

Sonora Team Ends Season in Third Place in District 34-B

Menard Loses To 1936 Team By 12 to 6 Saturday

SEASON A SUCCESS

Only Two of District Games Lost While Three Won

Closing the 1936 gridiron season in a blaze of glory the Sonora high school Bronchos Saturday afternoon defeated Menard by a 12 to 6 score in a game which brought their season record to one of five victories and three defeats.

Only two conference games—those with Eldorado and Rocksprings—were lost by the local team which undoubtedly had the best season it has enjoyed for several years.

In non-conference conflicts Sonora won from Mertzon and Bronte and lost only to Iraan.

Not a single 1936 game played on the Sonora field was lost.

END-OF-THE-SEASON HIGHLIGHTS OF 1936 FOOTBALL PLAY

—Turkey and all the trimmings was served Sonora football players Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vehle.

—A town team went down Wednesday afternoon to the Sonora high school team by a score of 19 to 7.

—Tribute to the 1936 football players, particularly ten boys who have played their last game for Sonora, was paid during the assembly period last week by Coach O. P. Adams. The ten who are to be missing from the 1937 squad of players are:

low, Sonora following and Junction, Ozona and Menard bringing up the rear in that order.

The Saturday game was interesting from start to finish with Sonora scoring first in the first quarter after a persistent drive from the time it took the ball on its own 22-yard line and battled down the field in play featured by a 19-yard end run by M. Elliott, right end.

Trainer, right end, whose power, speed and determination have been outstanding qualities in his play all season, went over for the touchdown from the 12-yard line. Trainer, in the second half which was Sonora's in a "big way," went over for another six points after he, Jackson and Taylor had made large inroads into Menard territory. During the drive Trainer made one 55-yard run.

Menard Scores Early

Menard scored in the first quarter after a series of cut-back plays featuring the work of Matthews, fullback, who went over for the touchdown.

Neither Menard nor Sonora was able to capitalize on its touchdowns by making the points-after-touchdown. Wind played its part in ruining efforts at kicking goals.

Five times Sonora penetrated the 20-yard zone of the Yellowjackets while Menard players threatened in the Sonora zone only one time. Fifteen first downs were made by Sonora and nine by Menard. One 5-yard penalty was meted out to Sonora and five of similar size were the misfortune of the Menard team.

Fighting Broncho players made 227 yards from scrimmage and 10 yards by passing attack. The Menard team accounted for 116 yards of ground-gaining from scrimmage and 40 by passing.

Boys who started the game Saturday were: Trainer, Roueche, Mc-

Ghee, Simmons, Adams, Vehle, M. Elliott, Taylor, Archer, W. Elliott, Jackson. Other boys of the 1936 squad are: Awalt, J. Trainer, Morris, Driskell, Adams, Thorp, Davis, W. Stubblefield, E. Archer, Hutcherson, Poindexter, B. Taylor, A. Tjerina, J. L. Sanchez.

Dock Simmons and Odell Odom have been student managers, assisting Coach O. P. Adams.

Lions Club Hears Minister Tell of Thanksgiving Day

Distribution of Food Baskets Helped By Contribution of Ten Dollars

A tracing of the origin of Thanksgiving and an outline of the various things for which people of this 1936 day should be thankful was given at the Lions Club Tuesday noon by the Rev. R. C. Brinkley in his first talk before the civic organization.

The founding of the Jamestown colony in 1607, the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth in December, 1620, as the second permanent English settlement in America, and the declaring of Governor William Bradford, December 13, 1621, of a day of Thanksgiving were mentioned by the minister.

People today, he declared, have good reason to be thankful for such blessings as these: life and health; our country "glorious one that it is"; freedom of worship; a heaven that God has prepared for us; all things good that we are able to see around us.

W. R. Cusenbary, club president, supplemented the Reverend Mr. Brinkley's address by adding "line club spirit that is a real influence in community life" as something else for which to be thankful.

Ten dollars was voted for the purpose of aiding in providing Thanksgiving food baskets for needy persons. W. C. Gilmore was assigned the work of seeing that the money reached the proper agency.

A Thanksgiving song was sung by Mrs. Preston C. Lightfoot with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Robert W. Jacobs.

Robert Kelley, Blackstone Smith of Junction and Alyce Claire Shelton were guests.

BIG SPRING AND COLEMAN BUYERS GET STOCK HERE

Twenty-one hundred head of lambs were shipped from Sonora Wednesday afternoon in nine double-deck cars.

The animals, shipped by B. W. Hutcherson, were consigned to Hardy Morgan, Big Spring ranchman, who paid 6 3-4 cents a pound for them. They were bought from Ben Mittel, Ira Shurley, Roy Hudspeth, R. V. Sewell, Alvis Johnson and other ranchmen of this section.

Two hundred ewe lambs were sold by Mr. Hutcherson to R. H. Griffith of Coleman who paid $4 a head for them.

Don Miller of Lubbock is a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Jones.

HARD AND HEAVY SILVER AGAIN SEEN IN SONORA

Two hundred and twenty-five silver dollars went jangling into Sonora trade circles Saturday afternoon and night after Sam Hull, manager of Sonora Motor Co. had paid his employees in that manner.

Mr. Hull said that he just wanted to show what one Sonora payroll meant to the community.

That he was successful to a large extent in his "experiment" may be proven by the fact that a check-up at the First National Bank showed that 150 of the "cartwheels," as they used to be known when they were seen more often, had come to the bank from Sonora business houses and Sutton county individuals.

Sutton Professional Man Speaker On Sheep-Goat Men's Program

Ranchmen of Sutton county and stockmen of many other parts of Texas will center their interests next week in San Angelo when the twenty-first annual convention of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association is held there Thursday and Friday.

