Ellis Parts Team Drop Two to Sonora

Pitching of Smith Feature of Second Game

The winning of a double-header by Station A Sonora here Sunday afternoon from the Ellis Parts nine, San Angelo, places Miles in second position as a runner-up against Sonora.

With six games to go for the end of the first half of the season Station A Sonora has won 15 of the 16 games already played. Four of the six battles are to be fought in Sonora—double-headers with Veribest and Rowena. Two games are to be played with Eola.

After the six games have been played and if Station A Sonora lacks a few points of winning the first half, two games, originally scheduled with Eola but rained out, will be played here. If the double-header is not played with Eola a game will be matched with some other team to be played here on that date.

First Game Sunday

In the first Ratliff hit a homer with W. McLeod on second, after McLeod had doubled. Ratliff and McLeod collected three hits each. "Lefty" White did mound duty throughout the game, allowing Ellis Parts only seven hits, netting the visitors four runs. The score was 11 to 4.

Second Game

The pitching of George E. Smith, Sonora player, was a feature of the second game. The contest lasted (Continued on page 8)

"ASLEEP AT THE WHEEL" RESULTS IN CAR WRECK

Early Wednesday morning while driving to Sonora, Mrs. George Guidry fell asleep for a moment and awoke to find the car—a small model—in the ditch and atop her husband and sixteen-month-old baby, Ronald. The car overturned twice and came to a stop on its side.

Mr. Guidry suffered a painful cut on his left foot, requiring six stitches to close. Mrs. Guidry sustained minor bruises, while Baby Ronald came out of the wreckage without so much as a scratch. Mr. Guidry and small son were asleep at the time of the "spill."

The accident occurred twelve miles south of Sonora on the Del Rio highway.

Mr. and Mrs. Guidry, who live in Long Beach, Calif., had been on a vacation trip to Church Point, La., where they visited his mother, Mrs. Sosthene Guidry. Mr. Guidry is in the navy and is stationed on the U. S. Arizona.

STREET SCENE IN SONORA IN "GOOD OLD WAGON DAYS"

How A Woman's Tears Changed Name of "Randell" To "Sonora"

Sonora, Capital of the Stockman's Paradise

Many years before the birth of the city of Sonora, countless herds of livestock roamed the valleys and browsed the hillsides comprising a portion of that country known as the Edwards Plateau. Buffalo, deer and antelope were plentiful, while scattering ranchmen grazed thousands of head of cattle throughout this vast territory. Fences were unknown, and man and beast held right of grazing by priority. Vast herds were drifted in from north to south to be returned to headquarters when the season ended.

Such was the background and setting of the prosperous town of Sonora today. Forty-seven years of progress has steadily widened the gap between "wide open spaces" and a more thickly settled community of contented and happy people.

Few people know the real facts of the "how and why" of the town of Sonora—who started it and when.

Old-timers interviewed here and there have given versions of the matter as they remembered it. All concede that it was the work of Charley Adams, and in fact, it was he who laid the foundation for the thriving little city.

But it was his wife, Mrs. Alice E. Adams, who was the real founder of the town and gave to it its name. It was Mrs. Adams' idea and she convinced Mr. Adams that it would be a good thing to do. However, she reserved the right to name the town, when and if it was started.

These facts were obtained from Mrs. Adams through her son, Ica, who now resides in Brawley, Calif. The following quotation is taken from a recent letter from Mr. Adams. He says:

"My mother conceived the idea first, to start a town and finally convinced my father. It was her only wish that, if a town was started, she be given the privilege of naming it. This was agreed to and my father proceeded toward this end.

"A water well was started in the latter part of the year 1888, and the location of this well was in now (Continued on page 4)

Sonora Station A vs. Cats Sunday

Semi-pro Club Seeking Open Dates in West Texas

Telegraphic confirmation of acceptance of a game here Sunday afternoon with Station A Sonora, from a San Antonio Semi-pro club, was received Thursday morning.

George E. Smith, ace pitcher, and Coach O. P. Adams, acting for O. H. Ohlenburg, manager of the Station A Sonora team, closed a deal with Perry Winkle, business manager of Frenchy's Cats, for a matched game on the high school grounds Sunday afternoon.

The team is the leader of the Saturday City Loop in San Antonio. The Cats recently shut out Eagle Pass and defeated the Pearsall Rangers, two of south Texas' strong teams.

Station A Sonora is the leading team of the Concho Basin League, having played sixteen games to date, losing only one. Seven games have been played with teams of the Permian Basin League, Station A Sonora winning five out of the seven.

George E. Smith stated Thursday that Sonora was bringing Frenchy's Cats here under a guarantee of fifty dollars. A number of fans have signified a willingness to donate a dollar each toward the guarantee. One Sonora citizen, Smith said, had offered to put up $10 for Sonora if the team beat the Cats.

Manager Winkle is looking for games in this section, Smith stated. Mr. Winkle, formerly a sports writer on the San Antonio Evening News, gave out the following open dates, and requests team managers to get in touch with him.

June 28; July 5, 12, 19, 26; August 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30.

