-1 Friday night in their last World Hockey Association game, then Hull scored twice and added three assists to pace the triumph Sunday.

The performance gave Hull eight goals in the last three games, raised his total to 10 for the season, and the assists brought his league-leading scoring mark to 17 points in seven games. It was the fifth consecutive home victory for the Jets, who have cruised to six victories and a loss in their seven games to take over the lead in the WHA's Canadian Division.

In other games Sunday night, the Edmonton Oilers dropped the Indianapolis Racers 3-1 and the San Diego Mariners topped the Vancouver Blazers 6-2.

Anders Hedberg, Veli Pekka Ketola and Danny Spring had two goals apiece for the Jets, who took 42 shots on net. Gary Veneruzzo, Brian McDonald and Jacques Locas scored for the Stags.

Ken Baird broke a 1-1 tie at 11:18 of the middle period and Ron Climie added an insurance goal into an empty net as the Oilers handed the expansion Racers their seventh loss in games. It was the fifth consecutive home victory for the In-Jets, who have cruised to six

Prospect Of Coal Strike Forces Market Downward

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly today, amid concern over the prospect of a nationwide coal strike.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 10.71 at 654.57, and losers led gainers by about 5 to 2 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts traced the selling to the breakdown of contract talks between the coal industry and the United Mine Workers union Sunday evening. Most of the declines came in the first half-hour of the session, after which the market leveled off and quieted down.

Whirlpool was the most-active NYSE issue, down 1 at 14.4.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index lost 48 to 69.30.

The tool was open 90 minutes on the test taken from 10,654-10,763 feet, on which gas surfaced in four minutes on a 3/4-inch choke, flowing after 30 minutes, at the rate of 5.888 million cubic feet per day, and increasing to the maximum rate at the end of the test.

Flowing pressure was 2,408-2,800 pounds; 90-minute initial and four-hour final shut-in pressures were 4,457 pounds.

The project, scheduled as an 11,200-foot Morrow test, was bottomed at 10,960 feet, and operator was preparing to run another drillstem test.

Earlier, a drillstem test, probably in the Strawn, from 9,326-9,420 feet, recovered 110 feet of drilling fluid, and a subsequent test from 9,750-9,910 feet flowed gas at the rate of 66,000 cubic feet per day and recovered 990 feet of slightly gas-cut drilling fluid.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 3-21-26, six miles northwest of Carlsbad.

The dual strike, Fasken No. 1-3 El Paso-Federal, finalized in December, 1973, for 37 million cubic feet of gas daily, through Strawn perforations at 9,847-9,922 feet, and in June, 1974 from the Morrow, for 9.3 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations at 10,708-10,726 feet.

Ford Backing Off On Plans To Lease 10 Million Offshore Acres Each Year

By STAN BENJAMIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration has quietly started backing off from former President Richard M. Nixon's orders to lease 10 million offshore acres a year for oil and gas development, starting in 1975.

Last January, Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton talked of leasing "10 million acres a year for a couple of years."

Last Friday, in an exclusive interview, Morton said that goal spurred preparations for increased leasing, but "I'm not aiming today at 10 million acres. I'm aiming to find out where the oil is, and where it is not."

Deputy undersecretary Jared G. Carter also declined in a recent interview to stand by the 10-million acre goal.

Their caution contrasts sharply with Nixon's unmistakable command, expressed in an energy message to Congress last Jan. 23:

"Today I am directing the Secretary of the Interior to increase the acreage leased on the Outer Continental Shelf to 10 million acres beginning in 1975, more than tripling what had originally been planned."

One thing that happened to change the bold determination to sudden caution was the publication of a report by the National Petroleum Council, an industry-government advisory group.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Shah of Iran will make a "friendly visit" to the Soviet Union later this month, according to the Soviet news agency Tass. The agency said Sunday that the Shah was invited by the President of the U.S.S.R. and the Soviet government.

Early new production news seems more likely in the Gulf of Mexico, already well-explored and highly developed.

Wounded Officer Says She's 'Glad'

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — A sniper's bullet left a small crease on the side of her head but Paula Zitelberger, one of St. Petersburg's seven policewomen, is unperturbed. "I wonder what she's thinking about."

"Every policeman thinks about getting shot, worries about it," she said. "In a way I'm glad it's out of the way. Now I can quit thinking about it, get it off my mind, and go on. It might even make me a better police officer, because the worst has already happened."

Mrs. Zitelberger was wounded as she stepped out of a police cruiser to check on a family disturbance recently.

