Bailey Co. Wins Over 14 Others On Vegetables

With total of 925 points out of scoring possibility of 1000, Hale county won the first prize in county exhibits of the agricultural department, galloping away with premier honors of the Fourteenth Annual Panhandle South Plains Fair at Lubbock, Texas, and a grand prize of $200. Garza county, with 910 points, was second and Dawson with 846 was third. The latter two won prizes of $175 and $150 respectively, and the ribbons which go with the decision. The winning exhibit was in charge of Maury Hopkins, secretary of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce, a veteran exhibitor, while George Samson of Post, who took first prize last year, represented Garza, and Dawson county agent C. B. Martin of Lamesa headed the third prize exhibit.

Counties finishing in the order of judging and their points and prizes were: Crosby (790) $125, Floyd (757) $100, Lynn (756) $75, Bailey (730) $50, Terry (696) $50, Roosevelt county, New Mexico, (671) $50, Hockley (648) $50, Gaines (605) $25. Twenty-five dollars was also awarded to Terry and Cochran counties but their points were not announced.

Bailey county is one of the kid counties of Texas, hardly out of its swaddling clothes. Muleshoe is its county seat, and Muleshoe's history as a town began only six or seven years ago. A muleshoe was shown in the exhibit, done in maize grain. The exhibit from the county which a few years ago was made up of large pastures, had eggplants as large as bells, fine cabbages and good example of corn. There was a big maize showing.

A small colony of Japanese farmers has been brought into the county and they are growing Mountain Denver onions on a large scale, and those onions are on exhibit.

Bailey county knocked the entire Plains counties for a row when it carried off the honor of scoring the highest on vegetables at the Lubbock fair last week. Hale county with Plainview as county seat and Roosevelt county, N. M., with Portales as county seat have been carrying off the honors as the greatest vegetable counties. But this year the "kid county," as we have been referred to, took them all to a cleaning, and we didn't half try. Bailey county won seventh place in competition with 14 of the best counties on the Plains, and Garza below the Cap Rock.

R. L. Brown, O. N. Robinson and W. M. Pool, Jr., took the exhibit to Lubbock and spent the entire week telling the thousands of people that thronged by each day of the wonderful country in Bailey county.

You may not realize it, but Bailey county is going to make the world look up to it some of these days. Irrigation and virgin land, at reasonable prices, ideal climate is attracting the people to the "Kid County."

Pat R. Bobo, manager and owner of the Big Ten ranch has had the entire ranch sowed to wheat. He stated to the Journal man Tuesday of this week that the wheat was coming up to a perfect stand. Here's trusting the Big Ten Ranch will bring a bountiful harvest next spring.

Mrs. C. C. Mardis Mother Passed Away Thursday

Mrs. Georgia Ann Adams died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. C. Mardis, on Thursday, Sept. 29th, 1927.

She had been an invalid for many years, and for the past year had been confined to the house most of the time, and for the last several months confined to her bed. Her last illness becoming acute only a short time before she passed away.

She was 80 years and 10 days old at the time of her death.

She was buried in Olathe, Kansas, about 20 miles south of Kansas City, on Sunday, Oct. 2nd, Mrs. C. C. Mardis accompanying her remains to that city, where her husband had been buried many years. Beside Mrs. Mardis she is survived by two other daughters, one living near Olathe and the other in Lyons county, Kansas.

She and her husband had lived many years near Olathe, where she had many friends and relatives, a sister of C. C. Mardis, with whom she lived, some time before coming to Texas, being a resident of that city, and she had often expressed a wish to be buried beside her husband.

Being confined to the house most of the time she had not a wide acquaintance here, but was loved and respected by all who came in contact with her as a fine old lady, being kind, patient and cheerful, never having lapsed into the peevish and querulous mood that comes to most old people when they become invalids.

Mrs. Mardis not having returned, Mr. Mardis wishes to express for her and himself their heartfelt gratitude for the help and sympathy and floral offerings of the many friends and neighbors, too numerous to mention here.

