George J. Trainer, Veteran Official Retires Next Week

Elected First in 1898
as Commissioner of Precinct 3

TELLS MANY STORIES

Assessor for 20 Years
He Has Friends All
Over County

GEORGE J. TRAINER

One chilly night in 1912 R. H. (Bob) Martin, now a ranchman in the Eagle Pass country, the late Steve Murphy and others were gathered around the stove in the Bank Saloon, favorite Sonora meeting place of those days. Bob Martin was speaking:

"I'm not gonna run for assessor any more."

George J. Trainer, one of the group, turned and said:

"Steve, you announce me in the next issue of 'the Devil' as candidate for Sutton county assessor."

That was the inception of a period of service to Sutton county citizens which will be ended Monday with the retirement of Mr. Trainer who has been county assessor since that time with the exception of the term of 1922-1924 when the office was filled by Claude S. Keene.

A paralytic stroke in February, 1924, didn't down Mr. Trainer. He was up in a month and wouldn't even use a cane regularly. A little more than six years later he suffered another stroke. His work was done for a year by the late S. H. Stokes and since that time Mr. Trainer's daughter, Grace, has "carried on" for her father. He hasn't walked for two years but does sit on the side of the bed and, at times, in a chair.

Lives in Another Day

Mr. Trainer delights in re-living the days of old when Sonora was young, fences were unknown and, as he says it, "when this section was truly the 'Stockman's Paradise' as Mike Murphy named it." Not quite a native of this section Mr. Trainer has lived here since he was thirteen.

He was born in San Antonio in 1872—August 5 to be exact. His father operated a number of West Texas trading posts, one of which was at Ben Ficklin, original site of San Angelo.

The family moved to the Fort Terrett ranch near Sonora in July, 1885. P. H. Wentworth owned the place which was reputed then to have 193,000 acres of deeded land on the north and south draws of the Llano River. Fences just weren't in those days, Mr. Trainer recalled recently. One hundred and twenty-five men worked there. All were Mexicans except Bill Drew, blacksmith, and Richard Ruth, negro cook.

To School in New York

Young Trainer worked in the commissary. It was his duty to parcel out the rations. Each worker's monthly lot was four pounds of beans, four pounds of sugar, four pounds of green coffee and thirty-five pounds of meal. Fresh goat meat was plentiful and given with a generous hand. Trainer issued the rations every two weeks in a 50-pound sack tied into sections for its allotted foodstuff. Rather disjointed looking affair it was but it did the work. If a Mexican made his own tea (of leaves, herbs and what not) he could exchange his coffee for other goods or sell it outright to the commissary.

Four years were spent as "commissary boy." Then came two years of high school work at Canadaigua Academy in western New York state. More mature in every way he came back then to serve as foreman of the ranch. He was there six years before the family moved to a place on the river near where Quince Adams lives now.

In 1895 Mr. Trainer married Miss Frankie Adams, daughter of Dave Adams, a Sonora citizen.

Seven years later they moved here. First he worked at odd jobs, then at the Max Mayer Co. store and finally "landed" at the E. F. Vander Stucken Co., in the grocery department. His son, Ralph, has been manager there fifteen years.

"Things were much different then," Mr. Trainer recalled. "A smart grocery clerk could sell $500 to $600 worth in a day. People came in once a month or less and hauled home a 2-horse load. Often they'd load on Sunday after a Saturday of celebrating. Everything from a needle to a gas engine was handled. Mr. Vander Stucken had the only lumber yard. It was right where Theo Savell's house is."

In Saloon Business Next

A backer was found when there was a chance to go in the saloon business where the A. & W. Drug is located now. It was the Ranch Saloon. Mr. Trainer moved the stock and fixtures across the street to a rock building. It became the Bank Saloon then. When the lure of public office tempted the saloon business was forgotten.

But his election in 1912 wasn't the first of Mr. Trainer's county service. Back in 1898 he served two terms as county commissioner representing precinct three ("the river box.") In 1906 and again in 1908 precinct one people, in town, chose him as commissioner.

Mr. Trainer's bondsmen the first time he was elected assessor were Mat Karnes, R. T. Baker, L. J. Wardlaw and R. H. Martin. The first two are dead, the third a Fort Worth lawyer and the fourth lives in the Eagle Pass section.

On School Board Ten Years

Today Mr. Trainer is ever-hopeful that he will be "down on the streets there some of these days, you wait and see." Friends come in often, yarns are swapped, lore of the days of another period is retold. W. J. Fields, one of his best friends, comes often and stays longest, according to Mr. Trainer. Mr. Fields was pasturing cattle on the Fort Terrett place in 1890. Mrs. Trainer insists that when Mr. Fields comes "and they get to trying to out-He one another he (Mr. Trainer) can sit on the side of the bed for several hours—he doesn't get tired at all then."

For twelve years Mr. Trainer was superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School. A ten-year period was spent on the school board. Other members were: James Cornell, president; B. M. Halbert, secretary; T. B. Adams, August Meckel, J. T. Shurley. He has been worshipful master of the Dee Ora Lodge, A. F. & A. M. here and high priest of the Royal Arch Masons.

The other day a Sonora citizen heard the shrill whistle of the Panhandle & Santa Fe train as it came into Sonora. This was the comment heard:

"There's the Santa Fe. George Trainer will rest easier now. He counts on that whistle every day and gets lots of satisfaction out of the fact that he lived to see the day—and quite a few days, in fact—when sure-enough trains pulled into Sonora."