A 26-year-old divorcee with two children, she joined the police department only a couple of months ago after 15 months as a parking enforcement officer.

Vandals slash tires, seat covers

Approximately $200 worth of damage was done Sunday by vandals to a car owned by Rylene Booth, 210-B Mitchell St.

She told officers the car had been pushed from her residence by another vehicle into the 2600 block of Roosevelt Street, where the tires and seat covers were slashed.

MIDLANDER GUEST SPEAKER—

Marker To Pinpoint Gas Discovery

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story on the discovery well of the first commercial gas discovery in West Texas is reproduced from a recent issue of the Albany News.

By AUDREY PARKER BROOKS
Albany News Staff

An official Texas Historical Marker will be erected at the intersection of State Highway 6 and FM 576 in Moran on Nov. 10. This marker will commemorate the old Texas Co.'s No. 1 Cottle, the first commercial natural gas well in Shackelford County and in the vast area of West Texas.

The Moran Historical Survey Committee will be in charge of the placing of the marker.

Many men were concerned in the leasing, drilling and finally, in the production of this discovery well, but of the many only one is yet living. This hardy pioneer of the petroleum industry is Granville A. Plummer of Midland. Plummer dismisses his part in the well as "small" but 42½ years of work in the petroleum industry resulted from this "small part."

When the No. 1 Cottle was "spudded in" on September 23, 1909, a few new jobs were created for the residents of the bucolic village of Moran. One of these jobs was furnishing a daily supply of drinking water to the drilling crew. Guy Gillespie, son of one of Moran's doctors and an enterprising 11-year-old, made a contract with the men to deliver five gallons of fresh water each day to the drilling site two miles northeast of Moran. Young Gillespie, not wishing to work every day, hired another youngster to help him with the deliveries. That young man was Granville A. Plummer, and thus he was introduced to a business little older than himself.

After completing his schooling Plummer began his long career with the petroleum industry. On July 12, 1920, he began work for The Texas Co. Natural Gas Department and in October of that year Plummer was transferred to the Texas Co. Parks Camp near Breckenridge. This was the era of the "Big Oil Boom" and Parks Camp was a thriving little community.

In September 1921 Plummer was moved to Breckenridge where he worked under the supervision of Howard O. Waters until 1926. At that time The Texas Co. Production Department took over the National Gas Department and sent Plummer to Eastland. In 1927 the company was sold to the Lone Star Gas Co. In 1952 this company sent Granville Plummer to Midland as the exploration manager and he remained in this position until his retirement on Feb. 1, 1963.

In a letter written in 1959 to W. G. Webb Jr. of Albany, Plummer was reminiscent about the early days of the Moran gas field. He said, "I well remember when old Moran was in the form of a square and they put up an 84 foot riser and burned a flare that you could see for miles. It was said at that time that they had enough gas to supply the world. Then when they decided to lay a line to Abilene, some of the citizens there said that if they laid 6- or 8-inch line that they would never get it full; that they should lay a 2-inch line so they could fill it up."

Plummer is a native of Southeast Shackelford County. On November 10, Plummer's association with the old Cottle No. 1 will come full circle, when he will be guest speaker at the dedication of the Historical Marker commemorating the discovery of West Texas' first commercial gas well.

Plummer is a native of Moran, a son of the late Samuel Rezin and Lou Ellen Pritchard Plummer, pioneer settlers of

Few Black Candidates Due To Win Congressional Seats In Elections

By MIKE MOORE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Black candidates are seeking office in record numbers this year, but few are expected to win new seats in Congress. The most significant victories are likely to be on the state level.

For the first time ever, blacks may be elected lieutenant governor, in California and Colorado.

But only one black, a heavy underdog, has major party backing for a Senate seat, and any black gains in the House of Representatives are expected to be small.

In Colorado, George L. Brown, after 20 years as a state senator, seeks the No. 2 state office on a Democratic ticket headed by Richard Lamm. Polls give them a slight lead over the Republican team of Gov. John Vanderhoof and acting Lt. Gov. Ted Strickland. The race issue has not been raised openly in the campaign, but Brown says, "Most Colorado citizens have racism to a lesser degree."

Brown, who is also director of the Metropolitan Denver Urban Coalition, is stressing his experience.

In California, the governor and lieutenant governor do not run as a ticket, but State Sen. Merwyn Dymally, a native of Trinidad, expects help from the expected victory of Democratic gubernatorial candidate Edmund G. "Jerry" Brown Jr.

