COURT RULES AGAINST WOMEN JURORS

CISCO MAN IN ALBANY JAIL ON A CHARGE OF BURGLARY

A man who gave his name as Ben Chaney and his home as Cisco was arrested Sunday morning in Baird by Sheriff W. M. Biggs of Shackelford county and is now in jail in Albany on a charge of burglary. The complaint upon which the man was arrested was sworn to by Sheriff Biggs.

The arrest followed the burglarizing of the home of R. A. Elliott at Moran Sunday morning between the hours of 2 and 3 a. m. Several burglaries at Eolian are believed to have been committed by the same man who entered the Elliott home. In all there was some $200 worth of valuables taken. Two watches were stolen from the Elliott home. Chaney denies guilt. No examining trial has been held.

MORE ACTIVITY SHOWN IN NEAR BY OIL FIELDS

RECKENRIDGE, Nov. 16.—The freight offices of both the Cisco & Northeastern and the Hamon road report a continued betterment in incoming freight shipments. This is especially true regarding less than carlots of oil well supplies. This class of freight has shown a decided increase in the past 30 days, it is said. Such an increase naturally reflects renewed activity in the oil fields.

It is pointed out that the large supply houses here carry in stock a vast assortment of oil field goods with which to supply the demand, and during the summer shipments to these houses almost ceased, due to the inactive oil development. Naturally, when stock began to move it had to be replaced. The less than car lot shipments represent everything except casing. This comes in car lots, and is also on the increase though the oil companies have on hand hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of it.

TO DISCUSS PLAN FOR IMPROVING FARMING METHOD

Every business man who can possibly do so and others who are interested are invited to meet at the court house in Eastland Saturday afternoon for the purpose of discussing the "United Campaign for Better Agriculture."

According to a letter received yesterday by Secretary Richardson of the local chamber of commerce from O. M. Crenshaw, the commercial secretary at Ranger, the bankers, farmers and business men of the country are giving their support to this movement.

E. F. Shropshire, secretary manager for the campaign, states its purposes as follows:

"We have designated Saturday, November 19 as the Texas Live at Home Day, on which we are calling on each individual farmer, banker, merchant and business man of every county in the state to meet at their county court house at 1 p. m. for the purpose of discussing the agricultural problems confronting us and repudiating ourselves to a sane, diversified program for 1922."

The meeting in Eastland will be presided over by H. L. Breisford, county chairman.

CLASS MEETING POSTPONED.
The meeting of the teachers' training class of the First Methodist church has been postponed until Friday evening at 7 o'clock. It has been the custom of the class to meet at the church each Wednesday evening after prayer meeting. The meeting time is changed this week on account of the lyceum number that is to be presented tonight.

JURY TO TRY FATTY NEARS COMPLETION

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—The trial of Roseape Arbuckle, motion picture comedian who is charged with the death of Virginia Rappe on September 5 entered the third day this morning with the jury nearing completion.

Local interest in the case is evidenced by the fact that every seat in the court room and all the available standing room is taken. Eleven members from the venire, five of them women, have been tentatively accepted.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—Charges that District Attorney Matthew Brady forced witnesses to testify to certain things against Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, under threats of throwing them into jail, were made yesterday by Gavin McNabb, Arbuckle's chief counsel. McNabb declared, "on his word of honor," that he would prove his charges on the testimony of seven witnesses.

Brady said that, if such a thing were proved, he would resign.

It was the opening gun in the campaign of the defense to show that the manslaughter charge against the fat comedian of the films in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe is a "frame-up."

One prospective juror actually said he thought Charlie Chaplin was a better actor than Arbuckle. Another of the panel was excused because he had a fixed opinion that could not be shaken. The judge asked him: "What if you were to return a verdict now, without hearing any evidence, what would that verdict be?"

"Would Acquit Him."

"Not guilty," said the venireman. "He was excused for cause. Too bad. 'Fatty' could use him and 11 others like him."