Many Stories "on File"

Humorous and odd experiences

SONORA AS IT WAS NOT SO MANY YEARS AGO

and Lea Aldwell. Originally it was known as Lewenthal's. J. C. Morrow was manager of the store at the time of the fire.

Adjoining the drug store was the George B. Hamilton grocery. Part of a feed storage room burned. Next was the Vander Stucken store. Adjacent to it was the Bank Saloon building. The two-story structure is the Craddock Building still standing. On the corner across from the courthouse there was a livery stable and the Decker Hotel. Both were torn down a few years later when a hotel was planned for the corner but never became a reality.

U. S. Buying Work in Sutton County Nears Completion

One Mail, the Day Before Christmas, Brought $6,030.40 for Goat and Sheep Raisers

Only about 4000 sheep and goat pelts have not been paid for in Sutton County, according to W. R. Nisbet, director, and Fred Simmons, office manager, in charge of the federal livestock buying program which has been in progress since July 4.

Only 200 of the 4000 still remain in the hands of ranchmen who are entitled to credit for them. The remainder are in the receiving station in Sonora. Certain rulings under which the local office works must be complied with before vouchers authorizing payment for the 3800 may be approved.

The sheep and goat program closes Monday night. All pelts must have been received and all voucher orders and other forms must be completed by that time. The buying of cattle stopped December 1. Only 93 of the last cattle quota of 1000 were bought. A few head, owned by ranchmen in widely scattered sections of the county were not bought due to the fact that it would be impractical to go to the expense of purchasing for such scattered animals.

The local office, in charge of Mr. Simmons, must remain open until all vouchers have been prepared, sent away for approval and returned for distribution to the producers. Tom Bond and Louie Stuart, who have been sheep sorters and cattle appraisers, completed their work, as far as the cattle are concerned, the first of December.

The approximate number of animals bought in the county since the program began is: sheep, 69,097; goats, 16,211; cattle, 14,563. Amounts approved for payment: cattle, $165,452 (only $684 of which has not been received); sheep, $138,194; goats, $22,695.40. All of the sheep and goat money will have been received after pelts are received and necessary clerical work completed. A total of $153,735.40 has been received to date for sheep and goats.

The day before Christmas vouchers for $6,030.40 for sheep and goats bought were received.

Monreals Name Baby

Ema Lucille Monreal is the name that has been given the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mateo Monreal who was born recently. The baby's father has been a ranch employee of Ed Mayfield for many years. The mother will be remembered as winner of a beauty contest last year.

No Foreign Mohair Used in GMC Autos

Collins and Aikman, Director of Service, Here Friday

Emphatic denial was made in Sonora Friday by M. F. Schmitt, director of merchandise service, Collins and Aikman Corporation, Bristol, R. I., that General Motors buys imported mohair for use in automobile upholstery.

Mr. Schmitt was on his way to the Fred Earwood Ranch. Earlier in the week he had been in Del Rio to talk to executives of the Schreiner Co. and in Rocksprings to talk to producers in and around that town.

Only purchase of upholstery fabrics is done by General Motors and Fisher Body, Mr. Schmitt explained. They buy from mills such as his own. The organization he represents, Mr. Schmitt said, has purchased no foreign mohair in 1934. It sells its mohair fabrics to General Motors as a buying customer.

A wrong is being done the motor car establishments by belief of the rumors regarding their purchases of mohair from other countries, Mr. Schmitt stated. His company carries on a promotional campaign with the goal of furthering the use of mohair in fabrics.

AUTHOR THROUGH HERE ON WAY TO STATE CAPITAL

A passenger on one of the buses through Sonora Friday was Nan Hillary Johnson, author of "Frontier Fighter," an autobiography of George W. Coe, which was published in June by Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

Mr. Coe, a resident of Glencoe, N. M., is said to be the last man alive who was a pal of Billy the Kid, famous personality of southwestern history. The book is foreword of reminiscences secured by Nan Hillary Johnson from him.

Miss Johnson, a native of Texas who has done newspaper and other journalism work in many parts of the country, is at work now, she says, on a book about the officer in the southwest and the vanishing of the cattle rustler. She was on her way to Austin from New Mexico.

Mrs. Taylor and Daughter Better
Mrs. H. L. Taylor and daughter, Elizabeth, who have both been ill for the past week are reported to be improving.

George S. Allison, who was ill for several days this week, is reported to be improved.

Cemetery Work May Be Done by Sutton Co. Relief People

National Reemployment Service to Be Established Monday for the Second Time

Street and drainage work and improvements at Sonora cemetery will likely be among the relief projects for which approval will be sought in Austin this week.

R. E. Taylor, Sutton county administrator, said Thursday morning that a conference that afternoon between relief officials and city representatives would determine just what projects would be sought.

The "case load" of relief work in the county in December is 197, approximately twenty per cent more than in the same month last year. "Case load" is a term meaning the number of relief "clients" serviced during the month. A "case" may mean either one individual or a group of persons forming a family of which the individual "case" is the representative.

Records in the office are being compiled at this time for December, according to Mr. Taylor, and after that work is completed a review of the year's work is possible. Relief work since the Civil Works Administration ended has been a co-operative effort of the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation and the Texas Relief Commission.

The re-establishment of the National Reemployment Service as a work project has been authorized, Mr. Taylor stated. The work, which begins Monday, will be handled by Mrs. Mamie Blanks. She will have charge of the labor employed on Sutton projects on which Public Works Administration funds are used. Among this type which are scheduled to begin soon are the city hall-fire station building and the Mexican School building. The proposed highway bridge over Lowrey Draw would also come in this class.