Post Vacated

Dymally, who represents a low-income section of Los Angeles in the state legislature, was chairman of the Democratic caucus before he quit to run for California's second-highest state office.

His opponent is conservative Republican John Harmer, recently appointed lieutenant governor by Gov. Ronald Reagan after Ed Reinecke stepped down following a perjury conviction.

Dymally was asked if he thought Harmer was trying to let voters know Dymally is black.

"We appear on tv," Dymally said. "We never try to hide the fact that I am black. We are not troubled by that."

3 Run For Senate

Blacks have served as lieutenant governors in South Carolina and Louisiana through appointment during the Reconstruction era; Louisiana's P. B. S. Pinchback was acting governor for 43 days in 1872.

No blacks have a major-party designation in a race for governor. Minor-party black nominees are on the ballots in Nebraska and New York. In Georgia, a black man is conducting a write-in campaign for governor.

Three blacks seek U.S. Senate seats.

Brooke Not Running

In Connecticut, Republican James H. Brannen III is running an uphill battle against incumbent Democrat Abraham Ribicoff, who is seeking his third term. The airline pilot and former one-term state legislator is the first black to receive the Senate nod from either major party in that state.

Blacks are running on Communist party tickets for Senate seats in Illinois and New York. The only current black senator, Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., is not up for re-election this year.

In House elections, the 15 incumbent black representatives — all Democrats — are expected to win re-election, as is nonvoting Delegate Walter Fauntroy of the District of Columbia. The Joint Center for Political Studies says two other blacks — both Democrats — facing white incumbent Republicans have good chances.

They are Matthew J. Perry, a civil rights lawyer from Columbia, S.C., who seeks to unseat Rep. Floyd Spence in that state's 2nd District, and Harold E. Ford, a state representative running against Rep. Dan Kuykendall in Tennessee's 8th District.

In all, 53 blacks are running for House seats as opposed to 44 who ran in 1972. They hope to represent 32 different districts in 18 states and the District of Columbia.

The 15 blacks expected to be re-elected are Reps. Charles Rangel and Shirley Chisholm, both D-N.Y.; Parren Mitchell, D-Md.; Robert Nix, D-Pa.; Louis Stokes, D-Ohio; John Conyers Jr. and Charles C. Diggs, both D-Mich.; Cardiss Collins and Ralph Metcalfe, both D-Ill.; William Clay, D-Mo.; Barbara Jordan, D-Ga.; and Ronald Dellums, Augustus Hawkins and Yvonne Braithwaite Burke, all D-Calif.

How to Tell If Your Car's Battery is Going Dead.

There may be no warning.

In the days of the old six-volt batteries, there usually was some warning. A grinding starter, slower than usual turnover, then... frustration. But in today's systems you can turn the key anytime and... nothing. No warning. No power. No nothing.

Unfortunately, testing the life in your car's battery isn't a do-it-yourself sort of job. It takes special equipment. Equip your Chevron Dealer's got that you probably haven't. So, let him do the work. For free. It only takes a few minutes to see how much life there is left in your car's battery and charging system, and knowing will save you both time and frustration.

In 1879, a patent for the cash register was granted to J. J. Ritty of Dayton, Ohio.

In 1884, Democrat Grover Cleveland was elected President.

In 1931, the League of Nations accused Japan of aggression in Manchuria.

In 1944, the World War II allies announced that Greece had been completely liberated from the Nazis.

Ten years ago: The former Mayor of Saigon, Tran Van Huong, was installed as Premier of South Vietnam.

Five years ago: Two jetliners, one Nicaraguan and one Brazilian, were hijacked to Cuba.

One year ago: Sen. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts became the first Republican Senator to publicly urge the resignation of President Nixon.

Today's birthdays: Comedian Art Carney is 56 years old. Painter and scenic designer Eugene Berman is 75.

Brooks Trial Sanity Jury Being Chosen

HOUSTON (AP) — The slow process of picking a jury was to begin today in a mental competency hearing for David Owen Brooks, 19, charged in four of the 27th deaths of young teenagers known as the Houston mass murders.

Lawyers will interrogate each of the potential jurors separately about their attitudes toward the case before picking 12 persons to decide if Brooks is now sane.

Testimony Next Week

District Court Judge William Hatten has set aside this week for picking a jury, with testimony due to start next Monday. Almost all the testimony is expected to come from psychiatrists and psychologists hired by the state and defense.

If the jury finds Brooks able to assist in his own defense, Judge Hatten will set a trial date. Ted Musick, the defendant's lawyer, has already said he will seek a change of venue. He said he might also consider accepting a deal offered by the state and plead guilty to all charges in return for a 99-year sentence.