Only seven of the panel were examined yesterday—one a woman. Two men were excused for cause. The others were "passed," which means that they must remain in the box until accepted as jurors or excused on peremptory challenge. Counsel for defense and prosecution argued over the proper questioning of witnesses. Assistant District Attorney Milton U'Ren, becoming exceedingly bitter at times. He objected to words and phrases by McNabb.

F A R EASTERN QUESTIONS ARE TAKEN UP AT PEACE MEET

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—With the American arms reduction referred to the committee of naval advisers of the five great powers as accepted for the fundamental policy of naval armaments, the Washington peace conference turned its attention today to consideration of the questions of the Far East.

A detailed statement of China's interests and the attitude in regard to Far Eastern questions was made today by Minister Sze to the committee on the Pacific Far Eastern questions at its first meeting.

No program for the consideration of the Far Eastern questions has been agreed upon as yet by the heads of the delegations from the nine powers. Delegates of the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy, China, Belgium, Portugal and the Netherlands will meet later and frame the order of procedure.

There was no response from the Japanese after China presented her view of the situation. Although some general discussion developed, the other powers represented reserved their detailed statement of opinions until later. The maintenance of the open door in China, Sze said to have been urged by Minister Sze, who also spoke strongly for the abolition of the secret treaties affecting China.

BRINGING IN ANOTHER WELL IN HART POOL

There is every indication that the Hart well No. 2 on the Hart ranch in the northwestern edge of Palo Pinto county about fifty miles northeast of Cisco is going to make a splendid producer. The well is located on the Hart Brothers of Cisco and their mother. It is about a mile west of the Hart No. 1, the discovery well in this pool which is about ninety days old and which is still holding up splendidly.

The No. 2 had not been drilled in when the last reports were received here, but it flowed natural 200 barrels in twelve hours without being cleaned out. The time in which the Hart No. 1 is producing at about 3100 feet was gone through in the No. 2 and a real oil sand was penetrated slightly. As soon as the driller felt from the drill that the well was in a sand the drill was pulled out of the hole and the well was bailed for a short time when it began flowing.

The Hart Oil corporation is making preparations to drill three more wells just as soon as possible. Drilling operations are handicapped by lack of water and by lack of rail transportation to the field. The Cisco & Northeastern is planning to build into the field just as soon as the management considers the field sufficiently proven to justify this extension. The prospects for the new field are very bright.

MRS. CONNELLEE OF EASTLAND DIES IN DALLAS

EASTLAND, Nov. 16.—Word was received here last night telling of the death in Dallas at 6:45 last evening of Mrs. Tullia Connellee, wife of C. U. Connellee, prominent land owner and oil man of Eastland. Mrs. Connellee's death came following an operation.

Mrs. Connellee and Mr. Connellee have been closely identified with the history of Eastland county for the last thirty years. They are both known throughout the county and have a host of friends.

Mr. Connellee came to this county from Kentucky when the county seat was located at Merriman. Mr. Connellee was one of the three men who laid out the town of Eastland and secured the location of the county seat there. He met Mrs. Connellee while serving in the legislature in 1899 and they were married during his term in the legislature. Mrs. Connellee was the daughter of General Hardeeman who was a prominent figure in the Confederate army during the civil war. Her mother died when she was a child and she was reared by her aunt, Mrs. T. W. Foltz of Austin. She was known by her aunt's name before she was married.

Mrs. Connellee was a life long friend of Mrs. J. J. Butts of Cisco. Mrs. Butts who is attending the state federation of Women's Clubs in Fort Worth was notified this morning of Mrs. Connellee's death and she will probably go to Austin to attend the funeral.

Mr. Connellee is a large land holder in Eastland county and owns considerable real estate in the town of Eastland. He has considerable oil interests in the county and is probably one of the county's wealthiest citizens.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Connellee is survived by a step daughter, Mrs. John Gray of Oklahoma City, her aunt, Mrs. Foltz of Austin, Will Foltz of Austin, and Mrs. W. F. Seabright of Austin, cousins.

