This poster, displayed at the enthronement of Fu Yi, represents the ambition of the new state to rise on a firm foundation. Sports of every kind are encouraged... and here you see daughters of the ancient Manchus indulging in the very modern sport of volleyball... and in modern sports dress, too.

One of the relics has been lost but the other is at Smithsonian Institution, Washington. The jacket has numerous small tufts of hair drawn through it, each representing a human scalp.

Amarillo's Gov't. Is on a Cash Basis

AMARILLO (AP)—This city's government is on a cash basis and there are arrearages in both the municipal general fund and the water department fund.

All current bills are paid there is money in the treasury and no overdrafts on the bank, according to Mayor Ross D. Rogers.

"It is the only time in 15 years, except for a brief period in 1923, when such a condition existed," Rogers said.

A year ago the city's finances were in such depressed straits there was talk of having to default in some of its bond payments and other indebtedness.

Payment of more than 75 per cent of 1933 taxes is largely responsible for the city's healthy finances now, Rogers said. He also listed the accrued revenue plan Mr. Elton, mayor program launched two years ago and the policy of refunding maturities as other contributing factors.

Requested to Report NRA Code Violations

Midland people who know of any violations of the NRA code are requested by the authorities to report them. Whether you are an employer, employee, or a layman, you should, if you know the facts concerning a violation, report those facts or file a complaint with them. The object in reporting these complaints of violations is that the violator may be acquainted with the provisions of his code and proceed to adjust the violations and comply in the future.

In many cases it is found the violator is ignorant of the fact that he is not complying with the particular regulations of the Dallas code. In most of such cases, a speedy adjustment is had and the objects of the code are attained at once. Violations which are difficult and therefore impossible to adjust, are forwarded to the enforcement branches of the federal government.

It is important to bear in mind that in no cases are the names of the persons making the complaint made known except with their express permission. All of the officers and employees handling these complaints have taken the oath of the federal government; and the hundreds of complaints handled so far, the name of no complainant has yet been disclosed except in a few isolated cases where permission was given to do so by the person filing the complaint. This fact you should make known as widely and as rapidly as possible.

An increasing number of complaints are being received. This we interpret as a wholesome indication that the public is decidedly in favor of strict compliance with the codes governing the Dallas and other communities. Indifference to the functioning of these codes in your area would certainly not indicate strict compliance in your city or community. The filing of a complaint is a reminder that you favor code compliance, and that you favor enforcement if necessary.

Chamber of commerce officials, trade association secretaries and members, county and city officers, and newspapers can lend their cooperation and active assistance toward the program of recovery by reporting to us any cases of non-compliance with the provisions of the various codes under which business is conducted.

Blank forms to use in filing complaints may be obtained from your local post office.

HISTORY MADE REAL BY WORDS

One of the things that makes ordinary history seem unreal is its habit of trying to put its characters into full dress. The school books are full of stately utterances and lofty poses; and while they sound and look very fine, most of us have trouble believing that they ever actually were said or done.

Now MacKinlay Kantor, who recently wrote "Long Remember," a fine novel about the battle of Gettysburg, rises to show that our suspicions can be pretty accurate. In studying the battle of Gettysburg, Mr. Kantor devoted especial attention to the first day's fight, when an advance guard of Union cavalry under General Buford tangled with the Confederates and got snowed under.

Most histories, he remarks, represent Buford's superior, General Reynolds, as galloping forward and saying something like this:

"General, the fate of the Union is at stake. At all costs, you must maintain your present lines until reinforcements are brought forward."

But at last, in an old book of records, he found out what they really said. Said Reynolds, arriving amid the confused clamor, "What's the matter, John?" Said Buford, "There's hell to pay." Said Reynolds, "Think you can hold out until the First Corps comes up?" And Buford replied, "Reckon I can."

And all of this, somehow, is rather comforting. "There's hell to pay... reckon I can"—that's the way men really talk, in moments of stress.

It sounds human, realistic; we suddenly see Gettysburg, not as a historic pageant, but as it really was, enacted by men who weren't worried about striking attitudes for the history books, but who were trying to get on with the job at hand.

Probably we'd find the same thing true of many other historic and picturesque occasions. Did John Paul Jones really say, "I haven't begun to fight"—or did he damn the Britisher's eyes and invite him to climb a tree?

Did Ethan Allen say, "Open, in the name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress!" or did he, as a Yale professor once suggested, say something like "Open up there, you blankety-blank blank!"

Scrape away the historic trappings and you'd probably find something very like this underneath many of those great moments. The fine phrases are made later, by men who weren't there.