If found insane, Brooks would be placed in a state mental hospital until he is judged competent and can stand trial.

Charged In Four Deaths

Brooks is charged in the deaths of four youths who lived—as he did—in the Heights neighborhood of Houston. Brooks has given police three statements in which he admitted procuring the young men for homosexual parties and watching them being raped, tortured and killed. He has denied taking part in the killings, blaming them on Elmer Wayne Henley, 18, and Dean A. Corll, 33.

Corll was shot to death June 8, 1973, by Henley during a sex party at Corll's home. Corll's slaying was ruled self defense. In days following the shooting, Brooks and Henley led officers to the graves of 27 teen-aged males at three different sites.

Brooks is accused of murdering Billy Ray Lawrence, 15, Johnny DeLone, 16, James Eugene Glass, 14, and Ruben Willford Watson, 17.

CARPET TALK
by MOFFATT CARPETS

ARE SHAGS only at home in contemporary rooms? Not so, as today's decorators and homeowners are discovering more and more. This lushly long and thick weave and texture is taking the field by storm because shags go beautifully in any room or with any period of decor.

Color is one way shags adapt to almost any style. Choose a range of pinks, for instance, and you move into a mood suitable to the most elegant French or Italian Provincial room. Or try pale blues or lavender for subtle effects.

Turn to reds and rusts, or to mixes of brown and gold, and your Early American furnishings will be right at home, the warmth of the shaggy carpet complementing the warm simplicity of the furniture perfectly.

Or go modern as you like with cool greens and happy yellows, sophisticated whites or even a fire engine red. The colors are wonderfully varied, and blends of different shades or even contrasting colors are especially popular now.

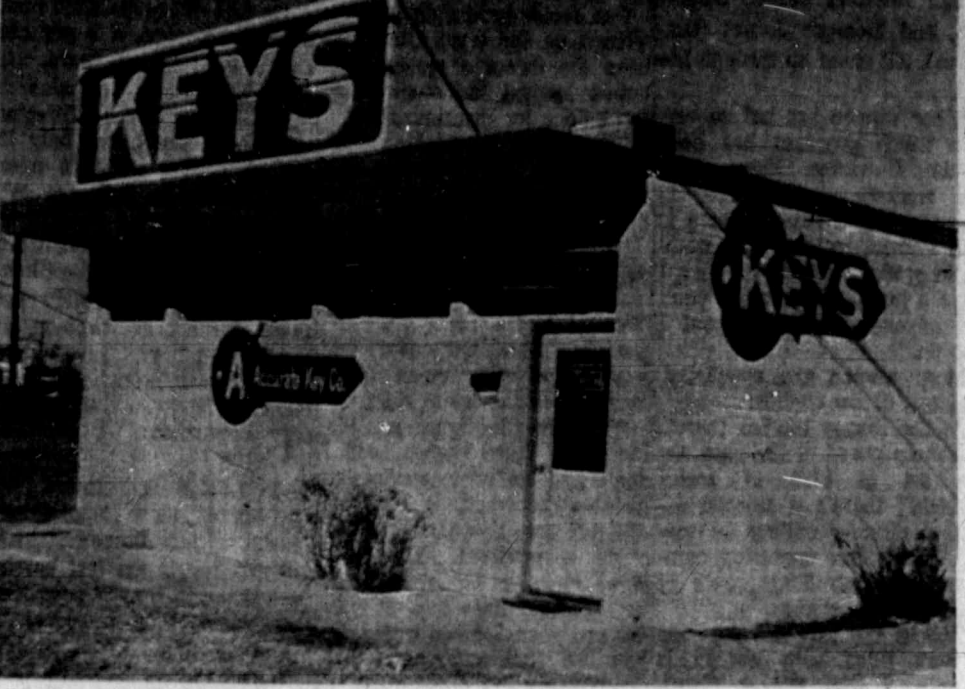

Shags can be anything you want — and whatever you want in a shag, you'll find it in our handsome carpet collection. You'll get great value, too, and buy with confidence from carpet specialists.

Family Court Gets Criticism

NEW YORK (AP) — After six months on the bench, Simon Golar, former New York City commissioner of human rights, says the family court is "an absurd process" with a noble mission it can no longer fulfill. He told a symposium here that because of recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions, defense maneuvers and administrative procedures, tens of thousands of youngsters who reach juvenile court are neither punished nor rehabilitated but are in fact educated in disrespect and contempt for the law. He recommended that "we start talking again about right and wrong and about accountability" and that "we acknowledge that punishment within limits can be appropriate."