Registration of those who attend the convention will begin at the St. Angelus Hotel Wednesday afternoon. That evening officers and directors will be guests at a banquet given by the Board of City Development before a business meeting of the group later in the evening.

"Veterinary Problems" will be the subject of an address Friday morning at 9:30 by Dr. I. B. Boughton of the Ranch Experiment Station staff in Sutton county. Dr. Boughton, a native of Defiance, Ohio, was educated in that state and at the University of Ohio. During the World War he was in the Veterinary Corps as a First Lieutenant. He was overseas from

Liquor Undamaged When Truck Wrecks

Driver Blinded By Car Lights Fifteen Miles From Town

Spirituous liquors for holiday users in Sutton county took a tumble—but not in price—Wednesday morning about four o'clock when a large truck and trailer of the Alamo Freight Lines turned on its side about fifteen miles east of town on the San Antonio highway.

Woodrow Smith, driver, said later in the morning that his cargo included forty cases of liquor consigned to Sonora buyers. Not a bottle was broken although the top of the trailer was considerably damaged. Smith was uninjured.

Smith said that he was blinded by the lights of an approaching car which crowded him to the side of the road. He drove far to the right and was not able to bring the heavy motor portion and the trailer back into the highway.

As the truck turned over the ignition key was broken off in the lock with only a portion of it protruding. Smith had difficulty turning off the motor but finally succeeded.

Sonora is being used as a junction point by the trucking line which also runs between here and Fort Stockton and between here and San Angelo.

Holiday Visitors in Lomax Home

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lomax for Thanksgiving Day were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Roberts of Del Rio, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Miller, and daughter, Ernestine, of Rocksprings and B. D. Roberts of Rocksprings. Mrs. Miller and her daughter will return to their home Sunday.

Mrs. T. C. Murray and brother, Melvin Adams of Pumpville, spent Tuesday and Wednesday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Adams, in Cain City.

Miss Wilma Hutcherson and a friend, students of Texas State College for Women, Denton, are visiting Miss Hutcherson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Hutcherson.

Ticket sales are to begin soon by members of the Young Woman's Guild for their four-act play, "The Fool," which will be presented in the high school auditorium Monday night, December 14.

First publicity and advertising was arranged this week by Mrs. Bryan Hunt, president, and Miss Alice Karnes, a committee member. Dr. Joel Shelton is directing the play which is to have a large number of Sonora people in the cast of characters.

Rehearsals are being held regularly in the Methodist Church basement and at the Shelton home.

Those who have been assigned parts in the production include: Miss Pauline Davis, Miss Velma Chadwick, Miss Dorothy Penick, Miss Edythe Carson, Jodie Trainer, Boyd Caffey, the Rev. R. C. Brinkley, the Rev. R. F. Davis, Dr. Joel Shelton, Howard Willis.

SAM CHADWICK, SCHOOLBOY, GETS TEN-POINT BUCK

Most successful hunters to return to the Sonora section so far this season are Jim Chadwick, h's son, Sam, Sonora schoolboy, Alfred Sessums and George Hearn, who returned Monday night from the Terrell-Brewster section southwest of Sanderson.

The boy, Sam, bagged a 10-point buck, Hearn got a 4-point, Sessums a 10-point animal and the elder Chadwick a 6-point deer.

Their truck attracted much attention on the Sonora streets Tuesday morning with the bucks draped on the four corners of the machine. For good measure a coyote was laid across one fender. It was run over when it attempted to cross the highway in front of their truck Monday night.

All of the deer were black-tail.

Sonora Men Pleased With Attitude of State On Highway

Brady—Sonora "Designation" Not Secured But Consideration Given Encourages

"A courteous hearing and excellent consideration" was the report brought back to Sonora this week by W. R. Cusenbary, Alvis Johnson, county judge, and John Irvin King who appeared Monday before the state highway commission in Austin in connection with the proposed road from Brady to Sonora, providing a shorter Fort Worth to Del Rio route.

The Sonora men were part of a group made up of themselves and the following: Howell Cobb, county judge-elect in McCullough county, and Mr. Bennafield, Chamber of Commerce secretary, both of Brady; Dr. Price of Menard.

Value of Route Admitted

Members of the commission, Mr. Cusenbary said, showed interest in the proposed route through McCullough, Menard, Schleicher and Sutton counties. It was said to fit nicely into the group's idea of a direct Fort Worth to Del Rio road, by way of Brownwood and Stephenville.

The highway commission was opposed, however, to committing itself to the extent of making a road designation at this time.

Money for Texas highway work in the remaining months of the year ending July, 1937, cannot exceed 1 1/2 million dollars, the county people were told. The commission feels that it will be best to expend this money in closing gaps of present highways, for matching federal funds that are available, for maintenance of present roads and for emergency use in the department. Only a few designations of new highways are to be made by the commission during the remainder of the fiscal year.

Engineering Facts Wanted

Members of the commission told the Sutton, Menard and McCullough citizens that they would take up the matter of their request with the engineering department and would find out just how much engineering information that department had on the route that is being proposed.

Mr. Cusenbary, Mr. Johnson and Mr. King feel well repaid for their trip to Austin and feel that people of this section may well feel encouraged in their movement to secure such a state highway.

Members of the highway commission and the dates when their terms expire are:

Chairman, Harry Hines, Wichita Falls, 1939; John Wood, Timpan (Shelby county), 1939; D. K. Martin, San Antonio, 1937.

Rufus Higgs, publisher of the Stephenville Empire-Tribune, has been mentioned frequently of late as "timber" for the position now held by Mr. Martin.

Churches To Unite For Sunday Worship

The Rev. R. F. Davis To Speak in Baptist Pulpit

A Thanksgiving sermon will be preached Sunday night at seven when the Rev. R. F. Davis, pastor of the Methodist Church, will be in charge of the associated worship of Methodists and Baptists in the Baptist church auditorium.