250 Acres Wheat for R. C. Odell

R. C. Odell, who lives north of town, is planting 250 acres of wheat. Most of his land has been seeded and is up to a perfect stand. Wheat in his neighborhood and on his place paid fine dividends last year. He will likely irrigate most of this or all if the season requires artificial moisture. He has two large irrigation plants on his farm. Either one is large enough to irrigate 160 acres.

The farmers in the Muleshoe district have found that wheat is a valuable bank in their diversification platform. Some of his land was summer fallowed. Watch Muleshoe bring in good reports on the wheat crop next spring.

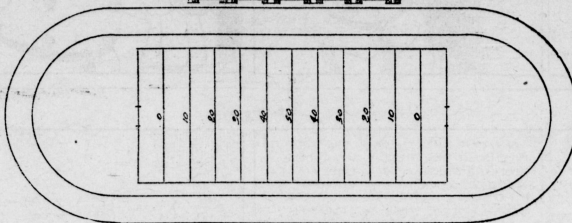

Neal Warren Home Burned Tuesday Nite

Tuesday night while the family were at church the home of Neal Warren, in the Baileybano community, burned. Mr. Warren stated that he thought it was caused from the lamp, as they had no fire. He was in town Wednesday morning making plans for rebuilding.

Texas Technological Has Steel Grand Stand

Lubbock, Texas.—The illustration shows the football field of Texas Technological College and the first unit of steel grandstand of the proposed stadium which will ultimately surround the entire field. This unit will be used for the Simmons University game, October 15, their installation was made necessary by the scheduling of the game with Texas A. & M. College on Friday, October 23, the first conference team ever to invade the Panhandle of Texas.

Tech college is planning a gala day when the Aggies come to the Plains for the first time. Special trains will be run into Lubbock and many former Aggie students and football fans from all over the Panhandle are already reserving tickets for the big football classic. This will be the first major football ever played in the Panhandle, but with Texas Tech likely to be admitted to the Southwestern Conference in the near future it is to be the forerunner of many big games later on.

In addition to the 4,000 new steel bleachers there is a present seating capacity of 3,250, making a total of 7,250 seats. Enough temporary seats will be erected to make the total seating capacity for the A. & M. game at least 10,000. The admission price for all other Tech games on the home fields this year is $1.00, but on account of the heavy expense of the big game of October 28 it is necessary to charge $2.50. Reservations may be made by mail.

Miss Virginia Egbert Will Teach Violin

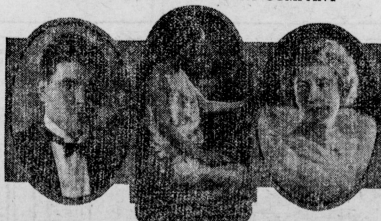

Miss Virginia Egbert of Duran, N. M., who is staying with Mrs. H. Daniel at the E. R. Hart home, is announcing the opening of her class in Violin. She has quite a number signed up at this time and several have announced their intention of starting soon. Miss Egbert is an artist at her calling and the people of Muleshoe are glad to welcome her to the city. Muleshoe is a little shy on musical talent, Mrs. D. E. Keeney, our piano instructor and the Roubinek Brothers have furnished some high class entertainment at various occasions, and Miss Egbert will give the music this winter an added attraction.

Work Started on Church at Lariat

Construction work was started on the new church building being erected by the Church of Christ at Lariat Wednesday. The material was moved on the ground early this week and John Russell of Farwell will have charge of the work, being assisted by donated labor. The building will be a frame structure 28x42 feet. It is planned to give the building a stucco exterior at a later date.

See "Mrs. Martin's Irish Maid" Saturday night, Oct. 15, at High School Auditorium. Admission 15c and 35c.

ARTELLS DICKSON CONCERT COMPANY

Appearing on our entertainment course this season is the Artells Dickson Concert Company in a versatile program of arias, ballads and negro spirituals, violin solos and piano pieces. Mr. Artells Dickson, a Southern singer, who for two years was baritone soloist in a great New York church has a rich, resonant voice of exceptional volume, his personality is attractive, his manner unaffected. The violin solos by Miss Helen Hunt and the piano pieces and other entertainment features by Martha Dickson, a charming Southern girl, lend variety and charm to the program.

