QUIET CEREMONY READ FOR GUNMAN

DALLAS, May 26. (AP)—Just before sunset Friday, Clyde Champion Barrow, until four days ago the most feared killer in the southwest, was buried in a quiet ceremony in a Dallas hillside near his boyhood home.

This picture shows Mrs. Henry Barrow as she left the funeral home after viewing the body of her son, Clyde Barrow, West Dallas desperado, killed in a gun battle with police near Gibsland.

For two days and nights, crowds had fought for a chance to file through the chamber of the funeral home for a last look at the west Dallas youth, only 24, whose name in five years had come to send a streak of terror across the middle west, as peace officers one after another died in a futile attempt to halt him.

BLAME LOCAL POLITICS FOR FEDERAL CONTROL

The first thought that hits you when you look at the new crime prevention program passed by Congress is the fact that it gives the federal government a great new extension of power.

The second is that we have brought it on ourselves by permitting our state and city governments, especially the latter, to sink into plain incompetency in the business of dealing with crime.

Putting extra power to handle crooks into the hands of Uncle Sam is a move which takes us farther than ever away from the old theory that states and cities are self-sufficient political units.

And yet it is equally clear that the step is a necessary one.

The depredations of organized gangs of kidnapers have created a situation that is simply intolerable. Something has to be done; the only thing that can be done, immediately, is to strengthen the hand of Uncle Sam and call on him to do what local authorities cannot do.

As we do it, it is important that we remember why we are doing it.

Primarily, it is because the average American police force is an inefficient and graft-ridden outfit which simply can't do the job itself. And it is what it is because our local politics is what it is. In other words, we are just paying the price for the slipshod way we have chosen to govern ourselves.

The average city government is a product of old-line political machines. Such machines exist by favors—the favors that their leaders can do for people outside of the machine, and the favors which the leaders in turn pass on down to their subordinates.

The logical result is that the city governments themselves operate for the sake of the political machines and not for the interests of the people. And, since they are like that, the police departments suffer in exactly the same way.

Because of all this, the average police department is unable to fight crime effectively. Now, because of that fact, we are about to give the federal government powers that traditionally belong to local authorities.

It is essential for us not to forget why we are compelled to do it.

WE MUST KNOW ALL

President Roosevelt's sharp attack on the uncontrolled traffic in munitions strikes a responsive chord in the breast of every man who hopes to see the world continue at peace.

So long as private individuals stand to make millions upon millions of dollars out of preparations for war, governments everywhere will be under tremendous pressure to continue with such preparations—and since human nature is what it is, that means the creation of rivalries, fears, and suspicions which make war more and more likely.

The president endorses the Nye committee's plan to investigate the whole traffic in munitions, and it is to be hoped that the investigation will be as thorough and as far-reaching as the senators can possibly make it.

Before we can deal with the problem properly, we shall need all the information about it that we can get.

Church Must Aid New Deal Because Taught by Christ

CLEVELAND, May 26. (AP)—National leaders of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America were told at the beginning of the meeting Wednesday night the new deal in the government is based on the fundamental tenets of Christ himself.

The speaker was Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes.

Addressing a public meeting here sponsored by the church's general council Ickes pictured the social objectives of Christianity and the new deal as being identical.

"Christ wanted men and women to live upright lives but he also wanted them to have for each other understanding and good will and mutual helpfulness," the secretary said. "He wished them to be good neighbors. He hated injustice as a right against oppression. This was the man who drove out the money changers from the temple."

"Church should aid new deal."

Asserting the new deal is an opportunity for the church to aid in a Christian work, the secretary then inquired, "will the leaders in the church follow the path which has been boldly raised by President Roosevelt in his determination to establish social and economic justice so far as lies within the power of man, wholeheartedly or only reluctantly?"

The answer to this question, he said, "is important because if the moral aspirations of the church should revert to the practical which is now being made to establish a new social order, the advance all along the line would be irresistible and that new social and economic order which is to be realized in the end in any event, would be accomplished much more quickly and with infinitely less disturbance."