Proposed work at the cemetery, Mr. Taylor said, includes street drainage and construction of a ditch to turn off hillside water. A supplementary project to one started sometime ago by 100 men is on the playground of the new Mexican School building site.

It is thought by Mr. Taylor that the "case load" in January will decrease due to the employment of more men by ranchmen as well as the start of local building works of various sorts.

Texas Coins Show Six Nations' Flags

Legislature to Be Asked to Aid in Museum Construction

Austin, Dec. 27.—Much interest is being manifested in the placing on sale throughout Texas of centennial silver 50-cent pieces by the Texas American Legion, to be sold at a dollar each, the proceeds to be devoted to the erection of a Texas historical museum on the campus of the University of Texas in connection with plans for the Texas Centennial celebrations of 1936.

The coins were made available by the passage of an act of congress in 1933, which was signed by President Roosevelt, June 15, of that year. The coins are unique in that, in their designs, are to be found the six flags under which Texas developed, the Lone Star of the State, the Alamo and the faces of Stephen F. Austin and General Sam Houston.

This project has the approval of the Texas Centennial Commission, which in the measures it presented to the recent special session of the legislature, made financial provision for aiding the Legion in its worthy endeavor, while only recently the executive committee of the commission expressed the opinion that the commission and the legislature should co-operate with the Legion in this respect, suggesting a state appropriation of from $100,000 to $250,000 to supplement funds raised through the sale of the coins.

Annual Scout Area Session in January

Ralph Trainer One of Committee
Planning S. A. Meeting

The ninth annual meeting of the Concho Valley Council of the Boy Scouts of America will be held in San Angelo the latter part of January, the date having been tentatively set for Thursday, Jan. 24. Several Sonora scout leaders are expected to attend the meeting.

T. R. Logan, San Angelo, chairman of the annual meeting committee has appointed the following representatives of the districts of the Concho Valley Council to serve as members of his committee: A. M. Blackman, McCamey; H. W. Lynn, Ballinger; R. D. Trainer, Sonora; B. B. Burk, Menard; and Grady Skelton, Brady.

Group conferences in the afternoon will begin at four o'clock and the banquet will be at 6:15. All of the meetings will be in the St. Angelus Hotel. Arrangements have been made to entertain the out-of-town ladies in the afternoon. They are to attend the annual banquet.

Mr. Logan has promised the Scout leaders of the council one of the most inspirational meetings in the history of the council. He is planning the convention part of the meeting, from 4 to 6 o'clock, to be in the form of a training conference so that Scouters from the various towns may get new ideas and objectives for 1935 that they can carry back to their communities and put into practice with their various Scout troops.

Public Showing of New Auto Tomorrow

Sam Hull, Ford Dealer, in Dallas
for Pre-Showing Thursday

"Some time Friday night" was the information given by Sam Hull, manager of Sonora Motor Co, Ford dealer, Wednesday noon when asked when the new model of the car he has sold for many years would arrive in Sonora.

Mr. Hull left shortly afterward for Dallas where he attended a special showing of the new models. Truck models for 1935 have been available for some time.

Fundamental changes in automobile design are claimed for the new models. Among the features are new weight distribution, new seat position and new developments in spring suspension. Passengers, it is said, will ride "forward—toward the center of the car—away from the rear axle and away from the bumps."

Other improvements include a new "easy-pressure" clutch and newly-designed "self-centering" brakes.

Home for Holidays

Willie B. Wilson arrived Friday to spend the holidays with his mother, Mrs. Nannie B. Wilson. He is a student in the University of Texas.

Squatty Michigan Badger Makes Living by Digging

Before badgers go to sleep for long winter, they are very, very fat, and the coat of fur sleek and valuable. In the spring they begin shedding, and the coat loses its beauty for a while.

While not numerous anywhere, badgers are found all over Michigan, and it surprises most people to learn that they live in the forest as well as on the plains, but always dig burrows, observes a writer in the Detroit Free Press. These burrows are a nuisance on ranches where horses are tripped by them, sometimes even break a leg and give the rider a bad fall. In Michigan, however, the animals are chiefly beneficial, due to the destruction of rodents.

The badger is exceptionally well equipped for digging. His short powerful legs are armed with strong curved claws which enable him to tunnel through the hardest soil. The speed with which he sinks from sight in ordinary soil have led to many exaggerated stories, but it is quite true that he can excavate a burrow with marvelous rapidity.

The burrows the badger digs are really essential to his survival, for it is by digging that he earns his daily food. Ground squirrels, woodchucks and other underground animals are dug out of their dens and devoured. Sometimes a badger gets into a habit of raiding a poultry roost, but most individuals are shy and keep well away from the haunts of man.

When attacked, the badger is a fierce fighter, which has led to the somewhat erroneous idea that his disposition is naturally ugly.

The University of Michigan Museum of Zoology has badgers kept as pets. These are often permitted to walk about freely, and are so docile that they permit even strangers to stroke their flat backs.

Oldest School Building Is in St. Augustine, Fla.

In quaint St. Augustine, Fla., just inside the city gates on old St. George street, stands the oldest schoolhouse in the United States. It is believed to be more than three hundred years old. Built by Juan Genopy, the structure is said first to have been a barracks for the city guard. Later it was used as an English speaking schoolhouse and now it is preserved as a museum.