The service will be the first of the series announced recently by the Reverend Mr. Davis and the Rev. R. C. Brinkley of the other church. Music will be by Baptist church choir members.

In the morning, at his own church, the Reverend Mr. Davis will speak on the subject—"Am I My Brother's Keeper?" Church school classes begin at 9:45. Graded literature is used and there are classes for all ages of children.

The Reverend and Mrs. Davis Tuesday attended a "set-up" meeting of the San Angelo District of the church which was held in San Angelo at the First Methodist Church there. All but two of the ministers in the district were there. Plans were made at the meeting for the year's work. The Rev. L. U. Spellman, presiding elder, was in charge.

Alfred Sonny Lamb Fails To Locate Rifle in Sutton

Confessed Criminal Brought To Sonora By King County Deputy Wednesday

Only a half gallon can was found under a cedar bush on the game preserve of the Fort Terrett Ranch Wednesday afternoon when Alfred (Sonny) Lamb, 25, convicted on robbery with firearms and assault to murder charges Monday, led officers to the place he said he hid a .253 Savage rifle several months ago.

Lamb, and his father, Bob, have 114-year sentences hanging over them on Knox and King county crimes of last summer. Both are under indictment in Menard county for the killing of N. J. Johnson, Erna merchant, on September 10.

Handcuffed securely and riding in a coupe between Hayden Gibson, King county deputy sheriff, and Dr. J. W. Melton, former Knox county sheriff, the younger Lamb was brought here Wednesday.

DR. MELTON RELATIVE OF SONORA'S CITY MANAGER

Dr. Melton, who came here with the King county deputy sheriff and his prisoner, is a relative of George E. Smith, city manager. About four years ago, Dr. Melton, veterinarian, visited here and enjoyed a hunting trip in this section.

day afternoon. B. W. Hutcherson, Sutton county sheriff, and a newspaper man, accompanied the men to the place Lamb said he had left the gun. He had said it was "about thirty miles from Sonora, near Roosevelt."

Little Trouble Finding Bucket

Continually chewing gum, Lamb, who has a somewhat hardened appearing jaw, directed the men through the Humble Station B bumper gate on the state game preserve of the Fort Terrett Ranch, operated by Harold W. Evans.

After about half a mile or so he had Dr. Melton stop the car. Men in the two cars were led several hundred yards across the pasture. After a little trouble Lamb pointed out the bucket of which he had spoken. The gun, which he had said was left with barrel downward in it, was not found.

Lamb said that the stock of the gun he asserted he left in the can under the cedar had been broken in a car wreck he and his father had a few days before coming to Sutton county.

The elder Lamb has been in jail at Coleman this week while his son was kept in the Haskell county jail.

Deputy Gibson and Dr. Melton left Sonora at 5:30 the same evening to make the trip back to Guthrie.

Lamb Shows Little Concern

Dr. Melton said that the rifle which they were seeking was stolen when the Lambs robbed his son, Homer T., and his son-in-law, W. T. Ward, last summer while the two men were operating a beer stand in King county near the Knox-King line. It is this crime for which the Lambs were given 99-year sentences, on the robbery with firearms charges. The 15-year sentences on the assault to murder charge were meted out to the two for shooting Pinky George, operator of a liquor store in Knox county.

Lamb seemed quite unconcerned about the penitentiary sentences received Monday and the prospect of an even more serious one coming to him in April. He spoke of having been "given everything but the courthouse" in the cases at Guthrie, King county, on Monday. Not content with that bit of facetious comment, he added:

"To do both of those sentences I'll have to have some help."

Students Busy Learning How To Be "Happy Though Married"

A portion of the class in "Marriage and Homemaking" conducted as an auxiliary religious course at the University of Texas by Dr. C. W. Hall, director of the Wesley Bible Chair, Methodist instruction center.

The group of eighty-four young men and women meets thrice weekly to listen to lectures on courtship and post-nuptial relationships and to University credit is given for the course.

Dr. Hall has conducted this course in "Marriage and Christian Homemaking," or "The Family as a Moral and Religious Agency in Relations Education," for the last four years. Enrollment has increased each year; last year more than one hundred students enrolled during the fall and spring semesters. Dr. Hall's fame as a lecturer in this subject has spread throughout the state until he is frequently called to other cities to deliver series of addresses to young people on how to choose their life companions, when should marriage take place, and other related topics.

PLANS BALLOON HOP ACROSS ATLANTIC

Belgian Expert Makes Arrangements for Attempt.

Brussels.—Ernest Demuyter, the Belgian balloonist and four times winner of the Gordon Bennett cup, is planning to make the first transatlantic balloon flight.

With Engineer E. Charlier, who accompanied him on a recent flight, Demuyter has been studying the possibilities of the venture. Considerable preliminary work will be necessary, he states, before the attempt can be made. He thinks Lakehurst, N. J., the best place for the start.

"I need a balloon with a capacity of about 24,000 cubic feet," he said. "Given that, I am prepared to prove the Atlantic can be crossed in one."

"The object, should the scheme materialize, will be to demonstrate the possibility of extensive trips by free balloon in a given direction and the regularity of atmospheric currents.

"The flight would add considerably to our present knowledge of the atmosphere, and be beneficial to air travel in general.

"I would select Lakehurst for the takeoff because of the fine scientific equipment to be found there, and the people I know there would assist me."

PERPETUAL ICE IS FOUND UNDER LAVA

Scientist Makes Discovery in New Mexico.

New York—A lava bed whose surface is unpleasantly warm to the touch does not seem a likely setting for a deposit of perpetual ice. Yet in just such a locality, where the brazen New Mexican sun beats down upon a surface which once was molten stone, a deposit of perpetual ice does exist.

A visit to such a wonderland of paradox is described by John Stewart MacClary in "Natural History" published by the American museum.