Between the close of the World war and the beginning of President Roosevelt's administration, "rugged individualism ran riot," Ickes asserted. "Social injustices were taken for granted."

"Laissez faire presidents," the secretary continued, "were model statesmen in the eyes of a struggling selfish crowd. No one had time to worry about it at this period, only 'best minds' who were little concerned about helping to build an ideal commonwealth in which men, women and children were happier and more worthwhile lives."

"The new deal," he said, "is grounded on the theory that the shield of others should do into him."

He listed among the administration's objectives the adoption of the constitutional amendment abolishing child labor, fair wages, an end of sweatshops and unhealthy working conditions, a clean-up of slums, an end to wasteful and inefficient exploitation of our natural resources, the adoption of old age unemployment, maternity and disability insurance, and the assessment of taxes in proportion to the ability to pay.

"We would make it impossible for a mere handful of ruthless, acquisitive men to accumulate unearned fortunes from the possession of less fortunate people in a position to protect themselves," he said.

Here Are Ways to Can Berries

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article on the canning of berries was prepared by Miss Myrtle Miller, county home demonstration agent.

The following methods are suggested for preserving dewberries and blackberries in Midland county so that the appetite will be delighted when the fruit, nectars and sweets are taken from the cupboard shelves.

Canned Berries

Wash ripe berries by placing them in a colander or sieve and allowing the water to run over them. Pack closely in jars without crushing. Cover the fruit with a syrup made in the proportion of one and three-fourths cups of sugar to a quart of berry juice and water. Fit the rubber, place the lid on loosely, and process quart jars for 12 minutes, counting time for the boiling begins. Only liquefied or enamel lined cans should be used for canning berries in this.

Dewberry or Blackberry Acid

1 gal. berries
2 oz. Tartaric acid
1 pt. boiling water
Sugar

Pour boiling water over the berries. Let stand 28 hours. Drain in a jelly bag. For every pint of juice add a pint of sugar. Add acid and stir until sugar and acid have dissolved. Pour in sterilized jars and put tops on loosely. Put a false bottom in a vessel deep enough to hold the jars. Fill to within one or two inches of the top of the jars with water and simmer 20 minutes. Screw tops on jars as tight as possible and keep in a cool place. Berry acid should be used as a foundation for summer drinks. Use 2 to 4 table spoons to a glass and fill with water and ice.

Berry Jam

Use blackberries, dewberries, strawberries or raspberries. Three-fourths of the product should be fully ripe to give flavor and color to the finished product; one-fourth slightly under ripe fruit to improve the consistency of the jam.

Put fruit and sugar into a preserving kettle with just enough water to prevent burning. Mash the fruit. Cook slowly until the fruit is a thick smooth consistency.

Pour while hot into sterilized jars and seal.

Berry Jelly

Dewberry and blackberry jelly is made from fruit that is about one-half ripe and one-half under ripe. Do not quite cover with water and cook until berries are tender. Strain through a jelly bag; do not apply pressure.

Three-fourths to a cup of sugar to a cup of juice is recommended. The pectin and acid content of fruit varies. The juice may be tested with denatured alcohol to determine the pectin content. To one tablespoon of juice add a tablespoon of denatured alcohol. Let set one minute. If the pectin forms one solid lump or in sheets equal amounts of sugar and juice may be used, or if there is a large amount of juice to be made up it is well to make trial cooking, using one cup of sugar and one cup of juice and varying the sugar. The amount of sugar making the best jelly would be the proportion used. Time is saved and the quality of jelly is better on the whole than by following the guess method.

Add the sugar as soon as the juice begins to boil. Cook rapidly until the jelly stage is reached. Cooking 2-4 cups of juice at a time makes clearer brighter jelly and saves time. Skim. Pour in hot sterilized glasses filling them full. When cold, cover with paraffin, and store in a cool, dark place.

Too little sugar makes a tough jelly; too much sugar a soft, syrupy jelly.

strawberry Preserves

1 qt. sugar
1 1-2 qts. berries
(Never double the recipe.)

