Conference With Emperor Held by Military Leaders

TOKYO, Jan. 11 (A). - Japan's ighest military and civilian officials formally drafted the empire's unshakable policy toward China in conference today with Emperor

Whether Japan contemplated a formal declaration of war and other details of policy were held in the strictest secrecy.

On the battlefield, Japanese tightened their grasp on northern Chinese provinces. With their naval force in possession of Tsingtao, the army threatened to bottle up thousands of Chinese troops on the eastern Shantung plains.

Tokyo newspapers said Admiral Nobumasa Suystsugu, the powerful home minister, was insisting on the formal declaration of war and withdrawal of recognition of the Chinese government.

Domei (Japanese news agency) reported Ambassador Shigeru Kawagoe was expected to be recalled from China.

Chiefs and vice-chiefs of the army, and navy general staffs, the premier, and the foreign, army, navy, home and finance ministers were called before the throne.

What was described as "Japan's unshakable policy toward China" was believed already determined before the imperial conference was ordered into session to ratify it.

Picture of Unconcerned Court Candidate

The typical Texas calm of Hatton W. Sumners was unruffled, as you can see above, when associates on the powerful House Judiciary Committee, of which he is chairman, recommended him to President Roosevelt for the Supreme Court seat made vacant by the resignation of Justice Sutherland. Although Washington observers did not consider Congressman Sumners nearly as likely to be appointed as several other prospects, he definitely remained on the list of possibilities. Sumners, in the House since 1913 and now serving his 13th consecutive term, helped obtain House approval last spring of the Supreme Court bill under which Justices Van Devanter and Sutherland decided to leave active duty. His speech declaring he would never permit the court reorganization bill to leave his committee, however, is regarded as one of the causes of that bill's defeat.

Searchers Are Forced To Retreat

Two Crew Members. Eight Passengers Killed in Crash

BOZEMAN, Mont. Jan. 11, (P)-A blizzard today threw a snowy shroud over the wreckage of a Northwest Airlines plane and the bodies of ten persons the craft carried to their deaths yesterday when it crashed in the Bridger mountains 14 miles

Searchers who reached the site of the tragedy retreated in the face of the blizzard. They postponed until later today the task of bringing out the dead. Snowplows will be necessary.

The cause of the crash remained

The liner crashed on snow-covered peak high in the mountains late yesterday, carrying to their deaths 10 persons listed as being aboard. Two ranchers, cutting wood on the rugged mountain slope, said they saw the plane burst into flames as it hit the ground. The flames prevented them from any attempt to extricate the plane's passengers or crew, the ranchers, C. A. Larson and Glenn White, said.

Spokane Pilots. Northwest Airline officials in Si Paul said the plane was piloted by Nick Mamer, pilot, and F. W. West, co-pilot, both of Spokane.

They listed as passengers: A. Anderson, Spokane, Wash. D. McKay, the Hudson's Bay Co. Winnipeg, Canada. Lloyd Levin, 33, Detroit.

I. E. Stevenson, Seattle. Walter Ton, postal inspector, St. W. E. Borgenheimer, Basin, Mont. Al H. Croonquist, Billings, Mont. for Northwest Airlines.

Ted Anderson, St. Paul, mechanic in the St. Paul shops of Northwe The plane was flying from Seattle to Chicago, via Minneapolis. It had been grounded for a short time at Butte because of bad weather and then took off for Billings. Into Tailspin.

Larson and White said they were cutting timber high on the mountain slope when they saw the plane go into a tailspin little more than 200 feet from where they worked. They said one body was thrown clear of the wreckage when the plane hit, but landed so close to the flames they could not reach it. ### Modern Day Heroes

The days of courage and heroism are far from gone. There is no better evidence of that fact than the recent rescue of 15 men who had spent 39 almost foodless days in the wilds of Canada.

Once in a while we are apt to get the idea that our vaunted civilization has softened the race: that there's no longer any adventure and no one to accept it if it came.

It is pleasant when something like the Ontario episode proves us wrong.

Certainly the saga of the Arctic holds no better example of courage than that of those 15 men, fighting death for weeks, maintaining strictest discipline while eating even the bones and entrails of the few animals they could kill. Rescued, fed and warmed, they were eager to go back and finish their surveying job.

And is the heroism of the rescuers any less because they accomplished their mission in airplanes instead of on snowshoes or dog sleds? They were in imminent risk of their lives every foot they flew over those frozen wastes where one slip meant death.

Yes, courage and heroism are still with us.

European statesmen say they feel sure that the American "recession" won't last long. They're taking no chances on becoming so sympathetic they'll feel constrained to pay the war debts.

America's most popular indoor activity. It merely is by way of pointing out that the cage game can very easily take its place alongside football and hockey as one of the roughest, toughest sports on the books.

Boxers, trackmen, and crew athletes might differ, but basket-ball probably is a greater drain on the wind than anything else you can think of. Players are constantly on the move, and now that the center jump has been eliminated the hardwood becomes

Then, too, there is the matter of body contact. A football player, naturally, takes more and harder knocks, but at least he is padded well at vital spots, Hoopsters have virtually no protection, and with the game as fast as it is anything is liable to happen.