"The floor of the sink is covered by jagged chunks of grayish black basalt which once formed a roof above the cavity. The accumulated warmth of the air in the depression strikes one almost like the blast from a furnace. One wonders how ice could possibly withstand a temperature such as this.

"By this time a feeling of eager expectancy has seized the visitor. He climbs the heap of fallen stone that obstructs the mouth of the cavern. At the summit of the disorderly pile he gazes down into the depths whence comes the current of cool air.

"The sight which greets his eyes is well worth the effort he has spent. Imagine a bank of solid ice, from 12 to 14 feet in height and some 50 feet in width, calmly resting in a tunnel of what once was molten stone—the hottest manifestation of the earth's internal heat!

"The beholder is naturally perplexed as to how the ice was formed and why it does not melt away. Its presence so near the hot surface of the ground depends primarily upon the fact that lava is among Nature's most efficient temperature insulators. The lava contains an infinite number of minute pores and cavities, and the dead air in them hinders the transmission of heat through the stone from the sun.

Underwriters Worry Over Giant Zeppelin

No sooner had an agreement been reached between London and Berlin that the Hindenburg was not to take its passengers on tour over the British Isles without permission—presumably with definite itinerary—than the British Air Ministry was approached by prominent London underwriters with suggestions as to how the tours should be demarked.

The insurance interests contend that the principal danger of the low-flying passages made by the Hindenburg is to the ship itself. They have asked the Ministry to consider the following points: That the Hindenburg should follow a course and fly at an altitude set, according to weather conditions, by the British authorities; and that the airship should obey the radio control signals sent out to aircraft in the same way as the regular air liners.

The British underwriters became acutely conscious of the need for some sort of control of the airship's route when they heard of her narrow escape from being hit by an R. A. F. plane while sailing over the Midlands.

An R. A. F. machine, controlled by an instructor and a pupil, was engaged in blind-flying exercises. The instructor saw a dark shape loom up ahead of him while passing through a light cloud and he turned the machine into a dive, just avoiding the airship.

It is pointed out by experts that if the Hindenburg flies over prohibited areas at low altitudes without previous warning, she runs constant risk of similar experiences. A collision would almost inevitably cause a fire.

U. S. ALWAYS ALERT TO SPY OUT SPIES

Constant Vigil Is Kept Against Foreign Prying.

Washington.—The publicity given to the recent arrest of a former naval officer and the conviction of a former naval petty officer, both charged with espionage, have focused attention on a war behind the scenes that is constantly but secretly waged in the United States as well as in other nations.

It is a war of espionage versus counter-espionage, spy and undercover man versus agent and officer, and it rarely breaks through the screen of mystery that surrounds it.

It is probably safe to say that spies never won a war. Most major powers, however, maintain rather elaborate organizations for collecting and classifying information about the political, economic, social, military, naval and aviation developments of other countries. Consular and diplomatic representatives, commercial attaches, military and naval attaches and paid agents, or spies all unite in the task of obtaining as much information as possible about every conceivable form of activity. Military and naval secrets are zealously sought after, and are in turn, carefully guarded.

Fund for Information. With the increasing world tension, and the strengthening of our military and naval establishments, the war behind the scenes has commenced even in democratic America. The office of naval intelligence of the Navy department has available for the "collection and classification of information" during this fiscal year about $100,000 more than was appropriated for this purpose during the year just ended.

In this secret "war" the romanticized secret service plays, in peacetime, little or no part. Upon their own officers and enlisted men (mainly the officers), the two services largely depend for the direction of counter-espionage activities, although both act in fullest collaboration with the government's "policemen" of the Department of Justice.

The "G-2" officers handle the army's activities and officers specially assigned to intelligence duty act in the same capacity for the navy. The army has at least one intelligence officer at every post of any size; the navy has intelligence officers in every district and on duty with the fleet at sea.

To Prevent Leakage. While these officers are active in counter-espionage work, they are interested also in the establishment of regulations to prevent leakage of our own secrets. The army has adopted a beneficent, rather liberal, but effective system in this respect; the navy, with newly established "security units" in the fleet, rather strict censorship, restrictions upon visitors, and increased secrecy and some suspicion all down the line, has adopted in the past three years some of the most rigid regulations of its peace-time history.

The counter-espionage work of the intelligence services is, necessarily, as secret as it can be made. Much of it is the routine checking of minutiae; some of it is keeping tabs on foreign visitors or suspected aliens in cooperation with the Immigration and Naturalization Service and other agencies.

The navy—and the army, too—enlarges its activities and broadens the scope of its intelligence work by employing suitable reserve officers—many of them in key positions for such work—to assist in counter-espionage measures.

Bathing Suit? Shucks! 94, He Swims in Nude

Blair, Neb.—Burl King, ninety-four, "ain't never wore a bathing suit yet," and the mere fact that it was his birthday caused no change in his nudist principles of the last nine-odd decades.

Twenty grandchildren stood on a bank of the Missouri river here and watched King present his annual aquatic exhibition, which included difficult dives.

His eyes dimmed by cataracts and his hearing almost gone, King still takes a daily swim in the Missouri, in season.

Asked if he minded a few pictures, King replied:

"Take all you want, if you want 'em in the raw. I'm ninety-four today and I ain't never wore a bathing suit yet—and I'm too old to start now."

Arms Race Is Called World Recovery Curb

Washington.—The world economic system has recovered about half its depression losses, but growing practices of nationalism and heavy expenditures for armaments are retarding further improvement, the Foreign Policy association said.

The gain, to date, according to the statement, has been reflected not only in industrialized countries but in those that produce raw materials as well.

The statement, prepared by Winthrop W. Case, continued:

"Increasing rearmament and the growing fears of war remain a real obstacle to healthy recovery and the full restoration of confidence."