Visitors find the atmosphere of the school maintained in the building by a group of wax figures, representing the schoolmaster at his desk by the fireplace and the pupils seated on rows of wooden benches. The building has withstood the ravages of time and the elements remarkably well. It is built of hand-hewn red cedar.

The floor, now covered with wood, was once of irregular stone blocks, and one can see a few of these in the closet under the stairway, which the schoolmaster called "the dungeon." The closet served as a place of punishment for unruly pupils. This form of punishment was considered mild, however, as in those days it was not good discipline to "spare the rod." This much hated method of correcting the conduct of mischievous pupils usually was accomplished with a birch switch, applied to the posteriors of the culprit.—Chicago Tribune.

Ohio's 1863 Election

The gubernatorial campaign of 1863 in Ohio is without parallel in the state's politics. John Brough, a war Democrat, was nominated by the Union party, while Clement L. Vallandigham, a vigorous peace Democrat, was nominated by the peace Democrats. On this election hung the fate of the nation. It was Brough and Union, or Vallandigham and dis-Union. Ohio was then one of the three most important states in the Union, and as she decided, others would be apt to decide. After much political strife, a mighty victory was won by Brough and the Union. Upon receiving the message of victory, Lincoln telegraphed: "Glory to God in the highest; Ohio has saved the nation."

Kingdom of Yugoslavia

Jugoslavia was formed at the end of the World war from the former kingdoms of Serbia and Montenegro and territory which formerly belonged to Rumania, Bulgaria, Austria and Hungary. It represents substantially the area inhabited by the south or "Jugo" Slavs. The formation of the new kingdom became effective on December 29, 1918, and by a royal decree signed on October 3, 1929, by King Alexander, the name was officially changed to the Kingdom of Yugoslavia, an appellation long in popular usage.

Near and Far East

The Near East comprises Turkey in Europe, Asia Minor, Armenia, Georgia, Azerbaijan, the south Russian republic, Persia, Syria, Palestine, Mesopotamia, some of the islands of the Mediterranean, and perhaps Arabia and Egypt. Greece, Bulgaria and Albania are also included in the term, as it is understood by the Near East relief. The Far East comprises Japan, China and other countries on or near the eastern coast of Asia.

After the World war a movement began in Norway to have the name of the capital changed back to Oslo. This was accomplished on July 11, 1924. After January 1, 1925, the official name of the capital was Oslo.

PLAYING ON THE STREET

No one is more active in the campaign to persuade the automobile driver to exercise the care, courtesy and common sense which will reduce the appalling number of accidents than Motor Vehicle Administrators. They know the facts. Ten of them, officers of National and Regional Associations, have described the most common driving and pedestrian faults.

By RUSSELL BEVANS
Registrar, Department of Motor Vehicles, California.
Vice-President, Region No. 4 of American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators.

THIS is the day of high speed cars and many of them; so the children of our nation have no business playing in the streets and roadways. It means death and injury to them, grief to the parents, sorrow to the neighborhood.

True, it is said, the youngsters must play somewhere. We all know that to be the case for we have all been children. This fact only makes the problem trebly serious, particularly in the cities.

The first problem is that of the parents who must work out a scheme to keep their youngsters off the streets and on the sidewalks at all times. Second, there is the problem of the authorities who must work out a plan whereby proper playgrounds are provided for city children. Third, there is the problem of the motorist who must realize that despite all laws and regulations, despite playgrounds and all other facilities, some children will play in the streets. They may have their games; they may skate or ride their bicycles. All these must be guarded against.

Figures supplied by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters indicate that 49,780 children playing in our street were involved in accidents last year. Of this number, 1,680 were killed and 48,100 injured, some of them maimed for life. We do not speak of that other game, the riding or hitching on vehicles most played by children, but at the same time about 5,000 children were injured last year and about 300 were killed doing this. It is a serious problem to solve but it must be done in the interest of future generations.

Keep the youngsters out of the streets!

NEW YEAR CAN MEAN A NEW STEP TOWARD BUSINESS RECOVERY

The dawn of the year 1935 can be looked to as an index of a year which can present a definite turn for the better in economic conditions.

For the Sutton section it can mean that spring is not far away. With spring very often come heavy rains which can do much toward "lifting" this section out of the difficulties in which it has been submerged for so long a time. Buying and planning by people everywhere can help a great deal to bring about a change in the country generally. More business-like methods in government, more system in the handling of public affairs and improvement in a host of other ways of handling the business of the people are desirable things which must come before normal conditions can be restored. It is to be hoped that steps in this direction may be taken before the end of the next twelve months.

ATHLETIC COMPETITION

At the close of each football season we see and hear too much agitation over the outcome of the athletic competition engaged in by various schools of the country. Recently, in a South Texas territory, the issues became so involved that court proceedings were resorted to by one of the competing football elevens in order to protect what it evidently thought was its just rights. Somewhere, up and down the line of the organization of the Inter-scholastic League, something is lacking. It should not be necessary for citizens of any two neighboring cities or towns to become so bitter in their relations over the outcome of a football game that charges and counter charges are the rule for weeks and weeks. Placing the blame is next to impossible; it may be the local committee, the district committee or the state committee. In any event, it seems, there should be a definite source from which fair and impartial rulings could be made whereby these differences could be settled once and for all.

As far as this newspaper is concerned, the football season is over. Strictly from a local angle, the followers of the Stephenville schools feel they should have been given an equal share in the honors of a district championship football eleven; a district committee ruled otherwise and even though there may be grounds for disappointment it appears the wise expedient to forget it.