IOWA TOWN BOASTS IT DOES NOT POSSESS CHURCHES WHICH MOST TOWNS TAKE PRIDE IN HAVING

DAVENPORT, Ia., Nov. 16.—There are two institutions that Walcott, Ia., prides itself in not possessing. These are churches and jails.

In its religious beliefs, Walcott is unique. For more than 50 years the town has been without a church. It once had a jail, but, like its only church established 65 years ago and which existed but a few years, it was put in the discard. While the jail building still stands, there is no vestige of a church edifice. But there are no locks to the jail and its hinges have rotted off. It is never used.

"We are free thinkers and believe in free American citizenship seven days a week. We do not need preachers to dictate to us. We are better off without them," states Mayor Ströbelen in explaining Walcott's lack of churches.

Mayor Ströbelen states that while any denomination has the privilege of establishing a church in Walcott, the people simply will not patronize them. They would have empty pews and empty collection baskets every Sunday.

"We are getting along very well as we are—much better than with churches. We like to be let alone. There is no more peaceful or law abiding town in the whole United States."

In his hearing the city will be represented by the law firm of Butts & Wright and by Judge L. H. McCrea, the attorney member of the city commission. The attorneys for the city feel confident that the city's contention will be upheld in the hearing tomorrow and that the disposal of the case will enable the city to go ahead with its program at Lake Cisco.

Mrs. Strickland is survived by her husband and a daughter two years of age. She and her husband came to Eastland from Palestine three years ago and lived in this city for some two years and made many friends here, whose hearts go out to the bereaved husband in this time of sorrow. The family had been living in Southwest Texas for the past year for the benefit of Senator Strickland's health, and there had been no intimation in regard to Mrs. Strickland's condition, so far as friends here knew. Senator Strickland and Mrs. Funderburg are brother and sister.

AUSTIN, Nov. 16.—Five convictions from the McLennan county courts were reversed and dismissed today by the court of criminal appeals.

The other case was reversed and dismissed for possessing equipment for the manufacture of intoxicating liquor, which the court held recently was repealed by the last legislature in special session.

WIFE CAN LOVE HUSBAND AND KISS ANOTHER SO JUDGE SAYS

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—A wife's promiscuous kissing does not indicate a lack of affection for her husband, Judge David declared today after dismissing a $5000 alienation suit which was brought by John Walter against Samuel Johnson. Walter divorced his wife after finding her and Johnson in a kissing affair in Mrs. Walter's boudoir. Mrs. Walter has since died.

"It is true they were too friendly," said Judge David, "but you lawyers would not contend that in romantic France husbands and wives did not love each other because they had amorous affairs outside of home."

DR. RICE WAS VINDICATED BY HIS CONFERENCE

DALLAS, Nov. 16.—Dr. John A. Rice, professor of Old Testament study of Southern Methodist university, has declined to take any action on the offer of Bishop E. D. Mouzon to take the pastorate of the Methodist church at Okmulgee, Okla., pending disposal of his resignation which he presented to the board of trustees of the university recently.

He returned Monday night from Louisiana, where he attended the Louisiana Methodist conference, of which he was a member until transferred to the Oklahoma conference Monday.

"The action of the Louisiana conference in indorsing my teachings has been a source of much gratification to my friends and to me," Dr. Rice said. "Since that body was the only power on earth which had authority to uphold me or condemn me, it has pleased me to know that it has seen fit to approve my book."

The Old Testament class 83, of which Dr. Rice is instructor, presented him with a solid gold watch charm about the size of a silver dollar at the class period yesterday morning. It is in the form of an open book, with a flaming torch held across the book. On one page is the inscription, "Old Testament, 83," and on the other side in Latin, "Veritas Liberabit Vos," which translated, is, "The Truth Shall Make You Free."

SECRET OF HAPPINESS.