SUTTON COUNTY HAS GOOD REASON FOR THANKFUL SPIRIT

The town and county which is privileged to exist without factions of one sort or another struggling against each other is indeed a fortunate one.

That circumstance, if no other, should be one for which Sutton county residents might well be thankful this Thanksgiving season.

A community spirit, united and without bickering between individuals, is evident in Sonora and throughout the entire county. Any worth while endeavor, properly presented, will find generous and whole-hearted response when it is put up to Sutton county people.

But thanksgiving on the part of Sutton county people this year need not stop there.

Economic conditions in this section, taken by and large, are as good or better than they have been for several years. Products of the Sutton country are bringing good prices and people are feeling well because of the outlook of one or more years of the "better times" of which they so often speak.

Sutton county, in fact, all West Texas, has just cause to be thankful for the blessings that have been bestowed upon it.

URGE REMOVAL OF 59,000 FAMILIES

Believe Drouth Area May Be Affected for 20 Years.

Washington, D. C.—Migration of 59,000 families from the drouth damaged farms of the great plains was recommended in a population survey of that area by Dr. C. W. Thornthwaite, former university of Oklahoma climatologist.

His study, published by the University of Pennsylvania, contended that wind erosion had damaged 65 per cent of the plains region, extending from the Canadian border into the Texas panhandle.

A long range government program for the return of millions of acres of wheat land to its native sod, he said, might be the only means of checking the devastating dust storms.

Observing that long dry spells have been frequent in the history of the plains, Thornthwaite predicted that "the present drouth might be prolonged for 20 or more years."

Evidence from tree rings, lake levels, and other sources was cited in the survey to show that a 40 year drouth began in 1825 and was interrupted by only occasional wet years.

The weather experts estimated that a minimum of 12,610 families should move out of Montana, the state in which he reported the greatest "surplus population." He urged a migration of 12,200 families from Texas and 7,360 from North Dakota.

Heavy removals also were suggested for South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Wyoming, and Colorado.

School census returns indicated, he said, that 36,000 families have left the great plains since 1930.

"The ideal situation in the great plains," he said, "would be a virtually complete return to a grazing economy where pasturing on the range is supplemented by the raising of feed and forage crops."

"This does not mean a re-establishment of the great ranches and the restoration of the cattle kings, but rather an increase in the size of farms to a point where cultivation and grazing can both be controlled."

Search for Relics of Early Indian Battle

Buffalo, N. Y. — The soil near South Buffalo may give up the bones of legendary Indian warriors believed slain in the great battle of extermination with the Iroquois in 1650.

Workmen are excavating for parts of Buffalo's master sewage system. They are expected to unearth evidences of the Seventeenth century battle recorded as one of the greatest in history.

The battle was between the Iroquois federation and the Eries, who were sometimes known as the Neuter tribe. It was reported by the early French explorers.

According to Iroquois legends, 20,000 Eries were slain. The tribe became only a fragment of its former great and warlike self. The battle and its victory gave the Iroquois dominance over western and central New York and established their reputation as a formidable group of warriors.

Cellar excavators from time to time have reported the finding of flint arrows used by the Iroquois.

Father Hennepin, the first white man to record viewing Niagara Falls, visited the Erie tribal camps in 1677. Captain Bienville de Caleron records a visit to the Eries on the shores of what is now known as Lake Chautauqua.

It was De Caleron who left behind the vague records of the great battle.

National Guardsman Won Prize to Boot

Astoria, Ore. — It took practically the entire One Hundred Eighty-sixth infantry regiment of the Oregon national guard to find a pair of shoes for Henry Kokko—he wears thirteens—but Kokko made it up to the regiment.

The heavy-footed guardsman brought honor to his regiment by winning the hotly contested shoe race, in which thirty entrants hurled their shoes into a pile and then tried to find their own. Kokko was the only contestant who had no trouble picking out his own shoes.

Corner-Cutting Needed in Menu Planning Now; Puritans Lived More Leisurely Life

Denton, Nov. 25.—When our Puritan forefathers set aside the last Thursday in November as a day for thanksgiving, housewives and servants spent days and even weeks in preparation for the feast. But to day in this age of ready prepared foods and rush in everything we must strive—in the holiday season and at all times—for menus that can be prepared in much less time.

Fruit Cocktail

Two grapefruit, 3 oranges, 1/2 c pineapple, 1 can sliced pineapple, green mints, 3 T lemon juice.

The arrangement of a cocktail may be very decorative, with the fruit so cut and garnished as to make flowers, stars and the like, but this is not necessary. However, the pieces of fruit should be so arranged that there is no effect of mussiness. Remove the pulp of grapefruit and orange, keeping sections together as well as possible. Dice pineapple and arrange in cocktail glasses. Sprinkling green mints and lemon juice as the fruit goes in. Chill about one hour. At serving, pour over juice of pineapple.

Bread Stuffing

Three cups bread cubes, 2 T chopped onions, 1 c celery, chestnuts, etc., 1/4 c melted fat, about 1/2 c stock or milk, salt, pepper, paprika, sage or poultry seasoning to taste. Have stale bread cut in three-eighth inch cubes. Cubes give lightness to the stuffing since they do not pack into a soggy mass as crumbs do. To give color use the crusts or brown a third of the cubes left over in the oven or in the fat used in the stuffing. Left over toast may be used instead of bread. Cook onion in the fat until lightly browned, and add to the bread.

Add the ingredients chosen to give individuality to the stuffing. It may be cooked chopped celery, sauted mushrooms, chopped olives, cooked eggs, oysters cooked in milk or a combination of two or more of these ingredients.

Add liquid to moisten. The exact amount will depend on the dryness of the bread. It is best to allow the mixture to stand for half an hour or longer so that the bread will have a chance to absorb the liquid and be moistened throughout. Add seasonings to taste.