All of us like football and we like to see our teams win. For a period of several years Stephenville has been winner of the district championship and in games won and lost they are as good as any other team in the district. There are many other activities just as important, so let us get busy on them and forget the football season until the fall of 1935.—Stephenville Tribune.

Pessimism is the salt that flavors optimism. An embrace is generally a wrapped silence. The man with one joke usually tells it very well. Free speech is prized most by those who like to talk. Praise makes a wise man modest and a fool arrogant. A woman's tears float her out of a lot of difficulties. Coal oil lamps still are widely used in Georgia, survey shows. Would you set yourself apart from other men? Wear a monocle. Better not wish for anything that you cannot set out to work for. Whatever your skill earns is always settled on by the tax gatherer. Groundless fears of 20 years age are all dead, but there is a fresh crop. To enjoy all of one's rights may involve more responsibility than one desires. Some natures lead men to become criminals if they are not allowed to be wholly ornamental. Ever notice that when a doctor is sick he isn't as much worried about it as his patrons are. One can stand an honest and honorable crosspatch if one can make him laugh once in a while. To all the sports except the one a man cares for, he says, "ho, hum!" when told about them. A great many beautiful things are not true. But what of that? They're beautiful; that's the reason. It is the bug around the evening lamp who thinks he is the life of the party that gets killed first.

BELL-LIKE ROCKS IN PENNSYLVANIA
A new set of ringing rocks, made famous throughout Pennsylvania because of their vibrant qualities, have been found near the quaint historical town of Riegelsville. With the aid of a small metal hammer, a clear ringing, as from a bell, can be made to emanate from the rocks. However, all the rocks in the area, which covers several hundred square feet, do not ring. Scientists believe that the rock must be partly suspended in order to give off the bell-like sounds. Samuel G. Gordon, associate curator of the department of mineralogy at the Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia, believes volcanic activity 199,000,000 years ago during the time of the dinosaurs made the bell-like rocks possible. Gordon said they were not placed there by volcanic eruption, as was often believed, but were exposed when the soil was washed away during the millions of years. The rocks are of the diabase, or trap rock class, and one of three types of rocks that ring. The other two are stalactites found in caves and phonolite, a volcanic rock found in the western part of the country.

Film Sea Bottom From Deck
Undersea motion pictures may be made without getting off the deck of the ship by means of a periscope camera. The periscope, which is made with extension tubes for convenience in carrying, is attached to a watertight case designed to hold a 35 millimeter camera, which is wound, operated and focused from outside the case and from the safety of ship deck. The outfit can be adjusted to take scenes from any angle. The optical system permits use of as many extension tubes as desired, so that the camera may be submerged to great depths. To prevent fogging of the lenses, the equipment has a ventilating system through the tube.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Derelicts
Derelicts are as dangerous to navigation as submerged icebergs. As many as a thousand have been reported in the North Atlantic in a single year. Many drift great distances before they are found and sunk, the record being held, it is believed, by the Fannie E. Wolston, which—when last seen in 1933 off Savannah—had floated 7,000 miles for two and a half years.—Collier's Weekly.

Miss Goldwire who has been teaching school at the Holland and Glasscock ranches left for home at Christoval for Christmas holidays. Dr. T. J. Dodson left for San Angelo Saturday to meet Mrs. Dodson and the children. They returned home Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Abe Mayer were in from the ranch Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Tobe O'Neal and children were in Sonora for Christmas from Frank's Defeat county. M. R. Calhoun of Sneffield, Pecos county arrived in Sonora Saturday and was warmly received by his old friends. Mr. Calhoun sold his interest in his business at Sneffield and will move back to Sonora as soon as possible. The Christmas ball was a pronounced success. The attendance was the largest seen in Sonora in more than a year. Everyone was there and the merry dance continued till early in the morning. Jess, Hamie, Lon and Tom Barksdale were in Sonora this week.

without number are his treasures through the days. There's the one about the old German—

He lived down on the river and had 2000 goats. When Mr. Trainer assessed him the German was indignant, particularly so, he said, since they were not his because they had a "kittle mortgage" on them. When tax-paying time came the German's check in full came to Mr. Trainer's brother-in-law, the collector, with this notation:

"Here's check for my taxes for which your damned sorry tax assessor did assess me mit and which were not even mine account for I have a kittle mortgage on 'em."

Service has been said to be its own reward but Mr. Trainer would likely deny that. True, he does have the treasure of a public task well done to his credit but in even larger measure he has a storehouse of pleasant associations and experiences nurtured through the years from the time of the open range to the day when ultra stream-lined automobiles, yes, even voices through the air, are a thing of ordinary moment. He lives in another day as he "visits" with his friends, yet has a pleasurable sense of excitement over the unusual and stirring times of the present.

Local Chambers of Commerce Asked to Adopt Principles

Regional Bodies' Statement of Views Received by Sonora W. T. C. C. Director

A "Declaration of Principles," adopted by the all-state council of regional chambers of commerce of Texas, has been received by W. E. Caldwell, director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

It was adopted at a recent meeting of the council in Waco and outlines the organizations' views on matters of public interest. Efforts are being made to get local chambers of commerce to adopt the principles as their own views on the subjects under discussion. The bulletin giving the information was received from J. A. Rix, assistant manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce which is directed by its president, James D. Hamlin.