First Number of Lyceum Thursday October 13th

The first number of the Lyceum will be held at the High school auditorium next Thursday night, October 13th. The Artells-Dickson Concert company will present the program. Appearing on the front page of this paper is the picture of the artists that will entertain us on the above mentioned date. Get your tickets early and enjoy this high class entertainment.

Wm. G. Kennedy Returns From Convention

Wm. G. Kennedy, county judge and superintendent of schools, returned Tuesday night from San Antonio, where he attended the county judges and commissioners convention. He reported a wonderful time.

While at the convention they were shown over the Winter Garden district and spent the day at Eagle Pass and Piedras Negras. He returned by the way of Austin to look after some county business.

Miss Anna Mae Long, who is in training in the Plainview Sanitarium, had a tonsil operation Monday morning. She is liking her new work fine.

Mrs. Byron Griffiths is on the sick list this week.

Bailey Co. Elevator Making Improvements

Ray Griffiths, manager of the Bailey County Elevator, has a gang of carpenters at work this week enlarging his warehouse. The building will be continued up to the elevator and the same width of the present house.

Due to the increasing volume of business in the flour, chicken, dairy and feed business this addition was made to take care of the new business. We are glad to note the substantial improvements now going on.

Bailey County Oil Well News

The Humble Oil & Refining company's No. 1 Fuqua, located in the center of the west half of section 117, block A, M. & S. survey, were drilling around 900 feet yesterday when we went to press. They have encountered an immense body of water, which came in fifty feet of the top of the ground. The water was fine and proves that part of the county has plenty of good deep water.

The Gibbs Oil company Webb No. 1, located on the northeast corner labor 15 in league 86, Swisher county school land, on the Virgil Webb farm, is expected to spud most any day. U. S. Waugh of Denver, Col., has the drilling contract.

Leases south of the sand hills have taken on new interest and many men are here every week looking for leases.

Chamber of Commerce to Meet Tuesday

Pat R. Bobo, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce, asked us to call a meeting of the chamber on Tuesday night, Oct. 11 at the court house. If you are interested in the welfare of the city and county be on hand, as this is an important meeting.

Mrs. C. E. Weaver and daughters, Jacaulin and Lorrain, left last week for their home at Douglas, Wyoming. Mrs. Weaver has been visiting her parents for the past five weeks. She will stop a few days in Denver, Colorado.

Wheat Farmers Should Treat Seed Wheat

Here are some suggestions and practices from H. M. Bainer, director Southwestern Wheat Improvement Association, which are well worth consideration, and we pass them on because we have known of Mr. Bainer for years.

"It is definitely known that smut is sown with the seed and with so much of it all over the country, no one can afford to risk sowing seed without disinfecting it with copper carbonate dust, unless it is known to be absolutely free from smut. The prevent smut, copper carbonate dust must be thoroughly coated over the seed at the rate of 2 to 4 ounces per bushel, depending on the smuttness. An account of fineness of the dust and the difficulty of thoroughly mixing it with the seed, without the operator inhaling it, it is impossible to do the mixing by shoveling; it must be done in some kind of a tightly closed mechanical mixer, either homemade or commercial. If a commercial mixer is not available, then an old barrel churn with baffle plates fixed on the inside, a concrete mixer, a barrel or box, made to revolve by means of a crank or a gas engine, will do the work. Two minutes turning of the mixer should do the work thoroughly."

Building at Muleshoe Steady

Muleshoe is not on a boom. It is surely making some substantial improvements, in the city as well as in the country in all directions. In checking over the lumber yards we learn that Mrs. J. W. Gregory, Sr., is having a modern six room residence with bath erected on her farm northwest of town. She has just finished a very large two story barn, with grain bins, stalls for horses and cows and a large hay loft. It is one of the largest in this part of the Plains. Her new home is going to be one of the most attractive recently constructed here.