Coats Taboo

"Any man caught entering the Methodist Church on Sunday wearing a coat will be subject to a fine of fifty cents"

Thus spoke the Rev. R. F. Davis, pastor, last Sunday morning. "It is my wish that members of this church and visitors be comfortable during this oppressive heat. One good way is for the men to leave their coats at home.

"The ladies look comfortable in light summer wearables, so why should the men be burdened with such a thing as a coat." Remember—A COAT, 50c; no coat, comfort.

Bulk of Issue Being Converted Into Cash Roy E. Aldwell First To Receive Baby Bonds; Finis Hamby, Second

The eighteen-year-old dream of the ex-service man has at last come true—his Bonus Bonds have arrived.

For the last three days T. C. Murray Sonora postmaster, has been a busy man. The work connected with bond delivery took so much of Mr. Murray's time, and that of Mrs. Finis Hamby, assistant, J. H. Brasher, Jr. was called in to take charge of the general delivery and stamp windows.

The first of the bonds were brought to Sonora by registered mail Tuesday and since that time a constant stream of Sutton county ex-soldiers has been flowing into the postoffice, receiving and signing for the allotted share of bonds. Most of the fingerprint work was done in the NEWS office.

Roy E. Aldwell, president of the First National Bank, was the first of the World War veterans to receive baby bonds here. He was followed by Finis Hamby. One hundred and nine bonds were delivered, fingerprinted and dispatched to Austin for cash payment, in Wednesday's mail.

The $41,481 coming to Sutton county will be share by an estimated forty-five or fifty ex-service men. Bonds have been delivered to about half this number. A few of the veterans who registered applications from Sonora have moved to other towns. Procedure applicable to such cases will be followed.

Bonds delivered to date have ranged from $150 to $1,550, with the larger part calling for $750. Most of the bonds are being turned into cash.

According to statements of those receiving bonds the bulk of the cash delivered here will be used first to liquidate debts, the remainder goes to provide home comforts.

As the bonds must be delivered to addressee in person, B. H. McLain, formerly of the Sonora high school faculty, drove here from Ballinger to receive his bonds.

Cal Johnson, brother of Lem Johnson, was here from Mertzon to be fingerprinted and to receive his allotment.

History of Early Struggles of Educational Institutions

Austin, June 17.—Dr. Frederick Eby, distinguished veteran professor of education at the University of Texas gave what is believed to be the most comprehensive brief analysis of the progress of education in Texas ever prepared, when he recently addressed approximately one thousand candidates for degrees at the spring commencement of that institution.

Dr. Eby said in part: "Denominational education dominated the field of secondary and higher education in Texas down to the dawn of the present century. From 1830 to 1860 Protestant pastors came into the southwest in great numbers. Down to the Civil War 90 per cent of all teachers were men, and 90 per cent to 95 per cent of these men were preachers. With but few exceptions every church building was also a school house. Pastors received little or no salary for preaching; they eked out a scant living by teaching. Teaching and preaching were but two means of making Christians.

"For the greater part of a century there lay side by side in the office of the secretary of state two documents; the one, the Declaration of Independence with its arresting accusation against the Mexican regime; the other, was a stirring memorial signed by sixty-two men calling upon congress to establish a system of public education and to set aside land for its endowment.

"Nothing was done to promote public education by the first and second congresses. The election of Lamar was the signal that a new day had dawned for the interest of the children of Texas. He had taken as his ideal statesman, that great educational pioneer, Thomas Jefferson, who took more pride in founding the University of Virginia than in his authorship of the Declaration of Independence.

"In accordance with the demand of Lamar a law was passed in 1839 setting aside three leagues of land for a school in each county and fifty leagues for two colleges or universities. Andrew J. Yates was sadly disappointed with this law and wrote President Lamar a lengthy letter. He outlined a complete system of State education from the primary school through the graduate department of the university. As a consequence a system of education was provided in the new law of 1840. Strange to say, not a single public school was ever established on these local endowments. The fact is, state education was neither understood nor desired by the ranks and file of Texans a century ago.

"The leaders of education in Texas a century ago pinned their faith to a land endowment policy. The same day the law of 1839 was passed giving each county three leagues of land, DeKalb College and the University of San Augustine received four leagues of land each from congress. The same day the law of 1840 was passed Rutgersville College was given four leagues of land. All seven of these local colleges were endowed with land by the Congress of the Republic. Thus the local and private school interests countered every move made by the advocates of state education.

"Between 1830 and 1836 there were from 2 to 25 places with small private schools in Texas. After the Revolution the number rose sharply. But everything was unsettled and teachers changed rapidly. The more permanent of these schools during the Republic of Texas were Independence Academy, Rutgersville College, San Augustine University, Matagorda Academy, McKenzie Institute, Marshall University, Nacogdoches University and the Academy at Huntsville that became the Austin College.