"How prone we are to forget," says Editor Ransone of the Cleburne Enterprise. "We do not live alone. Each is dependent upon the other for something worth while and essential. We are all traveling to the same place. Why not travel in friendliness, why not go along the way with hand outstretched and with a willingness to be of service wherever we can?"

Shall we realize this truth with the coming of the millennium, that period to which the world looks forward with happy anticipation? It must attend that time, for it is a condition of mind, leading to actual reality, that will help bring on the millennium.

People are prone to forget favors, but not so likely to forget an ill deed. And yet the latter is frequently unintentional and often exists more in fancy than in fact. Failure to make allowance for the point of view of another, inability to know the other's thoughts and failure to remember that one's own thoughts are not known to the other, leads often to misunderstanding, and a friendship is broken or becomes estranged without real cause.

There is an old fable about two travelers, each carrying a full bag and an empty bag, one struggling under the weight of his burden and the other apparently being buoyed up by his load. The struggling man told how he put all favors done him in a bag with a hole in it, so they fell through the hole and were forgotten, while he placed all ill deeds and discourtesies in a sack which had no hole, and the weight had become very great. The other traveler reversed this order and his full bag acted like a balloon, proving no weight at all and lifting him over rough and difficult places.

It is easy to travel in friendliness, remembering favors and forgetting ill deeds, if the habit be formed. Recalling good deeds of others leads to the performance of good deeds. It brings friends closer together and makes more friends. It makes life more enjoyable for all, lightens the dark places and brushes away obstacles. One ill-humored person in a household will bring on gloom just as a handful of mud will darken a basin of water, and that gloom will be carried from the household into other households, into the school rooms, into the business offices, its ripple, like the ripple of a pebble cast into the water, traveling a long distance. It is forgetfulness of the friendships of others and thoughts of self alone that brings on such ill humor.

But a bright smile, a cherry word, a courteous act or a good deed will travel much farther. If it were not so the world would be cast down with gloom. People are learning this truth and more and more, for policy's sake if for no better reason, are adopting the smiling manner and cheering message. It is gaining headway even in the home where the grouch has always seemed to claim a preferential right, and it is spreading over the world. The world is more friendly today than it was several centuries ago. Personal distempers are becoming less common and sympathy is more widespread. War has become so deadly that self interest will require it to be stopped. Certainly there is every reason to look forward hopefully in firm belief that the world is steadily getting better and the people of the world are learning how to be happier.

A Wonderful Gun.
(Gainesville Register.)

There has been much admiring comment on the new American coast defense gun which shoots a 2500-pound shell 35 miles. It is unquestionably a wonderful gun. Such a shell would probably smash into any structure any warship it hit. But there's the rub. Aiming at a warship 35 miles away is taking a mighty long chance. Hence all of these superguns are open to the same criticism—they can't be depended on to hit anything definite at their full range, or to hit a moving target at half their range. The Washington Herald figures that 10 bombing planes could be built for the cost of one of the big guns, and that it would be far easier for the plane to hit the gun with a 4000-pound shell than for the gun on shore to hit a warship at sea. One of those two-ton shells tears a hole in the ground 75 feet wide and 25 feet deep. How long would that gun last, with 10 planes bombarding it? More to the point is the fact that the bombing plane can go out to sea hunting the warship, while the gun is fixed on shore. And for the price of one battleship, 800 war planes can be built. Airplanes, rather than guns, in coast defense or on battleships, will probably decide that hypothetical "next war." Wherefore the limitation of navies assumes less importance than many have attributed to it. That is, unless all navies are limited, too.

Has Changed Attitude.
(Wichita Daily Times.)