BAD NEWS FOR FASCISM

A recent news cable from London asserts that the newly organized British Fascist party is now believed to have fully 500,000 ardent and disciplined members. Originally looked upon as more or less of a joke, this party not long ago won the support of the great newspaper baron, Lord Rothermere; as a result, it is beginning to cast a long shadow across British politics, and leaders in other parties are beginning to get worried.

As it happens, news of this growth in British Fascism reached here at about the same time as did news that Britain is at last winning its fight with the depression.

Taxes are being reduced, aid to the unemployed is being increased, the government has a sizable surplus, and prosperity, at last, seems to be just around the corner.

And that, probably, will puncture this growing bubble of Fascism. For Fascism is a philosophy of desperation.

Men turn to it when they are convinced that only drastic measures will avert a great smash-up. Let good times return, and it is apt to drop out of sight of its own weight.

A shipment of 500 fleas is being made to Copenhagen. Those sea dogs will stand for anything.

Yates turned and started to finger the keyboard again. "Doesn't believe in the vast Yates offices, three of the world's greatest bankers waited—waited while John Hunter Yates endeavored to play the Beethoven Sonata."

There was a knock on the door. "Come in," called Yates. It was Miss Gower, Yates' efficient secretary. "They're here."

"You were mistaken," said Yates. "I was considering the possibility of getting a radio hook-up so that the whole nation could listen in on this meeting, but I decided that wouldn't be practical, so I hid the next best thing. The rate of one of the greatest organizations in the country—yes, in the world—is to be decided here this morning. We're not concerned with merely a corporation." He walked to a large map hanging on the wall showing in dots and symbols the vast holdings of the Yates company.

"I'm not accustomed to doing business with reporters around—but I guess it's all right." "In that case," said Yates, smiling, "gentlemen, be seated."

"I can state our position briefly and clearly. The Yates corporation is already heavily involved in this corporation. And now—because of plans for expansion—we are asked by Mr. Yates for a further loan involving ten million dollars. A small amount, even for you, Mr. Yates."

PAYNE ALLOWS MIDLAND ONLY TWO HITS, BIG SPRING WINNING 3 TO 1

Daring base running and Payne's superb pitching contributed to Big Spring's defeat there Thursday of the Midland Colts, 3 to 1. The game was a practice affair, the clubs being Midland batsmen were able to get to Payne with only two hits—only one of which, a smashing double from the bludgeon of Eb Estes, was clean. This lusty blow scored Red error. Seiman beat out a scratch infield hit.

Payne struck out nine Colts and gave two bases on balls; Leonard Rose, Midland pitcher, struck out eight, allowed four hits and gave one free pass. With more aggressive support he should have won.

The game was played in the fast time of 1:45.

Returning players kept no record of Big Spring's lineup, but the Midland box score is shown below:

The Sports Horn

The major domo of Midland baseball, J. W. Payne, was in a good humor. He had had a baseball game. And why should this put him in fine fettle? Because he felt his club needed to be jarred out of its habit of occasionally sleeping with one eye open.

"Two Big Spring men stole home yesterday," Joe said. "When they get by with that we don't deserve to win."

This fellow Payne, an old timer in the game, once played Texas league ball, according to a brief poll taken among the fans. He let Midland down with two raps, only one of which could be classified as an out-and-out hit. However, Leonard Rose's steady game on the box let Big Spring batsmen connect but four times and nothing but the wild base running and Midland somnolence allowed. The U. S. 80 league entry to cap Joe did a little verbal ruff shaking of his club and expects to see a refreshing variety of difference when it takes the field Sunday at Wink.

LeRoy Grissett, who bats and talks with his hands, telephoned Colorado will not be able to play this afternoon. Some of the players could not get off work until 4 p. m. Grissett is one of the most dangerous hitters in either the Permian or the U. S. 80 league. He hits 'em over fields if they play in too closely, and drops Texas leaguers safely short of their goal wire. He played in the east and in Canada, and now is a rural mail carrier.

Midland will bump into a left hand hurler at Wink Sunday, but should not be particularly bothered even if the wrong-hander, Lefty Lybrand, did pitch for San Antonio of the Texas league. The locals have only two left hand batters, and that is plenty of assurance. Lybrand won three and lost one game with San Antonio in 1923. He took part in 11 contests, pitching 38 innings, allowing 28 hits, 14 runs of which only 11 were earned, walked 18 and struck out 18 for an earned run average of 2.81.

Joe says he will start Cub Heaton, Stanton boy, against Wink. Heaton is in good condition and can play any place on the club. If he's not right, there's Fred Girdley. He has rounded to form and is ready to be bound down. A left hander.