T. G. Lewis, moving here from Oklahoma, is building a complete set of improvements on his acreage northwest of town. He and his wife came in the first of the week and are at work on the improvements. J. A. White, northwest of town, is having a 10x10 grain house erected on his farm. F. L. Winner is having a 14x28 grain house erected on his farm.

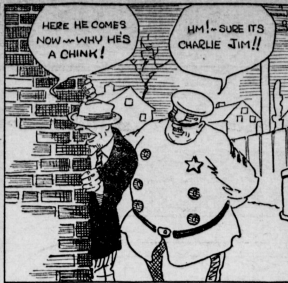

You will observe that the farmers in this part of the Plains are erecting buildings to store their grain. They have found that they can hold the grain, as well as the grain men, and not have to dump the entire crop on the market at one time. Several farmers that had grain storage last year made enough by holding their grain to pay for their granary.

The farmers in the Muleshoe country are very progressive. Their buildings are going up on substantial plans. This proves that the country is prosperous. That the country has a future. That the farmers believe in it. Judge Green, who owns a fine farm northeast of town is starting the construction of a tool shed 30x60 feet. He believes in taking care of his implements. Will Beller is working the farm.

"DEAREST NANCY: 'I hope you won't be too disappointed when you hear that I shan't be able to get back in time for you to take your trip this summer. I guess I should have told you sooner, but the days just seem to slip by without my knowing where they are going. It is wonderful up here and I am having the time of my life. I'm chasing a man and he's going to be here six more weeks. If you could go on substituting at the office for me just that little bit longer, I can't lose my job in case I don't catch him. Honey, I know you won't mind giving up your trip this once for your devoted sister."

"ANN."
When Nancy had finished reading her letter she flung herself across the bed and burst into uncontrollable weeping. She buried her fluffy blond head in the pillow and kicked her patent-leather heels in the air. Her aunt, hearing the commotion, ran in to investigate.

"Why, Nancy darling, what is the matter?" she asked, stroking the shagging shoulders of her niece.

"Oh, Aunt Sally, Aunt Sally!" sobbed the girl, turning over and throwing her arms around the older woman's neck. "I'll never be happy again, never, never as long as I live. My own sister has gone back on me. She's tricked me and she's waiting to tell me until I'd made all my pretty clothes, and I spent my last penny to get the material to make them. And what'll I do with them in this hole? What difference does it make what you wear here? How could she do it? How could she? And I had my heart all set. I've been planning for this trip for over a year. How cruel she is! And my sister, my own sister that I loved so. How could she do this thing to me?"

"Do what, Nancy?" asked Mrs. Walton at last.

"Read that letter and you'll see. Just as cool as a cucumber. 'I hope you won't be too disappointed.'" Nancy quoted with a sneer.

"Mrs. Walton read the letter and put it down with a sigh, her usually placid face furrowed with little worry wrinkles. Ann was always changing some man, her absolute frankness about it being the only redeeming feature about it.

"Nancy, darling," she said after a moment, putting her arms around the girl again. "You're facing your first disillusionment about human beings and it hurts the more because it's some one you love and trusted who has wronged you. It shouldn't hurt you any more than if some outsider had done it. Often those who are not related to us prove our most loyal and devoted friends and you mustn't let this embitter you. Another thing you have to remember, there are serious flaws in every human character, and perhaps if you knew other girls as well as you do Ann you would find that they had equally serious defects. Sometimes I think we get too close up to our relatives and that's what makes so many family quarrels and splits. I know this is hard on you, dear, and I'm not trying to console Ann's actions, but if I were you I'd make the best of the situation and try to form new ties and interests."

"Oh, Aunt Sally, I wish I could, but I'm just burning up with resentment. It's eating my heart out to think that she'd do a thing like that to me. That hurts worse than the disillusionment. . . and my pretty new clothes."

