Ozona Loses To Station A Sonora By 4 To 6 Score

"Lefty" White, Station A, Pitched Entire Game—Thornberry For Visiting Team

A fast game between Ozona winners of the Permian Basin League first half and Station A Sonora, conceded winner of Concho Basin League, was played here Wednesday afternoon.

Station A Sonora, while losing one game in the Concho Basin, has played eight with Permian Basin teams, winning six of the total number played. Iraan lost two to the Sutton aggregation and Wednesday's run-in with Ozona completed the fourth win out of six games played with that team.

"Lefty" White, Station A twirler, pitched the nine innings. White scored the only homer of the game. He added eleven strike-outs to his string, and allowed five men the privilege of walking to first base.

Thornberry, Ozona's moundsman, walked none, hit one and struck-out two of his opponents.

Sonora Fans Journey To "Biggest Little City in World" To Witness Game

Twenty-seven Sonora baseball fans witnessed the piling up of a mass of zeros Sunday, June 21, when two Permian Basin League teams crossed bats in Ozona.

Zero followed zero from the first to the sixth inning, in the first half of which Ozona broke the deadlock by scoring.

McCamey held its own "0" throughout the entire game. In the first half of the eighth Ozona "ran-in" three more runs and the battle closed at 4 to 0 in favor of the home team.

Summary of the game was as follows:

Ozona 000 001 03x—4
McCamey 000 000 000—0

Batteries—for Ozona, Crosswaite and Stewart; McCamey, Johnson and Robinson.

Those attending the game from Sonora were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Roy E. Aldwell, Pink Taylor, Lem Johnson, Paul McLeod, J. R. Kinstle, Wert Stephenson, Frank Knapton, Lea Roy Aldwell, Jack Brown, Y. Lacey, "Lefty" White, W. J. Fields, Jr., George Edward Allison.

Alton Hightower, Chester Minnick, John Fields, John Hamby, Sam Karnes, Ed Ratliff, G. C. Stephenson, Emmett Maddox.

Failure of the appearance of Frenchy's Cats, San Antonio semi-pro team, to keep an engagement with the Station A Sonora nine Sunday was given as excuse of the influx of fans in Ozona.

Sonorans See Fast Game

Five homers in the first of a double-header game between San Angelo and Hobb's Oilers, and three "around the world" runs in the second, was witnessed by a number of Sonora fans Sunday in San Angelo. The two games were played by negroes. Fans from here were: Ollie Stockton, Dewitt Lancaster, Raymon Morgan and J. K. Lancaster, G. W. Archer.

WINKLE APOLOGIZES

Perry Winkle who conducts the "Battin' Around Texas Diamonds" column in the San Antonio Evening News, has the following to say:

"This column has an apology to offer Bud Smith of Sonora and his loyal Sonora fans. Last Wednesday, booking for the Cats, we lined them up for a game with Sonora. The game was accepted by Manager Bubba Menard on the terms agreed to, and we therefore went our way and forgot it.

"Monday we learned that the Cats let us down, not to forget the Sonora boys or their fans. For this reason his column is withdrawing its support from the Cats for the rest of the season, and all games that we have booked for them are hereby cancelled.

Stokes Gives Convention Highlights; Ladies' Night, 29th

Sonora Lions, Tuesday noon, were given an interesting account of the activities of the state convention of Lions Clubs held in Brownwood Monday, by H. V. Stokes, past district governor. W. R. Cusenbary and C. H. Jennings attended the convention as representatives of the Sonora club.

Mrs. Stokes and Mrs. Cusenbary accompanied their husbands.

"Aid for the blind being a major activity of Lions International," Mr. Stokes said, "the state convention went on record as favoring a plan for chartering a non-profit sharing corporation.

As a means of financing such an organization each Lion in Texas, and others not Lions, will be offered an opportunity to buy shares in the corporation at $1.00 each.

"The purpose of the corporation is to finance the teaching of Texas' 8,000 adult blind to be self-sustaining," Mr. Stokes stated, "and to carry on a program of prevention of blindness.

"All funds received by the corporation are to be under control of a trustee and will be handled as are funds of all large trust companies," Murray A. Winn of San Antonio was elected governor of district 2-A, succeeding H. V. Stokes of Sonora. Mr. Winn was district secretary under Mr. Stokes.

Bob Lyles of Austin was nominated international director from Texas. Galveston was chosen as convention city next year.

Varying the usual Lions luncheon program, W. J. Fields, Jr., chairman of the entertainment committee, originated a "new one" Tuesday. Preston C. Lightfoot, assistant chairman introduced the feature and O. P. Adams directed those selected for an "amateur" (Continued on page 8)

Lives Without Dreams Unfruitful

The Secret of Life Is Prayer; Story of Daniel Cited

Continuing a series of discourses on prayer, the Rev. R. T. Davis, pastor of the Methodist Church, brought to his congregation Sunday night an intense and interesting sermon on, "The Open Windows of Life."

Selecting the tenth verse of the sixth chapter of Daniel as a foundation for his subject the minister read: "Now when Daniel knew that the writing was signed, he went into his house; and his windows being open in his chamber toward Jerusalem, he kneeled upon his knees three times a day, and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime."

"The secret of Daniel's greatness was his prayer life. It was a habit with him and the King's decree had no effect upon his relations with his God.

"There are many people," continued the minister, "whose lives are like rooms without windows—gloomy, musty and unclean. It takes light and air to purify.

"Jesus said: 'I am the light of the world,' and in giving the disciples their work in the world He admonished, 'Ye are the salt of the earth; and the light of the world.'

"If the world is ever saved," the Reverend Mr. Davis stated, "it will be because the light of the (Continued on page 8)

Former Sonoran's Work On Display At Centennial

Builds Largest Watch in World First Shop in Sonora, 1915, Now Owns Three Stores

Sonora visitors to the Centennial shows in Dallas should not fail to see the "World's Largest Watch," which is on exhibition in the Varied Industrial Building. The exhibits are free.