The Lamson boy, Williams, will be tried behind the bat this afternoon. He was billed as a catcher.

Tigers Are Still The Greatest of Jungle Menaces

There are more tigers in the Asiatic jungles today than ever before, in the opinion of Clyde E. Elliott, who is back in Hollywood after a year in India. Siam and Indo-China and the film of Fox Film's "Devil Tiger," showing Saturday at the Yucca theatre.

With the lowering of the price of raw rubber, many rubber plantations have been turned back to the jungle, he said, "and tigers propagate with the ease and celerity of house cats. They kill from 20,000 to 25,000 natives yearly."

Elliott, who previously directed "Bring 'Em Back Alive," feels that the year spent in the jungles to make "Devil Tiger" has been well worth while. He has just completed the task of selecting the best holes being blind and not knowing which direction the fairways ran over the hill, he was in one over par. He was penalized twice on impossible lies. He says the greens, while coarse, are exceptional, a true hole missed only one putt, and that one rimmed the cup!

A Scotchman and his wife were putting on the 13th hole. Mac was told by the gentle woman the day was her birthday and he told her he believed he'd give her the hole.

Tuneful Film Marks Debut of Radio Star

An excellent mixture of comedy, melody and beauty, "Melody in Spring" comes to the Ritz theatre Sunday and Monday to present to patrons that reliable team of Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland, a new romantic singing personality, Lanny Ross, and the beautiful Ann Sothern.

"Paramount, impressed with the tremendous popularity of Bill Crosby, whom it plucked from the air waves, stepped out a few months ago to take Lanny Ross from the "Showboat" hour, and seems to have hit upon another great star. Ross is young, handsome, and performs remarkably well for his first screen venture. He is splendid singer, with a full, rich tenor voice.

Ruggles and Miss Boland, teamed together for the fourth time, provide more laughs than ever, while Miss Sothern properly decorates them.

The story involves Ruggles, a wealthy dog-biscuit manufacturer, who sponsors the nation's biggest radio hour; Miss Boland, his wife, who is having a fling with a Keweenaw hope, tenor, anxious to get on the radio program.

Both men have hobbies, which get them into hilarious difficulties, while the collector of antiques and souvenirs, while Ross climbs mountains. Director Norman McLeod keeps the action moving at a swift pace throughout, ending with a Kiss, "Melody in Spring" and "The Opea Road," the hit songs from the film, were written by Lewis Censler and Keene Thompson.

HODGE REBOOKS VAUDEVILLE

Maria Isabel and her 38 international Spanish, Portuguese and Italian artists will be presented in a return engagement of "Fiesta" at the Ritz theatre Sunday for matinee and night with a complete change of program and settings, announced J. Howard Hodge, house manager.

Hodge has been trying to book the show for another performance since Monday, when it played to a capacity crowd at his playhouse. The company is at Sweetwater Saturday.

Shoshone Indian Tribe Will Dance to Sun God

PORT HALL, Idaho, (AP)—Dressed only in loth cloths, braves of the Shoshone Indian tribe will dance to their sun god from sunrise, Aug. 1 to sunset, Aug. 3.

Members of the young Indians will be painted with the many-colored war paint of their tribe. Each will carry a quill whistle in his teeth, from which weird, plaintive tones will be emitted with a cadence like rumbling tom-toms and chanting of older men and women.

Contrary to early customs, the "rite friends" of the Shoshones, once a war-like tribe, will be allowed to witness the ceremonies.

Except for short rest periods, made mandatory by white man's government, the dancers will not be allowed to stop, lest the "Devil God," and evil spirits come to his tepee. None is allowed to eat or drink during the dance.

The entire tribe will assemble before its chief on the sun dance ground, which is inclosed in a bower of willows. Just the sun's first rays are visible over the mountains, the chanting and dancing will begin.

On the fifth day, giving a single day for rest, the sun-god feast starts, symbolizing acceptance of that deity of the offerings of the previous ceremonies, bringing health, happiness and abundance in crops.

SUIT MADE OF SACKS

STEPHENVILLE (AP)—Tow sacks, the kind that hold peanuts, barley, corn and etc., have scored one on cellophane. Mrs. W. O. Carter of Stephenville has appeared on the street in something entirely new in the fashion world.

It is a chic suit, one that is usually good to look at—but it was made from three corn sacks. Mrs. Carter made the dress suit of the grass sack material and dyed it black. On the sleeves and yolk she crocheted orange trimming.