"A public system of education was established by law in 1854. Schools sprang up in great numbers all over Texas. They were not, however, public, in our sense of the word. They were private schools receiving public subvention. The tuition of indigents was paid first and any balance, usually a pittance, went for the tuition of other children. There were around 1,200 schools in over one hundred counties before the war. Universities, colleges, academies were organized in great numbers. There were at least 150 in all. The Masons, Methodists, Catholics, Baptists and Presbyterians were the chief agencies in their establishment. But local initiative was even more active than all these other agencies combined.

"From 1871 to 1875 Texas was ruled by the most drastic educational system ever established in a free state. The Republicans charged that the Democrats had permitted two generations of children to grow up in ignorance; they had squandered on war the sacred public fund. The new system of education was the most bitter experience. The system included compulsory attendance, drastic textbooks written by northern authors, centralized control by a state superintendent, the building of local school houses by public funds, the secularization of the curriculum. This was far more galling than the defeat of the war and the political disabilities. It touched the quick the most eternal and sacred rights of parenthood. In the Constitutional Convention of 1875 the entire subject of educa-

TRAFFIC TIPS

by the NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL

"SEVEN SINS OF TRAFFIC"

Recently we asked an old-time commercial driver, who had driven for eighteen years under all sorts of traffic and weather conditions, to list the outstanding causes of highway accidents, based on his observations.

Here are the Seven Deadly Sins of Traffic, as he sees them:

1. Inattention; failure to heed the work at hand.
2. Excessive speed which he says is an element in nearly all serious crashes.
3. Traffic violations. Law abiding drivers have a right to depend on observance of traffic rules by others.
4. Intoxication. The drinking driver is a constant menace and the problem has become more serious since repeal.
5. The road hog. He endangers everybody and belongs in jail.
6. Unfitness for driving. Either mental or physical disabilities tend to destroy one's sense of alertness.
7. Failure to keep car in safe condition. Frequent inspection is the best protection.

Regents Request Memorial Chapel

Denton, June 17.—The recent controversy centered about the proposal to place a nude statue group on the Texas State College for Women campus took on a new angle last week when the board of regents of the college presented a request to the Centennial Commission of Control that the $25,000 appropriated be used in the erection of a memorial chapel. The request was made following the commission of control's refusal to place the William Zorach statue on the campus.

Enrollment in the graduate school of Texas State College for Women reached a new high this week with 177 students enrolled for work the first term of the summer session. One hundred and fifty-seven students registered last summer.

tion formed a red-hot subject of thousand controversies. In the end the system was completely swept away. A mere shell of public education was left, not even as good as before the war.

"In this sad pligh two noble Yankee citizens helped despairing Texas, George Peabody, the princely merchant, who donated $3,000,000 to encourage public education in the south. Dr. Barnas Sears, formerly president of Brown University, was the wise and sympathetic agent of this Peabody Board. They introduced superintendents of public schools, the grading of school, the training of teachers and the public high school.

"It is a curious fact in the history of government practically every feature of the drastic school system forced upon the Texas people in 1871 and which they rejected with such vehemence in 1876 has returned during the past half century."

FORT STOCKTON JUDGE AND FAMILY IN SONORA

On account of slight damage to their car, Judge T. M. Milam and family were compelled to delay a journey to San Antonio for several hours Wednesday while the car was undergoing repair.

Fifteen miles out on the Sonora-Ozona highway the car, driven by Benjamin Milam, struck a rock which was covered by the high ridge in the center of the highway. The impact broke the crank-case and the car was brought to Sonora for repair.

In the party, other than the two mentioned, were Mrs. Milam; a daughter, Mrs. Delbert Davis, and Miss Lenora Lignon all of Fort Stockton.

Mrs. Milam took advantage of the delay to visit the NEWS office. Before her marriage, Mrs. Milam said she lived in Rock-springs and was well acquainted with Mrs. Nannie Wheat.

She also brought the NEWS some pleasing "gossip" of the Bakers—Mr. and Mrs. George Baker and son, Frank, who formerly lived in Sonora.

Nothing So Hot and Sticky As a Wilted Silk Dress in Summer

Denton, June 17.—During these hot sultry days, little attention is given to clothes. Something cool is all that is necessary for the average woman, but for the office worker, the appearance element enters just as strong as in the winter months.

The elimination of the silk from the office is by far the best thing girls have done. In the middle of the afternoon, nothing can look worse or be so hot and sticky as a wilted silk dress.

Instead of the old tub silk, she now adorns crisp little cottons—dotted swisses, dimities, and novelty weaves of every description. There's a new fabric on the market similar to crash, yet as thin and cool as dimity. It makes an ideal office dress. Of course, linens and piques are always nice, but they wrinkle too easily to be really practical for office wear.

The dresses are simple—we see no intricate patterns or unnecessary trimmings. They have very short sleeves, medium-low necks with tiny flat collars of contrasting material, and few or no pleats. Trimming consists of colored buttons or grosgrain ribbon belts and bows.

Cotton laces are extremely popular, according to girls at Texas State Colleges for Women. They are showing pastel colors with shoulder lacings of narrow velvet ribbon. Some even have a tiny bolero jacket that makes a dress-up frock when you have a luncheon date. The dresses are street length and have very little trimming.