The big watch was hand-made by a former Sonoran, T. L. Miller of Big Lake. Mr. Miller also has stores in McCamey and Crane. Before going to Big Lake Mr. Miller operated a jewelry store in Sonora for ten years. He left here in 1925.

Mr. Miller describes the watch as follows:

"It is 18x14 and eight inches deep. The movement alone weighs thirty-five pounds and 125 pounds with its case.

"The hair spring is ten feet long, requiring 110 feet of flat spring steel in its construction. The balance (fly) wheel is almost one foot in diameter.

"The movement is made of the finest of steel bronze nickel and brass. The jewels are of jasper and agate. The movement is so perfectly made and constructed, and with true balance and pose, that it runs for months with a small variation of a few seconds in time."

Mr. Miller also states that it took over 850 hours to complete the masterpiece. He has received complimentary letters from jewelers and others from several points within Texas.

Prophet Afraid When Lord Spoke

Lack of Faith Today Plays Havoc With Churches

"Preaching a sample sermon, or rather what the Church might construe as a sample, is not an easy task," said the Rev. H. O. Miles, in introducing himself and Mrs. Miles to the Baptist of Sonora Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock service.

"However," continued the minister, "we are not strangers in the sight of God, nor in the carrying on of His work here on earth.

"I like the west, the spirit of it and I love young people. There is a goodly number of them this morning, and that is splendid. Nevertheless it is a hard job to face a strange congregation. Regardless of all handicaps, let us go where the Lord may lead us."

The theme of the morning devotion was based upon the prayer of the prophet Habakkuk, and the text was founded upon the second verse of third chapter of the Book of Habakkuk:

"O Lord, I have heard thy speech and was afraid; O Lord revive thy work in the midst of the years, in the midst of the years make known: in wrath remember mercy."

"Habakkuk, in his prayer trembled at God's majesty. He heard the speech of the Lord and was afraid, not for his personal safety, but that he fell short of the glory of God. Was he measuring up to the things God would have him do? That was the cause of the old prophet's worries."

The Reverend Mr. Miles likened the state of affairs today with those of Habakkuk's time. "Have we heard the speech of the Lord, and are we afraid?" He told the story of Sodom and Gomorrah, and commented upon the faith of the man who tried to save those cities from destruction.

"In all cities today we find men and women drifting away from God. The deplorable condition is applicable to all places.

"The world was created without sin. Adam was created without sin and placed in the beautiful Garden of Eden. But Adam was tempted, he yielded and fell. Through his fall sin was passed to all.

"Adam heard the voice of God: 'Adam, where art thou' and was afraid; Isaiah also heard the voice of God and rejoiced: 'And I will give thee the treasures of darkness, and the hidden riches of sea' (Continued on Page 8)

Art of Weaving Demonstrated

Demonstrating the art of spinning and weaving from Biblical times to the middle of the eighteenth century attracts much attention in the Ford Exposition building at the Texas Centennial in Dallas. Here is shown one corner of the exhibit with interested spectators watching a girl busy at one of the spinning wheels. A lecturer explains the operation and briefly traces the history of the art.

Sonora, Shipping Point of Large Territory---Home of Fine Stock

(Last week the NEWS published some of the highlights in the founding of Sonora. The story continues:)

Today, Sonora, county seat of Sutton county, is rightly termed the "Capital of the Stockman's Paradise." Being the center of one of the greatest industries in the world—that of wool and mohair—it gathers unto itself the trade of a vast territory, estimated to cover approximately four million acres.

In 1935 Sonora handled an estimated 3,100,000 pounds of wool and mohair, which carried a cash value of $985,000. One of the largest warehouses of wool producing states is located here. The Sonora warehouse, owned and controlled by local ranchmen, has a storage capacity of two and one-half million pounds. The building and equipment cost $47,000. This firm alone draws trade to the town from a radius of 70 miles.

Other businesses rank equally well with that of the leading industry, and some date back to the inception of the town. Sonora has but one bank—The First National—a sound financial institution, without which the rapid progress of the town and county would not have been possible.

The churches and schools are in the lead of many communities. The Sonora High School serves the entire county. The system ranks highly as an institution of learning. It is on the approved list of the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges, and has a rating of 26 1/2 credits. The schools of the district employ twenty-three teachers. Instruction is given 744 pupils, 55 per cent of which are Mexicans who are cared for under separate housings. The total value of all buildings and equipment of the Sonora Independent School District, which covers 1310 sections of the 1500 comprising the county, is $242,000. Owensville and Pecan Springs are two other schools served by this district. The county has but one common school district, that of Camps Allison and Station B.

THE FIRST STORE

After first surveys were completed the first general store was established by Charlie Adams and his partners, Callahan and McCue. The building stood where now is located the store of E. F. Vander Stucken Co. The company served a large range of country.

McCue sold his interest after a few years to T. B. Birtrong, father of Mrs. W. A. Miers of Sonora. Mr. Birtrong lives in New Mexico.

1887, was organized in 1890; has an area of 1521 square miles and a population of 2807 (1930 census); altitude, 2120 feet, with an average rainfall of 22.48 inches. Total wealth $13,605,000. Being a ranch country, farming is a negligible quantity, and confined almost entirely to forage crops which have a value of over forty thousand dollars.

Sonora, with a population of 1942 (1930 census) of which approximately 40 per cent are Mexicans, is located at the terminus of the Panhandle & Santo Fe railroad and the intersection of U. S. Highway No. 277, running from the north to the Rio Grande, connecting with Old Mexico at Del Rio, 94 miles to the southeast; the Old Spanish Trail, which begins at San Augustine, Florida, and terminates at San Diego, Calif. Nine buses daily care for traffic from the four corners of the United States.

The real growth and progress of Sonora dates from the founding in May, 1928, of the Sonora Lions Club, the only service club of the town. Since its organization with 47 charter members, the club has taken the initiative in every move of improvement, and has to its credit the raising and disbursement of more than $20,000 during its eight years of existence.

The coming of the railroad in 1930 has contributed much to the growth of the town's trade territory. Sonora is ranked among the largest livestock shipping points in the west.