Some variations of these recipes would be to add two cups tart apples, finely chopped, or to add one-third cup seeded raisins.

Roast Beef Excellent For Holiday Feast

In merrie England, roast beef is the traditional meat for the holiday dinner, and we can do well to follow this tradition, for a standing rib roast such as the one pictured here, garnished with stuffed prunes is a real treat, festive enough for any feast occasion.

In the old days, when banquets were the order of the day in England, a huge point of beef was roasted on a revolving spit before the open fireplace. Now, meats are much easier to cook with the insulated ovens, in which the temperature can be controlled. As a result, we have taken much of the guesswork out of roasting.

In cooking a roast of any kind, the temperature is a very important factor if the roast is to be juicy and evenly done throughout.

A constant low temperature (300-350 degrees F.) is recommended at all times for the perfect roast. Searing even for a few minutes at the beginning of the cooking period is no longer advocated, because through experiment, it has been proven that searing does not hold in the juices as was formerly believed. Instead the high temperature of searing for even the short period of time increases the cooking loss.

The roast as pictured here is placed on the platter in a way which makes carving easy. The meat is simply loosened from the bones and cut into slices across the grain.

In cooking this roast, however, it should be placed in the pan in an entirely different position, if best results are to be obtained. The fat side should be up, so that as the fat melts it will run down over the meat and make basting unnecessary. When the roast is placed fat side up, it is also unnecessary to use a rack or trivet in the pan, for the bones, themselves, serve the purpose of keeping the meat out of the drippings.

The roast of beef is not covered, nor is any water added at any time during the cooking.

A roast, just like any other food, to be at its best should be cooked to the proper degree of "doneness," no more, no less. Some like roast beef rare, some medium and some well-done, and in order always to have it as desired has been a problem at times. The roast-meat thermometer is the only absolutely accurate way to tell when a roast is done, but the time-weight relationship may be used as an approximate guide.

A beef roast, such as the one shown here, requires approximately 18 to 20 minutes per pound for a rare roast, 22 to 25 minutes per pound for a medium-done roast and 27 to 30 minutes per pound for a well-done roast.

A delightful holiday menu built around roast beef is suggested below:

- Tomato Juice Cocktail
- Roast Ribs of Beef, Stuffed Prunes
- Brown Potatoes, Brown Gravy
- Buttered Asparagus Tips
- Cranberry and Orange Salad
- Hot Mince Pie Coffee
- Nuts Apples
- Mints

RETIRING GOVERNOR TELLS OF SAFETY EFFORTS

A few months ago Guy B. Park, governor of Missouri who was defeated for re-election in November, spoke in this manner of the need of a safety educational campaign in the "Show-Me" state:

"The number of deaths and personal injuries resulting from automobile accidents in Missouri has been increasing to such an extent that attention has been directed to our citizens in order that added efforts be made to promote safety on our streets and highways.

"I have requested all civic organizations to lend their aid in behalf of safety and have asked all citizens to give consideration to the manner of using the streets and highways within the borders of our state.

"We hope to do our part by helping the National Safety Council in its splendid life-saving program."

SKULLS SHOW SKILL OF EARLY SURGERY

Trepanning Was Practiced in Eighth Century, B. C.

London—That surgeons who practiced in Judea in the Eighth century B. C. were fully conversant with the science of trepanning a skull is revealed by Dr. C. B. Mortlock through exclusive data sent him by J. L. Stakey, head of the Wellcome archeological research expedition, now in its fourth year of excavation at Tell Duweir, Palestine.

"A large deposit of human remains was found in a disused tomb contemporary with the earlier destruction of the city (Lachish). It is suggested that these 2,000 bodies were the result of salvaging the burned city after the destruction by Sennacherib in 701 B. C. About 700 skulls were in sufficiently good condition for preservation, and are now in London awaiting study," says Dr. Mortlock.

Two Examples of Trepanning "Besides many interesting pathological specimens and two skulls which were intentionally distorted, there are two examples of trepanning.

"These are the earliest examples of this type of trepanning. All specimens found before have shown that the operation was made by circular scraping, but the two Lachish skulls conform to a technique which was previously only known among the Incas of America. In one skull the surgeon has started the operation on the left parietal and then performed on the opposite side.

"Experts believe that in the case of Inca skulls the patient never recovered from the operation, but there is evidence that the Lachish patients survived. Anthropologists will now have the chance to study a large group of contemporary skulls from the same site, which will result in valuable deductions as to the inhabitants of Judea during the Jewish monarchy.

Shops With Goods Uncovered "The excavations show that at the last period of occupation there was a public square within the gates, and a group of shops with their stores of goods has been uncovered. All the contents were in position when the roofs fell in from the burning of the city. They were found buried under the ashes.

"The largest shop was that of a weaver. Set in the floor was a large limestone dyeing vat; a row of loom weights marked the position of the looms and a fragment of wooden beam actually remained of the burned loom. From the same shop came a clay seal impression from a papyrus document bearing the impress of a seal 'For Hilkiah the son of Maas.'

"Close by were the premises of a corn chandler, and many jars bearing the royal stamp of Hebron were stacked in a wine and oil store.

"The 18th to 19th dynasty temple which produced the Duweir Ewer from the later levels has proved equally interesting in the earlier period. A fine group of pottery, including a flat platter, about thirty-five dipper flasks and a painted vase imported from the Greek mainland in the Fifteenth century B. C. was found close to the early altar.

"This continuity of the history of the building is also confirmed by the development of the temple plan, which shows a continuous relationship in the three buildings covering a period from 1480 to 1260 B. C."

Old Auto His Weapon in Fight on Drouth

Independence, Mo. — C. S. Risinger, truck farmer, whipped this year's drouth with an $80 second-hand motor car.