Nancy's lips quivered and the tears began to fall afresh. "I can't see anyone. I've cut up and broken my date with Ned for me tonight. It would just kill me to have to talk to him and be nice and gay when my heart's dead inside me. Life is simply not worth living any more. I don't ever want to see anybody again."

"Nonsense, dear. You're going to put on your prettiest new dress and go out and have a good time. Why, it's summer, and summer was made for youth."

"Oh, help me to be brave," begged Nancy with pathetic earnestness. Nancy had decided not to tell Ned about her broken heart, but she had not been with him ten minutes before she was crying on his shoulder and telling him the whole dreadful story. She was so pathetic and lovable when she was unhappy. Ned thought with a thrill as he held her close.

"Oh, I'm a little devil to talk about my sister that way and I guess I'm as mean as she is, but it just slipped out," she said contritely after awhile, her lashes still wet with tears.

"Nancy, you give me an idea and the courage to—I tell you what, I know what we can do with those pretty clothes. I'm making a trip to Panama for the firm in October. . . . Summer clothes will be fine there at that time. . . . Let's make it a honeymoon, Nancy, dearest. Don't you think you could? I know you love me, so don't try to deny it."

"Who says so?" she chided, but the man saw something in her eyes as she sat there by him in the moonlight that made his heart leap with joy as he kissed her again and again.

"For a penny I would," she laughed after awhile, but the ring in her voice belied the flippancy of her words, and Ned Denton knew that Nancy really loved him.

Brother Jonathan Finds He Must Have More Room

Brother Jonathan, the lusty young giant among nations, is finding himself cramped in his present quarters and is looking about for more room. That is to say that plans are now under way for enlarging the capital at Washington to take care of the increasing needs of Uncle Sam in transacting his state affairs.

The announcement of the plan to add a new wing to the capitol recalls the romantic history of that magnificent edifice, a story which all Americans should know. If you do not know that story, be sure to read the illustrated feature article, "To Enlarge U. S. Capitol," by Elmo Scott Watson, in this issue of the Journal.

To Enlarge U. S. Capitol

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON
THE Capitol at Washington, symbol as it is of the nation's growth, is soon to have an addition, according to present plans. Although the Capitol has passed through three major stages of expansion, it is not yet completed. To relieve the congested state of the quarters in which the government is called upon to transact its business at the present time and to give the Capitol better architectural balance with the present senate and house wings, a new wing is to be added to the central part of the east front.

The history of the Capitol goes back to the first administration of George Washington. In July, 1773, Washington signed a bill passed by the senate, definitely locating the Capitol on the Potomac river in the District of Columbia, which had been established under the eighth section and first article of the Constitution.

The bill provided for the appointment by the President of three commissioners, who, under his direction, were to make a survey of a required territory and were empowered to purchase or receive by present cash land as the President thought necessary for the use of the government.

The three commissioners selected by Washington were David Stuart of Virginia and Daniel Carroll and Thomas Johnson of Maryland. In order to give every architect in the country opportunity to offer a plan for a Capitol to be erected in the following advertisement:

A premium of a lot in this city to be designated by impartial judges and five hundred dollars, or a medal of that value at the option of the party, will be given by the commissioners of the Federal building to the person who before the 15th day of July, 1792, shall produce to them the most approved plan for a Capitol to be erected in this city; and two hundred and fifty dollars, or a medal, to the plan deemed next in merit to the one they shall adopt. The building to be of brick, and to contain the following apartments to wit: a conference room and a room for the representatives, sufficient to accommodate three hundred persons each; a lobby or anteroom to the latter; a senate room of 1200 square feet area; an antechamber; 12 rooms of 600 square feet each for committee rooms and clerks' offices. It will be a recommendation of any plan if the central part of it may be detached and erected for the present whole, and be capable of admitting the additional parts in future, if they shall be wanted. Drawings will be expected of the ground plots, elevations of each front, and sections through the building in such directions as may be necessary to explain the internal structure; and an estimate of the cubic feet of brick work composing the whole mass of walls.