The "principles" statement is: First: We stand for a championship of private business, industry and ownership of property as the road to recovery, to which end we shall sponsor all federal and state measures, which tend to lend encouragement and confidence to private business and shall oppose all measures and administrative acts which have or will destroy the confidence of business and capital and retard its welfare.

Second: We call for a rapid balancing of the federal budget; for a reduction of the government's extraordinary expense and for a drastic curtailment of existing and proposed government bureaus.

Third: We shall oppose every effort of the federal and state governments to go into business in competition with private and semi-private business. Although granting to the government the right of regulation of public utilities, we oppose the government's destroying of private investments by competing with utilities.

Fourth: With local and state governmental liens already existing against a great portion of the tangible private property of the state, with local public debts burdening property for many years to come and with greatly decreased property values and earnings, we believe that something must be done to relieve tangible property from a portion of the ad valorem tax—otherwise the private ownership of property will cease to be the cornerstone of American civilization and prosperity. We, therefore, call upon our legislators to study the question of the burdens of an ad valorem tax as imposed by state, school, city and county governments with the view of immediately lifting from property at least one-half of the combined ad valorem tax now levied.

Fifth: We recommend this declaration of policy for the profound consideration of all local chambers of commerce in Texas and indulge in the hope that these local bodies will in turn officially adopt it.

WORD ORIGINS

BRIBE

—Once it was only a scrap of paper but now—

The word bribe has degenerated morally while acquiring greater importance, financially. It was once an honest scrap of bread. That was in the late Latin form briba. The French borrowed it (brbe) in the sense of "a lump of bread," "leavings of meals," something that might be given to beggars.

When bribe first came into English it meant "a gift begged," then "a present." In modern use the "present" is frequently a large amount of money, and its purpose is to corrupt a person in a position of trust.

Wedding of Miss Tipton and
Edgar Shurley Jan. 6

At a tea given in Jacksonville, Texas, Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Edward B. Tipton the announcement of the marriage soon of her daughter, Miss Ruth Tipton, Sonora teacher, to Edgar D. Shurley, Sutton county ranchman, was made. The wedding will be the morning of January 6 at the home of the bride's mother.

Miss Tipton was reared in Jacksonville and attended Lon Morris College, co-educational institution there. She was graduated at that school and completed her educational work at Southwestern University in Georgetown, where she was given her Bachelor of Arts degree in 1932. She specialized in piano and English. The same year she became a member of the Sonora teaching staff as instructor in the second grade of the elementary school.

Miss Tipton is a member of the Music Study Club here and a member of the choir of the Methodist Church. This year she has been living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Lowrey.

Mr. Shurley Reared Here

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Shurley, Mr. Shurley has always lived in Sutton county. After his education in the public school here he attended a junior college in San Angelo for a year and later was a student in the Metropolitan Business College in Dallas.

He returned to Sonora and became associated with his father in the ranching business. In 1925 he bought the place of his uncle, R. C. McCollum, known as the old Wentworth place.

Honeymoon Trip to Oklahoma

After the wedding in Jacksonville, which will be attended by relatives and close friends of the bride and groom, they will visit for ten days in Oklahoma City, Muskogee, Okla., and other parts of that state.

The Jacksonville Daily Progress Monday carried the following story of the announcement tea given by Miss Tipton's mother:

One of the outstanding social events of the holiday season was a tea given by Mrs. Edward B. Tipton at her home on the Summerfield road, announcing the engagement of her daughter, Ruth, to Mr. E. D. Shurley of Sonora, Texas.

The guests were met at the door by Miss Frances Tucker. In the receiving line were Mrs. E. B. Tipton, the honoree, Ruth Tipton, Margaret Tipton, and Mrs. Collier Shurley and Mrs. R. A. Halbert of Sonora.

Mrs. Tipton chose a gown of black satin with which she wore talisman roses. The honoree wore a gown of black satin made with a metal cloth tunic. Her flowers were gardenias. Margaret Tipton was gowned in white satin with metallic cape. Mrs. Shurley wore a black crepe tea gown. Mrs. Halbert chose rust crepe.

A color scheme of red and green significant of the holiday season, was used throughout the house. The dining table was laid with an

of Holiday Eaters
Genuine Problem

Interesting and Attractive Suppers Necessary to Compete with "Super" Dinners

Denton, Dec. 23.—During the holidays the task of preparing breakfasts should be kept as simple as possible, and the appetites of the various members of the family must be considered. Both bland foods and highly flavored foods must be provided, because the holiday season has made the appetites more fickle. A bulletin of the Home Economics Department, CIA, tells of suggested breakfasts.

Breakfast No. 1: Grapefruit, graham toast, jelly or conserve, coffee, milk.

Breakfast No. 2: Stewed prunes, griddle cakes, syrup, bacon, coffee, milk.

Breakfast No. 3: Wheat cereal, eggs with ham, hot biscuits, coffee, milk.

Cranberry Conserve: 1 quart cranberries, 1 1/2 cupsful water, 1/4 lb. raisins, 1/2 lb. walnuts, chopped, 1 orange, juice, 1 1/2 lbs. sugar. Wash the fruit and cook until tender. Add the remaining ingredients and cook 25 minutes or until the mixture is thick. Pour into sterilized glasses and cover with melted paraffin. Conserve may be used at once or stored for the future. Dried apricots and canned pineapple make delightful combination.

Prepare Suppers Early

Evidently, the suppers served during the holiday season should be light to offset the heavy dinners. These suppers must be interesting and attractive to compete with the variety and high flavor of the dinners. Much has been gained if the greater part of the evening meal can be prepared in advance.