Wash and grade the berries into two classes, large and medium; sized. If there are any over ripe berries these may be used for making jam. After the berries have been thoroughly washed in a colander, remove stems with a stainless steel knife. After removing stems place in the colander and let water run over them lightly to remove any grit.

Place layers of berries and sugar alternately in an enameled lined or extra heavy aluminum kettle. Heat slowly and stir gently until the sugar melts. Cook very rapidly 15-20 minutes or until the syrup sheets from the spoon. Skim and allow to cool. Before the jelly stage is reached pack into a sterilized jar and seal.

Allow to stand over night and process 15 minutes in hot water just below the boiling point.

Churches

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be repeated by members of Church, Scientist, on Sunday, May 27. The Golden Text is: "The very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ." (1 Thessalonians 5:23).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And be not conformed to this world; but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind." (Romans 12:2).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Paul said, 'Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh.' Sooner or later we shall learn that the fetters of man's finite capacity are forged by the illusion that he lives in body instead of in Soul, in matter instead of in Spirit" (page 223).

FINALS IN CITY-WIDE INVITATIONAL TENNIS TOURNAMENT TODAY

THEO FERGUSON, HARROLD DEAN AND DICK NELSON PUSH WAY INTO FINAL ROUNDS; PROGRAM TO LAST ALL DAY

Top favorites before the tourney began, bronzed Theo Ferguson, he of the chopping and placement game, and curly-thatched Harrold Dean, imported flash from Dallas who displays almost perfect form, go into the Class A finals in the invitational city tennis tournament about 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Ferguson and Dick Nelson won through the doubles finals, but their opponents must be decided in play today. Ferguson and Nelson have played together only twice, but both were members of the Permian basin league winners here last year. Nelson used a hard service, a nice chop stroke and his lob was working nicely Saturday.

Ferguson played a difficult schedule to go into the singles finals. Because of little practice recently he discarded his driving game and depending on placement and chopping. His grip on his racket is not as good as in the old days, either, having received a bad cut on one finger last season. He topped J. S. Schow, 5-7, 6-4, 6-0. Murray Fasken, 6-2, 6-1, and Johnnie Miller, 6-2, 6-2, to go to the finals.

Dean, who is said by Ferguson to have the best form of any player to have played on the City of Midland courts, employs hard service, a strong backhand and forward drive, nicety of placement and a smashing overhead game. He has played in numerous tournaments of Dallas. He went to the finals by ousting J. B. Thomas Jr., 6-2, 6-1, P. H. Lanham, 6-3, 6-3, and Fletcher Curry, 6-2, 6-6.

Nelson and Ferguson won in doubles from Johnnie Miller and J. B. Thomas Jr., 7-5, 6-1, and from P. H. Lanham and Murray Fasken, 7-5, 6-3.

There will be tennis all day, and the greatest crowd ever to see a tennis exhibition is expected to see the finals. Women's finals will draw an interested gallery, too. Seven trophy cups and seven medals will be awarded.

Starting at 8 o'clock Lee Cornelius and J. P. Ferguson play Childress and Fritz, the winner to play Curry and Schow to decide the opponent in the finals doubles play.

In B class singles, Cornelius meets Alvon Patterson at 9 o'clock.

Class A Singles—First Round
Johnnie Miller won from Barron Wadley, 6-3, 6-2.

C. L. Jackson won from Dr. John B. Thomas, default.

Theo Ferguson won from J. S. Schow, 5-7, 6-4, 6-0.

Murray Fasken drew a bye.
Joe Kelly defaulted to Fletcher Curry.

Dick Nelson won by default from Bill Van Huss.
Bill Pratt defaulted to P. H. Lanham.

J. B. Thomas Jr. lost to Harrold Dean, 6-1, 6-2.

Class A Singles—Second Round
C. L. Jackson defaulted to Johnnie Miller.

Theo Ferguson won from Murray Fasken, 6-1, 6-2.

Fletcher Curry won from Nelson, 6-4, 1-6, 6-1.