A visit to this little city will convince anyone that its slogan—"Capital of the Stockman's Paradise"—is by no means a misnomer, and its citizens live up to every tradition of the Old West.

Sutton Benefits Through the FHA

More Than 30,000 Texans Obtained Loans

San Antonio, June 24.—Federal Housing Administration had insured thirty-three modernization notes valued at $17,564 in Sutton county through April 30, 1936, it was announced today by H. P. Drought, state director of the National Emergency Council for Texas. For the entire state, 33,829 modernization notes valued at $11,708,322.16 had been insured.

The agency had accepted one mortgage, valued at $3,250, for insurance in this county as of March 31, 1936, Drought reported. For the state, Federal Housing Administration had accepted for insurance 2,353 mortgages amounting to $8,591,815.

It was estimated that through the Federal Housing Administration some 30,000 Texas property owners have been able to obtain loans required to repair, improve or modernize their property while more than 2,000 families have been enabled to finance the building or purchase of homes.

WATER TO BATHE IN NOT TO DRINK

One of Sonora's early-day citizens, who has passed to that country from whence no man returns, was fond of telling the following story:

Long before Sutton county had a courthouse, court was held upstairs over the Ranch Saloon. And while court was hot in session, which was a considerable portion of the year, the upstairs was used as a gambling house.

It was an easy matter to yell your order down the stairway, and up would come the drinks.

On this occasion court had just adjourned and the usual crowd of sports began to move in again.

A young fellow, a stranger in town who had been a witness in some of the court proceedings, stayed over a day or two to see the sights. This young man found his way into the big hall over the saloon and managed to couple up with a noker game.

While the game was in progress one of the regulars suggested to the young man that it was his treat. He called whiskey for all.

The order was promptly sent up—several grasses and a bottle of Paul Jones. The young fellow, who was not used to taking his straight, eyed the layout and then yelled down the stairway:

"Hey, fellow, you forgot to send up some water!"

The bartender was ready with his answer:

"Water, hell, you didn't order any!"

Some republicans say the country is going to the dogs. Senator Dickenson of Iowa says it is going to "dog meat." Lynchburg Advance.

THE MODERN GENII

The Evil Genii, according to Arabian mythology, were the offspring of fire. They took form from flame and smoke and appeared as huge serpents, hideous giants or monsters, to wreck destruction for the Suleyman king, after which they again become invisible.

Carbon monoxide, the deadly gas from the automobile exhaust, is the invisible killer of today, which like the Evil Genii of old, causes great waste of human life, mainly among thoughtless motorists.

Most cases occur on cold mornings when the drivers, in warming up their engines, leave garage doors and windows closed. The gas strikes with little or no warning and in a very few minutes death results.

Also many cases occur in winter driving in closed cars when, due to a defective exhaust, the gas seeps up into the car. It is tasteless, odorless and invisible and as deadly as any war gas ever invented.

During the last few years there have been around 600 carbon-monoxide deaths annually. This figure represents five times as many deaths as occurred ten years ago from this cause. Beware this insidious killer!

Meat Cuts and How to Cook Them BEEF CHART

Every housewife is confronted with the three-day question of variety in the meals she serves. In beef we become addicted to roasts or steaks and forget all about the other good beef cuts which will give pleasing variation and be easy on the pocketbook, too. Perhaps our trouble lies in the fact that we are not as familiar as we should be with many of the possibilities offered by beef. If you are one of those whose use of beef is limited to a roast or a steak, the chart given above will be invaluable in learning to identify and locate the many retail cuts of beef. The chart will show you at a glance just how each one should be cooked. You will want to preserve this chart for ready reference.

CAN YOU MATCH IT?

Some people match nickels, pennies and dimes, but Robert Rees will match goat horns with anyone. Mr. Rees has a set he picked up on the Baker Ranch about fifty miles south of Sonora. The horns, evidently, from the head of an Angora goat, measures three feet, 10 inches from tip to tip.

While the horns have not been mounted they still are attached to the skull of the animal, and Mr. Rees says when his son, M. L. Rees, comes to visit him he is going have them mounted. The son, who is chief engineer in re-settlement administration work doing surveying in East Texas and southern Oklahoma, is a taxidermist, having studied the art in Chicago.

B. H. Cartwright, Sonora, owns a fine Jersey cow that gives plenty of milk. About three weeks ago the cow, which has no calf, began to fail in her milk supply. Puzzled over the matter and seeking the cause, Mr. Cartwright took to looking after her more carefully. He made a startling discovery.

Mr. Cartwright owns a six-months-old shepherd pup that never seemed to get hungry like most growing pups. The reason:

The pup had turned milker and was stripping the cow of all her product.

"Seventy-five per cent of the car owners do not know if the car being driven is safe for fast driving," said Wesley Granger Wednesday morning. "It cost very little to have a car tuned up, the brakes looked after or other small parts adjusted. And very often such care and attention prevents a wreck and the possible loss of life or permanent injury to driver or occupants of the car."

If you contemplate a trip better be safe than sorry. Know that your car is in first-class condition before starting out.

In a letter from A. L. Baker, Austin, to Adolph Flores, he states the "thermometer is hovering around 108." In Sonora today (Wednesday) the mercury is on the one hundred mark, in the shade with a cool breeze blowing.

Up in Cincinnati it is cold enough for coats and wraps. So writes Miss Elizabeth Caldwell, who is attending the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. In a letter to her father, W. E. Caldwell, she states: "Attended a band concert last night at Eden Park and it was so cold like to have frozen!" Mornings, too, Miss Caldwell says are very cool in Cincinnati.

"I have passed this place a number of times," said J. B. Sutton of Abilene, "and I've always wanted to stop and tell you that the NEWS office is the cleanest and neatest country print shop of any I've seen anywhere."

We thought that a fine compliment, especially coming from a traveling competitor, and said so.

"Well, you've got me wrong when you think I am a competitor. Only work that cannot be done in a small shop is all I solicit, and that in large quantities. I call on but two firms in your town. The head of the company I represent makes it a point to impress upon representatives to leave the small orders for the home-town man. We can't handle the 250-, 500- or 1000-lot jobs without a loss, so we don't solicit them."