Expect Large Crowd At Lions Convention

MINERAL WELLS, (AP)—More than 800 Lions club members from the five districts in Texas are expected to attend the sixteenth annual state convention at Mineral Wells, June 4 and 5. It has been announced by Del W. Harrington of El Paso, chairman of the board of governors.

District 2-E, of which Dr. W. J. Danforth of Fort Worth, is governor, will hold its convention here the day prior to the opening of the convention.

One of the features of the Texas convention will be an address on June 4 by Vincent C. Haskell of Omaha, Neb., first vice president of Lions International.

Local arrangements for the convention are in charge of a committee headed by Geo. D. Barber, manager of the Mineral Wells chamber of commerce, and a member of the Lions club.

Demand Great for Pre-Repeal 'Corn'

PORT WORTH (AP)—Despite the influx of bootleg bonded whiskey, the demand for pre-repeal corn whiskey here for the garden variety of corn whiskey, according to those in the "know."

Moreover, the supply of the old-fashioned pre-repeal corn has been dwindling ever since repeal of the 18th amendment. Old customers now are rebelling against the "blends" and crying for the favorite "hoop" of pre-repeal days.

Many of this "old school" are willing even to pay as much for the wash-tub brand without the fancy labels as for the legitimate stocks, legitimate in other states and for medicinal purposes in Texas.

The shortage of cotton-patch corn is due to two reasons. One is that with repeal the moonlight manufacturers decided there would be no demand for their product. The other is that it is a federal offense to manufacture whiskey without a license. The "boys" apparently have more respect for the federal law than for the state law.

Radios Go Dead in Mountain Shadow

EL PASO (AP)—Radio equipped deputy sheriffs have discovered that their work is useless when their radio cars cruise in the shadow of Mt. Franklin in the upper valley.

The mountain creates a "blind" spot for radio reception, and the police receivers "go dead."

The officers use a telephone to check back with headquarters after a cruise in the blind area.

Thought Hell Loose When Well Blazed

BRENNHAM (AP)—Texas' first flaming gas well, as far as anyone in this section can remember, was that of a well 13 miles north of here in the town of Burton in 1867.

The well was being drilled for water when much hissing and odorous rose from the hole. Drillers abandoned the well, declaring they had struck a "salamander's nest," or "struck hell."

Some venturesome blade ignited the well. He and his companions ran to Burton as fast as they could to tell a startled populace they had set the world afire.

The fire was put out and soon the owner was using gas for fuel and lights.

As the initial work in preparation for the show, 25 students have selected the calves which they will fit and prepare for exhibition in the show.

Three nationally known dairy judges will help conduct the show. Prof. J. W. Fitch of Kansas State university will classify the college Holstein-Friesian herd; Prof. C. H. Staples of Louisiana State university, and J. W. Ridgway, Fort Worth, will judge the student show. All calves of the college dairy husbandry department also will be open for inspection throughout the day. These men all are members of the official type classification committee of the two breeds represented in the college dairy herd.

TAKE TO THE OUTSIDE

AUSTIN (AP)—Selected geology students in the University of Texas will abandon class rooms in favor of geologic fields for their lessons again this summer.

Areas with a wide variety of geologic conditions, professors found, were excellent "class rooms" for their advanced students. It provided a practical means to prove theories.

Brady has been selected as the summer for two six-week terms this summer for the McCulloch county area. "Field geology" courses will be offered 20 selected advance students each term. Students who plan to make geology their profession or to become teachers, or scientific workers are given preference in enrollment.

Since the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, it has been the custom for the president and the vice president of the United States never to expose themselves to any hazard at the same time. They never ride in the same train together, for instance.

LEBRUN LEADS IN GODFATHER ROLE

PARIS (AP)—Within less than two years as president of the French republic, M. Albert Lebrun has become the godfather of 497 children.

At this rate, by the end of his term of office in May, 1936, he should be historically responsible for 1,500 god-girls and boys.

Godfathering long has been a quaint presidential duty in France. Gaston Doumergue, now prime minister, although a bachelor during all but the last four days of his presidency, became godfather of almost a thousand children. With the start that M. Lebrun has, he will exceed this number.

There are certain restrictions, however, which makes it impossible for just anybody to become a god-son, or daughter, of the French president. The girl or boy to bear this title must come from a family of French nationality, and he or she must be at least the eighth living child in the family.

Furthermore, the morality and honor of the family must be above reproach. Social status, financial condition, place of residence, religion adhered to—none of these things make any difference. When all of these requirements have been complied with, the president gladly gives his consent and, with a gift in gold or kind, openly accepts his nomination as godfather.