Learning his lesson from the 1934 drouth, Risinger decided to irrigate. He bought a 1928 model car, drove it to a creek on the edge of his 37-acre farm near here, and used its motor to power a water pump.

The water was pumped directly from the creek bed to feeder canals which conveyed it to smaller canals between the rows of plants. Now Risinger has four men working for him and is pumping water 10 hours a day.

Sturdy, fast-growing corn stalks sway in the hot dry wind on the 15 acres of his farm which slope suitable for irrigation. Cucumbers, squashes, peppers and tomatoes also flourish, while only a few feet away unirrigated patches of the same vegetables are parched and stunted.

"Pumping water produces a crop far above normal during a drouth," said Risinger, "but it isn't really a question of how much it increases production. Without irrigation there would have been no crop."

By L. L. STEVENSON

Baby Bunting Stuff: A lot of Broadwayites go up into Connecticut over the week-end with the intention of hunting rabbits. Whether or not they bring back any game, they certainly bring back yarns about desperate encounters with bunnies in the hills and dales of the Nutmeg State — yarns that would make Frank Buck blush. Among the more enthusiastic of the hunters is Johnny the Call Boy who is so small that, reports have it, he has to make sure his rabbit is dead before he picks it up, otherwise he would have to fight for his life. Incidentally, I've heard stories of good hunting, even if this isn't rabbit season but I haven't seen a rabbit — except those that occasionally run across the highway at high speed.

Just a Slight Drop: Up in Stamford, N. Y., which is in the heart of the summer resort section, the hotel men got together to ascertain the highest point in the town. It was discovered that 2,500 feet, which, though somewhat lower than nearby hills, is as high up as the village goes. At any rate, a hotel happened to be located at that point, so that 2,500-foot elevation was duly advertised, according to my informant. But some prospective guests wrote that their hearts wouldn't stand that altitude. So the advertising was changed to read, "Altitude, 1,700 feet" and everything is going along all right.

Music and the Law: Our old hand-organ man, the one with the handlebar mustache and a fondness for "The Marseillaise," is back on the job again. Questioned as to how he got around the mayor's order barring hurdy-gurdys, he replied that, after he had laid off until his money was all gone, he visited the mayor and begged him for a license. The mayor, so the organ-grinder said, replied that he couldn't give him a license but he could take his organ out provided he moved along whenever any one ordered him to do so. Instead of ordering him to move on, May went down with a dime and thereby obtained three more tunes—and this paragraph.

This and That Dept: The McAlpin is said to be the only New York hotel with a woman house detective on its staff . . . Joan Marsh, motion picture actress, may be added to the list of those with hobbies. She collects autographs of other motion picture actresses . . . Richard Gordon, whose radio life as Sherlock Holmes is spent tracking down criminals, won't go to any movie or read any book dealing with gangs or gangsters . . . Phillips Lord, radio gang buster, is afraid he'll have to give up his livelihood. His daughter Patricia is the cause. When she grows up, she wants to be a "lady cop" . . . Jimmy, Phil Duey's seven-year-old son, a favorite with Jack Benny, Eddie Cantor, Phil Baker and other grown-ups who visit the Duey home, is a hard luck youngster. After getting a tooth knocked out, he fell ill with mumps. Recovering, he ran right into a siege of measles. But he's getting along nicely.

Search for an Original: A report that a member of the original cast of "Aida," first produced in Cairo in 1871, is somewhere in New York is causing a lot of activity on the part of members of the Del'Orefice Opera Co. Despite the years that must have come on the singer, he is wanted to take part in the millionth performance which is to be given August 1 with the Welfare Council of New York's fund for crippled children as the beneficiary.

Just as Woman to Woman: Esther Velas, who wields a baton over an all-male orchestra in the Hotel Roosevelt, doesn't think the average woman musician is in the same class with the average male musician. "She is too sentimental a creature to become a really good performer," declared Miss Velas. Born in Russia, educated in France, Miss Velas, a concert violinist at sixteen, has conducted orchestras in various parts of the world—all male orchestras. And she can express her opinion of women musicians in seven languages.

CAN YOU MATCH IT?

SOLUTION—

In middle-western and other states where the cause of the Republican party was championed more than it was in Texas the Landon supporter, since the election, has had quite a time "getting by" those who relish "rubbing it in." Here's the way one wrote of it recently:

The Landonite in a crowd of Rooseveltians has a problem. Seeing ahead of me several such meetings, I am trying to evolve a code of behavior. A few points that I have decided on:

On awakening in the morning, even before black coffee, say 100 times aloud, "Every day in every way I am becoming braver and braver."

Get an expensive new dress for the occasion.

Get a shampoo, finger curl, facial and manicure.

Use a north light in putting on makeup. You can then be sure of it under the most trying circumstances.

On arriving at a meeting say to myself, under cover of a smile, "All these people are my friends. All these people are my friends. All these people are my friends." If an attack is sensed, take an aggressive position. Say aloud quickly, "Ha, ha, I remember when people voted for Wilson because he was going to keep us out of war."

Or say, sweetly, "Are you going to have your trip to California this winter—or will you be saving your money for taxes?" Or, with a superior expression, "I would rather be right than elect a President." After any one of these remarks the subject should instantly be changed to how funny the new fall hats look on everyone; whether housecleaning was all finished before cold weather set in; how well Junior and Sister are doing in school this year; what constitutes an ideal cold-weather dinner menu; how strange it is that husbands can't learn to put things away, or how many changes there are in contract bridge rules this winter. I do not guarantee that this bill of rights will work. I only hope it will.—E. R. J. in the Kansas City Star.

OBEYING—

When a Sonora woman left home the other day to be gone all day she cautioned the Mexican girl, who is there a part of the day, to put a stick of wood in the kitchen range before she left so the kitchen would be warm.

The girl paid little attention to the fire during the day but followed the orders of the "lady of the house."