A fee of $500 for designing a national capitol would be looked upon as a joke by architects of today, but in the early days of the Republic that sum was a munificent one. Indeed, at any rate, 10 plans were submitted as a result of the advertisement in the newspapers and they were sent in by a few real architects, a few draftsmen and by a number of other persons who were neither architects or draftsmen, but to whom that $500 and the glory of being the designer of the government building were very attractive. The architect whose plan was accepted was Stephen Hallett of Philadelphia, a Freeholder. But he was deprived of the honor by a curious accident. Jonathan Trumbull, the celebrated artist, had a friend, Dr. William Thornton, of Philadelphia, whose hobby was that of amateur drafting and who had won some renown as a designer of the Philadelphia library. Trumbull suggested to Thornton that he submit a design for the Capitol and send it to the President. Washington preferred Thornton's plan to Hallett's, and although the latter and his friends stirred up considerable of a row over the matter, the doctor's plan was finally accepted.

The design by Doctor Thornton called for a domed rotunda, a portico and two wings. But this was a source when the young government set out to build the Capitol, it was decided to erect only the north wing at first. It was this wing which was completed in 1800 and into which congress, the Supreme court and the library were moved. "The Oven," a temporary round brick structure, was put up the next year on the site of the house wing, but the permanent structure of this was not finished until 1811. Then came the great calamity, one of the most disastrous which the infant republic had ever suffered. During the War of 1812 the British captured Washington, burned the new Capitol, the White House and other public buildings. It seemed an almost impossible task to President Madison and his subordinates to rebuild the charred remains of the government buildings. But a few weeks later, Madison called congress in special session, and as a result of its action the rebuilding of the Capitol began.

By 1843, however, it was discovered that the Capitol was already too small for the needs of the government, and congress passed a resolution providing for the enlargement of the building by the addition of a wing on the south side. Nothing was done about the matter until 1850, when Jefferson Davis, then a senator from Mississippi, requested an architect named Robert Mills to submit plans for the enlargement of the Capitol. Mills' specifications called for new wings on the north and south and a dome in the center of the original building. Davis succeeded in getting through the senate an appropriation of $100,000 for each wing, but the house reduced it to $50,000 for each and arranged for competitive bidding in the planning. The plans submitted by T. U. Walter of Philadelphia, which were especially favored by President Millard Fillmore, were finally selected.

It took more than six years for the completion of the work, and during that time it was discovered that the original appropriation of $50,000 for each wing would be decidedly insufficient. In fact, the total cost was something over $5,000,000. The new house wing was completed for the first time December 10, 1857, but the set did not move into its wing until January 4, 1858. Now, after seventy years, a new wing is to be added to the Capitol to give Brother Jonathan the lusty young giant among nations, plenty of room in which to carry on its affairs of state.

Another very good way is to put the. Another first gathered, he threw two clean sheets of blotting paper. Lay between boards and press for a week or so.

Feel Stiff and Achy?

To be Well the Kidneys Must Thoroughly Eliminate Waste Poisons from the Blood.

DOES every day find you lame, stiff and achy? Do you feel tired and droopy—suffer nagging backache, headache and dizzy spells? Are the kidney secretions scanty and burning in passage?

Know, then, that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Sluggish kidneys allow acid poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system.

If your kidneys are acting sluggishly, assist them with Doan's Pills. Doan's have established a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended the country over. Ask your neighbor!

THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF

After Long Suffering by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a little town of the middle West, was a discouraged woman. For four months she had been in such poor health that she could not stoop to put on her own shoes. Unable to do her work, unable to go out of doors to enjoy a friendly chat with her neighbors, life seemed dark indeed to Mrs. Daugherty. Then one day, a booklet was left at her front door. Idly she turned the pages. Soon she was reading with quickened interest. The little booklet was filled with letters from women in conditions similar to hers who had found better health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I began taking the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Daugherty writes, "and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to everyone I see who has trouble like mine, and you can use these facts as a testimonial. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. E. B. Daugherty, 1308 Orchard Ave., Atlantic, Iowa.