Auto Registration Heads For Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—Despite higher prices for cars and gasoline, auto registrations are expected to reach a record high of 105.3 million this year, says Donald S. Knight, executive director of the Road Information Program. This is a 3.4 per cent increase over the 101.8 million autos registered in 1973.

Economic Signs Vary

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — That rising jobless rate and the decline in prime interest rates are signals that the U.S. economy is undergoing a change that will bring both pleasure and pain over the next year.

Shortages are being replaced by abundance in some supplies as consumer interest tapers off. Inventories of unsold goods are beginning to pile up in warehouses, and that means pressure for lower prices.

Corporations are curtailing borrowing plans, fearful that an economic downturn will leave them overextended. Individuals, too, are trying to cut their borrowing and pay off their loans.

Jobless Rate To Rise

As the demand for money eases, interest rates are likely to continue falling. With economic activity continuing to dry up, at least in comparison with the bloated economy of the past few years, the jobless rate is headed relentlessly, inevitably higher.

Here are some recent comments by economists of influential business and financial institutions regarding jobs, interest rates and the rate of inflation:

Consumer prices might increase by 8 to 9 per cent in 1975, the Bank of America states, compared with a rise for 1974 that it puts at 10.5 per cent.

In its "Focus on the Economy—1975" the bank didn't state a specific jobless figure but referred to "moderately high unemployment during a year of little real economic growth."

Inflation Prediction
The First National City Bank, second only to Bank of America among the nation's largest commercial banks, believes an easing of inflation will begin to show up in the Consumer Price Index by the first quarter of 1975.

Citibank economists say they still look for a drop in the inflation rate to 6 per cent in the early part of 1975. The Commerce Department put the inflation rate at 11.5 per cent in the three months that ended with September.

Lionel D. Edie & Co., the economic research and consulting arm of Merrill Lynch, the world's largest brokerage house, foresees a drop in the cost of borrowing money to as low as 9 per cent by December.

Nearly 60 per cent of American families have at least one pet.

Directing Still Man's World--For Now

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Joanna Lee is an accomplished screen writer, an Emmy winner for "The Waltons." Like all screen writers, she would like to have more control over execution of her scripts, and that means becoming a producer or director.

Trouble is, she's a woman.

"I think of my peer group, the ones I started with in the Writers Guild 15 years ago," she says. "All of them are producing or directing now. I'm not, because I'm a woman."

"I say that not with any hostility; I understand the resistance to putting women in decision-making positions.

"This is a consciousness that has been previously established, and it takes time to change people's notions."

Unwilling to wait for that change, she went to Greece with a small crew to make her own film that might show studio bosses what she can do.

"A Pocket Filled with Dreams" is the movie, filmed 18 months ago with $150,000 of her own money and loans from friends.

She played the leading role herself, that of the divorced mother taking her 4-year-old to visit his expatriate father. The film is being processed, and she plans to show it in studios soon.

Joanna Lee is typical of a new generation of women seeking to end the long male domination of Hollywood production. She is doing it the hard way, by making her own movie. Others are working within the establishment, trying to advance to more important jobs.

Film and television companies have been run by men through most of their history. Except for actresses, the only women in production were script clerks, wardrobe and makeup women.

"The industry is wide open to women now," is the optimistic word from Tichi Wilkerson Miles, publisher of the Hollywood Reporter and founder of an information and discussion group, Women in Film.

"If a woman wants to make a move upward in the business, this is the best time. We now have four women vice presidents in the movie companies," she says.

The vice presidents are Rhonda Gomez at 20th Century-Fox; Nessa Hyams, Warner Bros.; Rosalind Heller, Columbia, and Monique James, Universal. All came up through the ranks.

Other women are not so certain much progress has been made. Giovanna Nigro, who has worked as a director in documentaries, says, "There is still a great resistance to women in production. Even though I have a product to show, I can't get anyone to look at what I can do."

More women are appearing, at least, at the studios.

At the Disney Studios there's a woman guard at the gate. On the set of the tv series "Rhoda" there's a woman assistant director calling for quiet. Women are operating cameras and controlling panels at the television studios.

"About the only category we haven't filled with women is plumber," says Robert Hagel, who runs the big Burbank Studios. "And if Jane Wither is available, we might hire her."

One factor producing jobs for women on the West Coast has been the threat of government action against the studios and the unions for discrimination.

"Hollywood is catching up," says Julia Phillips, who won an Oscar for co-producing "The Sting."