Supper No. 1: Corn souffle, hot biscuits individual gelatin pudding.

Supper No. 2: Cream of tomato soup, cornbread sticks, frozen fruit or orange snow pudding.

Supper No. 3: Scalloped oysters, lettuce salad, tea, fruit cake.

Corn Souffle: 2 t butter, 2 T flour, 1/2 t salt, 1 c scalded milk, 2 eggs, 2 c corn. Make thick white sauce of butter, flour and milk by melting butter, mixing flour thoroughly into it, and lastly, adding scalded milk. Let cook until thick. Pour onto yolks of eggs which have been beaten until lemon-colored. Add 2 cups corn which may be left-over. When cool, cut and fold in egg whites beaten stiff and dry. Turn into buttered baking dish and bake in a rather slow oven until firm. This mixture may be baked as an omelet is baked.

Orange Snow Pudding: 1/2 package gelatine, 1/2 cup cold water, 1/2 cup boiling water, 1 cup sugar, 2 T lemon juice, 1 cup orange juice and pulp, whites of 3 eggs. Soak gelatine in cold water 5 minutes and dissolve in boiling water. Add sugar and lemon juice. Strain, cool slightly and add orange juice and pulp. When mixture begins to stiffen, beat, using a wire whisk until light. Then add whites of eggs beaten until stiff, and beat thoroughly. Turn into individual molds. One pint whipped cream may be used instead of whites of eggs.

Mrs. J. B. Ross
Hostess at Party
Friday Afternoon

Mrs. Joe Brown Ross was hostess at bridge Friday afternoon at the clubhouse.

The Christmas motif was used in the decorations of mistletoe, ferns and a miniature Christmas tree.

Castalon Territory in Chisos Mountains Rich in Evidence of Primitive Man's Life

The Johnson Ranch referred to in the following story is that owned by Elmo Johnson, brother of Alvis Johnson, judge of the Sutton county court. It is said to be the most isolated ranch in the United States.

Alpine, Tex., Dec. 27.—To tourists in Texas the grandeur of the Chisos Mountains, in the vicinity of Castalon, a trading post and farming settlement, 120 miles south of Alpine on the Rio Grande, doubtless proves an attraction when they have tired of mere cities and seek to view the wonders of nature as afforded in Texas.

A landing field for airplanes is being constructed on the Johnson ranch, 17 miles down the river from Castalon, and soon the federal government will provide hangars and radio, bringing that vicinity into closer touch with civilization.

For those interested in evidences of antiquity, the recently reported discovery by representatives of Harvard University of eggs of an ophiacodon, 225,000,000 years old, in the clay and sandstone redbeds of North Central Texas, afforded interest in ancient Texas.

Climatic conditions in this territory are very favorable for the preservation of relics and specimens of that departed race. The district is arid and the topography offers numerous shelters where fragile material has been kept covered and preserved in a dry state for thousands of years.

The mountains in the vicinity range from 4800 to 6700 feet above sea level with a rise of from 300 to 2250 feet above the valleys of the surrounding plains. At the foot of many canyon bluffs, or at the rim-rock, are to be found a number of caves, or rock shelters, extending back into the cliffs. These are cluttered with loose rock, but usually are floored with a fine dry dust, animal refuse, etc., from six inches to six feet deep.

The shelters which indicate most use as primitive habitations are those which afford the best protection from the elements and are usually near springs, or water holes, which in spite of the dry nature of the country, are to be found in many places. In some of these caverns are to be found crude drawings on the walls. All of them yield relics, or specimens of food grinding implements, usually the muller stone and metate, molinos or mortars and desert plant material, which was used in the preparation of food and drink as well as in the manufacture of basketry, sandals, rope, string, etc.

J. Marvin Hunter, who has studied this region, relates that other materials found in these caverns are firewood, ashes, charcoal, cactus hulls, acorn and walnut shells, chewed desert fiber, some of which still shows the imprint of human teeth, human bones, skeletons, skulls, bones of animals (often split for the marrow), bone awls, rocks used about camp fires, flint flakings, gourd shells, mesquite beans, bits of plaited string from one-sixteenth to one-fourth inch in diameter, small corn cobs and many other specimens.

Canadian Indian Squaw Is Still Active at 114

Sudbury, Ont.—An Indian woman who, at one hundred and fourteen, chops her own wood, paddles a canoe, goes for long hikes through the woods, traps rabbits and partridges for food, has been smoking a pipe for 108 years and never has been ill, has been found living in a little shack on the Whitefish Lake Indian reserve.

She is Maria Adne Tamokweg, an Ojibway squaw. She is Canada's oldest woman. Old Jemot missionary records reveal that she was born in 1820.

Marie was considered a great beauty among Ojibways in the 1850s. She has been married twice. She married her second husband when sixty and bore him two children. She says smoking hasn't done her any harm.

"I have been smoking since I was six years old and intend to smoke until I die," she declared. "That makes 108 years now I have been puffing away at tobacco, and it has not done me any harm."

She lives with her widowed daughter, Genevieve, who is crippled and seventy years old. She does all the housework and cooking. When she needs fuel, she goes to the woods, chops down a tree and carries the wood to the shack herself. In winter she uses a sleigh which she built with her own hands.

It is a common sight for visitors to the reserve to see her carry down a canoe to the lake shore and paddle away with vigorous strokes.