The generosity of the man who lost the glasses, as told in the Hempstead News, and published elsewhere, brings to mind another "generous-hearted" gentleman.

A passing tourist lost a pocketbook. One of Sonora's prominent citizen picked it up in a garage rest room. Being an honest man, he made inquiries concerning the loss. Not finding the owner he left the pocketbook with the garage man.

The tourist had gone but a few miles down the highway when he discovered his money was missing. Speeding back to town, he rushed into the garage. The owner said "yes" a pocketbook had been found and requested a description. It was identified and returned to the loser who wanted to reward the finder. "Who was he?"

When given the name the tourist rushed out to the postoffice. Presenting himself at the window he said:

"I understand you are the man who found my pocketbook." When an affirmative reply was made, the man continued: "I want to reward you. Come over to the restaurant with me and I'll buy you a cup of coffee!"

"Thank you," replied the postmaster, "I've had my morning cup."

Curiosity got the better of us—we had to know something. "How much money was in the tourist purse?" we asked the finder.

"Oh, not very much, just a mere trifle, a small matter. Something over EIGHT THOUSAND DOLLARS," he replied as he turned to wait on a patron.

Lost:—One pair of glasses in mottled case. Finder return to News office for reward.

Both extremely blond, almost of a size and age, they came joyfully into the News office, a spectacle case clutched in the little girl's hand.

"We found your glasses, will we get the reward," the little girl said breathlessly, while little brother grinned expectantly into the office force's face.

As they awaited the arrival of the hastily summoned owner of the glasses and purveyor of rewards, the story of the finding of the glasses was poured out by sister, with occasional additions by brother; how they had spied them, half hidden in the grass of the highway, how big sister had said they were white gold and worth a lot, how they had written to the man whose name was in the case, only to have him reply that he was merely the salesman, and how happily they had finally seen the ad in the News.

Hardly was the last of the story told, when in came the reward man. His "How much do I owe you, young lady?" brought a shy smile and a quick how much are you going to give?"

In answer, he reached into his pocket and pulled out a handful of money. Into her eager palm went a dollar bill, followed by her breathless, "Thank you," then two fifty cents pieces, and another even more breathless "Thank you," then two quarters while brother's eyes grew wider and wider, then a handful of nickels, which left them so paralyzed with surprised happiness that all the money went tumbling to the floor with two youngsters following right after it.

Soon it was all gathered into two little hands again, and out the door brother and sister scampered, with a merry, "Thank you" floating back to the group of amused and sympathetic grown folks.—Hempstead News

"SALUTE TO THE MODERN NEWSPAPER"

The Devil's River News invites its readers to listen in on a nationwide hook-up Monday, June 29, at 6 to 6:30 o'clock.

The program to be broadcast at that time will give everyone who hears it a "new respect for the development, ideals and public-spirited service of the American newspaper."

Credit for this half-hour of enlightening entertainment is due the National Broadcasting Company in recognition of the attainments of the Fourth Estate. The event celebrates the Fiftieth Anniversary of the invention of the Linotype.

The script was written by Charles A. Wright, instructor in journalism, Temple University, Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. Wright was winner of a five hundred dollar cash prize offered by the Mergenthaler Linotype Co. for the best manuscript depicting the history and progress of the American press.

FOUR FROM FIVE LEAVES NOTHING

Doubtless Dr. Allen Dafeo deserves the fame which has accrued to him through his successful treatment of the Dionne quintuplets. Film producers are not to be unduly censured if they esteem it profitable to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars in the future earning capacity of the five over-publicized infants.

Is there not, however, a question of value here, the kind of question which breeds skepticism in the intelligent young? A current news item refers to "the thousands of people who made unselfish offers of help to the babies in the early days." Those "unselfish offers" indicate a laudable condition of human sympathy. They also indicate the disproportionate generosity of an emotional mob.

Five infants receive wealth such as their parents never dreamed of possessing, simply as a reward for being born. "Neither the babies nor the rest of the Dionne family need worry about their normal requirements for the rest of their lives," announces the Ontario Minister of Welfare. Whether that is fundamentally beneficial remains to be proved. Everyone will agree that it is good to feel financially secure. No need to be apprehensive about the supply of the quintuplets.

Yet—there's a brave little youngster at the corner of Main Street, a lad of twelve, who trudged about in a pair of sneakers in the middle of winter, running errands and shoveling snow after school hours, who would like to go to college some day, but probably won't be able to finish high school. A child with an intellect, his teachers say, a child who should have an opportunity. His mother is a widow and he has two younger sisters.

There's another child on Main Street—a girl of seven, delicate features, with a far too solemn expression in her gray eyes. Her parents are educated, but they are "on relief," and it's very cold when there's no fuel to light the kitchen stove. The last time it was lighted the mother made all the flour they had into doughnuts, which the little girl hawked around the neighborhood.

Sometimes the little boy and the little girl wonder why no "unselfish offers" from a sentimental public come showering down on them. It was a mistake to come singly. They should have come in fives.—Christian Science Monitor.

HALF-TRUTHS WON'T WIN IN TEXAS

It is unlikely that Texas would have been faced with a campaign in the governor's race this year except for the so-called issue of Old Age Pensions. But this tempting apple was too much for the politically ambitious. Ostensibly it offered everything in the way of appeal that the astute politician could pray for—provided, of course—that he could fool the unwary and befuddle the wise.

The oil man from East Texas is attempting to force or beguile Texans to believe that the constitutional amendment voted last summer makes it mandatory for a pension to be paid everyone over the age of 65. He stops far short of the whole truth.

The amendment is permissive only. The legislature is given the authority to set up such restrictions and requirements as it may deem expedient and necessary. The amendment, by no stretch of the imagination, contemplated this broadcast payment which would cost around sixty millions of dollars each year. If it had made such provisions Texas could have kissed federal funds goodby.

The Social Security Board, in no uncertain terms, has told Texas and every other state that no federal money would be forthcoming on such a bases.

