How About Housing on Model-T Basis?

There are many reasons why housing on a scale needed by the country fails to get started. High hourly wages in the building trades, high prices for building materials, oppressive and unnecessary legal specifications, speculative land prices, all these are holding back the building boom which is necessary to recovery. No way has yet been found to "unfreeze" any of these factors. No "model home" proposals have yet been made which bring new houses down into the price range where the mass of men can buy them. From a layman, who does not pretend to be a building expert, comes a suggestion that might possibly point a way out. It is this: If the kind of "model houses" now designed and offered the average workman are beyond his power to buy (and they are) why not go at the thing from a completely new angle, and design a house that will be just as much house as this man can afford to buy, and no more?

How were automobiles brought within the range of the average buyer? By building an automobile, stripped of all gee-gaws, most of the conveniences, and even many comforts—the old Model-T Ford of blessed memory. It wasn't much of a car, even according to the standards of those days. But it ran, and thousands of people found it infinitely preferable to the horse and buggy, or to no car at all. Doesn't this suggest an approach to housing? What's the matter with building a "Model-T" house, stripped of gadgets and some of the latest conveniences and comforts? A simple house that will be watertight, and clean, and sound, even if it doesn't have an electric refrigerator and thermostatic heat control. A house so designed that additions can be built as needed, gadgets installed as they can be afforded, conveniences and comforts gradually added as the occupant becomes able to pay for them.

Would it not be possible to design and build such a house at a cost, even under today's conditions, which would jibe with the average working man's income? Does this mean a retreat to lower standards than those indicated by the beautiful "model homes" that are being designed today? Certainly not. Such a house, plain and un-gadged as it would be, would immediately be a vast improvement over the drafty cabins and reeking slums that now house so many people in city and country. If it could be built and sold at a price working men could pay, then they would not have to saddle themselves with a lifetime of debt to buy it. As they began to get clear on the cost, the occupants would gradually install the improvements. Given a chance to get in out of the rain in clean, new, basically-sound houses at a cost they could pay, such workmen would gradually improve, equip, and enlarge them as time went on. If a man can't afford to buy what he wants, he usually buys what he can afford. But in housing, that chance has not yet been offered him. Perhaps such an offer would be the key-log which, pried loose, would release the pent-up demand for new houses.

Bayonets and Baloney

China is now to be favored with formation of the Hsin Min Hui, or New Citizens' Society. It is Japan's answer to the anti-Japanese feeling that seems to be spreading, somehow, through those parts of China not already occupied by Japanese soldiers.

There has been an anti-Japanese feeling in China for some time. It probably began back when the Japanese seized Korea. The grabbing of Kiao-chow during the World War and the attempt to get Shantung probably didn't help.

Then, back in 1932, there was a little slaughtering around Shanghai, and a little grabbing in Manchuria, which seemed to further annoy those unreasonable Chinese.

Now that Japanese troops occupy most of North China, and have reduced Shanghai and Nanking to a shambles, further anti-Japanese feeling is found. It is strange, but there it is. So the Hsin Min Hui society is going to propagandize against it. After the bayonets, in other words, comes the baloney.

The Town Quack

Employer: "My boy, I started out of college on the theory that the world had an opening for me."
Office Boy: "And you found it, sir?"
Employer: "I did. In fact, I'm in the hole right now."
"Are your father and mother in?" asked the visitor of the small boy who opened the door. "They was in," said the child, "but they is out." "Where's your grammar?" "She's gone upstairs," said the boy, "for a lay down."
What a man won't do is the best measure of his character.
The spoils of war are death and dividends, but unfortunately they are not awarded to the same people.

'Shock Treatment' for Adolescent Insanity Is Listed at Top of 1937 Medical Advances

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association.

The outstanding medical advances for 1937 were particularly those relating to the control of dementia praecox and the new uses of the drug called sulfanilamide. In every field of medical practice and for every possible group of diseases, however, new discoveries were announced and new steps taken forward which will prove of immense benefit to the public.

In the field of infectious disease, the year's ending brought the announcement of identification of the virus responsible for measles. For infantile paralysis, it has been established that the organism enters the body in the vast majority of cases by the way of the nerves in the top of the nose. It has been suggested that this entrance may be blocked by the use of sprays containing zinc sulfate solution.

The procedure is difficult and its exact value has not been established, though reports from Toronto relate that 12 cases of infantile paralysis had occurred among some 5000 children who had been sprayed, in contrast to 18 cases among some 6500 children who had not been sprayed.

Many Types of Pneumonia. In the control of pneumonia, new types of serums have been developed for several types. There seem to be as many as 25 or 30 different types of the pneumococcus responsible for this disease. By a special laboratory test, easily performed in any good hospital laboratory, it is possible to find out early just which type affects the person concerned and thus to treat him with the specific serum. Of special importance among the infectious diseases is the attention now being paid to the venereal diseases—syphilis and gonorrhea. The opening up of this subject by the Surgeon-General of the United States Public Health Service and the co-operation of newspapers, magazines and public forums in disseminating knowledge, indicates that we will soon be able to point to records of the control of these diseases.