"When I came out here three years ago, I thought Hollywood was seven years behind New York. I had come out of the publishing and advertising worlds, where women have long played important roles.

"Now the film industry is hiring many more women, and I don't find an enormous resistance to the trend. It's not too difficult for a woman to become a producer. You need some cash, a bit of business acumen and lines into publishing and young screen writers so you can find a property like 'The Sting,' as we did."

Jobs are also increasing for women screen writers. The Writers Guild of America reports that 463 of its 3,000 members are women, a 3 per cent rise in the past two years.

But directing remains a man's world. The Directors Guild of America has only 169 women among its 4,100 members. That's an increase over previous years, but most of the additions serve in television or as assistant directors on films.

"It's part of the guild's program to encourage training and hiring of women," says Joseph C. Youngerman, national executive secretary. "But we can only encourage; we don't do the hiring."

Ida Lupino and Elaine May are almost alone among successful women directors.

"Directing is the last barrier for women in films," says Nessa Hyams, vice president in charge of West Coast production at Warners. "I don't know why that should be so. Perhaps there is the feeling that a woman can't command a movie set, that she might say 'Action!' and the guys on the crew would just look at her.

"But I think that's going to change."

The American Film Institute, which has been accused of favoring males in its film maker training program, has announced that it will train women as directors.

Funded by the Rockefeller Foundation, the program will enlist 12 women to study techniques of direction. Among the 12 are Julia Phillips, the first woman producer to win an Oscar; Joanna Lee; Giovanna Nigro; Miss Hyams, and actresses Kathleen Nolan, Nancy Walker, Lee Grant, Ellen Burstyn, Susan Oliver and Lily Tomlin.

"Our biggest problem is that women are not ready to do a lot of things in the industry," says publisher Miles.

Italy Tourist Bargain Land

MILAN, Italy (AP) — American travelers trying to get the most for their constantly shrinking dollars will find Italy full of bargains, despite an inflation rate that is the worst in Western Europe.

The inflation rate in Italy is almost 25 per cent compared to about 7 per cent in West Germany and about 12 per cent in the United States.

The rising cost of living has caused repeated protests — demonstrators in Milan broke into two supermarkets recently to call attention to the high cost of food.

An American, however, will find prices far below those at home or in other large European cities.

A taxi ride of about 20 blocks costs $1.50, including tip, in Milan, about half the fare for a comparable distance in New York City.

Mass transit — subway, bus and trolley — is efficient and inexpensive, especially for the foreigner. The subway, opened less than 10 years ago, runs from 5:30 a.m. to 1:30 a.m.; trolley and bus schedules vary according to the route — check the signs posted at the stops.

A room for two at a first-class hotel in Milan costs about $35 plus tax; luxury hotels can cost $50 or more. Avoid sending out laundry if you can — a week's assortment of shirts and underwear can cost $30.

Italy is still one of the few countries where wine — sold by the carafe, at least — is cheaper than water. A large carafe of table wine in a modest restaurant will cost about $1; two cups of coffee cost about $1.20. Wine by the bottle starts at about $3.

If you do want water, order a bottle of mineral water; the local water tastes fine, but it's difficult to convince a waiter you really want a glass of plain tap water.

Dinner in an expensive restaurant runs about $30 for two, including wine and tip. You can eat well, however, for as little as $10 for two.

There are a few problems for the tourist, however. Cigarettes are expensive — almost 80 cents a pack — so bring them from home. Small coins are difficult to obtain. The smallest bill is 500 lire — the equivalent of about 75 cents. There is a shortage of coins and shopkeepers are reluctant to part with 100 or 50 lire coins — the equivalent of about 15 and 7 cents, respectively.

Communists Want U.S. To Ante More For U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Cuba and the Soviet Bloc want the United States to pay the United Nations more than $25 million for losses caused by inflation and devaluation of the dollar.

The General Assembly is debating a report showing that inflation will add $17.9 million to the world organization's costs this year, and currency fluctuations will add another $9.5 million. This is about one-tenth of the U.N. budget.

Cuba has introduced a resolution that says "losses experienced by organizations in the U.N. system" due to inflation and currency changes "shall be borne by the developed countries in which these organizations have their headquarters." Another Cuban resolution calls for the transfer of U.N. funds from American banks to "currencies that are not in crisis."

"Pure economic fantasy," said one U.S. official.

The first resolution applies mainly to the United States, which is the site of the main U.N. headquarters. The country with the next largest number of U.N. offices is Switzerland.