Is it not better to provide an average of $20 per month for the needy than $15 a month for everybody and let Texas pay the whole cost?

This sort of campaigning may catch a few gullible, but thinking people will question the good-faith of him who seeks honor by such methods.

Another candidate—also a big oil man—favors "payment of the old age pensions without discrimination to all who are not barred by constitutional restrictions or precluded by the Federal Social Security Act." That is exactly what we have now. Texas has the most liberal old-age pension act in the union.

Texas has a middle-of-the-road governor who isn't excited by the hue and cry of a deluded minority. The job is being done in a way which will not require that it be done over again.

Oklahoma has had its old age assistance act thrown in the ash can because of haste.

Texas is one of few states that has not had to amend its act in order to comply with the requirements of the Social Security Board.

We cannot believe that Texas people have reached the point where they will fall for half-truths and misleading statements of facts. Texas' best assurance of future performance in this and any other connection is past accomplishment.—Garnesville Daily Register.

Play grounds would cost communities less than jails and reformatories. Every community should have supervised play grounds where children would find something to occupy their leisure time. An idle brain is the devil's workshop and we are partly to blame for children getting into trouble by refusal to maintain play grounds and manual training work.—Big Spring Weekly.

W. H. McDONALD

W. H. (Bill) McDonald of Eastland county, candidate for State Land Commissioner, points out that he was born in West Texas and has lived in this section all his life; therefore, that he would certainly be as fair and considerate toward West Texans as would his opponent, who is from South Texas. McDonald emphasizes that he is not, however, making a sectional appeal and would strive to be the land commissioner of all the people, if elected. He declares that if the department would carry out a contract with an oil company in East Texas, many thousands of dollars a month could be added to the state's revenue.

LARGEST AND TINIEST OF LIGHT GLOBES INTEREST

San Diego, Cal., June 23.—In the Palace of Electricity there is an electric light globe that is attracting much attention. It is 50,000 watts and the largest light globe made. It is about two feet in diameter. A 50,000-watt globe is said to cost about $700.

Alongside the biggest globe is the tiniest globe in the world—about the size of a grain of wheat.

The small one is built on the same principles as the large one. The tiny globe is used by surgeons when a laryngoscope is used in the throat and an electric light is used to locate an object that has to be removed.

Clark Chamberlain, director of the Palace of Electricity, says 4,000 persons go through the building each day. Three weeks ago yesterday, 11,000 persons visited the building.—San Diego Union.

Huge Air-cooled Structure Housing Ford Exposition and Famed Trails and Roads of Southwest Nearby

This aerial photograph shows the size of the huge air-conditioned Ford Exposition building at the Texas Centennial in Dallas. The court with its shady seats and attractive shrubbery is a popular spot, especially when Jose Manzanera and his South American orchestra appear in the band shell. The picture shows a portion of the lagoon which is completely encircled with "Roads of the Southwest," exact reproductions of nine famous trails and highways. At the top is seen the famous Cotton Bowl, in which President Roosevelt spoke.

The Six Amendments

Six constitutional amendments, some of which are calculated to kick up considerable interest, will confront the Texas voters this fall. Chief among them, the two most likely to develop a battle royal, are those proposing to increase certain official salaries and giving the voters their choice between the present plan of liquor control and the State monopoly plan.

The salary amendment takes in a good deal of territory, since it covers a number of changes instead of the single one with which the voters are familiar from past experience—the salary of the governor. Texas pays her governor $4,000 a year, and the amendment proposes to hike it to $12,000. Standing alone, the people might reverse themselves and approve the amendment; but they are asked to raise other salaries, too. The attorney general's pay would be lifted to $12,000 instead of the present $4,000, of which $2,000 is constitutional and $2,000 statutory. The comptroller, the treasurer and the land commissioner would be raised from $2,500 to $6,000, while the secretary of state would be raised from $2,000 to $6,000.

The existing salaries are too low. They were set in 1876, 60 years ago. The compensation of the governor, especially, should be raised in keeping with the importance of the job and the dignity of a great State. We believe it was a mistake to include the other salary increases. They should have been proposed in a separate amendment from that affecting the governor, if possible, giving the people a chance to raise the governor's salary without any side issues attached.

The existing liquor control law is one-half of a compromise between the wets and the dries. The other half will be offered in the amendment next fall, giving the people their choice between State control of private liquor business and an outright state monopoly. There is going to be a lot of argument over that.

Country is lined up against city in one of the amendments, which proposes that representation in the lower house of the legislature be limited to seven for any one county unless that county's population exceeds 700,000. This is a frank attempt to end the dominance of the larger cities.

Another would provide a pension of $180 a year for school teachers after 20 years of service. Still another would authorize the legislature to provide workmen's compensation for State employees. The sixth amendment would limit the governor's power of clemency, by setting up a board of pardon and paroles by whose recommendations the governor would be bound.

A different system of submitting the amendments to the voters will be followed this year, thanks to a legislative act of 1935. Instead of each county determining for itself the place to be occupied on the ballot by each amendment, the Secretary of State will make a drawing on May 20 to determine such position and the amendments will occupy the same position on each county ballot. This is a step this newspaper has advocated for years, on ground that the old system was confusing to the voter. Hereafter the voter will know what he is voting for; hitherto he has been confronted by a meaningless jumble of words.—Abilene Reporter-News.

"Win With Landon!" Is G. O. P. Convention Cry

Confident, Cheering Republicans Unanimously Acclaim Kansan and Knox.

Cleveland, Ohio.—To a man, the Republican party stands behind Alf M. Landon of Kansas and Frank Knox of Illinois, convinced that victory lies ahead in November, as a result of one of the most stirring and harmonious conventions in the party's history.

There was never a doubt as to the faith of the delegates that Landon and Knox can beat Roosevelt. Both were nominated unanimously, Landon by acclamation.

Landon's name was the only one presented to the convention. It was the first time such a thing had happened at a Republican convention since the nomination of Grant in 1868 and 1872. He and his running mate will be committed to a platform that makes the issue in the campaign that of the American form of government against government of a queer and unnatural kind under the Stars and Stripes.