During the campaign last fall we were told that one of the great crimes of the Democratic administration was the continued occupancy of German territory by American troops, and we were led to believe that the first thing President Harding would do after he warmed the presidential seat would be to issue an order recalling the American troops. Many months have elapsed without the promised order being forthcoming and now it is intimated that the occupancy by the American troops of German territory is to be indefinite. One of the reasons for keeping the American troops in Germany is their splendid service there and another is that to keep them there will be an insurance to France against aggression by Germany and an assurance to France of our sympathy and support. These appear to be good and satisfactory reasons, but they were just as good and forceful a year ago as they are now. The changed attitude of Mr. Harding illustrates that campaign promises are not always to be assessed at their face value and show that Mr. Harding has been faced with the actual responsibility.

Means Great Activity.
(Abilene Reporter.)

The big oil companies have again boosted the price of crude oil, this time to the respectable level of $2.25 for North and Central Texas crudes. This boost in price will work wonders in the oil fields of this state. Operations were almost at a standstill in several fields for months because the price dropped below the level where a profitable business was possible. Independent operators were particularly hard hit, because the big companies, having set the price, could be expected to stand the gaff. The consumption of oil is greater now, perhaps, than ever before, even during the war period, and there is no reason why the crude should not command a good price. Of course, it makes it all the harder on the users of gasoline, but the increased prosperity of the country as a result of the boost in price should be compensation enough for all. It is a good omen, and Texas oil fields may be expected to exhibit great activity from now on.

The Soldiers' Bonus.
(Cleburne Enterprise.)

So far all the soldier bonus measures have been defeated. The United States government can find money for everything but the soldiers who made it possible for the government to remain in fact. These men bared their breasts to the bullets of the enemy, dying, torn to pieces, wounded, maimed, living like cattle, or like beasts, sleeping in the slush and the mud, braving the terrors of shrapnel, the bombs from the sky, fighting in the dark, and suffering the horrors of a cruel war that our property might remain intact, but now that it is all over, it seems impossible to give them just a little bit of the money they were deprived of while away from home, business and loved ones. Great attitude seems a lost quality in the United States.

Texas History.
(Houston Chronicle.)

In the rush and hurry of this busy era of commercialism we are too much absorbed with the concerns of the present that give that measure of attention to the past and early beginnings which we should. This fact gives peculiar value to the address, "The Beginners of Texas History," which Hon. Claude T. Pollard as president of the Texas Bar association delivered at the opening session of that body some weeks ago. It is impossible to condense and summarize such an address without so marring as to rob it of much of its value. It is manifest that Mr. Pollard gave to its preparation great care and thought, and he has furnished information to nine readers out of ten that they never had before. The history of Texas from the landing of La Salle until the declaration of independence was proclaimed was marked by a succession of plots and counterplots, political eruptions and revolutions, cunning scheming of conscienceless politicians, and ambitious adventurers, with an utter ignorance, or at least utter disregard of right and justice and the interests of the common people, the general mass of society. It is a far cry across the centuries from LaSalle to Sam Houston, from a devotee of royalty and monarchical government to the leader of an army which established a new nation, based and founded on those fundamental principles of liberty and just government, which marks the difference between Texas under Spanish dominion and Texas as she is today. There are no accidents in the providence of God, and through all the changing centuries he was shaping events for the deliverance of Texas into the keeping of the Anglo-Saxon, who brought to Texas, as he has always done, the blessings of liberty and orderly government.

LEGION NEWS

Members of the American Legion who served with the United States forces in France will be called upon to give facts relating to Senator Watson's charge that American soldiers were shot and hanged in France without the formality of a court-martial. Secretary of War Weeks in a request to Commander Hanford MacNider for the Legion's co-operation said the war department desired to prove or definitely refute the Georgian senator's allegations. Lemuel Boles, national adjutant of the Legion, said he was sure the national commander would co-operate.

There is one officer to every seven men in the United States army, according to information received by the American Legion. It was explained by the war department that the high proportion of officers was due to the present army policy of maintaining an army capable of quick expansion in time of war. The army today numbers 138,000, of which number 18,000 are officers.