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for October 9 ELIJAH HEARS GOD'S VOICE

LESSON TEXT—1 Kings 19. GOLDEN TEXT—Wait on the Lord, He is good, and He shall strengthen thine heart. PRIMARY TOPIC—Elijah Hears God's Voice. JUNIOR TOPIC—God Encourages Elijah. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Listening to God's Voice. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How God Speaks to Men.

I. Elijah's Flight (vv. 1-14). Upon Ahab's return from the excitement on Mount Carmel, he told his wife all that Elijah had done, that even all her prophets had been hewn to pieces by the sword. This so enraged her that she sent a message of death to Elijah, who seems to have been waiting at the gate (vv. 1, 2). Though Elijah had courageously stood before the king and the priests of Baal, he now cowered before this woman, and fled for his life. Let us beware lest when we think we stand, we fall (1 Cor. 10:12).

1. Elijah under the juniper tree (vv. 3-7). The juniper tree was a shrub of the desert which afforded shelter and protection to travelers from the burning sun by day and the cold wind by night. (1) His request (v. 4): This was that he might die. This was no doubt a foolish thing for him to say, but let us be as considerate toward him as was God. The discouragement and even despondency of Elijah was due to the nervous strain of about four years of unusual service for God, which culminated on Mount Carmel.

(2) God's tender treatment (vv. 5-7). a. He gave him sleep (v. 5). "He giveth His beloved sleep" (Ps. 127:2). He sent an angel to cook Elijah's meal (v. 6, 7). The angel of the Lord is usually understood to be the second member of the Holy Trinity if this be correct, then we see Jehovah's nervous reaction to be expected, and surely the heart of this lesson will be missed unless we see it in that light, and see God's tenderness toward his overworked servant. b. He sent an angel to cook Elijah's meal (v. 6, 7). The angel of the Lord is usually understood to be the second member of the Holy Trinity if this be correct, then we see Jehovah's nervous reaction to be expected, and surely the heart of this lesson will be missed unless we see it in that light, and see God's tenderness toward his overworked servant.

(3) God's interview with Elijah in the cave (vv. 9, 10). A God's question, "What doest thou here, Elijah?" (v. 9). This was a stinging rebuke, though most kindly given. It implied that his appointed messenger was now far away from the field of duty. How blessed to know that "A God-forsaking man is not a God-commissioned man!" b. Elijah's answer (v. 10). Elijah tried to vindicate himself by asserting his jealous loyalty to God—that in spite of all that the people had done to that his appointed messenger was now far away from the field of duty.

(2) God's interview with Elijah on the mount (vv. 11-14). While standing before the Lord on the mount, God caused a mighty demonstration of wind, earthquake and fire to pass before him, to show unto him the nature of the work he had been doing for God, and to show him what was lacking in his work for the fullest attainment of success. Elijah had about him much of the whirlwind, earthquake and fire. His work had been terrifying and alarming, but it lacked in gentleness and love. This object lesson in the days of God's working is a needed message for this age, which is so wonderfully characterized by noise and clamor. The world is not "taken for Christ" by the restless energy and enthusiasms of conventions and committees, but by the quiet hearts who go forth proclaiming God's Word in the energy of the Holy Spirit.

Look Up to God Dare to look up to God and say, "Dare to look up to God and say: 'The will: I am of the same mind as Thou art: I am Thine; I refuse nothing that pleaseth Thee; lead me whither thou wilt; clothe me in any raiment thou choosest.'—Epictetus. One Vast Union We behold all around us one vast union in which no man laboreth for himself without laboring at the same time for all others.—Longfellow.

STYLISH JUVENILE COATS; BLACK WITH COLOR RELIEF

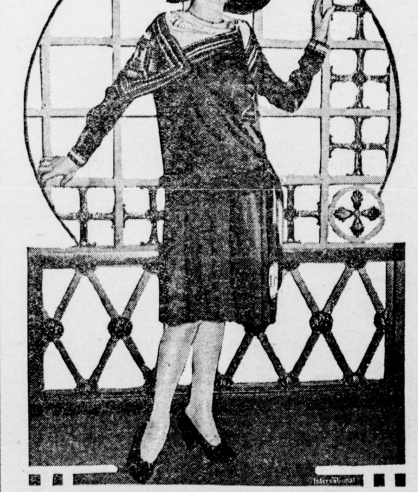

Fur-Trimmed Suede Coat.