Enthusiasm Rings Out.
The platform, which contained as an integral part, a simple restatement of the Bill of Rights from the Constitution of the United States, also was unanimously adopted.

That was the kind of a convention it was. Decisive. Enthusiastic. Courageous. Certain.

And it was colorful. There was the inspired fearlessness of the typical pioneers who crossed the plains to settle the typical prairie states in the telegram wherein Alf Landon laid his cards on the table BEFORE his nomination.

The youth and fire and uncompromising determination of the convention were characterized by the dogged, lifted chin of young, sorrel-topped John D. M. Hamilton, committeeman from Kansas, as he made Landon's nominating speech.

The convention's resolution of purpose, its undampened ardor for the traditions of American liberty against regimentation and bureaucratic dictatorship were part and parcel of the mighty ovation which for 30 minutes acclaimed the arrival of Herbert Hoover.

"For Three Long Years."
Proof that party enthusiasm was only whetted to a new high pitch by three years of Roosevelt was demonstrated in the stampede of the whole floor, under the leadership of a young and good-looking blonde woman who left the gallery to snatch a flag and march at the head of the parade which acclaimed the former President for an hour after his departure. He had told them that they were "a convention of Americans to determine the fate of those ideals for which this nation was founded." They showed him they were with him when he shouted for them to "stop retreat!"

Unconcealed contempt for anything New Dealish or Rooseveltian became the theme song of the convention. In the powerful keynote speech of the temporary chairman, Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon, was born the chant that carried through the convention and is now being sung at Republican meetings everywhere—"Three Long Years!" to the tune of "Three Blind Mice!"

Senator Steiwer had quoted President Roosevelt's statement in a message to congress in 1933:

"For three long years the Federal government has been on the road toward bankruptcy. . . . Thus we have piled up an accumulated deficit of $5,000,000,000."

Steiwer Strikes a Chord.
Senator Steiwer pointed out that that was the accumulation of four years. Then he continued:

"For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934, the deficit was approximately four billion dollars. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, it was in excess of three and a half billion dollars. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, and eliminating any requirement for the payment of the soldiers' bonus, the deficit is between three and a half and four billion dollars. For three long years the deficits have exceeded those which the President denounced. For three long years we have continued on the road toward bankruptcy. Instead of an accumulated deficit of five billion dollars in four years, we have a deficit of approximately eleven billion dollars in three years—but they are three very long years. During the same period the government spending has gone up. Listen to the astounding totals—for three long years: For the fiscal year 1933, approximately five billion dollars; for 1934, seven billion dollars; for 1935, seven billion four hundred million dollars; for 1936, seven billion six hundred million dollars, and the estimate of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1937, is in excess of eight and a quarter billion dollars. I ask this question—for how long a period has the Federal deficit exceeded that which the President denounced?"

The convention responded with a single, resounding voice.
"For three long years!"
"For how long a period has the federal spending been kept above the seven billion dollar line?"

The galleries caught up the chorus with the delegates:

"For three long years!"
"For how long have we lived under the evil trinity of increased deficit, increased debt and increased taxes?"

The band played the chords for the words this time.

"For three long years!"

Platform Takes It Up.

Right into the platform went the spirit of the chant:

"For three long years the New Deal administration has dishonored American traditions and flagrantly betrayed the pledges upon which the Democratic party sought and received public support.

"The powers of congress have been usurped by the President.

"The integrity and authority of the Supreme court have been flouted.

"The rights and liberties of American citizens have been violated.

"Regulated monopoly has displaced free enterprise.

"The New Deal administration constantly seeks to usurp the rights reserved to the states and to the people.

"It has insisted on the passage of laws contrary to the Constitution.

"It has intimidated witnesses and interfered with the right of petition.

"It has dishonored our country by repudiating its most sacred obligations.

"It has been guilty of frightful waste and extravagance, using public funds for partisan political purposes.

"It has promoted investigations to harass and intimidate American citizens, at the same time denying investigations into its own improper expenditures.

Raps Bureaucracy.

"It has created a vast multitude of new offices, filled them with its favorites, set up a centralized bureaucracy, and sent out swarms of inspectors to harass our people.

"It has bred fear and hesitancy in commerce and industry, thus discouraging new enterprise, preventing employment and prolonging the depression.

"It secretly has made tariff agreements with our foreign competitors flooding our markets with foreign commodities.

"It has coerced and intimidated voters by withholding relief to those opposing its tyrannical policies.

"It has destroyed the morale of many of our people and made their dependent upon government.