Instead of a comfortably warm kitchen the housewife came home in the evening to find that the fire had been allowed to go out and a large stick of wood had been carefully put in on the cold ashes.

Transportation Necessity The nursemaid tried to discourage her employers' eight-month-old son from thumbsucking. "Don't suck your little thumb like that," she cooed. "You may need it some day to get a ride."

TEXAS COLLEGE BUYER OF KARAKUL—FOR BREEDING

Stephenville, Nov. 25.—A pure bred karakul ram has been bought by the animal husbandry department of John Tarleton College, Oscar H. Frazier, professor of animal husbandry, has announced.
 The ram is the grandson of the ram owned by the government experiment station at Beltsville, Mr. The Tarleton department will use the prize ram in its work and will sell enough of the karakul skins to pay for the recent purchase.
 Cross breeding will be practiced until the lambs are as near pure bred karakul as possible. A pure bred lambskin will now bring about $23, but a half-breed skin is worth only about four dollars.
 Karakul breeding is new to this section of the country but has been practiced in Bokhara in Asia Minor since the beginning of the twentieth century. Bokhara, the native land of the karakuls, now has about four million karakuls.

Enthusiastic owners say that the Model 1 is without question the finest standard portable ever built. Frankly, that is our own belief, but when the public says so, it must be so. It is the first real departure in Portable Manufacture. The action is entirely new and exclusively Remington. It results in speed and vibrationless smoothness absolutely foreign to any other portable or standard design.

And its scope is much greater than you would expect from a portable. It will do just about any writing task you require. It has every improvement, every refinement, every convenience besides patented Remington features. Truly, a trial of this great machine is a revelation. Finished in glistening black with chromium plated attachments. New, improved carrying case included.

"Swing Time" Musical Note Invader Now of Field of Fashion For Women's Clothes

Denton, Nov. 25.—Dresses have gone "swing time!"

Now that the country has wholeheartedly accepted the new rhythm in popular music, fashion has stepped in to follow suit. The resulting swing frocks are just the answer to a young modern's request for something semi-dressy.

They are especially good for afternoon parties, teas, or informal gatherings of "the crowd." For the cocktail hour, you can add a lame blouse. In one shop I saw a gold lame blouse, with squared shoulders accepted by unusually large leg o' mutton sleeves. The blouse buttoned down the front with self-covered buttons, and a peplum effect was secured by a narrow gathered band at the front and back waistline. This blouse is worn on top of a six gored black file crepe skirt.

Girls at Texas State College for Women are especially fond of a 20-gored skirt worn with a red velvet fitted jacket bound in black grosgrain ribbon. The jacket fastens with ribbon covered buttons.

Afternoon frocks in swing time are made of file crepe or taffeta. One model has a wide band of silk rick-rack braid around her circular skirt, and his solid work is also carried out in the fullness of the leg o' mutton sleeves. A tiny egg-shell satin collar and six gold buttons down the waist front are used for trimming.

Delicately appliqued yokes and sleeves of filmy marquisette glorify many swing frocks. The skirts are simple with not too much flare, and smartness is achieved through the unusual waist designs.

Sonorans Enjoy Mrs. Bates' Review of "Gone With the Wind"

Delineating in excellent fashion the characters and story of the book "Gone With the Wind," Mrs. Gladys de Silva Bates of San Angelo Tuesday afternoon held the interest of fifty Sonora citizens as she reviewed the best selling book of 1936 from the stage of the high school auditorium.

Mrs. Bates, whose review was sponsored by the Sonora Woman's Club, was introduced to her audience by Mrs. B. W. Hutcherson, president of the organization.

Sonora people will recall, Mrs. Bates was the guest artist who appeared in the three-act comedy, "Meet the Wife," presented here in 1933 by the Thirteen Dramatic Club.

Background of the story, Mrs. Bates explained at the beginning, is the Civil War period and the reconstruction days after that conflict. Margaret Mitchell, author, born and reared in Atlanta, Ga., Mrs. Bates quoted as saying that the book "has a Civil War background because I was raised on it and heard everything about the War except that the Confederates hadn't won."

The story of tempestuous Scarlett O'Hara is one of the life of a selfish, headstrong young woman of a territory "where cotton is the heartbeat of the section." A widow with a child at seventeen years of age, Scarlett's life problems were traced vividly as she lived through the hectic War days in Atlanta and at Tara, her family's place near there.

The persistent surge of the Yankees on Atlanta, the horrors of the War, the independent fiery spirit of Scarlett, the cocksure effrontery of Captain Rhett Butler and the devotion of Melanie Hamilton to Scarlett even though she (Melanie) had married the man (Ashley Wilkes) that Scarlett thought she loved—all of these were described in striking, attention-holding manner by Mrs. Bates.

The ups and downs of Scarlett's life left little stain and as Mrs. Bates concluded her review of the 1000-page novel that has swept the country by storm she pictured Scarlett's intention of again turning her self from the world to go back to Tara to re-live her life and to "build back" even as she had done several times before.

Mrs. Bates' review of the book engendered interest as she described with graphic words both the characters around which the story is woven and the "settings" which the economic structure of War days and of the reconstruction period provided.

English Teacher, Coach of Football

El Paso, Nov. 25.—Miss Edith Schell, recent graduate of the College of Mines and Metallurgy here, is believed to be the only woman football coach in Texas.

Trained to teach English, upon graduation she obtained a job in Bailey elementary school here. Let her tell it:

"But, out of a clear sky, was told that if I didn't take over the football and playground work at Bailey, the boys would have no team this year, and, in fact, no football at all," she explained. "So, of course, I couldn't let them down, and I said 'yes,' and hoped for the best."

So now she spends one-fourth of the school day teaching English, health and spelling, and the remainder of her time supervising playground work and coaching football.