The first official act of Hanford MacNider, newly elected national commander of the American Legion, was his attendance at the Armistice day ceremonies at Arlington as representative of the majority of ex-service men in the United States. He will remain at Washington during the disarmament conference. MacNider is the commander, approved by Legionnaires everywhere. "He is exactly the type of man we want to lead us," seems to be the unanimous comment. The impressive things about new commander are that he went into the army and came out a lieutenant colonel with 11 citations and nine decorations; that at the age of 32 he is head of a large banking business in Iowa and that he is a "Harvard man without the Harvard accent." He has been hailed everywhere as a "real soldier."

A post of the American Legion composed entirely of world war veterans of Polish descent has been formed at Toledo, O., and is known as Argonne post. Frank Szumigalski is the commander, Stanley J. Grzesinski is vice-commander and Joseph Malinkowski is adjutant.

Roy Phillips, member of the American Legion at Nashville, Tenn., received a five-pound box of candy in the mail and wondered who loved him. After eating some of the candy he was sent to the hospital, where physicians pronounced his condition critical. The candy contained poison and Phillips is now wondering who hates him. The police are investigating.

A chicken that came into the world "shrimpy" and grew to full size in spite of its affliction, was one of the attractions at the "Joy Day" celebration of the Hedrick, Iowa, post of the American Legion. It was billed as "the world's only shrimpy chicken."

A five-mile walking race will be held Thanksgiving day by the Charles A. Learned post of Detroit, Mich. Both men and women have entered the contest. Only Legionnaires are eligible. Prizes valued at more than $1000 will be offered.

Joseph Semlich, a world war veteran who lost a leg in the Argonne, walked seven miles at the head of the Shelbyville, Mo., post of the American Legion in the Legion parade at Kansas City. Semlich gets around with the aid of a crutch.

Flying a kite "to keep the wolf away from the door" is the occupation of a world war veteran who during the war flew an airplane in France. The veteran was jobless and the only work the American Legion employment bureau at Minneapolis, Minn., could find for him was flying an advertising kite for a film company.

Duck privates had the pleasure of seeing former commissioned officers doing kitchen police at an American Legion banquet at Terre Haute, Ind.

The mayor and chief of police of Lincoln, Neb., have endorsed a plan for the employment of jobless ex-service men as nightwatchmen to aid the police department in suppressing crime.

STOCK EXCHANGE IS COMPLETING NEW TRAFFIC BUILDING

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Confident of becoming an international market of greater proportions and to some extent assuming the position held for generations by the London Stock Exchange, the New York Stock Exchange is steadily pushing to completion its handsome 23-story addition.

Despite the reaction which has followed almost two years of unprecedented speculation and inflated values, officials of America's leading security market apparently have absolute confidence in the return to the country of business prosperity.

While trading is slack, they are improving their opportunity to provide greater facilities for a future which to them seems limitless. In addition to marketing and making otherwise negotiable some $55,000,000 of American stocks and bonds, the stock exchange has listed about $3,000,000,000 of foreign securities for trading on its floor.

The site of the new stock exchange wing occupies the block upon Wall street between Broad and New streets in the very heart of the financial district. The steel structure, which rests upon a coffer dam extending to bed rock 70 feet below the street, is finished and the Georgia marble facing of the building should be in place before the snow flies.

Owing to the complicated mechanical and electrical equipment to be installed, however, almost a year will pass before the new building will be made ready for use.

The stock exchange will occupy the basement and the lower seven of the 23 stories and will rent the remaining upper stories to brokers, preferably members of the exchange. The ground floor of the new building will give much added space to the present trading floor of the exchange.

About one-third of the new space will be devoted to trading in bonds, while the remainder will contain eight new stock posts. These new posts and the 20 already in the board room will be equipped with an extension of the present inter-communicating pneumatic tube system, of which there is already over 20 miles under the present exchange floor.

The new tube system will also accommodate over 300 new telephone booths to be located in the new board room. This trading hall will be connected with the present floor by three large open doorways.

BUSINESS SYSTEM INSTALLED TO SOLVE DOMESTIC PROBLEMS

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—New York is employing business methods to solve its problem of domestic service.