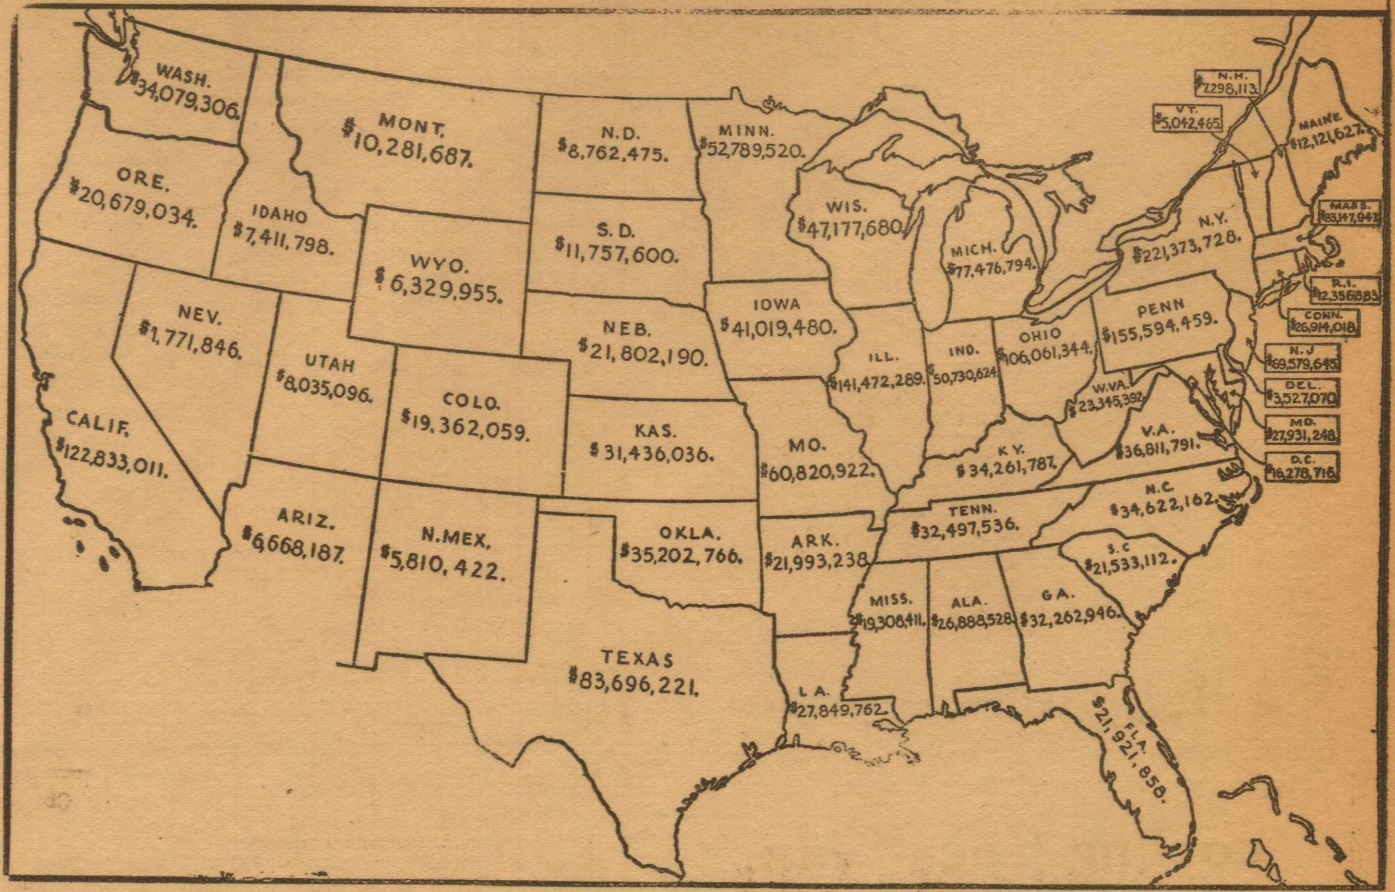

"Appeals to passion and class prejudice have replaced reason and tolerance.

"To a free people, these actions are insufferable. This campaign can not be waged on the traditional differences between the Republican and Democratic parties. The responsibility of this election transcends all previous political divisions."

Too often the politician who stumps the state before election succeeds in doing it afterwards, too.—Dallas News.

Stewart R. Rivers, manager of E. C. Palmer & Co., Dallas, and Albert Smith, traveling salesman were in Sonora Wednesday.

"How Bonus Money Will Be Distributed"

The above map, prepared by National Headquarters, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, shows how the balance of approximately $2,200,000,000 due on World War veterans' Adjusted Service Certificates, will be divided among the 48 states.

But on the final night of the convention it was another song that rang through Cleveland's auditorium—"Oh, Susannah!"—the campaign song of the Landon forces, who, earlier on that day had so demonstrated that the Kansas governor was the choice of the people to defeat the New Deal, that all of the other candidates willingly released their delegates.

Hamilton Presents Landon.

Before Hamilton began his nominating speech he read a telegram from Governor Landon which went into the annals of political conventions as one of the most courageous pieces of forthrightness and honesty ever to be spoken by a candidate for nomination. Governor Landon wanted it understood before his name was presented that there were certain planks in the platform upon which he had placed interpretations which ought to be known.

He made it plain that, although the platform expressed belief that labor legislation with respect to minimum hours, maximum wages and working conditions could be "done within the Constitution as it now stands," he would, if it were necessary, support a constitutional amendment to accomplish such legislation.

He made it plain that while he agreed that "the first requisite to a sound and stable currency is a balanced budget" the second requisite "is a currency expressed in terms of gold and convertible into gold."

He was more definite than the platform in his ideas of restoring and expanding the merit system in the federal government. "In carrying out this pledge, I believe there should be included within the merit system every position in the administrative service below the rank of assistant secretaries of major departments and agencies, and that this inclusion should cover the entire post office department."

Convention Goes Wild.

Delegation after delegation leaped to its feet to begin the happy, hollering, whistling, singing, dancing band wagon parade for Alf Landon. Everywhere the banners "Win with Landon" and the posters with the governor's picture were raised. There were hundreds of them. In their enthusiasm, delegates climbed chairs, pummeled each other good naturedly and carried on generally with all the reckless abandon of a college crowd after a big football game. It was an hour before Hamilton could resume talking.

Hamilton dwelt upon the manner in which the forty-eight-year-old governor had administered the affairs of his state simply, efficiently, as a business man "who had had to meet the Saturday night payroll" would. He pointed out the difference between the Landon methods and the Roosevelt methods.

"Through three and one-half years we have heard much talk of emergency. Emergency has been advanced as an argument for the breaking of campaign pledges, for a reckless spending of public funds, for the creation of a bureaucracy, for the appointment of public officials for reasons of personal loyalty rather than merit, and for a bewildering succession of inconsistent and impracticable measures which have retarded recovery and created uncertainty.

Faced Roosevelt's Problems.
"Yet Gov. Landon was elected to his office at the same time that the New Deal administration was elected to power. He faced in his capacity as a state executive emergencies of the same kind that confronted the national executive. He faced also the same question of whether he should in that emergency break the pledges he had made in that campaign, or whether he should keep those pledges. The answers given by the new President and the new governor were different and they were in character. For, as we have seen from the public record of the two of them, their characters were different."

Landon for Unity.