It is immensely flattering to the vanity of wet tots when they discover that their little coats or frocks are of the same material or are perhaps trimmed "just like mothers". In respect to this like mother-like thing, there is a fund of joy in prospect for youngsters, for even to a greater degree than heretofore stylists are making it a point to create children's fashions which amusingly reflect the style tendencies of their elders.

Little folks' coats for autumn and the coming winter especially repeat certain style-points as featured in modes for grown-ups. That same enthusiasm which reigns in the realm of the older generation for fur trimmings on tweeds and plaids for sports and on fine suede cloth or velvet for dressy wear is being repeated in children's domain. Cunningest of fur coats, too, accent the trend toward sophisticated styling for the young. Fashion seers foresee such imposing furs for tiny tots as a coat of leopard cut collar and cuffed with beaver, or perhaps for an eight-year-old, a quaint model of spotted calico with contrasting fur at neck and wrists, and a belt of red leather.

A slightly older girl will be donning a coat of nutria fur, cut double-breasted and with a shawl collar of the same fur, belted with shakoskin. If you please, surely mother and big sister will have to be "going some" if they expect to make a better record than we laughter this season in the matter of smart wraps.

As to coats of cloth, suede-finished fabrics are being highlighted by the mode, for either adult or juvenile wear. For older folks black, the new browns, and becoming wine shades are outstanding, but for tots fascinating dainty colors are added to the list.

In the Modish Black-With-Color Scheme.

The attractive coat in the picture is of French style suede cloth. Note that its fullness falls from a yoke which is a favorite styling for the children. One of the outstanding new things in handbags for the coming vogue for heavier collars and cuffs on wooden cloaks. For the use used in the picture the beaver is worn in twin handbags on the chin collar and also to trim the sleeves. Black with color relief is a present aspiration of the mode which is spell-

MOTHER A Cross, Sick Child is Constipated! Look at Tongue

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given. If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomachache, diarrhoea, sore throat, fall of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, a undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless, "fruitly laxative" because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies.

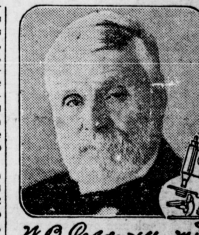

Long Term's Service When the John Cutler Lodge, A. F. and A. M., was organized in 1850 at Abington, Mass., Erastus Nash was appointed treasurer, a position he filled for a period of 33 years. Following the elder Nash's death, his son, Alfred Nash, was chosen to fill the position. Mr. Nash is now completing his thirty-first year as the lodge treasurer. The Real Trouble Hub—I wish, my love, you wouldn't be so constipated for me. Wife—You talk so slow, dear. I was just the trouble—you listen altogether too fast. The board of health consists of three square meals a day. Labor saved is money saved.

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the need for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people of all ages, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin. Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you a prepaid FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

Dairy Business

Growing Rapidly

The golden promise of the future of dairying is found in the fact that more dairy products are being consumed than ever before. Not only is this true so far as the total consumption of dairy products, but also the per capita consumption. During the last ten years the people of this country have learned to drink an extra glass of milk per day per capita, which translated into actual money means $500,000,000 more per year, for the dairy farmers.

Likewise the consumption of butter, cheese and condensed milk products has increased notably. The advertising of ice cream and special milk drinks is increasing the consumption of these products very rapidly. Consumers paid between $5,000,000,000 and $6,000,000,000 for dairy products in 1926. Certainly a dairy farmer can squeeze out a very comfortable expenditure for foods. Dairying is the great division of agriculture. It produces one-fourth of the total agricultural wealth. Today it is in one of the strongest positions it has ever occupied.