LEATHER, WALL PAPER BEING MADE OF WOOL

Extraordinary new uses for Australia's wool are being discovered. By a new process soft and durable leather has been made from it. Even the shiny surface of patent leather is being produced from the fibers, interwoven and specially treated.

Experiments are being made in the use of wool for wallpaper, and it is being tried as an insulating material for electric cables.

Perhaps the most astounding woolen article yet made is in possession of a woolbroking office in Melbourne. It is a driving pinion from an 18-ton power excavator which has been in use constantly for more than two years. The cogs and interior of the pinion are made entirely of wool. Steel plates tie at each end, taking no part in the work, but merely giving support to the woolen cogs, which have the appearance of vulcanite. The layers of which the cog is formed have been subjected to extreme pressure in hardening fluid to give solidity.

Swastika Existed Before It Had Name, Expert Says

Some scholars believe the swastika is merely a decorative or ornamental design, having evolved from the lotus petal pattern used in early architecture. Some say it was merely a talisman or charm, to be worked in precious metals and worn as amulet or pendant.

As a mystic symbol, says a writer in the Washington Post, it has been associated through the ages with fire, water, wind and rain. There are archeologists who hold that its four points, or feet, indicate the four cardinal points of the compass. It has been interpreted as representing a flame of sacred fire, the sun in its daily rotation and a flash of lightning.

Much speculation followed its adoption as the national emblem of the German Socialist party several years ago, and many articles were written about it. However, its real origin and first significance are still uncertain.

The final word of the swastika comes from the curator of archeology of Smithsonian institution. "It is the earliest known symbol or form of the cross and is undoubtedly prehistoric. The name is Sanskrit, but the symbol itself existed long before it even had a name," he explained.

Dutch-English Wars

The latter part of the Seventeenth century was the period of commercial rivalry between England and the Dutch United Provinces, when three naval wars were fought. The Navigation act, passed to inflict a blow on the Dutch carrying trade, was the direct cause of the first war, 1652 to 1654. Fighting was fairly evenly balanced, but in the treaty that followed the Dutch conceded all trade questions under dispute. In the second war, 1665 to 1667, the Dutch blockaded the Thames and sailed up the Medway, destroying ships there and causing a panic in London. The treaty that followed amended the Navigation act in favor of the Dutch, but gave New York to England. The third war lasted from 1672 to 1674 and was the result of Louis XIV's attempt to isolate and destroy the Dutch republic. This war was both unpopular and indecisive. Again in 1780 the Dutch were drawn into war with England because of English interference with neutral shipping; it resulted in a loss of many of the Dutch colonies and much of her shipping.

Oregon's Forests

Names of historical national forest landmarks in Oregon reveal records of human history and migration. Typically historic names are Mount David Douglas, in the Willamette national forest, named in honor of the famous Scottish botanist who, in 1824, first classified the Douglas fir tree for science. Tomahawk Island in Multnomah county marks the vicinity where Captain Clark's pipe tomahawk was stolen by Indians in 1805. Snoqualmie national forest is from the Indian tribal name, "Sdoh-kwalk-blub," or moon people.

Taut nerves mean tired 'omorrrows

"Did you hear that noise...?" How many times have husbands been awakened in the middle of the night by that tense question? How many times have wives been rudely reminded... "It's your imagination...!"

But, fear is something real. Taut nerves cause sleepless nights and tired tomorrows. A woman is afraid...and a man fails to make an out-of-town trip essential to his business. Serious illness often is traceable to fear.

May we suggest a simple remedy? Have a telephone installed within easy reach of the bed. It's a comfort to know that police, firemen, physicians, await your call. And, wouldn't it be a pleasure to have a willing servant ready to run your errands, help you to visit with friends... 24 hours a day? You can have a telephone for less than a dime a day. Call the Business Office. Say: "I want a telephone."

'Travel' in Germany Described by Pupil

Berlin Interested More Than Any Other of Large Cities

Billy Sid Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Evans, is author of the geography story this week. He is a pupil of Miss Rena McQuary, elementary school instructor. The story is one of the series being published by the NEWS.

A Trip to Germany BILLY SID EVANS

After studying about Germany, I decided that it would be interesting to visit there, so I packed my trunk and caught the "Philadelphia" to Hamburg. Ten days later we landed and I went to a small hotel where I ate supper and got a room for the night.

The next morning when I went down to breakfast, I asked the waiter how long it was until the next train for Frankfurt arrived. "In an hour and a half," he replied.

I thanked him, paid my bill and went to the station. When I arrived in Frankfurt I went to a cafe and ordered supper. Maybe you would like to know what I ate? There was a big bowl of sauerkraut, a large sausage and rye bread that tasted good to me. I stayed there nearly a week and learned to like nearly all of the German food that they served.

From Frankfurt I went to Munich. There I saw women picking onion seed and in one of the factories there I saw some other women painting doll's heads. There are many toy factories there.

After a two weeks visit in and near Munich, I remembered that I hadn't yet seen Berlin, the capital and third largest city in the world. When I left for Berlin, I found that my journey would take me through the Black Forest. I was glad because I knew that it was one of the most interesting places in Germany.

But Berlin was the most interesting place of all. I had not imagined that it was so large, nor that there were so many beautiful buildings. One of the most interesting buildings was the one where the Kaiser lived before the World War.

I stayed in Berlin nearly a month and when I decided to come home, went to Bremen and on to Hamburg where I caught the steamer for New York. I hope I get to go again some day.