Hamilton struck what proved to be the popular note when he declared:

"Behind Governor Landon, as standard-bearer of the Republican party, will rally a united party, for he has a genius for creating unity. Behind Governor Landon will rally that great group of citizens, without regard to party label, who wish to see performance and not propaganda, confidence and not confusion. Behind Governor Landon, carrying the standard of young America, will rally that great section of the people who wish to repudiate the alien philosophies and outworn theories, and who, without regard to their own age, are young enough to have faith that we can build a greater country by carrying forward the dynamic American doctrines of hope, of tolerance, and of effort."

After the nomination had been seconded by other states, the other candidates came to the stage to announce that they would throw every ounce of support at their command to the election of Landon in November.

These candidates who sacrificed their ambitions for the good of the party and the nation were Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan; Frank Knox of Illinois, the Chicago newspaper publisher who was nominated for Vice President the next morning, receiving a unanimous roll call vote; Sen. L. J. Dickinson of Iowa; Gov. Harry Nice of Maryland; Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

Missionaries in Hawaii
The first missionaries to Hawaii had as their first task the problem of teaching natives the why and wherefore of clothing the body. A Hawaiian queen of six feet and ample girth was given a bolt of cloth, which she unwound on the ground, lay down upon it and rolled over and over, thus draping it around herself, to her entire satisfaction. When the ceremony for which she had dressed was over, she again lay down and unwound herself.

Comfort Has Only Union Marker In South Due to Strange Massacre, August 10, 1862

Comfort, Texas.—Tucked away in the village of Comfort, deep in Southwest Texas, is the only monument erected to the memory of Union Soldiers south of the Mason-Dixon Line.

Beneath the granite shaft imbedded on the hillside rest the bodies of a band of early German settlers—massacred because of an amazing sincerity to their oath of allegiance to the United States.

Valor and scorn fills the story of their deaths. The German band, loyal to the government, was shot down by Confederate guns as they tried to make their way into Mexico to escape conscription into the forces of the gray.

On July 4, 1862, the loyalists from Gillespie, Kerr, Kendall, Edwards and Kimble counties, met and formed the "Union Loyal League." Three companies were organized into a battalion under the leadership of Maj. Fritz Tegener. An advisory board was formed and battalion officers met with it and outlined a plan of action.

Some slipped away, journeyed to New Orleans and joined Union forces. Others remained and July 20, 1862, the Loyal Leaders were notified the counties of Gillespie, Kerr, Kendall, Kimble and Edwards were considered to be in open rebellion to the Confederacy.

They were placed under martial law. Soon after the league decided to disband to show Confederate leaders no armed conflict was intended.

Major Tegener passed word that all who wished to try to flee to Mexico with him were to meet on the banks of Turtle Creek Aug. 1. Sixty-five German settlers, stubbornly true to their oath, met him there and started by horseback for the Rio Grande.

The flint rock trail wearied their mounts and on the night of Aug. 9 they halted for a two-day rest along the banks of the Neeces River. Guards were thrown about the camp and worn members of the group fell asleep.

Shortly before dawn a shot rang out and the Loyalist found their guard, Leopold Bauer shot to death. As they hurried about camp more shots were fired. Loyalists fought back and dawn found 19 of them killed; nine captured (and later executed), and the remainder in flight.

Six of the escapees were later killed as they reached their goal—the Rio Grande. Eleven joined the United States Army as members of the First Regiment of the Texas Cavalry Volunteers and the remainder escaped to their homes and California.

Three years later, after war drums had ceased, a group of Germans went to the massacre scene, gathered up the bones of their comrades, returned here and buried them with ceremonies in the present resting spot.

Many years later relatives and friends erected the monument—consecrated to a band courageous in their beliefs.

Inscribed on the shaft are the names of the dead and the words: "Treue der Union (true to the Union)."

Historians and relatives have handed down facts of the strange rebellion and it is a favorite tale of this hill country.

Farming On Wholesale Scale
Is Task of Sonora Ranchman

"The man who walks and plows is a clod-hopper, and the fellow who rides his cultivator comes under the head of a gentleman farmer." Thus orated Pete Garvin when accosted as "Hey, there farmer!"

"Me a farmer? Listen, fellow: The man who owns a tractor, knows how and when to plant, and has judgment enough to hire a man to do all the work; raises a crop wet years and dry—is a modern agriculturist!"

Here is a list of Mr. Garvin's activities and the number of acres—845—which he has handled this year some for cash and a portion on the shares:

L. B. Wardlaw, fifty miles south of Sonora, 110 acres; Hi Eastland, 40 acres; Bond Bros. 165; Bryan Hunt, Edwards county ranch, 24 acres; Ed Mayfield, forty miles south, 12; Joe

Ross, twenty miles southeast, 24 acres; Duke Wilson, twenty-five miles southeast, 60 acres;

A. F. Clarkson, twelve miles southeast, 90 acres; Stites & Schwiening, 8 miles east, 40 acres; Bryant Hunt, Baker Ranch, twelve miles southwest, 100 acres; R. A. Halbert, twelve miles west, 55; Perry Mittle, nine miles north, 35; and 100 acres of his own sixteen miles east of Sonora. He states he has gone over his own acreage four times, breaking, harrowing, drilling and mowing.

The crop planted on the above acreage, Mr. Garvin stated are: oats, hedges, cane and sudan. Only forage crops are put in.

The type of land put to feed are two, valley and divide. He says of the two, crops are surer on divide land because it has a clay subsoil which holds moisture better than the valley land with its gravel subsoil.

The minister pointed out that noble ideals are never born in darkness. It is said that ninety per cent of the world's crimes are committed in darkness—in the night time.

"If we take the short view of life we will become pessimistic; but if we look back upon conditions of one hundred years ago and compare them with those of the present day, we will rejoice that we live in this great day. Through the windows we can see the coming of a new heaven on earth.

"Theopen windows — ideals, dreams, ambitions, hopes; nothing worthwhile ever became a reality until it was first a dream in some noble mind." In this connection the speaker recalled some concrete examples tending to prove his assertion.

In conclusion he said: "Just as the open window's toward Jerusalem' kept Daniel straight and strong, so turning your mind and heart toward things spiritual and eternal will help to keep you in the 'straight and narrow way.'

"Where your treasure is there will your heart be also."