The long vacant place of the old-fashioned servant is being taken by the "home assistant"—working a 48-hour week and going and coming to work each day as a stenographer or factory worker. She also buys her own meals and expects her employers to address her as "Mrs." or "Miss."

The reluctance of women since the war to engage in housework and domestic service at wages which families of moderate means can pay led a group of New York women to investigate the problem. They found that women revolted from domestic service because of the long hours of labor, lack of definition of their tasks, uncertainty of their hours of recreation, and the feeling that a certain social stigma was attached to their positions.

The result of the investigation was a determination to put housework on a business basis and make it as dignified an occupation as office or factory. The women who have been attracted to housework on the home assistant basis receive $18 a week for a 48-hour week. They get Sundays and holidays or their equivalent time off and a vacation of two weeks with pay at the end of a year's work. They are paid overtime at a specified rate.

A weekly schedule of household tasks in the employer's home is arranged that will keep the worker busy every hour she is scheduled to work. She quits at noon and goes out for her lunch. When the day's work is ended she leaves for her own home. The domestic servant has become a business woman with the same freedom and independence as the rest of her sisters in the business world.

The success of the new venture led the investigators to organize the Bureau of Household Occupations, which acts as a clearing house for the home assistants and a place where both the workers and their employers can have difficulties adjusted as they may arise. Mrs. Richard Boardman, Mrs. George D. Pratt, Mrs. Henry S. Patterson and Mrs. Roberts M. Walker are among the women who are actively engaged in the work.

Indigestion

Many persons, otherwise vigorous and healthy, are bothered occasionally with indigestion. The effects of a disordered stomach on the system are dangerous, and prompt treatment of indigestion is important. "The only medicine I have needed has been something to aid digestion and clean the liver," writes Mr. Fred Ashby, a McKinney, Texas, farmer. "My medicine is Broadway.

Gladden James, who takes the difficult role of Stephen Field in the five reel photoplay "Keep to the Right," to be shown at the Broadway theater tomorrow, began his stage career at the age of six, starting at the age of twelve, and taking leading parts in over fifty screen productions. Mr. James was beginning to think "there is nothing new under the sun" when "Keep to the Right" appeared, with the magnetic personality of Edith Taliaferro in the feminine lead, and Mr. James found that he could do new wonders on the screen.

Judith.
"Red Foam," the latest Ralph Ince production released by Selznick, will be the next attraction at the Judith theater tomorrow.

The story is an adaptation of the novel of the same name by W. H. Hamby and which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. It is a most dramatic and interesting theme, proving that the red foam of anger is as easily brought to the surface in a small rural community as in the larger cities.

Zena Keefe, Huntley Gordon, Harry Tighe and a superlative cast enact the principal roles.

Victory.
In the new William DeMille Paramount production, "What Every Woman Knows," which will be shown at the Victory theater tomorrow, Conrad Nagel, one of the most prominent leading men of the screen, plays the same part which was portrayed on the stage by Bruce McRae. The role is that of a young English student and political aspirant.

The part of Maggie Wylie, which Maude Adams played on the stage, is taken by Lois Wilson. Thus Mr. Nagel and Miss Wilson are enacting for the first time on the screen, two roles which were made famous on the stage by two of the greatest and most popular of all legitimate artists. The supporting company is extremely brilliant.

REAL WORK.
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—San Francisco's women's vigilant committee, like a naughty child, has been dragged into the Arbuckle case and scolded. Gavin McNab, chief counsel for the defense, characterizing the vigilantes as a "mob," took careful pains to impress prospective jurors that they, and not the vigilantes, were going to try "Fatty." During examinations one juror casually mentioned that his wife belonged to a sewing club. "Ah!" said Gavin McNab. "One of those organizations where they accomplish real work." Through it all sat Mrs. Robert Dean, acting president of the vigilant committee, with her subcommittee of six women.