Dean won from Lanham, 6-3, 6-3.

Class A Singles—Third Round
Ferguson won from Miller, 6-2, 6-2.

Dean won from Curry, 1-2, 8-6.

Class B Singles—First Round
Fred Stout drew a bye.

Walter Stevens lost to George Klingaman, 9-7, 6-0.

George Ballanfont drew a bye.
Lee Cornelius won from Red Snider, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Bill Fritz won by default from Earl Horst.

"Scoop" Ligon is a logical successor to Fred Wemple as president of the Midland Baseball Club, Inc. He talks, thinks and breathes baseball. The story goes that he had a "hot" prospect for a motor car sale. The prospect remarked at the beauty of the swelling lines that swept back from cowl to trunk. It was early June and Scoop had his mind on baseball. "Not so hot," not near as purty as the curve of a baseball sailing outta the park," he said. He still wonders why the prospect didn't buy the automobile.

Sam Warren, this department's nomination for any club's first sacker, was pressed into service as playing manager for the Hokus Pokus sockballers. Roll call was being made at the organization meeting of last week. "Bill Connor," the chairman called. "Heah," "Shall we cut you in?" "If I can get Sam Warren to manage my club."

"Okay," Ligon said, and Bill and Sam were just as terse when they discussed terms, salary, home run bonus or whatever owner and manager are supposed to discuss.

Gentry Kidd celebrated his return to the links after an appendicitis operation with a par round of 72. He is considering another operation.

Golfers have no consideration for a man weakened from surgery, he told this department right after Elliott Miller eipped his shot into the hole from a trap just at the green—for an eagle. Gentry was lying there for a give-me bird. The hole was No. 8. Miller drove across the green and into the trap—with a brassie. Two hundred seventy yards to the pin!

Frank Johnson was the only Midland golfer to enter the West Texas journey at Big Spring. He travelled in some rather high company, winning from Rep. Penrose Metcalf of San Angelo in the second flight, 2-1. That was in the first round, but no record is given of his second round activities.

Morgan Nell of Odessa, who holds a non-resident membership at the Midland country club, won in the first round from M. Allen of Lubbock, 3-2, but lost in the second round to George Norman of Lamesa, 5-4. Speaking of Nell, there were three Odessa golfers of that name entered. Stanton had more golfers represented for its size of any town, but had the dubious satisfaction of seeing them entered (in print) from Stamford.

Tom Beasley, Herald sports editor, has been invited to stroke his way through no man's land. The women, playing a tournament on the municipal course, extended Beasley an invitation to join them Friday, a privilege accorded no other man.—Big Spring Herald.

No cracks from this end—were played in one of 'em once.

28 Fair Golfers In B'Spring Meet

BIG SPRING, May 26.—Mrs. Paul Venson, wife of a Lubbock professional, defeated Mrs. G. I. Phillips of Big Spring Friday in the women's tournament at the municipal course, 1 up, to go into the finals Saturday morning.

Mrs. C. A. Mix of Midland defeated Mrs. Thompson of Lubbock, 4 up, to go into the finals of the second flight consolation.

Mrs. Ralph Rik of Big Spring beat Mrs. Fred Wright of Midland, 2 up, in the third flight to go into the finals.

Mrs. Ben Carter won the fourth flight by defeating Mrs. A. E. Platoro. Mrs. Roy Carter and Mrs. Frank Aldrich of Midland played Friday afternoon to determine the winner of the third flight consolation.

The Midland woman won. Twenty-eight women were listed in the tournament as it got under way Friday.

A picnic was tendered visiting lady golfers that evening at City park.

Mrs. Lucille Thomas and Mrs. Aldrich were thrown together in the consolation playoff. Mrs. Aldrich winning a close match, 1 up.

'Electric Chair' Rids Shop of Rats

WICHITA FALLS, U.P.—J. C. Groves, operator of a shoe shop here, has rigged up an "electric chair" to rid his shop of rats, and dead rodents provided that the device works.