In Early Stages. For whooping cough, new vaccines have been developed alleged to be useful both in diagnosis and said, and added to the first customer. "Hope you don't mind?" "Not if you're that hungry," answered the other.

When a man is wrong and owns up that he's wrong, he has courage. But if he's right and admits he's wrong—he's married.

A gay party was in progress, with a noisy redhead the center of attraction. Two ladies watched the merry-makers. "See that redhead?" observed one. "I understand she's celebrating her eighteenth birthday."

"Why not?" mewed the other lady. "Better late than never."

Found on a Freshman's registration card: Name of parents: "Mamma and Papa."

Maybe you haven't heard about Mr. and Mrs. John Doe getting a letter from an El Paso hotel, thanking them for their past patronage. The letter caused a divorce, because Mrs. Doe had never been there.

Most of us are facing the new year happy, perhaps but with less cash.

with oxygen and other gases were developed. New respirators and iron lungs were introduced which cover only the upper half of the body. There were also developed new devices for administering heat to the body, using the short radio waves, and other new devices for aiding the hard of hearing. New types of machines were developed to provide the alternating vacuum which makes possible the filling and emptying of the blood vessels in the legs to overcome deficiencies of the circulation. Among public health problems of great concern are the increasing number of motor accidents; the development of new apparatus, and better control of air conditioning; the development of new legislation for controlling the purity and safety of foods, drugs and cosmetics; and investigations of the dangers to health brought about by the spraying of fruits and vegetables by various poisonous substances used to prevent parasite damage.

College Girls Told When To Eat With Fingers. NEW YORK (AP)—A discussion of what foods should be eaten with the fingers and whether white lies are permissible on social occasions ended a series of lectures at Hunter College by Mrs. Katherine Bleecker Meigs.

After general discussion by the students and Mrs. Meigs it was decided that artichokes, lobster, olives, radishes, celery, corn on the cob, canapes and fruit could and should be eaten with the fingers.

DURBAN, South Africa. (U.P.) — Many South African girls are wearing souvenirs of the British navy in the form of garters bearing names of units of the fleet. Rural Schools

Cotton Flat. Entering the fifth month of the term, Cotton Flat school re-opened January 3 following a week's holiday for Christmas. One new pupil was enrolled while three, Clara Marks and L. R. Shoemaker and Betty Cluff, were lost to the school through withdrawal and moving away. The school has been enlarged and it is hoped to produce a play later in the year. Miss Christine Moore and Miss Melba Marlin, teachers, plan to enter literary events in the Interscholastic League contests this year. The school will lose one of its trustees when Mr. and Mrs. Gilford Lear move to Midland soon.

Old Magazines Are Wanted at Library

An appeal to any persons having old magazines they wish to get rid of to bring them to the county library was voiced today by Miss Marguerite Hester, librarian. The library daily has many calls for magazines and the present supply was declared to be "low." The library is open each day from 8:30 until 6 p. m.

Rigid Curfew Puts Shanghai to Sleep At 12; It's Have Pass Or Go To Jail

SHANGHAI, Jan. 4. (UP) — Midnight, the onetime "witching hour," now finds Shanghaianders, who do not have curfew passes but who do have scruples about spending the night in jail, at home or on their way there. Midnight used to be the hour when parties gained new momentum and party-goers hastened by ricksha and automobile from one night club to another. But not since the night of Aug. 15. When Japanese forces surrounded Shanghai, there was talk of suspending curfew, or permitting Shanghaianders to be abroad between the hitherto banned hours of 11:30 p. m. and 5:00 a. m., but the International Settlement and French Concession authorities de-interrupted by bombing and shelling, but even the lightest sleepers soon became inured to bombardments. The splatter of shrapnel and machine gun bullets against nearby buildings began to resemble the patter of raindrops on the roof. Shanghai soon will be itself again, with its brilliant neon-lighted skyline, the lanterned junks floating on the Whangpoo, its pleasure-pursuers aboard the "Paris of the Orient" merry-go-round, but there will be many who recall with nostalgia the months when Shanghai was in the grip of the "China incident of 1937." 2,300 short-wave portable radio sending and receiving sets. Redfern Given Up As Dead 10 Years After Disappears

DETROIT, Jan. 4. (AP) — Ten years and four months from the day he adventurously flew southward, the fantastic story of the aviator Paul Redfern was climaxed Monday by an order of circuit court declaring him a dead man. Thirteen expeditions had sought the missing pilot in South American lands while the lore surrounding the lost man steadily was enriched with new suppositions of his fate. Some rumors, generally discredited, said he had been captured by savage tribes in the upper Amazon region. No searchers, however, ever returned with the answer to his disappearance. Today acting on the petition of Redfern's wife, Gertrude, who said she had spent all her savings to aid the searchers, Circuit Judge Robert M. Toms ruled the aviator legally dead, pronouncing the wife a widow. She had sought to remove the uncertainty of her status. Redfern one of aviation's pioneer dare-devils, tried to span Brunswick, Ga., with Rio De Janeiro in a non-stop flight. He flew away Aug. 25, 1927. The crew of a Norwegian freighter reported sighting a plane that might have been his 150 miles off the coast of Venezuela the next day. Thereafter, no word of him.