His trap consists of a wooden shelf with cheese at one end and metal plates at the other. The plates are wired with electricity, so that when a rat tries to run over to reach the cheese he gets instant death instead.

Belkash Lake in Russian Central Asia is larger than the whole state of Massachusetts, being 8490 square miles in area. It is an inland lake of salt water.

RACE FANS ATWITTER OVER SPECIAL RACE AT 2 THIS AFTERNOON AT KENT

"Goin' to Kent?" That was the question with which race fans and horse fanciers greeted each other Saturday as the time approached for the quarter mile matched race between the Paul Harvey colt, Dutch Veda, and the Oscar Schnaubert roping horse, Wanderer.

The race will be run at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Several local men went to Kent Saturday afternoon, others planning to leave this morning on the 150 mile trek in time to see the early afternoon event.

Doc Bloss, veteran trainer and jockey, will be up on Dutch Veda, having been working him on the Cowboy park track here for the short race for several weeks. Cecil Locklear, renowned jockey from Goldthwaite, will ride Wanderer as he has done in several matched events recently. Myrl Jowell and Schnaubert managed the entry there. Paul Harvey and associates of Odessa having charge of the chestnut colt.

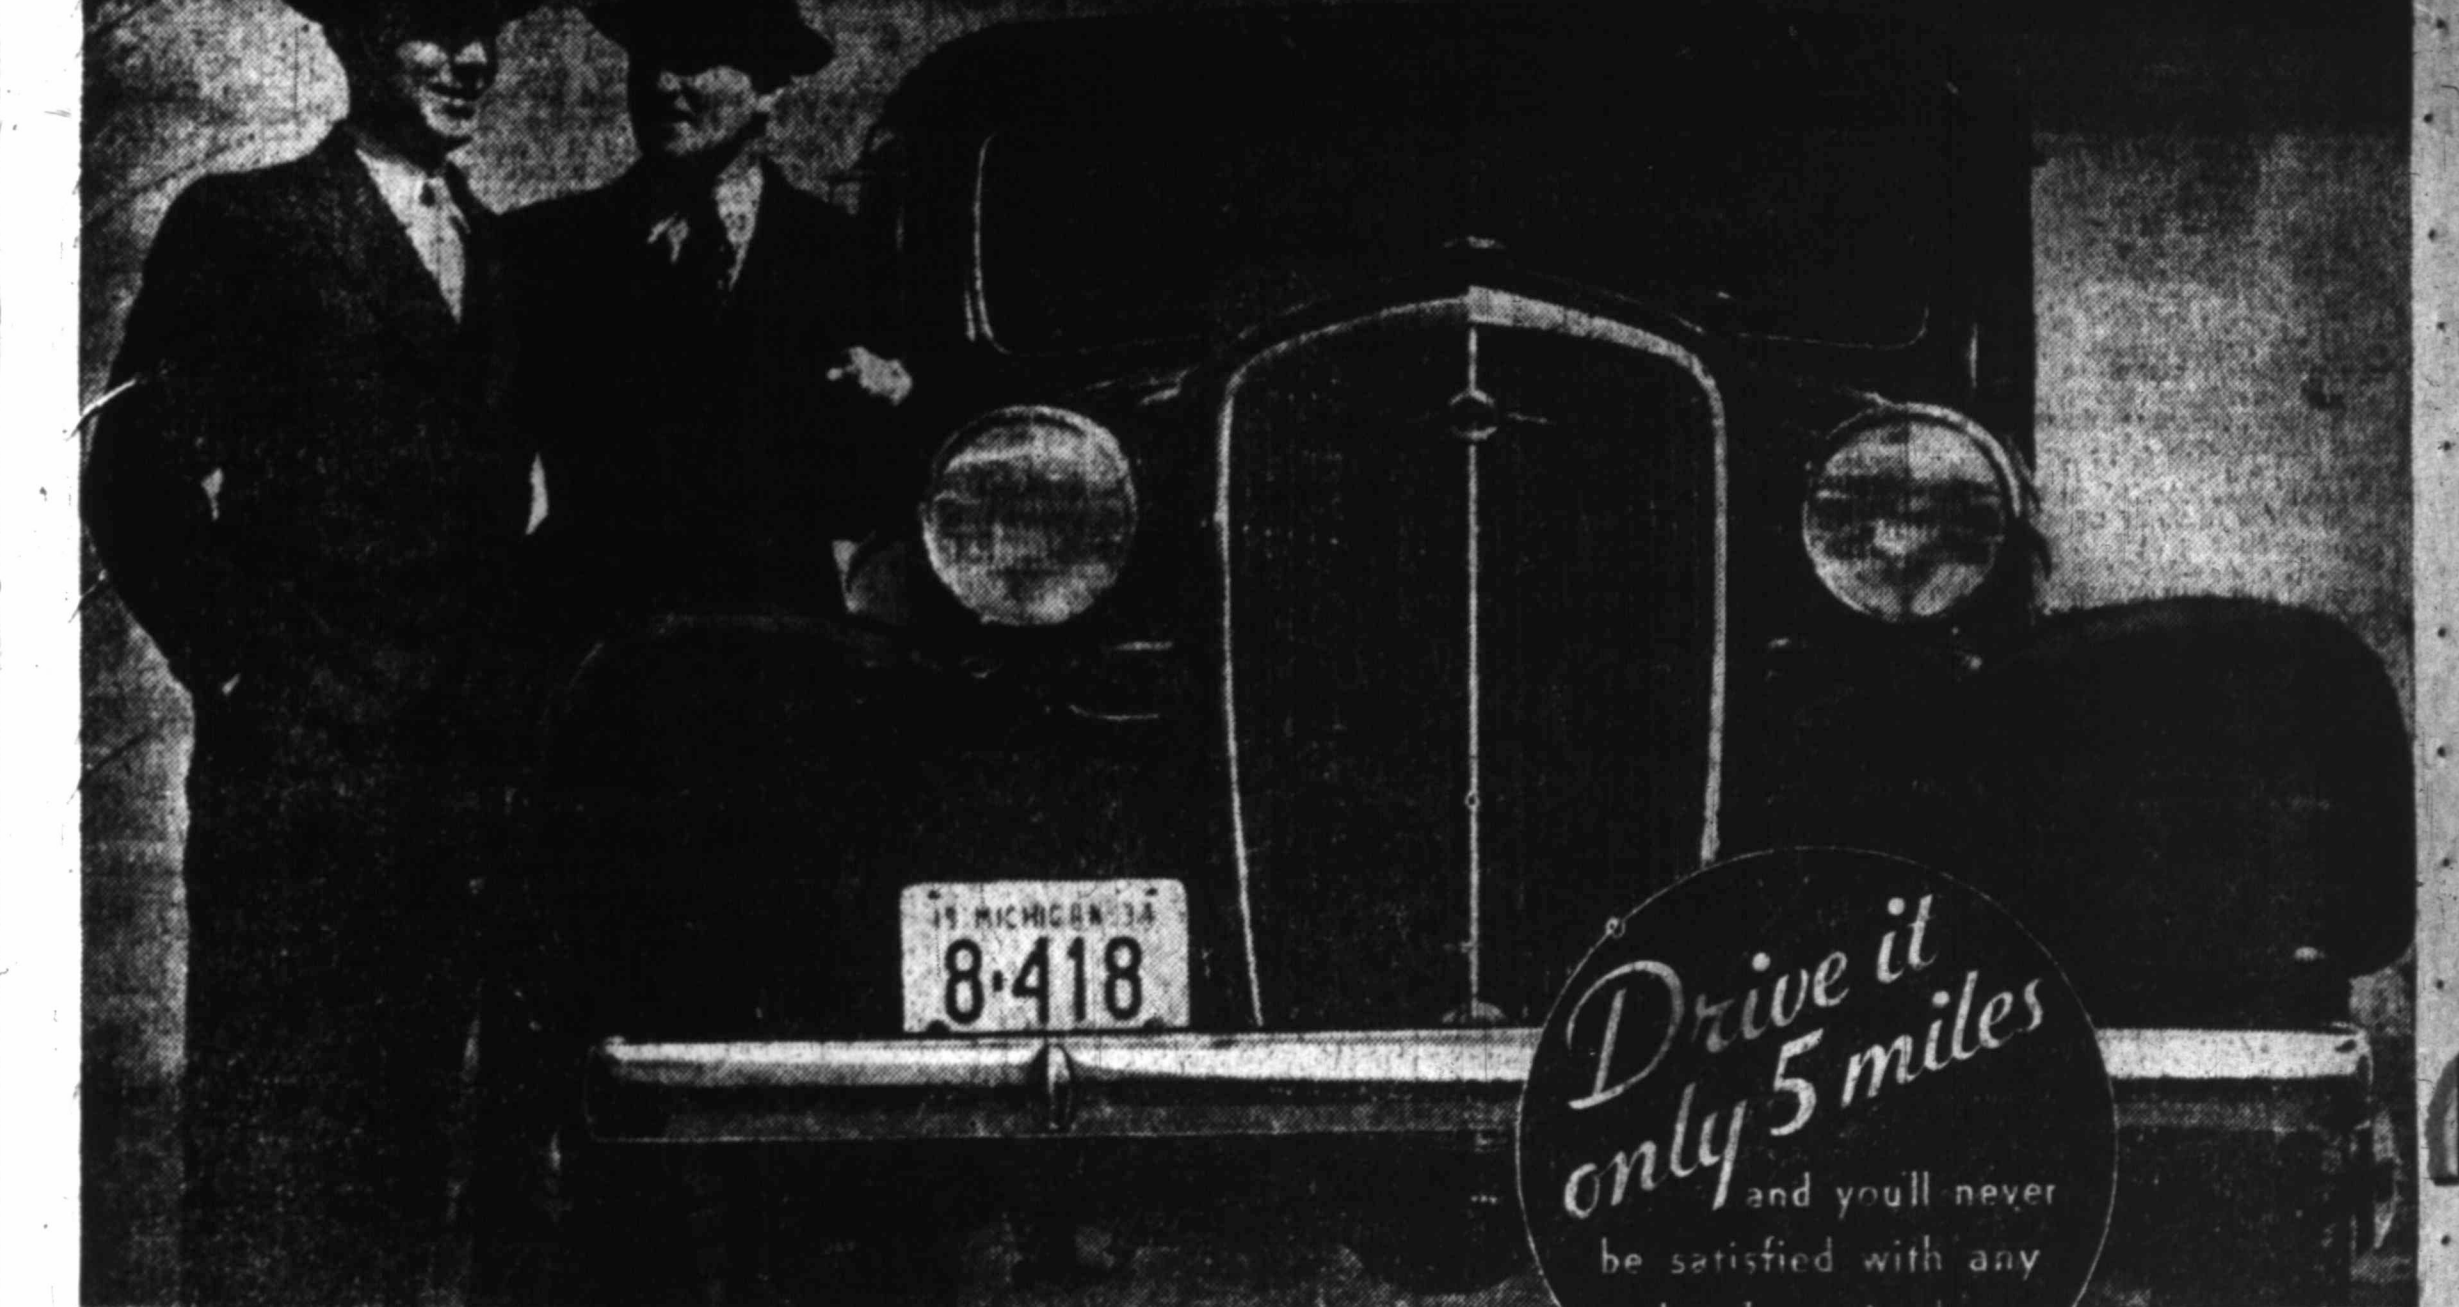

Sentiment here Saturday apparently was in favor of the three year old, Dutch Veda, on account of his successes other various distances up to five-eighths. However, it was conceded that both Locklear, who has been training the eight year old bay, and Jowell would not jump into such a match blindly and expectation was that the heat would be "for blood."

Although Kent race fans have both a new oval track and a straight-away, the race will be run over the latter. Bloss has been at the location for several days, familiarizing the colt with the track.
